Aquatic Center sets opening day, special activities

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A publicly-owned facility that may turn out to be the envy of cities everywhere will finally hold opening day next Saturday in Hereford.

"The Lord willing and the creek don't rise," said City Manager Chester Nolen, the Hereford Aquatic Center will be ready for swimmers after special ceremonies at 10 a.m.

A "slide spectacular" with Captain Billy of KPAN Radio set to make the first big splash will launch the opening-day activities. For the remainder of the day, swimmers may use the pools and facilities until 5 p.m.

A Beach Volleyball Challenge involving teams from local governmental bodies, the media and charitable groups will be held Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to noon. (See first-round pairings on sports page).

The first annual City of Hereford/Town & Country Jubilee Sand Volleyball Tournament will begin at noon the same day. Championship games will be played on Aug. 12.

Adding to the gala occasion, several Hereford civic groups intend to operate food booths to ease hunger of swimmers and guests. A tentative list includes hamburgers by the Pilot Club, jumbo pickles by the Chamber's Women's Division, lemonade and brownies by the American Red Cross, and Kool-Aid and popcorn by Friends of the Library.

Currently, the grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony for the aquatic center is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 11, at 10 a.m., with free open swimming offered that day.

A plan to open the pools several days ago was abandoned when officials determined that too much time would be needed to finish painting the pools. After the paint was applied, a three-day waiting period was required before water could flow into the pools.

An irrigation system for grassy areas around the pools has been completed and sod installed around the pools, said Nolen.

On a tight schedule to bring more than a year and a half of anticipation to a climax, city workers hoped to turn on the water during the last week.

To fill both pools, an estimated 500,000 gallons of water will be required, Nolen reported. With a sophisticated filter and water system, Nolen said less than one percent of the total gallons will be replaced daily.

"We don't expect to lose more than 1,000 gallons a day to evaporation and splashing," he reported.

When all is said and done, cost of the complex, including two pools, and park areas is expected to be in the neighborhood of $1.2 million.

Because the city elected to serve as general contractor and hired a construction superintendent, savings have been considerable, Nolen pointed out.

"The architect estimated cost of $1.4 million to $1.5 million, but it looks like we'll be close to $1.2 million," he continued.

Several factors have made the money-saving possible, he said.

"The labor provided by inmates of the Deaf Smith County jail has contributed immeasurably," Nolen declared.

Readying the big pool
With the leisure pool and its water slide in the background, Hereford Aquatic Center construction superintendent Don Kundert lies down in the big pool on Friday while doing some final touch-up work. With both pools painted, plastered and tiled, it is about time to fill them with water before the opening of the facility on Saturday, Aug. 5 and the grand opening on Aug. 11.

Preparations underway for variety of events

T&C Jubilee just week away

It is only one week away from the first event of the 1995 Hereford Town and Country Jubilee and preparations are under way to make sure everything goes off with a bang.

The Jubilee Beef Fajita Cookoff, sponsored by the Hereford Cattlewomen, is the first event of the Jubilee. It will be Saturday, Aug. 5, in Dameron Park. Last year's winning team from First National Bank will be back to try and repeat their victory.

Judging will begin at 6:30 p.m., with public tasting at 7 p.m.

Entry forms are available at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main.

Also Saturday will be the opening day of the new Hereford Aquatic Center, which will be celebrated with water ... and volleyball.

The long-awaited pool opens at 10 a.m. and the public is invited.

The Beach Volleyball Challenge will pit teams from local governmental bodies, the media and charitable groups against each other for domination over the center's sand volleyball court.

The volleyball begins at 10:30 a.m. and last until noon.

At noon kicks off the first annual City of Hereford/Town and Country Jubilee Sand Volleyball Tournament.

Preliminary round games will be held that afternoon, with the championship game on Aug. 12, the final day of Jubilee activities.

After Saturday, the Jubilee shifts focus to the city's retail sector, with the annual Back-to-School sale Aug. 7-12.

Local merchants will feature giveaways, drawings, special events and -- of course -- special Jubilee sales throughout the week.

In addition, Hereford High School class reunions will be held at this time, when graduates and their families return to Hustlin' Hereford to remember those "days of old."

On Aug. 10, the chamber Women's Division will host its annual Jubilee Fall Style Show from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Hereford Country Club. For more information call the Chamber at 364-3333.

The night of Aug. 11 will be special for one young lady. The Hereford Riders Club will host the Crowning of the Queen at the Hereford Riders Arena at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

A variety of Jubilee events will be held on the weekend of Aug. 11 and 12, including the highlights of the affair -- the Jubilee Parade and Jubilee Junction.

Space is still available for parade participants. Entry forms are available at the chamber or by contacting members of the Whiteface

Kiwanis Club, which sponsors the parade.

Also scheduled for that weekend are the Greg Black Memorial 10K, 2-Mile Fun Run and 2-Mile Walk; the Jubilee Cowboy Rodeo; Cowboy and Cowgirl Camp Meeting; Quilt Show; Bungee Jump Trampoline; 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament; Farmers Market; and Jubilee of Arts.

Information on all Jubilee events is available at the chamber.

School registration will start this week

Registration for students who will be attending kindergarten through sixth grade in the Hereford Independent School District this fall semester will be held this week in a variety of locations, district officials announced Friday.

Registration will be held from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 3, on all elementary and intermediate school campuses, with the exception of Shirley School. Registration for that school only will be at the HISD central office, 601 N. 25 Mile Avenue, because of continuing construction at the school.

Kindergarten students who pre-registered in May will not be required to register on Thursday.

All of the campuses will be open through the noon hour.

Parents who have kindergarten or first graders entering school for the first time must bring proof of age documents, immunization records and Social Security number for registration.

Parents registering any student in the district for the first time should bring all available educational records, proof of age, immunization records and the child's Social Security number to the school.

Bus information will be available at the time of registration.

Kindergarten classes will be held at Aikman, Northwest and Tierra Blanca primary schools, and at Bluebonnet Intermediate School.

Registration on the paired campuses of Aikman and Bluebonnet will be on a first come basis only.

When kindergarten classes at Aikman are full, then students registering thereafter will be required to attend class at Bluebonnet.

Student assignments to teachers will be made by the building principal.

Also scheduled for Thursday is pre-kindergarten registration, at the Stanton Special Populations Center, 711 E. Park Avenue.

Registration for pre-kindergarten will be from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Pre-kindergarten classes will meet for half a day -- from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 11:55 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Morning or afternoon assignments will be made by the principal.

Transportation for pre-kindergarten students will be provided outside the two-mile limit for morning classes. Students attending these classes will be taken to bus drop-off points.

Students in the afternoon classes may also be picked up. These students will be delivered back to bus drop-off points at the end of the day.

Parents are responsible for all other transportation.

Breakfast and lunch will be provided for students in the morning class. Lunch will be provided for the afternoon classes.

To be eligible for pre-kindergarten classes, families must meet free or reduced-price lunch guidelines, or

Hereford Promise Keepers plan citywide family rally Thursday

The Hereford area Promise Keepers are sponsoring a citywide family rally at Whiteface Stadium Saturday at 7:30 p.m. with Jon Randles as guest speaker.

Pre-entertainment activities begin

...family rally speaker

at 6:30 p.m. The rally provides a unique opportunity for the whole family to gather in a spiritual setting, surrounded by music and an inspirational message, according to Jim Robinson, a pointman with Promise Keepers of Hereford.

"We want to encourage everyone to be part of this citywide rally for Christ," said Robinson. "The magnificent experience that will come from this celebration of God's unity and inclusiveness will be a great blessing to the community."

Traditionally, Promise Keepers is a men's organization in which men are challenged to stand up and seize the opportunity to live with honesty and integrity.

Robinson said the rally will center around the theme of "Raising the Standard" and following the example of Christ. "Almost every day you come to a fork in the road, and which fork you pick is greatly influenced by the choices you made the day before about the kind of person you are," Robinson noted.

Randles, a full-time evangelist and Promise Keeper speaker, is a former pastor and has a wide range of experiences--preaching from the pulpit, speaking to Fellowship of Christian Athletes(FCA) meetings, and teaching ministries in several foreign countries.

A graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, Randles received his master of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He is presently in his third year of study toward a doctorate in history at Texas Tech University.

Randles has been a trustee of Hardin-Simmons since 1993 and has taught as an adjunct instructor of Old and New Testament at Wayland's Lubbock Center. He presently serves in more than 50 churches a year from coast to coast.

He had led motivational chapels for university athletic programs and will be leading both the Texas and Oklahoma statewide FCA Christian Retreats in 1996 and 1997. He is also a former pastor of the Indiana Avenue Baptist Church in Lubbock.

Jury spares Smith from death penalty

UNION, S.C. (AP)--While Susan Smith sits in prison, with at least 30 years to contemplate why she drowned her two sons, this mill town hopes the healing can begin.

"Finally, we can bring some closure to this situation," Fred Delk, downtown Union's revitalization director, said after Friday's sentencing.

In the end, though, voting with slips of paper in a coffee can, all 12 jurors agreed to spare Ms. Smith the death penalty and chose life in prison for her instead. She will be eligible for parole in 30 years.

One juror, a man, earlier had said he wanted her to be put to death.

"We all felt like Susan was a really disturbed person. And we all felt that giving her the death penalty wouldn't serve justice," juror Deborah Benvenuti told The Associated Press.

For nine days last fall, Ms. Smith insisted that a black man had commandeered her car as she drove on a dark, empty road. She begged tearfully on nationwide television for her sons' safe return, at last confessing Nov. 3 that she had released the car's emergency brake and rolled it down a ramp into John D. Long Lake with the boys strapped inside.

She cried again as she was led from the courtroom after the jury announced its verdict, reached after just 2 1/2 hours of deliberations.

Circuit Judge William Howard told jurors after the verdict was read that they had "the toughest moral decision anyone has to make."

Jurors decided Ms. Smith's fate in the same amount of time it took them to convict her July 22 of murdering her sons, 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex.

The first thing jurors did in the deliberation room was go around the table, with each person saying how he or she felt, Ms. Benvenuti said.

Juror William Rice Jr. said they let the one man who wanted the death penalty talk out his feelings, and he eventually came over.

Then, the jurors voted by secret ballot, dropping slips of paper into a large coffee can. It was the only vote they took.

"I'm relieved that most of the community is satisfied with our decision," Rice said.

Earlier, Ms. Smith's lawyer, David Bruck, argued she is tormented enough in her own "lake of fire" for drowning her boys.

David Smith, the boys' father, was not satisfied with the verdict.

"We are disappointed but it wasn't our choice on what penalty she was to receive," he said.

Smith said there are too many memories in Union for him to ever live here again.

"I look across the park or just a lot of things I'd rather not look at for the rest of my life and I have to get away from them," he said.

Prosecutor Tommy Pope defended his decision to seek the death penalty, saying he would do it again.

"This community can begin to heal," Pope said. "It's taken a tremendous toll... but it's something that had to be done."

Public opinion in Union, a town of 10,000, shifted from favoring the death sentence shortly after the crime, growing more sympathetic as Ms. Smith's troubled past, including sexual abuse by her stepfather, became known.

Bruck said, "There is no good outcome to this case. This case was an awful human tragedy and it still is and it always will be."

Ms. Smith, 23, didn't testify during her trial and declined to make a statement to jurors before they began deliberating.

She is on suicide watch in a cell monitored by closed-circuit television and a guard who walks past every 15 minutes, prison spokesman Robyn Zimmerman said. For the next few days, Ms. Smith will not be allowed visitors.

Holding a Bible during his closing argument, Bruck read the story from the Gospel of John about a woman who committed adultery--an offense punishable by stoning.

"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her," Bruck read.

Celebrating Kiwanis anniversary

Two of the longest-serving members of the Hereford Kiwanis Club -- Bartley Dowell, left, and charter member Wayne Phillips, center -- join president Dave Kimmel in showing off a cake commemorating the 45th anniversary of the club. Club members recently hosted a family picnic in the Community Center, where they celebrated the landmark anniversary. Both Dowell and Phillips have 45 years of perfect attendance in the club.

Only Southeast Texas will get reprieve from brutal heat wave

By The Associated Press

Only the extreme southeastern portion of Texas will receive a reprieve from the brutal heat that has brought record temperatures and a three-week dry spell to much of the state.

The National Weather Service said Southeast Texas will be cooled down by showers and thunderstorms. Mostly clear skies prevailed over South Texas Saturday morning.

Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 62 degrees at Marfa to 74 degrees at Beaumont in a thunderstorm and 83 at Del Rio.

Winds were light and variable. Highs will range from near 90 along the coast to 100 to 110 elsewhere.

In West Texas, clear skies were the norm.

An upper-level ridge of high pressure continued over the region this morning.

A chance of showers and thunderstorms was predicted over the southeastern Panhandle and south along the Low Rolling plains and over southeastern areas Sunday. Otherwise, sunny to mostly sunny days and clear nights should prevail.

Highs through Sunday in the 90s north to around 110 along the Rio Grande. Lows tonight will be in the 60s and 70s.

The Hereford and area forecast for Sunday is sunny, high in the mid 90s, with southeast wind around 10 mph. Clear to partly cloudy Sunday night with a low near 70.

An area of thunderstorms and rain showers was moving into extreme eastern portions of North Texas.

A severe thunderstorm watch was in effect this morning for portions of East Texas while much of the state's northern region was still clear.

Temperatures did not cool appreciably overnight.

The high of 102 degrees at the Amarillo International Airport tied the record for the date set in 1986. San Antonio International Airport's 103 degrees also tied the record high for the date set in 1951 and 1962, with El Paso's high of 104 equalling one set in 1889.

The highest temperature recorded in the state Friday was 110 degrees at Laughlin Air Force Base in Laredo.

Other records were Abilene Regional Airport's 107 degrees, beating the previous 104-degree high set in 1946; and Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport's 105 degrees, breaking the 104-degree mark set in 1944. Winds this morning were generally from the south at less than 10 mph.

KAMR obtains powerful new weather radar

KAMR-TV in Amarillo now provides area television viewers with the largest and most powerful broadcast Doppler radar in West Texas--PowerScanRadar, according to an announcement from William Dunaway, vice president and general manager.

The PowerScanRadar dish is 8 feet in diameter, compared to the 30-inch dishes used by other Amarillo stations. It is housed in a 12-foot radome atop the KAMR studios at 2000 N. Polk. The bigger dish narrows the width of the beam coming from the radar which, in turn, boosts the antenna gain.

With the new radar, says Meteorologist Steve McCauley, "you'll be able to tell the difference between rain and hail even when they are mixed together. It will also show turbulence more accurately, even showing the most extreme parts of turbulence down to a city intersection."

With the more sensitive radar equipment, viewers no longer will have to depend on estimates on the location of a storm, added McCauley. The new radar accurately and clearly places the storm exactly where it's occurring in real time. Conventional broadcast Doppler radar may show the storm up to 20 miles off it's actual location.

Laying down the sod

Workers in front of the new Hereford Aquatic Center on Friday laid down sod as final work continues toward the opening of the facility on Saturday, Aug. 5, and the grand opening on Aug. 11. Final painting of the two pools, landscaping and other final

AQUATIC

Through the county's jail work program, supervised inmates started almost on Day One, providing manual labor for the innumerable tasks in construction.

Don Kundert, construction superintendent, began his service with the city about a month before dirt was turned. During the early phases, Kundert said he worked closely with the jail inmates, teaching concrete form-building and concrete finishing.

"Several of these guys will have skills they can use in construction," Kundert said of his work force.

Work contributed by the inmates may not be applied to the match required by grant received from the state, but in monetary value, officials estimate a saving of $100,000, or more, in labor costs.

The two-pool concept for the Aquatic Center developed after Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife responded to a grant request with $750,000 to build a new pool.

A committee of community leaders expressed a need for a year-round facility that could be used for water therapy as well as lessons. An outdoor pool, obviously, was needed to replace the Dameron Park pool.

The idea of building a new facility grew after the City Commission initiated a study of repairs to the Dameron Park pool, built in the late 1940s. The cost appeared to be higher than believed practical.

The TP&W grant was based on matching funds for the project. An application to the Amarillo Area Foundation and the Harrington Foundation brought $250,000 for the match.

The city approached other entities for assistance in the project. Hereford Independent School District pledged $150,000; Deaf Smith County Hospital District, $100,000, and Deaf Smith County, $50,000 in kind.

A major attraction of the aquatic center is a water slide, 135 feet long, descending from a height of 20 feet, in the smaller, or leisure pool. Depth of the pool is no more than about 3 1/2 feet.

The larger pool, 75 feet long and 50 feet wide, will offer competition possibilities as well as recreational swimming and water therapy.

And, an inflatable dome will be aired up to afford swimmers with an "indoor" pool through the months when the outdoor pool cannot be open.

Nolen expects the leisure pool to operate on a special schedule until "people tell us it's too cold to swim outdoors."

Representatives of the manufacturer of the inflatable dome will come to Hereford when the time comes to install it.

The dome is constructed of what Nolen describes as an opaque plastic material that will shed snow but still allow light penetration. Some saving in daytime electric lighting will be realized because of this factor, he added.

The covered pool is four feet deep at the shallow end and gradually reaches six feet in depth at the other end. Seven lanes will be marked for competitive swimming.

Originally scheduled for opening in early June, work on the aquatic center was delayed by weather conditions in late May and subcontractor problems. One of the most serious problems was related to pouring concrete around the pools.

After excavation had started, heavy rains caused ditches to collapse, on more than one occasion.

City officials are extending invitations to TP&W and the Harrington and Amarillo Area Foundations to attend the grand opening Aug. 11. Representatives of participating entities also are invited, along with the general public.

The aquatic center, located adjacent to the YMCA on E. 15th Street, will be the main attraction of a city park to be developed around it. A fishing pond has been dug in the park and some landscaping has been started.

Gore, Feinstein adviser's death probed as suicide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Authorities are investigating as a suicide the death of a political commentator and adviser whose clients included Vice President Al Gore and Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer.

Duane Garrett's body was spotted in the water by a tower of the Golden Gate Bridge on Wednesday and identified on Thursday. He had been facing financial trouble and claims he sold fake sports memorabilia, the San Francisco Examiner reported Friday.

Garrett, who lived in suburban Tiburon, "left behind personal writings indicating increasing and compounding stress," the Marin County coroner's office said.

Garrett, 48, a millionaire who made his fortune trading art and stamps, told friends recently he was financially overextended because of a downturn in the sports memorabilia market.

In addition, his Richard Wolfers Auction was the subject of repeated complaints that it sold bogus collectors items and over-reported sales, the Examiner reported.

The auction house was closed Friday due to his death, and no one with the business could be reached for comment. Garrett's lawyer, Howard Nemerovski, did not return a call from The Associated Press.

In one case, Garrett sold for $85,000 a Detroit Tigers uniform that he said belonged to Hank Greenberg even though the team said it was a fake. Phil Wood, a Washington, D.C., sports broadcaster and baseball memorabilia expert, told the Examiner.

In another, Garrett sold for $10,000 a uniform advertised as Baltimore Orioles Hall of Famer Brooks Robinson's. But it was made by the wrong manufacturer and was wrong color, Wood said.

Garrett co-directed campaigns for a number of leading state and national Democrats, including Walter Mondale, Bruce Babbitt, former Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, and Boxer and Feinstein.

Feinstein was shaken by the news, describing Garrett as "bigger than life."

"He was the last person you would dream of doing that," Feinstein said. "He was the kind of guy who let everybody see his heart."

Disneyland Paris turns profit after three years open

By WILLIAM J. KOLE
Associated Press Writer
MARNE-LA-VALLEE, France (AP) - When it opened three years ago, Disneyland Paris seemed as hopelessly out of place as the Burger King on the Champs Elysees.

Boosted by its new Space Mountain ride, lower entrance fees and the gradual end to Europe's deep recession, the sprawling theme park Parisians once scorned as a "cultural Chernobyl" is finally out of the red.

"It's very American, but we always find American culture very interesting," said Sophie Rousseau, among the many visitors who thronged the park this week.

Former President Francois Mitterrand once sniffed that Disneyland Paris was "not my cup of tea." The park has nonetheless become the No. 1 tourist draw in France.

"My father-in-law hates this place but I think it's super, just super," said Rousseau, 32, munching a hot dog with 5-year-old daughter Justina outside Sleeping Beauty's Castle.

This week, Euro Disney reported its first quarterly profit since Disneyland Paris opened its doors in April 1992. Jubilant company officials now predict the park might break even before the end of 1995, a full year ahead of schedule.

The turnaround is dramatic for a $4 billion resort that opened just as the European economy slumped. Disneyland Paris skidded into its first winter with five theme hotels half-empty, forcing it to temporarily shutter a sixth.

Rumors of the park's imminent closure followed and the lines at the gate shrank. Some analysts considered the resort an American misfit doomed to fail.

A year ago, Euro Disney was teetering on the brink of financial ruin with a loss of 546 million francs ($111.4 million). The 170 million franc ($34.6 million) profit announced Tuesday isn't huge, but it's a picture of health compared with a year ago when the park was hemorrhaging $1 million a day.

The losses were blamed in large part on lower-than-expected merchandise sales and hotel occupancy. Sales of stuffed Mickey Mouse toys, Donald Duck T-shirts and other Disney paraphernalia remain at a flat 25 percent of total revenue.

Euro Disney says attendance figures due out in September will show admission up sharply. It credits a 20 percent cut in ticket prices to 195 francs ($40) in April and the debut in June of the high-speed Space Mountain ride.

Hotel occupancy rates inched up to 60 percent in 1994 after a price cut and have risen "significantly" this year, said company spokesman Philippe Ravanas.

"We are a commercial success," he declared. "It doesn't mean we have no more problems, but it's a good sign."

Euro Disney also credits the resort's better performance on financial restructuring by its U.S.-based parent, Walt Disney Co. Its two U.S. parks, Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., and Disneyworld in Orlando, Fla., are raking in record attendance and profits.

About 30 million people have visited Disney's first European park, according to Ravanas. Tour buses from Spain, Germany and Holland line the parking lot.

"People say we didn't conform to European tastes. What more proof do we need?" Ravanas said. "There's a paradox in France. It's the most anti-American and pro-American country in Europe."

American pop culture abounds at Disneyland Paris, but Euro Disney also has given the park 20 miles east of Paris a continental touch. Some restaurants serve alcohol, and Main Street U.S.A. is dotted with outdoor cafes where locals puff cigarettes and sip espresso.

Suneel Menon, of the United Arab Emirates, has been to Disney's other parks and prefers the smaller Disneyland Paris.

"The weather could be better," he said outside Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, wearing a hat with Mickey Mouse ears against the light drizzle. "But we really enjoy this place."

Hereford Aquatic Center should be a great asset to our community! The facility is opening next Saturday, and whether you take a dip or not, you should go out and see what a great center has been added to our community. Details on the opening are outlined in a news story on our front page.

The project took a lot of cooperation from governmental bodies, some grant money, and a lot of planning and hard work by City of Hereford officials. We salute the Hereford City Commission on completion of the facility.

You don't need to be told that it has been hot this week. Nor do experienced weather watchers depend on outdoor thermometers or the TV weatherman to know when the temperature hits triple digits, as it did this week.

However, comedian Jeff Foxworthy recently reported that you can tell it's more than 100 degrees if:
--Your dog is chasing a cat, and they're both walking.

--The homeless person on the corner has a sign that reads, "Will work for ice."
--The electric company includes a list of bankruptcy lawyers in your monthly bill.

--The grocery clerk thanks you when you ask him to get a case of colas from the walk-in refrigerator.
--The video stores are suddenly out of "North to Alaska," "The Snow Queen," and "Dr. Zhivago".

--You go to a friend's pool for relief, and he's boiling lobsters in it.
--Your "swamp cooler" is working overtime, but your gardener won't.
--You think you hear birds chirp "heat...heat...heat", instead of their usual "tweet...tweet...tweet."

--The ice cream truck's loud, incessant playing of "Turkey in the Straw" ceases to annoy you.

We often criticize federal officials for having little common sense. A news event happened this week that gives us a chance to compliment a man who stayed with a cause for six months and made 400 phone calls to get results.

U.S. Attorney Paul Coggins discovered that 625 cases of men's cotton T-shirts were confiscated by U.S. Customs Service officials for being illegally shipped into the U.S. A court ordered the T-shirts to be destroyed.

But Coggins hated to see that happen--he wanted the shirts for a good cause. After six months of work, he got the 90,000 T-shirts for distribution to youth groups across the nation. Amarillo and Lubbock organizations were among those benefitting from the action.

Little things mean a lot:
Sing in the shower...Plant a tree on your birthday...Watch a sunrise at least once a year...Compliment three people a day...Never refuse homemade brownies...Buy whatever it is kids are selling on card tables in their front yards...Say "thank you" a lot...Say "please" a lot...Strive for excellence, not perfection...Overtip breakfast waitresses...Learn three clean jokes...Become the most positive and enthusiastic person you know...Think big thoughts but relish small pleasures. --From The Lion

Cockleburrs and Devil's Claws

By Georgia Tyler

Surely not a human creature on this planet likes pet foods. Everyone seems to have pet favorites in edible products.

Remember George Bush: "Read my lips, I don't like broccoli." Amen, brother.

Some foods are just not meant for me, such as habanero peppers (on a good day, I can put away some jalapenos), fried catfish (boy, does that make me sick!), caviar (fish eggs don't appeal to my palate), buttermilk (who wants lumpy milk?) and pies with meringue on top (I always scrape it off).

On a list of foods I'd just as soon not have placed before me are black olives, mountain oysters (every West Texan recognizes this delicacy), garlic in anything cooked or uncooked, yoghurt, lamb (leg of or chops), curry and chili.

At the top of the list, though, is a little, bitty dried-up grape, called a raisin.

Not only do I not like the raisins, on a hate scale of one to ten, raisins are at least 11.

During my early years, raisins were a staple around my home. My mother used raisins in several dishes, such as carrot salad and bread pudding. Before eating these raisin-laden dishes, I carefully picked out each one of the offending fruits.

For the life of me, I can't think of a real reason of this hearty dislike. But, I tend to think that it's related to the fact that the raisins of the "olden days" were heavy with seeds. Tiny seeds. Seeds that penetrated every space between teeth. Seeds that, basically, drove me crazy.

Not that the seeds, or the whole raisin, tasted so bad, as the texture was so awful I wanted to spit it out if I got one in my mouth.

My mother declared that her daughters might as well bring a magnifying glass to the dinner table to identify any small food item they didn't want to eat.

She treated to furnish a list of ingredients for certain dishes that were not clearly identifiable as to ingredients.

But it took no magnifying glass for me to determine when a raisin reached my mouth. If I didn't see it, I could taste it.

The first time I ate at a Mexican food restaurant in Midland, I was appalled when my order was delivered to me. Scattered all over the top were those most detestable of all foods, raisins. Thereafter, I specified: No raisins on my chili rellenos.

Never have I been able to understand why cookie-makers want to ruin a perfectly good oatmeal cookie by lacing raisins through it.

One of my favorite Christmas confections was my grandmother's fruitcake. She made it from an old family recipe, and finished it off with six weeks of regular applications of red wine.

(Just for the record, she always had a family member buy the wine for her. But, one year, she went to the store herself and showed clearly her unfamiliarity with the place. She drove through the wrong end. The clerk had to lean way out the window to deliver the wine and collect the money. The family teased her that the clerk thought she'd already had too much.)

The only trouble with the fruitcake when she made it was the high volume of raisins that went into it, along with a half-dozen other dried and candied fruits. For years, my enjoyment of the cake was tempered by my efforts either to pick out or spit out the raisins.

Now, I'd be hard-pressed to say my grandmother didn't spoil her grandchildren. The first Christmas I came home from college, I found the fruitcake carefully wrapped and exuding that fruity smell. I could hardly wait to bite into a slice, even if I had to pick out the raisins.

But I was spared the chore. When I commented to my grandmother that I couldn't find a raisin and complimented her on leaving the fruit out of the cake, she really surprised me.

"I guess you won't find one. I cut every raisin into tiny pieces with a pair of scissors," she declared.

Stand up for Old Central School

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

Did you or a family member attend school (or teach) in Old Central School?
If so, it's time to take up arms (or pens) and stand up for this fine old structure!
As you know, the Hereford Independent School District has been wrestling for a long time with what to do with that building, since it has been condemned three times and is not fit for use.

- Everyone has moved out, but the building could not be torn down because of the presence of lead-based paint and asbestos.
- Well that is being taken care of right now and trustees and officials have begun trying to figure out what to do next.
- There are a few options:
1. Someone could buy the building and land and attempt to renovate the building for some other purpose.
 2. Someone could buy the building and land, tear down the building and use the land for something else.
 3. The district could tear down the building, sell the bricks to a construction company, and use the land for something else.
 4. The district could tear down the building, sell the bricks to a construction company, and sell the land.

Whatever happens, I really don't see option No. 1 being done.
After all, it would cost scads of money to make the building stable, put in new windows, update the wiring and renovate it.
Which probably means the building is history.
Which brings me to my point.
I hate the idea that Central School could disappear without any reminder left behind of the school and all the children who passed through its doors over the decades it was open.
I would like to suggest that the district consider taking some of the bricks from Old Central and incorporating them into a monument of some type at West Central School, which, as you know, was named in honor of Central School and replaced it.

In fact, bricking the school's sign would be one possibility, then a plaque could be put on the bricks explaining their history.
Another option -- one that would make the district some money -- would be to sell bricks from Old Central (the original ones, not newer bricks put over windows) for $5 each to anyone who wants them. A certificate of authenticity could be printed up to accompany each brick. This would preserve history and make a little money.

Yet another option would be to donate some to the Deaf Smith County Museum. I'm sure as the storehouse of county history, the museum could find some use for bricks -- possibly in conjunction with the school house display in the basement -- that would preserve the Old Central legacy.
Anyway, I hope many of you will join the cause and stand up for Old Central.
Those who attended and taught there are the logical spokesmen for the building.
The building is not salvageable, but that's no reason it should be forgotten.

Editorials from around the State

Fort Worth Star-Telegram on flat tax:
House Majority Leader Dick Armye, R-Texas, is right when he says: "You can't swing a dead catfish in this town (Washington) without hitting the author of a flat-tax plan."
None of these, however, has been so well-advertised and so talked-about and written about as his own flat-tax proposal, which is sort of a last week because the Armye flat tax that was introduced as legislation last week is not the same product that had been promoted. There were major qualms about the original Armye proposal. There should be even greater questions about it now.
Big changes include retaining payroll withholding, allowing smaller personal exemptions - which has the effect of shifting even more of the tax burden to the lower end of the economic middle class (an extra $595 in taxes for a couple with "earned" income of $26,200 or more) - and the requirement that three-fifths of both House and Senate must approve making any change in the system.
For doubters, the big flaw is that most really wealthy Americans would see their federal taxes halved or eliminated entirely while those families relying on "earned" income rather than investments would pay more. This welfare for the rich would surely lead to shenanigans with executive pay so that it would not be counted as "earned" income. Otherwise, it would copy criticisms of current welfare for the poor in that it would pay the rich more not to work (and not be taxed) than it would to have a job.
Flat-tax advocates advertise the idea's "fairness" because there's one rate for everyone. But it is not fairness if one lucky family with a million dollars of investment income pays no tax at all while a working or retired couple with $50,000 income from salaries or pensions pays $4,641.

Amarillo Daily News on Interstate 27:
Civic leaders gathered in Lubbock last week to promote a long-overdue idea: the expansion of Interstate 27.
If I-27 were expanded north and south, it could become one of the major routes for trucking and commerce in the nation. As it stands now, only Interstate 35 connects Texas to Mexico and the northern United States. But I-35 mainly connects Texas to the eastern United States. An expanded I-27 would be ideal for connecting Texas to the West...
A decision isn't due until November, so area officials and business leaders still have time to press hard for expansion.
Area communities are right to promote their own interests, but we should never lose sight of the fact that any expansion is good for the Panhandle. The first priority must be to secure expansion of I-27 north and south. Then the details about whether the northern route would veer west or east of Amarillo can be debated.
There's too much at stake for West Texas leaders not to work together on this issue. If we don't look out for our own interests, who will?

Austin American-Statesman on Texas usury laws:
When the Texas Constitution was drafted it included usury laws for a very good reason: to keep the average Texan from being bilked by unscrupulous creditors.
Today, usury laws include limits on bank and credit card fees and loans. Millions of low-income Texans who rely on check-cashing outlets, however, are not afforded protection. They pay 200 percent to 500 percent more than bank customers for financial transactions, and their minimal wages are eaten up by exorbitant fees...
Without access to credit and caught in a cycle of high interest rates and overpriced outlets - whether at furniture and appliance rental stores, check-cashing outlets or neighborhood grocery stores - many low-income Texans pay more for their basic needs than middle-class families.
They do not have powerful lobbyists to fight for their interests. Nonetheless, they deserve and need protection from usurious practices more than any other segment of our society.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
It's easy to say "thank you," but sometimes those two simple words just aren't enough. As Fr. Darryl Birkenfeld, former pastor of San Jose Catholic Church, leaves Hereford to continue his education in Berkeley, Cal., those of us at San Jose are faced with such a time.
Fr. Birkenfeld shared his time, his love, his talent and, perhaps most importantly, his vision during his years at San Jose. He leaves a legacy that will continue to serve the parishioners of our church and our community for many generations to come. He helped us learn to have our own vision and faith in our own ability to make a better future for ourselves and our children.
As I write, construction continues on the San Jose Community Center, a structure that might never have been possible without Fr. Darryl's drive and determination. The new center will be an asset to the community of Hereford and will help improve the quality of life here for many years to come.
Fr. Darryl helped us to learn how to see that better future. For that we owe him more than can be expressed in a simple "thank you." In the end, I guess it will have to do. Speaking on behalf of his parishioners, I don't think a dictionary holds the words that can express the gratitude we feel.
To Fr. Darryl, we offer our thoughts and prayers as he continues to pursue his Doctor of Philosophy. We know that he will continue to teach the ability to have vision to all he meets.
Janie Alejandre, Chair, San Jose Community Center Administrative Board of the woods and killed the gang.

The writer tell us that this was a gang of teens who lived in Bethel. Once a patriarchal sanctuary, it had become a focus of idolatry. They had no respect for God and the messengers of God.
What can we learn from this today? The gangs and young people of today need the same things as the boys of long ago--a country, town, and family that will help them to know what is right.

Dear Editor:
We are new to the Hereford area and I would like to take this opportunity to say we are happy with Hereford and the people we have met.
Recently we had to take our car into a shop for repairs. A mechanic in Clovis has told us the power steering pump had gone out and it would cost $175 to replace. We took the car to Crofford Automotive on N. 25 Mile Avenue and told them what the other mechanic said.
Instead of just replacing the pump and billing us for the repair, Terry took the time to check the car out. The problem was not what we'd been told and, being the honest person he was, Terry saved us the high cost of repairs.
On a second note, the people in Hereford have an excellent medical staff at Hereford Regional Medical Center. Recently my husband had to get his blood pressure checked on a daily basis while trying to regulate his medication after having a quadruple bypass.
We were there every day and not once did any of the emergency room staff act as though they didn't have time in their busy schedule to take care of him. Even at the end of a busy day, they still had a smile for us and were very professional in their duties.
Thank you, Hereford, for making us feel welcome and at home in your community. There is really "No Place Like Texas!"

Dear Editor:
I would like to share with readers a letter in the Central Church of Christ bulletin. It describes what happened to a gang of kids in the Bible. In II Kings 2:23-24, we read that Elisha was mocked by some young men. He cursed them in the name of the Lord, and bears came out

Skeen-backed bill would speed WIPP opening

By The Associated Press
 A bill that would speed up the opening of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant was approved by a congressional subcommittee Friday after a key Democratic amendment was axed, Rep. Joe Skeen said.
 Skeen, R-N.M., said the measure he sponsored has been sent to the full House Commerce Committee by the Commerce Subcommittee on Energy and Power.
 "This is the first real breakthrough that we've had in the number of years that we've offered this proposal to the Congress," Skeen said.
 He said he wants to work with the Department of Energy, the Environmental Protection Agency and all the committee members to address any concerns before the full committee considers it.
 "I think we can iron out the problems that exist at this time and all the concerns before we go to full committee," he said.
 Committee Chairman Dan Schaefer, R-Colo., said the bill, which he is co-sponsoring with Skeen, "would eliminate much of the red tape associated with getting the WIPP facility operational."
 WIPP is an Energy Department project designed to bury plutonium-contaminated "transuranic" waste from the nation's defense industry 2,150 feet underground in ancient salt beds 26 miles southeast of Carlsbad, N.M.

 The repository has yet to open pending laboratory tests to determine the site's suitability as a permanent storage facility.
 But Skeen's bill gives a target date for opening - March 31, 1997.
 It also would give $20 million to the state of New Mexico upon enactment of the bill rather than when initial waste shipments are received.
 "This provision allows the state sufficient time and resources to address infrastructure improvements before the full disposal operations begin," a Skeen news release says.
 "No additional money is provided to the state."
 Schaefer noted that several provisions of the current statute are obsolete, so the Skeen bill "would conform the law with the reality of the present WIPP program."

Skeen has said his bill would save at least $130 million from 1996 through 2000, plus he said delays in opening WIPP are costing taxpayers $180 million a year plus $400 million a year for continued storage of transuranic waste at the sites which produced the waste.
 The bill would:
 -Reduce the WIPP compliance application's period of EPA review from a year to three months.
 -Eliminate a 180-day waiting period after DOE demonstrates compliance.
 -Exempt WIPP from the non-migration standard in the Resource Conservation and Solid Waste Disposal Act. Currently WIPP is subject to triple regulation, Skeen said, adding that WIPP could save perhaps billions of dollars if it didn't have to impose "unrealistically stringent performance standards

2,000 feet below the surface."
 -Delete retrievability requirements, which mandated a workable plan for removing waste if it turned out that WIPP wasn't suitable. That requirement was tied to a since-scrapped plan to test waste on site. The waste is being tested above ground at Los Alamos National Laboratory.
 Skeen said all this can be done "without compromising the health and safety of New Mexicans and/or the environment."
 Kathy Sabo, executive director of Santa Fe-based Concerned Citizens for Nuclear Safety, called the bill ill-conceived.
 "And we disagree entirely that the health and safety of the citizens of New Mexico and the environment will not be compromised by this," she said late Friday.
 She said the existing schedule has been based on providing ample time for experiments to ensure health and safety.

 "We feel it does put the health and safety of New Mexicans on the back burner in exchange for more immediate compensation for the state," she said.
 She said even the DOE wants EPA to do the certifying at WIPP, and she called the elimination of Markey's amendment "very disturbing."
 Of non-migration, she said the Skeen bill would relax requirements preventing waste from traveling between rooms in the underground repository.

 "The waste would be allowed to migrate," she said. "They wouldn't have to prove that it wouldn't migrate. You could have a volatile situation with radioactive mixing and perhaps entering the water table in some fashion."

Nebraska farmers overwhelmed by large wheat crop

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - You would think news of a bumper crop of wheat would have Nebraska farmers smiling. But not when there isn't enough room in grain elevators and not enough rail cars to ship the grain out for processing.
 "It's an excellent-quality wheat crop," said Mike Pollnow at the Crossroads Cooperative office in Sidney. "It's so good, it's really two years' crop in one year, and the price is 50 cents better than last year. This is the first really bumper wheat crop since 1986."

But all the wheat has Panhandle grain elevators snowed under. Elevator managers, clamoring for rail cars to ship the grain, are turning farmers away. Some wheat is being stored on the ground, where it may be ruined.
 "We gave notice six weeks ago that we were going to need 500 cars in the southern Panhandle and we haven't gotten them," Pollnow told the Omaha World-Herald on Friday.

 One hundred rail cars can haul about 330,000 bushels of wheat - just one-third of what the Crossroads co-op can receive in a day during the peak of the harvest.
 Union Pacific Railroad spokesman Ed Trandahl said the company is working to get cars to the Panhandle this weekend and next week. A spokesman for Burlington Northern Railroad said there were only pockets of demand that BN was not meeting on time.
 More rail cars would be good news to Bart Bondegard, grain department manager at Farmers Elevator Co. in Chappell. The elevator set a single-day record Wednesday by receiving 469,000 bushels of wheat. The previous record was set on Tuesday.
 Said Pollnow: "We're more than halfway full, but we're not halfway through harvest."

McVeigh's sister will testify to grand jury

By JOHN AFFLECK
 Associated Press Writer
 BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - Jennifer McVeigh will testify for the government when she appears before the grand jury investigating the Oklahoma City bombing, sources said Friday.
 "She's cut a deal," a federal law enforcement source told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity. "She's now considered a friendly witness."
 McVeigh, who is thought to share the anti-government views of her brother, bombing suspect Timothy McVeigh, was subpoenaed Thursday and is to testify Wednesday, according to unidentified sources quoted in The Buffalo News.
 FBI agents have questioned Jennifer McVeigh at length since the April 19 explosion that killed 168 people and injured more than 500 more. Her brother and Terry Nichols are the only people charged in the bombing.

 The 21-year-old community college student is believed to have information about her brother's involvement with explosives, his political views and his anger over the government's handling of the Branch Davidian standoff in Waco, Texas, sources told the News.
 The Washington Post reported last month that she told the FBI her brother once asked her to exchange two $100 bills from a bank robbery for smaller denominations. That would bolster investigators' theory that McVeigh supported himself and financed the bombing with robberies.
 The Post's unidentified sources also said she told the FBI that her brother told her he narrowly avoided a car crash last year that could have killed him because he was carrying explosives.

 New opinions are always suspected, and usually opposed, without any other reason but because they are not already common.

Trojans clinch Top 10 finish

The Texas Trojans boys' basketball team clinched a top 10 finish at the national 12-under AAU tournament in Salt Lake City with a 72-61 win Friday over a team from Raleigh, N.C.

The Trojans, a team which includes three Hereford boys and six Amarillo boys, were to wrap up the tournament late Saturday morning against a team from Winston-Salem, N.C. A win would give the Texas team fifth place; a loss would still get it eighth.

The Trojans' three Hereford boys led the victory. Slade Hodges poured in 27 points, while Chayse Rives added 14 points and a team-high 13 rebounds. Cody Hodges scored 10 points, dished out 13 assists and claimed six steals.

Coach Steve Hodges credited the win to the Trojans' pressure defense, adding that each one of Cody's steals was turned into two points by the Texas team. Raleigh's defensive scheme didn't work, though, he said.

"They came out and tried to shut down Cody," said Steve Hodges, "and he was able to get the ball inside, and our post players converted. When they tried to stop Cody, Slade took up the slack."

The coach added that Chayse Rives' double-double was his best game of the tournament.

Football two-a-days start Aug. 9

Can you feel it? Autumn is in the air.

So maybe the temperature needs to drop about 40 degrees before it feels like football weather. The official start of the 1995 high school season is a little more than a month away, but two-a-days practices for Hereford High School players start Aug. 9.

The Herd opens the season at Whiteface Field Sept. 8, when the Tascosa Rebels come calling. All of the Herd's regular season games are scheduled for Fridays. Hereford will host five games and go on the road for five games, including three road trips that loom large: district meetings at Randall, at Borger and at Pampa.

Two magazines, Dave Campbell's Texas Football and Athlon, pick Hereford to finish third in District 1-4A. Both publications agree on picking Borger to win with its many returning starters, with Pampa finishing second. Randall, which lost many seniors last year, is tabbed fourth by both.

Hereford coach Danny Haney has announced the dates for the Herd's two pre-season scrimmages. Hereford's juniors and seniors will play at Plainview Aug. 25. The varsity will be picked the next week, and it will host Amarillo High for another scrimmage Sept. 1. Times for both scrimmages will be set later.

Jubilee to feature many sports

The upcoming Hereford Town and Country Jubilee will feature several different activities for the athletic-minded, including a volleyball tournament, a basketball tournament and the annual Greg Black Memorial 10 kilometer race.

--The Town and Country Jubilee Sand Volleyball Tournament will start at noon Saturday at the Hereford Aquatic Center, which is scheduled to open that day. Championship matches will be played Aug. 12. Teams will be two-person, with three separate divisions for men, women and co-ed. A substitute player may be registered in case of injury.

This will be a single-elimination tournament. Matches will be best two-out-of-three. Games will be played to 10 points, with a time limit of 20 minutes (except for championship matches). Top prizes are one-month family passes for each player on the championship teams.

The deadline for entry is Monday, and registration must be done between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Aquatic Center. The entry fee is $10 per team.

Just before the two-man tournament begins, there will be a four-man tournament among Hereford governmental agencies, charitable organizations and media outlets. That tournament starts at 10:30 a.m., with a match between Hereford Brand employees and radio station KPAN.

George Halas coached the Chicago Bears in 40 seasons, four 10-year segments.

--The Town and Country Jubilee 3-on-3 basketball tournament will be held Aug. 12-13. Participants are limited to boys and girls entering the 6th-9th grades. A $40 per team entry fee guarantees three games.

For more information, call 364-5375, 364-8002 or 364-8408.

--The Greg Black Memorial 10-K

Run will start at 8 a.m. Aug. 12 in front of the Hereford YMCA. The race also includes a two-mile fun run and a two-mile walk. For more information, call the YMCA at 364-6990.

Cone, Bonilla, Tartabull all switch teams Friday

By CHRIS SHERIDAN

AP Sports Writer. The long-rumored Bobby Bonilla, Danny Tartabull and David Cone deals happened more than 72 hours before the trading deadline. The trades of Jim Abbott, Ken Hill and Rick Aguilera preceded them.

That left one glaring question: Who's next?

Bret Saberhagen? Bobby Witt? Jeff Fassero? Joe Carter? Jeff King? David Wells? Kevin Tapani? Jeff Kent?

All are often-heard names in the rumor mill sweeping through baseball, and many could become someone else's property before midnight Monday. That's the deadline for trading a player without having to put him through waivers.

"I've made a couple of 11:58 p.m. trades, so you never know," New York Mets general manager Joe McIlvaine said while announcing the trade of Bonilla to Baltimore. The Mets received highly touted prospect Alex Ochoa in return, along with outfielder Damon Buford, who was hitting .309 at Class AAA Rochester and was expected to be in the Mets' lineup tonight.

Bonilla gives the Orioles the powerful cleanup hitter they've lacked all year. He was hitting .325 with 18 homers and 53 RBIs for the Mets - the worst team in the National League.

In an exchange of disgruntled sluggers having poor years, Tartabull was traded from the New York Yankees to the Oakland Athletics for Ruben Sierra and a minor leaguer.

"You don't always feel good about being traded, but you have to do what is best for you," Sierra said. "On the Yankees, they have a chance. They're only (4 1/2 games out) and they got David Cone today. The team is going to be stronger."

New York got Cone, the 1994 AL Cy Young Award winner, from the Toronto Blue Jays in exchange for three young minor league pitchers - Marty Janzen, Jason Jarvis and Mike Gordon - who have never been above Class AA.

"By the move today, they (Blue Jays management) probably feel it's an unlikely scenario that we find our way to a wild card spot or a division title this year, and they probably felt that they owed it to the fans to start rebuilding the team," Toronto's Paul Molitor said.

The flurry of activity - all within the space of about two hours - meant that six of the eight AL teams contending for playoff spots have made significant additions in the past three weeks.

On Thursday, Abbott was traded from Chicago to California and Hill was dealt from St. Louis to Cleveland.

Braves rally for win; Astros lose to Padres

By The Associated Press

For any team playing the Atlanta Braves, the ninth inning is no time to relax.

For the 17th time this season, the Braves won a game in the ninth inning, beating San Francisco 6-2 Friday night on the strength of a five-run final frame.

In other NL games, it was Chicago over Philadelphia 4-0, Florida over St. Louis 6-0, Colorado over Montreal 8-3, Pittsburgh over New York 10-9, Cincinnati over Los Angeles 3-2 and San Diego over Houston 3-2.

The Braves' latest comeback came against Giants closer Rod Beck, who holds the major league record of 41 straight successful saves. But he couldn't hold a 2-1 lead and blew his eighth save opportunity this season and fourth in five games.

Grissom walked leading off, stole second, went to third on Jeff Blauser's groundout and scored on Chipper Jones' single through a drawn-in infield to tie the game.

Jones tagged up and went to second on Fred McGriff's fly out to deep right, then scored the go-ahead run on David Justice's single for a 3-2 lead. With Beck gone after Justice stole second and Ryan Klesko drew an intentional walk, Javy Lopez hit a three-run homer off Scott Service to cap the five-run outburst.

Cubs 4, Phillies 0

Todd Zeile's two-run single led a three-run first inning as Chicago beat Philadelphia.

It was the major league's first game with the new speed-up rules being enforced, and the game was played in 2 hours, 23 minutes.

Frank Castillo (7-5) pitched into the seventh inning, and Randy Myers pitched one-third of an inning for his 24th save.

Bobby Munoz (0-1), in his second start of the season, pitched six innings, gave up four runs on five hits and walked four.

Padres 3, Astros 2

Jocly Hamilton broke a personal three-game losing streak as San Diego defeated Houston.

Hamilton (4-5) allowed 10 hits, walked two and struck out five. One of the two runs he allowed was unearned. Trevor Hoffman recorded the final out for his 17th save.

Shane Reynolds (6-6) had his career-high four-game winning streak snapped.

The host Padres scored two runs in the sixth to take the lead. Ex-Astro Steve Finley had an RBI double and Jody Reed had an RBI groundout.

Marlins 6, Cardinals 0

Chris Hammond pitched seven shutout innings and Terry Pendleton and Tommy Gregg homered to lead Florida over St. Louis.

Hammond (7-3) allowed three hits in seven innings, striking out five and walking two at Joe Robbie Stadium.

Rockies 8, Expos 3

Larry Walker hit his league-leading 23rd homer in his return to Montreal, helping Colorado halt a three-game skid.

Walker matched his career-best in homers, set with the Expos in 1992. Joe Girardi went 3-for-5 with one RBI and three runs scored as Colorado used an 11-hit attack to beat Montreal for the fifth straight time this season.

Colorado roughed up rookie right-hander Ugueth Urbina (2-2), who allowed six runs on seven hits in 3 1/3 innings. Kevin Ritz (9-5) was the winner.

Pirates 10, Mets 9

Nelson Liriano scored the game-winning run on a fielding error in the ninth inning as Pittsburgh snapped a six-game losing streak by winning at New York.

Liriano tied the game with an RBI single off Mets closer John Franco (4-2), then scored when left fielder Joe Orsulak misplayed his hit.

Jim Gott (2-3) pitched two innings of relief for the victory as the Pirates rallied from five runs down to hand the Mets their sixth straight loss.

Reds 3, Dodgers 2

John Smiley retired the last 22 batters he faced for his 100th career victory as Cincinnati beat Los Angeles on solo homers by Bret Boone and Jeff Branson.

Smiley (10-1) shut down the Dodgers after falling behind 2-0 on a two-out RBI single by Eric Karros in the first inning. The left-hander struck out nine and walked none in eight innings.

Jeff Brantley finished up for his 20th save.

Tom Candiotti (5-9) had a 2-1 lead with two outs in the sixth at Dodger Stadium when Boone tied the score with his 13th homer. Branson led off the seventh with his seventh homer to put Cincinnati ahead.

Maddux, Alicea spark Boston over Rangers; Twins edge Yankees, 5-3

By VINCENT CINISOMO

Associated Press Writer

While Boston's AL East pursuers brought in big stars to close the gap, the Red Sox are using their bargain-basement buys to stay in front.

The second-place Baltimore Orioles acquired slugging switch-hitter Bobby Bonilla, and the third-place New York Yankees got starter David Cone and power-hitting Ruben Sierra on Friday.

But the Red Sox got a solid start from NL castoff Mike Maddux in place of Roger Clemens, and two homers from light-hitting Luis Alicea to beat Texas 6-2 and stay 4 1/2 games ahead of the Orioles, and move 5 1/2 ahead of New York.

In other games, the Orioles kept pace with Boston by beating Chicago 4-3; New York lost to Minnesota 5-3; Toronto shut out Oakland 3-0; Kansas City nipped Detroit 4-3; California routed Milwaukee 13-6; and Cleveland edged Seattle 6-5.

Maddux, normally a reliever and the older brother of perennial Cy Young winner Greg, had a strong outing in place of Clemens, out because of a sore elbow. Maddux allowed only an unearned run and two hits in 5 2/3 innings to send Texas to its 11th loss in 12 games.

"Maddux pitched like his brother," Texas' Otis Nixon said. "I kept yelling at him that his name was Mike, not Greg. He was tough."

"Maddux was outstanding," Boston manager Kevin Kennedy said. "He did everything we hoped he would and a little bit more."

Maddux (2-1) signed in May after being released by Pittsburgh. Rheal Cormier and Stan Belinda finished.

Alicea homered batting left-handed against Scott Taylor in the first, and homered right-handed off reliever Terry Burrows in the seventh inning. It was his first multiple-homer game and the first time in 22 years a Red Sox player homered from both sides of the plate. Reggie Smith accomplished the feat four times, with the last coming on April 16, 1973.

Twins 5, Yankees 3

Dan Masteller hit his first major league home run, a two-run shot with none out in the ninth inning, as host Minnesota beat New York.

Masteller, who also had a two-run single in the fourth inning, hit the first pitch from Jack McDowell (8-7) after Matt Walbeck walked.

Kevin Tapani (6-11) got his second straight victory and his second complete game of the season.

Earlier, the Yankees traded three minor league pitchers to Toronto for Cone, and sent Danny Tartabull to Oakland for Sierra.

Blue Jays 3, Athletics 0

Al Leiter pitched 6 1/3 shutout innings before leaving with a blister, and Ed Sprague hit a two-run homer as Toronto beat Oakland in SkyDome.

Leiter (7-6) struck out a season-high eight and walked just one.

Todd Van Poppel (1-3) pitched 7 1/3 innings, allowing seven hits and three runs.

Orioles 4, White Sox 3

Baltimore obtained Bonilla, then beat visiting Chicago.

Mike Mussina allowed two runs and six hits in seven innings to become the first 12-game winner in the major leagues. Mussina (12-5) is 7-0 in his last eight starts since June 18.

Rafael Palmeiro and Gregg Zaun homered for the Orioles, who got Bonilla from the New York Mets for minor league outfielders Alex Ochoa and Damon Buford.

Royals 4, Tigers 3

Gary Gaetti scored on David Howard's squeeze bunt with one out in the eighth inning as host Kansas City beat Detroit.

Jeff Montgomery (1-1) gave up the tying run in the eighth inning, but pitched the ninth for the win.

Tigers reliever John Doherty (5-5) took the loss.

Angels 13, Brewers 6

Chili Davis and Tim Salmon hit three-run homers and rookie Garret Anderson had four hits and four RBIs as visiting California routed Milwaukee.

Mark Langston (10-1) gave up three earned runs on nine hits in 6 1/3 innings and matched his career high by winning his seventh straight decision.

Indians 6, Mariners 5

Ruben Amaro's RBI single in the eighth inning scored Jim Thome and gave Cleveland the victory at Seattle.

Eric Plunk (5-1) won the game in relief after the Indians squandered a 5-2 lead in the seventh.

Sprinter hopes for change in Olympic schedule

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer
WACO, Texas (AP) - Michael Johnson's most difficult challenge this summer isn't on the track, where he is simply the world's most prolific sprinter.

For Johnson, his toughest test is coming from track and field officials determined to abide by an Olympic Games schedule that does not favor his quest to make history.

Johnson is asking organizers of next summer's games to rearrange the order of events so there will be enough time between the 200- and 400-meter races to better allow him to compete in both.

As the first runner ever ranked No. 1 in the world in both events at the same time, and he's done that three times (1990, 1991, 1994), Johnson is the only person qualified to make such a request.

With each milestone, Johnson makes it more conceivable that he could be the first man to get the 200-400 Olympic sweep.

Yet, the closer he seems, the further he gets.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, which sets the schedule, last month went as far as it will go by adding 55 minutes between the 200 semifinals and the 400 finals, leaving a gap of 2 hours, 35 minutes.

The change wasn't made very pleasantly. IAAF president Primo Nebiolo scoffed that the extra time would allow Johnson to "run easily, easily. If he runs backwards, he can still do it."

Before a recent workout at his alma mater Baylor University, Johnson cracked a smile when Nebiolo's line was mentioned. He later became locked in his trademark scowl as he spoke more of the controversy.

Johnson gets annoyed because, to him, it just makes sense to have the 400 completed before beginning the 200, giving him the best possible chance to chase history.

"I want the two events separated," said Johnson, who at 27 is in peak mental and physical condition. "It doesn't matter to me how they do it. I've seen the schedule and it is very much doable."

Johnson pointed out that events don't overlap at the U.S. championships or at the World Championships in Goteborg, Sweden. The worlds even have a rest day between the 200 and 400 despite fewer days in the overall meet than the Olympics.

"That shows it can be done," Johnson adds.

Since 1990, Johnson's been the world's most dominant runner at 200 meters and 400 meters.

Johnson drove that point home last month when he became the first person this century to win U.S. titles in both events.

His wind-aided time of 19.83 seconds in the 200 was the world's fastest this year; his 20.04 in a preliminary race was the year's best legal time. Johnson's winning time in the 400 (43.66) was the best ever run on a U.S. track and the fourth-best anywhere.

As if those times alone weren't impressive enough, consider that Johnson is the first person ever to break 20 seconds in the 200 and 44 seconds in the 400 in the same meet. This is the third time he's done it in the same year, something no one else has ever done even once.

Not bad for a guy from Dallas who wasn't even the best runner on his high school team, was criticized for being ranked No. 1 without a major championship (he's since won six national crowns and two world titles) and was said to have poor form. His running style now is being compared to Jesse Owens.

"I've had a lot of battles," Johnson said. "That's just part of being at the top. I've gotten used to it now. That makes it challenging. That makes it tough. That makes it fun."

The IAAF is making life anything but fun for Johnson. The organization is partly leaning on tradition as a crutch for its reasoning.

Johnson isn't buying it and his coach, Clyde Hart, reminded that there also used to be a tradition of Olympians being amateurs. Today, almost everyone who breaks the tape is a millionaire.

"They're also saying other athletes may want to request a change," Johnson said. "I can't accept that. If it was something one of the sponsors or television had a problem with, then I could understand that because it is a business. But that's not the case."

It seems strange that track's worldwide governing body is being so difficult with its brightest star.

It also doesn't make sense for the IAAF to pass on the storyline of Johnson, who missed a shot at 200 gold in 1992 because of food poisoning, coming home to the United States and racing for history in two events.

The publicity would be a natural boost for a sagging sport and Johnson could emerge as one of the stars of the Games much like Carl Lewis was in Los Angeles in 1984.

But apparently, Johnson's only hope to pressure the IAAF would be to get Olympic sponsors to throw their substantial weight behind his cause.

Although he wears Nike apparel, the company has been pretty silent about Johnson's fight. Yet, with its creative marketing and big budget, Nike could still lend its influence. Johnson likes the idea of a fan letter-writing campaign.

The final and likely most persuasive voice could come from NBC. Johnson admits he's already considering making a plea to them.

"There are a lot of people who want to see me trying to do something no one has ever done," said Johnson, who can add pressure himself by pulling off the double at the worlds. "There also are a lot of people who will want to see me be unsuccessful. Regardless, they want to watch. That's good for the Olympics."

Johnson says he hasn't thought about which event he would skip in the event his bid is unsuccessful.

But if the schedule remains overlapping, the 400 seems a logical choice. Johnson has won more than 40 straight races at that distance.

Either way, one high-profile race likely will be run without the person most capable of winning it, a notion that seems to oppose the Olympic ideal of showcasing the world's best athletes.

"It's not like he's an overnight wonder who has all of a sudden become good at two events and wants the Olympic schedule changed," Hart said. "It's a case where Michael has proven himself for five years as being the top guy in two events. Certainly, I think that bears consideration to allow him to try and get Olympic gold."

It's not easy sharing name with superstar

By DAVID KLIGMAN
Associated Press Writer
VISALIA, Calif. (AP) - It's not easy being Nolan Ryan's son or Barry Bonds' brother.

Reid Ryan and Bobby Bonds Jr., teammates on the Class A Visalia Oaks, are learning the hard way that having the pedigree of the game's greatest strikeout pitcher or three-time MVP doesn't guarantee equal success.

"I'm proud to be Nolan Ryan's son, but sometimes I wish opposing players and fans didn't know it," Reid Ryan says.

Bonds, a Kansas City product, and Ryan, owned by Texas, were sent to the independent Oaks this season to work on their fundamentals. Visalia has become a hodgepodge of struggling minor leaguers and Japanese players, many of them clinging to jobs in professional baseball.

The comparisons between the younger Ryan and his father are inevitable, and why not? Reid Ryan wears No. 34 like his dad, speaks in a Texas drawl and has the same high-kick windup.

The most obvious difference, and the one Reid Ryan is forever being compared to as a pitcher, is velocity. His fastball has been clocked in the mid-80s, a far cry from Nolan Ryan's 100 mph delivery that made him legendary.

But Reid Ryan complained that it's not fair to compare him with a future Hall of Famer who struck out 5,714 batters and pitched seven no-hitters in a 27-year career.

"You can take Roger Clemens and you can't compare him to my dad," he says. "Guys just aren't going to play as long, they're never going to throw as hard. The stats my dad put up are some of the all-time greats."

Ryan was a 17th round draft pick by the Rangers out of Texas Christian University last year. He pitched well at Hudson Valley with a 2.90 ERA in the short season Class A league and played for Class A Charleston, S.C., this spring where he was 0-4 with a 9.38 ERA.

"This has been the toughest year I've ever had," Ryan says. "This year at Charleston couldn't have been more of a disaster. I lost the feeling for all my pitches. I just needed a change."

Texas agreed and sent him to Visalia so he could play for manager Lyle Yates, Reid Ryan's pitching coach at Hudson Valley.

Ryan's first start for Visalia on Tuesday wasn't a memorable one. He lost the game, giving up three runs in three innings, in a 5-2 loss. He had a wild pitch, hit a batter, and most of his outs were hard-hit fly balls.

Yates says Ryan can be a good pitcher as long as he understands he will never throw like his father.

"He's going to have to get there in a style different than his father," Yates says. "And he knows that. If he thought he was going to get to the majors like his dad, he'd be setting himself up for a lot of disappointment."

Bonds has the same quiet voice as his brother and even wears an earring. But that's where the similarity ends.

Although he leads the Oaks in stolen bases, the younger Bonds has struggled at the plate during most of his four years with seven minor-league teams. This season he's hitting .216.

While Bobby Bonds Jr. may not hit like his MVP brother, his aloofness with the media is similar. Before Tuesday's game against High Desert, Bonds refused all interviews.

"He says it's always the same thing, the same questions, the same answers," Oaks spokesman E.J. Gautreau says. "He's been around a lot of major leaguers. I guess he's got an ego like one of them."

Yates eventually convinced Bonds to spare a few minutes with reporters. Bonds complained that he gets tired of constantly being put to the same standards as his brother and father, former Giants star Bobby Bonds.

"You can't live up to your dad's name," says Bonds, 25. "You can't live up to your brother's name. You've got to do the best you can with what God gave you."

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: In our town, we cannot recycle brown paper bags from the supermarket.

I have two birds, and rather than spend money on bottom liners for the cage, I use the paper bags by cutting them round to fit. I can get three liners from one bag, saving money and putting the bags to a good use. — Roz, Monmouth, N.J.

Burt is speaker for Fellowship

Hereford Flame Fellowship will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Using paper grocery bags for the bottom of your bird cage is a great recycling hint. It's always good to reuse things before disposing of them. Thanks for sharing. — Heloise

Guest speaker will be Pastor Paula Burt of Burk Burnett. She and her husband Danny co-pastor Agape Church in Burk Burnett.

SAVE CONTAINERS
Dear Heloise: I make use of empty baby-food jars by putting nails and different kinds of screws in them.

Burt is principal and a teacher at Burk Burnett Christian School. She is a graduate of Midwestern University, Rhema Bible Training Center, and is currently a graduate student at Oral Roberts University.

Also I find that containers that hold baby towelettes are useful when empty. I peel the labels off, wash the containers real well and use them to store the baby's diaper pins, barrettes, comb and brush, etc.

She is vice president of Women Ministers International and is a frequent speaker to women's groups, seminars and revivals.

Since the containers are pink and blue, they look nice in the baby's room. — Nellie Carrillo, Dexter, N.M.

Those containers are great for lots of things even as your baby grows. They've been used for small parts of games, miniature cars, blocks and crayons, and they're terrific to use in the garage for all little items. — Heloise

Recipes for Canning

The most frequent calls during canning season are requests for canning recipes. This presents an opportunity to issue several cautions. Grandmother's canning recipes should not be used. Times for pressuring and water bathing preservation have changed. To follow the new guidelines one may pick up the free bulletins provided by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Ask for L-2216, Home Canning Fruits and Tomatoes, L-2215, Freezing Fruits and Vegetables.

To obtain specific recipes, a current canning book should be purchased. The major manufacturers of jars and lids usually have current recipe books available. It is important that your book be no more than two years old. Very important time changes for processing foods changed about that time.

How can one use a time-favored salsa, chow chow recipe etc.? Comparing ingredients with current recipes and adjusting for the same acidity content of those ingredients and adjusting time increases per new guidelines should assist one in this endeavor.

General changes in canning have included:

-Do not mash or puree pumpkins, or winter squash. Cube and process. Pureed mixture prevents the heat from adequately processing.

-Tomatoes may be water bathed. However, an acidification process is recommended for all types of tomatoes. This insures that tomatoes have adequate acidity to prevent spoilage. To acidify add two tablespoons of bottled lemon juice or 1/2 teaspoon of citric acid per quart of tomatoes. If needed, a small amount of sugar added to the tomatoes will offset the acid taste. Crushed tomatoes must be processed 45 and 55 minutes respectively for pints and quarts. Whole tomatoes must be processed 95 minutes for both pints and quarts. This represents a dramatic increase in processing times.

-The other significant change includes water bath times for pickles or relishes and jam or jellies. All of these items should be water bathed. No more paraffin topping or jellies and no more hot pack only for pickles and relishes. All of these items require two piece lids and rings and processing of water bath times for 15 to 20 minutes. Specific times can be verified by calling the Extension Office at 364-3573.

The rule of "better safe than sorry" holds true with preservation of food. Remember that older folks and young children do not have adequate immune system and a small amount of spoiled food can be life threatening.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sure your readers will be interested in a follow-up on the strange saga of Dr. Raymond Sattler, the Wilmington, N.C., brain surgeon who left his patient on the operating table for 25 minutes with her head cut open while he went to get a snack. You wrote about this several weeks ago.

According to Scott Whisnant, a writer for the Wilmington Morning Star, there is a sign on Dr. Sattler's office door that says, "This practice is closed."

Dr. Sattler lost his license to practice in November 1994 and got it back in April of this year but was unable to regain his privileges to operate in either of the two hospitals in Wilmington.

In 1992, Dr. Sattler's medical malpractice insurance was canceled after he was hit with nine lawsuits. He found another insurance carrier six weeks later and resumed practicing.

Mary Jo Ridenour, the woman who was left on the operating table with her brain exposed, suffered a stroke during the surgery and has not been the same since. Her family cannot say for sure that Dr. Sattler's unorthodox behavior caused the problem, but after the operation, he announced that he was "off the case" and took a leave of absence.

The medical board suspended Dr. Sattler's license two months later.

The suspension order cited allegations that Dr. Sattler had instructed a nurse to drill holes in a patient's head and the he had become weak and confused during surgery and asked a nurse to start intravenous fluids on him after he nearly passed out.

Meanwhile, nurses at Cape Fear Memorial Hospital signed a "letter of concern" citing that Dr. Sattler was late for surgery and his tardiness sometimes caused patients to spend extra time under anesthesia while waiting for him.

Dr. Sattler's license was restored in April, but he was ordered to have psychiatric and medical evaluations periodically. However, when Dr. Sattler notified the New Hanover Regional Hospital that he wanted his operating privileges restored, 40 operating-room employees responded with a petition opposing him.

Physicians who defended Dr. Sattler's leaving the surgical patient on the table said it is essential during long operations to go to the bathroom and for food, but the quick rebuttal from others was "In such cases, you leave another physician in charge, not nurses."

Between the Covers

By JOE WEAVER

With Summer Reading Club over and school not yet begun, you would think this would be a quiet time at the library. We probably don't have as many patrons as usual, but that just means we have the chance to do some "housekeeping" that can't be done any other time. Along with the cleaning and rearranging comes "weeding" -- removing books that are badly damaged or are no longer useful. You may be surprised that a repository of information such as the Deaf Smith County Library finds it necessary useful to weed, but I am surprised at the number of books (out of 70,000 barcoded items) that are never checked out or used in-house. I am also surprised at some of the "serendipity" things I find.

This week the Western and Reference sections felt the axe. Many of the westerns were never intended to last this long, being printed on poor quality paper and cheaply bound. We saved the classics, of course, like Louis L'Amour and Zane Gray. The Virginian is what might be called a "definitive" western, setting the style for thousands to come after, but did you know that Owen Wister wrote several others which no one has ever heard of. Some of them may show up in the Friends of the Library Fall Book Sale. (By the way -- what famous phrase, common in later movies and spoofs first appeared in The Virginian? Answer given later.)

The Reference section really needs to be weeded more often than it is. We found some really old and useless stuff there. We didn't get rid of all of it, but we did make a big enough dent that we can add to our existing large print shelving. Most people use the reference section for quick answers: look in a PDR to find the side-effects of a pill... find a specific ZIP code number... track down a poem by its first or last line. BU" there are lots of impressive, authoritative, informative and just plain fun books there, too.

For example: Darkest Hours - an encyclopedia of worldwide disasters from ancient times to the present. Obviously, such disasters as the Chicago Fire and San Francisco earthquake are covered, but hundreds are detailed with a brief synopsis of hundreds more.

Comparisons - OK... you know the size of a Chevy Suburban compared to a Ford Explorer, but did you know that the Hindenburg airship was longer than two Saturn V rockets? Or that a Greyhound bus weighs approximately 1.9 elephants? Or that, if the size of the sun is compared to a man, earth would be about the size of the iris of his eye? A fascinating book, assisted by excellent diagrams.

Film Facts - With a 1980 copyright, this volume is a little dated (especially regarding the top moneymakers, etc.) but much of the information is still good.

The Photographic History of the Civil War - Just because you've seen Civil War collections before, don't think you've seen everything in this 5-volume set. Originally produced in the early part of this century, this reproduction contains thousands of photographs relating to the Civil War.

....and finally...

The Book of Answers - Answers to the most unusual and entertaining questions handled by the New York Public Library's telephone reference service. How did Europe get its name? Why is black the color of mourning in the western world? Where did the Chipmunks -- Alvin, Simon, and Theodore -- get their names? Sorry, you'll have to look it up!

YOUR EYES

WHEN EYES WATER

We depend on tears to lubricate and cleanse our eyes, but older people sometimes experience excessive tearing. For most of them, the condition may be mildly annoying, for others more serious, depending on the amount of fluid produced and the reason for it.

Optometric examination can determine whether the problem is excess tear production or tear drainage from the corner of the eye. At the same time, the optometrist will look for the basic cause for the excess tearing. It might be anything from an eye infection, a foreign body in the eye, nasal or dental problems, a blocked tear gland, an uncorrected vision problem that causes continual eye strain, or even a general health problem. Most often, the eye doctor can offer relief.

If it is determined that excessive tearing in an older person is eye- or health-related, both examination and treatment should be covered by Medicare.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

As we are enjoying these last days of summer vacation and you parents have become even more aware of "the emotionally intense ages of adolescence -- 13 to 15 --", we'd like to offer the following suggestions to help in the survival, for parents and teachers, of the teens' transition towards adulthood:

- try not to take their moods personally.
- break through their walls with humor and games.
- have adult conversations.
- treat them as adults, but expect them to act like children.
- compliment them on their mature moments.
- don't expect them to be part parent to younger siblings.
- think of creative ways for them to pay off mistakes.
- cut them some slack; don't confront each behavioral infraction.
- do not give up.
- don't build your lives around your teen-agers.
- visit with other parents, (and teachers), and agree to not discuss the children for at least two hours.
- parents, go for rides to get away from the house and the teen-agers in a few years they will be doing that to you.
-borrowed from Barry McCarty, a Houston therapist.

Supply lists should be out within the next two weeks, so before you become victim to those "back to school" sales and have purchased unneeded supplies, do wait until you see the official list.

Can you be as philosophical as the old lady from Vermont who said that the best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time? Perhaps that can at least be "food for thought."

Becky's Camp Site

By Becky Camp

The big day is finally here. All the preparations have been made. All the invitations have been sent. All the decorating has been done. All the food has been prepared -- or has it?

How many people are actually going to show up? Is there enough food? Is there too much? How can you know?

Well, you would know if those people who received invitations engraved R.S.V.P. (or Please Reply) had actually responded to let you know if they planned to attend.

How many of us are guilty of ignoring that request on an invitation? Maybe we are not sure if we plan to attend or not, so we just put the invitation aside with good intentions of responding when we make up our minds. But somehow we just never get around to it.

Or maybe we just think, "I'm only one person. It won't matter that much whether I show up or not."

But it does matter to the person planning the event. What if every person who receives an invitation has the same idea you do and NO ONE responds? Then what does the hostess do? What do you do if you are the hostess? Think about it from that perspective.

It requires a lot of time for the hostess to call or contact every person who gets an invitation. It should not be necessary. But how else can she plan accurately?

Planning a party, wedding or any event where food is served is a big job. There are numerous details to be worked out that require knowing how many people will be there. An accurate count makes the job much easier.

Responding to an invitation is simple and it is proper. It shows that you are considerate of the hostess, just as you would expect consideration if you were the one sending the invitations.

R.S.V.P. is a small thing that can make a big difference. Please consider that the next time you receive an invitation that requests a reply.

SUCCESS IS A RESULT

I've never met a person who had absolutely no desire to succeed. However, I've met an awful lot of folks who have not yet achieved any great measure of success. The actual reasons for this are as varied as the many definitions of success itself.

Some folks define success as raising a family and securing their children's education. Some measure success by the size of their home, car or bank account. Others define it as "being out of debt." Still others consider their life a successful venture if they have helped others. While I will not attempt to define success for you, I would like to help you get started in the pursuit of it.

In observing the lives of those I consider successful, I've found some common factors. When these factors are in evidence, success is the result.

Study the lives of those you feel have achieved a measure of success. Compare their efforts to the six prerequisite factors of success listed below. I believe you'll agree there is a distinctive correlation. Our actions always bring results. Whether the results are what we want is up to us.

Reaping results

• Success is the result of thinking. Careful consideration of conditions, facts and opinions is the root source of success. Thinking opens the door of discovery to let in the light of reason. You can solve problems, discover opportunities and chart a course toward your goals with clear thinking.

You can add power to your thinking by focusing on the positive. Zero in on what you can do, rather than dwelling on what you cannot.

• Success is the result of planning. Planning is the process of determining where we are now, deciding where we want to go and then filling in the steps to get from here to there. Proverbs 21:5 says, "The plans of the diligent lead surely to abundance."

Planning sets your thoughts in concrete. Your plan then becomes the foundation you build upon.

• Success is the result of beginning. Thinking and planning are factors in your success, but only when you begin. To begin any journey, you must take the first step. You can only draw nearer your goals by starting toward them.

Success is achieved by those who begin. Beginning allows you to implement your plans. Many fail at this stage because they think, dream and create a plan, but never begin. • Success is the result of perseverance. Many folks think and plan. A smaller group of people actually begin. Fewer still persevere to the end.

Success is the result of trying, trying and trying again. Many are content to stop short of their best effort. Their results may be acceptable, but never successful.

• Success is the result of managing time and priorities. This success step is where you reap the seeds of good planning. Careful planning establishes an order of importance for all we do. Managing time requires that we do the most important work first.

Since priorities change daily, planning must go on continually. Every day our first task should be to determine the highest priorities. Then we can focus our time on getting the most important work done.

• Success is the result of productivity, not activity. We do not achieve success by being busy. We achieve it by accomplishing meaningful results. Webster's dictionary defines result as "the consequence or outcome of action."

When we direct our efforts with good planning, prioritize our tasks in order of importance and persevere until we achieve the desired outcome, we have achieved success. Success is not the end of the journey, but rather the marking of the mile posts as we travel toward our long-term goals.

Question/Answer

Q. - Our home has an older gas-fired hot-water boiler, with a pressure regulator and a relief valve to maintain the proper water pressure. A 30-gallon cylindrical tank is slung horizontally from the ceiling over the boiler, and connected to the main hot-water line.

A. - The tank is an expansion tank and not an emergency water source. The water feed line to the boiler, with its pressure-reducing valve, will automatically feed water at the required pressure (12 to 15 psi) whenever makeup water is needed. In a hot-water heating system the distribution pipes, radiators and boiler are a closed circuit completely filled with water.

The additional volume of water flows into the expansion tank where it presses against a cushion of air - or in newer systems, against a diaphragm. Without an expansion tank in the system, expanding water would cause the pressure-relief valve to discharge.

Local feedyard installs state-of-the-art system

By SHELLY SCHILLING
Staff Writer

Reducing flying dirt is not the only reason for installing a dust suppression system at a new cattle-feeding facility.

Diverse and innovative techniques are also needed to decrease cattle respiratory problems and to increase feed consumption.

A local group is in the process of doing just that. In the new feeding operation, Beef Tech, Inc.

The new feedyard, located north of town will be equipped with a state-of-the-art dust suppression system that will help control the dirt that can cause many animal and environmental problems.

Beef Tech, with a 21,000-head capacity, will be the first facility in this area to incorporate the new dust control procedure.

Jim Nicholson and his investors teamed up with Silver Creek Irrigation of Picabo, Idaho, to customize a dust suppression system especially for the new feedlot.

Silver Creek was founded by Nick and Randy Purdy, who are experienced cattle feeders in the Idaho Valley. The pair began their irrigation company for agricultural purposes, but have implemented the dust control systems for many feeding operations. Their customers have been mainly in northwestern United States.

The system is used to decrease dust, respiratory problems, eye and skin diseases, airborne illnesses between animals, dust clouds that create problems for employees, and it is also an important environmental management tool.

The system consists of 15-foot risers centered in the cattle-working alley between feeding pens.

On each riser a Nelson sprinkler gun is positioned. In each row of pens there are from nine to 11 sprinkler guns.

At Beef Tech, there are four rows of nine sprinklers, one row of 11 sprinklers, and five sprinklers positioned at the receiving pens. Each sprinkler has the capacity of producing a 425-foot stream of water and can cover two pens at a time.

Completely controlled by computer, two sprinklers run simultaneously for about one hour, according to Nicholson. When that cycle is complete, another two sprinklers automatically start their cycle.

The computer system is capable of communicating with up to 28 field controllers and also can monitor the irrigation and pond levels.

It is used as a self-diagnostic tool. It can monitor itself and tell the operator where problems are found.

The system is capable of dispensing two inches of water on the pens each time it is in operation.

Not only does the dust control cut down on dust-related problems of cattle, such as Enterotoxemia and bloat, but it also helps cool cattle during hot months.

Because cattle have very few sweat glands, the cooling effects of the water can increase feed consumption by making the cattle more comfortable.

If cattle are more comfortable in the evening hours (the time at which most cattle eat), they are more likely to have a better weight gain.

Most area feedyards have some type of dust control operation. These, however, usually consist of water trucks or moveable irrigation sprinklers.

The new system is less labor intensive and can be installed in existing facilities, said Pat Gallagher of Gallagher and Son Co., which laid the irrigation line for the new operation.

The new Beef Tech facility will be up and running in early September, according to Jim Nicholson.

"We hope to decrease the number of illnesses in the cattle that will stay in our lots," Nicholson said. "It has worked great in other feedyards that have the system."

Hitch Feeders in Guymon, Okla., is the closest facility to incorporate the dust suppression system.

It was included in the plans for the newest expansion of the Guymon feedyard.

John Jones of Hitch Feeders said they are happy with the new system. "We have seen a decrease in lung illnesses with the cattle in our lot,"

Jones said. "All-in-all we are happy with the system."

Hitch Feeders operates the sprinkler system in the warmer months on a daily basis.

"Usually the timer is set to turn the system on four to five times daily," Jones said.

According to Craig Nelson, a project engineer for Nelson Irrigation Corporation, the dust suppression has been used in mining, log-wetting and municipal waste management. Feedlot management is another industry that can benefit from the system.

Keep it level

Kelly Hyde, left, and Andy Hall, both with Silver Creek Irrigation in Picabo, Idaho, carefully measure and level the riser for the new dust-control sprinkler system that is being installed at Beef Tech, Inc. located north of Hereford. The new system will help control respiratory problems in cattle and keep clouds of dust down to a minimum.

Extension Agent's Notes

By DENNIS NEWTON
County Extension Agent - Ag
 Will my cotton make it? This is the burning question being asked by Deaf Smith County farmers of late. The answer is quit simple, who knows. With the late planting dates on most cotton, early season cool temperatures, frequent hail, heavy rains, strong winds, and very little hot "cotton weather" it is going to be close.

Even May planted fields that survived, suffered retarded development due to the conditions mentioned. For our cotton to make, we will have to have very favorable September and October weather, and management that captures all of the growing degree days (heat units) left.

The Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. have recently released a publication entitled "Managing Late Cotton: An Integrated, Season Long Task" which provides some answers that may help cotton producers provide the management needed to give their cotton a chance to make it profitable. PCG asked Cotton Specialist from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Tech University, USDA Agricultural Research Service and the USDA Agricultural Meteorological Service along with their PCG Staff to contribute to the publication.

All of the experts agree that the yield expectations in late developing cotton sets a limit on the amount of inputs that producers can afford. In late planted cotton, boll set is usually the limiting factor.

This year the period of boll set in August will be the dominating factor in determining yield. During the first week of bloom, each plant produces approximately two flowers, both of them in first position. This would allow a 200 lb/A yield if the bolls were medium size, the percent set high (at least 70 percent), and the plant density moderated (40,000 plant per acre).

When adequate nutrients and water are available, the plant can produce four to five blooms from first and second positions during each of the second, third and fourth week. Therefore, yields greater than a half bale per acre require two or more weeks of bloom.

For greater yields, three to four weeks of bloom will be required.

Considering the importance of the bloom period duration, the days till bloom will be critical. Three days are required to generate a new node in healthy problem cotton, and 21 to 25 days for a pinhead square to reach bloom.

Since most stripper varieties have a square on node six, the days till bloom can be estimated from the current node count. Betting input dollars on cotton that will not enter bloom until August is highly speculative in our area.

Research has shown that the last date when a flower has a 50 percent chance of accumulating sufficient heat units to mature a boll, sets the duration of the bloom period for late cotton. The date in our county is approximately August 15.

Research conducted in the Lubbock area in the 1970's has shown that cotton has a 2 percent average loss in yield for each day planting is delayed past June 1, in addition to a 20 percent loss from the delay from April 20 to June 1.

For a June 10 planting date in the Lubbock trials, an average yield loss of 40 percent would be expected. Because of our more northern position, losses could be expected to be even higher.

We do have a few things going our way when we examine this data from Lubbock in the 1970's. Varieties have improved tremendously since that time. We now have varieties of cotton that are much more determinate of their growth and fruiting habit.

Technology and producer expertise have also improved in these past 20 years so the potential for yield loss might not be as great.

The big question in our county as always is, should I irrigate my cotton in August and if so how much.

During the entire growing season in our area, cotton must make use of every heat unit available to speed the development of fruit. Some heat units can be lost by evaporating water or by over-heating a dry plant, thus, producers need to use care in managing irrigation to avoid plant desiccation, and to avoid sprinkler or every-row irrigation when the weather is cool.

Cotton producers must maintain sufficient moisture for a healthy leaf surface up until mid August and then gradually increase the stress on the plant to speed up maturity of bolls. LEPA irrigation is very well suited for this critical water management due to its reduced plant cooling and high-frequency deficit irrigation potential.

In furrow irrigation, fields with a full profile of water usually require no irrigation. If July conditions depleted this moisture to the point of severe stress, then a light alternate row irrigation centered around first bloom may be desirable.

Fields that do not enter bloom until August may require no additional irrigation if the profile is full in July. The problem with all irrigation management in August in our area is the possibility of excessive or untimely rainfall.

August can be one of our heaviest rainfall months. This rainfall can many times cause severe regrowth and fruit drop, thus causing decreased yields. The old saying you can't fool mother nature is oh so true in this case.

If I haven't said enough to make you cotton producers ill, well, least we forget the cotton insects. According to Dr. Jim Leser, TAEX Cotton Entomologist, producers commonly commit one of three mistakes concerning insect management in late cotton: 1) manage insects as if it is a normal year; 2) decide not to spray no matter what happens; or 3) try to mature every fruiting from that can set until a killing frost.

Any of these approaches can lead to disaster. He states that the correct approach is to base decisions on realistic projected yields and scouting reports.

Insect control becomes very uncertain in cotton that might only produce one half bale. To insure minimum insect problems, producers need to set a crop as early as possible, push for rapid maturity and crop termination. The worst case scenario, according to Dr. Leser, is to have a lush, late maturing crop where yield hinges on protecting the crop from bollworms, tobacco budworms and even beet armyworms in September and October.

This is when problems with these pest can be most intense and control very expensive.

Late cotton is also quite susceptible to aphids. Aphids in prebloom cotton can stunt growth and cause further delays in development. In situations where fruiting is delayed, there may not be sufficient bolls to draw down the nitrogen levels in the leaves at the time aphids become serious pests.

This usually occurs at the beginning of August. Plants with higher nitrogen levels often have the heaviest aphid infestations.

Late bollworm infestation problems are concentrated in late fields. Producers can help this problem by management practices that result in early cut out. This would eliminate young, pest-vulnerable bolls and squares that feed small worms.

In summary, fields that bloom in July still have the potential for good yields. August blooming fields show less potential and the input of dollars should be considered carefully.

Remember, more input dollars cannot buy more heat units or delay the onset of fall.

Cotton producers that would like a copy of "Managing Late Cotton: An Integrated, Season Long Task" can call the Deaf Smith County office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at 364-3573 or can come by Room 402 in the Deaf Smith County Courthouse. Have a good week.

4-H News

By VANCE CHRISTIE
County Extension Agent - Ag

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Shooting Sports Club held their annual shoot recently at the Hereford Gun Club. The local trap shoot was open to all 4-H members from throughout the Panhandle. Twenty-Seven 4-H members, their parents and 4-H leaders from four area counties enjoyed the day's shoot.

In the Senior Division Wesley Mays from Castro County took top individual honors. He was followed by Shawn Furr from Castro and Kyle Crooks from Hale County. Bobby Sims from Deaf Smith County placed fourth in the competition. In two-man team competition, the team of Mays and Furr won first place followed by Sims and Crooks in second place.

The junior division was won by Deaf Smith shooter Jerry Baird. Daniel Carnahan from Deaf Smith County took second place honors, followed by Cody Webb of Hale County. Fourth place went to Chris Hendershot of Deaf Smith County teams rounded out the team competition with Zachary Vasek and Daniel Carnahan placing third, and Harrison Hoffman and Ben Sublett in fourth.

Drew Denison from Deaf Smith, took the first place trophy in the sub-junior division. In a very intense shoot-out between Eddie Trotter from Deaf Smith County and Tanner Griffith from Castro County, Griffith busted more targets placing second. Trotter placed third in the competition, followed by two-man team contest. Trotter and partner Christopher Diller placed second. The Deaf Smith County teams of Craig Campbell and Bryan Vasek were third and Andrew Carnahan and Joshua Stubbs placed fourth.

There was a great deal of family support at the shoot. Parents and leaders helped with the concession stand and served as officials for the shoot. Special appreciation goes out to Albert Sciombato, Pat Betzen, Ralph Diller, and Steve Hoffman, for serving as leaders for the Deaf Smith County 4-H shooting sports group.

The shooting sports group is one of the many 4-H activities here in Deaf Smith County. All of the 4-H programs are designed to teach life skills, such as leadership and responsibility. By participating in the shooting sports program, youth learn about gun safety and the fundamen-als of shooting while participating in a life-long recreational sport. They also spend quality time with family and have a great time while meeting new friends.

If you or someone that you know would like to learn more about the specific 4-H activities or the 4-H program in general, please stop by the Deaf Smith County Extension office or contact Vance Christie at (806)364-3573. Educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Agriculture Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Slopping hogs with undercooked garbage spreads common bacteria that cause food poisoning in humans, says an Agriculture Department report that also measures the risk of spreading foreign animal diseases.

The report by the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service determined there was a 99.9 percent probability of spreading campylobacter, salmonella and toxoplasma through improperly cooked food waste if it is fed to the animals for a year. The risk of spreading trichinosis-causing parasites was put at 37 percent.

The probability of spreading the animal disease hog cholera was put at 6.7 percent; foot-and-mouth disease, 4.1 percent; African swine fever, 0.5 percent; and swine vesicular disease, 0.5 percent.

The King Ranch, the largest in Texas, covers about as much land as does the entire state of Rhode Island.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my idea. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen, Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. (Grace obtained).

That which, perhaps, bears more silly remarks than anything else in the world, is a picture in a museum. -Goncourt

Religious bookstore owners face many dilemmas today

By DAVID IVANOVICH
Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON - John and Mary Foust ponder whether to sell the music of the grunge group Mortification.

Brian Roddy tries to deal with bad check writers, while Carolyn Hassell decides to open for business on Sundays.

Such are the dilemmas faced by today's religious bookstore owners.

While many Christian bookshop owners enter the industry with a missionary's zeal to spread the Gospel, they soon realize they must face the realities of retailing.

"Their motive is ministry, but their method is retail," says Bill Anderson, president of the Colorado Springs-based Christian Booksellers Association. "No amount of passion for people, no amount of commitment to Christian literature or products will exempt them from the normal demands of good business."

Christian bookselling is big business. American consumers purchase an estimated $3 billion worth of Christian-oriented products annually, Anderson says.

Industry experts figure there are more than 4,000 Christian bookstores nationwide, including about three dozen in Houston.

Last year, sales at Christian bookstores rose a healthy 10.4 percent over 1993.

For years, Houston's independent religious bookstore owners have faced competition from Christian bookstore chains such as Joshua's Christian Stores, Family Bookstores and Baptist Book Store.

Now they are feeling increased pressure from national, more general book chains, such as Barnes & Noble Bookstores, as well as discounters such as Wal-Mart and Target, which recently have beefed up stocks of Bibles and other religious materials.

At the same time, they must deal with the economic pressures affecting other retailers.

In the early 1980s, for instance, Houston counted had 106 Christian bookstores, says John Foust, owner of Theophilus Bible Store. The collapse of oil prices and the local depression that followed took its toll.

Rocky Vaccaro, owner of the Catholic bookstore Mary Regina, said his sales closely track those of Houston's major retailers. When Foley's sales are up, Mary Regina's revenues are, too.

"This industry competes for the discretionary dollar," Anderson said. "It's a nonbudgeted item. It's not like gasoline or groceries. We're competing for the expendable, discretionary dollar with everyone from restaurants to water parks to movie theaters to ski resorts."

Often, new store owners have little or no retail experience when they get into the business.

John Foust, for instance, delivered potato chips. Vaccaro drilled oil wells in Libya, while Hassell - who took over The Christian Bookstore in January - worked as a broker.

Religious bookstore owners, who often choose their business out of religious conviction, are held accountable by their customers for the content of their books and music.

For example, Theophilus, which targets the evangelical market, sells the works of Chuck Swindoll, but not Pope John Paul II's.

Most stores that label themselves as "Christian bookstores" sell materials designed primarily for the Protestant evangelical community.

Roddy, who owns four Giving Tree locations, won't sell the new Catechism of the Catholic Church, portions of which he objects to as "contrary to Scripture."

Mary Regina, with books by Fulton Sheen and Teresa of Avila and a collection of rosaries, crucifixes and religious artworks, caters to a Catholic clientele, although Vaccaro says his store attracts customers from other "liturgical" churches, such as Episcopalians and Lutherans.

"We don't carry anything in here that would be offensive to our Protestant brothers," Vaccaro says.

Hassell's The Christian Bookstore at 5201 Palmer is a smaller, neighborhood store catering to the needs of the African American community.

Hassell also stocks classic works of literature by more secular black writers, such as Langston Hughes and Chester Himes.

Hassell says customers often seek her guidance - everything from which books might be controversial to which translation of the Bible would best fit their needs.

"If you don't understand poetry, then you really don't need the King James," Hassell says.

At the average Christian bookstore, Bibles represent about 14 percent of sales, Anderson says. Sales of other books are twice that, while music represents another 15 percent and gifts 13 percent.

Theophilus, for instance, sells T-shirts, greeting cards - even David and Goliath action figures. And Christian music now accounts for more sales per square foot than books.

Opened in 1973, Theophilus is one of the largest independent Christian bookstores in the country.

The name is Greek for "Friend of God" and refers to the disciple to whom Luke addressed both his Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles. "People spell it wrong, but the bank doesn't care," John Foust said.

Even for a large independent, competing against the big chains can be tough.

Theophilus, for example, used to be able to sell Bible study materials used in Baptist churches. Now, those materials are available only through Baptist Book Store, which is owned by the Southern Baptist Convention.

Theophilus carries a wide selection of materials for parents wanting to teach their children at home, a popular choice among many of the Fousts' customers.

"A lot of Christians believe their children are getting too much in the public schools that is not good for them," Mary Foust says.

The store also carries a wide selection of music, ranging from pop gospel singer Amy Grant to hard rock groups like Mortification.

Foundation meets first funding goal

Excited by reaching the initial goal of $200,000 before the end of a two-year fund-raising period, directors of Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation are now turning their attention to the long-range funding and operation of the non-profit organization.

"Only the interest from the money raised will be spent toward the Foundation's goals, so we have really just begun our funding efforts," said Dr. Nadir Khuri, president of the board.

"The board set the initial goal as a gauge to community interest and the board's commitment. By reaching that first goal early, we feel residents of Hereford have shown an abiding interest in health care for our community," Khuri added.

The foundation was established to provide a base endowment for projects that will benefit health care in Hereford and Deaf Smith County. The first goal was to solicit $200,000 in the first two years.

Pat McGinty, secretary, reported at the last board meeting that donations had reached the $210,000 mark. The two-year fund-raising period ends in December.

The foundation sponsored a Celebrity Auction April 29, raising more than $30,000 for the endowment fund. The major fundraiser offered items from nationally-known celebrities, as well as items from local and area artists of note.

Hospital employees helped set up the auction and Larry Noland served as the auctioneer.

"We're excited by the confidence the community has shown in the foundation, and we hope that others will rally around this cause to ensure a better quality of life for everyone in the community," said Dr. Khuri.

Contributions and donations have come from individuals and corporations. Many people have also used this fund as a great way to honor a friend's on a special occasion--such as a birthday or anniversary--or to serve as a memorial for a loved one. The foundation's purpose is to support the health care system here through such projects as recruiting physicians and other health care professionals, purchasing equipment as needed, and providing training for health care workers. The foundation presented its first scholarships recently to students entering the health care field.

Administrative expenses of the foundation are minimal, because the foundation is made up of volunteers. Even the executive director, Sylvia Khuri, is a volunteer.

Khuri said the board extends its appreciation to everyone in the community, and especially to those who have donated to the fund. "This is a great beginning for an organization that will make a difference in our community in the years ahead," said Khuri.

President's Message

By DR. NADIR KHURI
Foundation Board President

We at the Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation set ourselves a fund-raising goal for the first two years. We are now in the middle of the second year and already ahead of our goal.

I would like to dedicate this message to every person, business and corporation that made this possible. It is indeed encouraging to see that our vision for the future of healthcare in this community is shared by as many people as have contributed to this cause.

As I thank everyone of you, I would like to remind you and also ourselves that the two-year goal is by no means the end of our efforts. As a matter of fact, it is only the beginning.

The foundation is here to stay and grow. Your support has been and will always be welcomed and appreciated.

You can make a difference. Support excellence in your community's hospital...offer a lasting tribute to a departed loved one...present a unique gift to honor a special newborn.

Contributions to the Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation will enable you to do all this and help build a permanent endowment fund for health care in our community.

Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation is a non-profit corporation which will build and maintain an endowment fund to support the hospital and health care in general. The Foundation has its own independent board of directors, comprised of community leaders. They will determine which

Fresh Prince ready to reign for one more season on NBC

BY FRANK BARRON

It isn't as though he is abdicating this moment. But Will Smith has given notice he is ready to leave the successful NBC comedy The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air after next year, at which time he will have completed six seasons on the prime time throne.

It's true some of his loyal subjects have chosen to abandon the program, but millions of faithful viewers watch Fresh Prince on Mondays every week, giving the network enough confidence to renew it. The show is also popular in syndication and can be seen daily in most markets.

After the season finale in May, Smith put to rest any doubt about the show's future in the 1995-96 season when he told viewers, "We'll see you in September."

Smith, who has made more than 100 Fresh Prince episodes, wants to concentrate on a film career. His movie Bad Boys grossed more than $50 million this spring and reassured Smith he could do very well on the big screen. Of course the rapper already proved his talent in the films Six Degrees of Separation, Made in America and Where the Day Takes You.

But first, one more season of Fresh Prince is being planned. What direction will the show take?

Actually, this season was supposed to wrap up with Smith marrying his girlfriend, Lisa (Nia Long), but as the pair reached the altar Lisa balked and said, "No." The young couple agreed not to rush into marriage and will pick up their lively relationship in the fall.

The only major change in the show is the result of last season's surprise finale: the last-minute marriage between Will's mother (Vernee Watson-Johnson) and Lisa's dad (John Amos). The plot twist will put additional pressure on family harmony, especially for

Will and Lisa.

The setting for the comedy will continue to be the Bel-Air home of Will's Uncle Philip (James Avery) and Aunt Vivian (Daphne Maxwell Reid), as well as preppy cousins Carlton (Alfonso Ribeiro), Hilary (Karyn Parsons), Ashley (Tatyana M. Ali) and pint-sized Nicky Banks (Ross Bagley), along with the prim and proper butler Geoffrey (Joseph Marcell).

Crew members claim there are no ego problems on the set of Fresh Prince. "Will keeps everyone laughing, even when the cameras stop rolling," a cameraman reports.

Smith insists, "Everybody on the show is the best. The writers, producers, directors - the greatest cast in television. I respect them all."

Ali grew up on the show, changing from a shy little girl into a rebellious teen-ager. She is ebullient when Smith's name comes up.

"He's like a big brother to me - advising, helping, encouraging, protecting," the actress says.

Ali says she is proud of the way Fresh Prince has tackled serious subjects, such as guns and violence, as well as drugs and prejudice.

"From the fan mail I've received, I know the show has helped many teens get through difficult situations in their lives. Even if we can't offer solutions for all the problems kids go through, our stories have shown them that they are not alone," she explains.

The series remains a top-rated show for its time slot. Last year it was the sixth highest rated show among teenagers.

Those ratings are the reason Fresh Prince will return to its regular Monday slot in September, with Smith ready to reign for one last season.

Kids' Question & Answer

Candace Cameron

Q: Why was Full House canceled? - Erin O., Sioux City, Iowa.

A: Full House did fairly well in the ratings last year, but it also had one of the largest casts of regulars (for a sitcom) on network television-and each member of that cast got a raise almost every year. ABC reportedly took a look at what it would cost to produce the show next season and decided it wasn't profitable any longer. (Sad but true: TV is a business just like any other).

You'll be seeing lots more of your favorites from the show. Watch for Candace Cameron, for example, in an NBC movie next season called Kidz in the Wood. Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen have a development deal for more movies and specials on ABC. Lori Loughlin will co-star with Tony Danza in the ABC sitcom Hudson Street next fall. And, of course, Bob Saget will continue as host of America's Funniest Home Videos.

Q: I keep hearing shows are canceled because of low ratings. How do ratings work, anyway? - Jason M., Long Beach, Calif.

A: A research firm called A.C. Nielsen Co. selects, by a scientific process, a group of households that theoretically represents the entire U.S. viewing public.

These "Nielsen families" keep a record of what they watch - using either a written diary or an electronic meter attached to their TV set.

Through this process, Nielsen is able to give the networks a good idea of how many people are watching their shows - and even what kind of people they are, in terms of age, income and education, for example.

The advertisers, whose commercials pay for the shows you watch, use this information to know which shows will attract the audience they most want to see their ads. When a show has low ratings, it's hard for a network to sell commercial time for that program, so it gets canceled.

Q: Where can I write to the Mighty Morphin Power Rangers? - Ricky L., Flint, Mich.

A: Since this is a Fox program, write to the cast members c/o their show at Fox Broadcasting Co., 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90035. Save this address, because it works for any Fox show, including Beverly Hills, 90210.

You can write to any other current network stars c/o their shows at the appropriate network as follows: ABC Television Network, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, Calif. 90067; CBS Inc., 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036; and NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda Avenue, Burbank, Calif. 91523.

Q: Where can I write to ask ABC to bring back My So Called Life? - Mindy S., Portland, Ore.

A: Too late. While ABC was considering renewing it, Life star Claire Danes told producers she wasn't sure she wanted to come back.

Danes has a wealth of movie offers, thanks to this series and her work in Little Women.

Q: Will Sister, Sister be back next season? It's one of my favorite shows! - Allison C., Fort Worth, Texas.

A: ABC canceled the series, but new episodes are scheduled to run next season on The WB Network.

Q: Where can I get addresses for movie stars like Keanu Reeves and Brad Pitt? - Sharon B., Las Vegas, Nev.

A: Pick up a copy of Premiere magazine at any newsstand. The classifieds contain ads for many address sources.

LEO - July 23/August 23

Stop talking and start doing. This is a good week to put plans into action. A Gemini or Taurus brings you good news at work. Choose your friends carefully. What you see is not necessarily what you get. A new romance may be just around the corner for single Leos.

Stay physically active this week. It will ease stress at work. Planning a move? Don't forget the people at home. A Leo and Scorpio team offer stability through chaos. Good news comes via the mail over the weekend. Risky financial investments should be avoided this week. You may want to curb spending altogether.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Having second thoughts about romantic commitment? Don't be afraid to take the plunge. A Capricorn friend will be there to break your fall. Money matters look good midweek. Show a partner that (s)he is important with a special gesture on Saturday. It will go a long way.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

It's time to mend fences with a Leo. Let your true feelings shine through. Down-time at work allows you to reflect on past mistakes. A new love interest brightens things up on Saturday. Let your guard down. Something big coming up? Remember, careful planning is key.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

The dull-routine syndrome has started to set in. It's a good week to take a day off. Indulge in outdoor activities over the weekend. Watch your pennies. Unexpected expenses head your way on Saturday. If you're artistically inclined, now's the time to pick up that paintbrush.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Fight the urge to run outside and play. It's a good week to concentrate on overdue work. Try to get ahead if you can. Your creativity is overflowing. Focus it in the right direction. Don't lose sight of short- and long-term goals. A Cancer friend will offer solid advice.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Control your emotions this week, Pisces. Nothing is as bad as it seems. A romantic quarrel might get you down on Wednesday. Stand your ground. Giving in will only make things worse in the long run. An Air sign sees things your way. Steer clear of routine this weekend.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months:
Changes are approaching slowly. Sit tight; you'll start to settle around December. A boss or associate pushes you to your limits by spring. Strive to meet his/her needs; it will pay off doubly later. A new romance keeps hum-drum days exciting for single Leos. Married? Take advantage of extra income by planning an exotic vacation with your mate. Quality time will help you find even more to like about each other. A new friend will bring out a different side of your personality this year. (S)he will make you realize strengths you didn't know you had.

Rebecca De Mornay uses her seductive charm as Flo March, mistress to a wealthy financier, in An Inconvenient Woman, beginning Sunday and ending Monday on ABC.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am 86 years old and enjoy Northern Exposure very much, because the writers are not aiming at an audience of idiots.

I never have been able to match the names of the actors with their characters because the title sequence always showed only the moose.

Tell me who played Joel, Maggie, Marilyn, Ruth-Anne, Maurice, Holling, Ed and Chris. -Janice Winter, Grass Valley, Calif.

A: News of the show's cancellation brought the same question from many readers.

Here's the final "role" call: Rob Morrow played Joel; Janine Turner was Maggie; Elaine Miles, Marilyn; Peg Phillips, Ruth-Anne; Barry Corbin, Maurice; John Cullum, Holling; Darren E. Burrows, Ed; and John Corbett was Chris. For the record, Cynthia Geary played Shelly.

Q: Please tell me what you can about Ann Sheridan. Is she still alive? -A reader in Methuen, Mass.

A: Born Clara Lou Sheridan in 1915, Sheridan was a beauty contest winner-turned-movie actress who became known as the "Oomph Girl" and who had some of her biggest hits in the 1940s.

The six dozen-plus films she made include Kings Row, The Man Who Came to Dinner, Angels With Dirty Faces, They Drive by Night, Thank Your Lucky Stars, I Was a Male War Bride and The Opposite Sex.

In 1966, Sheridan made her TV series debut in Pistols and Petticoats, a sitcom set in an 1870s Colorado town called Wretched. The CBS show ran on Saturdays through Aug. 19, 1967.

The actress died that same year.

Q: Will Touched by an Angel be back? -Sheila Joyce, Marietta, Pa.

A: Angel will air Saturdays on CBS this fall.

Peg Phillips

Q: What happened to Carol's first husband and Mike's first wife on The Brady Bunch? I don't remember anything being said on the show. -C.J. in Oklahoma.

A: All the reference books I checked simply say both Carol and Mike had been widowed. In the '60s, when the Bunch bowed, divorce was still eyed nervously as a sitcom device, so the only way to bring together two ready-made broods like these was to bump off the previous spouses.

If any Bradymaniac can furnish more details, I'll run them here.

Q: Is there such a thing as a celebrity address book? -Kate S., Flint, Mich.

A: Several companies offer these addresses singly, in books or on computer disks. Check the classifieds in Premiere magazine.

I will repeat the network addresses in a clip-and-save format when the fall season nears.

HIGHLIGHTS

Superhero puts clients first in Fox's Great Defender

BY AMY HIBBERT

A new superhero has entered the ranks of television lawyers.

He's faster than a speeding bullet with a punch line, more powerful than a locomotive in a courtroom and able to leap legal hurdles in a single bound.

It's Perry Mason. It's Matlock. No, it's The Great Defender and he is ready, willing and able to protect his clients Monday on Fox.

Known by his peers as Lou Frischetti (effectively played by Michael Rispoli), this working man's attorney puts clients first on his priority list, often helping them more than just legally.

"Lou is a lovable guy," Rispoli comments. "Lou will give you the shirt off his back if he believes in you. If he doesn't believe in you, he'll give you the time to find out if he should believe in you or not."

Because of his winning track record, Lou is asked to join an extremely conservative law firm in Boston, the diametric opposite of Lou's liberal personality.

He does join the firm, but he doesn't always see eye to eye with the partners. And the resulting friction adds humor to an otherwise dramatic show.

The prestigious firm and the street-wise Lou prove to be a good match for each other.

"He livens it up, because it's a stodgy old firm," Rispoli says. "Lou's in the new firm, but he still lives in the old neighborhood. That (is) where the clash comes in."

He describes his character as a tough legal eagle with a heart of gold.

"He's an all-around good guy," Rispoli says. "He's for the little guy, because he feels he's a protector... of the little people, the little guys from the neighborhood, the ones who don't get a fair break."

The actor believes this attitude comes from Lou's own childhood.

"When he was growing up (Lou) was on the wrong side of the law," he says. "At some point in time he made the right turn and got on the right side of the law."

Rispoli jokes, "If Lou was going to school with Perry Mason, he'd shake him down for milk money when they were kids. Now he's another way."

SOAP TALK

As the World Turns drops the ax again

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Fans of As the World Turns should enjoy their favorite characters now, because they may not be around much longer.

ATWT executive producer John Valente recently said several key players would be leaving the series in the next few months. The most recent cuts include Ed Fry, Susan Marie Snyder, Graham Winton and Michael Swan.

Fry (Dr. Larry McDermott) will be leaving in the early fall. Snyder (Julie) and Winton (Caleb) will leave sometime in August.

Swan (Duncan McKechnie) will leave in December. None of the actors expected the firings.

Valente says, "ATWT is blessed with a number of fine characters and actors. Unfortunately it's sometimes necessary to carefully prune back in order to allow for new growth. Change is necessary in order for the show to move forward."

There are no plans to recast any of the roles.

All three Procter & Gamble soaps, ATWT, Another World and Guiding Light, also have had some writing team changes. Tom King and Craig Carlson have returned to AW to join the head writing team. Most recently they were on the writing staff of GL.

Carolyn Culliton, head writer of AW since September 1994, has asked to be released from her contract. Ditto associate head writer Lorraine Broderick.

Associate head writer Victor Miller moves from AW to GL in the same capacity. Associate writer Kathleen Kennedy also moves from AW to GL. She'll join Pete Rich, who returns to the show as an associate writer.

Veteran soap writer, Addie Walsh, joins ATWT as an associate writer.

Many fans expected changes after the shuffling of executive producers at Procter & Gamble's soaps back in June - but not the "pruning" of several major players.

Usually one or two actors go, but ATWT has already fired five, Margaret Reed (Shannon) having been one of the first.

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap World, Features Dept., TV Data, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.

The featured hangout in NBC's Seinfeld is Tom's Restaurant at Broadway and 112th Street in New York's Manhattan.

CHITTER - CHATTER

Staying clear of a truck's blind spots and keeping a safe distance between your automobile and a truck are two safety tips worth remembering.

When Time Ran Out ★½ (1980) Paul Newman, Jacqueline Bisset. A volcanic eruption threatens a newly opened South Seas island resort in Irwin Allen's star-studded disaster epic. 2:30. July 30 9:35am.

Wichita ★½ (1955) Joel McCrea, Vera Miles. Wichita's town elders hire the famous Wyatt Earp to tame their lawless town. 2:00. August 5 5am.

The Wonderful Country ★½ (1959) Robert Mitchum, Julie London. An injured gunrunner finds romance with a cavalry officer's frustrated wife while on a mission for a Mexican dictator. 2:00. July 30 4pm.

Z

Zapped Again ★½ (1989) Todd Eric Andrews, Maria McCann. An outcast student uses new-found powers of telepathy to gain acceptance with his snooty classmates. 2:00. August 5 12:30am.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Sylvester Stallone said a lawsuit accusing him of roughing up a TV cameraman is nothing more than a nuisance claim from a "dirt bag trying to extract money."

"This man is a liar," Stallone said by telephone Saturday from Puerto Rico, where he's in the final days of shooting his new movie, "Assassins."

Cesar Santos claimed in a $550,000 federal civil suit filed Friday in San Juan that he was stopped on the set July 17, and assaulted and harassed by the actor and his four bodyguards. Santos also said his videotape was seized.

"I am glad his vocabulary is improving," Santos' attorney Marlene Aponte Cabrera said about the actor. "The word dirt bag is certainly an improvement from the words he used against my client."

Stallone said Santos was trespassing and "was never touched, never harmed and there wasn't a maligning word to anyone." Stallone said he "wasn't even near the guy."

"He was on the set illegally. We asked to see the tape," Stallone said. The tape was returned a few hours later to station WAPA, where Santos works.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - David Letterman finally lost a weekly ratings battle with Jay Leno and "Tonight." But Letterman said he expects his "Late Show" to win the war.

"You're gonna have some ups and down," Letterman told the Television Critics Association on Saturday. "I think we're gonna have some ups now."

Actor Hugh Grant's post-arrest appearance boosted NBC's "Tonight" to its first weekly ratings victory over Letterman's CBS show. Letterman came back on top last week - although his edge has increasingly narrowed.

Asked if he faults his weak lead-in from CBS' low-rated prime-time lineup, Letterman said human nature makes "you want to blame all your problems on somebody else, and CBS just happens to be handy."

"I'm done whining about it," he added. "Things are evening up now and we can concentrate on things we have control over and do the best show we can."

When asked if his humor was more mean-spirited than Leno's, Letterman replied: "Oh, shut up."

The Dog Days of Summer are upon us and what better way to spend those hot, sticky days...But with a nice cold glass of lemonade and a Family Channel Movie! With names like Mrs.

The Family Channel's Elvis Double Feature on Sunday, Aug. 13, beginning at 1 p.m. with "Kid Galahad," in which Elvis plays Walter Gulick who gets a job as a sparring partner at a training camp for prize fighters, and then offered the opportunity to fight in a heated championship tournament. Charles Bronson co-stars.

Bugle Boy®
program helps make kids' dreams
come true

Helping kids' have a brighter future is on Bugle Boy's mind these days. In conjunction with Mervyn's, Bugle Boy® is launching "Granting Dreams", a scholarship and education grant sweepstakes.

GRAND PRIZE

One lucky child will win a $50,000 college scholarship.

SECOND PRIZE

One school in each of the 16 states where there are Mervyn's stores, will receive a $5,000 grant.

THIRD PRIZE

Ten $100 Enrichment Grants will be given away in each of the 16 states (160 total). Kids' can use the money for any special activity that they may not be able to afford otherwise.

How to enter:

Pick up an entry form at the Bugle Boy® display in any Mervyn's store. The forms will also be distributed at schools participating in Mervyn's School Partnership Program.

Completed forms must be returned to Mervyn's by September 5, 1995. The contest is open to the parents of children between the ages of 4 and 17. For store locations call 1-800-ME-R-V-Y-N-S

No purchase necessary. Void where prohibited. Open to U.S. residents only. See official rules available at Mervyn's after 7/26/95 for details. Sweepstakes ends 9/5/95.

HOW DOES THE WEATHER AFFECT EXTERIOR PAINTING?

If you're thinking about painting your house, you're on the right track. And by that, we mean the thinking part. Careful planning will save a lot of time and money in the long run.

Before painting you'll want to make sure that Mother Nature will be working with you rather than against you. Keep an eye on the weather forecast so you can paint in temperatures of 60°-90° F. with the humidity below 85%. Allow 3-4 hours of drying time before dark. Also, make sure to follow the shade around your house so you're never painting in direct sunlight.

HUDSON WATER CONTROL VALVE

A valve specifically designed to control the flow of water in tanks and troughs automatically. '69 SHELBY GT-500

Based on the Ford Mustang, Shelbys were transformed into real head turners with liberal fiberglass body revisions with an en-tire collection of scoops, spoilers, and stripes. The GT-500 was powered by the famous 428 cubic inch Cobra Jet V-8 engine. Only 335 of these awesome cars were produced, making them truly collector's items today.
