City will support incinerator plans

Hereford city commissioners voted Monday to issue a letter of support of an Amarillo firm that might build a steam-generating incinerator here.

The city is keenly interested in the project because the city must close its landfill by next Oct. 8. The city had considered building its own incinerator system, but decided it was too costly.

An 18-year-old Hereford man was arrested Monday night at an accident at 15th and U.S. Highway 60 for disorderly conduct and interference with a peace officer.

As DPS troopers were investigating a minor two-vehicle accident, the man went up to the passenger side of a patrol car and knocked on the window. News digest

PITTSBURGH - Hapless athletes and veteran politicians love it. Funeral directors, real estate agents, job-hunters and movie-goers hate it. For seven months, a strike has idled Pittsburgh's two daily newspapers.

WASHINGTON - The government reached a settlement with two major airlines and is suing six others, accusing them of fixing fares in the $40 billion domestic passenger business.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - President-elect Clinton wraps up his Cabinet selections this week with the team that will inherit the military deployment in Somalia and the growing international effort to stop the massacre in Bosnia.

ACROSS THE USA - Tammy Sumey picked out a video game, toys, sweaters and other Christmas presents four months ago. She picked them up last week after completing her layaway payments. Layaway sales have been robust this holiday season. In tough times, it's a way to stay free of credit debt and still celebrate the holidays.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia - Serbia appears to be moving closer to world isolation, with hard-line President Slobodan Milosevic seemingly ahead in elections that foreign observers said were riddled with irregularities.

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has declared war on the Muslim fundamentalist Hamas movement, arguing that it will lead to peace. But his many critics call his deportation of 415 fundamentalist activists a major blunder.

Nazareth postmark canceled by ACLU

NAZARETH (AP) - Thousands of Christmas cards were postmarked with a special nativity scene before the mailings were halted because of an American Civil Liberties Union protest, the postmaster of this predominantly Catholic community says.

Most of the cards were sent to the Nazareth post office by collectors and by people who wanted their Christmas cards to be mailed with a Nazareth postmark, town postmistress Stephanie Dobmeier said.

The post office last offered the special postmark in 1990 when more than 5,000 postmark requests were received.

"We probably ended up with as many this year," Ms. Dobmeier said Monday night.

But the ACLU complained after seeing a story and picture distributed nationally last week by The Associated Press on the Nazareth postmark.

Joe Cook, ACLU director for the northern region of Texas, called the postmark a promotion of the Christian religion in clear violation of constitutional protection of the separation of church and state.

Cook said it was indefensible for postal officials to have allowed the postmark to be used. He said he complained Friday to Don Frisbee, supervising postmaster in Lubbock, requesting "an immediate end to the ... clear violation of the law."

"To his credit, Mr. Frisbee ... did act promptly, within 30 minutes of my notice, to order the Nazareth personnel to cease and desist use of the Christian postmark," Cook said.

The postmark, drawn by a local woman, shows a nativity scene: Mary and her husband, Joseph, adoring the infant Jesus. Two doves encircle the figures with a ribbon that proclaims "Love" and "Peace."

The postmark's bottom is dated Dec. 15, 1992, with Nazareth's name and zip code.

Ms. Dobmeier said the postmark was used in 1990 and again this year only after postal officials in Washington gave their approval.

Ms. Dobmeier declined to comment Friday night about Frisbee's order or about the ACLU's intervention. She deferred comment to her direct supervisor, Don Jones, in Lubbock or Frisbee.

The link from Jesus' hometown to the farming community about 60 miles southwest of Amarillo reaches back to its colonization by a German priest. A history of Holy Family Catholic Church says the Rev. Joseph Reisdorff in 1902 "wanted the parish to have a biblical name and be under the protection of the Holy Family."

Even though Jesus was born in Bethlehem, residents say, Nazareth's "Holy City" reputation shines this time of year.

People "seem to relate the town with the season," Ms. Dobmeier said.

Mauro files Chapter 7; can't pay $3.4M debts

AUSTIN (AP) - General Land Commissioner Garry Mauro says he will not abandon his career in public life even though he has been forced into personal bankruptcy, a move that leaves about $3.3 million of debt to taxpayers.

"I spent 20 years trying to affect public policy and 10 of those running for public office and I expect to run again," Mauro said.

Mauro filed for bankruptcy Monday, a move caused by his involvement in bad business dealings during the 1980s, he said.

Because all but about $100,000 of Mauro's debt is held by financial institutions taken over by the federal government, taxpayers probably will be left picking up some of the tab, said Gray Jolink, Mauro's attorney.

"It's a step that I detest," Mauro said. "I was raised to honor my obligations and pay my debts. For four years, I've pursued every avenue at my disposal to do just that. I've expended all my cash - more than $300,000 - and liquidated all my assets. I don't have anything left except my home, my car and my family. I've gone as far as I can go."

Mauro said the problems grew out of his decision to create a blind trust in 1984. That step was aimed at ending questions about possible conflicts of interest.

The trust, managed by his cousin Don, handled all Mauro's investments, most of which were in real estate ventures such as strip shopping malls, office buildings and apartment complexes. Most of the investments were limited joint ventures with other partners.

"When I started out things were going well, I thought I was smart. A couple of years later, I figured I was lucky. I found that I was neither smart nor lucky," he said.

"I learned that in business, well, business isn't something you dabble in, that having your affairs in a blind trust is not the best way to go. I learned business success depends on being able to devote all your time and energy to it," Mauro said. "I take full responsibility."

The bankruptcy filing does not reflect on his abilities to serve as land commissioner, Mauro said.

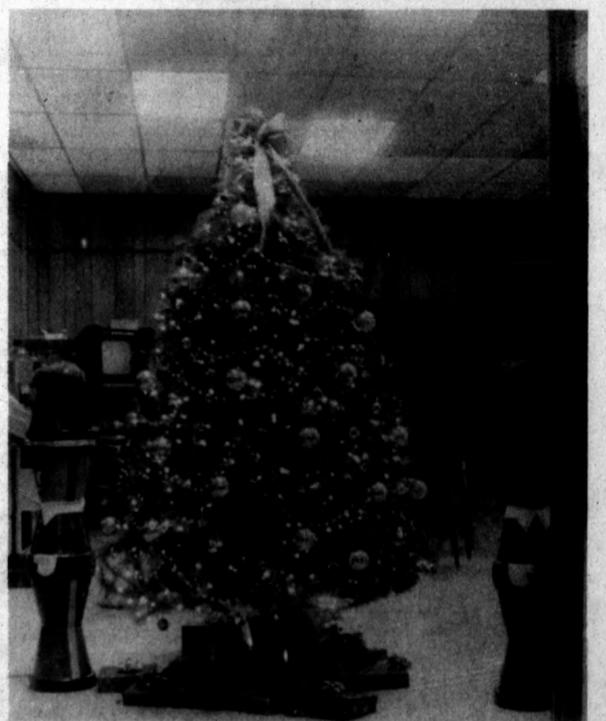

"I created a blind trust. I made a mistake possibly about who I appointed as my blind trustee. But I didn't have anything to do with the day-to-day management of this," Mauro said.

"I named the trustee and I was certain he would do a good job. And candidly, considering the bank and real estate markets in Texas, he probably did as good a job as he could have done or as I would have done if I had been involved in my own affairs."

Jolink said Mauro reached agreements with most of his creditors for payment of his debts.

But efforts to work with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or the Resolution Trust Corporation, which assumes control of failed savings and loans, failed, Jolink said, because of a "bureaucratic logjam."

Mauro said he and Jolink did their best at working with the federal regulators.

PHOENIX (AP) - Stevie Wonder, who helped lead a boycott of Arizona when the state refused to enact a civil rights holiday, is coming to help celebrate the first statewide Martin Luther King Day.

After years of national scorn and the loss of the 1993 Super Bowl, Arizona voters in November approved a paid state holiday honoring King.

Wonder, who vowed in 1986 he'd never perform in Arizona until it had a King Day, has agreed to take part Jan. 15 in a King-inspired musical spectacular, the city announced Thursday.

Also expected to attend is Rosa Parks, who inspired the Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott in 1955 by refusing to give up her seat to a white person.

Choose food donations for nutritional value

New Arrivals

Among the most thoughtful gifts to the less fortunate that can be given during the holidays is food. Especially during the Christmas season, local food drives organized by schools, stores, churches and other groups supplement local food pantries, shelters for the homeless and other services.

However, state health officials urge food donors to be selective in the kinds of foods they give.

"Often, people who qualify for food bank help are already undernourished," according to Barbara Keir, director of the Public Health Nutrition Program at the Texas Department of Health (TDH). She said that donors should try to contribute nutritious, easily stored goods in cans or durable boxes. Examples of foods she recommended are: Canned fruits and vegetables, canned fruit or vegetable juices, powdered milk, canned tuna or chicken, peanut butter, canned or dry beans or peas, canned soups and stews, macaroni and cheese mix, flour, cornmeal or masa harina, rice, noodles or spaghetti, oatmeal and cream of wheat, and ready-to-eat cereals.

Keir said that baby foods sometimes are scarce at food banks. "We encourage mothers to breastfeed if they can," she said. "But when they can't breastfeed, we urge them to give babies iron-fortified formula." Other suitable donations for infants include: plain baby food meats, fruits and vegetables or dry infant cereal.

She added that when choosing food donations for nutritional value, donors should select simple foods from the major food groups: milk and dairy products; meats, poultry and fish; cereals and grains; and fruits and vegetables.

Miss Streisand signed a music and movie deal with Sony USA, parent of both Sony Music and Columbia Pictures.

The companies, in an announcement Thursday, didn't disclose the terms. But a source who spoke on condition of anonymity said the contract runs for 10 years and has a maximum payoff of $60 million.

YMCA to start hoop leagues

The Hereford YMCA is signing up players for a youth basketball league for boys and girls in first-sixth grades. The season begins Jan. 23.

The leagues will have three age divisions: first and second grade; third and fourth grade; and fifth and sixth grade.

The registration fee is $18 per child--additional children in the same family are $15. All participants must be Y members, and youth memberships are $25. The entry deadline is Dec. 28.

Teams are coached by adult volunteers, which the YMCA also needs. Every game is supervised, and referees are provided. The league specializes in wholesome competition while teaching the fundamentals of team play and good sportsmanship. Every boy and girl plays in every game.

Organizer Barry Smith said that the participation was not as high as was hoped for the original date, probably because it was so close to Christmas.

The show went on, though and a saddle was presented to the high money-winner in each category: Wally Snelson, No. 1 and 2; Buttons Howard, No. 3; Doug Johnson, No. 4; Gerry Stamps, No. 5; and Steve Purcella, No. 6 and above.

There were four separate ropings: No. 6, No. 8 and No. 10 on Saturday and No. 12 on Sunday. The average winners in each received a belt buckle.

No. 6--1st go-round: Carolyn Johnson and James Copeland. 2nd go: Ab Henley and Carter Callan. Average: Buttons Howard and Ryan Rankin.

Blea on All-South-Plains team

JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Hereford lineman Steven Blea was named to the 1992 All-South Plains Class 4A-5A Football Team as selected by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

Blea was selected on both offense and defense. The team consists of 11 players on offense, 11 on defense, a punter and a placekicker plus a coach of the year. Blea was the only player to be picked on both sides of the ball.

At 6-foot-4 and 240 pounds, Blea was a two-year starter at offensive guard. His blocking graded out at 90 percent this season--the highest of any starter. He recorded 72 pancake blocks and allowed no sacks.

On defense, where he played tackle, he made 65 tackles, 10 for losses. He had six quarterback sacks and caused one fumble.

Overall, the senior captain helped lead the Whitefaces to an 8-3 record and a championship in District 1-4A in 1992.

He was also a first-team all-district selection on both sides of the ball, and was named to the second team offense of The Associated Press Sports Editors' Class 4A All-State team, which was announced last week.

Several of Hereford's opponents placed players on the All-South Plains team, including Player of the Year Damien Nails of Plainview. The Bulldogs' junior fullback ran for 1,468 yards this season, including 147 yards in a 19-7 bi-district win over Hereford.

Joe Adcock of Milwaukee posted 18 total bases in a 1954 game, setting a record.

The Coach of the Year is Louis Kelley of Estacado, who guided his team to the Class 4A semifinals.

Other members of the team are: Quarterback: Zebbie Lethridge, Jr., Estacado. Running backs: Nails; Chris Hines, Sr., Sweetwater. Tight end: Chris Adams, Sr., Estacado. Receivers: Alvin Milton, Sr., Coronado; Peter Puente, So., Levelland. Offensive tackles: Albert Trevino, Jr., Estacado; Caleb Holt, Sr., Plainview. Offensive guards: Blea; David Gearhart, Sr., Sweetwater. Center: Bryan Lickey, Jr., Snyder. Placekicker: Eric Langehenig, Jr., Andrews. Defensive linemen: Blea; Aaron Peters, Sr., Monterey; Brian Maloney, Sr., Coronado; Richard Essix, Sr., Estacado. Cowboys clinch division with Falcon massacre

ATLANTA (AP) - To Tony Casillas, winning the NFC East title by beating the Atlanta Falcons was particularly gratifying.

"No animosity or anything," said Casillas, a former Falcon who drew an especially caustic round of boos when he took the field before the Dallas Cowboys' 41-17 victory Monday night. "I was just glad to be able to do it here."

The second player selected in the 1986 draft, Casillas played five seasons in Atlanta - one time quitting, often injured. He was traded to Dallas during the 1991 training camp.

He said he couldn't believe the boos.

"I couldn't ever imagine that people would hate me anyways," he said. "I'm such a likeable guy."

Casillas lost his starting nose tackle job in Atlanta, but now plays left tackle in the Cowboys' 4-3 defense.

"For me this is really gratifying ... coming back and hearing all the boos in the stands, you know, people hate me," he said. "So I just like the way the scenario ended."

"I could never wear a shirt like this and play here in Atlanta," he said, holding up a brand new item proclaiming his team's first division championship since 1985. "No animosity or anything, but as long as Jerry Glanville's the coach, it will be the same old thing."

To most of the Cowboys, it definitely was a new thing.

They started in 1989 under coach Jimmy Johnson with a 1-15 season. They went to 7-9 a year later, then made the playoffs at 11-5. Now, they are 12-3 and division champions with a game remaining Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

"We've come a long way since that season (1989)," said Troy Aikman who completed 18 of 21 passes for 239 yards and three touchdowns. "Winning the East was absolutely a goal of ours and drawing the bye - it's one less game we have to play."

Johnson was proud of his team.

"I think most people in the country will recognize the NFC East as the most difficult division in all of football, and to be able to win it with still one game to go, it says something about our football team," Johnson said.

It meant little, he said, that his team gave up 372 yards passing to the Falcons, although four sacks chopped 37 yards off the total. The opportunistic Cowboys also recovered three of four Atlanta fumbles and turned them into 17 points.

Two fumbles became Cowboy touchdowns within 25 seconds early in the third period, putting the game out of reach.

"We thought at the half we really had a shot," said Glanville, whose team trailed 20-10 at the break. "We turned the ball over three times and we didn't get any turnovers. You've got to take some away."

Johnson wasn't concerned with numbers that didn't result in points.

"What we're trying to do is let them have all the yardage," he said. "But keep the ball out of the end zone. We relaxed a little bit at the end and let them have a touchdown."

"They can have all the yardage they want. We want to win games." He said the margin only meant "we're a better football team than Atlanta."

Aikman threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Kelvin Martin, an 18-yarder to Jay Novacek and a 23-yarder to Alvin Harper.

Lin Elliott had field goals of 47 and 22 yards.

Emmitt Smith scored on a pair of 29 yard scoring runs. He carried 24 times for 174 yards, which gave him

1,582 for the season, five fewer than Pittsburgh's Barry Foster.

"He can come on next week and have a big day, and I can come out and have a bad day, it's kinda hard to say," Smith said. "Right now, I'm more concerned about enjoying this victory."

"Hopefully there are better days coming. The yardage just came."

"There's more to win. That's the ultimate goal, to get to the Super Bowl."

The Cowboys' victory guaranteed Atlanta (6-9) a losing season.

"Tonight everything was out of sync," Falcons safety Scott Case said.

"It doesn't matter what level you play at or what brand of football you play, if you turn over the ball more than the other team you're more likely going to lose," said Atlanta quarterback Wade Wilson, who completed 30 of 41 passes for 342 yards and two touchdowns.

He hit Drew Hill early with a 6-yarder and Andre Rison late from 10 yards out.

The Falcons never quit, Cowboy linebacker Ken Norton said.

"Those guys were hitting harder at the end than they were at the beginning," he said.

Extra DB's recover Falcon fumbles

ATLANTA (AP) - Coach Jimmy Johnson of the Dallas Cowboys decided before the game that he didn't want his linebackers chasing Atlanta's fleet wide receivers all over the Georgia Dome.

As things turned out, it was a good decision.

"We put a couple of extra defensive backs in there in the nickel package and played with six defensive backs most of the night," Johnson said. "They're going to be able to get a little better movement. They're a little more active than the linebackers."

"They can run with those wide receivers. A couple of times we were able to strip the ball just because of the speed we had on the defensive side."

The move helped the Cowboys come up with three fumble recoveries that led to scores as Dallas routed the Falcons 41-17 Monday night and won the NFC East championship - the 14th division crown, but first since 1985 for the Cowboys.

Safety Thomas Everett came up with the first recovery on Atlanta's first play from scrimmage, a 14-yard pass from Wade Wilson to Mike Pritchard. Ken Norton stripped the ball away, and Everett returned it 15 yards to the Atlanta 35 to set up a 47-yard field goal by Lin Elliott.

Atlanta was still in the game at halftime, trailing 20-10. Ironically, the time of possession for each team was absolutely equal to its score at the break.

Less than four minutes into the third quarter, the Cowboys had taken control, striking for two quick touchdowns in a span of 25 seconds for a 34-10 lead that shattered Atlanta's hopes of an upset.

With 13:18 left in the third, one of the extra defensive backs, Kenneth Gant, stripped the ball from Steve Broussard at the end of an 11-yard run. Larry Brown recovered on the Atlanta 48, and it took the Cowboys three plays and just over 3 minutes to score.

The Cowboys got there on runs of 8 and 17 yards by Emmitt Smith, and a 23-yard scoring pass from Troy Aikman to Alvin Harper.

Atlanta's two-sport star, Deion Sanders, fumbled the ensuing kickoff, and Everett was there again, recovering on the Falcons' 29. Smith bounced out of a stack at right tackle, headed for the sideline and went the distance on the Cowboys' first play.

"It doesn't matter what level you play at or what brand of football you play, if you turn over the ball more than the other team you're more than likely going to lose," Wilson said.

It happened Monday night. The turnover count was Atlanta 3, Dallas 0.

A&M looks into payment allegations

DALLAS (AP) - The president of Texas A&M University has pledged a diligent inquiry into reports that five varsity football players received money year-round for work at a Dallas housing project that they didn't perform.

The university has found no evidence yet that payments from a prominent booster were excessive or were for work that wasn't performed, university President William H. Mobley said Monday during a news conference.

Among the players is the Aggies' leading rusher, sophomore Greg Hill, an honorable mention Associated Press All-America running back. The other players on the housing project's payroll for purported maintenance work were wide receiver Percy Singleton, linebacker Jessie Cox, wide receiver Brian Mitchell and lineman Darius Smith.

Warren Gilbert, who arranged for the payments to the athletes, is one of the largest Dallas operators of HUD-subsidized housing for the poor. A football player at Texas A&M in 1946 and 1947, he also serves with A&M head football coach R.C. Slocum and athletic director John David Crow on the board of the A&M Letterman Association.

The Dallas Morning News, which reported the allegations in its Sunday editions, said money paid to the players was written off as maintenance fees for Dallas low-income housing projects.

Gilbert has said he has provided jobs at his housing projects to about 100 high school and college students for maintenance work over the past five years, including 15 to 30 A&M football players.

In every instance, he said, the players earned the money during summers and school breaks, in accordance with Southwest Conference and NCAA regulations.

But if the newspaper's allegations are true it would be a violation of the NCAA's rules against extra benefits.

If proven, Texas A&M could be subjected to major sanctions. Possibilities include the NCAA's "death penalty."

Cold Bulls beat Heat

CHICAGO (AP) - One word describes Michael Jordan when he misses all 10 of his shots in the first three quarters and the Chicago Bulls trail by 15 points.

Dangerous. Jordan, held to three free throws for three periods, scored 15 points on 6-for-9 shooting in the fourth quarter as the Bulls outscored Miami 30-11 in the final 12 minutes and beat the Heat 86-82 on Monday night.

In Monday night's only other games, Cleveland edged Washington 111-107 in overtime and Philadelphia defeated Indiana 113-101.

BYU surprises Sooners

LAHAINA, Hawaii (AP) - A few words of caution to teams gunning for the Top 10: Avoid No. 9.

Since the regular season began, no ninth-ranked team has won a game. The quirk continued Monday night as No. 9 Oklahoma lost to Brigham Young in the opening round of the Maui Invitational tournament in Hawaii.

Arizona was ranked ninth during the week of Dec. 6-12, and lost to then-unranked Arkansas. Louisville was No. 9 the next week, and lost to Vanderbilt and Kentucky. Oklahoma was ranked ninth last week, but did not play.

The Sooners (5-1) were done in Monday when BYU's Kevin Nixon rebounded a missed 3-pointer, and hit a fallaway from the foul line with less than a second to play for a 76-75 victory.

In other Top 25 action, No. 1 Duke beat DePaul 89-73, No. 2 Kansas beat North Carolina State 84-64, No. 6 Michigan beat Central Michigan 94-69, No. 8 Iowa beat Eastern Michigan 103-66, No. 10 Arkansas beat Jackson State 123-76 and No. 19 Nebraska beat Texas-Arlington 116-95.

A beautiful golden roasted turkey is the centerpiece for many traditional Christmas meals. And even if you're counting calories, it's hard to pass up that succulent meat and the gravy that goes with it.

The good news is that turkey itself is low in total fat and in saturated fat, the kind that adds cholesterol to our diets. A 3-ounce serving of roasted dark meat has 175 calories, 7 grams of fat and 2.1 grams of saturated fat. The light meat contains 150 calories, 3 grams of fat and 9 grams saturated fat. So if you're trying to cut calories and saturated fat, eat the white meat.

The most effective means of cutting down excess fat is to remove and discard the turkey skin and any other visible fat.

But what about the gravy? If you plan on having some, try one or more of these methods for reducing the fat content:

- Using a bulb baster, metal skimmer or long-handled spoon, skim fat from the gravy as it cooks.

- Float a paper towel on top of the gravy to absorb fat.

- Allow time to refrigerate the gravy. Then remove the congealed fat from the top.

- If you use canned stock or broth in the gravy, refrigerate the can. When you open it, the fat will be floating on top so you can skim it off.

Adding the traditional raw cranberries provide fiber, vitamin C and potassium to the diet. They're low in calories--until you add the sugar for the cranberry sauce!

If you want something unusual for Thanksgiving, try smoking a turkey. Smoked turkey tastes wonderful and cuts down on the mess in the kitchen.

Check the instructions that came with your smoker for advice on how to cook a large bird. Some cookbooks will also contain this information.

Buy high quality charcoal and wood chips to help insure that the fire will be maintained during the long cooking time. Start with dry chips to produce a fast smoke, then add wet chips for slow cooking toward the end of the process.

Also remember that a full pan of water must be in the smoker at all times to maintain proper humidity.

For safety's sake, use two thermometers. Use a meat thermometer to tell you when the meat is cooked. Poultry meat is done when the meat thermometer registers at least 180 to 185 degrees F at the thickest part of the dark meat, such as the thigh or leg. It should register 170 degrees in the white or breast meat.

Use the other thermometer to test the temperature of the smoker. Place an oven thermometer through a cork and put it on the rack. This will help you maintain smoker temperature at 225 to 300 degrees F.

The weather will affect cooking time too. If it turns cold and windy, it could add several hours to the cooking time. Even if you have to microwave it to get dinner on time, you'll have that good smoked flavor.

Finally, don't smoke the mistake of starting the cooker and simply walking away from it. Check it frequently. Otherwise you may come back to get your smoked turkey only to discover that the fire went out hours ago!

One man with courage makes a majority.

Heartburn comes home for the holiday season

As everyone comes home for the holidays, you may find an unexpected guest--heartburn.

That annoying, burning sensation in your esophagus (the tube that leads from the mouth to the stomach), according to Dr. Donald Castell, chairman of the Department of Medicine, The Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia, occurs when the acidic contents of the stomach come in contact with the sensitive lining of the esophagus.

It's uncomfortable, annoying, and definitely an unwelcome holiday guest. So just how do you get rid of it?

Show Your Guest The Door

You can keep heartburn away by keeping some simple guidelines in mind as you enjoy holiday foods.

Quite often, heartburn stems from overindulgence of fatty or spicy foods, caffeinated and alcoholic beverages, chocolates, mints, processed meats, nicotine, tomato-based foods, acidic foods and onions. And these are just some of the catalysts for heartburn!

But it's not just what you eat, but how you eat. Dr. Castell recommends eating slowly, chewing with your mouth closed and not moving around while you eat or drink. Otherwise, you swallow air and help induce heartburn.

Then, chew on this fact: many doctors believe that one of the biggest inducers of heartburn is stress. All the holiday packing, planning, hustling and hassling can lead to a severe case of heartburn.

As you hail the holidays, consider these holiday heartburn hints:

- Wrap the packages - not yourself - tightly...don't wear clothes too tight around the waist.

- Let the fireplace do the smoking...stop or little smoking.

- Make the most of a long winter's night sleep...don't lie down right after eating; and when you go to bed, sleep with the head of the bed raised about six inches.

- Only one Santa will do...avoid being overweight.

- Get a Santa's helper for those really big gifts...avoid bending over and lifting heavy objects.

- Hot toddies aren't so hot for your stomach...alcoholic beverages, coffee or hot chocolate can give you heartburn.

- Answer the dinner bell's jingle...just don't overindulge.

- No holiday surprises for your stomach...an irregular, erratic schedule feeds heartburn.

Good advice - until you ate your way through the buffet line. You just couldn't resist! Now, you can't resist noticing that burning sensation creeping up your esophagus. You'd better hope your present is an antacid.

Dr. Castell suggests an effective antacid, that creates a gentle, neutralizing barrier to help keep acid from splashing into the esophagus.

If you're like most Americans, you will be eating and drinking your share of heartburn heaters this holiday season. So enjoy! Use a little common sense and you'll have a lot of holiday fun - and just a little heartburn!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For 40 years, our daughter, "Iris," told us how lucky she was to have us as parents. My husband and I have always treated our son-in-law, "Randy," like a son and feel very close to him.

Unfortunately, when Randy turned 40, he had an affair and put our daughter through hell. It went on for two years. Finally, he agreed to go for joint counseling, and now they say their marriage is back on track.

We've been told, however, that Randy feels we have been much too involved in Iris' life and that she has got to cool it with us so she can get closer to him. Now the only time we see Iris and Randy is when they drop their kids off for us to baby-sit.

All Randy seems interested in is what Iris will inherit. We have spoken to several of our friends about this, and it seems they have similar problems with their kids. A few of them have changed their wills. Their estates will be divided among nieces, nephews and worthy causes.

When you recommend "professional help," perhaps you should suggest that therapists not be so quick to lay the blame on parents for everything that goes wrong in a child's life. We suspect our daughter's therapist created the split in our family, and we are saddened by the loss.--Parents Alone in Iowa

DEAR IOWA: When people write to me, I am aware that I'm getting only THEIR side of the story. I then try to figure out what the other person (or people) might say about the situation.

I suspect Iris' therapist told her she was too involved with her parents and that if her marriage was to survive she would have to cut the apron strings and forge a closer relationship with her husband.

I hope time will heal the rift and that when Iris feels her marriage is more secure, she and Randy will move closer to you both. That would be ideal for all concerned. I'll keep my fingers crossed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd love to see this letter in print, even though the person I have in mind will not recognize herself. Here it is:

DEAR PREGNANT CO-WORKER: I'm sick of you sitting around patting your stomach, bragging about how you are going to work up to the day your baby is due.

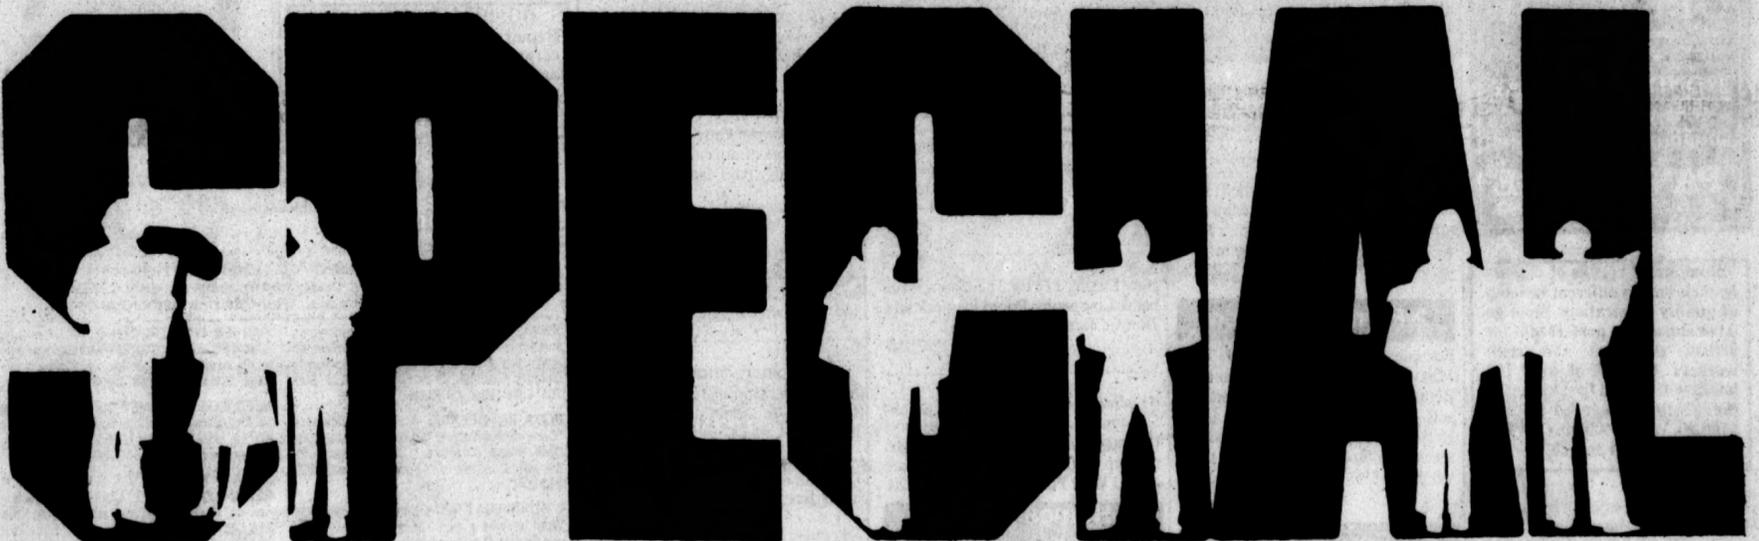

Actually, you aren't working, you are simply showing up--late at that--and leaving after 10 minutes to get something to eat. I'm doing all the things around here that you don't want to do and therefore claim you "can't." If you got paid for the work you did, you'd get about one-third of your check.

Why do you expect me to pick up your slack? It's YOUR baby. It was YOUR choice and YOUR thrill. To top it off, you think you should get even more of a tax break for child care. How about people who choose not to have more than one child because they can't afford it?

Pregnant women who want to keep working should expect no special privileges. I am sick of what goes on around here.--no Name, No City, Tenn.

DEAR N.N.N.C., Tenn.: Feel better? I hope so. That was quite a blast. You sound like a very angry person. Why so much venom? Envious, maybe?
