Flood named 'Ag Man of Year' at banquet

Keynote speaker at Sugarbeet Banquet

Joe Griffith of Dallas, banquet speaker, author and actor, addressed the annual Texas-New Mexico Sugarbeet Growers Association banquet Saturday night at the Bull Barn. Holly Sugar Corp. President Roger Hill, left, and Bill Cleavinger, T-NM association president, laugh at one of Griffith's stories. The event drew about 400 growers and guests, and Ernest Flood was presented the "Ag Man of the Year" award.

Producers heard a glowing report from Roger Hill, president of Holly Sugar Corporation; five producers were recognized as members of the 10,000-pound club; and Ernest Flood was named "Ag Man of the Year" at the annual Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association annual banquet Saturday night at the Hereford Bull Barn.

Joe Griffith, well-known banquet speaker, author and actor was keynote speaker for the event, and "Texas Country" band provided musical entertainment. Bill Cleavinger, president of the association, served as master of ceremonies. The banquet drew more than 400 producers and interested residents.

The Ag Man award, sponsored by The Hereford Brand, is presented each year to an outstanding area man for involvement in the agricultural industry and in his community. Publisher Speedy Nieman made the presentation to Flood.

Dennis Printz, Ag. Manager for Holly Sugar, presented the 10,000 pound awards to area farmers who harvested 10,000 pounds of sugar beets per acre.

They were: Cris and Sylvia Ingram from the Friona area; Richardson Seeds Inc. from Farmers Corner; Doyle and Ladawan Schulte from Nazareth; David Norton from Bovina; and W. D. H. Farms Inc., also from Bovina.

Roger Hill, President of Holly Sugar Corporation, recognized the Hereford Holly Sugar plant as having a "team" between the growers and the processors which is beneficial in assuring a high quality product.

He also acknowledged the Hereford area growers as having one of the best harvests this year.

Hill stated, "This area produced a higher amount of sugar than it has in many years." The overall average of sugar production was a little more than 6,000 pounds per acre this past year.

Hill recognized the Hereford growers as having one of the highest sugar productions for this year. Hereford was second only to sugar beet growers in Michigan.

He also commented that approaching the 1995 production season, the market looks good.

"In the last three years the consumption of sugar preceded production. The ending inventory will be its lowest in years, driving prices higher", Hill stated.

Flood, Holly Sugar's 18th honoree, is a graduate of Hereford High School and has farmed in the Hereford area since 1966.

He is an active member and lay preacher at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, and has served on the county Farm Bureau board, is a director of West Texas Rural Telephone board, and is on the county committee of the Consolidated Farm Service Agency.

Ernest and his wife Carmen have four sons and two grandchildren. Their son Don and his wife Nicole, have one daughter and live in Victoria. Justin and his wife Matti have one son and reside in San Diego. Nathan lives in Amarillo, and their fourth son, Brandon, lives in Austin.

Coby Gilbreath introduced the Speaker for the Banquet, Joe Griffith, who presented a light-hearted talk on "The More You Put Into Life, The More You Get Out".

Griffith, author and actor, can be seen in over 200 television commercials.

Bill Cleavinger, President of TSBGA, introduced the Board of Directors and Holly Sugar Corporation officials.

Holly's Board of Directors are: Bill Cleavinger, Dick Fellers, Tony Brorman, Billy Evans, Troy Christian, Coby Gilbreath, Kenneth Frye, J.C. Pohlmeier, and Randy Wieck.

In closing Cleavinger expressed appreciation to the 1994 growers and stated he was excited and optimistic about the upcoming growing season. He then led the audience in singing "God Bless America".

Commission buys water rights to anticipate future city needs

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Purchase of water rights to a 200-acre site located just outside the Hereford city limits was approved Monday night by the City Commission, taking another step toward assuring residents of a water supply into the next century.

The contract between the city and Edward and Teresa Paetzold calls for payment of 14 cents per 1,000 gallons of water pumped from wells drilled on the site. The city agrees, also, to pump or make payment to the Paetzolds for a minimum of 100,000,000 gallons of water annually.

On recommendation of City Manager Chester Nolen, the commission approved employment of Steve Bartels as city finance manager. He has been acting in that capacity since last fall.

In other business, the commission:

-- Accepted the audit of city finances for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

-- Upheld the planning and zoning board on denial of a zoning change for a vacant lot south of 109 S. Ranger.

-- Awarded a contract for purchase of four pickups to Stevens Chevrolet-Olds.

-- Adopted the budget for the voluntary park fund for the current fiscal year.

-- Approved the 1995 budget for the Community Publicity and Promotion Account with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

-- Approved amendment to fire zone ordinance.

The contract for water development on the Paetzold property will permit the city to drill up to four wells into the Ogallala formation in addition to one well into the Santa Rosa.

Initially, the city plans to drill one Ogallala and one Santa Rosa on the site. The agreement allows further development for Ogallala water.

The water development program that began with issuance of $3 million in revenue bonds in 1993 called for nine new Ogallala wells and three Santa Rosa.

One new well into each formation has been completed and a pipeline installed to bring the water into the system. A new million-gallon storage facility also has been built and put into service.

A new Santa Rosa well also will be drilled in Veterans Park.

City officials estimate that a mile of pipeline will be required to move water from the Paetzold site into the city system. The property is located south of Austin Rd. and west of Progressive Rd.

Initial payment to the Paetzolds for the first year of production is $15,000. The contract permits payment review at three-year intervals.

The new finance manager, Bartels, has been employed by the city for 11 1/2 years, spending most of that time working in the waste water facility. His salary in the new position will be $27,500.

Bartels attended West Texas A&M University night classes to earn a degree in business, with emphasis in accounting. He received his degree in December.

A native and lifelong resident of Hereford, he took the finance manager position on an interim basis after Mike Hatley joined Hereford Economic Development Corporation. He and his wife, Sandra, are parents of a son, Cory, nine. His parents are Leonard and Betty Bartels of

Citizens being asked for input on decisions

Citizens of Hereford will be called on to help decide major improvements they think should be made in the city, and by giving the City Commission their best ideas, they may collect special prizes.

During a work session Monday evening, the commission outlined a rough draft of the project to be implemented in the next few weeks.

A mail-out to city utility customers as well as publicity in news media will give resident an opportunity to enter a contest that could win them 50 Hereford bucks.

The three best ideas for city improvements will be rewarded with 50 Hereford bucks each. Just for entering the contest, a resident may win 25 Hereford bucks. Five winners of 25 Hereford bucks will be drawn from the total entries.

The mail-out will call attention to accomplishments of city government in the last couple of years and solicit help of citizens in determining projects that should be undertaken in the future.

Congress working on amendment

By JIM ABRAMS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is ending a holiday break by resuming efforts to attach an amendment to the Constitution that would require a balanced federal budget.

While the Senate Judiciary Committee was taking up the balanced budget amendment today, the House stood ready to pass the first bill the new Republican-led Congress will send to President Clinton - a measure making lawmakers subject to the same laws as private employers.

The Senate panel's approval of the amendment requiring a balanced budget by 2002 would set the stage for floor debate as early as next week on the top item of the Republicans' "Contract With America" agenda.

The House Judiciary Committee approved the amendment last week. The measure requires approval by two-thirds majorities in both chambers of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states before becoming the 28th Amendment to the Constitution.

Support is strong in the House, although the Republican drive for quick passage has hit several snags.

House Republican leaders are pushing for language in the measure that would require three-fifths majorities of both chambers to approve tax increases. "We believe that this is the superior version because raising taxes should not be the easy alternative to balancing the budget," Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, and Majority Whip Tom DeLay, R-Texas, said in a statement Monday.

But the three-fifths provision could imperil passage in the Senate, where support is weaker. Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., the chairwoman of the Labor and Human Resources Committee, on Sunday compared the balanced budget amendment to the largely ineffective prohibition amendment. The 18th Amendment, banning the sale of alcohol, was ratified in 1919 and repealed by the 21st Amendment in 1933.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., interviewed by guest host

Ross Perot on CNN's "Larry King Live," predicted House and Senate votes on the balanced budget amendment in about 10 days. He said there would be "a big, big debate" but predicted the amendment would get the 67 votes it needs in the Senate.

Dole did appear to suggest the amendment might not fully solve the budget problem. He noted that Prohibition "didn't stop drinking, but at least it called your attention to what the goal was."

Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., appearing on the same program, said Americans want the Republicans to lay out specifically which programs they'd cut and which taxes they'd raise, if any, in order to erase the deficit.

"They don't want fantasy economics. They don't want platitudes," Daschle said.

Democrats, whose support is needed to pass the balanced budget amendment, also are upset by Republican efforts to defeat all changes offered by Democrats in their rush to push the amendment through the committees.

Bush ready to take over as governor of State of Texas

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican governors of Texas since Reconstruction have been as rare as, well, Republican governors of Texas since Reconstruction.

George W. Bush, whose swearing-in was scheduled today, becomes only the second Republican governor of the state. Bill Clements was elected in 1978 and 1986.

"I can't wait to serve you for the next four years," Bush said during a round of pre-inauguration activities. "I am fully prepared to be your governor. And I can't wait to do so. It is a huge honor."

Appearing at a Republican Party fund-raising luncheon Monday with former GOP Gov. Bill Clements, Bush got a preview of what awaits him.

"If you can't be president, the next best thing is governor of this great state," said Clements, 77, who was elected in 1978 and 1986.

Bush and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, a Democrat re-elected last November, were scheduled to be sworn in at noon in ceremonies on the front steps of the Capitol.

Outgoing Democratic Gov. Ann Richards is traveling in California and won't attend, her office said. Bush praised her for being "extremely helpful" during the two-month transition period.

With one eye on final preparations and one on the weather, Bush made a whirlwind tour of Austin on Monday.

He appeared at receptions, spoke to the GOP luncheon, met with the news media and attended an evening musical gala. His father, former president George Bush, attended the evening concert and was scheduled to attend the swearing-in and parade today.

Offering a preview of his inaugural address and plans for his four-year term, Bush said he expects a good reception from the Democratic-controlled Legislature to his calls for reforming welfare, education, juvenile justice and the state's system of civil lawsuits.

"It's a result of having won an election by 352,000 votes, particularly one in which I stressed issues and philosophy. So long as I stick to philosophy, I've got an excellent chance ... of having substantive reform," he said.

Forecasts for rain on Tuesday had organizers hoping for the best, with outdoor inaugural events to include the noon swearing-in, a barbecue on the Capitol lawn and a parade through downtown Austin.

Asked about any last-minute worries, Bush said, "That a huge raindrop will blot out the third word of my speech."

The two days of festivities for Bush and Bullock are expected to cost about $1.5 million, said Inaugural Committee Chairman Donald Evans.

Evans said two-thirds of that total, about $1 million, is coming from corporate donations. The remainder is coming from ticket sales, he said.

Some citizens' groups contended that the companies are seeking to win influence with the new administration. Bush disputed that, saying the corporation contributions help keep the events affordable for all.

"This is not any undue influence being gained here," he said. "It means that citizens can pay $2 for a barbecue meal and $10 for a gala ticket. As a matter of fact, I found out for the first time who was underwriting the inauguration when I read the program."

Bush, who attended his father's 1989 presidential inaugural, said he got some advice from the old man.

"Keep it short, son," he recounted, laughing. And he said he planned to pay attention.

"My speech, as some have accurately pointed out, will not be too long. But I will talk about a philosophy that I believe is the reason why I won and talk about a hopeful Texas," he said.

In that vein, Bush said he already has met with at least 20 of the 31 state senators and many of the prospective House committee chairmen.

"It doesn't matter if the person is a liberal or conservative or where they're from. I've met with all political stripes thus far," Bush said.

"I have not downplayed conservative philosophy. I believe that's why I won. I believe that's what Texans want. I believe a lot of House members and Senate members, regardless of their party, agree with me."

Scores die in powerful quake in Japan

By ERIC TALMADGE
Associated Press Writer

OSAKA, Japan (AP) - Japan's nightmare of a disastrous urban earthquake came true today when a powerful quake tore through several western cities, killing more than 1,300 people, injuring thousands and wreaking spectacular devastation.

Hardest hit was the port city of Kobe, where the early morning quake toppled hundreds of buildings, touched off raging fires, collapsed roadways and knocked trains off their tracks. More than 12 hours after the quake, huge fires still burned, lighting the night sky.

"I thought it was the end of the world," said 64-year-old Minoru Takasu, whose house fell down around him in Nishinomiya, outside Kobe.

The earthquake, with a preliminary magnitude of 7.2, was the most violent to strike a densely populated area of Japan since 1948, when a quake killed more than 5,000 people in the northwest city of Fukui.

"There have been earthquakes as strong as this one, but not in a metropolitan area," said quake expert Masayuki Kikuchi, a professor at Yokohama City University.

By evening, national police said 1,311 people were known dead, 1,040 missing and 4,241 injured. The toll was expected to rise as communications were restored, allowing authorities to gather fuller reports. Nearly 4,000 buildings were destroyed.

Tokyo escaped unscathed. The quake was barely felt in the capital, 280 miles to the east.

The shaking lasted about 20 seconds and snapped vital lifelines to western Japan, cutting train service and knocking out power and telephone service. Sections of several elevated highways collapsed. A bus sat perched on the edge of a fallen section of highway.

The earthquake also shattered Japan's belief that sophisticated engineering would enable its newer buildings and roads to withstand a major quake.

Following damaging earthquakes in the United States, Japanese experts had confidently predicted that roadways in this country would stand up to even a serious quake. But sections of several major expressways collapsed, as did many modern buildings.

Osaka, Japan's second-largest city and a major financial hub, suffered significant damage. But the quake's full force was taken by Kobe, a city of 1.4 million people about 20 miles west.

Foods recalled after Hepatitis A found in employee of company

AUSTIN (AP) - A case of hepatitis A in a Panhandle food processing worker has prompted the recall of some products sold at markets and delis in Texas, New Mexico and other states.

The Texas Health Department can't be sure the Moorehead Food Products employee contaminated any food.

But health officials in the state, along with the New Mexico Health Department, are asking consumers to return products to stores as a safety precaution.

Health officials also advised people who have eaten some of the products within the past two weeks to call a doctor for advice.

The Amarillo Bi-City-County Public Health District notified the TDH that a food processing worker of Moorehead was diagnosed with hepatitis A late last week, according to a prepared statement.

The foods are sold under the Moorehead or Shurefine label, said the department's Division of Epidemiology Evaluation and Planning. They are a pimento cheese spread with expiration dates of April 18 or May 2; ham salad with an expiration date of Feb. 20; chicken salad with expiration dates of Feb. 20, Feb. 28 or March 6; and potato salad with an expiration date of March 6.

HHS students compete in contest

A group of Hereford High School students last week traveled to Austin where they took part in the state competition of "We the People... The Citizen and the Constitution," a national contest focusing on the history and principles of our constitutional government.

The group of 17 students was one of six to participate in the state finals after advancing from the congressional district level.

The team represented the 19th Congressional District of U.S. Rep. Larry Combest in the state competition.

This was the first year a team from HHS had competed in the Constitution contest.

The contest was held in the State Capitol in Austin last weekend. Sponsor was teacher Jim Conlee, who selected his teams from among his HHS civics classes.

To determine a school winner, individual mock congressional committee hearings are held, with judges acting as the committee. Students "testify" before the committee.

At the state level, the Hereford students had to make oral presentations before a set of judges.

The students did not advance to the national competition, which will be held later this year in Washington D.C.

Industrial production experiences high growth

By JAMES H. RUBIN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Industrial production surged in December more rapidly than it has in two years and factories operated at their highest rate of capacity in more than 15 years.

The Federal Reserve said today that output at the nation's factories, mines and utilities advanced 1 percent last month and was 5.8 percent higher in December than a year earlier.

The strong production figures show that industry closed out last year in robust fashion and contrasted with a government report last week that retail sales in December declined for the first time in eight months.

Analysts said the sales dip may signal the beginning of a slowdown in Americans' spending spree that has powered the four-year economic expansion. But today's data showed no slowing in industrial output.

With strength broadly based, the Federal Reserve said industry was operating at 85.4 percent of capacity in December, the highest rate since October 1979.

The current rate could mean the start of bottlenecks and rising prices, and the latest data is bound to bolster arguments by Federal Reserve members who favor raising interest rates yet again to slow the economy and keep a lid on inflation.

The Fed raised interest rates six times last year, and many analysts expect a seventh boost when the central bank's key policy-making Federal Open Market Committee meets at the end of this month.

The 1 percent gain in output last month was the largest since an identical increase in November 1992.

The December jump was larger than analysts expected and came despite a drop in production at utilities due to unseasonably mild weather.

The Federal Reserve also said that production rose 0.7 percent in November, revised upward from a Cox, Tony Hubner, Tom Jarecki, Tyler Merrick, Scott Parker, Pete Vargas, Stephen Wright, Paige Robbins, Natalie McWhorter, Cady Auckerman, Connie Tena, Melinda Leal and Amanda Sims.

Industrial production grew at an annual rate of 5.4 percent in the fourth quarter, compared to 4.9 percent the previous three months.

Factory output, the most closely watched component of the report, gained 1 percent in December. That matched the November advance and for all of 1994 was up 6.7 percent.

Texas Lottery

By The Associated Press

One ticket bought in the North Texas area correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot is worth an estimated $11 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 15, 28, 30, 34, 37, and 41. In addition to the jackpot winner, there were 125 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $2,025. There were 7,276 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $125. And there were 144,533 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $4 million.

COMMISSION

Hereford.

The apparent low bid, $55,205, for purchase of pickups was rejected by the commission because John Chandler Ford of Amarillo failed to meet specifications.

Nolen reported that specifications required the seller to have a service facility within 25 miles of Hereford, provide on-site service or travel to Hereford to pick up the vehicles for service. Chandler did not meet this requirement.

Stevens submitted a bid of $56,720 for the pickups. Western Ford's bid was $60,496 and Hereford Auto Center submitted a bid of $61,254.78.

Chris Leonard reviewed the audit report for the commission, reporting that no problems were encountered in conducting the audit. To meet budget requirements for the year, revenue of approximately $618,000 was transferred to the general fund.

The year ended with a water fund reserve balance of approximately $869,000.

Expenditures from the voluntary park fund for the year were approved in a budget submitted by Nolen. During the year, expenditures of $107,675 are anticipated. Projects for the year previously were approved by the commission.

A budget for the Community Publicity and Promotion Account of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce was adopted. Funds for the account represent half of the revenue from the motel-hotel tax levied by the city.

A total of $11,620 is expected for the year. Promotion of city events and tourism is included in the budget.

The fire zone ordinance, in effect in Hereford since the 1920s, was amended on a request from Thad Keyes. The ordinance called for masonry construction with a specified area of Hereford. Keyes requested the change to allow construction of a metal building.

A change in zoning from R2, residential, to MH, mobile home, requested by Mrs. D.R. Holt, was denied by the planning and zoning commission on Dec. 27. The City Commission's action upheld the decision.

Brownd will serve as regent for DAR

Mrs. Gid Brownd was elected to serve as regent for 1995-1997 for Los Ciboleros Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution when the chapter met Jan. 12 in the home of Mrs. Charlie Bell.

Also elected to serve two-year terms were Mrs. Tom Draper, vice-regent; Mrs. Stanford Knox-chaplain; Mrs. Arthur Clark, recording secretary; Mrs. LeRoy Williamson corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charlie Bell, treasurer; Mrs. Jess Robinson, registrar; Mrs. Carroll Newsom, historian; Mrs. Luther Norvell, librarian; and Mrs. W. J. Gilliland, curator. These officers will be installed in May to take office in September.

Mrs. Abel Ruga, regent, opened the meeting by leading the DAR Ritual assisted by Mrs. Knox, chaplain. Mrs. Draper led the pledge to the flag of the United States of America. Mrs. Williamson led the singing of "America". Mrs. Brownd led the chapter in repeating the Preamble to the Constitution and Mrs. Robinson led "America's Creed."

Mrs. Brownd brought excerpts from the article "Political Correctness in the Newsroom" by Robert Novak from the January, 1995, issue of The National Defender.

Quoting the author, Mrs. Brownd said "People who believe in the real dignity of the individual, no matter what his race, sex, ethnicity, or other condition, shouldn't embrace political correctness because it is bad philosophy--and reporters shouldn't because it is bad journalism."

During the business meeting Mrs. Brownd was also elected as a delegate to the State DAR Conference to be held in Dallas in March. Mrs. Newsom was elected as alternate delegate. The chapter regent, Mrs. Ruga, is an automatic delegate. This slate of delegates was also elected to represent the chapter at Continental Congress to be held in Washington, D.C. in April.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Draper to Brownd, Mrs. J.J. Durham, Gilliland, Mrs. V.O. Hennen, Mrs. J.P. Jones, Knox, Newsom, Norvell, Robinson, Ruga and Williamson.

The next meeting will be Feb. 9 at the Hereford Community Center.

Line dancers perform for Veleda Study Club

Members of the Veleda Study Club were treated to a special program presented by the line dancers from the Senior Citizens Center during their meeting Jan. 9. The line dancers exhibited their special skills by dancing to different music and tempos from waltz to western.

Several club members joined the dancers for the final line of the evening. After the program, dancers and club members visited while enjoying delicious refreshments prepared by Frances Crume, hostess for the evening.

Mary Dziuk presided over the business meeting. Minutes of the Dec. 12 meeting were approved as read. There was no change in the treasurer's report.

It was reported that the recipient of one of our Christmas projects had sent a thank you note to the club.

Norma Walden announced that the Jan. 23 meeting will be at Margaret Zinser's home.

Members present were Juanita Brownd, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutto, Joyce Ritter, Clovis Seago, DeAun Sisson, Betty Roberts, Walden, Zinser, Crume and Dziuk.

Wedding information must be submitted by 5 p.m. Monday to be included in the next Sunday Brand. Wedding information forms, as well as those for engagements and showers, are available at the news office, 313 N. Lee.

The Kentucky Derby, held every year since 1875, ranks as the nation's oldest continually run horse race.

Best speaker named at Toastmasters

Dee Hamilton was named best speaker at the Hereford Toastmasters meeting Jan 12 at the Ranch House Restaurant.

Best evaluator and topic speaker for the meeting was Nancy Griego.

Charles Minchew led the Pledge, Ralph Barndt gave the invocation and Margaret Del Toro was the presiding officer.

Toastmaster was Linda Minchew; timer, Clark Andrews; "ah" counter, Barndt; grammarian, Rick Jackson; and wordmaster, Joe Weaver presented the word deign.

The topicmaster was David Jury and the speakers were Barndt, Jigger Rowland and Griego.

Hamilton spoke on "Why Dogs are Better than Children" and was evaluated by Dave Kimmel. Ed Gilbert spoke on "Don't Say that Here" and was evaluated by Griego.

The reading was given by Weaver and Coleen Seright served as general evaluator.

Guest for the meeting was Adolfo Del Toro.

Club hears how towns get names

The Cultural Family Community Education Club met for its regular meeting Jan. 13 in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Perry Keyes gave the opening exercise, "How Texas Towns Get Their Names," relating the story of Claude, Texas.

Fannie Townsend called the roll to which members responded telling their "greatest expectations for 1995."

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read and the treasurer's report was heard.

Edna Marnell was named district delegate and Nell Pope was elected as club representative for Woman of the Year to be named on Feb. 27.

Members present were Naomi Hare, Keyes, Marnell, Pope, Jewel Rogers, Daisy Steele, Virginia Sumner, Marilyn Smith, Marie Thames and Townsend.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Led Zeppelin will receive the International Artists Award at the 22nd annual American Music Awards.

The special honor, awarded only twice before, recognizes artists whose popularity and impact cross national boundaries.

Led Zeppelin, best known for the song "Stairway to Heaven," was formed in 1968 by Jimmy Page, Robert Plant, John Paul Jones and John Bonham.

Page and Plant will perform the group's song "Black Dog" during the Jan. 30 awards presentation on ABC, the show's publicist said Monday.

The special honor was previously awarded to Michael Jackson and Rod Stewart.

Ideal of men sharing in child rearing still mostly 'lot of talk'

By SANDRA SOBIERAJ Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - Preschoolers worldwide spend on average less than one waking hour a day alone with their fathers, according to an 11-nation study that suggests the feminist ideal of men sharing equally in child-rearing is still mostly "a lot of talk."

The mother remains the primary adult in a preschooler's life even when she works outside the home and the child is in day care, said the report by the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement, a private research organization.

In their survey of the routines of 4-year-old children in the United States and 10 other countries, researchers found young children are rarely in the sole care of their fathers regardless of the culture.

In Hong Kong, for example, the average waking time spent alone with the father is six minutes a day; in Belgium, 30 minutes; and the United States, 42 minutes.

American mothers - about half of whom hold outside jobs - spend nearly 11 waking hours as sole supervisors of their preschoolers each day, the report said. German and Nigerian moms average 10 hours per day, while Belgian mothers, with a daily average of 5.2 hours, are at the bottom of the list.

"It certainly indicates that the rhetoric of equality and the male taking his share of the responsibility for child-rearing is a lot of talk but certainly not a lot of action," said David P. Weikart, president of the Michigan-based High-Scope Educational Research Foundation and an editor of the study.

And most fathers can hardly claim their poor solo performance is mitigated by the hours their children spend with both parents together.

Factor in Dad's time when Mom is also around, and the average ranges from just 54 minutes in the United States to just over three hours in Thailand.

A second phase of the study, where researchers observe children in the classroom, will analyze what effect the father's limited presence has on a child's educational development, Weikart said.

But U.S. educators say they already know the effect is bad.

"More kids than I ever would have expected come to me crying because they haven't seen their fathers for weeks," said Patricia Fitzsimmons, a counselor at Spring Hill Elementary in the Washington suburb of McLean, Va.

And according to sociologists Sara McLanahan and Gary Sandefur, those are the children more likely to fail.

In "Growing Up With a Single Parent: What Hurts, What Helps," McLanahan and Sandefur write that children who have lived apart from one parent during some period of childhood are twice as likely to drop out of high school.

When Mom works and Dad does most of his parenting "in absentia," child-rearing is largely left to paid care-givers.

In China and Thailand, the average 4-year-old spends more than 55 hours per week in some sort of organized day care program. American and German children, respectively averaging 27.8 and 24.5 hours per week, spend the least amount of time in day care.

The association, a private organization of research institutions in more than 60 countries, launched the project in 1987 and surveyed Belgium, China, Finland, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Nigeria, Portugal, Spain, Thailand and the United States.

Weikart hopes the research - funded in part by the U.S. departments of Education and Health and Human Services - will inform the debate worldwide over how to improve all that time spent in day care and help children develop into good students, workers and citizens.

Stress presentation given to study club

Toujours Amis Study Club began the new year with a very appropriate topic for the month of January. Club members met at 100 Live Oak to enjoy a very relaxed program given by Beverly Harder entitled "Stress."

Harder reminded all that everyone reaches the end of their rope from time to time. Paying attention to your body signals and allowing time for yourself can make your rope a little longer.

Club president Tami Charest conducted the business meeting. Topics discussed were the benefit bridge report, contribution to the Empty Stocking Fund, future contribution to the new Aquatic Center and the New Years Eve party.

Charest announced that the next meeting topic will be "Wills--What you need to know now." Thank you were given by individual club members just prior to adjournment.

Members attending were Rhonda Banner, Kim Bigham, Cindy Black, Melinda Bridge, Patti Brown, Charest, Lisa Formby, Diana Griffin, Tonja Horrell, Sarah Lawson, Leisa Lewis, Sally Nolen, Lauri Paetzold, Kim Porter, Becky Reinart, Jill Savoini, Cindy Simons and Donna West.

Brisendine is host for FCE

The North Hereford Family Community Education Club met Jan. 12 in the home of Naomi Brisendine.

Presiding officer was Edith Higgins. Martha Lueb read the opening exercise, "New Years Day." Program chairman Marcella Hoffman directed members in filling out new year books.

Other items discussed were the council meeting on Jan. 23 and appreciation luncheon on Feb. 27.

The next meeting will be Feb. 8 at the Senior Citizens Center.

Members present were Evelyn Crawford, Edna Schulte, Higgins, Hoffman, Lueb and Brisendine.

HJH cagers beat buzzers in two wins

Hereford Junior High basketball teams won two games Monday on buzzer-beating shots as Hereford won six of its eight games against Pampa teams.

In Hereford, L.J. Vallejo hit a 19-foot shot to give the boys' seventh grade A team a 56-54 win over Pampa. In Pampa, Jessica Weurlein hit a three-point shot from half-court to lift the girls' eighth grade B team to a 21-20 win.

The seventh A boys had to go the length of the court with four seconds left, but Eric McNutt hit Nick Whatley at the top of the key, who passed to Vallejo on the wing for the winning shot, coach Charlie Garza said. Vallejo scored 14 points to lead the team, James Miller had 11 and McNutt and Seth Pietsek each scored eight.

Kasey Torres led the eighth B girls with eight points.

In other boys' games in Hereford, the seventh B team won 49-35, as Justin Carrol scored 11, Daniel Carnahan had 10 and Bryan Cagle added eight.

The eighth grade B team won 37-36 behind 14 points by Corey Ortiz.

The eighth A team lost 45-35, despite Chris Torres' 17 points.

In Pampa, the seventh grade A girls won 32-22, getting eight points from Valerie Guzman. The seventh B team won 40-28, as Crystal Mendiaz threw in 18 points.

The eighth grade A team fell 38-30. Kristen Cole scored 10 and Crystal Bailey added nine.

Local wrestlers capture trophies

Several members of the Hereford Wrestling Club collected trophies at a tournament Saturday in Canyon. The tournament was held at West Texas A&M University and sponsored by the Randall Wrestling Club.

Two Hereford wrestlers claimed first place in their divisions: Jeremiah Beltran in the heavyweight division and Chris Rodriguez in the 58-pound division.

Taking second-place trophies were: Charlie Stubbs, 67-pound; Trey Lusk, 92-pound; Orlando Bustos, 46-pound; and William Shows, 92-pound.

Finishing third were: Kris Kathy, heavyweight; Randall Burrows, 85-pound; Victor Duran, 100-pound; and Vincent Burrows, 78-pound. Getting fourth-place trophies were Matt Irish, 148-pound, and Gilbert Rodriguez, 108-pound.

Alumni baseball game planned

Hereford baseball coach Pete Rodriguez wants to organize an alumni game pitting past players against this year's Herd team.

The game will be played Feb. 11, a Saturday, at 2 p.m.

Rodriguez wants interested graduated lettermen to call the field house at 363-7626, or call him at 364-4427.

Jan Stenerud scored 1,699 points during his pro football career without making a touchdown.

Muhammad Ali, then Cassius Clay, won the Olympic light-heavyweight title in 1960 at the age of 18.

Cowboys could lose key players

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Charles Haley says he is leaving. He won't be the only Dallas Cowboy.

If Haley really does follow through on his retirement plans, he will free $1.8 million under the salary cap for the Cowboys next year. Owner Jerry Jones will need the money to try to hold together what could be a fast unraveling team.

Nine Dallas starters will be free agents, including wide receiver Michael Irvin, who entered the NFC championship record book with 12 catches for 192 yards in Sunday's 38-28 loss to the San Francisco 49ers.

Because of all the free agents, the Cowboys could be disassembled faster than any Super Bowl team in history. The Cowboys lost five top players to free agency this season, and it helped keep them from winning a record third consecutive Super Bowl.

The Cowboys will need a productive draft and keep their veteran players at home or the talent slide could continue.

Safety James Washington was talking as though the Cowboys won't sign him again.

"It's been a great three years,"

Washington said. "You ride it out and enjoy it as long as you can."

The Cowboys might not try to re-sign former first-round draft pick Russell Maryland, who had an off-season and might have to take a pay cut from his $1 million-a-year salary to stay with the team.

And with Irvin demanding a $3 million a year salary, the Cowboys will find it difficult to keep him and Alvin Harper.

Steve Endicott, Irvin's agent, said, "Mike needs to be paid in the $3 million category. He should be paid with the best receivers in the NFL."

Harper, who almost left the team last year, likely will move on down the road. Harper is a big-play receiver but Irvin gives the Cowboys more consistency.

Center Mark Stepnoski is sure to draw some bids well over the $1 million per year range. Tight end Jay Novacek is another free agent and the club will do its best to sign him.

Novacek made 11 catches when the Cowboys beat Green Bay 35-9 in the divisional playoffs.

The club will make a strong bid to keep defensive end Tony Tolbert, who had an excellent season. Tolbert will get top dollar because of a year that included an intercepted pass returned for a touchdown.

With Haley gone, it will be imperative that last year's No. 1 draft pick, Shante Carver, comes on strong in summer camp. Carver was a bust in 1994 as a defensive end.

Other significant free agents include placekicker Chris Boniol, tight end Scott Galbraith, quarterbacks Rodney Peete and Jason Garrett, guard Derek Kennard, defensive end Jim Jeffcoat, punter John Jett, linebacker Darrin Smith, defensive backs Clayton Holmes, defensive back Kenny Gant and fullback Tommie Agee.

Gant was paid $400,000 in 1994 and may have priced himself out of the market.

"We're going to be OK," Jones said. "We've got a good, young team and we're going to keep the players we think can help us down the line."

Jones will have to open his billfold. Quarterback Troy Aikman will make $4 million in 1995 and running back Emmitt Smith won't be too far behind.

"I'm confident the Cowboys will be back in a big way next year," Aikman said. "Who we will be back with, I'm not sure. We'll still have a team of winners. We will have a great nucleus of talent."

Smith said, "I know we'll have to live with all that 'Dallas is dead' talk next year. But we'll be back."

By losing to the 49ers, the Cowboys not only blew a chance to win a record third consecutive Super Bowl, but took themselves out of the running to become the first franchise in history to win five NFL championships.

"This loss really hurt," Jones said. "We were in position to make history."

49ers favored by 20 over AFC's Chargers

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - It didn't take the San Francisco 49ers long to toe the party line.

Point spread? What point spread?

As the spread kept climbing in Las Vegas, making the 'Niners 20-point favorites over San Diego in the Super Bowl to be played 12 days from now, the San Francisco players stuck to basic football.

"I don't even look at those things in the paper," right tackle Harris Barton said of the odds. "I'm already nervous thinking about San Diego."

"This is the NFL," defensive end Tim Harris said. "In the NFL, anyone can beat you."

Indeed, the size of the spread, the largest in Super Bowl history, seemed a little ridiculous.

Odds makers in Vegas attributed it at least in part to the preponderance of big names like Steve Young, Jerry Rice and Deion Sanders and the relative obscurity of the Chargers' stars. Many fans outside San Diego might be hard-pressed to name two Chargers besides Junior Seau, Natrone Means and Stan Humphries.

San Francisco's 38-28 win over Dallas Sunday was billed as the "real" Super Bowl. It didn't help that the Chargers qualified instead of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who like the 'Niners would have been going for a record fifth Super Bowl win without a loss.

It also didn't help that in his moment of euphoria after Sunday's game, San Francisco's president, Carmen Policy, called the Super Bowl "anticlimactic."

"I hate to disagree with our esteemed president, who did so much to build the team," Young said Monday, a smile on his face.

"But it's not anticlimactic. Beating the Cowboys was a big game. The Super Bowl is an even bigger game."

There are, of course, a number of reasons for the huge spread on San Francisco, bigger even than the 18 1/2 points that the Baltimore Colts were favored over the New York Jets in 1969. Joe Namath "guaranteed" the Jets would win. They did, 16-7, and the faith in point spreads was never the same.

But this time: - The NFC team has won the last 10 Super Bowls, all but two in blowouts. The exceptions: The 49ers' 20-16 win over Cincinnati in 1990 and the New York Giants' 20-19 win over Buffalo two years later.

- San Francisco beat San Diego 38-15 in San Diego on Dec. 11 as Young went 25 of 32 for 304 yards and two touchdowns and Jerry Rice caught 12 passes for 144 yards.

- A long history of Super Bowl blowouts, accented in the last 11 years, beginning with the last AFC win, a 38-9 rout of Washington in 1984 by the Los Angeles Raiders. Since then have come victories by 22 (the 49ers); 36 (Chicago); 19 (the Giants); 32 (Washington); 45 (the 49ers); 13 (Washington); 35 (Dallas) and 17 (Dallas).

But the Niners aren't buying. "I think they got a lot of disrespect from Pittsburgh and they reacted to it," rookie fullback William Floyd said.

The Chargers, meanwhile, seemed to thrive on being the underdog.

In both their playoff wins, their rivals had a chance to win in the final seconds. But Miami's Pete Stoyanovich missed a 48-yard field goal attempt at the final gun in the Chargers' 22-21 win and then Dennis Gibson knocked away Neil O'Donnell's fourth-down pass to Barry Foster in the end zone to seal the 17-13 win in Pittsburgh.

"I think we're going to play well," coach Bobby Ross said Monday. "I'm not going to worry about it all. I'm sure they'll have a good crowd at the Super Bowl, if for no other reason than it's a big social event."

"And we're going to show up."

Bullets rally; Bulls' record drops to .500 mark

By The Associated Press
Michael Jordan's former supporting cast in Chicago could really use his help right about now.

A 109-101 loss to the struggling Washington Bullets on Monday dropped the Bulls to an 18-18 record. Only 19 months removed from its third consecutive NBA title, Chicago has its worst record after 36 games since the 1985-86 team started 14-22, and Jordan is preparing for baseball spring training next month. While Chicago is missing Jordan, Denver is missing coach Dan Issel. In their first game since his sudden resignation, the Nuggets scored just 73 points in a loss to Golden State, their lowest point total since joining the NBA in 1976.

Two of the Bullets' eight victories this season have come against the Bulls, and the latest win snapped a 10-game losing streak.

Chicago had a five-point lead with 8:48 to play, but the Bullets, behind 14 fourth-quarter points from Calbert Cheaney, rallied to win.

"We had a lot of selfishness, people trying to do it themselves and guys not believing in each other. It's a disease," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "But give Washington credit - they played awfully well."

B.J. Armstrong had 26 points and Scottie Pippen 21 for the Bulls, who have lost three straight and five of seven.

Knicks 107, Nets 90

At New York, Patrick Ewing had a season-high 32 points and 15 rebounds as New York won for the ninth time in 10 games.

Ewing had 18 points in the decisive second quarter when the Knicks broke open the game. Derek Harper finished with 15 for New York.

Derrick Coleman had 22 points and 12 rebounds for the Nets.

Pistons 116, 76ers 110

At Philadelphia, Joe Dumars scored 35 points, including 13 in the fourth quarter, as Detroit sent the Sixers to their ninth consecutive loss.

Dumars, who made 12 of 18 shots, helped the Pistons pull away when he connected on a 3-pointer with 1:02 left, giving Detroit a 112-106 lead. Rafael Addison and Allan Houston each had 18 points for the Pistons, with Houston perfect on four 3-point shots.

Dana Barros had 26 points and 12 assists for Philadelphia.
Hawks 99, Heat 95
Mookie Blaylock scored 20 points and Craig Ehlo 19 as Atlanta lifted its regular-season home record against the Heat to 12-0.

The Heat cut the lead to 98-95 with 18 seconds left on a basket by Glen Rice, who was fouled on the play. Rice missed the free throw, Atlanta got the rebound and Blaylock eventually sealed the game with a free throw with just under eight seconds remaining.

Billy Owens led the Heat with 22 points and 13 rebounds, and Rice added 21 points.

Lakers 96, Clippers 88

At Inglewood, Calif., Nick Van Exel scored 13 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter and rookie Eddie Jones added 23 as the Lakers dealt the Clippers their sixth straight loss.

Cedric Ceballos scored six of his 18 points during a pivotal fourth-quarter rally and had 13 rebounds. Loy Vaught scored 18 points for the Clippers.

Warriors 77, Nuggets 73

At Oakland, Calif., Tom Gugliotta hit a 3-pointer with 41 seconds left as Golden State broke an eight-game losing streak by beating Denver, playing its first game since the sudden resignation of Isse.

With the score tied 73-73, Gugliotta hit from the top of the key as the 24-second clock was winding down. Tim Hardaway, who led the Warriors with 21 points, added a free throw with 12 seconds left.

Rodney Rogers led Denver with 20 points.

Jazz 99, Pacers 98

Antoine Carr scored all six Utah points in overtime and Karl Malone had a season-high 42 points as the Jazz won their club-record 13th straight on the road.

Indiana took a 97-95 lead with 1:37 left in overtime on Reggie Miller's steal and layup. Rik Smits made it 98-95 with 1:12 remaining, but Carr brought Utah within one with a layup at the 57-second mark. A missed jumper by Workman on the other end set up the winning basket by Carr with 8.0 seconds left.

Dale Davis led the Pacers with 20 points and 12 rebounds.

Timberwolves 94, Rockets 75

At Minneapolis, Isaiah Rider scored 24 points and Minnesota held Houston to 28 second-half points to pull off the upset.

Minnesota used a 13-0 run to open an 80-62 lead with 7:04 to play. Christian Laettner scored 15 points and Doug West had 11 points, six assists and a career-high 11 rebounds for the Wolves.

UConn runs away from Hoyas

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - For those schools still on Connecticut's schedule, Ray Allen has provided a scouting report on what to expect as you try to be the first team to beat the second-ranked Huskies this season.

"In the first half, we feel them out. At halftime we try to figure out what happened and then in the second half we go out there and take over against their weaknesses and show you our strengths," the sophomore swingman said.

It sounds a lot cockier than it was meant to be.

It's just that Monday night's 93-73 victory over No. 10 Georgetown was another example of how the Huskies (13-0, 6-0 Big East) find a way to win and win and win.

Connecticut took command of its latest victory with a 12-0 run early in the second half after Georgetown (11-2, 5-1) scored the first basket of the second half to close to 37-36.

"In the second half, we attacked instead of waiting around," Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun said. "We dominated them the entire second half."

In Monday night's only other game involving a ranked team, No. 19 New Mexico State beat UNLV 99-79.

The Huskies won their 11th consecutive Big East regular-season game, the second-longest streak in conference history behind St. John's 14 in a row in 1984-85, and it was their 24th consecutive win at home.

It was the first loss for Georgetown since a season-opening loss to Arkansas. The Hoyas had won 11 straight since then.

Senior point guard Kevin Ollie had 12 points, eight rebounds and seven assists for Connecticut.

"In the first half we sat back and didn't show our pressure," he said.

"We showed it in the second half and wore them down, and were able to get some easy baskets."

The baskets were easy during the deciding 12-0 run as Georgetown came up empty on four straight possessions and the Huskies answered each one.

Allen, who finished with 18 points, had two 3-pointers in the spurt. Donny Marshall, who led the Huskies with 20 points, hit two short jumpers. Travis Knight's layup with 17:37 to play capped the run and gave Connecticut a 49-36 lead. The lead would reach 20 points three times.

Freshman guard Allen Iverson led the Hoyas with 17 points on 7-for-17 shooting, including 1-for-6 from 3-point range. He injured his right ankle early in the game and then rolled his left ankle in the second half. Iverson played 20 minutes, eight in the second half.

Kirk King had 12 points for the Huskies, and Doron Sheffer added 11 points and matched Ollie with seven assists.

King, a reserve forward who averages 4.1 points, had all of his points in the first half as Connecticut took a 37-34 lead.

Othella Harrington added 12 points for Georgetown.

No. 19 New Mexico St. 99, UNLV 79

At Las Cruces, N.M., reserve Crafton Ferguson scored 15 points in the first half and the Aggies (13-3, 4-1 Big West) shut down UNLV (4-6, 1-3) for much of the second half.

Ferguson finished with 17 points and Rodney Walker 16 for New Mexico State, which went on a 22-4 run in an eight-minute stretch late in the game.

Kebu Stewart scored 21 points and reserve guard Damian Smith had 18 for the Rebels.

$192 million paid for Buccaneers

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Flanked by two sons who will help him run the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Malcom Glazer gushed about the prospect of turning around the losingest franchise in NFL history.

"We're involved in several things, and they're all winners," the Palm Beach financier said. "We expect this to be a winner. We didn't come in here to have a losing team."

That's just what the Bucs have been for 12 consecutive seasons. Yet Glazer spent a record amount - estimated at $192 million - to purchase the team. He made a commitment Monday to keep it in Tampa for a minimum of two years while he seeks a new stadium.

"When you're 66 years old, you should be allowed to have a little fun," he said. "I think (the Bucs) have a great future."

The three-man trust overseeing the estate of late Bucs owner Hugh Culverhouse declined to disclose the purchase price, but indicated it was more than the then-record $185 million Jeff Lurie paid for the Philadelphia Eagles last year.

Among the losers in a bidding war were baseball owners George Steinbrenner and Peter Angelos.

Glazer's bid was believed to have included a base offer of just over $170 million, leading to speculation that the final price might have included a $20 million payment to the trust if a new stadium is built for the new owner.

The important thing, the Rochester, N.Y. native said, is not how much he paid, but rather that he and his family are committed to operating the team in Tampa.

Only 14 months ago, Glazer was pursuing an expansion franchise for Baltimore, which lost the Colts in Indianapolis in 1984 and has been trying to replace them ever since.

He said he cried after finishing behind Charlotte and Jacksonville in the quest for teams, but is glad he did. "If I hadn't, I wouldn't be here today," Glazer said. "And I sure as heck would rather own a team in Tampa than in Baltimore."

To guarantee he retains that attitude, local residents are going to have to support the team, which has the second-lowest season ticket base (23,000) in the league.

There's been talk of raising taxes to renovate or replace Tampa Stadium.

Glazer and others who bid for the team stressed the importance of a new facility to any investor paying close to $200 million for a team. Culverhouse thrived financially without stadium improvements because he only paid $16 million for the franchise in 1974.

"Some kind of reasonable deal is going to have to be worked out," Hillsborough County commissioner Ed Turanchik said.

Glazer insisted the purchase agreement include a clause requiring him to keep the team in Tampa a minimum of two years. The contract also calls for a $35 million penalty if the team is relocated within 10 years.

"The buck stops here," he said. "Tampa Bay is going to have this team forever as far as the Glazer family is concerned."

The sale likely will become official in March when NFL owners meet in Phoenix. Twenty-three of the league's 30 owners must approve the deal. Until then, the three-man trust overseeing Culverhouse's estate will continue to run the team.

The league said it was pleased by the agreement, and Glazer's commitment to keep the team in Tampa was an important consideration. The league shortly will begin a financial review of the sale.

Glazer, whose sons Joel and Bryan say they'll help their father, but not be involved in daily football operations, expects to gain approval.

St. Louis offers Rams lucrative deal to move

ST. LOUIS (AP) - St. Louis is poised to give the Los Angeles Rams what the team's president calls the best deal in pro football. An opponent of the deal says it's too sweet.

The city has assembled an attractive package, a deal that could mean $20 million in annual profits for a franchise that was 4-12 this season and projected to lose $6 million. The deal is expected to be finalized Tuesday.

The Rams will get a $260 million domed stadium to play in, a $15 million practice facility to prepare in, and a cushy $250,000 annual lease that won't cut into those profits.

The city is retiring the Rams' $30 million debt to Anaheim, Calif., and paying $15 million in assorted relocation fees.

Rams president John Shaw told the Los Angeles Times that the agreement "is as good an economic deal as there is in football today."

So what does the city get in return? "We all think St. Louis is better off with football for all of the intangibles: emotional, prestige, pride," said Frank Viverito of the city's Convention and Visitors Commission. "All of those are going to make this a winner."

Not everybody is happy, however. "Look at the loot they're going to get," said Tom Sullivan, who heads the Campaign For Better Government in St. Louis. "The Rams are getting all the revenue and taxpayers are picking up all of the cost."

According to analysis by the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, total gains in business revenues to the region are estimated at $100 million per year. The analysis also projects 1,700 new jobs, many which will be with the Rams.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed several columns about the importance of unplugging kitchen appliances when not in use. I am enclosing an article that appeared in the International Association of Electrical Inspectors News. It is gripping testimony for unplugging BATHROOM appliances as well.

Please print this article in your column so that parents may learn from it. My heart goes out to the mother of the children involved in this tragic accident.--Thomas W. Schmid, executive director, Independent Electrical Contractors, Florida

DEAR THOMAS SCHMID: Thank you for what could be lifesaving information for my millions of readers. Here's the article. Bless you for sending it on.

"A 4-year-old girl was electrocuted and her 3-year-old brother critically injured when one of them dropped a plugged-in hair dryer into the tub with them.

"The county sheriff's deputy said the children were in the tub when their mother left them for a moment, and one child apparently got out of the tub and returned with a hair dryer that was plugged in. The dryer was apparently then dropped into the tub.

"The mother returned to find the youngsters unconscious and the dryer floating beside them. The children were taken to the hospital, where the girl was pronounced dead. The boy was hospitalized in critical condition."

And now, dear readers, one more word from Ann: It takes only a second for a heart-breaking tragedy to occur. Please keep your electrical appliances unplugged and out of the reach of young children.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My family is invited to a relative's house to go swimming and have dinner. When our relatives issued the invitation, they said they planned to eat at 6:30. I was reluctant to accept because our youngest child, a toddler, goes to bed quite early and I didn't think it would be wise to keep him up that late. We agreed to be there at 3 p.m. and have dinner earlier.

When we arrived, the husbands and children went to the pool, and the wife told her husband to be back at 5:30 to start up the grill. I began to feel uneasy when she brought out three medium-sized steaks to feed four adults and three children.

When she used an alcoholic beverage to marinate the steaks, I told her to please leave the alcohol off mine because I'm pregnant. That's when I found out she was only planning to prepare dinner for three.

When the meat was done, she allowed me to share my steak with my children. However, there weren't enough vegetables or potatoes to go around. I asked if there were any more, and she said, "No, but you can take some off everyone else's plates."

I was appalled. By the time we actually sat down, it was 7 p.m. My kids were hungry and cranky, and so was I. That small amount of steak was all we had.

These people are my husband's relatives, and I didn't want to start anything. My husband wasn't aware of what was going on, and I didn't want to go into it. As soon as "dinner" was over, we left. There is no way we can duck future dinner invitations, which I dread. Any advice for next time?--Dumbfounded, No State Please

DEAR D.F.: Yes. Eat at home before you go over there.

Gem of the Day: It is no compliment to be told, "Your mind is like a blotter. You soak up everything." Remember, blotters get it all backward.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.55.)

Unique Muleshoe boot shop blossoms into one of area's biggest attractions

By STEVE O'NEIL
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
MULESHOE, Texas - If you can find the mule in Muleshoe, you'll have no problem finding Joe's Boot Shop. Located on U.S. 84 in the center of this town of about 5,000, the cowboy boot and western wear wonderland has blossomed into one of the area's biggest attractions.

"From an economic standpoint, the boot shop is just a great deal for the community," says Robert Montgomery, Muleshoe's mayor. "It is incredible how many people he is able to attract to our town. And there is a real spillover effect for other business, there is no doubt about that."

Joe Rhodes runs the store with his wife, Darla. "You can't miss us. We are right across from the statue of the mule in Muleshoe, Texas," he says. His West Texas drawl lingers on the U's.

There is nothing small about the Rhodes' store. More than 10,000 boots line the aisles. Ostrich, alligator, cowhide, stingray, rattlesnake and even kangaroo. Name a mammal, bird or reptile and chances are it's here - transformed into floor-stomping, cow patty-kicking footwear. Twelve thousand belts dangle from hooks, and 5,000 hats hang from racks.

"Oh, there is something for everyone," Joe says.

But 27 years ago, the Rhodes' business was less than Texas-sized. Back then Joe worked at a feedlot, and Darla raised children.

"I didn't have the money to go into town and get some boots, so I ordered them directly from Tony Lama," Joe says. "My friends at work heard about it, and soon I was getting boots for them."

Word spread about Joe's boot connections, and soon the Rhodeses were selling boots out of their garage. "We kept all the boots in a barn," he says. "All times of the day, through sandstorms and rain, we would go out there and bring back boots to the garage, which was the showroom."

In 1986 the Rhodeses bought a 2,000-square-foot store on U.S. 84 and used it to augment their business. Business boomed. A little later, they scooped up a nearby 9,200-square-foot building, and the serious retailing began.

Although the Rhodeses have had incredible business success, their lives have not been free of woe. In 1993, their 21-year-old son, Dusty, the youngest of three children, died in a car accident.

In a glass display case, next to a big screen television in the back of the store, lies a large portrait of a young man with Joe's sparkling eyes and easy grin. Some of the mementos on display include a letter from Gov. Ann Richards expressing her regret.

When talking about his son, Joe's rowdy, playful, salesman voice gives way to something else.

"He started selling boots when he was in diapers," he says, staring at the ground briefly before looking up. "He went to Tech for a while and then came back and started the hat department. We figured we owed him something with the display case."

It's a Tuesday afternoon, and Joe hobbles through the store on crutches. A week earlier, he was roping cows, and his horse stumbled and rolled on top of him. When the horse stood up, it stepped on Joe's leg, snapping it.

"Well, heck, I guess I'm lucky to be alive," Joe says in a loud, friendly way as he heads down a boot-lined aisle. "Lucky, lucky. Hey now, how are you doing? Are you finding everything all right? My goodness, now where are you folks from?"

"We're from Austin," replies a man in his early 30s.

"Well, I want to thank you folks for stopping in Muleshoe," Joe booms.

Joe chats a moment longer, then hobbles off. Another man, topped with a large black hat, wearing socks and no shoes, walks by. "Hey, you finding everything? Doing all right? Can I help you find something?" Joe asks.

"I was looking for the size 7's," the man says. "I have a small foot."

"Where you from?" Joe asks.

"Michigan."

"Hey, we appreciate you coming in," Joe says with a big grin as he points toward a distant aisle. "Now, just go over there, and we will try to fit you."

"Hey, do you play the piano?" Joe asks. "There is one over there, and if you play a song, you get a 10 percent discount."

Taking a stroll around the store, it is clear that Joe's Boot Shop is a success for reasons that go beyond the large inventory of western apparel.

"All you have to do is meet Joe and you know why this place is the way it is," says Butch Tucker, who farms near Maple and has bought boots from the Rhodeses since they worked out of their garage. "Joe attracts people."

In the back of the store, a 64-inch television is perched in a wall near a 19th century piano. Visitors are encouraged to pick up lariats on hand and rope wooden cows in a play area.

Although normally busy any day of the week, the place gets really packed at Midnight Madness sales and annual tent sales. On such days, the Rhodeses hire bands and comedians and dole out free barbecue sandwiches and Pepsi with every boot purchase.

"This place is more than a western store," Joe says. "More than anything we just want people to feel at home and to have a good time."

Who's Who selects two local WTA&MU students

The 1995 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of 43 West Texas A&M University students, including two from Hereford, who were selected as outstanding campus leaders.

James Kendall Ingham and Beverly L. Martin are the local recipients.

"We're very proud of these students who were selected," Dr. Don Albrecht, dean of Student Services, said. "These students are strong in their academics, community service and campus leadership."

For consideration, nominees had to be full-time students with at least 60 hours of college credit (junior standing) and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.75 on a 4.0 scale. Additional criteria included demonstrated record of participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, service to the University and potential for future achievement.

Ingham is a West Texas A&M graduate who majored in history and Martin is a senior nursing student.

The recipients will be honored at a reception in May and will be presented certificates at the All-University Honors Banquet.

Family Film scheduled

Thursday is Family Film Night at the Deaf Smith County Library. This month's feature is Lost In The Barrens, a family film about a city boy who has to leave his upper-class boarding school to live with an uncle in the Canadian wilderness.

He and a Native American boy become lost on a hunting trip, and their struggle for survival strips them of their prejudices and forces them to depend on each other, demanding more courage, determination and trust than they thought possible.

Showtime is 7 p.m. in the library basement. The Family Film is free, and popcorn will be available for $.25.

The Brand welcomes news of friends, relatives, grandkids. Send to The Brand, Box 673, or call us. We're interested in local news!

America's best legitimate advertising buy is still the local newspaper that is involved in your community. Junk mailers don't contribute a dime to the betterment of Hereford. They take and don't give back.

Hereford has a number of excellent retail stores who make every effort to fill your needs or services. Shop at home with the local folks. They help support your church, your kids, your entire community.

In the U.S. about 321,000 companies make about a fourth of the world's manufactured goods.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my idea. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen, Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. (Grace obtained).

NEW YORK (AP) - Carre Otis is philosophical about her reportedly abusive relationship with Mickey Rourke.

"Whenever there is suffering, there's growth," the Calvin Klein model said in the February issue of Mirabella. "Whether there is physical or verbal abuse, it's a question of how much I learned."

She refuses to blame Rourke - a boxer and actor - for the two-year hiatus she took from modeling at his behest.

"I will not blame my husband for demanding that I not work," she said. "I have to take responsibility for being the person who said, 'All right.'"

Abuse charges against Rourke were dismissed in December when Otis refused to testify against him. She had claimed that he slapped her, kicked her and knocked her down last July. Otis and Rourke were married in 1990.

(1-14)
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - They came to celebrate a milestone for the wiseguy-turned-good-guy. And they didn't want to relive the past.

About 300 guests turned out Saturday night to celebrate the 90th birthday of Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno, retired boss of New York's Bonanno crime family. He retired to Tucson in 1968.

"He's been a wonderful, intelligent, loving godfather to us all," said Russ Andaloro, an instructor at Pima Community College.

"He was whatever he was back in New York, but I've never known him as anything other than a good Tucsonan," said former local newscaster George Borozan.

Bonanno, who turns 90 on Wednesday, served nearly two years in prison for obstruction of justice and refusing to snitch on reputed leaders of New York's mob.

"With great profound humility, I thank you for coming to honor me and 90 years of traditional life," he said in a thick Sicilian accent.
