HEREFORD'S 1992 NEWSMAKERS

DAVID WAGNER, a Hereford native, was named police chief after longtime chief CAYDON BRUSH resigned after several months of problems.

RON RIVES finished up his first year as hospital administrator and led United Way.

C LARRY WARTES was named the Citizen of the Year.

C SPEEDY NIEMAN was chairman of a county-wide committee that tried for a prison.

C BRENDA REEH'S volleyball team beat Dumas, went to state. TONY CASTILLO took two tries and won a county vote.

JOE MAINO moved from Houston to rejuvenate the boys' basketball program at HHS.

Prison, religion and sports topped 1992 news

The year 1992 began with a sharp jolt for Hereford and Deaf Smith County as residents endured an earthquake measuring 4.7 on the Richter scale. This event characterized a shaky year as reflected in headlines from The Brand.

Local authorities attempted to combat an increase in violence as youths carried guns to school, drive-by shootings occurred in west Hereford and Homecoming activities were plagued by rumors of gang activity.

Community leaders such as County Judge Tom Simons, County Sheriff Joe Brown, and Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul hosted a meeting to inform parents and children about the dangers of underage alcohol abuse and how authorities intended to respond. A DARE pilot program also began in January. High classrooms to promote drug and alcohol awareness.

Despite a turbulent beginning, residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith County united in their efforts to create a successful community. Deaf Smith General Hospital began renovations, provided flu shots and launched a CPR program to train 5,000 local adults.

A spark of spiritual hope appeared for some as a figure resembling the Virgin Mary appeared at Griffin and Brand while other citizens claimed to have seen The Dancing Sun.

Outstanding community leaders for the year included Argen Draper, Club Woman of the Year; Larry Wartes, Top Citizen; Dick Fellers, Man of the Year in Agriculture; Mildred Furhmann, Woman of the Year; Vanessa Gonzalez, Miss Hereford; Teresa Baker, DAR Good Citizen; Margaret Perez, Citizen of the Year; David Bone, Valedictorian; Emmett Milburn, Pioneer of the Year and Gloria Herrera, Fiestas Patrias Queen.

Changes occurred as David Wagner was named the new Chief of Police; Natalie Sims, the Hereford High School tennis coach; David Kaesheimer, the golf pro; Joe Main, head basketball coach; Alice Lockmiller, principal at Northwest; Marilyn Leasure, principal at Hereford Junior High; and David Fanning, principal at Shirley Intermediate School.

The Hereford volleyball team, under Brenda Reeh, defeated Dumas to on to the state tournament in Austin. The girls golf team, coached by Stacey Bixler, finished in the top eight teams in the state, and the Hostile Herd football team, under Danny Haney, won district to go on to bi-district play.

The 1992 year roared away, leaving ten inches of snow with hopes of a white Christmas and a question as to what was yet to come.

Here are some of the highlights during the year from the Hereford Brand.

JANUARY

2--An earthquake measuring 4.7 on the Richter scale woke many residents in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

3--In Dallas, the 501st homicide of the year was reported.

4--Building permits in Hereford reached a 33 year low.

7--Residents claimed they had seen The Dancing Sun despite cloud cover.

8--Mildred Furhmann was named the 1991 Woman of the Year by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

President Bush collapsed while seated at a state dinner with Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa.

9--The City hired David Kaesheimer of Albuquerque, N.M. as new golf pro.

15--The city park at Ave. H and 15th in Hereford was dedicated to those who served in all wars, especially the 72 residents who served in the Gulf War.

19--Darline Morris was honored as Best Rancher for 1991. The worst sugarbeet harvest in 22 years costs the region an estimated $15 million.

21--Dick Fellers was named the 1991 Man of the Year in Agriculture.

23--Colby Christie took the grand championship in the Hereford Young Farmers Steer show and Michael Carlson won grand championship in the heifer show. Natalie Sims was named the new Hereford High School tennis coach.

28--Democratic candidate, Bill Clinton, faced sexual charges by Jennifer Flowers.

30--Services were held for Gene Brock, an honored Hereford educator.

FEBRUARY

2--Hereford High School was declared a drug-and-gun-free zone by U.S. Attorney Marvin Collins of Dallas.

If someone came to you, said she was a virgin but you could tell she was pregnant, would you call your minister or 911?

The woman was adamant, though her story was otherworldly and illogical and some might call it delusional.

An angel had told her that she would give birth to the Son of God. Nearly 2,000 years later, hundreds of millions believe this virgin's account as a matter of faith, and earlier this month gathered in churches throughout the world to celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ.

But what if a new Mary came forward? Would there be a church that wouldn't treat her as an outcast, or a psychiatrist who wouldn't welcome her as a patient?

6--Dr. Kevorkian's lawyer predicted that murder charges filed against the suicide-machine inventor would be thrown out.

7--Lawmakers met again in special session to adopt a school finance plan.

11--George Bush entered the presidential race for re-election.

12--Leo Brown and Jennifer Bullard were named Basketball king and queen.

18--Hereford School board members reviewed results from the 1991 Texas Assessment of Academic Skills. The tests followed a statewide pattern of decline.

20--The U.S. trade deficit finally dipped below the $10 billion mark last year.

21--The city of Hereford assumed responsibility for collecting recyclable materials.

23--Jennifer Bullard set a Hereford High School record with 107 steals last year.

25--Agren Draper was named the 1991 Club Woman of the Year.

27--New York City spent about $60 million a year on school security, more than most communities spend on education itself.

28--An audit of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District showed the hospital lost $1.3 million in 1991.

MARCH

4--Baghdad continued to defy cease-fire terms that mandated the destruction of its unconventional weapons.

5--A record 4.7 million families were receiving welfare to pay for life's necessities. Lawmakers prepared a final draft of legislation that would make public thousands of intelligence documents relating to the assassination of President Kennedy.

6--Computer users braced for a virus to strike. Houston continued to recover from flood damage.

8--Measles broke out in Corpus Christi and other parts of South Texas.

10--Larry Wartes was named 1991 Top Citizen.

12--House Republicans demanded public identification of all 355 current and former members who wrote overdrafts at the chamber's bank.

15--The Hereford prison proposal makes the TDCJ "short list".

18--Tsongas quit the Democratic race.

24--Dickie Faught resigned from his position as girls' basketball coach and assistant athletic director.

25--Juvenile crime in Deaf Smith County rose significantly in 1991 according to figures released by Juvenile Probation chief Lou Serrano.

27--911 emergency services began in Hereford.

29--Personal income rose yet, it lagged behind national growth according to the Department of Commerce.

APRIL

2--A Hereford man was free on $5,500 bond after being arrested for possession of 14 ounces of marijuana. Lions Club elected new officers for the 1992-93 year.

3--City Commissioner James McDowell requested accountability of the chamber's use of funds from the city's motel tax.

5--A new cooperative effort by Hereford Police Chief Caydon Brush, Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown and Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul hoped to curb under-age drinking. The city tax rate was the same for the 7th year in a row.

8--In Brenham, Texas an explosion in an underground pipeline killed one child and injured 18 people. In 1991, 1,979,861 head of cattle were fed in the Texas, Oklahoma panhandles and eastern New Mexico areas.

10--Ann Richards announced her plan to revamp school funding. The first lottery tickets arrived. Hereford was not chosen for a new state prison.

14--Bao Nguyen, 13, of Hereford finished second in the Regional Spelling Bee at West Texas State University. A small group picketed the Courthouse claiming officers used unfair and brutal tactics when they raided the home of Lorenzo Contreras.

17--New debit cards replaced food stamps to save money and reduce fraud.

21--The arrest of an 18-year-old Hereford High School student for the possession of a fire extinguisher drew criticism of Tim Travis before the Hereford City Commission. All records of the incident were later expunged under rule by David Wesley Gulley. Billionaire Ross Perot led the field in a Texas poll.

This review was compiled and written by Lindsay Radford, a journalism student at Northwestern University.

Prophets or nuts?

"It's important," says the Rev. Ruth Barnhouse, an Episcopal priest and president of the Association of Women Psychiatrists, "to have a system that allows you to distinguish between prophets and madmen."

For a long time, psychiatrists saw no reason to distinguish. They followed Freud, dismissing religion as harmful to a patient's health, an infantile attempt to make sense of the world.

The use of religious imagery among the mentally disturbed is very small, but open up a textbook on abnormal psychology and someone suffering from religious delusions usually will be held up as an example, said Bernard Spilka, a psychology professor at the University of Denver.

The prejudice at times "is so childish it's unbelievable," said Spilka.

But more recently, as several studies showing a general relation between religion and mental health have broken down the prejudice that once separated body and soul, sociologists and psychologists are moving into the more subtle issues of when religious faith is a source of good or harm.

In general, many psychologists and sociologists that study the relation between religion and mental health divide behaviors into "intrinsic" and "extrinsic" categories.

For the individual with an intrinsic faith, spirituality grows out of personal convictions and commitment, and the individual tends to have a more universal perspective that is more likely to be empathetic towards others and less likely to be prejudiced.

For example, in a recent study to find out what separates Mother Teresa from ordinary people, motivational psychologist David C. McClelland discovered that exceptionally caring members of religious orders felt closer to God and gave greater emphasis to contemplative prayer than did their colleagues.

By placing their faith in God, these individuals reported more joy in their relationships, and were less apt to burn out than individuals who viewed social problems as a personal burden.

Thus, a Mother Teresa can describe as joyful the experience of spending hours picking worms off a homeless person who would die later that day.

"Her feeling is one of joy because this is the way she identifies with Jesus and the way he would want it," said McClelland, a professor emeritus at Harvard who now works out of Boston University.

In contrast, extrinsic behavior, which is defined as largely following a set of rules or practicing religion for social status, is seen to be less healthy. Those individuals practice a more "opportunistic" type of faith, and are more likely to be prejudiced, psychologists said.

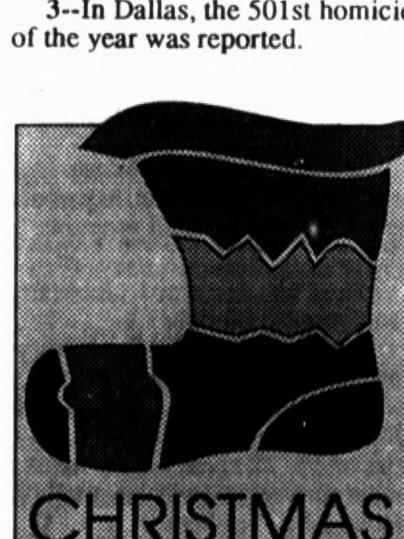

Compare Jim Jones, who led more than 900 people to their deaths in the Jonestown Massacre when faced with the end of his Peoples Temple, and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who endured prison and the hatred of many in his community to promote civil rights, said Dr. Allen Bergin, a

CSF ends successful year at $17K

The Christmas Stocking Fund, Hereford's holiday charity drive for the community's needy, ended Thursday with total contributions of $17,225.35.

This year's campaign total was just $3,65 shy of last year's giving by local residents. This represents cash donations, only, received by The Hereford Brand, and does not reflect canned goods and food items received in local school drives.

The anonymous CSF volunteer workers reported the contributions were ample to provide assistance to the most needy families in the community. A first round of deliveries was made on Dec. 23, and there were enough funds to make a second round of deliveries this week. CSF leaders are expected to compile a report next week on the psychologist at Brigham Young University.

Jones was clearly a paranoid personality, lost in a grandiose, self-delusional world, but the true religious prophet is 'other-focused. You can see that in Martin Luther King,' Bergin said.

Of course, it doesn't take years of post-graduate instruction to know that self-mutilation or killing others represent dysfunctional religious behavior. But other signs are not so clear.

For example, Spilka said, "Most of the people who demonstrate glossalia, speaking in tongues, are quite normal."

And from Jeremiah to Jesus, there is a long history of religious prophets finding themselves outcasts as they preach a message of affliction the comfortable and comforting the afflicted.

A man or woman who walked naked and barefoot throughout the land could find a historical precedent in Isaiah, who did it for three years.

And anyone who claimed divine authority in asking followers to sell all of their possessions and give the money to the poor need only cite the accounts told of Jesus in three of the Gospels.

Dr. Richard Thurrell, head of the Committee on Religion and Psychiatry of the American Psychiatric Association, said it can be hard to distinguish delusions from authentic religious beliefs.

A new year, new schedules and new, (and hopefully exciting), units of study will begin January 5 when students and teachers return to classes.

Some of the Texas History classes will have a brief study on conservation of natural resources followed by a unit entitled "Where In The World Is Deaf Smith County, Texas?" This unit entails extensive map work and research. The research will also help students as they prepare for an essay contest about the Texas Panhandle.

Student representatives leading in the pledge to the flag for Jan. 5-19 will be Raymond Garcia, Angie Villarreal, Angelina San Juan, Amanda Guzman, Jacob Gonzales, David Radford, Tony Garcia, Lisa Chavez, Gregoria Garza, Fernando Herrera, and Greg Reinhart.

Spelling bee practice will begin soon. Spelling bee booklets have been ordered and more information on this event is forthcoming, including names of sponsor and practice schedules.

As teachers, we feel that if we can reach the children of today, we touch the children of tomorrow. So, as the New Year begins, let's all, teachers, parents and students, resolve to do a good job with education!!

Hospital plans blood drive Tuesday

"Holiday Hero" will be the theme when Deaf Smith General Hospital sponsors a blood drive Tuesday from 1 to 6 p.m. in the DSGH employee dining room.

The blood drive will emphasize the importance of the donor by presenting each of them with a "Holiday Hero" tee-shirt.

"For more than forty years, Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo has relied on the generosity of area communities to provide a high quality, adequate supply of blood to area hospitals," said Ron Rives, DSGH administrator. "It's sometimes necessary around the holidays to remind people to take time from their busy schedules and give blood. We're proud to be able to assist Coffee in the Hereford area this year."

Elizabeth Fowler, blood drive coordinator and DSGH administrative assistant, said that anyone who wishes to donate blood can simply come to the hospital dining room from 1 to 6 p.m. Tuesday. "The donor must be over 17 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds," she said. There are a few other restrictions, but most healthy people can donate blood without any problem.

The donating process begins with the donor answering brief questions on medical history, including a thorough review of AIDS-related and high-risk activities. Next, a certified phlebotomist escorts the donor into the donor room, makes the donor comfortable, and starts the actual donation process. This usually takes about 7 to 10 minutes. When the donation is completed, the donor rests briefly and is provided a light refreshment.

"Most blood donors feel fine after donating," Renee Hammock, director of nursing, said. "The body has 8 to 11 pints of blood, so donating one pint does no harm. Some donors are concerned that they can get a disease while donating blood, but that is virtually impossible. All materials used during the donation process are sterile and used only once."

The demand for blood is constant, said Hammock. "That's why we must support the blood drive every time we can."

Sponsoring the blood drive is just one of several projects for DSGH in 1993, according to Fowler. "We are looking forward to a great year and want to take the opportunity to invite our community to come out to the hospital on January 5th. This is a wonderful chance to help our neighbors by giving blood."

Nine killed in storms across Texas

By The Associated Press

Icy roads wreaked havoc across Texas Friday, causing traffic accidents from the Texas Panhandle to Fort Worth. Frigid weather conditions were blamed for at least three highway deaths and another accident involving a bus carrying a Louisiana church group.

Freezing rain pelted the state late Thursday and early Friday, as temperatures slipped into the 20's in most areas.

The ice also snapped tree limbs and power lines, causing scattered power outages in North and West Texas.

Texas A&M and Notre Dame took to the wet field in Dallas for the Cotton Bowl, with gusts of 17 mph and freezing drizzle Friday afternoon.

Several flights were canceled at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport because of the icy conditions. But American Airlines spokesman Al Comeaux said the delays were typical under the conditions.

"But for the rest of the afternoon, we will be running about 50 or 60 minutes late," Comeaux said.

A bus carrying a church group home from a ski trip went off an icy road and overturned about 10 miles north of Dalhart on Friday, injuring several passengers, officials said.

The bus, carrying 47 people, was chartered by Trinity Heights Baptist Church of Shreveport, La. It slid off icy U.S. Highway 87 around 8:30 a.m., the Texas Department of Public Safety said.

Pastor's secretary Dot Ritch said the young adults had gone to Glenwood Springs, Colo., to ski. The group left Shreveport on Dec. 26, Ms. Ritch said.

Several other vehicles also went off the road after the bus rolled on its side.

Five people were in satisfactory condition Friday afternoon at Coon Memorial Hospital in Dalhart, said administrator Larry Baggett.

Alan Rock, a church youth worker who was driving the van, said people in the Panhandle community were offering food and shelter to the group.

Lunch was served at the Dalhart Fire Department, while other officials were making plans to host the group for the evening, Rock said.

"If you have to crash someplace, I guess Dalhart, Texas, is the place to do it. The whole community has opened up," Rock said.

One man was killed Friday morning in Fort Worth as he got out of his car, on a busy street, said dispatcher Tom Branton.

Carlos Acosta, 23, of Fort Worth, was struck by another vehicle, according to the Fort Worth Medical Examiner's office.

Another incident in Fort Worth had one car veering off an icy road and into a creek, Branton said.

No one was killed in the incident, and no further information was available, police said.

In Amarillo, slick roads led to two separate 10-car pileups on Interstate 40. The first accident occurred around 2:30 a.m. when one driver lost control of his vehicle and flipped over on the highway.

The second happened about an hour later when a police car parked behind a stalled truck was struck from behind by another vehicle.

Parts of the Panhandle and North Texas were under a freezing rain advisory through Friday night.

Cloudy skies and drizzle dominated South Texas, with fog reducing visibility along the lower Gulf Coast.

The DPS also reported that Steven M. Ross, of Fontana, Calif., was killed in an accident eight miles west of Odessa.

The accident occurred about 2 a.m. Friday when Damon Newton, of Fontana, Calif., was driving east on Interstate 20 in a drizzling rain, went into a broadside skid and then overturned once, shearing off the camper shell, according to reports.

Ross, 17, was in the camper on the back of a 1985 Toyota pickup and was not wearing a seat belt, reports said.

Nicole Lynne Davenport, 15, also of Fontana, and 17-year-old Sherry C. Jones were injured in the accident.

PURCHASING AN OLDER HOME

If you want more house for your dollar you may want to consider looking at an older home. There are many reasons for considering an older home. For one thing there are more older homes than new ones. For every new home that's built there are some 45 existing homes already on the market. Many older homes especially those built in the fifties and sixties offer more abundant space than some of the new homes being built. If you have a growing family, an older home offers more room and may cost less to purchase. Most of the older homes are in established well developed neighborhoods. There is no waiting for streets to be paved, sewers to be connected or schools to be built. Everything is in place so there is no need to worry about these things. We have a large selection of older homes at this time and we would be happy to show the differences in established homes versus new homes.

As the year 1992 winds down, we start thinking about a new year--about hopes for better things to come. Last year at this time, we wrote a few paragraphs in our column about taking care of the "little things" in our lives. The thoughts drew some favorable comment, so we'd like to pass them along again.

As we move into the new year, let's forget for the moment all those big problems in the world which we can't do anything about. Let's remember some of the little every-day things which we can do something about.

If we remember the little things and take care of them, then we will be in a better frame of mind to figure out what part we might play in helping solve the bigger problems of the day. Most things start in the mind, so let's begin to think that everything can be better, and let's have enough faith in ourselves and in the work we are doing to expect them to become better.

Let's talk about the good times--when something or someone made us happy. Let's talk about how fortunate we are and have a smile for everyone we meet. Let's appreciate our friends by letting them know how important we think they are. Let's hope for their success and be as enthusiastic about their good fortune as we are about our own. And, let us not forget to provide a shoulder to cry on in times of sadness.

Let's close the door on mistakes of the past and be concerned with making ourselves better. Let us direct criticism toward our own faults, rather than waste it on those who may not need criticism, and certainly don't want it.

If we do all these things, we will develop a strength of character that will be more of a match for any doubt or fear, that ensures peace of mind and fosters brighter thoughts and nobler deeds.

If we open the door on the possibilities in the days ahead, it will be...a Happy New Year!

The beginning of a new year is traditionally a time for resolutions, for setting new goals. We at The Brand make the same resolution as we have in years past--it is our goal to provide this community...our readers and advertisers...the best newspaper possible with the staff and resources at our command.

Like others who make resolutions, we sometimes fall short of our intended goals. We have never pulled a paper off the press with which we were perfectly satisfied, and we don't expect it to happen in 1993. We are not making excuses--only pointing out that we are human, that the margin of error is great in this business, and we simply ask for your patience and understanding.

It has always been our policy to present the news in a fair and accurate manner. We shall strive to base our reporting on fact, and to confine our opinions and comments to our editorial columns. We pledge that The Brand will never knowingly mislead its readers, and we are not too proud to make corrections of errors in fact when they are called to our attention.

The Hereford Brand is a private company, operated for profit. But it is a public news medium and, as such, we hope it will continue to merit your trust and confidence.

AG's office explains:

How to stop 'junk' mail, phone calls

Junkmail is a fact of life, but you can help stop it if you desire.

"Elder Alert," a newsletter from the Texas Attorney General's office, gives a tip on how to stop junk mail and unwanted telephone calls, how to report fraudulent mail schemes, and how to restore your credit rating when the computer makes a mistake.

Many of us simply throw the junk mail in the trash, but unfortunately some elderly citizens respond to the deluge of catalogues, sweepstakes, and slick offers of "free" cash or merchandise by ordering far more than they can afford, according to AG's office.

When you order one item through the mail, you name, address and buying history will be added to mailing lists that are bought and sold by all mail order sellers. If you are tired of receiving junk mail, or have an elderly relative who is being taken advantage of, you can help stop it by simply sending a postcard to:

Richard LaBoda
U.S. Postal Inspection Office
1003 Washington Ave., 3rd Floor
Houston, TX 77002

And, if your credit rating is in jeopardy because the company's computer "made a mistake," you solve it by taking several steps:

First, if you have been billed for something you didn't buy or weren't credited with a payment, write to your lender or credit car company and tell them to account for each inaccuracy on your statement. Ask them to stop payment on all charges you did not make. Send copies of any documents that show you were not at fault. This must be done in writing no later than 60 days after you got the inaccurate bill.

Second, if a relative has purchased more than he or she can afford, write to the bank asking that the payments be stopped. Return all merchandise as soon as it arrives, and ask the company to send you a receipt for the return of each item.

Similarly, if you have problems with unwanted phone calls and solicitations, the Direct Marketing Association will put your name on the "Do Not Call" lists honored by its members, if you write to:

Texas must hold spending in 1993

BY KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON
Texas State Treasurer

Year end is a wonderful time. We try to spend it with family and friends. We go to movies, read books, take down the holiday decorations and reflect on the past year.

It is also a time to begin the New Year's resolutions. For Texas, 1993 will be a defining year.

As the great "philosopher" Yogi Berra once said, "When you come to a fork in the road, take it." Texas is at a fork in the road. The new year will set Texas on a course the consequences of which will last a long time.

Over the past 10 years, the state's biennial budget has grown at an average rate of 18 percent and appropriations have more than doubled to $60 billion for 1992-93. If we don't act now to curb spending, we will face the same fiscal crisis as California--growing budget deficits, severe cutbacks in services, the loss of private industry. This is not the shape in which we want to be when we enter the 21st century.

Fortunately, there is still time to stem the flow. We have the opportunity to redirect our spending and rethink the way we manage government. If we make the right decisions, we can push Texas into the forefront, leading the nation in growth, employment and research. And, equally as important, we can achieve this without enacting new taxes. Our state leaders have announced their opposition to new taxes and that decision will be crucial for the future. I commend them for this move.

First, Treasury analysis shows that we will have close to $3 billion more to spend in 1994-95 than we had in 1992-93. Most states are not lucky enough to have this growing room.

Second, we can trim the budget now, to avoid draconian cuts five years from now.

Here are a few possible trimmings for starters:

1) Reduce operating budgets of all state agencies except for higher education and the criminal justice system by 10 percent. This would include job sharing, reduction in travel, cutting back on purchase of equipment and supplies. This would save $1.04 billion. This does not anticipate program cuts, only reductions in operating expenses. The Treasury budget was cut 10 percent last year. With common sense measures, we lived with 10 percent, brought in $1 billion for the state, the highest ever, and turned six percent back to the general revenue fund at the end of the fiscal year, Aug. 31, 1992.

2) Texas has the fastest rate of growth in number of state employees. If we start cutting this growth, present employees will not have to worry about job security in the future. Texas could reduce the number of state employees, excluding those in higher education, by five percent in 1994 and five percent in 1995. As the state's average employee turnover rate is 13 percent, this reduction should be achieved through attrition and retirement. Savings would be $280 million.

3) Seven states have instituted significant welfare reform and one state will stop the increase in Medicaid costs with an innovative approach now waiting for Federal

Fortunately, there is still time to stem the flow. We have the opportunity to redirect our spending and rethink the way we manage government. If we make the right decisions, we can push Texas into the forefront, leading the nation in growth, employment and research. And, equally as important, we can achieve this without enacting new taxes. Our state leaders have announced their opposition to new taxes and that decision will be crucial for the future. I commend them for this move.

First, Treasury analysis shows that we will have close to $3 billion more to spend in 1994-95 than we had in 1992-93. Most states are not lucky enough to have this growing room.

Second, we can trim the budget now, to avoid draconian cuts five years from now.

Here are a few possible trimmings for starters:

1) Reduce operating budgets of all state agencies except for higher education and the criminal justice approval. Wisconsin has implemented major reforms that encourage education for welfare recipients and reverses the disincentives to work or marry because of lost welfare benefits. New Jersey will deny additional benefits to mothers on welfare who have more children. Colorado is looking at a proposal to increase welfare to those who finish high school, instead of dropping out. Oregon's Medicaid reform will cover all those eligible, but limit the types of procedures covered.

These states are leaders in this growing movement to tailor welfare programs to fit their priorities and budget constraints. It is time for Texas to look at its AFDC and Medicaid programs. We must determine how to break the cycle of poverty and analyze where we can cut costs and eliminate waste.

In short, we must develop a system that meets the needs of all Texans; the truly needy and the taxpayers who must pay for this aid.

Instituting a three-year limit on welfare to able-bodied, healthy recipients in Texas would save more than $70 million.

With innovative thinking, there is so much more all of us can do. Texas has the opportunity to lead this nation into the next century. Our job base is growing and has become diversified.

If we can hold spending to available revenue in the next biennium, we will be taking Yogi Berra's advice...but, on the right fork.

Notes on the Law

President-elect Bill Clinton will profoundly impact the federal judiciary during his four years of presidency. The Judicial Conference of the United States has declared that a judicial emergency exists at present because of the number of vacancies in the federal judiciary.

There are currently 846 federal judgeships. When Bill Clinton arrives at the White House, he will be immediately called upon to make 52 nominations. Statistically, about 5 federal judgeships become vacant every month. Over 48 months, another 240 nominations will need to be made. Thus, Bill Clinton will likely nominate 300 to 350 people for federal judgeships during his first term in office.

These appointments will be made in every federal circuit across the nation. At present, there is at least one vacancy in every circuit and there is a "judicial emergency" in every circuit except the District of Columbia.

A judicial emergency exists when a judgeship remains vacant for more than 18 months. When a judgeship remains vacant for this period of time, the court's ability to keep pace with its docket is adversely affected, according to the Judicial Conference of the United States.

The impact of Clinton appointees may completely reshape the United States Supreme Court. It is not clear how many current Supreme Court Justices will retire from the bench, but it is possible that in Bill Clinton's initial term up to 5 of the present Justices will do so. These are Justice Byron White, Justice John Paul Stevens, Justice Harry Blackmun, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor and Justice William Rehnquist. Since there are a total of 9 Justices on the United States Supreme Court, it is possible that the Clinton appointees will comprise a majority of the Court.

The impact of Clinton nominees can also be assessed by comparing the likely number of Clinton nominees to the number of persons nominated by Presidents Reagan and Bush. President Reagan made a total of 389 appointments during his 8 years in office. President Bush made 195 appointments.

The highly publicized confirmation proceedings of Judge Robert Bork and Justice Clarence Thomas illuminated the political nature of the nomination process. In theory, a nominee should be confirmed if he is qualified for the judgeship. Denying confirmation because of certain "litmus-tests," like the nominee's personal views on abortion or constitutional interpretation, was never considered appropriate, at least in theory, until the Reagan and Bush nominees were before the Senate Judiciary Committee. From a practical standpoint, it certainly appears that the confirmation process of any future nominee will include questioning regarding certain "litmus-test" issues. Thus, it is predictable that the Clinton nominees will be drawn from a more liberal pool than the Reagan and Bush nominees.

Another potential change in the nomination process arises from organized efforts to limit the American Bar Association's role in screening nominees. Historically, the American Bar Association has rated nominees as qualified or un-qualified for federal judgeships. The American Bar Association's handling of the rating processes for Judge Bork and Justice Thomas sparked the formation of opposition groups who are questioning the legality of the American Bar Association's role. It is not clear whether this opposition will continue since it is largely made of conservative forces. But, many attorneys are trying to form a separate national bar association with the idea of replacing the American Bar Association.

Bill Clinton's first term in office will drastically affect the federal judiciary. The political clash of conservative and liberal forces will no doubt continue and the roles of public opinion and of the media are likely to continue to alter how nominees are confirmed.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

In response to Jeanie Conaway's letter regarding the HISD policy of hiring out-of-district teachers, I would like for her to be aware that there are qualified teachers in the Hereford Independent School District who are not teaching in Hereford.

I am an educator with 15 years teaching experience. My positions have ranged from kindergarten to sixth grade. I have taught on an Indian reservation. I helped start the gifted program in Roswell, N.M. I have taught in one of the top schools in Virginia and have also held positions in Albuquerque and Oklahoma City. With 60 hours above a master's degree and with certification in mid-management, I certainly feel I would be qualified to teach in my hometown.

Second, if a relative has purchased more than he or she can afford, write to the bank asking that the payments be stopped. Return all merchandise as soon as it arrives, and ask the company to send you a receipt for the return of each item.

I have interviewed for jobs in the HISD schools for about 15 years. I have been told that I was over qualified, that I would not fit in to this school's program, and other various excuses--commonly called passing the buck.

It seems strange to me that our school superintendent is the chamber of commerce president and yet employs teachers from out of town when local teachers are qualified. Surely we should understand the value of our tax money being spent here in Hereford. We may need to hire some out-of-town teachers, but 60?

I am presently employed as a teacher in a small town 20 miles south of here and they seem very satisfied with my abilities. Yes, Jeanie, there are qualified teachers in Hereford who are not hired to teach here.

Sincerely,
Cherry McWhorter

"It's my way to show how the national anthem can be expressed in a different way. It's just a pretty way of looking at this very traditional song," Miss Matlin said.

Pasta perfect doesn't have to be Italian these days. For an Oriental, take on everyone's favorite: pair fresh tuna steak with soba noodles or thin fettuccini in a soy-ginger sauce. (Sizzle garlic and ginger, add chicken stock, soy sauce, a little rice vinegar and hot pepper.)

Make-believe real schnitzel: cutlets of turkey breast coated with egg whites and mustard, then breaded and pan-fried quickly.

Texas pushes marketing in Hollywood

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - When the lights shine, the cameras roll and the movie director shouts, "Action," more and more Texas is where it's happening.

Sure, the Lone Star State has a certain mystique.

And sure, the climate is warm, the scenery diverse.

But when movie makers come to Texas, often it's after heavy marketing by local and state officials who want Texas known for more than Dallas, Houston and wide-open spaces.

What do these promoters do to lure Hollywood to Texas?

"Anything we can," said Kathy Rhoads, director of the film commission of the San Antonio Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Their efforts appear to be paying off.

The Texas Film Commission reported production budgets of film and television projects in Texas totaled more than $140 million in 1992, including 12 feature films, 11 television projects, a documentary and two music videos.

"This is the best year that the state of Texas has ever had for film and television production," said Marlene Saritzky, director of the Texas Film Commission in Austin.

In the early 1980s, the state billed itself as "The Third Coast" and in the ensuing years "Terms of Endearment," "Born on the Fourth of July" and "JFK" were filmed in Texas, mostly in and around major cities.

These days, places like Marfa, Cuero, Plainview and Gruene are making it onto the big screen.

"I'd like to think that part of it is due to the different direction we've taken in marketing the state," Ms. Saritzky said.

The commission is promoting the Texas coast, suburbs and small towns in addition to urban areas and western terrain.

"We always say we have everything but snow-capped mountains," she said.

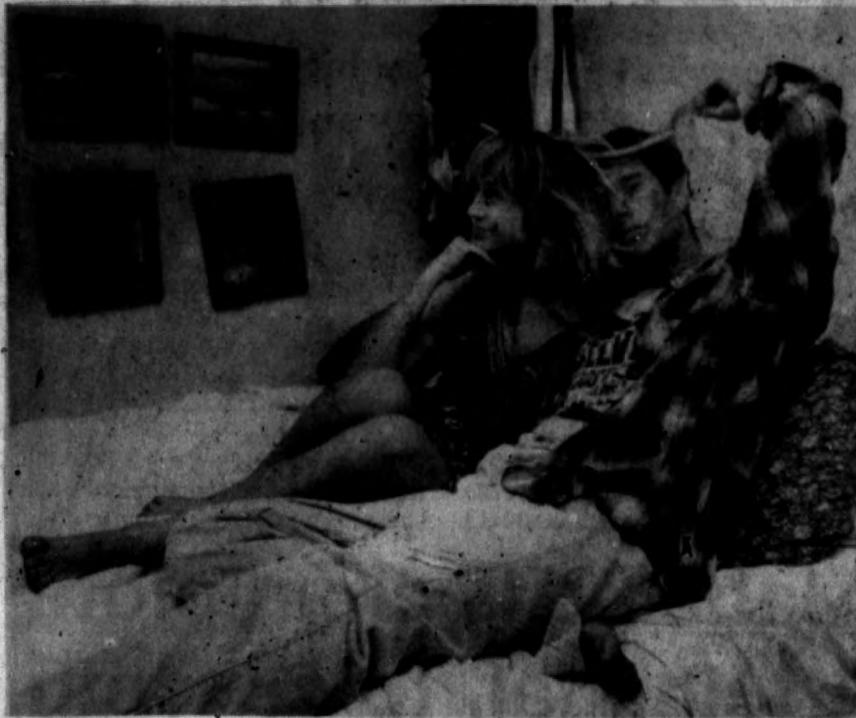

Among the Texas films of the past year were "Leap of Faith," starring Steve Martin and Debra Winger; "Pure Country," with country music star George Strait; the upcoming "Flesh and Bone," with Dennis Quaid, Meg Ryan and James Caan; and an as-yet untitled Patrick Swayze movie.

To attract movie business, Texas promoters make sales calls in Los Angeles, advertise in movie industry magazines and attend trade shows.

The San Antonio film commission, with some of its $200,000 annual budget, buys billboard space on Hollywood's famed Sunset Strip.

"San Antonio's image out there is John Wayne and 'The Alamo' (movie) and we want people to know that we're a big city," Ms. Rhoads said. "A little dusty town in the desert like John Wayne had in 'The Alamo' would not be putting a billboard up there."

The Texas Film Commission keeps a large photo library of Texas sites to field hundreds of inquiries each year. Employees show movie makers possible set locations and assist once a movie locates in the state. The commission has a staff of about 10

Movies boost communities

Movies—even low-budget films like "The Coriolis Effect" filmed here in 1991—can give a big boost to economies.

and an annual budget of about $450,000.

Sometimes Texas spots are chosen because they look like somewhere else. "Leap of Faith" was set in Kansas but filmed in Plainview, Groom, Claude, Happy, Tulia and suburban Dallas.

Plainview got used to being Rustwater, Kansas. The fictitious name remains painted on the town's water tower.

Townspeople lent their homes to the movie's cast and crew, and many appeared as extras.

The First National Bank of Hereford would like to thank the citizens of Hereford and Deaf Smith County for your support of our bank and our community.

At the same time, we are grateful for every level of state government is willing to cooperate.

Indeed, when the stars come out, so does the governor.

Richards attended the December premiere of "Leap of Faith" in Dallas. She greeted Swayze in San Antonio. And she did a guest spot on the Bob Hope Christmas special, drawing fire from some Republicans because the state Commerce Department paid $150,000 to lure the Hope program to San Antonio.

The San Antonio Convention and Visitors Bureau, Sea World of Texas and Fiesta Texas also paid $150,000 each to the show.

Richards says she's proud of recruiting show business, which she says is good for the economy.

About 50 percent of a Texas film's production budget is spent in the state, Ms. Saritzky estimates.

The Swayze film's estimated economic impact on the city during its three-week stay was about $3 million.

"They live here. It's like a small army moving in," Ms. Rhoads said. "I would like to pay everybody in $2 bills and watch it float."

Plainview experienced at least a $1 million impact from "Leap of Faith."

Nudging that trend along is Gov. Ann Richards, who traveled to California in 1991 to try to attract movie business.

"She's the best pitch person for the state," said Ms. Saritzky, whose commission is part of the governor's office. "I think it says to them that

Mirer leads Notre Dame to domination of Aggies

By ARNIE STAPLETON
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - If Texas A&M freshman quarterback Corey Pullig had fulfilled his pledge to attend Notre Dame, he never would have taken a snap in the Cotton Bowl.

Pullig changed his mind because Irish quarterback Rick Mirer returned for his senior season, and the Aggies failed to win Friday for the very same reason.

Mirer led the Fighting Irish to a 28-3 clubbing of the previously unblemished Aggies, rushing 13 times for a career-high 55 yards and hitting eight of 16 passes for 119 yards and two touchdowns in his final collegiate start.

Pullig, meanwhile, was 7 of 18 passing for 87 yards, scrambled for 31 yards on nine carries and was sacked four times to the slushy turf.

Mirer was a projected No. 1 pick in the NFL last year before deciding to stay in school because of Notre Dame's talent level. He credited his supporting cast Friday after winning the game's offensive Most Valuable Player award.

"When you're surrounded by great players, it's easy to spread it out, let everybody do their job," Mirer said. "The eyes and pressure aren't all on one person."

Mirer beat a blitz with a 40-yard touchdown toss to Lake Dawson 36 seconds before halftime for a 7-0 lead, then hit fullback Jerome Bettis with a 26-yard scoring strike on Notre Dame's first possession of the second half.

Up 14-0, Mirer then directed a ground game that at one point ran 22 straight times on a field made slippery by freezing drizzle. Bettis rushed 20 times for 75 yards and touchdowns of 1 and 4 yards.

'Noles power past Nebraska

MIAMI (AP) - Florida State, long known for its speed, finesse and trickery, used power to earn a spot in the NCAA record books.

The Seminoles outrushed Nebraska, the nation's leading rushing team, on the way to a 27-14 victory in the Orange Bowl on Friday night.

The triumph was the eighth consecutive bowl victory for the Seminoles, one more than the previous NCAA mark set by UCLA from 1983-89.

The Seminoles (11-1) were particularly effective in the first 28 minutes, when they built a 20-0 lead while holding the Cornhuskers to 73 rushing yards.

Quarterback Charlie Ward, who proved too elusive for Nebraska's defensive line, completed 15 of 30 passes for 187 yards and two touchdowns.

Wheatley scored three touchdowns in one of the most spectacular performances in the 79-year history of the Rose Bowl, pacing seventh-ranked Michigan over No. 9 Washington 38-31 on Friday.

Michigan marched 80 yards to the winning score after Washington Travis Hanson missed a 22-yard field goal attempt.

The Wolverines sealed the victory by stopping Washington twice on downs in Michigan territory.

Michigan holds off Huskies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Tyrone Wheatley scored three touchdowns in one of the most spectacular performances in the 79-year history of the Rose Bowl, pacing seventh-ranked Michigan over No. 9 Washington 38-31 on Friday.

Michigan, a sophomore tailback, scored on runs of 56, 88 and 24 yards and rushed for 235 yards as the Wolverines (9-0-3) avenged a 34-14 Rose Bowl loss to the Huskies (9-3) in the 1992 Rose Bowl.

And Wheatley accomplished all that without playing in the fourth

Syracuse outscoring Colorado

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - Kirby Dar Dar took the low road to high fives with a game-breaking kickoff return that lifted Syracuse over Colorado in the Fiesta Bowl.

With the area between the hashmarks a sea of sand in Sun Devil Stadium, Dar Dar used the grassy left sideline in returning a kickoff 100 yards to lock up a 26-22 victory on Friday.

Qadry Ismail took the kickoff on the 6 and handed off to Dar Dar, a sophomore tailback who broke free of one tackle and covered the rest of the distance untouched.

The extra point, the second in three attempts by John Biskup, made it 26-16 after three periods and the sixth-ranked Orangemen (10-2) were well on the way to improving to 5-0 in bowls in the last six years.

The Buffaloes (9-2-1) scored with 4:28 left on a 6-yard run by Lamont Warren, but Ismail returned the ensuing kickoff 42 yards to the Syracuse 45, and Colorado was unable to challenge thereafter.

Walsh outsmarts Paterno

MIAMI (AP) - Bill Walsh's matchup with Joe Paterno swung, not surprisingly, on the passing game as Stanford completed its first 10-victory season in 52 years Friday, beating Penn State 24-3 in the Blockbuster Bowl.

Walsh, who returned to college coaching this year, got the best of Paterno as Steve Stenstrom threw for two touchdowns.

Stanford's last 10-win season came in 1940.

Walsh left Stanford in 1978 and won three Super Bowls with the San Francisco 49ers. He was successful in the Cardinal's first New Year's Day bowl game in 20 years. The last time Stanford won as many as nine games in a season was under Walsh in 1977.

Stenstrom, a 59 percent passer in a 10-3 season, completed four passes in a first-period drive leading to a 2-yarder to Ryan Wetnight for the score. He teamed with Glyn Milburn on a 40-yard screen pass for another TD in the third quarter. Stenstrom completed 17 of 29 for 210 yards.

Georgia beats Ohio State

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Garrison Hearst ran for 163 yards and two touchdowns Friday as Georgia completed its first 10-win season since 1983 with a 21-14 victory over Ohio State in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Hearst, the Heisman Trophy runner-up behind Miami's Gino

Torretta, scored the Bulldogs' first two touchdowns - from a yard out in the first quarter and on a 5-yard run in the third - and set up the game-winner. Frank Harvey's 1-yard run with 4:32 left broke a 14-all tie and gave the eighth-ranked Bulldogs (10-2) the victory.

Tennessee blasts Boston College

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Heath Shuler ran for two touchdowns and threw for two more today as No. 17 Tennessee launched the Phillip Fulmer era with a 38-23 victory over No. 16 Boston College in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

Shuler, the versatile sophomore quarterback, scored on runs of 1 and 14 yards and also threw TD passes of 27 yards to Cory Fleming and 69 yards to Mose Phillips, who broke three tackles after taking a short flip from Shuler.

The Volunteers (9-3) finished with four victories under Fulmer, although today's game was the coach's first since succeeding Johnny Majors, who was forced out after 16 seasons at Tennessee.

Crimson Tide rolls over Miami

By RICK WARNER
AP Football Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Alabama recaptured the glory of the Bear Bryant era Friday night by winning the national championship and depriving Miami of its fifth title in a decade of dominance.

The Crimson Tide defense humbled the No. 1 Hurricanes 34-13 in the Sugar Bowl, giving No. 2 Alabama its first championship in 13 years.

Alabama will be officially crowned college football's champion Saturday when The Associated Press poll is released.

Miami was trying to become the first back-to-back champion since Alabama in 1978-79 under Paul "Bear" Bryant, and the first school ever to win five titles in 10 years.

But the Tide controlled the showdown between the last two unbeaten, untied teams in the country, helping Alabama capture its sixth national title and snapping Miami's 29-game winning streak.

The Tide's top-rated defense, inspired by a screaming, Crimson-clad crowd of 76,789 in the Superdome, broke the game open by intercepting Heisman Trophy winner Gino Torretta on Miami's first two plays of the second half and scoring two touchdowns within a 16-second span.

After Tommy Johnson's interception led to a 1-yard TD run by Derrick Lassic, George Teague picked off another Torretta pass and returned it 31 yards to put the Tide ahead 27-6 - Miami's biggest deficit since a 35-7 loss to Tennessee in the 1986 Sugar Bowl.

Miami pulled to 27-13 on a Sugar Bowl-record, 78-yard punt return by Kevin Williams with 12:08 left in the game. But the Hurricanes could score no more points against a stifling Alabama defense, and the Tide padded its cushion with a 4-yard touchdown run by Lassic.

The victory extended Alabama's winning streak to 23 and made the Tide only the third Division I-A team to go 13-0 and win the national championship. The others were

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The Tide has risen again in college football.

Alabama won its first national championship in 13 years today, finishing first in The Associated Press media poll after beating then-No. 1 Miami 34-13 Friday night in the Sugar Bowl.

The Crimson Tide is the third team to win the championship with a 13-0 record, joining Nebraska (1971) and Brigham Young (1984).

It is the sixth AP title for Alabama, which won the previous five under Bear Bryant in the 1960s and '70s. The only other schools with as many titles are Notre Dame (8) and Oklahoma (6).

The Tide was a unanimous choice, getting all 62 first-place votes and 1,550 points from a nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters. Prior to the Sugar Bowl, Alabama was ranked second and got only one first place vote.

Alabama also won the USA Today-CNN coaches' title, making the Tide the first consensus champion since Miami in 1989.

Colorado and Georgia Tech shared the championship in 1990, with the Buffaloes winning the AP title and the Yellow Jackets getting the coaches' crown. In 1991, Miami was the AP champ and Washington won the coaches' title.

Florida State was second in this year's AP poll, continuing the Seminoles' streak of near misses for the national championship. It is the sixth straight top 4 finish for Florida State (11-1), which moved up one spot after beating Nebraska 27-14 in the Orange Bowl.

Miami (11-1), the only team to beat Florida State this season, fell to No. 3 after its 29-game winning streak was snapped in the Sugar Bowl. However, the Hurricanes managed to finish in the top three for

Teaff's last victory saves face for conference

By PETE HERRERA

AP Sports Writer
EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Thanks to Baylor, the Southwest Conference had something to brag about on the first day of 1993.

On the last day of 1992, Baylor gave coach Grant Teaff a 20-15 going-away present over Arizona in the Hancock Bowl. It would prove to be the only postseason enjoyment for the SWC, which suffered a major setback on Friday when unbeaten and No. 4 Texas A&M was thrashed 28-3 by Notre Dame. The Aggies were the only SWC team with fewer than five losses, a major reason the conference sent only two clubs to bowls.

Teaff, 171-151-8 overall and 128-105-6 in 21 seasons at Baylor, was happy to strike a blow for his league.

"When we came in here last week, it became apparent that some people ... weren't giving our team or our conference a great deal of respect," he said. "Respect is something that is very important."

Arizona's defense ranked second nationally in fewest points allowed at 9 a game, but it didn't intimidate Baylor.

"We came out in the second half and our players were revved up," said Teaff, who downplayed his own role in the emotional makeup of the game. "They wanted to win it and every play in the second half was indicative of how much they wanted to win it."

Teaff went into his bag of tricks, calling a flea-flicker and a fake punt. Although neither worked, Arizona was forced to be a bit more cautious.

"Everything we did today was for a reason," Teaff said. "The fake punt was something we felt would work because they come so hard on the rush."

Baylor "made the big plays with Bonner," Tomey said. "They stopped us ... and made the big plays in the fourth quarter."

"We were there and it was close enough to make a difference," Arizona coach Dick Tomey said. "We knew we could get in. We took a chance ... You're damned if you do and damned if you don't."

Baylor "made the big plays with Bonner," Tomey said. "They stopped us ... and made the big plays in the fourth quarter."

There were three other bowls played Thursday. In the Gator Bowl, Florida beat North Carolina State 27-10. In the Independence Bowl, Wake Forest outscored Oregon 39-35. In the Liberty Bowl, Mississippi shut out Air Force 13-0.

TIDE

Nebraska in 1971 and Brigham Young in 1984.

It was a particularly rewarding win for Alabama coach Gene Stallings, who played for Bryant at Texas A&M and worked for him as an assistant at Alabama. Stallings is one of "Bear's boys," a group of Bryant disciples who have carried on his tradition of hard-nosed defense and simple, straight-ahead offense - a formula that helped Bryant win five national titles in the 1960s and 1970s.

Lassic, the Sugar Bowl MVP, provided the offensive punch Friday night. He rushed 28 times for 135 yards and two touchdowns against a Miami defense that was giving up only 121 yards rushing and 11.5 points per game.

The Alabama defense did its part by intercepting Torretta three times and limiting the Hurricanes to a pair of field goals and Williams' punt return. Torretta, who suffered only his second loss in 28 games as a starter, completed 24 of 56 passes for 278 yards but didn't throw a TD pass for only the third time this season.

In the closing minutes, Alabama fans shouted "We're No. 1!" and "Roll Tide!" and then stormed the field to celebrate. A group of Tide players dumped a bucket of Gatorade on Stallings and even the stoic coach had to smile.

Alabama quarterback Jay Barker passed for only 18 yards, but the Tide didn't need a passing attack because it outrushed Miami 267 yards to 48.

It was the fifth straight time that the No. 2 team beat the No. 1 team in a bowl matchup, giving No. 2 a 5-4 lead overall.

The game featured a few scuffles and skirmishes, but all the pregame trash-talk took a backseat to the hard-hitting play that left bodies strewn on the field.

The Tide, an 8-point underdog, rolled to a 13-6 halftime lead behind its powerful ground game and dominating defense. Alabama outrushed Miami 152-6 and limited the Hurricanes to two field goals by Dan Prewitt.

Alabama took a 3-0 lead on Michael Proctor's 19-yard field goal with 10:56 left in the first quarter. Miami tied it later in the period on a career-best 49-yard field goal by Prewitt.

The next three possessions ended with turnovers. Miami stopped Alabama when Casey Greer and Ryan McNeil picked off passes by Barker, who had more interceptions than completions at that point. The Tide halted the Hurricanes when Tommy Johnson stripped the ball from Lamar Thomas and the ball was recovered by Willie Gaston.

The Tide went ahead 6-3 on Proctor's 23-yard field goal with 10:48 remaining in the half, but Stallings was furious that an unsportsmanlike conduct took away a chance for a touchdown.

a record seventh consecutive season.

Note Dame (10-1-1) climbed one race to No. 4 following a 28-3 victory over previously unbeaten Texas A&M in the Cotton Bowl.

The Aggies (12-1) dropped three spots to No. 7, matching their lowest ranking of the season.

Michigan (9-0-3), the only team other than Alabama to finish without a loss, rose two places to No. 5 after beating Washington 38-31 in the Rose Bowl.

Syracuse (10-2) remained No. 6 after downing Colorado 26-22 in the Fiesta Bowl, while Georgia (10-2) stayed No. 8 following a 21-14 win over Ohio State in the Citrus Bowl.

Stanford (10-3) moved up four places to No. 9 by pounding Penn State 24-3 in the Blockbuster Bowl, and Florida's 27-10 Gator Bowl victory over North Carolina State boosted the Gators (9-4) from No. 14 to No. 10.

The rest of the Top 25 will be released Sunday so that voters can consider the result of Saturday night's Peach Bowl between No. 19 North Carolina and No. 24 Mississippi State.

COTTON

Tailback Reggie Brooks added 115 yards on 22 carries as the Irish (10-1-1) won for the seventh straight time since a shocking loss to Stanford and a tie with Michigan ruined their hopes of a national title.

"We didn't throw it a lot today," Mirer said, "but there was really no need for it."

The Aggies played without their leading rusher, Greg Hill, a sophomore who was suspended on Christmas Eve after reports surfaced that he and three freshman backups were overpaid at a summer job provided by a booster.

Against a stingy Irish defense led by end Devon McDonald, the game's most outstanding defensive player, sophomore back Rodney Thomas never got untracked.

Thomas gained 74 yards on 20 carries in his first start as the Aggies (12-1) suffered their worst loss under fourth-year coach R.C. Slocum and failed to attain their first unbeaten, untied season since 1939.

"We couldn't run inside, we couldn't run outside, we couldn't run anywhere," Slocum said. "It wouldn't have mattered who our tailback was today. We had no success anywhere."

Texas A&M's only score came on a 41-yard, fourth-quarter field goal by Terry Venetoulis after Pullig hit Tony Harrison with a 37-yard pass, his best play on an otherwise frustrating afternoon in 16-degree wind chill.

It appeared the first half would end with no score until Mirer drilled an aggressive Aggies defense with a blitz-beating screen pass over the middle to Dawson, who cut back and raced untouched for the score.

Bettis beat strong safety Patrick Bates on the 26-yard scoring pass to cap a 65-yard drive. He slipped down the right sideline and Mirer hit the fullback in stride for the score.

— YOUR EYES —

SEE AND SKI

The sunglasses that looked good and felt good on the beach last summer just won't be good enough on the ski slopes this winter. Your eyes need different protection in winter than in summer.

In both seasons you'll want adequate protection against dangerous ultraviolet rays. Remember that the sun is closer now. But seeing on the slopes presents extra hazards.

The glare reflected off snow can be worse than the glare that bounces off sand and water. So much so that lenses are designed with amber-colored lenses that filter out the blue light reflected off snow. And because it gets windy on the slopes, ski goggles are shaped to shield your eyes from dust, dirt and the wind.

For sports safety, look for frames that are cushioned and sharp edges protected in cases of falls. Lenses should be impact-resistant; the best ones are made of tough polycarbonates. Lenses should allow the wearer to distinguish between red and green.

The flea flicker ensured single coverage most of the day on flanker Melvin Bonner, and he responded with two touchdowns and a Hancock-record 166 yards on five receptions.

Bonner caught a 61-yard scoring pass off a halfback option throw from reserve Brandell Jackson and shook loose on the sideline for a 69-yard TD run.

1992 disappointed many Texas sports fans

DALLAS (AP) - This year could have been a great one for Texas teams and athletes. Entering 1992, hopes were high for a Super Bowl trophy, Olympic gold, and maybe even a World Series ring or collegiate glory.

Instead, dreams became nightmares and front-office politics seemed to steal the fury from the field.

The year began with the Texas A&M Aggies fumbling away a chance to redeem the Southwest Conference's waning national image against Florida State in the Cotton Bowl.

Twelve months later, the Aggies are back in the Cotton Bowl but under scrutiny for alleged player payments that, if proven, could lead to the "death penalty."

Their success overshadowed a season of parody in the SWC that ended in an I-don't-want-it, you-take-it race for second place and automatic bowl berth.

Once Texas Tech couldn't live up to its preseason hype, Texas seemed to be in the driver's seat under new coach John Mackovic. But the Longhorns lost three of their last four, including its first to Texas Christian since 1967.

Rice had its first winning season since 1963, but lost its finale to Houston to miss a bowl bid, which would have been its first since 1961.

That only left Baylor, which had begun to dismantle its coaching staff as Grant Teaff became full-time athletic director and bestowed the head coaching job to offensive coordinator Chuck Reedy. A reassembled crew returned to take the Bears to the John Hancock Bowl.

Southern Methodist was never in the race, but still made headlines for finally winning a league game then extracting revenge against Houston for an embarrassing loss two years ago.

The Houston Oilers also carried the disappointing theme, leading the Denver Broncos late in an AFC playoff game that would've put the Oilers one game from the Super Bowl.

But a late John Elway drive ended Houston's 1991-92 season and a hangover seems to have followed them into this year. Although in the playoffs, they haven't fulfilled fans' expectations.

The Dallas Cowboys were the Lone Star State's best torch-bearers, posting the NFL's best record for part of this season and revitalizing national interest in "America's Team."

Like their Metroplex neighbors, the Texas Rangers also had fans excited. They appeared to have a formidable pitching staff and plenty of heavy hitters, but ended up with no clutch hitting, an often pathetic defense and an unreliable bullpen.

Bobby Valentine was fired by the All-Star break, having set a record for games managed without winning a division title. Toby Harrah replaced him and instantly became a team and fan favorite, but once the team quickly soured again.

Not even the addition of Jose Canseco through a blockbuster deal with the Oakland A's could bring a meaningful September game to Arlington.

The off-season has brought another manager, rookie Kevin Kennedy, and a new coaching staff. But the team lost three players in the expansion draft and a key starter, Jose Guzman, through free agency.

Baseball fans in Texas are being given hope at least by the Houston Astros and new owner Drayton McLane of Temple.

He salvaged the team from unpopular owner John McMullen and quickly recaptured supporters by signing free agent pitchers Doug Drabek, a Cy Young winner and UH alumnus from Victoria, and Greg Swindell, a UT-ex from Houston.

The Astros made headlines on the field by surviving their 28-day road trip, mandated by McMullen having allowed the Republican Convention to invade the Astrodome. The team actually flourished during the trip and ended the year 81-81.

Pro basketball in Texas was plain weird, from the San Antonio Spurs' rotating coaches to the Houston Rockets' Hakeem-gate to the Dallas Mavericks' demise.

San Antonio began the year with Larry Brown, replaced him with Bob Bass until Jerry Tarkanian was ready to study the NBA and take over this season. "The Shark" era lasted 20 games and now former Spur and Rocket John Lucas is in charge.

The Rockets fired 1991 NBA Coach of the Year Don Chaney in February and replaced him with former Rockets star Rudy Tomjanovich.

But "Rudy T" was soon without his star, Hakeem Olajuwon. The center and team officials went through a soap opera-like squabble, with each side launching accusations against the other.

OlaJuwon was suspended and the team spiraled into the lottery, where they joined the Mavericks.

The Mavericks were lottery-bound all year, and ended up with the fourth overall pick in the draft. Their prize was Jim Jackson of Ohio State, but he too has been in a contract battle and has said he won't ever play for Dallas.

Dallas may challenge the 1972-73 Philadelphia 76ers' many futility records.

Don Haskins' UTEP Miners may have been Texas' best collegiate team, leading "The Bear" to his 600th coaching victory and into the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament.

The first SWC basketball season without Arkansas was a tie between the Longhorns and the Cougars, but neither team lasted long in the tournament.

Once the season ended, the coaching shuffle began with Baylor cutting in half the number of Ibas in the conference by firing Gene. His cousin Moe is still at TCU.

Darrel Johnson was hired to take over the Bears and Rice alumnus Willis Wilson returned to his alma mater after Scott Thompson took off for Wichita State.

Texas Tech's James Dickey was so successful in his first season that he received a contract extension and Texas A&M's Tony Barone showed signs that he'll be able to rebuild the Aggies' troubled basketball team.

The summer was supposed to be golden for Texan Olympians including Clyde Drexler, Carl Lewis, Kim Zmeskal, and Leroy Burrell of Houston, Michael Johnson of Dallas and Lance Armstrong of Austin.

Only Lewis and Drexler, a member of the "Dream Team," lived up to expectations.

Texas gymnastics may have taken a tumble, too, with coaching guru Bela Karolyi announcing his retirement.

Several individuals with Texas ties were among the biggest sports names of the year, the BIGGEST being Shaquille O'Neal.

year to become the first overall pick of the NBA draft. He has turned around the Orlando Magic and is compiling very impressive statistics.

Former SWC golfer Fred Couples of UH and Tom Kite of UT won half of golf's Grand Slam, with Couples claiming national golfer of the year honors and Kite adding to his all-time best winnings fund.

Couples entered The Masters as golf's hottest player and continued his streak at Augusta National.

The rap on Kite, who still lives in Austin, was that he needed a so-called major title to solidify his position among golf's all-time greats.

So on a windy day at Pebble Beach, Kite proved himself by winning the U.S. Open and hushing his critics.

Lady Longhorns coach Tody Conradt, who took over the women's athletics director title when Donna Lopiano left, made history Dec. 13

when her Lady Longhorns defeated Creighton to make her the first women's basketball coach with 600 career victories.

Schoolboy football provided one of the year's top feel-good stories as Class 3A's Coldspring High rebounded from the death of its coach before the fourth game to reach the title game.

The Trojans lost to Southlake Carroll, which set records for points and wins en route to its second title in five years.

High schools also provided us with the South Grand Prairie kicker who became nationally known for his handiness with a lawnmower, and Houston Davis, which set a national record for consecutive losses.

Trade, changing marketplace topped cattle stories

The Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA) has listed its "Top 10" news stories for 1992. Here are the top news stories that affected the cattle industry this year, according to Les Howard, TCFA president:

1. Trade with Mexico had its ups and downs. Exports were on a pace to be 11% higher than last year until tariffs were imposed. NAFTA was initially approved and a TB agreement was signed.

2. Television advertising for beef resumed after more than a year. The ads, with the theme "Beef. It's What's for Dinner," target medium to heavy users.

3. A book called "Beyond Beef" raised cattlemen's ire. However, the book and subsequent promotional campaign fizzled after many inaccuracies were revealed.

4. USDA killed the experimental Streamlined Inspection System after the meat inspectors union and consumer activists objected.

5. A year-long deadlock in GATT negotiations was broken when the U.S. and EC agreed to worldwide subsidy levels for ag products.

6. Back-to-back cold fronts hit Cattle Feeding Country for the first time in many years. The cold, snowy weather caused some death loss and higher cost of gains.

7. A dispute over food labeling for processed foods came to an end when President Bush chose a label that emphasizes the daily value of nutrients.

8. An animal break-in bill was passed into law that makes it a felony for animal rights terrorists to damage research or production facilities.

9. ABC "Prime Time Live" torpedoed the beef industry with an unfounded attack on beef inspection.

10. A counterfeit animal health product was found in the U.S. The fake product apparently originated from Ireland.

The "Top 10" around TCFA in 1992:

1. TCFA celebrated its 25th Anniversary with a variety of events, including the 25th Anniversary

Convention in Amarillo that drew 1,036 members.

2. Environment continued at the forefront. TCFA testified before EPA and agencies in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, hosted tours for government officials and sponsored seminars for farmers on feedyard manure.

3. "The Finishing Touch," a book published by TCFA on the history of cattle feeding in the Southwest, met with rave reviews.

4. Fifteen of the 18 past TCFA Presidents gathered for a historic meeting to look back at the industry's past and ahead at the industry's future.

5. TCFA's Environmental Quality Assurance Handbook was distributed to feedyards to help them continue to improve environmental soundness.

6. TCFA's Beef-PAC received $108,288 from members in 1992. For the two-year election cycle, Beef-PAC, supported 180 state and national candidates.

7. The TCFA Education Foundation grew leaps and bounds its first year. More than $31,000 has been donated to the Foundation, which was established to help students pursue a career in cattle feeding.

8. The first Ranch to Rail Program came to a successful close. More than 150 cattlemen attended a field day hosted by TCFA and the Extension Service.

9. The TCFA Cattle Feeders Annual won several top awards in state and national publication contests.

10. Feeder Feedback Meetings drew more than 800 TCFA members from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico to learn more about TCFA activities.

Beef market should be stable

1993 Cattle Price Projections Market should be stable through the year capita consumption at 67.5 lbs., and consumers will dine on more meat than ever next year, Gill said.

For cattlemen, Gill predicted that fed cattle prices will continue in the trading range established in 1992. He estimated fed cattle prices will range from $76 to $80 per cwt. in the first quarter; $75 to $78 in the second quarter; $72 to $75 in the third quarter; and $73 to $77 in the fourth quarter.

Cattle-feeders will see lower feed costs in 1993 because of binbusting grain harvests in 1992. "Corn production for 1992 will be a record 9.3 billion bushels, up sharply from the 7.5 billion bushels in 1991. Meanwhile, grain sorghum production also rose sharply from last year's 325 million bushels to 491 million bushels for the year, $2 to $3 above last year."

A SALUTE FOR ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDSHIP AND COMMUNITY SERVICE

Terra International Cited For Facility Improvements

The Ciba-Geigy Agricultural Division recognizes Terra International, Hereford, for continued environmental stewardship and community service.

The farm supply operation has made several important site improvements aimed at safeguarding the environment. Recently, the dealership installed new bulk chemical tanks, which are stored inside a chemical warehouse, and completed a new diking/containment system. These additions provide improved containment for its bulk agricultural storage.

Salesman Kevin Peck says the improvements will reduce problems associated with container disposal. "As the agricultural industry shifts to bulk chemicals, we go along with it," he says. "Our improved facilities will enable us to handle more bulk and encourage our customers to do the same."

A major agricultural manufacturer, Ciba-Geigy sponsors a site-improvement program that helps defray the costs of such environmental upgrades. And for more than 30 years, Ciba-Geigy has helped farmers protect their crops from weeds, disease and insects while preserving the area's natural resources.

Progressive and responsible dealers like Hereford's Terra International ensure that American agriculture remains the most efficient, productive and environmentally responsible agricultural system in the world.

Annual irrigation conference planned Thursday

AMARILLO - Texas Panhandle growers must continually seek methods to improve irrigation management and efficiency. For more than two decades, producers have looked to the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference as the place to get practical information on irrigation use and the newest technology stemming directly from research innovation in the field.

At this time each year, producers have the opportunity to see the latest in new and improved products and equipment as demonstrated by major industry suppliers.

The Jan. 7 conference starts at 8:30 a.m. with registration, refreshments and exhibits at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo West Blvd. Moderators for the program are Extension Agents, Dennis Newton of Deaf Smith County, who will lead the morning session, and Robert Harris of Moore County, who will conduct the afternoon program.

At 9:30 a.m., conference chairman Leon New, Extension irrigation specialist of Amarillo, will review factors involving irrigation efficiency. Growers will have a chance to hear Karl Johnson, who farms near Morse, Texas, describe how he manages his irrigation operation.

Answers to questions on selecting the right product, determining correct amount and time of fertilizer applications will be provided by Michael Hickey, Extension soil chemist of Lubbock. Steve Amosson, Extension Economist-Management, Amarillo, will describe various methods of paying for center pivot systems. Larry Soward, special counsel to Texas' agriculture commissioner, from Austin, will review current conflicts of water rights statewide and describe situations of apportionment for domestic industrial and agricultural use.

The afternoon session on chemigation begins at 1:25 p.m. Harris will outline requirements for obtaining two continuing education units which will be offered during the conference to private and licensed commercial and non-commercial applicators who complete the training.

"This annual conference offers a unique forum for discussing issues of interest and concern to producers, scientists, and suppliers involved in irrigated agricultural production systems," said New.

Jim Hayes, an agricultural chemical supplier from Clarendon, will talk about commonly approved chemicals, their use and safe handling. C.E. Williams, Panhandle Groundwater District Manager from White Deer, will address the importance health and safety issues and the state and federal concerns about potential pollution of surface and ground water.

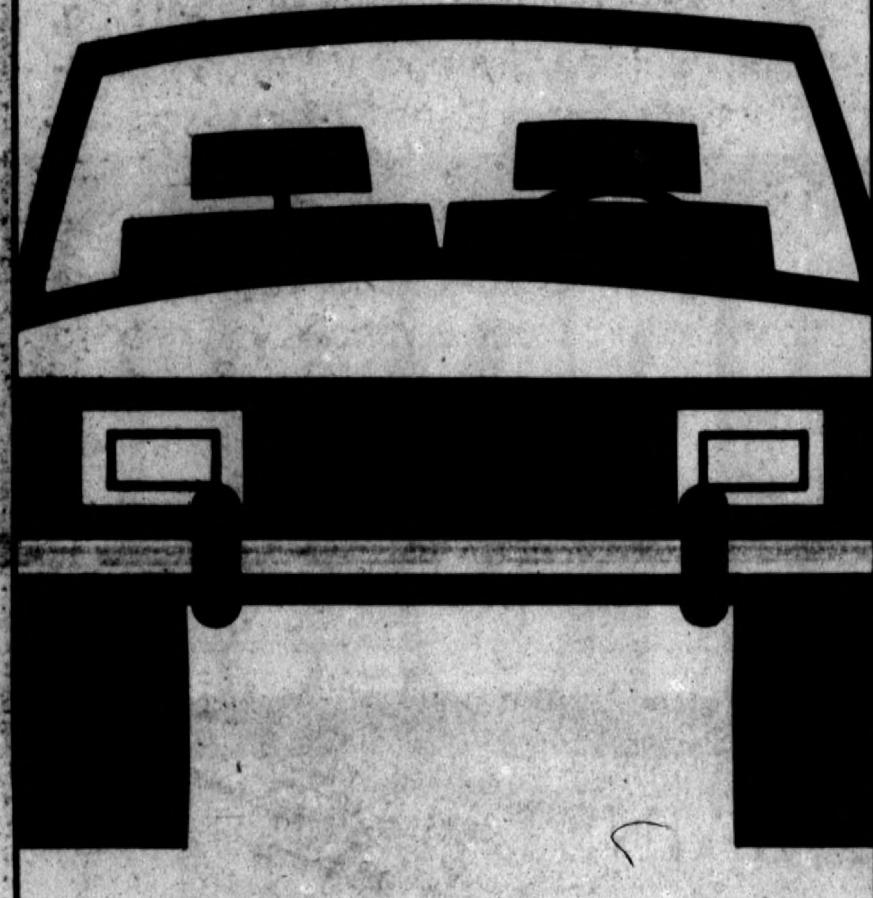

Eddie Bynum, senior research associate in entomology, corn and sorghum from the Lubbock Experiment Station will review research on chemigation application techniques. Extension Entomologist Carl Patrick of Amarillo concludes the afternoon program with a review of field test results involving chemigation of pesticides and a wrap up session for completing CEU certification before adjourning at 4 p.m.

Sponsors of the conference are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Irrigation Association, and Panhandle Economic Program.

Sorghum standards will change

New grain sorghum grading standards will be implemented by the Federal Grain Inspection Service on June 1. Under the new rules, the maximum amount of broken kernels and foreign material (BNFM) allowed in U.S. sorghum will be reduced.

That's good news for our customers, explains Jeff Casten, sorghum producer from Quenemo, Kan. Casten, who is president of the National Grain Sorghum Producers, said that U.S. No. 2 sorghum, which is what most customers buy, will contain only 7 percent BNFM compared to the 8 percent now allowed.

"In addition, grade limits will be set for foreign material," said Casten. "No. 2 sorghum may now contain no more than 2.5 percent foreign material. Prior to this change, all of the allowable BNFM could have been foreign material.

"Buyers were never sure of what they were getting. Now they can be sure they are buying no more than 2.5 percent foreign material. That is one of the changes that we have been working for."

Only 4 percent total BNFM with 1.5 percent FM will be allowed in U.S. No. 1 sorghum. U.S. No. 3 sorghum will be allowed 10 percent BNFM with 3.5 percent FM and No. 4 sorghum can contain only 4.5 percent FM for a total BNFM of 13 percent.

Other changes include lowering the limit of brown, high-tannin sorghum allowed in yellow sorghum from 10 percent to 3 percent. "NGSP had long argued that allowing too much high-tannin sorghum in U.S. sorghum lowered the quality and reduced the nutritional levels of the sorghum," said Ralph Olson, sorghum producer from Ceresco, Neb. Olson represented sorghum producers at grain quality workshops where the changes were developed. "Because of past bad experiences with brown sorghum, many overseas buyers were turned against sorghum in general, so this change will be helpful in establishing overseas markets."

The classification terminology for the classes Yellow and Brown sorghum will be modified and the definition of all classes of sorghum will be revised.

"These new grading standards will be significant for the future marketing of U.S. grain sorghum, both domestically and internationally," said Casten.

A SAFER HEREFORD

OFFENSES

WET & DRY 1982 - 1992

When voters narrowly passed an issue in 1984 to permit the sale of alcohol in Deaf Smith County, little did they foresee what was about to happen to our quiet town.

Up until 1983, Hereford had been a relatively safe place to live and raise your family. There were only 1500 to 1800 total crimes each year.

All that changed when the county voted wet. Our crime took a huge jump in 1984 which was a half dry/half wet year to 3182 and then up further in 1985 to 3839 total offenses. In 1992, the crime in Hereford will top the 5,000 mark.

Not only did total crime jump when we went wet, so did domestic violence. It rose dramatically from 163 assaults to 240 in just a 2 year period. Today our assaults stand at about 470 a year.

There may be other contributing factors to Hereford's rise in crime, but it is undeniable that the sale of alcohol was the major contributing factor. Many law enforcement officers agree that most crime is alcohol related.

Beer runs plague our city where juveniles steal beer from convenience stores. Continually clerks at stores that sell alcohol are being caught selling to minors.

We can put a stop to this crime by voting against the sale of alcohol in our county.

January boredom busters

Here are some fun and easy week day learning activities to enjoy with your preschoolers throughout the month of January. Hang this list of "boredom busters" on your refrigerator door or jot down favorites on your family calendar, adapting them to the projects or birthday celebrations your family has already "inked in."

Week of January 11:

-Do something at night you usually do during the day such as building a snowman or blowing bubbles.

-Make a pizza for dinner. Let your child decorate the pizza with favorite toppings.

-Go to the library and check out several storybooks. Set aside a special "library book" basket to store the books at home.

-For a healthy beverage, squeeze the juice from fresh oranges.

-Draw eyes, a nose and mouth on your fingers with non-toxic washable markers to create finger puppets. Tell a story.

Week of January 18:

-Read a book about Dr. Martin Luther King. Draw a picture of him.

-At mealtime, name the foods on the table and talk about where they came from.

-Teach your child the name of the new U.S. president, make a paper hat, gather toy instruments and stage an Inaugural Parade around the house.

-Pop popcorn for a snack. Sprinkle a new topping on it.

-Learn how to say "hello" in a different language. Greet each other at the breakfast table in the language.

Week of January 25:

-Draw a winter picture and help your child address a big envelope to send the drawing to someone special.

-Make hot chocolate and top with a dollop of whipping cream and a dash of cinnamon for an extra treat.

-Make a doll house out of a cardboard box.

-Shop together for the ingredients for sub sandwiches. At dinner time let the family build their subs assembly-line fashion.

-Learn a new song and sing it for the family.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The huge Gothic structure of Washington National Cathedral towers over the nation's capital, 676 feet above sea level.

In 1907, President Theodore Roosevelt laid its foundation stone, and the world's sixth largest cathedral was completed in 1990.

Constructed of Indiana limestone, its interior is over a 10th of a mile long and houses the tombs of President Woodrow Wilson, Adm. George Dewey, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Helen Keller, among others.

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1991. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2030, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

America's best legitimate advertising buy is still the local newspaper that is involved in your community. Junk mailers don't contribute a dime to the betterment of Hereford. They take and don't give back.

Receiving masters degree

Sister Nancy Ann Neusch received her masters degree in education with a major in administration Dec. 18 from West Texas State University. Sister Nancy received her bachelors degree in education in May of 1987. She moved to Hereford from Amarillo during the fall of 1987 and began teaching first grade at St. Anthony's School. She is shown with her parents, Arnold and Ida Neusch of St. Francis Community located east of Amarillo.

Treatments help women

More than 20 million American women suffer from osteoporosis, a disease that weakens their bones, limits mobility and has potentially fatal complications.

This disease is responsible for 1.3 million fractures each year, including 250,000 hip fractures. A woman's risk of suffering an osteoporosis-related hip fracture is equal to the combined risk of developing breast, uterine and ovarian cancer.

Despite these staggering numbers, many women are still uninformed about osteoporosis. A recent Gallup survey showed that up to 75 percent of American women who are at high risk for the disease have never discussed it with a physician, more than 80 percent are unaware that the disease is directly responsible for painful spine and hip fractures and more than 90 percent failed to recognize death as a potential outcome of the disease.

Fortunately, there are two treatments available for osteoporosis patients. Both calcitonin-salmon and estrogen replacement therapy slow down the process of bone deterioration. For patients who have the disease now, these are the only medications indicated for the treatment of osteoporosis.

Estrogen replacement therapy is a treatment to restore estrogen lost either following removal of the ovaries or after natural menopause. For women in these categories, estrogen therapy can help prevent further bone loss. However, many women are reluctant to take estrogen due to increased risk of endometrial and possibly breast cancer.

The other approved treatment calcitonin-salmon is derived from the naturally occurring hormone that inhibits bone weakening. Synthetic calcitonin-salmon, currently available as an injection, is marketed under the name Miocalcin injection. Synthetic, and is 50 times more potent than human calcitonin. Studies have found Miocalcin, in conjunction with adequate calcium and vitamin D, prevents the progressive loss of bone and slows further bone deterioration.

"Miocalcin is an effective therapy, particularly for the woman with established osteoporosis. It is an alternative for women who cannot or will not take estrogen," said Dr. Arthur B. Chausner, head of the Metabolism and Bone Health Center, St. Petersburg, Fla.

There is no known cure for osteoporosis. Calcium supplement and a diet heavy with calcium rich foods, like milk and green leafy vegetables, cannot alone prevent or reverse the effects of this devastating disease, doctors say.

Recycle your wardrobe

Now that we're all recycling to extend the life of the things we use, why not apply the same principle to our closets? To get more out of your existing wardrobe, try these tips.

-Update your wardrobe quickly and inexpensively by buying accessories that reflect the current trends: a leopard print scarf, a red belt, or a tie for the menswear look.

-Invest in a vest and pair it with your favorite white silk blouse. You can revive white silk that's yellowed by washing in a mild fine fabric wash like Woolite and adding a few drops of ammonia to the suds. Washing can restore the softness and luster of silk.

-If you're in the market for new shoes, a pair of the new platform pumps can help update your look. But remember, you don't need different shoes for every outfit. To get several looks from one pair of shoes, invest in decorative, changeable shoe clips.

-Do the chic, new, long skirts make your short skirts look outdated? Don't worry! Wearing opaque hosiery that is the same color as your skirt, or boots with your skirt, can bring you back in style.

-When buying a few garments to update your wardrobe, look at labels to make sure that the fabric is durable. By rejecting impractical fabrics and poor quality, and using a gentle fine fabric wash, like Woolite, that won't damage fabric fibers, you'll help ensure that you'll be able to enjoy your clothes for seasons to come.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for "Sabotaged in Calgary," who expressed misgivings about the flagrant behavior of some homosexuals, saying they damaged the image of all gays.

It is a gross misrepresentation to assert that hostility toward homosexuals is a reaction to a group of men dressed in drag, marching down a San Francisco street once a year. That same argument, if it were valid (which it is not), would justify prejudice against the Irish upon seeing St. Patrick's day parades in kelly-green jumpsuits, sprouting shamrocks from their foreheads and wearing T-shirts that say, "Kiss My Blarney Stone," as they wave to the TV cameras.

These celebrants of ethnic and cultural diversity are sought out by the media because they make amusing sound bites. They do not, however, have a thing to do with prejudice and discrimination.

I've never worn women's clothes, and I do not frequent gay bars, but as a safely closeted gay man in America, I give credit to those who are putting themselves on the line in the fight for gay rights.

The legitimate heroes in my book are the pioneer drag queens who rioted in Stonewall, N.Y., in 1969 and rebelled against prejudice and discrimination. This so-called segment of "lunatic fringe" is not blocking progress. Ann, it is promoting acceptance and understanding. ~ One of Them in Lawrence, Kan.

Dear One: I was unprepared for the blizzard of letters in support of the bizarre parades. Keep reading for other opinions.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for years but never felt the need to write until I read the letter from the Tennessee woman who was on longer interested in sex.

Soon after her letter appeared, another woman wrote and expressed relief that her husband had "quit bothering" her in bed. I nearly heard myself say out loud, "Lady, send him to me. I'd give anything to be 'bothered' like that."

I am 70 and have two male friends, one in Colorado, age 72, another in Oregon, age 69. I lament the fact that both men, though attractive, interesting and successful, are impotent. Unfortunately, they become defensive instead of acknowledging it and seeking help.

These men had long, happy marriages, as I did. I would love to find a man who could be a husband to my physically as well as emotionally and wonder if anything can be done about these two.

Thanks, Ann. I will always be your No. 1 fan. -- Languishing in Virginia

Dear Va.: We spoke with Dr. Irwin Goldstein, professor of urology at Boston University School of Medicine. He said about 30 million American men between 40 and 70 suffer from impotence. After the physical aspects of impotence are treated, the psychological problems must be addressed.

There are four available therapies to treat impotence: medication, vacuum devices, bypass surgery and penile implants.

Medication involves injecting the penis with a drug just before intercourse. It has an 80 percent overall success rate and is not hazardous when performed after thorough training.

Dr. William Fisch of the Impotence Information Center in Minnesota informed us about the vacuum pump device, which is completely external and works for most men. It costs about $300 and lasts indefinitely.

The bypass is a surgical procedure best for men under 40 whose impotence is caused by injury to the artery. The success rate is about 70 percent to 75 percent.

Implants are 90 percent successful but involve invasive surgery and are recommended only when all other therapies fail.

If the two gentlemen are interested in any of the above, I hope you realize that there can be a great deal of satisfaction in holding, caressing and just touching. There's actually a name for this. It is called "outercourse."

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who felt something "sticking her" in the middle of the night and discovered it was the lower half of her lover's dentures reminded me of my own favorite story.

Ours was a second marriage, both of us having been widowed. On our wedding night, I was concerned as to how I might manage to conceal my partial denture, which I removed nightly. I got the bright idea that if I put it in my pink denture cup and placed it on the nightstand, my husband would have no idea what it contained.

In the morning, nestled snugly next to my pink denture cup, was his blue denture cup. We had a hearty laugh together and I knew then and there that we were perfect for one another.

This dear, sweet man is gone now, but the memory of our mutual partials always gives me a wonderful, warm feeling. -- J.W.K., St. Louis, Mo.

Dear St. Louis: What a charming story! Thank you for sharing it.

Ready to quit smoking?

The health impact of cigarette smoking in the United States is significant. Approximately 400,000 Americans die annually of smoking-related diseases, such as cancer of the lungs or throat and oral cavity, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, heart disease and stroke.

Smoking-related fatalities far exceed deaths from drug addiction, alcoholism, AIDS, suicide and highway fatalities combined.

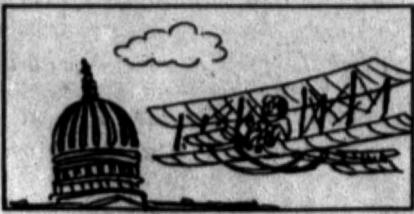

People become addicted to cigarettes in several ways. Many become physically addicted to the nicotine in cigarettes. Others get used to the physical handling of cigarettes, or just keep lighting up out of habit, sometimes not even realizing they are smoking.

Smoking cessation is a dynamic process that begins with the decision to stop and ends with abstinence from cigarettes. Cessation may be considered by smokers at any age. It's never too late to quit.

If you are ready to stop smoking, your pharmacist can suggest some pharmacological options to smoking cessation, according to NARD, the national association representing the nation's 40,000 independent retail pharmacies.

Your family pharmacist can play a key role in ensuring that smokers who wish to stop understand the emotional barriers associated with quitting smoking, as well as the efficacy of pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic methods. Together, your physician and pharmacist can help you formulate and sustain a successful smoking cessation program.

BY BECKY WALLS

Now that the holidays are over, all of your money is spent and the Christmas stress has let up, it is time to set back with a nice relaxing book.

Rest in Pieces is just the kind of book. Author Rita Mae Brown, with the help of Tucker, a Welsh corgi; Mrs. Murphy, a tiger cat; and a possum named Simon, has created a witty and cleverly plotted suspense novel. Mary Minor Haristeen (Harry), the young postmistress of Crozet, has been divorced for quite a while when Blair Bainbridge moves into town. The local matchmaker is sure the "drop-dead" Blair and Harry are right for each other. But when the pieces of a dismembered corpse begin to turn up in different locations around town, Blair, with a secretive past, becomes the most likely suspect. The dead man cannot be identified until the missing head makes its spectacular appearance in a most inappropriate place. Mrs. Murphy (the cat) decides to do her part in solving the mystery and the hunt begins. If you are an animal lover, you are sure to enjoy this book. If you're not an animal lover, you will still enjoy the way the characters interact to tell the tale.

Snow Through Eden by Gordon Glascow takes the reader back to World War II and Nazi Germany. Katherine, the daughter of a German Wehrmacht officer, and David, an American Jew, are two gifted physicists that fall in love. After striving for years to unlock the awesome power of the atom, David and Katherine become hostages to hate. Trapped in a web of treachery, hate and war, David takes their young son in an attempt to escape London. Katherine hears about the death of her husband and son at the hands of a Russian spy. Certain that she has lost everything, Katherine then flees to America to help with the Manhattan Project. This is the story of Katherine's journey from a war shattered life to a life of love trust and forgiveness.

The Vast Memory of Love by Malcolm Bosse captures "the pulse and character of London in the 1770's." Ned is a young livery boy who has come to the city to make his fortune. Wrongly accused of stealing by Henry Fielding the Earl of Sandwich, Ned finds himself thrown into the mean streets of London where he must quickly learn the lesson of survival. Using his skills as a shepherd, Ned trains a stray dog for protection and soon becomes known as the feared Dog Cull, a renowned criminal who has not forgotten the man who wronged him. When the Earl of Sandwich is threatened by a scandal Ned becomes a part of an intricate scheme that will either quench the thirst for revenge or land him in a hangman's noose.

You know it has taken us a long time to receive and get a book out to you when, upon opening the cover, you read "How much do you really know about the man who could be our next president?" in Clinton: Young Man in a Hurry, Jim Moore attempts to give the reader a key to understanding Bill Clinton the candidate. Moore believes by knowing Bill Clinton the governor, his record in Arkansas, his triumphs and setbacks, and the rapport he has built with legislators, you become better acquainted with Clinton the person. Now is the time to read this book to see if the man who would be president, is the man shown to us by the press of today.

The World of Jay Leno: His Life and Humor by Bill Adler is sure to tickle "the underbelly of every imaginable subject, from airlines and newspapers to divorce and political scandal." According to Adler, "Jay Leno is perfect. He doesn't drink, smoke, cigarettes, take drugs, or chase women, and he's happy." Leno was once told by a casting director that he was too "frightening" for children to look at. Adler calls Leno a cross between Frankenstein, in looks and Mickey Mouse, in voice who delivers his comedy without malice. This look at Jay Leno is fun, interesting, and uplifting. Jay is a person who likes and respects his parents, and he enjoyed his childhood. This book is quite a treat.

The Healing Power
Of Laughter

Researchers in family relationships identify a sense of humor or laughter as an indicator of strong families. When family relations become strained or the family experiences difficult financial times, laughter is harder to generate, or may cease to exist.

Holding on to our sense of humor is serious business. Sometimes the only way to bear our burdens is to laugh and bear them anyway. Life is tough, but without laughter it is intolerable.

Recent medical studies indicate a connection between immunity and the mind. For instance, deep laughter released substances into the body that seem to block pain. Some physiologists have found that stressful events often precede illness. Then, control over stressful events is important!

Humor is evidence of our freedom—the freedom to transform our pain, fears and anxieties into absurdities. With humor, we choose to accept the world the way it is and laugh at it instead of getting hung up on the way we know it "should" be.

Laughter is also the body's way of realizing that despite everything that has happened to us, we are not doomed. Laughter allows hope.

There are great moments of mirth in every family that conjure up scenarios of dealing with very serious problems in unconventional ways. Humor often defuses anger and heals pain.

When families come together in shared laughter, they enjoy a deep feeling of common humanity and unity. Laughing at our troubles presents us with an offer we can't refuse.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) - Country singer Joe Diffie credits his success to a string of setbacks he suffered in 1986, which he calls the worst year of his life.

"I lost my job, got divorced and lost my family and got a tax audit," Diffie, nominated this year as the Country Music Association's top new male vocalist, told the Chattanooga News-Free Press in an interview published Sunday.

Diffie, 34, a former foundry worker, said he also got fat and totaled his pickup truck in an accident. He concentrated on the one thing he still had, weekend jobs singing country music in bars.

He moved to Nashville from Duncan, Okla., eventually releasing his first album, "A Thousand Winding Roads," in 1990. It contained four No. 1 country hits: "Home," "If The Devil Danced in Empty Pockets," "If You Want Me To" and "New Way to Light Up An Old Flame."

West Texas sheriff riding into the sunset

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

PECOS, Texas (AP) - Well, he's gone.

After 35 years of triumph and turmoil in the law enforcement business, the last 16 as sheriff of Reeves County, Raul Florez surrendered his badge and rode quietly off into the West Texas sunset.

His New Year's Day farewell was a bloodless coup, a verdict rendered by voters in his remote desert kingdom.

"A betrayal," he called it.

Some insisted the alternative would have been a stake through the heart. Or a silver bullet.

In a state renowned for law enforcement legends and loonies, tyrants and terrorists, 55-year-old Raul Florez was special, feared and fearless and a brooding mystery to the bitter end.

"Robin Hood or a robbin' hood?" the Pecos Enterprise wondered, accusing him off and on of high- and low-level chicanery.

During his Byzantine reign, Florez clashed with federal agents, state officials, professional rivals, amateur critics and a relentless homegrown newspaper publisher.

While many adored him, his enemies, often anonymously, branded him crazy, crooked and dangerous.

"People think I'm wrong because I'm different," Florez said on the eve of his departure. "But I've put my head on the chopping block for my people and my profession."

"I don't have no regrets."

Born, he says, in a dugout on a South Texas ranch, shining boots in a whorehouse at age 7, gunning down bandits as a young deputy sheriff, Raul Florez seems the stuff of legends.

More like myths, critics contend.

It seemed at times that nobody much believed Florez. Nobody, that is, except voters scattered across the stark rolling plains of Reeves County, population 15,850.

They elected him sheriff four times since 1976 and never with less than 72 percent of the vote.

To the largely Hispanic populace, Florez did little wrong.

"He loved this town and these people and they loved him," said his wife, Jon. "His door was open to anyone ... brown, white, purple or green. He was not prejudiced."

They overlooked or ignored accusations of arrogance and indifference, not to mention charges of theft, assault, filing false tax returns and violating election codes.

And they tolerated his credibility gaffes, such as his "Officer of the Year" award in 1986. Not so, says the Texas Attorney General's office. Not even a finalist.

A Reeves County grand jury did express puzzlement over the sheriff's purchase in 1979 of a $13,500 Cadillac, an $8,000 Lincoln and a $6,250 home.

Referring to the down payment on the house, a grand jury witness said:

"You think about it, $16,250, that's about his salary for the year, you know. Where did it come from?"

Eventually, the Internal Revenue Service nicked him for a tax shortfall.

"They levied on my checks for four years," Florez frowned, explaining away the problem as a misunderstanding "over income and reimbursement."

In 1982, the Enterprise reported that Florez was using jail inmates to paint his home, and the publisher himself snapped a picture of the men at work.

That episode got the attention again of grand jurors, but they refused to indict. In fact, Florez chuckled, they thought "it was a damn good idea."

The Austin American-Statesman triggered a bigger hassle for Florez with a report on missing truck loads of goods for victims of the killer Saragosa tornado in 1987.

Quoting Texas Rural Legal Aid attorneys, the article raised questions about the sheriff's handling of money, appliances and other donations.

"I don't give a damn," Florez fumed. "I haven't done anything wrong."

While threatening to sue, Florez confirmed he commanded a chuck wagon trailer donated for Saragosa disaster relief and used it for political fund-raisers.

"It's my trailer. It was given to me, and I can use it for the campaign if I want," he sniffed. But he warned that if the carping continued he might just send the trailer back to its donor.

Along the way, Florez slugged a financial officer at the Law Enforcement Center, which the sheriff helped plan and design and considered among his crowning achievements.

Therefore, when he was miffed at the officer, Eddie Markham, accused him of stealing from the correctional facility. Florez denied the theft but pleaded guilty to assaulting Markham.

In 1987, the Enterprise ran a generally flattering story on Florez but deviated from policy and, along with the story, printed several unsigned letters about the sheriff.

"If the sheriff hasn't broken enough laws and stolen enough of taxpayers' money, he is now attacking other law officers," said one. "It is time to end this crook's career ..."

The author branded Florez as "mad" and "above the law" and told the Enterprise it was "crazy" if it thought he or she should sign the letter.

Despite all the smoke and frequent fires, even Florez's harshest detractors were stunned when he lost the sheriff's race last spring in a Democratic primary election.

"There were a lot of backstabbers from within ... who turned against him," Florez's wife said.

Andy Gomez, 43, a former jailer and sheriff's deputy, won by 221 votes, 2,525 to 2,304. No Republican dared seek the job.

Barely were the votes counted before Florez fired half a dozen of his employees. He called them "security risks," but some argued that Florez simply considered them disloyal.

"For the people who voted for Andy, I hope they get what they deserve," Florez grumbled.

Anyway, he said, he was tired of working for "beggars' wages." He now would use his talents to make "big money" as a consultant for construction and investment companies.

"I was shocked that he got beat," says Odessa newspaper executive Ray

Stafford, a Pecos native and the former Enterprise publisher who clashed often and openly with Florez.

"I don't know what went wrong," he said.

Lots of things, Florez grumped, including backlash from voter frustration over the economy.

But mostly he blamed witchcraft for his downfall. He insisted that a Mexican witch put a death hex on him and cast a chilling spell over his campaign.

He said her name was Josefina and that she damn near killed him.

On a recent wintry day, with melting snow on the ground, Florez strode into his cramped office, removed his big hat, leaned back in a swivel chair and propped his black boots on his desk.

Tall and a bit paunchy, with dark eyes and hair graying at the edges, he

A City's Titles

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) - Named after Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne, who established a stockade here in 1794, Fort Wayne later came to be called "The Summit City" and after that "The City of Churches."

The "Summit City" title was bestowed after 1832, when the opening of the Wabash and Erie Canal here marked Fort Wayne as the highest point between waterways leading to the Atlantic Ocean and to the Gulf of Mexico.

Thanks partly to the German and Irish immigrants who built the canal, then settled here, Fort Wayne also was called "The City of Churches."

Fort Wayne had its first Catholic cathedral in 1834, and it is the historical center of the Lutheran Church in America.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

JUST BE YOURSELF

Once upon a time, a squirrel, a rabbit, a duck and an eagle decided to go into business together. The squirrel was in charge of climbing and gathering nuts. The rabbit headed the hopping department. The duck handled the swimming and the eagle flew around the country scouting customers.

The business prospered, but the animals soon grew tired of their respective jobs. The squirrel wanted to do the flying, so he asked the rabbit to do the climbing. The eagle took charge of the hopping department in the rabbit's absence. When they discovered that the squirrel couldn't fly, the duck took over in the air. The squirrel took charge of swimming.

Soon, the eagle was hopping mad. Nut gathering production decreased and the rabbit refused the blame, because he hadn't put the nuts up in the trees in the first place. The duck would only fly north and south, so all east and west customers were neglected. The squirrel was sick of being wet all day and stayed home ill most of the time. Soon the business failed and all the animals went back to the forest.

The moral is

The moral of this little story is a simple one: Each of us has special gifts and abilities. We will become successful and experience real satisfaction when we make use of those talents. We have the potential to achieve greatness just by being ourselves.

Like the animals, when we use what comes natural to us, we will grow and prosper. When we try to be something we are not, we will most likely fail.

I do not wish to imply, that if you cannot swim you should not take swimming lessons. Nor do I mean that if you are not a polished speaker you shouldn't state your opinions in public. You can learn some skills and you can develop others, if you are determined enough and willing to practice.

God gave most of us healthy dose of intelligence. By using that intelligence, you will discover that every problem has more than one solution. If you can't swim, but want to cross the river, build a boat or find a log. You can build ladders to reach new heights and create pogo sticks for hopping.

Learning to be me

For many years in business, I - a squirrel - worked hard at trying to swim like a duck and fly like an eagle. I grew frustrated and experienced disappointment and unhappiness. I was tired of working and not achieving. I was disenchanted by long hours without reward.

Finally, I realized I could just be me. I didn't have to be a great retailer like Sam Walton, a dynamic manager like Lee Iacocca or a computer whiz like Steve Jobs. I could just be me. I focused on using my natural abilities and worked hard at building new skills.

What a relief! New doors opened and new opportunities flooded in. Creativity was renewed and I began to expand and grow in many areas of my life. I began writing this column nearly three years ago. It is an example of doing what you enjoy and of being yourself. It is still work, but it is a labor of love.

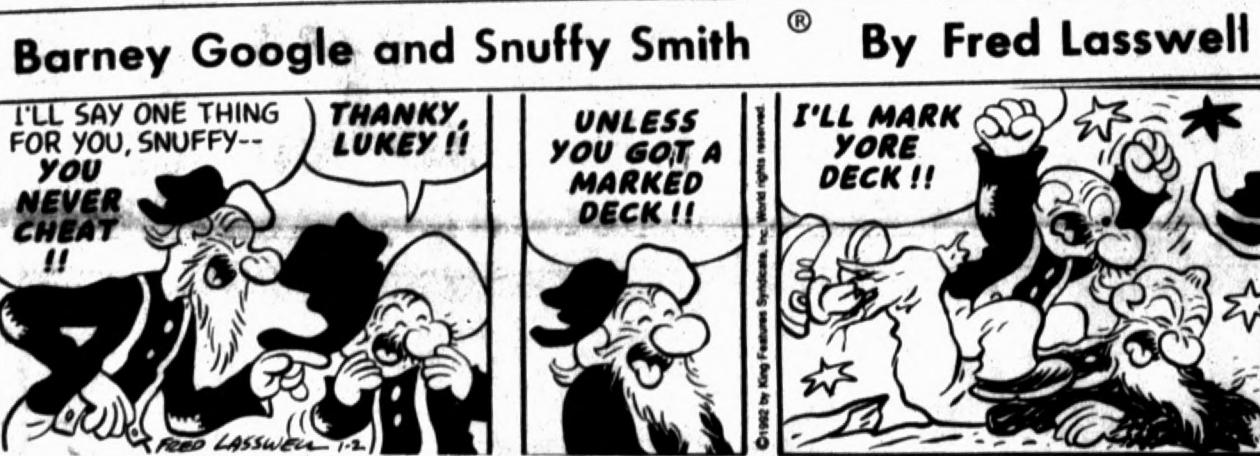

As we enter the new year, let me encourage each of you to relax and use your natural gifts and talents. Don't worry about flying unless you're an eagle. Don't spend time in trees unless you're a squirrel. Just be yourself.

To help you get off to a great start this year, I want to send you a free copy of our 1993 version of the "ABC's of Success." Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: popped a fresh chunk of tobacco in his mouth, squinted across the room at a visiting reporter and offered up his views on life, death and the law west of the Pecos.

"He loves to talk," his wife would laugh later. "Sometimes you've got to watch him."

Florez says his experiences would rival the experiences of any 10 men combined, beginning back in June 1957.

Whether in a clay dugout or "under a mesquite tree," as he sometimes says, Florez was born on a tip of the famous King Ranch known as "Esquina del Viento," or the "Corner of the Wind."

He was shining shoes in Raymonville brothels and beer joints at age seven and gathering "dog bones" from the butcher for his mother to make soup.

"Our family invented poverty," he smiled, adding: "The only reason I played football was so I could wear a pair of shoes a couple of hours a day."

Later, he said, he was one of "Bear Bryant's boys," an end, blocking back and "headhunter" for two seasons on Bryant's Texas A&M football teams in the mid-1950s.

However, Florez did not graduate and the sports information office can find no record of his football career.

Florez first came to Pecos as a teen-ager to work in the cotton mills. Spotting tumbleweeds for the first time, he said he thought they were buffalo.

"But I liked it here. I never went back home."

In 1957, he signed on as a deputy sheriff, and maintains he once worked nights in law enforcement and days for Billie Sol Estes, the state's most infamous con-artist.

"I worked for him and I later arrested him," Florez said, although he was a mite sketchy with the details.

Florez said he took time off for a pair of quickie military stints, once parachuting into Syria with the 82nd Airborne Division and fighting his way into Lebanon in 1958.

The second excursion, he said, took him to Cuba during the Berlin-Cuban crisis in the early 1960s.

It was in Lebanon that he suffered the first of three bullet wounds, he said. The others occurred in Pecos while quelling a family disturbance and during a shootout with a would-be rapist.

"I put a bullet right between his eyes, but it flattened out like a lead quarter and came out the top of his head," Florez said of the would-be rapist. "He lived long enough to sue the hell out of me."

In response to a question, Florez said he had killed "right at a dozen" men and wounded 27 others.

"It's not a fun thing. But back in those early days, there was only four officers. And you don't give in to the enemy. It's just a matter of them or you."

With considerable gusto, Florez recalls the time a previous sheriff sent him to find and return a killer who had escaped from the Pecos jail and fled into the mountains of Mexico.

After four days and nights on horseback, Florez climbed atop a boulder and intercepted his quarry as he descended a mountain trail.

The sheriff claims he was dropped into Cuba on one secret mission and went deep in Mexico to catch a famous crook.

"You come for me?" the man asked.

"No, I was looking for some other bastard, but as long as you're here, I might as well take you."

With his captive in tow, Florez backtracked through the mountains, crossed the Rio Grande, climbed in a car and headed north toward Pecos.

"Why don't you just put me up against a post and shoot me," the prisoner suggested. "Tell people we had a helluva fight. They'd write songs about you."

"Can't do that," Florez replied.

"Why not?"

"Them damn bullets cost 25 cents and you ain't worth two bits."

Florez recalled with robust laughter that the prisoner, furious, kicked in the dashboard of his car.

Raul Florez is hard-pressed to explain his ouster at the polls.

"All my adult life has been dedicated to the people of this county in one way or another," he said. "I loved public service and I loved educating the people."

There was a time, he said, when Mexicans weren't welcome in certain areas of Pecos, "and now they're living a quarter mile from the millionaires."

He likened his role to "Moses parting the Red Sea."

Florez said he built the first prison of its kind in Pecos and made the county millions of dollars housing state and federal inmates under contract arrangements.

"I'm a good promoter, and you learn to sell what you got. We had to survive."

He acknowledged the formal and informal accusations of wrongdoing but said such complaints are not uncommon to people in positions of power, at least not in West Texas.

"Upstairs is a lonely place," Florez said. "You don't have no place to go. That's when the buck stops. Presidents, sheriffs, whatever..."

Ironically, he said it was "all that damn notoriety" generated by his old adversary, publisher Ray Stafford, that kept him in office so long.

"If somebody found out I took pink toilet paper into the bathroom, it would be in the newspaper," he said. "After Stafford left, people would say, 'Sheriff, you ain't working. I haven't seen your name in the paper.'

The Hereford Brand-Sunday, January 3, 1993-Page 7B

"They thought I was dead and gone."

Florez said he was close to being both dead and gone during the last campaign, and he blames Josefina, the witch from the Mexican border town of Ojinaga.

"I've had cancer, diabetes and heart disease, and during the election (campaign) I was in the hospital four times," he said. "Witchcraft got me."

He said it was the "curanderos," or healers, of South Texas who broke Josefina's spell, using a silver dollar and a clove of garlic to help rescue him from the grave.

"I'm in damn good shape now." Florez described the curanderos as "medicine men" of sorts who are dedicated to fighting witchcraft.

Josefina's hex, however, still cost him votes, Florez said, because supporters feared that if he won, then died, officials would "appoint a gringo" to succeed him.

He said he feels no bitterness, just betrayal.

"I know how Christ felt," he sighed. "Christ was persecuted and crucified by the people he loved and served because he was different."

And like Christ, he wondered, "Why have they forsaken me?"

PALATIAL PLAN IS BEYOND COMPARE

Titillating Design Embraces Superlative Features

© BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

The first overwhelming impression is the magnificent two story foyer with its palatial curved stair soaring into an open balcony above. A tray ceiling tops it all.

The first floor is provided with every detail of a plush life style.

The first floor contains a guest bed room, office, large laundry, magnanimous kitchen, banquet dining room, two full baths, a sun room with vaulted ceiling, a sun deck and an office. Each room is predominant with all amenities and the second floor is handy from the large family room as well as the foyer. Notice the unique wet bar at the corner of the family room.

The second floor is embellished with three large bedrooms, three full baths and a sitting area in the master bed room suite. All bedrooms are shown with walk in closets and the master bath is luxurious. The great room soars two stories high and is in full view from an open rail balcony.

The basement stair leads to the further extension of this home plan and the basement includes an additional office, exercise room, a pet room and unfathomed storage space.

The European exterior is complete with hip and gable roof style, dormers over the garage, elaborate window treatment, corner quoins and stucco finish.

The plan is Number 5001. It is a computer generated plan. It includes 5,003 square feet of livable space on the first and second floor, the upper activity room, upper foyer and finished basement adding 376 square feet, 244 square feet and 1,232 square feet, respectively. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information.

Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent.

An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to.

Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing.

So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent.

Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examine the latest market trends in housing opportunities.

With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.

'Good Morning America' expands to Sundays

Emmy-winning journalist Dana King (pictured) joins Bill Ritter at the anchor desk of Good Morning America/Sunday, premiering Jan. 3 on ABC. The live, hourlong program will offer news and information in the tradition of the long-running weekday series. King comes to the job from ABC affiliate KTVI in St. Louis.

Anchor, producer happy with prospects for new show

By Suzanne Gill

"This is on the record, right?" asks Bill Ritter, ABC's newest anchorman. Ritter is a 20-year veteran of print and broadcast journalism who's nothing if not cagey in a question-and-answer session.

What's "on the record" in this case seems innocuous enough: It's just Ritter's response to a comment by his new producer, Jerry Liddell, that the Los Angeles-born reporter-anchorman was entertaining more than one offer of a network job when he accepted the post of co-host for ABC's latest news venture, Good Morning America/Sunday.

Read an "Aw, shucks," into the record, followed by an "I was in a very flattering position." Not that Ritter isn't enthusiastic about his new job hosting GMA/Sunday, which debuts Jan. 3 on most ABC affiliates.

"I think the different thing about this job is gonna be getting people who don't watch Sunday-morning television to watch it. The overwhelming majority of people in America don't watch Sunday-morning TV at 8 o'clock."

True enough. Fully 80 percent of U.S. homes leave the TV off at that hour. The 20 percent who do watch already have two network talk-show choices: the long-established CBS Sunday Morning show with Charles Kuralt and NBC's 6-month-old Sunday Today show, anchored by Scott Simon and Jackie Nespral.

Producer Liddell takes a realistic view of the competition.

"We were never going to compete with Kuralt directly. I'm not going to go after his audience; I can't, he owns them; they're his."

The Today audience, however, is fair game.

"By default, 41 percent of (Sunday Today) viewers are (weekday) Good Morning America viewers. So, we want Emmy winner Bill Ritter comes to Good Morning America/Sunday after working at KCAL in Los Angeles.

'em back.

"I don't think they're necessarily addressing the weekend audience," Liddell says of Sunday Today. "They're giving you what you get Monday through Friday. I think they're not taking advantage of the Sunday audience in particular."

Sunday morning, according to Liddell, is "when you take time" to enjoy family, newspaper and breakfast. So he plans to open GMA/Sunday with a few minutes of conversation between Ritter and co-anchor Dana King on a "modified, cosier" version of the weekday set.

With just an hour to fill, Liddell plans for a news segment to follow the opening. Then he'll give the middle of the show to feature stories generated by his anchors.

Speaking of King, Ritter fairly gushes. "We get along really well. It's really a blast to be with her. She's funny and she's smart and she's very quick. We get along, I would say, much like a brother and sister get along."

Such camaraderie may be a key to the show's success; certainly Sunday Today has suffered without it. The differences behind the scenes at each show are telling, too. Today formed a separate staff for weekends, while budget-conscious ABC simply hired a few more staffers for the established GMA crew.

"Our staff," Liddell says, "is totally integrated; they (Today) created this guerrilla outfit on the side, and I think logically that was probably a mistake."

For the record, then, Ritter is as happy as a newsman can be with the prospects for the untried morning show.

"We are not under any pressure (from the network) to pull this off in a month. We have a one-hour show, not a four-hour blockbuster with two hours a shot (like Today). They're very smart about this. It's a long haul kind of thing."

DIME OUT

Anglers Wilson, Martin big catch for TNN

By Michael Scogin

Television fishing veterans Orlando Wilson and Roland Martin make their Nashville Network debut this weekend as part of the network's new TNN Outdoor lineup, which boasts a variety of shows for the avid fisherman and hunter.

The pair, who had become fixtures on TBS in seasons past, will anchor a TNN weekend outdoor schedule that already features such popular shows as the Bassmasters series and In-Fisherman Television.

"We're going to miss all of our friends at TBS, but I look forward to it being a positive move for us," says Wilson, who this year begins the 12th season of his Fishin' With Orlando Wilson show.

In his first month on TNN, Wilson makes his way across the southern states to take advantage of the warm weather. The weekend of Jan. 3, Wilson visits Lake Wilson on the Alabama/Tennessee border to catch smallmouth bass. On Saturday, Jan. 9, it's on to Texas with guide David Vance to find largemouth bass on Lake Fork.

"The bulk of the fishing in the winter is pretty much confined to the South," he says. "The fish don't feed as often in the winter because the colder the water, the less they move, and the less they move, the less food requirements they have."

But, as Wilson points out, "They still need to eat."

Compromising Positions ★★ A housewife investigates her dentist's murder and finds blackmail. Susan Sarandon, Raúl Julia R Profanity, Nudity, Violence. 2:00. (1985) ● Jan. 3 1:00pm.

SOAP TALKAllan worked in Martinez's shadow

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I've been watching the serial Santa Barbara for many years, and it just gets better and better. My question is, why hasn't Jed Allan, who plays C.C. Capwell, ever been nominated for an Emmy for his acting? I think he is superb and he gets better looking all the time. —Grace F., Lake Oswego, Ore.

Dear Reader: It is possible that Allan has been overshadowed by the success of A Martinez, who portrayed Cruz on the show for several years. Martinez has been nominated for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Daytime Serial every year since 1986 and won the Emmy in 1989 and 1990.

Martinez and his cohort Marcy Walker (ex-Eden) carried the show with their many escapades for several years. SB was sometimes referred to as the "Cruz and Eden show."

As for Allan, SB was not his first soap. He spent 12 years as the popular Don Craig on Days of Our Lives. He was also on Love of Life and The Secret Storm.

Dear Candace: I think the girl who plays Vicki/Marley is beautiful. She is a talented actress and is believable in both parts she plays, even though they are very different. What is her name and where is she from? She seems familiar to me for some reason. —A big Another World fan, Jennifer in North Carolina.

Dear Reader: Jensen Buchanan joined the cast of AW in 1990. She is a native of Montgomery, Ala., but grew up in the small Wisconsin town of Neenah.

Her stepfather was a veterinarian, and their house was always full of his patients. "I grew up with a rotating menagerie of animals — dogs, ferrets, hawks, squirrels, you name it," says Buchanan. "Whatever ended up on our doorstep was taken in and cared for."

Buchanan attended Boston University's School of Fine Arts. Before joining AW, she portrayed Sarah Buchanan on One Life to Live.

Buchanan enjoys singing and has performed with the Light Opera of Manhattan as well as in cabarets. She is fond of sports, especially tennis, and plays the piano.

BITS AND PIECESMac may play inaugural ball; 'I'll Fly Away' gets a reprieve

They may only be rumors, but reports suggest that members of Fleetwood Mac may reunite to perform at Bill Clinton's presidential inaugural ball. Clinton used the band's "Don't Stop" as his campaign theme song.

Melissa Gilbert, Patty Duke and William Shatner will star in the CBS telefilm A Family of Strangers, now in production in Vancouver, British Columbia. The fact-based story concerns a young woman (Gilbert) who discovers she was adopted when a brain surgeon requires particular details of her family history before operating. The search for her birth parents brings some additional secrets to light.

I'll Fly Away hasn't left its NBC perch just yet. Holiday production considerations have led the network to extend the Emmy-winning series into February sweeps. Although it was endorsed by Viewers for Quality Television, the drama set in the Civil Rights-era South suffered from poor ratings (largely due to its time slot) and was in danger of cancellation.

ABC's answer to its ratings-troubled Saturday-night lineup may come from HBO Independent Productions. The network is considering a two-hour, magazine-type programming block to be produced by HBO.

Prom Night III: The Last Kiss ★★ Hamilton High's demonic prom queen is back from the dead. Tim Conlon, Cyndy Preston R Profanity, Nudity, Violence. 2:00. (1989) ☎ Jan. 9 2:00pm.

The Promise of Love ★ A woman tries to rebuild her life after her husband is killed. Valerie Bertinelli, Jameson Parker 2:00. (1980) ☎ Jan. 9 3:05pm.

Protocol ★★ A cocktail waitress gets mixed up in State Department funny business. Goldie Hawn, Chris Sarandon PG Profanity, Violence, Adult Themes. 2:00. (1984) ☎ Jan. 8 7:00pm.

PT 109 ★★ Lt. John F. Kennedy and his crew become stranded on a Pacific Island. Cliff Robertson, Ty Hardin 2:20. (1963) ☎ Jan. 5 8:00pm.

Pure Luck ★★ The world's unluckiest man is hired to find a missing woman. Martin Short, Danny Glover PG Profanity, Violence. 2:00. (1991) ☎ Jan. 4 8:00pm.

Fleetwood Mac's
Mick Fleetwood and Stevie Nicks

It's becoming a digital world. Ever since Denver-based cable operator Tele-Communications, Inc., (TCI) announced that it would place digital cable boxes in one million of its subscribers' homes, other cable companies have been wondering how and when to follow suit. The costly digital conversion (TCI spent $200 million) would expand the number of available channels to as many as 500 in some systems. But cable operators can't pass the entire bill along to their customers because of recent deregulation legislation. Instead, they are looking to pay-per-view services to provide a quick return. Thus, profits from the next heavyweight title fight could help fund the digital conversion.

LET'S TALKLife after perfect TV household; happy birthday, Nathan Birnbaum

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Please let me know what happened to Donna Reed and Carl Betz of The Donna Reed Show. I am very interested in knowing about their careers after the show. —Y.C., Tigard, Ore.

A: Reed, who is said to have despised her role on The Donna Reed Show, considering it a male fantasy of female subservience, rarely ventured back to acting after the series ended in 1966. Her rare TV appearances afterward included a guest shot on The Love Boat and a role in the telefilm The Best Place to Be. Reed died of cancer in 1986 after playing Ewing matriarch Miss Ellie on Dallas for a season.

Betz, after gaining popularity as Donna's husband on the show, appeared in the Elvis Presley movie Spinout then landed the title role in the series Judd for the Defense, for which he won an Emmy. After the two-year run of Judd, he worked steadily in TV series such as The F.B.I., Mission: Impossible and Police Story. He also starred in the 1974 telefilm Killdozer and the 1975 ensemble film The Meal. Betz died in 1978.

Q: George Burns has the same birthday as mine, and I would like to send him a card. Since his birthday is not too far off, could you please send me an address soon where I could write to him? —Adeline Potter, Warren, Pa.

A: Burns was born Nathan Birnbaum on Jan. 20, 1896, in New York City. You may write to him in care of Empire West, 1100 Alta Loma Rd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Q: There was a movie produced in 1942 titled Always in My Heart. It was a drama about a convict who is released from prison only to find his wife is about to remarry. Walter Huston and Kay Francis starred in the film. I was wondering if Johnny Puleo and His Harmonicas performed in the movie and if it is available on video. —Clifton Hendrickson, Stephenson, Mich.

A: Always in My Heart was produced as a showcase for Gloria Warren, who played the star duo's daughter in the film. At the time, she was being groomed by Warner Bros. for singing stardom. Her accompaniment, however, was provided by Borrah Minevitch and His Rascals. According to my sources, the film has never been released on video.

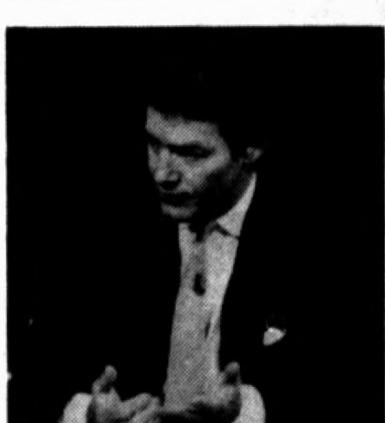

Donna Reed

Q: I'm wondering if you can recall the title of a movie I watched in the 1960s. It was about a lady who was released from a mental hospital and brought back to the home where she had lived as a little girl. She had been in the hospital because she witnessed a horrible ax murder in an upstairs bedroom and withdrew from the world. Gene Tierney is the only actor in the movie whom I can remember, but I think the word 'staircase' was in the title. —Carole Budd, Rapid City, S.D.

A: It is quite possible that several old suspense movies have melded together in your memory. However, I've narrowed the list of possibilities to two movies, neither of which starred Tierney, but one of which I'm certain is your film.

Strait-Jacket (1959) is most likely the film you describe. Joan Crawford returns home after a 20-year prison stay, for the ax slaying of her husband, to the daughter who was just 3 years old when she left. The daughter (Diane Baker), meanwhile, begins disfiguring murders of her own to frame her mother, whom she never forgave for hacking up her unfaithful father 20 years earlier. Another film, The Spiral Staircase (1946), has Dorothy McGuire as a servant girl, scared mute from witnessing a traumatic crime, saved from a serial killer in the closing minutes — on a staircase. Sound familiar?

Natasha Richardson, Maggie Smith (seated) and Rob Lowe star in Tennessee Williams' unnerving drama Suddenly, Last Summer, a presentation of Great Performances airing Wednesday on most PBS affiliates.

'Suddenly, Last Summer' a graceful, gripping drama

Smith, Richardson excel; play not for all tastes

By Steven Alan McGaw

Critical evaluation of playwrights, as of presidents, changes with the times. Still, Lincoln is Lincoln, and the day surely won't come when scholars and students (and audiences) fail to acknowledge the genius of Tennessee Williams.

In the '50s, Williams was riding high on stage and film successes such as A Streetcar Named Desire and Cat On a Hot Tin Roof, works that explored, in rich poetic language, the tragic fallout of greed, sexual repression and emotional violence. Still, audiences were taken aback by the cruelty and repellent imagery in Suddenly, Last Summer, a long one-act that made its debut in 1958. When Joseph Mankiewicz brought the controversial play to the screen in 1959, critics lauded the combined talents of Katharine Hepburn, Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift but again decried the story's themes of homosexual procurement and cannibalism. Variety said viewing the film was like "lifting the roof off hell."

Great Performances brings Williams' controversial play to television in a new version starring Maggie Smith, Natasha Richardson and Rob Lowe. A startling work of visual grace and thematic horror, Suddenly, Last Summer airs Wednesday, Jan. 6, on most PBS affiliates.

Smith stars as Violet Venable, a strong-willed New Orleans widow accustomed to controlling the world around her. To her home (and jungle-like garden) Violet summons Dr. Cukrowicz (Lowe), a neurosurgeon. At issue is Violet's plan to arrange a lobotomy for her niece Catherine (Richardson) in exchange for a hefty donation to further Cukrowicz's research.

Violet sees the monstrous surgery as the only means of permanently silencing Catherine's "vicious lies" about her beloved son Sebastian, a manipulative, self-absorbed poet who died under mysterious circumstances while vacationing with Catherine in Spain the previous summer.

Smith is unforgettable as the icy, single-minded Violet, and Richardson brings real humanity to a role that easily could be played as a screaming cypher. Lowe acquits himself well in the less-colorful part of the astonished young doctor, especially in the film's long final scene.

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

LEAP OF FAITH: Starring Steve Martin and Debra Winger.

Leap of Faith is the story of a touring revivalist ministry that makes dollars promoting miracles and wonders in a roadshow featuring impassioned sermons and rousing gospel songs. Steve Martin is absolutely inspired as the slick talking, fast walking evangelist who brings his audience hope, and in return, relieves them of some of their cash. There are the prerequisite doubting Thomases turned around by miracles, and unhappy romances that end happily. In short, this is a film that knows how to put on a good show for the holidays. Good script, good acting, good directing and great gospel songs. Rated Pg-13. Three Boxes

JAZZ MOVIES ON VIDEO

The coolest biopics and hot-lick flicks from a most misunderstood genre. One of the peculiar things about jazz movies is the filmmakers' hesitancy to actually use jazz, but here are a few excellent exceptions: YOUNG MAN WITH A HORN: (1950/ Black & White) Starring Kirk Douglas, Lauren Bacall and Doris Day.

A classy film that aged beautifully. The use of canny lighting effects, deep-focus photography, and location shooting make this one of the best of the "backstage films." Kirk Douglas is extremely good as trumpeter Rick Martin. Hoagy Carmichael is delightful as the narrator. Doris Day (singing exceptionally well) is a bit staid as the good girl, but the film gets a terrific jolt when bad girl Lauren Bacall arrives. (Contrary to countless reference books, the story is not about the life of Bix Beiderbecke.) Not rated. Would be an R.

Three Boxes

PETE KELLY'S BLUES: (1955/ Black & White) Starring Jack Webb, Janet Leigh, Peggy Lee and Ella Fitzgerald. Director Jack Webb's best movie combines three genres - noir, gangster, and jazz musical - and though it goes haywire in the end, it's a nifty melodrama with good music, lots of violence and memorable dialogue. Peggy Lee, in her last film, plays the alcoholic moll-singer who goes bonkers (she received an Oscar nomination), and Ella Fitzgerald sings two songs for no particular reason, though you'll be glad she does. Set in Kansas City during the Prohibition, the script is full of inside jazz references. Not rated. Would be an R.

Three Boxes

PARIS BLUES: (1961/Black & White) Starring Paul Newman and Sidney Poitier. Duke Ellington saved this one, though he doesn't appear on the screen. With an assist from Louis Armstrong as a musician named Wild Man Moore, he constructed a jam session called "Battle Royal," but that's really the least of his contributions. For much of the film, it seems as though director Martin Bitt simply shot travelogue footage of Paris and let Ellington's sumptuous music define the pace. The rest is talk and no plot. Paul Newman and Sidney Poitier are a couple of expatriate jazzmen. They meet two women vacationing together, played by Joanne Woodward and Diahann Carroll. Not rated. Would be a PG-13.

Three Boxes

JAZZMAN: (1984) From International Film Exchange Ltd. If more people had seen this splendidly whimsical satire when it was originally distributed, there might have been less surprise at the fall of Communism. Karen Shakhnazarov's film is a dose of glasnost aimed at the longstanding Soviet strictures against jazz. Set in the 1920s, it follows the fortunes of a music student who is expelled from the academy for playing music of a bourgeois society. After auditioning under a banner that reads "Art of the Workers," he tries in vain to explain jazz's black, working class origins, but to no avail. He connects with a couple of ingenuous street musicians, and together they sit around listening to Earl Hines 78s, playing jazz where and when they can (including the birthday of a formidable gangster), and try to make contact with an authentic black jazz singer touring the country. The often hilarious film is always true to the universal assumption that jazz is a music for free people. Not rated. Would be a PG-13.

BIRD: (1988) Starring Forest Whitaker. Director Clint Eastwood's dark yet frequently glistening film is based on the life of Charlie Parker, the most innovative and influential American musician of the postwar era. It recreates the baroque madness of 52nd Street and encompasses the transition of a culture from Swing Era '30s to the rock-and-roll '50s. Lennie Niehaus created a stark, blustering score by dubbing new rhythm sections to solos Parker played in concert. Forest Whitaker, as Bird, and Diane Verona, as Chan his fourth wife, are vivid and unsentimental. There could have been more music, but, no question, this is the best feature film ever made about a real jazz musician. Rated R.

STAR NOTESDiamond Rio
on road to top

By Dan Rice

Last year was a sparkling one for Diamond Rio. After being named the Vocal Group of the Year by the Academy of Country Music in April, the band then received the equivalent honor from the Country Music Association in the fall. After taking The Nashville Network into 1993 by headlining its New Year's Eve at Sea World Live, the sextet helps kick off the network's On Stage series with a Wednesday, Jan. 6, performance.

Formed eight years ago, Diamond Rio consists of lead singer Marty Roe, guitarist Jimmy Olander, drummer Brian Prout, keyboardist Dan Truman, mandolinist Gene Johnson and bassist Dana Williams.

Williams, a native of Dayton, Ohio, says his fellow players hail from all over. They all write songs but include compositions from outsiders on their albums.

"We live in Nashville, home of the greatest songwriters in the world," Williams says. "We try not to limit ourselves to just our writing."

Williams says the band members, whose influences range from Marty Robbins to Gino Vanelli, brainstormed together to create their name. "Come to find out, it was the name of a truck line up in Harrisburg, Pa., but they spelled it R-E-O. We liked it, the record company really liked it and we called the truck line and they liked it a lot, too."

Frank Gilroy's irresistible sleeper is a funny, touching, believable idyll about five middle-aged white men who get together to play amateur jazz once a week. They get an offer to play a bona fide gig in the Catskills for two weeks, and they take off in fulfillment of a mid-life dream. Everything begins to go wrong when they meet the one professional they had to recruit to fill out the gang. Seeing him for the first time they kibitz, "Looks tall...looks young...looks black." He is black, he is a pro, and he is less than charmed by their idea of a lark. Cleavon Little has the best movie of his career, though he's a bit young to have played with Charlie Parker, as he boasts. The rest of the cast, led by Wayne Rogers and including real-life musician Warren Vache, is equally fine, especially Jerry Matz as a clarinetist who'd give his life to be able to play well. The sound track musicians include Kenny Davern, Reggie Johnson and the late Dick Wellstood. Not rated. Would be a PG-13.

*Four BoxesTRIVIA, ETC.*Interesting characters

By Steven Alan McGaw

Every film has a star, but sometimes it's the supporting players who really make it interesting. Here's a short quiz concerning great character actors.

Questions:

1. This slow-talking fellow played the cold-hearted prison-camp captain who lamented Paul Newman's "failure to communicate" in 1967's Cool Hand Luke.
2. This actress, from a well-known theatrical family, won the Best Supporting Actress Oscar in 1944 for her work in None But the Lonely Heart. She was nominated again in 1946, '47 and '49. Name the actress and the films.
3. Now a star of TV's Northern Exposure, this actor made his first impression on national audiences as John Travolta's lovable uncle in Urban Cowboy.
4. This performer lists films as diverse as 12 Angry Men and St. Elmo's Fire on his resume. He also played the unlucky Detective Arbogast in Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho.

Answers:

1. Strother Martin
2. Ethel Barrymore was nominated for The Spiral Staircase (1946). Her co-star, Cary Grant, who also played the foul-tempered general in 1983's War Games.
3. Barry Corbin, who also played the title character in 1949's Mr. Arkadin.
4. Martin Balsam.
