Central School ... then and now

Work to abate lead-based paint and asbestos from the abandoned Central School building has been completed and the building, above, was encircled Tuesday with a fence as Hereford ISD officials contemplate what to do with the aged structure. Today's Hereford Brand contains two legal notices from the district -- one for demolition of the building and one for interested persons to bid on purchasing the building and property. Below, the building is seen in use, with students walking to class.

Stand seen as good political move

Clinton takes on teen smoking in new policy

By RON FOURNIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton says cracking down on teen-age smoking would be good public policy, but key tobacco advisers in the White House have a second agenda: They think it could be good politics.

The president was expected to hint at his new policy and road test its politics today in a one-day trip to tobacco-rich North Carolina. His address to the Progressive National Baptist Convention was designed to highlight the dangers of youth, including violence and pregnancy and smoking.

Voters in North Carolina and other tobacco states will focus on what he has to say about curbing youthful cigarette use. Weeks into a tortuous review of potential solutions, Clinton has decided to take several steps - including regulation - to keep cigarettes away from teens, but he is still at least a day away from finalizing plans, aides say.

He previewed today's speech in a radio interview Monday, promising a "tough and mandatory-type program." With teen smoking on the rise, the president said the country needs "a strong commitment to doing something about children smoking."

He tempered the tough talk with a caution against action that would be tied up in courts by the tobacco industry "while kids continue to be bombarded with advertisements plainly designed to get them to smoke."

Those kind of remarks will make enemies in North Carolina, where tobacco generates $16 billion and tens of thousands of jobs for the state economy. Going into an election year, Clinton can ill afford to alienate Southerners whose pocketbooks are tied to tobacco.

"If he goes down there and makes that speech in Charlotte, I hope they've got a good security detail for him," Rep. Thomas Bliley Jr., R-Va., said in a radio interview Monday.

Bliley apologized Tuesday for joking about the president's safety, but he made his point: Clinton is making political enemies in vote-rich tobacco states.

But aides say polling data show Clinton has little to lose with the general public; most Americans - even smokers - don't want their children getting cigarettes. Not coincidentally, the White House says it isn't looking to curb adult smoking, though Clinton says kids who don't smoke become non-smoking adults.

Nussbaum defends withholding papers

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Confronting his critics at Senate Whitewater hearings, former White House counsel Bernard Nussbaum testified today that it was "my ethical duty" to restrict police access to Vincent Foster's documents.

"There was nothing improper in the way White House officials handled documents in Vince Foster's office following his death," Nussbaum flatly told the committee, where previous witnesses have challenged his actions.

Nussbaum said he was obligated to protect the executive privilege and client confidentiality of the documents in Foster's office. No documents, he said, were ever destroyed.

"It was my ethical duty as a lawyer and as White House counsel to protect a client's information and confidences, and not to disclose them without a prior review by me," he testified.

Disputing Republicans suggestions that he was trying to hide from police issues related to Whitewater, Nussbaum said the real estate venture had "absolutely nothing to do" with his decision.

Nussbaum also disputed GOP suggestions that first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton - directly or through her friend Susan Thomases - prompted him to restrict the search.

"I did not speak to the President or First Lady about this matter," he said. "Nor did Susan Thomases, or anyone else, convey a message to me from either of them."

The appearance of Nussbaum, whose actions in the Whitewater affair led to his departure from the White House, provided him an opportunity to respond to more than three weeks of attacks.

Police department announces July figures for arrests, reports

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Police dealt with nearly 100 fewer criminal cases last month than they did in July 1994, according to the department's July activity report.

The report summarizes criminal reports, offenses cleared, arrests and animal control activity for the month. This month's report lists a total of 260 offenses reported, down from 357 a year ago.

This year's report is broken down between Part I offenses and Part II offenses, which reflects the way they are reported to state and national agencies.

Within the Part I reports was one reported rape last month. None were reported in July 1994.

Also, there were six aggravated assaults, 11 burglaries, 47 thefts and four motor vehicle thefts.

Last year, assaults were not broken down by type -- there were 59 assaults reported in July 1994. Last month there were 44 other assaults reported.

The number of thefts reported was down from last year, when 69 were reported; burglaries were down one from 11 in 1994; and motor vehicle thefts were doubled -- from two a year ago.

Other criminal offenses reported for July are shown and compared with the number reported in July 1994.

Fraud -- Three this year, five last year.

Criminal mischief -- 21 this year, 47 last year.

Weapons violations -- One this year, not specified last year.

Drunkenness -- 11 this year, 13 last year.

Disorderly conduct -- Four this year, 15 last year.

Harassment -- 13 this year, 13 last year.

Domestic disputes -- 14 this year, 20 last year.

Warrants -- 15 this year, 16 last year.

Traffic -- Nine this year, 16 last year.

Sexual assault of a child -- None this year, three last year.

The department recorded 54 adult arrests last month and seven juvenile arrests. In addition, 366 citations were issued.

Of the adult arrests, one was for aggravated assault, four for theft, 11 for drunkenness, 14 on warrants and seven each on other assaults, traffic, and on all other offenses.

One juvenile was arrested as a runaway and six for other offenses. Last July, 86 adults and two juveniles were arrested. Officers issued 545 citations.

In July 1994, 10 arrests were for assault, 12 for theft, one for drug abuse violation, 13 for drunkenness, six for disorderly conduct, 19 on warrants, 12 for traffic and nine on other charges. Both juvenile arrests were for theft.

Traffic accidents were up for 1995 over 1994, with the July report listing 23 on public roadways and three on private property. There were five injuries.

In July 1994, 19 accidents occurred on public roadways and five on private property. There were three injuries.

For the month, officers patrolled 23,616 miles this July, compared with 21,040 in July 1994.

Animal Control Officer Mark Loyd was busy during July. The report from his department cannot be compared directly with last July's productivity, as no breakdown was done then.

However, overall numbers show the animal control department had 138 cases this year, compared with 99 last July.

Within that breakdown, 93 dogs were handled and 45 cats. Eight dogs and one cat were adopted and the rest euthanized.

In addition, there were four reported animal bites and three citations.

Loyd also filed two cruelty to animal cases during the month.

He also captured two goats and two bull snakes.

Nagasaki marks 50th anniversary of bombing

By PETER LANDERS
Associated Press Writer
NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) - Clad in mourning colors of black and white, thousands of people paid quiet tribute today with prayers, flowers and incense to victims of the second Japanese city to suffer an atomic attack.

To mark the exact time that the plutonium bomb exploded half a century ago - 11:02 a.m. - this bustling port city came to a momentary standstill. Temple and cathedral bells tolled all over the city. Sirens shrilled. People bowed their heads in silence.

About 70,000 people died in the explosion or its immediate aftermath. The city keeps track of subsequent deaths it believes are attributable to the blast; the roster has risen to more than 100,000.

Bomb survivor Sueko Yamasaki, 65, hadn't come to the annual ceremony in decades, but at the 50-year mark she felt it was time. She brought her granddaughter with her, to teach her about what happened that day.

"At the 100th anniversary, I won't be here, but she will - she'll be a grandmother like me," she said.

The main ceremony was held at a park built near the epicenter, before the city's principal bomb memorial, a statue of a seated figure with one hand extended toward the sky.

A platform before the statue was piled high with wreaths. A group of schoolchildren sang. The air was heavy with incense burned in offering to the dead.

As part of the ceremonies, Prime Minister Tomichi Murayama and other dignitaries delivered appeals for peace and a ban on nuclear testing. Calls for a test ban have been

We had to check out a recent envelope which contained a picture of a raised toilet seat. Inside were two enclosures--a clear adhesive sticker that encourages men to remember to lower the toilet seat, and some testimonials from happy users.

The sticker, or decal, is produced by Lady Savers Products, located in Ohio. The sticker, with the words "PLEASE LOWER SEAT", is designed for women to place on the underside of the toilet lid.

According to the promotional literature, "This provides just the graphic and subtle hint necessary for gentlemen to lower the seat when finished. Lady Savers provide a new and eye-catching solution to an age-old problem faced by the modern woman."

One lady in the testimonials explained she enjoyed "not having my back-side baptized in the middle of the night." A pack of six decals sells for $4.95.

It could put the lid on a lot of family squabbles.

There were 80 pages explaining everything you ever wanted to know about Ma Bell, connections, long distance calling, area codes, your rights and responsibilities, etc. There are also about 80 pages of advertising in the Yellow Pages.

In the middle of the book are 56 1/2 pages of local phone numbers.

Slight rain chances diminishing

The 20 percent chance of rain in the forecast for tonight will disappear Thursday, according to weather prognosticators. Hereford recorded a high of 95 degrees on Tuesday and an overnight low of 71 degrees, according to KPAN Radio. In addition to the chance of thunderstorms, tonight's forecast calls for a low in the mid-60s and south winds at 5-15 mph. For Thursday, look for mostly sunny skies and a high in the low 90s. Winds will be from the south to southwest at 10-20 mph.

Investigation has 'month, or two' to go

Agents' statements being studied for discrepancies

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department is "a month or two" away from concluding its investigation into whether leaders of the raid on the Branch Davidians compound lied to investigators after the botched 1993 assault, a department official said.

The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Tuesday that the investigation was kept open to see what Phillip Chojnacki and Chuck Sarabyn of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms would tell congressional subcommittees investigating the assault.

The Waco Tribune-Herald on Tuesday quoted an unnamed federal official as saying Justice is examining whether testimony given by Chojnacki and Sarabyn at last month's House hearings conflicts with statements they gave to the Texas Rangers two years ago.

The Rangers were sworn in as special assistant U.S. marshals to conduct the post-raid review. Making false statements to federal officers is a crime punishable by up to five years in prison.

Justice spokesman Carl Stern wouldn't discuss specifics of the probe. But, since the department hasn't announced completion of an investigation, "you can conclude that it's open," he said.

Chojnacki and Sarabyn were fired after independent reviews of the raid on the compound near Waco in which four ATF agents and six cult members died. Fifty days later, Branch Davidian leader David Koresh and 80 followers died after fire raged through their compound after an FBI tear-gas assault. The government maintains the fire was set by people inside the building.

Chojnacki and Sarabyn, who appealed their firings, were rehired last year in a settlement with ATF providing them full back pay and benefits.

Chojnacki, who is now ATF's liaison with the Customs Service in Houston, did not return messages left Tuesday. Nor did Sarabyn, now based in Washington in the ATF's visual information branch.

The two have provided conflicting stories about whether they were notified by an undercover agent that Koresh was aware a raid was imminent, and whether they had been told to abort the attack if the element of surprise was lost.

Both men were harshly criticized in a post-raid review by the Treasury Department, which oversees ATF.

"Their consistent attempts to place blame on a junior agent were one of the most disturbing aspects of the conduct of senior ATF officials," the report said. "The recollections of Sarabyn and Chojnacki have diverged considerably since the immediate aftermath of the raid."

Undercover agent Robert Rodriguez confronted his former bosses at the hearings last month, reiterating that he warned them that the element of surprise had been lost.

"They knew exactly what I meant," he told the two House subcommittees investigating the Waco assault.

But Sarabyn and Chojnacki insisted Rodriguez did not give them a clear warning. Koresh, they said, frequently claimed the government was coming to get him.

The chairman of one of the two subcommittees said Tuesday that he welcomes the Justice investigation.

"It's an area that needs to be examined, and certainly the Justice Department is the right place to do that," said Rep. Bill Zeff, R-N.H., chairman of the House subcommittee on national security, international affairs and criminal justice.

Zeff, who has doggedly criticized the government's actions against the Branch Davidians, declined to discuss whether he believed the commanders' testimony deviated from their earlier statements.

"It's not up to me to be the judge and jury here," he said. "It was up to me to bring out the information and ask questions."

Asked how he viewed Rodriguez's testimony, Zeff termed it "very credible."

"But I have full respect for the process, and I think that we need to let the proper authorities decide who was telling the truth," he added.

Former sailor confesses to famous kiss

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

For millions of Americans, it was one of the most famous kisses in history - and a tantalizing mystery.

Expressing the unbounded joy and relief that Americans felt at the end of World War II, the sailor holds the nurse in a half dip resembling something from a tango. The nurse, dressed in a white uniform, has one foot lifted lightly off the ground.

The 27-year-old nurse was identified by Life in August 1980 as Edith Shain, now 77 and living in Santa Monica, Calif.

But the sailor's identity was never known. Several men have claimed to be the famous kisser, but they all were rejected by Life or Mrs. Shain.

Now, along comes former New York City police detective Carl Muscarello, a South Florida retiree who says he was the one - and Mrs. Shain agrees.

Muscarello, then 19, worked on a submarine tender during the war. Mrs. Shain was a civilian nurse who had been selected for the Army nursing corps and was to leave the following year.

So why did Muscarello wait until now to come forward?

"My mother always knew it was me. My kids know it's me. I just never made a big deal over it," said Muscarello, a 68-year-old widower who is remarried and lives in the Fort Lauderdale suburb of Plantation.

He said a childhood friend from the New York City borough of Brooklyn, World War II veteran Martin Pollio, encouraged him a few months ago to step forward.

"I'm doing this for my kids and my grandchildren. I don't want any money out of this," Muscarello said in a telephone interview Monday from Indianapolis, where he was caring for two grandchildren.

Once he made up his mind to become a footnote in American history, Muscarello called Mrs. Shain. She was skeptical. Then he appeared on her doorstep last week with a bouquet of purple, red and yellow flowers. They talked for hours.

Life hasn't said whether it believes Muscarello's story. Photographer Alfred Eisenstaedt, now 96, did not return a message left at his Life office in New York.

Mrs. Shain says she never got a really good look at the face of the sailor dressed in his Navy blues. She acknowledges that she can never be completely sure, but believes Muscarello really is the one.

Times Square had exploded in jubilation at news of the Japanese surrender. People everywhere were hugging and kissing. Muscarello says he was "feeling pretty good after three beers a civilian bought me" and kissed several women.

The 4-foot-10 former nurse says Muscarello passed the acid test for all the pretenders by answering two critical questions: What was the kiss like and what was said after the kiss?

"Some said they asked me for a date. Some said they asked me out to dinner. Some said they asked for my telephone number," Mrs. Shain said in an interview. "Sorry, boys. Muscarello didn't say anything."

"Nothing. I didn't say a word. I gave her a big hug and a big kiss and the kiss lasted quite some time. I didn't say a word. I just stepped back and went my way," he recalled.

And the kiss?

"He described the kiss, how he did it," Mrs. Shain said. "He wasn't groping and making it obscene. He was a gentleman. It was thrilling. Then he was gone."

Prosecutors build bomb case; Army buddy takes plea bargain

By PAUL QUEARY
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Prosecutors building their case in the federal building bombing now have a star witness: a former Army buddy of the two suspects who will admit helping plot the deadly attack.

Michael Fortier has agreed to plead guilty to lesser charges in exchange for testifying for the government, his court-appointed attorney, Michael McGuire, said in today's Daily Oklahoman. Fortier, 26, of Kingman, Ariz., spent almost four hours Tuesday testifying before a federal grand jury, McGuire told the newspaper. "He's an important witness to both sides," he said.

Fortier has agreed to plead guilty to lying to a federal agent, knowing about a felony but doing nothing to stop it and interstate transportation of stolen weapons, McGuire said. Media reports said he also would plead guilty to a second weapons charge.

The offenses carry a maximum punishment of 23 years in prison, but McGuire said Fortier's actual sentence should be less under federal guidelines.

Fortier has admitted casing the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building last December, authorities say. His lawyer said Fortier would admit helping plan the April 19 bombing that killed 168 people and injured more than 500.

Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols, who served with Fortier at Fort Riley, Kan., are the only people charged in the bombing. Both are being held without bail under a federal anti-terrorism law that carries the death penalty. The grand jury is under a Friday deadline to indict both men.

McVeigh's attorney, Stephen Jones, said today on ABC's "Good Morning America" that the plea deal with Fortier is "an admission by the government that they have a weak case."

"If they had a strong case," Jones said, "they would not be offering a deal to one of the principal participants."

McGuire said Fortier has completed his grand jury testimony. "He was in a totally different situation than (McVeigh and Nichols)," McGuire said of his client's plea agreement. "I did not get everything that I wanted, but I tried to do the best I could under the circumstances."

Anyone who knowingly aids in the commission of a federal crime can be charged as a principal in that crime, which could have given prosecutors the threat of the death penalty to use against Fortier.

Fortier's wife, Lori, testified for two hours Tuesday before the grand jury. She was compelled to testify under a grant of immunity but isn't a target of the investigation, attorney Mack Martin said.

NAGASAKI

particularly fervent this year, as China has been conducting nuclear tests and France is planning a round of them beginning next month in the south Pacific.

As always, the Nagasaki commemorations were far more low-key than those staged at Hiroshima three days earlier.

Japan's war role - victim or aggressor - has been the source of angry debate throughout this 50th anniversary year. Murayama tried to push a strong statement of apology through Parliament, but lawmakers instead endorsed an watered-down expression of regret over wartime suffering.

The prime minister will apologize for Japan's wartime aggression in a statement to be issued next Tuesday, on the anniversary of the war's end, government spokesman Koken Nosaka told reporters in Tokyo today. Murayama and other prime ministers have previously made similar statements.

The statement is to be issued separately from the one Murayama will read at the day's main ceremony, a memorial for Japan's war dead. That underscores the subject's sensitivity, and is probably meant to avoid offending politically powerful veterans groups.

At the Nagasaki ceremony, Mayor Itcho Itoh said Japan needs to apologize forthrightly for its aggression in Asia in World War II if its anti-nuclear calls are to be truly meaningful.

"Without this reflection and apologies to the countries of Asia, our appeals for the abolition of nuclear weapons will not reach the hearts of the people," he said in the city's annual peace declaration.

Itoh, who took office earlier this year, was born after the bomb was dropped - the city's first leader not to have lived through the blast.

Despite the suffering here, there is little sense of lingering bitterness.

"If the atomic bomb hadn't fallen, how much longer would the war have gone on?" said survivor Yamasaki. "I can't say 'Thank you' to the Americans, but I have complicated feelings."

Just as it was on the day of the bombing, the weather today was hot and steamy. At the ceremony, attendants discreetly passed out dampened towels.

Clouds skittered overhead, a reminder of the twist of fate that led to Nagasaki's destruction.

On the day of the attack, the primary target was the industrial center of Kokura, but it was shrouded in clouds. Over the secondary target, Nagasaki, the crew spotted a break in the clouds and dropped the bomb.

The brunt of the blast was taken by Urakami in northern Nagasaki, home to a thriving Roman Catholic community.

At rebuilt Urakami Cathedral, almost directly below what was the epicenter, parishioners gathered for a memorial Mass, bowing their heads in prayer at the moment of the blast.

Ann Landers

Reader encourages women to leave abuse

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is in response to "Trouble in Timbuktu," whose husband expected her to be chained to the house. I could have written that letter myself a few years ago. My ex-husband was also a control freak. "Trouble" doesn't need a marriage counselor, Ann. She needs a good divorce attorney and should send her husband packing. Pronto.

I, too, lived away from the city. I got up at 4 a.m. because the house had to be immaculate before I left for work. I drove a car my husband bought, but only when he would leave me the keys. I could have a phone conversation only when he wasn't home. Any other time, the caller was told I was "busy" even if I was standing right there. Our sex life was non-existent.

He couldn't understand why I wasn't happy. We had luxury cars, a beautiful home with a pool, a guest house, a weekend home in the country and plenty of money, and I was able to meet lots of interesting people since he was an elected political official. To outsiders, it looked as if I had a great marriage.

What no one knew and never could have guessed was that my ex was violent, abusive and a cross-dresser, was hooked on drugs and drank excessively. Also, he had molested a child in a previous marriage.

You need to tell "Trouble" to get out and fast. Her ex will not change, but she can change how she has to live. Life is too short to waste years being unhappy. I know because I've been there. -- Plano, Texas

DEAR PLANO: Thank you for a letter that points out, once again, that no one can judge what anyone else's life is like. It also proves that all that glitters is not gold -- in fact, it could be tin with a good paint job.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You read so many letters from folks who have been abused, cheated on and lied to and have lost their faith in humanity. I want to tell you that there are still plenty of wonderful people in this world.

My husband and I found this out recently when we were traveling from Nebraska to Iowa. We stopped at a rest area to use the bathroom. While inside, I took my billfold out of my purse and put it on the shelf above the sink. I forgot to put it back in my purse when I left.

About 100 miles down the highway, we stopped again. I went into the restroom and heard a woman call my name. I didn't know her and couldn't imagine how she knew me. Well, this darling person had found my wallet at the last rest stop. She and her husband saw us pull out and followed us.

She asked specific questions pertaining to the identification in my wallet before she turned it over to me. Everything was there. I hugged and thanked her and offered a reward, which she refused. I was so overwhelmed I forgot to ask for her address. I remember only that they lived in Wisconsin.

Ann, that wonderful angel saved me a lot of grief and expense. I had all my credit cards in that wallet as well as my driver's license. I thank God that in this crazy world, there are still people like her. May she and her family be forever richly blessed. -- Melissa in Rochester, Minn.

DEAR MELISSA: What a lovely upper. More proof that there are still plenty of generous and decent people in the world. Thank you.

Pilot of the Year named during regular meeting

Martha Jones was named Pilot of the Year at the regular Pilot Club business meeting Aug. 8.

Terri Johnson, immediate past president, presented Jones with the award and noted her enthusiasm and willingness to serve the past year in her position as leader of the club's membership.

It was reported that the sale of hamburgers at the recent opening of the new Aquatic Center was very successful. The Club expressed its appreciation to the City for the opportunity to hold this fund raiser.

Pilot Club is sponsoring a bicycle safety and awareness day Aug. 26 from 10 a.m. - 12 noon on the Sugarland Mall parking lot. They will be assisted by Gary Billingsley's Scout Troop 52. Awards will be presented.

Preparations were finalized for the Jubilee of Arts craft show Aug. 10-11.

Guests attending the meeting were Dave Kimmel and Kim Sanders.

Auxiliary awards pins to HRMC volunteers

The Hereford Regional Medical Center Auxiliary met at noon on Aug. 7.

After the reading of the prayer and roll call, the minutes of the July meeting were read and approved. It was decided to table the treasurer's report until next month.

Auxiliary members worked a total of 187 hours last month. Award pins and bars were given to newer members who have accumulated 50 or more hours of volunteer time. These were Janis Bell, Gladys Caviness and Elizabeth DeKoster.

Three new members who had completed the three-month probationary period were officially voted in as full members. They are Billie Kelley, Irene Boardman and Anna Robinson.

There will be a sale on Aug. 19 from 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. at the Gazebo. Various items will be marked for sale from the Hospital Gift Shop and other sale items will be donated by members. Refreshments will be available.

Since a quorum of members was present, the Auxiliary By-Laws were read and discussed; some corrections and clarifications were made with the help of Jim Robinson, CEO of HRMC.

Members present were Mary Jane Burrus, Grace Covington, Margaret Daniels, Jo Lee, Ruth Lueb, Irene Reinart, Theda Seiver, Bonnie Sublett, Quintna Waits, Mary Williamson, Bell, Caviness, Kelley and Boardman.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What causes dark circles under the eyes, and what can be done to correct the situation? — F.R.V.

ANSWER: Your genes dictate the kind of skin you have. One of the consequences of inheriting velvet-smooth, delicately translucent skin is a proneness to dark eye circles.

Veins reflect through such skin, especially in places of particular translucency, as around the eyes. In the worst of cases, the whole under-eye area looks like a bluish-black shiner.

Some have a second force working against them: allergies. Here, blame the darkness on the nasal-area tissues, which foster swellings and pooling of dark blood.

Beyond checking out some of the allergy factors and searching around for reliable masking creams, there is little else you can do in the way of treatment.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I wonder if pregnancy is a proper time to start out on an exercise program. I read your recent article. — O.A.

ANSWER: Beginning any strenuous activity during pregnancy is not the greatest idea in the world. It is something you certainly should clear with your doctor.

Women who have been into exercise prior to pregnancy are different. They can continue at a sensible level. They should cut back a little, though. For most such women, brisk walking, swimming, water aerobics and jogging at a moderate pace are all deemed safe by the experts.

I would be very leery of starting out from scratch during pregnancy, when new pressures are beginning to work against you.

After the delivery is a good time to begin a program.

Religious alternative to MTV rapidly growing at Nashville

By DAVID BRIGGS
AP Religion Writer

The president of a Christian music video network has some advice for parents who would welcome a religious alternative to MTV into their homes: Chill.

The message on the rapidly growing Z Music Television is different, but the musical styles have the sound and fury found on other music television networks.

About the only thing that could derail the rapidly growing Nashville-based network is a too vocal parental seal of approval, said its president, Ken Yates.

"What the parents ought to do," he said, "is take a good look at it, realize its content, and then just keep quiet."

Since its start in 1993, network officials say, Z Music Television has grown to be offered in 17 million cable households and reaches another 13 million households at least part of the day on broadcast stations.

The goal is to reach 30 million cable households alone by 2000, Yates said.

In making its case to cable system operators, Z Music officials portray it as an alternative to the often controversial MTV for the more than 50 million adults who listen to and buy Christian music. What The Nashville Network is to fans of country music, Z Music is for people who enjoy contemporary Christian music, company officials say.

There are no videos by Nine Inch Nails or Snoop Doggy Dogg on Z Music television. Excessive sex or violence are out.

"Any illicit activity, if it's too libertine, we don't put it on the air," said Graham Barnard, network programming manager and host of Z Buzz segments featuring artist interviews and news about the Christian music industry.

The hit artists and groups on Z Music are popular Christian performers such as Amy Grant, Petra, DC Talk, Michael W. Smith and Gary Chapman.

And their messages are ones of hope and encouragement, according to Yates.

"The videos that we play on Z have a very high standard, both the visual and lyrical content," he said.

Pokes lock up Lett for five more years

DALLAS (AP) - Pro Bowl defensive tackle Leon Lett has accepted a contract extension worth about $14 million that commits him to the Dallas Cowboys for the next five seasons.

The Dallas Morning News reported in its Wednesday editions that a formal announcement is being withheld pending interpretations from the NFL on issues pertaining to the structure of the contract.

That will determine how much Lett charges to the $37.1 million salary cap.

Lett is key in a program implemented by owner Jerry Jones to extend contracts of pivotal players and preclude open competition for the team's 1996 free agents.

Team sack leader Charles Haley and Lett, both now protected, ranked first and second on the priority list with cornerback Kevin Smith and Pro Bowl strong safety Darren Woodson behind them.

Lett had been scheduled to make $750,000 in the final year of his previous contract. The new deal is comparable to Tony Tolbert's five-year, $14.1 million contract that ranks as the second-most lucrative among Cowboys defensive players behind Haley's four-year, $12 million package.

The Cowboys are situated a scant $140,000 under the league limit for player salaries. But Jones is pursuing a three-year contract extension with offensive tackle Erik Williams that would lower the player's scheduled $1.4 million impact on the salary cap.

The only unsigned player is starting linebacker Darrin Smith, who is seeking $700,000 for a one-year contract. The Cowboys have offered him $425,000, up from the $178,000 NFL minimum, and said they don't have enough under the cap to offer him much more.

Smith's agent said he will recommend that Smith sit out the season's first 10 games if the Cowboys don't budge.

NBA, union make last-minute deal

New agreement awaits approval of dissident players

By WENDY E. LANE
AP Basketball Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The NBA and its union got together on a last-minute labor deal. Can the players get together and approve it?

With yet another contract proposal before it, a divided membership must decide whether to accept the six-year deal or dissolve the union and try to win better terms through the courts, potentially jeopardizing the start of the 1995-96 season.

After reaching the tentative agreement late Tuesday night, NBA commissioner David Stern and leaders of the players association will spend the next three weeks selling the revamped deal, which replaces one the players rejected in June. Its approval would end the month-old lockout.

"We have our work cut out for us," union president Buck Williams of the Portland Trail Blazers said. "We have to get out and explain the deal and let it stand on its own merits."

Stern, flanked by 25 players at a midnight press conference, was more optimistic.

"Our indications are that it won't be a difficult sell," he said. "We don't think it's going to be a problem."

The targets of the hard sell will be Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing and other players whose opposition scuttled the previous deal, causing a deep rift among the membership and triggering a drive to abolish the union.

A previously set vote on disbanding the union now will also be a referendum on the revised deal, union executive director Simon Gourdine said.

"We're very happy the NBA met our concerns," Williams said. "We feel very fortunate that we could work out an agreement at 5 minutes, 10 minutes before midnight."

The talks were a last effort to get a new deal before the union acquiesced to the wishes of Jordan's faction and relinquished its authority as the players' bargaining agent. The union had said it would take that step if there wasn't an agreement by midnight.

players should feel this is fair and reasonable. At least now they have two sides they can look at."

Should the players vote to decertify rather than to accept the new contract, it would clear the way for an antitrust lawsuit filed against the league by Jordan, Ewing and 14 other players. The suit seeks to end the lockout and abolish the salary cap and college draft.

Jeffrey Kessler, the lawyer who filed the suit, said the second agreement is still "too good for the owners at a time when the Knicks are charging $1,000 a seat."

The league and the union reached an agreement in June on a six-year deal containing approximately $5 billion in player salaries and benefits. But it was derailed when Jordan and Ewing, displeased with the proposal and with the union leadership, advocated dissolving the union. Approximately 200 players signed petitions, filed with the National Labor Relations Board, saying they no longer wished to be represented by the players' association.

The NLRB called for a decertification election on Aug. 30 and Sept. 7. More than 400 players will be eligible to vote for either decertification or accepting the new deal.

No vote was scheduled for team owners, and Stern indicated he would wait to call one until the players make their decision. He said making the 11th-hour deal was the only way to make sure the season starts on time.

"For us, the issue turned on the fact that the erroneous legal advice our players had been receiving would be tested by the potential loss of the 1995-96 season," he said. "That was a risk we very much did not want to take."

Price returns to Riviera for PGA Championship

By TIM DAHLBERG
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A flip of a nickel may reveal all that is needed to know about Nick Price's chances of winning his third PGA Championship in four years.

If Price is marking his ball with a nickel tails up by the weekend, he might be tough to beat in his bid for a second straight PGA Championship title.

"If I'm putting well, I use the tail side up," Price said. "If I start putting badly, I'll switch to heads."

So far this year, Price hasn't had to switch sides of the coin often. Consistently bad putting and off-course distractions combined to knock him from the top of the golf world he ruled for two years.

But in a tournament he has developed a certain kinship with, a win this week at the venerable Riviera Country Club could put him right back where he was.

"I think I can still salvage a real good year here," Price said Tuesday after completing a practice round. "I'm just poised, waiting to get my game up to that extra level."

Despite a desultory year that has seen Price go winless, his past record in the PGA Championship suggests that he not be overlooked in the last major of the golf season.

A victory in the 1992 PGA Championship sparked a run that saw Price win 10 times on the PGA Tour over the next two years. He captured the British Open for his second major title last year, then capped off his remarkable run by winning the PGA Championship for a second time.

This year's tournament is also special for Price because it is at Riviera, where he played in his first PGA Championship in 1983.

"I owe this championship a lot," he said. "I would just like to win a couple more."

Price, who took three weeks off in May after struggling through much of the early year, says he is playing well once again, despite ranking only 47th on the PGA Tour money list.

"There's not a lot missing. I'm really happy with the way I've been playing," he said. "If there's one hiccup, it's my putter isn't what it could be."

Price, the PGA player of the year the last two years, said it was only natural that he would cool off from the torrid pace he set.

Moving his family to a new Florida house and wanting to spend some more time with his children also kept him off the practice tee and putting green more than he would have liked.

"Running at high RPMs for 2{ years is a tough thing to do," Price said. "This whole year I've been trying to play catch-up."

If he wins at Riviera, he will have to do it against the toughest field in any of the majors this year.

That includes U.S. Open champion Corey Pavin.

Oilers sign Matthews

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Bruce Matthews' holdout is over. His new role with the Houston Oilers is just beginning.

Matthews signed a four-year, $10.3 million contract on Tuesday, then practiced at Trinity University with his Oilers teammates, old and new.

He'll move from center to left guard this season, since Houston acquired former Dallas center Mark Stepnoski from free agency. Matthews said he looks forward to working with Stepnoski, although he said it will take time adjusting to the new position.

"I feel comfortable mentally, but I think confidence-wise, that's where I need to improve," Matthews said.

Matthews, who turned 34 on Tuesday, has been to seven consecutive Pro Bowls and is a 13-year veteran. But he's not immune to nervousness, and Tuesday he came down with a case of the jitters.

"My anxiety and paranoia before the first practice are unbelievable. It kills me," said Matthews. "But once you get out there and get tired and realize I still can play a little bit, I feel a lot better about it."

Besides, Matthews joked, what are his alternatives?

"You get out there and get hit in the head a couple of times and realize I don't have any other skills so I better make the best of it," he said.

Oilers general manager Floyd Reese said he wasn't worried about Matthews missing the first 2-1/2 weeks of training camp.

"He's a veteran, and for him to miss a few days of camp is not quite as important as some of the younger guys," Reese said. Still, coach Jeff Fisher said Tuesday he was glad to watch Matthews and Stepnoski practice together at last.

The Oilers on Tuesday also signed backup offensive lineman Erik Norgard, who had been released before training camp began. The Houston Chronicle reported the one-year deal is worth $178,000.

To make room for Matthews, the Oilers released guard John Flannery.

The move came as no surprise to Flannery, who left camp saying he harbored no animosity toward Oilers management but wished the decision had been made sooner.

"That's the toughest part," Flannery said. "I was really starting to get frustrated and upset. The waiting was harder than if it would have happened last week when the speculation started."

Redskins let Lohmiller go, sign ex-Eagles' PK Murray

By The Associated Press

Chip Lohmiller is out and Eddie Murray is back in the NFL's latest kicker shuffle, while Natrone Means, Dana Stubblefield and Bruce Matthews put their contract hassles behind them.

Lohmiller, an eight-veteran and former Pro Bowl selection, was waived Tuesday by the Washington Redskins, who then signed Murray, a 16-year veteran released two weeks ago by Philadelphia.

"You look at all the kickers and punters moving around, you never know who's playing where," said Lohmiller, who missed an extra point and a 29-yard field goal Saturday night at Kansas City after making a career-low 57 percent of his field goals in 1993 and 71 percent in 1994.

"I had as much patience as I could," coach Norv Turner said. "After Saturday, I just thought it was time to go in a different direction."

Lohmiller, 29, was to make $691,000 this season. Murray, 38, who joins his sixth team in five years, signed for the $178,000 league minimum.

"It's a job, and that's really the bottom line," Murray said.

Means signed a four-year, $7.3 million contract with San Diego; Stubblefield agreed to a three-year, $6.75 million deal with San Francisco; and Matthews agreed to a four-year contract with Houston for $10.3 million.

Means, a Pro Bowl starter after his second season, will play in Sunday night's exhibition game against San Francisco. The running back sat out Monday night's loss to Minnesota after ending his 11-day holdout Friday.

"He's in reasonably good shape, a little bit better shape than I thought," Chargers coach Bobby Ross said. "What's got to come now is football conditioning."

Means received a $700,000 signing bonus and will have a base salary of $337,000 this year. His base pay will jump to $2.05 million in 1996 with a $300,000 roster bonus, $2 million in 1997 and $2.25 million in 1998. The Chargers also agreed to renegotiate if Means is productive this season.

Dana Stubblefield, a defensive end who also made the Pro Bowl in his second season, ended a 20-day holdout. He will have base salaries of $200,000 in 1995 and $1.525 million in 1996 and 1997 and will receive $750,000 roster bonuses in 1996 and 1997.

"It is shorter and more expensive than we anticipated," 49ers president Carmen Policy said. "But overall we are very satisfied and delighted with the prospect of Dana reporting to camp and being committed contractually for the next three years."

Matthews arrived in Houston's camp Tuesday, the guard's 34th birthday.

"For him to miss a few days of camp is not quite as important as some of the younger guys," general manager Floyd Reese said.

Rams

Chris Miller confronted a reporter from a TV station that said Monday the St. Louis quarterback planned to retire because of recurring head injuries.

"Kind of a shame when someone takes the liberty, when someone just comes along and says on a live telecast without talking to the main source, they're going to say that I'm thinking of retiring, that's nonsense," said Miller, who sustained his fourth concussion in two years Saturday night in Seattle.

A representative from Athletic Helmet Inc. will stop by the team's camp sometime this week to fit Miller with a helmet similar to one worn by Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman.

Braves edge Reds in opener of NL showdown

By MIKE FLAM
Associated Press Writer
The only race left for the Atlanta Braves is against the Cincinnati Reds for the best record in the National League.

Despite ex-Brave Ron Gant's best efforts, Atlanta took a 5-4 victory Tuesday night in the opener of a three-game series between the two best teams in the NL.

In squaring the season series at 4-4, the Braves increased their lead in the NL East to 12-1/2 games over the Philadelphia Phillies. They improved their record to 60-34, only percentage points behind the Reds' 59-33 mark that leads the NL Central by 6-1/2 games over Houston.

Braves starter John Smoltz gave up three runs in the first inning, but settled down to keep his team in the game.

"It's not a huge series," he said, "but it was big for me personally since I haven't been winning much lately. A lot of the Reds played here, so it's family, and you'd rather beat family than anybody. And we're fighting for the best record in the league."

Gant hit a three-run homer in the first inning to give the Reds a 3-0 lead, and added a sacrifice fly against the team that released him before the 1994 season.

"I personally like to show them what they lost," Gant said. "Sure, both teams have big leads in their division, but our goal is to win this series."

Smoltz (9-5), who had only one win in his previous seven starts, allowed six hits in seven innings.

With the game tied 4-4 in the sixth inning, Chipper Jones greeted reliever Chuck McElroy (3-3) with a leadoff single, stole second and scored one out later on David Justice's single.

In other NL games, Florida beat Colorado 5-4 in 13 innings, the New York Mets nipped Philadelphia 12-10, San Diego topped the Chicago Cubs 3-1, Montreal blanked Houston 6-0, Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 4-3 and Pittsburgh stopped San Francisco 9-5.

Marlins 5, Rockies 4
Chuck Carr's double in the bottom of the 13th inning scored Terry Pendleton as host Florida rallied from a 4-1 deficit in the ninth.

With one out in the 13th, Pendleton singled and moved to second on a wild pitch by Roger Bailey (3-5). After Greg Colbrunn walked, Carr hit a line drive into the right-field corner.

Buddy Groom (1-0) earned his first NL win in his first game with the Marlins after being acquired from the Detroit Tigers on Monday.

Mets 12, Phillies 10
Carl Everett drove in a career-high five runs and reached base six times as New York extended host Philadelphia's losing streak to six games.

Everett went 3-for-3, and walked three times in support of Reid Cornelius (1-1), who won in his second major league start. Everett's five RBIs were the most by a Met this season.

All-Star Tyler Green (8-8) lost his fourth straight start.

and only the second time this season the Astros were shut out.

Heredia (4-5), who hadn't started since July 7, earned his first victory since May 31.

Shane Reynolds (7-7) pitched seven innings and struck out 10.

Dodgers 4, Cardinals 3
Eric Karros hit his second game-winning home run in as many days, a solo shot in the eighth inning that pulled host Los Angeles within two games of first-place Colorado in the NL West.

Karros greeted reliever Jeff Parrett (3-4) with his 21st homer leading off the eighth.

Pedro Astacio (4-8) pitched a scoreless eighth, and Todd Worrell earned his 21st save in 22 opportunities.

Seitzer's double lifts Brewers in 11th

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Kevin Seitzer had been there before - several times.

In the seventh inning, he came up with the bases loaded and two outs. In the ninth, there were two men on when he went to the plate.

Both times, Seitzer made the inning-ending out.

Then, in the 11th, he hit a shot to deep right-center with runners on first and second, and the one-out double scored Jeff Cirillo from second base to give Milwaukee a 6-5 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays on Tuesday night.

"I crushed it, but with Devon White out there, that dude's like an antelope," Seitzer said. "He's just caught so many balls of mine that I thought were extra bases my whole career. When I saw it hit the ground, that's when I was excited."

"It was a good win for everybody. We've been battling all year long and again tonight. We just stayed with them long enough to get a win," said Bill Wegman (5-4), who pitched two scoreless innings to get the victory.

The Brewers scored single runs in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings to rally from a 5-2 deficit and send the game into extra innings. And they did it without much help from Seitzer.

"Good redemption," Seitzer said. "The one with the bases loaded, I hit it down the first base line and I thought that was a double. I mean I smoked that ball."

But first baseman John Olerud back-handed the bouncer for the final out.

"Next time up, two outs and Hamilton on first, I got all excited. I was trying to rip one down the corner and give him a chance to score," Seitzer said. "I was feeling real good, and then I chased a bad pitch."

"So it was at least nice to get a hit on that last one."

In other AL games, Seattle edged Chicago 10-9, Texas defeated Detroit 4-1, Minnesota downed Oakland 5-3, California stopped Kansas City 4-0, New York crushed Baltimore 11-4 and Boston defeated Cleveland 5-1.

Toronto lost its fifth straight game and Milwaukee snapped a five-game home losing streak.

"We jumped on them early, but then we kind of stalled and then slowly let them back in," Toronto's Ed Sprague said.

Paul Molitor and Shawn Green homered for Toronto.

Rangers 4, Tigers 1
Mickey Teuleton's two-run homer backed the pitching of Kevin Gross as Texas defeated Detroit.

Gross (5-11) scattered eight hits in eight-plus innings and snapped a three-game losing streak. He had not recorded a victory at home since May 17 and hadn't won a game since July 15.

Matt Whiteside gained his second save and Sean Bergman (4-7) took the loss.

Red Sox 5, Indians 1
Pitching in front of the largest Boston crowd of the season, 34,574, Tim Wakefield (13-1) won his ninth consecutive start to become baseball's second 13-game winner.

By pitching his AL-leading sixth complete game, the Red Sox hurler, dropped his major league-leading ERA to 1.61. He held Cleveland to six hits, including Eddie Murray's 14th home run of the year and 472nd of his career, as the Red Sox won their sixth straight.

Lee Tinsley had three hits and drove in four Boston runs.

Mark Clark (6-4), who gave up 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings, took the loss.

Mariners 10, White Sox 9
A one-out, ninth-inning single by Joey Cora scored Alex Diaz from second base as Seattle edged Chicago in a slugfest. Cora had put the Mariners ahead 9-8 with a pinch RBI single in the seventh inning.

Jay Buhner had a grand slam for Seattle in the fourth inning.

Yankees 11, Orioles 4
Ruben Sierra drove in a career-high seven runs with a homer, double and single, and David Cone won his third straight decision for New York.

Sierra's three-run homer off Baltimore's Rick Krivda (0-1) in the sixth inning gave the host Yankees a 3-2 lead and overcame Brady Anderson's 11th homer, a two-run shot, in the top of the inning.

Angels 4, Royals 0
Jim Abbott (8-5) allowed seven hits in seven innings, and Chili Davis singled, doubled and homered to lead California at Kansas City.

Twins 5, Athletics 3
Rookie Brad Radke surrendered four hits through eight innings and Kirby Puckett homered and doubled as Minnesota handed visiting Oakland its fourth straight loss.

After giving up a double to Jason Giambi in the second, Radke (8-10) retired 15 of the next 16 batters before allowing consecutive singles in the seventh. Dave Stevens pitched the ninth for his seventh save.

Ripken deserves Gehrig's mark

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer
More than one sportswriter touched off a ruckus the past few days by suggesting Cal Ripken sit himself down rather than play consecutive game No. 2,131 - the one that would break Lou Gehrig's iron-man mark.

"Maybe that's to be expected. But a month before the feat comes into sharpest focus, it's clear sportswriters aren't the only people with cold feet and overheated imaginations.

Turns out New York manager Buck Showalter has in his possession a couple of letters from "fans" suggesting that he do something to take the optional part out of the equation. That is, they want Ripken nudged out of the lineup before he gets by Gehrig - upended making the pivot on a double play maybe, or plunked in the batter's box with the bases empty and Baltimore too far behind to make a difference.

The sooner the better, their reasoning probably goes, even better if the Yanks happen to gain an advantage on the very same play. It's at times like this that the rest of us are reminded what a tough town New York can be. And baseball has become.

"The feeling in the Yankee organization for Lou Gehrig goes way beyond that for a guy who just happened to play here. Let me say that first," Showalter said Tuesday night.

A few moments earlier, his Yankees had just finished off Ripken's Orioles for the second straight game in the three-game series between American League East contenders. He could afford to be gracious.

"As for the letters, I get my share. I'm sure every manager gets his share of," and here he draws the word out, "un-U-s-u-a-l ones. Most of them are guys getting on me, saying I shouldn't be pulling for him to break Gehrig's record.

"But I've got to tell you, if somebody has to break it, it ought to be a guy who doesn't suffer from the 'disease-of-I' or the 'look-at-me mentality' so many guys today have. It ought to be someone," Showalter said, "who stands for a few things that are right about baseball.

Exactly. Which is why if anybody should break Gehrig's record, it's Ripken.

It's not like the bench where baseball's truly great sit is so packed that adding one fanny means another gets pushed off the end. Gehrig was a legend before Ripken got there, and he'll remain one long after.

Gehrig's achievements beyond the streak suffer in comparison with no baseball player - not even his teammate Babe Ruth, in whose shadow Gehrig lingered most of his career. And in terms of character and sheer courage, he had no peers at all.

In a string of forgettable movies,

Ruth was portrayed by lumpy, humdrum actors like William Bendix and John Goodman. When Hollywood went looking for a type to cast as Gehrig in "Pride of the Yankees," it settled on legendary tough guy Gary Cooper.

We should all be lucky enough to be remembered so gracefully, but Ripken in particular, should. When his time comes at the movies, someone like Harrison Ford would be just about right. Ripken brings dignity, steadfastness and above all, ease to a business woefully lacking in them all. Those qualities are not the residue of the streak, they are the reason it exists.

And if anything, the focus on his durability has obscured what an accomplished player Ripken truly is: Rookie of the Year, two MVP awards, two Gold Gloves. He has been the starting AL shortstop in 12 consecutive All-Star games. He has hit more home runs at the position than anyone ever.

But like Gehrig, ultimately, he is more than the sum of those parts. How much more is evident at the autograph sessions Ripken stages, unannounced and unconditional, which have become a kind of pilgrimage for the faithful.

Fans form single-file lines after games stretching along the concourse of stadiums for section after section. They wait for Ripken's signature, to say thanks and to be thanked by a man whose devotion to the game leaves them awed. And it's not only fans.

It was the same admiration heard the other day in the voice of first baseman Don Mattingly, who has given the Yankees organization years of proud service in the same job Gehrig once held.

"From the things I've heard about Gehrig, I think he'd be proud of a guy like Cal."

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city, and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Artist, at 94, recognized for talent now, rather than controversy

Enrique Alferez created stir with explicit sculpture, claim he rode with Pancho Villa

EDITOR'S NOTE - Enrique Alferez' 94 years hold enough experiences for four lifetimes. But in true honor to his personality, the famous Mexican-born sculptor remains unsatisfied.

By EILEEN LOH
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) - People here no longer tend to equate Enrique Alferez with the controversy he's caused, or the company he's kept.

Not with traveling in Pancho Villa's army, not with the explicit sexuality of his sculptures, not with his claim that the legendary bandito wasn't around to perform his most famous raid; not with his own premature obituary under a banner headline in a New Orleans newspaper.

These days, people recognize the 94-year-old Alferez mostly through his sculptures: quiet, powerful figures that dot New Orleans and appear across the United States, Canada, South America, Europe and Asia.

Alferez' art gained international acclaim after he moved to New Orleans during the Great Depression.

He lived and worked sporadically in Mexico, New York, San Francisco and St. Louis, but always came back to New Orleans.

Dozens of his figures decorate New Orleans hospitals, churches and cathedrals, restaurants, courtyards and street corners.

New Orleans' City Park alone features more than 20 of his works, including sculptures of 1930s-era athletes intertwined in the iron gates of the park's Tad Gormley Stadium.

After World War I, Alferez lived in the French Quarter, dallying with flamboyant politicians, including Gov. Huey P. Long, obligingly playing his cello for famed cellist Gregor Piatigorsky.

"When I was finished," Alferez recalls, Piatigorsky said, "That is amazing - I never knew such a terrible sound could come from such a beautiful instrument."

Alferez removed the fig leaf from male nudes and sculpted sensual female forms. His dry humor guarded him against the ensuing furor from a public that wasn't quite ready for it.

A sculpture of the Virgin Mary, in garb other than the traditional flowing robe, prompted one outraged critic to sputter: "She has legs!", to which Alferez replied, "Doesn't every woman you know?"

After the unveiling of "The Fountain Of The Four Winds," created for a New Orleans airport in 1937 and featuring a well-endowed male nude, one horrified viewer asked Alferez if his mother knew about this.

"If she didn't know about it," the artist responded, "I wouldn't be here."

Under orders by the federal Works Progress Administration to chisel off the offending penis or cover it with a fig leaf, Alferez stood guard at the statue with a rifle for three nights, until then-first lady Eleanor Roosevelt intervened on his behalf.

His flamboyance led some to brand him a playboy. His wife, Peggy Alferez, says, "He was never a playboy. He didn't have time."

His association with Pancho Villa sometimes gets more attention than his art.

As a 12-year-old in the impoverished north-central Mexican state of Zacatecas, Alferez was accused of breaking a glass pipette in school.

Glass was very expensive, and he thought his accident had thrown his parents into poverty, so he ran away and joined Villa's revolutionary army.

Alferez barely survived. With a bunch of other kids, his job was to follow the Americans and loot whatever they could.

By age 16, officers had discovered he could draw, and assigned him to sneak into enemy territory and make maps of the terrain. Alferez, a self-described coward, would fabricate the maps from a safe distance.

Alferez disputes the belief that Villa carried out the raid on Columbus, N.M., on March 9, 1916, killing 18 Americans. The attack brought American Army troops, under Gen. John Pershing, to Mexico to find Villa. They never did.

"He wasn't there," Alferez insists.

People said Villa was there because they heard cries of "Viva Villa," but Alferez says that was just bragadocio.

Hours before the 4 a.m. raid in New Mexico, Alferez says, Villa and his army were outside El Paso, Texas, to get desperately needed supplies from sympathizers at the American Smelting Co.

"I remember seeing him that night around 8 o'clock, you see, and then I saw him in the morning, the next morning."

It would have been impossible to traverse those rugged, steep hills to conduct a raid in New Mexico and then get back to El Paso by morning, Alferez says.

"And anyway, why would he attack a little town like Columbus, N.M.," he asked rhetorically. "There was nothing to be gained over there."

Few people, Alferez says, give him credence about that since they want Villa's legend to remain intact.

His contradiction of Villa's involvement in the raid was not included in a 1993 PBS special, "American Experience: The Hunt For Pancho Villa," though Alferez' commentary is used throughout the rest of the documentary.

After the revolution, Alferez went to the Art Institute of Chicago. A job at Tulane University brought him to New Orleans.

Already famous in 1929, he was on a trip to Mexico when someone stole his satchel. When the thief was found dead with the satchel, there was a florid obituary in a New Orleans newspaper about the "bold sculptor."

"Enrique Alferez ... has yielded up the life into whose 28 years he has crowded enough adventures to fill a newspaper page," the obituary read.

The adventures have since wound down. The life of a journeyman artist-sometimes lavish, sometimes impoverished - has tempered into a comfortable existence in an inner-city New Orleans neighborhood. His house, a converted old church crammed with his pieces, cannot be seen behind a graffiti-scarred wall.

As recently as 1994, he toiled on an 18-foot bronze sculpture of a woman playing the flute, commissioned by City Park, on which he devoted "at least nine hours a day," wife Peggy says. "Up and down the scaffolding." When he finished it, he made another for his daughter.

A year later, though, she said, "He wouldn't be able to do it now. He really wouldn't. Honey, he's 94 years old."

Sitting in his daughter's house, decorated with dozens of his sculptures, Alferez holds a drink with work-gnarled hands. "I'm getting old," he declares, something he is totally against.

Age and his vast experience has not managed to bring him total satisfaction with his work.

"Someday, I will do something I like," he says.

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1994. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2030, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

Displays for August

Displays at the Deaf Smith County Library for August feature cars and cats. Emily Curtis, 14, above, has been collecting cats in various forms as long as she can remember. She is sharing that collection -- except for her real cat -- with the library. Philip Curtis, 11, left, displays his collection of Matchbox, Hot Wheels, and other miniature vehicles, including some originally collected by his father. The displays are the children of John and Beverly Curtis.

Family from Poland attends annual reunion

The family of the late Felix Urbanczyk joined other Urbanczyks in Thompson Park in Amarillo recently for their 27th annual reunion.

Special guests were Rudolph and Sylvia Urbanczyk and their children, Sebastian and Isabella from Poland, who were visiting Adeline and Frank Ciomperlik of San Antonio. The Ciomperliks met the Polish family while on a tour in Poland in 1994.

The reunion was hosted by the John Urbanczyk family.

Prizes were awarded to Caleb Urbanczyk, the youngest person present; Dalen Rohan of Panhandle, the oldest person present; and to the Urbanczyks from Poland who traveled the furthest.

Descendants of the late Felix Urbanczyk, who moved to Hereford in 1937, attending the reunion were Edna Reinart; Tony and Loretta Urbanczyk and granddaughters, Kaeli and Kesli; Connie and Connie Urbanczyk; Al Dziuk, Evelyn and Mike Morrison, Mikey Morrison and guest, Jason White; Melani and guest, Stuart Jackson; Kevin, Rhonda, Jacob and Caleb Urbanczyk, Brian, Patti and Madison Urbanczyk, Sammee Mazurek; and Sam and Leona Mazurek.

High blood pressure known as 'silent killer'

You could have high blood pressure and not even know it. That's the scary part.

But what you also need to know is that together you and your physician should be able to keep the condition under control. It may take lifestyle changes, a combination of a low-sodium diet, a weight-loss program and medication.

High blood pressure affects millions of Americans, almost half of whom don't know they have it. Since there's usually no pain to accompany high blood pressure, it's often called the "silent killer." The consequences of not treating the condition may be a heart attack, brain attack (stroke), kidney failure or other blood vessel disease.

The best way to find out is to have your blood pressure checked and interpreted by a trained healthcare professional. The American Heart Association considers acceptable pressure to be less than 140 (systolic) over (90) diastolic. The systolic pressure is when the heart pumps blood and the diastolic pressure is when the heart rests between beats.

Suzanne Oparil, M.D., immediate past president of the American Heart Association, tells her patients that high blood pressure is a chronic treatment. She counsels her patients disease and that they face life-long on controlling their weight, limiting their alcohol intake, knowing the importance of minerals such as potassium and calcium, exercising regularly and stopping the use of tobacco in any form.

Here are some other suggestions on coping with high blood pressure:
* Talk to your physician and you can't get the answers you need, find another doctor.

* If you have side effects from the drug you are taking, tell your physician and discuss other drugs you are taking and any known allergies.
* Understand that finding the right drug or drug combination can be a challenge for patients and physicians. More than 70 prescription drugs for high blood pressure are available. Be willing to try other drugs or combinations.

* Ask your physician about potassium-sparing diuretics. Eat more bananas, tomatoes and dried fruit and drink more citrus juices.
* Don't quit taking your medication without first talking to your doctor.

For more information on high blood pressure, call yo American Heart Association at 1-800-AHA-USA1 (1-800-242-8721).

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I would like to know what will stop mildew from growing on the refrigerator-door gasket. — Lee, Spring Branch, Texas

You can try to clean the gasket, but the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) recommends that it be replaced. It is probably worn and letting cold air escape and warm air come into the fridge.

A weak solution of water and chlorine bleach may kill the mildew spores, but bleach should not be used on the gasket because it will cause it to eventually become brittle and break apart.

Keeping the gasket clean is the only other thing you can try. Washing it often, daily if necessary, with a weak solution of hot water and a mild dishwashing detergent may help. Rinse well and dry thoroughly after each cleaning.

Good luck! — Heloise

SPICE ORGANIZATION

Dear Heloise: In addition to writing the name of each spice on the top of the can, I put them into sweater boxes (without lids).

They slide nicely in and out of cupboards if you have limited storage space. The spice you are looking for can be seen at a glance with no need to pull out the whole bunch! Sweater boxes also accommodate taller items, such as bottles of soy and steak sauces. — Rosemary Smith, Sanford, N.C.

HANDY TEA BALL

Dear Heloise: When I tell you I have accumulated three score plus 10 years, then you know how long I have enjoyed the many hints of Heloise.

For some time, I've been wanting to share a suggestion that could bear repeating.

Many times we are asked to place spices in a piece of cheesecloth when required. I use a tea ball — the perforated aluminum ball. It occurred to me that if tea leaves could be used, why not spices? No more looking for cheesecloth. This has proven to be most successful. — Dorothy J. Ronay, New Braunfels, Texas

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

Times	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are 4.35 per column inch; 3.85 inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of error by the publisher an additional insertion will be published.

ORDINANCE NO. 1338

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS, PROVIDING THAT THE CODE OF ORDINANCES, CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS, BE AMENDED BY REVISING ARTICLE I; DIVISION 2 AND DIVISION 3 OF ARTICLE II; ADDING DIVISION 4 AND DIVISION 5 OF ARTICLE II; AND REVISING DIVISION 1 OF ARTICLE III, ALL IN CHAPTER 14 OF SAID CODE AND SETTING STANDARDS AND CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH DOGS, CATS AND OTHER ANIMALS MAY BE KEPT AND REGULATED IN THE CITY, PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR VIOLATING THIS ORDINANCE, AND AN EFFECTIVE DATE

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF HEREFORD, TEXAS:

Section 1: That Article I, Division 2 and Division 3 of Article II, and Division 1 of Article III, all in Chapter 14 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Hereford, Texas, are hereby amended, and Division 4 and Division 5 of Article II, Chapter 14 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Hereford, Texas, are hereby added to read as follows:

ANIMALS

ARTICLE I. IN GENERAL

Sec. 14-1. Penalty for violations.

The owner of any dog, cat or other animal who shall permit such dog, cat or other animal to run at large, unattended, upon any public place, or on the property of others than the owner of such dog, cat or other animal, in the City, in violation of this Chapter, or any person who keeps, owns, possess, harbors or allows to remain upon premises under his control an unrestrained or nuisance animal, in violation of this Chapter, or any person who shall fail or refuse to have a dog or cat vaccinated against the disease of rabies as in this Chapter provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof in any court, shall be fined as provided in Section 1-4

ARTICLE II. DOGS, CATS AND OTHER ANIMALS GENERAL-LY

DIVISION 2. ANNUAL TAX ON DOGS AND CATS

Sec. 14-36. Levied

There is hereby levied and assessed against the owner thereof a tax of $1.00 per annum on every dog and cat kept or maintained in the City, for all or any part of any calendar year.

Sec. 14-37. When due and payable.

The tax levied by Section 14-36, shall be due and payable on January 1 of each year on all dogs and cats kept or maintained on such date; provided, that such tax shall be due and payable on the acquisition date thereof, or the date first kept and maintained in the City, for dogs and cats acquired or brought into the City after January 1 in any year.

Sec. 14-38. Receipt and tag to be issued; register to be kept.

Upon payment of the tax under this Division, the chief of police or his designee shall issue a receipt therefor, and deliver to the owner of such dog or cat an identification number and tag for such dog or cat. The police department shall keep a permanent register of the identification number of such dog or cat and the name and address of its owner.

Sec. 14-39 Tag to be attached.

The identification number tag provided for in this Division shall be permanently attached to the dog or cat's collar or harness at all times.

Sec. 14-40. Proof of vaccination required.

Proof of current vaccination of the dog or cat against rabies, by certificate of a duly licensed and practicing doctor of veterinary medicine, shall be required before issuance of the identification number tag provided for in this Division.

DIVISION 3. RUNNING AT LARGE

Sec. 14-51. Unlawful for dogs, cats or other animals to run at large.

It shall be unlawful for the owner of any dog, cat or other animal to allow such dog, cat or other animal to run or be at large upon any street, alley or public place in the City, or on the property of others than the owner of such dog, cat, or other animal, unless such dog, cat or other animal shall be at all times restrained by rope, chain, leash or other means of control sufficient to reasonably control the acts and conduct thereof.

DIVISION 4. ANIMALS CONSTITUTING A NUISANCE

Sec. 14-52. Purpose.

The keeping of dogs, cats, and other animals in the City may constitute a nuisance. It is the desire of the City to set certain standards and conditions under which dogs and cats may be kept and regulate the keeping of other animals in the City.

Sec. 14-53. Right of entry for enforcement.

(a) Any police officer or animal control officer of this City having probable cause to believe that a violation of this Chapter has occurred shall have the right to enter upon all yards within the City in the course of enforcement for the purpose of impounding an animal or issuing a citation, or both.

(b) However, nothing in this Section shall be construed to authorize a police officer or animal control officer to enter dwellings or buildings attached thereto without the consent of the owner of person in control of such dwelling.

Sec. 14-54 Interference with officers.

It is unlawful for any person to interfere or oppose or resist any police officer or animal control officer while such officers are engaged in the performance of the duties pertaining to the enforcement of this Chapter. The Chief of Police, police officers and animal control officers are empowered to enforce all of the provisions of this Chapter.

Sec. 14-55. Unrestrained, nuisance animals.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person to keep, own, possess, harbor or allow to remain upon premises under his control an unrestrained or nuisance animal.

(b) An unrestrained animal is one which is not:

- (1) Inside a fenced yard;
- (2) At the end of a leash controlled by a responsible person;
- (3) In a house, apartment or in a completely enclosed cage; or
- (4) Tied or staked upon open or unfenced land.

(c) A nuisance animal is one which:

- (1) Molests or attacks people;
- (2) Attacks other animals;
- (3) Is repeatedly at large;
- (4) Damages private or public property;
- (5) Barks, whines or howls excessively; or
- (6) Creates an offensive odor.

DIVISION 5. IMPOUNDMENT

Sec. 14-56. Impoundment of dogs, cats or other animals running at large and unrestrained and nuisance animals.

Any police officer or animal control officer of the City shall take custody of any dog, cat or other animal running at large upon any street, alley or public place in the City and any unrestrained or nuisance animal in violation of this Article, and shall impound such dog, cat or other animal in a suitable place provided by the City for such purpose, under the terms and conditions of this Division.

Sec. 14-57 Impoundment fee.

An impoundment fee of $3.00 per day is hereby levied and assessed against each dog, cat or other animal taken into custody and impounded pursuant to this Division.

Sec. 14-58. Notice to owner; length of impoundment.

If the identification of the owner of any impounded dog, cat or other animal is determined from the identification tag or number found on any such dog or cat, or determined in any other manner by the City Police Department, then notification of such impoundment shall be given to such owner by telephone or by mail at the owner's last known address. Such dog, cat or other animal shall remain impounded and under the reasonable care and custody of the City Police Department or Animal Control Department for a period of 72 hours following such telephone notice or the posting of notice by mail to the owner thereof, unless such owner shall have procured release prior to such time pursuant to the terms of this Division, or unless longer impoundment for rabies observation shall be required by this Chapter.

Sec. 14-59 procuring release of dog, cat or other animal.

Unless further impoundment for rabies observation is required under this Division, the owner of any dog, cat or other animal impounded may procure the release of such dog, cat or other animal from impoundment and take possession thereof by complying with the following:

- (1) The payment of the impoundment fee levied and assessed by this Division.
- (2) If a dog or cat, the payment of the annual dog or cat tax levied and assessed by this Article, unless such tax has been paid for the current year.
- (3) If a dog or cat, the furnishing of proof of vaccination of such dog or cat against rabies within the

Sec. 14-60 Sale of dogs, cat or other animals; proceeds of sale.

If the owner of an impounded dog, cat or other animal shall fail to procure the release of such dog, cat or other animal in the way and manner provided in this Division, the City Police Department or Animal Control Department shall have the power and authority to sell such dog, cat or other animal at private sale for the best price obtainable, to any person. Any person purchasing an impounded dog or cat shall be required to pay the annual dog or cat tax for the current year and procure current vaccination of such dog or cat against rabies within 24 hours of such purchase. The purchase price of such dog or cat may be applied to such tax and the cost of such vaccination, with any excess of such purchase price being applied next to the impoundment fee levied and assessed in this Division. Any further excess of purchase price shall be paid over to the owner of such dog or cat at the time of impoundment, if known, or if the owner is unknown, such excess shall be deposited in the general revenues of the City. The purchase price of any other animal may be applied to the impoundment fee levied and assessed in this Division. Any further excess of purchase price shall be paid over to the owner of such animal at the time of impoundment, if known, or if the owner is unknown, such excess shall be deposited in the general revenues of the City.

Sec. 14-61. Dog, cat or other animal to be destroyed, when.

If the owner of an impounded dog, cat or other animal shall fail to procure the release of such dog, cat or other animal in the way and manner provided in this Division, and if such dog, cat or other animal is not sold under the terms of this Division, then such dog, cat or other animal shall be destroyed.

Sec. 14-62. Rabid dogs, cats and other animals to be destroyed.

Every dog, cat, or other animal found running at large or an unrestrained or nuisance animal that is known to be infected with the disease of rabies shall be destroyed on sight by any police officer or animal control officer of this City.

Sec. 14-63. Impoundment for rabies observation.

Every dog, cat or other animal found running at large or an unrestrained or nuisance animal that is suspected of being infected with the disease of rabies shall be impounded and observed as provided in Article III of this Chapter.

ARTICLE III. RABIES CONTROL GENERALLY

DIVISION 1. GENERALLY

Sec. 14-81. Dogs and cats to be vaccinated each year.

Every dog and cat kept and maintained within this City shall be vaccinated against the disease of rabies by the time it is four months of age and at least once each calendar year.

Sec. 14-82. Proof of vaccination to be kept.

Proof of vaccination against rabies, by certificate of a duly licensed and practicing doctor of veterinary medicine shall be kept and maintained by the owner of every dog and cat kept within this city.

Section 2: That this Ordinance shall be effective from and after its passage and publication in accordance with the Charter of the City of Hereford, Texas.

The above and foregoing Ordinance was duly introduced on the motion of Commissioner Hall, seconded by Commissioner Juarez, and was duly PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED by the unanimous vote of the City Commission on the 7th day of August, 1995.

ORDINANCE NO. 1339
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF HERFORD, TEXAS, PROVIDING THAT THE CODE OF ORDINANCES, CITY OF HERFORD, TEXAS, BE AMENDED BY ADDING SECTION 26-53. TO ARTICLE III, CHAPTER 26 OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES AND PROVIDING FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF SCREENING WALLS OR VISUAL BARRIERS FOR VEHICLE REPAIR BUSINESSES, PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR VIOLATING THIS ORDINANCE, AND AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

Be it ordained by the City Commission of the City of Herford, Texas:

Section 1: That the Code of Ordinances of the City of Herford, Texas is hereby amended by adding Section 26-53. to Article III, Chapter 26, which Section reads as follows: Sec. 26-53. Vehicle Repair Businesses; Screening Walls or Visual Barriers.

(a) All persons engaged in the business of vehicle repairs, storage and/or dismantlement of vehicles, and which businesses store vehicle parts, materials, supplies, equipment and/or disabled vehicles outdoors between the hours of 6:30 o'clock p.m. and 7:30 o'clock a.m. shall construct a screening wall or visual barrier to obstruct the view of such stored vehicle parts, materials, supplies, equipment and/or disabled vehicles. (b) A screening wall or visual barrier required under the provisions of this Section shall be constructed of masonry, brick, wood or of a permanent and substantial type wall or fence material, supported by a all openings in such walls or fences shall be equipped with gates equal in height and screening characteristics to the wall or fence and shall be closed and securely latched at all times except during business hours. In lieu of a screening wall or fence, a landscaped strip containing a solid planting or hedge not less than six(6) feet in height, which planting shall be maintained in a healthy growing condition and constituting a visual barrier may be used with approval of the Building Official. (c) Stored materials shall not be stacked so as to exceed the heights of the screening fence, wall or visual barrier, and such materials shall not be placed outside the fence, wall or visual barrier. (d) Screening walls or visual barriers shall be placed along all portions of any affected Premises which abut any paved public street or highway and shall extend along the perimeters of the property; provided however, this requirement shall not apply where any building, structure or any natural vision barrier exists which effectively screens the portions of such premises; and provided further however, that no such screening walls or visual barriers shall be so located or placed that it obstructs the view of any motor vehicle driver approaching any street, highway, alley or intersection.

Section 2. That the penalty for the violation of this Ordinance by any person shall, upon conviction, be the imposition of a fine in any sum of money not to exceed $500.

Section 3. (a) Except as hereinafter provided, this Ordinance shall be effective from and after its passage and publication, in accordance with the Charter of the City of Herford, Texas.

(b) Regarding all vehicle repair businesses in existence upon the date of passage of this Ordinance, this Ordinance shall take effect as to any and all such vehicle repair businesses on and after September 1, 1996, at which time, if such vehicle repair businesses are not in full compliance with the terms of this Ordinance, the failure of such vehicle repair businesses to be in full compliance frame or base constructed of concrete, metal or other substantial material, and not readily subject to damage by operations within the enclosure of the effects of winds or other weather elements. Such wall or barrier shall be maintained in good repair and shall not contain openings constituting more than forty(40) square inches in each one(1) square foot of wall or fence surface, and the surface of such wall or fence shall constitute a visual barrier. All walls or fences shall not be less than six(6) feet in height and with this Ordinance shall be declared and shall constitute a public nuisance.

The above a foregoing Ordinance was duly introduced on the motion of Commissioner Winget, seconded by Commissioner Hall, and was duly PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED by the unanimous vote of the City Commission on the 7th day of August, 1995.
