Grand jury hands up indictments

Fifteen persons were indicted Wednesday by the Deaf Smith County grand jury. Fourteen of the persons in the indictments had been previously charged or arrested. One person remains at large. Indicted for felony driving while intoxicated were Ruben Mata Rodriguez, Ramon Luna Martinez, Fred Wilkerson, Fidesio Andrade and Jose Gonzales Salinas. Salinas, also known as Cosme Sanchez, was also indicted for possession of marijuana over four ounces and under five pounds. Three men, Joe Benavidez Jr., Antonio Villarreal and Scott Edwards, were indicted for burglary of a building. Leopoldo Marquez, also known as Jesus Martinez Marquez, was indicted for burglary of a habitation. Adolfo Cadena was indicted on two separate charges, forgery by making and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Gilbert Mike Rodriguez was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and the grand jury handed up an indictment for aggravated sexual assault against Donald Johnson.

Walker wins Scouting honor

CSF can aid family with bills

A husband and wife are hoping for a Christmas gift of help with their pharmacy bills, and gasoline for medical-associated travel this holiday season. He suffered kidney failure recently and was hospitalized for two weeks. Now he is travelling to Amarillo three times a week for dialysis, and the couple could use some help with gasoline expenses. This couple has managed to pay many of their medical bills, but he is now without employment and they are not receiving social security or other benefits, so their means are quite limited. He hopes to be able to return to work but, in the meantime, bills are piling up and cheer is in short supply this Yule. This couple and other people like them are the reason for the Christmas Stocking Fund in Deaf Smith County. CSF, a holiday charity administered by local volunteers, provides a way for those blessed with an abundance of material things to help the community's less fortunate. Donations to CSF may be made at the offices of The Hereford Brand, 313 N. Lee, or mailed to CSF in care of Box 673, Hereford.

Scouting keeps Walker going

Sally Walker may be 65, but that doesn't mean she is ready to retire from volunteering for Boy Scout activities. Walker received the Scouting Leadership Award at the recent Longhorn District banquet in Hereford. "I believe in Scouting and I feel that it builds out young boys into future young men," said Walker. She is a leader on the local level, serves on the District Committee and is the Roundtable commissioner.

She started as assistant Cub Scout leader eight years ago and soon became leader of the small group. She worked with the youngsters until they became Boy Scouts, then started with a new group, repeating the process many times over the years. Besides leading dens, she has been at many training sessions, and a few campouts and day camps. Three years ago, she became Cubmaster of Pack 55 and had her first Tiger Cub group. She is still Cubmaster and is leader of a group of Bobcats.

Aid flows into Baidoa

BAIDOA, Somalia (AP) - U.S. and French troops escorted an aid convoy outside Baidoa today, and aid workers pressed the troops to secure even more of Somalia, especially a port said to be exploding in clan fighting. In Mogadishu, CARE spokeswoman Angela MacKay said the agency had reports the dominant militia in Kismayo to the south was "out of control" and trying to kill its opponents before foreign forces move in. Ian MacLeod, a U.N. spokesman, also said the security situation in the port 300 miles south of the capital was deteriorating. Kismayo's port has been closed since Oct. 2 because of clan warfare. MacLeod said tensions are also rising in north Mogadishu. Asked whether U.N. officials were encouraging American troops to move into the north, he replied: "yes, yes ... every day."

The troops are concentrated in southern Mogadishu, where the airport and port are located. In another sign of rampant lawlessness where the forces of Operation Restore Hope have yet to tread, a Muslim religious leader was reported killed Wednesday night in Bardera, apparently by bandits. Gunn Nilsson, a nurse who works with UNICEF in the town, identified the victim only as Sheik Mursad. Nilsson arrived in Mogadishu today from Bardera, which is 200 miles west of the capital and 60 miles south of Baidoa. U.S. plans call for troops to reach Kismayo and Bardera in the last stages of Restore Hope after first moving north from Baidoa. In Baidoa today, eight U.S. military vehicles, including Humvees and armored personnel carriers, and three French armored vehicles escorted CARE trucks carrying enough to feed about 7,500 people for a month. The mercy mission to four villages within 30 miles of Baidoa first stopped at Bonkey and Busley, which received their first deliveries in two weeks. Men, women and children dressed mostly in rags stood silently as the uniformed foreigners and crowd of reporters swarmed through their mud-hut settlements. One man wandered aimlessly, holding up a swollen index finger oozing with infection in the apparent hope someone would tend to it. "I've worked with refugees before, but this is a whole lot worse than I expected," said Marine Staff Sgt. Marwan Binni of Oceanside, Calif., before the convoy left the airport. The last time CARE attempted a convoy to Bonkey, on Dec. 3, its trucks were attacked.

Anti-NAFTA forces criticize Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) - Critics of the North American Free Trade Agreement are faulting President Bush for signing the pact in the waning days of his presidency. They argue that Bush should leave that task to President-elect Clinton, who will have the final word when it comes to implementing a treaty that will knock down trade barriers between the United States, Mexico and Canada. But administration officials counter that Bush has every right to sign the 2,000-page accord at a Washington ceremony today. Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney were to initial the agreement in ceremonies in their respective capitals at the same time. "The sooner we sign it and it starts moving forward, the sooner all three countries begin to reap the benefits," Assistant U.S. Trade Representative Kathy Lydon said Wednesday. "If trade policy were to sit back and wait for every election, trade policy would never move forward," she added. The signing of the agreement is a formality. Negotiations were concluded in August and the text was initiated by negotiators in October. The incoming administration must prepare and submit to Congress legislation that would implement the treaty. Congress then has 90 working days, which could stretch up to five months, to approve or reject the pact. Opponents fired another salvo at the accord Wednesday and said they will try to build a grassroots campaign to block the treaty from becoming law. At a Washington news conference, a coalition of consumer, environmental, farm and labor groups called on Clinton to renegotiate the deal. The groups claim to represent 40 million Americans. "Bush's NAFTA represents the failed policies of a defeated administration," said the Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of the Rainbow Coalition.

"We need a treaty that protects those who are most vulnerable from the power and greed of those who possess great wealth." The NAFTA naysayers contend the treaty will benefit huge corporations at the expense of American workers, hurt the environment and weaken U.S. laws and the authority of Congress. But the Bush administration and treaty supporters say the agreement will create U.S. jobs and that, with a 15-year phase-in, worker displacement will be minimal. Administration officials also contend that as Mexico

Clinton picks Cisneros, Riley for new cabinet

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - President-elect Clinton is turning to a longtime friend and key transition aide as he assembles his domestic policy team, choosing former South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley to head the Education Department, sources close to the situation report. Clinton was expected to make official two other appointments - veterans and housing secretaries - at an afternoon news conference today. Former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros was his choice to lead the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Vietnam veteran Jesse Brown was picked to head the Department of Veterans Affairs, the sources said. Aides did not rule out the possibility of additional selections. Last week Clinton made public his top-level appointments before taking a break to focus on this week's two-day economic conference. Aides said he hoped to fill out his domestic policy team and then turn his attention to national security posts. Two sources said Clinton offered the education job to Riley on Sunday, but Riley did not immediately accept because of some reluctance to leave his law practice and move to Washington. One source said Riley later notified Clinton that he would accept the position.

Riley, elected a Southern governor alongside Clinton in 1978, shares the president-elect's belief in the importance of improving education opportunities. During his two terms as governor, he pushed through an education reform package financed by an increase in the state sales tax. Riley, 59, joined Clinton in helping to found the Democratic Leadership Council, a group that sought to move the national party closer to the center. Last month, Clinton tapped him to lead the transition team's search for sub-Cabinet level appointees. The appointments of Cisneros and Brown would bring more minorities into the Clinton Cabinet, which the president-elect has promised will reflect the country's diversity. Cisneros would be Clinton's first Hispanic appointment and Brown would be the second black selected for the Cabinet. Earlier appointments included the selection of Democratic Party Chairman Ronald Brown as the nation's first black commerce secretary. Clinton announced last week's appointments in the august setting of Arkansas' Old Statehouse. But with that site booked for Christmas events, workers were busy late into the night dressing up the spartan press center in a shut-down department store for today's Cabinet announcements. Clinton has said he hopes to fill all or most of his Cabinet slots before Christmas. Among the other appointments said to be taking shape, Rep. Mike Espy, D-Miss., is considered the top contender to head the Agriculture Department. His appointment would put a third black in the Cabinet. A source in Washington said that Espy, 39, had been given informal notice from transition aides that an appointment as secretary of agriculture was coming, most likely on Friday, but Espy had not heard from Clinton. Transition aides cautioned that they did not know if Clinton had chosen Espy, who has publicly lobbied for the position. Cisneros, 45, was the first Hispanic mayor of a large American city, serving 1981-1989. He was credited with coordinating government and private efforts to boost San Antonio's tourism and convention business. A Democratic source confirmed Clinton had tapped him for HUD.

In 1988, Cisneros announced he would not seek re-election to a fifth term, citing a desire to enter private business and to attend to family concerns, including the medical needs of his young son, John Paul. Shortly thereafter, Cisneros acknowledged an extramarital relationship with a political fund-raiser. Last year he pledged to try to work out family problems with his wife. Brown, 48, executive director of the Disabled American Veterans, is a former Marine whose right arm is partially paralyzed from a gunshot wound he suffered in 1965 while on patrol in Vietnam. He is known as a crusader for improved health benefits for disabled veterans. Two sources in Washington said his appointment would be announced today. Other appointments appeared to be taking shape as well. Banker William Daley, brother of Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley, and former Michigan Gov. James Blanchard were seen as leading contenders for secretary of transportation. Outgoing Colorado Sen. Timothy Wirth was a contender for energy secretary and leading candidates for interior secretary were former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt and Rep. Bill Richardson of New Mexico. Top contenders for Clinton's national security team include Wisconsin Rep. Les Aspin for defense secretary and transition director Warren Christopher for secretary of state.

Researchers playing with veggies for new vaccines

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston-area researchers say they may have found a cheap way to produce vaccines by genetically altering food plants that possibly could be delivered by eating the plants or their fruit.

The preliminary vaccine research was announced earlier this week by AgriStar Inc., an agricultural biotechnology company; LifeTech Industries, a research and development company owned by AgriStar's chairman; and Texas A&M University's Institute of Bioscience and Technology, which is based in Houston.

The researchers' work was published Tuesday in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences U.S.A.

Charles J. Arntzen, director of the A&M institute's plant biotechnology program, said the research is preliminary, but he added that animal tests have begun.

About eight months ago, the researchers used tobacco plants to grow the antigen for hepatitis B. More recent preliminary results have indicated the antibody can be grown in genetically altered lettuce and tomatoes, said Dominic Man-Kit Lam, AgriStar's chairman and chief executive.

The published paper said the researchers have managed to use a genetically altered substance that triggers an immunity to a virus. This antigen is similar to the one currently used in vaccines that are injected into the body.

The process involves inserting the antibody's genetic code into a soil bacteria that is used to infect the plant so the code is carried into the plants' DNA, said Hugh Mason, AgriStar's senior scientist.

As a result, the plant begins to produce the antigen in tiny quantities. "The engineering challenge (now) is to find a way to put these oral vaccines in types of food that will encapsulate it and allow it to survive through the stomach into the intestine where the immune system has to be triggered," Arntzen said.

Barry Bloom, a vaccine researcher at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York who is not involved in the edible vaccine research, praised the concept but questioned its feasibility.

Bloom said with the threat of AIDS being passed along through contaminated needles, an effective set of edible vaccines would be greatly welcomed. "I think the concept of an oral form vaccine is wonderful," Bloom said. "On the other hand, I don't think it's so easy to attain."

PUC disconnects Caller ID

AUSTIN (AP) - The Public Utility Commission has hung up on Caller ID, leaving Southwestern Bell looking for alternatives to bring the controversial service to consumers.

Caller ID allows a person receiving a call to see the phone number of the person calling them on a visual display. The PUC had been split on the legality of Caller ID due to privacy and "trap and trace" laws.

Southwestern Bell will consider options that include going to court with the PUC over Caller ID's legality and working through the Texas Legislature to change the state's wiretap law, Cynthia Brinkley, a area manager, said Tuesday.

The commission voted 2-1 Tuesday to dismiss Bell's application to bring Caller ID to businesses and residences after a previous ruling resulted in a deadlock.

The PUC's ruling on Caller ID's legal uses resulted in November in a 1-1-1 decision.

Commissioner Marta Greytok ruled residential and business Caller ID use legal. Commissioner Karl Rabago ruled it illegal.

Caller ID's business applications, chairman Robert Gee said, were legal. But he contended that residential services violated the state's "trap and trace" laws.

Gee voted Tuesday to dismiss the case. He said his new vote ends confusion about the commission's intent and lets Southwestern Bell try other options.

Southwestern Bell may seek to overturn the commission's stand on Caller ID's legality, Ms. Brinkley said.

She said it is unlikely that Bell will refile a business-only Caller ID application with the PUC.

"It's not a viable option for us," said Ms. Brinkley.

Proposed for Texas by Southwestern Bell this summer, Caller ID is in place in several states.

The service's opponents, including the American Civil Liberties Union, claim the technology invades phone customers' privacy. Supporters said the device allows customers greater control of their telephones.

Originally, the service was planned to begin in the Austin area this month.

Abortion pill may get okay

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a move that could speed the introduction of non-surgical abortions in the United States, the Food and Drug Administration says it may not require further tests if a company seeks to sell the abortion pill RU-486.

The FDA, in a letter released Wednesday, said clinical trials of the drug already conducted in Europe "may well be sufficient to permit an adequate review" of the drug by the federal agency.

The move was hailed in Congress as all but inviting the French manufacturer of the drug, Roussel Uclaf, to apply for permission to market the drug, or to license a U.S. company to do so.

"With this letter, the FDA is clearing a path for quick approval, and is removing the regulatory roadblocks to permitting this drug into the United States," said Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore.

Wyden, the leading congressional advocate of the drug, said the FDA's statement means non-surgical abortion procedures may become available in this country "almost as quickly as the manufacturer comes forward with an application for approval."

However, the FDA has thus far received no application from Roussel Uclaf, or from any would-be licensee.

Wyden has been critical of Roussel Uclaf officials for not seeking FDA approval for sale of the drug in the United States or finding an American company to market the drug. He has accused the company of stalling out of concern about political objections to the drug.

The FDA position was described in a letter to Wyden from Carol R. Scheman, deputy FDA commissioner for external affairs.

Scheman, in a telephone interview, asserted that the FDA had not changed its position on the drug and continues to invite an application for its use in this country.

However, the Bush administration has banned the importation of RU-486 by individuals, and the Supreme Court has upheld the ban.

Advocates say its introduction in the United States could transform the intense political debate over abortion by presenting women with a new and more accessible alternative. Moreover, they say its use would allow women to undergo non-surgical abortions in many areas where there currently are no abortion facilities. In addition, it would provide an alternative to abortion clinics that have become focal points for aggressive anti-abortion protests.

Wyden is chairman of a House subcommittee on small business regulation. Its staff director, Steve Jenning, said the FDA statement represents a major shift in position and reflects a more receptive political mood following the election of President-elect Clinton, who has backed a scientific evaluation of RU-486.

Ballard home site of recent holiday party

Members of the Hereford Study Club met Dec. 10 for their annual Christmas party in the home of Jean Ballard. Virginia Winget served as co-hostess.

Depicting the holiday season, the home was decorated with numerous Christmas settings including a large tree entirely trimmed with gold angels which the Ballards have collected over the years. Mrs. Ballard also exhibited an array of holiday ornaments and dolls she created and collected.

Following the catered dinner, members and their guests played Spinner. Winners were awarded Christmas ornaments as prizes.

The party was attended by Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Allen, Labry Ballard, B.F. Cain, J.D. Gilbert, Art Stoy and Richard Winget. Also, Miss Gladys Setliff, L. B. Russell and Mmes. Howard Ford, Lea Hellman, Merline Kaul, Pat Robinson, John Shaw and Joe Story.

LINDA WRIGHT

Wright named new executive director

Linda Wright has assumed the leadership of Texas Plains Girl Scout Council as the new executive director.

Wright grew up as a girl scout and has been an executive staff member for 13 years with experience in fund development, membership outreach, program development, property management, training and financial administration. Says Wright, "I have a personal commitment to girls and a belief in the future that belongs to them."

Wright began her professional career in Girl Scouts in 1978 when she was hired by Joshua Tree Council in Bakersfield, California. She served as a membership specialist, property manager, adult education specialist, and director of finance and community relations.

In 1984, Wright was selected by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. to serve as a National Volunteer at the 25th world conference of the world association of girl guides and girl scouts held at Marymount College, Tarrytown, New York. She was one of eleven volunteers and employed staff selected to provide logistical support to the meeting of representatives from 104 member countries. That same year, Wright continued her career in Europe as a field advisor in High Wycombe, England for USA Girl Scouts overseas, at North Atlantic Girl Scouts. In this position, she supported volunteers who conducted girl scouting on 21 military bases in England, Scotland, Iceland, Belgium, The Netherlands and France. After two years, Wright was promoted to Deputy Director for North Atlantic Girl Scouts and moved to Heidelberg, Germany. She served as military liaison for this organization which served over 20,000 girls and adults on 125 military bases in thirteen European countries.

After returning to the United States, Wright was selected as executive director of Lone Three Area Girl Scout Council in Oak Park, Ill. in this position, she was responsible for directing the operations of that council which served 4,500 Girls in 11 Chicago suburbs.

Looking forward to her new council experience in the Panhandle area, Wright commented, "This council is in a fantastic position--with the opening of its new offices--to extend membership to more girls in this area."

Wright's interests include travel, art and art history, other cultures, community theater and gourmet cooking. She served as a volunteer interpreter at the Frank Lloyd Wright home and studio in Oak Park and was a volunteer literacy tutor.

Hereford's Blea makes 2nd team all-state

STEVEN BLEA

Hereford lineman Steven Blea has been named to the second team of The Associated Press Sports Editors' Class 4A All-State team.

Blea, who played both ways for the Herd, was named as an offensive lineman.

"Steven's all-state recognition is certainly deserved," Herd coach Danny Haney said. "He is a great athlete with great leadership and team skills. He played 48 minutes a game and always, always gave great effort. And he was a great role model for our young people coming up."

Blea, 6-foot-4 and 240 pounds, was a two-year starter at offensive guard and a captain for the Herd during his senior season. His blocking graded out at 90 percent this season--the highest of any starter. He recorded 72 pancake blocks and allowed no sacks.

He helped lead the Whitefaces to an 8-3 record and a championship in District 1-4A in 1992. He was a first-team all-district selection on both sides of the ball.

Two other Whitefaces, Pety Colvin and Eric Sims, earned honorable mention status. Colvin, a senior tailback, carried 215 times for 1,308 yard and 17 touchdowns. He also scored on a touchdown return and caught 11 passes for 65 yards.

Sims, a senior linebacker, had 136 tackles, five tackles for losses, three sacks and caused two fumbles.

The A&M Consolidated Tigers, who this weekend hope to win their 15th straight game and repeat as state champions, placed four players on the teams.

The Tigers (14-1) face undefeated Waxahachie on Saturday for the state title. The Indians and McKinney each placed two players on the first team.

The APSE All-State team, announced Wednesday, was chosen by sports writers and editors from across the state on the basis of statistics from regular-season play.

Austin LBJ running back Shon Mitchell, who set city rushing records for a single game and a season, was named offensive player of the year. Waco Midway linebacker David Maxwell, who averaged about 20 tackles per game, was named defensive player of the year. He won the honor over fellow first-team linebackers Eric Farrar of Waxahachie and Consolidated's Shatner Gooden.

Farrar had 112 tackles and caused five fumbles. Gooden had 94 tackles to lead his team for the second straight year. "Shatner is one of the great high school football stories," said Consolidated coach Ross Rogers. "He's 5-5 and built like a tank. He's a great tackler; just real hard to fool. He's been our leader on defense the last two years. He's like a coach on the field."

Another Consolidated defender making the first team is lineman Cliff Harris, who had 14 sacks to become the school's all-time leader.

"Cliff has great speed and loves to play the game," Rogers said. "He comes in at 7 a.m. to watch film. He's a joy to be around."

Offensive lineman Jon Chancellor, a senior who has started since midway through his sophomore year, and place kicker Kyle Bryant round out Consolidated's first-teamers.

Bryant made 42 of 43 extra-point attempts and hit 10 of 11 field goal tries, including a 47-yarder. He was the second-team punter, with an average of 38.5 yards on 29 kicks.

"He also works at receiver and is our backup quarterback," Rogers said. "I can't even begin to say what an important weapon he's been."

McKinney's Mitch Alvarado edged Consolidated's Jeff Watson for the first-team quarterback spot. Alvarado's favorite target, end Bert Hernandez, also was selected.

Alvarado flourished in McKinney's run-and-shoot offense, throwing for 3,075 yards. Hernandez caught 57 passes for 1,335 yards.

The other end is Azle's Gary Rodriguez, one of two juniors on the first team. He caught 59 passes for 1,014 yards and 10 touchdowns. Joining Mitchell at running back are Rockwall's Cedric Cromer, who gained 1,672 yards, and Houston Clear Brook's William Price, who had 2,121 yards.

Mitchell ran for 21 touchdowns and 1,789 yards, much of which came in consecutive 300-yard games in which he fell a yard short of the single-game city record of 304 yards then broke it the following week with 315 yards.

Waxahachie's Joe Garber heads the offensive linemen, followed by Kris Terrell of Stephenville and Trason Marsh of Brenham. The center is Bob Snyder of Canyon Randall.

The rest of the defensive line is comprised of Denison's Tyrell Buckner and Austin Westlake's Lane Grigg.

The defensive backs are Tony Brown of Lamesa, Josh Lujan of Andrews, Stacey Martin of Big Spring and Stankey Veasley of Mount Pleasant.

Brown, a four-year starter, had five interceptions, giving him 27 for his career. He also averaged 8.5 tackles per game.

Harris calls Sudan/Bartlett game even

Of the many Panhandle area high school football teams who started the season, only Sudan will be playing for a state title Saturday.

Sudan (13-2) meets Bartlett (13-1-1) at 2 p.m. in San Angelo for the Class A championship. The Harris Rating System calls it a toss-up.

According to Harris, that game will be the only close one. Here's Harris' picks in the other finals:

Class 5A, Division II: Temple (14-1) 17 over Houston Yates (13-1-1).

4A: Waxahachie (15-0) 11 over A&M Consolidated (14-1).

3A: Southlake Carroll (15-0) 21 over Coldspring (14-1).

2A: Schulenburg (14-1) 12 over Goldthwaite (13-1-1).

TEXAS WATER COMMISSION

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT

CLIFFORD A. SKILES, 1506 West Park Avenue, Hereford, Texas 79045 has applied to the Texas Water Commission for a permit (Proposed Permit No. 03475) to authorize the disposal of waste and wastewater from a feedlot. The feedlot will consist of a maximum of 5,010 head. Wastewater will be retained in two (2) playa lakes. Wastewater from the playa lakes will be disposed of by evaporation and/or irrigation on agricultural land. Manure and/or solids are to be applied as fertilizer on agricultural land. No discharge of pollutants into the waters of the State is authorized by this permit.

The feedlot is approximately 4 miles northeast of the intersection of Farm-to-Market Road 1062 and State Highway 385 in Deaf Smith County, Texas. This location is in the drainage area of the Red River Basin in Segment No. 0207 of the Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River.

The Executive Director of the Texas Water Commission has prepared a draft permit based on the application submitted by the applicant and other information presently available.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code and 31 TAC Chapter 305 of the Rules of the Texas Water Commission.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application specifically requests a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and daytime phone number of the person making the request; (2) the statement "... request a public hearing"; and (3) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the application, or that a public hearing, would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing on this application should be submitted in writing to Kerry Sullivan, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-7899. Information concerning any technical aspect of this application can be obtained by writing Scott McCoy, Wastewater Permits Section, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-8201.

Issued this 8th day of December, 1992.

Mavericks beat Lakers to end 12-game slide

By The Associated Press

The Dallas Mavericks, with 12 consecutive losses and a four-game road trip coming up, were aching for a victory.

Rookies Walter Bond and Sean Rooks came through when the Mavericks needed them Wednesday night, carrying Dallas to a 102-95 victory that snapped the Los Angeles Lakers' five-game winning streak.

"We needed this game desperately," coach Richie Adubato said.

The victory ended a miserable stretch for the Mavericks since they beat Atlanta 113-105 on Nov. 14, their only other win this season. During the next 12 games, Dallas lost every game by at least 11 points, with an average margin of defeat of 20.3 points.

Bond, a reserve guard, scored all of his 21 points in the second half, and Rooks matched his career-best with 22 points, and the Mavericks held the Lakers to 11 points in the fourth quarter.

"Any team that's gone through a losing streak like they have and still play as hard as they did, that says a lot for the team," Lakers coach Randy Pfund said. "They outworked us and seemed determined to get over their woes."

Rooks was 10 of 13 from the field and added nine rebounds for the Mavericks.

Los Angeles was on the verge of blowing the game open, starting the third quarter with a 10-0 run for a 66-55 lead. Dallas failed to score over the first 4:25 of the third quarter, committing five turnovers and missing all four shots.

But the Mavericks pulled to 84-80 after three quarters as Bond scored 13 points in the period.

Sedale Threatt paced the Lakers with 23 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Cleveland 115, Philadelphia 97; Utah 93, Charlotte 91; Detroit 89, Atlanta 88; Indiana 114, Boston 91; Portland 100, Denver 99; and Golden State 116, the Los Angeles Clippers 114 in overtime.

Warriors 116, Clippers 114

Golden State swept a home-and-home series for the first time in 17 years, overcoming a five-point deficit in overtime by scoring seven of the last nine points at Los Angeles.

Jeff Grayer led the Warriors to their fourth straight victory with 21 points, while Tim Hardaway had 19 points and 10 assists. Ron Harper scored 31 points and Danny Manning and Mark Jackson each had 21 for Los Angeles.

Trail Blazers 100, Nuggets 99

Clyde Drexler scored 25 points and Terry Porter forced a key turnover with 3.5 seconds remaining as Portland won at Denver and handed the Nuggets their sixth consecutive loss.

The Blazers pulled away from a 76-76 tie into a 95-86 lead on Porter's jumper with 5:30 remaining.

Jazz 93, Hornets 91

Karl Malone scored 21 points, including five in the final two minutes, and Utah improved its road record to 7-2 by winning at Charlotte.

Malone's five consecutive points enabled the Jazz to extend an 88-86 lead to 93-88 with 1:06 to play.

Jeff Malone scored 18 points for the Jazz.

Flemmons leads Tech to good start

LUBBOCK (AP) - Where there's Will, there's a way, Texas Tech basketball coach James Dickey says.

Senior forward Will Flemmons, the 1992 Southwest Conference player of the year, is taking charge as the Red Raiders surge to a 4-1 start. They play at home tonight against Midwestern State.

Flemmons is scoring an average 19 points per game.

But the 6-foot-7 Flemmons says he's been feeling less pressure to score, partly because of freshmen bench standouts Koy Smith, Lenny Holly and Jason Sasser.

"They've got talent they don't know how to channel," Flemmons said. "If they get a little rattled, I calm them down."

Flemmons said he tries not to think about the SWC coaches naming him co-player of the year with Texas' Terrence Rencher.

"My main concern right now is to get the team involved and keep winning. The awards come later," said Flemmons.

The Raiders earlier this month won their first regular-season tournament title since 1978.

And a preseason poll of the SWC coaches picked Texas Tech to finish third, behind Texas and Houston.

"That ranking is probably too high at this point," Dickey said this week. "There are other teams in the conference with more talent, more experience."

"It's very important to take one game at a time. We're not a dominant team."

Players' on-court chemistry, hard work and will to win are pleasing, he said. But Dickey, a self-proclaimed stickler for discipline, points to weak rebounding and free-throw shooting.

Missed free throws contributed to Texas Tech's 73-65 loss last week to Texas-El Paso. Tech hit 14 of 29 from the foul line and scored just five points during the five minutes Flemmons sat out with four fouls.

"UTEP had good defense, made big plays, had experience," Dickey said. "They were well coached, mentally and physically tough. We shot poorly."

At practice Monday, Dickey shouted a reminder of that loss. The players ran a drill in which they shot 73 left-handed layups in two minutes. Dickey wanted no fewer than 80.

"Get tough, like UTEP. That's what I'm talking about, instead of feeling sorry for yourself."

Two minutes later, Dickey had his 80 layups.

Dickey capped his first season as head coach by being named the SWC's 1992 coach of the year. The Red Raiders finished 6-8 in the conference and 15-14 overall, their first above-.500 finish in five years.

This year, Texas Tech has beaten Pepperdine, North Texas and Colorado State. The Red Raiders claimed the KYLTCoca-Cola Classic Tournament title with a 86-82 double-overtime victory over Montana.

Flemmons and sophomore guard Lance Hughes keyed those wins, Dickey said.

Wreck wins battle of Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) - Bobby Cremins was getting ready for another down-to-the-wire finish in a Georgia-Georgia Tech game.

It didn't happen.

Sophomore Travis Best hit a 3-point basket with 1:45 remaining to quell a Georgia rally as the 17th-ranked Yellow Jackets beat the Bulldogs 75-67.

"In the second half we came out and played great basketball for a while, but Georgia never gave up," Georgia Tech coach Cremins said.

"They stayed with it and they started hitting threes, and all you start to think about is the Georgia Tech-Georgia series. Here we go again. It's going to go down to the wire with another crazy game."

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 21 Louisville beat DePaul 93-88.

NFL agrees on settlement

GRAPEVINE (AP) - Commissioner Paul Tagliabue may have gotten over the biggest hurdle to end the NFL's five-year labor stalemate by convincing the 28 owners that a negotiated settlement is far preferable to one imposed by a court.

"I would prefer to negotiate a collective bargaining agreement without a unilateral plan that we impose and without it being imposed by the court," said Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns.

After two days of frustration, Tagliabue might have broken a deadlock among the owners Wednesday by helping convince them to accept the basic elements of a settlement with the players that includes free agency and a salary cap for the first time.

The end of the session capped two days of meetings where there seemed at times to be more dispute among the various factions of owners than between Tagliabue and the players' representatives.

"What I find amusing about it all is that they make progress with themselves. But they have to make progress with us," Jim Quinn, the chief negotiator for the players, said by telephone from New York.

Quinn left here Tuesday night along with Gene Upshaw, executive director of the NFL Players Association, after spending the day trying to explain the new plan to a seven-member committee of owners empowered to reach a deal.

But when he left, there appeared to be only three firm votes on the deal.

So Tagliabue and the committee explained the session to all the owners on Wednesday, followed by the owners explaining their positions. According to several accounts, all 28 owners or their representatives stated their position.

The consensus: get an agreement with the players rather than leave it to Judge David Doty, who presided at the trial at which the restricted "Plan B" system was thrown out. Doty has jurisdiction of the various suits filed in the case and must approve any settlement.

"I think we all want a negotiated agreement rather than leave it to an outside element," Jerry Jones of the Dallas Cowboys said.

Tagliabue, who headed back to New York, said he would be in touch with Quinn this week to try to iron out the differences between the two sides. According to the players, all that's needed is fine tuning; Tagliabue says there are major changes needed.

But that could be semantics: what's major to the owners may be procedural to the players, like the length of contract and the transition.

Make holiday parties easy, affordable

There is no better or more appreciated holiday gift than a special celebration for your family and friends. Fortunately, the variety of time-saving convenience foods and low-cost party goods available today make it both easy and affordable to host a party this season.

Entertaining expert Marjorie Reed-Gordon, featured in "The Common Sense Hostess - New Party Secrets For the 90's" video, and a consultant to Stouffer Foods, offers the following tips for veteran hosts on a budget and frugal first-timers alike:

1. Telephone guests. Save the money you'd spend on store-bought invitations and postage stamps, and call guests instead to personally ask them to your party.

2. Accept generosity. Offer the kind guests who volunteer to bring something a few no-fuss suggestions such as bakery cookies, assorted chocolates or a bottle of wine. These items can be served easily for all to enjoy and, collectively, represent a significant saving.

3. Co-op party supplies. Make an agreement with your neighbors to borrow and lend china, silver and glassware to supplement each other's collections and to avoid rental fees.

4. Opt for cloth versus paper. Easy care tablecloths and napkins are more economical than their paper counterparts, since they can be reused for future parties. Choose practical white or cream colored linens that can be adapted for any holiday. Dress the tablecloth with silk cords, sequins or glitter. Tie napkins with festive ribbon, garland or raffia and tuck in an evergreen sprig.

5. Make your own centerpiece. For a dramatic alternative to a costly floral arrangement, fill small wicker baskets with cookies, candies and dried fruits and tie them on a miniature evergreen tree with plaid taffeta ribbons. Surround the tree with votive candles.

6. Decorate with candles. Mix inexpensive candles of all shapes and sizes and cluster on table tops. Display votive candles in assorted wine glasses, brandy snifters and gravy boats. Flea markets and tag sales are good sources for these and other interesting "candle holders."

7. Visit the library, borrow a wide range of holiday albums or cassettes from the local library, rather than buying them at a record store. Recruit a friend to act as "deejay" so there is no break in the music throughout your party. Also borrow some classic holiday books from the library to set on cocktail tables.

8. Combine home cooked and convenience foods. Frozen food manufacturers now offer a variety of party size entrees that can be served with homemade salads and side dishes, bakery rolls and dessert pastries for ease and economy.

9. Serve beer, wine and soft drinks. Offer guests the standard beverages, or make up both alcoholic and non-alcoholic versions of your favorite holiday punch. Freeze and store ice cubes in advance, to further reduce costs.

10. Add elegant extras. Simple items that cost little can add a lot to your party. For example, mixed nuts and mints placed in unusual containers, such as a sugar and creamer, provide a thoughtful touch. And a bathroom equipped with fresh soap, hand towels, a scented candle or potpourri, aspirin and a sewing kit shows guests that you care.

Ann Lander

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a teen-age parent who thinks most of your advice is thoughtful and wise. Your response, however, to the mother of the 8-year-old girl whose father ran out on her is wrong with a capital W.

You told her to give him another chance and allow him to get to know his child. When the father of my daughter rode off into the sunset, I was upset but relieved. I knew what a terrible influence he would have been on that beautiful little girl.

Although he donated half the genes and was entitled to parental rights, he surrendered those rights when he left. He has never contributed a cent to help pay medical bills or buy clothing and food. He doesn't even know his child's name.

Despite the pressures and sacrifices a single parent must make, I'm sure my daughter is better off never knowing how little her father cared for her.

He had the choice to stay and face the music or turn and run. I never had that choice. If a man runs once, there's a good possibility he will run again. Where does that leave the child? Or the mother? I will tell you. In a state of constant emotional upheaval.

You say the father was only 17 when he left and afraid of the responsibilities of parenthood. That is pure bunk. Consider for a moment how harshly a mother is judged when she abandons her child.

That father tossed his daughter away eight years ago. He doesn't deserve the second chance you recommended. Sorry, Ann, you goofed.—Been There in Minnesota

DEAR MINNESOTA: Sorry, but I believe my advice was good and I hope that mother takes it because it would be in the best interest of her child.

I hope, too, that in time you will be able to set aside your bitterness and be a healing influence on your daughter. If you allow your anger to infect this little girl, she will grow up to hate and mistrust all men. Is this what you want for her?

The next letter might give you pause for thought:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to respond to "One Day At a Time in California," the woman who didn't want to allow her daughter's father to come back into her life after he ran out on her.

I, too, am the mother of an 8-year-old girl who never knew her father. He left before she was a year old. He married the woman he was cheating with and they now have two sons. Despite my efforts and those of his parents, he has no interest in establishing any kind of relationship with his daughter. She longs for him, but he has never set eyes on her or sent her so much as a postcard. It kills me the way he lavishes time and affection on his sons and deprives his first child, his only daughter, of the most meager scrap of attention.

I do my best to provide a loving and healthy environment for my little girl, but I know she will always be scarred by her father's rejection. I hope "One Day at a Time" takes her advice and allows her daughter to know and love her father if she gets the chance. My own daughter should be so lucky!—A Heartsick Mom in N.Y.

DEAR MOM: I hope in time your little girl's father will realize what he and his sons are missing and include her in his life. Keep a light in the window, and I'll keep my fingers crossed.

Gem of the Day: A great many experts who write books on child behavior have never had any children. That's why they have time to write books.

TORONTO (AP) - Kevin Costner will star as Wyatt Earp in a film biography of the legendary Western lawman, a producer says.

Jon Slan, chairman and chief executive officer of Paragon Entertainment, said Wednesday the film will be produced by Costner's company, Tig Productions, and Toronto-based Paragon. Filming is to begin in May.

Slan said the project could even wind up as two movies because of its size.

"The story takes Wyatt from his early beginnings and follows him as he goes west through Kansas and Dodge City and then the gunfight at the OK Corral and then the rest of his life," Slan said. "That really hasn't been told in film before."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read your column pertaining to abnormalities of the adrenal glands. It was of much interest to me because I had a complete adrenalectomy, removal of both glands, 10 years ago. The surgery was performed at the Mayo Clinic. At the time, it was the first case of removing both glands. The doctors found the glands were deteriorating and full of fibrous tumors.

I can say I've had no problems because I take cortisone twice daily. I would like for others to know that if you take your medication as prescribed, you can live a normal life.

DEAR READER: Thank you for sharing your experience with others. It is important for individuals who had to have adrenal gland surgery, or for the many others who have adrenal insufficiency, to know that hormone-replacement therapy works.

Surgical removal of both adrenals is the most complete form of adrenal insufficiency. In other medical situations, the outer shell of the adrenal gland may be damaged by tuberculosis or attacked by a person's own immune system. As the cortex is destroyed, it causes serious medical problems, including severe fatigue, low blood pressure, diarrhea, digestive problems and gradual deterioration of the body. When the adrenal gland itself is being destroyed, the skin may develop a dark-brown pigmentation.

Adrenal insufficiency can also occur when the pituitary gland that normally stimulates it is diseased or damaged. In this form, the body does not become pigmented. In this case, ACTH, the hormone that stimulates the adrenal cortex, can immediately restore the normal adrenal gland to function.

I know you will be interested in reading Special Issue 34-04, Your Vital Adrenal Steroids (Corticosteroids), which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/34-04, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Providing the right combination of hormone replacement is not always simple, but it can be done, and it will enable most of these people to live a normal life. Adrenal insufficiency can also be missed if one is not thinking about it as a cause for fatigue, weight loss and digestive complaints.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My girlfriend is very health conscious and has become a vegetarian. I am concerned that she is not getting a balanced diet. She says, not to worry, that by using the right combination of vegetables and cereals she has a balanced diet. In that case, why are the "four basic food groups" important?

DEAR READER: It depends on what you mean by a "balanced diet." And what kind of vegetarian a person is. Strict vegetarians who do not use any animal products, nothing from the meat group or dairy group or eggs, have to be careful not to have a dietary deficiency. Vitamin B-12 is only found in animal products. If they do not take vitamin supplements, they risk a vitamin B-12 deficiency. They may also run the risk of an iron deficiency, unless they use iron supplements. Heme iron found in meats is much better absorbed than elemental iron found in vegetables and cereals. They can get all the essential amino acids by combining various vegetable and cereal products.

Ovolactovegetarians can get complete protein from milk and eggs and also adequate calcium that is readily absorbed from milk and milk products. Those who simply do not use red meat or poultry can get adequate protein from fish in their diet.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

To make a smooth-looking frosting, first frost cake with a thin layer of icing. When this "basecoat" sets, apply a final coat. It goes on more easily.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT

CLIFFORD A. SKILES, 1506 West Park Avenue, Hereford, Texas 79045 has applied to the Texas Water Commission for a permit (Proposed Permit No. 03475) to authorize the disposal of waste and wastewater from a feedlot. The feedlot will consist of a maximum of 5,010 head. Wastewater will be retained in two (2) playa lakes. Wastewater from the playa lakes will be disposed of by evaporation and/or irrigation on agricultural land. Manure and/or solids are to be applied as fertilizer on agricultural land. No discharge of pollutants into the waters of the State is authorized by this permit. The feedlot is approximately 4 miles northeast of the intersection of Farm-to-Market Road 1062 and State Highway 385 in Deaf Smith County, Texas. This location is in the drainage area of the Red River Basin in Segment No. 0207 of the Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River.

The Executive Director of the Texas Water Commission has prepared a draft permit based on the application submitted by the applicant and other information presently available.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code and 31 TAC Chapter 305 of the Rules of the Texas Water Commission. No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application specifically requests a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and daytime phone number of the person making the request; (2) the statement "....request a public hearing"; and (3) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the application, or that a public hearing, would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing on this application should be submitted in writing to Kerry Sullivan, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-7899. Information concerning any technical aspect of this application can be obtained by writing Scott McCoy, Wastewater Permits Section, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-8201. Issued this 8th day of December, 1992.

There are 56 telephones per 100 people in the United States. Washington D.C. has 130 phones per 100 people. We make 188 billion calls per year.

The first American flag with fifty states was unfurled on July 4, 1960 at the Fort McHenry National Monument in Baltimore, Maryland.

Here's An Idea That Can Strengthen Your Family

Tonight at the dinner table, read something out loud to your family. Tomorrow night, let another member read something. A news story. A Bible verse. A Robert Frost poem. A cereal box panel. History. Humor. Anything. Each night a different family member can read a selection. Imagine the wide range of subjects your family will read in 365 days. What a stimulating way to have your children develop good reading habits. We have 23 million illiterate adults in America. We wouldn't have one, if each of them had been served reading as part of their nightly diet. It's non-fattening, but enriching. And it doesn't cost a dime.
