Commissioners' Court to meet

Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court will meet in regular session Monday, beginning at 9 a.m. On the agenda are a public hearing on the county budget for the next fiscal year, adoption of the budget and adoption of a tax rate. Among other items are a pre-construction conference with contractors for a water and sewer project and discussion of a lease agreement with the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services.

City posts meeting agenda

A major project for the City of Hereford will be discussed during a meeting of the City Commission, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The meeting was postponed from the regular meeting date of July 4. Commissioners will discuss a proposed neighborhood park planning project. Also on the agenda for consideration is a notice for a special election on an economic development tax to be held on Aug. 13.

Women's division to meet

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division will hold its next regular quarterly meeting on Tuesday, July 12, in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame. The agenda will be a hamburger cookout for members and their families. Entertainment will be provided by Texas Country and drawings will be held for Hereford Bucks. Reservations must be made by calling the Chamber at 364-333 by 5 p.m. Monday.

DARE camp coming up

More than 50 slots are still open for Hereford school children who want to participate in DARE Summer Camp, to be held July 25-29. The camp is open to all children from entering sixth grade to leaving ninth grade. There is no cost to attend. There will be two sessions held, one on Monday and Tuesday and one on Wednesday and Thursday. Graduation and a DARE Dance will be held on Friday. During the camps, participants will play games, see a demonstration of drug dog Ricky and enjoy a free lunch. Signup forms are available at the Hereford Police Department.

The nearest Lance came to becoming a Marine casualty statistic was in the Iwo Jima landing.

"A friend saw me and pulled me up," he said about his close call. The Marine buddy was awarded the Bronze Star for his action in saving Lance's life.

After the Iwo Jima landing, the unit dubbed itself the "forgotten battalion" because of the six landings,

Animals join latest shuttle trip

By MARCIA DUNN

AP Aerospace Writer CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Columbia roared through clouds into orbit Friday on a two-week mission to study the development of thousands of aquatic animals and millions of cells.

NASA fretted throughout the morning that storms might interfere with liftoff. But the weather cooperated and the space shuttle blasted off promptly at 12:43 p.m.

"It really was a beautiful day for a launch," commander Robert Cabana said from 184 miles up. "We sure had a great ride."

The seven astronauts quickly powered up the bus-sized laboratory in the shuttle cargo bay and plunged into their round-the-clock research. Payload commander Richard Hieb floated into the lab first, followed by Dr. Chiaki Mukai, the first Japanese woman in space.

It was the first shuttle launch since April and the fourth this year.

"You always kind of wonder, 'Well, are people still as sharp as they were when we last did it?' " said shuttle manager Loren Shriver. "Today I think I was reassured that a couple months' layoff is no problem.'

A puff briefly appeared near the right solid rocket booster about a minute into the flight as Columbia streaked over the Atlantic Ocean. Shriver said it probably was just condensation created by shock waves, but he asked flight controllers to doublecheck their data as a precau-

Flight controllers at Johnson Space Center in Houston also coped with a computer problem in the final minutes of the countdown. Some of their monitors were off by nearly a second, but they worked around it.

About 650 Japanese were on hand to see Mukai off.

"We were quite impressed with the beautiful launch," said Noriyuki Sekine, parliamentary vice minister for science and technology in Japan.

Columbia is jammed with all sorts of Japanese fish, newts and sea urchins - babies and adults - and toad eggs galore. There also are flies, slime mold, mouse bones, roots, cress and lentil seedlings, day lily cells, yeast cells, and human and mouse white blood cells.

More than 80 experiments are planned, with more than 200 scientists from around the world participating. Shriver called the mission "a stepping stone into the space station program.'

Biologists want to see how the animals develop in weightlessness and how the cells divide and grow in the absence of gravity. Toward that end, two male and two female Japanese Medaka fish are sharing an aquarium tank; biologists hope they will mate and produce lots of offspring.

Scientists also are hoping for lots of fertilized toad eggs. Dutch biologist Geert Ubbels and her team removed the testes of six South African clawed toads Thursday evening and loaded them on board Columbia with 180 eggs.

The plan was for the testes to be smashed automatically in orbit and the sperm squirted onto the eggs. The embryos, if there are any, will be killed and preserved during the flight.

Columbia is due back at Kennedy Space Center on July 22.

GARY, Ind. (AP) - A little-known 1967 release by the Jackson 5 stayed buried in a kitchen pantry until family friend Ben Brown began assembling a history of the famous family.

Brown was looking through his parents' pantry when he found the master tapes of "I'm a Big Boy Now" by a 5-year-old Michael Jackson and his brothers.

The song sold 10,000 copies 27 years ago. Brown began offering it by mail Friday to fans who missed it the first time. He insists it's an artistic project, not a commercial one.

Gonzales displeased with Fiske's decision

Banking Committee Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez is displeased that special prosecutor Robert Fiske has declined to appear at congressional hearings on the Whitewater affair.

The San Antonio Democrat issued a news release Friday saying he was "deeply disappointed" that Fiske had decided not to testify at the hearing later this month.

Fiske notified Gonzalez in a letter released Friday that he should be allowed to complete his entire investigation before coming under congressional scrutiny.

"It would be inappropriate and would compromise my ability to function effectively," Fiske wrote Gonzalez.

Gonzalez asked Fiske to reconsider his decision to forgo a July 26 appearance before the committee.

"To the extent your work is completed ... I see no reasons why you should not be required to discuss your findings," Gonzalez said in a letter to Fiske.

"We do not want to compromise your investigation, and that can best be achieved by your providing clear guidance as to the proper scope of our hearings," Gonzalez added.

Fiske offered to have his staff meet privately to discuss the matter, but Gonzalez declined, saying such information should be presented to the public.

Fiske's biggest task is just getting under way. The Little Rock, Ark.-based investigation is examining whether President and Mrs. Clinton or the Clinton gubernatorial campaign benefited from an Arkansas savings and loan association owned by their business partners in Whitewater, an Ozarks real estate venture.

He told Gonzalez he still is probing the Justice Department's handling of a criminal referral by federal regulators in the Resolution Trust Corp. regarding Madison

NEW YORK (AP) - The arranger of the late Nat King Cole's classic "Unforgettable" will finally get credit for the high-tech duet with daughter Natalie, a record company

Elektra Records said this week all future manufacturing runs and promotions for the Grammy Awardwinning version of the song will credit Nelson Riddle as the arranger.

Riddle died in 1985. His widow, Naomi, filed a $1 million lawsuit this year after her husband's name was omitted and Johnny Mandel received credit for the new version's arrangement. Her lawyer did not immediately return telephone calls Friday.

Riddle arranged the original song for Nat King Cole in 1953. It was given new life in 1991, when it was combined with Miss Cole's vocals.

The duet won six Grammys. Mandel received a Grammy for best arrangement.

Among those "potentially involved" in that aspect of the probeare Paula Casey, the U.S. attorney in Little Rock, and former Associate Attorney General Webster Hubbell, a one-time law partner of Mrs. Clinton, Fiske said.

If Gonzalez called either as a witnesses this month, "it would potentially compromise this investigation," Fiske said.

Fiske is finishing the Washington phase of his investigation, concluding that deputy White House counsel Vincent Foster's suicide was not linked to Whitewater. Fiske also has said he won't prosecute anyone for more than 20 contacts between White House and Treasury Department officials who discussed a federal probe of the Arkansas S&L.

A third phase of his Washington investigation - what White House officials did with Whitewater-related papers in Foster's office after his death last July 20 - is to be concluded this month.

MAXIMIZE YOUR STORAGE SPACE

Most people feel they never have enough closet or storage space. This is the reason most buyer's place closet and storage space very high on their want list. When a prospective buyer opens closets, it's not to snoop, they want to see the size of the closet and how much space there is. If the closets are cluttered, even large closets will appear small. Because dosets and storage space are a big selling point, it is essential to have them organized and neatly arranged while the home is on the market. If there are too many items in these areas, consider renting a storage locker or having a garage sale. After the closets and inside storage are clean, work on the garage and other storage areas. It will make your home much more spacious and attractive to buyers. you read our column, we appreciate your comments or questions.

Why vote for tax?

Residents of Hereford will vote Aug. 13 on whether to approve a proposed half-cent sales tax to be dedicated to economic development.

Vote for another tax? You must be crazy? Who would possibly vote for that?

While that may be the first obvious question that comes to mind, the real question is who should vote for the half-cent investment in our community and in our future.

Everyone who has been saying: "When will Hereford start moving again and realize its potential?"

Everyone who is unemployed or who needs a better paying job should vote for the sales tax.

Every homeowner who has watched his property values decrease over the past few years should approve the half-cent levy.

Parents who have seen or will see their children move away because of no jobs should vote "For."

Every employer who is barely hanging on in our depressed economy should vote for the proposal and urge his or her employees to do the same.

Groups that go before the city commission every year requesting funding for their organization should vote for the tax.

Every builder, carpenter, plumber, electrician or building supplier who cares that home construction is in a slump should vote for the proposal.

What will it cost us? A family making $10,000 will pay an average of 40 cents a week in additional sales tax; a family making $35,000 will pay an additional 98 cents a week. That's a small investment for the tremendous potential good it could do for all citizens.

Please think seriously about this issue and what it means to each of us. We hope you'll declare your belief in the future of Hereford and vote for the half-cent for industrial development.

In times when holidays from Halloween to the 4th of July are dangerous, it is refreshing to live in Hereford where the Chamber, Police, Fire Department and concerned groups are actively involved in making holidays enjoyable as well as safe.

My thanks to all who were involved in the spectacular fireworks display in Veterans Park on July 4th. The evening was one which I enjoyed as a parent and a citizen. The park was lovely, entertainment was delightful. and the fireworks were grand!

The days of trick-or-treating and popping fireworks in the yard are gone, but in cities such as ours, people are able to celebrate holidays in safety with no splendor lost.

Often we neglect to say "thank you" to the men and women who spend hours planning and implementing such celebrations. On behalf of many, I wish to say "Thank you" to all who were involved in the July 4th festivities, and to the may who work to provide us with such events and keep us safe each holiday throughout the year.

Death toll at 23 in Georgia flooding

By JOAN KIRCHNER Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) - The raging Flint River consumed entire neighborhoods Friday as rescuers used boats to reach dozens of stranded people who refused to evacuate.

Some survivors were plucked from tree limbs and rooftops.

The Georgia death toll rose to 23, including two children in a car that plunged off a bridge and into the rushing river in this southwest Georgia city. Five others escaped.

At least four people were missing after five straight days of flooding from the remnants of Tropical Storm Alberto.

Rivers also flooded in the Florida Panhandle, where some highways were closed, and in southeastern Alabama, where one death was reported Friday. Light rain fell in both states.

Rivers threatening levees in southeast Alabama appeared to have crested Friday. Northern Florida residents braced for more flooding as the floodwaters rushed southward toward their rivers.

'We're just watching the water rise," said Tiffany Majors, a Holmes County emergency management official in Florida. "We're just trying to keep everything going.'

In nearby Caryville in Washington County, every home was flooded and about 125 people were rescued in boats. The Choctawhatchee River stood at 22 feet, 10 feet above its flood stage, in the town of about 400.

"I've lost everything," said Mayor George Walter Anderson. "I was so busy trying to get my cattle out and helping everybody else. It just came so fast.'

One of Hereford's Kids Inc. Major league All-Star teams opened an invitational tournament in Dalhart with a win, while the other was victimized by extra-inning heroics.

The Cagle team blew out Dalhart 15-9, with Bryan Cagle getting the win on the mound and Gus Guseman earning a save.

The Scott team fell 7-6 to Stratford on a home run in the bottom of the seventh (they normally play six innings).

The teams are named after their head coaches--Ron Cagle and Andy Scott--because the teams are essentially equal and calling them "A" and "B" would imply otherwise.

Both teams were to play again Saturday.

In the 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Star tourney being played in Hereford, Plainview beat Canyon 5-3 on Friday.

Hereford's All-Stars were to play Canyon at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Kids Inc. Complex. Canyon opened the tournamet with a 14-4 win over the Hereford team.

The three-team district tournament follows a double elimination format, so the loser of Saturday's game would be eliminated. The winner would meet Plainview at 6 Sunday for the championship, and they'd play a doubleheader if necessary.

DETROIT (AP) - Mike Gardiner admits he doesn't know anything about being a closer. Sometimes it shows. Sometimes it doesn't.

On the Fourth of July, he walked Will Clark with the bases loaded in the ninth inning in Texas and it cost Detroit the game. But on Friday night, Gardiner pitched three hitless innings and the Tigers defeated the Rangers 7-3.

"I'm never comfortable out there. But I've heard Dennis Eckersley says he's never comfortable, either," said Gardiner, who earned his fifth save.
"I throw every pitch like it's the last out. I don't know much about closing, but I'm willing to take the challenge."

Detroit starter Tim Belcher (7-9) gave up three runs on six hits and five walks in the first six innings. Belcher, 0-7 in eight starts prior to beating Toronto on May 17, has gone 7-2 in his past 11 starts.

In other American League games, it was Boston 4, Seattle 3; New York 4, California 3; Baltimore 13, Oakland 3; Kansas City 6, Toronto 5; Chicago 9, Milwaukee 5; and Minnesota 8, Cleveland 6.

World gets its soccer coverage from Dallas

By DAVID JACKSON

The Dallas Morning News DALLAS - It is near the witching hour, and not just any clown can wander into the International Broadcast Center at Fair Park.

But Brozo is not just any clown. He is a regular feature on "Los Protagonistas," a nightly Mexican television program that combines World Cup soccer highlights and comedy.

Think of "The NFL Today" crossed with "Saturday Night Live." Imagine a man with a big red nose and floppy green wig at a news desk, bantering with the anchor about the Mexico-Italy game they attended that day in Washington.

Brozo's schtick is a filmed fan feature. He seems partial to young women, to the point where part of one leering "interview" has to be bleeped out.

"He's a clown, but not for children," explains Andres Bustamante, another comedian on the show produced by Television Azteca. "He's an adult clown."

Down the hall, things are a tad more serious on German television. Sabine Hartelt opens her live sportscast chatting with the German version of Katie Couric, who can't decide whether to greet her Dallas-based correspondent with 'good morning" or "good evening." At least Ms. Hartelt has a dozen crew members to keep her company in the wee hours. Elsewhere in the Centennial Building, in a booth smaller than some bedroom closets, Jorge Rowinsky of Uruguay conducts a radio talk show all by his lonesome, chatting with callers to his home station in Montevideo.

"I talk with the people about anything," he says.

A one-man band. Two national networks. One striking similarity: All mention they are reporting from Dallas, Texas, precisely the publicity the city sought when it bid for the International Broadcast Center.

"You can't buy that kind of advertising," IBC Director James Oshust said.

If it's midnight in Dallas, it must be time for "Breakfast Television" in Cologne. The German version of the "Today" show is broadcasting its entire sports report from the IBC, where Ms. Hartelt and her colleagues are having trouble with the weather. Not the heat outside. The air conditioning inside, in both the Automobile and Centennial buildings "It would be nice if it was cool,"

Ms. Hartelt said. "But it's cold." Besides, the heat was yesterday's story, as the German team nearly wilted in a closer-than-expected 3-2 victory over South Korea. Today's big news is Germany midfielder Stefan Effenberg, sent home for flipping the finger at the team's fans during that game at the Dallas Cotton Bowl.

The German network provided a complete report on the controversy. It included a closeup of somebody's hand, middle finger extended, with an explanation of this relatively unfamiliar custom.

Ms. Hartelt and her crew work for ARD, one of two public television networks in Germany. ARD alternates World Cup coverage with the other network, ZDF. Both use the same studio, which features a neon outline of the Dallas skyline.

Back in the control room sits Christian Verwaayen, who identifies himself as "master engineer" for ARD. Facing a bank of television sets, Verwaayen proudly demonstrates his network's electronic access to all nine American stadiums hosting World Cup games.

The European Broadcasting Union, which holds the World Cup broadcasting rights and therefore supervises the IBC, covers all 52 tournament games. It transmits the signals back to a supercontrol room in the International Broadcast Center.

The IBC control room sends the signals to Verwaayen and engineers of more than 100 other networks housed at the complex. The networks supply their own commentary and graphics; their headquarters back home stick in commercials. Local stations across the globe give the games to millions of fans.

This whole process takes seconds.

The highest batting average in the major leagues in more than a half century was George Brett's .390 in 1980.

The Kentucky Derby had pari-mutuel betting machines in 1878 but they were banned from 1889 to

None of the technology fazes Verwaayen. He's produced sports events for 32 years, starting not long after the Berlin Wall went up. Verwaayen isn't even much of a soccer

"I see it too much," he said.

They can't get enough at TV Azteca.
"Los Protagonistas," which debuted during the 1986 World Cup in Mexico, runs two hours every night during the month-long tournament. It features the day's highlights, interviews and skits like the on-the-scene report from that clown Brozo.

"He knows everything about sports," said Brozo's alter ego. comedian Victor Trujillo. "The clown is with the people. They can talk about anything. It's the other view of sports."

Another featured comedian is Ponchito, played by Bustamante. He wears a wildly colored shirt and big yellow sombrero. His painted-on tooth gap is twice the size of David Letterman's.

His segment is about a town called Rewindland, in which thanks to the magic of the rewind button everybody does everything backwards. At one point, Ponchito is shown eating and uneating a hot dog.

Don't worry; a lot of Mexicans probably don't understand Letterman's humor, either.

Not that TV Azteca fails to take soccer seriously. One segment features Mexico President Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

Seemingly more excited than the day the U.S. Congress approved NAFTA, President Salinas talks with Mexican coach Miguel Mejia Baron by phone. He congratulates the team for advancing to the tournament's round TV Azteca also runs a public service announcement warning fans back home against excessive celebrations. The friendly warning is issued by cartoon characters Pedro Picapiedra and Pablo Marmol, both of whom look quite familiar. Roughly translated, their names mean "Fred Flintstone" and Barney Rubble."

After the show, staffers begin making plans for future editions of "Los Protagonistas." They also make logistical preparations, as Mexico's next game is Tuesday in New Jersey.

"They're going to the second round, which means more work for us," producer Enrique Valdes said.

At least TV Azteca staffers can work in somewhat comfortable surroundings: a studio area, control booth, editing room, offices.

Not all IBC broadcasters have such facilities.

"Okay Barbados, we are looking for a countdown now," Alvin Corneal says. He sits in the closet-sized studio leased by the Caribbean Broadcasting Union, a radio hook-up.

Forty seconds. Corneal dons headphones and checks his sound level. Thirty seconds. He moves his television monitor into just the right place. Twenty seconds. Here-checks the line-ups for the Brazil-Sweden game, which is being played near Detroit. Ten seconds.

"And a very good afternoon to you in the Caribbean," Corneal

Next door, a broadcaster from Uruguay booms out his call of the Brazil-Sweden match. Down the hall, Nigerian radio belts out the play-by-play of Cameroon-Russia, under way at the same time near San Francisco. Near Nigeria is a television broadcaster from Moscow. It sounds like a soccer version of a Gregorian chant. Or at least a cocktail party at the UN.

Welcome to the booth section of the IBC. While many networks send commentators to the individual stadiums, the IBC provides a way for lower-budget operations both radio

Stadium noise is piped into each network's sound system. It makes virtual reality even more realistic, as fans in the Caribbean and elsewhere can hear the shouts, the music, even the thwack of a well-kicked soccer

"What we are getting here in terms of sound is exactly what they are getting on the ground," Corneal said before his broadcast.

What the Dallas-based commentators do with the video and audio feeds is largely a matter of style. The Moscow television broadcaster calls the game like one would a tennis match cool, calm, collected. Latin announcers start shouting when teams come even close to scoring.

When a team actually breaks through, the booths unite with a universally understood word: GOAL! Or, as the fellow from Uruguay puts it: GOOOOOOOALLLL!!!!!!

Corneal calls the game with a Caribbean lilt that recalls reggae and rum. There is a definite stylistic influence, explained the native of Trinidad: "We were owned by the

So Corneal has one player kicking "a very long, ambitious ball."
Another has a "very educated left foot." When Sweden takes a 1-0 lead, the scorer is described as "flicking the ball delicately, with clinical accuracy.'

Corneal is pleased with his broadcast of the match, which ends in a 1-1 draw. Given the popularity of the Brazilian team in the Caribbean, Corneal estimates his audience at 7.5 million.

The Caribbean receives the ABC and ESPN World Cup telecasts (which are not done out of the IBC). But Corneal says he hears that people turn down their TVs and turn on their

"I guess they understand our dialect a little better than the foreign dialect," he said.

It has been a long day for Jose Ramon Fernandez. The sports director of TV Azteca spent the early afternoon in Washington, D.C., broadcasting the Mexico-Italy game. He and staff members then flew back to Dallas for that night's episode of "Los Protagonistas.

chaotically. Minutes before the Mexico-Italy game, TV Azteca was unable to get a picture of Fernandez and his two broadcast partners. It seems a rainstorm wreaked havoc with TV Azteca's specially installed fiber-optic system. "Wash-ing-ton, Wash-ing-ton, Wash-ing-ton, Wash-ing-ton," an exasperated technician says into a microphone. No connection. Producers are on the phone, fervently trying to figure out an alternate route for their signal.

"We are crazy, no?" a staffer says. It is of little comfort that the broadcast of another game at the same time is going smoothly. TV Azteca figures that with the national team playing, not too many people in Guadalajara want to watch Ireland and

The problem in Washington is fixed by halftime. During the day, it is unclear why pictures of the Mexican announcers are so important. That night during "Los Protagonistas," the answer becomes obvious: One of the comedy bits is watching the announcers'

It has also been a long day for the reactions during an excruciatingly close TV Azteca staff, one that began contest.

There is table-pounding, head-punching agony when Italy springs ahead 1-0. There is loud and wide-eyed ecstasy when Mexico gets the equalizer minutes later. The 1-1 sends Mexico into the next round of the tournament.

"We are very proud of Mexico," Fernandez says through an interpreter hours later, minutes before going on the air with "Los Protagonistas."

During the telecast, Fernandez personifies the studious anchorman. with the demeanor and wire-rim glasses of a Bill Moyers. He even shakes the hands of guest analysts who sit next to him, including a former Mexican national coach who resembles Boris Karloff and sounds just as serious.

Minutes later, Fernandez chats with Brozo the Clown. The clown chides the anchorman for flying to Washington in first class, while he is stuck in coach. It looks like Ronald McDonald making fun of Dan Rather.

"Football is like comedy," Fernandez explains after the show. "Life is comedy."

star honors father with name change

By JERRY WIZIG Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON - The time is right. So the uniform will be the same (No. 56) and the face will be the same, but the name on the back of the jersey will read "Armstrong" instead of "Shorter."

Antonio Armstrong decided in the spring that he would change his name from Shorter, as he was known his first three years at Texas A&M. Antonio Shorter helped to continue the school's excellence at linebacker as the Aggies won their third consecutive Southwest Conference title in 1993.

They will not win a fourth in a row, the result of NCAA sanctions, but Armstrong isn't concerned. He feels he has even more to live up to than the Aggies' SWC domination.

After all, that is the reason he took the surname of his late father, Don Armstrong, fatally stabbed nearly four years ago during an argument with Antonio's uncle. Shorter is the family name of Antonio's mother.

"I don't mind sharing it with the world," Antonio says of his reasons.

thought about doing it. I considered it for a long time. It never felt like the right time until now.

"I think my father would understand.'

Four days before he was to leave in August 1991 to report for his freshman year at A&M, Antonio, 17 at the time, was at his mother's home, where he lived. His grandfather appeared to relate the grim circumstances of his father's death.

"It was an argument over just a little bit of money," Antonio says. "It grew into something it shouldn't "Since I first came to A&M, I have the National Football League.

Like Antonio, Harvey Armstrong went to Kashmere High School. So did Don Armstrong.

"He was a great athlete at Kashmere," Antonio says of his father. "But he had to leave school to take care of my mother. I feel partly responsible for his downfall."

To surmise from Antonio's frank and stark description, life couldn't have been easy for Don Armstrong, or for his mother, Kay.

Things just didn't work out for him," Antonio says. "Temptations occurred. He got caught up in the wrong things. He handled it as best he could.'

After the 1993 season, when he was voted the most valuable

Antonio gave the thought further nurturing.

"Once I got established, the priority came up," he says. "I felt only right that I should recognize my father. He gave me life. Part of the God-given talent I have comes from his genes."

Finally, in May, Antonio told Alan Cannon, A&M sports information director, that he preferred to be listed as Armstrong instead of Shorter.

During A&M's 24-21 Mobil Cotton Bowl loss to Notre Dame, Armstrong recorded three sacks and a share of another after speeding past Aaron Taylor, the Irish's Lombardi Award-winning offensive tackle. This season, Armstrong steps into the role of rush linebacker filled last defensive player in the Cotton Bowl, year by Steve Solari in the unit ranked third nationally in total defense, second in scoring defense.

With Larry Jackson, another linebacker starter, moved to defensive end, Armstrong is the only linebacker regular returning. The defense also lost the starting front three of Sam Adams, Lance Teichelman and Eric England and corner Aaron Glenn, a first-round NFL draft pick. The Aggies retain their 3-4 scheme although seven new assistant coaches are on board. Head coach R.C. Slocum hired Tom Tuberville from Miami as defensive coordinator after Bob Davie went to Notre Dame. "I have to become more of a leader," Armstrong says. "I'm expected to do things and help motivate others, and they have to step up for the players we lost. "The only thing they changed in the defense benefited me. It gives me a chance to be loose and reckless." Much like the first Aggie linebackers Armstrong became aware of while in high school, "Aaron Wallace and John Roper," Armstrong names them with obvious relish, "the Blitz Brothers." Armstrong and Andre Walker, his Kashmere linebacker teammate at the time, also took up the name. The Aggies have won 22 straight SWC games, the nation's longest current conference winning streak. They are 24-0-1 at Kyle Field since a 1989 loss to Arkansas. Even though barred from the SWC title, bowls and TV by the NCAA sanctions, that is enough to play for, Armstrong says.

"The (championship) ring was nice, and going to the Cotton Bowl was great," he says. "Whoever goes to the Cotton Bowl this time doesn't matter.

"If we win it, everyone is going to know who the conference champ

Switzer goes to Longhorn-land

By CHIP BROWN Associated Press Writer AUSTIN (AP) - How could this

America's Team, the two-time

defending Super Bowl champion as going out there, I don't care about Dallas Cowboys, returning to Austin for training camp beginning July 15 led by, gulp, the former coach of the Oklahoma Sooners?

You mean, the home of the Texas Longhorns has to be home to the once-, maybe still-hated Barry Switzer for the next month?

The Red River rivalry lives. Break out the riot gear. There will be chaos. But wait. Who is that coming over the Hill Country horizon?

Why it's Darrell Royal, a former standout player for the Sooners and, as any Longhorn will tell you, the greatest coach in Texas history. He did win three national championships after all, just like Switzer at OU.

Surely Royal can make peace, and keep those hostile orange bloods away from Switzer while he attempts to take control of the Cowboys.

protection. It ain't settling the Middle East, but a round of golf with Royal can't hurt Switzer's image in a city that even Switzer acknowledges, "I used to have to sneak in and out of." The 71-year-old Royal says the golf game is about all he can do on these 100-degree days.

"I am not a welcoming committee," Royal said. "And as far watching the Cowboys at football practice in that heat. I don't even go to see the Longhorns in this kind of heat."

And as far as Switzer's claim about sneaking in and out of Austin, Royal isn't buying it.

'He never did sneak in and out of town," Royal said. "He made a lot of noise when he was in town. He goes in breaking china. He is not a shrinking violet.'

The Cowboys come to Austin with quarterback Troy Aikman, running back Emmitt Smith and wide receiver Michael Irvin all in camp together for the first time since 1991. Irvin is still recovering from surgery but is expected to be in attendance.

Chances are Cowboys fans from across Texas will make the pilgrimage to St. Edward's University to see their favorite players and how Switzer's devil-may-care persona fits atop America's Team.

This is a man who once prided himself for running a college program he characterized as a "loose ship." Whoosh, Call off the police "Cowboys fans are Cowboys fans," Royal said. "They will go see that team no matter who is coaching, no matter where the guy coached before."

Cowboys spokesman Brett Daniels says Switzer has a knack for winning over skeptics.

"I don't know if there is going to be any love lost from Texas Longhorns fans towards Switzer, but I think he will win over the Cowboys fans," Daniels said.

Dieting women are prime candidates for 'trouble'

Engagement announced

By The Associated Press Women striving for "perfect" bodies diet and exercise obsessively, cheating themselves of vital nutrients while pursuing unrealistic goals, says a specialist in eating disorders.

And they are prime candidates for osteoporosis, adds an orthopedist.
"We are not interested in looking like Twiggy anymore. Now we are interested in looking like Twiggy with muscles," says Jane White, associate professor of nursing at The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. Eating disorders can put women at higher risk for osteoporosis, says Dr. Thomas A. Einhorn, professor of orthopedics and director of orthopedic research of Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City.

Anorexia and bulimia are associated with premenopausal estrogen deficiency, says Einhorn, co-author (with Dr. Tyler S. Lucas, orthopedist and clinical instructor at Mt. Sinai) of an article on the subject in the Journal of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

"Adequate calcium nutrition during growth and maturation are key determinants of adult bone mass,"

Pointers for parents

Making certain children get proper nutrition can be a challenge, but some circumstances or conditions can make it even tougher.

Your child's doctor may recommend using a liquid nutritional product during these special times. When is such a product appropriate for children?

-When a child is preparing for or recovering from surgery.

-When chewing is painful after orthodontia.

-When swallowing hurts, as after a tonsillectomy.

-As a supplement for children with decreased appetite to provide extra

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1993. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2030, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

Einhorn says.A deficiency can jeopardize a young woman's skeletal integrity, just as it does with postmenopausal women, whose bone loss is accelerated when hormone production stops.

Einhorn points out that there is no way to restore healthy bone tissue p.m. once it has been lost through poor eating habits. People must accumulate the maximum amount of bone growth during youth and maintain it to minimize bone loss in maturity. Calcium loss is ongoing through normal sweat, urine, feces and shedding of skin, nails and hair.

"When the diet does not contain enough calcium to offset these losses. bone is catabolized in order to scavenge calcium," Einhorn says.

White, a psychotherapist specializing in eating disorders, says that obsessive dieters-exercisers are seeking control. "It means you are valued, happy and empowered. This idea has become so pervasive that we now find 7-year-olds dieting," she

"We are a salad bar society. People give up their necessary proteins when they follow severely restricted low-fat diets. Most animal products that are high in protein are attached to fat." White says that while most people know basic nutritional requirements, they might apply that knowledge in a too-rigid way. "The stricter the rules are, the more out of control the eating and dieting are."

The key to permanent weight loss is changing behavior and thinking, something many diet programs fail to emphasize, White says. She suggests cutting calories without setting rigid rules and avoiding extremely low fat diets.

"If you tend to eat less during the week and more on the weekend, adjust your calorie count to reflect your lifestyle. Eat the proper amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats,"

Sensible weight-bearing exercise walking, jogging and dancing for three or four hours a week - is an important part of osteoporosis prevention, along with adequate calcium and vitamin D intake, avoidance of smoking and excessive alcohol, Einhorn says.

But skip the faddish exercise regimens, White says. "If the goal is to lose weight, an hour and a half on the stairclimber simply isn't

Part of the fun of owning a boat is entertaining on board.

Whether your guests are landlubbers or experienced sailors, advance planning can assure smooth sailing.

Before pulling away from the dock, take guests on a safety tour, pointing out life preservers and fire extinguishers. Post a set of "boat rules" over bunks with hook and loop coins or squares.

Keep spare hats, sunglasses and sunscreen in your sea chest. Include hook and loop motion sickness bands to help reduce discomfort. Pack eyeglass straps so glasses won't go overbaord when the fishig action gets frantic.

To make room for guests, organize sleeping bags and fishing rods with self-gripping bundle ties and cinch -Cooking for company? Check the galley area curtains. Many a cruiser has had a stove flare-up as the overhead curtains installed for privacy go up in flames. Use a hook and loop curtain kit for instant removal and replacement of curtains.

Have a water-cooled engine like an inboard or a stern-drive. After the cruise, ask guests to help get the boat ready for another carefree outing.

I should explain that Peyronie's (pay-row-NEEZ) is a condition in which scar tissue forms, causing angulation upon erection. If pain occurs with the bending, intercourse can be all but ruled out.

I cannot be terribly sanguine about treatments, much less cure. The history of Peyronie's is littered with many medical therapies, most of them futile, none universally effective. Thus the decision to wait and follow the course of the problem is tempting.

If, however, Peyronie's interferes seriously with sexual life, then corrective steps can be considered, including surgery.

Texas ag products travel to points around the globe

Texas Department of Agriculture specializing in the spicy foods. traveled to several European and Asian countries during the spring to introduce Texas products.

· Working to introduce Texas agricultural products, the TDA officials met with government, education and private business representatives in France, China, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan.

"Texas is a major and abundant agricultural producer," said TDA Commissioner Rick Perry. He said farmers, ranchers and agribusinesses must find markets for their products.

Officials said China has the potential for becoming a huge market for food products as well as livestock genetics.

While food products are high on the list in Asia, on the other side of the world officials found a need for textile products.

The seat of the high fashion industry, France does not produce mohair or cotton, fibers important to that industry.

Ag note: mushrooms grow in state

Although less than widely known in Texas, mushroom production is an agricultural endeavor that offers special rewards to the consumer.

According to the Texas Department of Agriculture, companies in Gonzales and Madisonville are raising freshmarket mushrooms, primarily the familiar white button.

One of 2,500 varieties of mushrooms, buttons are the country's main commercial mushroom crop.

The mushrooms are grown indoors under controlled conditions. From the time seed, or spawn, is planted, the crop ordinarily is ready for harvesting in about 32 days.

There also is production in Texas of the Japanese shiitake mushroom. Because of a need for high humidity, the area of the state east of I.H. 35 is best. Approximately 15 growers are producing the shiitake for market.

Cattle business between Texas and Thailand picked up again in May when 191 Brahman heifers and three bulls were shipped by charter plane to the Asian country.

The latest shipment completes the sale of 413 heifers and 13 bulls purchased for the Thai Department of Livestock Development.

The cattle, valued at $639,000, were chosen from 68 Texas ranches. On the flight with the cattle were three quarter horse breeding mares, valued at $12,200, selected from the World Equine Ranch owned by Tom and Susie Lanza of Navasota.

Concern growing over range fires

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) Fireworks weren't the only thing lighting up the sky July 4, as agricultural producers battled rangeland fires in numerous droughtstricken fields, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Paul Gross, Extension director in Amarillo, said in the Panhandle area. thunderstorms caused damage to several thousand acres of rangeland

"With continuing lightening storms, hot conditions and strong winds, our rangeland has become a prime target for range fires," he said.

or

"Even though thousands of acres were affected, right now we don't expect to see any permanent damage," Gross said. "However, a decrease in rangeland could eventually begin to affect our livestock.'

The area in the Panhandle wasn't the only place in Texas that got to feel the heat, as range fires swept across much of the Rolling Plains.

Scott Durham, Extension director in Vernon, said as range fires continue to take more land out of production, the Rolling Plains region faces similar concerns.

'Even though the fires, produced by dry conditions and thunderstorms, have not affected any crops,' Durham said. "If they continue, they could eventually prove detrimental to our livestock.

We really aren't at a problem stage yet," he said. "Around 11,000 acres have been affected by the fires, but when you think about it this is really only a small part of the region."

Mahlon Hammetter, education specialist for the Texas Forest Service, said as long as dry conditions persist, range fires will continue to be a problem in Texas.

Our main concern has been in West Texas, but the problem has begun to creep to many eastern areas of the state," Hammetter said.

'Right now we need rain to allow the ground time to soak up mois-produce could earn cash receipts of $3.8 million in 1994. Crops include bean peas, tomatoes. peppers, potatoes, corn, mushrooms, onions, broccoli, carrots, grapes, ture," he said. "This is really the only way Texas is going to alleviate a range fire problem.'

As producers across the state continue to endure hot, stifling weather, not all areas in Texas have been left high and dry, with many benefiting from scattered showers.

Dr. Marty Baker, Extension horticulturist in Overton, said in East Texas many crops are thriving from recent rains.

"Our peach crop is doing great, and we are now seeing one of the best blueberry crops in years," he said. All in all, we seem to be doing well in most areas of produce.

This could all change, though, if the weather decides to take away our rain," Baker said.

As many Texas producers agree they are in the weather's hands, they hope the weather decides to be a little more generous with the rainfall.

Jon Zeitler, meteorologist at the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said this week producers in Texas may finally see some relief from the hot and dry conditions.

"A strong, low pressure system, moving out of the Rockies, should bring showers and thunderstorms in the High Plains, Rolling Plains and the Red River Valley," Zeitler said. "Most of East Texas also will receive scattered showers, with rainfall expected to range between a quarter inch to three-quarters inch.'

"Besides the rainfall, cooler temperatures are expected for the High Plains region later this week," he said. "The rest of Texas should expect to see high temperatures ranging between the mid-90s to upper 90s, with lows in the mid-70s." The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

Scholarship winners

One-year scholarships worth $1,000 from the State Fair of Texas have been awarded two Hereford High School May graduates, Shelia Dee Teel and Don Metcalf. The grants are made by the State Fair to youth who participated in the fair's youth livestock show and plan to attend a Texas college or university. Teel and Metcalf also received Houston Livestock Show scholarships of $10,000 each and both plan to attend Texas A&M University. The daughter of Jerry and Denise Teel, Shelia will major in agricultural business. Metcalf's parents are Stan and Jan Metcalf. His major will be animal science.

Magazine doffs hat to ex-Cowboy, cap-maker Pearson

By JOHN McFARLAND Associated Press Writer ADDISON, Texas (AP) - Drew Pearson has made a living off getting the last laugh. Take the time the Dallas Cowboys were trailing Minnesota by four points with less than a minute left in the game. Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach launches a 50-yard desperation pass to Pearson, who outleaps the Vikings' Nate Wright. Pearson's catch gave the Cowboys a 17-14 victory. That 1975 play, known as the Hail Mary, is perhaps the shining moment of Pearson's National Football League career. But he's had to defend it for nearly 20 years.

"I didn't push him," Pearson says. "They're still claiming that up there. He claims I pushed him, of course. And I claim I didn't."

Like his season, saying Hail Mary.

Like his season-saving Hail Mary reception, Pearson has had to defend his latest success: Drew Pearson Companies, a nine-year-old venture that last year sold 2 million dozen hats, most with officially licensed pro

"I used to tell people I was selling headwear, and I used to get a lot of snide remarks: 'Hats? Hats? Why are you getting into that? What, you can't find a job?" Pearson said. And like the Hail Mary, Pearson's getting the last laugh. DPC had 1993 sales of $77.5 million, and was selected as Black Enterprise magazine's 1994 company of the

DPC has 37 licensing agreements, including those with the NFL, the National Basketball Association, Major League Baseball, Disney and Warner Bros. Its hats are sold in major stores worldwide, including Foot Locker, J.C. Penney, Sears and Nye Lavalle of Sports Marketing Group-Dallas says the business is among the top 10 in pro baseball and basketball hat sales, and the top five in NFL sales.

DPC is tiny compared to sporting goods giants like Starter and Russell Athletics, but it still has managed to compete.

"I certainly think they're viewed as a fine organization," Russell spokesman Wesley Haynes said from the company's Alexander City, Ala., headquarters. "They definitely deserve the award.

Unlike its larger competitors, DPC's three-person design team constantly churns out unique designs - about 60 for every fall, summer, spring or winter line.

The hats may feature jagged Pittsburgh Steeler-colored lightning bolts, swirling Houston Rockets hues or even Looney Tunes characters like the Tasmanian Devil decked out in New York Yankee pinstripes.

"We try to come up with more innovative designs, more fashionable designs so that the buyer and the consumer can have an alternative," Pearson said.

The company also has competed by selling only headwear.

"There's a lot of people in the headwear business," says Pearson, 43. "They do tremendous numbers in sales in all apparel, but that's just it - they sell all apparel, not just headwear. That's all we do is hats."

Market niche has been central to DPC's success, but Pearson's name also has been a factor, Lavalle says.

"He has an identity," Lavalle said. "A lot of people enjoy doing business with Drew.

Pearson has capitalized by affixing his hats with distinctive labels - his initials surrounding a Dallas Cowboys-like star.

"They're not only getting a Minnesota Vikings hat or a Dallas Cowboys hat, but they're getting a Drew Pearson hat, as well," Lavalle

But after all that success, Pearson had some trouble settling into life after football.

Brief stays in the broadcast booth and on the sidelines as a Cowboys' assistant helped Pearson decide he Midway through the 1985-86 season, tired of 16-hour days as the Cowboys' receivers coach, Pearson contacted entrepreneurs Ken Shead and Mike Russell, who had pitched the venture to him several times.

Two days after the season, DPC was born, although it wasn't anything

"Our first office was Ken Shead's house," said Pearson, one of the three employees when the company started.

DPC now employs 150.

"Everybody can't be a quarterback in football, and in business, everybody can't be the financial guy, and everybody can't be marketing guy, everybody can't be administrator," said Pearson, who also is part owner of a Dallas sports bar. "So you have to go out and get those people and bring that expertise around you." In DPC, Pearson handles league relations and public relations; Russell specializes in marketing; Shead deals with sales and new business; and a fourth partner, Dave Briskie, specializes in finance.

DPC initially struggled to get financing or major licenses, and started out catering to local high schools.

"Our initial approaches to the NBA, the NFL, baseball and Disney met with quite a bit of resistance," said Shead, adding that they were rejected for every major contract at least four times.

The company's big break came when it was awarded the merchandising license for the 1988 summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea. After that, the big leagues eventually succumbed, as the NFL, NBA and Major League gravy."

WE NEED ECONOMIC DEVELOPME

To get it, WE NEED THE 1/2¢ SALES TAX. Based on current projections, the 1/2¢ sales tax would yield some $330,000 per year which could be used only for specific economic development projects as mandated by state law.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How Will Economic Development Funds Be Managed?

A five member Economic Development Board will be appointed by the Hereford City Council. They will serve WITHOUT PAY. Funds can be used for:

- Business development recruitment and retention
- Workforce development education and training
- Infrastructure development water & waste water, electrical and street improvements for job-related projects
- Facility development new and existing buildings
- Loans

Will All Purchases Be Affected By The 1/2¢ Sales Tax?

NO! A city sales tax does not affect most essentials. You pay no sales tax on medical services, prescription drugs, most food products, rents, mortgages, gasoline, automobiles, or agriculture items which are exempt.

What Will A 1/2¢ Sales Tax Cost The Average Family?

According to the State Controller, a family with a gross income of $35,000 would pay about 98¢ more per week. The extra pennies are more than offset by savings on your property taxes.

Is This 1/2¢ Sales Tax Permanent?

Only if you, the voters, want it to be. Under state law, what voters vote in, they can vote out.

I mentioned last week a book titled 100 Years of Western Wear, but failed to mention that the author and photographer had done a good bit of their research and photography here. mentioned any of our videos--maybe because it has been a long time since we put any new ones out. Well, now we have a few to mention. In case you've forgotten, our philosophy at the Deaf Smith County Library Video Department is to not complete with our local outlets, as far as is practicable. Therefore you won't find here many "new releases." Basically we want to provide some things that you may not be willing to pay full rental price for. Our collection includes a lot of do-ityourself materials and a good bit of documentary videos (such as The Trials of Life series). Most of the "real" movies we have are classic (read "old"), and generally unavailable at local retail outlets. A few of our recently acquired titles include 12 Angry Men with Henry Fonda and other big names, Don't Lie a collection of "Our Gang" comedies, The Best Christmas Pageant Ever, and Disney's Donald's Scary Tales.

Information packets available for contests

The Deaf Smith-Oldham County Farm Bureau has scheduled this year's Miss Deaf Smith-Oldham County Farm Bureau Contest and the Talent Find Contest for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 21, in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room.

Eligible participants for both contests must be 16-21 years of age by Sept. 1. The contestant must be single and the daughter or sister of a Deaf Smith-Oldham County Farm Bureau member. The membership and contestant's residence must be within the district of competition.

The winner of the Miss Farm Bureau Contest will receive $200 and the runner-up will be given $50. Winners will compete at the district level in Amarillo Aug. II. The district winners and their escorts will receive an expense-paid trip to the state convention in San Antonio Nov. 27-30. Each district winner will also be awarded a $600 college scholarship and must compete in the state contest in order to receive the district level scholarship.

Miss Texas Farm Bureau will receive a $2,000 scholarship and $500 toward a wardrobe of all natural fibers. She will represent Texas Farm Bureau during the 1995 TFB Leadership Conference and the 1995 Texas FFA convention. The runnerup will receive a $1,500 scholarship. Both the runner-up and the winner will additionally receive a set of luggage from the Texas Farm Bureau. TFB will pay expenses for Miss Texas Farm Bureau and one parental escort to these events.

In the Talent Find Contest, the talent competition is open to both boys and girls and the winner will receive a $200 scholarship and the runner-up will be awarded a $50 scholarship. Winners will also compete at the district level in Amarillo Aug. Il and will receive an expense-paid trip to the state convention Nov. 27-30 in San Antonio. The district winners will also receive $600 college scholarships and must compete in the state contest. The state winner will be awarded a $2,000 scholarship and the runner-up will receive a $1,500 scholarship.

Farm Bureau employees, dealers and/or service agents and their families and previous state winners are not eligible to enter. Beginning in 1993, no contestant will be allowed to participate at the district level more than two times.

Information packets for both contests may be picked up at the Hereford Farm Bureau office at 1306 W. Park Ave., before July 19.

Weatherly, Wilbanks united in marriage

Hereford residents, Rebekah Brook Weatherly and Richard Phillip Wilbanks, were married during an intimate family wedding ceremony Saturday evening, July 2, in Christ's Church Fellowship. Officiating for the marriage was Geary Brogden minister of music at First Baptist Church in Friona.

The bride is the daughter of Becky Weatherly of 427 Fir St. and Bill Weatherly of Amarillo. The bridegroom is the son of Mary Wilbanks of 607 Bowie and Richard L. Wilbanks of Amarillo.

The front of the church was decorated with fan and spiral candelabra, entwined with ivy, and two floral arrangements of Casa Blanca lilies accented with ivy. Also, placed at the front altar was a unity candle which was a gift from the bride's sister. Pews were marked with faille ivory bows.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father.

The bride's sister, Beth Weatherly, was maid of honor. Best man was the groom's brother, Charlie Garza.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Ben Weatherly of College Station, and the groom's cousin, Jeremy Scott of Hereford.

The bride's cousin, Blakely Weatherly, daughter of Park Weatherly, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Leighton Tapia, son of Lisa Garza, the groom's sister.

Candles were lit by the bride's brother, Ben Weatherly, and the groom's cousin, Jeremy Scott.

Jan Walser accompanied vocalists, Ben and Beth Weatherly, the bride's brother and sister, and Heather Taylor of Beaumont, the bride's cousin. Principal wedding selections included "Somewhere in the World" and "All I Ask of You."

During the wedding ceremony, Carolan and Lisa Garza read scriptures. They are the groom's sister and sister-in-law, respectively.

The bride was attired in an ivory dress adorned with lace and pearls. In her hair, she wore a circlet of stephanotis and pearls with ivory satin ribbon. She carried a cascading bouquet of Casa Blanca hilles and stephanotis with ivy. In keeping with bridal tradition, the bride carried her mother's Bible which was given to her by her grandparents as somethic old; wore a blue garter as somethic blue; and wore a strand of gearls given to her by Tommie and Archie Skeen as something new. Placed in her shoes were pennies depicting the birthdates of the bridal couple.

The maid of honor wore an emerald green faille dress anticarried long stem Casa Blanca lilies. The flower girl wore a ruffled green and ivory dress.

Sara Zinck and Lezily McWhanten invited guests to register at the reception held in the church.

The groom's sister, Lisa Garza, and Jo Jo Lytal served cake. Punch and coffee were poured by the groom's sister-in-law, Carolan Garza, and the bride's cousin, Lisa

The bridal couple's cakes were created by Martha Lytal. The bride's cake was decorated by ivy and lilies, and a bouquet was used as the center-piece. Silver appointments further enhanced the table setting.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Albuquerque, N.M., the bride was attired in an olive green dress with a ruffled ribbon trim on the bodice. The couple resides in Hereford.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1993 and attended Texas A&M University in College Station. She is currently working towards a degree in business analysis.

n, also a 1993 HHS graduate, is attending West Texas A&M University and is employed by American Dusting Co.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS Don Taylor

THE WELDING SHOP

One of my early memories as a young farm boy was the wonder of Edison Raney's welding shop. I loved to go there and watch him work.

Mr. Raney's shop was located on the northwest corner of the square in Humphreys, Mo. It served as a repair shop for farmers from miles around. When our machinery needed repair, we took it to Mr. Raney.

The shop was filled with interesting machines and tools. Later, I would know them as welders, torches, grinders, drill presses, vices and clamps. But until I watched Mr. Raney use them, I had no idea what most of the machines would accomplish.

Mr. Raney was a hardworking, honest business man. He wore a funny little welder's cap that had no brim or bill. His work was hot and dirty. As each day progressed his skin and clothing gradually took on the various hues of the greasy and grimy equipment he repaired. Even his face would change color as he wiped away the seat of honest labor.

The most fascinating part of the shop was one wall where Mr. Raney had tacked up several signs, postcards and articles. When we went to pick up completed repairs, I always read the items on that wall, if time permitted.

There were simple truisms like, "It is better to wear out than rust out" and "The best way to kill time is work it to death." One little card always caught my attention. It was the story of a hot dog vendor. Though it's been nearly 30 years since I was last in Mr. Raney's shop, I can still remember most of it.

The hot dog stand

A man lived by the side of the road...and sold hot dogs. He was hard of hearing, so he had no radio. He had never learned to read, so he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs.

He had a sign put on the highway, telling folks how good they were. He stood by the side of the road and cried, "Buy a hot dog, folks!" And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders and he bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He asked his son to come home from college to help him. But then, something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you heard? The federal government just raised interest rates. The international situation is terrible, and the domestic situation is even worse." Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son has been to college. He listens to the radio, reads the newspapers and watches television-he ought to know."

So the father cut down his bun order, took down his advertising signs, and no longer bothered to stand by the highway to sell hot dogs. His hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You were right, son," the father said to the boy. "We are certainly in the middle of a great depression."

Proven principles

Sometimes, we all are caught in the trap of the uninformed. We listen to others when we should continue on our successful path. It often occurs when we listen to the educated but un-informed.

Now don't get me wrong, only a fool ignores wise counsel. However, we must remember that not all counsel is wise. Not all advice is good advice. Always temper the advice of others with your own knowledge and experience. When in doubt, get a second opinion.

In any small business, it is hard to better time-proven principles. I'm referring to business principles like: Give your customers good quality, treat them well, and promote your business continually.

Thanks, Mr. Raney for the hard work and good example. Your business principles are still working for generations of business men and women today.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

Do you remember the things for which students got into trouble not too many years ago: talking without permission, running in the hall, throwing spitwads, not showing respect to teachers... Whereas, today-well, you can make this list! Yesterday, or today, these actions still come under the heading of learning self-discipline and respect for others.

Too often, we get so busy in our efforts to give our efforts to give our children what our parents couldn't give us that we forget to give them what our parents did give us. Most of us were taught to have respect for others, self-discipline, and dedication to excellence. Should today's children be exposed to less?

These concerns are only some of those to be addressed at the Second Annual Advanced Texas Middle School meeting in Austin today through Thursday. Five of the HJH meeting in Austin today through Thursday. Five of the HJH faculty members are attending-Ginger Wallace, Catherine Cortez, Myma Buckley, DeDe Drake and Marylin Leasure. Having been in attendance at this conference last year, I know that it is a very informative and helpful workshop. Ginger is going "in my place" due to my having plans to attend a conference, "Ups and Downs" in Los Angeles and a History Awareness Workshop in Dallas later this month.

Kris Friel and I attended the Noon Lions meeting on Wednesday and the Noon Kiwanis meeting on Thursday to acquaint the members with Geography Bee, Junior Historians and History Fair activities at HJH. We used the projects of Kris, Clay Brown and Justin Landrum for examples of History Fair Work.

The history, math and English departments will welcome several new teachers this year. Names and positions of each will be announced soon. There will be several other changes before school starts-some within the campus faculty as we have some areas where teaches wish to work in another

Several student shave already expressed an interest in History Fair projects for the 1995 fair and this is exciting. Carey Lyles plans to record interviews during his vacation in Colorado. We may even have entries in performance and writing this year. Thanks, in advance, for the help we know our community will afford these young people as they work on "Conflict and Compromise."

Let's get back to our roots in education and in crime control with parents recognizing and accepting their role in the full education of their children at home as well as in the classroom. Children are precious, not only to their parents and to those of us who teach them, but to the future of our nation.

By BEVERLY HARDER County Extension Agent-HE FOOD SAFETY STRATEGIES CAN ASSIST THE BACKYARD CHEF

There's something about spring and summer seasons that brings out the backyard chef in even those who don't normally like to cook. But cooking out requires extra precautions to prevent foodborne illness.

Grilling carefully also can prevent excessive smoke and charring that may be unhealthy. To keep your cookouts both safe and fun, follow these simple tips in proper food preparation and

*Select high quality fresh meat, poultry or seafood products for the best results in outdoor grilling. *Keep meat products at a tempera-ture of 40 degrees Fahrenheit or less until right before grilling. Thaw frozen meat products in the refrigerator--not at room temperature. At room temperatures, the outer layers of meat may reach a temperature that promotes bacterial growth before the inner layers are thawed.

*Keep marinating foods in the refrigerator. Do not use leftover marinade as a sauce on cooked meat. Marinade may contain bacteria from raw meat that could contaminate cooked meat.

*Always wash your hands before and after working with raw meat or poultry. Handle raw foods and cooked foods separately.

*Wash work surfaces and cutting boards thoroughly with hot, soapy water before and after preparing meat for grilling. To sanitize, clean with a solution of 1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons of bleach per quart of water. Use a different cutting board for meats than for raw fruits and vegetables.

*After you place the meat on the grill, wash utensils and platters with hot, soupy water before using them again to serve the meat. Cooking kills the bacteria, but cooked foods can be recontaminated with unwashed utensils.

recommended especially for persons

meat products should be cooked until juice runs clear or the temperature reaches 170 degrees. *Eating raw or rare meat is not at 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below.

who have chronic illnesses, are recovering from surgery or have compromised immune systems. Cook meat thoroughly to kill bacteria.

These additional suggestions will keep food from becoming too heavily smoked or charred: *Choose meats for cookouts that are low in fat to avoid flare ups from dripping fat. Trim excess fat form the meat before grilling.

*Avoid marinades or basting sauces that contain a lot of fat. *Cover grill with aluminum foil. Punch holes between the grids to let juice drip out.

*If dripping fat causes heavy smoke, move the food to another section of the grill, rotate the grill or reduce the heat.

*Learn to control the fire. COok meat until it is done, but without charring it. Remove any charred or burned material that forms on the food's surface. Do not eat it.

*Reduce grilling time by precooking many foods, including poultry and ribs, by boiling or cooking in the microwave.

SUPERLATIVE COUNTRY KITCHEN UNSURPASSED

O BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.L.B.D.

The master bedroom, great room and country kitchen merge virtually effortless with the full expanse of sun deck across the entire rear width of the plan.

A country kitchen is so well designed for the old fashioned way of life, with an island cabinet and snack bar being the only separation from the food preparation area. A view of the kitchen is from the upper floor and a step up from the upper floor and a step up and down lead to the massive great room from the country kitchen. The stair leads to the second floor providing private access and at the opposite end the stair leads to the basement. A private laundry area and powder room are between the kitchen and garage.

The luxurious master bed room suite boasts his and her walk in closets and an exceptional bath with separate shower, garden tub twin vanities, bonus closet space and a separate commode area. The master bedroom ceiling is nine foot sur-rounded by an eight foot perime-

There are three bedrooms two baths and a balcony shown for the second floor, with a bi-fold opening to view the great room

The European exterior is con-structed of stucco and enhanced by multi level roof breaks, dormer windows, corner quoins and decorative windows.

The plan is Number 3324. It includes 3,373 square feet of heated space and is a computer generated plan. All W. D. Farmer plans are drawn in accordance with FHA and VA requirements and are furnished with special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P. O. #### What's for breakfast?

You may rise and shine with a bowl of cereal or a stack of pancakes, but around the world people start their day in many different ways. Here's a sample:

many different ways. Here's a sample:

• Norway: What makes Norwegians so hearty? Maybe it's the salmon which they commonly eat for breakfast.

• Japan: The Japanese like fish for breakfast, too. However, they prefer to eat it raw (sushi).

• South China: Maybe you like fruit in your hot cereal, but in South China they prefer slivers of fish, frog or preserved egg on theirs. Another popular morning pick-me-up is a delicious glass of hot soybean milk with onions.

• China: The Chinese breakfast of Dim Sum offers variety: buns stuffed with spiced beef, steamed dumplings, duck

July 10 - July 16 HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

Someone close to you may become seriously ill. Try to have a more positive attitude when dealing with those who irritate you.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

A situation may not go quite as well as you expected, but it will not be all bad. You need to hear both sides of a problem before passing judgment.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20) You may have been selfish without realizing what you were doing. You still have time to make amends, but you Cancer (June 21 - July 20) Step back and get a better look at what is going on around you. There will be an opportunity to get away for a few days, and you should seize it.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21) Money problems will subside, and you may finally see the light at the end of the tunnel. You may have to deal with a

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22) You may be caught in a difficult situation, uncertain which way to go. Take things slowly and ask for advice if you hardheaded person in the workplace.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Your attitude may need a little adjusting, but it is nothing a weekend of fun wouldn't help. Take notice of an upcoming opportunity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

A new person may come into your life and change the way you think about things. Use your imagination to see the many possibilities there are for you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20) There could be some scheduling problems with plans that cannot be changed. It will not be easy, but you can make it Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19) A love relationship may take on a new dimension. Be wary of people in business who make promises you know they cannot keep.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) You will feel a sense of freedom from the anxiety and depression you have been experiencing. It is a new day, and you should make the most of it.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20) A premonition of an event may spook you a bit, but it would be in your best interest to pay close attention to it. Write your dreams in a journal.

LET'S TALK

Reader searching for short-lived Keaton series; Matheson on a 'Quest'

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Many years ago, I was fortunate enough to see a made-for-TV stage production of "The Taming of the Shrew," featuring a wonderful new actress named Meryl Streep.

Since the arrival of home video, I have been trying to locate a copy of it, but all I seem to get is Taylor and

Do you know where I could obtain a copy of it? Also, could you please provide me with an address where I could write to Ms. Streep. -Paula M. Ashbrook, no address given.

A: After looking high and low for any information whatsoever on the production of the "Taming" you mentioned, I must admit that all I came up with was a big fat goose egg.

If anyone out there has any information regarding this matter, please write in and I'll print the letter.

In the meantime, Paula, you could try writing to Streep C/O her talent agency, Creative Artists Agency Inc., 9380 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Q: My mother says that someone famous did the voice of "Jonny Quest" on the old cartoon series. Could you please tell me who it was? -D. H., Clifton, N.J.

A: Boy am I glad you asked! Jonny's voice was provided by Tim Matheson, who would grow up to play Otter in "Animal House."

And here's another little nugget of knowledge you might not have known, "Race" Bannon's real name was

Q: Is Corey Feldman still acting? I haven't seen him in anything since "The 'Burbs." Also, where can I write to him? -J.M. Smits, Green

Bay, Wis. Feldman is indeed still acting. After a well-publicized bout with drug addiction, he's gotten his act together and plans to keep on making movies.

Write to Feldman C/O the Agency for the Performing Arts, 9000 Sunset Blvd., Suite 1200, Los Angeles, Calif.

Q: Please help me. I've been trying for months to come up with the name of a TV show I swear was on in the early '80s that starred Michael Keaton. I think he played a police officer of some sort. What was the name of this show and when did it air? -Mary Meola, Washington,

Jonny Quest

A: "Report to Murphy," which starred Keaton as a not-yet-disillusioned parole officer, ran Monday nights on CBS from April 5, 1982, to May 31, 1982.

Q: I am writing about my favorite old TV show, "WKRP in Cincinnati." What were the real character names of Venus Flytrap and Dr. Johnny Fever? -Veronica Peahardt, Tyler, Texas.

A: The name on Venus Flytrap's birth certificate is Gordon Sims.

Dr. Fever's real name on the show was John Caravella.

Q: My husband and I are big fans of "Married... With Children." We watch the reruns of it every night. What I am writing to ask is what happened to Marcy D'Arcy's first husband, Steve? -Esther Lewis, Portland, Ore.

A: During the 1988-89 season, Steve Rhoades (played by David Garrison) authorized a loan to finance one of Al Bundy's get-rich-quick schemes. When the scheme inevitably backfired, Steve lost his job at the bank

Yosemite National Park Marcy soon married the eligible Jefferson D'Arcy, whom she met during a drunken binge at a bankers' con-

Waiting for 'Four Weddings,' 'Widow's Peak'? Viewers can check out these titles in the meantime

BY JOHN CROOK

As one Hollywood product after another stiffs at the box office, two comedies from Great Britain are emerging as surprise hits, charming critics and audiences by the drove.

"Four Weddings and a Funeral" is a romantic comedy starring Hugh Grant and Andie MacDowell as two made-for-each-other lovers thrown together during the title's five main events. "Widow's Peak" stars Mia Farrow. Joan Plowright and Natasha Richardson in a witty comedy-mystery about dirty deeds in Ireland. Armchair audiences will want to keep both in mind when the videos are released.

Meanwhile, they can sample the increasingly interesting work of "Weddings" director Mike Newelt now on video. Due to a clueless marketing campaign, family audiences missed out last year on "Into the West," a magical piece of work mingling domestic drama with Celtic mythology and Irish gypsies ("travelers," as they are called there). Thenspouses Gabriel Byrne and Ellen Faring much better was Newell's earlier "Enchanted April" about four diverse women who pool their funds for a vacation in 1920s Italy. Plowright got an Oscar nomination for her portrayal of an elderly widow of the P.G. Wodehouse school: Asked by one of her dimmer housemates whether she had personally known poet John Keats, she snaps, "No – and I didn't know Shakespeare or Chaucer, either!"

As for Grant, who has graduated to leading-man status, check out three titles that showcase his versatility. In "The Remains of the Day," he plays a journalist who suspects that his uncle (James Fox), employer of a butler played by Anthony Hopkins, is up to no good. In "Maurice," Grant portrays a sexually confused student. And in the witty "Impromptu," he plays the shy composer Chopin, reluctant romantic prey of writer George Sand (Judy Davis).

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

Look! Up in the sky! Astronauts, Batman, an escaped con!

"Drop Zone," a thriller starring Wesley Snipes, has gone to the editing room and is expected to be released in December.

In the film, directed by John Badham, a convicted computer hacker (Michael Jeter) makes a daring midair escape from a commercial 747; Snipes leads the manhunt in a Florida swamp. Gary Busey, Melanie Mayron, Corin Nemec and Yancy Butler also star.

Tom Hanks, Kevin Bacon and Bill Paxton ("True Lies") are set to star in "Apollo 13," which begins filming in August. Ron Howard will direct the story of how astronauts James A. Lovell Jr., John L. Swigart and Fred W. Haise nearly lost their lives in an explosion shortly after lift-off.

And speaking of flying. Michael Keaton, Tommy Lee Jones and Jim Carrey will begin filming "Batman Forever" in September. Tim Burton, who directed the first two films, is executive producer on this project. Joel Schumacher will direct.

Bravo has announced it will add Gary David Goldberg's series "Brooklyn Bridge" to its "TV Too Good for TV" showcase, beginning Monday, Aug. 22. The 35 episodes join other "Too Good" series, including "Max Headroom" and "Twin Peaks"

B.B. King played a concert June 22 atop a parking garage adjacent to Hollywood's Universal Studios. It was a send-off for his new watering hole, B.B. King's, Blues Club, opening in a nearby shopping area this month. To set the scene for King and his Memphis pals, the hosts laid out 7,000 square feet of grass sod, set up porch swings, rocking chairs, barn siding and even jars full of lightning bugs. For the hungry, there was catfish, barbecue, fried dill pickles and sweet potato pie.

The party benefited leukemia, cancer and AIDS research.

And from sweets to the sweet, former Wrigley Doublemint twins Cynthia and Brittany Daniel have been cast to star as 16-year-old siblings in "Sweet Valley High," an upcoming syndicated series based on the popular series of teen books.

HIGHLIGHTS

Mark Curry is host for the "Jim Thorpe Pro Sports Awards," a twohour gala airing live from Los Angeles on ABC Monday, July 11.

Conceived by "Monday Night Football" producer Ken Wolfe, the event is named after the legendary sports figure (1888-1953) widely considered to be the greatest all-around athlete of his day.

Awards will be presented to top athletes in football, baseball, basketball, boxing, men's and women's golf, tennis, ice hockey and auto racing.

Buzz Aldrin (pictured) wanted to be the first man on the moon, but that honor went to Neil Armstrong. Their stories are told in "Moon Shot," a two-part special airing Monday and Wednesday on TBS.

Corbin the voice of a real astronaut in TBS' 'Moon Shot'

BY SUZANNE GILL

Best known as retired astronaut Maurice Minnifield on CBS' "Northern Exposure," Barry Corbin is also the host of "Moon Shot," a two-part documentary on the space race, airing Monday and Wednesday, July 11 and 13, on TBS. But it wasn't his role as Maurice that got Corbin the voice-over job.

"The producers thought of me," Corbin says, "because of a Chevrolet commercial they heard on the radio. I said, 'Did you think of me because of the show?' And they said, 'No, but once we thought of you, we thought that would be a good tie-in.'

"What they had planned when they were putting it together was to have sort of a mythic astronaut character who narrates the thing. And when (Mercury 7 astronaut) Deke Slayton died (in 1993), they sort of made Deke Slayton that character."

Slayton was grounded by an irregular heartbeat in 1962 and became coordinator of astronaut activities, selecting every astronaut crew but one over the next 13 years, when his heart finally returned to normal.

Told from Slayton's point of view, Rushmore DeNooyer's "Moon Shot" script achieves both authority and intimacy, chronicling the U.S. space program from its birth after the Soviet launch of Sputnik to its detente, when Apollo commander Slayton shook hands with cosmonauts in space. Part 1 recalls the Mercury and Gemini programs. Part 2 pays special attention to the first manned moon landing, 25 years ago this month, and the near-disastrous flight of Apollo 13, which almost left three astronauts orbiting Earth with no hope of return.

"You know, you've got to be pretty cocky to go into space," says Corbin, who has often been told that Maurice's inflated ego is just right for a test pilot or astronaut.

"I think it's the pioneer spirit," he says. "There's definitely a very strong pull to test the limits of human possibility. We all have it. It can be speed or height. It can be collecting the rarest stamp collection, but it's all the same thing. It has to do with immortality. If we stretch ourselves to the limit, we become in a very real sense immortal."

SOAP WORLD

Hope knows her business on 'Y&R'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I know that soaps are not real, but many times they do imitate real life. One of my favorite characters is Hope on "The Young and the Restless." The only problem is that the writers are not very consistent with the Hope (Signy Coleman) is a very practical young woman, and she helps Victor (Eric Braeden) see things from a different and somewhat better perspective. She is loving and caring, and unlike the other women in Victor's life she is not manipulative.

The problem I have is that she doesn't seem to care what happens to Victoria (Heather Tom) and Nicholas. It is as if she loves Victor, but to heck with his children! It just doesn't seem to flow with her character. -Vera G., Birmingham, Miss.

Dear Reader: It isn't that Hope doesn't care for Victor's children, but she thinks Victor should let them lead their own lives. She actually cares a great deal, but she thinks Victor interferes too much. She asked Victoria to be her matron of honor, and she is trying very hard to put Victor's family back together for him.

It will be interesting to see what part Nicholas, Victor's son, plays in all this. Nicholas recently aged from a preschooler to 16-years-old, so there is definitely a plan in the works for this char-

Dear Candace: I have been watching "One Life to Live" since it began, but I do not like what is happening now. I would like to see some changes. Viki (Erika Slezak) and Clint (Clint Ritchie) belong together. I want them to take Sloan (Roy Thinnes) off the show for good. I am tired of him messing up Viki and Clint's relationship. I'm ready to see Clint knock Sloan on his rear again. -H.B., Rhinelander, Wis.

Dear Reader: A year ago it was in the plans to put Viki and Clint back together. Unfortunately, Ritchie, who plays Clint, was in a terrible tractor accident and was away from the show for several months. Viki and Clint could find their way back to one another soon.
