Dameron Park focus of latest city park meeting

About 35 residents attended a park development meeting at Dameron Park Tuesday afternoon and voiced opinions on eight or nine improvements they would like to see the City of Hereford accomplish at the location.

Construction of a pavilion/band stage with restroom facilities was voted as a top, longrange project, while residents ranked about eight other items for consideration. The meeting was one of a series of public meetings being hosted by city officials to receive input on park improvements.

Mayor Bob Josseland and City Manager Chester Nolen addressed the group and asked for ideas. Other improvements suggested, in order, included restroom facilities, drainage, additional parking, jogging path and decorative lighting, picnic tables and grills, sheltered swings, and a brick mall.

Nolen noted that about $120,000 is in the fund which was created by volunteer $1 additions to citizens' water bills. He said about $20,000 has been spent on parks to date, and the city would probably earmark most of the remaining funds over the next 18 months.

People attending the meeting agreed that building a pavilion would probably be a three to five-year project. A study on such a facility several years ago resulted in a cost estimate of about $90,000. Several residents suggested that a citywide fundraising program might be started to help fund the project.

With many of Hereford's major events held at Dameron Park, citizens seemed to feel it might be the best location for a permanent pavilion facility. Responding to a question about the city providing matching funds for such a project, Nolen noted that the city is spending about $200,000 a year on park maintenance. Budgeting more park money might require a tax increase, he added.

The group also briefly discussed Mother's Park, Santa Fe Park and the City Park area at Hereford Community Center. One resident expressed hope that the city would make Santa Fe aware that the city wanted to retain the old depot if the railway company ever decides to leave the property. A member of the Mother's Club said the group would like someone else to take over special maintenance of that beauty spot.

The mayor expressed appreciation to the city's park department for improvements already underway, and thanked those attending the meeting Tuesday and providing input on future improvements.

The next meeting in the series will be at the Ironwood Park on Aug. 16 at 7 p.m. Interested residents in that area are urged to attend.

Early voting stops with 737 ballots

Early voting for Saturday's special city election ended on Tuesday with 737 people having cast ballots.

The election was called to consider whether or not Hereford should enact a half-cent sales tax in order to raise funds for economic development.

If approved, those funds would be used solely to attract new business to Hereford, or to expand existing business.

A task force recommended the tax as a way to improve the city's tax base and employment.

Voting will be held on Saturday, Aug. 13, in the Community Center.

Only registered voters living inside the Hereford City Limits are eligible to vote.

Voters are reminded that traffic in the vicinity of the Community Center will be heavy due to the Jubilee Junction being held across the street in Dameron Park.

However, said City Manager Chester Nolen, reserved parking will be available for voters on the west side of the Community Center.

State hails ruling in Census count

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas officials are applauding an appellate ruling that sets a higher standard for the federal government to prove it shouldn't have to rectify a Census undercount that missed 4.7 million people.

The ruling Monday by a three-judge panel of the 2nd U.S. District Court of Appeals in Manhattan revives an effort by Texas and others to redress an undercount they say is costing them billions of federal dollars and congressional representation.

HISD budget shows no 1994-95 tax hike

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Preliminary budget figures for the Hereford Independent School District's 1994-95 budget show the district will be able to give pay increases to some personnel and still operate without a tax increase.

Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt presented those preliminary figures to school trustees on Tuesday at a special budget workshop meeting.

The figures only reflect local and state funds and do not include any federal dollars which flow into the district for special programs.

Greenawalt said estimated revenue for the district next year will be $17,437,286, while estimated expenses will be $17,988,303.

"What we have attempted to do with this budget is hold it as close as possible to the 93-94 budget," Greenawalt said.

This year, he said, the district will lose some $700,000 in state funding due to the fact that the district was overpaid during the 1993-94 school year.

Greenawalt said a news report initially said the district would owe $631,000 to the state because projected Average Daily Attendance rates were higher than actual attendance during the year, meaning the state sent Hereford too much money.

However, he told trustees, the district had believed it was owed the money instead, although discussions with the state ended the other way around.

As a result, he said, the state should send Hereford $12,669,268, but actually will provide budgeted funding of $11,969,262 to make up the difference in 1993-94 funding.

But, Greenawalt said, the extra funding -- $700,000 -- was placed in a savings fund here and will be returned to the operating budget on a monthly basis as the checks from the state arrive.

For this school year, the district is expected to be paid on an Average Daily Attendance of 4,228, while Greenawalt said he is budgeting based on an ADA of 4,100 students, which is what the 1993-94 figure was, according to state records.

On the expenditure side of the budget, Greenawalt said, "We have tried to maintain a status quo budget," although the final figures are that the district will end up some $75,000 in the hole at the end of 1994-95.

However, the superintendent said, there is $67,500 that may have been double-budgeted, both in the transportation and debt service budgets for leases on new buses.

If that is the case, then the deficit would be lower.

But, Greenawalt continued, the district regularly spends anywhere from $400,000 to $500,000 less than it budgets, which, combined with revenue estimates which are lower than actual income, should ensure the district ends the 1994-95 fiscal year in the black.

If not, the budget shortfall would be covered by the fund balance, which is estimated to be just over $4.3 million at the end of this fiscal year on Aug. 31.

Within the budget, the district has appropriated $1,140 each for some 187 teachers who are eligible for a step increase.

In addition, assistant superintendent Don Cumpton has recommended raises for cafeteria, maintenance, custodial and bus staffs. Those raises, Cumpton explained, are given to cafeteria workers based on experience and to the other employees based on job evaluations.

Trustee Raul Valdez asked why classroom aides were not given a raise this year, to which Greenawalt explained that para-professional and professional staff members are tied to an agreement governing their salaries.

This year will be the first time in seven years that those staff members have not been given a raise, Greenawalt said, because of the tight budget.

Valdez argued that classroom aides are low paid and deserve a raise this year.

But Greenawalt pointed out that aides are tied to a pay scale agreement with other para-professionals, which include secretaries and attendance clerks.

To single aides out for raises, he said, would alienate other people, as would giving aides more money but leaving teacher salaries alone.

There are, he said, some 170 teachers who have reached the top level of pay and will not receive any kind of step increase or other raise this year.

Last year, Greenawalt said, the district commissioned a study from the Texas Association of School Boards to analyze where district para-professional salaries rank with other districts and with the private sector.

That study, he said, showed that

Josseland's breakfast attracts 13 citizens

Thirteen citizens attended a "Mayor's Breakfast" this morning to hear Mayor Bob Josseland discuss city government and services and respond to questions about city operations.

Josseland responded to several questions concerning Saturday's city election on a half-cent sales tax for economic development, and discussed city work on water and waste programs and park development, as well as the 1994-95 budget.

The mayor said he was seeking suggestions on the five people to be appointed to an economic development board if the sales tax is approved Saturday. He plans to appoint people from five different areas of community life and business.

"I've heard that some people are criticizing the proposal, but I don't see any of them here this morning to ask questions," said Josseland. He added that most reaction to the election has been "very positive, and I hope those people get out and vote."

Several people also expressed support of a proposed curfew for juveniles. "The real tragedy is that we have to legislate what should be a parent's job," said Josseland.

The mayor spoke briefly about a series of park meetings.

Permit issued for building

Construction has begun on Hereford's newest business as a building permit was issued on Tuesday for a new Auto Zone parts store.

The 6,097-square-foot building will be built at 300 N. 25 Mile Avenue. Estimated cost of the project is $235,000.

Contractor for the job is Tony Crawford Construction of Dallas. However, Kelley Electric and Vasek Service and Equipment are local firms serving as subcontractors.

The 67-foot-by-91-foot building is estimated to be complete by Nov. 9.

Longtime city leader Langley dies at 74

Earnest Lee Langley, 74, longtime Hereford attorney and civic leader, died Tuesday afternoon at Hereford Regional Medical Center following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in First United Methodist Church with Dr. Clifford Trotter of Texas Methodist Foundation officiating. Burial will be in West Park Cemetery by Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Hereford City Hall will be closed from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Thursday in memory of the former city attorney.

Mr. Langley moved to Hereford from Amarillo in 1952 to join the James W. Witherspoon law firm. He served as the City of Hereford attorney for almost 40 years and was the longtime general counsel for Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative and King's Manor. He was also a longtime director of First National Bank.

Mr. Langley was named Hereford's Citizen of the Year in 1969. He had served as president of numerous local organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, Camp Fire Council, Hereford Country Club, and the District Bar Association.

He was one of the founding trustees of King's Manor. He was very active in the Methodist Church, having held positions of leadership at the local, district and conference level. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite and the Oasis Shrine.

Mr. Langley was born in Sweetwater in 1920. He met Helen Richter when the two were freshmen at Texas Tech. She was born in Marble Falls and had moved to Abernathy at an early age. They married Dec. 28, 1941

Dameron Park public meeting

Interested citizens gathered at Dameron Park Tuesday evening for input on improvements. The group ranked a pavilion/band stage as one of the top needs. About 35 residents attended the meeting, one in a series being hosted by city officials to discuss how the voluntary park fund should be spent in making improvements to various parks around the city.

Battle lines drawn on health plan

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The battle lines over health reform are being drawn in the Senate, with Democrats saying every American deserves guaranteed care and Republicans warning of damage to the world's best health system.

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell opened the debate Tuesday evening with a litany of horror stories about the problems of America's 39 million uninsured and others struggling with soaring medical costs. "Why is our society willing to allow people to experience the degradation of begging for care after a lifetime of work and personal responsibility?" Mitchell demanded. "There are people in great need in America," rejoined Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, but the problem is figuring out "how to help those people without damaging the greatest health care system in the world."

Borrowing a line from Ross Perot, Dole said, "We're going to kick the tires and look under the hood ... to discover whether or not this is really a new plan or if it's the Clinton plan with a new coat of paint and rolled back odometer."

Dole threw his own 619-page bill in the legislative hopper. It would outlaw many current insurance practices and offer subsidies to people up to 150 percent of the poverty line, but avoid new taxes or any requirement for businesses to pay for insurance.

Dole's fellow Kansas Republican, Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, voiced alarm at the "byzantine" new government regulations in Mitchell's health plan, including a cumbersome system for states to decide who qualifies for the subsidies.

Vandals strike here again

Vandals have struck a local business twice in the past week, causing thousands of dollars of damage to numerous new cars.

Officers were called to Hereford Auto Center on Aug. 1 and again on Aug. 6 in reference to reports of vandalism.

In both cases, vandals scratched the paint on new 1994 and 1995 model vehicles on the dealership's sales lot.

In the first case, co-owner John Cook reported 12 vehicles were damaged, with damage set at $1,000 per vehicle.

Cook told officers at the time that the suspect might have been a disgruntled employee angry about having been fired.

In the second case, Officer Dave Ellis reported he was driving in the area at 12:50 a.m. on Aug. 6 when he saw two youths crouched by a vehicle.

The pair fled as Ellis approached.

Damage in that case included scratches on vehicle hoods, some with profanities written, and tires that were punctured.

The City Commission is considering an ordinance that would enact a youth curfew, limiting the hours young people are allowed to be outside.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Regarding the proposed half-cent Sales Tax for Economic Development, I want to urge Hereford citizens to vote Aug. 13 for this tax.

Like most people, I am not eager to vote for higher taxes. However, I realize this money will remain here and will help us pursue industries that would benefit our city and help our existing businesses grow.

Sincerely,
Don Tardy

Dear Editor:

Monday I went to the County Clerk's office for my participation in early voting for the 1/2-cent sales tax, just to find out I wasn't even eligible to vote because I live in Deaf Smith County but not in the City of Hereford.

Now if the 1/2-cent sales tax becomes city law, I'll still have to pay my share of the new tax even though I didn't get to vote on it!

Since the city council won't let me vote in this election, well I'll express my opinion in this letter.

To me it seems that whoever called this citywide election only must be like the Clintons! By this statement, I mean to sway the election their way by keeping out as many negative voters as possible.

As a registered voter without any city voting rights, I say vote no on this 1/2-cent sales tax. It is my opinion, from what I have seen so far, the city commission would act like the Clintons, by wasting our money however they see fit, without even caring about our opinions!

WASHINGTON - The battle over health reform was joined in the Senate, where Democrats said Americans must no longer go "begging for care" while Republicans warned against destroying the best health care system in the world.

WASHINGTON - A year ago, President Clinton spoke in calm, reasoned tones about how all sides in the health-care debate were "seeking a good that helps all Americans." Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: My idea is for relatives of deceased women and for the personnel at funeral homes who take the information to be published in obituaries.

I think a married woman's obituary should always report her maiden name. Often this information is not included in our local newspaper.

I particularly wish this because I'm now in my 60s and still live in the area in which I grew up and went to school. Many times I see obituaries of women who might have been schoolmates or acquaintances, but no maiden name is mentioned, especially when she is predeceased by her parents and no brothers survive.

Sometimes, I have noticed, surviving brothers are just mentioned by their first names.

I think this is an omission in reporting that almost everyone, especially women, would like to have corrected. — Mary Lou Peddy, Lubbock, Texas

I absolutely agree! I spoke with Letitia Baldrige, our favorite etiquette maven, and she agreed that the maiden name as well as all married names should be included in an obituary.

Thanks for writing. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: Your Kitchen Kapers really hit home. When I was a child, both my parents worked. My job was to start dinner as per instructions left for me.

One night we were having potato soup. Mom had put the potatoes in a big pot and my job was to peel and cook them. Mom worked late and called to tell me what to do next. I chopped the onions and celery.

When she and Dad came home, I could not even stir the soup. I thought she had said two cups flour and in reality she has said two tablespoons. I had never before made paste.

I love relating this story, especially when I make potato soup. — Terry Inzauro, Omaha, Neb.

I bet you smile every time! — Heloise

Golf course superintendents meet

Hereford and Pitman Municipal Golf Course hosted a meeting of the West Texas Golf Course Superintendents Associations Tuesday. About 50 supers, including (left to right) Paul Caskey, Pitman's Mary Haun and John Haun, held a regular meeting here, then played a tournament at Pitman. Caskey is the assistant super at Lubbock Country Club, and John, Mary's husband, is the super at Palo Duro Creek Country Club in Canyon.

Azinger seriously plans to defend his title during PGA championship

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - Paul Azinger is already finished with "moral victories." Only one week into his comeback from cancer, Azinger has lofty ambitions for his defense of PGA national championship title, although he's not predicting an outright victory in the tournament that begins Thursday at Southern Hills. "I really can't speculate on how I'm playing," he said Tuesday. "Even if I was hitting the ball like Jack Nicklaus dreams of hitting the ball, I wouldn't predict I was going to win." Would making the cut serve as a realistic goal? "I'm a little rusty," admitted Azinger, who started his comeback last week with two rounds in the Buick Open. "But I've found that if you're just trying to make the cut, you're going to be somewhere around the cut. "If you're leaderboard-conscious, you have a much better chance of making the leaderboard," he said. And he made it clear he intends to be leaderboard-conscious.

answered a question about his desire; whether his priorities may have changed and his desire diminished in the wake of his battle with cancer. "I got mad," Azinger said. "There's no question about my attitude. I missed an 8-foot putt for par and I was so mad I could have spit nails."

Azinger leads the return of some of the walking wounded whose absence from the pro tour, he said, has had a profound effect on the season.

However, Azinger stopped short of saying their absence was responsible for foreign-born players winning all three earlier majors. Jose Maria Olazabal of Spain won the Masters, Ernie Els of South Africa won the U.S. Open and Nick Price of Zimbabwe won the British Open.

Another win by a foreigner this week would bring about an unprecedented foreign sweep of golf's Big Four events.

"Well, just let me say that with me out, with Freddie (Couples) out with a bad back for a while, with Phil (Mickelson) getting hurt then not playing very good, and Payne (Stewart) not playing well, that's another $5 million the other guys were playing for this year," he said.

Dream Team II whips Aussies

TORONTO (AP) - Dream Team II is averaging three points per minute, which is entirely appropriate the way it was hitting 3-pointers against Australia.

After being criticized for missing 13 of 163-pointers against Brazil on Sunday, the Americans greased their shooting arms Tuesday night, making 14 of 22 3-pointers in a 130-74 rout at the World Championship of Basketball.

"It shows our versatility," coach Don Nelson said. "We can go big or small and be devastating."

Devastating indeed. The spectacular outside shooting display was part of Dream Team II's 71 percent shooting overall, pushing its four-game average to 62 percent. The Americans are 1-0 in the three-game quarterfinal round-robin.

The U.S. team is averaging 120.5 points in the 40-minute games, which are eight minutes shorter than a regulation NBA game. In a 48-minute game, the Americans are scoring at a 144-point pace.

Reggie Miller scored 23 of his 31 points in the first 11 minutes of the second half. It was a performance that reminded him of his 25-point fourth quarter in the playoffs against New York this year, when heckling from Knicks fan Spike Lee inspired Miller.

"I might have had a Spike Lee flashback," Miller said. "The day off (Monday) helped. Our legs got heavy against Brazil. I know my legs were heavy. We rested and got away from basketball for a little bit."

Miller and Mark Price both took six 3-pointers, and each made five of them.

"The papers here said that outside shooting might be one of our weaknesses," guard Kevin Johnson said. "Reggie and Mark took it on themselves to prove that wrong."

Price finished with 17 points and made six of seven shots overall, while Dan Majerle scored 14 points and Dominique Wilkins 13 on 5-for-5 shooting. All 12 members of Dream Team II are now shooting better than 50 percent from the field, and they have surpassed Dream Team I's 117.3 average in the 1992 Olympics.

Next up for the United States, which beat China by 55 points earlier in the tournament, is Puerto Rico, a 101-85 loser to Russia on Tuesday, as the quarterfinals continue tonight.

2 scrambles set this week

Golfers have the opportunity to play in two scrambles this week at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The first is the weekly Thursday Scramble, which was called off for various reasons the past two weeks, but will continue through August.

The four-player scramble is a blind draw, with A, B, C and D players on each team. It starts at 6 p.m. Thursday. The fee is $5, plus green fee and cart.

The second scramble will be the Twi-Light Golf Tourney, which starts at 6 p.m. Friday. Golfers should make their own four-player teams. The $40 per player fee includes greens fee, cart, a night light golf ball, prizes and a meal.

Cotton may have WAC champ vs. Big 12 runner-up

DALLAS (AP) - The departed members of the Southwest Conference may eventually meet again in a familiar location - the Cotton Bowl.

The Cotton Bowl, which used to host the SWC winner and an invited guest on New Year's Day, is scrambling to figure out what to do now that it's been left out of the Tier I Bowl Alliance to determine a national champion.

One of the latest possibilities is matching up the Western Athletic Conference champion playing and the Big 12's No. 2 team starting in 1996.

When the SWC splits up in 1996, four schools are bound for the Big 12, three for the WAC and Houston will be independent.

John Reid, executive director of the Holiday Bowl, told The Dallas Morning News that discussions between the WAC and the Cotton Bowl have taken place.

The WAC champion, which goes to the Holiday Bowl the next two seasons, does not have an automatic slot in the new Tier I Bowl Alliance. The Southwest Conference champion will play in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 2, 1995, but the bowl has no contract with a conference after that.

A Big 12 playoff game for Dallas also is under discussion.

Several Big 12 athletic directors have said the league is leaning toward having a playoff game because it could produce as much as $5 million a year to be split among the schools.

Dallas is believed to be the Big 12's No. 1 choice for such a game.

Buckle winners

Trent Burns (left) and Ashley Noland (right) won buckles at a recent roping held by the Hereford Riders Club. Second place went to Herman Romero and Randy Davis; third went to Tye Killingsworth and Noland; and fourth went to Randy Crump and Sid Morris.

The YMCA is a great place to go for any kid. For some kids, it's the only great place to go.

The truth is, because of family problems or low incomes, a lot of kids can't afford the opportunities to go places and be with adults who can give them the caring attention they need.

That's why the YMCA is so important. We give kids the positive experiences they need to grow up prepared for happy and productive lives. But we always run out of money before we run out of kids.

Negotiators to meet mostly out of habit

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Less than 24 hours after discussing the mechanics of an orderly shutdown, negotiators for baseball owners and players meet again today in an attempt to avoid the strike that is scheduled to start Friday.

Neither side seems to think the sport's eighth work stoppage since 1972 can be stopped.

"If there's not a lot new and different to talk about, it'll be a short meeting," union head Donald Fehr said Tuesday.

Negotiators had been set to continue Monday's meeting about non-economic issues. Instead, the No. 2 officials on each side debated issues such as whether players can use club equipment during a stoppage (they can't).

They also discussed "how people get home, where they mail checks to for the 11 days if there isn't a settlement, minor-league assignments," Fehr said.

At this point, it appears the sides continue to meet out of habit rather than hope.

"We are meeting because you leave no stone unturned," management negotiator Richard Ravitch said.

Tuesday's news conferences by the leaders of each side produced new heights of rhetoric. Fehr said owners had left the players only one option: accept a salary cap.

"That's Munich," he said, referring to Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Adolf Hitler in September 1938, when the British Prime Minister gave part of Czechoslovakia to Germany.

"The only value of a cap is sort of a 'peace at any price,'" Fehr said. "I'm about to draw a very overblown analogy, so don't suggest that I mean it in the sense it's going to sound, but that's Munich. It's sort of like, 'Don't worry. It won't hurt that bad even though it's unfair, and we shouldn't worry about it."

Everybody should go and play baseball. It's sort of like small and faraway countries. You don't do that and it's inappropriate in my judgment to ask for it."

Ravitch, too, said he saw little hope of avoiding a walkout. But he said he didn't think it would last all winter.

"The acts of self-immolation reach the point of Kafkaesque proportions," he said.

Fehr didn't think much of Ravitch's reference to Franz Kafka, an early 20th century writer of surreal and nightmarish stories.

"For someone who participated in building the prison walls in which we are ensconced..." Fehr said before trailing off.

Fehr also said players were prepared for a work stoppage to wipe out the rest of the season and continue indefinitely.

"Everything that has happened so far suggests it's going to be a long strike," he said. "That's the operating assumption and we haven't made any secret of that."

When players ask how long the strike is going to be, the only answer you can give them is, 'As long as it takes.'"

He said it was a mistake for some to predict that players would alter their position and accept a cap after two missed paychecks, which would be Sept. 15. That notion is said to have been mentioned by some team executives in recent days but Fehr dismissed it as "fantasyland."

"It suggests to me people on the other side don't know what they're doing or are incredibly gullible," he said. "If they believe players will panic in a week or two, I have bridges to sell them."

Players have amassed about $175 million in licensing money for the work stoppage, and Fehr said it wouldn't even start to get distributed until Sept. 15 and Sept. 29. The owners have no fund, but have a line of credit with a consortium of banks. Ravitch said several clubs had borrowed to their limit in recent years.

Rangers lead A's by one-half game

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Because no one knows for sure when the season will end, Kevin Kennedy is taking no chances.

And since the Rangers have only one game left before the strike deadline, the Texas manager is treating today like it's Game 7 of the World Series.

"I'll treat tomorrow like it's all or nothing," he said Tuesday. "Everybody will be in the bullpen."

The Rangers, with an 8-5 loss to Seattle, dropped to a season-worst nine games under .500. But that's still good enough for a half-game lead over Oakland in the AL West.

Texas' last game before Friday's strike date is at home tonight against the Mariners. The Athletics, meanwhile, play Chicago this afternoon and Seattle on Thursday night.

At 52-61, Texas has the exact same record as Detroit, which is last in the AL East, and Milwaukee, last in the AL Central.

"It's tough to talk about every night, but we're last in fielding, 12th in pitching and we've lost five straight to Oakland and Seattle, teams we should beat," Kennedy said.

In other games, Oakland beat Chicago 4-2, Kansas City defeated California 5-3 in 11 innings, Baltimore beat New York 6-5, Detroit downed Milwaukee 10-4, Toronto topped Cleveland 12-5 and Minnesota defeated Boston 4-3 in 12 innings.

The Mariners, meanwhile, have won four in a row. Tino Martinez homered for the third straight game as Seattle improved to 8-1 against Texas this season.

These recent victories, all on the road while the Kingdome is being repaired, have pulled Seattle within 3 1/2 games of first place.

Rookie John Cummings (2-4) won in the majors for the first time as a starter. Brian Bohanon (2-2) was chased during a four-run sixth inning that made it 7-1.

Athletics 4, White Sox 2

Ruben Sierra's homer highlighted a three-run rally in the eighth inning.

Sierra, who had struck out swinging twice against Wilson Alvarez, connected on a 2-2 pitch from the White Sox lefty for his 23rd homer.

Sierra's two-run shot with one out put the A's ahead 3-2. Alvarez (12-8) left after walking Troy Neel with two outs and Scott Brosius hit an RBI double off Roberto Hernandez.

John Briscoe (4-2) got the last out in the eighth and was the winner.

Royals 5, Angels 3, 11 innings

Mike Macfarlane opened the 11th inning with a home run and Kansas City went on to win at California.

Bo Jackson hit a 450-foot, two-run homer in the eighth that tied it for the Angels. But Macfarlane homered off

Mark Leiter (4-7) and Felix Jose and Gary Gaetti followed with doubles.

Hipolito Pichardo (5-3) pitched two hitless innings and Jeff Montgomery pitched the 11th for his 27th save, converting his 17th straight chance.

Orioles 6, Yankees 5

Baltimore's Jamie Moyer pitched in and out of trouble all night and managed to beat New York for the first time in his career.

Moyer (5-7) allowed all five runs on nine hits in eight innings.

Jim Abbott (9-8) was 3-0 in his previous five career starts against the Orioles. He had faced Moyer twice this season, winning one and getting a no-decision in the other.

Brady Anderson's two-run single gave Baltimore a 6-5 lead in the sixth. Wade Boggs hit his 11th home run for the Yankees.

Twins 4, Red Sox 3, 12 innings

Pinch-runner Pat Mahomes became the first AL pitcher to score a run this season, scoring the game-winner on reliever Todd Frohwrith's throwing error in the 12th inning at the Metrodome.

Frohwrith (0-3) walked Hrbek with one out in the 12th and Mahomes entered. Shane Mack was hit by a pitch and Chip Hale followed with a chopper to the mound that Frohwrith submarined past first baseman Mo Vaughn.

Minnesota won its fourth in a row. Dave Stevens (5-2) pitched two innings.

Tigers 10, Brewers 4

Cecil Fielder hit a grand slam and drove in a season-high six runs as Detroit won at Tiger Stadium.

Sean Bergman (2-1) won in his third start since being called up from Triple-A Toledo. Cal Eldred (11-11) was roughed up for eight runs, nine hits and five walks in 5 1-3 innings.

Blue Jays 12, Indians 5

Domingo Cedeño drove in three runs and Toronto tied a season high with 17 hits at the SkyDome.

Every starter for the Blue Jays scored a run. Cedeño, Ed Sprague and Mike Huff each had three hits.

Sandy Alomar, Paul Sorrento and Ruben Amaro each homered for Cleveland.

Todd Stottlemyre (7-7) won despite giving up 10 hits in six innings. Albie Lopez (1-2) left during a five-run second inning after injuring his left knee following through on a pitch.

Indians release Morris

CLEVELAND (AP) - Jack Morris, 46 wins short of 300 career victories, was released unconditionally by the Cleveland Indians.

Morris, 39, was 10-6 in 23 starts for the Indians this season, but had a 5.60 ERA and led the majors with 13 wild pitches. In 141 1-3 innings, he allowed 163 hits 67 walks.

Morris, a five-time All-Star, has a career record of 254-186. He has been on four World Series winners, winning the MVP in 1991, and has a 4-2 record with a 2.96 ERA in seven Series starts. He has also pitched for Detroit, Minnesota and Toronto.

Texas sends Dettmer down

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Texas Rangers recalled left-handed pitcher James Hurst from AA Tulsa Tuesday, clearing a roster spot for him by sending right-handed pitcher John Dettmer to AAA Oklahoma City.

Hurst, 27, started the season with the Rangers. He had no record and a 10.24 ERA in seven relief appearances before being sent to Oklahoma City on April 25.

He was recalled May 22, appearing in one game before being sent to Oklahoma City, where he was 1-2 with a 10.17 ERA in 16 games.

On June 24, the 89ers sent him to Tulsa, where he went 3-5 with a 4.8 ERA.

The Rangers called up Dettmer June 24. He was 0-6 with a 4.33 ERA in 11 games. He had nine starts.

Sanders solves Candiotti

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

There are many theories on how to hit a knuckleball, yet most baseball people insist none of them work.

Reggie Sanders of the Cincinnati Reds apparently has some ideas of his own. He put one of them to use Tuesday night, and it led to the demise of Los Angeles flutterballer Tom Candiotti.

"I told myself to stay back," Sanders said after hitting a two-run homer in a decisive five-run fourth inning that led the Reds to a 5-3 victory over the Dodgers. "With a knuckleball, you can't go out and get it. You've got to let it come to you."

Candiotti knew he was in trouble as soon as he released the ball.

"I tried to throw a really good knuckler, and it came off my hand spinning a lot," he said. "When the ball spins a lot, that's just about as bad as you can throw the knuckler. I was hoping he would be late."

He wasn't, and as a result the Reds increased their lead in the National League Central to 1 1/2 games over Houston. The Astros lost to San Diego 5-4.

Despite the loss in Cincinnati, which evened their record at 56-56, the Dodgers lead San Francisco - a 3-2 winner over Chicago - by three games in the West with the baseball strike looming Friday.

The Reds batted around in the fourth against Candiotti (7-7), who has been hit hard in his last two starts. He gave up five runs in just 2 1-3 innings against San Diego a week earlier.

Kevin Jarvis (1-1) got his first major-league victory, and drove in the final run in the fourth with his first major-league hit. Jarvis, called up from the minors for one start in place of the injured Erik Hanson, gave up five hits and three runs in 5 2-3 innings while striking out six.

Padres 4, Astros 3

Andy Ashby pitched a strong game and scored the go-ahead run in the eighth inning as visiting San Diego ended Houston's six-game winning streak.

Ashby (6-11) allowed six hits while striking out seven and walking one in eight innings.

Ashby singled to start the eighth against Shane Reynolds (8-5), who then left the game after hitting Bip Roberts with a pitch. Derek's Bell's infield hit off Mike Hampton later in the inning scored Ashby from third. Expos 4, Pirates 3

Visiting Montreal won for the 19th time in 21 games as Marquis Grissom stopped a 2-for-25 slump by going 4-for-5 with two RBIs.

Larry Walker hit a solo homer as the Expos beat John Licher (6-7).

Marlins 5, Cardinals 3

Chuck Carr hit a two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning - the first victorious game-ending homer for the second-year Marlins, who snapped a seven-game home losing streak.

Kurt Abbott led off the inning with a double against Vicente Palacios (3-8). After a sacrifice bunt, Carr hit a 3-1 pitch over the right field wall for his second homer.

Giants 3, Cubs 2

San Francisco rallied to win when Darren Lewis hit a two-run, bases-loaded single off Randy Myers with two out in the top of the ninth inning.

Myers relieved in the ninth after Steve Trachsel allowed five hits over eight innings. Todd Benzinger singled with one out for his third hit. One out later, Myers (1-5) walked pinch-hitters Darryl Strawberry and Steve Scarsone.

Lewis, who struck out with the bases loaded in the seventh, singled to center to score pinch-runners Mike Benjamin and Bill Swift.

Braves 7, Rockies 4

Fred McGriff hit a two-run homer and drove in three runs.

Atlanta roughed up former Braves prospect David Nied (9-7) for two runs in the first inning and three in the third.

Greg McMichael (4-6) pitched three shutout innings of relief.

Phillies 5, Mets 1

Curt Schilling won at home for the first time since last year's World Series, pitching a five-hitter.

Mariano Duncan hit a two-run homer.

Schilling (2-8) struck out five, walked one and retired 19 of the last 20 batters.

Four Phillies had multi-hit games as Philadelphia chased Mets starter Mike Remlinger (1-5) with 11 hits in 3 1-3 innings.

Tattooed biker opens Christian business

GRANBY, Mo. (AP) - When Mike Grieshaber opened up shop, some of his first visitors were police officers. They wanted to know what this burly, bearded, longhaired, earringed, tattooed biker was up to in their city, population 1,900.

"As soon as they saw my Christian Motorcyclist Association banners hanging on the wall, it was 'Oh, CHRISTIAN Motorcyclists Association.' They were all for me," he said in his gravelly voice.

Meet Mike Grieshaber - onetime thug, prosperous businessman and ebullient evangelist. Only a few years removed from his days as a Harley-riding roughneck, Grieshaber has cleaned up his act, put away his guns and knives, sworn off booze and drugs and rejoined the mainstream.

He and his wife Carol own Biker Mike's, a leather clothing and accessories shop catering to, what else, motorcycle enthusiasts.

Grieshaber, 42, has become a respected member of the business community in this former lead-mining boomtown in southwest Missouri, which produced bullets for the Civil War and both world wars before the mines closed around 1960.

"He's been real good for Granby," said Mike Chesnut, president of Community Bank & Trust. "It's exciting to see someone who's had a rough life and is trying to make a new start."

It's an unlikely turnaround for a man who spent seven violent years as a member of the Straight Satans, a California biker gang.

"I've had, oh, half a dozen times

I should have been dead," Grieshaber said as he sat in the shade on a bench outside his store. A silver crucifix dangled from his left ear, and a small gold cross glittered at the center of his black leather cap.

"Overdosed on drugs, shot, stabbed, run over by a semi-truck once and was in the hospital for 14 months with virtually every bone in my body broken," he said.

Grieshaber was born in Neosho, Mo., into a solid, religious family, but the movie "Hells Angels on Wheels" changed his life.

"I guess I was just rebellious," Grieshaber said. "I had motorcycles in my blood. Then I saw that movie, and boy, that was it."

After two restless years at an Oklahoma Bible college, he ran off to California to join a gang. He shuttled cocaine, methamphetamine and marijuana between Bakersfield and Fresno, and he robbed and stole to support his own habit.

Getting run over by that truck in 1978 turned into a blessing. During the months of recovery he realized he had to quit, or end up dead or in prison.

He headed home to Missouri to straighten out. One day he stumbled onto the Christian Motorcyclists Association's booth at a motorcycle show. The group counts 43,000 members in about 400 U.S. chapters.

"I saw their banner and it was like a light went on," he said. "This is what I was put on this earth for, this is why I've gone through all this stuff."

As road captain of the association's 25-member Neosho chapter, he travels to motorcycle rallies nationwide, preaching about Jesus. He also speaks to youth groups and at churches.

"I feel like if I tell people, I plant the seed: 'Hey, I was there, I got away from it, I'm lucky to be alive, I follow Jesus now, he's the guiding light in my life and look at me, I'm fine,'" he said.

Grieshaber was working at a nursing home when he met his wife, a nurse. She persuaded him to turn his interest in leather clothing into a full-time job.

Most customers aren't bikers, they just like the clothing, Mrs. Grieshaber said. Even the police chief plunked down $250 for a jacket.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have had vomiting with each of my three pregnancies. Most of my friends tell me they have it also. Out of curiosity, can you give me any statistics on this problem? I am presuming it is pretty common. — D.D.

ANSWER: Nausea and vomiting are quite common in the early months of pregnancy. About 80 percent of women report nausea, vomiting or both.

The problem usually ends by the fourth month. For most women, the siege lasts about six weeks.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

A Pan American World Airways jetliner crashed in flames in 1982 in a suburban residential area shortly after takeoff from New Orleans International Airport, killing 145 people on the plane and eight others on the ground.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has lunch at a Chinese restaurant at least once a week. He always includes me along with several fellow workers, and the restaurant is quite informal.

"Frank" is not a great tipper, and I often must remind him to leave something for the waitress. Sometimes he does, and sometimes he doesn't. Now and then, others in our party will leave the tip.

This past week, Frank received a phone call from a former waitress at this restaurant. I'll call her "Beth". Beth told Frank that while she was still employed there, she saw Frank's waitress spit in his food before she served him. Beth said she confronted the waitress, who told her flat out that Frank was a lousy tipper and it was her way of "getting even."

When Beth reported this waitress' behavior to the manager, he said, "What do you expect me to do?" Beth was so upset, she called the health department and reported it. When the manager found out, he fired Beth. The health department has yet to investigate the restaurant.

Both Frank and I are dumbfounded. Should Frank go back to that restaurant and complain? Doesn't a restaurant have to abide by certain standards?

Frank is a very well-known businessman, and I don't want to bring undue ridicule on him because he isn't a good tipper. But I don't think his failure to tip justifies such abominable treatment. What would you do, Ann? — Still Washing Out my Mouth in Fort Worth, Texas

DEAR TEXAS: First, I would not return to a restaurant where I knew a waitress had spit in the food for any reason whatsoever.

Second, I would call the owner and intervene on behalf of Beth and make an effort to get her job back.

Third, I would inform the owner that I will not be dining in his establishment as long as "The Spitter" is on the premises.

Fourth, I would tell Frank that from now on you will attend to the tipping. Fifteen percent of the check is considered good. If you want excellent service, go to 20 percent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a U.S. citizen living in Taiwan. I read your column every day in the China

Post. While going through my desk, I came across something that might interest your readers, since we all need a little positive reinforcement in our everyday living. I don't know who the author is, but I hope you will print it anyway. — Carl in Taiwan

DEAR CARL: I appreciate your contribution. Thank you so much. Here it is:

Five Votes of Confidence

Today is a new day. Hence: 1. I refuse to be shackled by yesterday's failures.

2. What I don't know I will no longer allow to intimidate me. I will instead view it as an opportunity.

3. I will not allow others to define my mood, my method, my image or my mission.

4. I will pursue a mission greater than myself by making at least one person happy that he or she saw me.

5. I will not tolerate self-pity, gossip or negativism—from myself or from others.

Forget to save some of your favorite Ann Landers columns? "Nuggets and Doozies" is the answer. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

WEST TISBURY, Mass. (AP) - Many people knew; few told. Maybe that's why Princess Diana decided to spend her vacation on Martha's Vineyard.

It was five days after the princess arrived by plane Thursday that her location on the island was confirmed: Diana is staying at an 18th-century clapboard home rented by Paulo Tarso Flecha de Lima's, Brazil's ambassador to the United States.

The cottage is on one of the many secluded, almost inaccessible, sections of the island that make it popular with people who jealously guard their privacy.

"She knows it was one of the very few places in the world where she could be surrounded by nice people and it would be hard to be found by the press," said the ambassador's wife, Lucia de Lima.

Ag Secretary Epsy faces investigation

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - As Agriculture Secretary Mike Epsy tells it, he knew he was a politician the day his father set down a Bible, a $20 bill and a bottle of whiskey and told him to choose. Epsy picked all three.

That flair for self-deprecating humor may serve the former Mississippi congressman well in the days to come, now that an independent counsel is being sought to investigate his relationships with big food companies, including the Arkansas-based poultry giant, Tyson Foods Inc.

And the focus on his access to corporate travel and sport tickets will likely undercut Epsy's efforts to streamline the massive Agriculture Department and improve food safety standards.

"The problem is there in part because it would appear that Secretary Epsy's judgment is being called into question," said Sen. Richard Lugar, the leading Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee. "His vigor with regard to other programs may be somewhat impaired."

Attorney General Janet Reno asked a three-judge panel Tuesday to appoint an outsider to complete a Justice Department investigation of Epsy's corporate contacts. The selection could take weeks.

The request comes three days after the panel appointed Kenneth W. Starr to head an investigation into President Clinton's Arkansas business dealings when he was the state's governor.

"We are confident that after a full, fair and expeditious review of the facts, Secretary Epsy will be completely exonerated," Evan T. Barr, an Epsy attorney, said in a statement. Barr said all of Epsy's "official and personal travel and entertainment expenses have been properly accounted for and reimbursed."

The request focused on trips Epsy took to Arkansas in May 1993, when he stayed at a Tyson facility after a speech to a poultry group and flew to Washington on a company jet; and to Texas in 1994, when he and his companion, Patricia Dempsey, sat in the Tyson skybox for a playoff game between the New York Giants and the Dallas Cowboys.

The request left the way open for investigation of possible favors from others, including tickets for Epsy to a 1993 professional basketball playoff game from Quaker Oats in Chicago.

The counsel, moreover, also will be able to investigate whether aides to Epsy interfered last year with efforts by the Food Safety and Inspection Service to draft tough regulations on poultry, a major industry in Clinton's and Epsy's home states.

Epsy contends his aides took over the work because the agency could not be trusted to act on behalf of consumers after years of inaction. The proposed regulations finally came out in July.

Reno said she had to make the request under a law, renewed June 30, that requires outside investigations of top executive branch officials. She said there was no evidence Epsy did anything in exchange for the gifts.

But there was enough evidence of possible violation of the 1907 Meat Inspection Act, which bans any gift from a corporation.

In a separate action, the Justice Department said it saw nothing to warrant prosecution or further investigation of Patricia Jensen, the acting assistant secretary of agriculture responsible for food safety and inspection.

Jensen attended an Arkansas Razorbacks basketball game in February using a ticket provided by a consultant to Tyson. Jensen, not covered by the independent counsel law, said she paid for the $13 ticket shortly afterward.

Sen. Thomas A. Daschle, D-S.D., whose agriculture subcommittee is awaiting the administration's food safety bill, dismissed any notion that the Agriculture Department will be hindered.

"I think Mike Epsy has such credibility here on the Hill in part because he's been a colleague, and secondly because of his record over the last 18 months" on improving food safety, Daschle said.

Secrecy mounts in Simpson case

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The mysterious yellow envelope wriggled its way back into the O.J. Simpson murder case, only to remain tantalizingly out of reach.

In a hearing dominated by discussions of secrecy, both prosecutors and defense attorneys Tuesday allied themselves against the news media and decided the best place to talk about the envelope was behind closed doors.

After about a half hour, attorneys emerged from the private session. The envelope's contents were still unknown to anyone but the defense, which turned it over last month amid speculation it contained everything from the missing murder weapon to surveillance tapes from the Simpson estate.

In minutes of the meeting released by Superior Court Judge Lance Ito, the judge said he will order a "first wave" of 1,000 prospective jurors, and his highest priority will be finding panelists who can put aside the immense publicity.

The jurors will be "partially sequestered," Ito said, under guard at the courthouse and escorted to and from their homes. During deliberations, they will be sequestered at a hotel.

Defense and prosecution attorneys agreed that secrecy is essential if Simpson, 47, is to receive a fair trial in the June 12 slayings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and her friend Ronald Goldman, 25.

Both sides want items such as Ms. Simpson's hospital records and pictures of bloody bodies kept under wraps.

"This matter has been overtried in the press," Simpson attorney Robert Shapiro complained. "We ask for something simple under the U.S. Constitution - a trial by jury."

Not that attorneys didn't get in their jabs.

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark accused the defense and police of spreading "unfounded and outrageous" rumors in the case. She flatly denied that any leaks have come from the district attorney's office.

"There is an outcry by both sides that we cannot receive a fair trial because of the intensity of media coverage," she said.

Shapiro insisted he was not the source of leaks to the media, alluding to one in particular that was widely linked to the defense: that an allegedly racist detective may have planted a bloody glove at Simpson's house.

"Race is not and will not be an issue in this case and any attempt by the prosecution to continue to put on us the mistakes they have made early on in this case by granting interviews should be put to rest once and for all," Shapiro said.

Shapiro complained that "in the history of the world, there has never been a case with greater scrutiny, greater access" for the press and public.

A media attorney begged the judge to differ.

Kelli Sager, representing the Gannett Co., asked Ito to allow reporters to see - but not publish or broadcast - grisly crime scene photos, and to consider releasing a transcript of the private discussions about the envelope. She said the intense interest in the case makes keeping proceedings open even more important, so that people can have confidence in the justice system.

Ito delayed ruling on all issues until he can study them further.

Simpson appeared dismayed by the media request to see the grisly crime photos, and grimaced when Ito said the trial could stretch through Christmas.

Shapiro has said that Simpson, who maintains his innocence, is pressing for a quick trial with an eye toward acquittal and ultimate freedom.

Prosecutors told Ito they would announce during the last week of August whether they plan to seek the death penalty or life in prison for Simpson.

Shapiro stressed he wants the case to go ahead as scheduled on Sept. 19. The judge asked for submission of a proposed jury questionnaire next week, and said he would begin summoning prospective jurors on Sept. 15.

Mother-son team shares Lotto win

AUSTIN (AP) - It's nice to share. And in Scott Conner's case, it may have been imperative to share to maintain family relations.

That's because the 25-year-old SPS extends co-op pact

Southwestern Public Service Co. has entered into a long-term power supply agreement with Lea County Electric Cooperative in New Mexico, extending a relationship between the utilities for another 20 years.

Lea County Electric was founded in 1949 and purchased a portion of its power needs from SPS until 1983, when the cooperative discontinued its own generation and began purchasing all its power needs from SPS.

"This new contract will assure us of the ability to continue to receive reliable, low-cost power from SPS for the next two decades," said K.C. Martin, Lea County Electric vice president. He noted that the cooperative has one of the lowest rates in the state of New Mexico.

Lea County Electric is a regional cooperative utility that primarily provides electrical service to more than 6,000 members in southeastern New Mexico and West Texas.

"More than 20 percent of SPS's business is from wholesale power sales," said SPS President Coyt Webb. "We're pleased that we can provide reliable service at low prices to Lea County Electric and our other wholesale customers."

construction worker from Huffman won half of the $17.1 million jackpot from Saturday night's Lotto Texas drawing with a Quick Pick ticket bought for him by his mother, Elsie Conner.

"We were headed to my daughter's house when I told everybody we needed to stop and get some Lotto Texas tickets," Mrs. Conner said. "They asked me to buy them five Quick Picks and I ended up giving them the winning ticket. They still haven't repaid me yet."

At a news conference in Austin on Tuesday, Conner gave his mother a $5 bill as repayment. But she will get much more than that.

Conner said a trust has been set up to allow the family to share the jackpot. On Tuesday, the Conner Group Trust received a check for $428,426.95, the first installment of the winnings. The trust will be paid $427,500 annually over the next 19 years.

"We've had a lot of different winners over the last two years," said Texas Lottery Commission Executive Director Nora Linares. "But this may be the first time we've ever had a mother and son tag-team..."

Conner said he is going to retire from his construction job, build a log cabin, take a trip to Australia with his wife and take up rodeo.

Jerry's Auto & Enterprise in Huffman will receive a check for $85,509.26, or 1 percent of Conner's jackpot, for selling the lucky ticket.

Lotto officials say the second winner with the numbers 2, 6, 23, 36, 42 and 45 hasn't yet come forward.

America*When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
