Children at the King's Manor Methodist Home child care center climb, slide, swing and hang on their new playground equipment that was installed in the play yard last weekend. The equipment was donated by Backyard Adventures at the urging of board members Shirley Garrison and Johnny Trotter, both of Hereford. The three-level fort -- which includes two slides, two swings, bars, rings, a covered fort and sandbox -- was assembled by volunteers. Reeder Huddleston, interim administrator of King's Manor, said the work took about five hours to complete.

Bush partner gives $100,000

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - While the Republican Party platform opposes state-sponsored gambling, GOP gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush has received $100,000 from a business partner who has gambling interests.
Richard Rainwater, a prominent Fort Worth businessman and like Bush a part owner of the Texas Rangers baseball team, gave $100,000 to the campaign, Bush aide Reggie Bashur confirmed Wednesday.
Rainwater, who has operating interests in several companies, is one of a number of investors in a New York-based company that last year put $5 million into United Gaming Inc., The Associated Press has learned.
United Gaming owns and manages slot machines throughout Nevada, including Las Vegas.

Bashur and Rainwater's business assistant, Nancy Pridemore, both said the contribution was based on a longtime friendship between Rainwater and Bush.
"Mr. Rainwater's contribution to George Bush has absolutely nothing to do with gaming," said Ms. Pridemore. She said Rainwater was traveling and unavailable to comment.
"He has been a close friend for many years with Mr. Bush, even before he decided to run for governor. Mr. Rainwater is in a partnership that owns interest in the Texas Rangers baseball club, just like Mr. Bush. That's the way they are associated. Mr. Rainwater thinks Mr. Bush is an extremely good candidate," Ms. Pridemore said.
Bashur said Bush "didn't know that Mr. Rainwater had any interests in the gaming industry."

"But the fact remains that the contributions that come to the Bush campaign are from people who believe in the candidate and believe in his reforms," Bashur added. "No contributions come in with strings attached."
Joel Kirschbaum, sole operating officer of New York-based Kirkland Investment Corp., said Rainwater is a "passive investor and limited partner" in Kirkland. Kirkland invested $5 million in United Gaming last September, he said.
Kirschbaum said Rainwater isn't actively involved in managing the investments.
"Richard is purely one of a number of limited partners who has a passive role," Kirschbaum said. "I am 100 percent responsible relating to investments."
Kirschbaum said United Gaming previously manufactured slot machines and video poker games.

Funding for Texas military construction causes rift in congressional delegation

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional appropriations negotiators have set aside $155 million for military construction projects in Texas next year, but slashed $22.4 million in money previously approved by the House for state defense installations.
The military funding has been the cause of tension within the Texas congressional delegation in recent weeks.
The flap surrounds almost $84 million in military funds OK'd by the House above the $103.2 million sought by the Clinton administration for Texas. The $84 million, known as add-on money, was requested by nine Texas congressmen.
When neither Sen. Phil Gramm nor Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison inserted any of the add-on funds in the Senate bill, there were complaints that the two Republicans had dropped the ball. Both vigorously denied the charge.
The appropriations conferees ended their debate Wednesday, setting aside $58.4 million for Texas add-ons.
While Gramm called the conference action a "good achievement," there was some grumbling on the House side.
"I'm disappointed," said Rep. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, who saw $10.4 million in funds he had added on for Kelly Air Force Base and Fort Sam Houston eliminated. "It's just very unfortunate."
And, he added: "The House

conferees went in there with a very insurmountable hurdle and that is that our Texas senators did not have a similar amount or even a lesser amount (in the Senate bill.)"
Rep. Ron Coleman, who served as

FUNDED

- Fort Bliss: $16.8 million for a tactical equipment shop and a sergeant major's academy.
- Fort Hood: $16.8 million for tactical equipment shop and new phase of construction for consolidated maintenance facility.
- Corpus Christi Naval Air Station: $11.8 million for 100 housing units.
- Brooks Air Force Base: $6.5 million for directed energy facility.
- Fort Worth Shoreview National Guard Armory: $3 million for armory additions and alterations.
- Kingsville Naval Air Station: $1.5 million for air operations building addition.
- Wylie National Guard Armory: $1.2 million for organizational maintenance shop.
- Marshall National Guard Armory: $830,000 for organizational maintenance shop additions and alterations.

CUT

- Kelly Air Force Base: $7.6 million for depot maintenance hangar renovation.
- Dyess Air Force Base: $5.4 million for dormitory additions, alterations.
- Fort Bliss: $3.9 million for a child development center.
- Fort Sam Houston: $2.8 million for dining facility modernization.
- El Campo National Guard Armory: $2.1 million for armory, maintenance shop additions and alterations.
- Fort Worth Sandage National Guard Armory: $652,000 for armory addition, alterations.

a conferee and fought to save the House add-ons, said he was able to do so despite a lack of Senate support.
"We still came very close to a record funding level despite the cuts in the Senate," the El Paso Democrat said.
Rep. Chet Edwards, who saw $2 million of the $18.8 million he obtained in the House for Fort Hood disappear, was content. "In light of the very tight budget situation, I think Texas has fared well on military construction funds," the Waco Democrat said.
But, he added: "Before next year's military construction budget is prepared, the Texas House members and senators need to communicate better and work together."
Mrs. Hutchison's spokesman, David Beckwith, also expressed satisfaction with the conferees' action. "Virtually every state got trimmed back," he said. "It's a tough time for military appropriations after President Clinton doubled the military spending cuts proposed by President Bush."
In fact, a check of the conference report shows that 29 of the 43 states sharing $891 million in funds for specific projects emerged from conference with more money than they had in the House.
Beckwith said House conferees rejected a Hutchison proposal that would have greenlighted all of the Texas add-ons this year by spreading the funding over a few years instead of fronting all the money at once.
Gramm, who sits on the defense appropriations subcommittee, attributed the criticism to election-year politics. While he's not up for re-election, Mrs. Hutchison is running.

Health caravan leaves Texas to cheers, jeers

By TERRY WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The southern leg of the Clinton administration's "Health Security Express" is on its way - but its sendoff got jeers along with the cheers.
Outside the Arlington Convention Center, as U.S. Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros and his entourage boarded a bus for a weeklong trip to Washington, D.C., proponents and opponents of the president's health care proposals vied for attention.
"A lot of this health care stuff has been going on behind closed doors," Chris Culver of Plano complained.

"Americans don't know what's happening. Quite frankly, a lot of this is because we don't want big government controlling more of our lives. Fix what's broken. Don't go and try overhauling the whole system," Culver said.
The caravan, scheduled to overnight in Oklahoma City before going on to Tulsa today, is one of four scheduled to arrive next week in Washington to focus public attention on the upcoming congressional debate over health care.
"It's going to be a historic debate," Cisneros told reporters before the rally in Arlington.
"It may last for weeks. And the single most important question that the American people will want to keep their eye on is whether or not the bills finally provide for universal coverage."

Whether the plan requires employers to provide private health care, whether elective abortions are covered and other details "really become subordinate" to the goal of guaranteed protection, he said.
"The critical question is: Are we going to make history this year? Are we going to have the discipline to stay the course? Are we going to keep our eye on the ball? The ball is guaranteed health-care insurance for all," he said.

U.S., Canada trade dispute pits wheat against tomatoes

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
AP Economics Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - A nasty trade dispute between the United States and Canada is threatening to become the Great Food Fight of 1994, pitting Canadian wheat against American tomatoes, wine and oranges.
Consumers in both countries could be caught in the cross-fire.
Each side is threatening to target the other's products and neither is showing any signs of backing down as a Monday deadline draws near. Negotiators pledged to keep meeting, however.

Monday is the date U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor has promised to supply President Clinton with a list of possible trade sanctions if Canada has not agreed to U.S. demands to limit Canadian wheat shipments to the United States.
American farmers have charged that unfairly subsidized wheat exports from Canada are robbing them of millions of dollars in lost sales annually.
The U.S. International Trade Commission on July 9 ruled that American farmers were being hurt, but the panel split on how severe the sanctions should be.

higher prices for a range of food products, especially pasta, since most of the wheat in question - durum - is used in making pasta.
But American spaghetti lovers wouldn't be the only ones affected. If the United States targets Canadian wheat, the Canadian government has promised to retaliate by boosting tariffs on a range of American products.
Canadian Agriculture Minister Ralph Goodale, promising to "defend ourselves to the fullest possible measure," has listed U.S. wine, tomato paste, canned fruit, pasta products and orange and grapefruit juice as possible targets.
That would hurt U.S. producers and make the prices of those items more expensive to Canadian consumers.
Kantor met with Canadian Trade Minister Roy MacLaren for two hours on Wednesday. Neither side reported any negotiating breakthroughs, although they ordered aides to continue the discussions.

Pair ordered to serve terms

Two defendants who failed to live up to terms of their probation have been ordered to prison by 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gully.
Originally given an eight-year probation sentence for burglary of a habitation, Robert "Bobby" Rios must serve an eight-year term in Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division, on revocation of his probation. He also must pay a $1,000 fine.
Probation of Sammy Bryant was revoked and he was sentenced to nine years in TDCJ-ID. Convicted of aggravated sexual assault of a child, Bryant's original sentence was 10 years' probation.

Seven teams battle for first in NL races

By The Associated Press
After three days of divisional showdowns, the National League races are tighter than they've ever been. Seven teams are either in first place or very close behind.

The Los Angeles-San Francisco, Montreal-Atlanta and Houston-Cincinnati series concluded Wednesday with no team gaining a three-game sweep.

Barring a long strike, the three matchups won't be repeated until the final weekend of the season, Sept. 30 to Oct. 2, when the games will be held at Houston, Los Angeles and Montreal instead of the other way around.

Houston won its series with Cincinnati with victories in the last two games, including a 7-1 win in 12 innings Wednesday. San Francisco won two of three from Los Angeles, taking the finale 4-1.

And Atlanta, in the worst shape in the standings of any of the second-place teams, prevented a Montreal sweep by beating the Expos 4-1.

In other games, San Diego beat Colorado 9-2, New York beat St. Louis 7-4, Philadelphia beat Florida 3-1 and Pittsburgh beat Chicago 9-4.

Giants 4, Dodgers 1
At Candlestick Park, Los Angeles had a 1-0 lead until the eighth inning, when Barry Bonds sparked San Francisco's comeback victory.

Tom Candiotti (7-6) gave up a

Candiotti then walked Dave Martinez on four straight pitches to force in Bonds with the winning run. One out later, Kirt Manwaring drove in two more runs with a ground-rule double.

Dave Burba (2-5) got the victory by retiring the only batter he faced in the top of eighth.

Braves 4, Expos 1
At Fulton County Stadium, Kent Mercker pitched seven strong innings and Jeff Blauser hit a two-run homer as Atlanta moved within 2-1/2 games of Montreal.

"It's very even between these two teams," Expos manager Felipe Alou said. "I don't see anybody taking a big lead. The Braves will come back."

Mercker (9-3), who allowed five hits and struck out six in seven innings, escaped a pair of bases-loaded, two-out jams by retiring Larry Walker in the first on a strikeout and in the fifth on a popup to shortstop.

The Braves broke through against Ken Hill (14-5) in the sixth on Blauser's two-run homer to right-center.

Astros 7, Reds 1
At Riverfront Stadium, Jeff Bagwell hit his 34th home run and singled home the go-ahead run in the 12th inning - his 103rd RBI of the season.

In the 12th, Steve Finley led off with a triple, bringing up Bagwell, and Reds manager Davey Johnson elected to leave pitcher Scott Service (0-2) in the game.

"Service had faced him three times and struck him out three times, so it was sort of check and mate," Johnson said. "Once they had the leadoff triple, you just hope he chases a bad pitch or he strikes out the fourth time."

Instead, Bagwell lined a first-pitch slider to left to break the tie and launch a six-run rally.

Brian Williams (6-5) got the victory.

Padres 9, Rockies 2
At Jack Murphy Stadium, Colorado blew a chance to move into a first-place tie with the Dodgers.

Eddie Williams had a three-run homer and four RBIs for San Diego.

Joey Hamilton (7-5) gave up one run and three hits in six innings and tied a season-high with seven strikeouts. Lance Painter (3-5) took the loss.

Mets 7, Cardinals 4
At Busch Stadium, Bobby Bonilla hit a pair of two-run home runs, including the tie-breaking shot in a four-run eighth.

Tim Lincecum added a two-run homer in the eighth and Ryan Thompson had a solo shot in the ninth, his 17th.

Rookie Jason Jacome (4-1) won his fourth straight start, working seven innings and allowing seven hits with five strikeouts. St. Louis starter Tom Urbani (2-6) carried a three-hitter into the eighth before the Mets rallied.

Phillies 3, Marlins 1
At Joe Robbie Stadium, Bobby Munoz pitched a two-hitter for his first career complete game.

Munoz (7-3) retired the final 23 batters after Benito Santiago homered with one out in the second inning. He did not issue a walk.

Pat Rapp (6-6) took the loss, allowing eight hits and three earned runs in eight innings.

Pirates 9, Cubs 4
At Three Rivers Stadium, Rick White (3-5) won for the first time as a major league starter, limiting Chicago to two hits in six innings.

Tom Foley had four RBIs and three of Pittsburgh's 16 hits, and Don Slaught was 3-for-4 with two RBIs.

The Pirates had six hits off Mike Morgan (2-10) in the first three innings.

Royals making charge; Twins blank Rangers

By TOM WITHERS
Associated Press Writer
The two best teams in the American League Central may soon be joined by a third.

The streaking Kansas City Royals have quickly turned the AL Central into a three-team race with a five-game winning streak, including their 4-1 victory over Chicago on Wednesday night.

While the White Sox and Cleveland Indians swapped turns atop the division and then took turns beating each other in the past two weeks, the Royals have used their winning streak - the last three over Chicago - to pull within 5-1/2 games of the first-place White Sox.

Kansas City, which has hovered around .500 for much of the season, has opened the second half 9-5.

"The guys have dug in and they're ready to fight," Royals manager Hal McRae said. "It is not a streak yet, but it is going to take a lot to knock us off our feet."

Mark Gubicza pitched Jason Bere to a standoff through seven innings, and the Royals capitalized on an error by third baseman Robin Ventura in the eighth.

Brian McRae scored the go-ahead run when Ventura bobbled Wally Joyner's easy grounder. Bere, coming off one of the worst starts of his life, held the Royals to three hits for seven innings before he was replaced by Kirk McCaskill (1-3) after giving up a leadoff double to Chico Lind.

Lind, who went to third on a single by McRae, was thrown out at the plate by shortstop Ozzie Guillen while attempting to score on Dave Henderson's grounder. McRae took third and Henderson went to second on the play.

Dennis Cook relieved McCaskill and got Joyner to ground to Ventura, who failed to field the ball as McRae scored. Joyner stole second and Bob Hamelin walked to load the bases for Felix Jose, who grounded a two-run single to center.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Oakland 11, California 3; Detroit 3, Seattle 1; Milwaukee 5, Toronto 0; and Minnesota 14, Texas 0. The Boston-New York game was suspended 3-3 in the eighth inning, and the Cleveland-Baltimore game was postponed by rain.

Athletics 11, Angels 3
At Anaheim, Mike Bordick had three hits, including an RBI single during a six-run outburst in the first inning.

Geronimo Berroa hit a three-run homer in the third inning for the A's.

Ron Darling (10-9) won his sixth straight decision, giving up three runs and eight hits in five innings.

The A's ripped Phil Leftwich (5-9) for six runs and six hits in just one-third of an inning.

Tigers 3, Mariners 1
At Detroit, Mike Moore allowed only two hits in eight innings and Travis Fryman hit a two-run homer off Randy Johnson.

Moore (10-9) walked four and struck out four, outdueling Johnson (11-6), who struck out 13.

Brewers 5, Blue Jays 0
At Toronto, Dave Nilsson hit his second three-run home run in as many games and drove in four runs.

Bill Wegman (8-3) allowed four hits in seven-plus innings for Milwaukee.

Pat Hentgen (12-7) gave up five runs and seven hits in seven innings.

Nilsson, who went 3-for-4, hit his 12th homer in the seventh inning off Hentgen to put the Brewers up 5-0.

Twins 1, Rangers 0
At Arlington, Pat Mahomes pitched six solid innings and the Minnesota bullpen bailed him out of a jam in the seventh, making a first-inning RBI groundout by Kirby Puckett hold up.

Puckett's one-out grounder scored Chuck Knoblauch, who opened the game with a double off Texas fill-in starter John Dettmer (0-5). Knoblauch also doubled in the fifth, upping his major league-leading total to 41.

Mahomes (8-4) allowed three hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Yankees 3, Red Sox 3
At New York, the game between the Red Sox and Yankees was suspended because of rain in the bottom of the eighth.

Boston scored twice in the top of the eighth to tie it 3-3. Mike Stanley, who hit two homers, singled with one out in the Yankees eighth, and Bernie Williams was batting when play was halted. The suspension was announced 1 hour and 7 minutes later.

Local AAU team nears elimination

The bad news continued on Wednesday for Hereford's own Texas Warriors at the National AAU 12 and Under tournament.

After losing their three games in pool play, the Warriors were assigned to play in the Shootout Division along with 27 other teams that had not qualified for the AAU tournament's Championship Division.

The Warriors on Wednesday played the Utah Jags in their first game in the double-elimination tournament, falling 40-36.

Paula Miller, a parent who is with the team in Salt Lake City, Utah, said the boys can only lose one more game before they are eliminated from the tournament.

However, she said, the team met Wednesday night and is fired up to play again on Thursday.

They were to play at 2:15 p.m.

Hereford boxer fights to draw in Las Vegas

Hereford boxer Jamie Herrera fought to a draw last week against an opponent in Las Vegas, fellow boxer Jamie Ruiz has reported.

Herrera took to the ring Friday against Manuel Vadel and fought him for four rounds, Ruiz said.

The bout ended in a draw.

Ruiz said there is talk that the pair will meet up later for a rematch.

MDT today. Mrs. Miller did not know who they would face.

In Wednesday's game, Cody Hodges was top scorer for the Warriors with 11 points. James Miller had 8 points, Slade Hodges had 7 points and Chase Rives had 4 points. Eric McNutt, Steven Northern and Nathan King each scored 2 points.

If the Warriors win the rest of their games, Mrs. Miller said, the best they could finish would be fifth or sixth in the Shootout Division.

U.S. cagers beat Russia for Goodwill bronze medal

By STEPHEN WILSON
AP Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia (AP) - It wasn't the medal the Americans wanted, but the U.S. basketball team gained some consolation today by beating Russia 80-71 for the bronze medal.

The victory provided a small measure of revenge for the American college players, who had lost 77-75 to Russia in the preliminary rounds and were beaten 81-72 by Italy in the semifinals Wednesday.

"It made a difference the game was against the Russians," U.S. coach George Raveling said. "If we'd have played anybody else, I'm not convinced our incentive would have been as high."

The United States led 41-34 at halftime and built the lead to 51-41 on a rebound dunk by Michael Finley of Wisconsin with 14:45 to play. Finley's dunk pulled down the rim, snapping a coiled spring attached to the backboard, and the game was delayed about 45 minutes while about a dozen maintenance men struggled to install a new rim.

When play resumed, the Russians used a 19-8 run to take the lead 60-59 with seven minutes left, but four straight three-pointers, including three by Shawn Respert of Michigan State, put the Americans back in command and they led the rest of the way.

Finley, starting in place of Lou Roe of Massachusetts, led the Americans with 24 points. Alan Henderson of Indiana added 17 and Respert had 11. Sergei Babkov led the Russians with 15 points.

Italy faced Puerto Rico for the gold medal later today. In track and field events today, Dan O'Brien was off his world-record pace after the first two events of the decathlon in hot, humid conditions at Petrovsky Stadium.

After winning the 100-meter dash in 10.49 seconds and the long jump at 25 feet, 7-1/2 inches, O'Brien led the field with a total of 1,989 points - 84 behind his pace when he set the world record of 8,891 in 1992.

O'Brien was hoping to make a run at becoming the first decathlete to break the 9,000-point barrier.

"If the conditions are good here, I'll have a shot at the world record," O'Brien said beforehand. "I'll be disappointed if I don't score over 8,800 points."

Other key events on today's program were the men's 200 meters, the men's 110-meter hurdles and the women's long jump.

Wednesday's loss to Italy marked another embarrassing defeat in international competition for American college players.

"I left the U.S. with a confident feeling we could win the gold medal," U.S. coach George Raveling said. "But Americans need to understand that there are other countries that are efficient at playing basketball besides the United States."

Since 1986, the only major international event won by a U.S. amateur team was the 1993 University Games. Pro basketball is another matter, with Dream Team II set to win the gold at next month's World Championships in Toronto, just as the original Dream Team triumphed at the 1992 Olympics.

"We know with the Dream Team we'd probably lose every time," said Paolo Conti, who scored 17 points to help guide Italy to its first victory over the United States since 1978.

The United States led 40-39 at the half, but Italy scored the first seven points of the second half, and the Americans never recovered.

"As the game went on, they lost the fear factor," Raveling said. "Midway through the second half, they started believing they could win the game."

Damon Stoudamire, a point guard from Arizona, led the United States with 17 points. Also in double figures were Alan Henderson of Indiana with 12, Shawn Respert of Michigan State with 11 and Cherokee Parks of Duke with 10.

In boxing, Americans lost all three of their semifinal bouts Wednesday.

Light flyweight Albert Guardado of Topeka, Kan., was outpointed by Joon-Wook Choi of South Korea 8-5. Eric Morel of Madison, Wis., also a light flyweight, was hammered by Manuel Manilla of Cuba 19-8. And lightweight and team captain Larry Nicholson of Tyler, Texas, was beaten by Heiko Hinz of Germany 16-10.

The powerful Cubans won all five of their bouts and could wind up with 10 finalists in the 12 weight classes.

In water polo, the injury-weakened U.S. team lost 9-4 to Russia. Coupled with Tuesday's 11-8 loss to Germany, the Americans were eliminated from medal contention.

After a day off, track and field was set to resume today.

Rangers begin marketing All-Star Game logo for '95

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Texas Rangers on Wednesday unveiled the logo for the 1995 All-Star Game, a red, silver and blue design dominated by the lawmen's badge from the team's insignia.

But there's still no word on ticket sales for the July 11, 1995, game to be played at The Ballpark in Arlington. Details aren't expected to be announced until next spring.

The 66th All-Star Game again will be preceded by the All-Star Workout Day on July 10.

Major League Baseball's All-Star Week is one of the greatest spectacles among all sports, as fans throughout the (Dallas-Fort Worth) metroplex will soon discover," said Bud Selig, chairman of baseball's executive council.

The Rangers have begun marketing the All-Star logo, which also includes the Major League Baseball insignia, and they've already scheduled several late-season promotions featuring items carrying the design.

Fans can have a crack at All-Star tickets by buying Rangers season tickets. Full season-ticket owners for 1995 are expected to be given the chance to buy seats to the All-Star Game.

Pro-bowler Jackson says Saint offer was 'an insult'

By MARY FOSTER
AP Sports Writer

The New Orleans Saints insulted him with a $300,000 offer, linebacker Rickey Jackson said. They raised it just enough to soften the indignity, but not enough to entice him to sign.

Jackson, a six-time Pro Bowl player, didn't mind a reduced salary, or even less playing time. The deal the Saints said they were withdrawing would have wounded his pride as well, Jackson said.

"I don't think it was fair," Jackson said from the Saints' Mankato, Minn., training camp. "I expected a cut; I didn't expect them to treat me like I was dirt. I didn't expect them to insult me with an offer like that."

Jackson, 36, made a base salary of $1.3 million in 1993. He also made the Pro Bowl for the second straight year, starting all 16 games and getting 11-1/2 sacks.

The Saints offered him $500,000 for next season, or about $100,000 less than defensive lineman Frank Warren will make.

"They could have at least kept me around what Frank is making," Jackson said. "At what they offered, I would have been the lowest-paid linebacker on the team."

The offer did include the possibility of another $800,000 in incentives based on individual and team accomplishments.

"I couldn't have made them if they put me, Derrick Thomas and Lawrence Taylor in the same body," Jackson said. "Superman couldn't have made them."

Jackson said he spoke with Atlanta Falcons coach June Jones on Tuesday night and again Wednesday.

"I want to play another year. I'm still young and I'm as good as ever," Jackson said. "I would like to have played for the Saints, but right now I guess the Falcons are the frontrunner. My agent says they're going to make an offer."

The Falcons, however, deny that they talked with Jackson.

"There's been no negotiations whatsoever," Falcons spokesman Charles Taylor said.

Cowboys Think winning two Super Bowls has made the Dallas Cowboys complacent? Rookie Willie Jackson, a fourth-round wide receiver from Florida, knows the answer.

Jackson quit running on a pass from Troy Aikman during practice Wednesday. Instead of getting a handful of ball, he ended up with a faceful of Aikman.

"We don't quit running around here until the ball has hit the ground!" Aikman yelled.

Coach Barry Switzer said, "Willie then ran as hard as he could as fast as he could in a scrimmage, laid out, and made the catch."

Added Switzer: "The moral of the story is that if you run as hard as you can as fast as you can until the ball hits the ground, it might not hit the ground."

49ers Doug Brien, San Francisco's hope as the answer to their kicking problems, took part in his first workout Wednesday after ending a five-day holdout. He signed a two-year contract worth $367,000 that could be enhanced by $130,000 in performance incentives.

Bears Wide receiver Tom Waddle strained his left knee during a passing scrimmage Wednesday and is expected to miss two weeks of practice, Chicago Bears spokesman Bryan Harlan said.

Chiefs Coach Marty Schottenheimer said it was unlikely the Chiefs would play their newly acquired defensive starters much in the exhibition opener against Houston on Sunday night in Kansas City.

Lions Bennie Blades, the former All-Pro safety who missed most of last season with a broken ankle, suffered a minor setback in his recovery when the ankle was too sore for him to take part in the afternoon practice.

heart condition. An electrocardiogram revealed an abnormality in the electrical activity of Brooks' heart, and he was sent to the Milwaukee Heart Institute.

Judge clears way for Simpson case testing

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - A judge

cleared the way for DNA testing of blood samples today in the O.J. Simpson murder case amid signs the defense will wage a molecule-by-molecule battle over evidence.

At an emergency hearing Wednesday, Judge Lance Ito affirmed his decision that defense experts could remove 10 percent of each of the samples before the prosecution's testing began this morning. Officials at the laboratory had wanted their own technicians to do the job.

The defense, meanwhile, objected to Ito's requirement that they use the lab's equipment to cut their samples, which were to be stored at the lab until Ito decides if they can conduct their own tests.

The blood undergoing testing was swabbed up at the crime scene, Simpson's white Bronco and Simpson's estate.

With a case dependant on circumstantial evidence, prosecutors hope the genetic fingerprinting will link Simpson to the slaying deaths of ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend, Ronald Goldman. Simpson has pleaded innocent to two counts of first-degree murder.

The defense is fighting over minutia - down to blood cells and the genetic material encoded within - as a distraction, a Loyola University law professor said.

"The defense is hoping that all these things will make the jury forget there are two dead people with their throats slashed and make them concentrate on other issues," Stanley Goldman said.

Simpson lawyer Robert Shapiro had objected vigorously to Ito's ground rules on the sampling. "They are totally unacceptable," he said. "They are useless and we will not be participating."

After the hearing, Shapiro refused to say if the defense planned to cut the samples or even show up at the lab.

In another development, Goldman's mother, Sharon Rufo, announced that she filed a wrongful death lawsuit claiming Simpson

North Korea defections are more important than number of bombs

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. officials and private analysts are dubious of a defector's assertion that North Korea already has five nuclear bombs. They say the defection itself - joined by another one today - may prove more important than the nuclear numbers.

The first of the two defectors said Wednesday at a news conference in Seoul, South Korea, he is 35-year-old Kang Myong Do, the son-in-law of North Korea's prime minister. Seoul officials said they believe him, but North Korea disclaimed his assertions.

A defection to the South from a family of such political prominence is rare, and U.S. analysts said it could indicate wider dissatisfaction with a communist regime that has driven the country's economy into the ground.

"It's a major blow to the regime," if Kang in fact is the son-in-law of the prime minister, Kang Song San, who ranks third in the North's political hierarchy, said Bruce Cumings, a Northwestern University specialist on North Korea.

Another North Korean defector - Kim Dong Hun, 42, a trading company official - arrived at the western port of Incheon in South Korea aboard a ship from an unspecified third country, according to a brief news release.

He was being investigated about the motive of his defection, the Agency for National Security Planning said.

Meanwhile, North Korea described Kang as "a morally degenerate human derelict," and the Pyongyang government denied his assertions and his claim that he is related to the North Korean premier.

"They would have felt much more pleasure in their nuclear fever, if they had made him say the North has 50 or 500 A-bombs," according to a report monitored in Tokyo.

North Korea's prime minister failed to appear at a major military ceremony in Pyongyang on Wednesday, a day after the South announced Kang's defection.

Cumings said the older Kang is a longtime associate of Kim Il Sung, the "Great Leader" of North Korea who died this month and left his son, Kim Jong Il, to carry on as supreme leader.

Clinton administration officials indicated they put little stock in the defector's claim that North Korea already had built five nuclear warheads. Kang said he learned the figure from the intelligence officer responsible for Yongbyon, a complex of buildings that is the center of the North's nuclear activities.

Officially, North Korea has denied that its nuclear program has produced any bombs.

Defense Secretary William Perry told reporters that while the administration was studying the defector's statements it was sticking to its estimate that the North Koreans have no more than two nuclear bombs, if any.

Perry said the difference between the U.S. estimate of one or two bombs and the defector's claim of five might be explained by a difference in assumptions of how efficiently North Korea can convert plutonium to workable bombs.

In other words, the quantity of plutonium that Washington believes North Korea possesses and may have used to make one or two bombs could possibly produce as many as five bombs if the manufacturing process is more efficient than U.S. officials assume it is.

Peter Hayes, a researcher at the private Nautilus Institute and a regular visitor to North Korea, said in an interview that it is impossible to assess the validity of Kang's claims about nuclear bombs. But the very fact that the defection took place is important, he said, assuming Kang is who he says he is.

The Netherlands recognized American independence in 1792.
