Cattle feeders report record

The Texas Cattle Feeders Association reported a new record weekly volume was set in the area. In its weekly newsletter dated Oct. 21, the association said 140,493 head of cattle was reported traded in the area.

The new record eclipsed the mark of 138,362 head set the week ending April 30, 1993.

In addition, the newsletter quoted TCFA Market Director Jim Gill as saying, "Tuesday (Oct. 18) was the largest trade day of the week, and the fourth largest on record, as 80,557 cattle traded, mostly at $65.

"And, although many feeders thought the week's business was over then, packers continued to add to their inventory. Prices moved $1 higher on both Wednesday and Thursday and trade volume continued to mount. Most feeders feel that numbers are really cleaned up and prices should begin to move higher for a few weeks."

The TCFA newsletter also reported that its monthly 19-city survey found beef prices averaged $3.12 per pound on Oct. 13, down from $3.17 on Sept. 8. The NCA reported in the newsletter that retail beef prices continue to average below year-ago levels due to continued beef featuring by retailers.

Cleanup of river nears end

HOUSTON (AP) -- Oil-recovery crews are ahead of schedule in collecting spilled crude and gasoline from the San Jacinto River and could be finished by Wednesday, the Coast Guard says.

An armada of skimmers worked in tandem with vacuum trucks Monday to clean up the sticky mess caused by ruptured pipelines during last week's floods.

Coach Guard Capt. Richard Ford estimated 200,000 gallons of crude, gasoline and diesel fuel was released into the San Jacinto and downstream into the Houston Ship Channel and the Gulf of Mexico after Thursday's rupture.

Ford said he was confident that at least 95 percent of the oil would be gathered by Wednesday. He credited quick evaporation for eliminating much of the petroleum that had leaked into the waterway.

Skimmers in place since the weekend had retrieved some 4,000 barrels--or about 160,000 gallons--of oil and water. Roughly half of that was oil, Ford said.

Officials allowed one of two ruptured lines belonging to Colonial Pipeline Co. to continue to burn Monday. On the west side of the river, skimmers were collecting pockets of crude oil from a broken Texaco Inc. crude oil line.

However, Ford said skimmers could not be used to clean up oil that had massed in shallow areas. Instead, he said, the Coast Guard began switching to vacuum trucks that could get close to the water's edge. Hoses were dipped into the river to suck out the oil.

The cleanup by Monday had cost about $3.5 million from the federal Oil Pollution Trust Fund, Ford said.

"That does not include the salaries of government officials that have had to be involved in this or the costs associated with government equipment...nor does it include the extraordinary travel expense," he added.

Both Texaco and Colonial worked Monday to finish capping their leaking pipelines. The Colonial line, a major conduit for shipping gasoline to the Northeast, was shut Thursday. The Texaco line, carrying crude oil to a refinery in Port Arthur, had been idle at the time of the break but each of the lines leaked oil products that already had been in the lines.

Colonial said Monday its gasoline shipments were at 75 percent of capacity, pumping 60.5 million gallons of fuel from east of Houston.

The pipeline leaks, possibly caused by heavy debris carried by the swollen river, resulted in a massive fire last week that sent some 120 people to hospitals for smoke and fume inhalation. The resulting spill sent streaks of black oil as far as 20 miles downstream from the river's mouth.

1994 Football Queen

Brooke Bryant was crowned Football Queen for 1994 on Friday and presented at that night's Hereford-Borger football game at Whiteface Stadium. Brooke, a senior at Hereford High School, is the daughter of John David and Beverly Bryant. Other candidates for Football Queen were Beth Weatherly and Clarissa Ramirez. Attendants were junior Natalie McWhorter, sophomore Cassie Abney and freshman Jamie Marquez.

HHS band gains top ranking in contest

The Hereford High School Mighty Maroon Marching Band last weekend participated in the annual Region 1-4A marching band competition in Borger, snaring top honors once again.

The Division I ranking earned by the band was the 34th consecutive Division I the band has garnered in regional competition, said Director Don Summersgill.

This year, Summersgill said, the marching band will not perform at the state level, since that is done every other year. As a result, Saturday was the only competitive event for the marching band, which will continue to perform for the rest of the football season.

Hereford's band performs in Region 1-4A, which is comprised of the same seven bands that are represented in District 1-4A of sports.

All bands in Saturday's competition earned Division I rankings except the Caprock band, which notched a Division IV. Division I is the highest rating possible.

The other bands performing were: Borger, Dumas, Canyon, Randall and Pampa.

Summersgill said capturing a Division I in the marching contest is not the same as earning a Sweepstakes Award.

The marching competition is just one-third of the Sweepstakes score. The remaining two portions -- concert performance and sightreading -- will be contested in April 1995.

Cities note week against mandates

By MARK FRITZ
AP National Writer

Less candy than Halloween. Fewer furniture sales than Columbus Day. No groundhogs, no green beer, no questions about what an "arbor" is.

Still, hundreds of cities this week will find a way to mark - honest - National Unfunded Mandates Week. "It's something that's not easily understood until you explain what it means," National League of Cities spokesman Randy Arndt says.

It means five days of fed-bashing, complete with an orchestrated coast-to-coast chorus of cranky city council resolutions and outraged mayoral news conferences.

The purpose is to stir public support for a 2-year-old crusade against the hundreds of local programs ordered, but not financed, by the federal government.

Such programs require Kalamazoo, Mich., to attach special hydrocarbon detectors to the smokestack on its wastewater sludge incinerator and made Washington, D.C., put little bumps on its subway platforms so blind people can tell where the edges are.

"That's a very classic example of an unfunded federal mandate," U.S. Transportation Department spokesman Brian Cudahy acknowledges.

The movement's hundreds of targets include a new regulation requiring cities to clearse rainwater, which carries road salts and other bad things to rivers as it rushes through urban streets.

Grumbles Victor Ashe, mayor of Knoxville, Tenn., which has spent $700,000 on storm sewer consultants, "You might as well call it the consultant relief act."

What these and hundreds of other regulations have in common is they were all ordered by the federal government with no strings, and no money, attached.

That's wrong, local governments say.

That's beside the point, say environmentalists and other activists, who view the anti-mandate movement as a scattershot attack on major federal acts such as those for clean water, clean air and Americans with disabilities.

"Before they were called unfunded mandates, they were called things like civil rights," says Gene Russianoff, a consumer advocate and lawyer for the New York Public Interest Research Group.

The targets are too often worthy things, such as the subway platform bumps, he adds.

"There's a lot of good policy in those laws, whether they are environmental, social justice or consumer issues," Russianoff says.

Others believe the nation's mayors are being duped by corporations and anti-Washington zealots. "The unfunded mandate movement is a big smokescreen behind which people are trying to dismantle government," says Bruce Hamilton, national conservation director for the Sierra Club.

Hamilton says critics of unfunded federal programs often make their points by citing something that sounds ridiculous, such as Indiana being required to test for a pesticide now used only by Hawaii on pineapples.

GOP still sees gains when elections over

WASHINGTON (AP) -- With two weeks left, little has happened to undercut the prospect of big Republican gains in the November elections. Even GOP control of both House and Senate is an outside possibility for the first time in the experience of most Americans.

Democrats still stress the "volatility" of the electorate to show that they can turn things around; but Peter Hart, a Democratic pollster, says the voters who are most fired up are those eager to punish President Clinton and his party.

"The groups that are most ready to turn out are Republicans, white fundamentalists and anti-Clinton voters," Hart said. "The groups that are least likely to turn out are pro-Clinton voters, Democrats and African-Americans. When you factor in people who have a great deal of interest or quite a bit versus those who have little or no interest, the margin for the Republicans grows by about six percent."

Most forecasts, by partisans and independent analysts alike, suggest that in the end, the House will wind up under Democratic control -- as it has been since 1955, before a majority of Americans were born. But many say the Republicans' chances for taking over the Senate are 50-50, or a shade better.

And the election could put Republican governors in charge of the eight biggest states, a demoralizing twist when Clinton seeks re-election.

To control the new Congress, Republicans would have to take over seven Democratic seats in the Senate and 40 in the House. The parties of first-term presidents have lost 19 House seats on average and generally no Senate seats in mid-term elections. Democrats have conceded for months that they will lose 20 to 25 seats.

"If I had to put money on it, I'd say the Democrats will hold on, but in a way that will make governance very difficult, and it's already hard," said Catherine Rudder, executive director of the American Political Science Association.

Republican control of Congress could mean a battle of vetoes between Clinton and Congress or two years of legislative deadlock in which few initiatives to address the nation's problems emerge.

Or, if Clinton bends and if both parties are eager to have more than gridlock to present to voters in 1996, Republicans in charge could mean the enactment of a program largely resembling what might pass under an activist Republican president.

Among the possibilities: balanced budget and term limit constitutional amendments sent to the state legislatures; boosts in defense spending and sharp cuts in social spending; a revisit to the 1994 crime bill, with more prisons and less preventive spending; a cutoff of welfare payments to teenage mothers or to babies born to a mother on welfare; and a $500 per child tax credit plus a capital gains tax cut for investors.

All these are promised in the Republican "contract towards renewing American civilization" that 300 GOP House candidates signed in September.

Judge tosses jurors who read papers, see games

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Despite the judge's stern order to avoid television, newspapers, book stores or any direct exposure to the media, the potential juror had to admit he peeked at the sports section.

No matter that he threw the rest of the paper away. In the O.J. Simpson trial, the media is the enemy of the people and the defense. The media, in the judge's words, is poison.

The lawyers huddled with the judge, and the prospect was tossed out of the jury pool. On the way back to their respective tables, defense attorney Robert Shapiro told Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark: "Pretty soon you won't have a panel."

That fear isn't only in the defense. As jury selection continued Monday, prosecutors said media saturation has been so extensive that the judge should dismiss all 77 people remaining from the first group of prospective jurors -- and possible the entire group of about 300.

Clark said jury selection could start over after a hearing on the admissibility of DNA evidence. The defense had a different idea, suggesting a one-year continuance with the condition Simpson is freed on bail.

The plans were similar to ones offered earlier in the case, and Superior Court Judge Lance Ito rejected them again. "I think this panel is our best hope at this point," he said.

Also Monday, prosecutors filed a motion defending their DNA evidence, saying no one convicted in a DNA case has ever been exonerated later. They also said that no defendant has ever retested prosecution evidence and found inconsistent results.

Simpson is charged with murder in the June 12 knife killings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

Eleven prospects were questioned Monday. Six were excused, bringing the total to 43 questioned and 23 dismissed.

Prospects were rejected at the slightest hint that publicity had reached them. In addition to the sports section reader, potential jurors were dismissed for such things as watching a football game on television and tuning in to a radio traffic report.

Ito had ordered the potential jurors to avoid all forms of media.

Ito, meanwhile, kept up his attacks on the media, peppering his questions with digs at the press. At one point he told a prospective juror worried about being sequestered: "In a normal case, we don't worry about media poisoning."

When one prospective juror said "the media has done a lot of good," Ito replied: "What have they done that's good? What possible thing could that be?"

In asking for dismissal of the jury prospects, Clark said their objectivity may have been compromised if they heard her remark that many of them are Simpson fans who are lying to get on the jury so they could acquit him.

Clark said she was joking, but because her comment was made public in a "cold transcript," the media took it seriously.

The defense opposed the start-over proposal. Shapiro said prosecutors made it as a means of "protecting themselves from their own stupidity."

Attendance at State Fair exceeds '93

By The Associated Press
No ticket correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $28 million.

The numbers drawn Saturday night from a field of 50 were: 1, 4, 9, 20, 40 and 45.

There were 219 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,602. There were 12,803 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $98. And there were 239,329 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

DALLAS (AP) — Despite nine days of wet weather, State Fair of Texas officials predicted that final attendance for the 24-day event, which ended Sunday, would exceed 3.29 million.

Dampness, drizzle, downpour and even a tornado warning marked the event's 1994 run. But fair officials estimated that when the turnstiles stopped turning, the visitors' tally would top 1993 attendance figures by nearly 150,000.

A strong, final sunshine-filled weekend wrapped up the fair. Visitors filled Fair Park to look over exhibits that included vintage Mustangs to Ethiopian artifacts and the Dallas Cowboys' four Super Bowl trophies.

The big hits among new attractions were a nightly fireworks show and a virtual reality simulator, officials said.

Many exhibitors reported excellent sales, according to fair officials, who said one Chicago belt-buckle vendor said that Saturday was the biggest volume day he had experienced at any fair.

The State Fair of Texas opened in 1886 and has been held every year since, except during some wartime years when the 227-acre Fair Park was used as an army encampment.

Dehydrator offers new opportunities to use produce, provide food for hungry

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK (AP) — Devastating heat stuck David Smith's potato crop in Lamb County and left one million pounds of misshapen vegetables.

Smith said he could have plowed up the field. Instead, he gave the unmarketable potatoes to the new Breedlove Dehydration Plant.

The South Plains Food Bank is betting that other farmers similarly will deliver leftover produce that could be turned into dried meals for the needy. Officials showed off their high-tech dehydration plant Monday.

"There is no more important work on earth than feeding the hungry," said State Senator John Montford, D-Lubbock, who reiterated hopes that Breedlove would become a prototype for developing nations.

The dehydration plant, billed as the world's first operation of its type for charity, is expected to dry enough potatoes, carrots and onions to feed 40,000 people a day.

"Phenomenal," pronounced Mary Ann Keefe, deputy administrator for special nutrition programs for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We applaud your creativity, determination and compassion," she said at Monday's dedication ceremony. "This is dramatically extending the value of American Agricultural bounty."

Hundreds of visitors toured the facility and at a gourmet lunch of chicken tetrazzini and shrimp creole that had been dried and re-hydrated.

Food bank officials say the dehydration process turns spoil-prone fresh produce into food that is easy to store and transport without losing much of its nutritional value. Estimated cost per meal is four cents.

Private donations paid for the $7.8 million plant, put up inside a 48,500-square-foot building formerly used by a defense contractor. Most of the vegetables and fruits it processes will come from farms throughout the region, officials said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture estimates that 20 percent of produce in the state is left in the field after harvest.

Lubbock officials hope to work with agencies like the Red Cross to distribute the food throughout Texas as well as other states. The South Plains Food Bank started gathering know-how and money for the project three years ago. Food should be ready for shipment starting next month, said officials.

Inmates from the Lubbock County Correctional Facility will help run the giant dryers that remove up to 90 percent of the food's weight.

Most of the incoming produce is destined for an automated line that will wash, peel, dice and blanch the items before rolling them into a stainless steel dehydrator.

Kimberly Glaus-Late, the plant's food technologist, showed off some apple rings stacked on trays. The apples could be used in trail mix, or re-hydrated to make pies, she said.

"We're setting an example for others to follow," she said.

Lawmaker wants playground safety law

FORT WORTH (AP) — If one lawmaker has his way, Texas will become only the second state in the nation to mandate minimum standards for playground safety.

State Rep. Keith Oakley, D-Terrell, is drafting legislation that would require Texas' public playgrounds to be built according to specific safety standards. Those standards are to be developed using guidelines established by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Oakley's actions were prompted by a playground accident in Euless last month in which six-year-old Jeremy Browning suffered massive head injuries. The rotted supports of a wooden climbing wall broke and caused the 350-pound structure to fall on Jeremy during lunch recess on Sept. 19.

If the legislation is passed, Texas would join California as the only states that mandate playground safety.

Oakley, chairman of the House Public Safety Committee, said he plans to start filing the bill next month.

"I don't see anybody who would oppose this," he said. "We may not be able to stop playground injuries, but we can minimize the number of children who are seriously hurt."

Under Oakley's outline, the bill will affect only playgrounds and equipment built or installed after the proposed law goes into effect.

Existing playgrounds that don't meet the standards would be given a period of time to get up to standards. Signs would be posted on all playgrounds to indicate those that meet the standards.

The proposal also will include provisions for mandatory inspections and maintenance schedules. Oakley said the bill also may require school districts and cities to have someone trained in playground safety.

The lawmaker's effort comes six months after Tarrant County Safe Kids Campaign began lobbying for mandatory safety standards.

No federal laws mandate playground safety. And in Texas, school districts are immune to tort liability for playground accidents.

In 1992, 226,500 children younger than 14 were admitted to U.S. emergency rooms with playground injuries, according to reports based on the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System.

Five children were killed. An estimated 70 percent of the accidents occurred on public playgrounds. Comparable figures have not been compiled for Texas.

John Richardson, a Fort Worth pediatrician for 30 years, said the actual number of injuries is much higher.

"There are so many more that are seen in the nurse's office at school or in their doctor's private office, Richardson told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "I see them almost every day."

Marriages outnumbered divorces in Texas in '93

Divorces obtained by Texas couples in 1993 totaled more than half the number of marriages performed in the state during the year, according to statistics from the Texas Department of Health.

Though TDH recorded 177,497 marriages in 1993, the state also granted 96,898 divorces, said Tom Pollard, director of the Statistical Services Division of the TDH Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The year before, the state counted 178,070 marriages and 96,629 divorces.

The most numerous age group of both men and women who married in 1993 was 20-24 years. Divorces were most common among the 30-34 age group for both men and women.

More than half of all divorces concluded marriages of less than seven years, with 4,479 marriages lasting less than a year.

Almost half of the divorces in 1993 involved no children, while 23,414 involved one child. The total number of children of divorcing couples last year was 89,945.

As in previous years, densely populated counties recorded some of the largest numbers of both marriages and divorces. Harris County led in both categories.

Among the leaders were: Bexar County, 11,254 marriages, 7,010 divorces; Dallas County, 17,532 marriages, 11,745 divorces; El Paso, 7,727 marriages, 2,214 divorces; Harris, 29,172, 16,824; Tarrant, 12,062, 7,930; and Travis, 7,012, 3,448.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Cancer of the pancreas is a vicious type of disease, as I've never heard of a case that responded favorably. Also, it apparently attacks at younger ages than most cancers. What symptoms are there to alert a person to the presence of this disease? — H.N.

ANSWER: I can agree with most of your comments, except for the age of pancreatic cancer patients. They are not usually young. It is rarely found in patients under age 50, in fact. In 1993, pancreatic cancer claimed 25,000 lives, a number far too large, even for such an uncommonly insidious malignancy.

I call it insidious because of the fact that it is not commonly discovered before it has grown large or has spread. A gnawing pain, which radiates to the back, is one sign (another good reason to report any unexplained chronic back pain).

Weight loss and skin yellowing are other hallmarks, the latter testimony to the fact that the cancer has blocked the person's bile drainage ducts. Itching is a common symptom. The pancreas is a large important gland and any disturbance is bound to have widespread symptoms. We are wise to recognize and report them promptly.

Pancreatic cancer, as doleful and dreary as it can be in its onset and progression, is more amenable to control the sooner it is confirmed. If the cancer is small, it can be completely removed. Otherwise, chemotherapy and radiation can be used to reduce its size and attendant pain. They don't add much, though, to actual cure. Cancer in general is part of report No. 123. For a copy, write: Dr. Donohue — No. 123, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please give me some information about interstitial cystitis? What are its symptoms? What causes it? What is the treatment? — Mrs. D.B.

ANSWER: Another difficult problem to control.

Interstitial cystitis is a problem of the urinary bladder lining, occurring mostly in women.

With interstitial cystitis, the patient has to void with dramatic frequency, sometimes as often as every 20 minutes. Also, there is great pain in the pelvic region, which is only partly relieved with the urinations.

The cause is an inflammation and scarring of the lining of the bladder, which shrinks in size, accounting in part for the frequency of urination. What causes the problem in the first place is unfortunately an unsolved mystery.

The interstitial cystitis patient should be under treatment of a urologist. Some treatments have helped some patients. For example, instilling the bladder directly with DMSO (dimethyl sulfoxide) helps stretch the shrunken bladder wall, also lessening the lining inflammation.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have warts, all kinds, some flat, some seedy, etc. Are they related to moles? I understand viruses cause them. Are they catching? Can you get rid of them? — A.K.

ANSWER: It's true. Warts are caused by viruses—papillomaviruses, to be exact. We know of 50 papillomaviruses.

Warts are not related to moles at all. Warts can be spread from person to person, so you should never share towels or washcloths with others. Two of three warts disappear on their own within two years.

Nothing taken by mouth will get rid of warts, but there are successful procedures for removal of warts.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am interested in learning about carbon monoxide poisoning. My husband, daughter and I were exposed for several months and never knew it. Our new house furnace, we thought, was working well. How wrong we were! Our symptoms were mild nausea, headaches and dizziness. Not until we returned home from vacation did we find out the problem, when the furnace went out on us. The contractor found a leak. Will we develop any problems longrange from our exposure? — G.L.W.

ANSWER: Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless, non-irritating gas, so you really can't tell if you have been breathing it. It doesn't make you cough. Thus, CO's effects are insidious.

The blood's red cells are responsible for grabbing hold of oxygen molecules in the air and delivering them to the body for fuel. In the presence of carbon monoxide, the red cells must grab on to those molecules instead of the oxygen.

Even when there is plenty of oxygen in the air, the red cells will tend to load up on available carbon monoxide and begin causing the oxygen-starvation symptoms.

Sometimes, poisoning can be subtle. Mild CO poisoning makes the person feel he has a touch of influenza. There may be a headache, a feeling of nausea and dizziness. The exposure can be symptomless and go on for months, though, if the person is regaining oxygen stores during the day, when at work or otherwise away from the carbon dioxide environment. Nighttime headaches are thus frequently the only clue to a leaking home furnace.

With low levels of carbon monoxide, there is no permanent damage. With high levels, there may be coma, and there is just the chance of having permanent brain damage. With very high levels, you die. As the new heating season approaches, it is well for people, especially shut-ins, to have their furnaces checked for leaks.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Belts are back in fashion

By FRANCINE PARNES

For AP Special Features

They hold up your pants, update last year's looks and add a finishing touch. And, while they stretch your wardrobe, they whittle your waist.

History has it that belts have been worn since the Bronze Age, and now, with emphasis on close-fitting clothes, they're back in fashion.

"They're coming back very strongly, with the shaped waist that is so prominent," says New York designer Judith Leiber.

Jackie Anderson, another New Yorker, agrees.

"The belt helps feminize," says the design director for Omega Fashions, maker of leather belts. "Now that glamour is coming back again, in the form of red lips and fingernails and high heels, belts are adding attention to details of an outfit."

The newest look in belts is reed-thin, a half-inch or so wide, such as leather thong tie belts designed by Clara and Misha Berger for Asymmetry or those Calvin Klein buckled around long sweaters in his CK collection.

The narrow belt scores points for accenting the waist without binding it. For the overweight, a thin belt of the same color or fabric as the clothing is the most flattering.

"If you're thick-waisted, don't wear an extreme such as a two-inch belt, because you're drawing attention with a vertical line at a wide point around your body," Anderson says. "Instead, look for a belt that's about an inch or less wide."

Leiber says her narrow belts in alligator or snakeskin are doing well. In nine colors, they come ornamented with semiprecious stones, plain brass gold-plated buckles or mini turn-locks, about $575.

At Omega, Anderson says, patent leather is important. "We're braiding it, mixing it with grosgrain ribbon and putting ornaments on it such as gold-tone coins and lion's head charms."

Omega's black patent three-quarter-inch belt with charms retails for about $45.

With narrow belts in the forefront, classic chains can't be far behind.

"I just got back from Milan and Paris, and chain belts are still really going strong," Anderson says. "A lot of them are the basic gold chains with leather lacing which started with Chanel, and the update is a gold-tone plate in front that's like a belt buckle."

Omega will have them in January for about $18, or for the real thing, go to the source.

"We've been selling the classic belts ever since Coco Chanel sold her first one from her Rue Cambon salon in the late '50s," says Anne Fahey, Chanel's New York spokesman. "Chanel designed it because she thought it gave a thinning effect to the waist."

New for fall is Chanel's matte gold-tone chain belt with frog charms, about $750.

Chanel, via Karl Lagerfeld, is also taking a walk on the wide side with a seven-inch black quilted leather corset belt, about $790.

"It's like a weight lifter's belt which instantly attracts attention to the waist, either with a longer cardigan or a short crop jacket," Fahey says. "You wear it under a little black knit dress and throw a jacket over it."

"Or as outerwear over a swing coat to cinch the waist."

In 1789, John Adams was sworn in as the first vice president of the United States.

Former Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev died of a heart attack in 1971. He was 71.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I have a lot of maps that I would like to frame or cover with Plexiglass. I would like to know how to get the creases out of them.

Do you have any ideas as to how I can do this? — Rea Buttermore, Youngstown, Ohio

A. Yes, and the answer is as close as your iron, according to a major map manufacturer.

Carefully steam-iron the back side of the map. This will help remove most of the creases, and the map can be mounted easier. But keep in mind that there is a chance all of the creases cannot be removed—a heavy crease line may remain. — Heloise

COLORED KEYS

Dear Heloise: My family all drive the same make of car. All of our keys are identical and we all have spares for each other's cars.

I took some spray paint and painted the keys the same color as the car (i.e., mine is gray so I have a gray key head).

It works great and I never have to guess which key is which. I get the correct key every time! — Lorri Savage, Dunwoody, Ga.

Spikers clip Canyon, await Dumas

District 1-4A showdown set here tonight

By JAY FEDEX
Sports Editor

The Hereford volleyball team downed Canyon Saturday in Canyon by a score of 15-7, 15-7, setting up a showdown for the District 1-4A championship tonight against Dumas in Whiteface Gym.

Hereford beat Dumas in the first district meeting Oct. 1. Hereford goes into the match with a 10-0 district record, 25-4 overall. Dumas comes in at 9-1 and 20-6. A Hereford win would give the volleyball program its first outright championship, while a loss would force a one-match playoff for the top playoff spot.

"I think winning an outright district championship is the uppermost thing in the kids' mind," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "In my coaching time here (11 years, 10 as head coach) we've never done that. We've been co-champs with them (Dumas) two times, but we've never won outright. The kids are very motivated by that fact and that challenge."

Volleyball action starts at 6 p.m. with the junior varsity match. Hereford's JV also beat Dumas the first time around, and the JV beat Canyon 15-6, 15-9 Saturday to improve to 22-3 for the season.

The varsity match will begin about 20 minutes after the conclusion of the JV match.

On Saturday, the Lady Whitefaces played a Canyon team that showed some improvement since their first meeting, a 15-0, 15-4 Herd win on Sept. 27.

"We sided out with them a number of times, certainly more than we did the first time around," Reeh said. "I thought Canyon played much better than they did the first time we played. Defensively, they picked up a lot of what our hitters were swinging at, and it took our hitters some time to adjust."

"I think we expected them to play a slower game, like they did the first time around, but they played better defense and hit the ball better. Once we upped our intensity a little bit, we started to play better."

John Fuston missed only two of 25 games to win last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest. Fuston, who beat the other 112 players by at least two games, will receive $25 in Hereford Bucks.

A total of seven players missed four games, but Harold Simons took second place and $15 in Hereford Bucks by predicting that the Hereford-Borger score would be 27-21, Borger. It was actually 28-18.

Kay Redwine captured third place and $10 in Hereford Bucks with her tie-breaker prediction of 23-17, Borger.

The five others who missed four games were Kristi Hollingsworth, Dan Odell, Jan Page, Gina Kalka and Nolan Grady.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (SWBT) has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to restructure the current PLEXAR I and II service offerings. This restructure will significantly change PLEXAR I and II services.

The restructuring of PLEXAR I will, among other things: (1) reduce the maximum line size from 30 to 9; (2) obsolete and grandfather certain optional features; (3) eliminate the requirement to subscribe to Feature Package Two in order to subscribe to certain optional features; (4) reduce the nonrecurring and monthly rates of certain features; and (5) increase the nonrecurring charges for the PLEXAR I System Charge ($2.10 to $8.00), Call Transfer Disconnect feature ($3.00 to $8.00), and Convenience Dialing I feature ($6.35 to $8.00). All current PLEXAR I customers will have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR I service, switching to the new restructured PLEXAR I service, or switching to PLEXAR II service with ten or more lines.

The proposed PLEXAR II restructure will, among other things: (1) change the tariffed offering to serve the market segment of 10-74 stations; (2) create two station pricing structures, one for customers with 10-29 stations, and one for customers with 30-74 stations; (3) reduce the sensitivity for the loop portion of the rate to two price bands: 0-2 miles, and beyond 2 miles; (4) offer a PLEXAR II basic station that can be flexibly configured, from a number of standard features, to meet the individual customer requirements; (5) change the way the termination liability is calculated so the customer is responsible for 65% rather than 56% of the present worth of the remaining monthly payments in the contract; (6) create an option that allows month-to-month customers to convert to long term contracts of at least three years and receive a credit or "contract signing bonus"; and (7) establish a System Subsequent Change Charge which applies per serving central office when changes are made that affect the entire system.

Current PLEXAR II customers will also have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR II service, or switching to the new restructured PLEXAR II service. PLEXAR II customers with at least 75 stations also have the option of switching to PLEXAR Custom service in certain situations.

This application has been assigned Docket Number 13210. Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by November 28, 1994. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 tele-typewriter for the deaf. ## Girls' cross country team 9th in Levelland

The Hereford cross country teams ran in the large South Plains College Invitational Cross Country Meet, held Saturday in Levelland. The Hereford girls' team finished ninth out of 16 teams, and though the boys were 13th out of 14, Tommy Mather finished 18th in the field of 110.

"Tommy Mather ran his best race of the year," coach Martha Emerson said. "His 18th place was great in this very competitive field. First place went to Daniel Carrasco of Odessa High with a time of 15:53. The next 11 runners were under 17 minutes."

Mather, a sophomore, ran the three-mile course in 17:18. Emerson also praised the efforts of sophomores Pedro Del Hoyo and Brandon Coleman, and of freshman Miguel Huerta.

"Brandon Coleman and Miguel Huerta have been moved up to varsity the past two weeks and have done very well," Emerson said. "This is the first year in cross country for all four of these young men and they have worked very hard."

The South Plains meet was the last of the regular season for Hereford. The District 1-4A Meet will be Saturday in Amarillo. The time has not been announced.

The girls' team finished with 195 points Saturday, behind eight teams: Coronado, 57 points; Odessa Permian, 90; Borger, 99; Hobbs (N.M.), 142; Andrews, 149; Frenship, 152; San Angelo Lakeview, 164; and Sundown, 192. There were seven teams behind Hereford, though none were from District 1-4A.

Teresa Lopez led the Hereford girls, finishing 31st with a time of 13:28 in the two-mile race. Trailing Lopez were: Bethany Townsend, 34th and 13:30; Nora Herrera, 43rd in 13:43; Jamie Harrison, 44th in 13:44; and Marie Crox, 65th in 14:05.

"The girls' team competed very well," Emerson said. "I was pleased with their effort, especially Lopez, Townsend and Crox."

For the boys, Del Hoyo was 40th in 17:47; Lee Mungia was 75th in 18:50; Coleman was 81st in 10:04; Huerta was 83rd in 19:08; and Miguel Carrillo was 84th in 19:11.

Hereford finished with 241 points, beating Olton by 116 points. Boys Ranch won the race with 71 points. District 1-4A member Borger was seventh with 196 points.

Hereford's junior varsity boys took fourth in the JV race. Justin Criner led the JV, finishing 20th in 19:19, followed by: Rafael Del Hoyo, 29th in 20:06.2; Flavio Cardenas, 30th in 20:06.6; Justin McDowell, 39th in 20:52; Isnacno Garcia, 42nd in 22:00; and Edgar Herrera, 44th in 22:16.

Hereford had only two girls in the girls' JV race: Beverly Celaya finished 20th in 14:48, and Veronica Castillo was 28th in 15:03.

Four Hereford girls ran in the junior high division: Kitt Wimberley, 15th in 14:12; Jessica Mejia, 16th in 14:19; Erica Delgado, 17th in 14:22; and Anna Delgado, 55th in 16:27.

Herd tennis team destroys Dumas

The Hereford tennis team closed out the regular season with a 13-5 win over Dumas Saturday in Dumas.

Next up for the Herd is the Region 1-4A Tennis Tournament, to be played Friday and Saturday in Lubbock.

Coach Ed Coplen wasn't completely happy with the Herd's last match before regionals. Although Hereford's boys swept their six singles matches, Hereford won only three of the six doubles matches and only one of three girls' doubles matches.

"Our doubles didn't play as well as they have been playing," Coplen said. He said that it may have been because Hereford had the regional berth wrapped up before the Dumas match. Coplen won't know which team Hereford will play until a meeting Thursday night, at which coaches will decide the four seeds and make the 14-team draw.

Hereford, the runner-up in District 1-4A, won't be one of the seeded teams, though district champion Borger may be, Coplen said. He added that Wichita Falls, Big Spring, and either Denison or Sherman will draw consideration for a seed.

"We'll have to play a No. 1 team from some district," Coplen said. "I just hope we get a good draw. We don't want to play one of the seeds in the first round."

Following are complete results of the Dumas team match. Junior varsity matches are included, of which Hereford won five of nine.

Cowboys' Williams lost for season

By DENNE FREEMAN

AP Sports Editor
IRVING, Texas (AP) - Doctors will decide in a month or six weeks whether to operate on Pro Bowl offensive lineman Erik Williams' right knee, which was injured in an automobile accident.

Dallas coach Barry Switzer predicts the 6-foot-6, 325-pound tackle is gone for the year.

"He'll have the opportunity to play again, but I doubt it'll be this year," Switzer said Monday. "In my opinion he's going to need reconstruction of the right knee. Thank God he's alive."

Williams suffered a damaged right knee, a broken rib, torn ligaments in his left thumb and facial lacerations that required plastic surgery in the early morning wreck.

Doctors said damage to the knee included a torn medial collateral ligament, a torn posterior cruciate ligament and a torn popliteal muscle.

The Department of Public Safety said alcohol wasn't a factor in the crash, but speed and fatigue were. The department said Williams was driving more than 75 mph in a 35 mph zone, and he may receive a speeding ticket.

The only good news Dallas got Monday was the status of Troy Aikman, who suffered a concussion in the first quarter of the Cowboys' 28-21 victory over the Arizona Cardinals.

"I'll play on Sunday against Cincinnati," said Aikman, who underwent an MRI that was negative. "This is one of the minor ones (concussion) that I've had."

Aikman, who has had four concussions with the Cowboys and six overall going back to his high school days in Oklahoma, will play behind a patchwork offensive line.

Rookie Larry Allen will replace Williams at right tackle, a position he's never played. He started at left tackle earlier in the season.

Also nursing injuries in the offensive line are left tackle Mark Tuinei, center Mark Stepnoski and guard Nate Newton. They are expected to play.

Tight end Jay Novacek likely will miss the Cincinnati game because of an abdominal injury, giving Aikman two less veterans in the offensive line.

"I'm playing, I don't care if we have five eighth school guys out there," Aikman said.

Maddux gets 3rd Cy Young award

BY BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Greg Maddux makes no apologies for winning a record third straight Cy Young Award in a strike-shortened season. He's just sorry he didn't have a chance to do more.

"It was very frustrating, not just because of the way I was pitching," Maddux said Monday. "I came to Atlanta for less money, but I came for an opportunity to play in the World Series and win it. One of the few goals I did set a few years ago was to get a World Series ring."

The Atlanta ace was a unanimous choice for this Cy Young. He became the first player ever to win a major postseason award three straight times.

"You always set goals. To win the Cy Young, or win three of these was never really a goal," he said from his home in Las Vegas. "It's always something you try to attain, but you try to make goals that are a little more attainable."

Maddux was 16-6 with a 1.56 ERA, the third-lowest in the majors in 75 years, before the season ended Aug. 12 because of the players' strike. His ERA was more than 2 1/2 runs below the league average, the biggest differential in major league history.

Still, not all 128 original voters for the NL Cy Young wrote Maddux's name.

Kit Stier of the Gannett Suburban Newspapers in New York submitted a blank ballot to protest this year's postseason awards. His vote, however, was thrown out and he was replaced on the panel by another member of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The BBWAA said blank ballots were considered in complete and did not count.

Maddux officially received 140 points for his unanimous victory. Montreal's Ken Hill (16-5, 3.32) was runner-up with 16 second-place votes and 56 points. New York's Bret Saberhagen (14-4, 2.74) was third with 11 second-place votes and 42 points.

The AL Cy Young Award winner will be announced today. Steven Carlton, who won a record four, Sandy Koufax, Tom Seaver, Jim Palmer and Roger Clemens.

Barnett, Eagles fly by struggling Oilers, 21-6

By BUCKY GLEASON
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- Fred Barnett got what he was looking for, proof that a serious knee injury is nothing more than a painful memory.

The Houston Oilers helped convince him of that with a performance typical of their season of agony.

"With all the blitzing they do, Calvin (Williams) and I were praying we'd have a big game," Barnett said of his fellow wide receiver for the Philadelphia Eagles. "I was hoping I'd get a lot of balls thrown my way."

He did, and made the most of it in Philadelphia's 21-6 victory Monday night. Barnett, returning from a knee injury that cost him the last 12 games of the 1993 season, caught five passes for 187 yards and a touchdown.

"If there's any doubt about Fred Barnett coming back, he's certainly back," Eagles coach Rich Kotite said after Philadelphia improved to 5-2.

Doubt seems to be the only constant for Oilers, who dropped to 1-6 with another effort punctuated by blown opportunities and missed assignments.

"I don't know what the answer is," quarterback Cody Carlson said. "We've lost every possible way we can. We don't like to say that, but it's the truth."

This time it was Carlson who kept the Oilers on the way to ruin. He gave the Eagles their first touchdown when he underthrew Haywood Jeffries and was intercepted by Eric Allen, setting up a 1-yard run by Eagles' rookie Charlie Garner in the second quarter.

Barnett got loose in the Houston secondary in the third period for a 53-yard touchdown that increased Philadelphia's lead to 14-6. The Oilers' defense made it easy for Randall Cunningham, who despite completing only 13 of 24 passes threw for 310 yards.

"We continue to beat ourselves," safety Marcus Robertson said. "We continue to kick ourselves in the butt. It's a play here, and a play there. We just can't seem to get it done."

Robertson and Cris Dishman were unable to decide who would take most of the blame for Barnett, who had three catches of more than 50 yards and another 36-yard gain wiped out by a penalty. Both defensive backs agreed they blew several assignments and allowed Barnett to penetrate the middle of the secondary. "I take full responsibility," Dishman said. "I'm human, and I make mistakes. One of them cost us a touchdown."

Houston missed a big opportunity with the Eagles leading 7-6 in the third quarter. Carlson moved the Oilers to the Philadelphia 26, but the drive ended when Gary Brown fumbled while being dropped for a six-yard loss.

The Oilers' biggest mistake came early in the fourth period after backup quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver drove them 74 yards to the Philadelphia 2. Brown was unable to handle Tolliver's pitch on a sweep, and the ball bounced into the arms of Eagles linebacker Britt Hager.

"I can't make excuses," Brown said. "I'm supposed to be a professional. I have to digest (the fumbles) and get it out of my system before it becomes a problem."

The Oilers have been unable to solve any of their major problems -- foremost among them replacing departed quarterback Warren Moon and sack specialist William Fuller. Gone is the hope that a dramatic turnaround, such as the 11-game winning streak that followed an 0-5 start last season, was forthcoming.

"We have to keep working hard to get over this thing," Oilers coach Jack Pardee said after Houston lost its third straight game. "We're struggling and we know we can get out of it. There's no magical way."

French tennis star Suzanne Lenglen was able to hit the ball and make it land on a coin.

Panhandle Plains Museum site of Bay View meeting

Bay View Study Club members met Oct. 20 at the Panhandle Plains Museum in Canyon with Michael Grauer, curator of art, giving the program.

The speaker gave little known facts about Charles Goodnight, an early-day settler on the plains. Goodnight was the first person to put a horn on the side of a saddle for ladies to use to ride "side-saddle." He also made the first chuck wagon so cowboys could eat while on the range. The club members also viewed paintings of Goodnight during the various phases of his life which were mostly done by Howard Bugbee.

A beautiful modernistic oil painting by Georgia O'Keefe called "Red Landscape" showed Palo Duro Canyon at daybreak. Grauer told the group that the museum was delighted that the Georgia O'Keefe Foundation donated the painting in honor of Ms. O'Keefe's term as an art teacher at West Texas A&M University from 1916-1918.

The club was also shown paintings created by Tommie Lea, an El Paso artist who is known throughout the world for his work. During World War II he was an artist for the U.S. Navy in the Pacific. When they couldn't break the radio silence he would travel to Hawaii to show pictures of battles to the admiral. His most famous painting is the sinking of the Wasp Aircraft Carrier. The Japanese did not know that for six months the U.S. had no aircraft carriers in the Pacific. The artist has numerous murals located in U.S. post offices and official buildings.

Members attending were Mmes. Paul Scott, Austin Rose, Milton Rudder, Bill Davis, Carol Newsom, Howard Gault, J.A. Burran, Wes Fisher, D.N. Garner, Bob Josseland and guests, Kathy McCloud and Gladys Batson.

Gollighugh is honored

Regina Gollighugh of Hereford, a student at Clarendon College, will be named in the 1994 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Regina is recognized as one of the outstanding campus leaders based on her academic achievement, community service, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for future success.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oprah Winfrey's really gone the distance: She finished her first marathon.

"This is better than an Emmy," she said after completing the 26-mile, 385-yard course Sunday in just under 4-1/2 hours. That was 40 seconds faster than her goal, despite having to run in a steady drizzle.

The 40-year-old celebrity, who wore No. 40 on her gray outfit, was among 13,000 people in the 19th annual Marine Corps Marathon.

"As I saw the 26 miles, I started to cry because I thought, 'Oh God, it's over, it's over,'" she said. "Then that last two - that two-tenths of a mile: 'Hell,' I thought, 'Where is it. Where is the finish.'"

But after 20 weeks in training, the talk-show diva said she's not giving up her day job anytime soon.

"This is my last marathon ... I'm going to stick to half-marathons from here on out."

in a platinum setting, which I purchased from an estate. Since I am an auctioneer, I have access to several fine estate pieces and this one was really outstanding. Having a high visibility job, I introduced Pamela to some of my customers. Many of them, knowing of our recent engagement, congratulated us.

A few women asked to see her ring. A lady from Boston (where I have always thought people had fine manners) looked at Pamela's ring and said, "Is this a FRIENDSHIP ring? The diamond is awfully small."

What do you think of such a remark?—Frank in Stoneham, Mass.

Even worse, after they sat down at the table she beat him at arm-wrestling. Wendy is something of a tomboy, but she is also three years younger than Steven and a head shorter.

I wanted Steven to be aware that he was out of shape, but it must have been extremely humiliating for him to have been shown up by his younger cousin—and a girl at that. I'm divorced so there is no father he can talk to. I am hoping this unfortunate incident will motivate Steven to become more interested in athletics but in the meantime, what can I do to repair his somewhat battered self-esteem?—A Mother in Atlanta.

Dear Atlanta: Steven needs a strong male role model in his life. Is there an uncle, older cousin, coach or teacher who can help?

Go to Steven's school and enlist the aid of his favorite teacher. Can the lad be persuaded to get interested in hockey, football, tennis, handball, soccer, baseball, basketball or swimming? Your son needs help. Let's hope this recent embarrassment will provide the impetus he needs.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know much about social etiquette, but something happened last week that got me wondering.

"Pamela" and I became engaged several days ago. Maybe this is a geographic thing, or may I'm overly sensitive.

I am originally from Lexington, Mass. Pamela has been living in Santa Fe, N.M., for the past six years.

I had been setting aside money to buy Pamela a nice engagement ring and decided on an antique diamond

Dear Frank: To comment on the size of a stone is not only ignorant but in extremely poor taste. Actually, color and clarity are more important than size when evaluating a diamond. I wish you had pointed this out and put the cl-1 in her place.

NEW YORK (AP) - It's hard enough to act a part. It's even harder when you're John Cusack, trying to play the "Woody Allen role" in a movie directed by Woody Allen.

Allen, who has often appeared in his own films, gave pointers to Cusack in filming "Bullets Over Broadway," about a playwright with Allen-like characteristics: whining, mumbling, cringing.

"He would jump in and do the scene, and the whole crew would crack up," Cusack said of Allen in The New York Times. "I would say, 'Woody, you can't do that to me. It's humiliating.'"

Then imitating Allen, Cusack shrunk his voice and dropped his shoulders. "He said, 'Yeah, but it's an entirely different relationship. I pay them.'"

Quick breads, muffins healthy

By The Associated Press
 Quick breads and muffins are an appealing, simple way to reap the goodness of autumn's fruits, vegetables and grains. They're fast and easy, and they're the busy cook's answer to homemade lunch-box treats and healthy, on-the-run breakfasts.

You can make a variety of muffins and breads with one basic batter recipe. This recipe lets you be creative with whatever fruit or vegetable is available or convenient. You can mix and match fruits, vegetables and nuts, as well as add a topping of your own choice.

For Halloween party treats, create festive pumpkin muffins. Just add canned pumpkin, nutmeg and walnuts to the batter. Bake in a miniature muffin tin.

Basic Batter Recipe
 3/4 cup skim milk
 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 large egg

1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup whole-wheat flour
 1/4 cup rolled oats
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/4 cup white sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
 Preheat oven to 400 degrees F.

Spray muffin tins or loaf pan with cooking spray. In food processor or large bowl beat milk, oil and egg.

In separate bowl, mix well remaining ingredients. Blend dry ingredients into wet until just moistened. Add variation ingredients, as desired. Fill regular small or miniature muffin cups half full or fill loaf pan. Bake muffins in a 400-degree F oven for 15 to 18 minutes or until tops are golden. Bake loaves in a 400-degree F oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until top is golden. Makes about 18 small muffins, 30 miniature muffins or 1 loaf.

Variation Ingredients
Blueberry: Fold 1 cup fresh blueberries or frozen blueberries, thawed and drained, into batter. 114 calories per serving.

Carrot: Fold 1-1/2 cups finely shredded carrot, 1/3 cup raisins and 2 tablespoons walnut pieces into batter. 126 calories per serving.

Zucchini: Fold 1-1/2 cups finely shredded zucchini, 1/3 cup raisins and 2-tablespoons walnut pieces into batter. 124 calories per serving.

Peach: Peel and finely chop 1-1/2 cups peaches. Fold peaches into batter. 115 calories per serving.

Banana: Decrease milk to 1/2 cup. Fold 1/2 cup well mashed banana and 2 tablespoons walnut pieces into batter. 119 calories per serving.

Pumpkin: Decrease milk to 1/2 cup. Fold 3/4 cup canned pumpkin, 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg and 2 tablespoons walnut pieces into batter. 117 calories per serving.

Toppings
 Blend all toppings in a miniature food processor. Sprinkle on just before baking.

Pecan Topping: 2 tablespoons pecan pieces, 1/4 cup whole-wheat breakfast cereal flakes, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon butter.

You can enjoy venison without having to hunt it

During hunting season, venison has long been the hunter's favorite way to replenish meat supplies in the freezer. Today, however, you can enjoy the savory taste of venison anytime, without having to don hunting gear.

Farm-raised venison is less gamey tasting and more tender than wild venison. It is available frozen in some specialty stores and supermarkets or can be ordered through the mail year-round.

Hints for Cooking Venison
 Venison has a fine texture, with a flavor similar to beef. It is generally leaner than beef. When prepared properly, the taste of venison rivals the best beef or lamb. Follow these hints:

Choose the cut to fit your schedule. As with beef, venison cuts include roasts, steaks and chops, with roasts requiring longer cooking than steaks or chops. Quick-cooking ground venison and fully-cooked venison luncheon meats are also available.

Because the fat carries most of the strong flavor, trim away as much fat as possible, leaving only a thin covering to keep the meat from drying out as it cooks.

Remove any sinew or skin before you pan-fry or grill venison. Also be sure to remove the silver membrane around the meat muscles. (You can purchase deskinning and desinewed venison.)

Marinate wild venison cuts from the shoulder or leg to tenderize the meat. Marinate the more tender cuts from the ribs, loin or rump to complement the venison flavor. Fruit marinades, such as pineapple, raspberry or kiwi, accent the venison flavor deliciously.

*** Only those registered voters who live within the commissioners' precincts vote in these races.

Candidates for offices in the Nov. 8 general election are listed on a two-sided ballot in Deaf Smith County. Early voting in the election had drawn 413 residents to the office of County Clerk David Ruland by Tuesday morning, an average of about 100 per day since early voting began last Wednesday. Besides in-person voting, the county clerk also is accepting applications for mail ballots for disabled persons or those who will be out of the county on election day. Addresses other than Deaf Smith County must be listed for those expecting to be unable to vote in person.

The sample ballot shown here lists all county, state, federal office-seekers, including the county commissioners who will be elected by voters in those precincts only.

Entertainer buried with military honors

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) - Army Special Forces soldiers honored Martha Raye on Saturday at a funeral that began with Green Berets bearing her flag-draped coffin to her grave and ended with her jazzy theme, "Mr. Paganini."

Her raucous rendition of the song in her 1936 debut movie, "Rhythm On The Range," with Bing Crosby, made her a star. Through three wars, she worked tirelessly to entertain U.S. troops.

Raye, who died Wednesday in Los Angeles at age 78, had requested a grave at Fort Bragg, home of the Green Berets who knew her as "Col. Maggie."

Normally only active and retired Army personnel are buried at a base, but the Special Forces Association asked military brass to make an exception, and they did.

An honor guard from the 7th Special Forces Group Airborne served as pall bearers. The 82nd Airborne Division band played patriotic songs. And about 300 soldiers and civilians came to honor her.

Raye appeared in numerous movies and TV shows, and had her own TV series, "The Martha Raye Show," in the 1950s. In later years, she was best known for her denture adhesive ads.

Raye received a special Academy Award in 1969 and the Presidential Medal of Freedom last November for her support of the Army.

Retired Master Sgt. Tom Squire met Raye when she traveled into the Mekong jungle to entertain his unit of just 25 men during the Vietnam War.

"She came, regardless of the danger. She talked, drank, told jokes, played cards," he said at the funeral. "A lot of times, when the regular Army didn't know what was going on or understand, she would just go."

Raye often gave her home phone number and address to soldiers, and when they called, she greeted them like old friends, Squire said.

When Squire was wounded, Raye visited him in the hospital, he said. "There were times I don't think some of us would have made it if she hadn't been there to brighten things up," he said.

Outdoor burning is an idea that can spread like wildfire.

A Little Preparation Can Make A Safe Difference

Check with the local fire authorities before you burn. If burning is permissible, make sure your fire is properly contained and supervised.

Some simple and safe guidelines are:

- Never leave the fire unattended.
- Never burn on a windy day.
- Use a metal barrel in good condition.
- Add a hinged and weighted mesh screen to prevent debris from escaping from the barrel.
- Punch air holes about one inch in diameter near the bottom of barrel.
- Clear a recommended safe area around the barrel.

If your fire escapes, you may be liable for the firefighting costs and damages. For information before burning, contact the fire department.
