Getting ready

At schools all over Hereford, teachers, principals, janitors and support staffers are unpacking boxes, cleaning floors, decorating bulletin boards and setting up classrooms -- all in anticipation of the first day of school on Aug. 22. Here, Minerva Rodriguez, secretary at Stanton Special Populations Center, gets her office set up, moving furniture to where she wants it before putting books, computers and other equipment in place.

It's time for Back to School!

Back to school. Three words that evoke a variety of emotions in children, their parents and school teachers. As the Aug. 22 start of school in Deaf Smith County approaches, there is a flurry of activity as parents get school supplies and school clothes ready; children play as hard as they can in the waning days of summer; and school employees put the final touches on vacation maintenance jobs, start putting classrooms back together and generally get ready for the year. On Sunday, The Hereford Brand will tie everything together with our annual Back to School special section. The section -- which has been redesigned from top to bottom from the 1993 offering -- contains a complete guide to getting ready for school. There are registration schedules, supply lists, profiles of local schools -- even a look at the changing sporting scene. In addition, many Hereford businesses are showing their fall clothing lineups and offering special back-to-school specials. Sunday's Hereford Brand -- the first place to go for back to school!

Richards calls for speeding up death row appeal process

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says she wants death row appeals to move faster. Richards said Thursday that she would support a bill in the 1995 Legislature to set time limits for death row appeals. There are 388 inmates awaiting execution in Texas today, and the average death row stay is 10.5 years, she said. "It has been my experience that nothing happens in death penalty cases until an execution is set. Then, and only then, are all sorts of legal challenges filed which generally add years to the time that an inmate spends on death row," Richards said. "What makes more sense is to set well-defined time limits on when an inmate must file his appeal," she said.

Her Republican opponent, George W. Bush, said the governor's proposal was a political move, meant to counter his earlier call for speeding up the backlog of death row cases. "The proposal made by the governor today has nothing to do (with) criminal justice and everything to do with politics. It is all wind up and no delivery," Bush said. But a group that helps find lawyers for Texas death row inmates said better legal representation, not speeding things up, is the answer. Steve Hall of the Texas Resource Center said too many death row inmates lack lawyers and funds for thorough investigations of their cases. "Everyone agrees that the sooner adequate resources and experienced, competent attorneys are available in the process, there is a much greater chance that you will see justice," Hall said.

Prison inmates in a flap over new no-fly trousers

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas prison inmates are up in arms over their new pants. The new design - eliminating the button-fly - is being phased in as the pants come off the inmate assembly line to replace the old ventilated style. That means prisoners with full bladders and new pants can get relief only by dropping their drawers, and some aren't happy about it. Inmate Alan Wade Johnson, who is imprisoned at the Mark Stiles Unit in Beaumont, was concerned enough to fire off letters to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and some legislators. Johnson, serving a life sentence for rape and robbery, called the pants problem "an explosive issue," the Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday. "You (may) crack a smile and laugh about it," Johnson wrote. "But give it time to sink in and think about the consequences of over 100,000 male prisoners wearing female attire and I believe you'll understand (it's) not so funny. "You must understand, masculine identity ... is so much stronger in prison than in society, and the majority are not going to stand for it," Johnson wrote. Standing, it turns out, is a key aspect of discontent with the change. One bemused prison official said angry inmates' primary beef to him has been that the new outfits will force them to assume a ladylike position when nature calls. Female inmates have a choice between a skirt and pants similar to the new men's trousers. A prison official said most of the women choose to wear the pants, which, like the new men's version, lack even the cosmetic touch of a fake fly on the front. Johnson, in his letter to Bullock, urged the state's second-highest official to "consider the emotional impact on those of us who will be forced to dress like women." "I've already gotten about a half-dozen of those letters, raising hell," said Larry Kyle, assistant director of industry for the prison system. "None of the prisoners like the new design because it's not as ... I guess, user friendly." Kyle said the flood of new prisoners entering the system over the past year led to the pants change. A year ago, the system had a little more than 60,000 inmates. And every new customer requires a uniform. Kyle said the flyless pants are significantly faster and slightly cheaper for inmates to manufacture. But in light of the outcry, Kyle said, his staff has begun work on another design that will feature an elastic waistband front and back. The new pants have elastic only in the back. Still, some inmates probably will remain unhappy, no doubt yearning for the manly world of zippers and buttons outside prison walls. Could that have an unintended positive affect on recidivism? "Yeah, maybe it'll do that and be worthwhile," Kyle said. "Maybe this will be an incentive."

Study finds leukemia rates high near Pantex

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A state health study of the area around the Pantex Weapons Plant near Amarillo has shown leukemia rates to be higher downward from the nuclear plant. However, the Texas Department of Health questioned whether the difference is statistically significant. The report, which surveys the years 1981 to 1992, also notes a higher than anticipated death rate from prostate cancer in Potter and Randall counties, which encompass the city of Amarillo. Neither cancer is linked to radiation exposure, the report says. Both findings will be followed up with further investigation, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today. The 15-page study was the second in as many years in response to public concerns about possible health risks from the weapons plant in rural Carson County. The 16,000-acre plant is 17 miles northeast of Amarillo. For decades, Pantex employees have assembled and dismantled nuclear weapons and worked with zeroed in on specific years when cancer deaths were high near the Pantex plant. A 1992 Health Department study of Carson County areas downwind from the plant found overall cancer rates lower than the statewide rate. The Health Department study confirmed that brain cancer deaths in all three counties were slightly above the state rate, except among men in Carson County. Thyroid cancer deaths were higher than the state rate among Carson County men and Potter County women. Leukemia deaths in rural Carson County were at least twice the state rate. But the study deemed these mortality figures statistically insignificant because of the low numbers reported during a 10-year period. "As further follow-up to this study, we recommend ... the monitoring of cancer incidence data for these areas," the report concluded. The current study was spurred by anti-nuclear activist Susan Lee, who presented a report in February that Health Department officials say Ms. Lee's conclusions are misleading because they did not provide a 10-year perspective to account for year-to-year fluctuations. "We found some cancers that were elevated, but a lot that weren't and overall we just don't see a problem," said Barry Wilson, a public health technician with the Cancer Registry Division. He noted that cancer includes many diseases and that "33 percent of the people in the country alive today are going to get cancer. A lot of people have these cancers and there just aren't any good answers as to why." Nevertheless, Ms. Lee said she felt vindicated by the report. "Nobody was looking at it until I started poking around," she said. "Now they've done it, instead of an anti-nuke activist. So we can use it to make our point about there being dangers in the area."

House votes to retain home equity loan ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has approved legislation that would keep intact a 155-year-old Texas constitutional ban that keeps Texas home owners from borrowing against the equity in their homes in most cases.

The action came Thursday as the House approved a wide-ranging interstate banking bill by voice vote. The Texas provision, written by House Banking Committee Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio, has drawn the ardent opposition of Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. Gonzalez offered the provision as a way of overriding a recent ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court ruled that federal thrift regulators could preempt the longstanding lending restrictions, which are the toughest in the nation. The state is appealing the ruling to the Supreme Court. "Only the people of Texas, not a federal agency should have the right to decide on any change to the homestead laws," Gonzalez said Thursday. Gramm has vowed to throw procedural roadblocks in the path of the interstate banking bill once it reaches the Senate for final approval. Gonzalez argues that the lending ban must remain in place to protect Texans from losing their homes in bankruptcies or for failure to pay off other loans. Builders, real estate agents, farmers, labor and consumer groups have rallied to his side. He expressed confidence that his measure will be approved by the Senate, which is expected to act on the interstate banking bill in two weeks. Gramm, who supports lifting the ban, is supported by bankers and groups as diverse as the Dallas NAACP chapter, the Texas branch of the Association for the Advancement of Retired Persons and the Asian Chamber of Commerce.

Senate Whitewater hearing takes turn for the dramatic

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Senators jolted a plodding Whitewater hearing, accusing ex-presidential counsel Bernard Nussbaum of pressuring President Clinton's friend to stay in charge of a probe tied to the first family. "You crossed the line" by persuading Roger C. Altman to remain on the case, Senate Banking Committee Chairman Donald W. Riegle Jr. thundered in a hearing that ended after 1:30 a.m. EDT today. "You crossed it in a case that involved the president." The House Whitewater hearing will be hard-pressed to capture the same drama when its inquiry resumes today, with federal regulators on the witness stand. House Republicans will try to get the regulators to refute the Clinton administration's claims that nobody interfered with the probe of an S&L related to President Clinton's former land venture. The Senate attack was led by the committee's top Democrat, rather than by Republicans - who have been accusing the administration of pressuring Altman to stay on to protect the president and Mrs. Clinton in the investigation. The president has cited three separate reports that concluded there was no criminal or ethical wrongdoing in the handling of the investigation. Telling Nussbaum that Altman had all but decided to disqualify himself when the counsel questioned the decision at a Feb. 2 White House meeting, Riegle, D-Mich., said: "When you inject yourself in that process it injects pressure whether you intend it or not. There was an interference with that recusal decision." "That was one time when you should have bit your tongue if you had to bite it in half," Riegle said as Thursday's hearing wound through its 14th hour. Altman, the deputy Treasury secretary, has become the scapegoat of the Senate hearings, mainly because he gave the banking committee misleading testimony last Feb. 24 that he said was unintentional. Administration officials reportedly were discussing whether to force out Altman.

U.S., state jobless rates up slightly

State posts 0.1 percent unemployment increase

DALLAS (AP) - The state's unemployment edged up to 6.8 percent in July, a slight increase from the 6.7 percent jobless rates posted in the both May and June, according to the Labor Department. "The general stability in the Texas rate reflects employment increases that have generally kept pace with continued growth in the total number of Texans available for work," said Bob Gaddie, southwest regional commissioner for the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics in a prepared statement. Unemployment peaked at 7.4 percent in March and has declined slowly. The three-month average through July was 6.7 percent, compared to 6.6 percent in the three months through June. Compared to July 1993, last month's unemployment rate was down from 7.1 percent. In July, 646,000 Texans were looking for jobs compared with 634,000 in June. The overall Texas civilian work force increased slightly from 9.4 million in June to 9.5 million in July. Nationally, the July unemployment edged up to 6.1 percent. That compares with 6 percent in both June and May. The Labor Department bases its finding on a survey of households which was redesigned in January.

Jump not unexpected, economists contend

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate edged up to 6.1 percent in July and job growth - while still healthy - was a bit more subdued than in recent months, the government said today. July's rate, reported by the Labor Department, compares with 6 percent in both June and May. Economists were expecting the slight uptick and do not believe it signals a significant deterioration in the economy. The report hasn't changed their belief that the Federal Reserve is preparing to nudge interest rates higher, either this month or next, in an attempt to slow economic growth and snuff out any potential increase in inflation. The unemployment rate is derived from a survey of households. Meanwhile, a separate survey of employers' payrolls painted a somewhat brighter picture. The economy created 259,000 new jobs in July, about 60,000 more than analysts forecast, after producing 356,000 jobs in June. Since the start of the year, the economy has added 2 million jobs bringing the total to 113.6 million. The bulk of job growth in July occurred in services, where payrolls grew by 138,000, and retailing, up by 75,000. Gains were strong at temporary help firms, in health care and at restaurants. Construction jobs rose by 25,000, in line with recent moderate gains.

Simpson's friends are disputing claim on couple's relationship

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN

Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - In a letter he wrote before fleeing police, O.J. Simpson said he loved his ex-wife and insisted: "All her friends will confirm that I have been totally loving and understanding." They don't.

"She was the ultimate possession. That's how he saw her," a friend of Nicole Brown Simpson told The Associated Press. "He didn't see her as his wife. He didn't see her as the mother of his children. He saw her as the ultimate possession."

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Ms. Simpson's friends describe Simpson as a possessive and obsessed man prone to physical and psychological violence against his ex-wife.

Their statements, if allowed in court, will give prosecutors ammunition for arguing that Simpson killed Ms. Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman out of jealousy and rage.

The source said Simpson was "relentless," hiring people to follow her and getting information from restaurant employees who worked where she was dining. "He would always know where she was," said the friend. "He would know in advance, and then he'd be hiding in her bushes before she got home sometimes."

Simpson, 47, has pleaded innocent to two murder charges. Trial is scheduled Sept. 19. Simpson's attorney Robert Shapiro didn't immediately return a telephone call for comment.

Sources confirmed for The AP that police are interviewing Ms. Simpson's friends about the couple's relationship and that they are trying to establish a pattern of stalking.

The Los Angeles Times reported Thursday that police have seized tapes from Ms. Simpson's answering machine, which she reportedly used to screen unwanted calls from Simpson.

The friends' statements mirror those made to a grand jury by Ms. Simpson's ex-boyfriend, Keith Zlomosowich. He described how Simpson showed up unannounced on the couple's dates and once spied on them having sex.

Combine that with the dramatic 911 tapes - in which Ms. Simpson pleads for help while Simpson can be heard swearing in the background - and prosecutors could make a strong case that Simpson exhibited a pattern of abusive behavior.

And a pattern is just what they need to show.

Clinton, Congress might be at odds on Haiti invasion

By JOHN DIAMOND

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton is warning Haiti's military rulers that a U.S. invasion is still "on the table." But whether Congress will go along is far from certain.

A series of conflicting votes and a partial survey of lawmakers by The Associated Press portray a Congress with deep reservations about risking the lives of American soldiers in Haiti and possibly entangling the United States in one of the world's poorest countries for years to come.

The view from Congress, while varied, seems to coalesce around the idea that an invasion should take place only if the situation in Haiti worsens to the point that lives of U.S. citizens there are threatened.

The Senate voted unanimously Wednesday in favor of a non-binding resolution indicating that a United Nations Security Council resolution passed Sunday authorizing an invasion does not constitute congressional approval.

Clinton stated plainly at his news conference Wednesday that he can act without congressional authorization and mount an invasion to oust Haiti's military regime.

"I would welcome the support of Congress, and I hope that I will have that," Clinton said. "Like my predecessors of both parties, I have not agreed that I was constitutionally mandated to get it."

The presence of a Marine Corps task force off Haiti suggests a military move could come at any time.

But The Washington Post reported today that Clinton's top advisers have concluded that they need at least until mid-September to launch an invasion under "optimal" conditions. The conclusion is based on what officials said was the time required to enlist and train the international component of any international invasion force, the newspaper said.

While Republicans are solidly against the invasion idea, Democrats are reluctant to embarrass the administration but also reticent to take a stand on military action unless they have to.

The Associated Press hand-delivered a survey to all 535 members of the House and Senate on July 18 on the invasion question. In the next 17 days, fewer than half - 220 - responded despite repeated prodding phone calls. Only 18 members, all Democrats, said they supported an invasion. A disproportionate number of respondents - 119 - were Republicans and all but a handful of them unequivocally opposed an invasion.

Rep. Sam Johnson, R-Texas, echoed the sentiments of many Republicans.

"The United States has no national interest in Haiti and should not interfere in the internal politics of another country," Johnson said. "Haiti is not worth one American life."

Democrats have also voiced reservations.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said he considers economic sanctions the best way to restore democracy in Haiti.

Dellums' view is all the more striking since he is a prominent member of the Congressional Black Caucus, a group of 38 lawmakers that has been most vocal about the urgency of ending military rule in Haiti and returning elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide to power.

Barbecue to attract 20,000 people to XIT

By JEAN PAGEL

Associated Press Writer
DALHART, Texas (AP) - Season 11,000 pounds of beef with 24 pounds of pepper and 13 cases of ketchup. Wrap in burlap. Cook for one day over open pits.

"One of the best roasts you'll taste in your life," rancher Loyd Johnson promised.

Johnson and his helpers early this morning lit the giant fires for the barbecue expected to feed 20,000 visitors Saturday at the 58th annual XIT Rodeo and Reunion.

The three-day event draws thousands of people hungry for free food and a good seat at what's billed as the world's largest amateur rodeo.

Bull rides and a honky-tonk dance Thursday kicked off the cowboy-lovin' salute to the ranch that gave Texas its capitol building.

The reunion celebrates the XIT cowhands who branded cattle, outsmarted rustlers and strung 6,000 miles of barbed wire around a sprawling segment of the Texas Panhandle.

"We're just Western here. We like to focus on our heritage," said Dessie Hanbury, 84, who lived on the ranch as a little girl.

The XIT Ranch evolved from the biggest land swap in Texas history: the state trading 3 million acres of unsettled prairie for construction of a $3 million capitol in Austin in 1882.

The ranch squiggled across 10 counties from the Oklahoma Panhandle south almost to Lubbock. It was the world's largest ranch in the 1800s.

But it broke up into parcel-by-parcel sales after a snowstorm devastated the herds in 1912.

XIT cowboys reunited in Fort Worth in 1936, and since then have been getting together in Dalhart the first weekend in August. Only 97-year-old Ira Taylor of Amarillo survives among the original bunch.

The people of Dalhart - population 6,500 - keep up the reunion tradition to remember their rugged heritage. The Dalhart Daily Texan printed special XIT sections. Motels have been booked for a year.

Highlights included barrel racing and cow milking contests at the rodeo arena. Kids competed for prized belt buckles. Volunteers sliced 15,000 pounds of giveway watermelon.

"It brings back the old frontier days, the old cowboy days," explained parade marshal J. Eddie Jones, 82. "We don't like to let those things die out."

Church coverup being claimed

DALLAS (AP) - Top Roman Catholic officials in Dallas covered up evidence of sex abuse accusations involving three priests and dozens of young victims, according to court documents.

Public depositions and medical records in one case quoted former priest Robert J. Peebles Jr. as admitting that he molested at least seven and possibly as many as 20 boys between 1979 and 1986.

A new lawsuit filed Thursday accused the Rev. William J. Hughes, who worked at All Saints Catholic Church in Far North Dallas, of sex abuse.

"There is a pattern and practice that indicates a cover-up," said Sylvia Demarest, an attorney representing several plaintiffs who contend that church officials transferred priests and ignored or bullied victims when allegations surfaced.

"And the motive is they don't want this to become public in the Dallas diocese, and they don't want a bunch of victims' claims," Ms. Demarest said.

But Randal Mathis, an attorney for the Diocese of Dallas, disputed that any cover-up took place. He said the church will prove that it acted appropriately upon learning of accusations of sexual abuse.

Christian formation for children and teenagers is a visual ministry in San Jose parish. Parents are the first and primary teachers of the children, guiding and forming them in the ways of Christ. To support this evangelization going on at home, our parish offers Christian Formation Sessions for K-6th grade children and T.Y.M. mini-courses for teenagers. If you would be interested in being a catechist for K-6th, contact Susan Gaitan at 364-7494, or for T.Y.M. call Tony Martinez at 364-5904.

As Catholic Christians we are called to follow Christ in the community, as the church. Many people seek a deeper spiritual life and wish to be a part of the community that forms the church. To bring interested persons into full life in the Catholic Church, our parish offers the Rites of Christian Initiation for Adults (R.C.I.A.) process as a year-long journey of faith, growth and initiation for adults who wish to join the Catholic church. Already baptized Catholics who wish to deepen their Catholic faith are also invited to join our local R.C.I.A. process. We will begin in this month with a period of inquiry. If you or someone you know is interested in the R.C.I.A., please contact the parish office or call Julia Scott, R.C.I.A. coordinator.

On Saturday, the T.Y.M. will be attending a youth rally in Amarillo. We will leave the church parking lot at 7 a.m. and will return between 12:30-1 a.m. Sunday. Registration fee is $6. Your child will need a sack lunch for Saturday at noon. Dinner will be provided.

Cotton excluded from Tier 1 bowls

By BARRY WILNER
AP Football Writer

The Orange, Fiesta and Sugar bowls are breathing easier, while the Cotton Bowl might not be breathing for long.

The Bowl Alliance chose the Orange Bowl in Miami, the Fiesta in Tempe, Ariz., and the Sugar in New Orleans as Tier 1 games and sites for a possible national championship game, beginning after the 1995 season. The Rose Bowl, which features the champions of the Big Ten and Pacific-10, is not part of the alliance, which will replace the current bowl-coalition setup.

That left the Cotton Bowl on the outside and with critics wondering if it should continue as a second-level game.

"If you're here for a funeral march, then you can leave," said John Scovell, who led the Cotton Bowl's pursuit of an alliance berth. "The sun is still shining on the Cotton Bowl. We'll still be able to choose from 98 Division I-A teams. The three bowls plus the Rose Bowl will eliminate only eight teams."

Several Dallas city officials said before the alliance announcement that failure to be included might lead to the demise of the Cotton Bowl.

The Orange, Fiesta and Sugar bowls will alternate each year as the site of a matchup between the top two teams available to the alliance. Champions from the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Twelve (formerly Big Eight) and Southeastern conferences will be involved, along with two at-large teams.

For the 1995 season only, the Southwest Conference winner will be one of the at-large teams.

"This virtually guarantees that the Fiesta Bowl will have the national championship game once in the years 1996, 1997 or 1998," Fiesta Bowl executive director John Junker said. "The other years our matchup will consist of two conference champions or two teams ranked in the top 10 in the nation."

"Our prayers were answered and the hard work of thousands of people in the Fiesta Bowl family has paid off," Junker said.

Each of the three games will be played on different dates - Dec. 31, Jan. 1 and Jan. 2. The Fiesta reportedly bid $118 million, the Orange $104 million and the Sugar $98 million to get Tier 1 designations. The money comes from sponsorships and television contracts.

The average payoff for each of the three games will be $8.5 million per team.

"It's a major deal. ... We felt going into this that we had to put our best foot forward," said Donald Kubit, president-elect of the Orange Bowl Committee. "It was do or die with respect to preserving the rich tradition of the Orange Bowl and having championship college football in our community."

The Rose Bowl could mess up any championship game matchup if the top-ranked or No. 2 team in the nation is from the Big Ten or Pacific-10. That, however, always has been the case.

The arrangement is for six years, with an escape clause after three years for the conferences. After either the Orange, Sugar or Fiesta selects the top two teams, the other two bowls will be filled by alternating selections.

The bowl choices were made by a group of Division I-A conference commissioners. Their decision left the Cotton Bowl in a tough situation.

"I've seen better days," said Scovell. "Have you every been in a winner's locker room and felt sorry for the guys in the loser's room? It's an unfortunate decision. The Cotton Bowl is not a good loser. But we can be good sports."

Deaf Smith 4-H shooting team

Betzen takes 1st in state; others from area fare well

Cameron Betzen brought a first place trophy home from the State 4-H Trap Shoot, held July 27-30 in San Antonio, and other members of the Deaf Smith County team also performed well.

Betzen took first in International Trap in the senior division. He also teamed with Martin Carnahan to take third place in two-man competition. Carnahan, by himself, took sixth in American Trap.

In the junior division, Zachary Vasek, Jerry Baird and Cory Marsh placed second in the three-man event. Deaf Smith boys duplicated that feat in the sub-junior division, as Drew Denison, Christopher Diller and Harrison Hoffman. Sub-juniors Cody Marsh, Jerad Johnson and Eddie Trotter placed fourth in the event.

Individually, Denison finished sixth in International Trap.

More than 300 young shooters participated in the state competition.

The coaches for the Deaf Smith 4-H team are Albert Sciumbato, Pat Betzen and Audi Sciumbato.

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Trap Shoot was held July 23 at the Hereford Gun Club.

Shooters from seven counties participated in the annual event.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Dignity goes before the excitement of an NFL franchise.

When the Carolina Panthers, whose home field will be in Charlotte, received their franchise last October, the whole area went wild.

According to the NFL, a conservative banker, Hugh McColl, got so excited he jumped into a fountain with several other fans.

Azinger returns to golf after battle with cancer

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) - There were probably times when it seemed to Paul Azinger like this day would never come.

Somehow it is fitting that it was a day delayed.

But after nine months away from the PGA Tour, after the initial fear that cancer might take his life, and after six months of chemotherapy treatment worse than the disease itself and five weeks of radiation, Azinger is back.

Today, he tees it up at the Buick Open and begins his quest to reclaim the title he earned last year. The best golfer in America.

"It's been a long road, but it went quickly," Azinger said about his treatment for the malignancy in his right shoulder.

"I'm prepared to handle the added pressure and attention," he said about coming back. "It won't last long. I think the sympathy from the players will last until I shoot my first round in the 60s."

But the anticipation had to last a little longer. Thursday's first round was rained out when the Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club became too wet to play.

Not only did Azinger have to wait until today to play his first competitive round in nine months, but if he makes the cut after Saturday's second round, he will be faced with 36 holes on Sunday.

That could be tough for a guy whose doctor had told him to avoid practicing and to take extra precautions with his arm.

"Dr. Jobe said to treat my arm like a major league pitcher," Azinger said. "Ice it after every round."

Dream Team II wins narrowly

HAMILTON, Ontario (AP) - Dream Team II doesn't have to worry about being compared to the original Dream Team of Magic Johnson, Michael Jordan and Charles Barkley.

Right now, the U.S. players are more concerned with being compared to the 1972 and 1988 Olympic teams that failed to win a gold medal.

The U.S. team of NBA All-Stars managed a 115-100 victory over Spain in its opening Pool A game at the 1994 World Championship of Basketball Thursday night.

Baseball players keep strike date at Aug. 12

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Although fuming over a huge payment they didn't get, baseball players decided to keep their walkout date set for next Friday.

"We see this as an act of war," Kansas City Royals pitcher David Cone said of management's decision not to make a $7.8 million payment to the union's benefit plan.

With words and stances sharpened, many players wanted to strike today. However, the executive board of the players' association listened to the advice from union head Donald Fehr, who urged them to stay with the Aug. 12 date the board set last week.

"Just because the owners are behaving in an irresponsible and provocative manner doesn't mean the players have to do so," Fehr said at a news conference Thursday.

Players throughout the majors had prepared for a strike to start today. Chicago Cubs player representative Randy Myers tacked up a note in the clubhouse that said: "All players pack and send home excess equipment. Will inform later on details."

About three hours before gametime at Dodger Stadium, the stereo in the Los Angeles clubhouse was playing a song by "The Clash" called "Should I Stay Or Should I Go?"

For now, the answer was stay. "We feel that they were trying to push our hot button to get us to go out earlier than the date we specified," Dodgers player representative Brett Butler said.

Fans, enjoying the most entertaining season in years, showed their anger when about 500 of them walked out during the third inning at Arlington, Texas, where the Chicago White Sox were playing the Rangers. The 500 fans who walked responded to the urgings of a radio announcer and almost all returned to their seats after the inning.

"It's a little like the guy facing the firing squad," Royals chairman David Glass said in Kansas City. "He's got to wonder if there's real bullets in the gun or not. But I'm optimistic. I think there are enough intelligent, rational people involved that the bullets may not be real. There is a solution that will happen."

The union presented its ideas on revenue sharing late in the day - a plan that doesn't include a salary cap - leaving the sides stuck on different ideological poles with just a week to go until the strike date. The working groups are scheduled to meet again today, but no formal session is scheduled.

"I hope very much between now and the 12th the players will indicate some willingness to respond to our concept and we can begin a serious negotiation over dollars," management negotiator Richard Ravitch said. "I still retain my optimism that it would be an act of self-immolation for the players to hurt this game and hurt the fans."

Fehr said as many as 10 teams took straw polls Wednesday night and Thursday, and that many favored striking sooner than the Aug. 12 date.

"I think this move really united the players even more," said Andy Benes, the San Diego Padres player representative. "We were united before, but when something like that happens, everybody pulls together."

Wants to Caddy
PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - Star golfer Lee Trevino got enthusiastic when he heard that Michael Jordan had retired from basketball. Pointing out that Jordan was an avid golfer, Trevino said: "I hope he comes out and plays on the Senior PGA Tour when he reaches 50. I know it's a couple of decades away, but I hope I'm still around. I would love to be his caddy."

Kile's clutch pitching lifts Astros

By HANK KURZ Jr.
Associated Press Writer

Don Baylor thought his Colorado Rockies were about to erupt. Darryl Kile was feeling the heat. The Houston Astros' playoff hopes were in danger.

False alarm.

After a single and a double put two Rockies in scoring position with nobody out in the first inning and the meat of the order coming up, Kile turned the heat into smoke that blew by Dante Bichette and Charlie Hayes.

"That's the inning we've been looking for for a while, runners on second and third with nobody out," Baylor said Thursday night. "Six pitches later, we're out of it."

And Kile was into it. He retired 13 in a row after the two hits, scattered eight hits over 6 2-3 innings and pitched the Astros to their third straight victory over their least-favorite opponent.

"I was just hoping to get out of that first inning with one run," said Kile (8-6). "For us tonight, getting out of it was a big lift."

Even with the win, the Astros have a sorry 7-17 (.292) record against the second-year franchise. They're 140-107 (.565) against the rest of the NL.

More importantly, with the anticipated strike now only a week away, the Astros moved within three games of idle Cincinnati in the NL Central division and within two of Atlanta in the NL's wild card chase.

"It's a big win for us. We only picked up a half-game, but it's a half-game," Astros manager Terry Collins said. "If we're going to win, our pitchers are going to have to do it for us."

In other games, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 5-1, Florida beat Chicago 5-1, Los Angeles blanked San Diego 1-0 and St. Louis slammed Montreal 7-3.

Craig Biggio hit a two-run triple to cap a three-run second against Kevin Ritz (4-6) and Scott Servais also drove in two runs for Houston.

Kile, 0-2 with a 7.16 ERA in three prior starts against Colorado, said a reliable curveball made all the difference. The right-hander, who entered the game leading the NL with 82 walks, did not issue a free pass all night.

Cardinals 7, Expos 3

Bob Tewksbury's five-hit pitching and Todd Zeile's third career grand slam helped St. Louis send visiting Montreal to just its second loss in 17 games.

Tewksbury (12-10) retired 10 straight to start the game.

Kirk Ruetz (6-3) allowed two runs in six innings.

Zeile's 17th homer broke open a 3-1 game in the ninth against Mel Rojas, and Mark Whiten also hit his 13th homer.

Larry Walker hit a solo homer in the seventh and a two-run shot in the ninth to account for all the Expos runs.

Dodgers 1, Padres 0

Mike Piazza's 24th homer provided the only run as Kevin Gross and Todd Worrell combined on a six-hitter for Los Angeles against visiting San Diego.

Gross (9-7) retired 14 straight but failed to get his first shutout since a no-hitter against the Giants on Aug. 17, 1992. Worrell got his ninth save.

Piazza's fourth-inning homer - his first against Andy Benes (6-13) - marked the 14th time he'd homered to either tie the game or put the Dodgers in front.

Pirates 5, Phillies 1

Curt Schilling, the MVP of last year's NL playoffs, lost for the eighth time in nine decisions this year as Philadelphia lost to visiting Pittsburgh.

Race continues in AL Central

By The Associated Press

The Yankees have run away with the AL East.

The Rangers have pretty much won the AL West by default.

That leaves the AL Central, where there's still a great divisional race with one week left before the strike date.

The Cleveland Indians pulled within a half-game of Chicago on Thursday by beating Detroit 5-0 while the White Sox were losing 4-1 at Texas.

Kansas City, meanwhile, won its 13th straight game, 5-2 over Oakland. The victory put the Royals, who were nine games out before their streak started, just two games behind the White Sox.

In other games Thursday, New York beat Minnesota 9-2, Seattle beat California 4-2, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 5-3 and Toronto beat Boston 5-2.

Albie Lopez pitched a five-hitter for Cleveland and struck out a career-high 11 in his first complete game. The crowd of 41,926 - the largest yet at Jacobs Field - gave the Indians their 28th straight sellout in their last home game before the strike date.

"I think I proved I can pitch up here now," the 22-year-old Lopez said. "I think I can stay."

He was recalled from Class AAA Charlotte on July 25 after Mark Clark, Cleveland's winningest pitcher, had his right wrist broken by a line drive. Lopez was 3-1 with the Indians last year and 12-2 at Charlotte this season.

Carlos Baerga had a two-run homer for the Indians, and Wayne Kirby, Sandy Alomar and Omar Vizquel had RBI singles.

Rangers 4, White Sox 1

At Arlington, Texas, Brian Bohanon had his best start of the season and Rusty Greer went 2-for-4 with a two-run homer in the eighth inning as Texas stretched its lead in the AL West to 4 1/2 games.

Jeff Frye and Juan Gonzalez added RBI singles to help the Rangers move within four games of .500.

Bohanon (2-1) allowed seven hits with five strikeouts in 6 1-3 innings - his longest outing of the season.

Royals 5, Athletics 2

At Kansas City, Felix Jose had three hits and Kevin Appier (7-6), with only one decision in his eight previous starts, pitched a four-hitter.

Carlos Reyes (0-3) took the loss as the Athletics lost their sixth straight.

Yankees 9, Twins 2

At Minneapolis, the Yankees won their seventh straight and opened a 10-game lead in the AL East.

Jim Abbott (9-7) allowed six hits in 5 2-3 innings to win for only the third time since May 30. Bernie Williams had three doubles and Luis Polonia, Wade Boggs and Paul O'Neill also had three hits each as the Yankees tied their season-high with 19 hits.

Mariners 4, Angels 2

At Anaheim, Calif. Goose Gossage (3-0) got the victory in his 1,000th career appearance and Eric Anthony hit a two-run, pinch-homer in the eighth inning.

Oilers' safety misses Buddy

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Something is missing in the Houston Oilers training camp and All-Pro safety Marcus Robertson knows what it is. "Yeah, I miss Buddy. I like Buddy," Robertson said. "He's one of the best defensive coaches in the game right now. His attitude, his persona. I think it's missing here in training camp."

Robertson gained star status with the arrival last season of Buddy Ryan, who installed the aggressive "46" defense and put his faith in Robertson at free safety.

"The difference with me last year was Buddy gave me the opportunity to play," Robertson said. "When I played in (former defensive coordinator) Jim Eddy's defense they kind of threw me in at free safety and told me to make sure they don't catch the deep ball and save the tackle."

"Buddy didn't put any restrictions on me and had confidence that I could get the job done and I just went out and played."

Robertson became a starter in 1992, Eddy's last season with the Oilers, but he didn't blossom until last season. That's when Ryan installed his defense and sent Robertson out to make big plays. Robertson responded with eight interceptions and was named first team All-Pro despite missing the final three games with a knee injury. He was second on the team with 82 tackles.

"He's a tremendous tackler at that position, probably one of the best free safety tacklers," secondary coach Tom Bettis said. "He's got great range and great awareness and a good feel to react to things when he had an opportunity to go to the ball."

When Ryan left to become head coach of the Arizona Cardinals, Robertson wanted to follow him. But Robertson couldn't strike a contract deal with the Cardinals, and eventually signed a four-year $6.1 million deal with the Oilers.

"My whole thing was I wanted to play for Buddy, but I didn't necessarily want to leave Houston," Robertson said. "I just wanted to go where it was best for me at that particular time."

"I knew if the Oilers didn't come to me with a long-term deal, I'd have taken one year and be out of here next year. When they started talking about me being their safety of the future, that's when I changed my mind." But he hasn't changed his mind about playing for Ryan again. "Hopefully I'll play for him again in the future," Robertson said. "Hopefully after this four years my career won't be over. You have to weigh everything."

The only negative in Robertson's breakthrough season came in Game 13 against the Cleveland Browns. Robertson charged across field to catch Eric Metcalf and tried to stop too quickly.

He heard a snap in his knee that proved to be a ruptured patella tendon, ending his season.

"At the time I was devastated, but I felt I could come back this season and have a great season," he said. "I actually walked halfway off the field. The first thing I said was, 'How long am I out?' They said for the season. That's when it hit me. But I'm just thankful for the year that I had."

Bettis wanted Robertson back on the field for the first exhibition game Sunday against the Kansas City, along with cornerback Darryl Lewis, who also is recovering from knee surgery.

"I think it was beneficial mentally they got back in the swing of things," Bettis said. "It was positive to play in that game. It got them over the hump."

Patriots want to win this year

By ROB GLOSTER
AP Sports Writer

The New England Patriots won the last four games of last season, quarterback Drew Bledsoe has a year of experience and coach Bill Parcells is rebuilding the team.

But some people remain to be convinced that anything has changed.

As the New Orleans Saints prepared for their exhibition opener tonight against the Patriots, they were sent off from their training facility in La Crosse, Wis., by a sign saying, "Good Luck Against the Vikings." For the players and coaches, the game will be a relief after the grind of two-a-day workouts since mid-July.

"The novelty aspect of this has worn off," said Parcells, who is starting his second season with the Patriots and his 10th as an NFL coach. "But you walk out on the football field Friday night and you know it's football season."

Indeed it is, with four other exhibition games scheduled tonight. The New York Jets are at Detroit, Seattle is at Indianapolis, Philadelphia is at Chicago and San Francisco is at Arizona.

On Saturday, it's the Los Angeles Rams vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Cincinnati at Tampa Bay, Cleveland at the New York Giants, Pittsburgh at Miami, Houston vs. San Diego at San Antonio, Atlanta at Denver and Kansas City vs. Minnesota at Tokyo.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a widow, age 81. My husband of more than 55 years died four years ago. We had a beautiful life together. We were probably more active sexually than the average married couple. It was something we both enjoyed until he passed away.

A few months after my husband died, I resorted to self-gratification. I masturbate almost every day but am worried that this may be excessive. The problem is compounded by the fact that I am Catholic and have been taught since childhood that masturbation is a mortal sin.

I have not been to confession for a long time because I am afraid of what my priest would say. I don't want him to tell me to stop because I know it would be extremely difficult. I have tried to abstain, but it seems impossible.

I'm not interested in finding another man, and I doubt that anyone would want an 81-year-old, over-sexed widow anyway. Is there a solution for me?—New Jersey Problem

Benefit for Breast Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—How to get a warm fuzzy feeling two ways this fall: buy sleepwear in a pink ribbon print and benefit breast cancer screening and research.

Lanz of Salzburg, best known for its flannel print granny gowns trimmed with eyelid lace, is donating a portion of the proceeds of the special print line to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. The pink ribbon is the symbol of breast cancer prevention and cure.

The collection, identified with a pink ribbon hangtag, includes a quilted robe, a quilted jacket, man-tailored pajamas, a poet gown and the classic gown. The line will be available in department stores in September, along with brochures and other information about breast cancer.

The Komen Foundation's grants to hospitals, medical centers and clinics around the country help support screening programs and research.

DEAR NEW JERSEY: Obviously, age has not slowed you down, which you should consider a blessing rather than a curse. It bespeaks unusually good health.

Granted, daily sexual release is considered frequent at your age, but it certainly is nothing to become alarmed about. Needs vary according to the individual.

If you want to go to confession, seek out a younger priest. The church has become more enlightened in the last couple of decades. You will be pleasantly surprised. (P.S. To the male seniors in my reading audience: Please do not write and ask for "New Jersey's" name and address. It is against my policy to put readers in touch with one another.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read your column complaining about the poor quality of emergency service. This letter is to express gratitude for the 911 people where I live.

I am newly divorced and live alone with Samson and Angus, my cats. One night, the three of us heard loud footsteps on the roof. Samson ran and hid in the hallway, and Angus sat petrified in the living room. My cats are accustomed to a variety of noises, so their reaction really scared me.

I got panicky and called 911 but immediately hung up because I wasn't sure it was an emergency. While I was digging out my phone book to see what non-emergency number to call, my phone rang.

It was the 911 operator asking if I had just called. I apologized and explained that I'd heard someone on my roof but decided it was not an emergency and was about to call the local police number. She asked if I was alone. When I said, "yes" she told me the police did, indeed, consider it an emergency and a squad car would be at my home within three minutes.

She kept me on the line until two wonderful officers arrived three minutes later. They searched my front and back yards and suggested that I have the bushes in back trimmed, as someone could easily hide there. (I took their advice.)

Ann, I can sleep at night because

I know these wonderful people are on the job around the clock.—Nancy in Sacramento County, Calif.

DEAR NANCY: Let's hear it for Sacramento County. I wonder how many others can brag about their emergency service.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Twenty-seven years ago, I impregnated my second cousin, who was living with my family after her mother's death. I was 17. "Peggy" was 15.

When her condition became obvious, she was sent to a maternity home out of state, and the baby girl was placed for adoption.

After it was over, Peggy went to live with other relatives. Although my parents were deeply hurt and disgraced, they were loyal and forgiving. I felt so guilty and ashamed while my cousin was in the maternity home that I considered suicide. Thankfully, I got help and was able to go to college. Later, I married a fine young woman, and we now have four children. I never told my wife about my past because I feared it would devastate her.

A few days ago, I received a special delivery from Peggy. It seems the child she gave up for adoption has contacted her and plans to contact me as well. Peggy gave the girl the medical history on both sides, but apparently, it is not enough for her. Peggy begged her to please drop her pursuit and leave us alone. The young woman would not listen and is determined to know her "roots."

Peggy was assured complete anonymity when she put the baby up for adoption, but that does not mean much anymore, with the controversy over open birth records. Neither of us ever wanted to be found, and we feel our privacy has been invaded.

Knowing that this young woman is trying to locate me is like waiting for a bomb to explode. I'm a nervous wreck over this. How on earth can I tell my wife?—Anonymous, Any Town

DEAR ANONYMOUS: How can you tell your wife? I'd say, "Immediately." Too bad you didn't tell her before you married.

I'm all for releasing medical records to adoptees, but beyond that, no way, unless both the adoptee and the birth parents want to be reunited. Some birth parents are delighted to be "found," but most are not.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I are at an age where we expected to have a little financial security from our modest savings. Over the years, our son, "Ray," has cost us thousands of dollars because of run-ins with the law, lawyers' fees and debts.

Ray is now 35 and recently divorced for the second time. He and his adorable 3-year-old daughter have moved in with us. He has been trying to build his own business with a partner for the last three years, but the business doesn't seem to be going anywhere. Ray owes money to everyone, including us.

When Ray moved in, we asked him to pay us $25 a week for food and lodging. We haven't seen a penny for the last five months.

His mother doesn't have the heart to send him out on the street with the child. We've suggested that he give up the business and try to find a job, but he refuses, saying he can't work for someone else. What can we do?—Michigan Dad

DEAR MICHIGAN: You are stuck because of the child. Eventually, Ray will either make it—or fold and then be forced to work for someone else.

I suggest that you try to be a little tougher on Ray. Don't just hand him a pass without putting up a fight. Good luck. You are going to need it.

Gem of the Day: Did you ever wonder why wrong numbers are never busy?

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Everyone is welcome to join FUMC members in the following Sunday schedule of events: Sunday school, 9:30 a.m.; morning worship service, 10:45 a.m.; and snack supper and UMYF, 6 p.m.

Rev. Lanny Wheeler, chaplain of King's Manor Methodist Home, will be welcomed back to the pulpit of FUMC to preach Sunday morning in the absence of Dr. Ed Williamson. Rev. Wheeler will be conducting the communion service at which the Amarillo State Center Industries of Hereford, formally known as the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center, will be the recipient of the special offering.

CENTRAL CHURCH OF CHRIST

Hey Hereford! You are invited to our Super Saturday Aug. 6 at 9:30 a.m. Come join us in the "Great Exodus." You will see three dramas telling the story of Israel's exodus from Egypt. See the crossing of the Red Sea and the water coming from a rock. There will also be learning centers that will teach and allow hands on learning. The centers will include: A weaver, silversmith, Passover, priests, tablets of stone, taskmaster brick making, and for the very young, chariot races. Bring a sack lunch. Snacks and drinks will be provided. We will be finished by 2:30 p.m. We are located at Sunset and Plains.

Come worship with us. We meet Sunday at 9:30 a.m. for Bible study and at 10:25 a.m. and 6 p.m. for worship. We meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday for Bible study.

Watch for the "Amazing Grace Bible Class" Sunday at 7:30 a.m. on Channel 4.

If your work takes place on wet or oily surfaces, wear shoes with wooden soles or cleated, non-slip rubber or neoprene soles; non-skid sandals that slip over your shoes or strap-on cleats.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. and the discipleship training meets at 5:30 p.m. each Sunday.

A pool party to officially welcome the new seventh graders will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 17.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas annual meeting is scheduled Oct. 31-Nov. 1 in Amarillo. First Baptist Church of Hereford needs to provide eight ushers. If you are college age or older, man or woman, and are willing to help, contact Nelson Kendall.

CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY CHURCH

Pastor Don Cherry and the church congregation invite the public to attend all services at the church located on S. Main St.

We have dismissed Sunday school for the time being and changed our Sunday morning worship service time to 10:30. The Sunday evening service will remain the same (6 p.m.) as will the Wednesday night service at 7.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

We invite anyone looking for a church home to come and visit with us.

Sunday school classes for all age groups and Bible study for adults meet from 9:30-11:15 a.m. The adult class is led by Doug Manning and the Sunday worship service, held from 10:30-11:15 a.m., is also led by Manning.

We have nursery facilities for all ages.

THE BUCK STARTS HERE.

Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information.

Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Newspaper is more than just a smart place to advertise.

It's an integral part of our lives.

Newspaper. It delivers.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

SOUND ADVICE!

*LAY NOT UP FOR YOURSELVES TREASURES UPON EARTH, WHERE MOTH AND RUST BOTH CORRUPT AND WHERE THIEVES BREAK THROUGH AND STEAL:*

(MATT. 6:19)

SOUND ADVICE IS CONTAINED IN THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT. JESUS ALWAYS SPOKE IN THE VERNACULAR OF THE DAY. ANY OF THE VALUABLE THINGS THAT PEOPLE POSSESSED WERE LIABLE TO BE STOLEN, FOR ONLY THE RICH HAD VAULTS IN WHICH TO KEEP THEIR TREASURES. THE COMMON MAN USED TO HIDE HIS GOOD CLOTHES AND OTHER PRIZED POSSESSIONS AWAY IN SOME HIDDEN NOOK OF HIS HOUSE--BUT THEN, ALTHOUGH SAFE FROM A THIEF, THEY OFTEN FELL PREY TO RUST AND MOTHS! IF A MAN HAD SOME MONEY, INVARIABLY HE HAD IT HIDDEN IN THE GROUND--THEN HE WORRIED NIGHT AND DAY THAT SOME TREASURE HUNTERS MIGHT DISCOVER IT! THE POOR PEOPLE OF THE TIMES WERE ALWAYS DIGGING IN FIELDS, HOPING TO FIND MONEY THAT SOMEONE HAD HIDDEN AWAY!

SO, NO MATTER WHAT A MAN DID WITH HIS MATERIAL POSSESSIONS, HE WAS ALWAYS WORRIED ABOUT THEM! JESUS' ADVICE, TO THE COMMON MAN, TO LAY UP IN HEAVEN A TREASURE OF GOOD DEEDS, DONE HERE ON EARTH, WAS PRACTICAL, INDEED FOR...

*FOR WHERE YOUR TREASURE IS, THERE WILL YOUR HEART BE ALSO.*

(MATT. 7:21)
