GOP calls for Austin 'tea party'

AUSTIN (AP) - Recalling the Boston Tea Party tax rebellion, Republican lawmakers want Texans to send tea bags to state leaders to protest the possibility of new taxes when the Legislature convenes next week to write a budget.

"Taxpayers are furious," Rep. John Culbertson, R-Houston, said Thursday. "Calls are pouring in from all over the state from frustrated taxpayers who are sick and tired of paying higher and higher taxes every year."

Democratic Gov. Ann Richards agreed that some state agencies are complaining too loudly about proposed budget cuts, adding, "It's premature to talk about any tax until we talk about cuts."

Richards also reached to Republicans for cooperation during the special session that opens Monday to write a 1992-93 state budget.

"I don't think this is a partisan matter. This is a matter of responding to what we sincerely believe is the public's demand that we do something about making government do its job and do it effectively," she said.

The state's income for the next two years is projected to total $52.3 billion, about $4.8 billion less than the cost of maintaining all programs at current levels, legislative analysts say.

Comptroller John Sharp has recommended about $4 billion in savings and fee increases, ideas that include merging many of the more than 200 separate state government agencies and eliminating 1,040 of the 226,000 state jobs.

But the Republicans said agency opposition shouldn't be allowed to derail Sharp's "superb" budget-cutting ideas.

"There's no question the agencies are going to be dragging their feet and clawing their way right to the finish line on this thing," said Rep. Glenn Repp, R-Duncanville.

Teams investigate ammo dump blast

KUWAIT CITY (AP) - Explosives experts cautiously entered a U.S. Army depot today to sweep for volatile munitions after an explosion that injured 53 Americans and six British soldiers in a shower of shells and shrapnel.

"It was raining metal," said Spc. Mark Alexander, a 23-year-old firefighter from Norwich, Conn., hospitalized with smoke inhalation after Thursday's fire and chain-reaction blasts at the Blackhorse Camp in Doha.

One U.S. soldier was in critical condition today, said U.S. military officials.

The teams "are going in very gingerly around the edges to take a look. They need to locate all the ordnance," said Staff Sgt. Judy Bradford, spokesman for the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

She said the depot was strewn with cluster bombs and other unexploded munitions. "There is some very nasty stuff out there."

Military officials believe the fire was started by an electrical short on a truck loaded with 155-mm howitzer shells. The U.S. Embassy said sabotage is not suspected.

The heat generated by the fire can cause rounds to erupt long after the flames have been doused, so the explosive ordnance detachments usually wait 24 hours after the last round went off to enter the area, said

"All the special interest cows are mooing very loudly right now. Their reaction is another good reason why we're putting together this taxpayer rally. The public understands we can save money," Culbertson added.

"The special interests and those whose oxes may be gored by Comptroller Sharp's proposals are going to have to accept the fact that the public will not accept higher taxes," he said.

The lawmakers said the first "Texas Tea Party" anti-tax rally will be held July 22 at noon on the Capitol grounds. They urged Texans to bring tea bags to the rally and mail more to the governor and legislative leaders.

In other budget-related developments Thursday:

- Richards chided higher education officials who have threatened faculty layoffs and other dire consequences of budget cutting. "They've laid out a strategy that is in the long haul probably not the wisest," the governor said.

- The Texas Chamber of Commerce board endorsed Sharp's budget plan, saying, "It makes significant strides toward eliminating waste and inefficiency from state government but makes adequate provisions for spending needs in public education, prisons and public assistance programs."

- Lawmakers in the Texas Conservative Coalition introduced legislation to force the Legislature to follow a provision of the Texas Constitution which they said limits the state budget from growing faster than the state's economy.

- The Associated Republicans of Texas complained that Sharp's proposals actually would reduce only about $800 million in state spending, while raising fees and increasing bonded indebtedness.

- Former Gov. Mark White, a Democrat, also praised the Sharp plan. "It is a blueprint for savings and government efficiencies that will carry Texas well into the 21st century," he said.

Col. Warren Lacy of the U.S. Army Central Command.

Lacy said some of the wounded had been released from hospital overnight, but did not say how many. The hospital did not provide information on the number released.

Doctors at Al-Sabah Hospital said one U.S. soldier suffered serious brain damage after shrapnel shattered his skull. Three others underwent surgery for shrapnel wounds to their abdomens.

Many of the less seriously wounded appeared chipper in Ward 1 of the hospital today, hopping around on one foot to go into the corridor to smoke cigarettes or moving from bed to bed to talk about the explosion.

The explosion Thursday blew the roof off the British headquarters building at the St. George's Lines camp and wrecked many buildings at Blackhorse camp. The depot is near a British mess hall, which was empty at the time of the blast.

Most of the 3,700 troops of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment at Blackhorse were on desert maneuvers at the time. The U.S. troops, based in Fulda, Germany, had arrived in mid-June to replace the last American soldiers in Kuwait who had fought in the Persian Gulf War.

Catching some rays

Diana De La Cruz sports special, safe, "eclipse glasses" to view the solar eclipse in Hereford on Thursday. The eclipse was about 60 percent total in Hereford, with the moon obscuring part of the sun from about 12:50 to 3:15 p.m. Thursday.

Eclipse strikes awe

SAN JOSE DEL CABO, Mexico (AP) - People wept, gasped, cheered and even wed as the moon's shadow turned daytime into twilight along a 9,320-mile path stretching from the western Pacific to the heart of Brazil.

Thursday's eclipse was among the most widely viewed in history - and, at nearly seven minutes, the longest for another 141 years.

Scientists took advantage of the occasion to seek data on the sun's size, intensity and surroundings. But the failure of a data-gathering rocket and the dust from the Philippines' Mount Pinatubo volcano frustrated some efforts.

Tens of thousands of people flocked to hotels, beaches, campsites and cruise ships along the 160-mile-wide path.

Many, like Dr. William Rosenzweig, a physician from the San Francisco suburb of Burlingame, chose Baja California because of this desert peninsula's clear blue skies.

"I'll go anywhere in the world to see another one of these," said Rosenzweig, his eyes brimming with tears.

But much of the rest of the eclipse's path through Mexico was obscured by clouds. Rain poured on thousands who gathered, as American Indians did more 1,000 years ago, to watch an eclipse from the Pyramid of the Sun in Teotihuacan near Mexico City.

Volcanic ash and clouds obscured some of the view over Hawaii, but the sight still awed spectators at an observatory on Hawaii's 13,796-foot Mauna Kea volcano, who gasped as the sky went dark.

"It gave me goose bumps," said Shirley Hiramaki of Waimea, Hawaii, who watched from the foot of the dormant volcano.

Guatemalan Indians sounded church bells and banged pans in the midday darkness to bring back the sun.

In the Amazon, despite Brazilian government efforts to calm the fears of rural residents, some villagers reportedly met to pray and to prepare for the end of the world.

As the moon's shadow ate into the sun over Baja, the temperature dropped, the light turned eerie and frigate birds came home to roost.

A 360-degree "sunset" gilded the horizon with gold and pink. The planets suddenly appeared as the sun became a dark disk surrounded by a brilliant corona.

Stargazers, shutterbugs, astrologers and astrophysicists alike seemed overcome by the sight.

Senate passes tough crime bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress took a giant step toward enacting a nationwide waiting period for handgun purchases when the Senate passed a comprehensive crime package with many features sought by President Bush.

The bill, which restores the federal death penalty and extends it to 51 crimes, won administration praise as it cleared the Senate on a bipartisan vote of 71-26 Thursday night.

The measure also contains a five-working-day waiting period for handgun purchases, bans nine types of semiautomatic assault-style weapons and toughens the penalties for illegal use of firearms.

Bush signaled earlier this year that he would consider signing gun-control legislation only if Congress enacted crime legislation with the death penalty and made it harder for state prisoners to appeal their convictions in federal court.

The strict new limits on so-called habeas corpus petitions, used by state prisoners on death row to delay their executions, was a key victory for the president.

Bush failed to win passage of a provision that would give police more latitude to conduct searches without court warrants. But Republican lawmakers and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh praised the final product.

"This bill contains the heart of the president's crime bill," said Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The bill contains most of the essential features of the Democrats' crime package, including a $3.3 billion authorization for aid to local police and other law enforcement programs.

But the administration was so pleased with the results that Thornburgh praised the Senate's vote for "President Bush's tough, anti-crime legislative package."

"This legislation will strengthen the ability of federal, state and local law enforcement to remove drug traffickers and violent offenders from our streets, once and for all," Thornburgh said in a statement.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he hoped that the wide scope of the Senate's package would end the election-year battles over crime that have characterized the

EnCoRe asks for assistance

The Environmental Coalition for Recycling (EnCoRe) is pleased with Hereford's enthusiasm to recycle, but says it is necessary for residents to follow some simple guidelines for the local program to succeed.

No item in Hereford is automatically recycled because it goes in the dumpster; instead, it goes to waste in the landfill. The only way for products to get to a recycling center is for residents to make the extra effort to save items and deliver them to a collection site.

Glass, plastics, metal cans and office paper can be deposited at the Red Cross office at 220 S. Main in Hereford, where bins are available. Plastic bags may be deposited at Furr's, and aluminum cans can be traded for cash at the Reynolds Aluminum trailer in the Furr's parking lot on North U.S. Highway 385. St. Anthony's School accepts newspapers which are bundled and tied. Scrap metal, batteries and old appliances can be redeemed at Hereford Iron and Metal.

EnCoRe says the most important factor in recycling is to separate collected items. EnCoRe has frequent problems with people bringing their recyclables in one mixed bag. This puts a frustrating burden on volunteer workers.

Recyclables should be sorted into separate groups: glass, plastic and metal cans. These items can be deposited in the bins just south of the Red Cross office. Absolutely no cardboard or paper should be placed in these bins, and containers should be rinsed.

Only certain materials are recyclable. All glass and metals can be recycled. Not all plastics, though, are recyclable. To determine which plastics can be reprocessed, look for the triangular recycling emblem made of three connecting arrows which will be somewhere on the container.

EnCoRe can accept paper for recycling, but there are several points to remember when collecting it. All paper must be turned in to the Red Cross office workers, not deposited in the outside bins. Newspapers can only be accepted if they are bundled and tied with twine.

EnCoRe invites donations of office and computer paper, whole or shredded. Paper that is emameled (slick) or has staples cannot be recycled. Also, the cellophane "window" must be removed from business envelopes.

EnCoRe is not accepting magazines at this time.

The recycling program is a joint effort of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross and EnCoRe. The City of Hereford has provided the collection bins at the Red Cross office, and labor is provided by volunteers and adult probationers who are receiving credit for community service. Collected materials are forwarded to recycling dealers in Amarillo.

last decade.

"We are talking about some significant changes across the board, some of them I like more than others," Biden told reporters.

Biden said he hoped the House would pass a less drastic restriction of habeas corpus petitions. Civil libertarians say the Senate version will virtually shut off the federal courts to state prisoners with valid claims that their rights were violated.

The House has not acted on comprehensive crime legislation, but the House Judiciary Committee is expected to draft a bill before the August recess.

A compromise version of the legislation passed by the two chambers would have to be drafted before the bill reached the president.

New incident prompts LA clash

LCS ANGELES (AP) - The family wanted to see the body, wanted to touch the body, as the dead teen-ager lay slumped in a car after a gang-related shooting.

But police wouldn't let them, explaining the crime scene had to be preserved and the evidence protected to help arrest the killer.

The explanation didn't go over well to the family or the crowd, which had swelled to about 200.

People started yelling. A scuffle broke out. Officers said they got hit. Bystanders said police abused them. Six people were arrested for interfering with an arrest and two for battery on an officer. Two officers suffered minor injuries.

The clash Wednesday went no further than a shoving match. But it underscored many of the longstanding problems between police and the minority community that were cited in a commission report only one day earlier.

The independent commission, formed to investigate the Police Department after the videotaped beating of a black motorist by white officers, found instances of police brutality, racism and a confrontational attitude toward the public.

The panel, headed by former Deputy U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher, suggested Chief Daryl Gates resign - a suggestion he rebuffed.

Some residents of the largely black South Side said the incident in their neighborhood the following day was indicative of just what the report addressed.

"What's going on now is they've got people in fear," Beatrice Clemons said as she stood on a porch in the Nickerson Gardens housing project. "You don't know what to think because, you know, that when you see a cop, that might be one of the bad cops."

"There's some nice policemen and there's some with a smarty attitude," said Mary Simpson, another Nickerson Gardens resident. "It's like they're prejudiced or something."

FFA earns cash prize in project

The Hereford High School FFA has earned $1,644.50 from WIX Corporation in the company's sixth annual WIX Filters/FFA national fund-raising and promotional campaign.

During the campaign, WIX awards FFA chapters 25 cents for each WIX boxtop their members collect. The Hereford chapter collected 2,578 boxtops, which earned the chapter $644.50. That placed the chapter among the top five nationally, earning a $1,000 bonus.

"We have been pleased with how well this program has helped FFA chapters across the US," said Bob Goldston, WIX merchandising manager. "Our goal is to foster the continued development of the young people in FFA, which in turn helps the communities where we do business."

Overall, WIX donated more than $20,000 to 188 FFA chapters across the country that participate in the program. Since the effort began in 1985, WIX has contributed more than $160,000 to FFA chapters.

Pilot programs may break 'rules'

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' new education commissioner is pushing a proposal to work with a handful of schools in developing innovative programs that can break state rules if they improve student learning.

The proposal was part of a Thursday presentation to the State Board of Education by Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno, who stressed a need for Texas to improve student achievement, and to ensure that all students are given an equal opportunity to learn.

The state must define what students need to learn to succeed in life, and find a way to accurately measure achievement, he said. Then, schools should be given flexibility: "The program is negotiable."

There will likely be at least 15 schools initially included in the pilot project, Meno said.

"We need to particularly focus on impacted schools where the tradition of achievement has been poor ... Those are where the new models are most dramatically needed," he said.

A Texas Education Agency liaison will be appointed to work with the schools, he said. Meno said he would delegate his power to waive certain state rules to the liaison, so regulations don't get in the way of new programs.

Meno said he would ask the Legislature for authority to provide 15 days of staff development time in those schools, on a demonstration basis, which would leave 165 class days. Lawmakers recently voted to increase class days from 175 to 180.

"The idea is to basically make an investment in the people that are there, just like you would with an assembly line. You don't just keep running cars down the assembly line while you're retooling. You need time to go back, rethink it, make sure it's organized for the model you want to develop," he said.

Meno also said that a school accountability system should be provided that focuses on the results they achieve with students and on school improvement.

He said accreditation visits would not be made to school districts until a new process is developed for judging their performance. The visits likely will start up later in the fall, he said.

State Board of Education members praised Meno's emphasis on results and on preparing students for the "real world."

"I believe that we have a unique opportunity in Texas to be a model in the country," said Carolyn Honea Crawford of Beaumont, head of the board.

CIA nomination held up by hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Unanswered questions about Robert Gates' role in the Iran-Contra scandal are forcing a delay in his confirmation to head the CIA, and his nomination by President Bush appears increasingly in peril.

The Senate Intelligence Committee, which had hoped to start confirmation hearings next Monday, announced Thursday it was delaying the hearings until it could question several people about Gates' knowledge of the Iran-Contra affair when he was deputy to CIA Director William William Casey.

But the wait for answers may be a long one. Lawrence Walsh, the independent counsel in charge of Iran-Contra criminal prosecutions, warned the committee not to do anything that might jeopardize his cases.

"There is no way in which the facts now under investigation as to the coverup in the CIA can be completed within a few days or a few weeks," Walsh said in a statement.

"Our investigation has now reached a point of significant breakthrough. To jeopardize this progress in a vain hope of getting quick facts as to an individual nomination would be regrettable."

If the quest for new information stretches on, it could run into Congress' scheduled month-long recess that begins Aug. 5. The situation was reminiscent of 1987, when Gates was forced to withdraw his name from consideration for the same post because of the Iran-Contra shadow.

Bush was visibly angered by the committee's action. Speaking to reporters at his vacation home in Kennebunkport, Maine, he suggested Gates was being treated unfairly through "closed-door allegations that nobody really knows anything about."

"They ought to get on with the confirmation," the president said. As for suggestions Gates may not be telling all he knows about Iran-Contra, he added: "I believe firmly in Bob Gates' word, and he's a man of total honor and he should be confirmed as director of central intelligence."

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., the Intelligence Committee chairman, and senior Republican Frank Murkowski of Alaska said aides would seek to soon question Alan Fiers, the former CIA official who pleaded guilty Tuesday to two counts of withholding information from Congress, and Clair George, Gates' immediate subordinate at the agency the time of the Iran-Contra operation.

They said the committee also wanted to question others who might be able to say when Gates first knew of the plan to sell weapons to Iran and divert the profits to aid Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

The panel, which was torn between the need to be fair to Gates and its responsibility to scrutinize presidential appointments, hopes to meet again Tuesday to determine what to do next, Boren and Murkowski said. Meanwhile, two sources familiar with Walsh's probe said that investigation is being advanced with tapes of hundreds of telephone calls between CIA headquarters and agents in Central America.

The prosecutors obtained the tapes earlier this year and have confronted CIA witnesses in the probe with transcripts of their own conversations, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The New York Times reported in today's editions that the conversations helped independent counsel Lawrence Walsh secure guilty pleas this week from Fiers.

Gates has insisted he did not have any solid knowledge of the Iran-Contra operation run by Oliver North until near the time it became public on Nov. 25, 1986.

In a document accompanying Fiers' guilty pleas, the government said Fiers had told prosecutors that he and at least three other top CIA officials knew about the so-called "diversion" months earlier, in mid-1986.

Chief's resignation is expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Embattled Police Chief Daryl F. Gates has told members of the City Council that he will leave the department by the end of the year, according to a published report today.

City Council President John Ferraro and Councilman Joel Wachs announced they would hold a "major news conference regarding the police department and chief Gates" this morning.

The Los Angeles Times, quoting unidentified sources, said in today's editions that the two council members would announce the impending departure at that time.

Officer Jim Farris, a spokesman for the Police Department, said, "We know nothing about that in this office, absolutely nothing. I can't comment because I haven't heard anything official."

The newspaper, quoting unidentified sources, said Gates was traveling and would not attend the news conference.

On Thursday, it was announced that Gates had removed a top deputy who criticized him from control of the unit that probes officer misconduct, prompting Mayor Tom Bradley to call the move "heavy-handed intimidation."

Gates replaced Deputy Chief David Dotson with a captain who will be promoted to the rank of commander, Lt. Fred Nixon, a police spokesman, said Thursday.

He said Dotson's appointment as head of internal affairs, which investigates charges of officer misconduct, was only temporary. Dotson took over the division last March after Assistant Chief Jesse Brewer retired.

"There's been no demotion, no transfer, no retaliation. That's simply not true," Nixon said. "The timing is what is leading people astray, fueling the speculation."

Dotson said Thursday he didn't consider Gates' action revenge.

The move came just a day after a committee investigating the March 3 videotaped beating of a black motorist by white police officers released its findings.

He was critical of Gates' leadership when he testified before the panel, which concluded there were instances within the department of brutality, racism and a confrontational attitude toward the public. The panel recommended that Gates resign.

Four officers have been charged in the beating, which occurred during a traffic stop.

Weddings, proper planning makes joyous event

By DANEE' WILSON
Lifestyles Editor

A woman's wedding day is one of the most important days of her life. The man she chooses will be the one she will spend the rest of her life with and have a family with. To make the day perfect, precise planning is essential.

When there are so many things to consider, like the size of the wedding, dresses, caterers, reception, shower, where do you start, who is responsible for what, some brides-to-be need tips on where to begin.

One of the first things that must be decided is the size of the wedding. After that is determined, colors and attendants must be selected. This must be done as soon as possible.

Six months prior to the wedding, the bride-elect should be discussing wedding finances, booking ceremony and reception locations, talking with the person performing the wedding, drawing up guest lists, looking for the wedding gown and attendants' dresses and selecting a photographer.

When the date nears to three months before, guest lists need to be finalized, invitations, announcements, thank you notes and napkins need to be ordered. The bride should buy her honeymoon attire, order her wedding cake, flowers and buy the groom's ring and wedding gift.

One month before the big date, invitations should be mailed, have wedding portrait taken, attendants gifts should be selected, arrange for the newspaper announcement and get marriage license. Engagement pictures for publication in the Hereford Brand must be turned in at least six weeks before the wedding.

As time dwindles down to two weeks before the wedding, transportation needs to be arranged and place setting for the reception need to be finalized. For wedding stories being published in the Hereford Brand, the deadline is Monday for publication in the following Sunday's paper.

One week before, the bride should be sure all members of the wedding party are informed about the rehearsal time and place. The caterer needs an update guest count. All last minute checks on all arrangements and details need to be made during this time.

As weddings sometimes run into huge expenses, it is important the bride knows that she is not responsible for the entire event.

The bride and her family are responsible for the wedding gown, invitations and announcements, flowers for the ceremony, reception and bridesmaids, decorations for the church, entire reception, soloist and organist, photographer, transportation for the bridal party and corsages for those assisting.

The groom and his family should provide the bride's rings, marriage license, bride's bouquet, gifts and boutonnieres for best man and ushers, flowers for mothers and grandmothers, rehearsal dinner, transportation for himself and best man to the wedding, clergyman's fee and all wedding trip expenses.

Not only does the bride have her check list of things to keep up with, her groom should also plan ahead.

Six months before the wedding the groom should buy the bride's engagement and wedding rings, discuss wedding finances, make his guest list and plan the honeymoon.

At three months, the groom needs to finalize his guest list, buy bride's wedding gift, order wedding attire for self, attendants and ushers, arrange rehearsal dinner and finalize honeymoon arrangements.

One month before, boutonnieres, mothers' corsages and bride's bouquet should be ordered with the bride's help.

One week before the big day, the groom should give the head usher wedding seating plan, double check all arrangements, write clergyman's check and begin packing.

Many local businesses can help the bride prepare for her special day.

Wishes, West Park Drug and Caryn's Hallmark help the bride select china, dinner ware, and other items for the home.

Wishes, located at the Atrium, sells invitations and napkins.

When the bride-elect comes in, the staff helps them select the home's colors.

"Most of the girls have in mind when they come in what they want," said Kee Ruland. "We get their color scheme set and then we set up their table with items they have selected."

A wide variety of china, everyday ware, flatware and kitchen utensils can be found in Wishes. They also carry bathroom accessories, baskets and other home decorations.

If a bride gets an uneven set of china or dinnerware, Wishes will change out certain pieces to make full sets.

Depending on the flowers selected, in one day at no extra cost to the customer."

Not only does Sew and Tell offer an excellent selection, but customer service is top priority.

"We have all colors and styles," she said. "We work for the customers. You cannot get this kind of service or selection in Amarillo or any where else. We can match prices piece for piece."

Mom and Me Photography and Frames and Anderson's Photography provide all the photo needs.

Brides looking to purchase a album and larger pictures could be looking at spending an average of $275 for photography services.

A photographer needs to be booked as soon as a date is set to assure they will be available.

May, June and December are busy months for photographers.

Mom and Me will travel out of town to shoot weddings. Kelly Ramirez, who is a licensed cosmetologist and photographer, also can assist the bride, before the setting and ceremony, with her hair and makeup.

Other businesses that help make a bride's wedding special are Ink Spot Printing and Lithographics, who print invitations, napkins and other paper printing.

Hereford has a lot to offer the bride-to-be. By following these tips and planning far enough in advance, the special day can be as magnificent as the bride always dreamed it would be.

RINGS...symbols of love

West Park Drug, located on W. Park, handles a line of china that is not trendy, but more traditional. Here, the bride-to-be can choose from dinnerware to silver. Kitchen appliances and accessories are also available.

"We have girls come in and pick out what they like," said Kay Williams. "We're there to help them and set up their table. Some girls who are having a lingerie party come in and select bubble bath and powders."

The day of the shower, West Park makes arrangements to deliver gifts to the shower, where they set up a table.

West Park keeps a list of the bride's selections and welcomes phone orders. The tables are kept up after the shower, until the wedding.

West Park offers a free gift for selecting there and they also provide the names and addresses of gift givers for easy thank yous.

Caryn's Hallmark, on Main, carries all the party supplies.

They carry wedding books, guards, champagne glasses, feather pins, invitations, cake tops, candles, ring pillows, thank you notes and bridal stationary.

Caryn's has a large selection of china, crystal, dinnerware, stainless, place mats, glassware and kitchen accessories.

They are flexible with brides who live out of town and make selections at other businesses.

"If a bride is from Dallas and she makes a selection here and in Dallas and she gets an uneven set, we will exchange them to make a full set," said Caryn Davis.

About two months before the wedding, selections need to be made, she said.

Flowers are one of the main ingredients in a wedding and Park Avenue Florist has everything needed in the flower department.

Brides need to know what kind of flowers they want about a month ahead the average cost of a bouquet is $35. The spiral candelabra rents for $35. Other styles of candelabra are available at different prices.

They are able to do any arrangement the bride wants.

In addition to the flowers and candelabra, Park Avenue Florists also has paradise plastic candles, which are dripless, pew bows and unity candles.

Possibly one of the most exciting events during the engagement, pre-wedding days is the receiving of the engagement ring.

The rule of thumb, according to Cowan's Jewelers' Dorothy Herr, is to spend three months salary on a ring.

"There are several ways to go on a ring or set," said Herr. "Some go with just bands, others buy the engagement set and some buy solitaires and try to find bands to match."

Herr said most of the time the man will come in a price the rings and then bring the girl in to choose the one she wants.

Selecting a ring and stone size is all in the eye of the beholder, said Herr.

"Smaller hands wear smaller stones better," she said. "On a large hand, a small stone looks lost."

Herr does admit that often price affects selection.

The second biggest expense, next to rings, in a wedding is the bridal gown.

Even though Hereford doesn't have a bridal shop per se, Sew and Tell offers a full selection of bridal fabrics and top of the line seamstresses to make designer and original gowns for the new bride.

"We have bridal satin, taffeta, crystal organza, chiffon and much more for the bride," said Renee Kuper. "What we don't have we can order from New York and have it here

After the bride decides what kind of dress she wants, Renee can help select the accents and provide names of seamstresses that sew exclusively for Sew and Tell customers.

"We have lace and pearls and sequins that we can add to anything. Here we can make a $2,000 gown for $300. All our customers are extremely pleased with the work."

Sew and Tell also has materials for bridesmaids dresses, mother-of-the-bride dresses and materials for all attendants.

After the dress is made, the next step is pictures.

To make the memories last, pictures are irreplaceable.

Bradley braves heat to lead Women's Open

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The solar eclipse cast an ominous shadow over the 46th Women's U.S. Open, but it was no rival for Pat Bradley, the LPGA's leading money-winner. Make that Pat Bradley and her heat-induced headache. "I had a headache every day I played in 1986. ... and I won three majors," she smiled Thursday after firing a 2-under-par 69 to claim the first-round lead in the LPGA's premier event. "So bring 'em on." Bradley dropped three short birdie putts on Colonial's sunburned greens, yielded but a single bogey to the swirling winds and tiptoed through the moon shadow to a 1-shot lead over newly crowned LPGA champion Meg Mallon and two lesser-knowns, Laurel Kean and Joan Pitcock. "I'm thrilled to have finished the day at two-under," said Bradley, who has six major championships among her 27 tour titles, three short of the 30 required for entry to the LPGA Hall of Fame. "It's a good feeling to get off to a fast start. I'm hoping I can build on it." Winds gusting to 21 miles an hour reduced the discomfort of 96-degree temperatures but added to the treachery of the 6,340-yard, par-71 course immortalized by Ben Hogan, the hometown boy who won the Colonial National Invitation five times. Only four members of the 156-player field broke par and just two others equalled it. "It was a grind out there," said

Mallon, who won her third LPGA title and first major two weeks ago at Bethesda, Md. "The pin placements were tough, the wind was swirling, the greens were hard. ... and the worst part is you're out in the heat so long." Pitcock, a non-winner in four years on the circuit, birdied the 12th hole to go 3-under par but bogeyed the 13th and 15th to quickly surrender her lead. "I'm just trying to hang in there and see what happens," she said.

Kean, also seeking her first tour title, rolled in a 60-foot birdie putt on the final hole for her 70 and said, "I'm pleased with my position. I kind of started off shaky." Betsy King launched her bid for an unprecedented third straight Open title with a rollercoaster 3-over-par 74 that included an eagle at the par-5 third hole after two quick bogeys. "I might have been a little nervous at the start," she said. "I guess my position's not too bad."

Bradley meanwhile birdied the first two holes and said it's essential to "strike early ... because it doesn't get any easier after that. I'm just pleased and thankful I got through the day okay." Bradley, the 1981 Open winner, says she normally is a slow starter and doesn't know quite what to expect: "My past history, basically, is I'm coming from behind. We'll just wait and see what happens next."

Steelers now praise Walton's offense

By The Associated Press The Pittsburgh Steelers cursed offensive coordinator Joe Walton last season. About the only person remaining in Walton's corner was coach Chuck Noll. "As usual, Chuck was the only one who was farsighted enough to look down the road," said Tom Donahoe, the Steelers' director for football development. "He knew Joe's system would work with time." After some offensive success late last season and a productive minicamp in late June, it seems like just about every player is in Walton's corner this year. Quarterback Bubby Brister, who openly criticized Walton's system last season, now is looking forward to running the offense. Brister is convinced now that it will work. "There were growing pains and all that stuff last year and it was hard, but it made us all grow up a little bit," he said at training camp Thursday. "But change was probably something we needed to do because we're not predictable anymore. "We have the weapons we can use now," Brister said. "We needed Eric Green. We needed some new wide receivers to go with the people that we already have. "I think it's something we needed to do. Now that it's behind us, maybe we can take a step forward." The Steelers didn't score an offensive touchdown last season until the first week of October. By season's end, the offense had been shut out in seven of its 16 games. Donahoe doesn't anticipate another drought like that in 1991. Dolphins Miami's training camp started Thursday, and so did the countdown to their season-opening showdown against the AFC champion Buffalo Bills. The Dolphins, who lost at Buffalo twice in the final four games last season, head north again Sept. 1. The Dolphins opened camp with 17 holdouts, one of them unexpected. Safety Jarvis Williams, who is in the option year of his contract and seeking a new deal, failed to report.

Oilers Cornerback Steve Jackson of Purdue, a third-round draft choice, agreed to terms. Jackson said he soon might sign a two-year, $903,000 package that includes an option year. When he signs, he will be the highest of 14 picks to do so with Houston. Rams Todd Lyght, the Rams' top draft choice, was the most notable no-show when they opened camp for rookies and young veterans. In all, 59 players were in uniform, including a number of veteran defensive backs, defensive linemen and linebackers, plus veteran quarterbacks Chuck Long and Mike Pagel. Vikings Receiver Hassan Jones underwent arthroscopic knee surgery for a small cartilage tear and is expected to miss the beginning of training camp, which starts July 22. Jones missed most of training camp last season with a similar injury, but went on to catch 51 passes for 810 yards and seven touchdowns.

7th graders need physicals

Incoming seventh-graders at Hereford Junior High need to have physical examinations soon if they plan to participate in athletics this fall, Coach James Salinas said. Equipment will not be issued to a seventh-grader until he has had a physical, he said. Furthermore, Salinas urged those who have not yet done so to get appointments now or soon, as doctors' schedules may be filled up at the last minute.

Rangers baffled by Candiotti's knuckler

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Scott Sanderson and Tom Candiotti are living proof that you don't have to throw hard to get places.

Sanderson got to 10-3 without much of a fastball by pitching his second career one-hitter as the surging New York Yankees beat California 2-0 Thursday night. Candiotti moved a little closer to a postseason assignment with a baffling knuckler, good for 10 strikeouts in torrid Toronto's 2-0 victory over Texas.

"I realized early in the game that I didn't have a good fastball, so I just tried to locate the ball all night," Sanderson said after pitching the Yankees to their 11th victory in 14 games.

Candiotti, who escaped from lowly Cleveland in a trade last month, extended his scoreless streak to 15 innings by blanking the Rangers for eight innings on five hits. He raised his record to 9-7 in pitching the Blue Jays to their 16th victory in 19 games and a 6 1/2-game lead in the American League East.

Blue Jays 2, Rangers 0
Candiotti, who lowered his ERA to 2.09, estimates he usually throws the knuckler about 50 to 60 percent of the time. He upped the total against the Rangers.

"I must have thrown at least 70 percent tonight," he said.

Candiotti, in his third start since a trade from Cleveland, allowed five hits in eight innings and struck out 10.

John Olerud's RBI single, his third hit, came in the seventh off Kevin Brown (7-7). Rance Mulliniks hit an inside-the-park homer, his second and the first ever at the SkyDome, in the eighth.

Yankees 2, Angels 0
Sanderson pitched his second one-hitter. He pitched his first in 1979 for Montreal. The Angels' only hit was a fourth-inning leadoff double by Luis Polonia, who sent a grounder past diving first baseman Don Mattingly.

He went the distance for the second time this season, striking out one and walking none.

Kirk McCaskill (7-11) lost at home for the fourth straight time, allowing 10 hits over seven innings, including three by Mattingly.

Twins 7, Red Sox 3
Mike Pagliarulo's third hit broke a tie, and Paul Sorrento added a three-run pinch homer.

Pagliarulo, who went 3-for-3 with a homer, doubled off reliever Jeff Grey with one out in the seventh inning.

Carl Willis (4-2), who pitched 2-3 innings, won in relief. Boston starter Greg Harris (5-8) lost despite allowing five hits in six innings while Minnesota's Kevin Tapani gave up 11 in 5-3.

Brewers 5, White Sox 1
Bill Wegman pitched his first complete game in more than a year, and Milwaukee scored four runs in the fourth inning.

Wegman (5-3) gave up one run on three hits in the fifth, but then settled down. Wegman allowed six hits, struck out three and walked three.

The Brewers, held scoreless by Charlie Hough (5-4) for three innings, sent nine batters to the plate in the fourth.

Royals 9, Tigers 5
Mike Macfarlane hit his second career grand slam in an eight-run second inning.
Kevin Appier (6-7) gave up five runs on seven hits in 5-2-3 innings for Kansas City.

The Royals scored an unearned run without a hit in the first against Dan Gakeler (1-3), then got just four hits in the second, including Macfarlane's 11th homer.

Athletics 8, Orioles 1
Dave Stewart pitched seven shutout innings to win his 100th game for Oakland and Mike Gallego drove in three runs.

Stewart (7-5) gave up five hits, three by rookie third baseman Leo Gomez.
Stewart struck out eight and walked one.

Baltimore's Jeff Robinson (4-7) gave up five runs on five hits and left after only a third of an inning.

Mariners 6, Indians 0
Cleveland absorbed its major-league-leading 12th shutout, with Brian Holman and Bill Swift combining on an eight-hitter.

Holman (8-9) allowed six hits, striking out three and walking two in seven innings. Swift got his seventh save.

Charles Nagy (4-10) gave up six hits in 6 1-3 innings.
The Mariners got two RBIs apiece from Jay Buhner and Edgar Martinez.

Mets keep pace with Pittsburgh

By The Associated Press
How do the National League races look after the All-Star break? Well, almost the same as they did going into the break.

The red-hot New York Mets kept pace with Pittsburgh and beat San Diego 4-3 at Shea Stadium to remain 2 1/2 games behind the Pirates in the East. Los Angeles and Cincinnati each started the second half with a loss, keeping the Dodgers five games ahead of the Reds.

At least the Pirates were able to pull away a bit from the surprising St. Louis Cardinals, who fell six games out after a 4-1 loss in Atlanta.

The Pirates entered the break with four losses in seven games, but came out swinging at Riverfront Stadium and beat the Reds 10-6 as Barry Bonds drove in four runs. His big hit was a three-run homer to highlight the Pirates' five-run eighth off Randy Myers.

"I think it was Randy. It was his 90-mile-an-hour pitch more than anything else," Bonds said. "It just hit my bat and jumped. That wasn't me; that was him."

The Pirates are hoping Bonds, the MVP last season, gets going in the second half. At the break, he had 11 homers and 51 RBIs.

Myers, who has been struggling, was booed.

"They can boo him, but they don't know how good he is. He'll go out there every day and his velocity never changes," Bonds said. "You've just got to be quick. You can't swing hard against Randy Myers. But if you just get the bat on the ball, it's going to go out."

Astros 6, Cubs 4
Pinch-hitter Ken Oberkfell's two-run double off ex-Astro relief ace Dave Smith (0-5) with two outs in the 11th inning gave Houston its sixth win in its last seven games.

Oberkfell's made a winner of Al Osuna (5-2). Mike Capel got the last three outs for his third save, leaving the bases loaded in the bottom of the 11th when Mark Grace grounded out to first.

George Bell opened the ninth inning with his 17th home run off reliever Jim Clancy to tie the score 4-4.

Expos 3, Dodgers 2
Ivan Calderon homered and Mark Gardner gave up two runs in seven innings.

Gardner (5-5) allowed six hits before Scott Ruskin finished for his sixth save. Ruskin gave up one hit.

Dodgers starter Bob Ojeda (7-6) hit a two-run homer to tie the score 2-2 in the second inning, his first major league home run. Calderon, a starter in the All-Star game, gave Montreal the lead with his 10th homer with two outs in the third inning.

Mets 4, Padres 3
Kevin McReynolds singled home the winning run with two outs in the ninth inning after Garry Templeton was intentionally walked.

Larry Andersen (2-2) walked pinch-hitter Gregg Jefferies with one out. Kelvin Torve, another pinch-hitter, hit into a fielder's choice and San Diego chose to walk Templeton, a .243 hitter. McReynolds, who entered the game with a .293 average, then bounced a single up the middle to score Jefferies.

John Franco (2-6) pitched 1 1-3 innings for the victory.

Phillies 3, Giants 2
Giant-killer Terry Mulholland gave up five hits in 8 1-3 innings and John Kruk hit a home run.

Mulholland (8-8) had a three-hit shutout going until the ninth when Mike Felder led off with a double and Will Clark hit his 16th homer. Mitch Williams put two runners on base but ended the game for his 14th save.

Trevor Wilson (4-8) was the loser. Braves 4, Cardinals 1
Steve Avery and Juan Berenguer combined on a two-hitter.

Avery retired the first 18 Cardinals before Rex Hudler blooped a single to center field leading off the seventh inning for the first hit off the 21-year-old left-hander.

Hard-luck Jose DeLeon fell to 3-8.

Shot ump has 'leg immobility'

DALLAS (AP) - American League umpire Steve Palermo, recovering from a gunshot wound in the back sustained while helping two robbery victims, has "some degree of leg immobility" and will begin rehabilitation next week.

Palermo underwent surgery at Parkland Hospital on Sunday, and the American League office said earlier in the week there was no indication Palermo was suffering any paralysis. But in a statement late Thursday, the AL office in New York said that diagnostic studies "have now confirmed that injury to the nerve controlling his leg function did occur, and that some degree of leg immobility exists at this time."

The statement, which a league spokesman said was based on a conversation with Palermo's doctor, added that rehabilitation "will be started next week, but neither the length of the rehabilitation period, nor the degree of recovery, can be predicted at this time."

Parkland hospital officials said Palermo was listed in fair condition Thursday. Palermo's wife, Debbie, answered the telephone Thursday night in his hospital room.

"The league released a statement, and right now we have no comment. That statement speaks for us," she told The Associated Press.

Palermo, who worked as third base umpire at a game in Arlington on Saturday night between the California Angels and Texas Rangers, ate dinner after the game at Campisi's Egyptian Restaurant in Dallas. Another umpire, Rich Garcia, also ate at the restaurant, but left about 30 minutes before the shooting.

Palermo, an American League umpire since 1977, ran outside about 1:30 a.m. Sunday along with restaurant owner Corky Campisi and former Southern Methodist University defensive tackle Terence Mann when a bartender saw four men trying to rob two waitresses at a Taco Bell near Campisi's.

They caught one of the would-be robbers. The three others fled, then returned and shot Palermo and Mann, officials said.

Campisi said one man fired three shots at Mann, striking him in the neck and arm. Palermo was wounded in the back. Mann was taken to Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas and released later in the day.

Another umpire, Rich Garcia, also ate at the restaurant, but left about 30 minutes before the shooting.

SPEEDY CHI CHI
PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - Chi Chi Rodriguez, the "Speedy Gonzalez" of the senior PGA Tour, was asked why he plays every round so fast.

The quick-witted Rodriguez had a ready reply. "Successful people do things fast," Chi Chi said. "There are some people in this world who take two hours to watch 60 Minutes."

Beauty tips offered for 'big day' best

Some brides consider their wedding day the most important day of their life. During the course of the day, numerous pictures will be taken and it is essential the bride look her best.

The months leading up to your wedding day are a good time to start taking care of your skin for the big day and for the rest of your life.

When you wake up in the morning, cleanse your skin thoroughly with a gentle, but effective cleanser to remove any dirt particles that have accumulated during the night.

If you have oily skin, use a cleansing gel; for dry skin, use a cleansing cream. Brides with normal skin can use either. Bar soaps can be harsh and strip the skin of its natural oils, leaving the skin very dry.

Then, apply a good moisturizer under your foundation. For winter, use a heavier, more mollient moisturizer to combat dryness. In the spring and summer months, you may prefer a lighter of oil-free moisturizer.

Now that the skin is cleansed and moisturized, your face is properly prepared for makeup application. Practice makeup sessions months before the wedding day and experimentation with different makeup colors depending on the season of your wedding.

First, apply a foundation under your makeup that is the same shade as your natural skin tone. A matte makeup offers a less "made up" look while allowing the natural glow of your skin to show through.

To help your makeup appear fresh all day and stay on longer, apply a light dusting of loose powder to your face. Then, apply a blush to your cheekbones in an upward, sweeping motion and to your forehead, chin and to the tip of your nose.

For those emotional, teary-eyed moments, waterproof mascara will come in handy. For eye shadow, select colors that will define your eyes, but will appear soft-looking in photographs. Apply a soft, smudgeable and easy-to-use eyeliner pencil. Then, blend the eye shadow and pencil together with your finger for a subtle look.

Finally, the lips. Apply a light powder under your lipstick to prevent cracking and to ensure the lipstick lasts longer. Then apply your lipstick. For an extra shine, add a light coat of gloss to your lips.

Making marriage a success

Every marriage manual and self help book on marriage stresses the vital need for "communication" between husband and wife: Don't seethe, don't build resentments—speak up, let each other know what's bugging you. But those books were written before the current era of the communication explosion.

Nobody keeps anything to himself any more; it's simply not fashionable. Remember the good old days when you asked someone "how are you?" and could expect an answer concerning the state of his or her health? Today you get the condition of his or her psyche in full, painfully personal and usually boring detail. Everyone's an armchair psychiatrist, and introspection, psyche-searching and talking about it are the style.

In a marriage, this can be death. You are together a lot—days, hours, months, years. If you develop the habit of evaluating your emotional reaction to every move the other person makes, if you indulge yourself in the habit of discussing each other's annoying traits, you'll drive yourselves crazy and create a wedge that could become immovable.

This is a case of "less is more." What starts out as "communication" becomes confrontation, and relationships cannot survive too many of those. The current tendency to tell each other how you feel about everything puts a heavy burden on a marriage.

Of course, certain things your mate does will be irksome. Before you register your complaint, evaluate the importance of the issue to your spouse and to you. Is this behavior pattern or habit something that is really important to him or her? And how seriously are you hurt by it? If it is something that wounds you so deeply that continuation could have a corrosive effect on your relationship, then by all means discuss it. But, if it is just annoying, creating borderline bother, don't mention it...let it go.

Some people come to a marriage with the idea that they must strip their spouses down and expose every aspect of heart, soul and psyche in order to achieve full intimacy.

Releasing wedding stress vital to looks

The last few busy and exciting days before your wedding can often be stressful. Try these helpful suggestions for keeping cool, calm and collected during this happy, yet tension-filled time.

Take a calming bath each evening and let yourself soak for 15 to 20 minutes. Your favorite scented bubble bath can also help soothe and relax you. Slough rough spots, like elbows and heels, with a body scrub and loofah sponge. After bathing, apply body lotion all over for a smooth feel.

Apply an effective anti-perspirant. After bathing. For added protection leading up to your big day, apply again each morning.

Remember to eat right, exercise and get a few extra hours of sleep each night.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - A proposal to ban N.W.A. from performing at municipal facilities has brought accusations of censorship from civil rights advocates and the rap group's record company.

Councilman Ronald E. Finley proposed the ban on the group, whose songs contain lyrics some consider vulgar and demeaning to women.

"I don't think it's your business as public officials to tell us what can be performed in the city," Dick Kurtenbach, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Kansas and Western Missouri, said at a hearing Wednesday.

"The councilman must have forgotten a funny little amendment called freedom of speech - the First Amendment," Lillian Matulic, a spokeswoman for Priority Records, said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles.

The group appeared at Kemper Arena in 1989 and has not contacted the city about performing there again.

NEW YORK (AP) - Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia says her love of her homeland was rekindled during a visit four years ago, and she has launched an effort to raise humanitarian aid for the strife-torn nation.

"Before I first went back to Yugoslavia, I thought America was all I needed in life and that a vacation in Arizona was just fine," she said Wednesday. "But when I set foot in my country, I cried for 24 hours."

The Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia Foundation will seek to provide better health care and education and restore cultural sites in Yugoslavia.
When the Nazis invaded Yugoslavia in 1941, the princess, now in her early 50s, went into exile in Kenya with her father, the regent Prince Paul.

She now lives in New York. Her daughter is Catherine Oxenberg of television's "Dynasty."
Four years ago, Princess Elizabeth was the first member of the Karadjordjevic royal family allowed to return to communist Yugoslavia.
