Clinton calls for health OK

Discouraging graffiti artists could become easier if cities, businesses and individuals take advantage of a product that some Hereford men have developed.

Myriad Utile Spray is a coating that is applied to a surface to protect the material or paint.

If the surface then is defaced by paint or other substance, a hot, high-pressure water spray washes the paint right off.

Proof that it works was exhibited in Hereford last week.

"After we painted over graffiti on a building in a park, these people asked us if they could apply the coating," said Hereford City Manager Chester Nolen.

Although he won't admit to being doubtful about the material's effectiveness before the demonstration, Nolen does admit to being "amazed" when the latest graffiti on the building was just washed away with water.

Brady Jones, vice president of Myriad Utile, Inc., said the product first was observed in Mexico. The Hereford group of investors bought it and brought it to the U.S. for testing, production and marketing.

The developer, Francisco Urena, is one of the men involved in the corporation formed to manufacture and market the coating.

Do not be misled, though, about uses for this substance -- there are many besides the ability to shed graffiti.

After initial development, Jones said, the spray went to Texas A&M University where exhaustive testing was undertaken.

Then, there were field tests to determine the reliability of the product.

And, finally Washington, D.C., lawyers were retained to usher the product through the patenting process.

Jones said there are other products that make the same claims as Myriad Utile Spray.

"There are some paraffin coatings but none like this -- all our claims have been cleared," he continued.

The spray's contents are liquid hydrocarbons and microcrystalline wax. The coating is white and does not discolor the surface to which it is applied. And, it is not visible to the naked eye.

Within a short time after application to a surface, the coating's hydrocarbons evaporate, leaving the wax substance. Tests verify that paints and other materials will not penetrate the coating.

The substance can be applied, undiluted, with an ordinary garden spray.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton is calling on Americans to end six decades of hesitation and fulfill Harry Truman's vision of health insurance for all Americans.

Clinton and his wife, Hillary, were flying today to Independence, Mo., Truman's home town, to greet the Health Security Express, the bus caravan that is touring the nation to support the Clintons' health reform proposals.

Vice President Al Gore and his wife Tipper were among other scheduled speakers.

"Harry Truman was a man of great decency and common sense and courage who believed that America would be much stronger if every American had health security," Clinton said at the White House on Friday.

"He was right; and he fought hard for it, though he didn't succeed. And because he was right, president after president, presidents of both parties, have fought for that goal."

Congress is moving closer to bringing the health insurance debate to the floors of both chambers and Clinton said the bill proposed by the Democratic leadership of the House on Friday meets the goal of universal coverage and controlling cost.

In his weekly radio address, the president said some in Congress "are trying to kill health reform altogether." And he contended that failure to act this year will mean the loss of coverage for 3 million more Americans.

Clinton also took credit for what he called a week of good news: The end to the state of war between Israel and Jordan; Russia's announced troop withdrawal from Estonia; continued economic growth and a sharp reduction in claims for unemployment compensation.

Truman introduced the initial version of his health care plan in November 1945. He asked Congress for national compulsory health insurance, so that all citizens could get hospital and medical service "regardless of ability to pay."

Senate panel approves $243.6 billion for military budget that has pay hike

By JOHN DIAMOND
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a $243.6 billion defense spending plan for 1995 that includes a 2.6 percent pay raise for the military and funding for a new aircraft carrier.

The bill is $3.5 billion higher than this year's defense budget, not counting inflation. Nonetheless, Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, its chief architect, called it a bare-bones measure.

"This bill will buy only 17 combat aircraft. This year the Army will buy no tanks. This year the Navy will buy four ships," Inouye said. "We are staving off the collapse of the defense industrial base."

The bill shores up the so-called readiness aspects of the defense budget, which include funds to pay for day-to-day operations, military salaries, and training.

Inouye, who chairs the Senate Appropriations defense subcommittee, said those costs, and the costs of closing down military bases worldwide, are eating into weapons procurement.

The spending plan for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 is $821 million below President Clinton's request and $55 million above the defense appropriations bill approved by the House. Once the measure wins approval in the full Senate, lawmakers from both houses will work out differences in a conference committee.

The bill provides $2 billion for six C-17 transport planes, $2.7 billion for three Aegis guided missile destroyers, and $2.3 billion for a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier built in Newport News, Va. It also includes $150 million to keep B-2 Stealth bomber suppliers going and keep alive the option of buying in later years more than the 20 B-2s already on order.

The committee included a recommendation that could have a profound impact on the Army's helicopter suppliers. Concerned that development of the new Comanche helicopter and the upgrading of the Apache attack helicopter may be stretching the Army's research and development budget, the committee ordered the Army to award both those projects to one contractor.

Sikorsky Aircraft in Stratford, Conn., and Boeing Helicopters in Philadelphia are working on the Comanche project. McDonnell Douglas Corp. in St. Louis has the Apache contract.

The committee also approved an Inouye proposal to prohibit defense contractors from using Pentagon funds to pay sky-high executive salaries. Inouye presented a list of chief executive officer salaries, including the $7.3 million made by General Dynamics Corp.'s James R. Mellor and the $3.6 million paid to Martin Marietta Corp.'s Norman Augustine.

Breyer newest Justice with 87-9 vote on nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) - Stephen G. Breyer won Senate approval to become a Supreme Court justice, proclaimed himself "absolutely delighted," grinned broadly at the man who offered him the job and said, "Thank you."

Breyer was at the White House when the chamber voted 87-9 on Friday to approve his nomination.

"Thank you for the confidence you have placed in me," the 55-year-old Boston federal appeals court judge told President Clinton.

He is to be sworn in as the nation's 108th Supreme Court justice next week, but no specific time was set, court spokeswoman Toni House said.

Breyer called his new responsibilities "awesome, rather humbling," but said his goals will remain the same: "to help make the law work better for people."

"This gentleman has set an example of excellence and fidelity to the law and the Constitution of which every American can be proud," Clinton said.

Breyer is Clinton's second Supreme Court nominee to be easily confirmed. Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg was confirmed by a Senate vote of 96-3 last Aug. 3.

More than 200 ballots marked in early voting

The number of early voters climbed toward the end of last week as Hereford residents registered their approval or disapproval of a half-cent city sales tax that would provide funds for economic development.

The election to decide the issue will be held Aug. 13. By Friday afternoon, 202 ballots had been marked during the first five days of early voting. Residents may vote prior to election day through Aug. 9, in the Deaf Smith Courthouse office of County Clerk David Ruland. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

The election was called by the Hereford City Commission in response to a recommendation from a task force, People Promoting Progress. Funds raised by the tax levy would be used to assist expansion of existing business or recruiting new business to Hereford.

The task force determined that other cities in the area are using the tax to their advantage and without the levy, Hereford is not competitive in business development.

Residents given chance to speak at park meeting

Neighbors of Buena Vista Park, in west Hereford, will have an opportunity Tuesday night to tell the city what they would like to see in their park.

The first of a series of neighborhood meetings in city parks will be hosted by the Hereford City Commission, beginning at 7 p.m.

Participants, who are asked to bring lawn chairs to be more comfortable during the hour-long meeting, will be encouraged to talk about their hopes and desires for the park.

The seven-acre park presently has three swing sets, a small metal climbing structure and a basketball goal.

Residents of the area will be called on for input on development of the park, as part of an overall city project to improve parks.

The City Commission in a meeting earlier this month set the parks program as a major project in coming months.

Meetings will be held in other areas on a weekly basis through Sept. 12.

City officials encourage all interested persons to attend the meetings, beginning with the Buena Vista session.

Neighborhood invited

An invitation to neighbors of the Buena Vista Park, and other city residents, is on a sign advertising the event for 7 p.m. Tuesday. Parks Superintendent Johnny Carr straightens the letters as City Commissioner Roger Eades looks on. The Tuesday evening meeting is the first in a series planned to gather community ideas for improvements in the city's parks.

Local Roundup

City posts agenda

A request from a citizen to enact a juvenile curfew ordinance tops the agenda for the Hereford City Commission's meeting Monday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Also to be heard will be requests for funding from Kids Inc., and Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence and a request for continued water service to property outside the city limits. Commissioners have scheduled an executive session to discuss appointments to several boards before making the appointments.

School board agenda posted

The Hereford ISD Board of Trustees will meet in regular session at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 2, in the Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Avenue. The agenda contains no items for the information or action agendas, but the 1994/95 budget is on the discussion agenda, which means trustees may talk about it, but cannot take action. Also on the meeting agenda are general reports, professional organization reports and public comments. The session is open to the public.

Reception set for doctor

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Health and Education Committee will host a welcome reception for Dr. and Mrs. Glen Alford on Sunday, July 31. The affair will be held from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the Hereford Country Club. It is open to the public.

Half inch of rain noted

Hereford received 0.54 of an inch of rain Friday night, according to KPAN Radio, after a high of 94 degrees. The overnight low Saturday was 58 degrees. Forecasters are predicting partly cloudy skies on Sunday with a high around 90 degrees and south west winds at 10-20 mph. More rain was predicted for Saturday night, with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms and a low in the lower 60s.

possibilities. "We could keep garbage trucks cleaner by spraying the surface after they washed," he mentioned. "Then, we could just hose them down." Among other uses, sewer equipment could be protected from corrosive materials with an application of Myriad Utile Spray. Homeowners might want to use Myriad Utile to protect wood decks or fences as well as concrete block fences.

The principals in the company, including Mario Mula, president; Bill Confer, Jones and Urena, believe uses for the coating are unlimited.

Cost of Myriad Utile now is $30 to $35 per gallon, said Jones, but a little goes a long way.

"Coating a stop sign would cost about 30 cents," he said. "Or, for unpainted concrete or wood, it would cost about seven or eight cents per square foot."

The beauty of the material is its resistance to both heat and cold.

"It's stable from minus-350 degrees Fahrenheit to plus-450 degrees after it is applied," Jones said. The material remains pliable and will not become brittle, he added. The Food and Drug Administration has approved Myriad Utile Spray for a protective coating on the outside of cartons used for shipping fruits and vegetables, Brady noted.

The park building that has been a regular target for graffiti furnished the proving ground for the spray, as far as Chester Nolen is concerned.

Nolen said after the city was contacted about a demonstration of the effectiveness of the spray, the building in the park was considered ideal because it had been vandalized repeatedly and repainted by the city.

"They coated it about a month ago," Nolen pointed out. "All the black paint that vandals sprayed on it was cleaned off in about 20 minutes."

When warm water is sprayed onto the surface under high pressure, paint does not run. It beads up and slides off without causing further mess.

Principals in Myriad Utile, Inc., have high hopes for their product. They believe more uses will be discovered.

City Manager Nolen agrees, saying his colleagues in municipal government, as well as business and industry, may find the spray to be just what they've been looking for.

Portrait of Thomas Jefferson stolen

BOSTON (AP) - The earliest known life portrait of Thomas Jefferson, described by his friends as looking nothing like him, was stolen from a studio where it had been sent for reproduction, police said Friday.

The 1786 painting had been insured for $500,000 by its owner, Charles Francis Adams of Dover, a sixth-generation descendant of John Adams, the second president of the United States.

The theft was reported early Friday by an employee of Limitless Design Corp., which shares space with Polaroid Corp.'s Museum Replicas division, said Sgt. Robert O'Toole.

Thieves got to the painting by breaking into Polaroid's 3-foot by 12-foot metal-and-concrete safe, apparently with a hammer and chisel. The safe did not have an alarm and no security guards patrolled the offices, O'Toole said.

The portrait was commissioned by John Adams and painted by popular 18th century artist Mather Brown, a descendant of the family of famous religious writer Cotton Mather. It shows Jefferson at age 43.

Putting up a wall

Shannon Wilburn, right, of Wilburn Investments, solders part of a wall together as part of construction of the new Walco International offices at 200 West First. Watching is an employee. The company spent Friday replacing the west wall of the building. Workers are transforming the location into offices, showroom and warehouse for the veterinary supply company.

Building permits issued on two construction jobs here

Building permits have been issued for two commercial construction projects in Hereford.

Construction is under way on remodeling the former Collier's Tire and Service Center, 200 West First, into new offices, showroom and warehouse for Walco International.

A building permit for that job was issued on July 20, with estimated costs of $20,000 for the renovation. Wilburn Investments is handling work on the building and the building permit estimated construction would take three months.

On July 14, Moorman Manufacturing was issued a building permit for tearing down grain bins and building eight new ones at the company's 401 Progressive Road location.

Value of the construction is listed at $746,064. Work is being done by Dersco Construction.

Local woman to head Amarillo agency

Northwest Primary School counselor Maria Garcia has announced she is leaving the Hereford Independent School District for a post with an Amarillo non-profit agency dealing with handicapped children and their parents.

Mrs. Garcia is the new director of Uniting Parents.

"We do a lot of advocating for children," Mrs. Garcia said of the organization, which is funded by the Chronically Ill and Disabled Children's Service and Amarillo Hospital Home Care.

Mrs. Garcia said she will stay in Hereford for the time being and -- even after moving to Amarillo -- will continue to work with parents of disabled children here, trying to meet the needs they have, whether medical or otherwise.

"We try to find the local resources," she said. "A lot of it's empowering families," teaching them about laws affecting handicapped children and services available to them and their families.

To help with the work of Uniting Parents, Mrs. Garcia said, "Five parents under my direction have been trained" and are staff resources working in the 26 counties of the Panhandle.

Each one is a parent of a handicapped child and knows the rights of children and can teach parents how to find services for their children.

Mrs. Garcia has a personal interest in her work: Her 3-year-old son, Juan, was born with Down Syndrome.

She is a member of the Texas

Interagency Council for Early Intervention, a state advisory board to which she was appointed by Gov. Ann Richards.

In addition, she is a member of the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare

MARIA GARCIA

Board.

During her tenure with HISD, Mrs. Garcia was a bilingual teacher at Northwest for four years and counselor the past seven years.

She is immediate past president of the Hereford Classroom Teachers Association.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - The thrill of opening nightclubs isn't gone for B.B. King.

The blues great is scouting the country for nightclubs like the one bearing his name in Memphis.

"They want to open five or six clubs in the next two to three years," said Jennifer DeWitt, office manager of the Memphis club.

A Los Angeles club may open in August; Nashville may be another location.

King, known for his song "The Thrill Is Gone" and many others, was inducted into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame in 1987.

United Way helps fund local charitable groups

United Way of Deaf Smith County began in 1957 as the United Fund of Deaf Smith County. In 1981, board members voted to change the name to United Way.

A system for giving to local charities through a central fundraising organization, United Way has served the citizens of Hereford and Deaf Smith County in an effective and efficient manner, since its inception.

Administrative costs are kept low to make as much money as possible available to member agencies. United Way provides an invaluable service to member agencies by conducting the majority of their fund-raising for them. This allows the agencies to spend more time and money reaching people who need help.

United Way of Deaf Smith County is operated by a parttime staff of two, and overseen by a board of 15. The decision as to division of funds among the agencies is made by a panel of volunteers from the community.

The panel reviews the programs and needs of each agency. Those who contribute to United Way can be sure that their money is used efficiently to do the most good for the greatest number of people.

Currently, 12 agencies receive funding from United Way, including Big Brothers/Big Sisters, YMCA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, High Plains Epilepsy, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Camp Fire Girls and Boys, Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence, Red Cross, Senior Citizens Home Delivered Meals and Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority.

Each of these agencies plays a vital role in meeting the needs of the citizens of Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Previous campaigns have been successful, however United Way has not met its goal in several years. The needs of the community continue to increase, particularly in years of slow economy. Therefore, the needs of the agencies continue to grow.

The United Way staff and board are excited about the coming campaign and feel positive about meeting this year's goal of $150,000. The 1994-1995 campaign will kick off with a Fun Breakfast on Sept. 15.

REACHING those who need help. TOUCHING us all.

Please make plans to attend this important event.

If you have some time to donate and would be interested in volunteering to work during the fall campaign, please call the United Way office at 364-5220.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a dime is not entirely worthless; it makes a fairly good screwdriver when you need it.

It's great to be back at work this week after a bout with bronchitis that sidelined me for more than a week. One thing about being in poor physical shape is that you don't have to exert yourself to stay that way!

I really appreciate those who called to check on my health.

With no school activities in the news, people on vacations, and many clubs not meeting in the summertime, it's always a slow time of the year in the newspaper business. But it appears the summer "slump" is already over!

The annual Town & Country Jubilee gets underway Aug. 6 with the Fajita Cookoff and climaxes Aug. 13 with the big parade and Jubilee Junction. School seems to start earlier each year, and The Brand has scheduled its Back-to-School edition for Aug. 7.

And, with the start of school, football season is just around the corner. It won't be long until we start thinking about Christmas shopping!

Recent surveys say that more than 50 percent of Americans believe in angels, which are all-knowing, all-seeing, all-powerful beings who watch over people 24 hours a day. Hmmm, sounds a little like the IRS.

Speaking of the IRS, we learned at a recent Texas Press Association meeting in Fort Worth that IRS people can have a sense of humor.

Bob Branson, a public affairs specialist with the Internal Revenue Service in Austin, gave what he called an uninformative, uneducational, learn-nothing program about the American system of taxation. Branson recounted anecdotes from the IRS and read the following letters to the IRS:

—Dear IRS: Stop sending me these bills. I've been dead for almost a year.

—Dear IRS: Please send the refund check for a joint return to me. My husband has already spent his allowance for the next two weeks.

—Dear IRS: As I was getting the tax forms out of the box, I was bitten by a black widow spider and I've been too sick since to complete the return. I'm not really accusing your office of sending the spider with the form, but let's face it, fellas, I didn't put it there.

—Dear IRS: I have not been able to sleep at night because I cheated on last year's income tax and enclosed find my check for a thousand dollars. P.S. If I still can't sleep, I'll send you the rest.

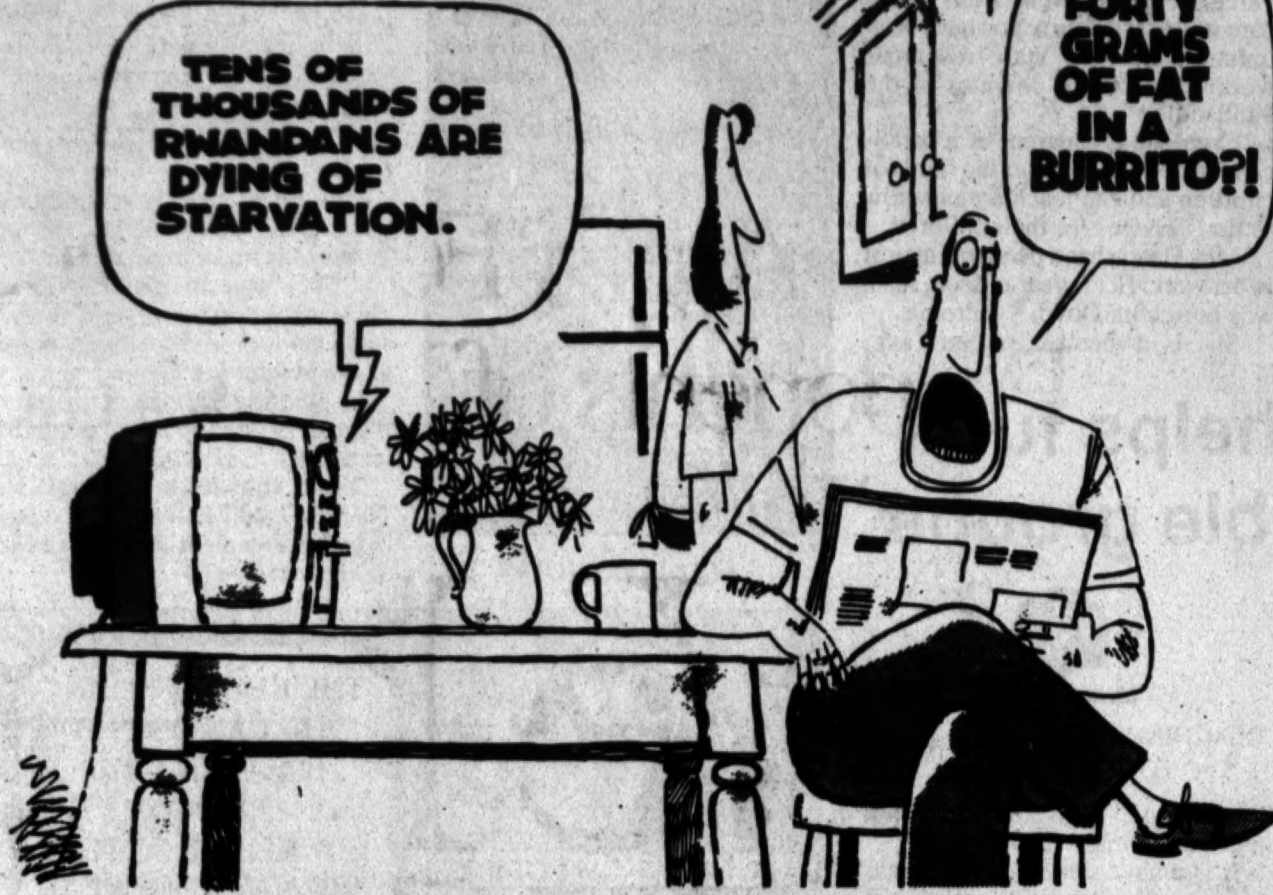

—Dear IRS: My husband and my tax forms have been displaced. Would you please send me replacements.

—Dear IRS: Enclosed please find my estimated tax return. You'll note I did not sign my name to it. If I'm gonna guess how much I earned, you can guess who sent it in.

Branson also described what happened after the IRS noted that it stopped getting returns from a man. Finding that the man had died, the IRS forwarded a notice to his tax preparer. The tax preparer sent the IRS this response:

"Dear IRS: You asked why so-and-so did not file his tax return. The above-named taxpayer was unable to renew his non-renewable lease on life and therefore left no forwarding address. And yet, at sometime in the future, if I should see him in Heaven, I will pass on your request for his tax return. If on the other hand, he went elsewhere, you can get it yourself."

Mrs. Ramey made history come to life

Editor's Note: A number of Hereford students who attended Stanton Junior High have fond memories of seventh-grade Texas History as taught by the late Mildred Ramey. But no one has probably ever put those memories into words quite like the former student:

BY LYNN BRISENDINE
Publisher, Brownfield News

She grabbed the long old rusty sword from its dusty place on the wall, slashed it through the air a few times, as if fighting a long-dead ghost, and then dragged it across the floor. She got to the other end of the room and then spoke the words of William Travis to the eventual defenders of the Alamo.

"Those that will stay and defend these hallowed old walls, step across this line. Those that don't may leave with honor, and without explanation." She quoted the speech from memory.

We, about 25 to 30 seventh graders, re-enacted the famous scene crossing the make-believe line in the classroom. The desks had been moved with as much noise as possible. But, then she made us take on an almost church-like reverence.

To this lady, the subject was religious. She was teaching us Texas history, not just history, but Texas history, and she was in the chapter dealing with the Alamo.

Her name was Mrs. Ramey, and she was a character, an actress, an old lady whom at the time drew some strange stares from some wide-eyed know-it-all seventh graders. She really put on a show with that sword and she cried real tears when she sat and read the now famous letter Travis wrote concerning his fears and his promise of no retreat.

The Alamo was stormed on March 6, 1836, and all the Texas fighters within its boundaries were killed. And on that day 124 years later, March 6, 1960, Mrs. Ramey staged her greatest performance.

With desks stacked to form walls, she had all of us 12 and 13-year-old students play the parts of the heroes. She would not allow anyone to act as one of the attackers, the scourge of Mrs. Ramey's heart. We stood behind, or on the desks, repelling the make-believe enemy and one by one Mrs. Ramey had us lay down in turn.

"You have fallen, a hero of Texas... forever," she would whisper.

Twelve years later I finally got to visit the actual Alamo. It is a strange feeling, especially that first visit, to stand look out from the front of the famous Shrine. Woolworth Variety Store is the first thing I saw, and across the street in another direction is a large bank building.

I stood there trying to visualize the battle and figure out where things had actually happened. The best I could tell, a large portion of the fighting must have taken place about where the soda fountain of the Woolworth store now sits.

I stood there, trying to take in all of the atmosphere and the smog nearly choked me. Looking across the small courtyard entrance I began to visualize the battle. You might think my thoughts and the pictures in my mind would of Walt Disney's epic TV serial, showing Fess Parker as Davy Crockett, standing swinging his rifle by its barrel, the last to fall before the shouting mob.

Or, perhaps the inner-vision of John Wayne, wearing a coonskin cap, playing the part of the famous Crockett, mortally wounded, stumbling into the powder arsenal with a lighted torch and blowing himself and hordes of the invaders to bits.

But, that is not what went through my mind. What I saw was Mrs. Ramey standing with that old rusty sword in hand, swinging it through the air and shouting words of encouragement to her bug-eyed group of seventh graders. She could have taught John Wayne and Fess Parker a thing or two about Texas heroes.

I read a long article last week in The Dallas Morning News about Texas being a "state of mind", not just a state. It talked about the mystique of Texas and its natives, who consider themselves different than say, Ohioans. It went on to relate how some non-Texans think us obnoxious. Well, they would have been hooted out of the room by Mrs. Ramey, because she believed and actually said on more than one occasion that Heaven had to be somewhere in Texas. And, if it's not, I'm sure she has the Lord thinking of moving Heaven down here.

Am I an obnoxious Texan? Well, on this 158th anniversary, thanks to Mrs. Ramey, probably just a little. Gosh, was she ever a Texan!

Brisendine, son of Naomi Brisendine of Hereford, is a Hereford native and former advertising manager of The Brand. He is now publisher of The Brownfield News.

Mildred Ramey was the mother of Peyton Ramey, who recently retired here from Agri-Pro. Mildred and Sank Ramey moved here from Paris, TX., and he was a former railway express agent in Hereford. She attended Baylor University and earned a degree later from Wayland Baptist. She died in 1983.

BLUE By Garry Wesner

An article I saw on the Associated Press wire the other day shows, I believe, how far our First Amendment rights of free assembly and freedom of religion have eroded over the past few years.

The story is about a meeting in Boulder, Colo., of a group called Promise Keepers.

Promise Keepers was founded by University of Colorado football coach Bill McCartney as a way to get Christian men together to worship and pray together.

This year, 52,000 men have gathered to commit their lives to God and to their communities.

These men simply want to emphasize a traditional Christian message -- opposing abortion, encouraging sexual purity and affirming the man as the leader of the home.

Very simple, especially since all of those principles are taught in the Bible.

But, say opponents, Promise Keepers is actually a political organization that is anti-woman, anti-homosexual designed to discriminate against these people and subjugate women.

One "civil rights" activist in Boulder thinks Promise Keepers is trying to advance a conservative political agenda.

Students at the University of Colorado spit on Mr. McCartney, curse him and other such insulting things.

I think that is where my problem lies.

It used to be a group of men could get together to worship and pray and, most, they'd be ignored and, at best, praised and joined.

Now, even gathering in public to pray to be the best men they can be gets these men harassment, insulted and harangued.

They are accused of pushing a particular political agenda and of trying to take over this country.

So what if people don't agree with them? If Promise Keepers said the things to their opponents that those groups are saying against them, Promise Keepers would be sued for slander and libel and there would be cries for the government to shut them down and arrest the ringleaders.

What is especially amazing is that I would be almost positive the Promise Keepers participants -- instead of planning legal action -- are probably devoting a good bit of time at their meeting to praying specifically for their enemies.

Mr. McCartney said the need for the group came because "You've seen the downward spiral of morality in this nation. It can all be traced to an absence of Almighty God. Men of integrity -- promise keepers -- are what's going to turn this thing around."

I say, "More power to you Mr. McCartney. I'll be praying for you and your group."

I think it's time that the men of this country -- especially God-fearing, Christian men -- stand up and take control, not only of their families, but also of their communities. Promise Keepers -- and those 52,000 Christian men who are committing themselves to God -- are doing a lot more for the good of this country than are those who scream discrimination and persecution all the time and who try to tear down everything positive Christians do and believe.

They certainly are daring to stand up and say "I'm proud to be a Christian and I will serve God no matter what anybody says."

When all Christians begin standing up and being counted as such, I think our opponents will then realize the full strength that comes from keeping a promise to our Savior and the loneliness that prevails when the Lord is absent from our life.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

I am pleased that the City has placed the 1/2-cent Sales Tax for Economic Development on the Aug. 13th ballot. Finally, we will begin to compete with our neighboring cities and those across the country for new business and industry.

Remember, early voting has started and will continue through Aug. 9. Please vote FOR the 1/2-cent sales tax for economic development on Aug. 13 (or before). It will help get Hereford going in the right direction now and in the future.

Sincerely,
Peggie J. Fox

Dear Editor:

I'd like to put my 1/2-cent's worth in on the Economic Development Tax issue.

My family and I moved back to Hereford two years ago. The reason we moved back was a job here in Hereford. I believe this is opposite the trend that I see taking place within my peer group. Ninety percent of my graduating class (1981) has moved away from hereford for one reason: jobs.

Recently, a friend was in town visiting family and he asked how I liked living in Hereford. I responded positively: I like it--no traffic, good people, good schools, etc.

I asked him how he like big-city life. He responded the opposite: "I don't like it--heavy traffic, the people, the schools, etc."

I asked him, why not move back to Hereford? His answer was simple: jobs! He said he would love to move back but he can't find a job that will pay anywhere near what he makes presently.

He even went so far as to say if he could make 75 percent of what he makes now, he would consider moving back due to the fact the cost of living in Hereford is so much less.

I would like to see us be able to attract new people to Hereford, but it's very simple. No new jobs, no new people. This is why I support the Economic Development Tax and I will gladly put in my 1/2 cent. If anyone out there has a better idea, come forward! Otherwise, be prepared for a shrinking population and, therefore, a shrinking tax base; which, in turn, will increase taxes for those of us still here.

Sincerely,
John Josseland

Dear Editor:

B.S.A. Pack 50 would like to thank all the local merchants who contributed toward another successful Cubmobile Derby this last Sunday in Veteran's Park.

Thank you for Supporting Scouts!
Jeff Milam

Dear Editor:

Let me encourage everyone to vote on Aug. 13, and to vote for the 1/2 percent sales tax for economic development. Discuss the need for this tax with your friends and co-workers, and ask them to vote.

Money generated from the sales tax would be used to help Hereford attract new business and industry, or help retain and expand existing business. At the present time, Hereford has no funds available to compete with other cities.

Most business and property owners cannot afford property tax increases to fund this development. We have more people to help educate and furnish services to in Hereford, but our property tax base is shrinking.

We must have a positive attitude about this tax if Hereford is to grow and be progressive. The sales tax is the fairest way to fund economic development.

Other cities such as Amarillo have the sales tax for economic development so we help fund their development when we buy merchandise there. Why not let everyone who buys taxable items in Hereford help fund our economic development?

Again, let's make Hereford the growing and thriving community we can be proud of. A vote for this small increase in sales tax is one way we can each do our part.

If environment is defined as a "surrounding," and it is, then an environmentalist is one who works to improve that surrounding.

Well, the first environmentalist I ever knew was a man who carried a hoe around in the trunk of his car to chop down offending weeds and other plants.

He was an activist before the word was invented and wouldn't have known what environmentalist meant, or cared.

No. 1 on his hit list undoubtedly were cockleburs. Next, probably, was Johnson grass.

Now, he could spot a cocklebur from 100 yards, or more. Going down a country road, he'd apply the brakes, back up, remove the hoe and, more often than not, trespass on someone's land, crawling through strands of barbed wire fence, to get at the weed.

After some effort, he grabbed the noxious weed and threw it into the trunk to be burned in the trash barrel when he got home.

He wasn't particular whose property it was, but he was especially concerned with his own. Just a couple miles down the road from his farm gate was a field owned by someone who really was not too diligent.

To say he wasn't diligent would be an understatement. To hear the environmentalist complain, the man was plain lazy.

But, the particular plot of ground that was nearly solid in cockleburrs, fortunately, was not on the regular route driven by the environment-minded farmer.

So, the weeds reproduced, and reproduced some more, all the while the owner saw no reason to remedy the situation.

The environmentalist chafed at the uncaring attitude of the landowner but there was nothing he could do about it. Especially since the piece of land, probably 50 acres, was a little too big to be attacked with his garden hoe.

Now, Johnson grass, so the story goes, was brought to Texas, and the Panhandle, from some foreign state (like Alabama, Mississippi or other locale) by cattle. How it came to be called grass is anybody's guess because the plant is an obnoxious moisture-sucking weed, by any definition.

The environmentalist had the misfortune to come into a legacy of Johnson grass, about the size of half a football field, in a very important grain field.

He tried every kind of plow at every stage of development of the plant -- by the way, this all occurred before there were any chemicals to douse on unwanted plants -- to dispose of the Johnson grass. All to no avail.

Then, he had a wonderful idea -- cut off the heads of the plants before they had time to mature and drop a new crop of seeds into the soil.

So we all (you guessed it -- the environmentalist was my grandfather) were herded to the field where the big people used sharp knives to sever the head from the stalk and the little people held tow sacks into which the heads were discarded.

Woe be unto the adult who shattered seeds when cutting off the tops. My grandfather could out-holler any drill sergeant and was not embarrassed to do so.

The tow sacks were carried to the trash barrel and burned (the environmentalist had not been made aware, at that stage of the game, that he was polluting the atmosphere with his Johnson grass smoke).

None of us realized we were fighting a losing battle, that Johnson grass would not be forever eradicated from the area.

But, we took satisfaction in the gradual disappearance of that patch of weed in the wheatfield. After a couple seasons, the grass gave up, apparently aware that my grandfather would not capitulate.

He never complained or made an issue of other weeds and grasses. He didn't like devil's claws because they often were found wrapped around legs of horses and cattle.

The kids loved to collect devil's claws, though, pop them open and eat the seeds. Can't remember what they tasted like, but it must have been pretty good because we kept eating them.

In the back of my head, I've wondered what my grandpa -- actually, we shortened that to just plain Pa -- would think if he saw all the bindweed that farmers constantly battle.

Somehow, I think he'd pull onto the shoulder of a road, yank the hoe from the trunk and start chopping.

Trouble is, he couldn't burn it. "Thin Wreck" (also known as Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission) might haul him in for burning trash.

The new book list this week begins with John Saul's The Homing. After attending a class reunion and rekindling the relationship with High School sweetheart Russell Owen, Karen Spellman decides to return to Pleasant Valley and accept Russell's proposal of marriage. Karen has been widowed for 5 years and life in Los Angeles has become more difficult and dangerous for Karen and her two daughters Julie and Molly. Julie is not pleased with the move to the small rural community that doesn't even have a mall, and she isn't real pleased with the marriage either. Otto, Russell's father, isn't happy with the thoughts of his son marrying a "city girl" and makes sure everyone knows how he feels. In spite of everything Karen and Russell are determined to go through with the marriage, but something sinister awaits the new couple. Long ago a shadowy menace had once stalked the innocent and now after lying dormant, the shadowy menace once again waits for the perfect conditions and the arrival of the perfect victim. Karen finds herself living in terror as she struggles to protect her daughters.

To Have and To Hold by Fern Michaels features Kate Starr. It is 1970, Kate and Patrick are happily married and have two daughters. Kate is determined to be the perfect wife, mother and housekeeper. Patrick leaves for a tour of duty in Vietnam. Captain Starr felt that he was born to fly and was looking forward to this assignment. Kate thought of Patrick constantly while he was gone remembering each special moment they had shared during their marriage. One evening lost in her thoughts, preparing dinner for Ellie and Betty, Kate becomes aware of a car door slamming. Every military wife knew the man that was walking toward her door, and as he approached, Kate knew that her life would be changed forever. "Captain Starr's plane was shot down. That's all we know. Two of our pilots say they saw him eject. If he ejected, he was alive. He could be anywhere in the jungle..." Kate became aware of the words major Collier was saying. Patrick wasn't dead, he was alive somewhere, surely that was better than dead. With a husband listed as MIA Kate must rely on herself for the first time in her life, with no job qualifications. After dealing with the bureaucracy, red tape and utter callousness of the U.S. government's policy regarding MIA's, Kate's rage leads her to organize a support group. This support group becomes determined to fight the system and make a lot of noise, something must be done to help those missing in action and their families. Kate raises her two daughters and starts a successful business. Ten, fifteen and twenty years pass and Kate finds love again and that love brings Kate to the most momentous decision of her life.

Louisiana Blue by David Pyer is a "heart-stopping" undersea adventure. Black sheep Lyle "Tiller" Galloway is on the run from his Colombian employers. Leaving Hatteras Island, Tiller hopes to find diving work along Louisiana's Gulf Coast. Tiller had worked Louisiana's oil rigs years ago, doing the toughest and most dangerous kind of diving, but the pay was worth it and Tiller is broke. Now ten years later, Tiller discovers that robots are used for those jobs and men with prison records don't get hired. Tiller gets word of another outfit called Deep Tech who is working an enormous rig in the Gulf of Mexico known as Pandora 2000. Tiller, working a thousand feet down with a crew of ex-cons, loners and renegades will be developing a major oilfield. When hundreds of millions of dollars are involved, greed, unscrupulous bosses, women, and death aren't far behind.

Here Are A Few Choice Words From Proponents of Economic Development

We Need It!

Janie Alejandre
Accountant/Brown, Graham & Co.

"Sales tax applies to everyone. An increase in our sales tax for economic development would encourage all of us to help bring new industry and jobs into our area."

Art Gonzales

Co-Owner/Gonzales Bros. Plumbing

"We need more growth and seed money for new industry, and we're running behind other communities this size who have already adopted a 1/2% sales tax for economic development. As a result of their aggressive efforts, they now have working capital to lure industry prospects."

I believe this tax will ultimately create more jobs for the people in this immediate area, and our shopping neighbors from surrounding communities will be helping us pay for this economic development."

Craig Smith

President/Hereford State Bank

"The focal point of this election for a 1/2% sales tax, to me, is the ability to broaden the tax base so that we may hopefully limit further increases in the ad valorem taxes we now pay. I believe this tax would shift the tax burdens carried by property owners and distribute it fairly among everyone who is doing business in Hereford."

One of the perennial strengths of this community has been its diversification in industry; specifically ag-based industry. I also believe this election, and a vote for the adoption of this economic development tax, will greatly influence Hereford's potential in securing NEW members to this vital part of our economy."

Speedy Nieman
Editor and Publisher/The Hereford Brand

"There are never any guarantees in pursuing economic development, but I will continue to endorse the People Promoting Progress committee and their efforts to promote what seems to be our best bet for stimulating jobs and growth in the community."

In today's competitive environment, industries now contact the state to see which cities have funding for economic development - if we don't have those provisions set in place, we don't even make the first cut.

I'm for the half-cent economic development tax for what you might call a selfish reason. I think it will help Hereford gain new jobs and grow, and anything that helps Hereford is surely going to help me."

Bettie Dickson
Administrator/Hereford Day Care Center

"I support the economic development tax: for us to be a growing thriving community, providing new jobs, we must have funds to bring new business to our community."

Don Graham

President/First National Bank

"Small and medium-size businesses employing less than 100 people create over 80% of all new jobs. The opportunity before the people of Hereford is the creation of a system that would make financing and other incentives available to encourage those size firms to locate in Hereford. Without a local economic development system, our community cannot fully realize its investment and job creation potential. I urge you to vote for new jobs in Hereford."

Clint Formby

President/Owner, KPAN Radio Station

"How we vote in this election will send a strong signal to our neighboring communities and especially to potential companies who will consider locating in this area."

This election could very well be a benchmark for the future of our town and the entire community."

It is important that we send a positive signal to ourselves, and to potential companies, that we desire and want an opportunity to be aggressive and make something happen. It is time to get off the dime and recapture our spirit of cooperation, leadership and civic pride that has been a proud trademark of Hereford."

Join these and other community leaders in support of economic development!

THIS ELECTION IS ABOUT:

JOBS, GROWTH, EXPANDING OUR TAX BASE, AND GETTING HEREFORD ON THE MOVE.

A vote FOR THE 1/2% SALES TAX ON AUGUST 13TH will allow Hereford to compete, and help secure a brighter future that will benefit us all!

Texas Warriors end play in sixth place

The Texas Warriors AAU boys 12 and under basketball team is headed home to Hereford after playing three games in 24 hours to end up sixth in the Shootout Tournament.

The team -- which got to the Shootout Tournament following its elimination from the AAU National Championship Tournament last week -- ended play Saturday morning after games Friday afternoon and Friday night.

Paula Miller, a parent accompanying the team to Salt Lake City for the tournament, said the boys played the New Hampshire Wolverines Friday afternoon, blasting them by a 62-38 count.

Then, at 8 p.m. MDT Friday, the Warriors returned to the court to play the Lafayette (La.) Aces, beating them 59-51, setting up Friday's fifth-place battle against the Kentucky Colonels.

That game was held at 8 a.m. MDT Friday and the Warriors fell 50-39 despite double-figure scoring from Slade and Cody Hodges.

The two boys each scored 13 points to lead the Warriors. James Miller had 7 points and Chase Rives, Eric McNutt and Nathan King each scored 2 points.

"We got a big trophy with a plaque," Mrs. Miller said, and all the boys received medals in honor of their sixth place finish in the 27-team Shootout Tournament.

Rangers top Angels, 5-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Rusty Greer and Dean Palmer hit two-run homers and Roger Pavlik notched his first victory in almost two months as the Texas Rangers won for the fourth time in five games, 5-3 over the California Angels Friday night.

Greer, whose sliding catch in the ninth inning Thursday night helped preserve Kenny Rogers' perfect game, hit his ninth homer of the year during a three-run second inning as the Rangers took a 3-2 lead.

DeShields hits homer as Dodgers top Astros

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Delino DeShields' three-run homer in the ninth gave the NL West-leading Los Angeles Dodgers a 7-5 victory over the Houston Astros on Friday night.

Dave Hansen singled with one out in the ninth off reliever John Hudek (0-2), who walked Brett Butler with two outs. DeShields then drove a 2-1 pitch to right field, giving the Dodgers only their fourth victory in 15 games.

Ismael Valdes (2-0) pitched two innings for the victory despite giving up the go-ahead run on a balk.

James Mouton opened the ninth with a single off the glove of DeShields, and advanced to third on a sacrifice by pinch-hitter Mike Felder and Craig Biggio's third hit. Then he was awarded home on a balk by Valdes.

Houston starter Shane Reynolds allowed four hits over six-plus innings and left the game with a 4-1 lead, after the Dodgers loaded the bases against him in the seventh.

Although renowned as a slugger, Lou Gehrig of the Yankees stole home 15 times.

PGA Tour events donated a record $22,752,137 to various charities in 1993.

The 1900 Olympics, staged in Paris, took more than four months to complete. Jim Thorpe won two gold medals in the 1912 Olympics but his family did not receive the awards until 1982.

— YOUR EYES —

GETTING USED TO YOUR GLASSES

One youngster we know was delighted with her first pair of glasses. Taken to an ice show that day, she kept looking at the stage, first with her glasses, then without. The people on stage had faces! She became accustomed to her glasses right away.

Most people have little difficulty getting used to new glasses, especially if eyes are examined regularly, with prescription changes as needed. But if it's been awhile and this prescription change is a large one, it will take somewhat longer for the eyes -- and the brain -- to get used to the new way of seeing.

Reading glasses or bifocals may take a while to get used to. Your optometrist will help you learn how to use them effectively, seeing out of different areas of the lens. Even a new frame will require a period of adjustment if it is different from your old one, a little bigger, perhaps, or a different color. If there is any discomfort, of course, see your optometrist right away.

Model UT recruits have athletic, academic skills

By SUZANNE HALLIBURTON and JEFF SOUTH

Austin American-Statesman
AUSTIN - Call University of Texas sophomore Tre Thomas the model recruit for the 1990s. As a high school senior, he was listed as one of the top five overall athletes in the country and received scholarship offers from all the top football programs.

Equally impressive to recruiters, faced with ever-increasing academic standards for their student athletes, were Thomas' classroom credentials. He scored 1,010 on his Scholastic Assessment Test, 400 points more than the minimum required by the NCAA to accept a Division I scholarship. He also carried a 3.7 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Thomas, whose mother is a lawyer and whose father is a manager at a food service company, is considered to have the talent to eventually play in the National Football League. The teen-ager from Sugar Land broke into the Longhorns' starting lineup midway through his freshman season before a shoulder injury ended his year. At 6-foot-1-inch and 202 pounds, he's bigger than most defensive safeties, and he's faster.

Yet playing professional football is not his chief goal.

"It's more important for me to graduate than it is to play in the NFL," Thomas said.

Although it might seem unusual, given the history of athletes' academic performance, Thomas is more of the rule now than the exception on the Texas football team.

According to an analysis by the Austin American-Statesman of the team's high school grades in college-preparatory classes, Texas is one of the best prepared teams, academically, in the country.

Officials believe these strong high school grades combined with the team's equally impressive average on the SAT eventually will translate into higher graduation rates.

An analysis of scholastic information provided by the NCAA showed that UT's graduation rates have ranged from poor to average. When the NCAA first released graduation rates five years ago, reflecting the freshmen who enrolled in 1982-83, the men's athletic department at UT had a 38 percent graduation rate.

The NCAA recently tabulated rates for the class that entered college in 1987-88, finding that the UT men's department had improved its graduation rate to 43 percent. Combined with the women's department's 77 percent, UT had an overall graduation rate of 52 percent for student athletes, which ranked 64th in the country out of the NCAA's 103 major programs.

Yet the 1993 football team's GPA and SAT scores out of high school rival those of traditional academic schools such as Rice, Stanford and Northwestern.

The analysis was done on the freshmen entering in 1990-91, 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94. Two classes were recruited by former football coach David McWilliams, and two were signed by current coach John Mackovic. The GPA was an average of grades in college-preparatory courses in math, natural sciences, social sciences and English.

The data showed:

The UT football team has a combined GPA of 3.07, the fifth best in the country behind Stanford (3.5), Rice (3.38), Northwestern (3.23) and Duke (3.08). The average GPA for football players at all Division I-A schools was 2.68. Texas A&M, the Longhorns' rival, had a GPA of 2.81.

The average SAT score on the team was 873, the 17th best in the country. The average SAT score for football players at all Division I-A schools was 850. Texas A&M's combined SAT was 830.

Of the schools that will form the Big 12 Conference, starting in 1996, UT is No. 1 in both GPA and SAT.

The four recruiting classes between 1990 and 1993 featured some of the top high school prospects in the country. Of the 18 first-year players last fall, half were honor graduates at their high schools. And this same group, according to most national recruiting services, was ranked in the nation's top 10 for its athletic talents.

"I think that says we're going to win some games perhaps other teams might not," Mackovic said. "I think you'll find that the best football teams tend to be a little brighter."

So far, the better grades haven't translated into more wins. UT hasn't won the Southwest Conference since 1990, and under Mackovic, Texas has posted a 11-10-1 record. However, the Longhorns are overwhelming favorites to win the conference this fall, and early polls have ranked Texas as high as No. 9 in the country.

But the grades, perhaps, are more important than recent wins in these days of increasing academic reform. Proposed NCAA academic standards will force the best football teams to become brighter.

In 1986, the NCAA instituted tougher academic requirements, known as Proposition 48. Under that rule, athletes must average at least a 2.0 in 11 college-preparatory classes and score a minimum of 700 on the SAT or 17 on the American College Test to sign with a Division I school and become eligible to accept financial aid their freshman year. Schools still can sign athletes who did not qualify, but those athletes cannot play or practice with the team their freshman year, nor can they receive financial aid from the athletic departments.

Tougher standards are set to go into effect in August 1995, although there is an increasing split between university presidents and coaches on whether to keep the higher requirements.

Under the upcoming Proposition 16 rules, a sliding scale would force an athlete with a 2.0 GPA to score 900 on the SAT or 21 on the ACT. An athlete next year would have to maintain a 2.5 GPA to accept a scholarship with a 700 on the SAT or a 17 on the ACT. An athlete also would have to pass at least 13 core classes.

Texas has consistently voted to stiffen requirements.

"We voted for Proposition 16," said DeLoss Dodds, Texas men's athletic director. "We want kids to come in and be ready to be here. We want them to have very strong academic standards."

Thomas Hearn, president of Wake Forest University and a former member of the Presidents' Commission that initiated these reforms, believes athletes will not have a problem meeting tougher requirements.

A recent study, however, by the NCAA's Special Committee to Review Initial-Eligibility Standards, projected that 72.2 percent of black student athletes would be ineligible under Proposition 16.

"Every time we have talked about raising standards, we have seen this hysterical reaction," Hearn said.

"We have seen that with the passing of Prop 48 that graduation rates are going up. More studies are showing that more athletes are qualifying. The stories are legion of young people taking and retaking their SATs until they qualify. That wasn't the case when there weren't restrictions.

"We have got to impress on these athletes who want to play in Division I, on their coaches, principals, parents, that these young people have got to work as hard on their studies as they do on their sport," Hearn said. "They'll do it. They have competitive instincts in their bones."

The NCAA's Special Committee recommended that athletes who scored as low as 410 on the SAT be allowed to play for Division I schools if they had a 3.0 GPA. The Presidents' Commission, meanwhile, reiterated its position but compromised a bit by allowing schools to give nonqualifiers scholarships as freshmen.

The NCAA council will meet to discuss both proposals next month. As for Thomas, his high school performance seemed to be an accurate predictor of what he would accomplish in college - at least in his freshman year. He's passed 33 hours of classes and has a 2.55 GPA.

He likes the fact that the Longhorns are gaining an academic reputation. "Every program wants that," he concedes. "But I'd rather win the Southwest Conference."

Dorsett, White in Hall, but deserving Cowboys remain

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Where have all the Cowboys been?

That's the question you ask yourself as you look at the Professional Football Hall of Fame honor roll.

Roger Staubach, Bob Lilly, Tom Landry and Tex Schramm have been enshrined at Canton, Ohio.

This Saturday Tony Dorsett and Randy White will make it a six-pack. Shouldn't there be more Cowboys in there like Chuck Howley or Mel Renfro or Rayfield Wright?

"I think there has been a bias against the Cowboys," Dorsett said. "Maybe it's jealousy or something because the franchise has been in so many Super Bowls. We got too popular. A lot of people don't like that 'America's Team' stuff."

Dorsett said such names as Don Meredith and Bob Hayes should be considered.

"Bob Hayes changed pass defenses in the NFL," Dorsett said. "It was strictly man-for-man until Hayes came along. Teams had to invent the zone defense to stay with Bob."

Certainly, Dorsett and White are worthy additions.

Dorsett was the first legitimate breakaway threat for the Cowboys. He currently ranks third in career rushing behind Walter Payton and Eric Dickerson.

Of course, Dorsett will always be remembered for his 99-yard touchdown run from scrimmage against Minnesota.

"That's a record nobody can break," Dorsett said. "Somebody may tie it but nobody can break it."

Dorsett had 46 games in which he rushed for 100 yards or more. Dorsett will be introduced by Landry.

White, another first round pick by the Cowboys, was a nine-time Pro Bowl selection and will be introduced by former line coach Ernie Stautner.

He was co-MVP of Super Bowl XII with Harvey Martin as the Cowboys whipped Denver 27-10.

White ranks second on the all-time Dallas sack list with 111, including 16 during the 1978 season.

White also became one of the most colorful interviews on the team.

He thanks former Cowboys public relations director Doug Todd for bringing him out of his shell.

"My rookie year, Doug thought I was being unresponsive with the press and told me I'd never be a big deal in the NFL if I didn't start giving better interviews," White laughed. "He jumped my case good. I'm glad he did."

And now somebody needs to jump the case of the voters who select the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

There should be more Cowboys in Canton.

Here are some more candidates:

-Lee Roy Jordan, who anchored the "Doomsday Defense" from his middle linebacker position for 14 years. He was named to the Pro Bowl five times and All-Pro twice.

-Mel Renfro, the Cowboys' all-time interceptor with 52 and a 26.4 average in kickoff returns. He was a five-time All-Pro.

-Chuck Howley, the MVP of Super Bowl V. He was a six-time Pro Bowl selection.

-Don Perkins, the first Cowboys player to rush for more than 6,000 yards. A former six-time Pro Bowl selection.

-Rayfield "Big Cat" Wright. Perhaps the best Dallas offensive lineman in history. A six-time Pro Bowl selection.

Preview Of Bears

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) - Before they were the Chicago Bears, they were the Decatur Staleys.

But they were led by George Halas, the man later known as the "Papa Bear."

The Staleys apparently played the same kind of "smash mouth" football made famous by the Bears. In a 1920 game against the Universal Tractors of Moline, they won, 20-0. The Decatur Herald raved about the fierce and fast attack and defense of the Staleys, who allowed the Tractors to make just one first down.

Euler, Russell vows exchanged Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Christi Anne Euler and David Wayne Russell during an early evening ceremony Saturday in First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Ed Williamson of the church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of David and Jayne Euler of 105 Nueces and the bridegroom is the son of Terry and Mary Russell of 142 Hickory.

The church doors were bedecked with braided straw wreaths that the bride's mother had decorated with emerald and ivory paper and satin ribbons, baby's breath and greenery. Every third pew of the sanctuary was adorned with large ivory pom-pom bows accented with greenery and baby's breath. Candelight from two 15-candle swirl candelabra softly lit the altar which held an open Bible. The cream candles were woven with greenery and ribbons.

The bride was presented in marriage by her parents.

Jill Ruland served as maid of honor and Scott Short was best man.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister, Cheri Euler; the groom's sister, Jeanine Russell; and Nicole Mayo of Anton.

Groomsmen were Jeffery Carlson, Cory Newton and Jaime Pena.

Guests were ushered by Chad Sitze, Denny Jo Sitze, Joe Varela, Jason Cole and Chris Woodard, the bride's cousin.

The bride's cousins, Linzy Woodard and Ashley Kent, were flower girls. Linzy is the daughter of Pat and Lesley Woodard and Ashley is the daughter of Larry and Chris Kent.

Serving as ring bearers were the bride's cousins, Aaron Kent, son of Ricky and Debbie Kent, and Cash Kent, son of Larry and Chris Kent.

Candles were lit by the bride's cousins, Shea Barber and Ryan Barber.

Linda Gilbert accompanied vocalists, Lesley Woodard, the bride's aunt, and Maragret Williams. Mrs. Woodard sang "The Rose" and Mrs. Williams sang "Looking Through the Eyes of Love."

The bridal gown, first worn by the bride's mother, was fashioned of ivory peau de soie. The empire bodice was covered in re-embroidered alencon lace appliques with seed pearl beading. An open square neckline was set low on the shoulders over stove-pipe sleeves which ended in graceful lace applique and beaded points over the wrists. Beaded alencon lace medallions were tucked in the wide pleat dividing the soft Aline skirt. The lace applique V-shaped back neckline was closed by a row of delicate fabric-covered buttons which extended down the softly gathered chapel-length train. Accenting lace medallions and seed pearls graced the hem of the train.

The bride and her mother were assisted by a family friend in creating the four-tiered finger-tip pouf veil of ivory bridal illusion. The double layered tiers were attached to an ivory satin bishop's cap edged in pearls and trimmed with organza and pearl roses.

The bride's jewelry consisted of a diamond solitaire necklace that was a gift from her maternal grandmother, and her mother's diamond solitaire earrings set in gold jackets.

The bridal bouquet was created by a full cascading tear-drop of silk ivory roses, dogwood blossoms and small emerald and ivory accent flowers set on a bed of trailing geranium ivy and entwined with ivory and emerald ribbons and tulle.

The bride wore her mother's gown and carried her wedding Bible for the traditional something old; her garter, something new; and carried a vintage handkerchief belonging to a family friend as something borrowed and something blue.

Bridal attendants were attired in emerald taffeta gowns with hemlines graduating from tea-length in front to floor-length in back. The softly gathered skirts were attached to princess cut bodices featuring sweetheart necklines and elbow-length shirred sleeves. The back of each gown revealed a heart-shaped cutout accented with a fabric bow.

The bridal attendants also wore pearl and rhinestone jewelry presented to them by the bride. Lace edged bouton bouquets of ivory roses, dogwood and trailing geranium ivy carried by the attendants were trimmed with puffs of tulle and satin ribbons.

The flower girls wore emerald dresses designed similar to the bridesmaids' ensembles and carried ivory baskets trimmed in eyelet, greenery, satin ribbons and ivory roses. The baskets were filled with ivory rose petals.

Mothers and grandmothers of the bridal couple wore corsages of ivory roses, tulle and satin ribbons. Fathers, grandfathers, the groom's attendants and ushers sported boutonnières of ivory roses and baby's breath. The bride, her mother and a family friend created all of the floral designs used in the ceremony.

The bride's cousin, Stacia Barber, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Jamie Morgan and Tammy Hyer presided over the bride's table, and Cari Micheals was at the groom's table. Punch and coffee were poured by Clara Shirley.

The bride's three-tiered heart-shaped cake was designed with a bouquet in the center and the groom's German chocolate cake was hexagon shaped.

The couple will make their home in Canyon.

The bride is a 1994 graduate of Hereford High School and served as the Whiteface Kiwanis Club sweetheart her senior year.

The groom is a 1992 HHS graduate and is employed by Appian Corporation.

Out of town guests represented Raymore, Mo., Fredrickstown, Mo., Anton, Grand Junction, Colo., Aztec, N.M., Killeen, Borger, Amarillo, Tucson, Ariz. and Albuquerque, N.M.

By The Associated Press
Enjoy the freshness of summer with a strawberry almond chocolate tart. Use a prebaked 9-inch pie shell. Make a quick chocolate sauce in your microwave oven, drizzle over the pie shell and chill in the refrigerator for 1 hour. Arrange fresh strawberries in the pie shell, sprinkle with toasted almonds and serve.

Strawberry Almond Chocolate Tart

Greenawalt, Schaffer are married July 23

Canyon residents Brenda Sue Greenawalt and Michael Schaffer were married Saturday evening July 23 in Central Church of Christ in Hereford. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Joe D. Bullock of Crane.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Barbara Greenawalt of 702 S. Main St. and the bridegroom is the son of James and Brenda Schaffer of Crane.

The church was decorated by an arch candelabrum and two spiral candelabra holding white tapers and accented with English ivy. Baskets of pink gladioli, stargazer lilies, miniature pink carnations and baby's breath were arranged on white wicker pedestals.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father.

Laura Greenawalt served her sister as maid of honor and Kevin Schaffer of Paris, Tenn. was his brother's best man.

Tanya Hampton of Lubbock and Tiffany Simpson of Littlefield were bridesmaids. Groomsmen were Derek McClaine and Donnan Hicks, both of Canyon.

Guests were ushered by the bride's brother, Robert Greenawalt of Lubbock, and Len Secrest of Hereford. They also lit candles.

The Central Church of Christ Vocalists sang principal wedding selections. "This Is Love" was sung by Kevin Schaffer who also sang "Trust in Me," one of his original compositions.

The bride was attired in a white satin gown fashioned by the bride's maternal grandmother. It was designed with a deep V-shaped back and had short puffed sleeves. The sleeves and train were accented by bows and the bodice was embellished with hand-beaded lace appliques. As something old, the bride wore her great-grandmother's ring; something new, a penny given to the bride by her aunt; something borrowed, a guardian angel presented to the bride from her aunt; and something blue, the traditional bridal garter.

To complete the ensemble, the bride wore a white hat fashioned by the bride's mother. It was created with a satin hat band which was accented by lace appliques and a large bow. Attached to the hat was the fingertip illusion veil. Her jewelry consisted of earrings given to her by the groom and her great-grandmother's ring.

She carried a cascading arrangement of white Casablanca lilies, white stephanotis, white roses, baby's breath and English ivy. Included in the arrangement was a handkerchief belonging to the bride's great-grandmother.

Bridal attendants wore short fitted dresses of pale pink moire. They each carried hand-tied bouquets of stargazer lilies and miniature pink carnations secured by pink ribbon.

Marilyn Warren invited guests to register at the reception held at the church.

Presiding at the bride's table were the bride's aunts, Janette Simpson of Rio Hondo and Mary Pletcher of Bloomington. At the groom's table were his cousins, Janalyn Kelly and Kay Kelly, both of Levelland. Punch was poured by the bride's aunt, Leslie Campbell of San Antonio, and the bride's cousin, AnnaLee Simpson of Rio Hondo. Also, assisting at the reception was Nora Vasquez of San Antonio.

The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth and white overlay and was decorated with silver candelabra and matching appointments. The bride's three-tiered white chocolate cake with cream cheese icing was accented with scroll work and fresh flowers and was topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines which had adorned the bride's parents' wedding cake. The cake was cut by the same knife used at the bride's parents' wedding.

The groom's chocolate cake featured chocolate dipped strawberries and was placed on a table which was covered with a burgundy cloth. Fruit punch was served from the table which was also appointed with a silver coffee service.

Leaving for a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride wore a floral linen dress. The couple will live in Canyon.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Hereford High School and attended Texas Tech University. She graduated from West Texas A&M University in May.

The groom is a 1988 graduate of Crane High School and graduated from WTAMU in May. He is employed at Wal-Mart in Canyon.

Out of town guests included the bride's paternal grandparents from Medina; the bride's maternal grandmother from Harlingen; the groom's maternal grandmother from Crane; and other guests representing Rio Hondo, Bloomington, San Antonio and Levelland.

Extension News

The evidence linking diet and heart disease is about 20 years ahead of the studies linking diet and cancer. Diet probably plays a smaller role in cancer, but over a lifetime, it can make a difference.

One of the best protectors against a number of chronic diseases, including colon cancer, is fiber. Many studies examine this relationship, but drawing a correlation is difficult due to the complex nature of fiber.

With funding from the National Cancer Institute, research conducted at Michigan State University from 1990 to 1991 examined the ways different types of fiber interact with colon cancer. So far, this work was only done with animals, but as results are gathered and analyzed, some insight into the fiber-cancer relationship in the human body should be evident.

Preliminary results have shown that the insoluble fibers, which include brans and vegetable stems and stalks, offer more skin and vegetable leaf fiber (soluble fiber). This is so because these insoluble fibers increase the bulk and speed of waste and may help to dilute any carcinogens in the lower intestine and colon, giving them less time to become harmful.

This research determined the components of the fibers that offer the cancer protection and how they work in the body, with the hope of inserting these compounds into other foods.

Basic consensus remains that over a lifetime, diet is important but it won't have a strong therapeutic effect immediately.

Host families being sought

American host families are being sought for high school students from Western and Eastern Europe, Asia, South America, Australia and the former Soviet Union for the 1994-95 school year in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

These exceptional students, ages 15-18, will arrive in the United States in August, attend a local high school and return to their home countries in June 1995. The students, all fluent in English, have been carefully screened by the local representatives in their home countries, and have their own medical insurance and spending money.

AISE's main focus is teaching young people about the importance of the acceptance of other cultures. Cultural exchange is necessary to the continued betterment of civilization as we know it.

WORDS OF WISDOM XI

I've read where fine wines increase in value and taste as they age. As I began to research for this column I wondered if the same generalization would apply to the words of the wise.

The more I compared the wise sayings of men and women prior to 1900, the more I realized that most modern wisdom is not new. Many modern quotes are just vintage wisdom restated in today's language.

In this column we will restrict ourselves to vintage wisdom. Wise sayings of those who spoke their words of wisdom prior to 1900. These quotes have aged at least 94 years. In some cases much longer. I think you will agree that truth always withstands the test of time.

Vintage wisdom

- Truth fears no trail. - Thomas Fuller (1732)
- Truth is tough. It will not break, like a bubble, at a touch; nay, you ay kick it about all day like a football, and it will be round and full at evening. - Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. (1860)
- Such is the irresistible nature of truth that all it asks, and all it wants, is the liberty of appearing. - Thomas Paine (1791)
- I should say sincerity, a deep, great, genuine sincerity, is the first characteristic of all men in any way heroic. - Thomas Carlyle (1841)
- Those who are well assured of their own standing are least apt to trespass on that of others. Washington Irving (1819)
- Though patience be a tired mare, yet she will plod. - Shakespeare (1598)
- Life consists in what a man is thinking of all day. - Ralph Waldo Emerson (1847)
- It is not the going out of port, but the coming in, that determines the success of a voyage. - Henry Ward Beecher (1887)
- Whatever makes men good Christians, makes them good citizens. - Daniel Webster (1820)
- It is neither wealth nor splendor, but tranquility and occupation, which give happiness. - Thomas Jefferson (1788)
- It is difficult to make a man miserable while he feels worthy of himself and claims kindred to the great God who made him. Abraham Lincoln (1862)

- He who requires much from himself and little from others, will keep himself from being the object of resentment. - Confucius (6th Century, B.C.)
- Prosperity makes friends, adversity tries them. - Publilius Syrus (1st Century, B.C.)
- Know from the bounteous heaven all riches flow; And what man gives, the gods by man bestow. - Homer (9th Century B.C.)
- No wise man stands behind an ass when he kicks. - Terence (161 B.C.)
- It is terrible to speak well and be wrong. - Sophocles (418 B.C.)
- The same man cannot well be skilled in everything; each has his special excellence. - Euripides (455 B. C.)
- It is not always the same thing to be a good man and a good citizen. - Aristotle (4th Century, B. C.)
- There has never been a poet or orator who thought another better than himself. - Cicero (1st Century, B. c.)
- It is thus with farming: if you do one thing late, you will be late in all your work. - Cato the Elder (2nd Century, B. C.)

Very early vintage

- What is dignity without honesty? - Cicero (1st Century, B.C.)
- Do not spoil what you have by desiring what you have not; but remember that what you now have was once among the things only hoped for. - Epicurus (425 B.C.)

MASTER SUITE BEYOND EXPECTATIONS

Plan Suits a Relatively Narrow Lot

FEATURE HOMES

© BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.
An open foyer features an open rail stair. You are directed toward a great room with fireplace, or to the master bed room suite.

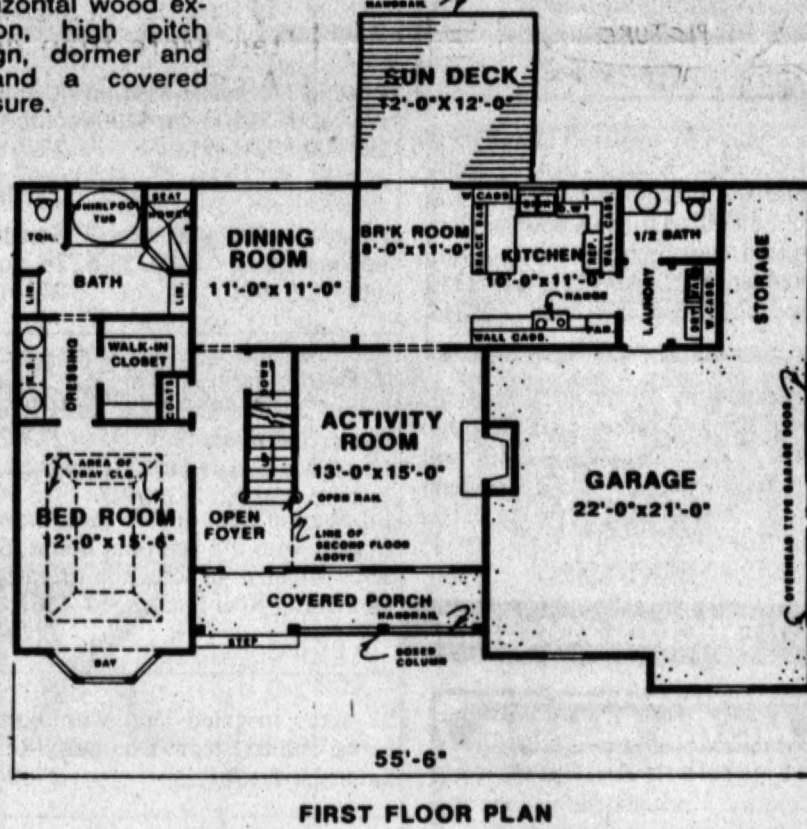

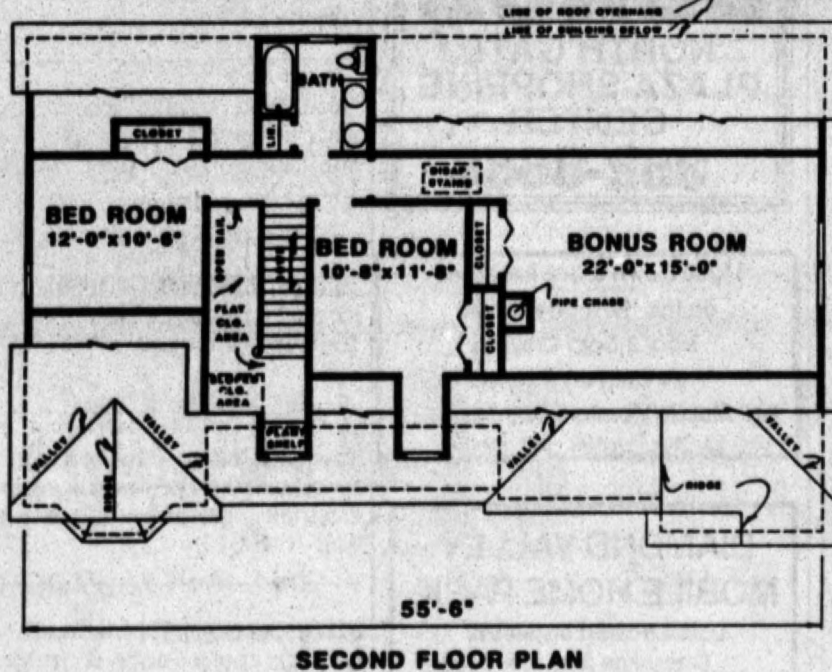

The master bed room suite extends the full depth of this home plan and includes a combination of qualities. It is shown with a large bed room with tray ceiling and bay window. A completely private bath area extends to the rear and it includes a thoughtfully placed whirl pool tub, private commode compartment, private twin lavatory dressing room, separate shower and two linen storage closets.

The food areas are sized for comfort and the formal dining room and breakfast room are side by side. The kitchen adjoins the breakfast room and a snack bar divides these areas. A complete laundry and convenient half bath are beyond the kitchen. Garage access is from the laundry room.

There are two bedrooms and a central bath on the second floor. A large bonus room is shown over the garage area and accessible from the open central hall of the second floor.

The Country exterior is enhanced by a horizontal wood exterior construction, high pitch gable roof design, dormer and bay windows and a covered porch for your leisure.

The design is furnished with basement, access to which is under the central stair to the second floor. The plan is Number Z-605. It has a total of 1,991 square feet of heated area including the bonus room and is a computer generated plan. All W. D. Farmer plans are furnished with special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn in accordance with FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145.

Question/Answer

Q. Our bathroom walls are drywall. Although we've applied several coats of primer on the area, the paint on 2 feet of wall above the shower tile keeps blistering. We realize this is caused by a moisture problem but neither a fan nor opening a window is a practical solution. Is there a special paint or preparation we can use that will keep the paint from blistering?

A. Without a fan in a vent or openable window, you are courting trouble. However, if you can ever get the blistered walls dry enough to work on, the next best thing to applying more ceramic tiles would be to sand the old, blistered paint thoroughly and cover the area with a solid vinyl wall covering (not vinyl-coated wallpaper.)

When you apply the vinyl wall covering, make sure you brush the top and bottom edges and all the joints tightly against the wall. This is to prevent moisture from seeping in behind the wall covering and loosening it.

Acreage increased in '94 for vegetables; 12 percent above '93

By MICHAEL LANDWEBER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Acreage for harvest of processed vegetables increased 12 percent this year from 1993, with tomato production predicted to reach a record high, the Agriculture Department says.

Processors contracted out 1.49 million acres from farmers for the production of five major crops: snap beans, sweet corn, cucumbers for pickles, green peas and tomatoes. With the exception of cucumbers, acreage for each of the vegetables increased from the previous year.

Tomatoes are forecast to weigh in at a record 11 million tons, an increase of 14 percent from 1993 and 27 percent from 1992. Green pea production increased 42 percent from 1993 to 474,490 tons, mainly because last year's crop suffered from bad weather.

Rural roads to be studied by committee

AUSTIN - A special interim Senate committee has been appointed to report to the next Texas Legislature on the needs of Texas rural roads and bridges.

Li. Governor Bob Bullock, in announcing the appointments, said, "Safety, commerce and convenience are all at stake in our rural transportation system and the infrastructure that supports it."

Named chairman of the committee is Senator Bill Haley of Center. Serving with him will be Senators Ken Armbrister of Victoria and Bill Sims of San Angelo.

"This committee should focus on what is needed for preventive maintenance and safety," said Bullock.

He charged the committee to look into what the state should spend on rural roads and infrastructure, the needs of the counties and the equity of distribution of state money.

Full cooperation by the state Department of Transportation with the committee was asked by Bullock.

The committee's jurisdiction includes the 40,000 miles of rural Farm-to-Market roads as well as the approximately 138,000 miles of roads maintained by counties.

A report by the committee is to be turned in no later than Dec. 1.

Student earns speech honor

A Hereford student, Moriah Olson, was a fourth place winner in a public speaking contest held in conjunction with the recent National Junior Angus Show in Des Moines, Iowa.

Olson competed in the intermediate division for youths ages 14 to 17.

The 1994 Junior Angus Show was held July 12-16.

reported a slight decrease in total acreage for fresh vegetable harvested in the summer quarter from the previous year.

Area for harvest of the 12 selected fresh market vegetables dropped to 323,100 acres. Still, the decrease from the summer quarter in 1993 only amounted to 690 acres lost.

Of the 12 vegetables, acreage for broccoli, carrots, celery, sweet corn, head lettuce and bell peppers increased, while that of snap beans, cabbage, cauliflower, cucumbers, eggplant and tomatoes decreased or held steady with levels from the previous year.

Meanwhile, acreage for melon harvest is estimated to increase to 143,300 acres, up 7,300 acres from last year's summer quarter. Although cantaloupe and honeydew melon acreage is expected to decrease, watermelon drove the increase with a projected gain of 11,700 acres for a total of 82,700.

Onion growers foresee a 6 percent gain in harvested acreage from 1993, buoyed by a spring harvest of 35,400 acres, an increase of 16 percent. Total onion acreage projected for harvest in 1994 is 159,990 acres.

New vaccine being tested

WASHINGTON (AP) - Researchers have created a more effective vaccine for shipping fever, a potentially fatal livestock disease that costs U.S. cattle producers around $1 billion annually, the Agriculture Department says.

Combining an immune booster and purified bacterial component of Pasteurella haemolytica, which causes the disease, researchers have successfully prevented infection in sheep, according to Agricultural Research magazine. Trials also were done on cattle at the National Animal Disease Center in Ames, Iowa.

"The new vaccine, which was used on 30 calves, was effective in preventing disease after experimental exposure to the organism," Agricultural Research Service microbiologist Kim Brogden said.

Brogden worked on the modified vaccine with Louis Chedid of the biologics company VACSYN of Tampa, Fla., and Paris. Chedid developed the immune booster.

Shipping fever, also known as pneumonic pasteurellosis, can be contracted by all breeds of U.S. cattle, sheep and goats.

The disease is spread through air in poorly ventilated areas, usually when animals are shipped in enclosed structures to feedlots, fairs or shows.

Americans give about $120 billion to charity a year.

Pig producers finding hard economic times

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - These aren't good times to be a small- or even medium-scale producer of hogs, according to the Agriculture Department's newest overview of the livestock business.

Breeding herds are expanding. Commercial pork production is forecast at 17.37 billion pounds for 1994, a new record. Some 100 million head will be slaughtered in 1995, beating the 1996 record.

But the herd expansion is limited mostly to states like Missouri and North Carolina, where contract farmers prevail. The contract producers specialize in one thing - hogs, lots of them - to sell to large packing plants.

"Recent studies show that contract producers have lower costs through economies of size, and may receive higher prices for larger marketings of consistently high quality hogs," the department said in its Situation and Outlook report.

The larger operations, from March through May, averaged 8.65 pigs per litter, compared with 7.5 for small operations.

"Herd cutbacks among smaller producers are expected to continue," the report said.

The break even cost of raising hogs from farrow to finish in the band of states from Ohio to the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska is in the $45-$50 range, while hogs are selling in the low $40s per hundredweight.

Even lower feed prices aren't helping, the report says. Higher pork production and large supplies of beef and other meats are expected to keep average hog prices near $40 per hundredweight.

"Thus, higher-cost producers are expected to experience a cost-price squeeze over the next year, which may force many to exit the industry."

In 1926, Anita Loos produced a best-seller and added a phrase to the language. "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell starred in the 1955 movie version.

This past week-end I gathered some roasting ears from the farm. This tells me fall is not far away and fall at the Senior Center brings on an almost frenzied pace of getting ready for the Festival of Trees. I say all of this because it is time for Elred Brown and myself to contact the sponsors for our 26 trees. Hershell Black helps us, but he has already contacted his sponsors, so he could spend some time at his favorite summer place. Over the years we have had wonderful cooperation from our local businesses and individuals and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts. This event, held each November, is a community wide involvement, including businesses, women's clubs, service clubs, schools and countless days by our Senior Volunteers. When all the work is done and the four day week-end of events arrives the Senior Center is a Christmas Show Place for the whole community. There is always lots of excitement at the auction of the decorated trees. If you have never been a sponsor, give me a call and I will be happy to talk to you.

Hello, Remember Me?

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your Flag, the Flag of the United States of America...Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you...Because it is about you and me.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally I was leading every parade, proudly waving in the breeze. When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his left shoulder so that his hand was directly over his heart...Remember?

And you: I remember you, standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat, but you were giving the right salute. Remember Little Sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you with her right hand over her heart...Remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have a few more stars since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

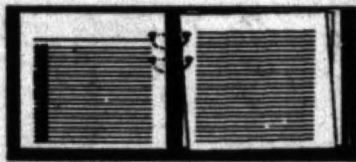

But now I just don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and I may get a small glance and then you look away. Then I see the children running around and shouting...They don't seem to know who I am...I saw one man take his hat off, then look around. He didn't see anybody else with theirs off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic anymore? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been?...Anzio, Guadalcanal, Korea and Vietnam. Take a look at the memorial honor rolls sometime, of those who never came back to keep this Republic free...One Nation Under God...When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart...and I'll salute you, by waving back...and I'll know that...

You Remember!

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: I understand that the recent Social Security trustees report stated that Social Security is running out of money. Is this true?

A: The trustees review the income and outgo of the trust funds over the next 75 years to determine if they are sufficiently financed to pay benefits during that period. In the past, the Congress has always made the necessary changes to insure the program remains solvent. The latest trustees report shows that Social Security will be able to pay retirement benefits for the next 35 years without any changes in the law. This gives the Congress ample time to take the necessary actions.

Q: Is it true that my Social Security benefits may be reduced because I receive a government pension?

A: Yes, your benefits may be reduced. There are two rules that may reduce your benefits. One, called "government pension offset" applies only if you receive a government pension and are eligible for Social Security benefits as a spouse or widow(er). The other, sometimes called "windfall elimination provision," affects the way your retirement or disability benefits are figured if you receive a pension from work not covered by Social Security. For more information, either call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213 or the local office at 376-2241, and ask for the factsheet Government Pension Offset and/or the factsheet A Pension From Work Not Covered By Social Security.

Q: If I earned Social Security and military retirement, can I get both Social Security benefits and my military pensions?

A: Generally, there is no offset of Social Security benefits because of your military retirement. You'll get your full Social Security benefit based on your earnings. For more detailed information, contact our office and ask for the factsheet Military Service And Social Security.

Q: My elderly neighbor isn't able to get out much and has been having a difficult time managing things. I'm concerned about him and would like to help. Could I act as his representative payee even though we're not related?

A: We will first determine whether your neighbor is unable to manage his benefits. He may simply need someone to help him make out bill payments from time to time, but may not need someone to assume total responsibility for his affairs. If we find that a payee is needed, we will locate the best available person to take responsibility for managing his affairs. Please contact our office as soon as possible and tell us of your concerns about your neighbor.

Q: I'll be retiring next month at age 63. When will I be able to get Medicare benefits?

A: Medicare will not start until you reach age 65. You should plan to continue your employer's coverage, or enroll in another health care plan if you cannot continue your present coverage, until your Medicare protection takes effect.

New hope for seniors who walk with pain

Thousands of Americans suffer from lower back and leg pain every year, particularly those over the age of 55.

Sometimes the pain moves down the leg and there is numbness, tingling and a feeling of weakness. Even short walks become too painful to attempt. These are the classic symptoms of a common condition associated with arthritis called spinal stenosis.

Until recently, little could be done to ease or eliminate the pain of spinal stenosis. Left untreated, this debilitating condition can grow progressively worse until the patient is unable to walk at all. But there is good news.

Case in point: Paul Blake, a 78-year-old retiree living in New Port Richey, Fla. For years, Blake suffered the classic symptoms of spinal stenosis including the inability to walk without pain. He, like many spinal stenosis patients, was told by his doctors that nothing could be done and that he would have to learn to live with it.

Rather than face the prospect of a future in pain and perhaps in a wheelchair, Blake contacted the Florida Spine Institute in Clearwater, Fla., one of the nation's leading and largest medical centers specializing in the treatment of neck and back pain.

After Blake received a complete physical examination and a diagnosis of spinal stenosis, a customized treatment plan was designed to overcome his pain without surgery.

Eighty-five percent of patients treated at the institute do not require surgery to regain a life without pain. Medication, physical therapy, injections, biofeedback and lifestyle changes are normally all that's needed. In Blake's case, however, surgery was the best solution after conservative methods were tried.

"My recovery was much quicker than I thought it would be," Blake said following his surgery. Today, he bowls, golfs, fishes and rides bikes--activities he had been unable to do for years prior to treatment. "I have no pain," Blake said. "Now I can do anything I want to do!"

Patients travel from across the United States, Europe, the Middle East and South American to receive care at the Florida Spine Institute. The 107 staff members there include skilled spine specialists supporting a core of 13 physicians, surgeons, neurologists, neuroradiologists, physiatrists and pain psychologists.

The high technology necessary for accurate diagnosis, including MRI, CT scanners, flurosopy and other advanced equipment, is all located on the campus of the institute. Evaluation and consultation take place in a matter of hours or days rather than weeks as in most medical centers.

A 72-hour evaluation program for patients is available by calling 1-800-477-7746. The program includes arrangements for hotel accommodations and ground transportation to and from the airport and the institute.

It is important to receive treatment for lower back and leg pain caused by spinal stenosis as soon as possible because early treatment provides the best possible chance for total recovery.

Nutrition Notes

BY CHARLOTTE R. CLARK
MS RD/LD

When Scientist discovered PROTEIN IN THE LATE 19TH CENTURY they assigned it a name based on the Greek work proteins, which means "primary" or "in first place." This was done for a very good reason.

More than half our water-free body weight is protein. However, the importance of protein and realization that meeting caloric needs in the individual's intake almost always guarantees protein needs will be met.

Americans consume considerably more protein than generally required; approximately 70% of protein is derived from animal sources. Near the turn of the century about one-half our protein was derived from plants. Animal food contain all of the dispensable amino acids and so are called complete proteins. Plant proteins generally contain one or more limiting amino acids; either with combining or consuming large amounts of the plant protein the nitrogen and indispensable amino acids requirements can be adequate.

Combining complementary proteins can increase the value of plant proteins. The American Dietetic Association position is that to combine proteins at the same meal is not necessary but consume complementary proteins throughout the day. However, one needs to realize that the most maximal benefit is achieved when the time frame is limited.

RECOMMENDED DIETARY ALLOWANCE FOR PROTEIN from the Food and Nutrition Board, National Academy of Sciences*

19-24	58g	46g
25+	63g	50g

*What healthy people need everyday; special recommendation for infant and children, elderly, pregnant women/lactating mothers, and individuals under treatment for specific disease are made.

Plants are the predominant harvesters of solar energy and they constitute a primary resource of carbon, vitamins, minerals, fiber, protein, some essential fatty acids and usable energy for human food production.

It is usually accepted that concentration and availability of the individual indispensable amino acids are major factors responsible for differences in the nutritive value of various food protein sources. Hence, the efficiency with which a given source of food protein is utilized for supporting and adequate state of nutritional health will depend on (1) the physiological requirements of the consumer for the individual indispensable amino acids and for total nitrogen and (2) the concentration of specific amino acids in the food proteins.

We ask about the nutritional significance of these differences in amino acids content and profile. This brings up the topic of protein nutritional quality and the various approaches used to assess the comparative value of food proteins. In the research area of protein values we are seeing alternative procedures being proposed and developed. From these studies we may see in the future greater accountability and more detail information which will demonstrate the use of plant proteins in the healthy diet of Americans. It is predicted that these plant proteins will be well tolerated and have greater acceptability; the plant proteins will become a valuable and nutritious means of achieving man's food needs and desire for healthful diets among all economical levels of our citizenry.

Use arthritis rubs with care

The Arthritis Foundation urges people to use caution when applying topical creams, rubs or sprays for arthritis and to contact their doctor if pain lasts for more than two weeks.

An estimated 57 percent of those with arthritis use these over-the-counter (OTC) remedies for temporary relief of arthritis pain.

Topical pain relievers work in several ways, depending on ingredients. Some contain salicylates, the substance found in aspirin, which may penetrate through the skin to the joint and reduce pain.

Others contain ingredients such as menthol or camphor that irritate the skin and distract attention from the actual pain. A third type contains capsaicin, a substance found in hot peppers that reduces the amount of pain signal to the brain.

The Arthritis Foundation also advises:

- Read and follow package directions;
- Wash your hands after every application;
- Avoid combining topical pain relievers with a heating pad because of the risk of skin burns;

-Keep these products away from eyes, mucous membranes, cuts or irritated skin;

-If you are allergic to aspirin or are taking anticoagulant medication, talk with your doctor before using any topical pain reliever that contains salicylates;

-Use topical pain relievers only as one part of a comprehensive treatment program.

Most people nearing retirement are anxious about their future

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two-thirds of Americans nearing retirement age anticipate serious problems trying to live comfortably on their retirement incomes, a survey shows.

"People age 45 to 59 approach their futures with anxiety," according to the summary of the survey entitled, "Concerns of Adults in Their Pre-Retirement Years."

"Few feel well prepared financially for the transitions ahead - retiring from a job, putting a child through college, helping to support a parent," it explained.

And, the survey found, "Virtually no one this age thinks government can be relied upon to help with the challenges ahead."

The survey was conducted for the American Association of Retired Persons by Princeton Survey Research Associates. It involved 1,223 adults aged 45 to 59 polled between last Nov. 11 and Dec. 5 and had a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

The survey found that 39 percent of the respondents either had nothing saved or did not expect to have saved enough to meet even basic living expenses in retirement. Twenty-two percent believed they would have just enough to meet basic living expenses.

Only 11 percent believed that their savings would permit them to "live very comfortably" after retiring. An additional 24 percent said they expected to be able to meet expenses "with a little left over for extras."

Forty-six percent of workers aged 45 to 59 say they plan to retire before age 65, the survey showed. Twenty-eight percent plan to retire before the age of 70, 5 percent plan a later retirement and 15 percent say they will never retire.

Sixty-nine percent of workers aged 45 to 59 have begun to save for their retirement, although few believe that their current course of saving and investment will lead to very comfortable lifestyles. And 31 percent are relying on Social Security for most of their living expenses.

But another survey, by the Gallup Organization, found only 30 percent of the 2,002 adults polled in February and March expected Social Security benefits to be available throughout their retirement.

Social Security's trustees have warned that unless Congress intervenes, its trust funds will run out of money in 2029.

Contributing to the pre-retirement concerns expressed in the Princeton survey were:

- Twenty-three percent of the workers polled, excluding the self-employed, worry they may lose their jobs within the next year or so.

- Twenty-eight percent have a child under 18. Fifty-seven percent of these are saving for their child's college education and 28 percent are already helping to pay college tuition.

- Forty-seven percent have been unable to save as much because they have given financial help to a relative during the past five years.

- Seventy percent have a parent, or in-law, still living who may become dependent on them for financial assistance, or need help at some point with the tasks of daily life.

- Despite this potential need, only 18 percent feel "well-prepared" to provide financial support. Thirty-eight percent are "unprepared" and 44 percent are only "somewhat prepared."

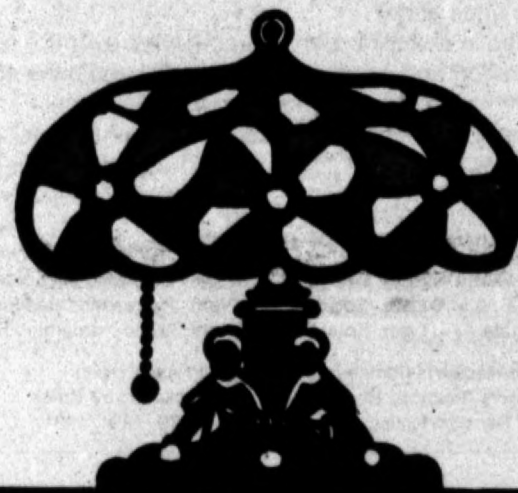

Many people with asthma may be over-relying on medications that only treat the symptoms.

Healthy aging update

The Alliance for Aging Research recently became the first national health advocacy organization to issue specific recommendations urging Americans to sharply increase their daily intake of beta carotene, vitamin C and vitamin E.

The non-profit group reports that these antioxidants help prevent heart disease, cancer, cataracts and other age-related diseases in healthy adults.

The Alliance's recommended range detailed in the graphic above are between four to 16 times higher than the current U.S. RDA for vitamins C and E and set a specific range for beta carotene for the first time.

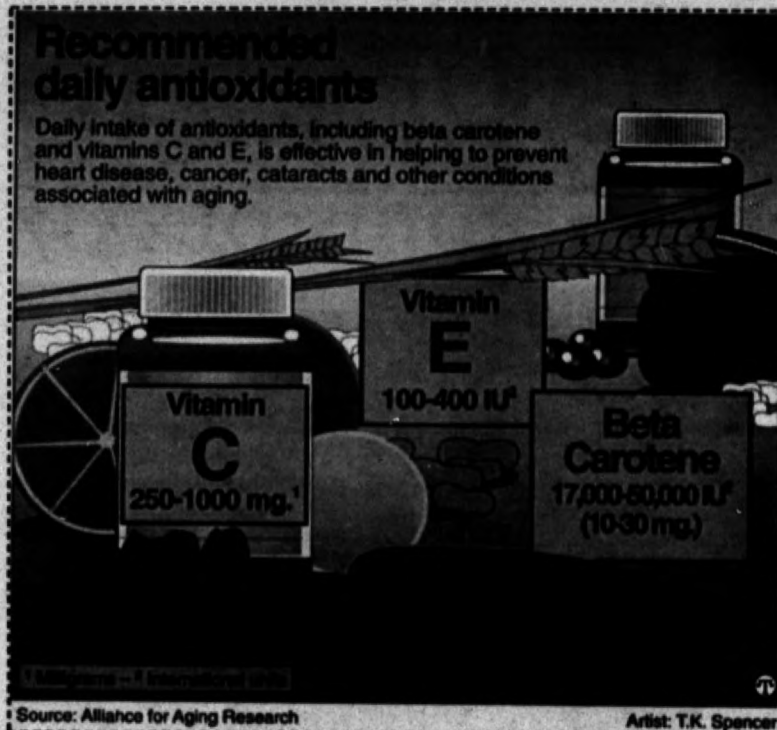

The ranges were set by a panel of leading medical researchers, nutritionists and consumer safety experts at a time when the federal government's nutrition policy is confusing and outdated. The panel's findings were based on more than 200 clinical research and population studies conducted on antioxidant-rich fruits and vegetables and vitamins over the past two decades.

Scientific understanding of antioxidants began in 1956 when researchers in aging discovered that naturally-occurring substances in cells known as free radicals were linked with many chronic afflictions of aging. Since then researchers have learned that antioxidants can help block free radical damage and retard the progression of age-related diseases.

Fewer than one in 10 Americans eats at least five servings of fruits and vegetables a day as currently recommended by the federal government. Optimal levels of some antioxidants are difficult to reach by diet alone. For instance, to attain the daily levels the Alliance recommends, a person would need to consume 15 oranges for vitamin C or over two cups of sunflower oil for vitamin E.

"To maintain a good health longer in life, people should intake higher ranges of antioxidants through a combination of eating fruits and vegetables and using nutritional supplements," comments Daniel Perry, executive director of the Alliance for Aging Research. "Consumers now have safe recommendations on the levels of antioxidants they need to help protect themselves against chronic illnesses."

Groups offer help for stroke survivors

Stroke is the nation's third leading killer. But it is not always fatal. In fact, more than three million Americans are alive today after having a stroke.

But surviving isn't enough. Stroke survivors strive to regain or compensate for lost speech and movement skills as well as to revive feelings of self-esteem. They also want more independence and not have to rely entirely on a family member or close friends for their care.

In the first few weeks and months after a stroke, survivors will most likely work with one or more healthcare professionals, depending upon how they are affected. People recovering from a stroke may spend time with physical therapists, speech pathologists, psychologists, nurses, social workers or health educators.

But even professionals may not be enough. Stroke survivors often feel isolated and estranged for family, friends and the world in which they lived and worked.

That's where a support group can help. Clubs across the nation bring together people, including caregivers, who share common experiences with stroke. This lets club members learn about stroke-related disabilities and exchange information about getting better.

Club activities can also renew help and encourage more independence and self-improvement for people who have had a stroke. At workshops, seminars, conferences and social events, stroke survivors and their families can draw strength from each other and learn to cope with day-to-day activities.

The American Heart Association supports about 850 stroke clubs that are members of the AHA's Stroke Connection. That support includes two publications: Stroke Connection magazine for all stroke survivors, and A Stroke of Luck for those affected by aphasia, a language disability. In addition, brochures, books tapes and other materials are available.

For information about stroke and its effects or to learn about stroke clubs in your area, call the AHA's Stroke Connection toll-free service at 1-800-553-6321.

Men will find that they can prepare with mutual aid far more easily what they need, and avoid far more easily the perils which beset them on all sides, by united forces.

Vinegar adds spice

In some parts of the country, the secret's been out for years: Don't put salt on your french fries, use vinegar instead.

The robust flavor of aged red vinegar can add spice to life—with less than a milligram of sodium per ounce.

One ounce of vinegar has just four calories and less than one gram of fat.

As the story goes, vinegar was discovered more than 10,000 years ago when a cask of wine was left to age too long. The oversight produced a liquid of such universal appeal, it's been used for everything from medicinal purposes to enhancing food ever since. Today, it's one of the most widely used grocery products on the market.

Light therapy may alleviate symptoms of Alzheimer's

By A.J. HOSTETLER
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) - After many restless nights filled with hallucinations of bears in her bedroom, Eveleth Harshman proudly says she now sleeps soundly after reading a single magazine article.

The same kind of light therapy used to treat the winter blues has alleviated much of the disturbed sleep and agitation the 80-year-old woman suffers as a result of Alzheimer's disease.

Mrs. Harshman, who can remember the name of the brain surgeon who operated on her at age 9 but can't recall her telephone number, is among 30 patients participating in a study of light therapy at Emory University.

Light therapy may enable Alzheimer's patients to remain at home or ease the problems they have living in nursing homes, said Dr. Robert Green, director of Emory's Neurobehavioral Program and Memory Assessment Clinic.

"If it works, you would have a treatment option that would be low-cost, low-tech and easily available to caregivers and nursing centers across the country," he said.

More than 4 million Americans are believed to have Alzheimer's, which gradually wipes out the memory until its victims can no longer perform even the simplest task. There is no test to definitively diagnose Alzheimer's; doctors rule out all other possibilities and confirm a diagnosis during autopsy.

The Emory research, funded by the National Institute on Aging, is based on previous studies of people with severe winter blues, or Seasonal Affective Disorder. The depression they experience can sometimes be restored by the systematic exposure to high levels of artificial light.

Exactly how the light affects the brain isn't known, but it apparently affects the levels of two brain chemicals, a neurotransmitter called serotonin and a hormone called melatonin.

Similarly, the brightness and duration of light also affect sleep patterns, restoring a person's ability to sleep well at night. Disrupted sleep frequently occurs among Alzheimer's patients, resulting in restlessness, pacing, wandering, irritability and other behavioral problems.

Drugs can lessen those problems, but often result in unwanted side effects. Emory's Green and his colleagues believe that exposing Alzheimer's patients to bright light may provide a safer way of improving their sleep and alleviating their agitation.

"There are studies that show that this (sleep problem) is in fact one of the things which disrupts family members the most and actually leads to nursing home placement," Green said.

Dr. Norman Rosenthal, an expert on Seasonal Affective Disorder and a psychiatrist with the National Institute of Mental Health, said the study "makes sense."

"Light is known to help consolidate the sleep of some people," he said. Light therapy would not cure the patient's Alzheimer's disease, but anecdotal reports indicate it may succeed at relieving some of its symptoms. "There's a reasonable hope that some relief could be provided," he said.

Patients entering the study wear a watch-like device on their wrist to measure the amount of light they are normally exposed to and the amount of movement or time they are awake. The patients wear it throughout the four-week study.

After a week spent in normal light, they then spend two weeks in light therapy, followed by a fourth week without the light treatment.

During the treatment, participants sit on a pastel sofa in a waiting room facing a bank of six light boxes about 3 feet high to 5 feet high. For 1 1/2 hours, they read or talk with sitters while the fluorescent light penetrates their eyes. Green estimated that patients receive light about five times as bright as in an office.

Mrs. Harshman joined the study in April after her son Bill learned of the project. Initially she wasn't interested, but decided she had "nothing better to do."

At her first treatment, "they gave me a pile of magazines and I read, and after awhile, I realized a lot of time had passed," said the former teacher. "I was very curious the whole time

- and I'm still curious - about what the end result will be."

The positive results are so obvious to Mrs. Harshman's family that they would like her to continue to participate in the research. But Green said the outcome is uncertain and adds that many more patients will have to participate to determine whether the therapy is at all effective.

AMA shows smokers how to stop

People across the country are using the America Medical Association's "How To Quit" stop-smoking program--whether they are ready to quit or just thinking about it.

"This program first helps smokers make the decision to quit and then it follows through and actually shows them how to stop smoking," said Edward Taub, M.D., stop smoking advocate. "Many people are getting the program for loved ones and friends. It's great to know so many smokers have people who care about them."

"How To Quit" is the first national stop-smoking program to be reviewed for scientific accuracy by the AMA. The easy to follow, four-week program is based on proven stop-smoking techniques. It uses television to bring Dr. Tabu, other experts and group support into the homes of millions of American smokers.

The kit includes a video, audio tapes, handbook, diary, program planner and a toll-free support line to help smokers break their addiction to nicotine, while managing stress and controlling weight gain. The whole program is designed to help smokers quite in the comfort and privacy of their own homes.

For additional information on the program, call 1-800-214-2299.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

IS

...one of the wisest investments a community can make for itself because it attracts new industry. New industry means JOBS and GROWTH for our community.

JOBS bring more people, more businesses, more retail sales, more personal income and a much broader tax base. By supporting this vote for economic development we let others (non-residents) who shop in Hereford help pay our taxes. In addition, every new tax dollar raised as a result of job creation is a dollar of tax

YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY!

WE NEED ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

To get it, WE NEED THE 1/2¢ SALES TAX. Based on current projections, the 1/2¢ sales tax would yield some $330,000 per year which could be used only for specific economic development projects as mandated by state law.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How Will Economic Development Funds Be Managed?

A five member Economic Development Board will be appointed by the Hereford City Council. They will serve WITHOUT PAY. Funds can be used for:

- Business development - recruitment and retention
- Workforce development - education and training
- Infrastructure development - water & waste water, electrical and street improvements
- for job-related projects
- Facility development - new and existing buildings
- Loans

Will All Purchases Be Affected By The 1/2¢ Sales Tax?

NO! A city sales tax does not affect most essentials. You pay no sales tax on medical services, prescription drugs, most food products, rents, mortgages, gasoline, automobiles, or agriculture items which are exempt.

What Will A 1/2¢ Sales Tax Cost The Average Family?

According to the State Controller, a family with a gross income of $35,000 would pay about 98¢ more per week. The extra pennies are more than offset by savings on your property taxes.

Is This 1/2¢ Sales Tax Permanent?

Only if you, the voters, want it to be. Under state law, what voters vote in, they can vote out.

What's At Stake?

Our very future is at stake. This election is about JOBS, GROWTH, EXPANDING OUR TAX BASE, AND GETTING HEREFORD ON THE MOVE. A VOTE FOR THE 1/2¢ SALES TAX ON AUG. 13th WILL ALLOW HEREFORD TO COMPETE, AND HELP SECURE A BRIGHTER FUTURE THAT WILL BENEFIT US ALL.

An 'Angel' lands in 'Waikiki' as Ladd stars in new drama

Cheryl Ladd and Richard Burgi star as a forensic pathologist and a police detective who work together, though not always harmoniously, attempting to solve complex homicide cases in "One West Waikiki." The series debuts with a special two-hour episode Thursday on CBS.

BY JEFF PLASS

Sometimes, a new song, film or television series can equal more than the sum of its hackneyed parts. Such is the case with "One West Waikiki," premiering with a special two-hour episode on Thursday, Aug. 4, on CBS.

"It's kind of like a combination of 'Quincy,' 'Magnum P.I.' and 'Moonlighting,'" the series' star, Cheryl Ladd says, and rightfully so.

"One West Waikiki" stars Ladd as forensic pathologist Dr. Dawn "Holli" Holliday (a la "Quincy"), is set in Hawaii ("Magnum") and boasts a relationship between the two principal characters that borders on a polar-opposite attraction ("Moonlighting").

But slyly hidden somewhere in the mix is an electricity, a spirit or something different that makes one plus one equal more than three.

Ladd returns to series television 13 years after "Charlie's Angels" left the air.

Strangely enough, "One West Waikiki" will occupy the Thursday slot previously inhabited by that CBS Hawaiian detective drama, the aforementioned "Magnum P.I."

And unlike another recently failed CBS detective drama, "Traps," "One West Waikiki" has the kind of appeal that can reach a broad-based audience, one that can't be pigeonholed.

The intellectual aspect of the show (the highly technical forensics jargon) seems to be leveled out by the sometimes slapstick antics of Dr. Holliday's ("And I love her name too, Doc Holliday," Ladd adds) partner in crime-solving, Lt. Mack Wolfe (Richard Burgi).

"Oh yeah, there certainly is a high intellectual level to the show," Ladd states, "but it's also a lot of fun. And the scenery is just beautiful."

Mack recently came off departmental probation following an investigation where he was framed to look like he had killed innocent people. He supplements his income by doing everything from selling toothbrushes to lounge singing.

In one scene, Mack jumps a fellow police officer who is following him and asks the bewildered officer at gunpoint:

"Have they told you some of the names they call me around the office? Like Mortuary Man and Lead Head and Trigger Mortis? Is there anybody who'll miss you if you disappeared for a long time?"

"I got a wife and three kids, man. And a dog!" his hapless victim replies.

"Well if you're as reckless with their future as you are with your own," Mack growls, "your wife's gonna be a bag lady, and your kids are gonna be eating recycled tacos. Have you even got insurance?"

"No," is the reply.

"Really?" Mack croons. "How'd you like to buy some home-life? Or I can get you into a really nice term package for very little down ..."

At first, viewers may see Burgi as being too "pretty" to be taken seriously in the role. But if anything, Burgi's rugged good looks (and bona fide talent) enhance the notion of a romantic relationship developing between Mack and the equally stunning Holli.

"I'm not going to say they'll never get together," Ladd intimates. "But, for the show's sake, it's a lot more interesting if they maintain the kind of relationship they have in the pilot, at least for a little while.

"Kind of a mutual respect and admiration, bordering on an attraction."

Maybe kind of like "Moonlighting," but in the final analysis, "One West Waikiki" stands on its own, and deserves a look.

LET'S TALK

No real-life maternal connection between 'Models Inc.' and 'Melrose'

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I was wondering, is Linda Gray Heather Locklear's mother in real life. I bet somebody $10 that she is, because I heard it on "Entertainment Tonight." -Sarah Miller, Williamstown, Mass.

A: You lose. The two women are not related.

Q: Could you please print background information on David Carradine, who plays Caine on "Kung Fu: The Legend Continues." He's my favorite actor. Also, where can I write to him? -T.J., Port Arthur, Texas.

A: Born in Hollywood, the son of famed actor John Carradine, David earned his first starring roles in two Broadway plays: "The Deputy" and "The Royal Hunt of the Sun."

After a brief stint on the short-lived TV series "Shane" and some bit parts in feature films, Carradine landed the starring role in the original "Kung Fu" series (in a controversial selection over Asian-American actor Bruce Lee).

Since then, Carradine has concentrated on feature films, appearing in such movies as "The Serpent's Egg," "Boxcar Bertha," "Road for Glory" and "Lone Wolf McQuade."

On TV his work has included the hit miniseries "North and South," as well as the syndicated "Legend Continues" series.

Write to Carradine C/O the show at Warner Bros. Domestic Television Distribution, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

Q: Back in the late '50s or early '60s, there was a movie called "Babykins" or "Bobbykins" that was made in England. It was the story of a baby who could talk. The most memorable part about this movie was how perfectly the words were synchronized with the movements of the baby's mouth.

Please let me know if this movie is available on tape, and if possible, could you tell me whether it is out on laserdisc? -Paul White, Conneaut, Ohio.

A: Apologies, Paul. "Bobbikins," from 1960, is not available on either videotape or laserdisc.

Q: How can I find out when and where auditions are held for "Wheel of Fortune"? -Mrs. F.E. Vincent,

David Carradine

Oroville, Calif.

A: Write to the show at 3400 Riverside Drive, Burbank, Calif. 91505.

Q: I would like to know if there is an address available for the "Later With Bob Costas" show. I am aware that the show has a new host, but the information that I am searching for pertains to when Costas was the host. -L.H., Ames, Iowa.

A: Just send that letter to NBC Productions, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523. Address it to "Later With Greg Kinnear," and specify your information within the letter.

Q: Years ago, I watched a movie with Robby Benson called "Walk Proud." What ever happened to that movie? I really liked it a lot, but I have never been able to find it anywhere. Is it available on videotape? -Regina O'Brien, San Angelo, Texas.

A: Apparently, the 1979 gang drama, starring Benson and Sarah Holcomb, was never released for home video.

Q: I recently saw a movie on Lifetime called "Love With a Perfect Stranger," starring Marilu Henner and David Massey. Could you please give me an address where I can write to obtain a copy of this movie? -S.W., Middletown, Conn.

A: The movie can be purchased through Paramount Home Video, 5555 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90038-3197.

Campion's 'Piano' hits all the right notes despite having a 'girlie' tag

BY JEFF PLASS

By any chance, have you been told not to bother watching "The Piano"? That it's a male-bashing "women's film," and unless you are a man-hating women's libber, you just won't get it?

Another question: If "The Piano" is strictly "girlie" fare, what were the people at the Cannes Film Festival and Motion Picture Academy thinking this past year?

It won the award for best picture (Cannes) and garnered Academy Awards for best actress, best supporting actress and best original screenplay for Holly Hunter, Anna Paquin and writer-director Jane Campion, respectively.

And, in all fairness, were it not for Steven Spielberg's long-running habit of being overlooked by the academy and his masterful work on the eventual best picture winner, "Schindler's List," Campion probably would have been the front-runner for best director, too.

The film begins with Ada (Hunter) and her daughter, Flora (Paquin), arriving in New Zealand, where Ada's father has "arranged" a marriage to seemingly tolerable Alisdair Stewart (Sam Neill).

Ada, a self-imposed mute, communicates only through sign language, interpreted by Flora, and - surprise - her piano.

The movie revolves around Ada's relationship with George Baines (Harvey Keitel), a crude, illiterate man who sports the Maori tattoos of the local tribespeople, who seem to have adopted him. The noble savage trades a few tracts of land to Alisdair in return for Ada's prized instrument, which she has no intention of forfeiting.

With a little more bargaining, George finagles piano lessons from Ada, and it's during these lessons that the relationship begins to take form.

Brilliantly acted and directed, with Paquin owning the screen in many of her scenes, "The Piano" refuses to be dismissed as simply a "chick movie." Anyone who thinks so is simply missing out.

Amanda Pays portrays a young mother whose worst nightmares become reality when her infant son suddenly disappears in "I Know My Son Is Alive," Monday on NBC.

Thiessen's number comes up '90210'; Rea to star in HBO's 'Citizen X'

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen has been picked from about 200 hopeful actresses who auditioned recently for a role on Fox's "Beverly Hills, 90210."

According to a press release, Thiessen will play Valerie Malone, "the daughter of Jim and Cindy Walsh's best friends from Minnesota. On the surface, Valerie is beautiful, smart and complex - an innocent sweet athletic all-American girl."

Thiessen's acting credits include "Saved By the Bell: The College Years" and the film "Son in Law."

The former Soviet republics are yielding another harvest for HBO Pictures, makers of "Sakharov" and "Stalin." In September, another true-life drama, "Citizen X," begins production in European locations. Based on the book "The Killer Department" by Robert Cullen, the film will depict the story of the 1982 manhunt for a serial killer who may have taken the lives of as many as 52 victims.

Stephen Rea ("The Crying Game") will star as Russian police detective Viktor Burakov, whose job it was to crack the case.

The National Association of Broadcasters reports an 81 percent increase in the amount of children's programming on TV stations nationwide since the institution of the Children's Television Act in 1991. The average amount of weekly programming has increased from 2 hours to 3 hours and 40 minutes, according to the NAB, and much of the added programming is locally produced.

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen

The NAB is hoping to pre-empt any additional regulation by the Federal Communications Commission, which licenses stations and enforces programming standards.

With a new James Bond (Pierce Brosnan) about to take on villains, what's an old Bond to do? Roger Moore, for one, has just become honorary chairman of Kiwanis International's World Service Project to build salt iodization plants to serve the 1.5 billion adults and children at risk for iodine deficiency disorder. Iodine is an essential micronutrient. Its absence can cause stillbirths and retardation.

BY JOHN HARMON

Those who enjoyed being frightened by the fictional fish in "Jaws" can now witness the real thing.

On Sunday, July 31, The Discovery Channel begins its annual Shark Week extravaganza with the premiere of "Great White Down Under."

This time, however, the shark is studied, not stalked, and the characters involved are filming, not fishing.

Australians Andrew and Liz Wight take their cameras below the surface and into the very jaws of the great white in this captivating program.

Together they push the limits of underwater cinematography using new, experimental technology to gain a very unique perspective of the great white.

Along with the traditional cage used over the years for filming sharks, the Wights use a mobile, metal-caged shark sub specially designed to interact with the sharks in their environment.

A camera housed inside the cage with the pilot provides riveting close-ups of sharks swimming straight at the lens. White, razor-like teeth are in sharp contrast to black, bottomless eyes as the inquisitive predators sometimes get too close for comfort.

Indeed, the program delivers moments of high drama on several occasions.

A memorable scene finds a vulnerable Liz inside a cylindrical, transparent tube on the ocean floor, wondering if the great whites will be able to sense the presence of the invisible tube and how they will react to a diver in their backyard.

On another occasion, a massive great white gets tangled in the ropes harnessing a diver cage. It thrashes violently, knocking the cage around like a wire waste basket.

In a climactic scene, a powerful great white takes a terrifying bite at Andrew in the shark sub. "It's as if you're hypnotized, you can't move, you're powerless to move, and it just bites you," he says.

Other "Shark Week" premieres include "To Be With Sharks," also on Sunday, and "The Shark Attack Files" on Monday, Aug. 1. "Shark Doctors" premieres on Saturday, Aug. 6.

Fittingly, "Jaws" author Peter Benchley will serve as Shark Week host.

SOAP WORLD

Catching up with 'Guiding Light'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I watch "As the World Turns" and I was wondering who is the actress who plays Lily. She is my favorite character, and I would like to know how to write to her.

I also watch "Guiding Light," but I have recently missed a lot of it. On one of the episodes they said that Alan-Michael's father was put in jail. Was that a way of writing him off the show? -Katie Kelton, San Angelo, Texas.

Dear Reader: The talented Martha Byrne portrays Lily on "ATWT." You can write to her in care of As the World Turns, CBS, 51 West 52nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

On another note concerning Lily: Many fans have written in to say how happy they are with the pairing of Lily and Damian (Paolo Seganti). One reader wrote, "I am so glad Lily is dumping wimpy Holden. I was so tired of him whining about a woman he could barely remember. Damian is so exciting, and I think he is a perfect match for Lily."

The role of Alan Spaulding on "GL" has been taken on by actor Ron Raines. The character was last played by Daniel Pilon (Max Dubajak, "Ryan's Hope"). Alan was sent to jail because he accidentally shot his son Phillip at Blake and Phillip's wedding. At the time, the character's departure was dictated by the story line.

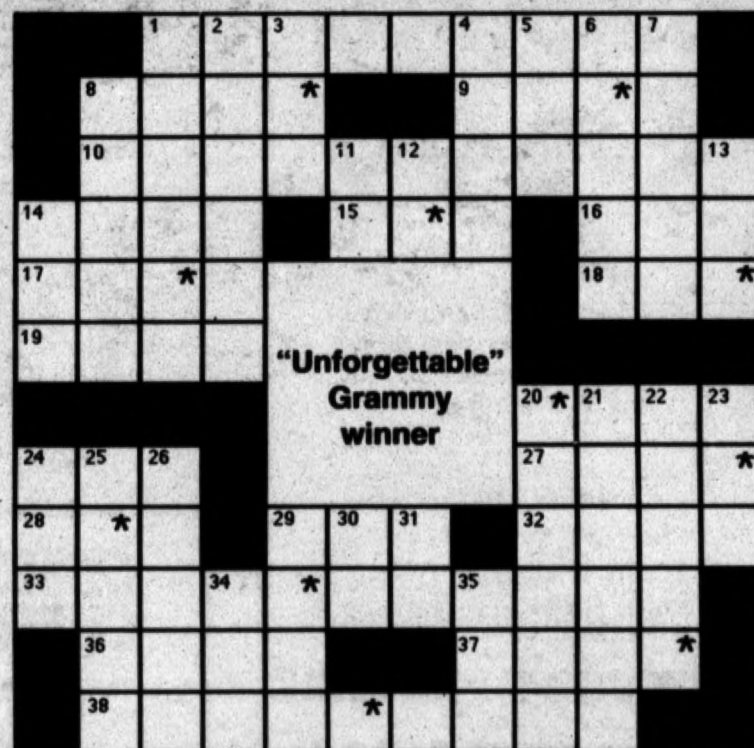

Dear Candace: I can see why "The Young and the Restless" didn't win very many Emmys this year. The show has become totally disgusting. Jill (Jess Walton) can't control her libido, and now John (Jerry Douglas) is acting like some kind of sex maniac. All Victoria (Heather Tom) wanted to do was get Cole (J. Eddie Peck) into bed. Now her brother, Nick (Joshua Morrow), is trying to do the same thing with someone else's girlfriend.

"Y&R" used to be my favorite show. It is time for the writers to get the show back on track. I'm tired of nothing but sex, sex, sex! -Losing Interest, Louisville, Ky.

Dear Reader: "Y&R" is definitely having one hot summer. But to its credit, except for Nick, all this lovemaking is happening between married couples.
