Blood pressure checks were just one of the many activities available Monday at the Hereford Regional Medical Center Health Fair. Becky Hysinger, an employee of Hereford Home Health Care checks the blood pressure of Ramona Gonzales at that company's booth. The fair featured hospital departments, local firms and medical corporations giving health information, blood pressure screenings, showing videos and giving away a variety of items including pens, pencils, first aid kits, pamphlets, candy and product samples. The fair was held throughout the hospital's main corridors.

Bids finally accepted for improvements at Shirley

By GARRY WESNER Managing Editor

After nearly two years of discussing, planning, arguing, wangling and bidding, construction on a new roof and heating/air conditioning system at Shirley Intermediate School will begin next month following action Monday by school trustees.

City eyes stronger code enforcement

By GEORGIA TYLER Staff Writer

Code enforcement should be a priority within the City of Hereford before the city exercises rights of extraterritorial jurisdiction, City Commissioners decided Monday evening.

During a monthly planning session, commissioners visited an area at the south city limits where residents have complained about businesses operating from homes as well as unsightly conditions.

The commission also traveled to the former swimming pool site in Dameron Park and looked at roofing possibilities for the Community

A discussion of ceremonies for the opening of the new aquatic center resulted in a decision to conduct a grand opening" on July 4.

After the drive to the south city limits, Mayor Bob Josserand suggested the city has three options to consider.

"We can do nothing, we can annex or we can exercise extraterritorial jurisdiction," he pointed out.

City Manager Chester Nolen said the court action would be required if the city wished to rid the area of the offending conditions.

Nolen said he has received complaints from city residents who live adjacent to the scrap metal collection, abandoned car chassis, animal pens and other nuisances.

The only thing we can do is seek injunctive relief through the courts," Nolen explained.

Commissioner Silvana Juarez said persons who have contacted the city should be given some hope.

Commissioners Roger Eades and Scott Hall said the enforcement of city codes should begin within the "We need to work on some in

> The commission decided to seek bids on a new roof for the Community Center. Nolen was asked to get bids on replacing the flat roof now in place as well as a new sloped roof to eliminated leaking problems.

City crews will prepare the site of the old swimming pool for paving. Nolen said cost estimates for paving will be obtained.

The city manager said completion of the aquatic center for a June 1 opening is expected. "If it isn't June 1, it will be just a day or two later," he said.

The formal grand opening on July 4 will be part of the city's Independence Day celebration, the commission decided.

A complete program will be prepared but a highlight of the day will be a free swim for city residents.

Guests for the grand opening will include representatives of funding participations as well as local groups that have made contributions.

Local Roundup

Warmer days ahead

Hereford shivered in a 25-degree low Tuesday morning, on the heels of a very cool 43-degree high Monday, but the forecast calls for some warmer temperatures. The low Tuesday night should dip to about 30 degrees but the high Wednesday, under mostly sunny skies, is expected to reach into the lower 70s, with a northwest wind, 5-15 mph, shifting to south by afternoon.

Police tried to talk to Hill before death

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - A Panhandle prosecutor shot himself to death while Amarillo police tried to talk him out of it, authorities say. District Attorney Danny E. Hill, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound at the home of his children and former wife Sunday night, according to Justice of the Peace Haven Dysart.

Dysart said Hill was visiting his former wife and their children when Terry Hill made a 911 call to police, saying her former husband was threatening to kill himself.

Officers said they saw Hill through a window of the home. He was holding a gun to his chest, they Hill, who was divorced recently, ne to his former wife's hor earlier in the evening, officials said. Officers at the scene were visibly shaken, Dysart said.

"Very rarely do you go to a scene where you know somebody," Dysart said. "This is hard on the police officers. It's hard on everybody that knew him, whether they liked him or not. Danny was a hell of a district attorney for a long time."

In recent years, Hill was elected resident of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association and state prosecutor of the year. In addition, he was elected to the board of the National District Attorneys Association in 1991.

In February, Hill pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of driving while intoxicated, which alleged he drove a vehicle while impaired because of the use of a prescription drug. The charge stemmed from a hit-and-run accident that damaged a car but did not injure anyone.

Hill, who was elected 47th District attorney in 1980, was being investiated by Potter County Attorney Sonya Letson, who was considering filing a civil suit to have him remove from office. Under Texas law, an elected officer can be removed for any of five reasons: intoxication by alcohol on or off the job; incompetency; official misconduct; a problem with an elected official's posted bond; and conviction of a felony or misdemeanor involving official misconduct.

Hill acknowledged in February that he was an alcoholic but said at the time he had abstained from drinking for more than two months and had attended an alcohol-treatment center in Minnesota for about 25 days

In addition to his post as district attorney, Hill was elected in 1976 to the Texas Legislature and served in the Texas House from 1976-1980.

Regional science fair honors are captured by local students

Ten Hereford students went to Amarillo Saturday with winning on their minds and walked away with top honors in the High Plains Regional Science Fair.

The fourth and fifth grade students competed against elementary school students from throughout the Panhandle in the competition.

When the dust had settled, Hereford students from West Central and Shirley Intermediate Schools and St. Anthony's Catholic School had claimed five first place awards, four second place prizes, five third place honors and six special awards. West Central led the charge, walking away from Amarillo College -- where the fair was held -- with three first place awards, one second,

two thirds and one special prize.
All three first place finishes were in the Elementary Group Division.
Fourth graders Russell Carr and Stewart Carr topped the field in the Botany category; fifth graders Ashley Stucki, McKenzie Tabor and Laci Black claimed first in Engineering; and fifth graders Taylor Charest, Holly Coneway and Jessica Weishaar won first for Environmental Sciences.

In addition, Taylor, Holly and Jessica claimed one special prize, from Peace Farm of Texas, for environmental protection.

Wesley Reinart, a fifth grader at Shirley, won first place in the Elementary Individual Division for his Physics entry.
Also from the school, Thomas

Maldonado, a sixth-grader, received two special awards after competing in the Junior Individual Division. He received recognition from the U.S. Department of Energy for an outstanding exhibit relating to energy; and from Peace Farm of Texas.

St. Anthony's fifth grader Andrew Carnahan captured a first place award for his school with his individual entry in Earth and Space Sciences. In addition, he won special awards

The Hereford boys' golf team pulled into third place in the District 1-4A race with a good round Saturday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course in

The Herd boys, hosting the third of four district rounds, totaled 318 to move past Canyon and Randall into

At the same time, the Hereford girls golf team was wrapping up a third-place finish in the Amarillo Relays golf tournament. Hereford fired a 351 Saturday at Ross Rogers Municipal West Golf Course for a two-day total of 719. That was four strokes better than Tascosa; 14 behind Borger and 60 behind Amarillo High.

Both the boys and the girls play their fourth and final district round Wednesday in Amarillo. The girls stand in second place in district.

The 318 shot Saturday by the Hereford boys gave the team a three-round total of 981. Canyon shot a 327 for a total of 986 and fell to fourth, and Randall shot 333 for a total of 987 and fifth place. Borger shot 298 to keep the district lead with a 909 total, and Pampa shot 306 to keep second at 941.

David Sims led Hereford with a round of 75, representing the best round for a Hereford boy all year. He was followed closely by Scott Burkhalter with an 80, Keith Riley with an 81, Justin Griffith with an 82 and Tom Munoz with an 86.

The Hereford B team also performed well Saturday, shooting 319 for a 996 total and sixth place. Two B-teamers broke 80: Cory Schumacher at 77 and Jeremiah Baros at 78. The others on the B team were: David Farr, 82; Greg Reinart, 82; and Randy Mason, 89.

Hereford coach Stacey Bixler said all those scores are promising for the "You'd like to have lower scores on the varsity," he said, "but on Saturday, with 10 kids and only one senior, to shoot 318 and 319 is Hereford, in fourth after the first day, made up 12 strokes on Tascosa The girls were propelled to their to pass the Lady Rebels. Hereford's 351 on Saturday was one stroke better third-place finish in the Amarillo Relays by medal-winning performances by Krista Beville and Jami than the 352 carded by district rival Borger.

"That tournament is just what Beville took eighth place out of about 80 girls. She fired an 84 you'd like before the last district round," Bixler said. "It gives the kids confidence. Saturday to go with an 86 Friday for a two-day total of 170,

Beville's score from Friday was incorrectly reported as a 98 in Sunday's Brand. Her score was Hereford's B team didn't get a team score. Amy Killingsworth was struck on the eye by a rock on a chip shot and couldn't finish Saturday-although Bixler said she was fine inadvertantly switched with the score of teammate Jana Baird

The other girls on the B team, with second round score and two-day total, were: Jacque Bezner, 102--200; Jennifer Phipps, 104--206; and Lindsay Ward, 119--233.

Wednesday's final district round will be at Comanche Trails Municipal Course in Amarillo. There will be a 9 a.m. shotgun start.

In the girls' race, Borger holds a 31 stroke lead over Hereford, and Hereford is 54 strokes ahead of Pampa for the second regional berth. In the boys' race, Borger leads Pampa by 32 strokes, and Pampa is --- ahead of Hereford. Bixler acknowlkedes that although anything can happen, something unusual would have to happen for the top two places to change in either race.

The suspense will be whether the Hereford boys can hold onto third place. They hold a five-stroke lead over Canyon and a six-stroke lead over Randall. The competition for third won't mean a regional berth; it's

Bulldogs defeat Whitefaces, 10-6

The Hereford baseball team's game against Borger Saturday at Whiteface Field--which Borger won 10-6-may have been lost even before

"We really didn't give ourselves a chance to begin with," Herd coach Pete Rodriguez said. "We took infield and outfield practice (before the game) and we were sloppy, we couldn't hit the cutoff man. We didn't get a good start. And then the first man comes up and gets a triple."

Actually, the first two Borger batters in the top of the first tripled off Herd starter Eric Ambold. Russell Washer led off with a triple, then Russ McNellis tripled, driving Washer in. McNellis scored on Chad Mullenix sac fly, and Borger led 2-0 before the Whitefaces touched a bat.

Borger added four runs after a dropped line drive in the outfield and cruised to the 10-6 win. The Bulldogs improved to 4-2 in District 1-4A and

Hereford fell to 5-12 overall, but the Herd is still in the playoff race with a 2-3 district record thanks to the tight standings. Hereford finishes the first half of district play with a game at 4:30 today at Caprock in Amarillo.

Rodriguez hopes the Herd will be ready for the Caprock game. The Herd wasn't ready for Borger, he

"You've got to be ready mentally against a good team like that (Borger) or they're going to put it to you,' Rodriguez said "And we were not

Ambold, the Herd's sophomore starting pitcher was able to get out of the first, then sent down the Bulldogs in order in the second. Hereford got him a run back in the first, when Sonny Perez reached on one error and scored on another.

Borger stretched the lead to 3-1 with a run in the third, as McNellis singled and Mullenix singled him home. Borger broke the game open in the fourth.

Tim Baker led off the inning with a double, then scored when Chad Rives' line drive popped out of the glove of Herd right fielder Joe De La Cruz for a three base error. The fact that Ambold got the next two batters out made the runs uncarned, but they counted. The second out was a fly ball that drove home Rives from third. Tory Lopez doubled to start more trouble, and a walk and a single drove Lopez home for a third run in the inning.

Ambold walked a batter to load the bases, and Gregg Kalka was brought on in relief. Kalka walked the first batter he faced--forcing in another run--then finally coaxed a grounder for the third out. Borger led 7-1.

Borger added a single run in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, keeping two late rallies from getting the Herd any closer than two runs.

Hereford scored four in the sixth inning. Michael Marquez and De La Cruz led off the inning with walks, and both scored on an error. After the error, Perez knocked in two runs with a single to make the score 8-6.

Borger added two runs in the top of the seventh. In the bottom of the inning, Jacob Lopez reached on an infield single and scored on a wild pitch. Borger's Washer, pitching in relief, recorded two strikeouts to stop any last-inning rally.

Borger won the junior varsity game that followed Saturday's varsity game at Whiteface Field. The JV Bulldogs won 20-11, aided by 14 Hereford errors.

Herd netters warm up for district tournament

Members of the Hereford tennis team entered the Gold Division of the Amarillo Relays tennis tournament not for medals but for competition to prepare for this week's District 1-4A tournament.

They got plenty of that in the tournament, which was held Friday and Saturday in Amarillo.

"We knew when we went up there that playing in the Gold Division, we'd take our lumps," Hereford coach Ed Coplen said. "We knew the competition would be better. That's what we needed."

(The Gold Division was) all 5A schools except us and Borger," Coplen said, "and it was the cream of the 5A schools: Permian was op here, Abilene High, the Lubbock schools.

Hereford's girls' doubles team of Natalie McWhorter and Paige Robbins had the most success in their bracket, finishing sixth after losing 6-2, 7-5, to McMinn and Edwards of Odessa Permian. In total, McWhorter and Robbins won two matches and lost two during the tournament.

Scores for most matches in the big tournament were not available (matches were played at several different sites). Each bracket had 24 entries. Following are the places in which other Hereford entries finished.

Boys' doubles: Pete Vargas and B.J. Lockmiller, 13th; Tyler Merrick and Scott Shaw, 18th. Boys' singles: Andrew Carr, 13th; Rob Reinauer, 15th. Girls' singles: Taylor Sublett, 20th; Holly Weishaar, 22nd.

Girls' doubles: Annie Hoffman and Jennifer Jones, 22nd.

Hereford also entered some players in the open division of the tournanment, but Coplen didn't have results for those. Rachel Bezner and Julie Cole in girls doubles were the only Hereford entries who had any success, he said, advancing to the quarterfinals before losing.

The District 1-4A tournament will be held Thursday and Saturday--they'll take Good Friday off--at the tennis courts of West Texas A&M University in Canyon. Play will start at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Miss Hereford hopefuls

Aimee Alley and Heather Hodges, potential contestants for the 1995 Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant, attended the Mother-Daughter Tea held recently in the home of Julia Laing. Members of the pageant steering committee hosted the event and answered questions from potential contestants and their mothers pertaining to the pageant planned for 7 p.m. June 10 in the Hereford High School auditorium. The annual event, sponsored by the Women's Division, is open to all young women ages 16-21. Entry forms are available from the Chamber of Commerce and must be returned to the Chamber office by 5 p.m. April 28.

Garden Beautiful elects officers at Streun home

Elected for the coming year were Marguerite Cole, president; Louise Streun, first vice president; Bessie Dettman, recording and correspond-ing secretary; Jerry Jackson, treasurer; and Doris Bryant, reporter. The meeting was held in the home

DEAR READERS: Two years ago, I told you about the Alzheimer's Association's new Safe Return program, which by providing an identity bracelet, national registry and 800 line, enables others to assist a person with Alzheimer's disease who ay have become lost.

Since then, I'm pleased to tell you, over 11,000 people with Alzheimer's disease have been registered, and there have been more than 300 safe returns. Nearly 500,000 Safe Return brochures have been distributed through a nationwide network of more than 200 chapters.

Here's some advice if you should encounter someone you believe may have Alzheimer's:

-- Use a calming tone of voice. -- Try to maintain eye contact. -- Identify yourself. -- Allow plenty of time for a

-- If you repeat a question, use the same words.

-- Speak slowly, and not too loudly.

-- Stay calm. -- Ask "yes" or "no" questions.

-- Be supportive and reassuring.
-- Look for special identification items, such as an I.D. bracelet or necklace, with the words "Safe Return" or "Memory Impaired." Also check for labels or patches sewn or ironed on (or in) clothing.

The Alzheimer's Association

launched its Safe Return program in 1993. Safe Return provides regis-trants with a personalized I.D. bracelet and other identification materials and stores contact information in a national computer-ized database. The program's toll-free number is linked to a computer network of 17,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide. Anyone who is interested should contact a local chapter of the Alzheimer's Association or write to: Alzheimer's Association, P.O. Box 5675, Chicago, Ill. 60680. For more information, call the Alzheimer's Association at 1-800-

In observance of Texas Arbor Day, April 28, the Hereford Beautification Alliance, in conjunction with the Hereford Brand and The Tardy Company-Insurance and Real Estate, is sponsoring a Biggest Tree

A picture of the winning tree will be featured in the Hereford Brand on Arbor Day and the owner of the tree will receive $50 in Hereford Bucks which will provided by The Tardy Company.

The Hereford Beautification Alliance will collect entry forms and determine the winning tree.

The tree must be located on a residential site in Hereford.

Any resident of the City of Hereford is eligible to enter by mailing a postcard entry to HBA, P.O. Box 1367, Hereford, TX 79045. Entries should include the estimated height and girth of the tree, name and telephone number of the entrant, and the address where the tree is growing. All entries must be received by Judging will be objective, using the Texas Forest Service "Big Tree Criteria" which generates an index number based on solving a standard formula which includes tree girth, plus height and crown size.

The success of others irks me, but less than if it were deserved.

tax systen, using 'flat tax'

By JOHN KING AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the moment, tax talk is short term: While Congress debates tax-cut plans, there is no shortage of grumbling in America's kitchens and living rooms as the IRS filing deadline looms.

The discussion will soon shift to the long term and an intriguing, controversial mix of proposals to fundamentally change the nation's tax

This debate already is percolating among the GOP presidential hopefuls and at conservative think tanks now in vogue. As a result, the 1996 election cycle appears destined to become a testing ground for tax proposals never before given much consideration.

The idea with the most momentum is a flat tax. The federal tax system would be ditched, along with all those forms and schedules it takes to figure out whether one qualifies for this deduction or that credit.

Tax returns would amount to filling out a postcard, with income taxed at a flat rate.

House Majority Leader Richard Armey of Texas proposes a 17 ercent tax on earned income.

Debate starts on ditching

GOP Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania is making a modified flat tax the economic centerpiece of his 1996 presidential campaign. His plan calls for a 20 percent tax, after allowing exemptions similar to those in Armey's plan, plus deductions for mortgage interest and charitable contributions.

The flat tax got a boost last week when Jack Kemp, the former congressman and housing secretary, was picked by Speaker Newt Gingrich and Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole to head a Republican tax reform study. Kemp supports the Armey approach.

This week, when Dole formally announces his presidential campaign, he is expected to endorse the flat tax.

Another presidential contender, Indiana Sen. Dick Lugar, dislikes taxing income. He proposes a 17 percent national sales tax. Under this approach, people would pay no taxes on money socked away in retirement or other savings accounts.

On the House side, Ways and Means Committee Chairman Bill Archer of Texas, the chamber's chief tax writer, also proposes a version of the national sales tax.

Kemp promises his commission will give those ideas a fair shake, but makes no secret of his affinity for the flat tax. In any event, he predicts the panel's work "will shape the '96 platform and become a major presidential issue."

Many conservative economists, like the Heritage Foundation's Dan Mitchell, share Lugar's belief that any income tax chokes the economy.

The experience of European countries leaves conservatives in this country wary. There, politicians have imposed the new without repealing

Even if the end result is lower taxes, some Republicans believe calling for a national sales tax might come across as advocating higher taxes. In Canada, Japan and elsewhere, "conservative parties who proposed sales taxes have been routinely punished at the polls," warns Grover Norquist of Americans for Tax Reform.

Mitchell says the only way to make a national sales tax politically feasible would be to first repeal the 16th Amendment which gives the federal government the power to impose income taxes.

Mitchell suggests Republicans "should focus on getting the flat tax. a huge improvement over what we have.'

President Clinton so far is sitting out the debate. In the 1992 campaign, Clinton attacked Democratic rival Jerry Brown's flat tax plan as a "disaster" that would hurt the poor and middle class while lowering taxes for the wealthy.

"It sounds great and it sounds simple but it would make things worse," Clinton said then. Expect Clinton to press that "fairness" argument again in the 1996 campaign.

Should he feel compelled to change course, Clinton won't have to look far for advice on the flat tax. Back in 1982. the idea was advocated by a then-obscure Democratic congressman from California: Leon Panetta, now the White House chief of staff.

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - An $80.2 billion state budget proposal for 1996-97 was unanimously approved by the Texas Senate last week.

Without raising taxes, the Senate version would increase funding for schools, prisons and health and human services, while giving the state's lowest-paid teachers a modest pay hike and reducing the number of state employees.

The proposal is $2.6 billion more than a state budget bill approved a week earlier by the Texas House.

The Senate budget outspends the House version in three major areas: $1 billion more for health and human services, $757 million more for education and $474 million more for prisons.

$92 Million Teacher Raise

The Senate's proposed pay raise for teachers would cost $92 million, an amount far below the across-the-board hike in pay and benefits teachers sought, which would have required the passage of an $800 million tax bill to fund.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the budget, if combined with the state's 1994-95 budget, puts $3.4 billion in new money into Texas public schools.

"Now," he told the Houston Chronicle, "I hope, from the bottom of my heart, that some of that money is filtering down to teachers." Of the $80.2 billion, $45.5 billion comes from state sales and business taxes and lottery proceeds. Of the $45.5 billion, 59 percent is going to public and higher education, Montford said. Regarding anticipated funding cuts in federal welfare programs, Montford suggested that the state set aside $250 million. If as expected, the U.S. Congress changes welfare funding to a block-grant method, the Legislature likely would go into special session to consider ways to gain adequate funding, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock

Bullock, who presides over the Senate, told the Dallas Morning News, that the approval of the budget opens the way for consideration of other bills that have been on hold at the committee level, such as parental notification of abortion.

Telecom Bill Moves Ahead

The House State Affairs Committee voted 15-0 last week to approve a telecommunications bill that would open the door for competition in local telephone service.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Curtis Scidlits, D-Sherman, is expected to go before the House later this month.

A provision in the bill seeks to expand the number of local calling service areas in which consumers could make unlimited local telephone calls rather than pay long-distance charges.

Rep. Steve Wolens, D-Dallas, took issue with a provision in the bill that would let local telephone companies keep "phantom tax" money collected from ratepayers and apply it to their infrastructure commitment. The committee voted 13-2 to table his amendment.

Prior to the committee hearing, AT&T chairman Bob Allen visited with Gov. George W. Bush about the bill. According to the Austin American-Statesman, Allen told Bush, "... this is a lop-sided bill, and if it's passed without any changes, it's going to keep AT&T out of the local market. That's not good for us and not good for Senate OKs Health Bills The Senate last week passed and sent to the House two bills aimed at increasing the number of doctors practicing in rural areas.

Twenty-five Texas counties have no primary care physicians, and 229 counties have been designated by the federal government as underserved.

The bills would create a program through which the state would match up to $25,000 a year a medically underserved area's grant to recruit a doctor. Up to $250,000 in matching grants could be awarded annually.

Bush Names 2 Appointees Gov. George W. Bush has nominated Austin lawyer Roderick Bordelon his choice for Texas' public insurance counsel.

If confirmed by the Senate, Bordelon, 36, will become the state advocate for insurance consumers, replacing Mark Kincaid, an appointee of former Gov. Ann Richards.

Also, Bush nominated Dallas lawyer David M. Laney to the three-member Texas Transportation Commission, which oversees maintenance and construction of state roads and highways.

If confirmed by the Senate, he will replace Ruben Cardenas of McAllen.

Other Highlights

 Under a bill tentatively approved by the Senate, youths (under 18) riding bicycles on public roadways would be required to wear protective helmets. Since the bill does not include penalties, several senators questioned why the measure was needed.

· Gov. Bush has nominated State District Judge Jim R. Wright of Eastland as a justice on the 11th Court of Appeals. Wright, a graduate of Texas Tech law school and a judge since 1979, will replace Justice Bud Arnot, who was elected chief justice of the appeals court.

Astronaut has one regret: he never landed on moon

By MARCIA DUNN

AP Aerospace Writer CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -Every time Jim Lovell looks at the moon, he feels cheated.

Twenty-five years ago this week, the Apollo 13 commander was supposed to land there. Instead, he wound up zooming around it in a race for his life after an oxygen tank in the spaceship exploded 200,000 miles from Earth, four-fifths of the way to the moon.

Lovell and his crew, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert, did return safely to Earth. Lovell is grateful for that. But it was the second time he flew to the moon and didn't land.

"That is my one regret," said Lovell, 67.

Lovell first circled the moon in 1968 on Apollo 8, a dress rehearsal for the first manned lunar landing the following year. During Apollo 13, he should have become the fifth man to walk on the moon and rease and Swigert was going to wait for them as they explored the Fra Mauro NASA's only in-space disaster in 99 human space flights. walk on the moon and Haise the sixth;

It never happened.
"On the other hand, the mission itself and the fact that we triumphed over an almost certain catastrophe does give me a deep sense of satisfaction. Although I didn't land on the moon, the achievement that was accomplished, I thought, was well worthwhile to participate in," Lovell said recently.

Many consider Apollo 13's safe return one of NASA's finest moments, right up there with Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin's stroll on the moon nine months earlier on

Apollo 11. "Looking at it in retrospect, I think it's probably one of the most amazing and incredible rescues of all history," said Gene Kranz, its lead flight director. "The performance of the crew and the operations team and the support of the whole world, they just came together in a marvelous moment of achievement."

Director Ron Howard's film 'Apollo 13," based on Lovell's 1994 book "Lost Moon: The Perilous Voyage of Apollo 13," will be released in June. Two-time Academy Award winner Tom Hanks stars as Lovell.

The tank exploded on April 13, 1970, two days after the colossal Saturn 5 rocket blasted off from

The Apollo 1 spacecraft fire, which killed three astronauts in 1967, occurred at the launch pad during a countdown test. The Challenger explosion, which killed all seven aboard in 1986, occurred 73 seconds after liftoff.

NASA later concluded both those tragedies could have been avoided. Apollo 13 also could have been prevented: a review board criticized NASA afterward for "serious oversight" in the design and testing of the oxygen tank.

For four days in April 1970, hundreds of flight controllers and engineers worked feverishly on a daring rescue plan.

Not only was oxygen spilling into pace from the service module, two of Apollo 13's three fuel cells were out and one of two main power distribution panels was dead.

With Kranz calling the shots, Lovell, Haise and Swigert moved into the cramped, dark and frigid lunar lander while rationing their dwindling oxygen, water and electricity. They swung around the moon and aimed for Earth as people around the world waited and prayed.

No one panicked. "If we didn't control our emotions, we'd still be floating around up there," Lovell said. "I mean, there was no other recourse. On April 17, 1970, the command module, minus the jettisoned service module and lunar lander, parachuted down into the Pacific Ocean.

Haise ended up in business.

Swigert went into politics; he died of cancer in 1982 one month after being elected to Congress.

"I'm living on borrowed time," said Lovell, who retired from business a few years ago. "I could have been dead back in 1970 and so all this is gravy."

Former POW believes relations needed between U.S., Vietnam

By KATHY WILHELM

Associated Press Writer HANOI, Victnam (AP) - A U.S. senator held prisoner during the Vietnam War said today that Washington should establish full diplomatic relations with Vietnam this year.

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., spoke after watching Vietnamese officials hand over to the U.S. military 10 plain wooden boxes holding what are believed to be the remains of Americans killed in the war.

A U.S. honor guard put each box inside a metal coffin, placed a folded American flag on top and carried them one by one into an Air Force transport plane. Forensics experts in Hawaii will attempt to identify the
