Meno ousted as education commissioner

AUSTIN (AP) - Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno says he would have liked to stay on the job, but respects Republican Gov.-elect George W. Bush's decision not to keep him on.

"He was elected by the voters to use his judgment. He has done that," Meno said Monday. Earlier in the day, Bush said he would replace the commissioner, who was named in 1991 by outgoing Democratic Gov. Ann Richards.

Bush said that Meno "has done a good job and has worked hard to start the process of reform.'

But he added, "After careful consideration, I have concluded that the education changes I seek can best be achieved in a climate of change begun by the selection of a new commissioner.'

Among reported prospects to succeed Meno are Houston elementary school principal Thaddeus Lott, Lubbock school Superintendent Michael T. Moses and Dallas school trustee Sandy Kress.

Education reform was a key element of Bush's campaign. At one point, Bush said school performance ratings rules were changed to try to boost Richards' campaign, a charge that Meno denied.

The 15-member State Board of Education, with an incoming GOP majority in the wake of November's election, will recommend a new commissioner to Bush. The incoming governor will name Meno's successor subject to confirmation by the state Senate.

"I look forward to working with the State Board of Education to find an outstanding commissioner who is committed to the principles of less state regulation, more local control, greater accountability and fairness in testing, streamlining of the Texas Education Agency and creation of home-rule education districts," Bush

Home-rule districts would be freed from many state education rules.

Meno during his term emphasized giving schools more leeway in how they educate students as long as they do the job. He has been praised by Democratic and Republican members of the Education Board.

"I think that we were able to really focus attention on students and student achievement," Meno said.

Also Monday, Bush named Houston chiropractor Jack Christie Democrat Carolyn Crawford of of Education.

Fire scene

Hereford firefighters were called out two times Monday to this church building at 13th Street and Avenue K. The first alarm was at 7:21 p.m. That fire started, said Fire Marshal Jay Spain, after a hasp-type lock was welded to a metal door frame, igniting wood framing behind it. Crews were called back to the scene at 10:57 p.m. when the blaze re-ignited in the roof of the building, which is owned by Templo Camino Verda y Vida, 1309 13th St. Damage was estimated at $10,000. # Clinton pushes plan to help middle class

WASHINGTON (AP) - President of Houston, a Republican, to replace Clinton is confronting the Republican revolution in Congress with attacks Beaumont as head of the State Board on GOP budget plans and promises of spoils for middle-class voters.

He begins a critical year today, visiting a community college in Galesburg, Ill., to promote his "Middle Class Bill of Rights." The trip comes one day after the White House intensified efforts to vilify GOP plans for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

"Is this a gimmick? Is it a political showpiece? Or is it an honest effort to balance the budget?" White House chief of staff Leon Panetta asked Monday.

Halfway through his term, the president knows he needs to rebound from the midterm election embarrassment or face re-election defeat.

The cornerstone of Clinton's fight to regain middle-class support is a few hundred dollars in tax breaks for Americans raising children, paying tuition and saving for retirement.

Getting less attention until today was his proposal to offer vouchers to workers seeking retraining. "We should take the billions of dollars the government now spends on dozens of different training programs and give it directly to you, to pay for training if you lose your job or want a better one," Clinton said in a Dec. 15 address outlining plans for the middle class.

Nearly a month later, his aides were still working out the details of the voucher proposal. Gene Sperling, a White House economic adviser, said Monday that Clinton wants to pool money now going to some 60 different training programs and give workers vouchers of $2,000 to

They could redeem the vouchers at any training program that meets still-unspecified federal standards. It remained unclear how much money or how many workers would be involved, but Sperling said few, if any, new funds would be needed.

On the proposed constitutional amendment, a stream of White House officials demanded again Monday that Republicans specify what programs would be cut to balance the government's books by 2002, as the GOP proposes.

The legislation anticipates $4.9 billion in new funding, including about $3 billion left over from the current two-year budget cycle; $1.5 billion from a projected increase in tax revenues, and the availability of another $400 million from a change in the way federal funding for mental retardation services is handled.

Louisiana GOP activists choose Gramm among dozen 1996 Presidential hopefuls

By JOHN KING AP Political Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Sen. Phil Gramm waltzed to a lopsided victory Saturday as Louisiana GOP activists rated a dozen 1996 Republican presidential prospects, cementing the feisty Texan as the race's early pacesetter.

Gramm won a whopping 72 percent of the vote as nearly 1,300 delegates to the Louisiana state Republican convention staged the first of what is likely to be a half-dozen or more presidential straw polls this year.

Coming in second with only 12 1992 GOP primaries and may run again. Third, with 5 percent, was a radio talk show host, who gave a rousing speech to the delegates. Former Vice President Dan Quayle was seventh with 17 votes - 1 percent. Five other GOP prospects got less than 1 percent.

Saturday's event has no impact on who gets the support of Louisiana's delegates to the GOP nominating convention; that will be determined by the state's March 1996 primary. But Gramm mounted a doublebarreled effort nonetheless, hoping the victory and his early fund-raising lead would force other potential percent was Patrick J. "We rejected Clinton's Jack Kemp, who did not attend, and Congress, we rejected Clinton's former Reagan administration State programs but in 1996 we are going Department official Alan Keyes, now to reject Bill Clinton," Gramm said.

As for his victory, Gramm said in an interview: "It's just one early skirmish in a long war. But I'm a big believer that winning the first battle is a big help in winning the war."

While shrugging off Gramm's showing to his aggressive effort here, his rivals are clearly skittish about letting Gramm dominate the early stages while they decide whether to

"He is giving us the pace of this campaign," said Angela "Bay" Buchanan, who is running her brother's exploratory committee. You can't have Gramm moving ahead in state after state like this and expect to get into the race eight months from now and have success."

Gramm already has transferred $5 million from his Senate campaign committee into his presidential fund, and has a $2.5 million event planned Feb. 23, the night before he formally announces his candidacy - a full 21 months before the 1996 election.

Set to jump in within days of Gramm is Alexander, who did not speak to the full convention but appeared at a Friday night reception, touting his proposal to cut Congress' pay and sessions in half - an idea with considerably less appeal to most Republicans now that they control Congress.

In his pitches to delegates, Buchanan repeated the themes of his 1992 Bush challenge, saying the United States was ceding sovereignty and punishing blue-collar workers by negotiating global free trade agreements. He also said the country has lost its "moral order," should end foreign aid and adopt term limits for federal judges.

Dole won an Iowa straw poll last year even though he did not attend, but had no such luck in Louisiana, where Gramm's folksy twang and sharp-tongued Clinton critique played well with conservatives in his neighboring state.

My view is, it's a little bit early on all the horse races," said Dole.
The Louisiana Republicans were ostensibly gathering to nominate a candidate for governor, but decided a few weeks ago to add the straw poll. There is another one in Arizona on Jan. 28, and Gramm is favored there, too, thanks to backing from Arizona Sen. John McCain, several House members and GOP Gov. Fife Symington. South Carolina Republicans will join the fun on March 3, and Florida Republicans have decided to hold one in November.

A ham radio operator was replying to a query from his insurance

"I'm writing in response to your request for additional information for question No. 3 of the Accident Reporting Form. I answered "poor planning" as the cause for my accident. You said that I should explain more fully, and I trust the following details will be sufficient.

"I am an amateur radio operator and on the day of the accident, I was working alone on the top section of my new 80-foot tower.

"When I had completed my work, I discovered that I had, over the course of several trips up the tower brought up about 300 pounds of tools and hardware. Rather than carry the now unneeded tools down by hand, I decided to lower the items down in a small barrel using a pulley, which fortunately was attached to the gin pole at the top of the tower.

"Securing the rope at ground level, went to the top of the tower and loaded the tools and materials into the barrel. I went back to the ground and untied the rope, holding it tightly to insure a slow descent of the 300 pounds of tools.

You will note in question No. 11 of the Accident Reporting Form that I weigh 155 pounds.

"Due to my surprise at being jerked off the ground so suddenly, I lost my presence of mind and forgot to let go of the rope. Needless to say, I proceeded at a rather rapid rate of speed up the side of the tower. In the vicinity of the 40-foot level, I met the barrel coming down. This explains my fractured skull and broken collarbone.

"Slowed only slightly, I continued by rapid ascent, not stopping until the fingers of my right hand were two knuckles deep into the pulley. Fortunately, by this time, I had regained my presence of mind and was able to hold onto the rope in spite of the pain. "At approximately the same time, however, the barrel of tools hit the ground and the bottom fell out of the barrel. Devoid of the weight of the tools, the barrel now weighed approximately 20 pounds. I refer you to my weight in question No. 11. "As you might imagine, I began a rapid descent down the side of the tower. In the vicinity of the 40-foot level, I met the barrel coming up; this accounts for the two fractured ankles and the lacerations on my legs and lower body. "The encounter with the barrel slowed me enough to lessen my injuries when I fell on the pile of tools, and fortunately only three vertebrae were cracked.

"I'm sorry to report, however, that as I lay there on the tools, in pain, unable to stand, and looking at the barrel 80-feet above me, I again lost my presence of mind.

"I let go of the rope!"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would helpful, but they are scaring me, appreciate your opinion of my late mother's will. My mother always favored my sister, "Brenda". When I was medical student, Brenda received a new car for Christmas. I received a necktie.

When Brenda, who teaches high school, divorced six years ago, she was awarded a large divorce settlement, which my mother insisted she "save". My mother then bought Brenda a lavish condo to "cheer her

Although Brenda's ex-husband pays regular child support and shares custody of their son, "James," my mother paid for the boy's private schooling and tutors. She also gave James ski equipment and private lessons for his birthday. My sons received leather belts.

My mother's will left Brenda a house and a car (total worth, $400,000). I received silverware, which I didn't need, and a desk. I always interpreted my mother's favoritism as an attempt to "equalize" her children's lives. Her will demonstrated her belief that my future and that of my children, who are bright, are assured and we need no help. Yet I can't help but feel resentment against my mother and my sister for this crass discrimination. Am I being unfair? -- Strictly Anonymous, Please.

DEAR S.A.: I have always maintained that nobody owes anyone a gift or an inheritance. Money should go to whomever that person chooses to give it to. It is, however, the better part of wisdom to show no favoritism among siblings when writing a will.

Perhaps Brenda paid a lot more attention to your mother during her lifetime than you did. In retrospect, how close to your mother were you? Did you put yourself out for her in her later years?

The fact that your mother gave her favorite child special treatment is not Brenda's fault. Your resentment against your sister is totally unjustified. Get over it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently became pregnant with my first child. Why is it that when people find out you're pregnant, they feel compelled to give you advice? I'm sure they think they are being Norton, who joined San Francisco as a free agent, was a member of the Dallas team that backed Johnson's brash guarantee by beating the 49ers 38-21 en route to a second straight Super Bowl victory.

Foreman named Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP) - George Foreman sees winning Athlete of the Year as a singular honor. Muhammad Ali sees it as a "challenge."

Foreman, who at 45 became the oldest heavyweight champion in history, was named AP Athlete of Year in voting by sports writers and sportscaters announced Monday.

"Can you believe - the Athlete of the Year, a 46-year-old man," Foreman, who was 46 today, said of winning the award 20 years after Muhammad Ali won it on a the strength of his championship-regaining knockout over Foreman at Kinshasa, Zaire.

"George is a good man," Ali said. 'He deserves it . . . and next year I'll

"The horior is made more splendid for me because it's not Fighter of the Year, it's Athlete of the Year," Foreman said, who won the IBF and WBA titles by knocking out 27-year-old Michael Moorer in the 10th round Nov. 5 at Las Vegas." Foreman won the undisputed championship by stopping Joe Frazier in 1973.

In talking about his future, Foreman said, "I won't fight beyond this year - no way. I've gone as far as I can go in boxing. Maybe I'll try something else now - maybe cooking.

Foreman, only the fourth boxer to be Athlete of the Year in the 64-year history of the award, received 204 points in beating Hakeem Olajuwon of the NBA champion Houston Rockets, who got 138 points.

saying the Cowboys would beat San Francisco, period, when the teams meet Sunday at Candlestick in a third straight title matchup.

"They can talk. We can talk until we're black and blue in the face," Norton said. "If there's talking going on on the field, that's one thing. But as far as talking during the week, that's all good for writing things like that, but we know the game is played on the field."

Last year, the 49ers did not react with such aplomb. They seemed taken aback by Johnson's remarks, and San Francisco players, looking for a way to respond, uncharacteristically lost their cool in a pregame trash-talking match with some of the Cowboys.

This time, the 49ers say, they won't let the Cowboys' talk get them riled.

"It doesn't matter. Nothing matters until Sunday when we play, San Francisco's Steve Young said.
"I could just laugh at it," 49ers fullback William Floyd said. "I mean, we played those guys once this season, and everybody knows what happened. (A 21-14 San Francisco victory Nov. 13). I think when you talk and try to overdo it, it's a sign of insecurity. We're not going to do all SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - Jerry Jones. But Irvin didn't hesitate the talking. They'll do the talking and we'll do the walking."

> Floyd, a rookie who has played with confidence and flair to become a team leader, said he thought the Cowboys' bravado would ultimately work to the 49ers' advantage.

"I thank them for all that they're saying because all they're doing is fueling this team that much more,"

Norton said he's not surprised by Irvin's statements or those of safety James Washington, who has vowed the Cowboys will punish Young somehow if the 49ers' scrambling quarterback starts making like a halfback.

"Everybody approaches games differently," Norton addes. "Some people approach them louder. Some guys go within themselves. You talk about Michael Irvin and James Washington, those are two guys who are more vocal. That's the way they get themselves ready. It doesn't make them better or worse. It's just their way of approaching big games."

AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Mike Schmidt, perhaps the greatest third baseman in baseball history, was the overwhelming and only choice Monday for election to the Hall of Schmidt, whose 548 home runs rank seventh on the career list, was named on 444 of the 460 ballots by the Baseball Writers Association of America in his first year of eligibility. His 96.52 vote percentage was the fourth-highest ever.

"I'm just now starting to get some goosebumps about this thing," he said during a news conference at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia.

Schmidt, a three-time NL MVP and MVP of the 1980 World Series for the Philadelphia Phillies, became just the 10th third baseman to be selected for the Hall. He joins Brooks Robinson, Eddie Mathews and Pie Traynor as the only third basemen elected by the BBWAA; the others made it through other committees.
"Brooks Robinson is the greatest defensive third baseman in history and I would say my numbers are a little better than the other third baseman offensively," he said.

Schmidt, a 12-time All-Star who earned 10 Gold Gloves and had 1,595 RBIs in his career from 1972-89, will be enshrined in Cooperstown in ceremonies July 30.

None of the other 38 eligible players came close to election. It took 75 percent (345 votes) to make it, and 300-game winners Phil Niekro (286 votes) and Don Sutton (264) fell far short as carryover candidates. Tony Perez (259 votes) also missed, as did Thurman Munson (30 votes) in his 15th and final year of eligibility.

"You have to say it magnified the honor immensely," Schmidt said of his solo election.

Pete Rose, who is ineligible because of his lifetime ban from baseball, received 14 write-in votes. He got 41 in 1992, which would have been his first year of eligibility.

"Pete Rose belongs in the Hall of Fame," said Schmidt, who teamed with Rose in two World Series.

Schmidt, the 220th Hall of Famer became the 26th player to be elected in his first year following the initial 1936 selection of Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Walter Johnson and Christy Mathewson.

Only Tom Seaver (98.84 percent), Cobb (98.23) and Hank Aaron (97.83) got a bigger percentage of the vote than Schmidt. Last year, Schmidt's longtime teammate on the Phillies, Steve Carlton, was elected with 95.8

Schmidt received the highest number of votes ever, surpassing Carlton's 436 of 455, although there was a record number of ballots this

He holds the NL record for leading the league in home runs eight times and tied the major league mark with four homers in a game at Wrigley Field in 1976.

Schmidt was a .267 career hitter the same average as Robinson - and a .961 fielder.

"If you could equate the amount of time and effort put in mentally and physically into succeeding on the baseball field and measured it by the dirt on your uniform ... mine would have been black," Schmidt said.

Schmidt holds the NL record for most seasons at third base (18), along with the league mark for most total chances at the position.

Schmidt, who rarely showed emotion on the field, was the driving force behind the only Phillies' team to win the World Series.

In 1980, he had 48 home runs and 121 RBIs in leading Philadelphia to the pennant, then hit .381 with two homers and seven RBIs in the sixgame victory over Kansas City for the championship.

Schmidt won the NL MVP award in 1980, 1981 and 1986.

Sutton (324-256) and Niekro (318-274) have not made it into the Hall despite winning 300 games, which used to be considered an automatic credential for Cooperstown.

Tommy John (288-231, 3.34) got 98 votes and Jim Rice (382 homers,

1,451 RBIs) got 137 votes in their first years of eligibility. Tony Perez (379 homers, 1,652 RBIs) received 259

Halftime tirade backfires for Lakers' Harris

By BOB BAUM

AP Sports Writer PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Maybe those motivational halftime tirades just don't work in the sensitive '90s.

Los Angeles Lakers coach Del Harris blew his top in the locker room Monday night in an old-fashioned attempt to fire up his team after it fell behind the Portland Trail Blazers by 11 points.

The Lakers wandered back onto the court, were outscored 41-15 in the third quarter and lost 129-83, the most lopsided loss in the history of the franchise.

In other games, Phoenix beat Milwaukee 119-102, Boston beat Washington 114-101 and Utah beat Dallas 106-90.

"I threw things. I dumped over the table. I tried to stimulate the troops, and it backfired," Harris said. "Sometimes it works and you get an the beginning of the second half, so there's a problem we'll have to deal with at another time," Harris said.

Van Exel put on his stereo headphones and walked to the team bus after the game, leaving his teammates to speculate about what happened.
"You know how Nick is," Anthony Peeler said. "You've got to wait a couple of days and see what really happened.'

Peeler said Van Exel wasn't ingled out for criticism at halftime. The entire team was the target.

The Lakers' antics overshadowed the Clyde Drexler Story, which has dominated the sports pages in Portland for the past week. The game was Drexler's first at Memorial Coliseum since he went public with his request to be traded.

But there were mostly cheers when Drexler was introduced.

"I was really glad about that because I never want to offend the fans. They're the reason we're here," Drexler said. "The people in Portland have been tremendous throughout my career, and I love them dearly."

Drexler showed the fans what they'd be missing if he leaves. He missed his first 3-pointer, then made his next six.

By the time he sat down for good at the end of the third quarter, he had 31 points and eight rebounds in 26 minutes. It's been obvious that Drexler's desire to play elsewhere hasn't affected the way he or the Blazers are playing. They've won three in a row since the story broke.

'There's a lot of unity on this team," Drexler said, "and it's getting strong and stronger every week."

Clifford Robinson scored 23 points and Rod Strickland had 14 points and a season-high 16 assists before both sat out the final period.

At Salt Lake City, Karl Malone scored 32 points and Jeff Hornacek had 17 of his 21 in the third quarter when Utah pulled away.

Saturday's games were decided early as Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland 29-9 and San Francisco downed Chicago 44-15. It was the same story in Sunday's early game as Dallas dominated Green Bay 35-9.

Then, finally, things got fun. The Miami-San Diego game went down to the final/seconds. The Chargers scored the go-ahead touchdown with 35 seconds left, and the Dolphins then got to San Diego's 31-yard line before Pete Stoyanovich's 48-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the right with one second left.

It ended 22-21, sending the Chargers to Pittsburgh for the AFC

"It will be a tough game," Chargers quarterback Stan Humphries said of facing the Steelers. "I'll start thinking about it tomorrow."

At San Diego, the Chargers overcame a couple of bad calls by the officials and finally went on top when Humphries threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to a wide-open Mark Seay and John Carney kicked the extra

There was still quite a bit of time left, however, and Miami had three timeouts to work with and Dan Marino leading its offense. When San Diego elected to squib the kickoff, the Dolphins took over at their 38.

Scott Miller drew a 32-yard pass interference play against safety Eric Castle, moving the ball into field goal range. After two incomplete passes, Stoyanovich came on. The snap was a bit high, but holder John Kidd got it down in time.

The kick, however, sailed badly to

At Irving, Texas, the Cowboys lost Emmitt Smith early in the game when he re-injured his left hamstring. But by then the score was 14-3 and Dallas had all the points it would need.

Aikman completed 23 of 30 passes for 337 yards and two touchdowns to help give rookie coach Barry Switzer his first playoff triumph. Green Bay was unable to score in the second Tight end Jay Novacek caught 11

"It's the best we played all year on offense and defense. It was Troy's best game since the opener against Pittsburgh," Switzer said.

According to trainer Kevin O'Neill, Smith will not be 100 percent for the game against the 49ers, but the All-Pro running back has already vowed to play. "Next week will be a great game.

It's what the public wanted and now here it is," Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren said.

At Pittsburgh, the Steelers did what they do best - and what they did best in their glory years of the 1970s: run the ball relentlessly and play dominating defense.

Barry Foster gained 133 yards despite playing with two broken vertebrae and the Steelers' defense held Cleveland to 186 total yards. Pittsburgh scored on its first three possessions for a quick 17-0 lead.

LA Rams fire Knox

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - The Los Angeles Rams made the first of many widely anticipated offseason moves

Monday, firing coach Chuck Knox.

Left hanging was the question of when - and whether - they will work out the final details of an agreement to move to St. Louis, That decision, which has been dragging on, is expected within the month.

Knox, who had a history of turning teams around, failed to do that in his second stint with the Rams, the team he began his NFL head coaching career with in 1973.

Ending the 1994 season in a seven-game tailspin, they finished 4-12. In his three years back with them, the Rams had a 15-33 record.

"This is probably the end of my coaching career, I would think. I've been very fortunate," said Knox, who turned losing teams into winners first with the Rams, then at Buffalo and "I want to thank the owners that have hired me, the coaches that I've coached with, and most importantly the players who have played for me," he said.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The re- home alone one day for an hour at cent publicity about former President Reagan's Alzheimer's disease causes me to suspect it in my husband. He is OK most of the time, but he shows signs of forgetfulness and loss of interest in what's going on. Aren't there good tests to diagnose it? I am looking for reading matter on the subject also. — Mrs. R.W.E.

ANSWER: Mental-function tests for Alzheimer's disease let us draw pretty good conclusions, but I cannot give you any single sign or narrow group of signs to rely on with confidence. The recently devised eye-drop test for Alzheimer's disease will require further study and trial.

The well-known memory loss for familiar names and events, a failure to perform simple personal tasks, moodiness, depression and a loss of interest are most often mentioned as characteristic signs. But you will need professional guidance before drawing medical conclusions. It's important, since Alzheimer's disease can look like other entirely unrelated illnesses. A series of barely noticeable strokes can add up to a progressive loss of mentation characteristic of the disease. That's called multi-infarct dementia.

We cannot cure Alzheimer's disease, but with drugs we often can control look-alike illnesses, such as circulation deficit. The drug tacrine can help control symptoms in a few patients. Sometimes, drugs used harmlessly for other illnesses create symptoms of confusion in an elderly patient. For all these reasons, you want reliable Alzheimer's diagno

The only certain evidence available comes from post-mortem examination of brain tissue.

My Alzheimer's report discusses what to do when you suspect a loved one has the disease. I am sending you a copy, which others can obtain but he will incorporate them in his by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 47, *column whenever possible. Readers Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Dad was most while we were shopping. When we got home, he was acting strange. He did not know what was going on around him. We let him rest. Later on, about five hours in total, we were ready to take him in, when he just pulled out of it, sort of came to, I guess. This has not happened since. His doctor says Dad had transient global amnesia. Is this a new thing? Was it a kind of stroke he had? Can we expect him to have this again? -K.M. and family.

ANSWER: A stroke is a disturbance in brain blood circulation. Transient global amnesia is quite different. In fact, it is something about which we know little, so far as cause is concerned.

The victim, usually a person in apparent good health, loses memory or becomes seriously confused with no apparent warning. His actions might remind you of someone in a deep dream, in an eerily aimless existence. It can last up to 12 hours or be as brief as a couple of hours.

Recovery, as in your father's case, is complete. Repeat episodes are rare, and it does not mean a stroke is in the future

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you tell me what Horner's syndrome is? A good friend is told that is what she has. She had a strange eye sensation and had it checked out. - R.T.

ANSWER: Horner's syndrome is a combination of a drooping of one eyelid and loss of sweating on the same side of the face. The affected eye pupil is smaller.

Sometimes, a tumor pressing on a nerve lies behind Horner's. A tumor is not the only cause, though. Some cases of Horner's symptoms go unexplained.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.
