"There is a possibility," says a bulletin from the exten-sion department, "from the fall of 1934 to the fall of 1935 that in Texas we will go from the extreme of gathering tumble heart attack. He was a school in the county clerk race. urplus feed rot in the fields." To combat such a possibility an eight-point program has been mapped out. It includes the digging of trench silos or building of ground silos for storage; repair of barns and bins or new ones if needed for harvested grain; use of best neans of protecting stored grains and feed from weevil and at damage; staking of hay and bundle feed according to the best known methods; increase of number of milk cows, hogs and poultry on farms not now producing sufficient such products for home use; offering for slaughter only well fed and finished animals; finishing of all Texas livestock on Texas-grown feed; feeding well during winter all work and breeding

Farmers of this country, it is pointed out, hardly ever lay by a supply of feed when they have made big crops and onsequently are forced to buy in the lean years. A remedy that is suggested is the trench silo. Experience has proved that feed can be kept indefinitely in a properly built trench

Booklets prepared by the Department of Agriculture on construction of trench silos may be obtained at the office of the county agent.
