Holly Sugar president assures HEDC that plant will not close

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Roger Hill, president and chief executive officer of Holly Sugar Corporation assured a luncheon group Tuesday that "we're not here to close the plant, but to hope for better communication."

Delivering a pep talk to growers and representatives of financial institutions in the area, Hill declared, "We have good growers and a good factory here."

He paid tribute to bankers attending the luncheon sponsored by Hereford Economic Development Corporation, saying, "you're very important to our business."

Hill said the merger of Imperial Sugar and Holly Sugar several years ago provides a good marketing approach for the Imperial Holly company.

Since no farm bill has been signed by President Clinton, Hill said beet contracts are being held up.

However, he hopes the acreage for the Hereford factory will expand for the next year.

"In 1978, we had 18,000 acres and the number built up to 42,000," he pointed out. Because of drought and other adversities, Hill continued, the total dropped to 20,000 this year.

The goal for future contracts is 35,000 acres, Hill added. Development of new seeds and other improvements in production methods should lead to yields of 25 tons per acre, Hill said.

Hill was introduced by Don Graham, secretary-treasurer of HEDC, who said the purpose of the Holly plant tour given visitors Tuesday morning and the luncheon is to provide "a better insight to growing sugar beets."

Graham added, "We want to ensure that Holly Sugar stays in the this community."

Hereford Mayor Bob Josserand welcomed guests at the luncheon and called attention to the vital role played by Holly Sugar in the Hereford-Deaf Smith County community.

Besides the economic benefits of Holly Sugar, Josserand complimented the company on the "quality of people you send us."

Josserand pointed out that Holly Sugar is a major taxpayer in Deaf Smith County, as well as employing about 370 persons at peak times. He said the payroll amounts to approximately $6 million annually.

Bill Cleavinger, president of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association, called the "partnership" of growers and company "second to none."

He said latest information from Washington indicates the farm bill will be vetoed by President Clinton. Cleavinger said observers believe the president will take no action until the Bosnia situation is stabilized.

Cleavinger said proposed provisions related to beet growers will be much the same as the last farm bill.

During his remarks, Cleavinger was complimentary of Holly Sugar's approach to business with beet growers.

"The company sticks with us; I wouldn't trade with any other part of the country," he declared. Cleavinger noted that in other areas, producers plant beets based on the number of shares they own in the local plant.

"We don't have to do that," he reminded.

Hill also told the group that the Hereford plant nets more than other similar facilities, with the exception of a small plant in Michigan.

He called attention to the diversity of products shipped from Hereford, pointing out that liquid sugar, powdered sugar, bulk sugar and packaged refined sugar all are manufactured in Hereford.

Holly Sugar visitor

Clinton readying seven-year budget plan

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - According to a GOP demand, President Clinton is preparing a seven-year plan for balancing the budget, the first sign of movement in the week-old budget talks and one that is receiving a guarded welcome from Republicans.

Clinton is likely to suggest smaller tax cuts and more savings from welfare, corporate tax loopholes and other programs than he proposed six months ago, as well as smaller spending boosts for many domestic programs, according to an administration official and a congressional source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

GOP negotiators have demanded a detailed seven-year proposal, and until now Democrats had insisted on working from a broad-brush, 10-year budget-balancing outline Clinton presented in June.

"We are in the process of preparing a seven-year plan," White House chief of staff Leon Panetta told reporters Tuesday. "As you know, this isn't an easy process."

Administration officials and congressional Democrats said they hoped to give the proposal to Republicans when bargaining resumes Thursday.

"We probably won't like what they come up with," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who added that Clinton told him in a phone conversation about the decision to prepare a plan. "At least that's what he told me. But that's at least a start."

The administration official said the new White House plan probably would contain a smaller tax cut than the $98 billion, seven-year reduction Clinton proposed in June and might delay the effective date of a $500 per child tax credit until 1997 or later to reduce the cost.

Panetta said the White House would stick with its June proposal to extract $124 billion in savings from Medicare. Clinton's plan to save $54 billion from Medicaid is also likely to remain intact, said Sen. James Exon, D-Nebr., and the administration official.

Exon, ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee, said the administration wanted to keep its tax-cut figure, but many lawmakers want the cuts eliminated, reduced or postponed for several years until the deficit is on its way down.

"Most of us feel there should be a dramatic reduction" in the tax cut, Exon said.

Overall, the new White House plan would propose gentler reductions for Medicare, Medicaid, welfare and taxes; more spending for education, environment and other Clinton domestic priorities; and a bigger bite out of corporate tax loopholes than Republicans want.

Republicans pushed their own seven-year budget balancing package through Congress last month, containing deeper spending cuts and bigger tax reductions than Clinton wants. The president is likely to veto it this week.

Democrats said that in return for their new plan, they wanted Republicans to show how they would ease the reductions they plan for Medicare, Medicaid, education and environmental initiatives.

"We expect of them a willingness on their part to come forward with suggestions on how we address the priorities the president considers important, and we hope that the discussions as they proceed in coming days will take on that flavor," White House spokesman Mike McCurry said.

Despite the potential for progress, the talks could miss their Dec. 15 deadline. The bargainers were told Tuesday that the Congressional Budget Office's economic forecasts would not be available until at least Dec. 12. Those estimates will be used to measure the deficit and the savings negotiators propose.

When the new administration plan is unveiled, its economic projections will be a point of contention. It will be based on estimates by the White House's budget office, whose forecasts are more optimistic than the CBO's and would require $475 billion less in savings over seven years to eliminate the deficit.

However, the updated CBO numbers are expected to narrow the gap.

The Republican plan would trim taxes by $245 billion. It features a $500 tax credit for children, starting with an election-year $125 per child tax credit next fall.

Republicans have proposed saving $270 billion from Medicare and $163 billion from Medicaid, and would reconfigure both programs dramatically. The GOP savings, however, are measured differently from Clinton's, making a direct comparison difficult.

Exon said the White House had agreed to reduce the $57 billion spending increase over seven years it proposed in June for annually approved domestic programs, and the administration official said that was likely.

Republicans plan about $190 billion in cuts in those programs, which include education, job training and other initiatives the president favors.

PSF terminates land contracts for pork plant

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Plans for construction of a pork processing plant near Hereford—put on hold since May—now appear to be near an end.

Landowners at the projected site of a plant northwest of Hereford received letters Monday serving notice that contracts on the property are being terminated by Premium Standard Farms.

"PSF is not able to expand its sow operations at Dalhart at this time, and without the hogs there is no need for a processing plant," Charlie Arnot, PSF director of communications, said this morning.

The company still hopes to expand the Dalhart operations, but the time frame is such that we cannot proceed at this time. Until something changes, it doesn't look very positive," said Arnot.

Mike Hatley, executive director of the Hereford Economic Development Corporation, said Tuesday—and again this morning—that he had received no statement from PSF. The Brand tried to contact PSF after learning about the letters Tuesday, and Arnot returned the call this morning.

Hatley said he is expecting a letter from PSF officials. "Given the time frame—from the announcement of a delay in starting construction to today—we are not encouraged at all."

If there is a positive, said Hatley, "we have proven to ourselves that we could land a big one, and it shows that we can be very competitive when a prospect comes along. We can be proud of the community effort."

Hatley said the HEDC had heard speculation that PSF might sell its Dalhart operations to another company. "We regret not having a statement, but we really can't respond to this latest development or know where to go from here until we get notification from PSF."

In December, 1994, it appeared Santa Claus had brought a special gift to boost Hereford's economic development—the announcement by PSF that Hereford would be the site of a multi-million dollar pork processing plant with at least 500 new jobs.

PSF had announced the selection of Hereford as the site of a new plant on Dec. 21, 1994, at a public meeting—which took on a pep-rally atmosphere—as approximately 425 residents turned out for the meeting hosted by HEDC. Construction was scheduled to start in the third or fourth quarter of 1995, but PSF issued a statement on May 3 of this year that it was delaying the aggressive construction schedule on its Dalhart production facilities and on the Hereford processing plant. No date was given on the new construction schedule.

That news dimmed the optimism of some residents. About the only news out of PSF since May was an upbeat July announcement that PSF had reached an exclusive agreement with a major Japanese retail market to begin marketing of PSF pork in the Japanese retail market.

Also in July, PSF published a notice of an amended application for a waste disposal permit as required by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission—seemingly indicating that the paper work on the plant was still in progress.

The letters terminating the contracts with local landowners contained a surprise for at least one landowner. One sentence in the letter stated: "All earnest money (as defined in the contract) will be refunded to us immediately following the date of this letter."

The PSF letter noted that the planned expansion was suspended earlier this year due to the extended period of low hog prices. "Although prices have improved somewhat from the historic lows of a year ago, prices did not recover quickly enough to allow us to thoroughly investigate the availability of the necessary permits and the suitability of the land covered by the contract. Accordingly, this letter will serve as our notice of termination."

The letter also stated that effective on the date of the letter (Nov. 28), the landowner is "free to sell, lease or grant options on the property covered by the contract."

Clinton lawyers assailed by Whitewater panelists

WASHINGTON (AP) - Searching for evidence that the White House acted improperly, Republicans on the Senate Whitewater Committee are attacking the lawyers for President Clinton and first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

One of them, David Kendall, presided at a two-hour meeting on Whitewater on Nov. 5, 1993. Committee Republicans are challenging the refusal of participants to discuss what went on.

The other lawyer, Robert Barnett, will have to testify before the Senate committee because of his role in going through 24 of Vincent Foster's files - including some Whitewater records - in the White House family residence seven days after the deputy White House counsel's death. Republicans are trying to determine whether the files are intact, or whether documents are missing.

On Kendall's meeting, the committee is trying to determine whether presidential aides were being directed to gather still more sensitive information on Whitewater.

The White House says Senate Republicans have "manufactured" a dispute over the Nov. 5 meeting in an attempt to revive hearings the administration says are of no public interest.

On Tuesday, former associate White House counsel William Kennedy refused to discuss the meeting - a week after senior presidential adviser Bruce Lindsey also refused.

Survey: many have trouble sleeping

NEW YORK (AP) - Here's an equation that might leave you tossing and turning: Job stress plus fatigue equals sleepless nights.

A new Gallup survey has found that nearly half of all adult Americans have trouble sleeping, up 13 percent from four years ago.

The increasingly frantic pace of life in the '90s, along with work pressures, are responsible, the National Sleep Foundation said Tuesday.

"Fatigue can impact all aspects of our lives, from our personal relationships to our ability to concentrate and perform daily tasks," said Dr. Allan Pack, the foundation's director. "Sleepless can be deadly."

One-third of the respondents said they had fallen asleep while driving. Of that group, 10 percent had a sleep-related accident. Forty-nine percent reported some sleeping difficulty, compared to 36 percent in the 1991 study.

Among the other eye-opening findings:

- 35 percent of the population suffer occasional insomnia.

- 12 percent report chronic insomnia.
- 25 percent believe you cannot be successful and get enough sleep.
- More women (52 percent) report sleep problems than men (45 percent).

The National Sleep Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to assisting people with sleep disorders. Gallup conducted its survey in telephone interviews with 1,027 adults during October. Its margin of error is plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Chestnuts 'roasting' in incinerators Illegal products from Europe sniffed out by USDA dogs

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) - If those "chestnuts roasting on an open fire" came from Europe, the flames are likely to be in one of several 1,250-degree incinerators at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

The U.S. Agriculture Department has 28 fulltime staffers at the airport whose job is confiscating and destroying any agricultural products that could introduce animal or plant pests and diseases to the United States.

With the help of two food-sniffing beagles, the airport's inspectors confiscate more than 2,000 pounds of fruits, vegetables and meats each month from people arriving on international flights.

"People don't realize that most fresh food from other countries can't be brought into the United States," said Leroi Beikman, the USDA's officer in charge at DFW.

"Chestnuts from Europe are one of the big holiday items now," Beikman told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "But they could be bringing in bugs or even chestnut-tree disease, which has been virtually wiped out in the U.S."

Fresh fruits are another holiday favorite that will face a Texas barbecue, airport style. "We (seize) just about everything except bananas from Mexico," Beikman said. "They're OK."

A traveler is believed to have brought the Mediterranean fruit fly

Products being confiscated

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) - Some of the banned products that U.S. agriculture inspectors will confiscate from arriving international passengers, according to an Agriculture Department brochure:

- Most fresh, dried or canned meat. Chestnuts and acorns (except acorns from Mexico).
  - Soil, earth or sand, except up to 1 ounce of "decorative beach sand."
  - Unroasted coffee beans. Fresh citrus fruits (except limes from Mexico).
  - Fresh tropical fruits (except bananas, pineapples, papayas, litchis and coconuts from Mexico. Coconuts must have husks and milk removed).
  - Sugar cane.
  - Curry leaves.
  - Most fresh vegetables, except mushrooms.
  - Avocados.
  - Seeds of avocado, bamboo, barberry, coconut, corn, cotton, currant, elm, hibiscus, lentil, mahonia, mango, pearl millet, potato, rice, sorghum and wheat.
  - Eucalyptus.
  - Cottage cheese or any other partially cured cheese.
- There are no restrictions on fish, seaweed, dried herbs and spices, candies, mushrooms, bread and other baked goods, fully cured cheeses, nuts other than chestnuts and acorns, dried foods, fresh or dried flowers, dried bamboo poles, and most seeds and flower bulbs.
- Virtually anything from Canada is allowed, except black currants.

passengers' plates, as well as that left over in the plane's galley, DFW officials said.

American Airlines has 36 international arrivals daily, from Asia, South America, Central America, Mexico and Europe, airline spokesman Al Becker said. Other airlines account for 200 to 300 international arrivals a month. International flights are serviced by caterers at their points of origin and often feature cuisine that is typical in those countries.

With planes coming in from every continent except Africa, some of the food served on board or carried by passengers can be fairly exotic, Beikman said.

"We get lots of mangoes and other tropical fruits, lots of citrus, sugar cane, avocados and even fresh meat-mutton, beef, pork, sausages," he said. "We can't let any of that into the United States because of the potential that bugs and other agricultural pests could be riding along."

Meat is dangerous particularly because of the diseases it can bring, such as foot-and-mouth disease, a major threat to cattle. That disease was last reported in the United States in 1929 but is still prevalent in South America, Central America, Asia, Africa and Europe, Beikman said. Economists say an outbreak in this country today could cost billions of dollars.

into California in 1979 - an infestation that cost more than $100 million to control, the Agriculture Department says.

At DFW, confiscated food is dumped into four garbage incinerators along with hundreds of pounds of airline food that comes in daily on international flights and must be destroyed, said Cathleen Baulisch, environmental services coordinator for the DFW Airport Board.

Federal law requires that banned products be sterilized, incinerated or returned to the country of origin.

"Any food served by the airlines on board that has come from a foreign source has to be bagged up and sent to the incinerators," Baulisch said. "We figure on about 200 pounds per flight."

That includes food left on

Houston man challenges rule allowing filing for two offices

AUSTIN (AP) - A Houston man filed a lawsuit Tuesday against the Texas Republican Party, claiming that an elections rule allowing a person to run for the White House and another office at the same time is unconstitutional.

"It violates the spirit of representative government in the Texas Constitution," Henry C. "Hank" Grover said in his lawsuit, filed at 126th State District Court in Travis County.

The rule, named for Lyndon B. Johnson, allows a candidate to seek the presidency or the vice presidency and another office in the same election cycle. It was written in 1960 so then-U.S. Sen. Johnson could run for re-election and president. It since has been used by former U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm has announced plans to run for re-election and the White House in next year's elections.

Grover said when Johnson was elected vice president and U.S. senator in 1960, thousands of Texans had their votes wiped out with Johnson's resignation from the Senate.

"The voters of Texas have a right to expect that a candidate who files for the office of U.S. senator and is elected to that office, will serve the full term for which he asked the people to elect him," Grover said.

Grover said Johnson's vacant Senate seat was filled in a special election in which few voters participated. "This has the effect of disenfranchising the majority of the Texas electorate," Grover argued.

The lawsuit names Tom Pauken, the head of the Texas GOP Party, spokesman Lester Van Pelt said the Republican Party would not comment on the lawsuit until its attorneys had time to review it.

A spokesman for Gramm's election campaign also declined to comment.

Grover asked the court to prevent Pauken from allowing any candidate to file in more than one race in the GOP primary election in March.

Feud in East Texas city brings local government to standstill

GUN BARREL CITY, Texas (AP) - The political standoff that has paralyzed the civic government of this lakeside town appears as entrenched as ever.

Henderson County Attorney Larry Heffington has warned Gun Barrel City officials that they will be prosecuted if they hold any secret meetings regarding an upcoming election on a new city charter.

The Athens Daily Review reported Tuesday that Heffington sent a memo to three City Council members regarding repeated attempts to conduct special council meetings without the approval of Mayor Joe Agnes or notification of the other council members, as required by Texas' Open Meetings Act.

"I will not hesitate to prosecute each and every one of you who insist on violating the law," Heffington wrote. "I will then in turn request a warrant be issued for your immediate arrest. Further, I will be your greatest advocate for your exercising your right to a speedy trial."

A feud that started last year between Agnes and City Administrator Allan Taylor has all but shut down the government in the East Texas lakeside community of 3,500 people, in Henderson County about 50 miles southeast of Dallas.

By most accounts, the trouble started when Taylor canceled a state grant to the city that he said Agnes had no authority to apply for.

The political strife has divided residents into two camps. Taylor's camp includes three of the five City Council members - B.J. Simmons, Emogene DeFord and W.C. "Bill" Brooke, who have tried to call the illegal meetings. Agnes is allied with council members John Tankursley and Marge Puck.

Among the events since September:

- Agnes kicked in the door to Taylor's office and told him to clean out his desk.

- A judge reinstated Taylor.

- Taylor returned to work, flanked by armed bodyguards.

- Taylor fired two police chiefs.

- Taylor found a homemade bomb - a glass jar filled with gasoline and with nails taped to it - under his car, which prompted an investigation by the Texas Rangers and the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Agnes and Taylor also are suing each other.

The fight over the illegal council meetings came to a head last week when the Athens newspaper and the Cedar Creek Pilot complained to Heffington and City Attorney Barney Knight.

Aim For Success is challenging teens to develop self-discipline

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor

Marilyn Morris has spoken to thousands of teenagers during the past decade challenging them to "Aim for Success" by developing self-control, self-respect and self-discipline.

In Hereford this week, she is speaking to teenagers and adults concerning sexual abstinence until marriage.

"The Deaf Smith County Health Care Alliance has brought Morris to Hereford in an attempt to help teens and their parents realize that abstinence is the new sexual revolution," said Rick Jackson, president of the Alliance.

Three members of the Alliance, Sandra Aguilar, Karen Langford and Jackson, are being trained by Morris to give the "Aim for Success" program.

They will be available to present the message that those who choose abstinence until marriage have no fears of pregnancy, sexually transmitted diseases, emotional scars and memories of past sexual partners. They are free to go on with their life, dreams and goals.

"Statistics show that 14 of 100 births in Deaf Smith County are to teenagers, as opposed to a 6.6% national average," said Alliance member Marlene Hendershot.

Morris gives two presentations. One is for adults and one is for teens. Her motivation is simple. She was pregnant at 17 while still in high school.

"I wish someone had talked to me and I want to talk to kids the way someone should have talked to me," said Morris.

In her presentation, teenagers are encouraged to develop a strong, responsible character as they deal with one of life's most difficult issues -- sexual pressure.

"If I can help these teens understand that by developing the self-discipline needed to control this critical area of their lives, it will help them to reach for and achieve higher goals in other areas of their lives," said Morris.

A portion of the teen presentation deals with sexually transmitted diseases including chlamydia, gonorrhea, herpes, human papilloma virus and AIDS.

"Right now HPV (human papilloma virus) is spreading like wildfire among sexually active teens. HPV can cause warts that lead to cancer. Chlamydia causes sterility. Our teenagers need to be aware of these things," Morris said.

A portion of the adult program is a preview of the teen program. The remainder of the program deals with helping adults learn how to talk with children about sex and answer questions without embarrassment.

"You can't preach and you can't cram it down the kids' throats," said Morris. "The adults have got to turn this around. If we tell our kids the truth and give them the facts, they will make wise choices."

"Abstinence makes sense, but they have to buy into this for themselves if they are going to realize their goals," Morris continued.

Morris conducts an anonymous survey following her "Aim for Success" presentations in public schools.

"The results are fairly consistent throughout, so I feel like the kids are being honest with me," said Morris.

The results of surveys in Dallas showed that 82 percent of junior high students have not had sex and 60 percent of high school students have not had sex.

"It's important for kids to know this and realize 'I'm not the only one,'" said Morris.

Morris gave the adult presentation Tuesday and it was scheduled to be repeated at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Hereford Community Center.

She was to give the teen presentation at Hereford Junior High Wednesday morning and at Hereford High School Thursday morning.

Aim For Success

Marilyn Morris from Dallas gave an informal talk to concerned citizens on the importance of abstinence as the new sexual revolution on Tuesday night at the Hereford Community Center. The presentation gave parents and guardians information on how to talk comfortably with their children about sex. Morris will present another AIM FOR SUCCESS talk tonight beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the Community Center. The presentation is free to the public.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column, you asked people who had an unusual story about how they met their spouse to write and tell you. Here's mine:

I had just been transferred to Augusta, Ga., and my first Sunday in town, a friend invited me to go to Sunday School with him. As we entered the assembly room, I saw the most beautiful young girl giving the devotional.

We walked down the aisle to take our seats, and I turned to my friend and said, "I'm going to marry that girl." And I did. We will be celebrating 53 years of a wonderful marriage soon. You may use my name. -- Mansfield Latimer, Rock Hill, S.C.

DEAR MANSFIELD: What a heart-warmer. I hope you and that beautiful girl enjoy more happy years together. Keep reading for other lovely love-at-first-sight stories.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's my instant-love story, and I give you permission to print it and use my real name.

Twenty-plus years ago, a casual acquaintance of mine -- 45 years old and a confirmed bachelor -- attended a social gathering where I was present. Knowing I was an Oakland Raiders football fan, he walked in from watching TV to tell me that George Blanda had kicked another last-minute field goal to win the game.

As he talked to me, he put his arm around my shoulder. Well, I fit perfectly, and he didn't have a chance after that.

We will be celebrating our 20th anniversary soon. Some time ago, we were fortunate to meet George Blanda and tell him this story. He said his last-minute game winners had been responsible for a good many celebrations, but ours was the first marriage that he knew of. -- Edith Dygett, Desert Hot Springs, Calif.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You asked in your column for unusual stories of how couples met. Well, here's mine:

I was widowed at the early age of 31. I was in a department store with my two young children, one barely walking, struggling with a large item I had purchased in the sporting goods department.

In the checkout line in front of me was a very nice-looking man. After he paid for his purchases, and waited to help me take my huge box to my car. I thought to myself, "What a fine gentleman -- wouldn't it be wonderful if..."

We just celebrated our 12th anniversary and have a 2-year-old daughter. So you see, dreams do come true. -- Bethany, Conn.

DEAR BETH: They do indeed. Here's another one:

DEAR ANN: I will put my "how I met the man of my dreams" story up against the best of them.

I was divorced when my son, "Michael," was 10 years old. He kept talking to me about "Natalie," a girl in his class at school who he thought was wonderful.

One day, he said, "Mom, Natalie saw you in the supermarket and says you are very pretty and that since her mom died a few years ago and her dad is lonely, maybe you'd go to dinner with him."

The kids fixed us up, and that date led to the altar. It was 12 years ago. We couldn't be happier. -- Torrance, Calif.

DEAR TORRANCE: Thanks for the closing heart-warmer. It's lovely.

Herd girls blow out Bobbies; Herd boys fall

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford girls' basketball team blew out Dimmitt in the second half Tuesday in Dimmitt, turning a 35-31 halftime lead into a 68-44 rout. In the boys' game, Dimmitt scored 13 straight points early in the second quarter to start a 76-54 romp. The Lady Whitefaces outscored the Bobbies 24-13 in the second quarter and 14-9 in the fourth quarter, but the key quarter was the third. Hereford won that 19-4. "If I knew, I would bottle it," Herd coach Eddie Fortenberry said of what caused Hereford's domination in the quarter. "I think the kids came out with a lot of intensity. They flat outshouted them. We didn't do anything different. We decided to come out and cover the three (point shot) a little bit better, but we didn't change much offensively or defensively." Misti Davis scored the last six points of the third quarter for a 54-35

Herd lead. Julie Cole scored the first six points of the fourth quarter - including 4-of-4 free throws - to get Hereford started well. Dimmitt tried to get back in the game by launching three-pointers, but the Bobbies missed their first seven try attempts of the fourth quarter. "We told the kids at the half to keep running, because we're deeper than they are," said Fortenberry, who likes to use all 10 girls on his team. "When you get tired, those threes quit going in." The game started like it was going to be a rout - but it was going Dimmitt's way. The Bobbies led 18-11 after one quarter. Hereford came back, though. Dimmitt led 27-22 late in the second when Hereford pulled off a four-point play. Misti Davis scored off an offensive rebound and was fouled. She missed the free throw, but Julie Rampley got the rebound and passed to Katie Betzen for a 15-foot jumper to pull within one.

After a Dimmitt basket, Betzen hit a trey for a 29-29 tie. After another Dimmitt basket, Brittney Binder hit another trey for a 32-31 lead with 33 seconds left in the half. Rampley beat the buzzer with another three-pointer to make it 35-31 at the break. "They kept switching defenses on us," Fortenberry said. "The kids did a great job: if they went man-to-man, we'd run the offense; if they went to a zone, we'd bust the three." The boys game was pretty even, though low-scoring, when Dimmitt led 9-8 after one quarter. Hereford started the second quarter well, as Brian Torres scored two straight baskets, then Nicholas Tarr hit a trey for a 15-11 lead. But Dimmitt scored 15 straight points, and Hereford never really recovered. "Way they continued to control the boards, they never let us have a chance to get momentum," coach Randy Dean said. "We couldn't get our running game going, because we couldn't get a rebound. They limited us most of the time to one-shot-and-out." HERD SCORING Girls: Katie Betzen, 14; Brittney Binder, 13; Misti Davis, 11; Mindi Davis, 9; Julie Rampley, 8; Julie Cole, 7; Heather Hodges, 4; Tarabeth Holmes, 2.

Boys: Tim Dudley, 12; Isaac Walker, 10; Ronald Torres, 9; Brian Torres, 6; Michael High, 6; Nicholas Tarr, 5; Johnathan Keenan, 3; C.J. Kubacak, 3.
Hereford's boys and girls teams will play in the 1-27 Tournament this weekend, starting Thursday. The tournament will use gyms in three towns: Abernathy, New Deal and Hale Center. Both Hereford teams will play against Lockney Thursday in New Deal. The girls play at 11:30 a.m., and the boys play at 1 p.m. If the girls win, they play again at 6 p.m. Thursday in New Deal against the winner between Mulleshoe and New Deal.

Dimmitt and won 38-37. Kendra Wright led Hereford with 12 points. The boys fell 64-57 despite a balanced scoring attack: Dustin Hill had 14 points, Jason Myers had 13, Curt Sherrod had 11 and Anthony Lopez had nine. The boys' JV played in a tournament in Amarillo over the weekend and took seventh. Hereford lost its first two games, 62-45 to Caprock and 76-56 to Amarillo High. Hereford then beat a split squad of Pampa's JV, 57-38. Hill scored 14 in that game. The Hereford Junior High boys swept four games from Dumas Monday in Hereford. None of the games was close. The seventh grade A team outscored Dumas 26-1 in the first quarter on the way to a 64-22 rout. Cody Hodges led the team with 19 points, Joe Mendoza added 12 and Chayse Rives had 10. The seventh B team won 47-19 behind 14 points from Eddie Ruiz. Eddie Lacey added eight points. The eighth grade A team won 66-51. Nick Whitley led the way with 17 points, Greg Ewing had 15, James Miller had 12 and Steven Northern had eight. The eighth B team romped to a 45-26 victory. Bryan Cagle led the team with 14 points, and Daniel Camahan chipped in nine.

Haley: he'll be back next year

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - Charles Haley, the Dallas Cowboys' star defensive end, has retired again. "My career might be over this year, but I'm looking forward to next year and getting back into the grind again," Haley said before leaving Tuesday for back surgery in California. "I hope I can possibly play this year, but if not, then maybe I'll have an opportunity next year," he said. Haley had told The Dallas Morning News Monday he was retiring. It was the fourth time in his career Haley had announced his retirement. Right on form, he recanted again. The player, who has a herniated disk, said he will likely undergo surgery today. But he adds that he will "try to make an effort to come back and play this season if I can make the playoffs." But coach Barry Switzer said there was no way Haley could bounce back from surgery this season. "The season is over for Charles and we'll see what happens about next year," Switzer said. "He could still be a good third-down player for next year if he decides to come back and play. But it's over for him this year. His MRI says he can't play." Asked which Haley he believed, the retiring Haley or the unretying Haley, Switzer said, "I believe both of them. Maybe he is just jerking you around. He's capable of doing that. I'm happy about his positive attitude for the future." The Cowboys moved Leon Lett from tackle to Haley's defensive end spot. Switzer said Lett's move might produce "another Bruce Smith or Reggie White. He could be a devastating 300-pound force. He will be excellent against the running game. He will be able to rush the passer with his strength but I can't tell you his sack potential." Lett was tried at end several years ago before being moved to tackle. Haley had told Switzer at halftime of Dallas' 24-17 loss to the Washington Redskins Sunday that he couldn't continue because of lower back pain. "He was in tears he was hurting so bad," Switzer said.

An MRI test on his back has been sent to a Los Angeles doctor for comparison with previous tests. In Los Angeles, Haley was to discuss the results with Dr. Robert Watkins. "Charles is having surgery on Wednesday," Dallas owner Jerry Jones said. "We have no idea when he will be back. We like the way he played last year coming off back surgery." Jones said he expected Haley to return to the Cowboys. "We intend to be very patient," Jones said. Haley, 31, had a similar ailment last year, but Watkins repaired the problem and Haley returned to the Cowboys after announcing his retirement during the offseason. The Cowboys have had the NFL's top defense the past two seasons, but the unit is ranked only 12th this year. Haley has 10-1/2 of the team's 28 sacks this season. Haley, who has won two Super Bowl rings, each with the San Francisco 49ers and Cowboys, was 3-1/2 sacks short of reaching 100 career sacks.

Haley missed five starts in 1993 because of back problems. The pain subsided last year and he led the team with 12-1/2 sacks and made the Pro Bowl. "We're less of a team without Charles Haley," Jones said.

North Dakota cowboy wins bareback with 87

LAS VEGAS (AP) - By his own account, Wayne Herman hadn't exactly performed well through four rounds of the $3 million National Finals Rodeo. On Tuesday night, he was at his best. Herman, of Dickinson, N.D., scored an 87 in bareback riding on a horse named Brown Bomber to win the round in the Thomas & Mack Center. "I've had an 87 before, but I don't remember being any higher than 87," said Herman, whose best NFR performance prior to Tuesday was a tie for fourth. "I'd seen him a few times, but I hadn't ridden him before. He did pretty much what I thought he would do." Herman won the world championship in 1992, but entered the NFR this year in fifth place overall. He had dropped to eighth before Tuesday's first place, and the $11,035 prize brought him back up to fifth. "I knew it would take at least 80 points to get a check," he said. "It was the best pen, I knew that. I guess that made me try a little harder." Deb Greenough of Red Lodge, Mont., was second at 84 and Mark Gomes of Hutchinson, Texas, was third at 83. Australian Troy Dunn is the unofficial winner in bull riding with an 89. Currently in second place is Adam Carrillo of Stephenville, Texas, with an 86 and third is Jerome Davis of Archdale, N.C., with an 84. The results are unofficial pending a Wednesday re-ride awarded to Mark Cain of Atoka, Okla. Cain was given the re-ride after his bull, Hard Promises, fell during the ride. Team ropers Doyle Gellerman of Nampa, Idaho, and Britt Bockius of Claremore, Okla., set an arena record with a 3.8-second run. Gellerman and Bockius also had the previous record, 4.1 seconds set in 1994. Kevin Stewart of Glen Rose, Texas, and Martin Lucero of Villanueva, Calif., were second in 4.6 seconds and David Motes of Fresno, Calif., and Mike Beers of Powell Butte, Ore., were third in 4.8.

Tom Reeves, who had lost his top spot in the world standings Monday night, reclaimed the lead with a first-place ride Tuesday. Reeves, of Stephenville, Texas, scored an 82 to increase his season earnings to $109,325. Steve Dollarhide of Wikieup, Ariz., was second at 81 and Chance Dixon of Kittitas, Wash., and Derek Clark of Colcord, Okla., tied for third with 80. In calf roping, Fred Whitfield put a little more distance between himself and second-place Joe Beaver with a tie for second on Tuesday. Whitfield has earned $115,500 this season, $24,260 ahead of Beaver. In steer wrestling, Ote Berry reclaimed his lead for the world title with a fourth place in the round. Berry won $3,167 to increase his total earnings to $81,441, $2,323 ahead of Mike Smith of Jerome, Idaho.

Olajuwon helps Rockets to pay back Jazz

By The Associated Press
Given the playoff history between Houston and Utah, quite a rivalry has developed between the two Midwest Division teams.

After the Jazz defeated the Rockets by seven points last week in Houston, it was time for Houston to return the favor on Tuesday night. Hakeem Olajuwon scored 25 points, including four in the last 54 seconds, in a 103-100 victory at the Delta Center.

"It's a great rivalry; Hall-of-Famers on both sides," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "We never gave up. I'm proud of the way we hung in there."

Houston has defeated the Jazz in the playoffs the last two seasons on the way to back-to-back NBA titles.

"I think they showed why they are the world champions," said Utah coach Jerry Sloan, whose team lost to the Rockets in the playoffs last season. "When they went back inside to Olajuwon, it was very difficult for us to maintain our defensive intensity."

A rivalry of sorts has also developed between the Lakers and Spurs, but the teams' latest meeting was a lot more lopsided than last season's second-round series.

San Antonio routed the Lakers 117-89 behind David Robinson's 24 points, although his team had things well enough in hand that he sat out the fourth quarter.

"San Antonio played well and did everything they're supposed to do," Los Angeles' Cedric Ceballos said. "When we play them next time, we'll worry about what we need to do."

In other NBA games, it was New York 92, Dallas 87; Indiana 108, Philadelphia 91; Phoenix 112, Vancouver 108; Seattle 119, Toronto 89; and Orlando 114, the Los Angeles Clippers 105.

Olajuwon's hook shot gave the Rockets a 101-100 lead with 11 seconds to play, but the Jazz couldn't score.

John Stockton passed to Bryon Russell on the baseline, and the ball bounced off Russell and out of bounds with three seconds left. Stockton fouled Sam Cassell on the inbound with 1.9 seconds remaining, and Cassell hit both free throws. Karl Malone's 26-footer at the buzzer skimmed off the rim.

Malone finished with 27 points and 12 rebounds, and Chris Morris added 21.

For Houston, Robert Horry scored 25, including five three-pointers. Clyde Drexler scored 10 of his 17 points in the final quarter.

Spurs 117, Lakers 89
Sean Elliott had 22 points for San Antonio, which led 55-38 at the half and by as many as 32 points in the fourth quarter.

Ceballos led the visiting Lakers with 16 points.

The Lakers played most of the game without forward Elden Campbell, who was assessed his second technical foul and ejected with 4:00 left in the second quarter.

Pacers 108, 76ers 91
Despite Vernon Maxwell's 35 points, Philadelphia lost its 11th straight, this time to Indiana.

Maxwell scored 22 in the first quarter, a 76ers record. He topped the record of 21 first-period points set by Julius Erving against Chicago on March 28, 1979.

The host Pacers used a 14-5 spurt to start the second half and pull away from Philadelphia. Mark Jackson had a season-high 13 assists as Indiana snapped a three-game losing streak.

Reggie Miller scored 23 points to lead an Indiana offense that had six players in double figures. Rookie Jerry Stackhouse had 26 points for the 76ers.

Knicks 92, Mavericks 87
Patrick Ewing had 22 points and 10 rebounds and keyed a decisive third-quarter run as New York handed Dallas its ninth loss in 10 games.

The Knicks broke the game open by starting the third quarter with a 18-8 run, with Ewing scoring the last six points.

Jamal Mashburn led the Mavericks, 1-4 on a six-game road trip, with 21 points.

Suns 112, Grizzlies 108
For expansion Vancouver, it's 15 straight losses and counting.

After falling in Phoenix, the Grizzlies' losing streak is edging closer to the NBA record of 20 straight losses.

Charles Barkley gave Phoenix a quick start, then returned late in the game to help the Suns win. He scored 11 of his 24 points in the first quarter.

Rookie Michael Finley scored 25 points for the Suns, while Blue Edwards and Anthony had 22 points each for the Grizzlies. Byron Scott scored six of his 14 points in the last 43 seconds.

SuperSonics 119, Raptors 89
The regular referees can't return soon enough for Toronto's Oliver Miller.

Furious over being ejected by replacement referee Michael Krom after getting two technicals, Miller picked up a chair and looked ready to throw it until teammates dragged him toward the dressing room.

For Seattle, Shawn Kemp scored

21 points and Gary Payton 18.

Tracy Murray led the Raptors with 23 points, including 16 in the opening quarter when he sank 4-of-4 three-pointers.

Magic 114, Clippers 105
Anfernee Hardaway had 38 points to help Orlando hold off Los Angeles.

Loy Vaught had 22 points and rookie point guard Brent Barry 14 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter for the Clippers to help turn a 13-point deficit into a 96-94 lead with 5:50 to play. But the Orlando defense stiffened, holding Los Angeles to just one field goal in the final 6:36.

Vanderbilt upsets No. 15 Virginia

By The Associated Press
Although Vanderbilt has problems scoring, the Commodores are finding ways to win.

"We're 5-1 because we have big hearts, a lot of pride, we hustle and we try to outwork the other team," said Malik Evans, who had 19 points and 11 rebounds as Vanderbilt upset 15th-ranked Virginia 61-48 Tuesday night.

Although they won their fifth straight game, the Commodores shot horribly from the field (32.8 percent) and the foul line. They made up for it, however, by crashing the offensive boards and playing smothering defense.

"The coaches told us they would try to control the boards," said guard Drew Maddux, who scored 12 points for Vanderbilt. "It's a tribute to our big men and wing men who attacked the boards. Our team really outlasted them."

Vanderbilt outrebounded Virginia 51-40, including a 22-14 edge on the offensive boards. The Commodores got 15 of those in the second half.

"It wouldn't have mattered what defense they played. They could have played with three or four guys," Virginia coach Jeff Jones said. "We stood around. We watched. We played as individuals. They played like a basketball team."

Only one other Top 25 team lost Tuesday night, with No. 11 Missouri falling to Arkansas 104-93.

In other games involving ranked teams, it was No. 2 Villanova 70, Miami 68; No. 4 Arizona 84, Montana 66; No. 7 Memphis 89, Georgia State 69; No. 8 Mississippi State 123, Troy State 73; No. 12 Iowa 78, Northern Iowa 73; and No. 22 Michigan 69, LSU 68.

Vanderbilt hasn't lost since falling to North Carolina in the first round of the Maui Invitational. The Commodores later beat defending national champion UCLA in that tournament.

Virginia, which has started slowly in every game this season, never got going this time. It trailed 29-24 at the half, and Vanderbilt slowly built its margin as the Cavaliers' shooting woes continued throughout the second half. Virginia was only 11-for-32 in the second half.

Virginia made only one of 18 attempts from behind the three-point arc. Harold Deane, the Cavaliers' leading scorer at 17 points per game, scored only four points on 1-for-12 shooting from the floor, missing all eight of his three-point attempts.

"I made some bad decisions and took some bad shots," Deane said. "I've been through this before. You find out how good a team you are if you can bounce back from losses like this. It just didn't happen tonight."

Curtis Staples and Courtney Alexander scored 11 points each for Virginia, while Vanderbilt's Frank Seckar had five three-pointers in his 17-point game.

No. 2 Villanova 70, Miami 68
After visiting Villanova blew a nine-point lead in the final 53 seconds, Kerry Kittles hit a layup with 1.8 seconds left to give the Wildcats the win. Miami rallied from a 67-58 deficit and tied the game on Steve Edwards' three-pointer with 12.4 seconds to go.

Kittles finished with 20 points, but the winning layup was his only points of the second half. Alex Fraser and Clifton Clark had 12 points apiece for Miami (3-1 overall, 1-1 Big East).

The Wildcats (6-0, 2-0) are off to their best start since 1984-85, when they won the national championship. Their No. 2 ranking is the highest in school history.

No. 4 Arizona 84, Montana 66
In Tucson, Joseph Blair had 16 points and 13 rebounds and Michael Dickerson scored 17 points as Arizona (6-0) struggled early before downing Montana.

A 15-2 run midway through the second half put the game away for Arizona. Corey Williams' free throw ended that spree with 10:42 to go and Arizona ahead 58-32. The Wildcats extended the lead to as much as 28 points in the final eight minutes.

Kirk Walker led the Grizzlies (5-1) with 19 points and Brent Smith added 16.

No. 7 Memphis 89, Georgia St. 69
Playing at home, Memphis (4-0) was led by Mingo Johnson and Lorenzen Wright, who scored 25 points each. Wright also had 17 rebounds in the win over Georgia State (0-3).

Wright, who has reached double figures in scoring and rebounding in every game, controlled the inside while Johnson was scoring from outside, including half of his 10 three-point shots.

Terrence Brandon led the Panthers with 26 points and 13 rebounds.

No. 8 Mississippi St. 123, Troy St. 73
In Starkville, Darryl Wilson scored 26 points, Dontae' Jones had 21 and Marcus Bullard 20 as Mississippi State (4-0) set a school scoring record. The winners reached the 100-point mark with 5:59 remaining.

Wilson broke the school career record for three-pointers with 7:53 left in the first half. His second of four threes in the game, and 167th of his career, broke the school record set by Tony Watts from 1989-92.

Troy State (1-4), losing its fourth straight game, played without its top two rebounders, both out with injuries, and were outrebounded 52-26.

Jeff Black paced the Trojans with 18 points.

Arkansas 104, No. 11 Missouri 93
In Fayetteville, Jesse Pate sank two consecutive three-pointers during a 16-3 run that helped Arkansas hand Missouri (4-1) its first loss of the season.

Arkansas (4-2) set a school record with 18 blocked shots, including six by Derek Hood. But Missouri shot 47 free throws and made 38, including 21 of 28 in the first half. The Tigers played the final six seconds with four players because coach Norm Stewart refused to substitute after Jason Sutherland, who scored 32 points, fouled out.

Kareem Reid led Arkansas with 22.

No. 12 Iowa 78, N. Iowa 73
In Cedar Falls, Jess Settles scored 14 of his season-high 20 points in the first half and Iowa held on to beat Northern Iowa.

The Panthers (2-1) led by as many as nine points early and kept it close throughout even though Iowa (6-1) enjoyed a big advantage in rebounding and at the free-throw line.

Jason Daisy, averaging 31.5 points, led Northern Iowa with 23.

No. 22 Michigan 69, LSU 68
In Baton Rouge, freshman Louis Bullock rebounded a missed free throw, drove the length of the court and sank a 12-footer with 3.8 seconds left to lift Michigan to victory.

Bullock got the ball when LSU's Landers Nolley missed two foul shots. LSU had a final chance with three seconds left, but Ronnie Henderson stepped out of bounds just past midcourt, turning the ball over to the Wolverines.

It was the fourth victory in a row - all on the road - for Michigan (6-2). LSU (2-3) was playing the third of eight straight home games.

Albert White led Michigan with 14 points, while LSU was led by Ronnie Henderson, who had 27.

Molitor makes deal with Twins

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball's free-agent market is picking up, with Paul Molitor agreeing to a deal with the Minnesota Twins - his hometown team - and Wade Boggs returning to the New York Yankees.

On the first busy day of the free-agent signing season, Molitor agreed Tuesday to a $2 million, one-year contract with Minnesota. The 39-year-old designated hitter has the option of staying with the Twins in 1997 at a $2 million salary.

"Every night when I lay down, I kept saying 'Minnesota,'" said Molitor, a St. Paul, Minn., native who completed an $11 million, three-year deal with Toronto.

Boggs, 37, gets about $4 million over two years for returning to the Yankees, who have an option for 1998.

"In Wade Boggs, we're assured of penciling in our lineup a future Hal of Famer and a perennial 300 hitter," Yankees general manager Bob Watson said. "Wade is obviously an important piece to our 1996 puzzle."

With the Boggs signing complete, the Yankees seem set to announce a deal that sends Tino Martinez from Seattle to New York for third baseman Russ Davis and pitcher Sterling Hitchcock. New York first wants Martinez to agree to a long-term deal.

Watson, leaving the Yankees' Tampa, Fla., offices and making a rare trip to New York, planned to meet today with free agent pitcher David Cone and his agent, Steve Fehr.

HIGHLIGHTS
 By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — If federal grant money comes with strings attached, Texas Education Commissioner Dr. Mike Moses doesn't want it.

Last week, Moses rejected a plan by the Texas Health Commissioner David Smith to apply for a $500,000 federal grant from the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. The money could be used for health services, such as AIDS education, counseling and nutrition programs. Minnesota, California and Michigan received grants under the same program.

And though CDC officials say the terms of the grant permit — but do not require — pregnancy counseling and condom distribution on campuses, Moses held fast on his choice not to apply.

Moses' action is consistent with his decision earlier this month to decline a $1.35 million federal grant from the CDC, to be used for AIDS education and prevention programs.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic Deputy Education Commissioner Joe Neely said TEA officials understand the importance of health issues but would rather concentrate the agency's resources on reading, writing and arithmetic.

"It's a matter of priorities. Our primary concern is on improving student learning and instructional programs — teaching kids to read, write and compute. Certainly other things are important. It's a matter of who takes the lead," Neely told the Austin American-Statesman, adding that sex education and other controversial issues can sap the agency's main mission — academics.

Spith said he sees a pullback on the issue of school health. "This worries me. We should not be turning away money that can be used by local communities for the health needs of children." He said 1.5 million of Texas' 3.6 million school children are without health insurance.

Montford Won't Run for Senate State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, said he won't seek the Democratic Party's nomination for Republican Phil Gramm's U.S. Senate seat.

Montford, a lawyer whose tenure in the Senate began in 1983, said he wants to remain in the Texas Legislature as the federal government shifts more authority to the states.

"It's obvious that the states will have greater and greater responsibilities to solve our nation's problems. I, for one, welcome the challenge."

Gramm is running for both reelection and the presidency under Texas' "LBJ Law," which was passed to allow then-Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson to run for president in 1960.

White Set to Be Demo Chief Former state Sen. Hector Uribe of Brownsville ended his campaign for Texas Democratic Party chairman last week, clearing the way for Houston lawyer Bill White to become the party's next chief.

White, a leading Democratic fund-raiser and former No. 2 official in the U.S. Energy Department, has the support of the top statewide Democratic elected officials for the party post. Calling White a clear favorite, Uribe said he won't challenge White at the Dec. 9 meeting of the party's executive committee, where a new chairman will be chosen to serve about seven months.

Uribe also said he won't be a candidate for chairman at the party's state convention next June, where a chairman will be elected to a full, two-year term.

Other Capital Highlights Lawyers who post advertisements on the World Wide Web must pay $50 to have the content reviewed by bar officials, the State Bar of Texas announced last week. And, every time a lawyer changes the content of his web-page ad, another $50 will be charged by the State Bar for an additional review. Some lawyers complained of the strict new regulation, but a bar official said the content reviews are designed to protect the public from misleading ads.

A U.S. Rep. Steve Stockman, R-Friendswood, defaulted on $15,630 in student loans in 1994, the Beaumont Enterprise reported last week in a copyright story. A Stockman aide told reporters the congressman should not have been on the default list because he made a $2,000 payment that was not credited, but aides couldn't find the canceled check. Stockman used the loan to attend the University of Houston-Clear Lake and graduated in 1991 with an accounting degree.

A Texans now wager more than $3 billion a year on the state lottery, more than 12 times the amount wagered on horses last year. The difference may explain why some of the state-licensed parimutuel tracks are close to bankruptcy. Joe Straus Jr., chairman of San Antonio's Retama Park board of directors, told the San Antonio Express-News legislation is needed to allow off-track wagering and lottery ticket sales on horse tracks.

A state health officials are making their annual plea to Texans: get influenza vaccinations or suitable medication. At the onset of symptoms, "we would advise you to call your doctor," said Lynne Schuster, staff epidemiologist at the Texas Department of Health. Flu cases have been confirmed in Pasadena, Dallas County and Bell County.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Thirteen days after the death of Sergei Grinkov, the remaining cast of his figure-skating tour took the ice and dedicated their show to him.

"What we're presenting, on Sergei's shoulders, is the best we've got, and I'm sure it's going to be good enough. We're going to give you something real special," headliner Scott Hamilton said during Sunday's annual preview show of the Discover Card Stars on Ice.

Grinkov, 28, who paired with wife Ekaterina Gordeeva to win gold medals at both the 1988 and 1994 Winter Olympics, collapsed on the ice and died of a heart attack Nov. 20, five days before the tour was to begin.

Sergei Grinkov was one of the finest people I've ever had the pleasure to know, and I speak for everyone in this family," Hamilton said. The cast also includes Olympic medalists and world champions Kristi Yamaguchi, Katarina Witt, Paul Wylie and Kurt Browning.

DEMOPOLIS, Ala. (AP) — Heather Whitestone was able to lure her fiancé away from politics long enough for him to join her in a parade.

John McCallum, an aide to House Speaker Newt Gingrich, accompanied his bride-to-be on Saturday as the former Miss America led the annual Christmas on the River in this town about 90 miles west of Montgomery.

"Heather asked me to come along," he said. "She said it would be a long, hectic day and she wanted me to be with her. I was happy to oblige."

HRMC Auxiliary meets for Christmas luncheon, party

The Hereford Regional Medical Center Auxiliary met Monday in the hospital dining room for a Christmas luncheon. The dining room was decorated with red tablecloths, red candle centerpieces, and by each member's plate, a red rose. Members reported 183 volunteer hours during the month of November. Twenty-three baby books were given for the same month.

The Auxiliary will participate in the hospital canned food drive planned for the week of Dec. 4-10. Food donated during this drive will be given to needy hospital families.

Flyers were distributed encouraging members to become involved in the national bone marrow drive. This drive is of particular concern because of the need to help Jordina Arguello, the 4-year-old great granddaughter of Hereford residents Wirt and Irene Albracht, who has acute lymphatic leukemia.

Members present were Bettie Dickson, Janis Bell, Mary Jane Burrus, Gladys Caviness, Lupe Cerda, Margaret Daniels, Billie Kelley, Theda Seiver, Anna Stindt, Bonnie Sublett, Quintna Waits and Mary Williamson.

Woman of the Year nominations accepted

The Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will be accepting nominations for Woman of the Year until Dec. 29.

Nominations may be mailed to the Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 192, Hereford, or they will be accepted at the office, 701 N. Main St.

The award, presented by the Women's Division, will be given to a division member who has been active during the past year. The winner will be announced at the Women's Division's first quarterly meeting of 1996.

Persons submitting a nominee need not be a member of the Women's Division. Nominations should be in writing, giving qualifications and reasons why the person named should be considered. The letter does not have to be signed.

Nominees will be judged on accomplishments done for and on behalf of the Women's Division and/or the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Other outside activities will then be considered such as community work, charitable work, church activities, youth work, etc.

Club contributes to United Way

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: We use a lot of pumpkin-pie spice. Is there a way we can mix spices to make our own more economically?

We enjoy your column and books. Keep up the good work! — Betty Traxler, Kingwood, Texas

Pumpkin-pie spice is a mixture of four different spices that you can easily mix together as needed.

To make pumpkin pie spice for one pie, mix together:

- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/8 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg

All you need to do is double or triple this recipe if you are baking more than one pie or want to make up a big batch to keep handy. — Heloise

CLEAN SPONGE
Dear Heloise: I store my dirty sponge and vegetable brush on the top shelf of my dishwasher. This way, they get washed every time I turn on the dishwasher. — Susan Bashor, Bakersfield, Calif.

Be sure to secure the sponge with a clothespin so it doesn't end up on the bottom of the dishwasher. — Heloise

Officers for FCE Council

Grisham to speak at Flame meeting

Hereford Flame Fellowship will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center. Guest speaker will be Avis Grisham of Hereford.

Mrs. Grisham was born and raised near Plainview. She married Milford Grisham in 1953.

She attended Wayland Baptist College and Bethesda Bible School in Portland, Ore.

The Grishams were missionaries in Ghana, West Africa, for two years and for the past 31 years have served as missionaries in Santa Fe, Argentina.

During the years in Argentina the Grishams have established four churches, operated a print shop and bookstore and have ministered in various other areas in Argentina. They are presently involved in the construction of a Christian camp in Santa Fe.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

Lighting contest entries requested

The public is invited to take part in this year's Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division Christmas Lighting Contest.

Entry forms for the contest can be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St.

Deadline to enter the contest is 5 p.m. Dec. 11. Judging will be Dec. 11-13 and winners will be announced Dec. 17.

Entries will be accepted in residential and commercial categories for total home or business or window/door.

The smallest mammal is the Kitti's hog-nosed bat which is about the size of a bumblebee.

SERVICEMASTER BY SHAW

LONNIE SHAW - OWNER/OPERATOR

Are you tired of having your furniture setting on soggy carpets after having them cleaned and then looking ready for another cleaning in only three months? As recognized experts in all forms of carpet and upholstery cleaning, SERVICEMASTER believes that quality service includes a thorough knowledge of carpets, fabrics, dirt and cleaning. Centrally located, just phone 354-8551 or 655-2894 for free estimates. You can trust SERVICEMASTER to do the best possible job for you. Skilled workmen and modern cleaning equipment assure you that the job will be done perfectly the first time. They specialize in carpets and rugs of all types including Oriental rugs, as well as fine furniture and drapery cleaning. Insurance work such as smoke damaged carpet, water damage and other tough cleaning problems are easily solved by these pros of the carpet cleaning business as they remove odors and stains and provide fabric protectors when needed. Your carpets require cleaning at least once a year, and more often if they're subjected to excessive traffic or soiling. You'll want to have them cleaned professionally to restore that "sparkling" new look. A clean carpet reflects your care for a beautiful home. Residential, commercial and industrial carpet cleaning is the full-time job of SERVICEMASTER BY SHAW! You must be 100% satisfied — they offer a written guarantee, if not 100% satisfied, they will redo the job, no questions asked.

As the composers of this 1995 Holiday Business Review, we are pleased to be able to recommend this truly professional service to all of our readers. Mention this article and receive a $10.00 discount.

Wealthy collector sharing treasures in special exhibit of items, 1885-1945

EDITOR'S NOTE - Now here's a show with something for everyone. Call it art or call it an eccentric collection of gimcracks or call it history or call it entertainment, it's food for the curiosity. And this spring, they're taking it on the road.

By NICOLE WINFIELD
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - When Mitchell Wolfson Jr.'s collection of decorative and propaganda art grew too big for his home, he rented space at the Washington Storage Company.

When he used up all 58,000 square feet of that warehouse in the heart of Miami Beach's Art Deco district, he bought the building and suggested the company set up shop at another one a few blocks away.

He eventually filled that warehouse, too.

What he filled it with were small and big treasures, such as an Adolf Hitler pincushion that invites users to stick a pin in the "Axis," and a 1929 Norristown, Pa., theater facade, a brilliant example of Art Nouveau that greets visitors in the lobby of the beautifully restored landmark building.

"Whoever knew it would get so big?" Wolfson marveled recently after a tour of the second, former Washington Storage Co.

Certainly not Washington Storage, which is now out of business.

And certainly not Wolfson, who has cultivated his hobby - "aesthetic tourism," he calls it - into the 70,000-piece Mitchell Wolfson Jr. Collection, a portion of which has been opened to the public inside that very first warehouse.

Wolfson, 56, is heir to the great Wometco Enterprises fortune, an estimated $84 million endowment that has allowed him to spend his life traveling the world, gathering history and cultivating an eclectic personality to go with it.

For years, Wolfson traversed North America in his private train of restored Pullman cars, inviting friends on weeklong trips during which they dressed for six-course dinners. The train doesn't run anymore. It was a victim of Hurricane Andrew in 1992.

Now, after eight years of planning and two decades of antiquing, the Wolfsonian museum has opened its great wrought-iron gates with an inaugural exhibit, "The Arts of Reform and Persuasion, 1885-1945," and a citywide celebration of "modernity."

It is being heralded as the most unique personal collection of its kind to be opened to the public, a world-class educational resource for scholars and the casual art-history buff alike.

For art-starved Miami, it's a godsend.

"To me, Mickey Wolfson is giving Miami, Florida, and the U.S. a true treasure gift," says Diane Pilgrim, director of New York's Cooper-Hewitt Museum. "His collections are without question idiosyncratic and run the gamut from some of the most beautiful things you've ever seen to some of the most fascinating things in terms of social history. There's no collection like it."

Erika Doss, head of the American Studies department at the University of Colorado at Boulder, received a six-week grant from the Wolfsonian Foundation to study at the museum's research center this summer and was impressed by its breadth.

"The collection is incredibly diverse, but incredibly focused," she said. "In many ways it's material that has been forgotten or ignored by other collections."

Nevertheless, Wolfson's collection is hardly random.

"It reflects a very intelligent approach to collecting that's grounded in the history and culture of the period," says Bernard Reilly, head curator of prints and photographs at the U.S. Library of Congress. "In many ways it's a historian's collection."

Wolfson calls it his protagonist, a self-portrait.

What the collection and the 256-piece exhibit attempt to show is a way to look at history through design: everything from furniture, toys and posters to pottery, architecture and painting.

The collection dates from 1885-1945, a window that saw the Industrial Revolution, two World Wars and new political ideologies that reshaped nations.

The objects produced during the time reflected the way people dealt with the changes: Aerodynamic irons embraced modernity, hand-carved wooden chairs resisted it.

The exhibit, due to tour nationally and internationally through the end of the millennium, is divided into three chronological sections: Confronting Modernity, Celebrating Modernity and Manipulating Modernity: Political Persuasion.

Of particular interest to Wolfson is the latter. His extensive collection of Works Progress Administration, Nazi and fascist-era propaganda includes posters, books and a stunning, three-dimensional continuous profile of Mussolini which epitomized the fascists' fascination with speed and simultaneity.

"Transportation, communication - there were all these advances in technology that radically altered one's sense of time and space," says Wendy Kaplan, the Wolfsonian's chief curator. "What people don't realize is that there was an interest in design. There was an agenda."

To illustrate her point, Kaplan reads an entire theory of Norwegian nationalism and independence into a wonderfully elaborate wood chair, covered with the heads of carved dragons.

Beautiful? Hardly. It's green and gaudy and looks uncomfortable.

But the chair, made in 1899, is a perfect example of how Norwegian artisans revived the folkloric Viking style to encourage nationalistic sentiment in a country that was seeking to break free from Swedish rule.

It's somewhat obscure, and the ordinary museum-goer probably isn't well-versed in Norwegian history or Viking design. But well-written wall texts, a digitalized audio guide and a stunning and informative 352-page catalog gives a thorough understanding of how the turn-of-the-century world is understood through design.

Wolfson admits now the 1945 cutoff of his collection was premature. He says if he had known 30 years ago that the Cold War would end with the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, he would have kept collecting.

He calls himself a humanist and founded a women's club "to promote the art of intelligent conversation." He was the only male member until recently.

Wolfson says he has never had buyer's remorse and remembers only six objects he regrets not buying: "I was too cheap."

He could hardly be accused of scrimping at the Wolfsonian.

In addition to donating his collection, he has put up more than $10 million over the eight years the museum has been in the works, a renovation which has topped $15 million.

He successfully wooed Wolfsonian director Peggy Loar from the Smithsonian's traveling exhibit service, SITES, and has enlisted her to oversee the foundation, the museum and renovations to the Genoa, Italy, branch of the Wolfsonian, a turn-of-the-century castle Wolfson bought on one of his trips.

Over the next several years, Wolfson's financial input will decrease until the museum and its related endeavors are self-sufficient, Loar said.

"Mickey started it, but allowed it to go beyond him," she said. "We're either going to make it or not."

Wolfson has a similar attitude: "Nobody knows who's coming to the party. But we've sent out the invitations."

They will take the show on the road April 28 when it opens at the Los Angeles Museum of Art, where reservations are recommended.

Other stops on the tour include the Seattle Art Museum, the Victoria & Albert Museum in London and the Museum Boymans-van Buning in Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

Wolfson talks a lot in metaphors, preferring the word "movement" or "event" to "museum," and likening Miami in the '90s to Paris in the '20s. He sees his role as collector as that of an honored middleman, an inspirer.

About his collection, he says, "I hold it because I want to guarantee its protection. I'm private, but I don't mind sharing it."
