Commission reviews goals

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Accomplishments of the last year and a half with an eye toward reaching goals not yet met were reviewed by the Hereford City Commission Monday evening.

During a work session preceding the regular commission meeting, Mayor Bob Josseland suggested that community input on future objectives be sought early in 1995.

The commission spent less than 10 minutes in regular meeting, dispensing with a posted executive session and going directly to the only business item on the agenda -- appointment of a citizen to the planning and zoning commission.

On motion of Commissioner Wayne Winget and second by Commissioner Roger Eades, the commission approved unanimously the appointment of David McDonald, Hereford businessman, to the post.

Taking part in the abbreviated meeting were Josseland, Winget, Eades, Carey Black and Silvana Juarez. Commissioner Nancy Griego participated in the work session but left to fulfill a family responsibility before the regular meeting began. Commissioner Dennis Hicks was absent because of illness of a daughter.

Looking at short term goals to be reached in three years, the commission discussed water, solid waste, swimming pool, public relations and infrastructure.

Water supply and distribution projects have been implemented with funds from a revenue bond sale. The report from City Manager Chester Nolen showed an increase of a million gallons of water per day for the city as well as construction of a million-gallon storage facility.

Nolen noted, however, that the search for additional water supplies has not ended. "The Coneways have some ideas about well sites," he said. Paul Coneway and Steve Coneway have been retained by the city as water consultants.

Commissioners talked about the future of solid waste disposal for the City of Hereford, observing that the system being used now may not be appropriate for the future. The possibility of building a transfer station for hauling trash to Amarillo was not overlooked.

Providing new swimming pool facilities for Hereford residents was an objective that the city will see reached next year.

Nolen reported that construction of the new aquatic center is moving ahead with about 45 percent of the work completed.

Public relations between the city and the community have improved in the last year, commissioners decided, as they also discussed the city's cooperation with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Eades and Black wondered aloud how the city can encourage chamber participation in projects initiated by the city. Mentioned specifically was the parks planning project undertaken in the summer and fall by the city.

Eades observed that motel tax revenue administered by the chamber is available for projects in Hereford.

Services provided by the city through water lines, sewer disposal and streets will be addressed in greater depth early in 1995, the commission decided.

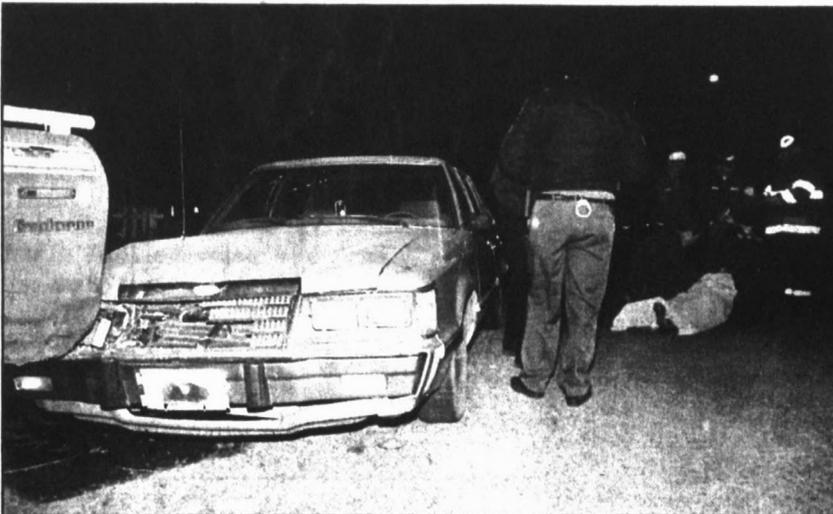

"We're moving toward reaching infrastructure goals but we need to get specific with a timetable," declared Josseland.

Nolen pointed out in his report that some street work -- repairs on four intersections on E. 15th St., in particular -- have been undertaken.

"We've had very favorable reaction to the street repairs," said Nolen.

Other accomplishments during the last year include:

- Rehabilitation of equipment at the wastewater treatment plant.
- Groundwork laid for a park and recreation district.
- Construction of vandal-proof restroom at park at 14th and Avenue H.
- Repairs made to city tennis courts.
- Fencing planned for the east side of Veteran's Park to discourage vandalism.
- A plan to reduce solid waste drew cooperation of citizens who placed limbs, grass, leaves and brush in alleys for collection.
- Bleachers installed at 14th and H park.
- New sewer line extended on west side of U.S. 385.
- Sand volleyball courts placed in Dameron Park.

Accident investigation

Four out-of-town residents suffered minor injuries Monday night when their car struck a parked vehicle in the 100 block of Avenue J. According to reports, Donna Rennea McDonald, 28, of Farwell, was driving a 1983 Ford LTD south on Avenue J at about 10:51 p.m. when she dropped her beverage. While trying to retrieve the drink, the car swerved to the right and struck a 1975 Ford pickup parked along the street. The truck was unoccupied. McDonald and three passengers, Perry Walker, 31, of Amarillo, and Michelle McDonald, 26, and Bob Steel, 62, both of Farwell, were taken by ambulance to Hereford Regional Medical Center, where they were treated and released. Donna McDonald was cited for failure to control speed.

GATT looming as test between Dole, Clinton

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dry as toast, a global trade accord emerged Monday as a potent test between President Clinton and Senate GOP Leader Bob Dole, whose demand for a capital gains tax cut escalated the issue sharply.

No sooner had Dole suggested linking the two over the weekend than White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta shot down the suggestion. "I don't think he's going to get a commitment from us that we're going to suddenly support a capital gains tax cut, particularly as part of" the trade accord, Panetta said.

Asked about the rebuff, Dole said Monday: "He only took one shot at it. He can fire again."

On political grounds, many congressional Democrats oppose a cut in the capital gains tax, which is levied on the profits of sales of stocks and other assets. House Democratic leader Richard Gephardt said Republicans were interjecting their "favorite giveaway for the rich" into the debate over a trade agreement. He said 72 percent of the benefits would go to taxpayers earning $100,000 a year or more.

At the same time, Clinton has pushed hard for passage of the trade agreement, and rejection would be a blow to his prestige.

Several White House officials said that while talks continue with Dole on other issues, Panetta's comments stand on a capital gains tax cut. Lobbying for the accord during the day, Vice President Al Gore said, "This is a big fight. It's going to be hard fought and close."

Congress is scheduled to vote after Thanksgiving on legislation to implement the 123-nation GATT agreement. The accord would reduce trade barriers and cut tariffs by an estimated $740 billion worldwide while offering more protection for American patents and copyrights.

The lame duck, Democratic-controlled House and Senate will be voting, but Democrats concede Republicans hold the balance of power, just as they will hold a majority in the new Congress that meets in January.

At a closed-door strategy session last week, according to one congressional aide, the White House estimate was that one-third of the Senate was undecided.

With organized labor often in opposition, free trade issues traditionally divide the Democratic caucus in both houses. Republicans supplied a majority of votes in the House and the Senate last year when the North American Free Trade Agreement passed.

In the Senate, in particular, where it will take 60 votes to prevail on a key procedural motion, the Republican grip on GATT is strong, and the politics intense.

In the House, Speaker-to-be Newt Gingrich has called for passage of the accord next week.

Not only is Dole publicly undecided, but so is a likely rival for the 1996 presidential nomination, Sen. Phil Gramm. Adding his voice on Monday was William Kristol, a conservative strategist who wrote: "GATT for something else. It's unnecessary in our view."

"I want to fix it," Dole said Sunday in an interview on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley." "And if we can fix it, then I'll vote for it."

Dole and several other Republicans have expressed concerns that American sovereignty would be compromised by the World Trade Organization that would be established under GATT to police the accord. He said his office had been receiving roughly 2,000 calls a day on the issue, adding, "Some may be from talk shows but a lot of them are legitimate questions."

GOP eyes welfare reform as way to save $22 billion

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - With anti-immigrant sentiment sweeping parts of the country, Republicans are moving to deny welfare benefits to most legal immigrants, many of them the elderly parents of U.S. citizens.

The restrictions, which would save $22 billion over five years, are part of a welfare overhaul in the GOP's "Contract With America." House Republican lawmakers have promised votes on welfare reform and nine other bills in the contract early next year.

One of the least-noticed provisions of the GOP plan is its ban on government services and benefits to most legal immigrants. Refugees and legal residents over the age of 75 who have been in the country for at least five years are the exceptions.

Legal immigrants would be barred from 60 different health, education, job training, nutrition, housing, cash and social service programs - from school lunches and foster care to rental and energy assistance.

Some of the biggest savings, however, would come from kicking legal immigrants off Medicaid, except for emergency health care, and Supplemental Security Income, which provides monthly checks of $46 to the elderly and disabled.

The number of immigrants on SSI has grown dramatically in recent years, from 127,900 in December 1982 to over 700,000 today, and they now account for 12 percent of all recipients on the rolls.

A study by the Social Security Administration found that most immigrants on the SSI rolls, as of June 1991, were of Mexican origin, followed by Cuba, the Philippines, the Soviet Union, China, Vietnam, South Korea, Laos, Cambodia and the Dominican Republic.

Many of these immigrants were brought to the United States by children or other relatives who promised to support them, but they eventually wound up collecting public benefits.

President Clinton's own welfare reform plan sought to put some restrictions on the use of SSI by elderly immigrants whose relatives have the means to support them. A handful of moderate Democrats went even further earlier this year and embraced the GOP's near-total ban on welfare to legal immigrants.

Now, after a campaign season in which public concerns about immigration were used to political advantage and California voters endorsed Proposition 187, an initiative to deny public benefits to illegal aliens, the issue is sure to be a top item in the Republican-controlled Congress.

Rep. Rick Santorum, R-Pa., who wrote the GOP welfare bill with a ban on welfare to legal immigrants, said Congress will be looking for ways to finance new work programs for parents on welfare, and immigrants who get benefits are a likely target.

"People want to see something dramatic happen on welfare, some tough work requirements, and that costs money," said Santorum, who was elected to the Senate. "We need a funding mechanism and this is one of the ways to go about doing it, and it already has bipartisan support."

Robert Rector, a welfare expert with the conservative Heritage Foundation, said changes are also necessary because elderly immigrants are an increasing drain on the U.S. Treasury.

Donations for CSF accepted

Donations are now being accepted for the 1994 edition of the Christmas Stocking Fund, the holiday charity that helps the less fortunate of Hereford and Deaf Smith County with basic needs including food, clothing and assistance with bills for utilities, personal needs and medical care.

While the local charity is associated with the Christmas season, the work begins well before the holiday. The need for contributions comes early, too, since decisions on assistance must be made prior to the delivery date of Dec. 20.

CSF, a non-profit entity not affiliated with any other organization, operates with donations from caring residents who share their good fortune with the less fortunate. Assistance that can be delivered is limited by the donations received. The holiday charity is administered by a committee of anonymous volunteers representing a cross-section of the community. Committee members screen applications and make the decisions on assistance rendered.

Because the CSF committee must operate on a "hurry-up" schedule ahead of Christmas, donations must come in early in order for the committee to have an idea of the amount of funds that will be available for its work.

Donations to CSF may be made in person at the offices of The Hereford Brand, or mailed to CSF in care of the Brand at Box 673, Hereford.

The Brand serves as the official collection agent for CSF and will periodically publish listings of CSF donors. Those donors wishing to remain anonymous should so designate their gifts.

Retirement system cuts attacked by state groups

AUSTIN (AP) - A group representing 26 education associations and Comptroller John Sharp have squared off over a proposal to reduce the state's contributions to the Teacher Retirement System.

Officials with the Teacher Retirement System Working Group on Monday held a news conference to voice opposition to Sharp's proposal, which would reduce the state's contribution rate to the Teacher Retirement System from 7.3 percent of teachers' salaries to 6 percent.

"The fact is, for the past five legislative sessions, education has been the last major state obligation to be funded," said Don Rogers, chairman of the working group, which represents more than 700,000 active TRS members and retirees.

"It's been 10 years since the Legislature funded a pay increase for teachers. ... Members of the Teacher Retirement System Working Group stand united in our resolve to prevent this recommendation from seeing the light of day."

Sharp attended the news conference and responded directly to the criticism by saying that his plan calls for a record increase in benefits for retired educators despite the reduction in state contributions.

"Under our plan you can get the largest increase in the history of the Teacher Retirement System of Texas - period," Sharp said.

Sharp said his plan's reductions in the contribution rate will save $395 million over two years while leaving enough money in the fund to raise overall benefits by $700 million.

Sharp said the savings from the proposed reduction could be put toward a pay raise for teachers. He referred to a July 14 letter written by Michael Barron, chief financial officer of the Teacher Retirement System, that concurred with his findings.

Barron told the Houston Chronicle, "Even with Sharp's cuts, it's a possibility that there would be some room for increases for active teachers."

Clean up time

Daniel Pesina takes advantage of nice weather on Monday to rake a few leaves after installing a new window at his home at Avenue D and Grand. The high temperature on Monday hit 58 degrees, allowing residents the opportunity to rake leaves and clean their yards up for winter.

Local Roundup

School board to meet

The Hereford ISD board of trustees will meet in regular session at 6 p.m. today in the administration building, 601 N. 25 Mile Avenue. On the agenda are action items concerning the Gun-Free School Act and computer bids. Block scheduling is on the discussion agenda and the information agenda has reports on paving property north of the high school tennis courts, underground sprinklers, playground equipment, corporal punishment, the HISD Compensation Plan and a proposed resolution "Teaching Traditional Moral Values." The board also will hear monthly reports and administrator and professional organization updates.

Book sale set at Northwest

Northwest Primary School will host a three-day sale of books, puzzles and play kits on Nov. 28-30 in the school library. The sale will be conducted by a local book distributor and will be from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. the first two days and from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Nov. 30. The sale is to offer parents and others the opportunity to buy Christmas gifts for children. Fifth percent of the proceeds of the sale will go to the school to be used for new books at the library.

Clouds to fade away

Clouds will decrease after midnight tonight, paving the way for the mercury to dip to near 20 degrees. Wind will be light, 5 to 10 mph from the north. Wednesday will be sunny and warmer, with a high in the low 50s. Thanksgiving day should come on fair with a high near 60 degrees. Hereford enjoyed a 58-degree high Monday and a low Tuesday morning of 35 degrees.

Thanksgiving deadlines noted

The Hereford Brand will close at 3 p.m. Wednesday and be closed all day Thursday for the Thanksgiving holiday. The deadline for classified ads to appear in the Friday newspaper will be noon Wednesday, while the classified ad deadline for Sunday's Brand will be 9 a.m. Friday. Display advertising deadlines will be 3 p.m. Wednesday for the Friday edition and 5 p.m. Wednesday for the Sunday edition. A combined Wednesday-Thursday newspaper will be published on Wednesday. Circulation delivery of missed newspapers will be at 6 p.m. Wednesday only. Regular office and circulation hours resume on Friday.

News Digest

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Duffel bags stuffed with drug money marked the beginning of a paper trail that scattered across the globe, from secret offshore accounts to loans and investments in legitimate businesses. The trail ended Monday when federal prosecutors announced a $50 million settlement with an American Express Co. subsidiary that included the largest penalty ever assessed against a U.S. bank in a money-laundering case.

BROWNSVILLE - Authorities say Juan Garcia Abrego, the reputed head of one of the biggest drug smuggling gangs in North America, has long since absorbed the $33 million seized by the U.S. government. "His organization remains active," said A. Wayne Smith, special agent in charge of the FBI's Brownsville office. "We feel that his organization is continuing to import and distribute cocaine."

WASHINGTON - The Republican Party must resist anti-immigrant sentiment and embrace people of varied backgrounds if it is to become the majority party, say conservatives Jack Kemp and William Bennett.

WASHINGTON - Republicans intent on overhauling the nation's welfare system want to finance expensive new work programs for single mothers by denying public aid to thousands of legal immigrants.

HOUSTON - In-house research shows that Dow Corning Corp. and its co-owner Dow Chemical Co. first raised concerns about the health effects of silicone in the late 1940s, attorneys for two women here say. But despite problems with the gel-substance, the two companies continued with plans to market silicone, resulting in the 1964 Dow Corning implant in 1964.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina - It was NATO's most stinging attack yet in Yugoslavia - bombing an airfield in a Serb-controlled section of Croatia. Still, it didn't even touch the biggest threat to Bihac, a U.N. safe haven in northwest Bosnia. That would be the tanks, artillery and troops of the rebel Serbs right across the border in Croatia.

WASHINGTON - Republicans intent on overhauling the nation's welfare system want to finance expensive new work programs for single mothers by denying public aid to thousands of legal immigrants.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. - After years of disappointment, Republican governors are suddenly optimistic that their demands for less federal interference will be embraced by the new GOP Congress and a Democratic president looking to revive his political fortunes.

United Way presentation

Wes Klett, chairman of the United Way fundraising drive, accepts a check for $337.65 from Northwest Elementary School third graders, from second from left, Astrid Gomez, Jose Cardenas, Jason Klett and Stafani Condarco. The students raised the money by holding a movie last week. The third grade classes worked the movie and students who wished to attend brought a $1 donation to the United Way. The donation included movie admission, popcorn and a drink.

TDT audit identifies $13 million in savings

AUSTIN (AP) - A potential $13 million in annual savings has been identified by an audit of the state agency that builds highways.

The Texas Department of Transportation, which has a $3.1 billion budget this fiscal year, said audit results would be used to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

The potential $13 million in savings was identified by comparing regional transportation districts' performance to others in similar geographic areas - rural, urban or metropolitan. It was based on fiscal year 1993 data.

The agency underwent a major reorganization last year.

"We agree with the intent and direction of the audit recommendations," agency spokesman Randall Dillard said after the audit report was released Monday. He said some proposals already are being implemented.

The audit recognized some agency initiatives, such as an effort to reduce travel expenses, he said.

The agency also said in its response, which was contained in the audit report, that "cost controls and performance measures must factor in the many differences and variables of the organization."

The state auditor's report stressed that actual savings could vary because the audit simply identified practices that indicated below-average performance. It did not say what specific changes should be made.

Dillard said using an average can be misleading because preliminary engineering costs can vary with the project.

Among the report's findings of potential yearly savings:

- $6.2 million in preliminary and construction engineering activities.
- $5.9 million in maintenance operations.
- $900,000 in administration.

The audit also said that a monthly assessment of contractors isn't linked to the contract-awarding process. It said contractors who receive poor performance ratings subsequently can contract with the department for future projects.

The agency responded, "Every project is administered and inspected to assure that the contractor's performance, materials, and end products comply with the plans and specifications. This is the procedure for precluding being given substantial work by contractors."

TEXAS LOTTERY

By The Associated Press

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $3 million.

The numbers drawn Saturday night from a field of 50 were: 1, 3, 12, 31, 38 and 42.

There were 126 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,384. There were 6,306 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $100. And there were 125,533 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $10 million.

Lifestyles

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 33 and the mother of two teen-age children. I don't smoke or do drugs, and I work full-time.

After my divorce, Mom helped me get back on my feet. We were pals. I took her everywhere, and we did everything together. Life was great. Now she criticizes me and puts me down in front of my children. It's hard enough to get respect from your children these days without having your own mother diminish you by making cutting remarks.

That's not the worst of it. Mom idolizes my son and practically ignores my daughter. She is always buying gifts for "Bruce" and sneaking them to him behind my back. My daughter is aware that her brother gets special treatment from "Grandma," and this has created some hard feelings. Meanwhile, Bruce is so dependent on his grandmother that it frightens me. He is on the phone with her constantly. I don't want him to be a "grandma's boy," but it looks as if he is headed in that direction.

I have talked to my mother about my fears and have asked her to back off. Naturally, she denies that she is doing anything wrong. I know I'm also at fault here for not seeing this problem sooner.

Is this a normal relationship between a teen-age boy and his grandmother? I have the feeling it isn't, and I need to know what to do about it.—Unsure in San Bernardino

DEAR SAN BERNARDINO: Normal? No. Your mother has a generational problem. She was your "pal" in the early days, and now she is trying to be too close to her grandson.

The best solution is to try to get an uncle, teacher or some male to take Grandma's place in Bruce's life. Look around and good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met "Jon" six months ago and fell head over heels after our first evening together. He's made it clear that he also fell for me on that first date. Jon often talks about things we can do together in the future, such as taking trips to the fascinating places neither of us has ever seen.

Jon has a three-bedroom house, and I've been staying there a lot lately. I bring my 3-year-old son with me because there is no one I can rely on to take care of him I'm still paying rent on my apartment (not cheap) and have been hoping that Jon will invite me to live with him on a permanent basis. I even stayed away for a week hoping it would push him in the right direction. All he said was that he missed me.

I don't want to rush things, Ann, but I'm beginning to get apprehensive. My son is starting to refer to Jon's den as his room. I don't know what to tell the boy, and all I get from Jon is silence. I'm beginning to think he's avoiding a commitment.

Am I moving too fast? Is something wrong? Please give me some advice.—Mixed Emotions in Texas

DEAR MIXED: Are you moving too fast? Probably. Is something wrong? It sounds like it to me.

I'd say your first mistake was taking your child with you when you stayed with Jon. To go out with Jon is one thing, but to stay over with a youngster is something else.

My advice is to cool it. With luck, Jon may ask you to marry him, but I wouldn't bet on it.

Toastmasters Clubs enter Liars Contest

The morning and evening Hereford Toastmasters Clubs met for their second annual Liars Contest Thursday evening at Sirlin Stockade.

The meeting consisted of prepared and unprepared 2-3 minute speeches on the best or worst lie. Winning the prepared liars contest was City Councilman Wayne Winget and winning the unprepared liars contest was high school teacher, Joe Don Cummings.

Charles Minchew led the pledge and Dave Kimmel gave the invocation. Joe Don Cummings presided over the business meeting.

Rick Jackson served as Toastmaster; Dave Kimmel, timer; Coleen Seright, "ah" counter; Cummings, grammarian; and Art Gonzales, wordmaster.

Jackson also served as topicmaster and topic speakers were Cummings, Albert Cervantes, Charles Minchew and Clark Andrews.

Linda Minchew, who was evaluated by Pat Varner, was honored as best speaker for her talk on "There Is A Season." Joe Weaver, who was evaluated by Margaret Del Toro, spoke on "Silas Tucker Discovers Christmas." Linda Minchew was named best speaker; Pat Varner, best evaluator; and Cummings was the winner of the unprepared liars contest. Jigger Rowland served as general evaluator.

Guests included Dora Gonzales, Linda Jury, Jean Jackson, Oletta Jackson, Twyla Jackson, Bud Jowell and Adolfo Del Toro.

High tournament winners

Dorothy Mayfield and Seletta Gholson were the high winners in the recent Benefit Bridge Tournament sponsored by the Toujours Amis Study Club. Not pictured are the low winners, Gladys Caviness and Jean Holbert, and the winner of the table and chairs, Lynnetta Uselton of Amarillo. All proceeds from the event will benefit the club's 1994-94 Scholarship Fund.

Thanksgiving luncheon is attended by Wyche Club

Members of the Wyche Family Community Education Club met Nov. 17 for a Thanksgiving luncheon in the home of Louise Axe of Canyon.

Members enjoyed touring the new home which the Axes have occupied since August. Tables in the formal dining room and breakfast area were decorated with a Thanksgiving motif.

Argen Draper led the pledges to the American and Texas flags and the FCE Prayer.

Roll call was answered with "my favorite way to fix leftover turkey."

Shirley Brown reported on a visit from Mary Stubblefield, and Jo Lee reviewed plans for the Christmas party planned at noon Dec. 12 at K-Bob's Restaurant. Also, members voted to donate to the Christmas Stocking Fund.

Members were asked to bring white elephant gifts for the Dec. 12 meeting when new officers will be installed.

President Coreen Odom said that tickets are still available for the FCE Quilt to be given away in March. Tickets are priced at $1 or six for $5. She also reminded members to bring five recipes to be used in the FCE cookbook.

Clara Trowbridge announced plans for the council meeting Nov. 28 and the council Christmas party set Dec.

Herd shuts down Littlefield for win

The Hereford boys' basketball team picked up its first win Saturday in Littlefield, as the Herd held the Wildcats to 17 points in the second half and took a 67-44 win.

The Hereford boys (1-1) and girls (2-0) host Tulia tonight in Whiteface Gym: the girls at 6:30 p.m. and the boys at 8. Both junior varsity teams will play at 5—one game will be played in the junior high gym.

On Saturday, Hereford held a 31-27 lead at halftime, then stretched that to 50-35 by the end of the third quarter. Littlefield got no closer than 12 in the fourth quarter, Herd coach Randy Dean said.

"We played real good defense the whole game," Dean said, "(but) we switched defenses in the second half and caused their guards a lot of problems."

The switch was to a match-up zone in the second half, Dean said. The Herd had played mostly man-to-man in the first half.

Hereford performed well on offense, too, Dean said.

"We took advantage of some matchup situations in our favor," he said. Hereford's tall guards scored most of the Herd's points: 6-foot-3 Benton Buckley had 26 points; and 5-11 Michael Brown added 11 points.

"They had little guards and big posts," Dean said. "Their guards had a hard time matching up with our guards because of their size. They tried to put some of their big guys on our guards, and they had trouble because of quickness."

Supporting Buckley and Brown on offense was Isaac Walker with 10 points. Others who scored were: Michael High, 5; Todd Dudley, 5; Cody Marion, 4; Michael Power, 2; Ronald Torres, 2; and Ashley Noland, 2.

Dean will announce players of the week each week this season. The Players of the Week for the first week are: offense, Buckley; defense, Michael High; and academic, Jason Eades.

The boys' junior varsity team won in its first game of the season, beating Littlefield 56-48. Hereford broke away from a 48-48 tie with three and a half minutes left, Dean said.

Jonathan Keenan led Hereford with 20 points, Cory Schumacher added 14 and Brian Torres chipped in 11.

The freshman boys teams opened their season Monday in Hereford, but lost both games to Randall.

The A team fell 68-32 to a large Randall team. Jeremy Urbanczyk led Hereford with nine points, and Anthony Lopez added eight points.

The B team lost 67-44. Ty Boggeman scored 12 points and Spencer Power had 11.

All-district honorees

Hereford puts three players on all-district volleyball team

Hereford landed three players on the District 1-4A all-district volleyball team, as junior hitters Tarabeth Holmes and Heather Hodges and sophomore middle blocker Danielle Cornelius were named to the first team.

Hereford's Brittney Binder, a junior setter, was honored as the newcomer of the year, while senior Brooke Bryant and junior Aimee Alley earned honorable mention.

Dumas, which shared the District 1-4A championship with Hereford, also shared the top honors with Hereford, The Demonettes' dominant middle blocker, senior Jenny Robinson, was named the Most Valuable Player of the district, while coach Jack Wilson took coach of the year honors.

Dumas also placed two players on the first team, seniors Gina Giffin and Misty Holt.

Randall's Venke Mjølhus rounded out the first team. This is the first year that Hereford had three players on the first team, Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "One of the keys to our success has been the fact that we've had so many weapons," she said. "Those three kids are phenomenal hitters and all-around athletes. I'm happy we're going to have them back for another year or two."

Reeh praised Binder for excelling in a tough situation—replacing all-state setter Kara Sandoval, who graduated.

The second team consists of: Cara Little, junior, Caprock; Courtney Sims, sophomore, Canyon; Torri Bailey, senior, Randall; Traci Sims, senior, Randall; Rebecca Burton, senior, Borger; and Serenity King, junior, Pampa.

Joining Bryant and Alley on the honorable mention list are Tiffani Wilson of Dumas, Jessica Teague of Caprock, Hali Clements of Canyon, Sally Hamilton of Borger, and Mechelle Abbott and Tammy Chesher of Pampa.

HJH cagers win 3-of-4

The Hereford Junior High girls' basketball teams won three out of four games against Pampa Monday in Hereford.

The eighth grade A team won 46-28, as Makesha Rives poured in 18 points and Myra Olvera added 13. The eighth grade B team also won, getting 11 points from Kasey Torres and eighth from Annie Keenan.

The seventh grade A team won 33-25, with Valerie Guzman scoring 14 points and Tori Walker adding nine. The seventh B team got edged by Pampa, 22-18, although Angie Evers and Sernaida Griego each scored six points.

Wrestlers bring home trophies

Several members of the Hereford Wrestling Club brought trophies home from the Amarillo Novice wrestling tournament held Saturday at Palo Duro High School in Amarillo.

Winning first-place trophies were Jeremiah Beltran in the 240-pound class, Robert Salinas in the 100-pound class, Matt Lusk in the 144-pound class and Chris Torres in the rookie category of the 140-pound class.

Bringing home second-place trophies were Kris Cathey in the 218-pound class, Charlie Stubbs in the 62-pound class, Chris Rodriguez in the 54-pound class, and Orlando Justo in the 46-pound class.

Amarillo High wins state title

The Amarillo High volleyball team, which beat Hereford three times this season, proved it could beat all the other teams, too.

Amarillo High polished off a 37-0 season by winning the Class 5A state championship, defeating Cypress Creek 10-15, 15-5, 15-13 in the finals Saturday in Austin. The Lady Sandies downed Kingwood 15-11, 5-15, 15-6 in the semifinals. Cypress Creek and Kingwood are both Houston-area schools.

Friendswood, another Houston-area school, beat Austin McCallum, 15-9, 15-12, for the Class 4A title. Friendswood (35-6) defeated Dumas, 15-8, 19-17, in the semi-finals.

Dumas, the District 1-4A co-champion with Hereford which beat the Herd in the regional finals, finished at 26-7.

New Oilers look very much like old Oilers

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers fired their coach and scrapped the run-and-shoot. The result stayed the same.

Despite Lorenzo White's career-best 156 yards rushing, the Oilers lost their seventh straight game Monday night when David Treadwell hit a 37-yard field goal with 2 seconds remaining, lifting the New York Giants to a 13-10 victory. The outcome snapped the Giants' seven-game losing streak.

"It's not the way I wanted to start off," said new Houston head coach Jeff Fisher, who abandoned the Oilers' four-wideout passing scheme for a plodding ground attack. "But we'll take tomorrow off and then come back and start getting ready for the next game."

The victory was sweet redemption for Giants' quarterback Kent Graham, benched by coach Dan Reeves after last week's 10-9 loss to Arizona. Graham got another chance Monday when Dave Brown left the game in the second quarter with a concussion.

Graham rallied the Giants after a scoreless first half, helping New York end its longest losing streak since 1980. He completed just six of 13 passes for 105 yards, but one was a 40-yard touchdown to Mike Sherrard and another a 55-yard pass to Sherrard that set up Treadwell's 26-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter.

"This week's been a real tough week for me emotionally," Graham said. "I've been going back and forth, up and down all week. I just tried to hang in there and prepare myself for this game as best I could even though it was tough."

Graham's touchdown pass, which Sherrard had to wrestle away from Blaine Bishop and Marcus Robertson in the end zone, came with 14:01 elapsed in the third quarter to tie the game 7-7.

"All of our arms came together," Sherrard said. "The ball somehow fell into my arms."

Sherrard beat Houston safety Cris Dishman for the 55-yard reception on New York's next drive.

"Kent laid the ball out for me, and it was a great pickup for us," said Sherrard, who had six catches for 109 yards. "It put us in great position."

New York led 10-7 with 8:19 to play, but the Oilers tied it with 4:08 left on Al Del Greco's 42-yard field goal.

The Giants then drove 47 yards to the Houston 20 to set up Treadwell's game-winning kick.

"I saw it was going through and the feeling was great," Treadwell said. "Everything felt great: the snap, the hold and the kick."

Rodney Hampton ran for 25 yards on seven carries during the final drive. He finished with 34 carries for 122 yards.

The Oilers, who ranked among the top offensive teams in the NFL in recent years with the run-and-shoot, didn't use the alignment in the first half.

Instead, they gave the ball to White, who had eight carries for 40 yards in the first quarter and 116 yards by halftime.

Fisher turned the play-calling over to offensive coordinator Dick Coury, but the Oilers didn't get into the end zone until 4:44 remained in the third quarter on Tolliver's 1-yard keeper.

The score came one play after Tolliver completed a 41-yard screen pass to White, who was knocked out of bounds at the 1 by Jesse Campbell.

"I ran to the sidelines and told Dick that it was wide open," White said. "That's the relationship the players have with the coaches. The next play, that's what they called."

Fisher, whose defense blitzes fearlessly, showed he wasn't afraid to take chances on offense too, twice opting not to punt on fourth down in the second quarter.

Garrett to start for Cowboys with Aikman, Peete on shelf

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Jason Garrett will start at quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys against the Green Bay Packers on Thanksgiving Day while Troy Aikman and Rodney Peete recover from injuries doctors have decided weren't as serious as first feared.

The Cowboys also brought in veteran quarterbacks Mike Pagel and Tommy Hodson, and team spokesman Rich Dalrymple said they'd decide Tuesday which of the two would be signed as a backup.

There were various media reports in Dallas that Hodson would be brought in in case Pagel failed his physical. Pagel passed his physical on Monday night. Pagel, a 12-year-veteran, has played for Indianapolis, Cleveland and the Los Angeles Rams. He played under Dallas offensive coordinator Eric Zampese with the Rams in the early 90s.

Hodson, 27, played three seasons for the New England Patriots before he was cut in August 1993. He signed as a backup for the Miami Dolphins last season when Dan Marino went on the injured reserve.

To make room for the quarterback and offensive lineman Frank Cornish, both free agents, the Cowboys put offensive lineman Erik Williams on the injured reserve.

Gibbs resigns as Oklahoma coach

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Gary Gibbs, who won two-thirds of his games but not enough big ones to suit Oklahoma fans, resigned Monday as the Sooners' coach.

Gibbs, who last week denied he planned to step down, read a two-page statement after briefly discussing Friday's game against No. 1 Nebraska.

He said he was not asked to leave, and made his decision without talking with the school's regents or athletic director Donnie Duncan.

Gibbs has a record of 44-21-2, a .671 winning percentage. But his teams have finished no better than third in the Big Eight, and they are only 2-14-1 in games against the Sooners' biggest rivals - Texas, Colorado and Nebraska.

"While we did not reach a championship level, we have achieved the 19th-best record in the country over the past five years while having the highest graduation rate of any of the Big 12 schools this past year," he said.

"Our players have represented the university with class at all times and I'm proud of what we have accomplished."

Gibbs said he had to ask himself, "Am I being fair to my family and to the team to continue as head football coach?"

"While I had intended to ask this question at the end of the season, and all of those closely involved with the program were committed to evaluating the program at the end of the season, the media frenzy created by inaccurate reporting last week led me to the conclusion it was in the best interest of my family and the football team to answer that question today.

"The answer is I will resign my position as head football coach effective at the end of the season."

He said he intends to coach the team through a bowl game. The Sooners (6-4) are likely headed to the Copper Bowl on Dec. 29.

Duncan said he had no list of candidates to replace Gibbs, but set a "target date" of Dec. 15 to hire someone.

Media speculation about Gibbs' future heightened the weekend of Nov. 12-13. On that Saturday, the Tulsa World reported that officials were trying to work out a deal in which Gibbs would resign before David Boren took over as school president.

The following day, The Daily Oklahoman reported that Gibbs would announce his decision no later than Monday, Nov. 14.

Those reports, Gibbs said, led to his family being "harassed" by others in the media. He said his decision - reached Saturday - was in the best interests of his family and the football program.

Lady Raiders move up in Top 25 with NIT wins

By CHUCK SCHOFFNER
AP Sports Writer

Texas Tech is benefiting in two ways from the first preseason NIT for women's basketball.

The Lady Raiders are playing at a time they'd usually just be practicing, getting valuable experience for the rest of the season. And they're moving up in The Associated Press poll.

Three victories in the NIT sent Tech from ninth in the preseason poll to No. 6 in the first regular-season poll Monday. Coach Marsha Sharp's team will play No. 13 Washington, which climbed four spots, in tonight's NIT championship game in Lubbock.

"We're real excited about that," Sharp said. "I hope we'll get to the point some day where we can move the last four teams in the tournament to a neutral site and play it there."

"But when you consider that we could be at Southwest Missouri or Washington today, we're really thrilled about being at home."

They should be. Texas Tech has won 24 straight games at Lubbock Coliseum and 49 of the last 50. It's the fifth-longest home winning streak in the country.

Hardaway leads Magic past Heat

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The Miami Heat is the latest team to learn what the Orlando Magic is determined to prove to the rest of the NBA.

Yes, Shaquille O'Neal is the league's leading scorer. But no, the Atlantic Division leaders aren't a one-dimensional offensive team.

With O'Neal in foul trouble for the second straight game, Anfernee Hardaway ignited a third-quarter turnaround that propelled the Magic to its fourth consecutive victory, 124-89 over the struggling Heat.

Orlando, leading 64-61 when O'Neal left with his fourth foul, extended the advantage to 86-72, with Hardaway scoring 17 of his 30 points in the third period. That nearly matched the Heat's third-quarter production of 19 points.

"When Shaquille goes out of the game, teams get a little confident," said Hardaway, who was 11-for-11 from the foul line in the third quarter.

"But if the other starters do our job, we can keep it on the same level as when Shaquille is in the game."

In other games Monday night, Utah beat Phoenix 106-91 and New York edged San Antonio 92-88.

Hardaway also picked up the team with O'Neal on the bench last Friday night against New Jersey. He had four steals in the third quarter of that game.

"This is a breakthrough game for me," said Hardaway, whose career high is 32 points. "But I don't think this is going to happen every night. In fact, I know this isn't going to happen every night."

O'Neal returned to lead a 21-3 surge at the start of the fourth quarter and finished with 22 points in 28 minutes, 10 below his league-leading average.

"That's where the game turned around," Miami coach Kevin Loughery said. "We got Shaq in foul trouble, and we didn't take advantage of it."

Only a 74 percent foul shooter as a rookie, Hardaway has made 44 of 47 this season. He made all 14 he attempted against the Heat.

"Foul shooting was fairly easy for me in college, but once I got to this level I started putting pressure on myself," the second-year pro said. "One of my goals is to be one of the best free-throw shooters. If you have a point guard who shoots free throws fairly well, it's going to hurt the other team a lot."

Nick Anderson added 21 points for the Magic (6-2), while Kevin Willis led the Heat with 20 points and 12 rebounds.

Jazz 106, Suns 91
At Salt Lake City, Kevin Johnson was hobbling and Elliot Perry left with a concussion. John Stockton took advantage.

Stockton had 25 points and 12 assists to lead Utah over the injury-ravaged Suns, who also were without forwards Charles Barkley and Wayman Tisdale.

Perry, named NBA player of the week earlier in the day, was hit by Malone's elbow in the second quarter after the Utah forward grabbed a rebound. He had to be helped off the court and was taken to a local hospital with a concussion.

After the injury to Perry, the Jazz went on a 19-2 run to lead 40-32 with 6:40 left in the first half. Utah did not trail again.

Knicks 92, Spurs 88
At New York, Derek Harper made a key steal with 51 seconds to play and New York held San Antonio scoreless in the final 1:51.

Charles Oakley led the Knicks with 16 points and Patrick Ewing had 13 in 34 minutes despite an injured right knee.

David Robinson had 29 points, including 10 in the fourth quarter, and 12 rebounds, and Chuck Person added 17 points for San Antonio.

Utah upsets Indiana in Maui Invitational

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

LAHAINA, Hawaii (AP) - The Maui Invitational got one of the two semifinals matchups it was hoping for.

No. 13 Michigan barely hung on Monday night to advance to a meeting with Arizona State, the first time Bill Frieder has faced his former team since leaving Ann Arbor for the desert.

Utah, however, threw a wrench into the plans for tonight's other game with an upset of No. 11 Indiana. The Utes will play No. 7 Maryland.

One out of two ain't bad. Michigan beat Tulane 75-73, but the Wolverines seemed ready to coast in the opening round, taking a 60-45 lead with 13:32 to play. They were still up 65-51 with 10:55 left, but the Green Wave went on a 17-0 run.

"We looked totally in control there and the lack of scoring caused critical lapses on the defensive end," Michigan coach Steve Fisher said.

"I'm happy we're in the winners' bracket. I don't know if we deserve to be, but I'm happy we're in it."

Arizona State got there with a 103-73 thrashing of Texas A&M as Mario Bennett missed just one of 13 shots from the field in scoring 27 points.

Now all eyes will focus on Frieder, the man who left Michigan days before the 1989 NCAA tournament, and Fisher, the man tabbed to succeed him who led the Wolverines to the national championship that year and two title games since.

In the other first-round games, Maryland beat Chaminade 95-67 and Utah stunned Indiana 77-72.

Today's schedule also has Indiana against Chaminade and Tulane meeting Texas A&M in the consolation bracket.

Arizona St. 103, Texas A&M 73

The Sun Devils led 53-36 at halftime and by as much as 80-40 with 11:28 to play. Isaac Burton added 17 points for Arizona State, which had six players in double figures, including Marcel Capers with 10 points and seven assists. Joe Wilbert had 16 points to lead the Aggies, who couldn't handle Arizona State's man-to-man pressure and committed 25 turnovers. They shot 53 percent from the field (28-for-53), but still lost by 30.

Win a Christmas tree from club

Nouvelles Amies Study Club members are selling tickets for a beautifully decorated Christmas tree to be given away at 5 p.m. Saturday at The Atrium where the tree is currently on exhibit. Tickets are priced at $2 each and may also be purchased at Wishes and The Pants Cage. All proceeds will be used to benefit local charities. Displaying the tree are club members, Emily Christie and Charlotte Collier.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have an additional suggestion to make on choosing a kennel. Some dogs will not relieve themselves in a run with a concrete floor.

We left our dog for a day and a half in a nice clean kennel with large secure runs, all with concrete floors. When we returned it was obvious that she had neither urinated nor defecated since we left. She urgently needed to relieve herself before even getting into the car and she made six trips to the yard that evening. We found it terrible when we realized how uncomfortable she had been.

I have since found another kennel where each dog is allowed to exercise in a fenced, grassy area four times a day (with cleanup between runs).

The owner of this kennel tells me it is not uncommon for housebroken dogs to refuse to "potty" in a run with a permanent floor.

Please caution your readers to be aware of this potential problem. — Sara, Tyler, Texas

Thanks so much, and I know our four-pawed friends thank you too! This really is something to think out when choosing a kennel. Dogs are such a joy to have, and good care is so important. I have combed a helpful pamphlet about dog care. To receive a copy, please send a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cent) envelope to: Heloise/Dog, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise way to use up those little slivers of soap. When my bar of soap is getting too small to use, I bring a new bar into the shower with me.

SOAP SLIVERS

Dear Heloise: Here is one more

When I'm done, both bars are wet and I lay the little one on top of the new one, pressing the edges down. The next time I shower, they have stuck together so well that they never come apart.

I haven't had to worry for years about what to do with those slivers. — Marcia Jaquith, Naples, Fla.

A SPRINKLE OF TALC

Dear Heloise: When helping a heavy, arthritic patient into bed, a generous sprinkling of talcum powder on a rubber sheet makes the task much easier (and nicer) for both patient and nurse! — M.F., Chatham, N.J.

AFTER HALLOWEEN

Dear Heloise: The day after Halloween, I shop for discounted candy and toys that are packaged for trick-or-treats. I choose items that don't have a Halloween motif on each individual item, just on the outer package.

I use them for stocking stuffers and birthday-party favors. Once they're unwrapped, the only way to tell the difference is to look inside my wallet. — Paula R. Hrbacek, Pensacola, Fla.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Dear Heloise: I have my mind set on making candles because I like using them every day. If you know how to make them, please print the hint in your column. — Judy Douglas, New City, N.Y.

It's easy to make new candles from old ones. All you have to do is melt leftover candle pieces in a coffee can set in a large pan of water over low heat. Caution: If the temperature is too hot, the paraffin could ignite, so remember — slow and low.

Heat the pieces until they are all melted. Use a disposable plastic fork to fish out any old wicks.

Next, you'll need a mold. A cylindrical potato-chip can works great. First, tie a wick to the middle of a pencil and drop the wick down into the middle of the can, balancing the pencil on top. Then slowly pour the melted wax in, making sure to keep the wick in the center of the mold. Allow the wax to cool, detach the pencil, remove the mold and trim the wick.

You now have a large candle that you can keep for yourself or give as a gift. — Heloise

PUZZLE STORAGE

Dear Heloise: A while back a reader had a pet peeve about puzzle boxes that fall apart. I have a solution which keeps the puzzle together along with a picture of the puzzle.

I cut the picture off the puzzle box and put that in a resealable plastic storage bag along with the puzzle pieces. I hope this helps. — Sharon Tompson, Plymouth, Wis.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You promised to keep an eye out for shingles pain medicines. What about Famvir? My doctor says it is out now, and can help. About three years ago, I had a case of shingles I wouldn't wish on my worst enemy. Will this new medicine help others? Incidentally, does shingles run in families? — N.K.

ANSWER: You and your doctor are a half-step ahead of me on this one. I was waiting for the next opportunity to touch on Famvir — famciclovir — which was just released for shingles treatment. It's said to lessen the original rash outbreak and to prevent the dreaded post-herpetic neuralgia.

Most people who write me do so in the throes of one of those seemingly endless post-shingles pain episodes. The episodes can last for months and longer — long after the initial rash has disappeared. As I mentioned, the new drug seems to lessen that potential.

Shingles is not hereditary. Almost anyone can get it. It is, as I have explained on many occasions, a reawakening of the childhood chickenpox virus. That virus lives on in the nerve cells long after the chickenpox rash ends.

Many readers do, I know, own up-to-date editions of the Physicians Desk Reference, which lists medicines on the market. Don't worry if you don't find Famvir listed. It is not there yet.

For more on the problem, N.K., see the shingles report I am sending you. Others can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 28, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there medical merit in the use of garlic?

What does garlic do to the body? — Mrs. M.P.

ANSWER: If you're looking for a single answer for all health problems, you will not find it in garlic.

Am I discounting garlic as a potential plus in the diet? Certainly not. Am I denying any medicinal benefits from the pungent root? Certainly not.

In fact, any food that has been around as long as garlic has and that has garnered health-related claims over the centuries is not going to get the brushoff from this corner.

Is garlic's reputation deserved? Some of it for sure. Other claims deserve a healthy skepticism.

Some newer properties have been uncovered lately. Garlic does help lower cholesterol levels. And it does help make the blood less thick. It has also been said to lower blood pressure and even has been touted as an anti-cancer agent.

Many wild claims are undocumented. But if you are considering use of garlic for its real or imagined properties, there are more reasons to do so than not.

Garlic, for certain, adds real zest to food.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Years ago, I exposed my left foot to cold and got frostbite. A while back, you wrote of a problem similar to mine now. It involved a damaged or pinched nerve in the foot. The point is, the left foot really pains me. I am 74. I don't remember the name of what you called the problem. Can you help? — R.M.R.

ANSWER: I was talking about tarsal tunnel syndrome, where a foot nerve gets trapped in tissue behind the ankle. It causes a burning ache or numbness on the sole, worse at night or after standing.

I don't know if that is your problem.

Sometimes, after frostbite, the affected area can stay painful, sometimes permanently. And that area is more prone to frostbite in the future. Check it out.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Several years ago, I was seeing an allergist for sinus troubles. He sent me to have an X-ray, and remarked that my pituitary gland looked wrong. He had me take a CAT scan. Then he asked me if my feet had been growing. I said no, and he said, "Well, I guess you just have an extra-large pituitary." Nothing more was said. What was he looking for? Now, at age 39, my feet are larger than when I was 25. I am a woman, if that makes a difference. Since this incident, I have been wondering if I have some terrible disease. — M.J.G.

ANSWER: Your doctor was ruling out acromegaly, a disease of the pituitary gland, among whose many hormones is the one that controls growth.

In adults, excess growth hormone, as from a gland tumor, causes abnormal growth of certain body parts, chiefly the feet, hands and skull. In children, it causes a general enlargement of the body.

Your uncommonly large pituitary would raise a reasonable suspicion of acromegaly. But by now you would have other classic signs of the rare disorder, such as headaches.

Turkey takers

The student action committee at West Central Intermediate School on Monday raffled off four turkeys as its first fundraiser of the year. At 25 cents each, the students sold 838 tickets, raising $209.50. A portion of the proceeds will go to the Christmas Stocking fund, with the remainder going into a fund for a school activity later in the year. Winning the turkeys -- which were donated by three local supermarkets and the school -- were, from left, Eddie Lacey, sixth grade, Jacob Caldera, fifth, Ashley Bridge, sixth, and Isabel Sanchez, fourth.

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Comptroller John Sharp last week proposed cuts in the state budget totaling $2.1 billion during the next biennium and $4.6 billion over the next five years.

In a 734-page report, titled "Gaining Ground" — the latest phase of his Texas Performance Review — Sharp proposes 400 ways to trim government waste and spending.

If adopted, Sharp's proposal would eliminate 11,683 teachers and state employees by 1996, resulting in a combined savings of $934.8 million in salaries and from the state's projected share of retirement funds.

Teacher groups criticized the proposal. Texas Federation of Teachers spokesman Eric Hartman, in a Houston Chronicle report, said the surplus in the Teacher Retirement System should be used to increase benefits, rather than be "raided to make up for the shortfall in revenue."

Sharp's proposals include:

- Adopting early retirement incentives for state employees.
- Decentralizing the public school system to cede more local control.
- Cutting prison system costs through precise deployment of guards, deporting nonviolent foreign prisoners and making inmates pay sales taxes on purchases.
- Expanding the use of the ATM-styled distribution of welfare benefits, which is now being tested in a pilot program.
- Allowing Texas residents to prepay college tuition for minors at current tuition rates.
- Revoking $567 million in state-authorized bonds that won't be used.
- Expanding electronic access to legislative bills and other state information.

Li. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney released statements saying they will study Sharp's proposals.

Garza Nominated for S of S Gov.-elect George W. Bush has nominated Cameron County Judge Tony Garza as secretary of state.

If approved by state Senate confirmation, Garza will serve a concurrent term for Bush. The secretary of state's duties include:

- Authentication of public laws;
- Keeping a record of all official acts and proceedings of the governor;
- Handling all corporate charters; and
- Running state elections.

Bush called Garza, 35, "a man of excellence," and said he nominated the Hispanic Republican to show his administration's openness to "people of excellence from all walks of life in our state."

Richards to Lead Demos?
Gov. Ann Richards' name was circulated last week as a possible replacement for National Democratic Party Chairman David Wilhelm.

White House Press Secretary Dee Myers, who was traveling with Clinton last week in Southeast Asia, confirmed that Richards is "definitely in the rumor mill" as a possible replacement.

The job pays $100,000 a year, about the same as Richards gets from the state payroll.

Meanwhile, Richards rejected the speculation saying, "I have no plans to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee." She declined to comment further.

The outgoing governor's spokesman, Chuck McDonald, said Richards is receiving many offers for things she can do after she leaves office in January.

Texas to Get Education Grant
Texas will receive $7.1 million in federal funds to develop a comprehensive, statewide school improvement plan.

The Education Department grant was awarded to Texas under the Goals 2000 education reform legislation signed this year by President Clinton.

The state and communities will coordinate to develop school improvement plans stressing academic and performance standards, increased parental involvement, training and professional development for teachers.

U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, said at least 60 percent of the funds will be distributed directly to local elementary and secondary education reform. The money will be allocated on a competitive basis by the Texas Department of Education.

Other Highlights
Attorney General Dan Morales is investigating the background of Court of Criminal Appeals Judge-elect Steve Mansfield. Allegations are swirling that the Houston Republican has no proof of his experience as a criminal lawyer and that he has lied about his age. If Mansfield were disqualified from serving, the governor would name a replacement.

Mexican American Democrats of Texas last week urged a minority boycott of California-related products and entertainment after that state voted to deny education and other services to illegal immigrants. State Rep. Roberto Alonzo, D-Dallas, who heads the group, asked Hispanics to boycott "anything connected to California — even Mickey Mouse."

Dryland cotton unprofitable but irrigated yields hold up

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
COTTON CENTER, Texas (AP) —

Stout winds were churning up rosy puffs of dust that brought stripping gear to a standstill amid rows of cotton stalks this November morning.

Glenn Kirkland, who already harvested his fields, paused for a cigarette and game of dominoes at Midcot Gin Inc. He and others at the gin chalked up this growing season as dry and expensive.

"Everybody knew going in it was going to be tough," Kirkland said. "Dryland cotton didn't make anything. You had to irrigate to get a yield."

Even so, crop quality and quantity held up better than expected around Cotton Center and other parts of Texas that got little rain, agriculture experts say.

And they predict the nation's top cotton state will yield 5 million bales under a record, 19.45 million-bale year for U.S. growers.

This year's early harvest — 75 percent complete, by some estimates — has been accompanied by a favorable market.

Harvin Smith, assistant director of the International Textile Center at Texas Tech University, said farmers are receiving about 60 cents per pound. Last year, prices varied from 50 cents to 55 cents, Smith said.

"Not only are they making more cotton, but they're getting a better price for it," said Carl Anderson, an economist and cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station. "There's a strong demand and potential for increasing exports."

The 25 counties around Lubbock — a region known as the world's largest cotton patch — look poised to yield from 2.7 million to 2.9 million bales, down from 3.45 million bales on the same acreage last year.

Kater Hake, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock, said irrigated cotton fared much better than fields that weren't watered during the summer's long dry spell.

But that irrigation came at a price: Hake quoted estimates that dryland cotton cost $172 an acre to produce, versus $270 an acre for irrigated.

The dryland farmer with poor yields and typical chemical expenses will lose an estimated $48 an acre, Hake said.

"This is definitely the 'Land of Next Year,'" he said.

Experts say high temperatures made cotton plants mature earlier, enabling the earliest harvest the farmers at Midcot Gin could remember.

Agriculture runs the economy 40 miles north of Lubbock in Cotton Center — a town of two gins, two grain elevators, three churches, the Last Chance Cafe and the stadium where teen-age Elks play 6-man football.

Some farmers around Hale County are helping strip others' fields to make ends meet, Kirkland said.

"Everyone around here is struggling," he said. "You've got to hope for it to average out (year to year), and usually it does."

Texas' share of the U.S. cotton market, meanwhile, has eroded.

Analysts said states in the Southeast — Alabama, Georgia, Virginia and the Carolinas, in particular — upped their production after gaining control over the pesky boll weevil.

Anderson said Texas accounted for 33 percent of the U.S. cotton production in 1990. That percentage has slipped to about 25 percent, he said.

But the Lone Star State still maintains a solid dominance when it comes to the crop that generated some $5 billion in Texas agribusiness activity last year.

Kevin Brinkley, an economist with the National Cotton Council in Memphis, said California and Mississippi should harvest 2.9 million bales and 2.2 million bales, respectively, compared to the 5 million projected in Texas.

Brinkley said buyers from the Far East especially like Texas cotton for its coarse, strong fibers and competitive price.
