Court orders record cleared for Fangman

All records of an April incident involving a Hereford High School student must be expunged, 222nd District Court Judge David Wesley Gulley has ruled.

Colby Fangman, who was a senior at HHS when he was arrested and jailed, had filed a motion in the state court to have his name and details of the incident removed from all records.

Judge Gulley directed Lola Faye Veazey, 222nd District clerk, to send certified copies of the order to the local authorities as well as state and federal agencies.

Records of the Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney and sheriff, Hereford police department, Texas Department of Public Safety, Federal Bureau of Investigation and Hereford Independent School District are covered in the order.

All original records of the incident are to be sent to the district clerk for expunction, according to the court order issued Wednesday.

Fangman was arrested on April 10 after an off-duty police officer found a martial arts instrument, nunchucks, in the student's pickup. The officer, Tim Travis, was working as a security officer at the high school at the time.

Travis interrupted a water fight among several students and told Fangman and two friends to get out of the pickup, according to reports of those involved.

Fangman said they left the vehicle's doors open and Travis searched, without permission. Fangman said he didn't know the instrument was in the pickup.

When a patrol car arrived, Fangman was handcuffed and booked into Deaf Smith County jail for a misdemeanor, alleging that he was carrying a prohibited weapon.

The youth was released five hours later. No formal charges were ever filed.

County gets ok for loans from SBA

Small businesses in Deaf Smith and adjoining counties may qualify for economic injury disaster loans through Small Business Administration.

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest announced Thursday that qualifying businesses in Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer, Oldham and Randall counties may qualify for the loans. The loans will go to small businesses dependent on agriculture and cooperatives whose sales have dropped substantially due to extreme crop losses.

Businesses interested may call SBA toll free at 1-800-473-0477.

The county qualifies because of the injury caused by the early deep freeze and snow storm last Oct. 30-Nov. 2. The storm wiped out what would have been a bumper sugar beet crop in the area.

"These SBA disaster loans will provide needed help for many small businesses," said Combest. "I support opportunities for small businesses to continue working for this essential partnership between agriculture and the community."

Economic injury disaster loans are available to businesses considered small by SBA standards. They must not have credit available elsewhere. Loans are limited to the financial needs of the applicant based on the actual economic injury. Loans may be made for up to $500,000 and may extend to 30 years, depending on the ability to repay.

Grand jury hands up 16 indictments

Indictments against six persons for felony driving while intoxicated were among 16 indictments returned Thursday during the last session of the grand jury impaneled early in the year. Names of three defendants were withheld, pending their arrests.

Other offenses that drew indictments from the grand jury were tempering with identification number, theft over $750, indecency with a child, burglary, possession of a controlled substance, cocaine, and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Juan Jose Davila, 28, Rt. 1, Box 315-1A, was indicted for felony DWI and is free on bond of $500.

Enrique Garcia Hernandez, 37, of 307 Avenue D, also a felony DWI defendant, is free after posting bond of $1,000.

Bond of $1,000 also was posted by Doyal Lesley Collier, 46, of 406 W. Third, charged with felony DWI.

Casey Wade Jones, 21, of Rt. 5, Box 67A, indicted for felony DWI, is free on bond of $1,000.

Two indictments name Juan O. Lopez Jr., 38, of 1128 S. Main, for felony DWI. He is in Deaf Smith County jail in lieu of bond.

A $500 bond has been posted by Martin A. Huerta, 23, of 315 Avenue E, on his indictment for felony DWI.

Two Amarillo men, John W. Abbott, 18, and Bryan Banner, 17, were named on the same indictment for theft, over $750 and under $20,000. Each is free on $2,000 bond.

Marvin Paul Metcalf, 60, of Vega, is free on $1,000 bond. He was indicted for tampering with identification number.

Bond of $50,000 was posted by Melvin Cody Whipple, 36, charged with indecency with a child.

Ruben Diaz Jr., 18, of 115 Bradley, indicted for burglary, is in Deaf Smith jail, in lieu of bond.

A bond of $5,000 was posted by Roy Stotts, 33, of 200 Whittier, Apt. 5, indicted for possession of a controlled substance, cocaine.

In Deaf Smith jail in lieu of bond, Luis Balderaz, 18, of 838 Blevins, was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Grand juries serve for six months. A grand jury commission met Thursday to draw names for the next six-month term. The new grand jury will be impaneled on July 9.

Perot admits 'buying' election

DENVER (AP) - Ross Perot has a simple answer to Democratic and Republican critics who say the billionaire Texas businessman is trying to buy his way into the White House: They're absolutely right.

"I'm buying it for the people because they can't afford it - you made it too expensive," Perot said Thursday in California as he opened a three-day campaign swing that included Colorado today and Boston on Saturday.

Perot's direct assault on those who rebuke his wealth and largely self-financed campaign is part of a stump speech that's both folksy and funny, with a good dose of criticism for both President Bush and Democrat Bill Clinton.

But it contains few specifics on how Perot would handle the nation's problems.

Instead, the speech is a series of slogans and cliches promising change: quotations from Winston Churchill and Lech Walesa mixed with the credo of the fictional Three Musketeers, "One for all and all for one."

Perot's road show, unusual for a candidate who has campaigned mostly through television, is taking him to states where volunteers say they have gathered enough petition signatures to place him on the November ballot. At the events in California and Denver, Perot had a film crew gathering material for television commercials, including interviews with supporters.

He is over the 20-state mark now, counting the states celebrating the end of their petition drives next week. And although he has still not formally announced his candidacy, Perot took time Thursday to urge supporters not to let up.

"You have sent the two parties a message," he told California supporters who gathered more than 1 million petition signatures even though they needed just 135,000. "You in California have changed politics in this country - I hope permanently."

As he tries to pre-empt others from using his wealth against him as an issue, Perot is trying to turn the tables on Bush and Clinton.

He tells audiences they should closely watch every minute of the party conventions this summer - not because of any support for Bush or Clinton but because their tax dollars are paying for them.

And Perot tries to play down spending his own money on the campaign by saying that Bush and Clinton have spent $17 million apiece so far to his $1.4 million.

"And we're ahead," Perot said with a smile in California's heavily Republican Orange County. "So if they want to say we bought it, I say we bought it wholesale."

It's one of Perot's most reliable laugh lines but it's not a meaningful comparison.

Unlike Perot, Bush and Clinton competed in months of primary contests.

Schroeter is re-appointed

Appointment of Alex Schroeter as Deaf Smith County auditor for a new two-year term has been made by 222nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley.

State law gives responsibility for appointing county auditors within judicial districts to the judge.

Schroeter has served since he was appointed to the position in 1976 by then Judge Mike Metcalf of the 69th Judicial District. Later the district was split and Deaf Smith and Oldham Counties were assigned to the new 222nd district.

Term of office for the county auditor is two years. Salary is $26,005 per year.

Lubbock officer went beyond call

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK (AP) - Lubbock police veteran Kenneth Fowler could have retired from the force 10 years ago.

But the 59-year-old sergeant decided to put in one more year.

On Thursday, the 36-year police veteran was making a call on a shooting as he had done hundreds of times before when he was shot and killed at a Lubbock apartment.

Mental patient James Kevin Voyles, 35, has been charged with capital murder in Fowler's death. Voyles also was charged with murder in the death of James Edwin Haliburton, 48, a part-time community aide for the Lubbock Regional Mental Health Mental Retardation Center.

Fowler's death marked the first time a Lubbock police officer has been killed on duty since Jack Stevens was shot by a robbery suspect Feb. 9, 1973.

The shootings apparently erupted after Voyles walked out of a doctor's appointment and Haliburton went to check on him, police said.

Police were called to the Moonflower Apartments early Thursday by neighbors who reported hearing gunfire. Upon arrival at 9:26 a.m., officers found Haliburton laying between two apartments that faced each other.

Fowler and officer George Arce were covering Haliburton's body with plastic when Voyles apparently opened his apartment door behind the officers and fired several shots at Fowler, said Lubbock police chief Don Bridgers.

"There was nothing they could do," Bridgers said. "Our men were ambushed."

Arce escaped injury. Justice of the Peace Jim Hansen set bond for Voyles at $500,000 for the murder charge and denied bond on the capital murder count.

During his arraignment, Voyles seemed disoriented, repeatedly saying he did not understand the charges against him. When it was further explained that he was charged with killing a police officer, he responded, "Oh, OK."

Voyles finally surrendered to police after a two-hour standoff during which he fired several random shots through the south wall of his apartment.

No other injuries were reported. Fowler was known affectionately among colleagues as "Growler Fowler" because he was gruff on the outside but a teddy bear on the inside, said police officer Michelle Fletcher.

"He loved his job and would help any new officer," Miss Fletcher said.

A letter from Lubbock resident John Hewlett to the editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal that was published June 7 thanked Fowler.

In the letter, Hewlett says Fowler responded to a call involving the death of his son.

"When officer Fowler found out the deceased was my son, he held on to me. He talked to me and encouraged me to yell, scream or whatever it took if it would ease my pain. He even offered to let me hit him if that would help!" Hewlett's letter said.

"... I thank God officer Fowler was the one who responded to my call."

Fowler, who joined the Lubbock police force in 1956, had been eligible to retire since 1982.

"He was talking about retiring this year, but then he decided to hang on for another year," said police Sgt. Don Davidson, who had known Fowler for nearly 30 years. "He was doing his job and that was it. That's the way he would have looked at it."

Officials at the Lubbock Regional MHMR Center say Haliburton had served as a community service aide since January 1992.

"Mr. Haliburton was a valued member of our center family and we all mourn his death," MHMR officials said in a statement.

Haliburton's "specialties included providing individual attention, support and socialization to persons receiving services from the center," the statement said.

Officials refused to comment about any treatment Voyles may have received at the MHMR center.

The Lubbock County district attorney's office said Voyles had been arrested in 1974 on a burglary charge.

"The case was filed as a misdemeanor theft and Voyles received four months' probation and a fine of $200," said Steve Holmes, chief administrator for the district attorney's office.

Neighbors of Voyles, who lived alone, say the man's behavior often was strange.

"He would pace outside his house and wear a heavy jacket in the heat of the day," said Joe Hereford, who lived directly behind Voyles.

"I never let my kids go near him," Hereford said. "I was afraid of him."

Searchers don't find Americans in gulag

PECHORA, Russia (AP) - U.S. investigators said today they found no evidence that an American prisoner of war was imprisoned in a Stalin-era labor camp in northern Russia. But they said they would continue pursuing information on hidden American POWs.

The Russian side of a joint commission said it turned up new evidence ethnic Germans had been held at Camp No. 5, one of 10 prisons in the remote Pechora region where Soviet leaders sent dissidents as well as criminals.

"The information ... will require additional research," said Col.

Anatoly Volkov, the Russians' spokesman. He gave no more details. Stalin imprisoned thousands of Soviets and others who he believed opposed the war against Nazi Germany.

"We found no evidence of the presence of an American," said William Davnie, a political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and commission member.

"But work will continue and our report will be made public only after everything has been analyzed," Davnie said at a news conference here after visiting Camp No. 5, about 900 miles northeast of Moscow.

Decision upholds California tax law

Court clears way for other states to act

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Supreme Court decision upholding a California property-tax limitation clears the way for similar voter initiatives in two other large states that could mean vastly different tax bills on identical homes.

Michigan voters will decide this fall whether they want similar restrictions on city and county property taxes. In Florida, a petition drive will continue through August and could force a vote in November.

The Supreme Court ruled 8-1 Thursday that a California initiative approved by voters in 1978 is constitutional, even though it often results in starkly different taxes on side-by-side homes of equal value.

The law, known as Proposition 13, requires that property taxes on homes bought since the law was enacted be based on purchase price - not current value. A home bought before 1978 is assessed at its 1975 valuation. In either case, annual assessment increases are limited to 2 percent.

California property values have soared by far more than 2 percent a year since 1975, resulting in disproportionately higher taxes on recent home purchasers.

For example, Stephanie Nordlinger, who filed the suit on which the court ruled, paid $170,000 in 1988 for a Los Angeles bungalow, and her first-year tax bill was $1,700. Neighbors who have lived in comparable homes for several years pay as little as $320 a year.

A family in a riot-scarred section of Los Angeles can pay as much tax as one in posh Beverly Hills. Justice Harry Blackmun, writing for the court majority, said such disparities may frustrate the dream of home ownership for many younger and poorer families. But the law is a reasonable way for the state to give a tax break to existing homeowners, Blackmun wrote.

Whatever the inequities, the court concluded, a prospective purchaser is aware of future tax liabilities before a home is bought and can back out if the burden appears too large.

Justice John Paul Stevens, the lone dissenter, said Proposition 13 has given many homeowners "a tremendous windfall and ... has created severe inequities in California's property tax scheme."

"Just because the law is constitutional doesn't mean there aren't policy problems with it," said Chris Zimmerman of the National Conference of State Legislatures. "There are people who find an element of inequity in two property owners next to each other with comparable homes but paying vastly different tax bills."

The ruling "might be a big deal, but if there are any immediate implications for other states they aren't apparent," Zimmerman said.

"The decision could send a message to other states ... that the court has spoken, that there is a capacity to create a limitation on the growth of assessments," said Randy Arndt of the National League of Cities.

David Keating, executive vice president of the National Taxpayers Union, which advocates lower taxes, said the California law has been an unqualified success, even with the disparities.

"Proposition 13 protects new homeowners," Keating insisted. "Even though their taxes may be higher than someone's across the street, chances are they are lower than they would be if they were in another state without Proposition 13."

AIDS vaccine shows promise in test

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chimpanzees inoculated with an experimental vaccine were protected against the AIDS virus even when they were injected with virus-contaminated blood cells, researchers say in a study published today.

Patricia Fultz of the University of Alabama in Birmingham, lead author in a report in the journal Science, said the chimps that received the AIDS vaccine remained free of viral infection for up to a year after injections with contaminated blood.

"This proves we're on the right track," she said.

The study tested how effective an AIDS vaccine would be against a virus that is contained within blood cells. The vaccine in an earlier study was tested against free-floating virus, which are virus particles in the plasma of the blood, but not within the blood cells. The human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, that causes

AIDS is known to be infective in both forms.

"Many people felt this was a stronger challenge for the vaccine because infected cells have the potential of producing much more virus," Fultz said in an interview.

The research involved three chimpanzees inoculated with a vaccine and then injected with HIV-infected blood cells.

Fultz said the vaccine used mimics the molecules found on the outside of the HIV virus and on the outside of cells that are infected with the virus.

After inoculation, all three chimps were injected with doses of blood cells from a chimp that has an HIV infection.

Researchers then tested the three animals periodically to see if they developed HIV.

One chimp died of heart failure, not associated with AIDS, after seven months, said Fultz. Tissue samples taken from this chimp were cultured for six weeks and there was no evidence of viral infection, she said.

The other two chimps were found to be immune to the HIV virus for a full 12 months.

"This tells us that the vaccine candidates with which we are working have the potential to protect against both forms of virus and that we don't need to revise our vaccine at this point or try additional types," said Fultz.

She said that using infected blood cells is a good test for what happens when drug users share dirty needles. Patients with HIV typically leave a residue of infected blood in a needle. A person sharing such an unsterilized needle then could put these infected blood cells into his own bloodstream, possibly leading to an HIV infection. A primary target of the AIDS virus is the white blood cell, or lymphocyte, that normally circulates in the blood stream. The virus links with a molecule on the lymphocyte surface and then moves inside the cell. The virus can also do this with macrophages, another type of blood cell.

Although the new test has the promise of an AIDS vaccine, Fultz said much more work needs to be done before it can be tested in humans.

She noted, for instance, that one of the chimps that was free of HIV for a year was later injected with cell-free virus and developed an HIV infection.

"This suggests the immunity isn't long lasting and indicates that frequent booster immunizations may have to be given," said Fultz. "This would not be good, particularly in Third World countries where it can be difficult to give vaccinations."

Governor urges businesses to give summer jobs to youth

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards is challenging businesses to hire young people this summer after meeting with religious and community leaders who were called together in the wake of the Los Angeles riots.

"The kids of this state are the future of Texas," Richards said Thursday, "and the business community well knows it."

She urged businesses to each hire at least one young person, and announced a toll-free state hotline that's meant to connect prospective employers with job-seekers between the ages of 14 and 21.

Richards also announced state-backed projects in Houston, Fort Worth and El Paso targeted for young people considered drop-out or lawbreaker risks.

Such projects are "only a beginning," said Richards, who met with about 100 people from around the state who have been asked to work on solving racial discord and developing ideas for summer youth programs.

Richards asked the local leaders to send her their community goals, their plans to implement them and how the state can help.

She also asked them to report on their successful summer programs.

Richards urged the ministers and others to contact local businesses and lobby for summer job programs. She told them to ask their elected officials to do the same and stressed the importance of working with local law enforcement officials, judges and others.

Employers can call the state's toll-free number - 1-800-JOBS-YES - to give the Texas Employment Commission a job listing. The TEC, which has offices around the state, will work to match up young job-seekers with the jobs.

Businesses that hire a young person through the program will get a window decal, Richards said.

Richards also announced the "Governor's Clean Machine" project in Houston, which will involve 130 students in an inner-city community improvement program. The state is committing $200,000 to the effort.

Two days of the week, students will be involved in such projects as cleaning up graffiti. Two other days, they will attend multi-cultural courses and listen to motivational speakers.

Richards said criminal justice money will be used for school district anti-gang programs in Fort Worth and El Paso.

The Fort Worth Independent School District got a $138,576 grant for a program in which at-risk students will be paired with role-model sophomores and juniors who will serve as mentors. They will take part in day-camp programs.

El Paso ISD received $200,000 to distribute among the Ysleta, Canutillo, Anthony and Tornillo school districts for student programs.

Life!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Five years ago, it seemed my life was shattered. An eye disease robbed me of my sight. As an active, young college student, I struggled to adjust to my new world of darkness. I had never considered becoming an eye donor, and now my sight depended on someone who had.

A central Florida family, suffering with the pain of losing a family member, reached out and touched my life. By contributing the corneas of a loved one, this special family enabled me to undergo corneal transplant surgery, which miraculously filled my world with light and color.

Today, I work for the Medical Eye Bank of Florida in Orlando. I help bring others, like myself, the gift of sight. Currently, 5,000 people across the country are waiting for corneal transplants, while another 25,000 wait for other vital organ transplants. Because of the growing number of persons waiting for organs, corneas and tissue, I hope you will remind your readers once again: Sign an organ donor card and discuss your decision with your family members so they can carry out your wishes.

Though I will never know the donor or the family who made my miracle possible, each morning as I awake and see the sunrise, I smile and think of them. I was one of the lucky ones who received a transplant. However, many others will never get a chance to experience a beautiful sunset or see a rainbow without the generosity of an organ donor. Eye and organ donation makes a difference.

If you would like more information regarding eye, organ and tissue donation, please contact The Living Bank, P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77265.--Stacy Goetze, corneal recipient, Orlando, Fla.

DEAR STACY: Here's your letter with an additional word from me.

Please, dear readers, don't let the sun set on this woman's plea. Send for your donor card today. And don't stop at corneas only. Go the whole way and sign up for kidney, heart and lung donation. It costs nothing to be an organ donor, and this one act of generosity can give life to another human being when yours has ended.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

There has never been any country at every moment so virtuous and so wise that it has not sometimes needed to be saved from itself.

Residents featured in book

The E.B. Black House will be the site of a book signing party from 1-3 p.m. Saturday. The occasion is being held to announce the release of Fairy Tea, a children's book illustrated by local artist Jena Rawley-Whitaker and featuring Hereford residents as characters. Portrayed in the book are Mary Fraser as "Nana Green", John Thames as "Grandpa Green", Kali Hall as "Allie" and Elizabeth Secrest as "Kristen."

There are four kinds of apes: gorillas, chimpanzees, gibbons and orangutans.

Getting a grip on grubs

If you've noticed patches of your lawn turning yellow and then brown, one pest likely to be responsible for the damage may lie just below the surface.

Grubs, which are the larval stage of various hard-shelled beetles, weaken turfgrass by feeding on root systems. In many cases grub infestations are accompanied by the presence of birds, moles, skunks and other animals trying to get them for an easy meal. When these hungry animals begin digging for grubs, they can cause additional damage to your grass.

If you suspect the presence of grubs, pull back a small section of turfgrass in the affected area and look for the white C-shaped larvae.

Controlling pests like grubs can be difficult because they are well protected beneath the surface. Whether you choose a granular formulation of carbaryl insecticide, or a liquid formulation, applying is easy, convenient and poses little environmental hazard.

Morgan sets fast pace at Pebble

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Except for Gil Morgan, nobody thinks this kind of scoring can continue.

So who are you going to listen to - the guy leading the tournament or all those other guys blinking in disbelief, trying to remember that this is Pebble Beach and this is the U.S. Open?

With its greens soft and its ocean winds still on Thursday, Pebble Beach played more like it was hosting the Phoenix Open than its third U.S. Open, doling out birdies and low scores with unprecedented generosity.

"The course was absolutely there for the taking this morning," Mark McCumber said. "There was never more than a 2- or 3-yard wind, and the course is in perfect condition."

"Pebble Beach will get its due before it's over."

Round One went to the players, 45 of whom shot par or better in the opening round.

Morgan made eight birdies and shot a 6-under 66, the lowest first round in any of the three U.S. Opens played over the scenic oceanfront course. Curtis Strange made seven birdies and was one back at 67.

Andy Dillard, a qualifier playing in his first Open, birdied the first six holes of the championship and was one of three golfers at 4-under 68. Phil Mickelson, playing in his first tournament as a pro, and Steve Pate also shot 68s.

"This is June and this is a pretty docile time for the weather," Pate said. "I think you're going to see a lot of single-day good scores, but nothing terribly low for the tournament."

There were 29 sub-par scores in the opening round. In addition to 419 birdies, 11 eagles were made, including Ted Schulz's 183-yard 7-iron for a 2 on the 464-yard, par-4 ninth hole, considered Pebble's toughest.

According to Nick Faldo, this kind of scoring just cannot continue.

"It's the U.S. Open. You can't hit it anywhere and get away with anything," said Faldo, who birdied four holes between 9 and 14. "Guys are going to take a run, and progressively it's going to get tougher and tougher as the week goes on."

Morgan, who one-putted 10 greens in the first round, thought differently.

"If conditions remain the same, I think the Open record will be broken," Morgan said.

The record for four rounds in the Open is 8-under by Jack Nicklaus in 1980 at Baltusrol, site of the 1993 Open.

No one has ever even reached 10 under at any time in the Open.

Morgan, though, could be forgiven for getting a little carried away.

He did most of his scoring on the easiest part of the course with birdies on five of the first six holes.

Strange, who won consecutive Opens in '88 and '89 but has not won a PGA Tour event since, did his best scoring on the toughest part of the course.

After failing to make a birdie on the first six holes, Strange began his charge with a birdie on the 107-yard, par 3 No. 7, hitting a pitching wedge within a foot.

"It got me going, sure," Strange said. "The first six holes, I'm watching Lanny (Wadkins) go 4-under, Sandy (Lyle) was 2- or 3-under, I think, and I've struggled a couple of times for par."

Strange birdied the eighth hole, parred the ninth, then reeled off four consecutive birdies, making putts from 5 to 25 feet. He went to 7-under with a birdie at 15, but limped home with bogeys at Nos. 16 and 17.

Pebble was by no means completely without scorn.

Jack Nicklaus was cruising along at 2-under when he pushed a drive on No. 9 into knee-high grass 20 yards to the right of the fairway. He emerged with a double bogey there and finished bogey-bogey-double bogey for a 5-over 77.

Payne Stewart, the defending champion, was 4-under through eight holes before going double bogey, bogey, bogey on Nos. 9, 10 and 11. Stewart shot 73.

AHS beats Hereford

Amarillo scored 10 runs against Hereford in the first four innings of a West Texas League baseball game Tuesday at Amarillo High School and held on for a 12-6 victory.

A rain delay before the game made the mound slippery for Hereford pitchers Ralph Holguin and Ray Hastings, coach Bill Watts said. Each pitcher surrendered six runs.

Hereford came back and started scoring in the fourth, and they held Amarillo scoreless over the final two innings. Watts said the game was a much better-played game than the score indicates. He said Hereford made several spectacular defensive plays, particularly third baseman Tab Hathaway, shortstop Rene Cano, first baseman Jerry Rincon, second baseman Stacey Sanders and outfielder Shama Hernandez.

"They made plays all over the field," Watts said. "I was real proud of the kids. They never gave up."

Hereford broke onto the board in the fourth. Cano walked, Rincon was hit by a pitch but was forced at second on Hathaway's grounder. Russ Watts hit a long double to AHS' distant centerfield fence--Bill Watts said it would have gone over the fence in Hereford--enabling Cano and Hathaway to score. Watts went to third on a passed ball and scored when the Amarillo shortstop booted Holguin's grounder.

Hereford also scored in the sixth and seventh innings. Hastings and Watts came home on hits by Rincon and Richard Sanderson, respectively. More details weren't available because of a problem with the scorebook. Hereford's game with Plainview Saturday has been canceled.

Wegman survives delays, beats Tribe

By The Associated Press

Milwaukee manager Phil Garner worried before the game that Bill Wegman would leave his best pitches in the bullpen.

It turned out that Garner had nothing to be afraid of.

Because of a 34-minute rain delay, Wegman started warming up three times and threw at least 130 pitches in the bullpen before tossing the first three-hitter of his career, defeating the Cleveland Indians 4-1 Thursday night.

Wegman lowered his earned run average to 3.01 while improving his record to 7-5 and helping the Brewers win for the fifth time in six games.

"When he gets the ignition turned on, he's ready to go," Garner said. "When I saw the tarp come out, I called the bullpen and said, 'Let's slow down a little.' Wegman started three times in the pen."

"I threw 60 to 70 pitches, then 40 to 50, then 30," Wegman said of his pregame warmup.

Once the game started, Wegman was a model of efficiency, throwing just 97 pitches.

"I had a real good sinker even when they were looking for it," Wegman said. "I was getting it in on their hands. They were aggressive. They were swinging at the first pitch and I had some quick innings."

Wegman retired the first 12 batters he faced before Albert Belle hit Wegman's first pitch of the fifth inning for his 15th homer.

Wegman, who struck out five and did not walk a batter in his third complete game of the season, allowed the Indians only two more singles before retiring the last eight batters.

The Brewers gave Wegman all the support he needed with Scott Fletcher's two-run single in the second and another two-run single by Pat Listach in the fourth. All the runs came off Cleveland starter Dave Otto (4-6).

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Detroit 14, Toronto 10; Minnesota 3, Kansas City 1; Seattle 5, Chicago 4 in 11 innings; and New York 5, Boston 4.

Yankees 5, Red Sox 4

New York, which had 3-2 leads in the previous two games only to lose 4-3 both times, held on to salvage the finale of the four-game series at Boston.

Mike Gallego's homer sparked a three-run seventh inning before Melido Perez (7-4) and Steve Farr struck out seven of the last eight Red Sox batters.

Tigers 14, Blue Jays 10

Detroit outlasted Toronto in a 31-hit slugfest at SkyDome.

Travis Fryman drove in a career-high five runs with a double and a triple for the Tigers, and Cecil Fielder's sacrifice fly snapped a 10-10 tie in the eighth inning.

Twins 3, Royals 1

Scott Erickson showed signs of recovering from a year-long slump, allowing one run on seven hits in seven innings as Minnesota won at home.

Erickson (4-5) was 12-2 with a 1.39 ERA on June 24, 1991. From then until Thursday, he was 11-11 with a 5.37 ERA.

Mariners 5, White Sox 4

At Seattle, Harold Reynolds singled with the bases-loaded in the 11th inning.

Reds win battle of red-hot teams

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds can do no wrong. They even can make the best opposition mess up.

The Reds won their seventh straight and 19th in 23 games, extending their NL West lead to 4 1/2 games over the Atlanta Braves with a 7-5 victory Thursday night. Atlanta had won seven in a row and are on a 16-3 streak.

"The way we've been playing, when we get an opening, we take advantage," Reds manager Lou Piniella said.

First, the Reds took advantage of three errors for three runs off John Smoltz. After Atlanta rallied to tie it

5-5, pinch hitter Glenn Braggs hit a two-run homer in the 10th for the victory.

Braggs hit his first home run of the season off Mike Stanton (1-4) following a one-out walk to Hal Morris.

Earlier, Paul O'Neill had a two-run homer that put the Reds ahead 5-3. It snapped a 1-for-32 slump and was his first-ever homer in Atlanta and his first this season with a runner on base.

Deion Sanders was 3 for 3 with a homer for the Braves.

Holyfield fights Holmes tonight

LAS VEGAS (AP) - In his seven-year reign as heavyweight champion, Larry Holmes fought with an attitude.

A brooding, combative champion who had the misfortune of fighting in the shadow of Muhammad Ali, Holmes never felt he got his proper due.

"You probably didn't like me then," Holmes admits. "If I talked to you it was with an attitude. Things were a lot harder for me then than they are now."

When he caps his improbable comeback tonight by fighting Evander Holyfield for the undisputed heavyweight title, the 42-year-old Holmes is not only older but finally seems at peace with himself.

"I'm having fun," Holmes said. "I had fun fighting Ray Mercer and I'm going to have a good time fighting Evander Holyfield."

Holmes, a 4-1 underdog to capture the title he held from 1978-85, has been relaxed to the point of being almost gregarious in preparing for what will be his 25th heavyweight title fight.

Whether Holmes can still fight at the level needed to beat Holyfield, however, is another question.

His vaunted left jab still looks razor-sharp, but the reflexes have slowed with age. His ring savvy was enough to beat the inexperienced and one dimensional Mercer, but Holyfield presents far more problems.

"I can still do the same things I did before, just not as quick," Holmes said. "I know I'm a better fighter than George Foreman, Alex Stewart and Bert Cooper. If these guys can put him in the danger zone, why can't I?"

Holmes, who successfully defended his heavyweight title 20 times before Michael Spinks beat him by decision on Sept. 21, 1985, is 6-0 in a comeback that began April 7, 1991, with a first round knockout of Tim Anderson.

He fought four other non-descript fighters before taking on the then-unbeaten Mercer Feb. 7. In that fight, Holmes was rocked in the first round but dominated from the second round on to win a unanimous 12-round decision.

It was a performance that surprised Holyfield, who had agreed to meet the winner of the Mercer-Holmes fight, assuming all along it would be Mercer.

"He impressed me with some things he did at the age of 42, things you wouldn't think he would be able to do," Holyfield said.

Holyfield, of course, knows something about 42-year-old boxers. His first defense of the title he won with a third-round knockout of a flabby James "Buster" Douglas, was against the 42-year-old Foreman. Holyfield took a unanimous 12-round decision, but drew criticism for his inability to knock Foreman down or out.

"People will say this is not a fight, or Foreman wasn't a fight," said the 29-year-old champion. "But I'll fight them all."

Holyfield will earn $16 million for the scheduled 12-round fight in the 16,000-seat outdoor arena at Caesars Palace.

Holmes, 54-3 with 37 knockouts will earn $7 million for his bid to become the oldest man to win the heavyweight title. He weighed in Wednesday at 233, 23 pounds heavier than Holyfield.

Valvano has cancer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Jim Valvano, the colorful former North Carolina State basketball coach and television analyst, has cancer, Valvano's agent and a television network say.

ESPN, the sports network Valvano went to work for after leaving the Wolfpack in 1990, said Thursday night that Valvano had been diagnosed with the disease. In a brief report, sportscaster Bob Ley said Valvano, 46, is at his Cary, N.C., home "in excellent spirits" but did not elaborate on the type of cancer nor the extent of Valvano's illness.

Valvano's phone number is unlisted and he could not be reached.

Congratulations to the most recent winners at the June Big Bass Tournament held on Lake Baylor near Childress. And I do mean winners.

Good tournament scales are accurate to one hundredth of a pound. The chances of two anglers catching identical fish are remote, and the odds of having the identical weights for first place are astronomical.

Bart Haley of Pampa weighed a nice 3.31-pound black bass during the first hour of the tournament. With the lake-record bass at Lake Baylor exceeding 14 pounds, three-pounders rarely finish in the money during major tournaments. During hour three Danny Murdock of Memphis brought his bass to the scales, and it also weighed 3.31 pounds. Danny speculated that by the end of the tournament, he would be lucky to finish tied for tenth.

Wrong. Despite five sad stories of bass that "got away," this tournament ended in a tie. Bart and Danny refused an offer to arm wrestle or toss a coin and decided to split the winners purse of $1,024. Third place and $125 went to Fred Strickland of Amarillo.

Other hourly winners included Don Sehorn of Childress, and Chuck Goldberry, Bobby Post (twice) and Jacky Ivy, all of Amarillo. The smallest bass tipped the scales at 1.39 pounds. The fishing was great but catching a keeper was tough. The recent thunderstorms caused a four-foot rise at Lake Baylor and created hundreds of acres of newly flooded grass, bushes and mesquite trees. That is great news for the long term, but it sure made for difficult fishing.

Last minute Father's Day suggestions--For only $7.97 per year, The Walleye Insider is a great newprint magazine. If your favorite Dad is interested in learning new ways to catch more and bigger walleye, call 1-800-441-1740.

Zoom baits--Buy several packs of their outstanding pumpkin lizards. The Zoom Centipede is the newest sensation in Carolina-style fishing. The only store in this region that currently stocks Zoom is Anchor Marine in Amarillo.

Magna Thin fishing line by DuPont--The perfect fishing line should be invisible and unbreakable. Magna Thin, while not perfect, come close. Every dad needs some new fishing line. Buy some six-pound for his spinning reel and some 10-pound for the bait cast reels.

My Dad--He rarely offers verbal advice but he is my inspiration for honesty and integrity. Thanks Dad, I love you.

Mel Phillips is an avid hunter, a tournament fisherman and host of a Wednesday evening talk show on KGNC-radio (710 AM). He is also an award-winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association.

In 1982, Dave Kingman hit 37 home runs while posting a batting average of only .204. Fred Capossela was the first announcer to call a horse race on national television.

NL

Elsewhere, it was San Diego 9, San Francisco 4 in a brawl-marred game; St. Louis 8, New York 3; Montreal 4, Pittsburgh 0; and Philadelphia 4, Chicago 3.

Padres 9, Giants 4

At San Diego, Gary Sheffield hit two homers, one a grand slam, and Frank Seminara got his first major-league win.

But the spotlight was stolen by a fourth-inning brawl as both benches emptied.

Fred McGriff, the next batter after Sheffield hit his grand slam, was hit in the leg by Trevor Wilson. McGriff dropped his bat and charged the mound. Wilson threw his glove at McGriff and the two tumbled to the ground.

Within seconds, players and coaches from the two sides mixed it up in an all-out fight. Wilson and McGriff went at it again after peace apparently had been restored. Both were ejected, as were San Francisco batting coach Dusty Baker, Padres third base coach Bruce Kimm, bullpen catcher Ron Ogelsby, and pitcher Jose Melendez.

Cardinals 8, Mets 3

At New York, the Cardinals climbed back to .500 and the Mets continued to sink. Omar Olivares pitched seven shutout innings and sparked a three-run rally with a double.

Expos 4, Pirates 0

Moises Alou, Larry Walker and Tim Lincecum had run-scoring doubles in the first inning. Chris Nabholz and Jeff Fassero three-hit the Pirates.

Phillies 4, Cubs 3

At Philadelphia, Lenny Dykstra again displayed his ability in the clutch, a spot he says he enjoys.

Dykstra's two-run double with two outs in the eighth inning snapped the Cubs' six-game winning streak.

Accent on Health

Every year, more than 600,000 new cases of skin cancer are diagnosed in the U.S. Usually caused by repeated overexposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays, skin cancer can be deadly. However, most skin cancer, if detected and treated early, can be cured.

Sunlight's danger is increasing, according to scientists, since air pollution continues to deplete the Earth's protective ozone layer.

A recent Centers for Disease Control study showed that men, 50 and older, especially those who work outdoors, are among those at highest risk of developing melanoma, one of the most dangerous forms of skin cancer. Although only about 27,000 skin cancers reported annually in the U.S. are melanoma, they account for about 75 percent of skin cancer deaths. The incidence and death rate for skin cancer among U.S. men had doubled during the last 16 years.

Therefore, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) has joined other state and national organizations in observing National Melanoma Detection and Prevention Month in May.

Dr. Daniel A. Goldman, medical consultant for the TDH Chronic Disease Prevention Program, said, "Skin Cancer occurs more often than any other type of cancer, especially in the sunbelt states, where a suntan is thought to be glamorous. We need to stress that there is no such thing as a healthy tan. A tan is evidence of permanent, cumulative radiation damage to the skin—damage which causes not only cancer, but also premature aging."

Dr. Goldman said that each person has his own lifetime limits for overexposure to ultraviolet light. Children and older people, especially those with light skins, have lower tolerance to sunlight than do young assaults with dark skin. "But even dark-skinned people have their limits," he said.

"Once a person reaches his tolerance for ultraviolet light, skin cancer may appear," Dr. Goldman said. Warning signs include sores that do not heal, changes in the size or color of moles or birthmarks, or appearance of spots that are irregular in shape, varied in color, or are larger than one-fourth inch in diameter.

Health authorities recommend that people with frequent sun exposures, or those with personal or family histories of skin cancer routinely examine themselves for skin cancer symptoms. Using a full-length mirror and hand mirror at least once a month, each person should look for any change in skin color, moles and other marks, including on the scalp and between the toes. Any notable skin changes warrant a doctor's opinion.

To reduce the risk of overexposure to the sun:

- * Wear protective clothing—hats, long sleeves and gloves;
- * Select and use a sunscreen (rated 15 or higher) at least half an hour before going into the sun. Use a waterproof formula, or reapply after swimming or heavy perspiration;
- * Avoid the sun's most intense rays between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.; and
- * Do not use sunlamps, tanning booths or tanning pills.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

SAFETY IN FORTIFICATION

IN BIBLICAL TIMES PEOPLE ONLY FELT SAFE WHEN THEY HAD THE WALLS OF A TOWN STRONG ENOUGH TO WITHSTAND THE ONSLAUGHT OF RAPACIOUS ATTACKERS. WALLS SOMETIMES SEVENTY OR A HUNDRED FEET IN DEPTH WERE KNOWN TO EXIST. GATEWAYS WITH STRONG TIMBERS THREE FEET THICK WERE NOT UNUSUAL. ALSO DOUBLE WALLS WERE QUITE COMMON. ONE CAN IMAGINE THE CHAGRIN OF THE ATTACKING FORCES WHO HAD FINALLY MANAGED TO PUNCH A HOLE IN THE WALL ONLY TO REALIZE THAT A SCANT FIFTY FEET MORE THERE WAS ANOTHER WALL TO BE PENETRATED! NO WONDER, WHEN MAKING AN OATH, PEOPLE OFTEN WOULD SWEAR BY THE TOWERING WALL OF THEIR NATIVE HOMESITE.
