HRMC employees to receive salary bonus

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Employees of Hereford Regional Medical Center will find something extra -- equivalent to about a week's salary -- in their pay envelopes next month, the result of action by the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board Tuesday evening.

On recommendation of HRMC Administrator Jim Robinson, the board voted a bonus for employees who have been on the payroll since May 31.

The total bonus will be two percent of each employee's annual salary. Deductions will be made for Social Security and income tax.

Robinson reported total cost of the bonus is estimated at $90,000. The amount per employee will be equivalent to about a week's pay, he said.

In making the recommendation to the board to pay the bonus, Robinson observed that a salary freeze has been in effect since the beginning of the fiscal year, Oct. 1, 1994.

He suggested that the bonus is an "attempt to address" salary concerns.

In other business, the board: -- Received statistical and financial reports for May.

-- Reviewed an operations report for the Hereford Health Clinic.

-- Appointed Scott Keeling as the board's representative on the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District board.

-- Endorsed an incentive pay program to begin in the next fiscal year.

-- Directed Robinson to continue planning expansion of the physical therapy department and to look further at nuclear medicine equipment.

Robinson outlined a proposal for the incentive program, saying that savings on budget items would be designated for distribution among employees. All employees will be eligible for payments, based on evaluations. The program would operate on a quarterly basis.

The incentive program kicks in when a 95 percent approval by patients is maintained during a quarter, he said.

"We want employees to buy into a program that operates the hospital on a frugal basis," he remarked.

The board agreed that Robinson should continue to work out details of the incentive program.

Robinson pointed out that the program would not replace the regular merit raise program.

After a year-long freeze on raises, the merit raise system will resume in the next fiscal year.

The financial report for May showed a loss in operating revenue of $72,186. However non-operating revenues gave HRMC a net gain for the month of $36,508.

During the month, 159 patients were admitted for treatment, for a total of 545 patient days recorded.

The number of surgical procedures was lower in May this year than in the same month in 1994, 55 compared with 72, because at least two doctors were out of town for up to three weeks, Robinson pointed out.

A bright spot in the statistics, the administrator said, is in the number CAT scans in May. Installation of new equipment contributed to the increase, 45 in May this year compared to nine in May 1994.

The financial report for Hereford Health Clinic was received by the board, also. Because of absence of a doctor, Robinson said, revenue was lower in May, $10,896, than in April, $13,091.

Expenses also were higher because of fees totaling $12,869 incurred in recruitment of a physician's assistant for the clinic, Robinson pointed out.

In the administrator's report, Robinson reminded that a receptionist will be given Thursday, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., for Dr. Howard Haysom who is moving from Hereford.

He also reported that HRMC Volunteers gave a total of 214 1/2 hours of service during May.

Improvements in nuclear medicine equipment are being evaluated, Robinson said. He said he is seeking

Fire scene

Firefighters were called to this house at Sixth and Schley just after 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, where they discovered fire and smoke throughout the structure. Above, a fire truck sits on the grass next to the house as firefighters work at the back door to vent smoke from the structure and man water lines coming from the truck. At left, smoke billows from a second floor window after a firefighter in full breathing gear breaks out the glass and frame. The cause of the blaze was unknown at press time. There were no injuries reported.

School trustees argue role in abatement process

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford Independent School District trustees on Tuesday vented their feelings about the county Tax Abatement Board in a discussion that centered on the district's voice on the board and a recent abatement decision.

Trustees brought up their dissatisfaction with the board last month and hashed out their feelings in full during Tuesday's regular board meeting.

Board vice president Ron Weishaar asked for the discussion because of a recent abatement decision for Premium Standard Farms.

Weishaar protested the district's involvement in the abatement process, noting that the schools absorb between two-thirds and three-fourths of any abated taxes, yet have only two of seven votes on the board.

He said the district does not have the option to change abatement proposals brought to the school board from the tax abatement board and can only approve or deny those it considers.

"My suggestion is that we just drop out of the tax abatement" board, Weishaar said.

The school board earlier this year joined the county and hospital board in approving a 50 percent tax abatement for 10 years.

Trustee Randy Tooley, who serves as one of two school board representatives on the abatement board, said the city's two representatives had a vote on the PSF abatement even though it did not have any effect on city taxes.

The district has the option of turning down abatement proposals, Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt said.

But Weishaar countered that, as with the PSF abatement, "that puts us in a bad light" to turn down something approved by the abatement board, the county and the hospital district.

"They try to make our decision for us," Weishaar said. "Given it's two-thirds or three-fourths of the money is coming from us, it should be us that has a majority vote" on the abatement board.

Trustees also protested meeting scheduling that had the tax abatement board meet to approve the PSF request on notice that was too short for Tooley and former Trustee Mike Veazey -- the other abatement board representative -- to consult with the entire school board before making a decision.

Greenawalt said he aired that concern to County Judge Tom Simons.

Trustee Joe Flood said he felt like notice of meetings is not something that affects the school board, but is an abatement board internal matter.

Flood also noted that city and county officials should understand that the school district is the majority partner in the abatements, and that if the schools oppose it, the city or county have little financial incentive to offer a company.

"I think that board put Mike and Randy in a difficult position," board President Jim Marsh said, adding that he would like to find out if the abatement board would like to change its guidelines to either have more school representation or exclude the city representatives from voting on county projects.

Greenawalt said he would try and set up a joint meeting between the two boards to discuss the school panel's concerns.

"I think pulling out ought to be a last resort," Tooley said, a sentiment that Marsh agreed with.

Marsh also said he does not like the idea of giving tax abatements, but "that's the way of the '90s."

No action was taken regarding the tax abatement board as it was presented as a discussion item only.

HHS committee defines acceptable skirt lengths

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford High School students will face some changes in attire when they return to classes in the fall, school trustees were told on Tuesday.

And, when all district students return to class in August, they will find a calendar that underwent a few changes during Tuesday's meeting.

Assistant Superintendent Nena Veazey said the high school improvement team is formulating a change in the dress code that will take effect this year.

The team has proposed defining the dress code regarding shorts and skirts to say those items of clothing must be no shorter than 6 inches above the knee in a kneeling position.

In the past, principal Terry Russell said, the dress code has just said that "long shorts are permissible," but did not define a length.

This change, he said, would define the acceptable length.

In addition, the team has proposed changing clothing guidelines to prohibit the wearing of caps or hats inside the school building.

Board president Jim Marsh applauded the cap change, said he was shocked to see students wearing caps inside the classroom.

Russell said the previous rule on caps was basically teacher preference.

Mrs. Veazey said the dress code changes need to be publicized in advance, so parents will know what not to buy when they begin purchasing school clothing.

She also noted that the change will not just affect students.

"This is an everybody on the campus dress code," not just students.

Also during the meeting, trustees accepted a recommendation from the campus Calendar Committee to add two classroom teaching days to the calendar and approved a waiver request for three days of staff development.

Under the revised calendar, classes will begin for the 1995-96 school year on Aug. 21. Teacher preparation days and staff development will be held on Aug. 15-18.

Christmas vacation, which had been scheduled to last through Jan. 8, 1996, will now end on Jan. 5, 1996, with classes starting Jan. 8.

In addition, Easter vacation was cut from four days to three, with April 8, 1996, designated as a class day.

With the waiver for three days of staff development, students will be in class for 177 days. Thanksgiving will be Nov. 22-24 and Christmas Dec. 22 through Jan. 5. Staff development days will be held before school begins and on April 22, 1996.

Presidents Day will be Feb. 19, 1996, and Spring Break March 11-15, 1996.

Classes begin Aug. 21 and end May 24, 1996.

Summertime cleanup

John Paul Cano uses a self-serve car wash to get the grime off the family car on Tuesday, sprucing up the Corsica in anticipation of the first day of summer. Summer officially begins today. Temperatures are expected to reach into the 90s today and Thursday.

Summer comes in wake of harsh spring weather

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer

CHILDRESS, Texas (AP) - Gusts of wind whip up puffs of gritty sand across the jagged terrain of gullies and mounds where Ben Teague tried to grow watermelons.

The field - wavy like sugarcoated dunes on a beach - shows where rushing rainwater June 3 cut deep crevices and washed away Teague's fertile topsoil.

"You don't replace it," he said. "That's permanent damage."

Summer's official arrival today allows Teague and fellow farmers in the east Texas Panhandle to bid good riddance to a disastrous spring.

Relentless waves of violent weather have struck the agriculture belt from Pampa to Vernon this month. The toll: flat wheat, washed-out cotton, dead livestock, mangled barns.

"This year's been terrible," said Billy Joe McFall, manager of the Wheeler Feed Yard, where 210 cattle were killed in a tornado June 8.

McFall said the storm also ruined the mill and most of the pens at the 12,000-head feed yard about 90 miles northeast of Amarillo. Flying tin caused most of the injuries, he said.

"Cuts and broken legs, heads cut off, pipe sticking out of them," McFall said Tuesday, describing the carnage he found. "I wanted to turn and leave."

Blame that same tornado for what happened at David Crockett's ranch near McLean, about 25 miles to the south.

Crockett and his family huddled in a cellar while their house crumbled atop them. Losses there include 80 cattle, five horses, three mules and 30 chickens.

But he and his neighbors aren't discouraged enough to quit working the land.

"Every day's a risk," Crockett said. "We deal with the weather and the market. Every day's a gamble."

Vernon-area farmers, meanwhile, spent this week planting their '95 cotton for the third time.

Their previous plantings got wiped out by deluges and winds from 80-100 mph, said Wilbarger County agriculture agent Corky Wise. High winds and hail ruined as much as 40,000 acres of the county's wheat, he said.

Yet Wise managed to find an upside.

"If there is a bright spot, the peanuts are looking awful good," he said.

Local Roundup

Clouds may bring rain

Partly cloudy skies Wednesday night bring a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms to the area. The low overnight will be in the lower 60s. A south wind, 10-20 mph, should decrease to 5-15 mph. The same 20 percent chance of thunderstorms will be in effect Thursday afternoon, with the temperature in the 90-degree range. A south wind will be 10-20 mph, and gusty. The mercury climbed to 90 degrees Tuesday and dipped to 65 degrees Wednesday morning.

World/Nation

GROZNY, Russia - Russian forces agree to start a three-day truce today in Chechnya after rebels who took thousands of hostages escaped into the hills and released the last of their captives. In Moscow, President Boris Yeltsin and his government face a no-confidence vote over its handling of the hostage crisis.

OKLAHOMA CITY - Top military officials defended the handling of the friendly fire shootdown investigation after the book was closed on the case with no one held criminally responsible for the 26 deaths.

Air Force Capt. Jim Wang was cleared Tuesday in last year's attack, when U.S. F-15 fighter pilots shot down two Army helicopters over Iraq.

LOS ANGELES - Prosecutors in the O.J. Simpson murder trial have suddenly started acting like the defense - dropping witnesses and swaggering in public. Abandoning their usual public shyness, prosecutors Marcia Clark and Christopher Darden announced at a news conference that they should wrap up their case by next week.

WASHINGTON - With both sides waging furious last-minute lobbying campaigns, Senate opponents of surgeon general nominee Dr. Henry Foster say they have enough support to prevent a confirmation vote this week.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina - With sirens blaring and artillery barrages pounding Sarajevo, a Serb leader hinted at possible concessions in stalled peace talks, saying "Our prime aim is not to destroy the Muslims."

ATLANTA - The Southern Baptist Convention is seeking forgiveness for condoning racism for much of its 150-year history, and the president of the predominantly white organization wants its local churches to do the same.

"On the local church level there is still progress to be made," James B. Henry said Tuesday after the resolution was approved Tuesday. "Just by making a statement we didn't heal everybody."

WASHINGTON - When President Clinton sent his first budget to Congress, he promised no gimmicks, no smoke, no mirrors. And to show he was serious, he agreed to use the same set of figures as Congress. But that was then.

TOKYO - If a Japanese car owner wants a set of sporty French-made fog lamps, they're easy enough to find at a Tokyo auto-parts store. But there's a catch: They don't meet Japanese regulatory standards, so the owner has to take them off whenever he gets his car inspected. It's one small example of what the United States says is a huge trade problem: the barriers foreigners face in selling auto parts to Japanese consumers.

State

WASHINGTON - If you want to undo a stupid federal regulation it'll help to have the ear of Texas Republican Congressman Sam Johnson. Johnson and 11 other members of a bipartisan advisory panel will recommend which red tape to tackle as part of one of House Speaker Newt Gingrich's pet projects: "Corrections Day."

HUNTSVILLE - A convicted murderer, described as a "sexual predator" was put to death early today for the 1986 rape-slaying of an FBI secretary.

DALLAS - A political counterinsurgency may be at work in the public school systems in Dallas' affluent northern suburbs, as well as more than a dozen other Texas school districts. In Plano, a 4-3 school board majority held by a group of social and religious conservatives was broken up recently. The same day, in neighboring Richardson, a bid by a three-candidate, self-described Republican slate led by a board incumbent was defeated by moderates with similar margins.

CHILDRESS - Gusts of wind whip up puffs of gritty sand across the jagged terrain of gullies and mounds where Ben Teague tried to grow watermelons. # Senate vote goes to Foster forces

Gramm fails in effort to block surgeon general appointee

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dr. Henry Foster failed to muster enough support today to force a vote on his nomination to be surgeon general, all but dooming his chances of confirmation.

The motion to cut off debate garnered a 57-43 vote, just three votes shy of the 60 votes needed - quashing supporters' hopes just as Sen. Phil Gramm, the senator and GOP presidential candidate who threatened the filibuster, had predicted.

The Tennessee obstetrician-gynecologist had one more chance to survive, with a second vote scheduled Thursday, but Democrats were pessimistic about convincing any Republicans to change their votes.

The vote came after three hours of contentious debate, in which Democratic supporters repeatedly claimed that Foster was an innocent victim Republican presidential politics and conservative attempts to roll back abortion rights.

Both Gramm and Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole are running for the GOP presidential nomination.

"Dr. Foster is being crucified on the altar of presidential politics," said Sen. James Exon, D-Neb.

Republican opponents suggested Foster was the wrong man to be surgeon general after the stormy tenure of Dr. Joycelyn Elders.

Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., the chairwoman of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, which held confirmation hearings, called him "the wrong person to step into this badly damaged office at this time."

Gramm suggested Foster, who has admitted to performing 39 abortions in nearly four decades of practice, held "radical views about abortion."

"I do not believe those views represent traditional American values. I do not believe they represent the will of the American people," Gramm said.

But supporters pointed to the fact that Foster's efforts to combat teen pregnancy had won him a "Point of Light" from President Bush. They said few doctors gave so much of their lives to the neediest Americans.

"How many other doctors have really attempted to lead the country, to try and do something about the problems of teen-age pregnancy? How many others have tried to keep our young people in school such as Dr. Foster has done? And how many have been a source of inspiration as he has?" asked Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., the ranking Democrat on the Labor Committee.

When Clinton put Foster's name forward in February, he thought confirmation would be easy. But anti-abortion groups quickly pounced on the fact that Foster had performed abortions - 39 in four decades in medicine.

When he and the White House initially gave conflicting answers on how many abortions, opponents also suggested a credibility problem.

Last month, Foster narrowly won the recommendation of Kassebaum's committee, with two Republicans voting in favor.

Harvest well under way

Wheat harvest is in full swing as the warm, arid weather has hastened the drying of the grain. Many farmers are rolling out their combines and bringing grain to area elevators. This field west of town is an irrigated field of wheat. The majority of the wheat left in the county is irrigated because many acres of dry-land wheat were abandoned due to the dry season the area experienced earlier in the year.

Prosecutors prepare to wind up case against Simpson next week

By DEBORAH HASTINGS

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Prosecutors in the O.J. Simpson trial have suddenly started acting like the defense - dropping witnesses and swaggering in public.

Abandoning their usual public reticence, prosecutors Marcia Clark and Christopher Darden announced at a news conference that they hope to wrap up their five-month-long case next week.

"I have never presented a case with so much information in my entire life," a beaming Clark said Tuesday. "It's really time to get the case to the jury. They're ready."

That may be the understatement of the so-called Trial of the Century. Jurors have openly revolted against the creeping pace and have been dismissed at a mistrial-threatening rate. Only two of 12 alternates remain.

Darden said prosecutors will not call any more witnesses to describe violent and obsessive acts Simpson allegedly committed against his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson. Some of the witnesses had already been subpoenaed.

"We're ready to rest with a mountain of evidence against this guy," Darden said.

There are, however, more prosecution witnesses to come. LuEllen Robinson of Air Touch Cellular was to take the stand today to discuss Simpson's cellular phone bill. Prosecutors also were expected to recall Richard Rubin, the former vice president of Aris Isotoner Inc. who was on the stand last week during the prosecution's questionable glove demonstration.

Legal analysts were surprised by prosecutor's sudden strategy change. Some called it overdue.

"If there's anything that they've learned from this case, it's that less is more," said Loyola Law School professor Laurie Levenson. "The down side is that Darden, in his opening statements, did refer to (Keith) Zlomsowitch. So they may have a problem with that."

Zlomsowitch is one of the dropped witnesses. The former boyfriend of Ms. Simpson's told a grand jury last year that Simpson stalked his ex-wife and watched through a window as Zlomsowitch and Ms. Simpson had sex.

Cochran also mentioned witnesses in his opening statements that he isn't likely to call. Among them is Mary Anne Gerchas, who claimed to have seen four men in Ms. Simpson's neighborhood around the time she was murdered. Gerchas recently pleaded guilty to fraud and faces jail time.

Legal analysts said prosecutors may be dropping further domestic violence testimony because some jurors don't consider it a motive for murder.

Simpson maintains he was home alone when his ex-wife and her friend Ronald Goldman were stabbed and slashed to death June 12 outside Ms. Simpson's condominium. Prosecutors contend he was consumed with jealousy and rage after the breakup of his marriage.

The new strut displayed by prosecutors sometimes seemed more like stress, especially from Darden, a 38-year-old single man from Northern California.

When asked if, given a second chance, he would order Simpson to try on bloody gloves found outside his mansion and at the murder scene, he replied, "If I could do it again, I'd be married now with three kids and living in Berkeley."

In a courtroom demonstration widely considered a blow to prosecutors, Simpson struggled to put on the crumpled gloves and muttered to the jury that they were too small.

Asked if the incident had anything to do with the prosecution's strategy change, Clark replied, "Nothing, nothing, nothing."

Asked for information about the possibility of video or audio taping public meetings after Tooley requested the study.

Having the meetings on tape, he said, would provide a backup record to the minutes in case officials needed to determine exactly what was said during a session.

In conjunction with Tooley's request, Trustee Roy Dale Messer suggested that the district look into getting the meetings televised locally as well, making sessions available to people who otherwise would not attend.

-- Six of the seven trustees -- Marsh, Weishaar, Flood, Messer, Tooley and Cheryl McWhorter -- attended the entire meeting. Trustee Raul Valdez was late due to a scheduling conflict.

Hereford man to participate in conference

John Wear of Hereford, owner of Trident Environmental Services and Technologies (TEST), has been invited to a conference in Southfork, Colo., to discuss activities at a Superfund cleanup site.

The invitation came from the U.S. Department of Interior, Bureau of Reclamation, which is working in concert with Environmental Protection Agency and the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment.

Wear was notified that the conference will be held at the Wolf Creek Ski Lodge on June 28. Representatives at the conference will visit the Summitville Mine EPA Superfund Site and hear an overview of remediation activities for the EPA project.

Wear has long been an advocate of using zeolites for aeration and absorption. His company's basic product is a compost made in Deaf Smith County.

The Bureau of Reclamation had previously sent Wear a Request for Information (RFI). As a result of their review of the information, the letter stated, Wear was invited to the conference to discuss the potential for further activities.

Wear's invitation to the conference included a request for information on three subjects: The use of zeolites as a passive treatment method to treat heavy metal-laden waters; use of bactericides to inhibit the formation of acid mine drainings; and examples of high altitude wetlands as a passive water treatment method.

cereals division for a dish called "Focaccio Rustica". Morris Milling Company of Denton donated the $750 food show scholarship she received.

Horse Judging-A team composed of James Payne, Tommy Mather, Loretta Camp and Courtney Crawford was awarded second place. The youth are now eligible to continue competing in horse judging contests across the nation.

Clothing Demonstration-Amanda Sims and Karon Harder were awarded second place for a demonstration titled "Closet Cops" which offered ideas for those with the "terminal messy closet" to become neat and organized in order to save time, money and promote good family relations.

Family Life-A team composed of Amber Vasek, Erin Auckerman, Justin Betzen, Ted Peabody and Jami Parker placed second with a demonstration called "On the Road Again" which offered a humorous look at a family vacation and offers hints for having a 'successful' family vacation.

Meat Science-Joanna Brumley and Amber Brumley presented a second place winning demonstration entitled "Let's Meat the World".

Fashion Show/Formal Construction-Karon Harder was third high individual and was awarded a scholarship for her accomplishments by Justin Boot Company.

Horticulture Products Preparation-Robin Bell and Jaime Steiert placed third with their demonstration "The Power of the Pepper" which featured preparation, use, growing, history and varieties of the pepper.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a very long story, so I don't expect to see this letter in the newspaper.

I grew up in a small town in South Dakota and had a very confusing childhood. I am male, but until high school, I looked like a very pretty little girl. My father was attracted to me, as were several other male members of my extended family. Physical, sexual, mental and verbal abuse were frequent occurrences until I was in my middle teens.

I ran away to Texas as soon as I could, found a job and tried to build a life. Depression consumed me, and I attempted suicide. I was committed to a mental ward twice and once checked myself in. I have had three psychologists and on psychiatrist. All of them have tried to sleep with me.

I am not an egomaniac who thinks I am gorgeous. I am a former male model who still attracts both men and women. For a while, it was the only way I knew to find love. After seven years of therapy, I know the difference between love and the things I did to replace the absence of it.

After years of promiscuity, I contracted AIDS. Instead of being sad and upset, I am happy. I pray that my next life will be more loving and kind. I have forgiven myself and others, and all I want now is peace.

I am saddened by the state of the world. There is so much anger, destruction and danger. When I see an act of kindness, I am almost moved to tears. It pleases me when I see people who are enjoying their lives. I didn't enjoy mine, and I realize what a shame that is.

The reason for writing is to thank you for providing me with laughter, tears and joy when few other things touched my heart. You perform a useful service. I can't say I always agree with you, but I have always enjoyed your words. So, kind lady, even though I am beyond help, I wanted you to know how special you are to me, and I wish you happiness always. Continue to be brave and speak your mind. -- Nameless in Plano, Texas

DEAR PLANO: Don't give up on yourself. It is possible that you could have many years of peace and productivity.

You have a great deal to give. You could counsel AIDS patients and make a valuable contribution. Please hang in there, and let me hear from you saying you received my message. I send love.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read your column about the rooster in France whose crowing irritated the neighbors. The owner was fined for disturbing the peace. I wish we had some law in Michigan that would take care of the young hoodlums who gun their engines day and night.

It is especially bad in mobile home parks where the speed limit is 20 miles an hour. They zip around going at least 60.

These wackos think they are King Kong when they gun their cars. If I had the money, I would move to France, where there is respect for the law and a decent judge. -- Marysville, Mich.

DEAR MARYSVILLE: You don't need to move to France. If teenage punks are zipping around at 60 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone, you should report them. Your call, by the way, could save some lives. I recommend it.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our son gets cold hives. He lives in a cold climate, and is instructed to cover his body against the cold. He even gets the hives in the eyes. His dermatologists cannot find effective help for him. Does diet have anything to do with it? We hope you can give us some answers. Right now, he has a hive at one eye, and it soon will be two. -- Mr. and Mrs. E.M.

ANSWER: Cold urticaria is not a common ailment, and your son has a severe case.

I need not tell you or your son how difficult the hives can be to treat. I can offer one hopeful note: Some patients report lessening of symptoms with time, and many have remission in five or six years.

I must balance that with the fact that the longest case reported lasted 37 years.

Diet has nothing to do with it. Your son has been well-instructed in the only really certain preventive measure: keeping the body protected.

I must add a further note of warning, of the special hazard some with cold urticaria face: In some, plunging into water can induce a most serious reaction. Further, your son should be warned against swimming unaccompanied, even during the summer in warm water.

Patients have tried antihistamines to prevent or treat the cold-induced hives. Cyproheptadine is one antihistamine often tried. If that doesn't work, there are many others to try.

Dermatologists do keep a close watch for new or experimental treatments for such skin-related illnesses. I advise your son to stay in touch, no matter how unavailing efforts have been up until now.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I can never make a smooth gravy the way my mother did. It always ends up lumpy. What is the secret? -- A.L., Lansing, Mich.

There are many ways to make lump-free gravies. One secret is to be sure to mix the dry cornstarch or flour with a little cool liquid (milk, water) first. Adding it slowly, a little at a time, to the hot liquid will keep those lumps away.

The liquid keeps the dry cornstarch granules from clumping together while cooking and, ta-dah, you have a smooth gravy! -- Heloise

Dear Heloise: Since research has shown that it takes at least 20 minutes for your brain to recognize that you have eaten enough, many obesity experts believe that eating slowly is one way to lose weight and keep it off.

In order to slow myself down while eating, I use chopsticks -- uh-huh, chopsticks -- and find that they help tremendously. Just try wolfing down spaghetti with them!

Hope this hint can help somebody. -- Marie Carpenter, Nutley, N.J.

Union strife threatens NBA labor agreement

By WENDY E. LANE
AP Basketball Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - The progress the NBA and its players association are making toward a new labor deal could be scuttled by strife within the union.

While the framework of a new NBA labor deal emerged Tuesday, the list of disgruntled players wanting to break from the union grew.

The players association expected to have an offer to present to player representatives by conference call today, with a vote taken Friday. But agents were urging their clients to sign decertification notices rather than vote against any proposal.

The tactic angered union president Buck Williams of the Portland Trail Blazers, who accused agents of "trying to dictate policy."

"This union is run by and for players, not agents," Williams said in a statement. "Apparently, these agents have heard bits and pieces of the deal we are working on, and they don't think certain parts of the deal are good for their business. They have responded by claiming the players are uninformed, which could not be further from the truth."

Hakeem Olajuwon, who led the Houston Rockets to their second consecutive NBA title last week, criticized the hardline stand of some of his colleagues.

"It's a good deal when both parties are happy," said Olajuwon, in New York to receive the playoff MVP award. "The NBA has made such tremendous progress in the last seven or eight years. It would not be wise to let the greed come in. ...

"I am for justice, and I am ready to stand against injustice."

If the union were decertified, any labor agreement it negotiated would be nullified, antitrust rules would no longer be in place and players would be able to take legal action against the league.

Meanwhile, Williams and Simon Gourdine, the union's executive director, met Tuesday with NBA deputy commissioner Russell Granik to work out details of the agreement.

Under the proposed six-year deal, players would receive a greater share of revenues - approximately 57 percent, up from the 53 percent they currently receive. Included in the sources of revenues would be money generated by luxury skyboxes, club seats and international television.

The agreement would feature a rookie salary cap and limit rookie contracts to three years, after which a player would become an unrestricted free agent, the source said.

The college draft would remain at two rounds for the first three years of the agreement, but would be cut to one for the final three years.

The salary cap, which would rise from $15 million to around $24 million, would be tightened by a luxury tax, triggered if the share of league revenues devoted to salaries exceeds 63 percent.

Individual contracts signed for raises in excess of 10 percent would be subject to the tax.

While the luxury tax was added to protect owners from escalating salaries, clubs will still be allowed to re-sign their own free agents without regard to salary cap limitations.

The provisions, however, do not sit well with the 15-member board of agents, which advises the union on labor negotiations.

Agent Marc Fleisher, who represents about 15 NBA players and is a board member, said he had a list of more than 50 players who signed decertification notices, and other agents were gathering signatures as well.

"The revolution is growing by leaps and bounds," Fleisher said.

The decertification effort started Monday, when Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing and Alonzo Mourning, all clients of agent David Falk, signed notices after complaining the union wasn't keeping them informed on the negotiations.

The last labor agreement expired at the end of the 1993-94 season, and last season was played under a no-strike, no-lockout pact.

It was unclear whether the players' signatures on notices would be sufficient to decertify the union. Agents said a vote by 51 percent of the union's 324 members would do it. But under labor law, union members must first submit a petition to the National Labor Relations Board.

Tyson goes home to mixed reaction

NEW YORK (AP) - On his trek from prison back to boxing, Mike Tyson handed a hefty check to children in Harlem and told them Islam was his only benefit from three years behind bars.

There was no parade on Tuesday, but the ex-heavyweight champion received a hero's welcome in his first trip to New York City after serving his sentence for raping a Miss Black America contestant.

And for at least one day, he was shielded from questions about the rape.

At all four stops on Tyson's tour through Harlem, enthusiastic crowds braved hazy, 90-plus temperatures to cheer him. They clutched videocams and Polaroids, and many wore Tyson T-shirts.

The fans hadn't changed; had Tyson? "If I have, I hope it's for the better," he told reporters.

The "prodigal son," as several speakers described him, started the day by meeting with local ministers. He popped into a soul food restaurant for a boxing news conference, spoke to his fans outside the Apollo Theater and gave out $200,000 for various social programs to start his new charitable foundation.

One check, for $100,000, was made out to Our Children's Foundation, and Tyson visited the charity's Harlem offices. The children there put on a homecoming show for him and hailed him as a role model, tap dancing to a song called "The Mike Tyson Rap."

Tyson, who was referred to by the Muslim name Abdul Malik Aziz, demurred.

"We as Muslims look at no one but Allah as a role model," he said. He told the young crowd that "it's very vital that we understand as individuals we all live, die and make mistakes. I look at myself as relatively nothing. I pray to Allah. The only benefit to my incarceration was embracing Islam."

Earlier in the day, hundreds of Harlemites waited for hours to see their hero, turning a stretch of 125th Street into an impromptu block party as a reggae band played.

"Mike! Mike! Mike!" they chanted.

Rodeo star Murray injured

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - Rodeo superstar Ty Murray, who has won the last six world all-around championships, will be out the rest of the season with a knee injury, the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association said Tuesday.

Murray, 25, tore a ligament in his right knee last Saturday in a bull ride at Rancho Murietta, Calif.

The PRCA said Murray will undergo surgery on the right knee June 30, and will have surgery on his left knee two months later.

Murray, of Stephenville, Texas, said he injured the left knee three years ago.

Murray said he plans to return to competition in March 1996.

McNair, Oilers aren't close

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) - First-round draft pick Steve McNair and the Houston Oilers are still a long way apart in contract negotiations, according to the quarterback's agent. "We've had lots of discussion and little progress," agent Bus Cook of Hattiesburg, Miss., told The Clarion-Ledger in a column published Tuesday.

McNair, the NCAA career leader in total offense with 16,823 yards, was the third player and the first quarterback taken in the April 22 draft. Only one of the top 10 picks has signed a contract.

Cook said he's seeking a contract similar to the one former Tennessee quarterback Heath Shuler signed with the Washington Redskins last year. Shuler got $19 million over seven years.

Raiders sign TCU lineman

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) - Second-round draft choice Barret Robbins, an offensive lineman from Texas Christian, has signed a contract with the Los Angeles Raiders.

"Barret Robbins is a big, strong, young offensive lineman who has played well at center, guard and tackle in college," Raiders coach Mike White said Tuesday. "We expect him to contribute to our front unit this year and in the future. He has shown an excellent work ethic as well as real versatility in the off-season camps we've held since the draft."

Robbins, a 6-foot-3, 305-pounder, started every game at center for TCU as a senior last year. As a junior in 1993, he played every offensive play of the season at strongside tackle.

Angels' Smith notches 18th save vs. Royals

By The Associated Press
The California Angels finished 21 games under .500 in 1994's strike-shortened season. This year, they are being saved by Lee Smith.
The veteran reliever set a major league record with his 18th save in 18 appearances Tuesday night, pitching the ninth inning to preserve the Angels' 3-2 victory over Kansas City. The win kept them in first place alone in the American League West.
"It's a good feeling to be plugging along at 37," Smith said with a grin.
Smith also held the previous record of 17 consecutive saves, established with St. Louis in 1993. But he needed some help from left fielder Garret Anderson, who made an over-the-shoulder snag of Gary Gaetti's bid for a leadoff extra-base hit in the ninth.
Smith retired the last two batters to end the game. He has not allowed a run in the 18 innings he's pitched this year.
The Royals closed to 3-2 in the eighth without the benefit of a hit.

Troy Percival walked Vince Coleman with one out, and Coleman stole second and third before scoring on Edgar Caceres' groundout.
Tony Phillips staked California to a 1-0 lead with an RBI double off Mark Gubicza (4-6) in the second inning.
Indians 9, Red Sox 2
Cleveland (21-6 at home) beat Boston for the fifth straight time this season as rookie Chad Ogea allowed one run and five hits in eight innings and Kenny Lofton drove in four runs.
The 24-year-old Ogea (3-0) has won each of his three starts since replacing Jason Grimsley in the Cleveland rotation. He blanked the Red Sox on three hits until the eighth.
Carlos Baerga had three hits and drove in two runs for the Indians, and Eddie Murray singled home a run with his 2,990th career hit.
Rangers 8, Tigers 6
Texas, after going 62 innings without a home run, hit three at Detroit, including a three-run shot by Rusty Greer and a solo shot by Juan Gonzalez on consecutive pitches in the fifth inning.

Ivan Rodriguez also homered for the Rangers, who also ended a drought of 31 innings without an extra-base hit.
Bobby Higginson homered for the second straight night and Travis Fryman connected for the first time since May 24 for the Tigers.
Darren Oliver (4-2) went 5 2-3 innings, allowing seven hits and striking out eight for the victory.
Mariners 9, White Sox 5
Randy Johnson allowed five hits and struck out 10 in seven innings, improving his record to 10-2 against the White Sox. Johnson (7-1) is unbeaten in six starts in Chicago, where he's allowed only 14 earned runs in 47 innings.
Johnson surrendered a two-run homer to Frank Thomas in the first inning, then settled down. He got out of a jam by striking out Thomas in the seventh after the White Sox made it 5-3.

Seattle, which got homers from Mike Blowers and Alex Rodriguez, added four runs in the eighth, two off Wilson Alvarez (1-4), who failed for the eighth straight time to win his second game.
Brewers 5, Blue Jays 3
Milwaukee won at Toronto as Darryl Hamilton drove in the go-ahead run with a fifth-inning double and rookie Sid Roberson (3-2) scattered three runs and seven hits in seven innings.
The Brewers, who have won five of six road games, prevented the Blue Jays from winning three consecutive games for the fifth time this season.
With the score 3-3, Jose Valentin led off the fifth with a single and came home on Hamilton's double. Kevin Seitzer followed with a single, but Hamilton was thrown out at the plate by right fielder Shawn Green.
Toronto starter Pat Hengten (4-5) allowed the Brewers' fifth run to score on a throwing error in the sixth.

Orioles 8, Yankees 7
Jeffrey Hammonds had a career-high four RBIs as Baltimore rallied from a 7-2 deficit in the fifth inning to defeat visiting New York and send the Yankees into last place in the East.
Hammonds had a sacrifice fly in the third, an RBI double in the fifth and put Baltimore ahead with a two-run double in the sixth.
Gerald Williams hit a grand slam and Danny Tartabull added a solo shot to help the Yankees build the five-run lead.
Athletics 5, Twins 2
Scott Brosius had two solo homers and an RBI single and Steve Ontiveros allowed one run in seven innings, carrying Oakland past visiting Minnesota.
Brosius homered on the first pitch of the game from Pat Mahomes (1), singled in a run in the second and hit his fifth homer of the season in the fifth. Terry Steinbach and Brent Gates added solo homers for the A's.
Ontiveros (7-2), who missed his last start while recovering from muscle spasms in his neck, allowed eight hits.
Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth for his 13th save.

Marlins' sub shocks Rockies

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
When Florida Marlins manager Rene Lachemann went to the bullpen, he didn't know he was also putting a little extra hitting into his lineup.
Bobby Witt started for Florida, but came out of the game with tightness in his lower back before throwing a pitch in the second inning. Terry Mathews came on in relief.
Mathews fanned a career-high six while allowing four hits, including solo home runs to Joe Girardi and National League home run leader Larry Walker, in 4-2-3 innings to run his record to 2-0. But it was at the plate where he really shone.
Mathews went 3-for-3, with two doubles, scored a run and knocked in two as the visiting Marlins defeated the struggling Colorado Rockies 7-2 Tuesday night.
"There really isn't any secret," Lachemann said of his pitcher's hitting performance. "Terry Mathews swings the bat and he was out for extra batting practice with the possibility of pinch hitting. The way he swings the bat, it is a strong possibility."
Andre Dawson added a three-run homer as Colorado lost for a season-high fifth straight time.
The Marlins solved five Colorado pitchers for 11 hits, led by Mathews.
"It was the start of one of the most memorable nights as a professional," Mathews said. "I hadn't gotten three hits in a game since college, but this is a hitter's park, isn't it?"
Joe Grahe (2-2) took the loss.

Astros 7, Expos 4
At Olympic Stadium, Shane Reynolds (3-5) pitched six strong innings and Houston scored five first-inning runs to hand Montreal its fourth straight defeat.
Jeff Bagwell had his 100th career homer in the Astros' 14-hit attack. Houston has won 10 of its last 12 road games.
Brian Hunter singled and Craig Biggio doubled to lead off Houston's first inning before Pedro Martinez (5-3) hit Bagwell with a high fastball. Martinez then gave up three straight singles on off-speed pitches. Scott Servais capped the rally with a two-run double, chasing Martinez.
Montreal's Tony Tarasco hit his eighth homer of the year in the ninth.
Cubs 7, Padres 2
Sammy Sosa went 3-for-5 with four RBIs, including his 13th homer for visiting Chicago.
Rey Sanchez went 3-for-5 and scored twice, while Brian McRae was 3-for-3 and scored three runs.
Sosa's two-run homer in the first inning was his third in five games against the Padres this year.
Winner Frank Castillo (6-2) allowed nine hits and two runs in five-plus innings with two strikeouts. Scott Sanders (5-3) allowed eight hits and seven runs in 3-2-3 innings, with four strikeouts in taking the loss.
Phillies 8, Mets 2
Tyler Green had his fourth complete game of the year and lowered his ERA to 2.87 night as Philadelphia pounded 12 hits in its Shea Stadium victory.

Green (6-4), who leads the NL in shutouts and complete games, scattered eight hits, walked one and struck out two.
Charlie Hayes had a pair of RBI singles, Mariano Duncan and Kevin Stocker had two-run singles and Darren Daulton went 2-for-4 with an RBI.
The Phillies scored three runs in the third for a 4-1 lead and broke the game open in the eighth with three more.
Mets starter Pete Harnisch (1-4) took the loss.
Cardinals 7, Dodgers 0
Mark Petkovsek threw his first career shutout and Brian Jordan had four RBIs in the host Cardinals' victory.
Petkovsek extended his string of scoreless innings to 17 to end the Dodgers' three-game winning streak. He allowed eight hits, had three strikeouts and two walks for the Cardinals' first complete game of the season.
Jordan, moved to leadoff, singled and scored in the first, hit his eighth home run with a man on to chase Pedro Astacio (1-6) in the fifth, and had a two-run single in the sixth.
Scott Cooper added two doubles and an RBI, and Jose Oquendo an RBI double in the Cardinals' 11-hit attack.
The Dodgers had four runners thrown out either trying to steal or take an extra base, and ran into double plays in the second and sixth innings.
road. They have an unprecedented 10-1 record away from home.
At home, the Devils are a more modest 4-3 in the playoffs.

Braves 10, Reds 2
At Riverfront Stadium, Greg Maddux pitched six shutout innings as Atlanta won its seventh straight game.
Chipper Jones added four hits, including a two-run homer, and drove in three runs as Atlanta moved 10 games over .500 (30-20) for the first time this season.
Maddux (6-1) allowed six singles and struck out eight.
The Braves batted around in the first inning for four runs off C.J. Nitkowski (0-1).
Pirates 5, Giants 3
Mark Johnson hit a tie-breaking homer and Don Slaught returned from the disabled list with a two-run double to carry Pittsburgh past San Francisco.
The Pirates took a 2-0 lead on Slaught's double in the first against Mark Leiter (3-4) en route to beating the Giants for the second straight game.
Mark Carreon's second homer of the game and Robby Thompson's RBI single tied it in the sixth against Esteban Loaiza (3-3), but Johnson homered with one out in the bottom of the inning.
Johnson has eight homers and 17 RBIs after almost giving up baseball last winter following three straight seasons in Double-A without a promotion.

Devils take 2-0 lead in Stanley Cup

DETROIT (AP) - The New Jersey Devils are almost unbeatable on the road. If they can just approach that success at home, the Stanley Cup will belong to them. Very soon.
"We're halfway there," Devils forward Claude Lemieux said following Tuesday night's 4-2 victory over the Red Wings. "We're going to have to work just as hard, if not harder, when we get home."
"It's going to be nice to have the fans behind us, but they don't win hockey games for you. You've got to work yourself and you've got to do the same thing over and over."

One thing the Devils have been doing over and over in the Stanley Cup playoffs has been winning on the

The track becomes only the second to shut down since Texans approved pari-mutuel wagering in 1987.

WAC to adopt logo without mountains

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) - No longer able to claim a mountain view from every stadium, the revamped Western Athletic Conference has changed its logo to accommodate its new members from the plains.
The 10-team WAC, which will add six new members beginning in 1996, has used the same logo since its inaugural season in 1962. The old logo has an abstract picture of mountains surrounded by a circle that holds the words "Western Athletic Conference."
But the new members include Tulsa, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Rice - all schools on the Oklahoma-Texas plains.

National park gives city kids taste of nature

EDITOR'S NOTE - Here's a national park just 10 miles from Wall Street, with a vista of Manhattan's towering spires. Yet, it's a place where inner-city kids can learn something about nature. It draws more visitors than the Yellowstone and Yosemite parks combined. The park rangers call it the "urban outback."

By PAUL GEITNER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - When 16 fifth-graders from an inner-city school went on a recent overnight outing to learn about nature, they didn't drive to the mountains or head for the woods.

Their campsite was in the middle of an abandoned airport, just down the road from Brooklyn's biggest shopping mall, where the panoramic views are not of majestic snowcapped peaks but the steel-and-glass spires of Manhattan.

The class from Public School 152 spent the night at Gateway National Recreation Area - a patchwork park of dunes, grasslands and wooded areas that rangers call New York City's "urban outback."

About 10 miles (as the tern flies) from Wall Street, it's one of the few national parks accessible by subway, although the campers usually arrive in yellow school buses.

Tents are pitched in a clearing a short walk from an old runway at Floyd Bennett Field - New York's first municipal airport, later a Navy training base, now a multipurpose recreation area.

Surrounding them is a stand of Japanese black pines planted as part of Lady Bird Johnson's beautification program three decades ago.

Overhead, glossy ibises and Canadian geese compete for airspace with the jumbo jets landing and taking off from Kennedy International Airport, just across Jamaica Bay.

"All that is comforting" for the kids, many of whom have never spent a night away from home, much less outdoors, says their teacher, Luray

Powell, from P.S. 152. "They may be rather streetwise in Manhattan, but they're in for quite a different experience here."

Gateway was established in 1972, part of what President Richard Nixon called "bringing parks to the people." Its 26,000 acres stretch around New York Harbor, including parts of three city boroughs and New Jersey.

The park has only 1 percent the land area of Yellowstone, but its beaches and ball fields, bike paths and bird sanctuaries attract some 6 million people each year - more visitors than Yellowstone and Yosemite combined.

It also includes two forts, an 18th-century lighthouse and the airfield, used by Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart, Howard Hughes and other famous aviators in the 1930s but ultimately a commercial flop.

Today, Coast Guard and police department helicopters are the only aircraft still landing there, not counting the radio-controlled model planes flown by hobbyists in one corner.

Although the dilapidated hangars and control tower remain, nature has begun reclaiming the field, helped along by the National Park Service, which has planted trees and dug a freshwater pond.

The idea for the Ecology Village camping program - the first of its kind - originated in 1976 as a way to bring people back to the grounds as well.

Today about 3,000 children, grades four through 12, spend the night at the park each spring and fall, says Ranger Maggie Zadorozny, who runs Ecology Village. An additional 2,000 from youth groups and other agencies come in the summer.

Five of Gateway's 100 or so rangers are assigned to Ecology Village, and New York state contributes the salary for one extra ranger in the summer. The park, with an overall budget of $15.4 million, also provides some camping equipment students can borrow.

The city Board of Education kicks in about $150,000 a year for the Gateway Environmental Study Center, which acts as a liaison between the park service and the schools.

Teachers must go through a 30-hour training course before they can sign up their class for a visit. But many of the children have no idea what to expect when they arrive.

Ms. Powell's students, who live in the tough upper Manhattan neighborhoods of Washington Heights and Inwood, visited Gateway in early May.

"I thought it was going to be boring because it was going in the bushes and there was no movies and we couldn't bring music or nothing," said Janisha Santana, 11, as the group packed up the morning after. "But it wasn't."

She and her 11-year-old friend, Gineyda Diaz, spotted a cottontail rabbit as they got out of their sleeping bags for breakfast.

The previous day, the class had waded into Deadhorse Bay to look for mummichogs, silversides and other small fish. They examined tent worms hatching on cherry trees and learned how a falcon catches its prey.

"The wonders of Gateway are small in the sense that kids aren't going to see a moose cow go by with her calf, or a bear - although they always ask about bears," Zadorozny says. "But it's fun to see them watching bees, or see a hummingbird sip nectar from a flower, or see what a baby pine cone looks like."

The city-born ranger speaks with a Queens accent - somewhat jarring at first from a person who gets excited by the chirping of passing tree sparrows and recites such aphorisms as: "What you don't know you'll fear and what you fear you'll destroy."

Zadorozny believes children need exposure to nature to understand the importance of environmental issues. She considers herself lucky that her parents frequently took her to the beach or camping in the Appalachians.

"If you want to teach kids about the environment, then get the kids out there and they'll begin to understand and care," she says - a message that she carries with almost missionary zeal to park conferences around the country.

Arcadia National Park in Maine consulted with Ecology Village when they were designing their program, Zadorozny says, and requests for copies of the Ecology Village camping manual have come in from such places as the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore and the Natchez Trace Parkway in Mississippi.

Not all the settings may be as awe-inspiring as, say, the Grand Canyon, but any park can serve as a "living laboratory" for children just discovering the great outdoors, Zadorozny says.

Ms. Powell's class was studying ecosystems, and the trip was meant to reinforce their book lessons with hands-on experience - something the students seemed to appreciate.

"Here you can see everything for yourself," said Michael Rosario, a fresh-faced 11-year-old dressed B-Boy style in baggy jeans and red pullover. "Reading you don't believe, but seeing you believe."

Equally important, the adults say, are lessons in cooperation and bonding camping teaches. The class plans together for the trip, and students prepare the meals themselves and clean up afterward.

They also were scared out of their wits by one ranger's spooky stories during a night hike, roasted marshmallows and smores around a campfire and sang songs late into the night.

"Working in the inner city... kids have such difficulty getting along," says Ms. Powell, a three-year veteran of the Ecology Village program. "Out here they learn how to live together with a teamwork atmosphere. That makes it better when we go back."

House approves procedure to undo government actions

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - If you want to undo a stupid federal regulation it'll help to have the ear of Texas Republican Congressman Sam Johnson.

Johnson and 11 other members of a bipartisan advisory panel will recommend which red tape to tackle as part of one of House Speaker Newt Gingrich's pet projects: "Corrections Day." The House on Tuesday approved creation of a procedure to repeal government actions considered by lawmakers to be foolish or unwieldy.

The 271-146 vote to set up a biweekly time to dispose of bad laws was opposed by many Democrats who claimed "Corrections Day" would erode minority rights.

One of Republicans' favorite examples of a silly rule is San Diego's difficulties with the Environmental Protection Agency over dumping clean water into the Pacific Ocean. The city is likely to obtain a waiver allowing it to continue its current practice.

Johnson, for one, wants to take aim at some Environmental Protection Agency rules, wetlands regulations and laws affecting the energy industry.

Joining him on the GOP side are Reps. Barbara Vucanovich of Nevada; David McIntosh of Indiana, Bill Zeliff of New Hampshire, Gerald Solomon of New York, David Dreier of California and Robert Ehrlich of Maryland. Democratic members are Californians Gary Condit, Henry Waxman and Xavier Becerra; Pete Peterson of Florida and Lynn Rivers of Michigan.

The advisory panel "will basically help usher corrections bills through the legislative process," said House Republican Conference spokesman John Czwartacki.

Some critics have expressed concern that "Corrections Day" will be driven by apocryphal anecdotes. Others contend normal legislative procedures are sufficient to keep bureaucrats in line.

"I fear that this new corrections procedure we are considering will become a fast track for special interests to stop regulations that protect the public health and the environment," said Waxman, a new panel member.

But Johnson is a staunch defender of the concept. "I think it's a great step," he said.

The task force's role essentially is to function as a clearinghouse for the "Corrections Day" suggestions that come in from other lawmakers, coordinating with Gingrich and committee chairmen how best to bring the ideas to the House floor.

On the second and fourth Tuesday of each month, the speaker can call up bills that address questionable laws or regulations. The bill is debatable for one hour, is not subject to amendment by the minority and needs a three-fifths majority to pass. It would still have to be passed by the Senate.

'Friendly fire' acquittal leaves door open for families

Officer believes accountability missing at all levels, up to Secretary of Air Force

By OWEN CANFIELD
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The Air Force captain cleared of wrongdoing in the friendly fire shooting that killed 26 people over Iraq contended today that the military and victims' families are better off for his acquittal.

"Otherwise it would have been that much easier for the Air Force to say that they found somebody responsible, close the book and the whole issue of the friendly fire tragedy would have been over," Capt. Jim Wang said on ABC.

Wang, the only person court-martialed in the tragedy, was acquitted Tuesday. The Air Force said it has no plans to reopen the investigation, but Wang and family members of some victims said Congress should do so.

"There hasn't been the kind of accountability, the kind of responsibility that needs to be accepted at the higher levels, at the command levels, the secretary of the Air Force, the secretary of defense," Wang said.

Defense Secretary William Perry said some officers were punished with administrative sanctions and "many officers' careers were very adversely affected by this."

The top Air Force legal official, Maj. Gen. Nolan Sklute, said justice was done. "An incident like this does not necessarily mean that the conduct of all those involved rises to the level of criminal culpability," he said.

Wang was senior director on an Airborne Warning and Control System plane the morning of April 14, 1994, when the pilots of two F-15 jets mistook two Black Hawk helicopters for Iraqi Hind aircraft. They were in the no-fly zone over northern Iraq established by U.S.-led allies after the Persian Gulf War.

Wang, 29, was accused of not actively supervising two officers and not informing the F-15 pilots that there were friendly helicopters in the no-fly zone. He could have been discharged and sentenced to three months in prison on each of three counts of dereliction of duty.

Criminal charges against four other officers and one of the F-15 pilots were dropped in recent months.

Seven officers, including the two fighter pilots and three members of the crew of Wang's radar-monitoring plane, received letters of reprimand or admonishment, which can hurt their chances of promotion, the Pentagon said.

In addition, a member of Wang's crew received an Article 15, a more severe administrative penalty that can result in docked pay, confinement to quarters, reassignment to a lesser job or other punishment. The crew member's name and the specific punishment were not revealed.

Some family members of victims were not satisfied.

"It's still baffling how 26 people could be brutally killed and not one person held liable for their actions," said Kaye Mounsey, whose husband, Army Warrant Officer Erik Mounsey, was one of the helicopter pilots.

Two women whose husbands were passengers on the helicopters appeared on "Good Morning America" today after Wang. The widows endorsed his call for congressional hearings, but not his suggestion that they were better off for his acquittal.

"It doesn't give me a better sense of satisfaction, because I'm quite certain that Captain Wang is very guilty of negligence," Eileen Thompson, widow of Col. Jerald Thompson, said from New York.

Suzanne Robinson, widow of Staff Sgt. Ricky Robinson, said from Chicago: "I can't just say it was his fault, that he was the one who should have been punished. I think it was a whole group of people. Either they were negligent and were not doing their jobs properly or they were not trained to do their jobs properly."

Wang will be returned to duty, but he told reporters he wasn't sure whether he would stay in the Air Force.

The jury of 10 officers deliberated for about five hours. Seven guilty votes would have been needed for a conviction.

"I was surprised. I thought we were going to get a conviction," said the lead prosecutor, Maj. Robert Coacher.

The helicopters were carrying members of an international group that had been working with Kurds in northern Iraq since the end of the 1991 war. Fifteen of the victims were Americans. Other passengers included five Kurds employed by the United States and military officers from Britain, France and Turkey.

The prosecution centered its case on videotapes of a radar screen and a computer-generated replay taken from data received by the AWACS plane. Both showed evidence of friendly aircraft in the area, but Wang and other AWACS crew members testified the data never appeared on their radar screens.

SBC president declares Baptists still must work in race relations

By GARY L. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) - Now that the Southern Baptist Convention has asked forgiveness for condoning racism for most of its 150-year history, the organization's president says there is more work to be done.

"On the local church level there is still progress to be made," James B. Henry said after the resolution was approved Tuesday. "Just by making a statement we didn't heal everybody."

Henry and second vice president Gary L. Frost - the only black leader of the overwhelmingly white organization - embraced at the podium as the 20,000 convention members stood and applauded the vote.

"We lament and repudiate historic

Drought aid announced

AUSTIN--Castro County and six contiguous counties have been designated as natural disaster areas by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. The designation was requested by Gov. George W. Bush.

The declaration makes those counties eligible for assistance through the Consolidated Farm Service Agency (CFSA).

Gov. Bush's request came on the heels of damages and losses caused by drought throughout 1994. The contiguous counties are Deaf Smith, Hale, Lamb, Parmer, Randall and Swisher.

The designation allows family-size farm operators in both primary and contiguous counties eligible to be considered for low-interest emergency loans from CFSA. Each application is considered on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available, repayment ability and other eligibility requirements.

Additional information and assistance is available through local CFSA county offices.

acts of evil such as slavery from which we continue to reap a bitter harvest, and we recognize that the racism which yet plagues our culture today is inextricably tied to the past," the resolution says.

It commits the 15.6 million-member church - the nation's largest Protestant denomination - to eradicating vestiges of racism and notes that the denomination failed to support the civil rights movement of the 1950s and '60s.

"I think we have taken a giant step. It was a historic step, one we needed to do," Henry said. "I think it made a huge statement to the African-American community of who we are and what we're about."

Frost accepted the apology on behalf of black Southern Baptists. "We pray that the genuineness of your repentance will be reflected in your attitude and your actions," said the pastor from Youngstown, Ohio.

The Southern Baptist Convention was created in 1845 in a split with the American Baptist Convention over the question of whether slave owners could be missionaries. The church was silent or actively opposed civil rights through the 1970s, and many congregations excluded blacks.

In 1989, the denomination first declared racism a sin.

The apology resolution was approved overwhelmingly by a show of color-coded ballot cards after just a few minutes' debate.

Supporters hope the resolution will help in evangelizing blacks and other ethnic groups. The convention has recently made strides in that area by founding mostly black churches.

Several delegates complained that the resolution doesn't recognize discrimination against other minorities, discredits all the denomination's founders even though some may not have espoused slavery, and casts a shadow on fair-minded members.

"It asks all Southern Baptists to apologize," said Dale Smith of Oxford, Ala. "Our convention, however, is made up of dear brothers ... who took up arms against slavery."

Charles Carter, chairman of the convention's resolution committee, said the resolution did not "ask anyone to join in confessing wrong of which you are not guilty." He added, "This could be Southern Baptists' finest hour."

The Rev. Clifford Jones of Charlotte, N.C., president of the General Baptist Convention in North Carolina, a predominantly black denomination, called the resolution admirable but said more is needed.

"To merely denounce historical racism and or slavery and yet not actively seeking to promote parity, justice and equality in the 21st century is really an act of futility," Jones said.

About 1,800 of the 39,910 churches in the Southern Baptist Convention are primarily black, spokesman Herb Hollinger said. There is no official count of black members, he said.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Police are investigating actor and boxer Mickey Rourke in connection with a fight that left a man injured outside a gym in Hollywood.

Charges haven't been filed over Saturday's incident, which police said began as an argument and ended with Rourke hitting a man.

Police wouldn't identify the victim, but the New York Post said it was Jeff Kober of TV's "China Beach."

The tabloid quoted unidentified witnesses as saying a jealous Rourke gave Kober a black eye after he spoke with Rourke's wife, model Carre Otis.

David E. Wood, Rourke's attorney, refused to comment.

The 42-year-old star of such movies as "9 1/2 Weeks" and "The Pope of Greenwich Village" was accused by Otis last year of slapping and kicking her. Charges were dismissed when Otis refused to testify.

Help IGA Raise $1,000,000!

Please help your local IGA, and IGA stores all across America raise $1,000,000 to help support our country's sponsorship of the "1995 Special Olympics World Games" to be held July 1-9, 1995. Each time you buy and deposit any label or Proof of Purchase from IGA, Rainbow, Marquee or Marquee Premium products through June 30, 1995, you'll be donating 2¢ towards IGA's nationwide effort to feed over 8,900 athletes & coaches from 129 countries! Ask your local IGA store manager for details on how your company or organization can help participate.
