Tax rate to stay at 1993-94 level

HISD trustees pass budget, set tax rate

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor
The Hereford Independent School District has a budget in place for the 1994-95 school year after trustees approved local and federal budgets totalling more than $21 million on Wednesday.

The action came at a special board meeting on the final day before the budget had to be in place.

In addition to passing the budget, trustees also set the 1994-95 tax rate at $1.239, which is the same rate that has been in place the past two years.

The final action on the 1993-94 budget was taken as well, with trustees approving budget amendments that align line-items with the actual amounts spent.

Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt told trustees that final figures on the budget amendments were not available, as district Controller Norm Smith was still figuring final bills.

Greenawalt said the main needs in the budget amendments were to account for the $500,000 spent on the new administration building and to meet a new state requirement regarding summer salaries.

The superintendent said the state now requires salaries and materials used during the summer to be paid for out of that fiscal year's budget rather than carried over into the next year.

As a result, the HISD is faced with some $1 million in salaries for July and August, as well as expenses for materials and supplies.

"This is basically just a paperwork deal" that must be submitted to the state, Greenawalt said. The amendments will not affect the final 1993-94 budget.

Trustees approved a Mike Veazey motion to approve the budget amendments subject to their review at the Sept. 27 regular meeting.

A public hearing was held on the new year budget, but board president Steve Wright closed it after a minute or two, as nobody showed up to discuss the document.

Trustees then approved the total $21,414,104 budget, which includes $3,493,356 in special revenue items. Those special revenue items are federally-funded programs for which the district applies and that money is passed straight through to the program.

The regular fund budget, paid for by state funds and local property tax revenue, is $17,920,748. Greenawalt said that is $66,558 less than what was appropriated last year.

The budget -- which had been discussed at several special workshops during the past month -- was passed on a 6-0 vote following a motion by board vice president Jim Marsh.

Trustee Raul Valdez was not present for the meeting.

In recommending the tax rate stay the same for 1994-95, Greenawalt added that he spoke with Tax Assessor-Collector Fred Fox, who recommended that the district consider a tax increase next year to keep from getting too far behind in funding.

That, Greenawalt said, will be discussed next year.

The vote on the tax rate was unanimous.

Other than Valdez, all trustees -- Wright, Marsh, Veazey, Ron Weishaar, Joe Flood and Randy Tooley -- were present for the session, which lasted about 30 minutes.

Sen. Hutchison plans campaign visit to town

Kay Bailey Hutchison, Republican U.S. Senator from Texas, will bring her reelection campaign to Hereford Saturday, appearing in a one-hour public meeting at the Sirolo Stockade at 1:30 p.m.

Interested residents are invited to attend the meeting, hear remarks by the senator and address any questions to her on the issues in the campaign.

Keith Ann Gearn, Hereford chairman for Sen. Hutchison, says she thinks "a number of local residents will eat lunch at the restaurant and be on hand for the senator's arrival." Mrs. Gearn added that Hutchison will visit a feed yard and is making the Panhandle tour "to become more familiar with this area."

Mrs. Gearn said Hutchison "is keeping her campaign promises to Texas voters by fighting to cut federal spending and holding the line on tax increases and additional government regulations."

Hutchison became the first woman from Texas to be elected to the U.S. Senate after claiming more than two-thirds of the vote in a special election runoff victory on June 5, 1993. She already serves on several key committees -- Armed Services; Commerce, Science and Transportation; and Small Business.

Sen. Hutchison served as Texas State Treasurer from 1991-93, where she cut her budget more than any other statewide official. She is also a former state representative from Houston (1973-76).

After moving to Dallas in 1978, Sen. Hutchison was named senior vice president of Republic Bank Corp. She later co-founded Fidelity National Bank of Dallas and owned McCraw Candies, Inc. She sold the candy company in 1988.

A native of LaMarque, the senator lives in Dallas with her husband, Ray, an attorney. She is a graduate of the University of Texas and the UT School of Law. She has been recognized with numerous honors, including an award as one of the 10 outstanding working women in America.

Ready for the blood drive

John Stagner of Hereford Auto Center, gets some help from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division as he tries on this year's "Hereford Summertime Blood Drive" T-shirt that will be given away next week. The annual drive, sponsored by the Women's Division and Hereford Auto Center and conducted by Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo, will be held Wednesday, Sept. 6, and Thursday, Sept. 7, at the car dealership, 142 N. Miles. It will be from noon to 7 p.m. on Wednesday and 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Thursday. Donors will be given a T-shirt, ice cream and hot dogs. Donors may give every 56 days. All local donors except those who gave at the last regular blood drive are eligible to give at this time. Shown with Stagner are Mildred Fuhrmann, left, co-chair of the Women's Division blood bank committee, and Mary Panciera, a member of the committee.

Fisher claims Hutchison's lead due to news coverage

By LINDA LEAVELL
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Kay Bailey Hutchison's widening lead in the U.S. Senate race can be attributed to the news coverage she received this summer as an incumbent, said her trailing Democratic challenger, Richard Fisher.

Fisher said he spent the summer quietly undertaking his "Dairy Queen" Blizzards, gizzards and doughnuts" tour of small Texas communities. But as the campaign heats up this fall, his name will return to prominence and "we'll pull up even with her and beat her," he said Wednesday.

A new Texas Poll, conducted Aug. 18-27, shows that if the election were today, 49 percent of likely voters would choose the GOP candidate, Mrs. Hutchison, while 30 percent favor Fisher. Nineteen percent were undecided and 2 percent would select another candidate.

The poll's margin of error is plus or minus 4 percentage points, meaning each candidate's support could vary up or down by that much.

Four months ago, a statewide poll showed Fisher and Mrs. Hutchison both drawing 44 percent of the vote. But the Democrat said he's not worried about the new survey showing Mrs. Hutchison's tightening grip on the Senate post.

"If I'd listened to the pollsters, I wouldn't have run in the first place," he said.

Mrs. Hutchison did not mention the poll during her Wednesday address to the Rotary Club of Dallas, but spoke after the meeting about why she believes the gap between the candidates is widening.

"The people of Texas have seen Richard Fisher waffling on major issues and they've seen me standing firm on the very important issues that are in Congress -- the health care plan, the crime bill," she said.

In her speech, Mrs. Hutchison discussed her year as a rookie senator, including her opposition to President Clinton's health care reform plan and the recently passed crime bill. She also explained her efforts to help border states seek millions of dollars in federal reimbursements for costs involving illegal aliens.

Mrs. Hutchison won the Senate seat from Bob Krueger in a special election last year. Gov. Ann Richards appointed Krueger to the seat to replace Texas Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, who was named Clinton's treasury secretary.

Mrs. Hutchison said she supported the Senate version of the crime bill, but not the revised $30 billion measure that passed. The bill approved last Thursday bans numerous assault-style weapons, helps pay for more police, builds more prisons and funds social programs designed to prevent crime.

Fisher said he would have voted for the bill. He seized upon the Republicans' opposition to funding a midnight basketball league, a program he said was one of former President Bush's points of light. He called the "debate hypocrisy and obstruction for obstruction's sake."

Mrs. Hutchison said the Democrats' new tactic for passing legislation is to tell dissenters, "You're a part of gridlock. You are obstructionists."

The Democratic challenger also said he was pleased to receive a fund-raising letter from former first lady Barbara Bush touting "a dynamic, young, successful business person."

"We can no longer afford a professional politician. We need someone who has met a payroll, hired and fired and paid taxes. We need someone who has worked in his community, paid his dues so to speak," the letter states.

"I thought this letter was about me. I was just delighted to get her endorsement," joked Fisher, a Dallas millionaire businessman.

The letter is on behalf of Mrs. Bush's son, Republican George W. Bush, who is running against Richards in the gubernatorial campaign.

Lawsuit against team owners called election year diversion

By PAULINE ARRILLAGA
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - A lawsuit accusing Texas Rangers managing general partner George W. Bush and other Rangers owners of conspiring to obtain land surrounding The Ballpark in Arlington is nothing but an election-year diversion, says the ballclub's president.

"This is the silly season in politics, and George is running for governor. So I guess you kind of have to expect things like this because of his running for governor," Tom Schieffer, who is also a limited partner in the team, said Wednesday.

The lawsuit, filed Friday in Harris County district court, accuses Bush and his Rangers partners of coercing the city of Arlington to condemn private property for ventures benefiting the Rangers.

Bush, the Republican candidate for governor, has campaigned in part on landowners' rights. He owns 1.8 percent of the Rangers.

Bush campaign spokesman Reggie Bashur referred comments concerning the lawsuit to Rangers officials.

"There certainly was no conspiracy," said Schieffer, who also is named in the lawsuit. "We don't have anything to be ashamed of. I think we built the finest facility in baseball, and I think people would agree with that."

Members of the Charles Robert Mathes family accuse the Rangers and the club's law firm, Jackson & Walker, of violating fair business practices by conspiring to obtain their property. Jackson & Walker was representing both the Rangers and the Matheses when the city of Arlington began proceedings to acquire the land for the Rangers' sports-entertainment complex, the suit says.

The property owners contend the firm and the Rangers worked together to drive down offers to buy the land and coerce city officials to condemn the land for private use.

Cities generally are authorized to condemn land only for a public purpose.

"(The Rangers) wanted to have a monopoly on that entire location and the only way for them to get the monopoly ... was to use their political power to change the law in Texas and use their political power to coerce the city to use this new law to condemn all of their competitors in the area," said Glenn Sodd, a Corsicana attorney representing the landowners.

"They used the threat of leaving Arlington - a place we don't think they ever intended to leave - to coerce city officials into giving up $135 million in taxpayer funds to induce them to stay in Arlington," Sodd said.

The lawsuit seeks an undisclosed amount of actual and punitive damages.

Messages left Wednesday at the public relations office of Jackson & Walker were not returned. Jackson & Walker, based in Dallas, has offices in Houston.

Rangers limited partner Gerald Haddock, who worked at Jackson & Walker from 1990 to early 1994 and is named in the lawsuit, said he had not yet seen the lawsuit but that the allegations appeared to be unwarranted.

"I'm not familiar with the current status of the proceedings, but based on my knowledge of the various transactions, the allegations are without merit," Haddock said.

The condemnation involves approximately 12 acres of land located just east of the new ballpark that the Rangers already have developed for parking and other facilities. The city of Arlington and the Arlington Sports Facilities Development Authority filed suit to acquire the land in 1991.

Guilty pleas entered here

Sentences were pronounced on defendants who entered guilty pleas in 222nd District Court Wednesday.

On a plea of guilty to burglary of a motor vehicle, Amanda Cavazos Losolla, 18, was given a sentence of four years deferred adjudication probation. Restitution of $300 by the defendant also was ordered.

Raymond Uvalde, 27, charged with injury to an elderly individual, entered a guilty plea to a lesser included offense of recklessly causing injury to an elderly individual. He was sentenced to a year in Deaf Smith County jail.

On the state's motion to revoke probation of Noe Orta Jr., Judge David Wesley Gulley issued an agreed order modifying probation.

Orta was sentenced to complete a term in the Taylor County Restitution Center, then placed on intensive supervision for three months. His probation also was extended one year. Original sentence was seven years' probation.

Club to sell videos

Football fans may purchase video copies of all Hereford varsity football games this fall through a project of the Hereford Key Club. The band will be included on each video. Individual game videos will cost $15 each with the full season priced at $100, excluding playoff games. Interested persons may call Tyson at 364-2954 or Keith at 364-0480.

Clouds clearing for weekend

A 20 percent chance of showers Thursday night should be the end of the rain cycle as skies clear Friday for the Labor Day weekend. Hereford's rain total edged up by .17-inch during the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. Thursday, bringing the two-day total to .66. High temperature Wednesday was 76 degrees and the low was 62 degrees. Low Friday morning will be around 60 degrees with southeast to south winds at 5-15 mph. Areas of morning fog Friday will change to partly cloudy skies. High should be in the lower 80s, with winds south to southwest 5-15 mph. The weekend forecast calls for partly cloudy skies, lows in the 60s and highs in the 80s Saturday, warming into the low 90s by Monday.

Recycling day scheduled

Hereford Beautification Alliance and Community School will host a recycling campaign Saturday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on the St. Anthony School parking lot. Items to be accepted are newspapers, aluminum, metals or car batteries. Residents are encouraged to participate in the recycling program.

Immunization schedule noted

The Texas Department of Health has announced its September immunization clinic schedule for Hereford. Vaccines against polio, diphtheria, lockjaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella, mumps and HIB (hemophilus influenzae type B) will be offered. The Texas Department of Health charges to help with the cost of keeping the clinic open. Charges are based on family income and size and the ability to pay. Regular clinics will be held from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. The clinic will be on Thursday, Sept. 1, then Sept. 8, 22 and 29 in the Health Department offices, 205 W. Fourth St., Suite B.

Stiff measures asked in domestic violence

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Victims of domestic violence and their advocates have made poignant pleas for stiffer measures against a problem one woman called "terrorism in the home."

A special legislative panel Wednesday sought West Texans' experiences with family violence and their ideas on fighting it.

Speakers argued for more consistent and stringent laws against domestic abuse. They also pushed for more steps preventing the violence in the first place.

"We cannot afford to allow this attitude of indifference to persist," state Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas, told the audience. "We must intervene and we must intervene now."

State Sen. Mike Moncrief, chairman of the committee, opened Wednesday's public hearing with the statistic that 156,000 domestic violence cases were reported in Texas last year.

"We refuse to sit idly by and allow the continuation of an attitude of when a man assaults another man, it's assault. When he does the same thing to his spouse, it's a family spat or a domestic problem," said Moncrief, D-Fort Worth. "Assault is assault, regardless."

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock created the senate committee in June in the wake of O.J. Simpson's arrest in the slayings of his ex-wife and her friend. The committee will report to the Legislature after gathering testimony statewide.

Sheryl Cates, executive director of Women's Protective Services Inc., testified that the agency served 5,000 women and children in 12 counties around Lubbock last year. Ms. Cates described the frustrations of absorbing abused women and children into overcrowded shelters.

Junta leader, cohorts would be arrested in invasion of Haiti

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - American troops invading Haiti would arrest Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and turn him over to the Caribbean country's lawful government, a senior U.S. official warns.

With training of hundreds of mostly Caribbean troops about to begin, Deputy Secretary of State Strobe Talbott said Wednesday "it's a dead certainty" Cedras and his cohorts would be apprehended and turned over to the elected government of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The predominantly American military force would restore Aristide to power. The politician-priest was ousted three years ago by the junta.

At a news conference with Talbott, Deputy Defense Secretary John M. Deutch said American troops will be dispatched to Haiti - either to expel Cedras and his lieutenants from power or to help restore order if they yielded to international pressure and departed.

Deutch said some 10,000 U.S. troops would be in the coalition force, supplemented by up to 1,000 from other hemisphere countries. He said the point of such a large force was to minimize American and Haitian casualties.

Clinton administration officials have warned Cedras for months he is running the risk of an invasion. Deutch's statement was the toughest so far, though he provided no timetable for moving against Cedras.

Denying reports the Pentagon was reluctant to act, Deutch said there was no policy disagreement with the State Department, usually depicted in the media as more prone to use the force authorized by the U.N. Security Council in July.

Even so, Talbott said force would be "a last resort," adding: "We want to make sure we use other avenues."

Deutch and Talbott headed a U.S. delegation that went to Kingston, Jamaica, on Tuesday and won unanimous support of the 13-nation Caribbean Community and Common Market for the U.N. resolution. They then went to the Dominican Republic to check on infiltration of supplies to Haiti in defiance of a U.N. embargo.

Talbott said they detected during a helicopter ride a large, makeshift pipeline, apparently to carry oil, as well as several large barrels of oil being carried across the border to Haiti. He said the Dominican government had promised to enforce the embargo with troops.

Administration officials are hopeful three nations, the Bahamas, Antigua and Guyana, which did not commit troops on Tuesday will do so eventually. They would supplement the troops Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Belize agreed in Kingston to provide.

Some 30 U.S. Army specialists will train the Caribbean soldiers, a senior Pentagon official said.

They will participate in about two to three weeks of training at the Roosevelt Roads naval base in Puerto Rico. It is expected to take up to two weeks to get the Caribbean unit organized before training can begin. Troops will be trained in crowd control, first aid, manning roadblocks, weapons use, communications and logistical issues, said the Pentagon official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Deutch dismissed any suggestion the Caribbean countries were making only a symbolic contribution. He said they would be part of the military coalition and also help in stabilizing the country.

However, other officials said that if there is an invasion, only Americans would be in the initial wave. Deutch emphasized they would be under the command of American officers.

Removal of longhorns by TPWD draws ire of Presidio residents

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Longhorn cattle grazing on the range are as much a part of Texas as cowboys, oil and the Alamo.

So when the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said it was going to remove 200 longhorn steer from a mountainous state park in West Texas, residents of Presidio County, which houses the park, kicked up more fuss than an angry bronco.

"It's a kick in the teeth that just hurts," said Dan Bodine, Presidio County justice of the peace. "Cattle used to be a driving force in this state and it's our heritage out here."

Parks and Wildlife officials say they can't afford to run the park and take care of the cattle too.

John Ferguson, president of the Presidio Chamber of Commerce, got his organization to pass a resolution in July condemning the move, and the city council in the town of 3,072 people followed suit.

Bodine describes Presidio as a proud but "poor little town" in need of tourism to help keep the town's economy alive.

Bodine said when the state bought the Big Bend Ranch in 1988, officials implied they would work with the county to construct a tourist attraction that modeled a working ranch and featured the cattle.

"The implied promise was that sooner or later we would have some tourist dollars generated back into the town and that we would be more than repaid for the income we lost when the state bought the land," Bodine said.

"We have been waiting and waiting and the longhorns are a symbol of something we could use to develop tourism. Now they are being taken away."

In May, the Parks and Wildlife Commission voted to auction the cattle off through a catalogue beginning in September. The cows are direct descendants of longhorns from the Wichita Mountains National Wildlife Refuge, where remnants of the breed were taken in the 1920s to save it from extinction.

Mickey Burleson, a member of the nine-person commission that voted unanimously to remove the cattle, said cost was the decisive issue.

"It's a fairly small herd, but they are very expensive to maintain," said Ms. Burleson. "We have a small staff, old pipelines and it takes money to keep water in areas where the cattle were going to be. It's not in keeping with the management of a natural area."

Bill Rutledge, a spokesman for Parks and Wildlife, said tourism in Presidio would not likely decline because the cows are being removed. He said the jagged canyons amid the 460-square-mile state park near the Texas-Mexico border will draw the majority of visitors.

"It's not like we had the longhorns at Big Bend penned up and you just drive by and see the cattle," Rutledge said. "Maybe if we were having cattle drives, like City Slickers, that would be an attraction. But they were all spread out over a huge area."

Local residents blame the Texas Sierra Club, an environmental advocacy group, for conspiring to have the cows removed by artificially driving up anti-cattle responses submitted to Parks and Wildlife.

Bodine said, "The Sierra Club is telling people, 'We're gonna take food out of your mouths so we can have a few more mountain lions.' That makes people angry."

Scott Royder, state conservation director for the Texas Sierra Club, said his organization pushed for the cattle removal at the park's inception because the group considers the longhorns harmful to the area.

Royder acknowledges the group mentioned the issue in articles about the management plan, but he said that wasn't unusual.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm itching to reply to "Veterans of Supermarket Tangels." That checkout clerk had lots to say about rude customers. I wonder if she is aware that customers may have a few gripes from the other side of the counter. Here's a little advice on how to make a shopper's life miserable:

1. Ring up the items so fast that the cash register sounds like an adding machine. It's fun for the shopper to discover, after she gets home, that she paid $1.69 for a 69-cent box of cereal. She then has the enjoyable task of returning to the store for a refund. The walk will be good for her.

2. Throw the canned goods down on the counter as if you were bowling. With a little luck, you can break a few eggs and a squash loaf of bread.

3. Wait until the 5:00 rush to county our money and change the cash register tapes. It's a thrill to stand in line and catch you fumbling around for half an hour. Every housewife adores shopping and hates to leave the store.

4. Pack everything in one big bag. When the customer gets out of the store, the bottom will fall out and she'll get another good look at everything she bought. It will give her an opportunity to see if she has everything she needs. Also, it's wonderful exercise to chase cans down the street.

I can think of plenty more, but this will do for now. Thanks for a chance to speak my piece.--The Customer Hasn't Been Right Since World War II was pregnant, he took off, and now, he wants a divorce.

My question is, what should I do about birth announcements? It seems like a stupid question, but I am stumped. I know I'll be having this baby alone. Any suggestions?--Mama

DEAR MAMA: Why send announcements? Your close friends will know you had the baby, and the others will learn about it eventually. I have always regarded announcements of any kind as "invoices."

If you insist on sending birth announcements, ignore the fact that you are separated. Your husband is the baby's father, and that's the only thing that matters.

Reports top Rebekah's meeting here

Reports were presented during the meeting Tuesday evening of Hereford Rebekah Lodge 228.

Noble Grand Dorothy Lundry presided. Appreciation was expressed to members who helped make the taco supper a success.

Eight visits to the sick, 45 cheer cards, 10 dishes of food and one floral arrangement were reported.

Members were reminded that tickets will be available until Dec. 13 on the set of wood-carved reindeer to be given away.

Practice was held for the Degree Team.

Susie Curtsinger was hostess for the evening. Attending, in addition to Curtsinger and Lundry, were Ocie Bolton, Illy Inman, Irene Merritt, Frankie Ruland, Ursalee Jacobsen, Faye Brownlow, Ruby Baker, Tony Irlbeck, Rosalie Northcutt, Ben Conklin, Anna Conklin, Peggy Lemons, Mary Lou Weatherford and Nan Rogers.

It is amazing how few people are conscious of the importance of the art of lying in bed.--Lin Yutang

DEAR WORLD WAR: Your letter was my laugh for the day. Thanks a heap for putting your gripes down on paper. It's a great way to unload your hostility.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband blames me because we have no friends. He says I am too quiet and people think I'm stupid.

The real reason we have no friends is HE doesn't shut his mouth. The man is an authority on everything. He turns every conversation into the Spanish Inquisition, asking questions about things that are none of his business. He loves to get into people's personal lives and is a bigger gossip than any woman I know. What can I do to get him to see this?--The Mouse

DEAR M.: I know the type. Three mouths and no ears. I suggest that you discuss the "no friends" problem with a counselor. If the counselor is halfway bright, he'll get the picture and make sure Mr. Yacketyack gets the message.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am six months pregnant and very happy about it. My husband and I have been trying to have a baby for two years. The problem is that we've been separated for three months. After he learned I

Slim down those juicy burgers with a couple of fat-trimming tricks

For AP Special Features

Slim down that juicy burger with a couple of fat-trimming tricks. Start with 90- to 95-percent lean beef and mix in some ground chicken. Use an egg white instead of a whole egg to hold the patties together. And if it's a cheeseburger you crave, top the hot patty with a slice of low-fat cheese. Overall, you'll save 3 grams of fat and almost 100 milligrams of cholesterol over regular burgers. Serve the patties in whole-grain buns and low-fat condiments.

Slick Chick 'n' Beef Burgers

1 egg white
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/3 cup finely chopped, canned mushrooms
1/3 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup rolled oats (regular or instant)
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
8 ounces lean ground chicken
8 ounces extra-lean (90- to 95-percent) ground beef
4 whole-wheat hamburger buns, toasted

Desired condiments, such as lettuce, sliced tomatoes, fresh onion rings, mustard, ketchup or barbecue sauce

In a medium mixing bowl combine egg white and Worcestershire sauce. Stir in mushrooms, chopped onion, oats, garlic salt and pepper. Add ground chicken and ground beef; mix well.

Shape the meat mixture into four 1/2-inch-thick patties. Grill the patties, uncovered, directly over medium coals about 15 minutes or until well-done, turning patties once during cooking. (Or, broil patties on the unheated rack of a broiler pan 4 to 5 inches from the heat about 15 minutes or until well done, turning patties once.)

Serve the hot patties in hamburger buns with your choice of condiments. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 301 cal., 11 g total fat (3 g sat. fat), 63 mg chol., 500 mg sodium, 26 g carbo., 2 g fiber, 24 g pro. RDA: 1 percent vit. A, 13 percent vit. C, 9 percent calcium, 21 percent iron.

Each year, more than 100 million Americans drive about 155 billion miles on their vacation trips. That many miles can put a lot of wear on a car, and there's nothing like car trouble to put the brakes on a family excursion.

Best speaker honors given Toastmaster

Joe Weaver claimed best speaker honors at the Thursday morning meeting of Hereford Toastmasters.

Joe Don Cummings presided and Dave Kimmel led the pledge. Jigger Rowland said the invocation.

Toastmaster was Margaret Del Toro and Rick Jackson was timer; Dee Hamilton, AH counter, and Jigger Rowland, grammarian.

Topic master was Mike Harris and topic speakers were Sharon Cramer, Dee Hamilton, Wayne Winget, Ed Gilbert and Nancy Griego.

Speakers were Clark Andrews and Weaver. Evaluators were Dave Kimmel and Sharon Cramer. Dee Hamilton earned best topic speaker honors.

Guests at the meeting were Adolfo Del Toro and Susan Hennessey.

Cross country teams return seasoned runners

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Although it's too early to tell exactly how good her teams will be, at least Hereford cross country coach Martha Emerson knows she'll have a boys' team.

Hereford didn't have enough boys to enter a team in the District 1-4A meet last year—five is the minimum. This year, there are 16 boys out for cross country, as well as 17 girls. In all, there are 17 runners with either varsity or junior varsity experience.

"We will be young, but we have some experience," Emerson said. "This should be the best boys' team we have had in several years if these guys will continue to work hard and improve. The girls can be good, but they must improve quickly. I feel we are behind where we should be since we have worked out for four weeks."

The cross country runners will compete in their first meet of the season Saturday in Borger, starting at 9:30 a.m.

The girls' team returns six girls off last year's team, which finished third in the district. Those are Bethany Townsend, Michelle Garza, Karon Harder, Jamie Harrison, Nora Herrera and Marie Crox. Girls with JV experience are Vanessa Garcia, Beverly Celaya, Anna Witkowski, Ana Torres and Michelle Ochoa. Of six newcomers, freshman Teresa Lopez is the best bet to run varsity this year.

Boys with varsity experience are Lee Mungia, Justin Criner, Miguel Carrillo and Josh Pena, who is working back after recently breaking his ankle. Sammy Ruiz ran last year on the JV, and Justin McDowell moved to Hereford after running on the JV at Coronado High in Lubbock. The best of the newcomers are sophomores Tommy Mather and Pedro Del Hoyo and freshman Inez Lopez.

Emerson expects most of the teams in District 1-4A to be at the Borger meet.

"Maybe we'll see how we stack up, even though it's early," she said. "We'll see if we're anywhere in the ballpark."

Randall won the girls' district crown last year, with Borger second. Emerson expects both to top the field again, with Hereford right there.

"Even though Randall graduated some, they always seem to fill in," she said.

Canyon joins the district after winning five straight state titles in Class 3A. Canyon is a contender in the district, but the jump to 4A from 3A is a tough one, especially in cross country. The Lady Eagles have won nearly 50 consecutive meets, but they've done that competing in 3A-2A-1A divisions. Now they'll be forced to compete in the 5A-4A divisions.

"I think their winning record will go down, but they'll contend," Emerson said. "I don't see them winning every meet, but they'll be in it."

In the boys race, Borger and Pampa are Emerson's picks, with Caprock right behind. Canyon's boys aren't a strong as the girls, but they're still good. And she doesn't rule out the Hereford boys.

"I'd like to think that our boys would be a darkhorse, (that they'd) come on and do some good by the end of the season," she said.

Herd favored by three points

Hereford is a three-point favorite over Tascosa, according to the Harris Rating System. The Herd and the Rebels help open the high school football season at 7:30 tonight in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium.

Neither team gets much respect from the Harris system. Hereford is ranked No. 109 out of 187 schools in all of Class 4A, while Tascosa is 187th out of 238 schools in Class 5A.

Sulphur Springs is ranked first in 4A with a power rating of 211. The highest ranked team from west Texas is No. 11 Andrews, with a rating of 199.

Pampa is the top team from District 1-4A by a hair over Randall.

Both have ratings of 187, but Pampa is ranked 35th and Randall is 36th. Other teams in 1-4A are: Borger, 85th at 177; Hereford, 109th at 174; Dumas, 148th at 166; Caprock, 167th at 159; and Canyon, 183rd at 152.

Other west Texas teams besides Andrews are: Sweetwater, 18th at 196; Frenship, 39th at 186; Lubbock Estacado, 47th at 185; Big Spring, 56th at 183; Monahans, 66th at 182; Levelland, 104th at 175; Lamesa, 125th at 171; Snyder, 143rd at 167; and Pecos, 146th at 166.

In other area games, Harris picks Randall to win by 14 tonight at Lubbock High. In games set for Friday, Harris picks: Amarillo High by 7 at Clovis, N.M.; Odessa High by 7 at Palo Duro; Tulia by 17 at Canyon; Levelland by 16 at Caprock; Big Spring by 6 at home against Borger; Dumas by 3 at home against Dalhart; River Road by 14 at Friona; Springlake-Earth by 20 at Dimmitt; and White Deer by 1 at Vega.

Pampa hosts Garden City, Kan., which is not rated.

Strike could run into '95

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As the chance of completing the 1994 season dwindles, the likelihood of the baseball strike extending into 1995 rises.

"It's a grave source of concern," acting commissioner Bud Selig said Wednesday after federal mediators failed to call for bargaining to resume. "But as bad as the short-term pain is - and it's bad - the long-term pain of not solving this problem is worse."

The baseball strike completes its third week today with no movement. Federal mediators met Wednesday for three hours with management negotiator Richard Ravitch and for 15 minutes with union head Donald Fehr. They found there was no reason to call another bargaining session.

"They're out of ideas at the moment," Fehr said.

Ravitch said owners never would abandon their insistence on getting cost certainty.

"I'm very disappointed," he said. "The mediators are there to determine what the give and take is. If they (the union) are not willing to talk about costs, there's nothing to talk about."

Fehr said owners never would get a salary cap and said every proposal management suggested would restrict players.

"As far as we can figure out, when they use terms like 'aggregate salary costs,' 'cost controls,' 'cost certainty,' etcetera, they are merely euphemisms for salary cap," Fehr said.

In the event there is no more

Smith sees tough day for rushing

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - Emmitt Smith's quest for a fourth straight rushing title starts this Sunday, but he's not expecting to break any records against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"It's going to be a tough game for me because Pittsburgh uses an eight-man front a lot," Smith said. "I don't expect nothing big against the Steelers. There won't be a lot of long runs."

Smith held out for the first two games last season, both losses for the Dallas Cowboys. Owner Jerry Jones quickly gave in to Smith's contract demands and Smith won his third rushing title with 1,486 yards.

Now Smith has a chance to join Jim Brown as the only player to win four straight titles, but he says it doesn't really matter.

"I don't care if I get outrushed all year long and we get to Miami, (for the Super Bowl) then I'm happy," he said. "I'm just glad to get all that preseason hoopla over with. It's time to get focused and load the wagons."

Pittsburgh coach Bill Cowher said a day of watching film of Smith gives a team a jolt.

"His balance and vision is unmatched in the league," Cowher said. "This guy sees holes we couldn't even see on television. He has great cutback ability. A defensive player can get hurt if he sticks his nose where he's not supposed to be. Smith will exploit you. Then you think you have him down and he pops out of a pile. You've got to get him surrounded."

One of Smith's top rivals for the rushing crown, Pittsburgh's Barry Foster, said he was impressed by Smith's toughness.

"I was impressed that he did a great job when he was hurt," said Foster, who has been criticized at times for not playing hurt. "He's a class back."

Smith's durability for the 1994 season has been questioned. He suffered a shoulder injury that required off-season surgery. In a limited preseason, Smith rushed 26 times for 120 yards and scored a touchdown.

Cowboys can't court Casillas

IRVING, Texas (AP) - An NFL source says defensive tackle Tony Casillas can't return to the Dallas Cowboys under terms of the release agreement he signed with the Kansas City Chiefs.

The Chiefs included the provision because they suspected the Cowboys of tampering with Casillas, according to a report in today's editions of The Dallas Morning News.

The Cowboys are the only team not allowed to pursue Casillas, who signed a four-year, $6 million deal with Kansas City before the preseason, then refused to report to the Chiefs' camp.

Until they found out Aug. 17 that they couldn't go after Casillas, the Cowboys were prepared to offer Casillas as much as $500,000 for this season, the Morning News reported.

NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue still is investigating the tampering allegations, the newspaper reported. Meanwhile, Casillas, a nine-year veteran who helped the Cowboys win two Super Bowls, says he just wants to play football.

"I know that after all that's happened the past few months, people think I'm nuts," Casillas said. "But I had to give up the money. I had no choice."

In addition to creating suspicion about tampering, Casillas' decision not to join the Chiefs also spawned a rash of rumors about his mental health, his physical health and his desire to play football.

"I want to play football," Casillas told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "There are a lot of teams I'd like to play for, including the Cowboys. But I have about as much chance of playing for the Cowboys as I do of getting hit by a blimp."

Casillas now is prepared to join the Los Angeles Raiders, Washington Redskins, New York Jets or Philadelphia Eagles, whichever team weighs in with the highest bid.

Casillas told the Star-Telegram he left the Chiefs because of dizzy spells from medication his doctor prescribed for high blood pressure. The Chiefs, he said, threatened to put him on the non-football injury list, which would have cost his salary and kept him inactive.

"Kansas City gave me a deadline. ... In the end, I didn't make their deadline, so they felt they had to do something," he said.

As for allegations of tampering by the Cowboys, Casillas said absolutely not.

"I can say that there was no tampering. (Coach) Barry Switzer and I said 'hi' to each other, we talked about my Super Bowl ring, and we wished each other luck. I said how much I would've liked playing for him again (as Casillas did at Oklahoma), and he said nice things about me," he said.

Lathon to share starting duties

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers defensive coordinator Jeff Fisher has decided to double up defenses at right end.

Outspoken Lamar Lathon announced on Tuesday that he would be the starting defensive right end and his demand was partly met by Fisher, who said on Wednesday that Lathon and Keith McCants would share the position.

"We've got two starters at right end," Fisher said. "Nobody won the job and nobody lost it. They'll both be in there on the nickel."

Lathon accepted. "As far as being No. 1, we're both No. 1," Lathon said. "We will both make the right side better than it's ever been. You've got two guys there in the prime of their careers."

Lathon, a linebacker throughout his career, already has a name for his pass rushing skills. It's the Robo-rush, using his outstanding speed to get to the passer instead of strength.

Lathon led the team in preseason with four sacks for 43 yards in losses.

"I didn't consent to a transition from linebacker to defensive end to play second string to no one," Lathon said on Tuesday.

He softened that on Wednesday.

Steelers sign star TE Green

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Everything about Pittsburgh Steelers tight end Eric Green exudes big. His size: 6-foot-5, 290 pounds. His size-17 shoes. His statistics: 63 catches last season and 20 touchdowns in four years.

He's big in every way. Except what he wants most - salary.

The Steelers wouldn't give him the big money he wants, so Green turned down what many would consider a ransom - $10 million over five years - to accept a one-year, $1.434 million tender offer. He's expected to play Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys.

'50s look is back for men's styles

By MARY MARTIN NIEPOLD
For AP Special Features
NEW YORK (AP) - American menswear designers have come back home for Spring 1995.

They've eschewed direction from Europe and gone straight to the style that serves them and their customers best: good, reliable American clothes that are pleasant to see, comfortable to wear and suitable for any occasion.

There's a strong '50s engineering to many of the collections - narrow, flat-front trousers, Perry Como cardigans, Eisenhower jackets, varsity windbreakers, argyle V-necks, sharkskin fabrics, even white socks. We last saw them in the 1970s, but these comfort-first postwar styles look new.

What a relief to see American designers in their own milieu.

Does a three-button suit sound boring? Not if it's in a honeycomb wool from Calvin Klein, in ribbed wool from Nick Hilton or paired with a buttoned-up crepe cargo vest from Alexander Julian.

Another three-button navy blazer? It looks right when Tommy Hilfiger adds it to elegant drawing linen trousers. Knit sweaters? Forget crewnecks with baggy midribs. Even more comfortable are oversized linen sweaters that slope off the shoulder and gently taper over hips - Donna Karan's view of sex appeal. When does an American invention like the tuxedo look new again? When Joseph Abboud designs it in linen with a three-button jacket.

For three days recently, while New York sizzled in a midsummer heat wave, American menswear designers - and some international ones - looked forward to a laid-back Spring '95. In so doing, they embraced an effortless dressing that has always been the hallmark of quintessential American style: stylish suits that look comfortable and comfortable sportswear that looks stylish.

Trends include a lot of '50s inspiration (updated by Forrest Gump shirts), '70s disco party clothes and timeless business styles. The most modern suits returned to the two-button styles that filled every closet just a year or two ago.

THREE-BUTTON JACKET. In linen, wool, seersucker or satin, this is THE jacket of the season. No longer emerging, three-button styles are mainstream. Nick Hilton thinks they will dominate the future.

"It makes sense," he said. "It's better looking, more flattering, and men can understand it."

For high-button types, there are plenty of four- and five-button styles to wear.

NEHRU JACKET. It's been creeping our way. Now it's here. Tommy Hilfiger likes it in red wool or gold batik. Charivari Artifact makes it in pewter satin. At Zegna and Josph Abboud, Nehru collars look even more accessible on shirts.

TWO-BUTTON JACKET. Calvin Klein made the case for two-buttons in his longer-cut suit jackets. Now the silhouette looks modern because there are so few out there.

SACK JACKETS and SHIRT JACKETS. Loose and unconstructed, they're still on the horizon, in four- and five-button styles, and they look comfortable in linen from Barry Bricklen, Alexander Julian and Joseph Abboud.

BAND-COLLAR SHIRTS. Every designer has them, probably because they give a finished look when buttoned to the top and worn under sweaters, vests and jackets.

FLAT-FRONT TROUSERS. This '50s style is the newest trouser direction, but most designers banked on double-pleat styles, plus drawing trousers and loose bermudas for off hours.

SILVER, PEWTER, GRAY. Anthracite works, too. In all of its shades, Donna Karan loved it for suits, sweaters, pants, vests, sarongs. At Basco, it has a slight sheen as a sharkskin windbreaker. At Boing, it danced to Barry White disco music as a silver sweater set. At John Bartlett, gray is laminated in a glen plaid windbreaker.

COLOR. Even Calvin Klein pulled out blue, red and green for sport jackets. Joop blazed the runway with orange overalls. Pepto pink and menthol green recalled the '50s, but blues looked best, either in petrol or indigo for suits or pastels for shirts. White and beige were the colors of choice elsewhere.

CRINKLE. Actors Peter Gallagher and Billy Baldwin saw it first as a crinkle trench coat in Calvin Klein's collection. As shirts, suits and pants, crinkle looks best for the clubs.

PLAID. It is timeless, either as a Persian red three-button sport jacket at Zegna or a windowpane cream and navy plaid at Hilfiger. In Forrest Gump shirts at Basco, baby blue plaid looks cool, nostalgic and romantic.

TECHNO FABRICS. The real news is here. Modern weaving and knitting technology makes for interesting textures, colors and surface mixes. Donna Karan likes loose weaves, silky surfaces and nubby textures. At Calvin Klein, breakthroughs include lacquered linen, rubberized cotton, wool seersucker and linen knit. Joseph Abboud choices include Tusshah silk, tapestry linen, crinkled suede and hopsack.

Through it all, there's an air of intrigue for Spring '95. Once again, men can feel comfortable and look memorable with the best style of all - good ol' American finesse.

Designers announce what's stylish for ladies this fall

By FRANCINE PARNES
For AP Special Features

Even as the late summer sun approaches melting point, fuzzy mohair sweaters and slick patent leather boots in department store windows signal cooler days ahead.

Those who have yet to tackle spring cleaning may find the approach of fall too much. But get a grip. Forget that mohair sounds itchy and patent sounds sticky and start thinking about plugging the gaps in your fall wardrobe.

Touchable textures are important this season. So if you're itching to be stylish, grab a mohair sweater or skirt, a nubby boucle suit, a velvet A-line dress or a cuddly swing coat in shearing, real or faux.

"Anything that feels great to the hand is selling," says Benny Lin, fashion director of Macy's in New York. "Like a cropped long-sleeved mohair cardigan or crewneck, preferably in ivory. Or a schoolgirlish tweed jumper in tones of gray, worn with a crisp white cotton shirt."

Early winners, Lin says, include vests and cropped pullovers in mohair such as those from Retango and Anna Sui.

Synthetics are also stylish. Plush, frankly-fake furs in leopard, zebra and pony are doing well.

"There's a wonderful Chanel black and white faux fur cropped jacket and matching hat that's selling, as well as a private-label black faux beaver vest with red trim," says Adrienne Hoyer, senior vice president for designer apparel at I. Magnin in San Francisco.

Super-shiny vinyl, with its bad-babe appeal, is fall's new leather. It's doing well in a range of clothing and accessories, from motorcycle jackets to mini backpacks.

And for a bit of evening glitz, shimmery metallic slip dresses are selling.

"The A-line slip dress plus T-shirt is a very important idea for both casual and social occasions," says Hope Brick, fashion director for Foley's in Houston. "What makes it new for fall is the addition of shine, in slick silver or gold, teamed with a georgette T-shirt."

Knee-length skirts look new at Calvin Klein and DKNY and are expected to give short and sassy skating skirts competition as the fashionable length of the season.

Retailers say it's not that this mid-length is news but that top fashion houses find it appealing.

"What might seem advanced for the younger, trendier audience has always been a wardrobe mainstay for the bulk of our consumers," Brick says.

Shortie kilts in plaids and solids are doing well at Joslins in Denver. "We're selling to those customers who like the concept of a fun, flirty skirt," says Christine Kern, Joslins' fashion coordinator.

Plaids go beyond kilts at Foley's. "We have seen plaid pleated miniskirts begin to sell," Brick says, "and plaid backpacks have been selling phenomenally, as the handbag of the '90s. The tartan aspect makes a whole lot of sense for fall '94."

Color your plaids in shades of brown, which retailers are calling the new black. Or go for high-voltage hues either in plaids or plains.

"We're coming off of several seasons of non-colors," Brick says. "Now we're seeing a total surge in our business as it relates to color. We are anticipating that red will be one of the most important colors of fall. And hot brights are already selling."

Even pants in plaids and brights are considered in good taste if you have the figure.

"We are selling true menswear-inspired trousers in tartans, hounds-tooth and windowpane," Brick says. "And women are finding that a pantsuit is a smart look this season."

Jackets continue as a major player, preferably one with a nipped waist, either cropped or long, says Hoyer of I. Magnin.

"Anything colorful in a wool jacket is selling," she says. "It could be shocking pink or bright green or yellow. A lot of customers are viewing this as a way to perk up a wardrobe."

Footwear has its highs and lows. For those not up to teetering, flat patent leather Mary Janes are ready for another spin. Boots are mostly lower-heeled, too, ranging from knee-high riding boots to ankle-high shoe boots.

But what looks most modern is higher heels, even skinny stilettos.

"Something you must have this season," says Benny Lin of Macy's, "is a great new pair of high heels, preferably in black patent leather with a three-inch heel."

Are they selling? Yes. But, Lin adds, "Whether women will really wear them is another issue."

Prepare meatless meal

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
For AP Special Features

The health and cost-saving benefits of serving a meatless meal at least once a week can't be disputed, especially if it's as high in fiber and as quick to make as this one. Because there's no meat to brown, the filling cooks in the same time it takes to heat through, about 5 minutes.

- Pinto Bean Tacos
- 8 taco shells
  - 15-ounce can pinto beans, rinsed and drained
  - 1/2 cup reduced-sodium tomato sauce
  - 4-ounce can diced green chili peppers, drained
  - 1 teaspoon chili powder
  - 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
  - 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
  - 1-1/2 cups shredded lettuce
  - 1 medium tomato, chopped
  - 1/2 cup shredded reduced-fat Cheddar cheese (2 ounces)
  - Heat taco shells according to package directions.

Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan combine pinto beans, tomato sauce, chili peppers, chili powder, oregano and cumin. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Mash beans slightly, if desired.

Spoon bean mixture into taco shells. Pass lettuce, tomato and cheese for toppings. Serve with salsa, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

 Oh Holy Spirit! Thou Who art all knowing who brightens every path that I may reach my ideal. Thou who giveth me the divine gift of forgetting and forgiving wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me. I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all my blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part again from Thee. Though the illusion of material things abound—my desire is to be with Thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank You for Your mercy on me and my loved ones. Persons should pray three consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be. Publish this prayer once grace has been attained. Grateful for grace attained! PRG

Bush says Richards should be ashamed

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican George W. Bush says Democratic Gov. Ann Richards should be ashamed of a radio ad that says he's been bailed out by "daddy's friends" in business and refers to him as "that young Bush boy."

"How dare Ann Richards demean my family and my business partners with her negative commercial?" Bush, who is managing general partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team and son of the former president, said in a Wednesday statement.

"She should be ashamed, and she must be ashamed, because otherwise she would have told the news media about this commercial before it began airing on small town radio stations," he said.

Richards' campaign spokesman, Chuck McDonald, said her ads are responding to radio commercials by the GOP gubernatorial candidate in Central and East Texas. Bush's ads link Richards to "Washington bureaucrats" who Bush says want to strip away Texans' property rights.

"Obviously, this campaign is going to respond to any attacks launched by the Bush campaign ... They started this business, and they are well aware of it," McDonald said.

He said Richards' ads are running on the radio stations that aired Bush's commercials.

"George Bush wants to apply a double standard to this race," McDonald said. "Mr. Bush believes he can say anything bad about Ann Richards' performance as governor any time he wants, and for us to respond is somehow an affront to him."

In the commercial at issue, a male voice says, "That young Bush boy - you know, the former president's son - he talks a good game, but has he ever done anything?"

A second male voice says, "He makes a big deal about running a baseball team. Fact is, he owns a little more than 1 percent of the Rangers."

"Every business he's been involved with had to be bailed out by daddy's friends. Seems like he always gets to start at the top. And now he expects to do the same thing in state government," says a third male voice.

The announcer concludes, "Most people think we need a governor who really understands what a job is, and they're supporting Gov. Ann Richards."

Bush said none of the businesses he's been involved with had to be bailed out.

"I am proud of my dad and mom and their leadership and integrity, and I'm proud of my business career, which by any objective measure is a success," he said.

Bush contended that he has taken "the high road" in campaigning.

"My radio commercial on property rights outlines the facts of Ann Richards' well-documented flip-flop on inviting the federal government in to take over the private property rights of Texans," he said.

Richards this summer withdrew her support for special federal protection for several Texas waterways after calling the U.S. government "ham-handed."

McDonald said the Bush campaign's advertising has "grossly distorted" Richards' record.

Another radio ad by Richards' campaign says "that lady governor" has brought more jobs to East Texas, while a third jabs Bush over property rights, referring to a lawsuit by some landowners over acquisition of property for The Ballpark in Arlington complex.

The latter spot says, in part, "So George W. Bush says he's all for property rights. Says he doesn't want the government coming in and taking your land away. Well, tell it to the private property owners in Arlington, Texas - the ones who had the misfortune to get between George W. Bush and a fast buck."

Ms. Hughes said the Rangers believe landowners have been fairly compensated for their land, but they have a right to go to court.

She added, "If Ann Richards believes the people of Arlington are not happy with The Ballpark, she should go to Arlington and tell the people there they voted the wrong way" in approving tax money for the facility.
