'Country' school thriving at Walcott

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

When people say a certain school is a "party school," one usually thinks of a university where "partying" is the main course of business.

There's a party school right here in Deaf Smith County. "We have a lot of fun. We're a party school," said Dr. Bill McLaughlin, superintendent for Walcott Independent School District.

Anywhere you turn in a Walcott classroom or hallway, there is positive reinforcement in one of the few "country" schools left in the area.

Walcott's philosophy of education is evidently working. "Our test scores are high," McLaughlin said, about his students' scores on the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) exam and the California Achievement Test.

In a day when most country schools are either dead or dying, Walcott has managed not only to survive but to thrive.

Open spaces are the norm in the 475 square miles that make up the Walcott Independent School District. It's 25 miles to the nearest grocery store or gas station.

Walcott provides education for the kindergarten through eighth grade students who live on the farms and ranches included in this large area-small population school district. 59 children attend the school, which has a teacher to student ratio of one to ten.

The younger children in the district can attend Walcott, preventing the need for the extended journey into the Hereford Independent School District. From ninth grade on, Walcott area youths become Hereford students.

"The older kids can take the long bus ride," McLaughlin said.

Walcott has come a long way from the first school of that name in Deaf Smith County. The original 20x20 building, located in the middle of the Walcott, Piatt, Arnold and O'Brien Ranches, was held down by guy-wires fastened to stakes into the ground. Still, high winds would occasionally lift the tiny building off the ground.

Today, the school system is firmly anchored, both physically and financially.

"As long as a school like this can keep a good educational program and keep enough kids, it should survive," McLaughlin said.

Although the country school has become an endangered species, Walcott School is likely to remain a survivor. The extensive, sparsely populated area surrounding Walcott School is conducive to the continued survival of this particular country school.

In many instances, the educational experiences at Walcott prove that small can be beautiful.

"This is an ideal teaching situation," said Daulma Stribling, a kindergarten teacher.

In Mrs. Stribling's tiny class of six students, she is able to give the kind of individual attention conducive to helping a child learn.

The affection and pleasure in each other's company expressed by Mrs. Stribling and her students are more like a home than a classroom.

"They're incredible. The first grade teacher is just going to love them," Mrs. Stribling said proudly of her students.

Mrs. Stribling adheres to the school's philosophy of making learning fun.

"Everybody watches for 'critters' for the kindergarten class," she said. An ant farm and a goldfish are included in the class' menagerie. The star of the show is a large, female wolf spider who is currently tending a sack of eggs. A piece of nylon stocking is stretched across the spider's container to prevent the escape of the soon to be hatched babies.

"We're striving to keep the family together," Mrs. Stribling said.

Despite a 100 mile commute to and

Birdsong gives special touch

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

"I used to tell my grandmother that I was going to be her doctor and sew her a dress," Dr. Mary Birdsong said.

Dr. Birdsong was able to achieve both those dreams. Of course, as childhood dreams go, sewing a dress was somewhat easier to achieve than a doctorate in medicine. Luckily for the people of Hereford and Deaf Smith County, Birdsong did not give up that dream simply because it was difficult.

As the only woman doctor in Hereford, Birdsong gives an added dimension to the local medical community. Birdsong's practice is especially popular with obstetrics patients, a fact which causes the doctor to be tentative when planning business or social engagements.

"Check with me on Thursday. I'll know then if anyone's in labor," Birdsong said when scheduling the interview for this story.

The life of a doctor with pregnant patients is not particularly predictable. It's not known from one moment to the next when another call will come, when a new life is waiting to be born. Birdsong does not seem to mind the inconvenience.

"That's the fun part... delivering babies," she said.

Since coming to Hereford in 1986, Dr. Birdsong has become well known to area residents as a kind and capable physician. She is an inspiration, and not to her patients alone.

As a woman in a traditionally male profession, she provides hope for young women whose dreams aren't exactly standard. She is also an example for those who may wish to change professions after they have made "permanent" decisions.

Birdsong was in her mid-30s when she entered the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston. Before, she had been a teacher, physician's assistant, housewife and mother.

Her professional experiences included two years when she taught in Nigeria.

Despite a few detours into other areas, Birdsong never fully lost her childhood dream of becoming a doctor.

"Everything I did kept leading back to medical applications," Dr. Birdsong said.

Birdsong began her medical career by training as a physician's assistant. After working as a P.A. for two years on a Navajo reservation in New Mexico, she returned to her medical training.

"I decided I really did want to be a doctor," Birdsong said.

In many ways, Birdsong feels that starting medical school a little later in life was an advantage.

Series to begin Wednesday

"Hustle Hereford" is the slogan for a series of promotional articles and features planned by The Hereford Brand in upcoming weeks, it was announced today by Publisher Speedy Nieman.

"Hereford seems to have lost some of its famous 'Hustlin' Hereford' attitude that we've been noted for over the years and we, as a community newspaper, want to call attention to the many good things we've got going for us," Nieman said.

"This series of articles is designed to emphasize the positive, to spotlight some of the things that leading retailers and industries are doing to help Hereford hustle and grow. We'll have features on individuals, articles on businesses that have expanded, stories on a particular group of retailers and industry types, and include some who have been making contributions over the years," added Nieman.

"From the small retail store to the giant feedyard industry, we think there are some interesting and informative stories to be told, and we believe our readers will find them entertaining and educational," the publisher added.

The series is not being packaged as a commercial endeavor for the newspaper. That is, a business firm will not be required to buy an advertisement in order to be included. "As a result of the promotion, however, we expect to benefit, either directly or indirectly," stated Nieman. "Our hope is that the entire community will benefit from the articles."

The series will begin as a regular Wednesday feature page and will include other business briefs in the community. The "Hustle Hereford" logo will call attention to the series.

Most of the articles will be written by Orville Howard, a special contract feature writer with more than 20 years experience in this field. Howard, who resides near Vega, is a contract writer for several regional and national publications. Some of the Hereford articles could turn up in another publication.

Howard has already written a couple of articles for The Brand, and the first feature of the "Hustle Hereford" series will be published Wednesday with Whiteface Ford-Lincoln-Mercury as the subject. The firms or individuals to be featured are not arranged in any certain order.

Brand wins school award

The Hereford Brand received a School Bell Award for outstanding continuous coverage of Hereford schools during the annual Texas State Teachers Association convention in Houston.

The award was presented Friday by Charles N. Beard Jr., TSTA state president, to Betty Volkman, president of the Hereford Educators Association.

Throughout 1988, several members of HEA kept scrapbooks of articles and pictures in the Brand about the Hereford schools and education issues.

The Brand was singled out for its continuing coverage of many aspects of education in Hereford and the newspaper's efforts in the Newspapers in Education program, unique among newspapers in the small market category. That program has expanded to sponsorship of hands-on materials in many Hereford classrooms during the second semester of the current school year.

The 1989 School Bell Award is the fifth to be awarded the Brand.

"We are very proud of this award," said Managing Editor John Brooks. "It came as a complete surprise to us, and we thank HEA for their efforts to compile the information needed for the entry. I haven't seen our entry, but I've been told by the state TSTA office that it was outstanding, and that's all due to the efforts of HEA members."

Garden dedication is Thursday

A dedication ceremony will launch the second year of Hereford's Community Garden project. The dedication is set for Thursday at noon at the San Jose Church Hall, 735 Brevard.

The public is invited. Persons attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

Following the meal, a brief program will be presented, including a review of the successful 1988 program and an explanation of the garden's purpose. Brief dedication ceremonies will then be conducted at the garden site.

Garden dedication ceremonies are being held in observance of National Soil and Water Stewardship Week, April 30-May 7. The theme for this year's stewardship week is "Renewing the Living Earth."

The Hereford Community Garden is sponsored by San Jose Catholic Church and the Committee for Stewardship of the Earth.

The Rev. Darryl Birkenfeld, associate pastor of San Jose, says the Community Garden has paid considerable dividends in its brief history.

"Not only do those tending the garden and those living near it benefit, but Deaf Smith General Hospital, King's Manor and Golden Plains nursing homes enjoyed a variety of fresh produce from last year's garden," said Birkenfeld.

Sponsors of the garden have three primary goals, according to Birkenfeld.

"The garden is a service to the neighborhood around San Jose Church, allowing urban people with no suitable gardening space a chance to grow safe, wholesome food and to have hands-on experience with our essential resource, the soil. As an alternative to the wide-spread individual garden, the community garden's a place where people work together to benefit others beyond themselves and their families.

"In the multi-racial city of Hereford, the garden serves as a bridge-building process, gathering together Mexican-Americans, Anglos and Blacks, who learn to appreciate one another's background and culture. The relationships fostered between people who work in the garden are more important than the food that's grown," says Birkenfeld.

Birkenfeld said the garden also serves as an "ecological model" to teach and promote stewardship values that are sorely needed. The garden uses drip irrigation instead of conventional flood irrigation, substitutes compost for commercial fertilizer, and uses insect-repelling flowers and plants in lieu of pesticides.

"The Community Garden demonstrates an active concern for soil and water conservation, as well as responsibility for the Earth in which all living beings are nourished," said Birkenfeld.

Jerry Lee Lewis as an evangelist?

People who knew Jerry and his cousins Jimmy Swaggart and Mickey Gilley think he would have been a good one

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
FERRIDAY, La. (AP) - Mayor Glen McGlothlin, who sings with a rock'n'roll band when he's not barbering or mayoring, dances around the chair as he clips a patron's hair and talks about Ferriday's famous four.

A sign on the edge of town reminds you that Ferriday is "Home of Jerry Lee Lewis, Mickey Gilley, Jimmy Swaggart and Howard K. Smith."

The latter, of course, is the network TV anchorman. But the barbershop gossip this day is mostly about the others, the three cousins who left this Mississippi River town of 4,000 folks and took separate routes to make their mark in rock'n'roll, country music and TV evangelism.

"There's a lot of disappointment in this town," says McGlothlin, referring to the controversy surrounding Swaggart who was defrocked by the Assemblies of God Church in 1988 after a New Orleans prostitute said the evangelist had paid her to pose nude for him. Swaggart refused a denominational order to stay out of the pulpit for a year. In January a New Orleans stripper, Mary Catherine Kampen, made similar allegations against Swaggart in Penthouse magazine.

"You may not agree with him on his thinking," says McGlothlin, a member of a clan that grew up with the three famous cousins. "He got pretty bad down on the Catholics for a while, and the Baptists. But a lot of people thought he was a good Christian man. And, I'm not going to say he ain't."

"I'm not in the judging business. God does a pretty good job of judging. The Bible says he who is without sin can cast the first stone. Well, I couldn't throw a pebble."

The woman who made the accusations in Penthouse, he says, "is at least pretty. That other girl, though, she was ugly. Just pure ugly."

The mayor-barber perks up when asked about Jerry Lee Lewis, the rock'n'roll legend whose life story is depicted in a new movie titled "Great Balls of Fire" due to be released in late June.

"I was just a tad when Jerry Lee lived in town," says the 42-year-old McGlothlin. "He was cocky but he said he would make it big one day. I'd listen to him rattle that piano and say to myself that I would, too."

When McGlothlin was about 21 and ready to try the big time, the Army grabbed him.

"It was Christmas Eve 1967 when I got drafted," he says. "Boy, was I mad. Two LSU football players and I were getting the physical. I'm telling you, these boys were big. They could knock walls down and eat nails. They flunked the physical. Me, I was dried up, 140 pounds, and passed."

"The next thing I knew, I was in the 1st Cavalry in Vietnam and they made me point man on patrol. I still don't know who disliked me so much."

Doing a jitterbug step around his barber chair, McGlothlin sighs and concedes that even if the Army hadn't intervened, he still wouldn't have made it as lead singer in a big-time band.

"I had the stardust like a lot of kids around here who were poor and saw how Jerry Lee and Mickey made it," he says. "But I never had what it takes to make it big. Jerry Lee had that thing. He could make you jump out of a seat and dance. That's the thing that sells records."

Gilley, well-known in country music circles, became nationally known when the movie "Urban Cowboy," featured the nightclub "Gilley's" in Pasadena, Texas, outside Houston. Gilley was part-owner of the club, which is now closed.

The mayor's band, Fast Eddie and the Partyrockers, does all right around Ferriday and Natchez, across the river in Mississippi.

"We play enough gigs and are trying to broaden our base," says the mayor, who is lead singer. "We've played as far away as Biloxi. I can't play an instrument, I have to move all the time. I'm jittery, can't sit still long enough to practice."

He's always on the move while cutting hair, often with a telephone cradled under his chin.

The customer in the chair at the moment is napping, apparently trusting the whirling dervish with scissors not to nip an ear.

Putting on his mayor's face, McGlothlin says the town "is tickled" about the new movie about Jerry Lee's life, but, "I wish they would have made some of it here. This town needs the money."

The phone rings - as it does every few minutes - and the mayor discusses toilets he found for free to replace those broken by vandals at a recreation center.

Katherine Dodson McGlothlin, who was formerly married to an older brother of the mayor's, drops by the barbershop to chat.

"Talk to her," McGlothlin says. "She went to school with those three."

"I used to dance with Jerry Lee while he was standing up playing the piano," she says. "He was into mischief and skipped school a lot but he was a good boy. Mickey was settled down because he was going steady with Geraldine Jones. Jimmy Lee was quiet. He only played in church."

The mayor's uncle, Concordia Parish Sheriff Hubert Lee McGlothlin, also went to school with the three.

"All those boys would play piano in church and they'd put so much rhythm in it, the minister would ease 'em off a bit," the sheriff says. "Why you could dance to The Old Rugged Cross the way they played it."

"The one thing I can say about all of them is that they never forgot where they came from. They come back once in a while and they're the same, just good old boys. I rode many a mile on the back of a bicycle with those boys. Mrs. Gilley gave me my first BB gun. I came from a family with 11 kids. We all lived on the same block, the Swaggarts, the Gilleys, the Lewis' and the McGlothlins."

Katherine McGlothlin says she often goes to Memphis, Tenn., and runs into Jerry Lee at The September Place, an after-hours bistro.

"You can't get in unless you have your own bottle," she says. "I don't drink so I look in the alley for an empty bottle, put it in a paper bag and go in. When Jerry comes in it's usually at midnight. He's usually polluted. But if he's in fairly good shape, he plays. He's sent flowers to my table. He doesn't forget old friends."

When they were young, she adds, "All those boys preached at times."

"Yeah, I heard that Jerry Lee would have made the best preacher but he went the other way," puts in the mayor. "He used to sneak in black bars down the road. The church made him play gospel but he wanted to play hard-down boogie-woogie and he learned it in those bars."

As for his own career, McGlothlin says, he got into politics because the town barber knows the common man's problems "better than most anyone else."

"My father and my grandfather were barbers and I learned a lot from them about people," he says. "I don't know a lot about any one subject but I know a little about a lot. I know a little hunting, where the fish are biting and I sympathize with farmers because if they don't make it, I don't make it."

"One thing I don't try to discuss is religion. My father and grandfather told me that."

MOTHER'S DAY
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - When America marks the 75th anniversary of Mother's Day on May 14, many of the 145 million cards given that day may not be for mothers.

Researchers at Hallmark Cards say that with the increased number of married women in the work force many Mother's Day cards address those who care for children, including relatives, nannies and babysitters. The cards now include those for grandmothers and great-grandmothers, aunts, nieces, daughters, sisters and godmothers.

Mother's Day was first proclaimed officially by President Wilson in 1914, after a persuasive letter-writing campaign by Anna M. Jarvis, an unmarried schoolteacher from Grafton, W.Va.

from her home in the Dawn community, Mrs. Stribling obviously loves her work at the Walcott School. Many of the Walcott teachers live in housing which surrounds the school system.

"I've never been in a place where there's such a positive attitude... percentage wise," McLaughlin said.

It's easy to attract community involvement in a system where the school also serves as a community center. From the time they are tiny babies, the children of the Walcott area are introduced to the school. The community uses the facility for various gatherings, including a monthly program presented by children at the school. Any child who is shy about getting on stage soon learns to overcome his or her fears during these regular performances.

Having early exposure to surroundings is especially beneficial to the younger children. Brenda McLaughlin, school secretary and Dr. McLaughlin's wife, recalls an instance when she was in the library reading to some of the children. The book dealt with the first day of school and how frightening it could.

Mrs. McLaughlin asked the children if they had been frightened on the first day. The answer was "no." Walcott School had already become a comfortable extension of their home by the time they officially became students.

Pride in school and community helped motivate Mrs. McLaughlin to contact representatives of the national "Good Morning America" daily talk show.

On Wednesday, a film crew from KVII in Amarillo was at Walcott School to film a 10 second segment scheduled to appear on "Good Morning America" on May 19 at 8:30 a.m.

HAEDC meets Tuesday

The Hereford Area Economic Development Commission will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford City Hall. The agenda includes a planning committee report and consideration of future plans for the HAEDC. The public is invited to attend.

Police arrest five

Five persons were arrested Friday by Hereford police, including a man, 34, for driving while intoxicated, no headlights, no driver's license and no insurance; a man, 24, for driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended, second offense no liability insurance and no brake lights; a man, 20, for minor in consumption; a man, 20, for second offense of no liability insurance, no seat belt and failure to restrain a child; and a 20-year-old man for second offense of no liability insurance and no seat belt.

Reports from Hereford police on Friday included assault and criminal trespass in the 100 block of San Obregon; harassing phone calls; assault by threat in the 300 block of Jackson; littering problems in the 200 block of Catalpa; theft of $150 worth of items in the 200 block of Fur;

Police issued 23 citations Friday investigated one accident. Hereford volunteer firemen responded to a grass fire and a Dumpster fire.

BIRDSONG

"I feel like I got more out of medical school than anyone else in my class," she said.

The additional maturity plus the base of knowledge she brought with her as a practicing physician's assistant were advantages. Birdsong, like all medical students, needed every available advantage to survive the stresses of medical school and the following residency.

"It's such a relief," Birdsong said of that time when she was finally able to leave school and residency behind and enter private practice.

Private practice for Dr. Birdsong was very private when she became the only doctor in Estancia, N.M.

"Estancia makes Hereford look like the big city," Birdsong said.

The community did not have a hospital, and Birdsong practiced out of a small clinic. Despite the demands of being the only doctor in a small community, Birdsong and her husband, John Yavornik, retained their desire to live in a small town.

"It's fun going to the grocery store and seeing babies you delivered," Dr. Birdsong said.

Perhaps sharing her everyday life with the people who are her patients is a part of Dr. Birdsong's personal approach to medicine. She's not afraid to feel with and for her patients.

"When you talk about people being disenchanted with their jobs... maybe it's because it doesn't relate to their lives," she said.

Not only has Dr. Birdsong found a satisfying professional life here in Hereford, but she and her husband have made a comfortable home for themselves.

"I think Hereford is one of the best kept secrets in the state of Texas," Birdsong said.

As a child growing up in Houston, Birdsong thought of the Texas Panhandle as the place that has blizzards.

"I just never, ever dreamed I'd be living in the Texas Panhandle or Hereford," she said.

New employees

According to administrator, Cindy Walker, Golden Plains Care Center recently hired two new staff members. They are Wanda Coody, secretary-bookkeeper, and W.D. "Bud" Ansley, maintenance man.

Baxter elected to presidency of La Madre Mia Study Club

Carolyn Baxter was elected president of La Madre Mia Study Club when the group's election party was held Thursday evening at Hereford State Bank.

Other officers elected for 1989-90 are Barbara Manning, vice president; Maurine Self, secretary; Mary Beth White, treasurer; Georgia Sparks, reporter; and Mary Herring, historian.

Installation will be May 11 at 7 p.m. at the Barn House.

Hostesses for the party were Judy Williams, Ruth Black, Joyce Alfred, Sharon Hodges, and Gladys Merritt, all of whom dressed in barbershop quartet costumes.

A salad supper was served. Tables were topped with white cloths and centered with an arrangement of red, black, and white balloons with musical notes printed on them, white snowball flowers and red bows. Black musical notes were displayed on the white cloths and plates and napkins were also accented with musical notes.

A guest trio of Heather Hodges, Candace Pankey, and Krista Beville entertained the club with songs following the meal. A contest was held among members as each "barbershop quartet" sang unrehearsed selections.

Another highlight of the evening was entertainment presented by Gina Alley, winner of the talent award at the recent Miss Hereford Pageant. She performed her comedic routine to the song, "Ahab the Arab."

Attending were Francyne Bromlow, Mary Herring, Betty Lady, Manning, Lavon Nieman, Nancy Paetzold, Susan

Robbins, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Sparks, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, White, Self, and the hostesses.

Cancer center chaplain speaks to Calliopian Club

Jerry Kelly, chaplain of Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo, was guest speaker of Calliopian Club which met Thursday evening in the parlor of First Baptist Church.

Jan Furr opened the meeting as she welcomed guests and members. The usual business meeting was suspended but a brief business session was held. Members voted to purchase student memberships in the Hereford Community Concert Association. The proposed slate of officers for 1989-90 were announced; ballots will be cast at the next meeting.

Mary Sue Hull then introduced Kelly to the group. Mr. Kelly has served the cancer center's chaplain since 1985 and stressed that helping people cope with crisis situations is something that can be done by everyone, not just health care professionals.

"Each of us can show love and concern for family and friends," he said. "One need not be able to solve problems to help, but just to be there, to listen, to try to understand is to help."

A typical day for Kelly includes scheduled--as well as unscheduled--counseling sessions with patients and with staff. He answered questions and invited comments from the club members.

Following the program, hostesses served refreshments to guests and members. Guests registered were Helen Langley, Marie Stringer, Clovis Seago, Betty Koelzer, Edna Gault, Jo Solomon, Opal Robinson, Marjorie Thomas, Evelyn Bodkin, Eva Marie Livesay, Elizabeth Cesar, Leona Kimball, Bettie Dickson, Margaret Golden, D.C. McWhorter, James and Mike Hull, Dale Furr, and the speaker.

Members present included Mary Sue Hull, Claudia McBrayer, Jan Furr, Dorothy Ott, Fay Holt, Kathlee Palmer, Kay McWhorter, Mary E. Fraser, Marjorie Mims, Audine Dettman, Wilma Nobles, Virginia Holmes, and Kathryn Ruga.

REFORMULATED PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Mrs. Paul's has reformulated the bread coating for its entire line of Crispy Crunchy Fish Fillets and Fish Sticks, with less breading and more fish.

In addition, two new seafood varieties have been added to the company's Light Entree line: Seafood Lasagna and Seafood Rotini.

Proclamation signed

Fern Carpenter, right, has been instrumental in beginning a grassroots effort whereby people unite in prayer for the healing of people with cancer. Mayor Wes Fisher signed a proclamation citing today, April 30, as the time for all people of all churches and denominations to unite in prayer that God will intervene and aid in research for a cure of this disease. Carpenter said she hopes that such a special prayer day will become an annual event, spreading throughout the U.S.

"Peaceful and Attractive Community Living"

Hereford Bull

By Speedy Nieman

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says the most utterly lost of all days is the one in which you have not once laughed.

Most of us know how to say nothing--few of us know when.

Romance is better than jogging for losing weight, according to an article we read. It was determined that you burn up the same amount of energy making love as you do jogging--about 200 calories.

I mentioned this to a friend of mine and he remarked that he didn't jog but he'd lost 400 calories so far this year. (His name is not mentioned, for obvious reasons.)

We took "A Sentimental Journey" with the Hereford Chamber Singers Friday night at their dinner theater performance in the Senior Citizen Center. As usual, the group put on a great show and the capacity crowd loved the nostalgic music of the 20's, 30's and 40's.

The Chamber Singers were to conclude the two-night stand Saturday, but both performances had been sold out for some time. The show also serves to remind us how fortunate the community is to have such a group. They have provided us with many memorable moments, as well as representing the city in area and far-away places.

Friday night's show concluded with director Bill Devers presenting a special "Conductor's Award" to Amy Gililand. Devers explained that he presents the award, now and then, to recognize members who serve above and beyond the call of duty.

Proceeds from the shows will benefit both the Singers and the Senior Citizens. The Senior Citizens prepared the meal, and the Keywanettes and Chamber Singer spouses and kids served the meal.

We salute all the Chamber Singers for their contributions to the cultural life of Hereford!

The Dawn community is planning a Centennial celebration of the Dawn Post Office on July 14-15. A full day of activities is planned for Saturday, July 15, but the main objective will be to "visit friends and remember the good old days," according to invitations being mailed out.

The U.S. Postal Service has issued a Centennial Postmark commemorating the first 100 years of the Dawn Post Office. Persons who take or buy a post card or stamped envelope to the post office that date can have it postmarked. A catered barbecue lunch is planned on July 15. Watch for more information on the event.

Alimony: Carefully Drawn Bill Deserves House's Approval

The story has become all too familiar. A husband and wife who have been married for years go their separate ways, and the woman, who has devoted all of her adult life to her family and home, must do something she never has done before: look for employment. But without job skills, she cannot find work and ends up living off relatives or leading a hand-to-mouth existence.

It is that economic plight of the "displaced homemaker" that the Texas Senate sought to address this week when it approved legislation that would allow alimony for the first time in more than a century. Twice in recent years, senators have passed such a sensible measure, only to see it die in the House. This year needs to be different.

The bill's author, Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, sees another difficult fight ahead. The mere mention of alimony always has been enough to cause many Texans to protest. Those detractors need to recognize, however, that Sen. Caperton's legislation is about as narrowly drawn as any alimony measure could be. It contains several safeguards to prevent abuse by greedy spouses...

Texas remains the only state that makes no allowances whatsoever for alimony. That is disgraceful. Marriages are supposed to be partnerships. If one spouse gives up a career in order to raise the couple's children full time, the other partner should bear some responsibility for helping that person become independent. The House needs to wake up and follow the Senate's lead.

-The Dallas Morning News, April 24

Welfare Reform Came Up Short

While some in Congress might think the welfare reforms they enacted last year were sufficient, the Congressional Budget Office, or CBO, has produced a detailed study of that complicated package that makes it clear that it was reform in name only.

The lawmakers who pushed through the Family Support Act of 1988 boasted that it would pay for itself by moving low-income families off the welfare rolls and into productive employment. But the CBO now calculates that the measure will actually end up increasing the number of families on welfare.

The total package will cost billions above current welfare costs. That would be OK if the result were to rescue poor people from the welfare trap. Instead, Washington's continued resistance to genuine reform will cause even more dependency.

-San Antonio Express-News, April 24

Public Interest Comes First

Despite its bluff and bluster, GTE now allows as how it will go ahead with the planned shift of its corporate headquarters to Texas, despite the Public Utilities Commission having ruled against it and ordered rebates to consumers. There's a lesson in there somewhere about resisting pressure in defense of the public interest. It shouldn't be forgotten.

Saluting Our Sailors

No explanation has been found yet for Wednesday's explosion on the USS Iowa that killed 47 sailors.

Yet many questions have been raised. Was the World War II-era equipment at fault? Shouldn't these guns be outdated in this nuclear age? Are such battleships useful?

No matter what careful investigation reveals, this nation first must express its gratitude to these 47 sailors and their families. In peacetime, we often forget how dangerous the job of a soldier or sailor is...

Letters to the Editor

Dear Speedy:

It was our honor to be a part of the Hereford Key Club this past weekend at the Texas-Oklahoma Key Club Convention in Dallas.

Hereford was represented in a most outstanding manner by 22 young men and two super Kiwanis' advisors-Mike Veasey and Wayne Winget.

Hereford Key Club is the envy of many across Texas and Oklahoma. Among 240 clubs and some 2,000 young people at convention, Hereford Key Club received top recognition in all areas.

Receiving awards at convention is the end results of many hours of work and service for our community. Our 100 Hereford Key Clubbers have logged 26,661 hours of service, earning approximately $29,175.

This money has been returned to many in our community-including Sunshine Acres, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Make-A-Wish Foundation, Senior citizens, Campfire, Satellite Center plus others.

The special emphasis theme of Key Club International for this year is "Celebrate Excellence" and that is exactly what Hereford Key Club has done. "Celebrating Excellence" would have been impossible if it had not been for the support of many in our community. Each Kiwanian, parent, educator and Hereford Citizen who has supported and encouraged a Hereford Key Clubber is a part of Hereford Key Club's "Celebration of Excellence."

For 21 years a very special man-Gene Brock-has been responsible for training and encouraging Hereford Key Clubbers. We truly are blessed that our young men are led by such a dedicated person as Gene.

Our congratulations to Hereford Key Club and Mr. Gene Brock on the tradition of winning that Hereford Key Club continues to earn in "Celebrating Excellence."

Sincerely,
Mick & Shirley Wilson

DEMON POSSESSION

The last stage of insanity is when we decide inanimate objects are plotting against us.

I have been in that stage for a long time. Cars have always had a thing for me. They not only plot, they carry out the plots.

I was driving home from Arkansas the other day. My car decided it was time to take me one notch closer to the funny farm. Suddenly the thing did not want to run. It would lurch and buck without warning. About the time I thought I should stop for repairs the car would run perfectly. It would run perfectly until I got past a town where repairs could be made, and then the lurching would begin again.

I nursed the thing home. The next day I took the car to the shop. This takes great bravery on my part. I have never taken a car to the shop and not had whatever was wrong suddenly not be wrong anymore.

It happened again. The shop ran all of the tests. They even took the car out for a test ride. Nothing was wrong. It cost enough for major repairs for them to tell me the car was perfect.

I started on another trip. You already know what happened. The lurching as soon as I was in the middle of nowhere.

Years ago I nursed a car into a shop. The car was barely running. It sounded like it was dying. I left the car running and went into the shop to get a mechanic. As soon as we walked up to the car it clicked and purred like a kitten. If there had been a gun handy I would have shot it.

There is a lot of stuff going on about people being possessed with demons. I do not know much about the subject, but it seems to be quite disturbing to a lot of folks. If there is anyone around here that can cast out demons I am a candidate. I don't want them to work on me, but I have a car that either needs the demons cast out or it needs a good kick in the tail pipe.

Warm Fuzzies,
Doug Manning

An AP news analysis

Bush, Quayle rate their first 100 days

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP) - In back-to-back appraisals, Vice President Dan Quayle and President Bush issued their own report cards on their first 100 days. Not surprisingly, the marks were excellent.

Bush said his administration is off to a good start in confronting problems that demand "urgent attention and decisive action," and in setting a steady course for long-term progress.

Quayle said the United States is disproving "the so-called declinists," who see signs of national retreat. The vice president said his message on a 12-day mission to the Pacific is one of optimism, with alliances flourishing, trade booming, U.S. political and economic principles ascendant.

There are other grading systems, of course.

Not all of them are quite so enthusiastic about the first semester of the new administration.

For example, while Bush boasted of a bipartisan budget agreement that kept "my no new taxes pledge intact," the deal does not deliver the decisive deficit curbs he also promised during the 1988 campaign. Indeed, some critics have called the deal a sham that simply puts off the day of budget reckoning until next year. Bush said it was "a strong first step."

Quayle, then Bush addressed members of The Associated Press in Chicago on Monday, two hours apart. The vice president's speech was, in his phrase, a "pre-trip briefing" on his trip to Australia, Indonesia, Singapore and Thailand. That turned out to fit one of his 100-day observations - Quayle said his biggest surprise was how much he enjoys foreign travel. The Bush script was an assessment of the first 100 days.

His staff also turned out a 17-page background summary on accomplishments but skipped setbacks like Senate rejection of John Tower's nomination to be secretary of defense.

The vice president answered questions from AP member publishers, and said he senses a change in the way he is viewed and covered after a season of constant criticism.

"Now in the position of approaching the 100 days, I think the people of America are going to judge me on my job performance and that's the way it should be," he said. "And I believe that's the way the news media is and will continue to cover me as the vice president of the United States and I believe that's fair."

Quayle's account of what he has learned about that job, and about himself, since the inauguration sounded as though he'd been taking a refresher course in political science.

"... I think what I have learned most about the job is what the true responsibilities of the office of vice president are and what the responsibilities of the office of president are," he said. "I work every day in close contact with President Bush and I see how he formulates his policies. I'm there to give my opinions. I see the inner workings of the office of the president. So I have a much keener appreciation from a practical day-to-day operation how the two offices work."

That plus a keener appreciation of traveling abroad on Air Force 2.

Quayle said that as a senator, most of his travel was back and forth to Indiana, except for a couple trips to Europe. He said he's been surprised at "how much I am enjoying myself in foreign policy travel..." to Latin America and now to Southeast Asia. He said his foreign missions have had a very positive impact.

More than 100 million people inhabit the island of Java, more than the combined populations of California, Texas, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Florida and Ohio - all jammed into an area just a little larger than Louisiana.

The Bush appraisal was a summary of proposals and plans, designed to counter complaints that his administration has drifted without a clear agenda. "I think the work we've done these past three months demonstrates the value of tough, principled negotiations between this administration and Congress," the president said.

He cited the budget agreement, a deal for non-military aid to the Contras, the savings and loan reform and bailout bill that has passed the Senate, his ethics reform bill, the drive against drugs, his education and child care proposals.

Bush said thorough reviews of foreign and defense policy issues will be completed late in May, pointing to strategies for a time of "remarkable change in international affairs."

The president said there's a running debate now on what it takes to move the nation forward. He said it takes principle, performance, ideology, action, "and this administration understands that the American people expect all of these - and something more."

"They expect results." Results will be the final exam on each of issue. Those are the grades that really will count.

Anti-paddling bill?

A bill that would undermine school discipline, thereby running counter to efforts to improve the quality of education, has been approved by the Texas Senate.

By a vote of 19-11, it sent to the House of Representatives a measure to outlaw paddling of students whose parents object in writing to corporal punishment.

If passed by the lower House and signed by Gov. Bill Clements, the bill would deny school administrators and teachers an effective tool in their efforts to improve the learning environment by punishing disruptive students.

The Senate's action would further dilute local control of schools. The bill's supporters say parents should have the final say as to how their children may be disciplined. As a practical matter, however, administrators would find it difficult to apply different standards to different students.

Anti-paddling activists compare corporal punishment with child abuse and insist it is a count-productive way to improve childhood behavior.

We are not addressing child beating, however; a properly administered paddling does no harm and can be especially effective as a last-resort way to improve a child's behavior in the classroom and elsewhere on school grounds.

... This measure should be allowed to die in the House. Otherwise, a gubernatorial veto would be in order.

My Enemy, My Self by Yoran Binur is an echo of the story of Black Like Me, but with the Arabic and Israeli involved. Yoran Binur became a reporter for Kol Ha'er (The Voice of the City), a weekly newspaper in Jerusalem in 1984.

His job was to cover the Arab "beat" or the section of the city primarily occupied by the Arabs. Within a short time Yoran's command of spoken Arabic and his knowledge of the Arabic etiquette, manners, and gestures caused him to be mistaken for a Palestinian compatriot, on several occasions. Driven by the knowledge that the continuing Arab-Israeli conflict was eating away at the humanistic principles upon which the state of Israel was founded, Binur decided to go undercover in order to show his country men a mirror image and force them to deal with these tensions.

Yoran took the job and for the first time experienced the humiliating and frustrating demands of the unlikely common worker required to tolerate inferior pay and lodging. Traveling with a photographer as his only confidant and protector, Binur moved about in many dangerous locations across the country. All the time knowing "Arabs have very sharp knives for those they perceive to be imposters or spies."

"If I Can Dream: Elvis' Own Story written by Larry Geller and Joel Spector is based on the secret diary by Larry Geller, Elvis' close friend, confidant and spiritual advisor. Tormented by the idea of the lies and distortions that his bodyguards were rumored to be writing, Elvis wanted his version to be recorded. This was done by spending hours discussing his point of view with Larry Geller who recorded it in his (Larry's) personal diary, word for word.

Larry Geller begins by giving some background about himself and how he came to know Elvis. Geller was a hair stylist and was asked to come to Bel Air one April afternoon to fix Elvis' hair. "The interesting thing about Elvis was that...he looked and moved and spoke exactly 'sa he did on television or in the movies...Elvis didn't 'develop' an image for public consumption...he was his image," according to Larry. This book is a very heart-warming look at a lonely man very few people got to know and never understand.

"Do you realize I'll never now if a woman loves me - or Elvis Presley? Me, not the image. I'm real." This and many other statements made by Elvis help express the emotional turmoil that possessed Elvis. Elvis fans and non fans will be moved by this sad story.

The Charmed Circle by Catherine Gaskin, author of The Ambassador's Women, takes the reader into the lives of Julia, Constance and Alex, the three talented daughters of well known actor Michael Seymour and his wife, the famous pianist. They have everything within their grasp until their charmed circle is almost destroyed by the Battle of Britain, the London Blitz and ill-fated love. Now they fully understand how much they truly have and how easily it can be lost.

A Matter of Concealment by DeWitt S. Copp recreates the suspense of taking risks in the espionage of WWII. FDR secretly prepares the nation for war as skilled murderers race against the clock in an attempt to shatter the international balance of power.

Game, Set and Match by Len Deighton is another tale set in a world in which the only game is espionage, and the favored strategies are betrayal and deception. Those of you that read Berlin Game, Mexico Set or London Match want to make a special effort to catch the final volume in this series.

The more things change...

It wasn't very long ago that the cattle business was just about the only thing going on in Texas. The men and women who worked cattle were tough, and had a unique reputation: hard workers, survivors, dreamers, roamers.

Times do change, and so has Texas. But the fact is, Texas will always be known for her cattle.

Now, the men and women in the cattle business today? Well, some things change and some things stay the same. They are still survivors. They still work hard and dream of how to do a good job even better. But that wandering spirit? It found a home in Hereford.

Cattle people made Hereford the largest Cattle Feeding area in the nation, and we at First National Bank are proud to be the financial worker behind that cattle dream. We too, have worked cattle for many, many years, earning our own reputation for strength, security and team work.

If that's what you're looking for, talk with one of our Loan Officers. You'll see that at First National the survivors and the dreams Start with the Right Financial Plan.

Rotary golf event set

Hereford Rotary Club is holding a Hole-In-One contest May 5-7 with a $20,000 prize offered for an "ace" scored on the No. 6 hole at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Qualifying rounds are set each day and the top 25 qualifiers will have a shot at the $20,000 prize in the 5 p.m. finals on Sunday. If there is no hole-in-one in the finals, the closest to the pin will receive a $300 set of Ping woods.

The entry fee is $5 for three shots in the qualifying rounds. Golfers can purchase as many tickets as they wish, which would give them more chances to qualify for the finals. Tickets are being sold by Rotarians and students in the DARE program. Proceeds from the tourney go to Hereford Youth drug programs.

If a hole-in-one should be made during the qualifying rounds, a $100 cash prize will be awarded. The closest qualifier each day will also receive a $25 gift certificate at the pro shop. It will be possible for a golfer to qualify one day, and be eliminated the next day.

Finalists will be determined by measuring the distance from the pin to the nearest 16th of an inch. Balls and clubs will be available for contestants not having their own.

Qualifying rounds will be held Friday, 4 to 5:30 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Contestants qualifying Friday and Saturday can call the pro shop between 7 and 8 p.m. Saturday to see if they are still qualified, as contestants can enter as many times as they wish.

If someone wins the $20,000 prize Sunday, the runnerup will receive the Ping woods as a consolation prize. The first hole-in-one wins, according to the rules. David McDonald is the Rotary Club chairman for the contest.

Oilers fill many holes

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's selections in the 1989 NFL college draft could be tracked by observing the holes they had to fill.

The Oilers gave up four linebackers, three offensive linemen, a starting strong safety and tight end among 15 losses to Plan B free agency.

When they added up their 12 draft choices from Sunday and Monday, plus seven Plan B signees of their own, they had replaced many of the lost bodies.

The Oilers acquired three linebackers, three offensive linemen, a tight end and two defensive backs among their newcomers.

Houston's first three selections, Florida offensive tackle David Williams, Oregon linebacker Scott Kozak and Miami safety Bubba McDowell could be of immediate help.

Williams will be a quality backup on the offensive line; Scott can ease the linebacker shortage when he boosts his weight from 225 to 235 and McDowell could compete for the starting strong safety job.

Oiler General Manager Mike Holovak is especially impressed with McDowell.

"It will be very significant for us if he comes through the way I think he will," Holovak said. "The last thing we want to do is put pressure on him, but he's an important part of our plan."

The Oilers lost starting strong safety Keith Bostic to Indianapolis during Plan B.

They passed up highly rated Florida safety Louis Oliver in the first round and hoped to get McDowell later.

"It's nice to have someone say that about me," McDowell said. "It's a big compliment. But I would have gone out anyway and made sure they didn't waste a pick."

Williams, 6-4, 292, played 46 consecutive games for the Gators after red-shirting as a freshman. His

Johnson draft scores

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING (AP) - No question it's the Jimmy Johnson show in future Dallas Cowboys NFL drafts.

Gil Brandt, the Cowboys' talent scout since 1960, was just an information provider on draft day 1989. He wasn't to be seen at news conferences where he has been a mainstay for decades.

Rumors persist that Brandt could be moving on.

At Valley Ranch, nicknamed "Death Valley Ranch" by some humorists, the ax has been falling almost weekly on old Cowboys front-liners.

Johnson drew raves for the way he handled draft day.

The new Cowboys coach knew what he wanted going into the draft and he got it - speed and aggressiveness.

He even had to wheel and deal a little with Al Davis, the shrewd mastermind of the Los Angeles Raiders. The clock ticked down to almost the last second as the Cowboys started the second round.

Johnson sweated Davis, who wanted Steve Wisniewski, an excellent offensive lineman from Penn State.

"Al, I'm new at this," Johnson told Davis. "Give me a little break on this one."

Johnson got a two-for-one deal just like the one you can get at your local fast food chain.

The Raiders gave away the only other draft pick they had.

Johnson took fullback Daryl Johnston of Syracuse with the Cowboys' first pick in the second round, then got Mark Stepnoski, a 269-pound guard from Pittsburgh who is rated as a surefire starter.

In the third round, Johnson scored with defensive ends Rhondy Weston of Florida and took Tony Tolbert of Texas-El Paso in the fourth round.

Johnson expects four starters from the players he picked in the second and third rounds.

What Johnson got was four very mobile players who have all been timed under five seconds in the 40.

They also have a reputation as hitters.

"They are players who like to mix it up," Johnson said. "They are contact players who don't mind working hard."

Make no mistake about it, the Cowboys will play the same attacking style of football on both sides of the line of scrimmage that the Miami Hurricanes demonstrated in winning a national collegiate championship.

Johnson targeted areas he thought were Cowboys weak spots.

Certainly quarterback, where he got Troy Aikman of UCLA, and defense, where the Cowboys gave up the second most points in the NFL, were obvious weak spots until the draft.

Johnson surprised some by saying he needed better fullbacks where Timmy Newsome, Darryl Clack, and Todd Fowler were blocking for Herschel Walker.

"That was a target area for us," Johnson said. "We need to get better blocking for the quarterback and Herschel."

Johnson is trying to mold a tough, pressure-proof team that will play well on the road. His Miami teams were noted for being rough on the road, losing only one game in three years.

"I want players who work hard and are well conditioned," Johnson said. "That's how you win on the road. I think we've got some players who are willing to pay the price."

Of course, it will be December 1990 before Johnson's first draft can be accurately assessed.

On the surface, it looks like he scored his first touchdown for the Cowboys.

Soil Stewardship week begins

The Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District has announced they will join in the national observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week to begin today, April 30, and continue through May 7, according to Carl Kleuskens, chairman of the district.

"Renewing the Living Earth" is the theme of this year's observance. Kleuskens said, "This focus is especially appropriate as our need for stewardship is vital if we are to maintain the productive capabilities of our basic natural resources of soil and water. Together we must work for the good of all to utilize, conserve and properly manage those resources in our care."

Participation in Soil and Water Stewardship Week activities offers an opportunity for reflection on the nation's natural renewable resource problems.

The Tierra Blanca SWCD was organized for the purpose of offering farmers, ranchers, and the local community a voluntary conservation technical assistance program through which individuals could seek and request conservation assistance to meet their individual land's capabilities and needs.

"Basically it is the district's responsibility to provide technical assistance when requested relative to proper soil use and treatment, erosion control practices, solve drainage problems and assist farmers and ranchers with crop, range, and pastureland management," said Kleuskens.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week in the U.S. since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

Informative material on the Soil and Water Stewardship Week theme each year is distributed through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, civic and educational organizations and to individuals interested in participating in the celebration.

Soil, Water Stewardship Week set

Members of two state soil and water conservation boards flank Gov. Bill Clements as he signs a proclamation designating April 30-May 7 as Soil and Water Stewardship Week in Texas. "Renewing the Living Earth" is the theme of this year's special week. Texas' 208 soil and water conservation districts will participate in the annual observance to remind all Texans that soil, water and related renewable resources warrant the best in creative conservation and considerate management.

AGRICULTURAL MILESTONES

ALTHOUGH BEEF CATTLE are not native to Texas, they have been here throughout most of our recorded history. There has been speculation that our earliest cattle came here on their own from a landgrant South of the Rio Grande. In any case, we know that cattle were brought in with groups establishing the early missions.

Nearly 300 years ago, in 1690, the founders of the early Spanish missions in East Texas may have brought cattle to Texas. A recorded introduction was made in 1716, in East Texas.

By 1731, a dozen missions had been established in East and South Texas with cattle raising listed as one of the leading industries. In this hostile land, cattle were a source of food for strongly constructed missions and the forts built to protect them against the native inhabitants.

The Texas cattle population in 1830 was estimated at about 100,000 head. There were 382,873 head of cattle assessed for taxes in 1846, the first year of statehood. And by 1860, cattle numbers had increased to 3,786,443 head, while the human population was only 604,215.

The tough, hardy Longhorns were able to thrive and multiply so rapidly because they could protect themselves and their young against most predators including bear, cougars, or wolves. Able to walk long distances to water, if needed, the Longhorn was also disease- and insect-resistant and could do well on very rough forage.

This wealth of cattle was the most saleable renewable resource Texas had, in the disastrous aftermath of the War Between the States. Even earlier, from about 1840, there was some trail driving of cattle out of Texas. But from 1866 to 1895, an estimated 10 million head of Longhorns, valued at $200 million, were driven to rail and range markets in the North, Northwest, and West.

Today, beef cattle are still our leading agricultural commodity. Most years, returns from the beef cattle industry are about half of the Texas' total agricultural returns, which amounts to about $10 billion per year.

Research goals include improved feeding practices and enhancement of nutritive value of forages and feeds, as well as basic research to learn how forage and feed are converted to muscle and fat, how each is deposited during the growth and development processes, and how they relate to consumer acceptance.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

COLLEGE STATION--Programs in the life sciences have been getting more and more emphasis in Texas A&M University's College of Agriculture in recent years, and that emphasis has led to a change in the college's name.

It's now the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

"The name change more accurately reflects our programs and activities," said Dr. Charles Arntzen, deputy chancellor and dean of agriculture for The Texas A&M University System. "We are continuing to evolve and change; this is modernization--a broadening of our agricultural-based programs."

The name change was approved by the TAMUS Board of Regents last fall, and recently received the final approval of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Arntzen said that the new name is more descriptive of current academic activities in agriculture and that it should improve the public's perception of agricultural programs. This new designation should help in recruiting top faculty and students as well as enhancing the upward mobility of graduates.

He said the name change also will help to improve the college's position in attracting research funds, and will help to identify it with the prestigious colleges of agriculture in the U.S., such as Cornell University and the University of Wisconsin.

"We have incorporated the life sciences into many of our ongoing programs in agricultural sciences over the past several years," Arntzen said. "Such sciences as genetics, biochemistry, molecular biology, nutrition, ecology, microbiology, entomology, plant and animal physiology, biological and food engineering, and soil physics and chemistry provide a unity between the basic and applied sciences. These connections result in new biological and agricultural technology." The chief agricultural official at Texas A&M said that it is important for the public to understand that agriculture and the life sciences are complementary and mutually supportive.

"There is a public perception that agricultural studies deal only with farming and ranching. Nothing could be further from the truth."

Budget compromise could help payments

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 1990 budget compromise worked out between the Bush administration and Congress earlier this month has eased some of the pressure for cutting farm subsidies but the turmoil is far from over.

Congress still has a way to go before settling on a spending package for the fiscal year that will begin Oct. 1, and Agriculture Department budget experts say farm programs still are expected to be pared.

The compromise reached two weeks ago calls for $2.4 billion to be whittled from agriculture functions that are covered in the federal budget, says Robert E. Sherman, deputy director of USDA's budget office.

Initially, he said Thursday in an interview, the Reagan and Bush budget proposals were identical, calling for a $2.9 billion cut in fiscal 1990 for agriculture-related programs.

The major target in the original Reagan-Bush budget proposals was the package of farm programs operated by the department's Commodity Credit Corp., a variety of price and income support mechanisms that soared to record spending levels during the 1980s.

The CCC cuts alone would total $1.9 billion. To help Bush show less of a deficit on paper, part of that is to be accomplished administratively by paying about $800 million in advance "deficiency" payments to farmers early, so they show up on this year's budget rather than in the 1990 budget.

Bush announced the early payments on April 18, pointing out that the move would "provide some extra money to farmers" as they head for the fields this spring.

Although Bush did not mention that the move also would help reduce his 1990 budget deficit figure, the early payments had long been planned - in both the initial Bush and Reagan budget proposals - as a way to save money next fiscal year.

But that still left $1.1 billion to be cut from the CCC operations if the 1990 reduction goal of $1.9 billion for CCC was to be met.

One of the simplest ways to cut CCC some more would be a further reduction in crop target prices used to compute payments to farmers.

However, that would have required legislation by Congress to give USDA authority to tinker with the payment formula.

Sherman said the mid-April agreement between the administration and Congress calls for a CCC reduction next year of $600 million, or little more than half the $1.1 billion remaining to be cut. But a solution was found.

As it turned out, $500 million in "savings" for 1990 would come from another change that will require legislation. This involves the financing of the Farm Credit Administration and would be used to offset further reductions in CCC costs.

For many years the FCA enjoyed independent status as a federal agency, and its annual spending was "off budget" and not counted in the government's overall balance sheet of receipts and outlays.

But after the farm credit problems of the 1980s forced Congress to crack down on the huge system of federal land banks, production credit associations and other institutions overseen by FCA, the agency's budget has been part of the regular process.

Sherman said that although FCA is not part of the Agriculture Department, it is part of the "agriculture function" used in budget planning. Thus, it was agreed during the compromise deliberations to move FCA once again "off budget" and thereby "save" $500 million.

So, with $800 million shuffled from one year to another and $500 million moved off budget, that leaves $600 million in cuts for next year's CCC programs still to be made to reach the $1.9 billion in cuts for next year. Exactly how remains to be settled.

Additionally, Sherman said, the compromise calls for releasing $500 million from a food stamp account held by the Federal Reserve, a fund that has been building up since food stamps were initiated in the early 1960s.

The money accumulated because some stamps are lost, destroyed, forgotten or otherwise not used to buy groceries. They were never redeemed, although the government still has cash on hand just in case.

By releasing the food stamp account, the government will have use of the money - and the 1990 budget can be trimmed by a further $500 million, making a total "savings" of $2.4 billion claimed by the negotiators.

Some have complained that the budget cutters may target their work too much on farm programs, but Bush said on April 18 that while agriculture "has taken a hit, so has a wide array of programs across the board. And I think what we've done here is fair."

Others have said USDA farm programs could stand even further pruning, pointing out that spending on those programs is still high although there have been sharp reductions in recent years.

In 1984, for example, CCC spending on commodity programs - including feed grains, wheat, rice, cotton, tobacco, dairy, soybeans, honey and wool - was about $7.32 billion. In 1985, costs jumped to $17.7 billion and then rose to a record $25.8 billion in 1986.

Commodity program spending dropped to $22.4 billion in 1987 and since has declined to an estimated $13.8 billion this year.

Yeutter wants less media food bashing

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some officials in the Bush administration say public confidence in the nation's food system needs a lift.

Cooper Evans, White House special assistant for agricultural affairs, says a new interagency task force has been formed to "examine our policies in this whole area" of food safety and make recommendations for changes, if any are needed.

Evans, a former Republican congressman from Iowa, told a meeting of farm journalists on Monday that the task force includes representatives of the Environmental Protection Agency, the Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department.

"We're going to take a good look at what we're doing now and what we might (be doing) in the future to increase public confidence and to ensure that our programs ... remain the best," Evans said.

Speaking earlier to the same group, the National Association of Agricultural Journalists, Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said that sensationalism and misleading news stories about food safety can hurt consumers when accurate information is needed most.

Yeutter cited recent cases involving potential food supply hazards. One of those was about chemicals such as Alar used in apple production.

A recent study by a private environmental group, the Natural Resources Defense Council, suggested that children may be exposed to dangerous levels of carcinogenic chemicals in fruits and vegetables because they eat large amounts in proportion to their weight.

The council's study singled out Alar, and alarms were raised throughout the country about the possible hazards of eating apples.

Government regulatory agencies, including the Environmental Protection Agency, Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department, said there was no need to panic and that there was no reason for parents to keep apples from children.

"We need to make sure that these volatile issues are handled as well as possible from a communications standpoint," he said. "Obviously, we have freedom of the press in this country, and the media can do what it wishes in this area just as it does in other areas."

Yeutter added: "And if folks choose to provide coverage for misleading research studies or choose to distort or sensationalize, they're privileged to do so, that's the price we pay for a democratic society."

In the meantime, Yeutter said he hoped "we can do an effective job of keeping these issues in proper balance."

One reporter asked what Yeutter meant by "proper balance" in news reports.

"That means making sure that the facts are out, and not simply someone's distorted interpretation of what they read, see or hear," he said.

The Agriculture Department, which sometimes in the past has been accused of sticking up for farm interests at the expense of consumers and environmentalists, needs to have a spotless reputation on such sensitive issues, Yeutter said.

"We're going to play it straight in the department in these areas, and I hope we can establish a reputation for credibility on all fronts," he said. "If we say something about an Alar situation, or we say something about any other food safety question, my intent is that we do it in such a way that it will command the respect of everyone who views that issue or evaluates it in any way."

A REAL LONG WAY
HOUSTON (AP) - They call it the Long Distance Shootout, one of the pre-game features of the NBA All-Star contest.

Rimas Kurtinaitis took the name literally. Rimas is a member of the Soviet Union National basketball team and earlier this winter won a long distance contest in Lithuania.

That won him a trip to this city for the NBA event. He finished ninth.

Students honor employers

An Employer Appreciation Banquet was held Thursday night by the Business Professionals of America club at Hereford High School.

Highlight of the event was the presentation of two scholarships to students in the Vocational Office Administration program. The recipients were Raquel Ramirez and Karla Gaytan.

Ramirez won the Employer Scholarship Award, and Gaytan received the BPA Scholarship. They were presented by Peggy Fox, BPA advisor.

Raquel Ramirez, BPA president, served as mistress of ceremonies for the banquet. Each student introduced guest employers and co-workers and made brief remarks about his or her job experiences. Julie Helms, VOA teacher, made closing remarks.

Employers in the program who were honored included: Dr. David Purdy, DDS; A.O. Thompson Abstract, Hereford State Bank, Deaf Smith County Abstract, Plains Insurance, HHS Athletic Department, Deaf Smith General Hospital, HHS Administrative Office, Arrowhead Mills, Stanton Special Services Center, and Poarch Bros. Inc.

Scholarships presented

The Business Professionals of America club held an Employer Appreciation banquet Thursday night at Hereford Country Club, and two students were presented scholarships by advisor Peggy Fox. Raquel Ramirez, left, and Karla Gaytan received the awards from the employers and the BCA. Julie Helms, Vocational Office Administration at Hereford High School, made closing remarks at the annual event.

Q. - I have remodeling work to do. I always seem to get everything right until I get to the business of joining mouldings at corners. Sometimes it comes out OK, sometimes it doesn't, and I am not sure what causes either result. Is there some special thing I should know about making such joints? I am talking about mouldings of the same pattern.

A. - When joining mouldings of the same pattern at corners, cut a 45-degree angle on each piece so the angles run in opposite directions to each other. Inside corners are cut so the edge next to the wall is longer than the outside edge. The outside edges should be longer on outside corners. To get the neatest fit, you should use a miter box. There is a different process when you want the mouldings to cross each other, but it is a bit tricky, so you had better use the simpler method.

Isolated Master Bedroom Suite PLAN IDEAL FOR CORNER LOT

© By W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

Entrance through recessed porch is into a wide foyer with an open rail stair which leads through a cased opening into a large great room, complimented by a tray ceiling and masonry fireplace. There is convenient access to an extra large sun deck via sliding glass doors to the rear of the room.

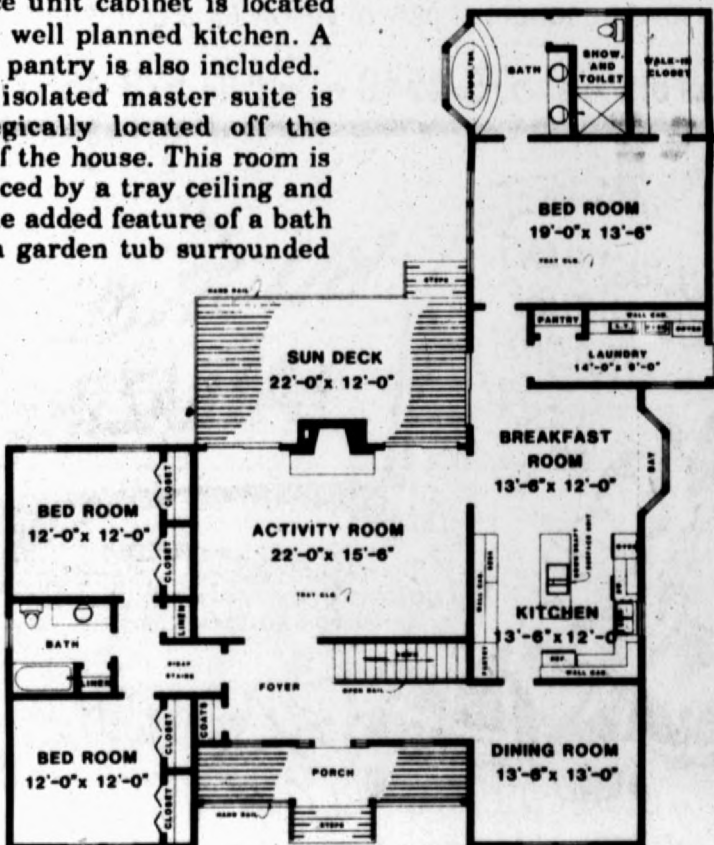

This plan boasts a separate dining room and a large kitchen-breakfast room, a bay window is shown and an island surface unit cabinet is located in the well planned kitchen. A bonus pantry is also included.

An isolated master suite is strategically located off the rear of the house. This room is enhanced by a tray ceiling and has the added feature of a bath with a garden tub surrounded by a bay window. Twin lavatories and a separate shower are included. Entrance from side entry garage is through the separate laundry room.

There are two bedrooms located at the other end of the house. These include identical closet space and a centrally located bath with two linen closets is easily accessible. This bath is also convenient for daytime use.

The country exterior is enhanced by a hip and gable roof. It features horizontal siding with multi-light shutter windows. Also featured is a comfortable front porch highlighted by a wood rail.

This is a computer plan. Some changes may be made from the plan stored in the CADD memory at less cost to you. Direct inquiries about CADD plan changes to the address below.

The plan number is 2253. It includes 2,281 square feet of heated space. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy eficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write, W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Ann Landers

PAMELA HARTMAN, FELIX SOLIZ

Wedding planned

Pamela Ann Hartman and Felix O. Soliz, both of Dallas, plan to wed July 1 in Paramount Baptist Church in Amarillo.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartman of Amarillo and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Soliz of 101 Quince St.

Miss Hartman, a 1981 graduate of Tascosa High School in Amarillo, graduated from West Texas State University in 1985 where she was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi Business Fraternity. She is currently employed in Dallas by Club Corporation International as an accountant.

Soliz, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School, graduated from WTSU in 1985. He is presently employed in Dallas by Thermo-Serv in sales.

DEAR READERS: I was asked to rerun a column that appeared in 1976 explaining why the American Red Cross charged the GIs for coffee and doughnuts during World War II while the Salvation Army provided it free.

The explanation given me by the Red Cross officials was that they had to charge for off-base food and lodging because the British charged, and the British High Command pressured the United States Army to insist that the Red Cross charge also.

A staggering number of readers had plenty to say about the rerun. Read on:

Dear Ann Landers; In August, 1943, while returning from a furlough to Parris Island, S.C., a U.S. Marine base, I stopped at the American Red Cross serviceman's canteen in August, Ga. At that time you could buy the best ham sandwich in town for 15 cents. A Coke was a nickel. I ate the sandwich and drank the Coke right at the counter. The tab was 30 cents. I couldn't believe that this so-called service organization would gouge us like that.--C.F.C. (USMC Indianapolis)

Rochester, N.Y.: Don't tell me about the American Red Cross. It happened 45 years ago, but I remember it like it was yesterday. My crew and I flew from Oahu (Hawaii) to the mainland in a B-17. When we arrived at 5 a.m., dead tired, we cheered when we saw a Red Cross booth serving coffee and doughnuts. When we asked for a cup of coffee we were told, "We only serve officers."--Ralph E.D.

LAREDO, Tex.: In 1943, I donated three pints of blood to be given to our boys overseas. In 1944, I joined the Navy. As a WAVE yeoman I discovered that the blood was administered to the wounded at $25 a pint which was deducted from their pay.--B.T.

Brooksville, Fla.: Can a 70-year-old veteran tell you about his experience? We were in the Belgium Bulge and having a rough time. What a tired, hungry, ragtag bunch of guys we were! Then lo and behold, we spotted a Red Cross tent serving coffee and fried cakes. Our chaplain gave us first the good news, then the bad news. We would be given time to get in line for a cup of hot coffee and a cruller. But we'd have to pay for them. The price was one guilder, equivalent to 38 cents. Many of the GIs, having been in the field, didn't carry cash or they had none. Fortunately, the officers chipped in and we scraped together enough money so that no one went without. From that day on I had nothing good to say about the Red Cross.--Larry S.W.

Houston: Why did you rerun that column about the Red Cross? Once was enough. When things go wrong it's always convenient to blame the Brits.--L.F.D.

Racine, Wis.: What a shock for us GIs to pay 20 cents for a pack of cigarettes and find a slip inside that said, "Donated by Chesterfield." The same for Hershey's chocolate.

We really felt ripped off.--S.L.

Stamford, Conn.: A buddy of mine was in a California hospital. He hadn't been home in more than two years. The guy went to the Red Cross for a loan. They said "OK." The day before he was to leave they said, "Loan refused. Too many missing papers." The story has a happy ending. The patients on his ward chipped in and he left for New York on schedule.--B.R.L.

If anyone at the American Red Cross Headquarters would like equal time to explain why I have received thousands of letters like the ones you have just read, I would be happy to hear from him.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one you can talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager" is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teen, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

DISCOVERY MAY END OBESITY

NATIONAL DIETARY RESEARCH, AN ORGANIZATION COMMITTED TO THE RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT OF NUTRITIONAL SOLUTIONS TO WORLD WIDE HEALTH PROBLEMS, REPORTED IN A WASHINGTON D.C. PRESS RELEASE, "OBESITY MAY BE CONTROLLED NATURALLY WITH A NEW TYPE OF PILL" DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT. IN STUDIES SCIENTISTS NOTED PATIENTS RECEIVING AN INGREDIENT IN WHAT IS NOW BEING CALLED FS-1 ALL LOST WEIGHT, WHILE BODY WEIGHT IN CONTROL GROUPS REMAINED CONSTANT. SCIENTISTS SAY THE MECHANISM BEHIND THE WEIGHT REDUCTION IS DUE TO A DECREASE IN THE INTESTINAL ABSORPTION OF CALORIE RICH DIETARY FATS. IN A COMPARATIVE STUDY BY NDR, WHOSE RESEARCH TOPICS HAVE BEEN THE SUBJECT OF ARTICLES PUBLISHED IN RECENT MEDICAL AND NUTRITIONAL JOURNALS, FS-1 WAS FOUND TO BE THE MOST EFFECTIVE TREATMENT FOR OBESITY AND THE MOST ACCEPTABLE TO PATIENTS, BECAUSE FS-1 CONTAINS ONLY NATURAL INGREDIENTS RECOGNIZED AS SAFE. FS-1 AND DIET PLAN ARE AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC THROUGH PHARMACIES LISTED BELOW.

Thank You

We want to express our gratitude for all the wonderful love and support we received during Oskar's illness and death. Thanks to Dr. Revell for his care. Thanks to Msgr. Blum and Father Hector for the beautiful services. Thanks also for the Masses, prayers, and flowers. Thanks to all the ladies who prepared and served the funeral dinner, and those who brought food to our home.

We love you all and ask God's blessing for you,

1989 DAR Good Citizens recognized

Members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, hosted their annual tea April 23 at the Community Center to honor the 1989 Good Citizens and the American History Essay Contest winners.

Other guests given special recognition included the winners' families, history teachers and school officials.

Named as this year's DAR Good Citizens were Cody Wilson, son of Mickey and Shirley Wilson of Hereford, and Sydelle McDonald, granddaughter of Matthew and Callie Daniel of Dimmitt. Each year the high schools work with the DAR in determining the Good Citizen Award. A committee of teachers make recommendations of outstanding students to the faculty, which then elects one student to receive the award.

CODY WILSON

Cody, a senior at Hereford High School, has been actively involved in many school activities as well as achieving the rank of Eagle Scout. He is drum major for the HHS marching band; has served as Lieutenant Governor of Division 33, Texas-Oklahoma District, Key Club International; named to Who's Who Among American High School Students; a member of the National Honor Society; a member of the varsity cross country team; an active member of Peers as Leaders (students committed to staying drug- and alcohol-free and setting a positive example for underclassmen); and an active member of the youth group at Central Church of Christ.

Cody is currently in competition for an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy, where, if offered the appointment, he plans to study in a field of science or engineering.

A senior at Dimmitt High School, Sydelle McDonald, is president of the Student Council, a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America, the Chapter Quiz Team, varsity track and cross country teams, Spanish Club, and basketball team. She is also a member of DHS's War on Drugs Group and serves a director on its board. She is active in the Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Sydelle plans to attend Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls with a major in marketing.

Mrs. Austin Rose, Jr., chairman of American History Month, presented awards to the essay winners who wrote on "My Favorite American Patriot of the American Revolution."

Bronze medal winners (first place) included Natalie McWhorter, a fifth grader at West Central School; Misty Bree Perrin, a sixth grader at Walcott Scott; and Carla Petty, a fifth grader from Dimmitt Middle School. The essays written by Natalie and Bree will be entered in the state competition.

Certificate of award winners (second place) were given to Karen Manchec, a sixth grader at West Central School; Heather Hodges, a fifth grader from West Central; Amy Booth, a sixth grader from Dimmitt Middle School; and Cory Wade Hamilton and Sheldon Burleson, both sixth graders from Friona Junior High School.

The topic of the American History Essay contest, in which students in grades five through eight may compete, is chosen by the National Association and then sent to all chapters nationwide. The local chapter takes the information from the schools as soon as it is received.

In January, the essays are collected at the schools and a committee of DAR members read them and select winners. The women look for historical accuracy, originality and style of writing; one winner is chosen from each grade level. Schools in this area which participated in this year's contest included St. Anthony's, West Central, Bluebonnet, Northwest, Shirley, Walcott, Friona Junior High and Dimmitt Middle Schools.

Students recognized

Area students were given special recognition during the Honors Tea April 23 hosted by members of the Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR. Mayor Wes Fisher is shown congratulating some of the American History Essay winners. Karen Manchec (at left, center) was one of the students who received second place in the contest. First place winners were Bree Perrin and Natalie McWhorter whose essays will be sent to the state competition.

Awards, medals, and certificates will be given at each school by DAR members during annual awards ceremonies held in May.

The welcome and introduction at the tea were given by Los Ciboleros Chapter Regent Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Sr. She led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and Mrs. Rose led the group in the reading of "The American's Creed." The Preamble to the Constitution was led by Mrs. LeRoy Williamson and chapter members and guests sang the national anthem.

Reinauer introduced Mayor Wes Fisher who made various presentations. Mrs. C.F. Newsom was presented with a DAR pin in recognition of the work she has done while serving as chairperson of the Bicentennial Committee for Hereford and Mrs. Stanford Knox was presented with a book in appreciation for her work done on the committee with the Texas Sesquicentennial Celebration. Also, Argen Draper, who was not present, will be given a book.

It was announced that Elvira Enriquez, who is a new U.S. Citizen, will be presented the American flag. Mayor Fisher spoke of the study done for the process of naturalization and passing the tests.

Guests present at the tea were Mr. and Mrs. Pat Manchec, David, Mike and Karen; Heather Hennessy; Mrs. Earl Holt; Mr. and Mrs. Steve McWhorter and Natalie; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Perrin, Bree, Colt and Carla; Mrs. R.V. Thomas; Jennifer King; Melvin Faulkner; C.F. Newsom; and Mayor Fisher.

Los Ciboleros Chapter members in attendance included Mmes. Joe Reinauer, Sr., Gid Brown, Melvin Faulkner, Buryl Fish, LeRoy Williams, Charles Bell, Austin Rose, Jr., L.W. Norvell, Herman Drake, C.F. Newsom, J.J. Durham, Stanford Knox and Abel Ruga.

Mi amigo David, porque te fuiste?
Los dejaste solo, los dejaste triste.
No lo puedo creer, que no estas aqui
Pero mi corazon, llorra por ti.

Quisiera con todo el alma, y hablar contigo
Y contarte muchas cosas, mi gran amigo.
Lagrimas, no esplican, lo que yo siento
Pero tu sabes mi pensamiento.

Dicen que los hombres, no deben llorar
Pero las lagrimas en mis ojos, no me dejan pensar.
Lo siento mucho por todos, que dejaste triste
Y no puedo comprender, porque te fuiste.

Solo Dios sabe porque te hablo temprano
Y el sabe tambien, que eras como un hermano.
Solo deseo y tambien anhelo
Que te tenga en el cielo.

Nada mas puedo escribir, y nada mas puedo decir
Solo que me despido, me gran amigo.

Residents' son marries Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Kimberlee Ann Wilkes of Hurst and Blair Hunt Rogers of Waco early Saturday evening in First Baptist Church in Euless, Texas. Dr. Ron Cook, pastor of First Baptist Church in Hereford, officiated during the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Kenneth and Annabelle Wilkes of Hurst and the bridegroom is the son of Kenneth and Lucy Rogers of 32 Yucca Drive, Hereford.

Three 15-light fans, adorned with fresh greenery, were placed at the center of the church altar which featured a stone wall background. Flanking the fans were two column floral arrangements of pink gladioli, white spider mums, pink snapdragons and large white stative mums. On either side of the floral columns were sets of spiral candles, also accented with fresh greenery. Pews were decorated by pink and white bows.

The bride's sisters served as honor attendants: Kaye Wilkes of Hurst was maid of honor and Keri Hicks of Sugarland was matron of honor.

Best man was Robbie Snyder of McAllen.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Melinda Wandling of San Antonio, Jennifer Jacobson of Fort Worth, Mary Ruth Casper of Lufkin, Texas, and Amy Storrie of Big Spring.

Groomsmen were the groom's brother-in-law, Ed Wandling of San Antonio; the groom's cousin, Dwayne Rogers of Leakey, Texas; Jeff Yates of Houston; and Matt Albracht and Mike Scott, both of Hereford.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother-in-law, Paul Hicks of Sugarland; the groom's cousin, Jac Cavness of San Angelo; Rob Winter of Laguna Hills, Calif.; and Dallas Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn.

Flower girls were the bride's niece, Katherine Hicks, daughter of Paul and Keri Hicks, and the groom's niece, Angela Wandling, daughter of Ed and Melinda Wandling.

Ring bearer was the bride's cousin, Chad Swanberg, son of Dennis and Lauree Swanberg. The ring pillow used in the ceremony was also used in the bride's sister's wedding.

Candles were lit by the bride's brother-in-law, Paul Hicks, and the groom's cousin, Jac Cavness.

During the ceremony, Karen Skinner of Grapevine vocalized "He Has Chosen You For Me" and Dean Pyle of Dallas sang "Say Once More" and "The Lord's Prayer." Playing the organ was Patricia Neighbors of Fort Worth and Barry Brake of San Antonio played the piano.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer's gown of silk Shantung, imported Milano lace, silk flowers, pearls, borealis sequins and tiny silver beads. The fitted, basque bodice of Milano lace was heavily beaded with pearls, borealis sequins and tiny silver beads. The square front and back necklines were accentuated with on-or-off shoulder sleeves. The leg-of-mutton sleeves were puffed with Shantung with gauntlets of beaded lace. The shoulders were adorned with double ruffles of Shantung that were tucked with bows and silk flowers. The full gathered Shantung skirt swept back into an elegant slightly puffed cathedral-length train. Bows and silk flowers were tucked at the hipline and a large, double fan bow created a bustle to finish the back.

The bride also wore a white garter accented with white and blue roses and ribbon. Completing her ensemble were white silk Shantung shoes trimmed at the toes with pearl and beaded flowers and leaves.

To complement her gown, the bride wore a beaded headpiece accented with four puffs and short full tiers of veil laced with pearls.

She carried a loose, cascading bouquet of white orchids, bridal roses, stephanotis, English ivy, white stative accented with sprays of pearls and entwining ribbons. She also carried her grandmother's linen handkerchief.

Her jewelry consisted of a strand of pearls belonging to her mother and rhinestone cluster and pearl drop earrings.

Bridal attendants were attired alike in formal-length designer gowns. Each was fashioned with a fitted basque bodice of ice pink taffeta with an overlay of chiffon. The square front and dropped back necklines were accented with off-the-shoulder chiffon sleeves which were gathered by two rosettes. The fully gathered skirt was accented with a fan bow with a rosette at the center and graduated hemline. They also wore matching satin shoes and ice pink headpieces of silk roses, stephanotis and sprays of pearls. They carried loose cascading bouquets of orchids, pink roses, miniature carnations and English ivy adorned with pink and white picot ribbon streamers.

The flower girls dresses were designed and custom tailored by the groom's mother to match the bridesmaids' ensembles. Each dress featured a fitted basque bodice of ice pink taffeta with an overlay of chiffon. The rounded neckline was accented with a band of pearls and the chiffon sleeves were gathered with two rosettes. The fully gathered tea-length skirt was accented with a fan bow with a rosette in the center. The girls wore baby doll shoes accented with pink roses and bows. They also wore ice pink and white headpieces in their hair and they carried white wicker baskets filled with potpourri and fresh flowers.

Markay White of Hereford invited guests to register at the reception held in the foyer area of the church.

Cake was served by Karen Padgett of Moody, Texas and Michelle Fulton of Fort Worth. Punch and coffee were poured by Markay White and the bride's cousin, Michelle Benton of Fort Worth. Also, assisting in the houseparty was Erma Jo Logan, the bride's aunt.

The three-tiered custom designed bride's wedding cake was filled with mousse and fresh strawberries and iced with buttermilk. It was decorated with shades of pink hand-sculptured and painted sugar orchids, roses, stephanotis and white lattice work. Each tier, bordered at the bottom with hand-sculptured sugar English ivy leaves, was separated by rounded columns. The cake was topped with a dome of a combination of all the flowers on the cake.

The bride's table was covered with delicate white lace trimmed with pink and white roses and bows. Pink roses, orchids and English ivy in specially designed candleholders with flowers also accented the table as did the silver appointments including the punch bowl.

The focal point of the groom's table was the two-tiered custom designed chocolate iced cake filled with mousse and velvet chocolate. Shaved chocolate and shaved almonds covered the top of the bottom tier and the cake was topped with a dome of chocolate dipped strawberries that cascaded down the entire length of the cake. It was also topped by hand-sculptured white stephanotis.

Further, accented the groom's table were candleholders with pink roses, orchids and English ivy and a silver coffee service and silver tea service.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Hawaii, the bride chose to wear a two-piece designer's suit ensemble. The fitted quilted cotton jacket with royal blue polka dots on a white background was fashioned with a button front and peplum bottom. The slim skirt, also of quilted cotton, had a white background and royal blue stripes. Completing her traveling apparel were royal blue shoes with white rosettes and royal blue polka dots, and a white handbag. The bride's ring, custom designed by the groom and his mother and created by Brenda Reinauer of Hereford, consisted of four bagettes from the groom's mother and four bagetts from the bride's mother.

The couple will make their home in Dallas.

The ring pillow used in the ceremony was also used in the bride's wedding.

The stiff bow rice basket was designed and made by the bride's mother and the bird seed bags were made by the bride's mother and Mary Mooney.

The bride, a graduate of Richland High School, attended the University of North Texas in Denton and graduated from Baylor University with a B.A. degree. She is currently a flight attendant with American Airlines of Dallas.

The groom, a Hereford High School graduate, graduated from Baylor University with a B.B.A. degree. He is presently employed with Equitable Co. in Dallas.

Attending the wedding from Hereford were Mary Beth White, Mysedia Smith and Joyce Allred. Also, attending were Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lewis of Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Hicks, Tom Cavness, and Lt. and Mrs. Kenny Weldon, all of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rogers and Josie Haby, all of Leakey; Mabel Hunt of Kerrville; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Jac Cavness, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cavness and Kelby of Lewisville; Mike Allred of Lubbock; Markay White and Mr. and Mrs. Champ Fitzhugh, all of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weldon of Vivian, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hubble of Navasota, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Lennart Wahlquist and family of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Snyder, Tricia and Matthew, all of McAllen; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Samples of Midlothian; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Scott of Hurst; and Michele Nasi of Portales, N.M.

MRS. MARK EDWARD SCOTT
...Leslie Ann Albracht

Albracht, Scott exchange vows

Wedding vows were exchanged by Leslie Ann Albracht and Mark Edward Scott, both of Lubbock, during a mid-afternoon ceremony Saturday in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Lubbock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Albracht of 125 Kingwood and the bridegroom is the son of Clarence Scott of Hereford and Jan Wooley of Houston.

The marriage was officiated by Father William Dillon of the church.

Two tall foliage arrangements of magnolia and southern smilax decorated the church altar. At the front of the altar was an all-white arrangement of calla lilies, gerbera daisies, alstroemeria and enchantment lilies.

Leslie Birdwell served as maid of honor and Terry Watson was best man.

The bride's cousin, Danna Zimmerman of Ashville, N.C., was bridesmaid and groomsmen was the bride's brother, Aaron Albracht.

Guests were escorted by Mark Taylor, Alex Schmucker and Drue Gault.

The groom's sister, Kimberly Jo Scott, was flower girl and candles were lit by Brent Marnell and Michael Kriegshauser.

Ralph Deiten, accompanied on the organ by Denise Deiten, sang "Let Me Walk". Also, played by the organist was "Trumpet's Voluntary."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an antique white satin gown fashioned with a Victorian neckline accented with Venice lace and tear-drop seed pearls. The leg-of-mutton sleeves came to points at the wrists. The fitted bodice was covered with appliques of silk Venice lace and pearls which came to a point in the back with a bow holding a draped straight skirt. The chapel-length train was made of embroidered lace.

The bride's white pearl headband crested in the back with a triple bubble pouf of white illusion falling at the shoulders.

She carried a cascading bouquet of English ivy, gardenias, roses and white dendrobium orchids.

Her jewelry consisted of her great-grandmother's gold wedding band and her grandmother's wedding ring.

Bridal attendants wore black and white matinee-length taffeta dresses designed with full circle skirts. The dresses also featured rosette ruffled sleeves tipped in black, sweetheart necklines and ruffled bodices. They carried garden bouquets of all white flowers.

Guests were greeted at the reception held in Hanley Hall.

Cindy Bell and Charleen Harsnape served cake and punch and coffee were poured by Brenda Shroyer and Jodie McElhane. Ricky Vogel served champagne.

Lattice and greenery formed the background for the bride's and groom's tables at the reception. An arrangement of enchantment lilies, calla lilies and gerbera daisies adorned the tables and matching fresh flowers garnished the Italian cream wedding cake.

Leaving for a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride wore a navy and white polka dot dress with navy and white spectator shoes.

The couple will make their home in Lubbock.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1985 and attended Texas Tech University for three years where she majored in advertising. She is presently employed at Margaret's in Lubbock. She is a member of Chi Rho Fraternity.

The groom, a 1986 graduate of HHS, is attending Texas Tech where he is majoring in electrical engineering. He is employed at Texas Instruments in Lubbock.

Out-of-town wedding guests included the bride's aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Ron L. Zimmerman of Ashville, N.C.; Mary Ellen Vaughn and Tim Vaughn of Borger; and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Burns and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kriegshauser, all of Clovis, N.M.

Klos to compete in finals

Heather Rachell Klos, daughter of Chris and Kim Klos of Hereford, has been selected to compete in the state finals for the title of Texas' Favorite Pre-Teen. The competition will be held Aug. 27 at Stouffer Austin Hotel in Austin.

Heather is nine-years-old and is in the third grade at Tierra Blanca School. Her hobbies include drawing, camping and writing poetry.

The gross domestic product of Latin America expanded at a rate of 2.6 percent in 1987, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The bank said the region had been unable to maintain the pace it had set during 1984-86, which averaged 3.6 percent.

During novelist and Nobel laureate William Faulkner's brief enrollment at the University of Mississippi, he made a D in English, and one of the school's literary societies refused him membership, says National Geographic.

Northwest School to feature 'Around the World With Beef'

Students in the Northwest Elementary School will experience the culture and cuisine of five countries May 1 through May 5, and they'll do it without ever leaving their school grounds.

The school district, in conjunction with Texas CattleWomen, will instigate a beef lunchroom promotion called "Where In The World Did You Eat Today?" or "Around The World With Beef."

Each day of the week, the cafeteria will be transformed into a different country with table top displays, decorations, travel posters, and authentic music from the country of the day. Cafeteria staff will dress up to add to the excitement. Each day's menu offering will feature a beef entree representative of the country being "visited."

Each student will also receive a passport at the beginning of the week. As they participate in the planned events for that day's country by purchasing the featured entree from the cafeteria, they will receive a passport sticker from that country. "We want to instill in the students a cultural awareness of the five countries studied and the role beef plays in that country's diet," Cathy Bunch, Texas CattleWoman said. "Only those students who participate receive a passport sticker, so we anticipate an increase in lunchroom participation during this week. The program encourages students to eat the nutritionally-balanced meals served in the school lunchroom."

The week's schedule features beef meals from Mexico, Italy, England, Ghana, and Japan. An added touch will include the availability of chopsticks for the Japanese meal.

A poster contest will also be held. Students from each grade level will create posters that depict something about the featured country. Winners will receive gift certificates to local restaurants which serve foods from the featured countries.

Toastmasters assemble

The Ranch House Restaurant was the site of Thursday morning's meeting of the Hereford Toastmasters Club.

Lynn Cook presided over the meeting which opened with invocation given by Joe Weaver.

"Procure" was the word given by Tom Weemes, word master, and Weaver served as table topic master. General evaluator was Cook, toastmaster was Rocky Lee, and timer was Joe Walters.

Doc Adams spoke on "Jonah and the Whale," an inspirational talk that served as an advanced manual speech. Chuck Danley discussed "Making a List and Checking It Twice," a study of planning and achieving goals.

Table topics included "Quality vs. Price" by Cook; "Jim Wright" by Weemes; "Lucille Ball" by Joe Don Cummings; and "Animal Rights" by Walters.

Cummings was chosen best table topics speaker.

Members present were Cook, Weemes, Cummings, Walters, Weaver, Adams, Lee, and Danley.

Thank You

My sincere thanks, to all the good people of Hereford, for your prayers, & loving concern for me when I had my heart attacks. I appreciate the cards, visits, phone calls & any kind thing you did for me here at home & while at the hospital here & at Amarillo. Thanks to the hospital staff & the ambulance crew & doctors who helped save my life.

Thanks for all you are doing & have done for both my wife & myself. May God, bless you always.

Sincerely,

Slides of European tour shown to Veleda Study Club

Art and Mary Stoy presented a program of slides taken on their European tour when members of Veleda Study Club met recently in the home of Juanita Brown.

The guest speakers told of visiting with friends Art Stoy had known while stationed in Scotland and England during World War II. Following a sight-seeing tour of Scotland with friends and a 10-day stay in that country and England, the Stoy's joined a tour group to visit Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. The slides exhibited the traditional tourist attractions as well as other points of interests in the countries.

President Norma Walden opened the meeting and led the group in reading the club collect. She also welcomed special guests, Marcella Hoffman, Kathryn Smith and Gayle Wortham.

The nominating committee submitted to the club the continuation of the current officers to serve for the 1989-90 club year. Members accepted the state of officers. The office of parliamentarian will be left vacant.

It was announced that the club's closing meeting of the year will be held at Something Special.

Brown served refreshments to guests, and to club members, Marcella Bradly, Betty Dickson, Ruth Fish, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutchins, Majorie Lasiter, Joyce Ritter, Norma Walden and Margaret Zinser.

The first Christmas tree recorded, was seen in Strasbourg in 1605, although some say it may have been displayed in Alsace as early as 1521.

Former resident weds in afternoon ceremony

Former Hereford resident, Diedra Dziuk of San Antonio, and John Martinez of Marina Del Rey, Calif. exchanged nuptials in an afternoon ceremony, April 1, in Comfort Common in Comfort, Texas. The marriage was officiated by the Rev. Tom Bradfield of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Comfort.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Ann Deck of Comfort and Edward Dziuk, Jr. of Hereford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Martinez of San Antonio.

Wedding vows were spoken in a gazebo and the reception was held on the surrounding grounds.

Becky Dziuk of Dallas served as her sister's maid of honor and best man was the groom's brother, James Martinez of San Antonio.

Ushers were the bride's brothers, Steve Dziuk of Thousand Oaks, Calif. and Chris Dziuk of Seattle, Wash.

Serving as junior bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Charlotte and Gwendolyn Massie of Gonzales, Texas.

Principal wedding selections, "Angel Eyes" and "Wedding Song", were played by guitarist, Tim Holt of San Antonio.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a tea-length candlelight chiffon gown designed with a rounded neckline, full chiffon sleeves accented with floral appliques, molded dropped waist and a flared skirt.

The bride's matching headpiece was embossed with flowers and miniature seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white orchids surrounded by coral roses and accented with greenery, baby's breath and ribbon streamers.

In keeping with bridal tradition, the bride also wore a garter worn by her aunt, Mrs. B.G. Massie of Gonzales, in her wedding 42 years ago.

The groom's daughter, Tracy Martinez of Ohio, invited guests to register at the reception.

Toi Cunningham of Austin served cake, and punch and coffee were poured by Jane Thomas of San Antonio and the bride's sister-in-law, Susan Dziuk of Thousand Oaks, Calif. Other members of the houseparty included April Massie of Pikes Peak and Sammie Massie of Gonzales.

The couple will reside in San Antonio until late August when they plan to make their home in California.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Hereford High School, has been employed as a court reporter since 1984.

The bridegroom is employed with Beverly Hills Sports Cars in Beverly Hills, Calif.

YOUR EYES

ASTIGMATISM

In most of us, the cornea -- the front surface of the eye -- is not perfectly spherical. This irregularity is known as astigmatism.

A small amount of astigmatism usually presents no vision problem. But when the cornea's irregularities tend to make it more oval than spherical, rays of light entering the eye fall short of the retina or go beyond it. This can distort the images we see, either at distance or nearpoint. Astigmatism is often accompanied by farsightedness or nearsightedness.

When astigmatism exists, it tends to gradually increase after the age of 12. Moderate amounts may cause headaches, tired eyes and squinting. At some point it may also cause blurred vision.

Properly prescribed eyeglasses correct astigmatism. So do soft, toric contact lenses that are especially designed to fit over the cornea. Gas permeable lenses are more effective for people with large amount of astigmatism.

Entertainment

Movie review column will begin Thursday

A new movie review column, "Have Fun At The Movies," will debut Thursday in the Brand, Managing Editor John Brooks announced today. The review is prepared by Gail Reagan of Texarkana. Ms. Reagan has performed in theatres across the country, and is sharing her love of movies through her column.

The column will not only review the latest movie releases, but will also focus on new, and not-so-new, video releases.

"I think our readers will enjoy Gail's column," Brooks said. "She reviews them just like you or I would: it's down to earth, and she relates to us more than someone from New York or Los Angeles would."

The column will run on a new Thursday entertainment page so Brand readers will have information available to help make weekend plans. The Brand hopes to increase the page to have more information on events happening in other cities, besides local events, movie reviews and television listings.

The page is also designed to give local entertainment-related businesses an advertising forum so potential customers can see what is available for them in Hereford.

"I hope our readers will enjoy the new entertainment page," Brooks said.

Chase enjoying newest 'Fletch'

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Chevy Chase lives, and so does Fletch, the ham-handed investigative journalist with a talent for assuming disguises.

The pair can be seen in the new Universal Picture "Fletch Lives," in which the Los Angeles reporter invades the Deep South. The ham-hocks-and-turnip-greens depiction of Southerners may well stir up more indignation than "Mississippi Burning."

While Fletch may assume many identities, Chase's image has remained the same since he emerged in "Saturday Night Live": the clumsy know-it-all who bumbles into situations over his head.

The comedian has this to say about Fletch: "I guess he's daring. Stupidly so, but he's daring. And he has values, morals, he cares about people, he cares for his safety, that's clear. He doesn't like to pass up on a story. He's an investigative reporter. He tends to want to follow up. I'm looking for some depth in him, and I don't see it in that character. He's a shallow fellow."

"The part I had the most fun with is the part that is like me. It's the part of Fletch that is not in costume, not in wig and makeup. I enjoy inventing a lot of 'stuck,' like pinching my boss in the office and blaming it on the next guy. All of that comes easy to me," he said.

"The danger of doing this character is that ... it looks like that's who Chevy Chase is, and we don't like him. I'm not that way in real life."

Indeed, there seems to be a degree of maturity in Chevy Chase at age 45. No more the brash prankster whose wisecracks could be hurtful. Marriage, fatherhood and a session at the Betty Ford Clinic to kick painkillers for a back injury seem to have mellowed him.

Of his current life, Chase complains mildly: "It's too ordered. It's too busy. I have three children and one wife, and that's really my life."

The weak link in Latin America between research and development and its practical application constitutes a major stumbling block in the region's way of making advances in the field of biotechnology, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. In Latin America, nearly all research and development is carried out at universities and other specialized centers which traditionally shun the practical business of putting new techniques into production. At the same time, manufacturing firms do virtually no R&D themselves.

Falk happy with 'Columbo'

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Unlike many actors who are anxious to leave old series characters behind, Peter Falk readily admits he is happy to be back playing "Columbo."

Falk feels comfortable as the rumpled, ruminating, detective he created in the original series that ran on NBC from 1971-77. He won three Emmy awards as best actor for the role.

"Columbo" is now a part of the "ABC Mystery Movie" lineup.

"I was sorry it went off the air the last time," says Falk, sitting on a stool by an easel in the art studio behind his Beverly Hills home. "I think there's still a lot of life left in that character. I think it'll be a terrific character to see grow old. It'll be fun to see him creaking around."

"I don't think his emotional appeal has anything to do with age. I think he'll be even funnier as he grows old. 'I don't feel well, sir. Sorry, forgive me, it takes me a while to get up these steps.'"

As he talks, Falk squirms on the stool. He screws up his face. His brows knit. He suddenly smiles. He throws back an arm to scratch his head. His shirt rises up to reveal his bare belly.

It's like watching Columbo go through his routine. Here, it's merely fun to watch Falk. On the screen, Columbo's mannerisms are calculated to make the suspect underestimate him. He may put the suspect off guard or make him so exasperated he makes a mistake.

The art studio is devoted to Falk's work as a charcoal artist. He also works in pencil and in black and sepia crayons in a turn-of-the-century French style. On the easel and around the studio are examples of his drawings of the female figure. They are reminiscent of Edgar Degas' "ballet girl" sketches.

"I've been drawing about 13 years," Falk says. "But it's not how long you've been doing it, but how often. I'd rather do nothing but draw for two years straight than dabble for 13 years."

Elaine May, his sometime collaborator on films, told Falk that she saw Columbo as "a backward Sherlock Holmes."

"Sherlock Holmes had a long neck," he says. "Columbo has a short, thick neck. Holmes was an aristocrat. Columbo is from the streets. Holmes smoked a meerschaum pipe. Columbo smokes 35-cent Italian cigars. Holmes was an elegant dresser. I can't find the words to describe Columbo's wardrobe."

"What they have in common is an insatiable curiosity, a fierce logic, flashes of intuition and an innate sense about human behavior. They are helpless victims of their

Idle likes new series

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Eric Idle, like a knight-errant in comic armor, has cut a swath from Monty Python's Flying Circus in his native England to his new series for NBC, "Nearly Departed."

He's also found time recently for a role as Berhold, the fastest man alive, in "The Adventures of Baron Munchausen" and as Passeportout, Phileas Fogg's woman-chasing, wine-bibbing French valet, in the NBC miniseries "Around the World in 80 Days."

In "Nearly Departed," he and Caroline McWilliams play spirits, only recently departed, who try to dislodge the new occupants from their home.

"It's not polite comedy," he says. "I seriously want those people out of the house."

own obsessions. They have to find out, they have to know what really happened. They are both cerebral rather than physical. Columbo can't stand guns or the sound of gunfire. He doesn't even carry a gun. He's got too many papers in his pockets."

"Columbo" was created by two of television's foremost practitioners of crime, William Link and the late Richard Levinson. The character made his first appearance on a summer mystery show with Bert Freed in 1960. Thomas Mitchell was Columbo in a stage play, "Prescription: Murder," that later became the first Columbo movie in 1968. Bing Crosby and Lee J. Cobb reportedly turned down the role before it went to Falk.

In 1979, NBC attempted to capitalize on "Columbo" by doing a spinoff starring his wife. Columbo frequently referred to his wife, but she was never seen. Falk's idea of Mrs. Columbo was that she was a homebody surrounded by children.

But "Kate Loves a Mystery" introduced a young, beautiful and stylish Mrs. Columbo played by Kate Mulgrew. The show was a dud and NBC quickly changed her name to Kate Callahan to erase any reference to Lt. Columbo. The show was still a disaster and was gone by the end of the year.

"I never approved of showing her," Falk says. "That way everyone could have his own idea of what she was like."

Falk recently completed the feature movies "In the Spirit" and "Cookie," which have not yet been released.

Annual observance scheduled

Church Women United is sponsoring its annual May Fellowship Day, Friday, May 5.

The observance will begin with a covered dish luncheon at 11:45 a.m. Friday in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church hosted by the Carrie Black Circle of United Methodist Women. The pastors of all churches will be special guests. A nursery will be provided.

Following the luncheon, a worship service is planned. The theme of this year's May Fellowship Day service will be "To Pray Is To Listen."

Women's Spiritual Advance May 12-13

Women's Spiritual Advance will be held at the Community Church May 12-13.

Evangelist Delilah Baum will speak at the event on Friday, May 12 at 9 a.m. with lunch provided and a session will commence at 7 p.m. The Saturday session will begin at 9 a.m.

Baum, considered by many to be a dynamic modern-day evangelist, has appeared on numerous television and radio programs through New Mexico.

She has ministered on the streets to the youth, in prisons, at women's meeting, retreats, churches and conference. She is also a chaplain with the Albuquerque Police Department, assisting with counseling and working with the loved ones of homicide and suicide victims. An ordained minister, an ICFM member, and gospel recording, Baum is married to her husband, Steve, and lives in Albuquerque, N.M.

A nursery will be provided for all three sessions. The public is invited to attend the event.

For more information, call 364-8866 or 364-2423.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTIFICATION OF

FmHA'S FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has received an application for financial assistance from Rocca Partners, Ltd. The specific elements of this proposed action are construction of a 28-unit FmHA Section 515 farm labor housing complex in Hereford, Texas.

FmHA has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, FmHA will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within 15 days of this publication to Mr. J. Lynn Futch, State Director, FmHA, 101 South Main, Suite 102, Temple, Texas 76501. FmHA will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this 15-day period. Requests to review the FmHA environmental assessment upon which this determination is based, or to receive a copy of it should be directed to the above address.

Osburn, Precure united in marriage

Laura Michelle Osburn of Hereford and Michael Ross Precure of Muleshoe exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon, April 8, in Temple Baptist Church of Hereford.

Rev. H.W. Bartlett, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Osburn of Hereford. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Precure of Muleshoe.

Gayla Fortner, the bride's cousin, served as maid of honor. Best man was Frank Precure, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids included Leslie Hanson of Richardson, Markay White of Hereford, Teri Boone of Canadian, and Connie Lindgren of Beaumont.

Groomsmen were Alan Finney and the groom's brothers, Carroll, Wayne, and Doug Precure. Guests were seated by ushers Clay Osburn, the bride's brother, and Andy Copely, Scott Calvert, and Ben Allison.

Joshua Osburn of Amarillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Osburn, was train bearer. Flower girl was Sharon Tucker of Odessa, daughter of Mrs. Dale Kalich, the bride's aunt. Dustin Precure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Precure, served as ring bearer.

Lighting candles were Derek Osburn, the bride's brother, and Amy Harrison of Muleshoe, the groom's cousin.

Musical selections were performed by pianist Denise Detten and Alan Finney of Muleshoe, trumpeter, who heralded the bride's entrance. The bride's cousin, John Fortner of Corsicana, sang principal wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer's gown of candlelight regal satin fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline culminating in a high collar. Bedecked with Bishop sleeves, the princess-style bodice was crowned with clusters of jewelled flowers and molded medallions and featured a Basque waistline. A full and flowing satin skirt featuring Venice lace medallions and crystallized hand-beaded designs extended into a full-length Queen's Court Cathedral train composed of satin accented with European lace cut-outs, bordered with a satin ruffle on the train's edge. The back of the gown showed a runner of pearl buttons.

She wore a veil of bridal illusion trimmed in lace and featuring a traditional blusher. She carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies, gardenias, baby white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath. Bridal tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue was observed as the bride carried a Bible which her mother carried in her wedding; wore a birthday gift from the groom consisting of pearl earrings; wore a pearl necklace belonging to her mother; and wore a blue garter. Completing the bride's ensemble was a penny in her shoe bearing the year 1969, the year of her birth.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the house party serving refreshments were Emily Fortner, Trish Burgess, Polly Harrison, and Christy Burford. Others assisting included Joan Baldwin and Lola Curtsinger. Presiding at the registry was Karon Fortner, cousin of the bride.

As the couple embarked on a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride wore a candlelight, streetlength dress marked at the waist by a peplum, which extended from the front down the back. A Queen Anne collar topped the dress; her ensemble was completed with a matching clutch bag and shoes featuring clip-on bows.

The couple will reside outside of Muleshoe where he is engaged in farming.

The bride, a 1987 graduate of Hereford High School, attended Texas Tech University where she was a member of High Riders.

The groom graduated in 1986 from Muleshoe High School, entered the U.S. Navy, and attended West Texas State University.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mrs. E.M. Pruitt of Seminole and George Osburn of Houston; the groom's grandparents, Mrs. W.F. Harrison of Arkansas and Mrs. R.D. Precure of Muleshoe;

Also, Messrs. and Mmes. T.J. Coston of House, N.M., John Fortner of Corsicana, Heck Fortner of Brownwood, Keith Fortner of Kaufman, and Dale Kalich of Odessa. Also attending were relatives from Muleshoe and Clovis.

"There should be no embarrassment whatsoever about asking about prices for a funeral service."

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do.

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

For more information on Pre-need funeral plans call us or fill in the coupon printed below and we'll be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Please send me information about your Pre-need funeral plans. I think this might be the answer of how to arrange a memorial service which would be in keeping with my personal desires.

Salesman Confesses

Claims newspaper is best salesman

On Monday, Jules Wintner, owner of a local retail establishment, confessed his job as a salesman was obsolete due to the impact of newspaper advertising. Wintner, in an exclusive interview, said sales were made in the local paper instead of in the store.

"Sure, we get a chance for additional sales," Wintner commented, "but the newspaper has become our best salesman." Wintner reported that consumers name the local newspaper as their usual source of "Best Buy" information, 10 times more than radio or television. This conforms with a recent Consumer Data Service report that indicated 60% of the consumers seek "Best Buy" information from the newspaper versus only 6% for radio and 7% for television.

Wintner later remarked that because the newspaper is read by all Texans, regardless of income, his business was able to sell both upper end products as well as value priced items. "No matter what we're selling, we get good response in the newspaper," he said. "In fact, the more expensive the product, the better our response seems to be." This fact is substantiated in a survey by the Texas Newspaper Advertising Bureau that documented readership of the newspaper increases as income increases. In the survey, almost 75% of Texans with incomes exceeding $50,000 a year read

Salesman admits he "never had to sell anything" because of newspaper ads

"Our customers shop the newspaper. When they walk in the door, they already know what they want, they know the price and often have the ad with them."

the newspaper.
 "My job has become redundant," Wintner admitted. "Used to be I had to really sell each customer, but now I'm just an order taker." Asked what he intended to do now that the newspaper was doing most of the selling, he replied, "Spend more in newspaper advertising than last year."

FROM PIGGY BANKS TO SAVINGS BANKS

NEW YORK (AP) - A new venture aimed at teaching children about money, banking and personal finances is currently under way, according to a financial planning publication.

The idea involves not only a franchise of banking services either within a bank or a retail location, but also educational books, videos and computer programs, notes Financial Services Week.

Included are basic budgeting skills and subjects ranging from how a bank works to insurance, investing and basics on starting a business.
