Clinton backs Mitchell plan, GOP blasts reform package

By NITA LELYVELD Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton said in a published report today that he won't accept anything less than the universal coverage called for in Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell's health reform plan.

In a telephone interview Wednesday with The New York Times, Clinton said he couldn't imagine any approach other than Mitchell's that would work at this stage.

"Everybody sat around here breaking their brains over what other alternatives were available," he said. "None emerged before he put his bill

Republicans have spent the week tarring the Mitchell proposal with the brush of bloated bureaucracy and higher taxes. They have attacked it relentlessly, counting its pages (1,410), weighing it (14 pounds - 2.3 pounds of taxes) and characterizing it as Clinton in disguise.

That 641-page bill provides $100 billion in subsidies for poor Americans, makes health insurance portable and bars discrimination for pre-existing conditions. It includes no new taxes or requirements on employers to provide coverage for their workers.

Other Republicans complained that the Mitchell bill and its House counterpart were still being rewritten constantly behind closed doors.

In the House, a bipartisan group of lawmakers led by Reps. Jim Cooper, D-Tenn., J. Roy Rowland, D-Ga., and Mike Bilirakis, R-Fla., submitted another health bill late Wednesday. It would seek to cover more than 90 percent of Americans without taxes or employer mandates.

The bill would phase in over 10 years subsidies for people with incomes of up to 200 percent of poverty - or up to 240 percent for children and pregnant women - and would include a host of insurance reforms to increase coverage, Cooper confirmed.

The bill does not include long-term

Panetta to wield firm hand as chief of staff

By TERENCE HUNT

AP White House Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton's new chief of staff, Leon Panetta, sent an early and unmistakable signal that he intends to wield a firm hand over a White House often criticized as being disorganized.

Panetta told senior aides at a regular morning meeting that he didn't want anyone to comment on the standing of Roger Altman, the embattled deputy treasury secretary, after Clinton issued a statement supporting him.

Anyone who disobeyed, Panetta said, would be fired.

The blunt warning wasn't the kind of message White House aides were accustomed to hearing during the 19-month stewardship of Mack McLarty, Clinton's old Arkansas chum who was nicknamed "Mack the

the Editor

Dear Editor:

We are rapidly approaching decision making time in our community. On Aug. 13, our community will vote on the one-half percent sales tax for economic development. It is important that we vote to levy this tax and move our community into the future.

We must take it upon ourselves to control our own destiny. By a favorable vote on this proposition, we'll send out the signal to the world that we are progressive and are truly interested in promoting economic development. I'm convinced that businesses and firms are very likely to bypass the cities that don't have an economic development funding plan.

As President Reagan said: "As long as we believe in ourselves, the future will always be ours." Our future is in our hands, so I urge an affirmative vote on this sales tax proposition on Aug. 13.

A walkout would imperil the final NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball's 52 days and 668 games of the regular season. And it would threaten the World Series, which has been played annually since 1905.

"Of course the situation is distressing, no question about it," executive council chairman Bud Selig said in Milwaukee. "I'm still very much a fan at heart. But we are where we are because we have economic problems that should have been resolved long ago but were ignored or repressed.

Both sides spoke as if baseball's eighth work stoppage since 1972 already had begun, but neither was willing to predict when talks would resume or when the $1.8 billion-a-year industry would restart.

"A strike isn't the end of the process - it's the midpoint," Ravitch

Fehr said there wasn't any necessity to have additional negotiations right now.

Even before Wednesday night's "There's no reason to have a games, Cincinnati Reds players meeting just to say you had a already were wearing T-shirts that meeting," he said.

With no progress at the table, players made plans to go home Friday in what would be the first midseason interruption of baseball since a two-day strike in 1985. Some clubs that are off today said they wouldn't travel to the sites of Friday's games. Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda gave his end-of-season speech after Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 6-3 Wednesday night.

"He just thanked us for putting him in the position he's in, manager of the first-place club in the West," Dodgers first baseman Eric Karros said. "Hopefully we'll hear another farewell speech this year."

The Reds moved up the timetable for their team picture by several weeks, snapping it Wednesday. Player representatives told teammates not to work out during a strike.

"The best thing to do is just to get away and realistically not prepare to play," California Angels pitcher Mark Langston said.

Teams prepared, too. The Texas Rangers said their 150 full-time employees would have their pay cut 10 percent starting Sept. 1 if the strike is still on. The cuts could rise to 15

Lawyers involved in the talks said Yankees pitcher Steve Howe and Phillies pitcher Curt Schilling got into the most heated exchanges, challenging management lawyers who insist the industry is losing money.

> Players dispute management's contention that a minimum of 12-to-14 teams are losing money.

> "Make no mistake, this is primarily a dispute between the owners," Fehr said."The largemarket owners and small-market owners could not agree on how to change their agreements, so they agreed to take it from the players."

ChiSox, Tribe in good shape; Rangers

By MIKE FLAM Associated Press Writer

If the regular season does not resume after a players' strike, the Chicago White Sox probably won't mind. The same goes for the Cleveland Indians.

The Texas Rangers may not be quite so happy.

Both the White Sox and Indians won Wednesday to ensure themselves of spots in the expanded playoffs should the remainder of the regular season be canceled.

Chicago's 2-1 win over Oakland gave the White Sox a one-game lead over Cleveland in the AL Central, a margin that can't be closed before a strike because both teams have today off.

Texas, meanwhile, lost a chance to "clinch" the AL West when Seattle beat the Rangers 3-2 in 10 innings. Texas is only one-half game ahead of the Oakland Athletics, who play Seattle tonight in the last game before the players' planned walkout. A victory would put the Athletics in a tie with Texas, which also is off today.

"We knew Cleveland won, and we

Jason Bere said. "We knew Oakland was going to play us tough because they're in a race with Texas. We knew what was at stake."

Though Chicago's win locked the Indians in second place, they clinched the wild-card spot with a 5-3 victory over Toronto.

'We played like it was the last game of the season," said Cleveland's Dennis Martinez, Friday's scheduled starter. "But I'm going to keep in shape in case we come back.'

In other AL action, Detroit beat Milwaukee 4-0; Baltimore routed New York 8-1; Minnesota crushed Boston 17-7; and California nipped Kansas City 2-1.

Indians 5, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, Jason Grimsley (5-2) won for the fourth time in five starts, allowing seven hits and two runs over six innings.

Jim Thome had three hits, Omar Vizguel scored twice and Kenny Lofton stole his 59th and 60th bases for Cleveland.

White Sox 2, Athletics 1

At Oakland, Julio Franco drove in Chicago's first run and scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch from Steve Ontiveros in the fourth inning.

Bere (12-2), who hasn't lost since June 18, went 52-3 innings, pitching with runners on base in every inning but the first.

Ontiveros (6-4) pitched a five-hitter, but continued to suffer from lack of run support. In his six starts since the All-Star break, Oakland has scored just 17 runs.

Tigers 4, Brewers 0 At Detroit, David Wells (5-7) career shutout and fifth complete game this season, and Cecil Fielder drove in two runs.

Wells' previous low-hit game was a five-hitter. He set a team high with eight strikeouts and retired 15 straight batters at one point until Greg Vaughn hit a two-out single in the ninth inning.

Milwaukee's Ricky Bones (10-9) is 0-3 in three starts at Tiger Stadium.

Orioles 8, Yankees 1

At New York, Rafael Palmeiro drove in five runs with four hits as Baltimore routed Jimmy Key (17-4).

Palmeiro had two singles, a two-run double and a three-run homer while Ben McDonald (14-7) held New York to five hits. He struck out two and didn't walk a batter in 7 1-3 innings before leaving with a mild cramp in his right forearm.

Twins 17, Red Sox 7

At Minneapolis, Kirby Puckett drove in seven runs with a grand slam and a three-run homer.

Puckett tagged Scott Bankhead (3-2)

Jim Deshaies (6-12) to a big lead. Rich Rowland homered twice for Boston.

Angels 2, Royals 1 At Anaheim, Calif., Gary DiSarcina drove in both California runs, including the game-winner with a single in the

Astros gain ground, lose

By TOM WITHERS

Associated Press Writer If there's such a thing as a well-timed injury, Jeff Bagwell's got Bagwell, the NL's leading MVP candidate, broke a bone in his left hand when he was hit by a pitch Wednesday night in the Houston Astros' 3-1 win over San Diego.

Bagwell, who broke the same hand last season, will be sidelined three to five weeks - just in time for the players' strike.

I hope the sucker lasts three to five weeks, at least," Houston manager Terry Collins said.

Bagwell, the majors' RBI leader, was struck by a pitch from Andy Benes in the third inning. He left in the fifth inning after taking a called third strike, and was taken to a hospital for X-rays.

When he got back to the Astrodome, his hand was in a split to protect a fracture in the fourth metacarpal bone. Last year, he fractured the fifth metacarpal bone in the same hand.

T-L League to accept Astros, Rangers tickets

DALLAS (AP) - The upstart Texas-Louisiana League is offering a deal for ticketholders to major league baseball games that aren't Cardinals 12, Marlins 4 played because of the upcoming strike.

Officials with the league, an independent organization that bills itself as playing at Class AA-caliber, say the tickets to Texas Rangers and Houston Astros games will be accepted as admission to their games.

"We expect people to do it," said Jack Lazorko, the Dallas-based league's director of baseball operations. "Tyler is only an hour and a half away from Arlington and Beaumont is only an hour from Houston.'

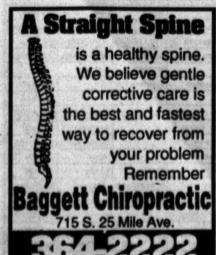

Other cities in the league are Texas cities Rio Grande Valley (Harlingen), Amarillo, Corpus Christi and San Antonio; plus Alexandria, La.; and Mobile, Ala.

The eight-team league is owned solely by a partnership group that includes league founders Byron Pierce and U.S. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas.

Lazorko said cumulative attendance for the season is nearing 500,000 at all eight stadiums. The 84-game split-season runs through Labor Day.

"I can't believe this happened to me two years in a row," said Bagwell. "I'm going for all 10 fingers and a couple of toes."

Steve Finley homered and Darryl Kile (9-6) pitched six strong innings to lead the Astros within one-half game of first-place Cincinnati in the NL Central. The Reds lost 6-3 to Los Angeles.

Benes (6-14), who hit Bagwell with a fastball, was upset to hear of the severity of the injury.

Giants 5, Cubs 2

At Chicago, Matt Williams, whose chase of Roger Maris' home run record is jeopardized by the pending strike, hit No. 43 and added a two-run double for the Giants.

Williams, ending a 1-for-12 slump, drove a pitch from Willie Banks (8-12) over the wall in right-center leading off the second.

William VanLandingham (8-2) won his fifth decision in six outings.

At Miami, Omar Olivares pitched seven innings and hit his third career

Tom Pagnozzi hit a two-run homer and Olivares followed with a solo homer in the sixth inning to knock out Dave Weathers (8-12).

Olivares (3-4), who had a 10.54 ERA in his past four outings, allowed nine hits and four runs, three earned.

Ray Lankford had three of the Cardinals' 14 hits, including a bases-loaded triple. Ozzie Smith added four hits and two RBIs.

Mets 6, Phillies 2

At Philadelphia, Joe Orsulak singled in the go-ahead run in a three-run eighth-inning rally to lead Bret Saberhagen and the Mets.

Saberhagen (14-4) allowed one run and six hits in 7 1-3 innings. John Franco pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his NL-leading 30th save.

The Mets rallied in the eighth with a two-out rally off David West (4-10).

Expos 4, Pirates 0

Marquis Grissom homered to start a three-run third inning.

Martinez (11-5), involved in two previous brushback incidents against Pittsburgh, benefited from three double plays in the first five innings to win his fifth consecutive start.

Moises Alou went 4-for-5 and drove in two runs for the Expos. Denny Neagle (9-10) gave up eight hits and three runs in five innings.

Dodgers 6, Reds 3

At Cincinnati, Eric Karros' leadoff homer sparked a four-run ninth inning rally that ended Cincinnati's late-inning invincibility.

The Dodgers rallied after Cincinnati took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the eighth on Thomas Howard's single off Ismael Valdes (3-1). The Reds were 50-0 when they led after eight innings.

Fans comment on strike, Rangers' futility

Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - In truth, it can't be said that all the fans with signs were protesting a probable strike on Friday that could mean the end of baseball in 1994 at The Ballpark at Arlington.

After the Texas Rangers lost their sixth straight game Wednesday night, incredibly putting still another blemish on what was already a forgettable experience, several fans held up a banner and held it high:

"You Might As Well Go On Strike -- You Can't Throw One!"

The Rangers had a 4-1/2-game lead over second-place Oakland in the American League West just six days ago. But then the Rangers were swept in consecutive three-game series by the Athletics and the Seattle Mariners, two other dismal teams in the AL West.

If Oakland beats Seattle tonight, in the last game played before the strike, the Athletics will pull into a 30, and Kevin Hailey, 33, both of tie with the Rangers - at 10 games below .500.

After the last out of Wednesday night's 3-2 loss to Seattle, boos rang out throughout the crowd of 38,800.

About 50 fans sitting directly behind homeplate gathered for barbecue before the game and then wore t-shirts protesting the strike.

In the third inning, they unfurled a banner that read, "R.I.P. Major League Baseball - Go Cowboys!" evoking raucous cheers from other

"But the front office sent cops over to us and told us to take it down, that if we did it again, they were kicking us out," said Lee Neves, 33, of Arlington.

"We tried to carry in a black cardboard coffin, but they took that away, took the tickets of the guys who were carrying it, and then wouldn't let them in," added Stan Hite, 40, of Arlington.

"They told us straight out, that if we were going to protest, we had to do it outside," said Larry Jarvis, 38, also of Arlington.

Arlington, got similar treatment when they hung a professionally done sign, said to put the sacks on our head, and

"The stadium manager sent security officers over to tell us we couldn't hang it, that we could hold " Braziel said.

When they thought they could get away with it, three teen-age boys in the left-centerfield stands held up a sign that read, "Baseball is a Game, Not a Business!"

Christopher Young, 14; Ben Von Kennel, 14; and Scott Pershern, 18, all of Dallas, said it took them only 10 minutes to make their banner. 'We wanted to get on TV,"

Young said.

Mike Moran, 15, and his brother, Paul Moran, 14, were sitting in the leftfield bleachers with a friend, Neal Gray, 16. The three, all from the southeast Dallas suburb of Mesquite, were wearing grocery sacks over their

"We're ashamed that they're doing this, going out on strike," Paul Moran said. "I play baseball. I would play for free.'

They didn't bring the paper sacks bunch of sacks and told us to pass them around. We gave 'em to other people, but they wouldn't do anything," he said

Larry Hopson, 42, of Elkhart, near Palestine, drove with his sons Adam, 12, and Jared, 9, about 100 miles to attend the game.

"Because this looked like it might be the last game, that's one of the reasons we came tonight," Hopson said. "I think it's real sad for the fans. I wish they could settle it before it got to this point. It's hurting the fans more than anyone. When it's all over, it'll just increase the cost of concessions and the ticket prices."

Mona Amthor, 39, who lives in the Mid-Cities area, was selling Rangers souvenirs from a stand in an area beyond the centerfield bleachers. This is the fourth year that she and her husband, Gary, 41, have been operating the stand.

"Both of us have fulltime jobs besides this, so we're not really depending on this for our day-to-day living like some vendors are," she said. "It is going to cut down on my daughter's college fund, which is why we're doing this.' The Amthors' daughter, 18-year-old Amy, leaves in two weeks for Central College in McPherson, Kan., on a partial volleyball scholarship.

Norm Hitzges, the analyst for HSE Sports, which telecasts Rangers home games, said he'll stay busy for awhile even with a strike.

"I'm on an events contract, and we're going to do several strike shows that may fill up my events. If this goes on the rest of the year, I don't know what I'll be doing," he said.

"I hope they go out. I don't care how long it takes, but fix the game. If it takes the rest of the year or into the next year, fix it - so we don't have this constant whining. I don't want anyone to cave in. I don't want them to put a Band-Aid on this again, so that four years from now we won't have to go through this again," Hitzges said.

Rangers to give refunds for tickets

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) -Refunds will be given for tickets to any Texas Rangers' home games that are canceled by a players' strike, the club has announced. The club said Wednesday that once a game is canceled, anyone with single-game tickets purchased through the Texas Rangers' ticket office may write in for a refund.

The players' association has said it will strike after the conclusion of games played Thursday.

a refund should send the tickets to a canceled game to Texas Rangers Ticket Office, P.O. Box 90111, Arlington, Texas 76004. The person's name, address and telephone number should be included, and a photo copy of the tickets should be retained. Tickets purchased through Ticketmaster should be taken to the point of purchase for refund, once a game is canceled. For tickets given by mail only. Anyone wanting 214-647-5700, refunds will be handled by mail. People should retain a photo copy of the tickets and mail the original tickets to:

> Attention Refunds, P.O. Box 8504, Dallas, Texas 75205.

People with questions about tickets purchased through Ticketmaster should call 214-373-8000.

Individual game tickets for canceled games may also be used as a rain check for any game that may mes played Thursday.

The club said its refunds will be charge phone at 373-8000 or season.

Granberry got off light, say crime victims

WACO, Texas (AP) - Crime victims' rights groups are complaining that a sentence of six months in a halfway house for the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles' former chairman is too lenient.

James Granberry was sentenced Wednesday after pleading guilty in April to a perjury charge. He admitted to lying to authorities during an investigation of parole consultants. U.S. District Judge Walter Smith ordered Granberry to spend nights and weekends in the Smith County Rehabilitation Center in Tyler during the next six months. Granberry may leave the center from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays to seek work and perform 150 hours of community service, according to Smith's ruling. He also received five years' probation.

"I was disappointed and angry with myself, then and now, for placing my character on the shelf," Granberry told Smith. "There is no one to blame for this but the man who stands before you today."

Several crime victims' rights groups blame Granberry for voting to uphold the parole recommendation that led to the release in 1989 of convicted murderer Kenneth McDuff.

They gathered at the federal courthouse in Waco and expressed outrage over the sentence. Granberry could have faced up to one year in prison and a fine.

"He should have gotten the maximum," said Matt Harnest, founder and director of the Coalition for a Safer Society. Granberry is "indirectly responsible for the mu ders of countless victims," Harnest said. After his release, McDuff was convicted of killing Colleen Reed, who was abducted from an Austin car wash in late 1991, and Melissa Northrup, a pregnant Waco convenience store clerk who was kidnapped and killed in 1992. McDuff now is back on Texas death row.

Randy Gilbert, Granberry's attorney, said his client was "not convicted or accused of anything related to Kenneth McDuff."

Cattle truck wreck causes havoc in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) - A truck carrying cattle overturned today on a busy freeway interchange, turning scores of animals loose and wreaking havoc on rush hour traffic, police said.

The truck overturned around 2:45 a.m., closing Interstate 35 near the Interstate 635 interchange through the morning rush hour as officers struggled to round up the cattle.

Two of the animals made their way into the neighboring city of Farmers Branch, causing two more accidents. police said. Dallas County deputies on horseback aided Dallas officers in patrol cars for the roundup. A temporary corral was set up near the

The driver escaped uninjured.

Candidate defends contribution

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) Republican Tex Lezar says there's no connection between a $1,000 campaign contribution he received from the new lead Whitewater investigator and a series of radio ads Lezar has been using to attack President Clinton.

Lezar, a candidate for lieutentant governor, has been running the Clinton attack ads since March, focusing on Clinton. Only one of the ads has mentioned Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, his opponent.

The contribution from independent counsel Kenneth Starr, appointed to head the investigation last week, has drawn fire from Democrats who contend that Starr is too partisan for the politically sensitive job. The critics include Democratic consultant James Carville, who has called on Starr to resign.

Lezar Wednesday released the text of a new radio ad criticizing Carville. The ad, expected to be on the air by Friday, is part of series that seeks to tie Bullock to Clinton.

A draft of Lezar's upcoming radio ad says: "Obviously, Carville and Clinton think that if they attack Ken Starr first, they won't have to answer tough questions." It's a "clever cover-up," Lezar says, to divert attention from Whitewater, the failed Arkansas development in which Clinton and his wife, Hillary Rodham Clinton, invested.

Starr's contribution and Lezar's ads provide increasing evidence that Starr is too partisan for the Whitewater job, Carville said.

These 155 Texas cities featured in the map below have adopted 1/2¢ economic development taxes. In some instances, these cities passed the sales tax following a defeat of the proposal in an earlier election.

By voting for the tax, they have become part of a select group which, in effect, announces its desire to help industry re-locate, or expand in their areas. They are " Open For Business."

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: If you are a borderline diabetic, will the sugars in such fruits as pears, apples and grapes be bad for you? Also, how about starch? Is it true that foods such as potatoes, corn and bread are highly recommended for control? -

ANSWER: Fruits and starchy vegetables are all right for people with diabetes. In fact, those foods should be a major part of the diabetes diet.

Fruit sugar takes longer to get into the blood than table sugar. The fiber in fruit helps slow down its absorp-

You must, I want to stress, adhere to the food-group portions specified in your diet.

You use the term "borderline diabetic." I think I know what people mean when they say that, but I am never certain. I'm curious. Do you mean that you had only a slightly abnormal reading from your glucose ful for a person on insulin for diabedrink beer! — J.B.

ANSWER: Alcohol and diabetes do not mix, whether you're on insulin control or not. Alcohol's useless calories add up quickly and throw a delicate sugar balance out of whack.

If alcohol is used, it should be sparing and with the doctor's guide-

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 7year-old has night terrors. I am told she will outgrow it, but we are concerned. There is no regular schedule, sometimes once a week or so. It is becoming stressful for me and my husband. He feels something terrible is happening to her at these times, which can last several minutes. I repeatedly tell her, "I'm here." I've tried questioning her, but she doesn't respond. Eventually, she comes around. Do you have any suggestions or some light to shed on this? -Mrs. W.W.

ANSWER: Many parents have dealt with night terrors which, while admittedly disconcerting, are usually harmless events in the life of a healthy child.

I second your doctor's view of the situation. Most children rid themselves of night terrors by adoles-cence at the latest, most much sooner.

Don't imagine that something terrible or psychologically scarring is

In night terrors, the sleeping child awakens and screams out, appearing terrified. The heart races, and breathing is rapid. The child recalls nothing of the episode the next morning, and nothing is gained by inter-

Remain calm. Your anxiety is easily transferred to the child. Your "I'm here" approach is about all that's needed. Gently readjust the bed covers and leave the room.

You and your husband need your own calm assurance. Worry instead about real physical hazards associated with any such unconscious nighttime awakening. Some children thrash around, and some get up out of bed. Protect the child from harmful objects or falls.

FORT.T. — Niacin lowers triglycerides as well as cholesterol.

Triglycerides are fats whose link to heart disease is real, but less dangerous than high cholesterol. Your soaring triglycerides count — 1.200 — needed to be controlled, for such a level can damage the pan-

Creas.
I'm glad the niacin is working.
Your dose is standard for the pur-

Losing weight would help, were you overweight. You are not, so the niacin therapy is a sensible option.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is the most likely cause of a huge increase in cholesterol over a six-week period. My count went from 245 to 326 in that time period. I am 60, not too active, but now have started moderate exercise at my doctor's advice. I swim regularly. My main diet is fresh vegetables, fruits, bread and some boiled or baked fish or chicken. I also eat the low-fat frozen dishes. I hardly ever eat red meat. I use low-fat milk and yogurt. - E.G.

ANSWER: That diet certainly is not responsible for your sudden cholesterol rise. I cannot speculate on why a cholesterol count would jump so dramatically in six weeks.

You must understand that about 80 percent of blood cholesterol is what the body manufactures on its own. The other 20 percent comes from dietary sources. Considering your diet, my guess is that your body DEARDR. DONOHUE: Isitharm- makes too much cholestere independently.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please give me some information on a blood disease called mastocytosis? My son has it, and the doctors tell him they can't do much for him. I would be grateful for any help or information. - B.C.

ANSWER: The condition involves what are called mast cells. mastocytosis being an abnormal accumulation of those cells.

Mast cells begin their lives in bone marrow, migrating from there to many places - in the skin, intestinal tract, liver and spleen. Why an increase happens is unclear.

There are four kinds of mastocytosis, of varying severity. The most common form runs a fairly benign course and does not affect life expectancy.

A reddish-brown rash, itchy skin, heart palpitations, abdominal pain, headache and diarrhea might be signs of troublesome mast-cell proliferation. The cells contain various chemicals, including histamine, that cause many of the symptoms.

We have no specific treatment for most mastocytosis, and so are left with the option of using medicine to control troublesome symptoms as they appear. For the rare aggressive form, chemotherapy is used.

Peptic ulcers might be part of the mastocytosis picture, and that is something you should watch for.

Texas to be compensated for failed collider project

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary approval and President Clinton's pledged to complete the shutdown signature are the only steps remaining and pay off the Texas claim without before Texas and the federal coming back to Congress for more government reach final settlement over the death of the superconducting super collider.

Texas officials predicted Wednesday that both objectives would be easily achieved.

Their comments came as the House endorsed a settlement agreement giving Texas $720 million in assets and cash to compensate the state for its $539 million investment in the failed project.

'The House vote today virtually ures us that Texas will settle th superconducting super collider project on the best terms available,' said Gov. Ann Richards.

The pact, hammered out over months by attorneys for Texas and the Energy Department, was included in an energy and water development appropriations conference report that was approved 393-34.

One of the collider's most persistent opponents, Rep. Sherwood Boehlert, took to the floor Wednesday to outline his reluctant approval of the "Much about this settlement disturbs me," the New York Republican said. "I think it is generous and somewhat unrealistic. but I think it needs to go forward. ... There is a benefit to be gained simply in putting this entire episode behind

Rep. Jim Chapman, who annually fought for collider funding, disagreed.

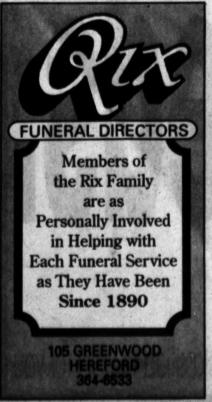

"I might take issue with some of his conclusions about it being overly generous," the Sulphur Springs Democrat said.

He noted that over the next 35 years, Texas taxpayers will be paying off $500 million in bonds taken out by the state for its share of the collider's construction.

When Congress pulled the plug on the $11 billion atom smasher last year, some $2 billion had already been spent - half a billion dollars from the Texas treasury.

The Energy Department received $640 million this year to shut down the project near Waxahachie, and had $95 million more in unspent funds from the year before, for a total of $735 million.

In a letter Monday to Boehlert,

Rain sweeps across Texas, but too little, late for most dryland crops

As rain sweeps across Texas, many producers feel the rain is too little too ate, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Robert Roark, Extension agent for Andrews County, said this summer it is so hot and dry that recent rains were not enough to improve growing conditions.

'Most of the county has dryland crops that depend solely on rain," Roark said. "The cotton crop is really suffering, and the vegetable producers are praying.

'The rain came a bit too late to make a substantial difference," he Edmund Koliba, Extension director in Uvalde, said many of the field crops in the region west of San Antonio had already been harvested, so the rain was little benefit.

"Corn and sorghum have already been harvested," he said. "The cotton harvest is coming up, but rain will not help at this point."

Larry Nickel, Extension agent for Fayette county, said even though the rain came a bit too late, it is always a welcomed occurrence.

"The rain was much needed since we have been under drought stress for a couple of months," he said. "It slowed down corn production, but there was not much of an impact since corn is almost 100 percent harvested."

Although rainfall wasn't able to help summer crops, it may give fall planting a boost. Brad Pierce, Extension agent for Travis County, said he hopes it will help get the adequate to short. Rain improved fields ready for fall planting.

Koliba said the rain will help

"livestock producers by improving the

"The rain was needed to increase hay production and improve the conditions of the pastures," he said. 'Whatever rain we get will benefit everything from lawns to pastures."

Jon Zeitler, meteorologist at the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said a low pressure system over the Texas Gulf Coast has produced the recent rain in Texas.

"This minor disturbance in the low levels of the atmosphere is producing showers and thunderstorms in the Coastal Plains, South Central Texas and lower Rio Grande Valley," he said. "Otherwise, there has been little or no rain forecast across northern and western parts of the state throughout the end of the week."

Zeitler said a high pressure ridge will chase the rain out of the state beginning Wednesday. This dome of warm, dry air will bring above normal temperatures and dry conditions through the middle of next week," he said. "High temperatures will increase into the mid-90s to low 100s, and low temperatures will be in the low to mid-70s across most of the state."

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:
