A familiar Turkey Day happening

This photo of a Hereford man watching the Dallas Cowboy game and nibbling on a turkey drumstick may have been a familiar sight on Thanksgiving Day. It was a holiday for many and a time for family gatherings—a time to give thanks for all the blessings bestowed on Americans all across this great nation.

Oil-rich school districts hit by lower property values

By JEAN PAGEL, Associated Press Writer
ANDREWS, Texas (AP)—Rich isn't what it used to be for schools in the Texas oil patch.

Property values plunged this year deep as a drill bit into the dirt, forcing districts to adopt leaner budgets and higher property taxes.

"Oil has never been the horn of plenty," said Ervin Huddleston, superintendent of the Andrews Independent School District, where property values fell $463.8 million since 1993.

"In the oil fields there's always been good times and bad times," Huddleston said. "It's an economic roller coaster that sometimes goes faster than you want it to."

Even though Andrews officials raised their tax rate one nickel to $1.50 per $100 property valuation, they expect a revenue loss of almost $280,000 per student.

But it will take a great deal less than that to make up for the $8 million that San Angelo—for Andrews to drop again to that level.

Or consider Grady, a district "about 17 miles from a cup of coffee," as Superintendent/trigonometry teacher Johnny Tubbs describes it.

Grady draws its students from the Martin County towns of Lenora and Tarzan. Last year, the district mandate by sending roughly $1.6 million to Stanton.

"I told our staff there's good news and bad news," Tubbs said of this year's situation. "I said we're sending Stanton $469,606, and they applauded. Then I said the bad news is our values dropped 24 percent."

Of the state's top 10 mineral-wealth school districts, only gas-abundant Carthage in East Texas enjoyed an increase in property value this year.

Interviews by the AP found losses as dramatic as 35 percent in Whiteface and 29 percent in Denver City.

Those hardest hit share common elements. Most are taxing at or near the state-maximum $1.50; they feel politically voiceless; they're bitter about what they perceive as "Robin Hood" government compounding their oil troubles.

Lawmakers tried to smooth wide disparities among Texas school districts by passing share-the-wealth legislation that caps a district's tax base at $280,000 per student.

The Texas Supreme Court is considering a challenge to that law. Three previous funding laws were found unconstitutional.

The Texas Supreme Court is considering a challenge to that law. Three previous funding laws were found unconstitutional.

The system "recaptured" $400 million last year from property-wealthy districts for distribution to districts with low property wealth.

But the Texas Education Agency expects that amount to drop this year to $360 million, primarily because of depleted mineral values in places like Andrews.

"The state will have to make up the difference," said Omar Garcia, an assistant director with the TEA's division of state funding. "It's not a big deal, (but) it is a concern if we keep losing money in recapture and have to make it up in state aid."

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted the Legislature would take a look at such fluctuations.

"We should always be concerned about property taxes and the dramatic shifts in valuations," Montford said.

Examples of recent cutbacks seethe from oil-rich districts across West Texas.

Texans take breath, enjoy Thanksgiving

By The Associated Press
From Raul Jimenez' traditional holiday feast to football to the home of reunited Vietnamese immigrants, Texans took a breath between the year's busiest travel and shopping days to enjoy Thanksgiving.

Perhaps the largest gathering Thursday was in San Antonio, where Jimenez, owner of a Mexican food company, hosted his traditional free feast for about 20,000 at the Convention Center.

"We cooked 700 turkeys, 2,000 pounds of dressing, 750 gallons of green beans," Jimenez said of the gathering, which also features a band.

"We feed anybody that comes through the door, mostly low-income senior citizens. We've seen a lot of families this year. We provide food and entertainment. For many of the people, it is their one day of the year to have fun. To watch them get up

Helms should be ousted, say Demo leaders

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Suggesting that President Clinton "better have a bodyguard" in North Carolina should cost Sen. Jesse Helms the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee, two Democratic senators say.

Sens. Bob Kerrey and Tom Daschle sent soon-to-be Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole a letter urging him to withdraw his support for Helms' chairmanship, Kerrey said Thursday.

"This type of injudicious comment by a public official in a position of power and prestige cannot be trivialized," the letter said.

Helms, R-N.C., had said the president is so unpopular with the military "he'd better have a bodyguard" if he visits North Carolina. Helms later said in a statement that he had made a mistake, but did not apologize.

Helms also had questioned whether Clinton was fit to be Commander in Chief.

Such remarks "fly in the face of our traditional and constitutional system which demands civilian control of the military, and respect from the military for the commander in chief," said Kerrey, D-Neb., a Vietnam veteran and winner of the Medal of Honor.

Dole, R-Kan., said Wednesday that Helms' comments about the president should not keep him from becoming chairman. He told CNN that Helms had assured him such comments "wouldn't happen again."

there and dance, it's pretty touching." Sophie Estrada, 68, has attended the dinner for four years.

"I like the companionship, I like the music and I like the food," Ms. Estrada said.

"They treat us like we're somebody, and that's mostly what we need. Most of us live by ourselves, and we don't have anyone to be nice to us. They're nice to us here," she said.

In Waco, thousands of Texas and Baylor fans gathered for a 10 a.m. Southwest Conference football match. Though the game was close in the first half, Texas stomped Baylor and its Cotton Bowl hopes 63-35.

In West Texas, Big Bend National Park bustled with non-traditional Thanksgiving celebrators.

Park officials say Thanksgiving is generally their busiest weekend with visitors and campers who pass up their turkey dinners for trail mix and hiking or rafting in some of the state's most rugged country.

The reason is the weather—temperatures in the park, a portion of the Chihuahuan Desert, are the

Christmas shopping season bonanza for bargain seekers

By JOYCE M. ROSENBERG, AP Business Writer

The 1994 Christmas shopping season promises to be a bonanza for bargain seekers. Stores are stocked with good deals, including marked-down clothes that shoppers ignored during a warm autumn.

Some stores, such as Kmart and the Eastern electronics chain Nobody Beats The Wiz, opened on Thanksgiving. But most other stores were opening today—many several hours earlier than usual—for the traditional start of the shopping season.

The consensus among retail industry analysts and consultants is that consumers will spend 5.5 to 6.5 percent more on Christmas than they did a year ago. The top-selling gifts this season are expected to be items for the home, such as electronics, big-screen TVs and tabletop items such as glassware.

For children, of course, it's toys, and Mighty Morphin Power Rangers are expected to be the best seller in that category.

Cancer-stricken mom appeals for CSF help

"I don't have enough money to buy clothes for the kids, or to pay for food and utilities. That is why I am asking for help."

That plaintive appeal came to the Christmas Stocking Fund from a 31-year-old mother of three children, ages 14, 9 and 4, the mother suffers from cancer. She is no longer able to work due to her health problems, and she is concerned about the kind of Christmas her children will have this year.

Generous donations from local residents allow the Christmas Stocking Fund to help people like this family who face real needs during the holiday season.

CSF is administered by an anonymous committee of volunteers from across the community who screen applications and make decisions on assistance to be delivered.

CSF assistance can come in the form of food baskets, or vouchers for clothing, medicine, personal items, utilities or medical needs.

A spokesman for the CSF committee reported that because the charity is operating against an early deadline again this year, local residents who wish to share with the less fortunate this holiday season should make their donations as soon as possible. "Most of our visitors during Thanksgiving are family groups from Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Austin and San Antonio," said Dennis A. Vasquez, a park spokesman.

Others stories of Thanksgiving in Texas were as varied as those who told them.

Minh Nguyen celebrated Thanksgiving with his family for the first time in six years. He and his son fled Vietnam in January 1988. But his wife, two daughters and other son didn't arrive until this year.

"Wednesday, July 27, at 9:30 p.m.," Nguyen said, the day, date and time etched in his memory. He even remembers the airline, the flight number, where the plane was coming from and the gate number.

"Now that we are all in America, we learn American culture and ways," Nguyen said. "We used to not have Thanksgiving, but now I have something to be thankful for. We all like it here very much."

Vivian O'Guinn, a 23-year elementary schoolteacher and mother of seven lost almost everything to the October floods that killed 20 people in the Houston area last month.

The catastrophe, she said, made her realize what's important.

"How could I put this?" Riley mused. "This has made us all a little more humble. After we lost all the material things, all we could do is feel blessed we're all alive."

Christmas shopping season bonanza for bargain seekers

Retailers are trying to outdo one another with the best prices on all kinds of merchandise. But shoppers may find the best deals on women's clothes, which are discounted because of the warm weather that has lingered in many areas and left retailers with much of their winter inventory.

While this is traditionally the busiest weekend of the retail year, most consumers are again expected to wait until the 10 days before Christmas to go shopping.

This is partly because working parents have less time to shop and often procrastinate. It also is a result of the cat-and-mouse game between shoppers and retailers, with customers holding out until storeowners give in and cut prices.

Catalog customers have already been on the phone placing their orders, but their peak shopping period won't come until early December. With more mail order companies using overnight couriers, it's no longer necessary to do catalog shopping so early.

Donations to the CSF may be mailed to CSF, in care of The Hereford Brand, Box 673, or they can be made in person at the Brand office, 313 N. Lee.

Huddleston is justifiably proud of amenities like his middle school's planetarium, which attracts visiting classes from across West Texas and New Mexico. He contended that Andrews spent its tax levy conservatively during oil's heyday at $38 a barrel.

"This is a blue-collar town. We're not rich snobs out here," Huddleston said, expressing sympathy for property-poor areas. "We want those folks to get adequate funding, but don't destroy our school in the effort."

Similar sentiments reverberate throughout the Permian Basin from officials who consider share-the-wealth an unfair burden on oil towns.

"When is Austin going to share their natural resources with us--trees and water?" asked Neill from arid McCamey. "Why aren't they taxing that and sending us the money?"

Clinton, family spend day at Camp David

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP)--President Clinton gathered with family and friends for a quiet Thanksgiving, after calling the holiday both "an opportunity and responsibility" to give thanks and do good.

The president, first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, their daughter, Chelsea, and the first lady's mother, Dorothy Rodham, left for the presidential retreat in the snowy Catoctin Mountains on Wednesday night. It was a day packed with holiday events.

In keeping with a Thanksgiving tradition, Clinton pardoned a 50-pound turkey, sparing the frisky bird from the dinner plate. He then joined his wife in serving turkey meals at a Washington, D.C., soup kitchen.

The Clintons, who planned to spend a four-day weekend at Camp David, were having a traditional turkey dinner today, and the first lady will supervise the preparation, said her spokesman, Neel Lattimore.

"This year, I'm taking my mothers' recipes and Virginia's recipes and making the best of both," Mrs. Clinton told The Associated Press Virginia in the late-Virginia Kelley, the president's mother.

A menu released by Mrs. Clinton's office listed: turkey and dressing with bread stuffing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, cranberry mold, a relish tray, fruit salad, cranberry bread, pecan pie and pumpkin pie.

Mrs. Clinton said she would be joined by at least one of her two brothers and some friends.

On Thanksgiving eve, the Clintons wore bright green aprons as they helped dish out a midday dinner to nearly 150 homeless people at "So Others Might Eat" in a Washington neighborhood about a mile from the Capitol.

Clinton put heaping portions of cranberry sauce on the plates; Mrs. Clinton added rolls. They both helped in passing out the meals, then moved from table to table chatting with those who were eating.

Earlier, the president presided over what has been an annual tradition at the White House since 1947--a ceremony for a turkey not destined for the chopping block.

Clinton told elementary school students at the event that Thanksgiving was "an opportunity and a responsibility for all of us to give thanks for our many blessings in this life, to appreciate the good things we have in this country, and to think about those who still live among our ranks who don't have the things that many of us take for granted."

Last five days of hog farmer's sentence commuted by Clinton

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)--Ernest Krikava couldn't figure out what all the fuss was about.

The 70-year-old hog farmer, serving time for lying about sales to sidestep bankruptcy claims on his farm, had resigned himself to getting out of prison four days after Thanksgiving. Now guards were hustling him out of the minimum-security wing at the federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan.

He was going home in time for turkey dinner with his family--President Clinton had commuted the last five days of his five-month sentence.

"They said to pack up, so I did," Krikava said by telephone from Pawnee City Wednesday night. "I said, 'Where are you taking me?' and they said, 'Home.' That was the first I heard of it and I'll tell you, I was relieved."

Krikava was convicted of perjury for lying about selling $35,000 worth of hogs after a bank forced his farm into bankruptcy. He said the bank had cut off virtually all his cash and he needed money to feed his family and animals.

On Wednesday, Clinton commuted Krikava's sentence to time served, removed five additional months of home confinement and reduced his probation by five months to 31 months.

"The president's grant of executive clemency will allow Mr. Krikava to return home to his family for the Thanksgiving holiday," a White House statement said.

"Why the president waited until the last minute is what I can't figure out," said Krikava, who plans to enjoy Thanksgiving dinner at his sister-in-law's home north of Pawnee City.

"I guess they were getting a lot of publicity about the case. He's a good man, though."

Krikava lost his 1,000-acre hog farm near Pawnee City in southeast Nebraska after the Community National Bank in Seneca, Kan., began pressuring them to repay about $240,000 in loans in late 1991, forcing them to declare bankruptcy.

Krikava's wife, Carol, and son, Kevin, pleaded guilty to perjury for

Disturbances swirl around former site of Branch Davidians

WACO, Texas (AP)--The arrests of three people on the site of the Branch Davidian compound reportedly climaxed a stormy week of disturbances arising from a fight over rights to the Mount Carmel property.

The Wednesday incident, in which Amo Bishop Roden allegedly fired a gunshot over the heads of three men, marked the fourth consecutive day that a disturbance at the site was reported to McLennan County sheriff's deputies, the Waco Tribune-Herald reported in its Thursday editions.

Each call involved Ms. Roden, former wife of former Branch Davidian leader George Roden, deputies told the Tribune-Herald.

Ms. Roden, 51, lives in a small shack at the site of a 51-day standoff between the cult and authorities last year.

The standoff ended with a April 19, 1993, fire that destroyed the city-block-sized compound home and led to the deaths of roughly 80 people, including sect leader David Koresh.

Ms. Roden, whose former husband was a Koresh rival, was arrested Wednesday and charged with felony deadly conduct. She was released on $3,000 bond Thursday.

Charged with weapons violations were Wally Kennett, 31, and Ron Cole, 25. Cole was released on $3,000 bond; Kennett was released on $2,000 bond.

Details of the previous incidents were not available Wednesday night. However, authorities said Kennett and Cole were helping another man try to have Ms. Roden remove some of her belongings from a shed near hers Wednesday.

Ms. Roden, whose shack is located away from the stage, resisted their request and fired one shot into the air, McLennan County Sheriff Jack Harwell said.

Kennett is a former cult member who left the compound before a Feb. 28, 1993, shootout at the compound began the 51-day siege. Cole is a Branch Davidian sympathizer who has written a book, "Sinister Twilight," about the raid, siege and inferno at Mount Carmel.

Earlier this year, Kennett and Cole offered a rented cabin in Baldwin, Colo., as a haven for displaced sect members. Several members of the cult were left homeless by the April 1993 Mount Carmel fire.

Andrew Hood, a self-described "prophet" who was not charged Wednesday, told sheriff's deputies that Kennett, Cole and a locksmith had accompanied him to the site at his request. He said he wanted Ms. Roden to remove her belongings from the shed and adjoining stage he had built.

Hood said he owns the structures, and produced papers attesting to his authority to build the structures on the property for religious purposes. The papers were signed by Ms. Roden and several surviving Branch Davidians, authorities said.

Officers said they found three pistols in a vehicle that Cole and Kennett had driven to Mount Carmel.

Mrs. Roden has filed handwritten lawsuits contending that she has rights to the property because it originally belonged to her former mother-in-law, Lois Roden, whose will named Koresh as trustee.

"This will be an ongoing thing until something is settled about the property rights, and I don't see that happening anytime in the near future," Harwell said Wednesday. "Hopefully, we won't have someone hurt."

A power struggle between George Roden and Koresh led to a 1987 gun battle at the compound that resulted in attempted murder charges against Koresh and seven others. The seven were acquitted, and a mistrial was declared in Koresh's case. Charges against him later were dismissed.

George Roden, who was found innocent by reason of insanity in a murder in West Texas in 1989, is confined to a state mental hospital in Vernon.

Legion brings drive to close

American Legion Post 192 of Hereford will wind up its membership drive Dec. 9, according to R.N. Lohr, adjutant.

The Post has a goal of 120 members for 1995, and 101 memberships have been received so far, reported Lohr. "District 18 Commander Jo Mingus has asked us to complete the drive by Dec. 9, and we are confident of reaching the goal," he added.

Cowboys roll even with Garrett at QB

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - As much as Dallas Cowboys quarterback Jason Garrett might have proved that fairy tales can come true in the NFL, he's made an better case for the argument that great systems win football games.

Garrett, a third-stringer last week, was plugged in as emergency starter Thursday and responded with a Troy Aikman-like game, carrying Dallas from a 14-point deficit to a runaway 42-31 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

"Coach (Barry) Switzer said he believes in fairy tales," Cowboys offensive lineman Nate Newton said. "I guess Jason has a fairy god-daddy."

Garrett led Dallas (10-2) on six scoring drives in a row, including five straight touchdowns to open the second half, while completing 15-of-25 passes for 311 yards and two scores.

He forced the Packers to give up a season-high 436 yards and led Dallas to a franchise-record 36 second-half points.

"I think it says a lot about the type of team we are," Cowboys receiver Michael Irvin said.

Emmitt Smith was a huge help, too, catching six passes for 95 yards and rushing 32 times for 133 yards and two scores. He's the first person this season to run for more than 100 yards against the Packers.

"That's why they're world champions," Packers coach Mike Holmgren said. "(Garrett) was surrounded by great athletes, but he made the throws he had to make. It helps to be able to hand the ball to Emmitt Smith."

Green Bay had the benefit of four touchdown passes from Brett Favre to Sterling Sharpe and the somewhat surprising return of defensive end Reggie White, who badly hurt his left elbow last Sunday and wasn't expected to play.

But even with the first two Sharpe scores helping the Packers to a 17-3 halftime lead and White being his usual intimidating self, Green Bay couldn't stop Garrett and the Cowboys.

"We just didn't make the plays, and they ended up making the plays," White said.

Garrett got the chance to make his second career start because, last Sunday, Aikman strained his left knee and second-stringer Rodney Peete bruised his right thumb.

He wound up joining Steve Beuerlein, Bernie Kosar and Peete as quarterbacks who have replaced Aikman and led Dallas to victories in the past three seasons.

All three have been starters elsewhere in the NFL, but none have won championships outside Dallas — further proof that the Cowboys have built one of the NFL's best offensive schemes.

Garrett was the most vehement about that, downplaying his performance and thrusting aside the hero label everyone wanted to give him.

"There's a lot of firepower on this team and I was one-11th of it," said Garrett, a Princeton graduate who played in the Canadian and World leagues before latching on with Dallas.

"I was just trying to play within the system and let these guys make the big plays. A lot of guys made my whole task a lot easier."

His biggest plays were probably a 21-yard toss to Irvin and a 38-yarder to Alvin Harper that set up

The seventh grade A team lost 57-33, despite James Miller's 10 points and Steven Northern's nine. The eighth B team fell 52-25, although Jeremy Lopez scored six and Brent Bullard scored 5.

Borger, Randall have tough jobs in next games

This week could be the end of the line for District 1-4A's football teams, as the Harris Rating System predicts that both Randall and Borger will lose in the regional semi-finals.

Borger (9-2) has the toughest challenge, as the Bulldogs play defending state 4A champion Stephenville (12-0) tonight in Wichita Falls. Harris rates Stephenville as a 29-point favorite.

District 1-4A champ Randall (10-0-1) may have a chance, though, since Randall is only a seven-point underdog to Sherman (10-1). They meet at 3 p.m. Saturday in Wichita Falls.

One playoff game from this region was played Thursday, as Sudan stung Kress 45-14 in Lubbock.

Longhorns blast Bears, 63-35

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WACO, Texas (AP) - Third-year Texas coach John Mackovic may finally have begun to quiet his critics.

The Longhorns ended a season of injuries, player suspensions and head-scratching losses with their best game of the year, a 63-35 victory against Baylor on Thursday.

Texas' 582 yards against the Bears was the most offense the Longhorns had mustered under Mackovic, who resumed calling the plays on offense after losses to Rice, Texas Tech and Texas A&M.

Those losses and player suspensions in three games due to off-field violations had Longhorns faithful calling for his job.

But Mackovic, who in November acknowledged suffering month-long delusional side effects from an October sideline collision, may have quieted the furor now that his team is headed to the Sun Bowl in El Paso on Dec. 30. School administrators have said his job is not in jeopardy.

"We now have an experienced, good young team that has faced a lot of adversity and has had to fight all year long," Mackovic said. "This team is stronger today than it was a month ago."

Redshirt freshman quarterback James Brown led Texas, throwing for a school-record five touchdowns, including two to Eric Jackson.

"This is the kind of win that shows we deserve to go to a bowl game," linebacker Norman Watkins said. "It shows how strong we are, to go through all of the controversies this season and finish the year with our best game. I couldn't ask for anything else."

Texas (7-4, 4-3 Southwest Conference) is headed to its first postseason game in four years.

Baylor (7-4, 4-3), which had Cotton Bowl hopes heading into the game, is likely going to the Dec. 31 Alamo Bowl in San Antonio. The Longhorns' victory also means that Texas Tech will be the SWC representative in the Cotton Bowl.

Brown was 18-of-25 for 289 yards without an interception and also ran seven times for 51 yards. He led a frenzied offense that scored five touchdowns on plays of 28 yards or more.

"We tried everything we could to stop them," Baylor coach Chuck Reedy said. "Brown is a great quarterback. It seemed like we had his primary receiver covered a bunch of the time, but he kept finding people open."

Brown threw touchdown passes of 37 and 16 yards to Jackson, 45 yards to Lovell Pinkney, 28 yards to Pat Fitzgerald and 1 yard to Chad Lucas. Brown broke the school record, shared by four players, of four touchdown passes in a game.

"Our attitude was that we wanted to go to a bowl game and win this one for our seniors," Brown said.

Baylor, which led 14-7 and 21-14 in the first half, was led by Jerod Douglas, who carried 20 times for a school-record 210 yards, including touchdown runs of 6 and 51 yards. Douglas broke Baylor's single-game rushing mark of 207 yards set by Walter Abercrombie against Texas A&M in 1978.

The Bears had 474 yards of offense, but three turnovers led to Texas touchdowns.

"I thought it would take 40 points to win the game, and that wouldn't have even come close," Reedy said.

After a seesaw first half, the Longhorns took the lead for good late in the second quarter after an linebacker Kyle Richardson's interception put the ball on the Baylor 45.

On the next play, Brown faked an out pattern to Pinkney, freezing a Baylor defender and allowing Pinkney to turn upfield for an easy TD reception. That gave the Longhorns a 28-21 halftime lead that they expanded to 56-21 in the fourth quarter.

Pinkney's score gave him—15 career TD catches, breaking the school record of 14 set by Johnny "Lam" Jones in 1976-79.

"There was so much scoring in the first quarter, I didn't know when this game would finish," Mackovic said.

Texas' Darrell Wilson, who carried 17 times for 87 yards, had two 1-yard TD runs. Rod Walker, who carried 12 times for 93 yards, scored on a 42-yard run. Priest Holmes added a 33-yard scoring run for the Longhorns.

Baylor's Kalief Muhammad had a 4-yard touchdown run and caught a 28-yard pass from Jeff Watson for another score. Clifton Rubin added a 1-yard TD run for the Bears.

Texas scored the most points since defeating Virginia 68-0 in 1977. The game's 98-point total was the highest in the 84-game Texas-Baylor series since the Longhorns beat the Bears 77-0 in 1913.

Volleyball champs

Krieg passes Lions to victory over Bills

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - Maybe next time Buffalo will listen to Jim Kelly. He tried to warn the Bills that the Detroit Lions weren't a one-man team.

The Bills, hoping Kelly would breathe new life into their sagging playoff hopes, focused their defense on stopping Barry Sanders. That part worked fine: the NFL's leading rusher gained only 45 yards on 19 carries.

But the attention to Sanders left Dave Krieg virtually untouched. As a result, Krieg had the kind of game Kelly was supposed to have in the Lions' 35-21 victory Thursday.

Krieg completed 20-of-25 passes for 351 yards and three touchdowns.

"Dave Krieg had the game of his life today," Kelly said. "I kept telling people all week that we couldn't just worry about Barry Sanders and ignore Dave Krieg, but I don't think anyone listened to me."

The loss left the Bills (6-6) at .500 deeper into the season than at any time since 1987, the last time they failed to qualify for the playoffs.

It is a situation the Bills clearly aren't used to. Usually at this point in the season, the Bills, who have played in the past four Super Bowl games, are concerned mainly with wrapping up home-field advantage for the playoffs.

Buffalo might still qualify for the AFC playoffs as a wild card, but the Bills' chances of catching the Miami Dolphins and winning the AFC East now seem remote.

"This hurts a lot," Kelly said. "I'm blaming myself, because I'm the one who is supposed to be the one who can take this team down the field, and I didn't do it."

Detroit's defense wouldn't allow it.

Krieg completed 29-of-35 for 273 yards, including touchdown tosses to Russell Copeland and Pete Metzelaars. He scored the Bills' other TD himself on a 15-yard scamper. But three sacks and two Willie Clay interceptions, one of them returned for a touchdown, were Kelly's undoing.

"You can't win championships when you do things like that," Kelly said. "Right now, it's tough to think what went wrong."

The victory allowed the Lions (6-6) to keep their flickering NFC playoff hopes alive.

COWBOYS

Chris Boniol's 37-yard field goal and cut Green Bay's lead to 17-6 as the second quarter ended.

Before that series, Garrett was 6-of-13 for 54 yards and an interception that led to the Packers' first touchdown.

The second half seemed easy for Dallas as its defense stuffed Green Bay's running game. The Packers' passing attack slowed, too, and their defense began to be exploited.

The result is a 6-6 record that leaves the Packers hoping for some help in its quest to win the NFC Central. They began the day a game behind Minnesota and Chicago.

As for the Cowboys, they have 10 days off before facing the Eagles in Philadelphia. At least one of the top two quarterbacks should be healthy by then, meaning Garrett will be back to holding a clipboard.

"I'll be on the scout team Monday," he said, "and I have no problem with it."

Pacers outpace Warriors

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Rik Smits scored 28 points on 12-of-14 shooting and the Indiana Pacers held Golden State to 28 points in the second half of a 123-96 victory Thursday night.

It was the only game played in the NBA Thursday.

Dale Davis added 19 points for Indiana, while Antonio Davis grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the Pacers to a 48-31 advantage in that category.

Reggie Miller scored only 10 points, all in the third quarter, but he teamed with Byron Scott to hold Golden State's Latrell Sprewell to 11 points.

Indiana shot 64 percent from the floor, while Golden State shot just 42 percent.

The first half ended with Indiana ahead 55-54. Smits hit seven of eight shots and had 18 first-half points.

The Pacers pulled away late in the third period and led 83-68 entering the final 12 minutes. A dunk by Smits stretched the lead to 91-70 early in the fourth quarter.

Coffee, Tea, Soup—
Hot Liquid Can Burn.

Even the most careful adult caring for a child can inadvertently spill or drop a cup of coffee or soup. Or it can be pulled from the table or stove by an active child. Constant attention is the best prevention.

- Cool water is the best first aid response.
- Never use butter, grease, ointment, or sprays.
- Check bath water temperature—for the elderly as well as children.
- Turn pot handles away from the front of the stove.

Remember, anything hot can burn a child.

Kiwanians hold joint meeting

A combined meeting of three Kiwanis Clubs was held Wednesday morning at King's Manor, with club sweethearts and Key Club and Kiwanette presidents also attending. The group included, left to right: Beth Weatherly, Kiwanette president; Don Summersgill, Whiteface president; Mindy Salazar, Kiwanette lieutenant-governor; Sara Wagner, Kiwanette governor; Jessie Moses, district lieutenant governor; Dave Kimmel, Noon Club president; Keith Flood, Key Club president; and Shirley Garrison, Golden K president.

DEAR FRIENDS: Our family has been torn apart because of gossip, and I am devastated. So many people in the world need to see this piece again. Will you please do a repeat?—Sad in Savannah

DEAR SAVANNAH: Here it is. I hope it helps.

Remember Me?
My name is Gossip. I have no respect for Justice.

I maim without killing. I break hearts and ruin lives.

I am cunning and malicious and gather strength with age.

The more I am quoted, the more I am believed.

I flourish at every level of society. My victims are helpless. They cannot protect themselves against me because I have no name and no face.

To track me down is impossible. The harder you try, the more elusive

I become.
I am nobody's friend.
Once I tarnish a reputation, it is never quite the same.
My name is Gossip.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are both in our 30s and have just moved to California. We consider ourselves to be a decent, caring and honest couple who love to go places and have fun. Yet we don't seem to have any friends. Maybe we're doing something wrong.

We can't count the number of times we've encountered people who, at first, seem enthusiastic about starting a friendship, they say, "Let's get together. We'll give you a call." But they never do.

It happened again recently. A woman I had seen at several functions confided that she had no friends. I told her I was in the same boat. We agreed to get together and exchanged phone numbers.

I decided to take the initiative and call her first. We made plans and settled on a date and time. She said she would call me and confirm the night before. The call never came. I phoned her again and left a message on her answering machine. She did not respond to my message.

What is going on? Are Californians too busy to make friends, or are they just plain rude? Is anyone else having this same problem?—Baffled

DEAR BAFFLED: It takes time to make friends in new surroundings. Please don't judge all Californians by that one strange lady. Maybe she became ill. Perhaps she has an emotional problem and is fearful of making new friends. Some people who come across as gregarious are really loners.

Call her one more time. If there is no follow-through, cast your friendship net elsewhere, and don't take her rejection personally.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I attended a wedding last week and was surprised to see three women attired completely in white.

I was raised to believe that it is inappropriate for a guest to wear white at a wedding. I'm sure a lot of brides would be happy to see this letter in print.—Klamath Falls, Ore.

DEAR KLAM: The notion that it is inappropriate for women guests to wear white at a wedding went the way of the hula hoop.

Another change that you may not have caught up with—bridesmaids are now wearing black and/or white gowns, which makes for a rather spectacular procession.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (This includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

NEW YORK (AP) - Lonette McKee says she's drawing on her own life to play the tragic character Julie in the Broadway musical "Show Boat."

The 39-year-old actress, whose father was black and mother was white, said she can relate to the role: a mixed-race singer whose attempts to pass for white lead to tragedy.

In the latest issue of People magazine, McKee said that during her 20-year career, some Hollywood producers told her she was "too exotic," while others found her "not black enough."

Things are better now, McKee is fielding offers from movie producers and working on a novel, which she describes as "kind of the story of my life."

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For most women, menopause seldom occurs abruptly. So what happens if a woman has a complete hysterectomy at age 35? Does she immediately go into the hot flashes and other symptoms, plus have the osteoporosis problem? Should she be on estrogen?—A.C.

ANSWER: By "complete hysterectomy," you mean removal of both the uterus and ovaries at once, right?

Whenever ovaries are removed prior to natural menopause, the main source of estrogen is removed prematurely. The woman in that circumstance would need estrogen to avoid sudden onset of symptoms and the negatives you mention.

I'm glad you reminded readers again of osteoporosis as one of the negatives. The woman needs estrogen replacement for that if for no other purpose. And she needs it at least until about age 51, when most women have gone into the natural hormone decline of menopause. Many doctors have their patients take estrogen beyond that time, especially if there is a family history of osteoporosis.

Many ask about progesterone. That hormone is added to protect the intact uterus, after the ovaries are removed. But with the uterus removed, you don't have to take the progesterone, just the estrogen.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Here is a question that came up in our group. It may sound frivolous, but it isn't really. If you drink ice water, will it make losing weight any easier? Someone here says it works for her.—K.O.

ANSWER: I recently received nearly identical letters on this same odd question.

Drinking any water fills your stomach. It is a way of giving the sensation of satiety without calories. I don't know what, if any, advantage there would be in iced water over plain tap water.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible.

U.N. officials seek Bosnia cease fire

Serbian forces ignore warnings and NATO air strikes

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP)—U.N. officials scrambled today to arrange a cease-fire across Bosnia after rebel Serb forces ignored warnings of more NATO airstrikes and pushed to the outskirts of the U.N. "safe area" of Bihac.

NATO Secretary-General Willy Claes said today would be "crucial" for the northwest Bosnian town, but that he hoped a cease-fire for the area could be negotiated.

"The Bosnian Serb army is poised to enter the town," said U.N. spokeswoman Claire Grimes in Zagreb, Croatia. "There are hundreds of refugees streaming into the center of Bihac."

A Bihac ham radio operator, Mirza Sadikovic, reported this morning that "the town is in flames," civilians were fleeing the fighting and that medicines and food were running short for 2,000 patients in Bihac hospital.

The Bosnian Serb forces are so close to Bihac, however, that it would be extremely hard for NATO to bomb them without causing civilian casualties. In addition, some 1,200 Bangladeshi peacekeepers are stationed in the "safe area" to protect the mostly Muslim population.

A U.N. source in Zagreb said senior civilian officials from the Serb and Muslim-led government sides would meet today at Sarajevo airport to try and agree on a cease-fire for Bihac and across Bosnia.

The Serbs would prefer a country-wide cease-fire, believing it would help freeze their control over the 70 percent of Bosnia they hold. They are suspicious of local cease-fires, because they believe those truces only help government forces regroup for future strikes.

"All diplomatic efforts have been put forth to get the Bosnia-wide cease-fire," said the source, insisting on anonymity.

The announcement came after Serb forces rolled into the 32-square-mile, U.N.-designated "safe area" of Bihac, 90 miles from Sarajevo, which Bosnian leaders say now shelters 70,000 civilians and government troops.

Sarajevo radio said today the Serbs shelled throughout the night and there was hand-to-hand fighting on the outskirts of town.

Gen. Mustafa Hajrulahovic-Taljan of the government army said the Serbs renewed artillery attacks on Bihac this morning.

"There are a lot of dead there, and this is the last time for NATO and the U.N. to act," said Bosnian Prime Minister Haris Silajdzic.

Lt. Gen. Sir Michael Rose, U.N. commander in Bosnia, warned late Thursday that Bihac could fall and the Serbs could face "dire consequences" if they pushed into the town.

Rose said the Serbs had refused to accept a cease-fire around the city and turned down his appeal to remove their troops.

"I've made certain recommendations to (U.N.) authorities," Rose said. "This is a very grave development, which we have to act upon."

But NATO ambassadors ended an emergency meeting Thursday in Brussels, Belgium, without specific plans to stop the Serb assault, though they issued new threats to bomb Bosnian Serb positions.

In a televised statement Thursday,

Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic said his troops had entered parts of Bihac.

"Bihac will become a safe zone when Serbs enter it, disarm the (Bosnian government army's) 5th Corps and provide normal life to the Muslim civilians," Karadzic said.

U.N. officials maintain that increased force would endanger the lives of the 25,000 U.N. personnel in Bosnia. Bosnian Serbs are currently holding nearly 300 U.N. troops virtual hostages at garrisons and police stations in Serb-held territory after refusing them permission to leave after this week's NATO airstrikes.

Bosnia's war erupted in April 1992 when Bosnian Serbs rebelled against a vote by Muslims and Croats to declare independence from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. At least 200,000 people are dead or missing.

Three die at broadcast of MTV Europe awards

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—When flames and smoke ripped through a concert hall packed with young people watching a live broadcast of MTV Europe's first music awards, many thought it was part of the extravaganza.

The hundreds of music fans soon realized, however, that the blaze was no special effect and rushed for the only exit. Two people died and more than 300 were hurt in the fire and stampede Thursday night, police said.

"The most probable cause is arson," said provincial police spokesman Wojciech Deptula. Witnesses said some youngsters spilled a highly flammable liquid in the hall, the spokesman said.

One report said the blaze in the Baltic port city of Gdansk may have been triggered by a firebomb. The fire burned for three hours before it was brought under control around midnight.

"It looked terrible, there was a lot of smoke and people were trying to get out of the hall," a witness, Tomasz Nowakowski, told Warsaw's Radio Zet. "People were panicked and many were injured."

Between 600 and 1,000 people were in the hall, according to various sources.

According to Deptula, there was only one narrow exit. Other doors were locked and windows had iron bars, making it impossible to evacuate people quickly and causing the stampede.

A 13-year-old girl was killed in the stampede, he said. The second victim, whose charred body was found among the rubble by the firefighters, could not be immediately identified.

The provincial governor's office said 201 people remained hospitalized this morning, including 16 in serious condition. More than 120 others were treated and released, it said.

The fire started in the audience section and quickly spread through the wooden benches, police said. It also advanced to the wooden roof, which partially collapsed.

Deptula said fire extinguishers at the hall did not work and security officers could not put out the fire immediately.

Local Radio Plus, which organized the event, reported that the fire was apparently caused by a Molotov cocktail tossed into the hall, the PAP news agency said. There was no explanation of who might have thrown it.

A security officer told Radio Zet that there was an explosion and the fire spread very quickly, as if some highly flammable substance was burning.

Witnesses said that many of the fans at first believed the fire was a special effect for a concert held in conjunction with the broadcast of the MTV Europe awards ceremony from Berlin.

The confusion delayed evacuation from the hall, a medical official requesting anonymity said.

The concert hall is in the Gdansk shipyard, where the Solidarity free trade union movement was born in 1980.

Arafat loyalists claim dissidents dislodged

SIDON, Lebanon (AP)—Yasser Arafat's loyalists dislodged dissidents from most of Lebanon's largest Palestinian refugee camp in running street battles today that police said left 10 combatants dead and 12 wounded.

Staccato bursts of machine-gun fire and grenade blasts echoed from the teeming shantytown of Ein el-Hilweh on the outskirts of this port city in south Lebanon before dawn and continued all morning.

The Lebanese army blocked all entrances to the camp, allowing only the casualties to be taken out. But soldiers made no move to enter the camp—home to some 60,000 Palestinians—to stop the fighting.

Police statements described the hostilities as the worst in the camps since Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization concluded the limited self-rule accord with Israel on Sept. 13, 1993.

The camps were long Arafat's main power base until the Israeli army invaded in 1982 and routed his forces. His guerrillas managed to slip back in the mid-1980s but they never regained their prior strength.

The fighting pitted Arafat's mainstream Fatah faction, headed by its military intelligence chief Lt. Col. Kemal Medhat, and dissidents led by former Fatah militia commander Lt. Col. Munir Makdah, who formed his own group to protest the peace accord.

Fundamentalists of Islamic Jihad and Hamas, who oppose Arafat's peacemaking with Israel, supported the Makdah forces.

Police and Lebanese military sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said an estimated 500 Arafat loyalists moved house by house through some parts of the camp, looking for Makdah supporters. More than 40 were captured and another 100 trapped in the northern tip of the camp, the sources said.

Mediators were trying to arrange a cease-fire to prevent a final bloodbath while Makdah appealed to radical guerrilla factions backed by Syria to rush to his rescue, according to police.

Arafat's loyalists also recaptured four areas of the camp that had been seized by Makdah's militiamen last year, the sources said.

They said Arafat's loyalists brought in reinforcements from refugee camps straddling the southernmost Lebanese port of Tyre a few hours before launching their attack.

Thousands of residents in Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, were shaken out of bed by the gunfire and scurried to basements, thinking Israel had landed troops to mop up radical guerrillas in the camp.

Sidon police later issued assurances that the fighting was raging only in the streets and dusty alleyways of Ein el-Hilweh.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's all over - including the shouting - between Tom Arnold and Roseanne.

Arnold said Monday he will marry his girlfriend, 21-year-old Detroit college student Julie Champnella, next summer. His divorce from Roseanne will be final this week.

Last week, Roseanne said she would marry her bodyguard Ben Thomas.

Arnold, 35, and Champnella plan a July 22 wedding in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., said the actor's spokeswoman, Michelle Bega.

The bride-to-be will transfer from a Michigan college to the University of California at Los Angeles, Bega said.

"I feel very blessed that Julie has come into my life," Arnold said.

The YMCA is a great place to go for any kid.

For some kids, it's the only great place to go.

The truth is, because of family problems or low incomes, a lot of kids can't afford the opportunities to go places and be with adults who can give them the caring attention they need.

That's why the YMCA is so important. We give kids the positive experiences they need to grow up prepared for happy and productive lives. But we always run out of money before we run out of kids.

Support the place that supports kids and families. THE YMCA
