Hospital board OKs operations budget

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A 1994-95 operations budget of $9,142,046 was approved by directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District Tuesday night following a public hearing which no one attended.

Jim Robinson, Hereford Regional Medical Center administrator, noting that directors asked for a balanced budget, said it was a "very tight" budget based on no salary increases and no new hires. The operating budget is only $92,957 higher than last year's total.

Gross revenues for the new fiscal year are projected at $13,220,377, about the same as last year. Medicare and Medicaid contractuals, uncollectible accounts and debt requirements drop the operating revenue total to $9,145,929. Operating expenditures total $9,142,046, leaving a surplus of $3,883.

The operating budget does not include $607,504 in proposed capital expenditures, nor does it include ad valorem tax revenue of $1,075,000. Capital expenses and other contingencies would be covered by tax revenue. The net revenue--operating revenue and tax funds--for the district totals $10,220,929, compared to last year's total of $9,871,741.

In other business Tuesday night, the board reviewed financial statements for August and for the 11 months of the fiscal year, heard an operations report from the administrator and heard a report on the rural health clinic. The board also approved minutes of one regular and two special meetings and approved accounts payable.

Robinson reported the daily census for the hospital was 25 in August, compared to 18 a year ago. The average year-to-date daily census is 14.6, up from 14.1 a year ago. Total inpatient days was 480 last month, compared to 342 a year ago, and the year-to-date total was 4,887--an increase of 164 over a year ago.

Substantial increases on year-to-date totals were noted for surgical procedures, outpatient visits, laboratory tests, radiology procedures, respiratory therapy treatments, and patient meals prepared.

Paul Fowler, chief financial officer, reported net patient services revenue was $1,212,486 for August with $338,882 resulting from a cost report settlement with Medicare and Medicaid. An operating profit of $440,159 was reflected for the month. Year-to-date profit was listed at $211,180, compared to a loss last year of $1,274,918.

The rural health clinic report showed revenue of $185,766 and expenses of $332,232 for the year, or a loss of $146,466. Salaries and benefits accounted for a major part of expenditures at $295,819.

During the administrator's report, Robinson reported the HRMC collections department set a record in August with collections of $81,000. He announced that Lubbock Methodist Hospital has provided two consultants to assist HRMC in evaluating the feasibility of establishing a rural health clinic in Vega.

The hospital is also evaluating two proposals for the replacement of the x-ray processor in radiology. The processor is more than 19 years old. The hospital is also exploring alternative sources of supplying nuclear medicine services to the medical staff.

Robinson said he is continuing to explore the possibility of sending two or more nurses to a two-week training class on rape response. Nurses have to qualify for the program and must be willing to commit the response time. A civic club and the City of Hereford are considering assisting in the program.

All seven directors were present for the meeting--Mal Manchec, Boyd Foster, Dean Crofford, Larry Watts, Jo Beth Shackelford, Steve Cortez and Scott Keeling.

Headed for Canyon

The Hereford High School Mighty Maroon Band -- shown here during a performance at Friday night's football game against the Coronado High School Mustangs -- have been invited to perform at Saturday's West Texas A&M University football game against New Mexico Highlands University. Each year the school picks one area high school band to join the WTAMU band at a game. The HHS band will perform at halftime and will be on hand throughout the game. Kickoff is at 2 p.m. in Canyon. General admission tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Survey shows Americans angry at the government

By JILL LAWRENCE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Angry at their government and anxious about their futures, Americans are becoming less altruistic and more politically volatile, a broad, nonpartisan poll suggests.

Despite the economic recovery, many people still have trouble making ends meet and believe jobs should continue to be President Clinton's top priority, according to a poll of 4,809 people by the Times Mirror Center for the People and the Press.

The findings reflect a national mood of disillusionment and self-absorption. Tolerance of homosexuals and interracial dating is on the rise, but people are becoming less supportive of programs and opportunities for minorities, immigrants and the poor.

"It's an unusual set of trends for a time in which the economy's been expanding and unemployment's been going down," said poll director Andrew Kohut. He attributed the phenomenon in part to low wages and benefits that continue to stretch many households.

Throughout the seven years of the Times Mirror survey, some 80 percent of Americans have described themselves as God-fearing churchgoers who pray daily and hold traditional family values.

A full 75 percent said this year that too many children are in day care. Yet only 30 percent said women should return to their traditional societal roles, a minority that has held steady since 1987.

There were progressive trends in a couple of areas. A record 65 percent of whites said they thought it was all right for blacks and whites to date each other, up from 43 percent in 1987.

Nearly six in 10 said school boards should not be able to fire teachers who are known homosexuals, up from 42 percent in 1987. The same majority disagreed with the statement: "AIDS might be God's punishment for immoral sexual behavior"; only 47 percent disagreed in 1987.

But attitudes hardened on issues potentially affecting taxes and job security. In 1987, for example, 71 percent said the government should take care of people who can't take care of themselves. That fell to 57 percent this year.

Only 41 percent this year said the government should help the needy even if it means going deeper in debt, the first time that assertion failed to win majority support.

Another first: A majority of whites (51 percent) agreed with the statement that equal rights for racial minorities have been pushed too far. And 82 percent said people coming here to live should be restricted and controlled more than they are now, up 6 percentage points from 1992.

"The trends have a negative cast," said Kohut. "Generally when things are better, people are more altruistic. But that doesn't seem to be the case here."

Apparently that's because the improved economy hasn't greatly improved people's lives. More than 40 percent said they "often don't have enough money to make ends meet" - a huge chunk considering the relatively healthy economy, Kohut said.

Six in 10 said they don't have enough money to lead the kinds of lives they want to, and only half of those think they ever will. About one in four people chose "improving the job situation" as Clinton's top priority - which tied it for first place with "reducing crime."

Trial presidential match-ups demonstrated the enduring appeal of the outsider. Independent Ross Perot, who has never held elective office, came in at 20 percent in a hypothetical race against Clinton (39 percent) and Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole (36 percent).

Colin Powell, the former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who hasn't even revealed which party he belongs to, out-pollied Clinton 51-41 percent in a two-way contest. And that was before Powell helped negotiate the last-minute agreement that averted an invasion of Haiti.

The poll of 4,809 adults over 18 was conducted July 12-27. Its margin of error is plus or minus 2 to 3 percentage points.

OFAC handling of Haitian embargo focus of probes

By JOHN SOLOMON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Treasury Department agency's handling of a Haiti embargo violations case against Texaco - which documents suggest may have involved political interference - is coming under scrutiny at two levels. Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen has asked his department's inspector general to review the conduct of the Office of Foreign Assets Control, an official said Tuesday.

Bentsen's request comes after the U.S. attorney's office in Washington last week launched a separate probe of Texaco's and OFAC's conduct.

Both inquiries are in response to an Associated Press report Sunday that OFAC director Richard Newcomb ignored staff pleas to stop the flow of oil and money to Haiti's military junta after his agency concluded Texaco was illegally doing business with the regime.

Sharp eyes attorneys who don't pay tax

AUSTIN (AP) - State Comptroller John Sharp has set his sights on 850 lawyers in Texas who haven't paid their $200-a-year professional tax since the levy was imposed in 1992.

Calling the group "chronic tax chiselers," Sharp said Tuesday that liens would be placed on the lawyers' properties.

"Unfortunately a relatively small number of licensed attorneys seem to think they don't have to play by the same rules as every other Texan, particularly members of every other profession," Sharp said.

The 850 attorneys owe $650,000 in back taxes, penalty and interest, Sharp said. That's money that would go to the state's general revenue fund, which finances education and numerous other services.

In addition, Sharp said his office is double-checking the addresses of another 1,600 lawyers who may have dodged the tax over the past three years.

Of the 43,000 licensed attorneys in Texas, 8,593 - about one in five - aren't up-to-date on their professional tax, Sharp said.

Sharp said the 850 lawyers have received at least six past-due notices.

Newcomb was quoted in agency documents cited by the AP as saying he was instructed by Bush administration Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady to "go slow" in the investigation.

Top Bush administration officials had several meetings or phone conversations with Texaco during the investigation, records showed.

Newcomb is a career government executive whose office by law is supposed to be free of political interference. He did not immediately return a call to his office Tuesday seeking comment.

Delays by OFAC in the case allowed Texaco's Caribbean subsidiary to distribute fuel inside Haiti from at least 26 tankers and pay the junta millions of dollars between October 1991, when an Organization of American States embargo took effect, and last year, agency documents allege.

Texaco has denied wrongdoing, saying its dealings with the regime were under duress and made only in an attempt to save its workers in Haiti from danger.

Dave Dickson, a Texaco spokesman, said Tuesday the company would fully cooperate and "is confident that any investigation will conclude we did take the correct actions in Haiti."

A Treasury official, who spoke only on condition of anonymity, confirmed Bentsen had requested the investigation by the Treasury inspector general's office, which by law conducts independent investigations of departmental matters.

"Given the nature of the allegations and the uniqueness of the situation, we have brought this to the attention of the Treasury IG," the official said.

The chairmen of the House and Senate banking committees, meanwhile, expressed outrage at OFAC's conduct described in the documents and indicated their panels will review the case.

"These are very troubling allegations and need to be fully investigated," said Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate panel.

An official close to Riegle said the senator has instructed his committee's staff to review the allegations.

"I think it is outrageous," said Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, Riegle's counterpart in the House. "It's a joke if it is decided to announce a policy and then it isn't enforced."

Gonzalez said his committee may seek to investigate the matter by delving into whether banks may have assisted Texaco in getting money to the junta.

Among the issues likely to be reviewed in both the Treasury IG and U.S. attorney's probes:

- Why Newcomb cited Brady as the reason for foot-dragging in the original investigation. A spokesman for Brady has said the former secretary "doesn't have a recollection" of giving such an order to Newcomb.

- Why Newcomb ignored repeated proddings by his senior staff to take immediate actions that would have stemmed the flow of oil and money from Texaco's Caribbean subsidiary to the Haiti regime.

Oct. 7 deadline to register to take part in Nov. voting

Time is running out for prospective voters to register to cast ballots in the Nov. 8 general election.

Last day to register in person is Oct. 7, in the office of Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland, who also serves as voter registrar for the county.

Mail registrations must be postmarked by Oct. 11, for eligibility. By law the last day to register is Oct. 9, but the office is not open on weekends. Because of the Oct. 10 legal holiday, the postmark deadline was moved to Oct. 11.

Voters will decide several statewide races in the Nov. 8 election. Two contests also are on the ballot for Deaf Smith County voters. Incumbent Johnnie Turrentine, Democrat, is challenged by Dan Hall, Republican, for justice of the peace. Lupe Chavez, a Democrat, faces a Republican candidate, Conny Whitehorn, for Precinct 2 county commissioner.

Mexican fugitive caught in US

By JOSH LEMIEUX
Associated Press Writer

MALLEN, Texas (AP) - One of Mexico's most noted fugitives, accused of ordering torture while a top commander in the Mexican federal police, has been arrested in the United States.

Guillermo Gonzalez Calderoni was brought before U.S. Magistrate Peter Ormsby late Tuesday afternoon, the first step in efforts to return him to face justice in Mexico. A bond hearing was scheduled for Thursday.

His attorney, Tony Canales of Corpus Christi, limited himself to saying that he will fight the Mexican government's extradition request.

U.S. authorities arrested Gonzalez Calderoni Monday night at the McAllen airport on Mexican charges of torture and abuse of authority, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael F.

McCormick.

The Mexican attorney general's office has charged Gonzalez Calderoni with torturing members of the Quijano Santoyo family in January 1990 while director of the national anti-narcotics unit.

The torture occurred as agents tried to learn the whereabouts of Francisco Flavio Quijano Santoyo during an investigation of a smuggling ring, according to the Mexican attorney general's office.

The office said federal police officers used pliers to yank the teeth of Hector Quijano and tortured Francisco Quijano Garcia by placing a plastic bag over his head.

Three Quijano brothers died because of the acts, according to an Oct. 16 statement from the attorney general.

The attorney general's office also has issued statements that Gonzalez Calderoni had amassed property worth more than $6 million, including cattle, trailer trucks and heavily guarded ranches.

Mexican officials said most of the wealth was acquired after 1985, when Gonzalez Calderoni became a commander in a division of the Federal Judicial Police, Mexico's main anti-drug agency.

Charges of "unexplained enrichment" were dropped later for lack of proof, according to the Excelsior news agency in Mexico.

Gonzalez Calderoni took leave in October 1992.

Under the U.S.-Mexico extradition treaty, Mexico now has 60 days to present evidence against Gonzalez Calderoni to a U.S. judge, who determines whether to return him to Mexico.

31 dead Koresh followers to get county pauper's burials in Waco

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The unclaimed bodies of 31 followers of David Koresh, including his wife and children, soon will be buried, officials said.

Meanwhile, autopsies by pathologists and anthropologists from Texas, Washington, D.C., and England are almost complete, officials said. A final report is expected Friday, Justice of the Peace David Pareya of McLennan County said Tuesday.

The 31 were among 79 Davidians and four federal agents who died in two confrontations last year at the Branch Davidian's Mount Carmel compound, near Waco.

The compound came under siege after a raid by federal firearms agents met armed resistance on Feb. 28, 1993. It ended when the compound went up in flames after an armored federal assault on April 19.

Koresh, a 33-year-old doomsday prophet, was buried in May 1993 in an unmarked East Texas grave.

The unclaimed bodies have remained in a freezer at the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office. Families have been asked to make arrangements for the bodies by the end of the month, said Pareya, the justice of the peace who coordinated the autopsies for local officials.

Those remaining will be given pauper's burials by the McLennan County Welfare Department in the county cemetery, Pareya told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The burial cost is about $500 each.

Of the remains found in the ashes, 38 were in such poor shape that genetic tests were needed to identify them, Pareya said. Of the 31 unclaimed bodies, final DNA results are not available yet for five still-unidentified bodies, he said.

"We're all conditioned to the fact that we have a job to do, and we are going to perform it until the end, if there ever is an end," Pareya said.

One survivor, Sheila Martin, said she has not enough money to bury her husband and four children, who died at the end of the 51-day siege.

Her husband, Douglas Wayne Martin, 42, a Harvard-educated lawyer, was one of Koresh's top lieutenants.

Mrs. Martin and three of their other children left the complex before the siege ended. They now live in Waco.

She had wanted to bury the five at Mount Carmel, where they lived for about five years. But she could not afford it, she told the newspaper.

"It won't put it to rest. It is not comforting. I guess right now, it seems like they are in another place," Mrs. Martin said. "It's like somebody hasn't come home yet."

Jobless rate drops in August

AUSTIN (AP) - The state unemployment rate for August dropped to 6.2 percent from July's 6.8 percent, the Texas Employment Commission reports.

"Texas business is expressing confidence in our state's favorable economic climate," TEC Chairman Eddie Cavazos said Tuesday.

"Texas is experiencing good, solid job growth. We expect this improved employment rate to continue through the winter," he said.

There were 21,600 jobs created last month and a net increase of 14,800 jobs in trade and construction industries, the TEC said.

All of the state's statistical areas experienced a drop in unemployment. The 6.2 percent rate matches the April rate, which was the lowest for the state in three years.

"We are creating businesses throughout Texas and existing employers are shifting gears, adding positions as needed," TEC Commissioner James J. Kaster said.

Identifying the bodies was painstaking and painful, Pareya said.

Some of the remains were mixed because mothers huddled with children under wet blankets in a futile attempt to survive the flames, he said.

Authorities got the names of some of the children by watching, over and over, a videotape Koresh made at the FBI's request during the siege. The tape was sought to determine how the children were being cared for, he said.

"It has been traumatic, devastating when you look at the children on videotape and how beautiful and happy they were at the time and then go look at them on a forensic lab report," Pareya said.

The tests to identify the bodies were conducted by the FBI, the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington D.C., and anthropologists from the Smithsonian Institution, Pareya said. Because 24 of the victims were from England, English pathologists also participated, he said.

The federal government paid $500,000 for the DNA tests and donated the anthropologists' time, Pareya said. The autopsies conducted by Tarrant County cost $170,000, with Washington paying about $60,000 of the bill. McLennan County paid the rest, he said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have an unusual problem that I hope you can help me with. My wife and I are going on what all of our friends are calling our second honeymoon. It will be our 25th wedding anniversary, and we are going first class all the way, which we could not afford when we married.

Sounds like fun, right? Wrong. For the last 10 years, "Clara" has been mad at me. In fact, she has been so mad that we don't even sleep together. I can count on one hand the times we've had sex in the last four years. The last time was a flop. She said I wasn't very romantic, which turned me off completely. It's hard to be romantic with someone who has a negative comment about everything you do. Still, I've never missed a birthday or anniversary in the entire 24 years. She has missed several of both.

I don't have a clue as to why Clara wants to take this trip. I can't believe she wants to patch things up. I have, over the years, mentioned marriage counseling, but Clara wasn't interested. If she is thinking about sex, I have a surprise for her. The equipment doesn't work anymore.

So, short of breaking my leg, how do I get out of a vacation I really don't want to go on? My goal has been to survive the next eight years until our youngest child is finished with college, and then I'm out of here.

Please give me some help.—Trapped in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: It sounds to me as if Clara arranged this "second honeymoon" because she really is interested in romance. Why not meet her halfway?

You two are in desperate need of counseling. I hope Clara will agree to start there. If each of you will give just a little, it could be the beginning of a fresh start. Who knows, the equipment might even work again. Did you know that where sex is concerned, the most vital part of the human anatomy is the brain?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently married my high school sweetheart. I'll call him "Jeff."

Before we got back together after a three-year separation, Jeff dated a woman I'll call "Jane." They went together for over a year. After Jeff and I married, I found out that he is still paying off a loan he co-signed for Jane, which in my opinion, she won't pay because she is bitter about our marriage. Jeff is also making payments on a $1,000 necklace he bought for her.

I know Jeff has no interest in her romantically, but is it wrong for me to be annoyed by this? It would have been so much better if we could have started out debt-free with a clean slate. It bugs me that he didn't tell me about all this garbage before we got married, instead of letting it leak out later. Can it be that he was embarrassed by the fact that she used him? I need your opinion on this, Ann. It's eating me up.—Seattle, Wash.

DEAR SEATTLE: Of course it would have been better if Jeff had leveled with you before you married, but he didn't—no accept the fact that he was guilty of the sin of omission, and go on from there.

I agree that Jeff is deeply embarrassed that Jane played him for a fool. What matters now is that you got the guy and Jane didn't, so forget about the rest of it—it's small potatoes.

Gem of the Day: Know when to tune out. If you listen to too much advice, you may wind up making other people's mistakes.

Brian Betzen relates seminar experiences

Brian Betzen was the guest speaker for the first meeting of the 1994-95 club year of the Pioneer Study Club of Hereford when the group met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Brian was sponsored by the club to attend the Annual Hugh O'Brian Youth Seminar this past summer at the Episcopal Youth Center in Amarillo. He expressed appreciation to the club and reported that it was an experience that would benefit him all of his life.

He stated that the idea for the HOBY Seminars was prompted by a comment of Albert Switzer that the future of our country will depend on our youth of today: "If we don't feed the youth of today, how are we going to feed the youth of tomorrow?"

Brian accented his talk with materials studied by the youth and souvenirs he collected during the weekend seminar. He will return to HOBY next year as a counselor.

A question and answer session followed with club members assured that it was a worthwhile project for the club to continue.

Special guests were his mother, Mrs. Wayne Betzen, and his grandmother, Mrs. Clarence Betzen. His parents attended the seminar on Parents' Sunday and his mother answered many questions posed by the club members.

Mrs. Herschel Burrus presided over a brief business session. She welcomed the guests and Mrs. S.M. Brown, a new member of the club.

The Pledges of Allegiance to the flags of the United States and Texas were led by Catherine Gripp, who also introduced the guest speaker.

Nell Culpepper gave the invocation.

Luncheon was served at the center to guests, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Betzen and Mrs. Wayne Betzen, and members, Brown, Burrus, Maria Escamilla, Oleta Hoffman, Mary Panciera, Rosemary Thomas and hostesses, Culpepper and Gripp.

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP) - Tom Arnold and Roseanne may still make headlines, but they're getting out of the newspaper business.

The soon-to-be-divorced couple have sold their five weekly newspapers for an undisclosed price to a company owned by Arnold's father and stepmother.

Lady Whitefaces blow out Borger, 15-1, 15-1

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Lady Whitefaces played near-flawless volleyball Tuesday in Borger, beating the Lady Bulldogs 15-1, 15-1.

Hereford improved to 3-0 in District 1-4A play and 17-4 overall.

"We just had very few errors," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said. "The only unforced errors we had to deal with were four service errors. In all we had four attack errors, which is extremely low, and one dig error, which is remarkable, and no service receive errors. He had 29 successful digs against one dig error, which is an excellent success percentage."

Hereford's chances of such a resounding win didn't look good with the combination of a bad warm-up for the Herd and the "slow" play of Borger, Reeh said, but Hereford's flawless play overcame that.

"Sometimes we have the tendency to play to the level of our opponents, and we played our game the whole way," Reeh said.

Next for the Herd is River Road, in a non-district match starting at 2 p.m. Saturday in Whiteface Gym. With seven teams in District 1-4A, each team will have two dates with no district opponent. Reeh was able to get River Road for Saturday, but Hereford has an open date on Oct. 18.

The Hereford junior varsity team also took a decisive win at Borger, winning 15-4, 15-1. Kari Barrett served for 14 points as the Herd JV improved to 13-3.

The freshman volleyball team won a tournament held Saturday in Borger, winning four straight games. They beat Randall in the finals, 15-8, 14-16, 15-5, as Kendra Wright served for 16 points.

In the first match of the day, Hereford beat Perryton, 15-6, 11-15, 15-11, as Jamie Marquez served for 12.

In the second match, Hereford beat Randall's B team, 15-8, 15-9, as Meredith Tabor served for nine points.

Hereford beat Dumas in the semifinals, 15-13, 15-9. Nichole Albracht served for 11 points.

Then on Monday, the freshmen went back to Borger and beat the Borger freshmen, 15-2, 15-7. Marquez served for 11 points.

The Hereford Junior High volleyball teams lost three-of-four matches Monday at Valleyview.

The seventh grade A team got the lone win for Hereford, 15-12, 15-10. Tori Walker recorded two kills, and Angie Evers served for 13 points.

The seventh B team lost 15-2, 15-8, with Christina Lucio serving for 4 points. The eighth grade A team fell 15-11, 15-13, though Mayra Olvera and Misty Tice each had two kills, and Tice served for nine points. The eighth B team lost 15-1, 15-2.

Oilers' Carter getting tired of bench

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Tight end Pat Carter has made an unhappy discovery: The Houston Oilers are still a run-and-shoot team.

That's not what he was told when he took advantage of his free agency to sign with the Oilers in the offseason. He wanted to be a part of the offense, and the Oilers promised him more exposure.

With one catch in three games, he's still waiting.

"I was only in on three passing plays (in Sunday's 15-7 loss to Buffalo) and one of those I had to stay in and block," Carter said. "I was expecting to be more a part of the offense. They told me I would be involved when they were courting me."

Carter languished on the Los Angeles Rams, eager to catch a few passes. It didn't happen. So when he had a chance at free agency he took it, even though the Oilers had been strictly run-and-shoot.

The Oilers hired Dick Coury as offensive coordinator to implement the tight end system, and Coury brought in quarterback Sean Salisbury, adept at the pro-style offense but new to the run-and-shoot.

But Salisbury has been waived and the tight end alignment is on the back burner.

"It's not even close to what I was expecting," Carter said. "I guess we're still a run-and-shoot team."

Carter thought Sunday's game against the Bills would be his chance after watching film of New England tight end Ben Coates catching nine passes for 124 yards the previous week against Buffalo.

It didn't happen. The Oilers offense, struggling to mesh the run-and-shoot with some forms of the tight end and two-back alignments, has had problems since training camp. Those woes only increased in the regular season.

Bucky Richardson has tried to learn on the run while playing for injured starting quarterback Cody Carlson.

The offensive line has been struggling with the loss of Mike Munchak to retirement and the departure of Doug Dawson to the Cleveland Browns.

The Oilers have been slow to adapt to the use of Carter's catching abilities, although they admit he's a better receiver than they expected.

"It's still kind of early," Carter said. "In the first game we were behind early, so I understood. Then in the second game, they said the run-and-shoot matched better against the Cowboys."

Coach Jack Pardee, asked about the Oilers' lack of use of the tight end, had no immediate answer.

"I don't care what kind of offense we run, I just want to move the football," Pardee said. "If you play the same formation every down, the defense is going to load up and stop you."

Hull anchors Buffalo line

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

"No," the Buffalo Bills' center replied. "We're not hardly where we want to be right now."

Kent Hull is one of the most important Bills players these days, along with Steve Christie, who kicked five field goals for all of Buffalo's points against Houston on Sunday.

If the Bills are to get back to the Super Bowl for the fifth straight season they probably will depend as much on Hull and Christie as Jim Kelly, Thurman Thomas, Cornelius Bennett, Andre Reed, Bruce Smith and Darryl Talley.

Hull? Like the above, he's a Pro Bowler, heir to the AFC center position. He's also the only survivor of an offensive line that lost the rest of its core to age (Jim Ritcher), free agency (Howard Ballard and Will Wolford) and injury (John Fina).

So Hull, along with guard John Davis and Glenn Parker, who plays everywhere along the line, is left to open holes for Thomas and protect Kelly. At the same time, he must teach Corbin Laccina, who last played two years ago for Augustana in South Dakota.

QBs share weekly SWC honors

DALLAS (AP) - Max Knake of Texas Christian and Jeff Watson of Baylor had something in common Saturday night: They overcame halftime deficits to Big Eight Conference foes to pass their teams to victory.

Knake threw four touchdown passes, two in the second half, in TCU's 31-21 upset victory over the

Junior varsity cross country

Hereford's boys' and girls' junior varsity cross country teams both took fourth in their races in the Hereford Cross Country Meet held Saturday at Veterans Park.

Hereford JV boys: 14, Brandon Coleman, 19:05; 21, Justin Criner, 19:29; 26, Justin McDowell, 20:08; 29, Rafael Del Hoyo, 20:20; 30, Flavio Cardenas, 20:21; 33, Miguel Huerta, 20:32; 61, Edgar Herrera, 22:24; 65, Ignacio Garcia, 22:57; 67, Adolfo San Miguel, 23:03.

Hereford JV girls: 46, Beverly Celaya, 15:41; 47, Michelle Ochoa, 15:43; 58, Priscilla Alonzo, 15:58; 66, Anna Witkowski, 16:08; 67, Christy Haney, 16:10; 76, Ana Torres, 16:20.

In the 1A-2A-3A Division, Boys Ranch won the boys title and Sanford-Fritch won the girls.

Kansas Jayhawks. Watson threw two long touchdown passes as Baylor rallied for a 14-10 victory over the Oklahoma State Cowboys.

It earned them The Associated Press co-Offensive Player of the Week awards.

On defense, Baylor linebacker LaCurtis Jones made 17 tackles, including three for losses, to take The AP Defensive Player of the Week laurels.

Knake hit 19 of 29 passes for 299 yards. The junior from McKinney threw touchdown passes of 28, 53, 50 and 3 yards.

"Max had just a great night," said TCU coach Pat Sullivan. "He made great reads and made some great throws. It might have been his best game."

Watson, a freshman who led A&M Consolidated High School to 40 victories during his career, shook off an early interception to rally Baylor.

He threw cross-country touchdown passes of 81 yards to John Stanley and 70 yards to Damon Rhynes.

"That touchdown pass to Rhynes was a big-time throw," said Baylor coach Chuck Reedy. "Jeff is really motivated to do well. Whatever he's doing I sure do like it."

Watson won the starting job in the opener against Louisiana Tech and hasn't let sophomore Lamont Moore get back into the picture.

"Jeff has to correct the habit of sometimes throwing without setting his feet," Reedy said. "He did on the two touchdown passes."

Watson also gives the Bears a threat to run from the option.

"I'm amazed how fast Jeff can run," Reedy said.

The Bears are off to a 3-0 start with Watson at quarterback and Jones making big hits at linebacker.

"Every game is going to be a learning experience for Watson," Reedy said. "But his demeanor never changes. He always keeps his confidence."

Switzer: losing feels as bad as it used to

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Barry Switzer doesn't like the feel of his first football loss in six years. "It's the same thing," Switzer said. "Losing isn't fun." Switzer, who hadn't coached in five years after resigning under pressure at Oklahoma, suffered his first NFL loss to Detroit Monday night 20-17 in overtime. "I told the team this is just the start of a long journey and there will be setbacks along the way," Switzer said. "We're just going back to work to be the best team we can be. We've been in deeper holes before." It was the first loss for the Cowboys in 11 games stretching back to Miami's 16-14 victory on Thanksgiving Day. Dallas defensive end Charles Haley was preaching patience after the defending Super Bowl champions' hard loss on a 44-yard field goal with 27 seconds left in overtime. "This is a veteran team and we'll bounce back," Haley said. "It is hard to do when you lose in this fashion. Both sides of the ball lost this game. You can't pin the blame on the offense or the defense." Haley, who led the NFL in sacks, had trouble getting to Lions quarterback Scott Mitchell because of the great blocking by left tackle Lomas Brown. "The Lions just dictated the tempo of the game to us," Haley said. "Barry Sanders was exceptional. We knew he would get the ball a lot and we still had trouble stopping him." Sanders rushed 40 times for 194 yards in a duel with NFL rushing leader Emmitt Smith, who pounded out 143 yards on 29 carries. Lett blocked two field goal attempts by Jason Hanson but couldn't reach the kick that gave both teams 2-1 records. After reviewing the films, Switzer said "turnovers killed us and Barry Sanders had a great game. Lett kept us in the game with those blocks but we just couldn't make a play in overtime when it counted. Too many mistakes. This is the first time I've lost a game in six years and it hurts." Switzer was out of coaching for five years after he resigned at Oklahoma before he was hired by Jerry Jones to replace Jimmy Johnson. Now, the Cowboys have a week off and they need it. "I would like to think we can execute better than we did," said a disgruntled quarterback Troy Aikman. "Stupid mistakes killed us." Tight end Jay Novacek said the off-week comes at a good time. "We need it to heal up." Novacek said. "It isn't the end of the world. There has only been one team to ever go undefeated. Being two-time defending world champions, people are going to play like this against us all year." Still Switzer said he is enjoying his rookie NFL year. "I'm having fun and we're going to win a lot of games. We're in a helluva lot better position than this team was last year." Dallas started 1-2 last season.

Cowboy uniforms spark memories

By FRANK LUKSA
The Dallas Morning News
DALLAS - For their Monday night game with the Detroit Lions, the Dallas Cowboys put on replicas of the team's original 1960 uniforms. These featured jerseys with a star on each shoulder but none beneath the shoulder pads. The NFL is returning to primitive fashion statements to observe its 75th anniversary. Hence a nostalgic peek into the past where memory insists that life was simple and times less hurried. The same could be said for the '60 Cowboys. They were simply awful. They also took so much time winning that victory was postponed until 1961. There never has been a Cowboys team like the first one, and those involved with it say this is a good thing. The roster, assembled without benefit of a college draft, became a collection of throwaway parts from an expansion pool. The pool proved as shallow as an infant's tub. The '60 Cowboys played with much pep but not much pop. They lost 11 games and bad as that sounds, it was better than losing all 12 on the schedule. A 31-31 tie with the New York Giants helped end an 0-11-1 season on a half-note of promise. Marlene Tubbs, wife of Jerry Tubbs, who played middle linebacker on that team and later was an assistant coach, remembers what that season was like.

"Well," she said. "It wasn't good." But Jerry Tubbs says it wasn't entirely bad. "I got lots of practice," he said. "And I made lots of tackles." Tubbs made so many tackles, he still holds team records for most assists in a season (101) and single game (15). And it didn't mean Tubbs was on the field all day long. "It didn't take the other team long to score. You gotta look at it that way, too," he reminded. One oddity of Tubbs' recall is that he can't remember being discouraged. He always felt the team had a chance to win. "I guess my objectivity wasn't that good," he said. "But I think a great number of our players felt that way. Maybe some others didn't. Some were probably smarter than we were." Times were tough anywhere the Cowboys played or practiced. Workouts were held at Burnett Field, a since-demolished minor league baseball park. The Cowboys were visitors to Burnett. Other occupants called it home. "If you came back the next day and your helmet lining hadn't been eaten by rats, you felt you were way ahead," Tubbs said. Bob Fry, then 30, arrived from the Los Angeles Rams to play five years in Dallas at offensive tackle. From Atlanta, where he scouts for the NFL combine, he harked to the scene prior to the season opener. "All the other teams had made their final cuts," he said. "I think the Cowboys were given an extra week. They were still bringing guys in. Our group would practice. Then the group they just brought in would practice. And we're getting ready for our first game!" The first game evolved into a 35-28 loss to Bobby Layne-led Pittsburgh. The Cowboys claimed a Cotton Bowl crowd of 30,000 saw it. Years later, Steelers owner Art Rooney said he was paid for only 13,000. The Cowboys were short of people anywhere they looked. "We didn't have any depth in the offensive line," Fry said. "There were three or four who were pretty good. But there had to be the fifth guy. Not that any of us were All-Pro. I guess it was more discouraging for Eddie (LeBaron). He was the quarterback." LeBaron, fresh from a 5-over-par

77 round of golf in Fair Oaks, Calif., said he actually has fond memories. Even if he did play at 5-feet-7, 164 pounds, as a midget among the man-sized. "We played a bunch of teams close. The only ones that killed us were the real good teams, Cleveland and Giants," he said. "I enjoyed it. We had a bunch of good guys." The good guys lost 10 consecutive games before the New York tie. LeBaron supplied a vignette from a chat with coach Tom Landry during the dry spell: "Tom was putting in his spiffy stuff. I told him if we'd simplify a little bit, we could beat a team like St. Louis. He said I was probably right. "Then he said, 'We're putting in an offense and a defense that'll be able to beat the Giants and the Browns. We'll beat the rest of 'em when we get the personnel.'" So they did. And so it was in the beginning for the hardy pioneers.

Cowboys' Bates breaks hand

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys special teams star Bill Bates, who also plays linebacker in pass defense coverages, suffered a broken left hand in Monday night's 20-17 overtime loss to the Detroit Lions. Bates will wear a protective cast and was expected to play in two weeks against the Washington Redskins. The Cowboys are off this Sunday.

Players' solidarity threatens spring

ATLANTA (AP) - Donald Fehr isn't worried about maintaining player solidarity now. He's thinking about next February, when owners might open training camps in an effort to break the strike. "It's my job to be concerned if there's still a strike at that point," Fehr said Tuesday after briefing 33 players from 19 teams. "I have not had an occasion to doubt the unity and the resolve of the players since this started, and I don't now." Fehr met with players in Atlanta for 3-1/2 hours, the start of his seven-city tour, and was to brief players today in Tampa, Fla. "What's going to happen, I don't know," Fehr said. "I don't think anyone knows. I think we're in no-man's land. I just hope there is a desire on the other side to try and reach an accommodation before things get a lot worse." Tom Glavine, player representative of the Atlanta Braves, went into the meeting saying he couldn't speak for other teams. "I know my guys haven't change one bit," he said. "I think they fully understand what's going on. They are not about to agree to a salary cap or anything that looks like a salary cap." He came out of the meeting talking about the unity of those who attended. "Everybody is on the same page," he said. "Everybody is behind it the way we've been all along." Most of the players left the downtown hotel without stopping for interviews. "I've got a golf game," said Fred McGriff of the Braves, apparently unconcerned that by the time he got through traffic to a course, it likely would be dark. Fehr said he wished there could be a way to quickly resolve the strike "so that we can reassure the fans we're not going to have this problem next year. That requires them (owners) to want an agreement. So far, that hasn't been their choice. This is not easy stuff. The owners want to play hardball." Brett Butler, the Los Angeles Dodgers' player representative, said the meeting was to clarify the executive board's position for players who were relying on news reports.

"Until they're ready to negotiate, all we can do is inform our players, keep having these meetings and keep them up to snuff on what's going on," Butler said. Glavine said no one came up with any new ideas. "It's up to them to come back and talk to us if they ever want to," he said. "We all love baseball and we all want to play, but we don't want to play under those rules. That's the bottom line. The sooner owners understand that, the sooner we'll get together and get something done." The sides haven't met since Sept. 9, and Fehr said there are no scheduled talks. The union believes owners will attempt to declare an impasse in bargaining and unilaterally implement the salary cap management they are insisting on. "This is about breaking the union and getting their power back and ultimately getting a lot of money out of it," Glavine said. Fehr is to testify Thursday in Washington before a congressional subcommittee investigating whether baseball's antitrust exemption should be removed. Acting commissioner

Bud Selig also is to testify. Selig's Milwaukee Brewers became the latest team to announce cutbacks, saying Tuesday they will eliminate 30 of 73 employees, or more than 40 percent of the prestrike staff. Among those cut permanently are Bruce Manno, the assistant vice president of baseball operations and Tom Skibosh, the director of media relations. Skibosh joined the Brewers in 1976 and Manno was hired three years later.

Red Sox terminate Hobson

BOSTON (AP) - The last two men to lead the Boston Red Sox were rookie major league managers. The next one probably won't be. When general manager Dan Duquette announced the firing of Butch Hobson on Tuesday, he emphasized one factor that would guide his search for a successor. "We felt that there were more experienced managers, more seasoned managers that we could find to lead the Red Sox. At this point, I can't tell you" who the leading candidates are, Duquette said. "We wouldn't have a training factor involved if we could find an experienced man at the major league level." Hobson was International League manager of the year in 1991, but had losing records in each of the next three seasons in Boston. His predecessor, Joe Morgan, won AL East titles in two of his four seasons despite never having been a big-league boss. However, he lost the AL playoffs twice to Oakland. Tony La Russa managed those A's teams and could be leading the Red Sox next year. La Russa's contract expires after this season. The A's made a contract offer in spring training, but La Russa reportedly is concerned because the team is up for sale. He met with club officials several times last week. Asked about La Russa, Duquette said simply, "I read about that on Sunday," referring to an article in a Boston newspaper. The timing of the Hobson firing lets potential candidates know of the opening. 1 To See: Jerry Shipman, CLU 801 N. # Three high school players score 6 TDs each

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - El Campo's Michael Perry touched the football 11 times last weekend. He scored touchdowns on six of his runs.

"So he was only tackled five times," Ricebirds coach Bob Gillis said with a laugh Tuesday, half-joking and half-amazed at Perry's feat in a 52-21 victory over Bastrop.

Perry was one of three players to score six touchdowns last weekend - Brownsville Hanna's Tony Ellis even had seven. His performance earned him top billing on this week's Associated Press honor roll.

Part of the reason his night is spotlighted is Gillis pulled Perry from the game with 10 minutes left in the third quarter. Had he stayed in, who knows how many touchdowns he would have scored.

Perry, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound senior making only his third start as the featured runner, scored five times on running plays and had a sixth on an 83-yard kickoff return. He gained 218 yards on 10 carries.

"He's had real good games all season, but this is outstanding," Gillis said.

Perry has been a varsity starter since his sophomore season when he played linebacker. As a junior, he moved into the defensive backfield and was a backup running back.

This season, he's started in both backfields and he's made several big plays as Class 4A El Campo has opened the year 3-0.

"He's certainly one of the keys," Gillis said. "He's just an exceptional kid. He's so level-headed, nothing seems to faze him too much. He takes everything in stride. That's what makes him special."

Two weekends ago, in a 14-10 victory over Victoria, Perry ran 24 times for 195 yards. His biggest play in that game, though, was an interception that ended Victoria's last drive.

He began his big night against Bastrop with a 7-yard touchdown run. Then Perry got things going with TD runs of 66, 13 and 45 yards before scoring on the kickoff return. He capped things with a 51-yard TD run.

In other outstanding Week Three performances:

-Two other players reached the end zone six times; one of them even scored seven touchdowns.

Ellis accounted for 48 points in a 70-22 victory over Sharyland as he scored seven TDs and added three two-point conversions. He ran for 185 yards on 14 carries.

Andre Bruce of League City Clear Brook ran for six TDs in a 62-8 victory over Houston Furr. Bruce had 177 yards on 14 carries.

-This week's do-everything award goes to North Mesquite's Richard Mason. In a 33-0 upset of Eules Trinity, Mason made 14 tackles, recovered a fumbled kickoff and returned it 16 yards to set up a score, made a goal-line stop, kicked three extra points, hit field goals of 32 and 21 yards and averaged 53.3 yards on two punts.

-Breckenridge had several players step up and help it rally from a 21-0 deficit to a 26-21 victory. Linebacker Brent Blackman was in on 22 tackles, forced a fumble and recovered two fumbles. Receiver Patrick Alvarez scored on a 62-yard reverse, caught five passes for 59 yards and intercepted a pass in the final seconds to preserve the victory.

-Quannah running back Germont Jackson ran 12 times for 325 yards and five TDs in a 48-0 victory over Paducah. His only second-half carry went for a 57-yard TD. Jackson has run for 200 or more yards in all three games.

-Spur's Michael Kelly rushed 13 times for 299 yards and four TDs, and he returned an interception 88 yards for a fifth score in a 60-7 victory over Groom.

-Michael Hipp helped Eustace snap Scurry-Rosser's 12-game regular-season winning streak by rushing for 206 yards and two touchdowns in a 34-14 victory.

-Maurice Hunter ran Harlingen past Brownsville Pace 48-2 by gaining 275 yards and scoring five TDs on 18 carries.

-Linden-Kildare's Lamont Zachery rushed for 266 yards on 17 carries and scored four touchdowns in a 51-6 victory over Clarksville.

-Lindale's Reginal Johnson ran 26 times for 257 yards and two touchdowns, including an 86-yarder, in a 27-0 victory over Canton.

-Kendall Hickerson ran 35 times for 250 yards and three touchdowns, including a 50-yarder, in a 28-25 loss to Rusk.

-Highland Park junior Charles Knoll rushed for 249 yards on 15 carries in a 24-0 victory over Dallas Hillcrest. He had runs of 75, 32, 26 and 54 yards.

-Jermaine Spikes of Hamshire-Fannett ran only seven times, but he gained 182 yards and scored four touchdowns on runs of 32, 21, 59 and 62 yards in a 47-7 victory over Houston St. John's.

-Flower Mound Marcus quarterback Chris Sanders went 27-of-52 and threw for a school-record 401 yards in a 38-35 win over McKinney.

-Mansfield quarterback Jay Stuckey completed 22-of-30 passes for 367 yards and two TDs, plus ran for another score in a 35-25 victory over Carrollton Newman Smith.

-Baytown Lee's Jermaine Alfred

passed for 347 yards and four touchdowns in a 43-32 victory over Pasadena Rayburn. His favorite target was Wallace Louis, who had six catches for 167 yards and three of the touchdowns.

-San Antonio Lee quarterback Bryan Willingham completed 16-of-24 passes for 303 yards and four touchdowns in a 26-19 victory over San Antonio Edison. George Johnson and Billy Hodge each caught two TDs.

-Alief Elsik linebacker Lawson Cooper had 12 tackles, returned an interception 36 yards and knocked down a pass in a 7-6 victory over Aldine Eisenhower.

-Lincoln linebacker Joe Thomas had 17 tackles and assisted on 18 more, plus caused two fumbles in an 18-14 victory over Waco University.

-San Antonio Sam Houston cornerback Lloyd Bell sparked in his first start, picking off two passes and returning one 49 yards for a TD in a 14-6 victory over San Antonio Highlands.

-Orangefield linebacker Richard Kibodeaux had 15 tackles, three sacks and a safety in a 29-8 loss to Lumberton.

-Tyler Gorman's Andre Cummings had six receptions for 104 yards and a touchdown, recovered a fumble and had two interceptions in a 33-8 victory over Frankston.

-Alto's Fred Hackney returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown and took a punt 70 yards for another TD in a 40-7 victory over Elkhart.

-El Paso Irvin fullback Alex Parra gained 179 yards on 24 carries, plus a touchdown and the game-winning two-point conversion in a 15-14 victory over El Paso Socorro.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Last winter, a reader complained about a runny nose. He noted that it runs clear. I have the same problem. It begins in the morning and gradually slows in an hour or two. It activates again when I am shopping, especially in the fresh fruit and vegetable sections and in the soap section. Eating chocolate or drinking a sweet drink also brings it on. I would appreciate your response. I did quit smoking. Mom saw the original item last year. — H.C.N.

ANSWER: Nasal passages produce fluid on a daily schedule. Most of us produce about a pint or more a day. For some, it becomes a veritable fountain, a condition called vasomotor rhinitis.

A sudden change in temperature or bright lights can trigger the flood. Odors, smoke or perfumes can cause it. Just putting the bare feet on the floor in the morning can set it off. Literally hundreds of chance encounters with other causes can keep the fluid flowing throughout the day. Smoking or eating can prompt it.

I can't say what makes some people more prone to the irritation. Certainly, there is no answer for each and every case.

An allergic condition can lie behind such rhinitis, but it can be difficult to distinguish allergic causes from the other aggravating triggers. You can have a combination of forms.

Some patients find relief with decongestants.

Have you tried antihistamines? They often provide relief.

I'm sending on the sinus report you ask for. Others can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 29, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Thank you so much for your informative column, especially the recent article on blood testing for the AIDS virus. Like most people, I thought this could pop up years after exposure. You set the record straight. Now, could you spare some space to educate the public on chlamydia? I know it is one of the fastest growing venereal disease problems we have. But is it bacterial or viral? Can you get it through a single sexual encounter? What about symptoms? — D.C.C.

ANSWER: Chlamydia (kluh-MIDD-ee-uh) are bacteria, and their infection does indeed constitute our most common of all sexually transmitted bacterial diseases.

Discharge and painful urination are the usual indicators of infection in male or female, although either may harbor the organism without any early symptoms. For this reason, some have urged a check for chlamydia during routine examination of young sexually active females.

Infection should be of special concern among young women, since the unchecked germ can go on to endanger later fertility. The chlamydia germ can make its way into the tubes and cause scarring, which later may be a factor.

Your question about exposure gets into an area epidemiologists refer to as "efficiency of transmission."

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My past three blood tests have shown an increase in TIBC (total iron-binding capacity). I am unable to receive an adequate answer for this increase. Your thoughts? — J.S.

ANSWER: The answer can be a little tricky.

Iron molecules, in order to travel in the blood, ride piggyback aboard proteins called transferrins. Thus, a low iron presence on those proteins translates into a greater unused capacity to carry iron. That's expressed as an increased total iron-binding capacity.

Seen negatively, an increase in blood iron-binding capacity is a sign that the body needs iron. Its iron-binding capacity is not being used.

The TIBC increase can stem from a lack of iron, as in iron-deficiency anemia, or it can reflect certain liver problems. Some women on birth-control pills have a TIBC increase.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm writing for some information on what foods not to eat if you have a problem with hemorrhoids. I have heard people say, "Don't eat this" or "Don't eat that," but never have seen a list of foods with any authenticity. Please let me know. P.S., I found just the right stamp for my letter to you ("Dr. Ephraim McDowell — First ovarian operation — 1809"). — D.A.

ANSWER: The word is "fiber." Certainly, the most important aspect of diet for anyone with hemorrhoids is addition of fiber. You don't want to be constipated with hemorrhoids, for associated straining can make them worse.

Fiber is no mystery. It's the undigested part of food. Bran, vegetables and fruits, especially with skins, are good sources of fiber.

A few patients might find that some foods will, regardless of the fiber aspect, irritate their hemorrhoids. Those are ones you must discover on your own. They may include spices or caffeine, for examples. There really is no good generalization for this idiosyncratic feature of foods.

Thanks for the stamp. I took the liberty of passing it on to a gynecologist I encountered in the elevator.

For more on hemorrhoids, see my 16th report. For a copy, write: Dr. Donohue — No. 16, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

Styne credited with creating several stars

By MICHAEL KUCHWARA
 AP Drama Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) - Composer Jule Styne not only wrote for stars, he helped create a few, too.
 Carol Channing with "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend" and Barbra Streisand with "People" immediately come to mind. And he gave Ethel Merman the greatest role of her long stage career.
 The man who created the music for such brash Broadway classics as "Gypsy," "Funny Girl" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" was a master craftsman who tailored material to the strengths and weaknesses of the distinctive performers who appeared in his shows.
 Channing, who was the first to play Lorelei Lee in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" said, "He gave me the divine gift of 'Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend' and anyone who ever worked with him would say Jule Styne is a star's best friend."

 Styne, who died Tuesday at 88, was among the last of such legendary stage composers as Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, George Gershwin, Jerome Kern and Richard Rodgers - men who polished their craft on Broadway and in Hollywood when theater music was the pop music of the day.
 Styne wrote nearly 20 Broadway musicals, beginning in 1947 with "High Button Shoes," which starred Phil Silvers and Nanette Fabray. Among the other stage performers who sang his songs were Judy Holliday in "Bells Are Ringing," Silvers and Nancy Walker in "Do Re Mi," Bert Lahr and Dolores Gray in "Two on the Aisle," Carol Burnett in "Fade Out-Fade In" and even Mary Martin, for whom he wrote several songs for "Peter Pan."

 Before Broadway, Styne had carved a career in Hollywood, coaching stars like Alice Faye and Shirley Temple at 20th Century Fox. He once said that Darryl Zanuck, head of Fox, told him he had too much talent to coach singers and should write songs.
 "I told him, 'Well, give me a job,'" Zanuck replied. Styne ended up at Republic, a B picture studio, but was rescued when he teamed up with Frank Loesser (later to write "Guys and Dolls") at Paramount. They wrote "I Don't Want To Walk Without You, Baby," one of Styne's biggest hits. Yet once he began writing for Broadway, Styne rarely went back to movies.

 "In Hollywood, you're a songwriter; in New York, you're a composer," Styne was fond of saying.
 Styne's masterpiece was "Gypsy," written for Merman, who played the domineering mother of stripper Gypsy Rose Lee. The 1959 musical, which has lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, includes the defiant "Everything's Coming Up Roses" and the lyrical "Small World."
 The show has had a remarkable life since then, receiving successful Broadway revivals in 1974 with Angela Lansbury and again in 1989 with Tyne Daly. Bette Midler played Mama Rose in a well-received television version last year.

 Styne also worked with lyricists Sammy Cahn, Betty Comden and Adolph Green.
 Among the more than 1,500 songs he wrote were "Just In Time," "Make Someone Happy," "I'll Walk Alone," "It's Been a Long, Long Time," "I Guess I'll Hang My Tears Out to Dry," "I Fall in Love Too Easily," "It's Magic," "The Party's Over" and "I Still Get Jealous."
 The British-born Styne wrote his first hit song, "Sunday," at 17. He won an Academy Award for "Three Coins in the Fountain," from the 1954 film of the same name, and a Tony for "Hallelujah Baby," in 1968.
 "The Red Shoes," based on the famous 1940s ballet film, was Styne's last Broadway musical. The story of a dancer who sacrifices everything for art closed last December after two troubled months of previews and only five regular performances.

 In a 1991 interview when he was working on the show, Styne described its theme as "something that pertains to any profession or art - longevity, a very, very big subject because nothing really matters in the end."
 "We all take ourselves seriously, but we can be replaced. Presidents are replaced. Kings are replaced. And the world goes on."
 And so, assuredly, will the music of Jule Styne.
 On Sept. 12, 1609, English explorer Henry Hudson sailed into the river that now bears his name.

When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
