Hereford's Colby Christie repeated his 1992 Hereford Young Farmers Steer Show victory on Wednesday, capturing his second straight five-county and county grand championship.

Christie, 15, a member of Deaf Smith 4-H, won with a 1,215-pound steer entered in the medium frame division.

Kinann Campbell, 16, a member of Hereford FFA, completed a county sweep of the top steer positions, nabbing five-county and county reserve championship honors. She entered a 1,225-pound steer in the medium frame division.

There was no heifer show at this year's livestock show.

Judge David Clevinger, South Plains College judging team coach, selected the winners from a field of entrants that numbered 16 small-frame steers, 19 in the medium frame division and 20 in the large frame competition.

Justin Gleghorn of Castro County 4-H captured five-county champion honors in the small frame division.

Michael Carlson of Deaf Smith 4-H was named five-county reserve champion and county champion for the division. County reserve champion for small frame entries was Lori Urbanczyk.

In the medium frame division, Colby Christie was named five-county and county champion and Kinann Campbell was reserve five-county and county champion.

Among large frame competitors, Colby Christie of Deaf Smith 4-H captured five-county and county champion honors.

Reserve county champion in large frame was Brittney Binder of Hereford FFA, while Clay Hurst of Lazbuddie FFA was reserve five-county champion in large frame.

Following the steer competition, showmanship awards were given to top junior and senior participants.

A field of 11 hopefuls was selected by judges to compete for the belt buckles.

In the senior showmanship competition, Justin Gleghorn of Castro County won the first place belt buckle, while second place was captured by Colby Christie.

Junior showmanship winner was Tray Thorn of Friona FFA and second place went to Beau Hill of Castro County 4-H.

The Hereford Cattlewomen presented their first year showmanship award during Wednesday's event, tabbing Mandy Walker, 15, of Hereford FFA for the honor.

The livestock show will continue today with the hog show at 4 p.m.

Sheep will be judged at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

The livestock sale will begin at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

The following is a complete list of placings in the steer show. Where two numbers are listed, the first is the five-county placing and the second is the county finish in the division.

Consumer spending helps push economic growth rate moderately

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer spending pushed economic growth to a moderately robust annual rate of 3.8 percent during the final months of the Bush administration, the government said today.

The October-December quarter gain in the gross domestic product - the sum of all goods and services produced in the United States - was the best since 1988, during the last three months of Ronald Reagan's presidency.

It was even stronger than the 3.4 percent rate in the July-September quarter and well above the 3 percent rate economists had predicted in advance. For Bush, the news came too late. He lost the election largely because of voters' dissatisfaction with the economy.

Although pleasantly surprised by the October-December increase, analysts are warning the economy may be entering a lull during the early months of the Clinton administration.

Much of the burst in consumer spending that came around Christmas was fueled by credit card borrowing. Job and income growth has not been strong enough to sustain the spending pace, economists said.

The nation's unemployment rate in December was 7.3 percent, just a half of a percentage point under the eight-year high of 7.8 percent reached in June.

Governor's budget praised, questioned

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards' legislative proposals - including a 5 percent teacher pay raise - have drawn praise, concern and criticism from lawmakers in the House and Senate.

"I like... her objective of bringing Texas up, frankly, into the 21st century in things, for example, like teacher pay," Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said Wednesday. "My concern is the method of financing."

Richards doesn't call for new taxes in the budget plan she outlined Wednesday for the Legislature.

But she said it identifies more than $3 billion in "efficiency savings" and counts on at least $750 million in spending cuts that will be recommended in an upcoming state comptroller's audit.

Her plan includes a 5 percent pay raise for teachers, immunizations for all school children and a guarantee of access to basic health insurance. She said the school finance crisis, with its threatened school shutdown only about four months away, is the Legislature's top priority.

Bullock said his concern about financing also applies to a balanced-budget proposal by the Legislative Budget Board staff. The lieutenant governor specifically cited a plan for the state to draw more federal Medicaid money.

"Unless it's done right - if it can be done right - we're in a bad, bad shape in Texas," he said.

House Speaker Pete Laney said he found many things in Richards' speech that are "very positive and will take lots of legislation."

He said he will be happy to work with the governor, but noted, "It's a long way from the statements to the (legislative) process being finished."

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said she supports the proposed teacher pay raise.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, criticized the idea, calling it "worthy of a freshman House member." He said it would continue the disparity in pay between teachers in poor school districts and wealthy ones.

Laney said Richards' pay raise proposal will be studied in the broader context of public school funding. The Texas Supreme Court has set a June 1 deadline for lawmakers to come up with a constitutional funding plan.

Richards stressed the importance of meeting the court deadline. She called for a bipartisan effort by lawmakers in this regular session.

Like Laney and Bullock, Richards is a Democrat. House Republicans blocked a Democrat-drawn school funding proposal in a pro-Christmas special session.

AUSTIN (AP) - Here, at a glance, are highlights of proposals made to the Legislature by Gov. Ann Richards in her state-of-the-state address Wednesday:

HEALTH CARE

- Guarantee Texans access to basic health insurance coverage "at roughly similar costs."

- Immunizations for all children, a $50 million program.

- Impose "reasonable limits" on increases in health insurance costs.

- Create purchasing cooperatives for small businesses and groups seeking insurance coverage.

- Expand school-linked health programs.

EDUCATION

- Approve a constitutional school finance plan.

- Give teachers a 5 percent, $300 million, pay raise in 1994.

- Give teachers access to state group health insurance through an $18.6 million reserve fund.

- Eliminate the teacher career ladder merit pay system "without penalizing teachers."

- Curb school district administrative costs.

- Provide a $1,000 scholarship to a Texas public college for students who finish high school in three years rather than four.

CRIME

- Abolish parole for violent offenders.

- Allow life without possibility of parole for capital murderers not sentenced to death.

- Enact anti-stalking legislation.

- Prohibit former parole board employees from lobbying the board on behalf of inmates.

- Build 10,000 more jail spaces to relieve county jail crowding.

- Provide substance abuse treatment programs for inmates and parolees.

OTHER AREAS

- Establish a $50 million "smart jobs fund" for worker training to attract and retain industry.

- Offer early retirement incentives to some state employees.

Clinton moves to suspend gay ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton is ready to immediately suspend the ban on homosexuals in the military, risking a fight with Congress that could cloud the first months of his administration and wind up with the prohibition back in place.

Clinton, as early as today, will issue an interim order forbidding the questioning of recruits about their sexual orientation and halting legal proceedings to discharge avowed homosexuals, administration officials said Wednesday.

"He's moving forward with a policy that not everybody agrees with, but he believes it's the right thing to do," press secretary Dee Dee Myers said Wednesday.

The interim order would take effect immediately. Then, within six months, the administration would draft an executive order to formally revoke the ban.

Clinton's announcement was certain to ignite an effort by congressional Republicans to block the interim order.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said that when Clinton acted, Republicans, in a symbolic move, would introduce a free-standing bill to write the ban into law.

He conceded that the GOP would be unable to get Democratic consent to vote on such a measure. But Republicans would try to attach an amendment including the ban to the family and medical leave bill next week.

Defense Secretary Les Aspin said

News digest

WASHINGTON - President Clinton is formally lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military, effective within six months, Defense Secretary Les Aspin says. But it's possible, he acknowledges, that the temporary lifting of the ban could be overturned by Congress if a consensus is not reached in the interim.

NEW YORK - If Harry Truman could tell the military to integrate and make it stick, why can't Bill Clinton order the services to accept homosexuals? In fact, say military historians, Truman didn't demand full integration of the races, didn't get it immediately, and may not have wanted it in the first place.

WASHINGTON - President Clinton's handling of the military gays issue provides an early test of whether he can make good on a far broader campaign promise - an end to gridlock.

NOVIGRAD, Croatia - Fighting intensifies between Serb and Croat forces along the Dalmatian coast, where a year-old truce has collapsed. The situation dire, the U.N. says it may pull its endangered peacekeepers from Croatia.

MIAMI - The murder of a Canadian tourist in a bungled holdup and the robbery and slaying of a vacationing Venezuelan diplomat four days later have renewed the city's unwanted "Miami Vice" image.

TAMPA, Fla. - A fired insurance claims manager carrying a grudge and a gun killed three former bosses and wounded two in a crowded cafeteria at his old office. He then shot himself to death at a park.

SAN ANTONIO - South Texans awoke today to the reality that the San Antonio Light is gone and this is a one-newspaper town, though the remaining San Antonio Express-News promised to grow bigger and better.

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards' legislative proposals - including a 5 percent teacher pay raise - have drawn praise, concern and criticism from lawmakers in the House and Senate.

HUNTSVILLE - A Mexican national spared from the death penalty only seven hours before his scheduled execution says the U.S. Supreme Court stay only prolongs his anguish.

HUNTSVILLE - A Texas death row inmate scheduled for execution next month doesn't deny responsibility for the 1986 rape-murder of an Abilene woman. But he says he wants a new trial that could spare his life and allow him to dissuade youngsters from a life of crime.

AUSTIN - A federal appeals court has given Texas 180 days to develop a judicial election plan that will no longer discriminate against black and Hispanic voters in eight counties.

AUSTIN - The families of four girls killed in a yogurt store have filed suit against the I Can't Believe It's Yogurt chain and the owner of the shopping center where the 1991 murders occurred.

Perot calls Clinton tax break drop in the bucket

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $15 billion to $20 billion package of spending and business tax breaks to stimulate the U.S. economy would be "a small drop in a big bucket," former independent presidential candidate Ross Perot said today.

Perot said a package of that size, which Clinton administration officials have said is likely, would be only a "token" attempt at reviving the economy and creating jobs.

In an interview with "CBS This Morning," Perot said driving down the country's soaring budget deficit remains America's No. 1 problem, and should be getting President Clinton's full attention.

The first step toward reducing the deficit, he said, is reforming government "so that elected officials listen to the people and not to the special interests." The second step must be a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, he said.

Asked about a stimulus package in the range of $15 billion to $20 billion is too small, he said, "We go a billion dollars in debt every working day. That's like 20 additional days. That is a small drop in a big bucket and just a token."

Perot suggested that the issue of whether gays should be allowed to serve in the military was diverting Clinton's attention from the more pressing needs of the economy.

Congress should decide whether gays can serve in the military, he said.

"If the president could edict this and make it stick, then that may be a strategy he might want to pursue," but the sentiment in Congress is not with him on this issue, Perot said.

"Congress will make the final decision on this matter," he said. "If Congress could take it in its hands now and give it very careful, thoughtful consideration, that is the way to handle it."

"Otherwise we're just going to have all sorts of fireworks going off with executive orders, then you're going to have all the concerns in the uniformed military, all the concerns from the veterans groups, all the concerns from the gay groups, and then you're going to have Congress get into it anyhow. Take it straight to Congress, I say."

Perot did not criticize Clinton directly and said his group, "United We Stand," does not want to skewer the new administration or block its plans. "We want our government ... to know we're willing to stand there united to get these things done," he said.

The deficit and joblessness need to be the top priorities, and "we need to be going night and day on that right now as the highest priority."

Man kills 3 former bosses, wounds 2 in Tampa office

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - A fired insurance claims manager carried a grudge and a gun into his old office building and killed three former bosses and wounded two others as they ate lunch in a cafeteria.

"That's what you all get for firing me!" Paul Calden reportedly shouted Wednesday before firing 10 blasts from a 9mm handgun.

Two hours later, he was found dead on the 13th tee of a Frisbee golf course in a park 15 miles away. Police said he shot himself in the head.

Calden, 33, was fired eight months ago from the Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. office, police spokesman Steve Cole said. Cole did not elaborate, and the company refused to comment on Calden's dismissal.

The five who were shot, all supervisors or executives in the office, were known to have a regular lunch each week at the cafeteria.

"He apparently knew these people would be there and he targeted these people," Cole said. "It was not a matter of him going into the cafeteria and just spraying in every direction."

According to police, Calden walked into the 12-story office building wearing a gray business suit. In the small cafeteria just off the lobby, he bought a soft drink, set it down, walked over to the table where his former supervisors were sitting, and pulled a gun from under his coat.

"They didn't have a chance to say anything - he just shot them," said Sarah Reid, 33. She said Calden was an arm's length away from her when he began firing.

"His first shot was to the back of one of the victims' head," police Maj. Ken Taylor said. "Then he began to fire at the others seated around the table."

A picture window behind the table was shattered. The bloodstained cafeteria was strewn with overturned tables, food and women's shoes after a mad dash to escape by the 30 other diners.

Lions hear program on child support laws

Eva Garza of Lubbock, representing the Attorney General's Child Support Enforcement Volunteer Program, was guest speaker at the Hereford Lions Club luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Community Center.

Garza reported the AG's office has clamped down on collection of child support. The state collected $301.7 million in fiscal year 1992, which was 28 percent more than in 1991. The office now collects more per month than was recorded for an entire year before the program was transferred to the AG's office.

She said failure to provide child support is not only a crime against the child, but ultimately against the society that must bear the cost. The Texas child support program ended 1992 with about 750,000 cases, which not only represents a staggering caseload, but represents thousands of children without school clothes, school supplies, bicycles or braces.

One area where the office has made great strides is establishing paternity. Referrals from Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) account for most new cases, averaging more than 10,000 a month.

The AG's office is not just a matter of collecting money on a court order, but also in finding the alleged father, establishing paternity through blood tests, establishing a court order for payment and, finally, actually collecting from the father.

Nolan Grady was program chairman and introduced the speaker. Club president Jerry Shipman presided at the meeting. Plans were announced for a pancake supper and auction in March, and the annual election party April 1.

Mandy Walker, right, was presented the first-year showmanship award by Hereford CattleWomen's Beverly Davis.

Area residents invited to showcase talent

Performers from throughout the region will have a new venue to display their talents beginning Feb. 2. Singers, dancers, instrumentalists, comedians and a variety of other acts with a country-western flavor will be featured live on the new stage at the Big Texan Steak Ranch every Tuesday night from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Big Texan Opry is the brainchild of Bobby Lee, who manages the Big Texan alongside his mother Mary Ann. Lee is a strong believer in the Panhandle's potential.

"We have a tremendous number of talented people in this part of Texas. One of the main reasons we decided to do this project was to provide them with a showcase for their talents," he explained.

"This format, with live performers is very similar to the Grand Ole Opry," Lee said. "This part of the country has the strength of its Bob Wills heritage and a tremendous store of local talent. I think this could be the beginning of a Branson, Mo. type of attraction," he added.

One of the significant aspects of the OPRY is that it is free to both the performers and the public. Another is that all material on the show will be suitable for the entire family.

Performers of all ages will be featured on the Big Texan OPRY stage. Interested parties are asked to submit audio or videotapes along with an application for the Opry. An independent committee previews the tapes and selects the acts that will be scheduled to appear. Each act will be allotted four minutes, and about 10-20 acts will be featured each week.

"We've designed this project to provide a good time for everyone - the entertainers and the audience," Lee said.

Initial response to the idea has been overwhelming, according to Lee's office staff. Since word of the project first went out a few weeks ago, almost 5,000 letters from hopeful entertainers around the area have poured into the Big Texan office. The list includes singers, cloggers, an Elvis impersonator and a woman who does rope tricks. Bands are not being accepted at this time.

Voyagers Recording Studio, one of the sponsors will provide performers with access to hundreds of sound tracks to accompany their vocal performances. Entertainers also will benefit from the new sound system recently installed at the Big Texan.

KGNC-FM 98, another of the show's sponsors, will carry live broadcasts of the show each week. Mary Lyn Halley and Tim Butler from the station's morning show will host the OPRY. TCA Cable of Amarillo is planning to feature selected acts from the OPRY on a show that will be broadcast monthly on Cable Channel 10.

"You never know who might be on stage each week, especially since national celebrities often stop in at the Big Texan," Lee said. "The OPRY offers terrific possibilities, both for the entertainers and audiences.

A special telephone line has been installed at the Big Texan Steak Ranch to handle inquiries about the OPRY. For additional information, call 372-OPRY.

Any Bill, Cowboy could be Super Bowl hero

LOS ANGELES (AP) - While everyone is waiting for Troy Aikman and Jim Kelly or Emmitt Smith and Thurman Thomas to provide the big moment that should define every Super Bowl, some guy who is barely known just might steal the show.

Maybe Henry Jones, who stole eight passes for Buffalo and was an All-Pro at safety this season. Or Ken Davis, who has burst from the formidable shadow of Thurman Thomas during the Bills' long, strange trip to their third straight NFL title game.

Perhaps it will be Larry Brown, a 12th-round draft choice in 1991 who became a starter virtually at the moment his first preseason practice ended. Or Mark Tuinei, a 10-year veteran at the most undernoticed if not undernourished position, offensive tackle. All he has to do Sunday is handle Bruce Smith.

If it happens, if the hero is a relatively obscure performer, it should not be surprising.

The Bills, in the game for a record-tying third consecutive year, are deeper than they were in their two Super Bowl losses. The Cowboys, who use as many as 19 players in their multitude of defensive packages, might have even more depth than Buffalo.

"The reason for our success this year," said Daryl Johnston, the blocking back for Emmitt Smith, "and the reason why we turned it around so quick, is that we have a lot of guys on the team who are role players and don't get the chance to play as big of a role as they would like to. But nobody seems to complain about that. Everybody accepts their roles and does a great job doing it. We don't have any internal problems about complaining about not being able to do more than they are doing right now."

Especially on defense, where the Cowboys ranked No. 1. They have people for every situation, from linemen on running downs to sackmasters on likely passing plays. Their depth chart lists 11 names in the secondary, and defensive coordinator Dave Wannstedt finds jobs for all of them.

Wannstedt, who takes over as head coach of the Chicago Bears after the Super Bowl, likes to hear people - especially opponents - talk of the balance Dallas presents. His smile widens as each wave of personnel is discussed.

"I think it's a compliment because somebody could underestimate the ability level of a Leon Lett as an example. Or underestimate the ability level of a Dixon Edwards," Wannstedt said. Lett is a backup defensive tackle who had 3 1-2 sacks and 19 quarterback pressures in limited duty. Edwards is a second-year linebacker.

"And when those guys are in there, they're capable of making plays and they have made plays all year. So I think it's a credit to the guys because we have better players as a group than people give us credit for."

Don't include the Bills in that group. They know how much talent will be lining up in silver, blue and white.

They know all about the deep defense and the outstanding offense.

They know the importance of not overlooking anyone.

How do they know? Well, Super Bowl experience tells them. Mark Ingram, a disappointment for most of his career with the Giants, had a strong game two years ago. Last season, Redskins defensive lineman Alvoird Mays and safety Brad Edwards were instrumental in Washington's rout of the Bills.

"We're looking at a team that has everything," Bruce Smith said. "We're aware of how dangerous Dallas is."

The Cowboys, in turn, must be aware of how much versatility Buffalo has. That's been well-documented offensively - the no-huddle; Thomas' streak of four seasons leading the NFL in yardage; a strong blocking unit; imaginative play-calling.

It applies to the defense, too. "Bruce Smith definitely demands a lot of attention," Tuinei said. "But to forget about the other guys - they have a talented front seven that's as good as any in the league - would be a big mistake."

Those other guys include Phil Hansen, a second-year end who has become the complement for Bruce Smith the Bills have sought for years.

"I haven't seen a guy in this league improve as much as Phil Hansen has," Bruce Smith said. "Phil is playing superb. Coming in as a rookie, having to fill in for me while I was hurt - he did a good job. This year, he's just been outstanding and it makes the whole defense better."

So does Jones, a bust as a rookie after a preseason holdout. His second year was a revelation.

"I wasn't a big part of the team last year," said Jones, who got in on just five plays against the Redskins. "I didn't feel a big part of the Super Bowl. "I'm a happy contributor now. I didn't miss a snap this year. I had making All-Pro as a long-term goal and, fortunately, it worked out better than that. And I'm starting the Super Bowl."

With as good a chance of being the hero as any of the superstars.

Dallas' Smith envies Bills' Thomas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's odd to hear the NFL's leading rusher say he's envious of Buffalo's Thurman Thomas.

But that's how Emmitt Smith, who has led the NFL in rushing for two consecutive years, feels about his running back opponent in the Super Bowl.

"I want to be like Thurman," said the catalyst of the Dallas attack. "He can run. I can run. He can catch. I can catch. But they also throw the ball to him deep. I haven't been able to get passes deep and I'd like to do that."

"Thurman can do a lot of things. He can run inside. He can run outside. He's Mr. Versatility. I want to become like Thurman Thomas."

Except in one regard. "He lost his helmet at the Super Bowl last year and that isn't going to happen to me," Smith said. "I'll have my helmet ready to go."

However, Smith did confess, "I almost lost my playbook. I just misplaced it, but it made me nervous."

Smith has proved he can hurt a team running and receiving. In the regular season, he rushed 373 times for 1,713 yards and caught 59 passes for 335 yards.

Another Smith, Buffalo's Bruce, said: "Emmitt can beat you running or receiving. He's their big-play guy. Smith just amazes me."

In the playoffs, Smith has rushed 49 times for 228 yards and caught seven passes for 59 yards.

Smith credits his success to offensive coordinator Norv Turner. "Norv is just a master at putting together an offense," Smith said.

"It's great to know what you're doing when you step out on the field.

There were times before Norv got to the Cowboys that I didn't know what was going on when I went out there."

Smith said the key to beating Buffalo is simple.

"We've got to keep their offense on the bench and keep the clock rolling," he said. "We've got to be very aggressive on offense. We want to keep them in a guessing game. This is a once in a lifetime thing. We want to win the Super Bowl right now. You never know if you'll get back."

Smith will be the first NFL rushing leader to ever play in the Super Bowl.

"Well, that's one myth I shattered," he said. "Now I want to be the first rushing leader to ever win a Super Bowl."

The unassuming Smith is reaching superstar status in just his third season in the NFL. And he is being praised by former NFL running greats.

Ex-Tech coach, AD King dies

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Athletes who played football at Texas Tech in the 1960s remember coach J T King as an offensive genius whose discipline and steady influence guided Tech in its early Southwest Conference days.

King, 80, died of cancer Wednesday. He had been living in the past several years in Lometa, about 90 miles northwest of Austin.

"He put us on the map," said John Scovell of Dallas, who was the Red Raiders' quarterback in 1966 and 1967. "He always got the job done and brought us from the minor leagues to the big league."

"He certainly was not ashamed or embarrassed about hard work," said Donny Anderson, Tech's All-America running back whom Vince Lombardi later made a first-round draft pick of the Green Bay Packers.

King guided Tech athletics for nearly two decades - as head football coach from 1961 to 1970 and as athletic director from 1970 until his retirement in 1978.

Texas Tech went 44-45-3 during King's nine seasons at the helm. He went to Tech as assistant coach in 1959.

"He was one of the finest coaches in Texas," said Baylor athletic director Grant Teaff, who calls King his mentor. "He had impeccable integrity. He was a person who cared about people."

King hired Teaff as an assistant in 1966.

"He recognized I had some qualities and talents, and he turned me loose to use them," Teaff said. "He embodied all the things we love in the game."

King, who was born in Wilcox, Ark., graduated from Reagan High School in Houston. He played guard at Texas, where he lettered and graduated in 1938.

King began his collegiate coaching career in 1946 at Tulane. He was assistant coach at Texas A&M in 1949 and 1950 under Harry Stiteler and Paul "Bear" Bryant, moving to the same job at Texas from 1950 to 1956 under Blair Cherry and Ed Price.

At Tech, he coached five All-America players and led the Red Raiders to the Sun Bowl in 1964 and the Gator Bowl in 1965.

King supervised improvements to the Tech athletic plant during the 1970s, including a new athletic dining hall, new track facilities and a new Astroturf surface in Jones Stadium.

He was voted into the Texas Tech University Athletic Hall of Honor and the University of Texas Longhorn Hall of Honor, and he received the Distinguished American Award from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Friends of King, an avid golfer, called him "Jake."

Funeral arrangements are pending with Briggs-Gamel-Wilcox Funeral Home of Lampasas.

He is survived by his wife, Beth, of Lometa; three sons; a daughter; and numerous grandchildren.

Aussie final pits Seles vs. Graf

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) - It was a perfect day for tennis - at least for Monica Seles and Steffi Graf.

The top two women's seeds won today to advance to the Australian Open final, where neither ever has lost.

The top-seeded Seles blasted a weakened Gabriela Sabatini, the Argentine third seed, 6-1, 6-2, while No. 2 Graf struggled before kicking her power game into gear to oust fourth-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario of Spain 7-5, 6-4.

That set up Saturday's rematch of last year's Wimbledon final, the only time in eight tries that Seles has lost a Grand Slam after reaching the title match.

The men's quarterfinals are scheduled for Friday. No. 1 Jim Courier plays No. 14 Michael Stich, while No. 2 Stefan Edberg faces No. 3 Pete Sampras.

Seles has a 20-match winning here that has carried her to the last two titles. Graf, who missed last year with a case of rubella and lost in the 1991 quarterfinals to Jana Novotna, won the previous three years.

Both said they didn't play their best on a warm sunny day with no threat of rain for the first time in days, but it would be hard to convince Sabatini and Sanchez Vicario.

Seles committed only 11 unforced errors and won nearly twice as many points as Sabatini in a match that lasted only 53 minutes. Graf wasn't quite as sharp, but won the big points, bouncing back from a first-set deficit to win five straight games.

"I played a great game, there was no question," Seles said. "A couple of shots I almost felt, 'I don't believe I did that.' I still thought maybe my serve was the one thing that let me down. I should have come in a little more."

Sabatini, possibly drained by her nearly three-set match against 10th-seeded Mary Pierce in the last round, finishing at 1:45 a.m. Wednesday, said she just wasn't up to the task physically.

"I am not feeling very well," she said. "I feel weak and I was a little bit slow. I think I have a virus. That had a lot to do with it."

Graf started sharp, breaking Sanchez Vicario to go up 2-0. But Sanchez used her speed to outlast Graf on some long rallies and run off four straight games.

Sanchez Vicario looked to be well in control, and when she cracked a forehand crosscourt volley winner with Graf serving at 3-5, she pumped her fist in glee.

Graf seemed to bear down to find some inner reserve. The German won nine of the next 10 points to start off her five-game binge. Sanchez Vicario recovered a second-set service break to pull within 4-5, but Graf took advantage of four errors to break back the next game and finish off the match.

San Antonio puts off CFL expansion plans

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) - The San Antonio Texans, one of two expansion teams that were slated to join the Canadian Football League this year, have put their plans on hold, throwing the league into turmoil.

The news clearly shocked officials of the eight existing franchises and the other new team in Sacramento, Calif., and sent the CFL governors into an emergency meeting late Wednesday night.

CFL commissioner Larry Smith announced at the league's coach of the year dinner Wednesday night that he had put a "freeze" on the San Antonio franchise until 1994. The commissioner, the architect of the ambitious expansion plan, left the dinner immediately after it ended without speaking to reporters.

Fred Anderson, owner of the Sacramento Gold Miners, broke the news to reporters during the dinner.

"Their backing out at a time like this is almost unthinkable," said a visibly angry Anderson. "They don't call it a backing out. They call it a postponement until '94, but who knows?"

League spokesman Mike Murray said Smith had spoken by phone to a number of parties connected with the San Antonio franchise and had summoned governors to a meeting.

CFL executives offered a number of possible explanations for San Antonio's decision to delay its entry into the league. Larry Ryckman, owner of the Calgary Stampeders, said the Texans were unable to live up to a commitment to sell 25,000 season tickets.

But others, including B.C. Lions owner Bill Comrie, said the National Football League may have put pressure on the Texans' owner, Larry Benson.

Benson's brother Tom owns the NFL's New Orleans Saints. The NFL forbids its team owners from being involved in other sports leagues.

Smith told the dinner guests the league may attempt to add a 10th franchise in Orlando, Fla., to replace San Antonio this season. Other league officials speculated Montreal could re-enter the picture after being out of the league since 1987.

The news put a damper on what CFL officials had hoped would be a week heralding a more stable and prosperous era for the league. The CFL, which has struggled financially for years, was counting on expansion to develop new markets and generate new revenue.

Spurs strangle Sonics for tenth straight win

By The Associated Press
 Even the San Antonio Spurs were impressed with the way they ran their franchise-record winning streak to 10. "This validates how good of a team we are," David Robinson said after the Spurs handed the Seattle SuperSonics their first defeat in 16 games at Seattle Coliseum, 119-99 on Wednesday night. "It was tremendous to stick it to them on their home court," said J.R. Reid, who scored a season-high 24 points for the Spurs. "We're a team to be reckoned with."

Robinson finished with 17 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots as the Spurs improved their record to 15-2 under new coach John Lucas. Combined with Utah's 107-97 loss to the Los Angeles Clippers, San Antonio moved into first place in the Midwest Division. The Sonics lost for the first time in Seattle Coliseum since last May 12, when they were beaten by Utah 89-83 in a playoff game.

Suns 117, Timberwolves 116, OT
 Phoenix came within an eyelash of losing its first game ever to Minnesota before Danny Ainge scored on a rebound with 0.7 seconds left in overtime. Chuck Person missed a 20-footer at the buzzer as the Timberwolves blew a 21-point lead to lose for the 22nd time in 25 games since the start of December. Charles Barkley had 35 points and a season-high 24th rebounds for the Suns, who have the NBA's best record of 29-8. But Minnesota led 116-115 when Barkley rebounded a missed 3-pointer by Ainge with less than 10 seconds remaining. After Kevin Johnson missed a 15-footer, Ainge got the rebound in the lane and scored.

Warriors 123, Nuggets 95
 Golden State easily snapped Denver's season-best three-game winning streak and handed the Nuggets their 19th loss in 21 road games. Sarunas Marciulionis scored 18 of his 21 points in the second quarter for the Warriors. Chris Jackson topped Denver with 17 points.

the Clippers, who went ahead for good by outscoring the Jazz 12-5 in the first 4:23 of the fourth quarter.

Pistons 103, Celtics 94
 At Auburn Hills, Mich., Detroit won for the first time in 11 games with Dennis Rodman on the sidelines. Terry Mills scored 21 of his 25 points in the second half for the Pistons, who trailed 47-44 at halftime before Mills scored 11 points to start the second half. Mills also finished with 14 rebounds. Reggie Lewis led Boston with 22 points, while Isiah Thomas had 22 points and 13 assists for the Pistons.

With the score tied 125-125, the Sixers' Tim Perry blocked a shot by Pooh Richardson and Schreffp was fouled by Clarence Weatherspoon. After the two free throws, Perry missed a desperation shot at the buzzer. Hersey Hawkins had 28 points.

Hornets 117, Kings 107
 Rookie Alonzo Mourning scored all of his 23 points in the second half, keeping Charlotte in control against Sacramento. The Hornets also got 21 points from Johnny Newman.

The Kings were led by Lionel Simmons with 26 points. Charlotte broke the game open in the second period, opening a 55-40 lead with 2:53 left. Sacramento closed to 58-50 at halftime, but got no closer than five in the second half.

Wilson lifts SMU over A&M

By The Associated Press
 Southern Methodist's Mike Wilson went from hero to goat and back to hero again in the game against Texas A&M.

The Mustangs defeated the Aggies 68-65 in the only Southwest Conference game played Wednesday night.

In non-conference games, Rice defeated Mississippi 72-67, Tulsa whipped Texas Christian 88-66 and DePaul edged Baylor 72-70.

Wilson was an offensive hero in the first half, scoring 14 points to help the Mustangs take a 35-25 halftime lead.

But then he missed a free throw with one second remaining in regulation with the score tied at 62.

Wilson got another chance and this time made good by sinking two free throws with 32 seconds remaining in overtime to give the Mustangs their 68-65 winning margin. He and teammate Tom Mason each scored 22 points to lead the Mustangs.

The Aggies held a 62-60 lead with six seconds remaining when Wilson scored the game-tying basket. He was fouled by Damon Johnson, but failed to convert the free throw that would have ended the game.

SMU coach John Shumate wouldn't fault his team with losing its first-half lead. A&M's talent enabled the Aggies to get back into the game, he said.

"I've said it over and over, Texas A&M is a good basketball team," Shumate said. "They're not an overachieving club at all. They're legitimate."

Brent Scott scored 11 of his 15 points in the final 11 minutes and Rice made seven free throws in the final minute as he Ows defeated Mississippi, 72-67.

Mississippi cut a 13-point deficit to 63-61 with 1:58 remaining, but the Ows' accuracy at the free throw line spoiled the Rebels' comeback.

Marvin Moore led the Ows (10-5) with 21 points. Joe Harvell led Mississippi's Rebels (5-9) with 25 points.

The victory was the 10th straight for the Ows on their home court and their seventh in their last eight games. Terry Davis' 15-foot jumper with 17 seconds left gave DePaul a 72-70 victory over Baylor.

A pair of free throws by Baylor's Willie Sublett with 55 seconds left tied the game at 70.

DePaul's Blue Demons (10-8) then let the clock run down and Tom Kleinschmidt found Davis at the right of the key for the winning basket.

The Bears (11-4), who never led in the game, called time with 12 seconds to go, but Sublett's 3-point shot from the top of the key in the final seconds fell short.

Davis led all scorers with 23 points, while Kleinschmidt added 20. Tulsa had 10 steals and Gary Collier scored 20 points as the Golden Hurricane won its sixth straight game with an 88-66 victory over Texas Christian.

Tulsa (10-8) scored three points off two steals and got a jumper and a 3-pointer off two other turnovers during a 13-6 run earlier in the second half to build an 18-point lead. The Horned Frogs (3-12) got 22 points from Jentry Moore, whose three 3-pointers in a four-minute span brought TCU to within 58-50.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of this kettle of fish? Four years ago, a couple with whom I was friendly bought a building with two apartments. They planned to live in one apartment and asked my husband and me if we would like to rent the other. We were planning to move anyway, so we accepted. They generously lowered the rent so we could afford it.

Since then, we have found out that the basement electricity is wired to our electric meter. Our landlords indicated that it involves no more than three lights and the heat pump, which runs only in the winter. They offered to pay $5 toward our electric bill to cover it. This seemed fair, so we agreed.

We then discovered that one of the outlets in their apartment, along with ALL the appliances in the basement, including two fish tanks, a refrigerator and a plant light, are also being charged to our electric bill. What's more, they have deliberately plugged their washer and dryer into the outlets which are billed to our apartment. I figured this out when the circuit in our apartment blew, and I had to reset it. When I did the resetting, their washing machine went on.

My husband says I shouldn't make an issue of it because we cannot afford to move. While I agree with him, I wonder how far this couple will go. What if they decide to change some wiring, and we end up paying for their TV, their lights and their refrigerator?

They recently vacationed for a month, and our electric bill was $30 or less. What do you think we should do?--Chicago Renters

DEAR RENTERS: Can you find a place you like as well for $30 a month more? If you can, take it. Meanwhile keep your eye on the electric bills. If those "Thomas Edisons" figure out any additional gimmicks, tell them in a non-accusatory way that their ingenuity is costing you money.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You

recently answered a question from "S.J." regarding legalized prostitution. I hope you are aware that prostitution is legal in SOME parts of Nevada--not ALL, as some of your readers may believe.

For example, prostitution is not legal in two of the largest Nevada counties--Clark (which includes Las Vegas) and Washoe (which covers Reno)--nor does the capital of Nevada, Carson City, allow prostitution. Also, street prostitution and soliciting are not legal anywhere in Nevada. State law prohibits houses of prostitution in counties with a population of over 400,000. Furthermore, local county governments have the option to prohibit or permit the operation of brothels.

Many people think of our state as the gambling capital of the United States, but it is much more than that. I enjoy living in Nevada because it has majestic mountains, brilliant blue skies and clean air (most of the time), it's sparsely populated and has no state income tax, and I can get a good education at a low cost while enjoying sunshine 80 percent of the year.--C.J. Smith, Carson City

DEAR C.J.: If you are not employed by the Chamber of Commerce, they ought to hire you. Thanks for writing.

Gem of the Day: The things most people show an extraordinary interest in are usually none of their business.

Feeling pressured to have sex? How well-informed are you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I would like to give you my hint for cleaning spots on a rug.

I was expecting company and realized my rug needed attention. I decided to try shaving cream. I put some shaving cream on the spot, scrubbed it with a vegetable brush, then soaked it up with a damp cloth.

The shaving cream did a beautiful job on my rug. -- Sadie T. Orbacz, Congers, N.Y.

Although this worked well for you this time, I can't really recommend it because our experts say shaving cream shouldn't be used on carpeting. It may leave a residue which can cause dirt to adhere quicker. A good-quality carpet cleaner is really your best bet.

Here's another reason not to use shaving cream: Some carpet warranties could be voided if it is used. Check with your carpet manufacturer before trying products that aren't specifically recommended for cleaning. -- Heloise

RECYCLED BIRD SEED

Dear Heloise: Quit throwing those melon seeds (cantaloupe, honeydew, watermelon) in the garbage! It only takes a few minutes to recycle them into wild-bird seed.

I place them in a strainer and wash until the pulp is gone, spread them on a paper towel and dry them in the microwave (it only takes two or three minutes). The drying process could also be done in an oven while baking something else.

This way there's less garbage for the landfills and the chirpy little birds can enjoy their seeds. It makes my day happy and I hope lots more bird lovers will make their day happier by doing the same. -- Donna McCarthy, Erie, Pa.

The Electronic Industries Association Consumer Electronics Group

TYPICAL DECIBEL	EXAMPLE
0	Lowest sound audible to the human ear.
30	Quiet library, soft whispers.
40	Living room, refrigerator, bedroom away from traffic.
50	Light traffic at a distance, normal conversation, quiet office.
60	Air conditioner at 20 feet, sewing machine.
70	Vacuum cleaner, hair dryer, noisy restaurant.
80	Average city traffic, garbage disposals, alarm clock at two feet. These noises are dangerous under constant exposure.
THE HAZARDOUS ZONE
90	Subway, motorcycle, truck traffic, shop tools, lawn mower. As loudness increases, the "safe" time exposure decreases; damage can occur in 8 hours or less of exposure.
100	Garbage truck, chain saw, pneumatic drill. No more than 15 minutes unprotected exposure recommended.
120	Rock band concert in front of speakers, discotheque, thunderclap. Danger is immediate; at 120 db exposure can injure your ears.
140	Gunshot blast, jet plane. Beyond the threshold of pain; any unprotected exposure is dangerous.
180	Rocket launching pad. Without ear protection, noise at this level causes irreversible damage; hearing loss is inevitable.

Electric, kerosene units primary choice

The close of election day brought an end to the campaign rhetoric which had fueled political fires and kept many a constituent's blood boiling. In the absence of this "heat," Texans will now have to seek a safer and more dependable source of warmth to see them through the chilly winter months ahead.

The Texas Insurance Advisory Association (TIAA) suggests a portable electric or kerosene space heater. These "warm-hearted candidates" receive a majority of the popular votes from those recession-minded individuals interested in lowering utility costs. Space heaters are designed to heat only the room occupied, not the entire house.

"These units provide very clean and efficient sources of warmth when used correctly," says Bill Thornton, chairman of TIAA. "But always use caution and follow the manufacturer's directions to avoid a serious fire, injury, or even death."

"Whether you choose a kerosene or electric heating unit, explore all available safety guidelines thoroughly," cautions Thornton. "Be aware that there are more safety points to follow with a kerosene unit than with the electric variety."

The TIAA has some suggestions that will help save lives as well as save money on utility bills.

Before You Purchase
--Be an informed consumer. Make certain the unit you buy is right for your specific needs.

--Make certain the heater has been approved by Underwriters Laboratories.

--Consider purchasing a heater with a self-extinguishing mechanism designed to extinguish the flame or heating element if the heater is tipped over.

--Purchase kerosene heaters with electronic ignitions, detachable fuel tanks and fiberglass wicks. The old-fashioned cotton wicks do not burn efficiently and can be a fire hazard.

--Read the owner's manual and follow instructions carefully.

--Never leave a child or pet alone with a space heater. It's a dangerous curiosity.

--never place a space heater close to furniture, drapes or other combustible materials which could ignite.

--Place heaters only on the floor, not where they could be bumped into or tripped over.

--Turn off the heater when you leave the room for more than a few minutes.

--Never move a space heater while it's hot.

--Space heaters should not be left on over night while you sleep.

Operating a Kerosene Heater
--After lighting the heater, allow a few minutes for the wick to become saturated. Adjust for an even flame.

--A slight kerosene odor during lighting and extinguishing the unit is normal. If the odor persists, turn the unit off.

--Do not use flammable solvents, aerosol sprays, lacquers or gasoline in the same room while the unit is operating.

--Since kerosene heaters can produce carbon monoxide (a colorless, odorless gas that can be fatal), adequate ventilation is extremely important.

--Proper adjustment of the wick or mantle (flame spreader) will maximize efficiency and safety.

Operating an Electric Heater
--Don't overload your electrical system and avoid using an extension cord.

--Keep the space heater and its cord away from water to avoid electrocution.

Maintenance of Kerosene Heaters
--Fill kerosene heaters outdoors with a siphon pump to minimize spillage hazards. Store fuel outdoors. Keep tightly closed.

--Fill the tank to only 90 percent capacity since kerosene expands as it warms.

--Never refuel the unit while it's hot or operating and don't smoke during refueling.

--Use only new high-quality fuel designated for your specific heater. Never mix fuels or use gasoline; this can cause an explosion.

--Keep the fiberglass wick clean by letting it burn itself out, preferably outdoors.

--There is little or no maintenance required for an electric unit. Check the cord periodically for worn spots or frayed ends. Replace the cord immediately if this occurs.

So, political animals, be alert. Create a winning ticket by adhering to proper storage, maintenance and operational guidelines for space heaters—it's the politically correct agenda for a successful campaign of safety.

TIAA is an advisory organization with membership consisting of over 300 insurance companies writing property insurance policies in the Texas regulated market. The following are some of the services provided to member companies: Printing and advice of policy forms and endorsements, capturing and providing historical data on property insurance, research, inspections, appropriate contact with the Texas Department of Insurance and its staff, release of informative bulletins as to regulatory and legislative developments, prospective loss costs, and other industry requested services.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: We hear a lot about how high cholesterol will increase your risk of having a heart attack, but what about other factors? If you keep your cholesterol low, will that guarantee you will not have a heart attack?

Recently I have heard on TV and read that there has not been enough concern about women having heart attacks. But I read in your column that men are more prone to heart attacks than women. Exactly what does sex have to do with heart attacks?

DEAR READER: Your cholesterol level is one of the most important factors that determines your risk of having a heart attack. It is definitely important to control your cholesterol levels within an optimal range. However, they must be evaluated in relation to the total findings. If you have low normal blood pressure and don't smoke, a moderate elevation of total cholesterol is not so dangerous. But if it is combined with these two risk factors, high blood pressure and smoking, your risk is greatly increased.

Blood pressure is a major risk factor for both heart attacks and strokes. One of the best examples of how important it is, is to compare what happens to your pulmonary artery to your lungs and the aorta with its coronary artery branches. The blood pressure in your pulmonary artery is very low. So even if you have high cholesterol and a high blood pressure reading from your arm, you are not likely to have a significant amount of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the pulmonary artery, in spite of having major amounts in your coronary and other arteries.

Testosterone is the big culprit in causing men to have heart attacks at an early age. I agree that more studies need to be made in women, although they do not have nearly as many heart attacks as men when they are in the child-bearing age. The fact is, women do not have as much testosterone as men, and women do have more estrogen than men, which also helps to improve cholesterol values. The menopause is the great equalizer. Testosterone causes a sharp rise in total cholesterol and LDL cholesterol—bad cholesterol.

I have discussed the various risk factors and included the American Heart Association's risk chart you can use to estimate your risk in my new Special Report 133, Prevention of Angina Pectoris and Heart Attacks. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/133, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

DEAR DR. LAMB: In your Health Letters I read about vitamins, minerals, salt, sugar and fat. But what does limiting fat in the diet do to the bowel or stool, digestion and general health? For years, I have stayed away from eating excess fat and still have a spastic colon. How does eating less fat affect this problem?

DEAR READER: Your body needs very little fat, and that is readily supplied even with low-fat foods such as fruits, vegetables and cereals. You do need a small amount of unsaturated fat as found in these foods.

Digestion is slowed by eating fat. The stomach emptying is delayed. There is no evidence that consuming fat will help relieve a spastic colon (irritable bowel syndrome). A high-fat diet significantly increases the risk of colon cancer. In a healthy person, fat is readily absorbed and does not cause gas. As long as it doesn't cause problems, fat is a good source for calories for those who need to increase their calorie intake.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have varicose veins and have been told I also have phlebitis in my legs. The doctor has told me to wear support stockings and to get the very best support hose. The blood goes to my toes, but doesn't come back up.

I would like to know more about pressure stockings. Where can I purchase them? I want the best, one that provides enough pressure. I am interested in the custom-made stockings. The kind I buy only comes to the knee.

DEAR READER: Your letter suggests that the deep veins inside the legs that you cannot see are incompetent in addition to varicose veins that involve the superficial veins you can see. You are wise to obtain good graduated pressure stockings. Many stockings on the market provide only mild pressure. This is not enough to really prevent swelling and distention of incompetent veins.

You need stockings that provide the most pressure at the ankle level and less pressure at successive levels up the leg and thigh. There are such ready-made stockings, but you need to be sure that they do not cause too much pressure or not enough. You can also use paper tapes that measure the circumference at each level from the foot to the thigh and have stockings made to fit you. You can get information about these products from the Jobst Institute, Box 653, Toledo, OH 43694, and in Canada from Jobst Canada Ltd, 106 East Drive, Brampton, Ontario L6T 1C1 Canada. I would recommend consulting with your doctor about how much pressure you need for your individual case in choosing the stockings.

Many parents support freedom of choice in education.
