Josserand honored as Citizen of Year

'Citizen' and family

'ABCs of Success' highlighted by Dykes during chamber banquet

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, Texas Tech Football Coach Spike Dykes laced a serious theme with his own particular brand of humor.

On the Red Raiders' trip to the Cotton Bowl, Dykes remarked, "That's something you'd like to forget, and can't do it."

But, the important thing, Dykes continued, is, "At least we crawled out into the arena."

Directing his remarks to the "ABCs of success," Dykes listed ambition, belief in "country, God and yourself," commitment and "dare greatly."

The TTU head football coach since 1987, the banquet speaker complimented his audience on the community.

"These are the kind of people you like to be around," he declared, adding, "I'm not sure people understand that."

He quoted from a conversation with a former Hereford resident, Alan Warren, who described his hometown as the "greatest place to grow up."

Dykes told his listeners that speeches by two men had great influence on his own perspective of success.

"I heard General Douglas MacArthur at a coaches convention in New York not long before he died," he said. His main message was "don't give up... it's never too late," Dykes continued.

He said the reason we won World War II was because "we didn't have white flags in our pockets."

A businessman, who experienced failure before success, Sam Walton, also made an impression, Dykes noted.

"He had a dream... he tried to hire good people, especially people with feelings," continued the speaker.

A special ingredient in his formula for success, Dykes said, is "feelings... what some feelings... feelings are what separates success from failure."

The dinner crowd of approximately 350 persons heard the "ABCs of Success" listed by the speaker:

-- Have ambition, want to be good. Don't be afraid to set a goal.

-- Believe. "I'm worried sometimes that people may not appreciate the sacrifice" of so many. "Believe in yourself, believe in God and believe in yourself."

-- Make a commitment. "Don't get involvement and commitment mixed up."

-- Dare greatly. "It's not the critic that counts... the credit belongs to the man in the arena."

Dykes issued his own challenge to his audience, saying, "You only have one life to live. What are you going to do with it?"

He suggested, "It's never too late," to change. "If you don't like what you see in the mirror, you'll never be a success."

TTU alumnus Tom Legate introduced Dykes.

Outgoing and incoming chamber presidents, respectively, Wes Fisher and Wes Klett introduced directors retiring from the board and newly-elected members.

Ending service are Elaine McNutt, Mauri Montgomery, Peggie Fox and John Sherrod. New on the board are Jeff Brown, Don Cumpston, Wade Easley and Scott Hall. Holdover directors are Jeff Carlile, Wes Klett, Jimmy Madrigal, Dennis Printz, Mark Andrews, Mike Foster, Raul Mariscal and Tommie Weemes.

Officers for the year are Klett, president; Weemes, vice president, and Jeff Brown, treasurer. Continuing as executive vice president is F. Michael Carr.

Klett, in his remarks to the dinner crowd, called attention to the theme of the meeting, "Together... Growing with Confidence."

He called for the community to "put aside differences and personal agendas to work" for progress.

"If we work together, there's no limit to what we can do," he declared.

A Hereford man who has made his presence felt in his hometown as well as at state and national levels, Robert D. Josserand, was named "Citizen of the Year" Thursday evening.

Josserand, who is serving in his first term as mayor of Hereford, was introduced by Carey Black, president of the Hereford Lions Club, sponsor of the annual award.

Black and others aware of the award to be made to Josserand were kept in suspense for sometime before the arrival of the honoree.

Josserand was involved in a business meeting at another location in Hereford and was lured to the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet by a request that he present a special proclamation to the guest speaker, Texas Tech Football Coach Spike Dykes.

Josserand was cited for his leadership in the community with special emphasis on the role he played in bringing a Premium Standard Farms pork processing plant to Hereford.

Responding to the presentation, Josserand said quietly, "Thank you from the bottom of my heart."

The Pratt, Kan., native was graduated from Colorado State University, served in the U.S. Air Force and worked as an extension agent, banker, feedyard and farmland manager before coming to Hereford in 1971 with W.R. Grace's Farr Better Feeds.

He later joined Prochemco Cattle Company, staying with the firm until it merged with AZL in 1979. In April 1983, Josserand and partners bought AZL. The name was changed to AZTX Cattle Company, which he heads now.

Black, in introducing the honoree, said, "He's well known -- nationwide, statewide and Herefordwide." He cited the leadership Josserand has taken in improvements in the City of Hereford.

"He was instrumental in the City Commission setting short-term and long-term goals for the city," Black said.

Among accomplishments Black listed are the water development project, park improvement program and completion of the aquatic center.

Soon after taking office as mayor, Josserand began a series of "work sessions" of the City Commission, spending time outside the regular meeting setting to evaluate and determine goals, Black pointed out.

From these meetings came the projects that the city has worked on in the last two years.

"He's comfortable and effective in leadership," Black said of Josserand. He said his service as president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association and National Cattlemen's Association is indicative of leadership given by Josserand.

Black introduced the honoree's family, including his wife, Nancy, and three children, Joan Poarch of Canyon, John Josserand of Hereford and Barry Josserand of Canyon. The sons work in the family's business. The family, including eight grandchildren, joined the Josserand on the podium.

Another son, Doug Josserand, died several years ago in a boating accident at Lake Meredith. Black

Fugitives arrested in Lake Meredith area

Two Hereford residents were expected to be returned to town Friday afternoon after they were arraigned in Potter County on escape charges in connection with an incident that occurred here on Monday.

Authorities arrested Lloyd White, 25, and his wife, Amy, 23, at about 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Lake Meredith National Recreation Area.

Deaf Smith Sheriff Joe Brown said the pair apparently had car trouble in the lower McBride Canyon area.

They asked a passing couple for assistance and the two people told park rangers about the Whites. Rangers recognized the couple and arrested them without incident.

White was still wearing the handcuffs that were on his wrists when he escaped from a local dentists office on Monday after having dental work done.

White ran from a deputy as the officer was completing paperwork for the dental work.

Sheriff's officials said at the time that White ran a short distance, then jumped into a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by his wife and the pair fled the scene.

White was being held on a violation of probation charge on an original charge of theft by check. He also was being held on charges of public intoxication and Class C assault and for violation of probation.

At the time of the incident, Mrs. White was on probation for resisting arrest.

Brown said two jailers were preparing to leave late Friday morning to drive to Amarillo and pick up the Whites for transport back to Deaf Smith County Jail.

Prison terms assessed in 222nd District Court action

Prison terms were assessed defendants in 222nd District Court Thursday, on pleas of guilty and revocation of probation.

Estaban Pena, who was serving two probated sentences on conviction for burglary of a motor vehicle, was ordered to Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division for terms of eight years and six years, on revocation of probation.

A 15-year term in TDCJ-ID was given Danny Castillo, 28, on his plea of guilty to attempted murder.

Probation of Aurelio Garza Gonzalez, 61, convicted of felony driving while intoxicated, was revoked and he was ordered to serve a four-year prison sentence. On a guilty plea to another felony DWI charge, Gonzalez was sentenced to four years in TDCJ-ID. The sentences will be served concurrently.

On a motion by the state to revoke probation, Norma Safinas Cervantez was ordered to enter the Taylor County Restitution Center program. She originally was convicted of tampering with a government record.

Terms of probation of Guadalupe H. King, serving a sentence for felony DWI, were modified and extended a year.

Antonio Aguirre Rodriguez, 37, entered a guilty plea to possession of a controlled substance, cocaine, and was sentenced to eight years' probation.

In court sessions earlier, Enrique Trevino, 26, entered a plea of guilty to sexual assault of a child. He was given a 10-year probated sentence and fined $1,500.

And, Jesus Lucio, 20, charged with forgery by making and forgery by possession, entered a guilty plea. The charge was reduced from felony to Class A misdemeanor and he was sentenced to a year in jail, probated a year, and fined $300.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says some folks think the hardest problem a business owner faces daily comes about 5 p.m., when he has to decide if he is tired or lazy.

You have to listen closely to what some people say. For example, a football coach, being interviewed by a school board, told them he was 5-and-5 the previous season. Turns out he lost five at home and lost five on the road!

The man who complains about the way the ball bounces is likely the one who dropped it.--Lou Holtz

Mayor Bob Josserand was a little upset Thursday night, just prior to the recognition of the Citizen of the Year at the annual chamber banquet. He had skipped out of an important business meeting in order to make a presentation to the guest speaker, Spike Dykes.

At least that is what chamber executive Mike Carr had told him. Josserand had scheduled the AZTX

Cattle Co. meeting here before he knew the date of the chamber banquet. But, eager to please, he made arrangements to arrive at the banquet in time to make his presentation.

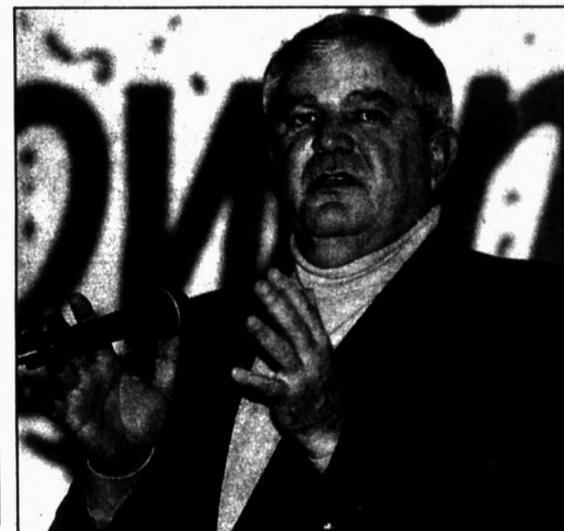

Instead, he watched as new C of C President Wes Klett made the presentation to Spike. Josserand's wife, Nancy, said Bob whispered to her, "After making a special effort to be here, it was to no avail--they didn't even call on me!"

Moments later, as Lions Club President Carey Black started the recognition of the Citizen of the Year, Josserand discovered why his presence at the banquet was so important to all concerned.

There's no doubt that Josserand was a popular selection as he accepted the award to a standing ovation. And, there's no doubt that Hereford is fortunate to have him serving in a leadership role.

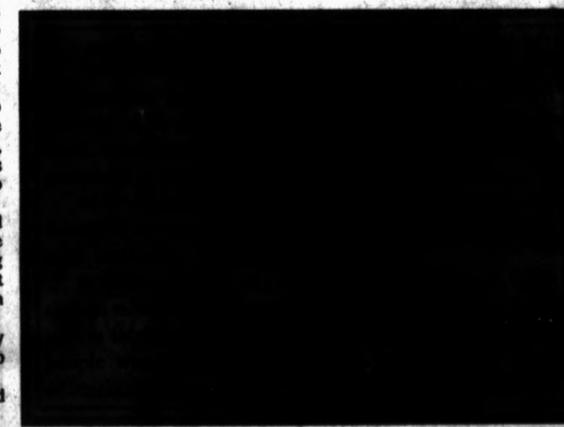

A wise man once said, "To every man comes that age-old decision, to minister or to be ministered unto."

We are glad that Bob Josserand chose to serve this community.

Local Roundup

Snow possible Saturday

Thursday's high temperature was 69 degrees and the low was 35 degrees. For this weekend, those numbers are just a memory, as the National Weather Service is predicting Hereford will enter the deep freeze tonight, with a low around 20 degrees under mostly cloudy skies with north winds increasing to 20-30 mph and gusty later on. For Saturday, look for more of the same, with a 20 percent chance of light snow, a high between 20 and 25 degrees and northeast winds at 20-30 mph and gusty. Caution will be advised on area lakes.

Quayle supporters agree with decision

By RITA BEAMISH

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Vice President Dan Quayle's decision to forgo a 1996 presidential race was logical even to admirers, who said his politics were right but his troubled image kept him from getting financial and organizational support for a viable race.

Quayle's announcement Thursday left a quickly narrowed field, after similar decisions in recent weeks by former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp and former Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

The GOP contest still could expand with the entry of governors who have been eyeing the race, including California's Pete Wilson, Massachusetts' William Weld and Wisconsin's Tommy Thompson. Quayle's fellow Indiana Republican, Sen. Richard Lugar, also is voicing presidential aspirations and is hoping to win Quayle's constituency.

But the daunting prospect of competing with Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Senate Majority Leader

Bob Dole, R-Kan., in the money contest may give potential candidates pause.

Quayle in a statement said he could have raised the money needed and simply decided to "forgo the disruption in our lives."

But political associates and acquaintances said Quayle had virtually no success toward raising even part of the $20 million that Gramm, Dole and former Education Secretary Lamar Alexander have set as their fund-raising goals for the year.

"The financial aspect of it threw a bucket of cold water on his enthusiasm," said Mark Goodin, an adviser to Quayle. He also had trouble attracting party organizational strength.

Reality set in when Quayle was rejected by people he thought would support him, associates said.

"Dan Quayle is a smart guy and I think he got out there and studied the situation and he knew how much money it would take," said GOP

strategist Charles Black, a Gramm

adviser. "A lot of people like Dan Quayle but very few that have been active in the party thought he could win."

Although some believed he could engender grassroots support, Quayle was seen as carrying too much political baggage from his days as vice president. Despite substantive achievements, he never managed to shake off the perception that he was a joke.

"He saw the handwriting on the wall," said John Neiger, an Arlington, Va., conservative attending this week's Conservative Political Action Conference in Washington.

He said he agreed with Quayle's positions but, "I don't think that he thought he would be able to win."

On Thursday the conference participants were wooed by Alexander and Gramm, both claiming the right to carry the conservative standard against President Clinton.

Quayle was especially popular with religious conservatives and it was not immediately clear where their support would go. Several strategists said Quayle's backers might end up dividing proportionately among Dole, Gramm and Alexander.

Two other potential candidates, commentator Pat Buchanan and Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., enjoy strong support among religious conservatives and the most conservative wing of the party, but are considered long shots for the nomination.

Iowa Republican Chairman Brian Kennedy said religious conservatives "are still kind of shopping to see where the candidates are."

David Keene, chairman of the Conservative Political Action Conference, criticized the GOP's new front-loaded primary season, which squeezes at least two-dozen primaries and caucuses into a six-week period. He said it leaves little room for someone like Quayle to prove himself to those who doubt his electability.

"You can't raise money until you've already proven it, and you can't prove it until you raise the money" because there is so little lag time in the primary schedule, he said.

Calls attention to theme

the division's "Woman of the Year" recipient, Linda Daniel.

She reminded that Hereford will host the Miss Top of Texas Pageant on March 4.

Closing out his year as chamber president, Fisher called attention to progress made during the year.

He said passing the half-cent economic development tax and establishing the economic development board were major milestones in the life of the community.

The banquet was served by K-Bob's in the Hereford Independent School District's administration building. Assisting in serving were members of the Hereford High School Key Club.

Obituaries

Feb. 9, 1995

Donald Curtis "D.C." Martin, 85, died Thursday in Midland. He was a school administrator in Hereford from 1949 until 1975.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at Ellis Funeral Chapel in Midland with Ralph Gates of Fairmont Park Church of Christ officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mr. Martin was born in Arkansas and moved to Oklahoma as a child. He received a bachelor's degree from East Central State College in Oklahoma and a master's degree from West Texas State University. He also completed graduate work at Eastern New Mexico University. He married Delia Carroll in 1929.

He was a superintendent in schools in Oklahoma before moving to Hereford in 1949. He retired in 1975. A veteran of service in the Rainbow Division of the 42nd Infantry during World War II, Mr. Martin was active in Central Church of Christ in Hereford, serving as a deacon. He belonged to Fairmont Park Church of Christ in Midland.

Survivors are his wife; a son, C.D. Martin of Midland, a granddaughter and two great-grandchildren. A brother and a sister also survive.

Republicans pushing for additional prisons in anti-crime changes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Majority Republicans, brushing aside opposition from the White House, are pushing to authorize more money for prisons as part of their remodeling of the 1994 anti-crime law.

The House is to vote today on a bill that would add more than $2 billion to the $8 billion set aside last year for prison construction, but it would demand that states first enforce tougher sentencing for violent offenders.

Democrats argue that the stiff requirements would make most states ineligible for funds, so little of the prison-building would actually be distributed.

The bill is the fourth in a six-part package to put a Republican stamp on the $30 billion anti-crime law passed by the Democratic-controlled Congress last year.

"We're trying to send the signal we have decided in a very direct, tough way on making crime very expensive for the criminal," said House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga.

But for the second straight day, President Clinton suggested that he might veto Republican bills that dismantle key elements of last year's act.

"We don't believe it should be changed in ways that can weaken our commitment to putting 100,000 police on the street, and that basically spend more money on prisons and less money on police and prevention," Clinton said.

The Violent Criminal Incarceration Act would increase to $10.5 billion over five years funding for new prisons. But half the money would be given only to states with "truth-in-sentencing" laws requiring serious violent felons to serve at least 85 percent of their sentences. The other half would go only to those states that increase the number of violent convicts sent to prison and increase the average time they serve behind bars.

Attorney General Janet Reno said virtually no states would qualify for prison funds under the GOP proposal.

Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., said her state can't meet the tough sentencing requirement because, without more federal funding, it doesn't have enough prison space and must release prisoners early. "We are here today forced to debate an empty prison promise," she said.

The Republican majority rejected, 251-179, an attempt by Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., to remove the "truth-in-sentencing" requirement. With the stringent GOP conditions, he said, "My guess is a year from now the vast majority of you will find that your state hasn't gotten a nickel from the bill."

But Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Fla., said the GOP bill would not penalize states. "We want to change their laws. This is a carrot approach."

Upon completion of the prison bill, the House takes up debate on bill No. 5, legislation to streamline deportation of criminal aliens after they serve their sentences. The focus, said Gingrich, should be on "immediate deportation of criminal aliens so that the minute they're out of jail, they're out of the U.S."

The House also agreed, as part of the prison bill, to earmark $650 million a year to reimburse states for the costs of incarcerating criminal aliens. California alone says it has 18,000 aliens in its prison system, costing $375 million a year.

Among other amendments, the House agreed to permit states to use prison grants to build and operate youth correctional facilities and approved language requiring that victims, the local media and the convicting court be notified prior to the release of a violent offender.

Rep. Dick Zimmer, R-N.J., won approval of an amendment that would bar personal luxury items such as in-cell televisions and computers from federal facilities and requires all inmates to work 40-hour weeks.

Already this week, the House has passed bills that would require criminals to pay full restitution for their victims for damages, impose a one-year limit for death row inmates to file appeals to federal courts and expand the authority of courts to use evidence that is illegally obtained.

Bill would let districts select textbooks

By PEGGY FIKAC

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Local school districts could buy whatever textbooks they please with state money under a proposal by Senate Education Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff.

He says the current system, in which state education officials approve the books that districts can buy with state funds, "encourages the least common denominator. The companies are going to submit whatever it is they think TEA (the Texas Education Agency) requires and nothing more."

Elimination of the state textbook adoption process will be part of a bill overhauling state education laws that will be introduced next week, Ratliff said in a Thursday interview.

Legislative leaders have said they expect lawmakers this session to transfer more authority from the state education bureaucracy to local school districts.

Ratliff, who expects drastic curtailment of the TEA, contends that state adoption of instructional materials will become less workable as more information is made available to schools through such formats as computer disks instead of textbooks.

"There's no way in the world that any agency will have enough people to review the massive material available through that media. Yet, if we continue the current system, they will have to submit all that material to TEA," he said.

But another Republican, State Board of Education Chairman Jack Christie of Houston, expressed concern about doing away with state textbook adoption.

Under the current system, school districts can use state money to buy books approved by the state. They can use local funds to buy other books if they choose.

"My basic feeling is textbook selection still should be a statewide function, because half the districts don't have the experts to peruse those books and choose what's best for the kids," Christie said. "I'm not saying some can't. I'm saying overall, when you have to choose for 3.5 million students, you'd better have a centralized review process."

Ratliff said that under his proposal, regional education service centers would be given authority to create panels of educators to review available books and make recommendations.

Shifting textbook adoption to local districts would cut 46 members of the TEA's staff, out of a total 1,133 employees, according to Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno.

Joe Bill Watkins, a lawyer representing the Association of American Publishers, said textbook companies can work under either system.

Obstinate parents have serious hearing problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mom and dad are in their 60s and have serious hearing problems. Dad has a $700 hearing aid but won't use it because he says it sounds like a wind tunnel. Mom flat-out refuses to even get her hearing tested.

Having a conversation with my folks is exhausting. I have to repeat everything at least three times. They often misinterpret information, and I hesitate to get into family matters since they can't hear what is being said and get the facts wrong.

What worries me the most is when they drive. They cannot hear train whistles or ambulance sirens. Another problem is their inability to hear the phone ring. When I call and there is no response at night, I become concerned and drive over to see if they are OK.

My mother became annoyed with me because she says I mumble. Ann, I speak at hundreds of meetings a year and enunciate clearly. I am worn out trying to maintain a civil relationship with my parents, and I need some advice. Just sign me—"What?"

DEAR WHAT: Enlist the help of your parents' doctor. Tell him or her what you have told me. Hopefully, the doctor will intervene and urge both parents to use a hearing aid.

It also sounds as if your folks should not be driving. If you honestly feel they are not safe behind the wheel of a car, call the police and report them. I have suggested this in the past and have been told this approach is extremely successful and possibly lifesaving.

Above all, be patient. One day, your children may have the same problem with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is about "Dottie," who told the hotel staff it was her parents' anniversary when it wasn't. The hotel sent flowers.

My husband and I were shocked and not amused by Dottie's duplicity in faking special occasions at the expense of innkeepers. My husband has spent the last 20 years in hotel and restaurant management. He regards his customers as guests. The vast majority of them are a delight. The Dotties are the darker side. Someone paid for those flowers. Fraud means increased costs for everyone.

The members of the hospitality industry work hard to assure all guests a comfortable time at a reasonable price. There are nice towels for your use during your stay. They are not a gift to you. The same is true of the blankets, pillows, bedspreads and the clock radio.

The nice little baskets of soaps and lotions are for your comfort during your visit, not to be dumped into your luggage as souvenirs. (Hotels recycle the unused portions of soap and shampoo.) Don't trash the place. Housekeepers work hard. They generally have a quota of 10 to 14 rooms a day to clean in an eight-hour shift. How many people could clean that many bathrooms that quickly? Please control your children. The hotel restaurant is not a playground. All guests should have the opportunity to enjoy a pleasant meal.

Your host will be happy to help you celebrate your special occasions and make your dining experience memorable. Please come visit soon.—Grand Rapids, Mich.

DEAR GRAND: I'm sure all innkeepers around the world will applaud your message. And now, may I add just a word: Please, folks, leave a few dollars for the maids. They deserve it.

In 1543, England's King Henry VIII married his sixth and last wife, Catherine Parr, who would outlive him.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

"TIMES OF REFRESHING"

Pastor Dorman Duggan and the church congregation would like to extend a warm welcome to everyone to come and worship with them Sunday morning.

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m. and the morning worship service starts at 10:30. A nursery is provided.

The Ladies Prayer Group meets on Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

The Wednesday schedule includes children's church, youth groups, and prayer time, all beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information or if you need prayer, call 364-8866 or 364-2423.

You are invited to a time of refreshing (Acts 3:19), of joy and liberty with John Sheasby at Community Church.

Sheasby was born in Cape Town, South Africa in 1946. He moved to the United States with his wife Beverly and their two children in 1982 after having had an encounter with the Holy Spirit and a clear call of God to embark on a journey of faith and ministry in the U.S.

The family presently lives in Hurst where they base their ministry, "Liberated Living Ministries."

Since 1993, a fresh anointing of the oil of joy has accompanied John's ministry bringing with it a fresh manifestation of the presence of God where there is fullness of joy. He is committed to the preaching of the word in the demonstration of the power of God in signs and wonders, believing implicitly that the words of Jesus shall be fulfilled: "The truth shall make you free!"

The services will be Sunday at 6 p.m., and Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. A nursery will be provided at all services.

Come and be part of what God is doing through out the world! For more information contact Pastor Dorman or Janie Duggan at Community Church, 15th and Whittier, or call 364-8866 or 364-2423.

Also participating in the services will be Christ Church Fellowship Pastor Otto Schaufele and Christian Assembly Church Pastor Don Cherry.

Herd baseball team looks to replace last year's stars

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Departed Herd baseball coach J.J. Villareal spoke often about senior leadership as last year's team won game after game. It's easy to see the importance of seniors on last year's 12-13 playoff team when you look at how few players are coming back this year.

Only seven players with any varsity experience return for new coach Pete Rodriguez, an assistant last year who took over when Villareal left to take an assistant's job in his home town of Temple.

Despite the inexperience, the Herd did pretty well in a road scrimmage Tuesday against Frenship--the team that beat Hereford last year in bi-district. On Tuesday, Frenship, a perennial baseball power outscored Hereford 10-4 in eight innings.

"We had a pretty good game mentally, no doubt," Rodriguez said. "We didn't hit the ball as well as I would have liked to, but I thought our pitchers did great considering their experience--JV or no experience--against a pretty good team."

Hereford's next scrimmage is the Alumni Game, scheduled for 2 p.m.

Saturday, and a team of 23 former Herd players have signed up. Weather may cancel the event, though, since the predicted high temperature is in the 20s and there is a 20 percent chance of light snow. A decision won't be made until Saturday.

Although seniors manned most of the field positions last year, no graduated Whitefaces will be missed more than Andrew Tijerina and Ray Hastings, who together pitched 66 of the 68 innings in district play.

Replacing those two will be Rodriguez toughest task.

"We're looking at Jacob Lopez," Rodriguez said of the senior who played first base, right field and designated hitter last year.

"This is going to be his first year on the mound ever, but he's making that transition," Rodriguez said. "He threw (Tuesday) against Frenship, threw two good innings. He did a good job."

The other top candidate is sophomore Sonny Perez, who pitched well for the junior varsity last year.

"He's looking to help us out on the mound no doubt," Rodriguez said. "He's got a little shoulder injury, but hopefully he'll get over that and be all right. The doctor just cleared him on Monday to go all out."

Two other pitching prospects are senior Gregg Kalka, who is still playing basketball, and sophomore John Marty Galan.

Rodriguez has several other positions to fill. Of the returnees, only Lopez, at three positions, and leftfielder Tanner Murphey were starters all of last year.

Lopez has by far the best returning bat. He hit .301, drove in 12 runs, scored 13 runs, stole 15 bases and hit six doubles, finishing among team leaders in all those categories. He'll

Bunt practice

Hereford's Jacob Lopez works on his bunting during baseball practice Wednesday. The senior, who batted .301 last season, is one of the team's top returning players.

Plainview ousts Lady Sandies

Plainview overcame a 13-point halftime deficit to beat Amarillo High 54-51 in a girls' basketball district playoff game Thursday in Whiteface Gym.

The Lady Bulldogs will take on Monterey at 7:30 tonight in Whiteface Gym. The winner of that game gets to enter the playoffs as District 3-5A's third seed.

The AHS loss keeps the two-time defending state champions from even making the playoffs this year.

The Lady Sandies, who lost most of the girls that made those titles possible, played like champions only during the second quarter. A 16-0 run sparked AHS to a 33-20 halftime lead.

Plainview wiped that out with a 24-10 advantage in the third quarter.

Laura Bass hit two big three-pointers in the quarter: one with 2:29 left to tie it at 37-37 and one with four seconds left for a 44-43 Plainview lead.

The fourth quarter was a battle of free throws--each team made one field goal--and Plainview won that battle, hitting 10-of-13 in the quarter.

Plainview led 52-46 going into the final minute, but the Sandies' Christy Kirkland made it interesting with an acrobatic trey.

It went down to the final seconds. After the teams traded free throws to make it 54-51, the Sandies had the ball under their basket with four seconds left. Two Sandies got the ball and passed up good three-point, and the third pass went through the hands of Bria Norris as the final second ticked off.

For the game, Plainview hit 25-of-30 free throws while Amarillo High made only 10-of-19.

Amarillo High finished at 18-12, while Plainview improved to 13-16. Plainview will take on Monterey (22-7) tonight for the right to face Abilene High (21-7) in a bi-district game.

Plainview, Monterey and Amarillo High all finished the district schedule at 7-5, tied for third place. During the regular season, Monterey beat Amarillo in both district games, AHS beat Plainview twice and Plainview beat Monterey twice, making this mini-tournament necessary. Monterey won a three-way coin flip to get the bye.

Zampese to stay with Dallas

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Ernie Zampese likes the low profile life of an assistant coach who watches film and doesn't have to go to media press conferences.

"I've always been a background guy and I don't like an outfront position," the Dallas Cowboys offensive coordinator Ernie Zampese said on Thursday after he withdrew his name from the Los Angeles Rams head coaching derby. "I like to be in the back with the tapes rolling. That's what I like to do. Being a head football coach is far, far removed from that."

Zampese, who was offensive coordinator with the Rams for seven years before he came to Dallas to replace Norv Turner, was one of two finalists for the Rams head coaching job. The other was Rich Brooks, Oregon coach and a former Rams assistant.

Zampese makes about $200,000 per year with Dallas but might have doubled his salary with the Rams.

"I got to thinking about the reality of the job and decided there are a lot of people in this business who would like to have my job," Zampese said. "I understood going in this was really not my back. I knew all the people with the Rams. They are good friends.

I felt if it (being a head coach) could work it could work with them."

But Zampese decided being a head coach didn't really fit his style.

"When I really sat down and thought about it, I decided it was really something I didn't want to do," he said.

"I love it in Dallas. It's a great town and a great organization. I came here to get a Super Bowl ring and I still think it's the best place to be."

Zampese will be with the other Cowboys coaches when they go to the NFL draft combine at Indianapolis. He said he hoped the Cowboys could sign all their free agents.

Irvin, Cowboys reach agreement for 5 years

IRVING, Texas (AP) - A five-year, $15 million contract will make Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Michael Irvin the highest-paid receiver in NFL history, surpassing the Los Angeles Raiders' Tim Brown.

Irvin, a four-time Pro Bowl selection who has led the Cowboys in receiving the past four seasons, gets a $5 million, upfront bonus in the deal which beats a four-year, $11 million contract signed by Brown.

Irvin came to terms with the Cowboys on Thursday night and was to sign the contract today.

Irvin, the Cowboys' fourth all-time leading receiver with 6,935 yards, has earned $1.25 million in each of the last three years.

Irvin will count $2.2 million against the salary cap this year. Under salary cap rules the bonus can be spread out over five years.

"This is my reward for 12 years of going over the middle," Irvin said.

By signing Irvin the Cowboys were able to save their "franchise" designation which a team can use on one player to keep him from going to another team.

"Frankly, when you really add up what he's contributed to the Dallas Cowboys over the last six years - what his spirit is, what his heart is, what he contributes in spirit to our team - it's hard to put money, a dollar value on that," said Cowboys owner Jerry Jones.

Irvin described the negotiations as smooth.

"It didn't go like the last one where I had to go right up to the last game," he said. "Jerry stepped up and said, 'We're going to get this thing done and we're going to make sure that everybody understands the direction we're going, and that's back to the Super Bowl and doing everything we can to put a winner on the football field.'"

Spokesman Rich Dalrymple said signing Irvin shows that the Cowboys want to be aggressive about holding onto their free agents.

"Jerry feels very confident that we're going to be in a situation to retain several of our key free agents. (Irvin) was the most important one because this sets the tone for a critical free agency off-season period for us," he said.

Still to come are negotiations with Tony Tolbert, Mark Stepanoski, Alvin Harper, Jay Novacek, Derek Kennard and James Washington.

"What really counts is what we're going to do in the future," Jones said. "And that's really where most decisions are made. And this is an indication of what we think he means to us in the future."

"We want to put that football team back on the field that was out there against the 49ers in the (NFL) championship game," he said. "We'd like to do that on Monday Night Football out here when we open the season."

play first base when not pitching, Rodriguez said, and Galan will be there when Lopez is pitching.

Murphy, now a junior, was the left fielder all of last season, and this year he'll compete with Aaron Sorenson for the catching job, Rodriguez said.

Murphy batted only .167 last year, but was productive in other areas with 15 runs, 14 RBIs and 11 stolen bases. He batted second all year and did the little things you need to do in that spot, leading the team in sacrifice bunts with four and taking enough pitches to let departed leadoff hitter Chris Vallesjo steal 28 bases.

Third baseman Michael Marquez and shortstop Ronald Torres each started for about half the season. Both provided good gloves in the infield but not much at the plate: Torres was 5-for-31; Marquez was 1-for-16. Those two will man the left side of the infield, with Perez a possibility at third base.

Armando Zambrano, who played right field late last season, moves to second base this year, Rodriguez said. Zambrano hit .308 in limited duty (26 at bats) last year.

Four players will compete for the three outfield jobs: Wade McPherson, Gabriel Guerrero, Joe De La Cruz and Homer Hamilton, who was a member of the squad late in the season, but didn't get to bat.

Perkins' treys kill Bulls

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) - Sam Perkins starts at center, plays like a forward and shoots like a guard.

Perkins scored 21 points and went 5-for-9 from 3-point range as Seattle beat Chicago 126-118 in overtime Thursday night.

One of his 3-pointers sent the game into overtime. Another gave the Sonics the lead for good.

"They're big daggers," Seattle coach George Karl said. "They're daggers that stick an opponent really hard in an overtime game."

Seattle recovered after blowing an 18-point third-quarter lead.

"We lost the lead, played around and we were fortunate to win the game," said Perkins, who has more 3-pointers (77) this season than any of his teammates.

Bulls coach Phil Jackson was frustrated that a good comeback was wasted.

"It's disheartening," he said.

"We've played valiant games like this, but something has happened down the stretch and we've lost the game in overtime or at the end of the game."

Elsewhere, Golden State beat Denver 109-101 and the Los Angeles Clippers defeated Houston 122-107.

Perkins hit a 3-pointer over a leaping Will Perdue to tie the game at 111 with 21 seconds left in regulation. The Sonics went to Perkins twice before he got enough space to shoot.

"He got rid of the ball the first time," Perdue said. "They got it back to him and he hit the tough shot."

Seattle, which snapped a three-game home losing streak, also got big efforts from two players who are heading for the All-Star game this weekend in Phoenix. Shawn Kemp had 30 points, eight rebounds and two blocks, while Detlef Schremp had 24 points, eight assists and five rebounds.

"We had the big lead and relaxed," said Kendall Gill, who scored 18 points for Seattle. "We know better than that."

Ron Harper scored 26 points for the Bulls, while Scottie Pippen had 24 points, nine rebounds, nine assists and five steals.

Warriors 109, Nuggets 101
Latrell Sprewell scored 30 points and Tim Hardaway added 25 for visiting Golden State, which survived two late runs by Denver.

Reggie Williams had 18 points for the Nuggets, who are 2-10 under interim coach Gene Littles. Golden State was without coach Don Nelson, who was in Arizona with his ill mother. His son, Donn, ran the team, which is 3-7 under his leadership.

Clippers 122, Rockets 107

Loy Vaught scored 15 of his career-high 33 points in the fourth quarter and the Los Angeles Clippers shot a season-high 63 percent from the field.

Rookie Lamond Murray scored 26 points and Malik Sealy added 24 for the Clippers, who snapped a six-game losing streak and an eight-game skid against the Rockets. Hakeem Olajuwon led the Rockets with 34 points.

Duke finally gets ACC win

By The Associated Press

The Cameron Craziest had stormed the court before, but never for a reason like they had Thursday night.

More than 100 fans poured onto the court at Cameron Indoor Stadium simply because Duke won an Atlantic Coast Conference game, 77-70 over No. 18 Georgia Tech.

It was Duke's first conference victory all season and snapped a four-game home losing streak.

"It's just been crazy how this year has been going," senior forward Erik Meek said after the Blue Devils (11-11, 1-9) broke their school-record ACC losing streak and won its second game in their last 11. "To get this win - it just feels great. It's hard to wipe out everything that has happened, but we have to keep going and this gives us a lot of confidence."

That coach Mike Krzyzewski has been sidelined since the second game of the losing streak as he continues to recuperate from back surgery didn't help matters. In fact, it made quite difficult, especially on interim coach Pete Gaudet.

"I'd be lying if I didn't say I was relieved," Krzyzewski's longtime assistant said. "It was a terrific win ... but we can't treat it like a circus."

Duke had won at Notre Dame on

Jan. 24 to end an overall losing streak, but the conference skid continued.

In other games involving ranked teams Thursday night it was: No. 6 UCLA 74, Washington 66; No. 9 Arizona 84, No. 15 Stanford 73; No. 12 Arkansas 88, Memphis 87; and No. 14 Arizona State 100, California 81.

Duke had come close to getting that first ACC win against some high-caliber competition lately, losing by two points to No. 1 North Carolina in double overtime and by the same margin at No. 8 Maryland. The Blue Devils finally found a way to come through at the end to get the win.

"We were more mature tonight, that's why we got our win," said freshman Ricky Price, who scored 12 points, including a key basket in the final minute that sewed up the win. "Even when a baby grows up and his mom tells him not to do something, he gets slapped on the hand. We've been slapped nine times. We were tired of getting slapped. Now we want to slap somebody."

Georgia Tech (15-7, 6-4) had been one of the ACC's hottest teams, winning straight games by an average of 17.3 points without leading scorer and rebounder James Forrest, who is sidelined with a broken hand. But the Yellow Jackets turned it over twice after taking a 68-67 lead with 2:35 to play.

"Those plays didn't win or lose the game," said Travis Best, who finished with 25 points and committed the first of the turnovers with Drew Barry committing the other. "It was just a miscommunication. The whole series of events in the last minute or so they took advantage of."

Anthropologists meet with missionaries to find common ground

By DAVID BRIGGS
AP Religion Writer

Ask an anthropologist about missionaries, and the image that may come to mind is of self-righteous individuals traipsing through villages, covering women's breasts and otherwise seeking to impose their cultural values on tribal peoples.

Ask a missionary about anthropologists, and the image may be of amoral observers more concerned with putting native peoples under a microscope than lifting a finger to stop gang rapes and other atrocities.

A new group of anthropologists and missionaries is seeking to put aside old enmities and find common ground in a shared concern for the human rights of people in the least developed areas of the world.

The most visible sign of the attempt at mutual understanding was a two-day session on "Missionaries and Human Rights" at the recent annual meeting of the American Anthropological Association.

At the Atlanta meeting, several speakers urged anthropologists and missionaries to work together in the interests of indigenous populations.

"Given the gravity of the human rights situation... it's time to develop a constructive dialogue rather than stabbing each other in the back," Leslie Sponsel, chair of the association's Commission on Human Rights, said in an interview.

The move represents a return to the time when the two sides had better relations, says Thomas Headland, a missionary and anthropologist who organized the recent seminar.

Up until World War II, missionaries were considered in a favorable light by society, and both anthropologists and missionaries carried similar "Victorian, pro-American, pro-British baggage" with them, according to Headland.

By the 1960s and '70s, what Headland refers to as the beginning of the post-Christian era, the caricatures of missionaries as insensitive meddlers in the lives of native peoples found in the book and movie versions of James Michener's "Hawaii" began to take hold.

In 1971, a group of anthropologists signed a declaration calling for all missionaries to leave Latin America. In recent years, missionaries and anthropologists have traded charges that each group has abused native populations for its own ends.

What has helped bring about the current effort at dialogue is a more self-critical approach adopted by both anthropologists and missionaries, some say.

Frank Salamone, an anthropology professor at Iona College, said some of his colleagues have been stung in giving credit to missionaries for opening doors to tribal peoples and providing anthropologists with shelter and medical care in remote areas.

In going over the historical record, Salamone said, several anthropologists who have taken advantage of mission hospitals have said, "I would have died if it wasn't for the missionaries."

In his own work in Kenya, Venezuela and Nigeria, Salamone said, missionaries have given him lodging and transportation and put him in touch with native people to work with.

"Even 10 or 15 years ago, the majority of anthropologists were pretty damning of missionaries, said Jonathan Benthall, director of the Royal Anthropological Institute in London.

"My own personal view is that anthropologists and missionaries actually have a lot more in common than they thought of in the past," he said.

Headland, who teaches anthropology at the University of Texas at Arlington and is a Bible translator for the Summer Institute of Linguistics in Dallas, said anthropologists have helped make missionaries aware of past faults in trying to impose a foreign culture on native people.

Using anthropology to understand the broader political and economic structures affecting native societies could also help missionaries better serve the poor in the developing world, Headland said.

While the two sides may never come to theological terms, they are increasingly working together to promote human rights and protect indigenous populations.

Italy's flag was designed by Napoleon Bonaparte of France. He made it look much like the French flag, but substituted green, his favorite color, for the blue of the French flag.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

CITY OF REFUGE!

THERE WERE SIX CITIES WHERE ANYONE ACCUSED OF MANSLAUGHTER COULD FLEE AND FIND REFUGE FROM AN AVENGER OF THE DEAD MAN! MOSES APPOINTED THREE CITIES EAST OF THE JORDAN, BEZER IN REUBEN, RAMOTH-GILEAD IN GAD, AND GOLAN IN THE TRIBE OF MANASSEH (DEUT. 4:41-43). AFTER THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN, JOSHUA, AND THE HEADS OF THE TRIBES, DESIGNATED THREE MORE—ALL ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE JORDAN—THERE WERE KEDESH IN NAPHTHALI, SHECHEM IN EPHRAIM, AND KIRJATH-ARBA (HEBRON) IN THE MOUNTAIN OF JUDAH (JOSH. 20:7). NO PART OF PALESTINE WAS FAR FROM A CITY OF REFUGE. SO, NO MATTER WHERE HE WAS, A SLAYER HAD A REFUGE HE COULD FLEE TO! OF COURSE, HE MIGHT BE OVERTAKEN ON THE WAY AND SLAIN BY AVENGERS OF THE DEAD MAN, BUT IF HE MADE IT TO A CITY OF REFUGE, HE WAS TAKEN IN AND RECEIVED A FAIR TRIAL! IF HE WAS GUILTY OF WILLFUL MURDER, HE WAS PUT TO DEATH, BUT IF HE HAD SLAIN A PERSON BY ACCIDENT OR IN SELF-DEFENSE, HE WAS GRANTED ASYLUM IN THE CITY. IF HE LEFT THE CITY, THE DEAD MAN'S RELATIVES MIGHT STILL KILL HIM, SO HE LEFT IT AT HIS OWN RISK. HOWEVER, ON THE DEATH OF THE HIGH PRIEST, HE WAS AT LIBERTY TO RETURN TO HIS HOME AND ENJOY THE PROTECTION OF THE AUTHORITIES (NUM. CH. 35; DEUT. CH. 19; JOSH. CH. 20) THE MATTER WAS BETWEEN MAN AND GOD, AND THE DEATH OF THE HIGH PRIEST WHO REPRESENTED THE PEOPLE BEFORE GOD, CLOSED THE CASE!

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive insertions, no copy charge, straight word ads.

Times	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are 4.35 per column inch; 3.65 inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS
 Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers an additional insertion will be published.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my idea. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires maybe. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen, Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. (Grace obtained).

PANHANDLE REGIONAL HOUSING FINANCE CORPORATION

Panhandle Regional Housing Finance Corporation (the "Issuer"), hereby announces its sponsorship of a program to reduce home loan financing costs within its jurisdiction. The Issuer has established a mortgage credit certificate program which will entitle first-time homebuyers and borrowers of qualified home improvement loans and qualified rehabilitation loans to a federal income tax credit. A tax credit is a direct reduction of taxes due. Under the program a homebuyer would receive a mortgage credit certificate entitling homebuyers to reduce their taxes (up to $2000 per year) by thirty-five percent (35%) of the amount of interest paid on their home loan. The tax credit is available each year that the borrower continues to live in the home financed under the program.

In order to qualify for the program, federal law requires that a homebuyer satisfy each of the following guidelines:

1. Principal Residence. The homebuyer must occupy the home financed under the program as his/her principal residence within a reasonable period not to exceed 60 days after the financing is provided. A principal residence is a home occupied primarily for residential purposes. A principal residence does not include a home used as an investment property, as a recreation home or a home 15 percent or more of the total area of which is used in a trade or business.

2. First-Time Homebuyer. Each homebuyer must be a first-time homebuyer. Any person who has not owned his/her principal residence at any time during the three years prior to closing a loan under the program is considered a first-time homebuyer. This requirement does not apply to loans in certain areas or to qualified home improvement loans and qualified rehabilitation loans.

3. Purchase Price. In addition to income, federal law also imposes limitations on the purchase price of homes financed under the program. The current maximum purchase price for a new one-family home is $94,716 and for an existing home is $59,877. The maximum purchase price for one-family homes in certain areas of the Issuer is $115,765 for new homes and $73,184 for existing homes. The current maximum purchase price for two-family homes is $67,422 ($82,405 in certain areas of the Issuer); for three-family homes the maximum price is $81,613 ($99,749 in certain areas of the Issuer); the maximum price for four-family homes is $94,906 ($115,996 in certain areas of the Issuer). These limitations are periodically adjusted. The purchase price limitation does not apply to qualified home improvement loans. There are special rules that apply to qualified rehabilitation loans.

4. New Mortgage. The mortgage loan financed in connection with issuance of a mortgage credit certificate is required to be a new mortgage and may not replace a prior mortgage on the home (whether or not previously repaid).

5. Income. Because the program benefits low and moderate income persons, federal law imposes limitations on the annual gross income of homebuyers (except with respect to a portion of the residences in certain areas of the Issuer). The current limit on annual gross income for households or families of 2 or fewer persons and for households or families of 3 or more is as follows:

INCOME RESTRICTIONS	TARGETED AREA	NON-TARGETED AREA
HARTLEY COUNTY Maximum Family Income for families of 2 or Fewer Persons	N/A	$39,000
Maximum Family Income for Families of 3 or More Persons	N/A	$44,850
HEMPHILL COUNTY Maximum Family Income for families of 2 or fewer persons	N/A	$38,700
Maximum Family Income for Families of 3 or more persons	N/A	$44,505
HUTCHINSON COUNTY Maximum Family Income for Families of 2 or fewer persons	N/A	$38,000
Maximum Family Income for families of 3 or more persons	N/A	$43,700

CARSON, COLLINGWORTH, DALLAM, DEAF SMITH, DONLEY, GRAY, HALL, HANSFORD, LIPSCOMB, MOORE, OCHILTREE, OLDHAM, PARMER, POTTER, RANDALL, ROBERTS, SHERMAN AND WHEELER COUNTIES
Maximum Family Income for families of 2 or fewer persons $44,400 $37,000
Maximum Family Income for families of 3 or more $51,800 $42,550

These limitations are subject to adjustment each year and have not yet been adjusted for 1995. Gross income includes salary and wages, including overtime, as well as dividends, alimony, public assistance, social security, unemployment compensation and investment income.

6. One-to-Four-Family Home. The residence financed must be a one to four family residence. A one-family residence includes a detached home, one unit of a duplex, a townhouse or a condominium unit. Manufactured housing or mobile homes qualify only if the unit has at least 400 square feet of living space, if it is more than 102 inches wide and if it is of a kind customarily used at a fixed location. If the residence is a two to four-family residence, one unit of the residence must be the principal residence of the owner of the units and (with limited exceptions) the residence must have been first occupied for residential purposes at least five years before the mortgage loan financed in connection with the issuance of the mortgage credit certificate is executed. Land adjoining the home is considered part of the home only if it maintains the home's livability and is not, other than incidentally, a source of income to the owner.

7. Program Area. In order to be eligible for a certificate, the home financed under the program must be located in the Cities of Booker, Darrrouzett, Follett or Peryton, Texas or Carson, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman or Wheeler Counties, Texas.

8. Home Improvement Loans. Home Improvement loans of up to $15,000 are also eligible for a mortgage credit certificate. To qualify, the home improvements must substantially improve or protect the livability or energy efficiency of the home; such as new or renovated plumbing or wiring, renovation of the kitchen, or a new or improved heating or cooling system. Installation of a swimming pool, tennis court, hot tub or other recreational and entertainment facilities will not qualify.

9. Qualified Rehabilitation Loans. Qualified rehabilitation loans are also eligible for a mortgage credit certificate. Qualified rehabilitation loans are owner-financing provided in connection with a qualified rehabilitation, but only if the mortgagor to whom such financing is provided is the first resident of the residence after the completion of the rehabilitation. A "qualified rehabilitation" is a rehabilitation of a building that meets certain specific requirements as to the building's age, the amount of the structure retained in place and the expenditures for the rehabilitation as a percentage of the mortgagor's basis in the residence.

Under the program, mortgage credit certificates will be issued to eligible borrowers on a first-come, first-served basis. The certificates are available in connection with any type of mortgage loan (except loans from tax-exempt bond programs), including fixed rate and adjustable rate mortgages. Any lending institution is eligible to provide loans under this program.

Applications for Mortgage Credit Certificates and additional information about the program will be available after April 24, 1995 at the address listed below. This notice contains only a summary of the requirements under the program. More detailed information and applications are not available through the Issuer, but only at the address below.

Dallas company gains from devaluation of peso

Importer of Mexican goods looks like smartest man in town

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
AP Business Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Jose Hurtado is looking like the smartest guy in town these days.
As an importer of Mexican goods, the company Hurtado heads could be one of the few in Texas that is actually being helped by the devaluation of the Mexican peso.
Hurtado is president of the U.S. subsidiary of Jalisco Trading Corp., formed just over a year ago by shareholders from Guadalajara with the support of the Mexican state of Jalisco. U.S. operations are based in Dallas.
In October, the company mailed out 700,000 copies households of its new mail-order catalog, "La Coleccion J.T.C.: The Art and Soul of Mexico." The glossy catalog features some 220 products such as silver jewelry, dinner and glassware patterned in rich cobalt blue, wood furniture and leather goods. Jalisco also is producing a line of denim clothing using the Corona brand name.

Since the peso plummet began Dec. 20, Hurtado says Mexican companies have turned from reluctance to eagerness to market their wares north of the border.
"Mexico sadly has never been an exporting country. Our mentality has always been to import," he said. "We were struggling really a lot. In the last three weeks it seems like they are calling us almost every day."
"Now they understand that they have to be fast and that 'manana' doesn't mean sometime in the future, it actually means tomorrow," Hurtado said.
While it may be a harsh awakening, the crisis helps Mexican companies realize the value of exporting and seeking U.S. investment to offset their dollar debt, said Hurtado, who also has founded two U.S. accounting software companies and has been in Dallas for nearly 11 years.

"It's been good to go to my country and try to tell these guys, 'Come on, now is the time to do it,'" Hurtado said.
"Businesses haven't taken the opportunity to do what they have to do, which is exporting, become more aggressive in the international marketplace," he said. "They have no choice. They have to export or die."
Unlike Jalisco's experience, the peso plummet is hurting many companies in Texas and the state's economy as a whole.

A nearly $50 billion aid package unveiled by President Clinton last week has won praise from business leaders here. But even if the situation stabilizes quickly, the effect on Texas this year already is expected to be tough.
Ray Perryman, a Waco consultant and economist at Southern Methodist University's Cox School of Business, expects the growth of Texas exports to Mexico this year to fall by more than half, from $4 billion to $1.5 billion, or from 20 percent growth to 7.5 percent. Texas' $20 billion in annual exports to Mexico make up 40 percent of its $50 billion total.
Perryman expects the export decline will cost the state an estimated 30,000 jobs, a tally that will climb if the problems continue.
Although the effect should be relatively short-lived, it's painful now, said Ray Brimble, president of the Austin-based Brimble Group of Cos., which exports computer supplies to Mexico.
"It's disastrous in the short-term," Brimble said. "It's killing me, absolutely killing me."
"People are not only not paying their bills for imports that happened last year, but they're not placing any new orders either. So it's sort of a double-whammy for us exporters," he said.
But Brimble also said the upheaval could help cool the boomtown approach to working with Mexico that grew in the wake of the North American Free Trade Agreement, which took effect Jan. 1, 1994.

has let a lot of air out of the bubble, but in the long term it will take off a lot of the pressure," he said.
Another company seeing immediate problems from the peso fall is chicken producer Pilgrim's Pride Corp. of Pittsburg, Texas. Pilgrim's Pride took a $4.3 million charge linked to the devaluation in its first fiscal quarter, and profits fell to $556,000 from $8.4 million a year earlier.
Pilgrim's Pride has been hit because it must import grain from the United States to fuel its Mexican chicken operation. In addition, lower buying power means less demand from Mexican consumers.
The company also is in the midst of a 40 percent expansion of its Mexican operations that will increase its production in that country to about 25 percent of its total. Pilgrim's Pride is the fifth-biggest chicken producer in the United States and the second-largest in Mexico.
The company, which has more than $400 million in total assets, has some $138 million invested in Mexico and more than 3,000 Mexican employees, chairman and chief executive officer Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim said.
While peso-related losses could continue for some time, "We're making more money in the United States than any charge that we would take down there, so we're not likely to show a loss quarter," Pilgrim said.
Pilgrim also believes his company is well-positioned in Mexico, with its long experience, low costs, high liquidity and integrated production.

"I think that possibly this is going to cause some people there in Mexico to quit growing chickens. It won't be us," Pilgrim said.
"Overall, I think that every time I run into something like this where you lose some money, we've found that for every dollar you lose maybe you're going to make two back when you make a turnaround. We're not concerned about the overall long-range situation," he said.
Like Hurtado, Pilgrim also said the crisis calls for creative response. Now may even be a good time for the company to grow more south of the border, he said.
"For long-term investments, now's the time to acquire assets in Mexico, as far as I'm concerned. We're continuing to talk to people down there ourselves that may have an interest in selling the chicken business," Pilgrim said.
"On the short term, it's kind of a bloody battle. I guess is a good word for it," he said.

Scientists try to understand 'microclimates' in plant life

By GEORGE BRIA
POUND RIDGE, N.Y. (AP) - Frost, like life, may seem unfair. The first nip of autumn wipes out most of your annuals while your neighbor's garden gets to live another day.
You could call it just luck, but the science of microclimates provides a natural explanation. One tomato- or bean or zinnia - dies, while another lives longer because of slightly different climate conditions.
What's true in the neighborhood is true on the continent and on the globe, for landscapes amount to mosaics of many microclimates. To help gardeners, zone maps give a rough idea of where to grow, or not to try to grow, certain plants, particularly perennials which must survive a year's extremes of cold or heat. Scientists are constantly working to refine these charts.
For something as small as a garden, you must make your own map or keep notes on your observations. That sunny, south-facing wall, for example, is a kinder shelter for some plants than the wind-swept spot a few yards away. Or your neighbor's higher elevation enables his or her garden to escape frosts that, lower down, settle on your plants.
With variations like those, a gardener learns to adapt to his own environment. He may succeed in growing things where zone maps or generalized manuals say he shouldn't. A pyracantha bush I've nurtured for 10 years against a protected, sunny side of my house survived cold spells that likely would have killed it on more exposed parts of the property.

Nevertheless, zone maps do serve a purpose, especially when you're new to the game. They tell you the magnolia you fell in love with on a Virginia campus won't make it in New England, but there are varieties that will.
A heat zone map is now on the planning board to complement the Agriculture Department's 11-zone chart, used in plant catalogs, that lists minimum average temperatures.
Another one, published by Rutgers University, divides the United States and Canada into 26 zones and shows rainfall, maximum and minimum temperatures and frost dates. Still another, being prepared at Cornell University for the U.S. Forestry Service, gets more comprehensive and detailed.
The American Horticultural Society, based in Alexandria, Va., has begun raising funds to create a map that would tell a gardener what plants do or don't resist heat stress.
The Rutgers map was developed by a meteorologist, Mark D. Shulman, now retired, and a then-graduate student, Arthur T. DeGaetano, now at Cornell's Northeast Regional Climate Center in Ithaca, N.Y.
In a telephone interview, DeGaetano said a home gardener can look at the Rutgers map to get a broader estimate of growing conditions than furnished by the cold-only criteria of the USDA map.
"All of southern West Virginia is one USDA zone, but on our map, moisture and mountains make a difference," he added.

DeGaetano said the new map he is working on for the Forestry Service will upgrade the Rutgers map considerably.
He said it would show "such things as the modified climates around the Great Lakes" and growing conditions in large urban centers, like the New York metropolitan area.
He suggested that a home gardener scouting for a plant in a catalog governed by the USDA map could refine his search by consulting a Rutgers map.
The 24-by-29-inch, color-coded map is obtainable for $7, including shipping, from Cook College, Martin Hall, Room 101, New Brunswick, N.J. 09903.

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent.

An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to.

Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing.

So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent.

Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examines the latest market trends and housing opportunities.

With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.
