Council holds short meeting

If Monday night's Hereford City Commission meeting had been a baseball game, a statistician would have known immediately if the length of the meeting set a record.

Commissioners took only nine minutes to whip through an agenda with only four items of business. City Secretary Terri Johnson said there are no records to indicate the shortest meeting ever held.

"I know there have been some short meetings, but I don't know of any less than nine minutes," she said.

A request for additional funds for surveying the city landfill property was approved unanimously. City Manager Chester Nolen reported that incomplete information in city hall files had indicated 80 acres in the property.

"The surveyor checked deed records and discovered there are 120 acres in the area," said Nolen. He explained that the survey for a landfill closure plan will cost $6,400. Originally, the contract with the engineering firm of Landgraf, Crutcher and Associates for the closure plan allocated $4,000 for the survey.

The commission also authorized a $2,000 contribution to Kids, Inc. The donation is included in the current city budget.

City staff was authorized to prepare specifications for a personal computer for the city secretary's office. A $4,000 allocation for the equipment is a budget item.

And, without a dissenting vote, the commission canceled the Sept. 7 meeting because of the Labor Day holiday.

Man jailed for crack

A 66-year-old Hereford man was arrested Monday night for possession of a controlled substance, thought to be crack cocaine.

Elmo Williams was arrested at 238 Ave. E, Apartment B, at 10:17 p.m. Monday by officers with the Sheriff's Narcotics Attack Group. Officials said they found several small, white, rock-like crystals in a plastic bag. Authorities believe the crystals are crack cocaine.

Williams was taken to Deaf Smith County Jail, where he is in lieu of bond. The crystals were sent for laboratory analysis.

If the crystals are crack, it would be at least the third confiscation of the drug in Hereford.

Crack is a derivative of cocaine that is much less expensive than cocaine but is more addictive. It is smoked and creates an immediate high.

A big haul for the Halls

Don and Justin Hall of Hereford watch for the next attraction on the stage at Jubilee Junction on Saturday. The Hall Family held a family reunion over the weekend and built a huge float for the parade. The float, which took three flatbed trailers, was judged best overall and best depiction of the theme, "Makin' It Happen." Other division winners included First National Bank, commercial; St. Anthony's Church, religious; Deaf Smith 4-H, service clubs; and Deaf Smith General Hospital, open.

More pictures from the weekend are on pages 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9 and 10 in today's Brand.

Republicans go after Congress, Clinton-Gore

HOUSTON (AP) - Republicans are trying to steer the wrath of disenfranchised voters away from President Bush to the Democratic-controlled Congress and paint Bill Clinton as a failure as governor and novice at foreign policy.

After an opening night reflection on 12 years of White House dominance, the Republican National Convention looked ahead today, with a tribute to congressional hopefuls and a prime-time parade of 1996 presidential prospects hoping to boost their own stock while helping Bush.

The president arrived Monday for his second coronation as Republican standard-bearer and immediately joined in the anti-Congress chorus. At a welcoming rally, he rebuked the Democratic leadership as the "sultans of the status quo."

In the cavernous Astrodome, the delegates' refrain was "Clean the House" as Ronald Reagan sought to convince voters the change they need is on Capitol Hill - not at the White House. Chants of "Four More Years" were designed to reinforce that point.

Republicans previewed fall campaign lines aimed at reversing Clinton's double-digit lead in the polls. They portrayed Bush as an unparalleled world leader now ready to turn his energy homeward and the Democratic nominee as a failed governor, closet liberal and Vietnam draft evader.

"Where was Bill?" the delegates bellowed when conservative Patrick Buchanan recalled Bush's World War II service. Now in Bush's corner after an initially scorching primary challenge, Buchanan said Clinton's agenda was topped by abortion on demand, gay rights, and combat roles for women.

Bush watched from his hotel - also his legal residence - while working on his Thursday night acceptance speech. Republicans emphasized the importance of that speech - and the need for Bush to define his campaign themes.

"We're here to learn the theme and message of this campaign," said Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad.

At the welcoming rally, Bush promised the frustrated GOP faithful, "When history writes about this election, they're going to say it started right here when you fired up this president to take this message to the American people."

Vice President Dan Quayle was at Bush's side, and later went to the convention floor to catch the opening night's proceedings.

"I don't care what my critics say," Quayle said. "I will never back down from talking about traditional values."

Clinton was home in Arkansas, with one eye on solving a state budget problem, the other on GOP attacks.

He said of the blistering criticisms, "It's the best thing they have, since they can't run on their record," he told CBS. His campaign ridiculed the arch-conservative Republican platform as a document "with universal appeal - as long as you're an extremist."

Buchanan was the first of the party's likely 1996 presidential prospects in convention prime time, but hardly the last. Tonight has keynote Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, whose visits with Iowa and New Hampshire delegates underscored his ambition, as well as Housing Secretary Jack Kemp and Education Secretary Lamar Alexander. Also, a 1996 longshot: Massachusetts Gov. William Weld.

Their job is to continue the boost-Bush-bash-Clinton routine begun Monday.

Buchanan said Clinton's foreign policy experience amounted to "breakfast at the International House of Pancakes." Quayle conceded, mockingly, that Clinton had "a summer internship with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee."

Wyoming Sen. Alan Simpson echoed Buchanan's reminder that Clinton never served in the military. South Carolina Gov. Carroll Campbell suggested the Arkansas governor's economic plan would cost jobs. Not to be outdone, delegates wore buttons referring to Clinton as "Failed Governor of a Small State."

South Dakota Sen. Larry Pressler, by no means a Clinton fan, protested, "I find it a little offensive," he said. "Most Americans live in small states."

Under the Astrodome roof, the giant task was igniting Bush's campaign and glossing over the anemic economy was a major part of the Republican strategy.

"We cannot afford to take a chance" on Clinton, Reagan said in his convention return. It was a folksy, vintage Reagan speech in which he endorsed his former vice president "warmly, genuinely, wholeheartedly."

Woman guilty in '55 murder

LUBBOCK (AP) - A jury has convicted Colleen Parker McMorris of murder without malice in connection with the death 37 years ago of her husband's 22-month-old daughter.

The jury deliberated about five hours on Monday before returning a guilty verdict on a lesser offense than the prosecution sought in the trial, which began a week earlier.

State District Judge John R. Carter directed the jury to return Tuesday morning for the punishment phase. Mrs. McMorris, 60, could receive up to 5 years in prison, but is also eligible for probation.

Although trial participants used the current code of criminal procedure, they used penal laws that were in place at the time the child died on Dec. 5, 1955.

Jurors had the option of acquitting the defendant or of convicting her of murder with malice, punishable by up to life in prison; murder without malice; or aggravated assault and battery. None of the offense categories is used today.

Malice was defined in 1955 laws as a wrongful act done intentionally without just cause or excuse.

The prosecution's key witnesses against the defendant were her stepdaughters, Kay Clark and Deborah Callerman. Both testified they saw Mrs. McMorris pick up their baby sister, Carolyn Yvonne McMorris, by the legs and slam her head against the floor.

At the time of the child's death, it was ruled the child was apparently injured in a fall from bed.

The sisters came forward with allegations against their stepmother in 1991. They kept silent over the years because they thought the statute of limitations had expired. They learned later that there is no statute of limitations for murder, they said.

Teachers begin school year

Hereford public school teachers began the 1992-93 school year Monday with a general meeting, luncheon, campus meetings and a reception. Left, Catherine Cortez, president of the Classroom Teachers Association; Richard Souter, assistant superintendent for business; and Carolyn Waters, president of the Hereford Educators Association, look over the crowd at a luncheon at the Bull Barn sponsored by the professional organizations. Right, new teachers and employees of Hereford State Bank visit during the bank's annual reception for new employees of the school district. Teachers had a work day today before beginning classes, Wednesday morning.

Refugees leave shelled-out hotel

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - Nearly 1,000 women and children were leaving Sarajevo today, just hours after a mortar attack on a crowded refugee hotel underlined the dangers innocents face in Bosnia's civil war.

The origin of the mortar rounds that struck the Hotel Europe late Monday was not known, but the attack may have been in retaliation for the shelling earlier in the day of Serb military headquarters in suburban Pale.

At least two people were killed in the hotel attack, which came as U.N. peacekeepers were reported negotiating to get control of the heavy weapons in and around the Bosnian capital, most of them possessed by Serbs.

The Hotel Europe, home to 1,500 refugees, was hit by four mortar shells and set ablaze.

"There was fire everywhere," said 13-year-old Almir Jipa, who fled the hotel to the sanctuary of an underground cafe.

"We all started running. I saw a lady bleeding in the street, but I couldn't help her because I was running, too."

Belgrade TV reported on the shelling of Pale by Bosnian government forces, calling it the first such attack in five months of fighting.

Its quoted officials in Pale as saying Sarajevo "would have to pay a price 10 times higher" for the attack and warning that Serbs would "no longer choose targets" in the besieged Serbian capital.

That apparently meant they would fire indiscriminately.

Serb fighters perched in the hills surrounding the capital have been able to attack it almost at will, and have often appeared to deliberately target civilians.

Serbs who want to remain part of Serb-dominated Yugoslavia have seized about two-thirds of Bosnia-Herzegovina since the republic's majority Croats and Muslims voted for independence on Feb. 29.

Tens of thousands of people have died or are missing in the conflict, and more than a million have been forced from their homes.

U.S.-Iraq tension expected to abate

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - U.N. weapons inspectors were leaving Iraq today with important information on ballistic missiles after having avoided provoking the confrontation the United States is reported to have desired.

Tension between Washington and Baghdad is unlikely to abate, however.

The United States and its Persian Gulf war allies are preparing to come to the aid of Iraqi Shiite Muslims who are being attacked by Saddam Hussein's forces in the country's southern marshes.

Plans call for barring Iraqi warplanes from the region's skies.

The U.N. weapons team had planned a surprise visit to an Iraqi military ministry in Baghdad but postponed it after a weekend New York Times article depicted the visit as orchestrated by the United States to provoke Iraq, the Times, the Washington Post and ABC-TV reported.

The Times had reported that the U.N. team would try to inspect the Ministry of Military Industrialization - challenging Saddam's refusal to let inspectors into government ministries - and that Washington was ready to bomb ministries if the team were rebuffed.

The inspectors, who under the Gulf war cease-fire are to oversee the destruction of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction, did not wish to appear manipulated by the United States, the media reports said.

The team's leader, a Russian, had made it clear that he was not seeking a confrontation. Nikita Smidovich's team was unusually silent about its activities, apparently seeking to avoid tensions.

Tim Trevan, spokesman for the U.N. weapons commission, said Monday in New York that the team had gathered "significant additional information about Iraq's ballistic missile program."

Trevan said the inspectors did not try to enter any ministries during their 10-day tour. In July, U.N. experts were kept out of the Agriculture Ministry in Baghdad for three weeks. After a U.S. threat of military intervention, the Iraqis backed down and promised better cooperation.

A U.S.-led international military force last year forced Iraq to relinquish Kuwait, which it had seized in August 1990. Under the U.N. cease-fire resolution that ended the war, Iraq agreed to surrender its unconventional weapons and to stop persecuting its Kurds and Shiites.

On Monday, Bush administration officials said the United States and its allies were preparing to protect Shiites with an aerial umbrella and threaten Saddam with force unless he halts attacks on the minority.

"We've made known our views that his activities there are out of line," Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said. "He has stepped up the level of oppression and we are considering what steps might be appropriate in that regard."

President Bush on Monday called Saddam a "bully" who is "just trying to thumb his nose at the rest of the world."

Church anniversary celebrated recently

Members of Summerfield Baptist Church and guests celebrated the church's 90th anniversary with a special sermon and reception held Sunday, Aug. 9. The church was organized in 1902 by 13 charter members, most of which were from the Roberson family.

past history of the church.

Former pastors, deacons, and members were recognized and given the opportunity to relate their experiences with the church.

J.B. Noland was in charge of the musical arrangements which were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Boyer and Noland singing as a trio, and Mrs. K.W. Nell, a former member, and Noland singing a duet. Accompaniment was provided by Nelda Jacks and Ann Clearman, former pianist and organist of the church. Christie Clearman Whitehurst and Tommie Sue Lookingbill Smith gave the offertory music.

Former member and choir director, Gene Streun, sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Gene Streun, the granddaughter of former charter member, Brunett Witherspoon.

Merel Weathers, former pastor, gave the inspirational message.

Guests were invited to attend the reception in the fellowship hall with Eva Lookingbill registering. Past history and pencils were distributed as favors. Guests represented Amarillo, Belton, Abilene, Lubbock, Perryton, Plainview, Friona, Dimmitt, Canyon, Adrian, Hart, Kress and Clovis, N.M.

The main serving table was covered with a blue cloth accented with white ribbon. Pointers for parents

For parents new to the world of child care, choosing a safe, enriching and reliable child care center is a time-consuming and often confusing task. However, there are some helpful tips that can make the process easier and more organized.

Dr. Marcy Gudemi, Vice President of Education and Research at KinderCare Learning Centers, Inc., the nation's largest child care company, has developed the following checklist to help identify the best choice for you and your children.

Center Features To Look For:

- The ratio of caregivers to children?
- Does the center have an openhouse visiting policy and is parental involvement encouraged?
- Does the center require or offer caregiver training? What kind?
- Does the center have specific emergency procedures?
- Is safe transportation provided free of charge?

SPORTS

You win some...

Herd quarterback Richard Sanderson sees nothing but green between him and the goal line on a long touchdown run during Saturday's intrasquad scrimmage.

...you lose some

A few plays after the touchdown run, Sanderson sees stars as he is folded in half by defensive back Chad Carlile.

Whitefaces get chance to play

The purpose of the scrimmage is not to determine a winner. Score wasn't even kept.

"It gives the kids a chance to play in game situations, and it gives the coaches a chance to evaluate them in a game situation," coach Danny Hancy said.

"It gives the underclassmen a chance to experience the intensity of the varsity level. Most importantly, it gives the coaches a chance to look at personnel placement, to see if we've got them in the right positions."

There were good plays by both the offense and the defense, and there were some mistakes.

"I was pleased," Hancy said. "In this situation--with only one workout in pads--there's going to be lots of mistakes. The things I saw were great efforts and good hitting."

Hereford freshmen and sophomores will scrimmage against Plainview freshmen and sophomores at 5 p.m. Thursday in Hereford, on the fields east and south of Whiteface Stadium. The juniors and seniors will scrimmage against Plainview at 7 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium.

LA's Gross twirls no-hitter

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Manager Roger Craig has been watching Kevin Gross pitch against his San Francisco Giants for the past seven seasons in three different uniforms, and one thing keeps puzzling him: Gross' won-lost record.

"I told my coaches before the game I've never understood why this guy didn't win more ballgames," Craig said Monday night after the Los Angeles Dodgers right-hander pitched the first no-hitter of 1992 and ended a personal five-game winless streak with a 2-0 victory at Dodger Stadium.

"He's a big, strong guy and he's got outstanding stuff. His fastball's not what you'd call 93, 94, 95, but it moves so good."

So good, in fact, that the Giants' entire offense consisted of second-inning walks to Cory Snyder and Matt Williams, and a hit batsman - pinch-hitter Mark Leonard to lead off the ninth.

Gross (6-12) escaped the second inning on a double-play grounder by Kirt Manwaring and set down 22 of his final 23 batters, including Willie McGee on a fly to left for the final out.

"The later it got, the more the adrenaline started pumping," Gross said. "When you're having a good game like this, you're just locked in and you're concentrating totally on every pitch."

"There's a great lineup I'm pitching against, guys that I've battled all my career. There were a few times when I made a bad pitch and they just missed them."

Gross didn't make many bad pitches. He threw 99 of them, 71 for strikes. His primary weapon was his breaking ball as he struck out six and ended a string of 10 consecutive losing decisions against the NL West, dating back to last season.

"That's the best control he's had, from my standpoint," said Giants slugger Will Clark, who did not hit a ball out of the infield in three tries. "I've seen him have better stuff, but not as good control."

"But when you're on this level, it doesn't matter how hard you throw. It's where you put it. And he didn't make many mistakes."

Dodger shortstop Jose Offerman, who leads the most error-prone team in the majors with 32 miscues, caught Gross' biggest mistake. He preserved the no-hitter when he lunged to his right to snag Robby Thompson's line drive leading off the eighth inning.

The Dodgers signed Gross as a free agent in December 1990 after he left the Montreal Expos. Since coming to Los Angeles, he is 16-23 and 96-113 overall.

In the only other National League game played Monday, Atlanta edged Pittsburgh 5-4 in 10 innings. Cincinnati at Philadelphia was postponed because of rain.

Spikers debut tonight

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team scrimmaged in Brownfield Monday in preparation for tonight's season opener against Canyon, and coach Brenda Reeh hopes they've gotten over the nervousness.

"Playing last night was good for us just so we could work out the nerves," she said.

The team was nervous especially during the first of four scrimmage sessions, when Hereford outscored Brownfield 18-16 in the 20-minute session. The Herd calmed down a little and play improved in the next two 20-minute sessions and a 10-minute session. Hereford outscored Brownfield in all three: 16-8, 13-8 and 13-3.

The Lady Whitefaces host Canyon at 6 in Whiteface Gym.

Yanks drop into last

CHICAGO (AP) - New York Yankee manager Buck Showalter has been ill for the last couple of days with the flu, and his team isn't doing much to make him feel any better.

With their fifth defeat in seven games coming Monday night in a 4-3 loss to the Chicago White Sox, the spiraling Yankees dropped into a tie for last place in the AL East with the Cleveland Indians.

Left-hander Greg Hibbard, who is turning into a Yankee killer, allowed four hits over eight innings and the White Sox scored a pair of unearned runs in the fifth inning to tag Melido Perez with the loss.

In the night's only other AL game, Detroit beat Kansas City 6-5.

Houstonian wins 10-K

A total of 134 runners and walkers participated in the Greg Black Memorial 10-K and the accompanying races.

Zean Gassman of Houston was the overall winner of the 10-K with a time of 33 minutes and 1 second—two and a half minutes faster than second place Louis Warner of Hobbs, N.M. Gassman's time was exactly one second slower than the pace set last year by Arthur Jimenez of Tucumcari. "10-K" means the length of the race is 10 kilometers, or about six miles.

In the women's 10-K, Karen Cooley of Amarillo won with a time of 41:25. She beat Janet Matthews of Tulsa, Okla., by 34 seconds.

Robert Gutierrez of Amarillo won the two-mile race in 11:16, and Amanda Bullard of Hereford was the first woman to finish (15:57). Ann Sparks of Hurst was the first to finish the two-mile walk.

Pat Mercer sends another one over the fence during the home run contest, which he won. The contest was held along with the Hereford Jubilee Softball classic at the field at the First Church of the Nazarene.

Cotten-Warrick takes tourney

The Cotten and Warrick team defeated the Hereford A's 26-11 in Sunday's championship game of the Third Annual Hereford Jubilee Softball Classic.

Cotten and Warrick went undefeated through the tournament, which was held at the field at the First Church of the Nazarene in Hereford.

On Sunday, Cotten and Warrick beat Kickback 19-9 and the A's edged McCracken Loader 10-9. Cotten and Warrick defeated the A's 22-10 in the finals of the winners' bracket. The A's dropped into the losers' bracket and beat McCracken again, this time 14-6, to make the tournament finals.

The tournament included 15 teams, included teams from Friona, Plainview, Amarillo and Nazareth.

Hereford also hosted a women's tournament over the weekend at Veterans Park: the Hereford Lady A's Jubilee Softball Classic. The Expos of Clovis, N.M., beat Bad Intent of Amarillo 6-4 in the finals to win. Lady Knights of Hereford was third.

In the home run hitting contest held Saturday at the Nazarene field, Pat Mercer homered on the first pitch of the second round of playoffs to win the contest.

Four men--Pat Mercer, Jackie Mercer, Gary Long and J.D. High--each hit two homers in the regular part of the contest, forcing a playoff. Long and Pat Mercer each had two homers in the first round of the playoffs to advance further. Long didn't put any of his five pitches over the fence in the second round, so all Pat needed was one.

Cowboys release Harris

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys have ended Donald Harris' three-week experiment as a two-sport player, but the Texas Rangers are welcoming him back.

Harris left the Rangers on July 27 and signed with the Cowboys. Texas had demoted him to Class AA Tulsa, so the speedy outfielder decided to resume his football career with Dallas.

"When I first came out, I was wondering if I could play the game," said Harris, who hadn't played football since 1988, his sophomore year at Texas Tech.

"Now, I realize that if I'd have come straight out of college, I would've definitely been able to play this game."

Rangers officials said they hope

Harris has football out of his system so he can concentrate on baseball full-time.

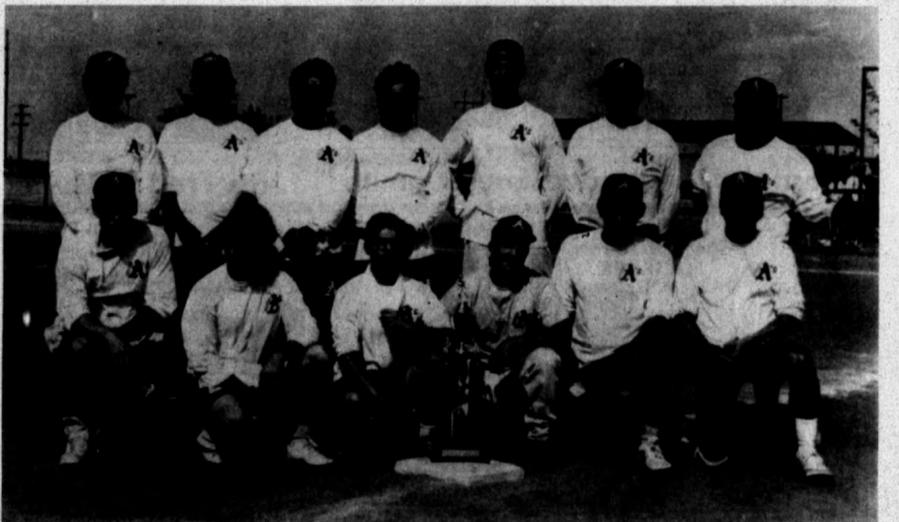

"It should be easier now that he has one (sport) to focus on," said Texas manager Toby Harrah.

"That lingering doubt in the back of his mind, 'What kind of football player could I have been?' has been put to rest," Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said.

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said Harris' football skills weren't the same this fall as they were in 1987-88 when he starred for Texas Tech.

"He was behind the other defensive backs. I know that was frustrating to him," said Johnson, who added that Harris still may be able to join the team's 5-member developmental squad.

Parents need to exercise authority in the home; therefore talking about "rights of children" may rub against the grain. Where health is concerned, however, children need and deserve for parents to meet necessary standards for well-being.

The critical time for well-baby check-ups and immunizations against common childhood diseases is between the ages of birth to 4 years old. Parents hold the key to setting up regular visits to the doctor who is the best source for knowing when and what health practices and immunizations are necessary.

Diphtheria and polio immunizations rates among preschool children in the United States average about 60 percent lower than in many Western European countries. Immunizations are the most healthy and cost effective ways to control communicable diseases.

The following guidelines are provided by the American Academy of Pediatrics Guidelines for Health Supervision II and pediatrics clinics:

Newborns - A complete physical examination at birth, including metabolic screening for phenylketonuria, hypothyroidism and other inborn errors is conducted. New parents need a lot of information about how to prevent injuries in the home, securing the baby in a car safety restraint seat, methods and schedules for feeding, pros and cons of breast and bottle feeding, what to do when the baby gets sick, sleep practices, bladder and bowel habits, managing the baby's crying, responding to the baby's needs, the importance of holding, cuddling and talking to the baby and the importance of parents spending time together. Both Moms and Dads need special consideration and help to relieve stress during this time. It's important not to be isolated from friends, family and other support givers.

Following the birth of the baby, parents will be told when to bring in the next visit, including immunization series. Hematocrit or hemoglobin tests and urinalysis may be suggested between 1 and 12 months of age.

-At Two to four weeks, a complete physical exam is given, parents should be informed about the benefits and risks of immunizations, and that the following schedule is required at:

Two, Four, Six and 18 months; Four years -- TDP (diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis or whooping cough); OPV (oral polio vaccine); HBPV (hemophilus b conjugate vaccine); prevents spinal meningitis; TD (tetanus, diphtheria) booster recommended every ten years following first series of shots. Parents need to know that fever and irritability are common with immunizations.

Twelve Months - TB skin test; annual skin tests are recommended.

Fifteen months or at doctor's recommendation -- Due to the recent surge of measles in the United States, two shots are required by everyone. First, at 15 months with a booster between 5 and 12 years old. Second, adults born after 1957 need a MMR booster. Hemophilia influenza B vaccine may be given; MMR (measles, mumps and rubella).

Two years - Hemophilus influenza type b diphtheria toxoid conjugate vaccine or H. influenza type b capsular polysaccharide vaccine, as per doctor's recommendation. Parent are encouraged to become involved in parenting education classes. Guidance from an informed leader, and support from other parents with similar concerns, relieves uncertainty at a time when the baby's needs and demands are changing rapidly.

Eight years -- Mumps vaccine given if not previously or if there is no history of mumps; Rubella vaccine given to girls if there is no evidence of serologic immunity.

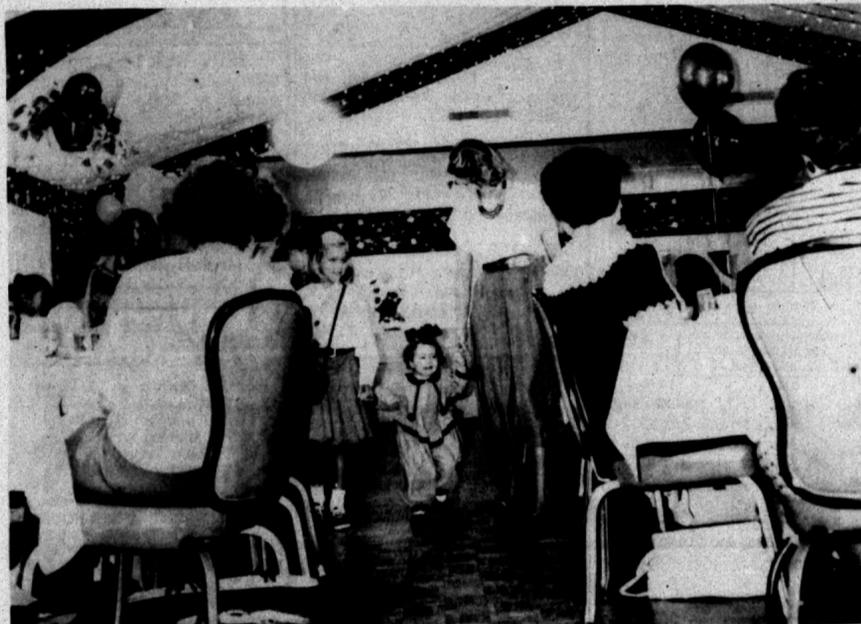

Summers can provide more time for parents to spend with children in relaxed, fun activities at home or away. These plans can be spoiled, however, by the unwelcome visit of childhood diseases unless parents take necessary steps to prevent them. Remember, kids deserve healthy bodies too.

John Tyler, 10th president of the United States, was born in 1790 in Charles City County, Va.

Going back to school in style

Local youths are preparing for their first day of school Wednesday and an important part of the process is new school clothes. New fall fashions were shown Thursday during the Women's Division's Back To School Happening Style Show and Luncheon held at the Hereford Country Club. Karen Abney, in top photo, and Kali Hall and Devon Kemp (assisted by Donna Kemp), in bottom photo, model fall fashions.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them. -Ann Landers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please repeat that great column "Ten Ways to Break Up a Marriage." I need it NOW--SOS

DEAR SOS: Here it is. Thanks for asking.

1. When sons or daughters let you know they plan to be married, show open hostility to the person of their choice. After all, marriage means less love and attention for parents, and they have a right to resent it.

2. Expect your married children to spend every Sunday and holiday at your home. Act hurt if they have other plans.

3. If your married children have problems with their mates, encourage them to come home, no matter what. Listen attentively to all complaints and point out additional faults which may have gone unobserved. Remember, single drops of water can wear away a rock if the drops keep falling long enough.

4. When your married children have financial problems, rush in with the checkbook. If you are having financial problems yourself, borrow, if necessary, but let them know they'll never have to do without anything so long as you are around.

5. If a married child has a drinking problem, tell him his mate drove him to it. It will make him feel better. Everyone needs someone to blame.

6. If your married child gets an opportunity for advancement which takes him to another city, tell him, "Family is more important than money." If he leaves anyway, remind him that God will punish him for breaking one of the Ten Commandments.

7. If there are grandchildren, smother them with gifts. If the parents object, tell them to keep out of it. After all, grandchildren are to spoil.

8. If your married child has a difference of opinion with his mate, get into the act and give them both a sample of your wisdom, born of years of experience. What do THEY know? You've lived!

9. When your married sons or daughters visit with their children, make a point of how thin and tired the kids look. Get across the message that you don't like the way your beloved grandchildren are being cared for. Ask repeatedly what they eat and why they have so many colds. If a kid breaks a tooth or is injured during play, get all the details and place the blame on lack of parental supervision.

10. If your son has a button missing from his shirt, say something. Also mention the hole in his sock or the spot on his coat. It will fan the flames of self-pity and could start the final flight that ends in the divorce court.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife had an affair with her boss. I was aware of it and waited patiently, hoping it would terminate.

Finally, I told her I new. She admitted everything and ended the affair immediately. We have had a perfect relationship ever since, but I can't get that man out of my mind. Whenever we make love, I think of him in bed with her. I can't afford therapy. What should I do?--No Name, No town

DEAR N.N.N.T.: I've said this so often I'm beginning to sound like a cracked record. My apologies to all who are sick of it.

Therapy IS available for those who cannot pay. Contact your county or state Mental Health Association. Check with United Way or the Information and Referral Service. Help is as near as your phone book.

Forget to save some of your favorite Ann Landers columns? "Nuggets and Doozies" is the answer. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

In 1948, President Harry S. Truman signed the Marshall Plan, which allocated more than $5 billion in aid for 16 European countries.

Jubilee was a great day

Saturday dawned cloudy and a little cool, but it was a great day for the big day of the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee. The Jubilee Parade featured pretty floats, pretty girls and much more. Jubilee Junction featured fun, food, music and games. Organizers said it was one of the biggest crowds in the 12 years of the Jubilee.
