Hereford Learning Center plans outlined

By SPEEDY NIEMAN Editor-Publisher

The concept of establishing a job training center in Hereford to upgrade skill levels has blossomed into a full learning center project, and the idea will become a reality this fall when the first classes and courses are scheduled to begin.

Charles Greenawalt, chairman of the Hereford Learning Center board of directors, revealed the goals and objectives of the program Thursday during a board session with local Chamber of Commerce study in 1987 to identify ways to better prepare local residents for the existing job market or for better employment. Greenawalt says the board expanded the concept to include continuing adult education and courses "limited only by the imagination."

After the chamber initiated the study, the concept was turned over to the Hereford Industrial Foundation. Chamber officials felt that the community's potential for existing and Initiated by a Deaf Smith County future industrial growth could be limited because of a lack of local opportunities to upgrade skill levels.

The Foundation then appointed a board of directors to develop the learning center plan. Members of the Hereford Learning Center board are Greenawalt, Tom LeGate, Bobby Owen, Tom Simons, Helen Langley, Doug Manning, Hilda Garza, Mike Carr, Mike Bowles and Larry Malamen.

"We're very excited about the possibilities of the program and the benefits it could provide to our community and area," said Greenawalt, who is also the HISD superintendent. While there are questions to be answered on funding and facilities, the HLC board plans to open the program with classes this fall. The board envisions a learning center curriculum offering everything from welding to computer programming, from conversational Spanish to college-credit courses, from training local people to work in a new industry to teaching a local group how to play bridge.

While the HLC board presented some guidelines Thursday for the operation of the learning center, Greenawalt emphasized that the plans "are not set in concrete." He said the plans and concepts "can be adjusted to meet the proven needs and financial capabilities of the county and area."

Child Welfare Board seeking volunteer help

By ANDREA LAMB Staff Writer

A bulging case load and the need for the human touch has prompted the Deaf Smith County may like to just transport, but Child Welfare Board to seek volunteers willing to help the overworked Hereford Child Protective Services.

"The volunteers will work with individual families (mainly parents) under stress, intervening to prevent child abuse or neglect," said Dan Jackson, Child Protective Services supervisor for Deaf Smith County who addressed board members on Wednesday.

help a family with budgetary problems or anything of this nature. violent family situation."

The volunteers can develop a rapport with the parents more said Stanford. easily than a case worker could. said Jackson, because any official representative of Child Protective Services presents the threat of taking the parents' children.

"The family gets to know that volunteer and it gives the family a sense of security. In fact, the ties can become so strong that the family will refuse to work with anyone but that volunteer," said Jackson.

Finding the words to say to a family may be enough to scare any person from volunteering, but Jackson said each volunteer will be prepared to manage the situa-

"We won't let the volunteers go in blindly. Each volunteer will have a certain time to counsel, a certain situation to minister to and a certain way to handle it," said Jackson, who said each volunteer works approximately three hours per week.

This preparedness comes through training.

Each volunteer must complete 18 hours of training provided by the Department of Human Services, and the volunteer may select the types of situations with which he is most comfortable such as helping a family with financial problems, aiding a mother with child care or just providing transporation for the families.

But the volunteers needn't worry about having to act as a chauffeur.

"We won't be using these volunteers just as transportation aides--we'll put them where they're most comfortable," Jackson stated. "Some people that's not what we're going to require."

Using volunteers strictly for transportation was one of the stumbling blocks which ultimately caused the Borger Child Protection Services volunteer program to fail, said Claudia Stanford, regional volunteer coordinator for DHS.

"A lot of the staff workers at Borger gave volunteers the menial tasks such as transporting "These volunteers may help a these families. Most of the young mother with parenting, volunteers got burned out on that pretty quickly. Plus, we didn't know what we were getting into They will not be thrown into a because Borger was the first place we tried to use volunteers with Child Protective Services,"

The volunteers at Borger were also inadequately screened-a process involving two or three interview sessions the person must undergo before volunteering.

"It's imperative that we screen your potential volunteers well," Stanford stated. "A person may look perfect for the job on paper, but once you start talking to them, you may find they're not right for the position. Always go on your gut reaction."

With the fizzling of Borger's program, Hereford would be the only Panhandle city to use volunteers with Child Protective Services, added Stanford.

The idea of using volunteers is barely off the starting blocks, but the board is plowing full steam ahead by first designing a way to get volunteers.

"If we advertise wide-spread, we may get people we don't want," said County Judge Tom Simons. "Oftentimes you get people who are just nosey and don't care anything about helping people. Then on the other hand, we may get some sweet lady who goes in and does the family's dishes or cleans the house, and this may be just as detrimental as someone who offends the family." Each Child Welfare Board member is planning to submit several names of people they feel would serve well as a volunteer.

"If we end up with four or five good volunteers, that'll be plenty," said board member Mysedia Smith.

Simon halts campaign

By LAURA KING Associated Press Writer

The Democratic presidential quartet effectively becomes a trio today as Sen. Paul Simon puts his campaign on hold. Michael Dukakis and Albert Gore, meanwhile, zeroed in on Mideast issues, seen as a likely sore spot for Jesse Jackson in the upcoming New York primary.

Simon, who has lost everywhere except in his home state of Illinois, scheduled a Capitol Hill news conference to talk about his campaign future. Aides said he was suspending the campaign, but stopping short of dropping out.

The three remaining active Democrats were all campaigning today in New York, which holds its primary April 19. At stake are 255 delegates, in what will be the biggest state contest to date.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, in an interview published today, said he is unlikely to make an endorsement before the primary plenty of parley: Vice President George Bush, the nominee in all but name, met Wednesday with former rival Sen. Bob Dole, who pledged to work to get Bush elected. And Dole talked with Pat Robertson, who remains in the Republican race although he concedes he has little chance of being nominated.

Simon's decision to suspend campaigning "reflects the reality of having lost a great many primaries and caucuses," said spokesman Terry Michael, adding that by remaining in the race he would give his supporters a voice at the convention.

Simon made his last stand in Wisconsin, where he finished a weak fourth in Tuesday's primary. The Illinois senator ran second in the leadoff Iowa caucuses on Feb. 8, in what was to be his best showing of the campaign.

After finishing third in New Hampshire a week later, he did not have enough money to campaign actively for the round of contests on Super Tuesday, March 8, and was consequently clobbered.

For the other Democrats, the battle of New York began in earnest on Wednesday. Dukakis was at work courting voters in New York's large Jewish community, stressing the On the Republican side, there was need for a Mideast peace plan that would allow Israel to "live in peace and harmony.

EDSC to consider study plan

The Economic Development Strategy Council will consider a contract tonight at 7 p.m. at the Deaf Smith County Library to assess the technical and market feasibility of a commodity processing facility in Hereford.

Virgil Archer of Archer & Archer is interested in locating a research center here "if the community has the vision and the leadership to make it work," he told community leaders at a March 11 luncheon at the Hereford Country Club.

Ken Rogers, chairman of the Deaf Smith county Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee said there could be a "tremendous potential" in increasing the total agribusiness dollars in the area with the center.

The EDSC will also consider a contract with Zachary McWethy for a community-wide newsletter and again consider a kick-off rally for implementation of the Strategic Plan for Economic Development.

The meeting is open to the public.

INS will extend its deadline beyond May 4

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — It's only a month until the deadline for illegal aliens to apply for permanent U.S. residency under the amnesty program, but the federal government has granted an extension.

So long as they apply by May 4, they will be allowed up to two more months to produce the necessary documentation and medical examinations needed, said Omer Sewel, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Illegal aliens applying for amnesty must prove they have lived in the United States continuously since before Jan 1, 1982.

Previously, the INS required applicants to document their residency when they filed for amnesty.

Now, all they have to come up with initially is the filing fee and actual application. Then they'll be scheduled for an interview sometime in July or August, at which time documentation must be provided.

Sewel said the extension is part of a nationwide effort to encourage illegal aliens qualifying for amnesty to come forward.

"A number of people have waited until the last minute, and we're hoping this skeletal process will help a number of people here in the Valley," said Charlie Perez, chief legalization officer at the Harlingen amnesty center.

The Harlingen office, which has processed about

23,000 applications, hit its peak of activity last June and July, when about 200 applicants per day were process-

But recently, the application level his begun to approach last summer's peak, and Perez aid the office is bracing for a rush of activity, perhaps as many as 300 applicants on some days.

Perez said interviews will begin 60 days after the May 4 deadline and continue at a rate of about 40 a day until all applicants have been processed.

When the amnesty program began, officials expected about 40,000 applications in the Rio Grande Valley and 2 million nationwide.

Officials now expect about 27,000 to seek amnesty in the Valley. About 1.5 million have applied nationwide and that number is expected to grow to 2 million by May 4. Sewell said.

Perez said after the application and fee are filed, applicants will receive a work-authorization receipt that is good until the date of the interview, at which time a work authorization card will be issued.

That card is good for 6 months, the time it takes to process the application. Then, a temporary residence card and social security number are issued, which are good until 31 months after the original application date, when eligiblity for permanent residency begins.

Cactus meat packing plant opens doors

CACTUS, Texas (AP) - About 1,300 meatpackers left jobless after a March 7 shutdown at the Swift Independent Packing have been called back to work because of improved market conditions, company officials said.

Swift officials had said after the shutdown the company would make weekly evaluations of economic conditions affecting the industry and reopen when signs

When the plant colsed the Texas Cattle Feeders Association issued a statement accusing the company of trying to create an artificial beef shortage to increase prices.

"I'm glad their re-evaluation of the economic situation today ... convinced Swift to reopen the plant," said

'They said it was temporary. They didn't say exactly how long it would be," Mendez said. "We were hoping it would be less."

Mendez said Monday that many of the workers have left town in search of work, but may return to the plant when it reopens.

association spokesman Jim Gill. "We certainly hope they'll be able to maintain the plant and keep it open."

At the time Swift closed its doors, Gill said, cattle sold for 71 cents per pound and wholesale beef for $1 per pound. At the end of last week, live cattle sold for 75 cents per pound and wholesale beef for $1.06 per pound. "Conditions have improved a little bit from a packer's standpoint," he said. Felipe Mendez, chief steward for United Food and Commercial Workers Local 540, said the shutdown lasted longer than he had anticipated.

Paralytic wins $15.35 million in suit

BOSTON (AP) - A man hospitalized since being left quadriplegic by a gun-fired nail that severed his spine two years ago has settled a lawsuit for $15.35 million and says he'll use some of the money to help him return home.

Eugene Doran, an insurance agent and Vietnam veteran, was getting a haircut at a barbershop in suburban Andover on April 15, 1986, when he was hit by a 3-inch nail fired from a high-velocity gun being used to install a storage chest next door.

The settlement, reached Wednesday in the second day of a U.S. District Court trial and described as one of the largest of its kind in the nation, is to be paid by Taylor Rental Corp., its Andover franchise and makers of the nail gun, said Doran's lawyers.

"Here's a guy who came through Vietnam and the Tet offensive unscathed only to be shot down while having his hair cut," said one of the lawyers, James Meehan.

The 40-year-old Doran, who has been hospitalized since the accident, said he will use part of the money to fit his home with lifts and ramps.

"I'm just very relieved that one item - a very important item - is off our shoulders," said Doran, accompanied by his wife, Kathy, at a news conference at the Veterans Administration Hospital here. The couple have three children.

"I really have never had much anger ... maybe because it was an accident," he said.

Leo Boyle, another lawyer representing Doran, said the suit cited Taylor and a Taylor franchise in Andover for renting the gun after company headquarters ordered the units destroyed due to insurance liability problems.

A memo was sent to all Taylor company-owned rental centers a month before Doran was paralyzed, but the approximately 250 franchised outlets were not notified, the attorneys said.

The worker, an uninsured parttime carpenter, thought he was working on a concrete-backed wall when he shot the nail at chest level. The nail traveled through wood and Sheetrock before striking Doran in the side of the neck.

The high-velocity nail-gun used a .22-caliber cartridge to drive the nails at 700 to 800 feet a second, said Boyle. The guns are no longer produced in the United States, although low-velocity nail-guns are still in use, said Boyle.

The settlement is one of the top five lump-sum compensatory court settlements in U.S. history, said Donald Marshall, research director at Ohiobased Jury Verdict Research Inc., which monitors court awards.

Jews attack Arabs after girl's death

HAWWARA, Occupied West Bank (AP) - Jewish settlers attacked Arab cars and homes today after Arabs in a West Bank village stoned to death a 15-year-old girl and injured 13 other Israeli settlers who were on a holiday hike.

The army said two Israeli guards accompanying 16 teen-aged settlers on Wednesday's hike fired on stonethrowers, killing two Palestinians and wounding two in the village of Beita, 10 miles south of Nablus.

Some settlers called for the 4,000 Arab residents of Beita to be expelled to Lebanon, for a new campaign of settlement building and authorization for soldiers to shoot anyone who throws stones.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin announced that Arabs responsible for the attack had been arrested, but did not say how many. He also noted that some Arabs had tried to protect the Jewish settlers during the attack. The 15-year-old girl was the first Jewish civilian to be killed in four months of rioting by Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. "With an Arab village in which a pogrom on Israeli children takes place, there's nothing else to propose but to destroy all of the village, to wipe it out from the land of Israel," Eliezer Waldman, a rabbi and parliament member from the West Bank's Kiryat Arba settlement, told Israel's armed forces radio.

Wednesday night and early today, the homes and cars of several prominent Arabs were attacked. They included deposed Mayor Mustafa Natshe of the West Bank city of Hebron.

"Burning my car is not going to make me say anything except insist that the Palestinians get their rights," Natshe said.

In Hawwara, an Arab village on a main road a half-mile from Beita, residents said settlers had gone on a rampage, breaking car windshields and the windows of homes, an office building and a gas station.

Raja Salem, who had a swollen lip and a cut on his right cheek, today told a reporter he was beaten up by settlers: "They want to retaliate. They want to kill us."

Rabin, speaking on armed forces radio, said those responsible for the attack would be punished.

He noted, however, that Palestinian villagers had sheltered some of the Israelis. Both Rabin and Lt. Gen. Dan Shomron, the armed forces chief of staff, called on settlers not to retaliate for the killing of the teenage settler.

After the attack Wednesday, dozens of settlers held a vigil near Beita, and announced they would build a settlement at the site. They later dispersed.

Settlers also staged protests at the residences of Rabin and Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, demanding their resignations. Placards demanded deportation of Arab troublemakers and to "destroy the village" of Beita.

Leading right-wing politicians such as former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon went today to Elon Moreh, the settlement where the slain girl, Tirza Porat, had lived. About 100 men and women gathered at the Porat home. Many of the men held M-16 rifles in their laps as they waited for the funeral to begin. Some

Miss Porat was the first Israeli civilian to be killed by Arab rioters since the Palestinian uprising began Dec. 8 in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, where 70,000 Jewish settlers and 1.5 million Palestinians live. In four months of violence, 140 Arabs and one Israeli soldier have been killtatives of Texas State Technical Institute and Amarillo College. The Hereford Industrial Foundation, as well as local governmental entities, have indicated an interest in having TSTI and AC as the educational programming and administrative unit for the job training center.

Helping to document the needs of technical/vocational education programs in this area have been the Hereford office of the Texas Employment Commission, area agencies, area governments and Mexican-American community groups.

Some of the programs needed for this area have been identified as welding, computer applications, information processing, secretarial training, truck operations, mechanical/electrical training, feed mill and farm mechanics, basic skills(remediation), adult continuing education and industry training.

Greenawalt explained that should a new industry consider locating here, "we would be in a position to custom build a training program for that industrial prospect." While there is no limit to the type of courses, added Greenawalt, the learning center would not interfere with programs being offered by the YM-CA or other local agencies.

The programs will be designed, according to HLC guidelines, to "meet the job needs of area business and industry as well as the focused needs of area residents who are underemployed or displaced from a changing agricultural economy." The program would have a regional concept with the center established in Hereford "for Hereford, Deaf Smith County and other contiguous counties which fall outside an existing community college tax district in this geographic area."

Several methods of funding are being studied. These include local governmental entities, a tax district, state funds and public grants, and fees for the courses. The board will also decide which entity will serve as the delivery agent for the program. While the board hopes the industrial foundation will acquire a building for providing training space and education, Greenawalt points out the facilities could be scattered around town.

32 hostages freed from Kuwaiti jet

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - The hijackers of a Kuwaiti jumbo jet freed 32 people in Iran early today and threatened to take off with their remaining captives if Kuwait does not free 17 convicted Shiite Moslem bombers.

They warned they would blow up the Kuwait Airways Boeing 747 if there was "any threat against the plane" by Iranian security forces, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said.

The Arabic-speaking hijackers delivered the ultimatum in a radio message to the tower at Mashhad airport in northeastern Iran, where they forced the jet to land Tuesday after commandeering it on a flight from Bangkok to Kuwait.

Kuwait has refused to meet their demand.

IRNA did not say if the hijackers, who were armed with grenades and pistols, indicated where they planned to fly to. It also did not say whether Iranian authorities had refueled the plane as they said they would Wednesday.

The hijackers' warning came after senior Kuwaiti officials at the airport said they would negotiate only after the roughly 50 hostages still being held were released. The remaining hostages were believed to all be Arabs, including at least 30 Kuwaitis, including three members of the Kuwaiti royal family.

Being with her family is extremely important to Hereford native Brenda Yosten, who resides at 237 Greenwood Street and is surrounded by relatives in the area.

"On Sundays we attend mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, then have breakfast at my great aunt's house and visit my grandmother there," she said. "Afterwards we visit my parents or my in-laws, where we play volleyball or other

It becomes apparent that Yosten belongs to a large farm family. "Everyone is here, including my two brothers and one of my sisters. Another sister lives in Kansas," said the daughter of Carl and Joan Strafuss. "I even married into a large family. My husband has four brothers and two sisters, all of whom are here, so we get to visit several kinfolks!"

The brown-eyed brunette graduated from Hereford High School in 1982. She married high school sweetheart Glynn Yosten, son of Nick and Mary Yosten, and together they are the parents of a four-year-old daughter, Brionne, and a son, Blake, age six months.

Once active in athletics and 4-H and high school activities, Yosten finds that her interests have changed somewhat with the arrival of her children. "I love to snow ski, but I don't get to go as much anymore. Now my favorite pastimes include reading books to the kids, taking walks with them, bicycling, swimming, and sewing.

"Even simple things, like decorating cookies with Brionne or fixing her hair in different ways can be great fun."

Yosten carries a strong sense of family a bit further through her interest in genealogy. "My family and Nick's family are of German descent, and I'd like to learn more about them someday." Yet Yosten is currently more attentive toward her immediate family. Not only has she redecorated their home, she has an ongoing interest in cooking. "Our favorite recipes are family recipes-I learned to cook from my mother.

Self-sufficiency is one lesson Yosten learned and teaches her children. "I grew up where we always had our own beef butchered; we still never buy it in the store. I have a small garden in the back yard and help with a family garden west of town. I love to eat fresh vegetables; I can and freeze virtually all of my vegetables."

Yosten even likes to make casseroles ahead of time and freeze them for future use."I enjoy cooking casseroles so much that my friends gave me a casserole shower as a baby shower!" she laughed.

Some of Yosten's favorite recipes follow, including Barbecue Sauce, which is used frequently in her home. "We barbecue outside on the weekends when the weather permits; we love barbecue dinners, steaks, and hamburgers with baked potatoes," she said.

Another special recipe is for Peanut Butter Snacks. "I ate these all the time when I went to track meets in school-they are high in protein and really great for energy. Now I make them for my children and they are a favorite treat to them."

Indians' Swindell stuns, excites self, family

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Greg Swindell thought the hook was coming any minute.

"I kept looking down at the bullpen thinking I was coming out," Swindell said. "I didn't have anything left in my body but I kept getting outs. It was pretty amazing."

Swindell stunned himself and his family watching from the stands.

"My arm felt OK in spring training but that means nothing," he said. "Then I go nine innings against one of the toughest hitting teams in the

Although he won two games in spring training, Swindell said the real test was the regular season.

"I was nervous," he said. "I didn't know what I was going to do. Spring training means nothing." Swindell, whose last complete game was June 6, had two huge ice packs on his left arm after the game. "The arm is a little sore but it will be allright," Swindell said. Indians' Manager Doc Edwards said the best of Swindell is yet to come. "He can get stronger and throw the ball faster," Edwards said. "His arm is healthy but it can get a lot more stronger and it will as he pitches more.'

Rangers' Manager Bobby Valentine wasn't very complimentary of Swindell, a former University of Texas star.

Valentine said "We hit a lot of balls hard tonight and had a lot of warning track outs."

Valentine said "Swindell pitched a better game against us last year than he did tonight.'

In the final game of the series tonight, Cleveland's John Farrell goes against Texas' Jose Guzman.

In other American League games, it was Toronto 11, Kansas City 4; New York 5, Minnnesota 3; Boston 6, Detroit 5; Seattle 6, Oakland 5; Milwaukee 3. Baltimore 1; and California 4, Chicago 2 in 10 innings. Blue Jays 11, Royals 4

Rookie catcher Pat Borders had three hits and drove in five runs in his first major-league game and George Bell went 5-for-5 and scored three times as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Kansas City Royals 11-4.

Borders tripled home two runs on the first pitch in his first career atbat in a four-run first inning. He singled with the bases loaded in the third to drive in two more off Charlie Leibrandt, who gave up six runs in three innings. Borders had another RBI single in the fifth off Ted Power.

Bell, who hit three home runs in Monday's opener as Toronto's designated hitter, played left field Wednesday night because Lloyd Moseby was scratched with a sore hip. Bell's three singles and two doubles gave him eight hits in nine at-bats this season. He also drove in his fifth run.

It won't always be this easy for Borders, who tripled off Charlie Leibrandt on the first pitch he saw in the majors.

Winning pitcher Mike Flanagan allowed two runs — both in the first inning, one unearned - and six hits in six innings.

Yankees 5, Twins 3

Rickey Henderson snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run double off reliever Juan Berenguer in the seventh inning and scored on Willie Randolph's third hit, a single. Henderson's double came after Joel Skinner doubled and pinch-hitter Gary Ward was hit by a pitch.

The starting pitchers, New York's John Candelaria and Minnesota's Les Straker, each allowed two runs in six innings. Red Sox 6, Tigers 5

Brady Anderson scored the tiebreaking run on a passed ball by catcher Mike Heath as Boston rallied for four runs in the eighth inning. After Dovle Alexander yielded eight hits over seven innings, Willie Hernandez took over with a 5-2 lead but retired just one batter. Reliever Dennis Lamp pitched two scoreless innings in his Boston debut and boosted his career record against Detroit to 10-0.

Brewers 3, Orioles 1 Chris Bosio pitched a five-hitter and Dale Sveum hit his second home run in as many games. After surrendering a single and triple and falling behind 1-0 in the second inning,

Bosio allowed just three singles - seven innings.

Mariners 6, Athletics 5 Ken Phelps broke a 5-5 tie in the sixth inning with a sacrifice fly. Billy Swift was the winning pitcher with 6 1-3 innings of one-run, five-hit relief after starter Steve Trout walked five straight batters, committed an error and threw two run-scoring wild pitches in the first inning. Dave Valle hit a two-run homer for Seattle and Henry Cotto, 3-for-3 in his debut with the Mariners, had a tworun single.

Angels 4, White Sox 2

Bill Buckner hit a tie-breaking, two-run pinch single in the 10th inning. Wally Joyner, who scored California's first two runs, opened the 10th with a single off Bobby Thigpen, his third hit. Devon White walked and one out later Jack Howell walked to load the bases after fouling off 11 pitches.

Donnie Moore, California's third pitcher, pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings for the victory.

Padres see different Knepper this year

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's Bob Knepper says a new mustache is his only change from last season.

But the San Diego Padres saw more differences Wednesday when Knepper, 1-0, allowed seven hits and struck out seven in seven innings, helping the Astros to a 5-1 victory. As a clean-shaven starter in 1987, Knepper compiled a career high 17 losses and 5.27 earned run average. Knepper reported to spring training with a mustache and new resolve.

He angered women's groups for his comments about women umpires but

It was more than slugfest in high school game at Electra

ELECTRA, Texas (AP) - Slugfest is perhaps not adequate to describe the high school baseball game between the Henrietta Bearcats and the Electra Tigers.

The two teams combined for 48 hits Tuesday as the Bearcats hammered Electra, 40-12, in a game that featured eight homers, including two grand slams, and 13 doubles.

The feat was even more amazing because it took the two teams only five innings to generate that much offense. The game was called at the end of five inning because of the 10-run rule in effect in Texas schoolboy baseball games.

The game set a national record for the most hits by two teams in a high school baseball game. The record had been held by Pacific Terra Nova and Daly City Serramonte when the two California teams combined for 41 hits in 1977. Pacifica got 31 hits and Daly City got 10, according to the National High School Sports Record Book, published by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

The Henrietta-Electra game is fourth on the all-time national list for runs scored by both teams, behind a national record of 66 runs. Henrietta also tied for fourth-most hits and third-most doubles ever in a game by one team. The record for hits by one team is 40, doubles 14.

Daryl Masters was 6-for-6 for Henrietta with two homers and two doubles. Lance Franklin, the winning pitcher, also had six hits, including four doubles. Kazanski added. Billy Kelly had the grand slam for Henrietta and Bryan Kimbro had a grand slam for Electra. Neither team has had much luck winning games this season. Henrietta is 2-7 and Electra is 1-5.

the controversy didn't keep Knepper from posting a 2-1 record and 1.38 ERA in the spring.

"I've been booed before so the pressure was no different this year than before," Knepper said. "I've been around long enough to have confidence in my ability."

Knepper, citing religious beliefs, said there were some jobs that women should not do, and umpiring was one of them.

He drew boos and protests at spring games.

'For the first two or three days it was kind of hectic but then it died down," Knepper said. "The things that were said were not about my pit-

"No matter how I live my life or what I say, when I go out to pitch, I try to do my best."

First baseman Glenn Davis hit a two-run home run, his second home run in as many games, helping the Astros to a 3-0 first inning lead off Andy Hawkins, 0-1.

Two more runs scored in the fourth inning on singles by Gerald Young and Billy Doran.

"I think we'll be able to score more runs this season." Astros Manager Hal Lanier said. "We were next to last in runs scored last season but if our top three guys in the order get on, we're going to be okay."

It was a disappoint start for the Padres, who left town winless after the 2-game series. They are trying to avoid last year's 0-5 start.

"There no need to hit the panic button," Padres rightfielder Tony Gwynn said. "It's just two games. We just need to calm down and go out and play baseball.

"I'm not going to panic and nobody in this room will."

Getting consistent pitching and better power hitting concerns Padres Manager Larry Bowa.

"We're not a very good comefrom-behind team," Bowa said. When you don't have a home run hitter in the lineup, nobody's a good come-from-behind team.

Davis, who dropped off in 1987 from his 1986 All-Star performance, also had a slow start in spring training but hit the regular season with "You try to go for line drives and hitting the ball hard, and a home run is just a bonus," said Davis, who also homered in Tuesday's 6-3 victory.

"I do have a little natural upper cut but you don't think about that at the plate or you get in trouble."

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 6-5, Montreal beat New York 5-1, and Chicago shut out Atlanta 3-0. The St. Louis at Cincinnati game was rained out.

Phillies 6, Pirates 5

Mike Schmidt wanted to win the game single-handedly and Bobby Bonilla stopped him.

Fourteen innings and 41/2 hours later, neither was a factor when the Philadelphia Phillies finally beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 Wednesday

Schmidt, whose error set up three unearned runs in a 5-3 loss on opening night, homered for the second straight game and drove in three Philadelphia runs. He tied Mickey Mantle for 25th place on the all-time RBI list with 1,509 and hit his 532nd career homer, two behind Jimmie Foxx for eighth place.

Bonilla hit two homers — one from each side of the plate - and knocked in five runs with a career-high four hits for Pittsburgh.

In the bottom of the 10th inning, it came down to Schmidt vs. Bonilla: Schmidt was on second base when Chris James singled to left field. Schmidt ran through third base coach Dave Bristol's stop sign as Bonilla caught left fielder Barry Bonds' throw. Bonilla's relay to catcher Mike Lavalliere nailed Schmidt.

"I'm going head down," Schmidt explained. "In my mind, I'm scor-

With two outs in the Phillies' 14th, Juan Samuel doubled off the leftfield fence. Milt Thompson hit the next pitch for a game-winning single.

"I was set to hit the first good pitch I saw," Thompson said after pinning the loss on Bob Kipper, 0-1.

Mike Maddux, 1-0, worked three scoreless innings for the victory. Earlier in the day, younger brother Greg pitched a shutout as Chicago defeated Atlanta 3-0. Expos 5, Mets 1

Mitch Webster went 4-for-4 and scored three times and Pascual Perez matched a team mark by winning his eighth straight game.

Webster, 7-for-8 this season, tripled, doubled and drove in two runs. He was just 11-for-76 (.145) in spring training

Perez, 8-0 since joining the Expos last Aug. 19, barely missed his first shutout since 1984. He took a fivehitter and 5-0 lead into the ninth inning and retired the first two batters before Darryl Strawberry singled and Kevin McReynolds hit an RBI double. Tim Burke relieved and got the final out. Perez walked none and struck out nine. He tied the team record for consecutive victories, last accomplished by Burke. Cubs 3, Braves 0

Greg Maddux pitched a threehitter for his second career shutout. Maddux, 1-0, walked six and struck out three. He completed only one of 27 starts last year and had one of the Cubs' five shutouts.

Neither team advanced a runner past second base until the seventh inning, when Vance Law singled off Zane Smith, 0-1, and moved up on a balk. Dave Martinez singled home Law for the lead.

Andre Dawson doubled and scored on Law's single in the eighth. Shawon Dunston, who homered on opening night, hit another in the ninth.

BY THE JUG

The term "jug" wine is derived from a time in this country when producers sold wine from wooden tanks on horse-drawn carts. People would bring their own jugs to the wine carts and fill them from spigots. Today, jug wines do not owe their name to the ze of the bottle. Instead, a jug wine is a brand-name beverage that car ries no particular varietal or geographic name. These are simple wines with a slightly sweet character and low price. Of course, a jug wine will not make its way onto the table to stand beside a plate of Osso Bucco. However, jug wine are perfect for large gatherings of friends at picnics and barbeques. Careful comparison tasting will reward the taster with a jug wine of genuinely good quality.

Social Security

By JIM TALBOT

Social Security Manager 1 It is very important to have a Social Security number. Its use is required for different purposes, and it is not an exaggeration to say that "without a Social Security number, you wouldn't be able to comply with the legal requirements you have to live with.

Under the Social Security program, the number is the key that opens the doors to financial aid when people retire or become disabled. It makes possible the payment of monthly benefits to certain family members or survivors of insured workers. Social Security is a

Singles set Spring dance

The Hereford Singles Club will host a spring dance Friday beginning at' 8:30 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus

Disk jockey for the occasion will be Rodney Strafuss. The public is invited; minimum age is 21 years with no maximum age limits set. Participants should bring their own package of protection that covers everybody who meets the requirement for eligibility. The payment of benefits is made possible only because workers' covered earnings during their working years are recorded under their names and Social Security numbers. Without a Social Security number, you wouldn't be able to apply for Social Security or SSi benefits or for Medicare. You wouldn't be able to apply for State-run programs either, such as unemployment insurance, public assistance and welfare services, medical assistance, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps, and other public aid programs.

But, even if your work is not covered by Social Security and neither you nor your family need to apply for assistance from State programs, you still need the Social Security number to report income to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). In many States, you need a Social Security number for a driver's license and motor vehicle registration, and if you are an immigrant who wants to work, a Social Security number is the first thing you have to Children and even newborns should have a Social Security number if their parents want to open a bank account, or buy savings bond, or apply for some kinds of government services for them. And beginning in 1988, any children who are age 5 or older must have a Social Security number if their parents want to claim them as dependents on their Federal income tax return.

How do you get this key number that will permit you to fulfill your legal duties and get Social Security benefits or SSI payments, financial aid, or public services?

That's easy. First, you have to get Form SS-5 from any Social Security office and fill it out. Together with the SS-5, you have to submit evidence of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or legal alien status. It is a good idea to call the Social Security office first and ask which documents are required. The office personnel will help you get or replace the documents you are missing.

Club Receives Honors

Pioneer Study Club received several honors during the Twenty-Eighth Annual Convention of General/Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Top of Texas District held recently in Amarillo. Eunice Petersen, at left, received a first place for an animal painting and a second place for one of her portraits. Billie Jonson was recognized as a life member of Top of Texas Affiliated Clubs District Board.

Toy music boxes were first made about 1835. The earliest types were round metal boxes. They played a single tune and were operated by a crank.

Pioneer Study Club given awards

Pioneer Study Club captured several outstanding awards during the Twenty-Eighth Annual Convention of General/Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Top of Texas District held March 25-26 at the Sheraton Inn

The club received a first place award in the citizenship division of the public affairs department for the program, "Why Study the Constitution?" Second place awards were received for the beautification project and the M.D. Anderson project as well as for the programs on "Conservation of Natural Resources", "Today's Living" and "Music and Dance." The President's Overall Resume received an outstanding

Quarterly meeting tonight

The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 7 p.m. in the Hereford State Bank. All members are encouraged to attend.

Prizes will be awarded to current members who have signed up the most new members.

Annual membership dues into the Women's Divisiona re $20. For further information call the Chamber office at 364-3333.

Also, during the event Billie Johnson was recognized as a life member of Top of Texas Affiliated Clubs District Board and Eunice Petersen received a first place ribbon for her painting of an animal and a second place award for a portrait.

The theme of the two-day convention was "Federation Celebration" since 1988 is the G.F.W.C. centennial.

The banquet speaker on March 25 was the state president, Carol L. Silvus of Austin who spoke on "Celebrate Federation", reviewing the past accomplishments of the Texas clubs and presenting the present projects.

On March 26, Harriette Willford Whately, past state president and a business woman in Houston, lectured on "Legislation." She urged every club woman to keep informed about legislators and issues, recommending reading the editorial columns of a good newspaper. She also encouraged those present to write to their legislators. She distributed copies of the Legislative Directors 100th Congress.

Jeanette Grotegut of Dawn, senior at West Texas State University, furnished piano music at Saturday's

Toastmasters Club meets

Hereford Toastmasters Club No. 275 met March 31 at 6:30 a.m. for a business session.

The current officers are to serve for the next six months with an induction ceremony of newly-elected officers set during the next election. Joe Weaver was elected to serve as sergeant at arms for the next six months and Darlene Kowalewski was welcomed as a new member. It was noted that Rick Ackermann has been transferred to Phoenix, Ariz.

Winners during the meeting included Matt Kowalewski, best evaluator; Bob Lohr, best speaker; and Lynn Cook, best table topic speaker. Lohr, during his speech, tried to convince his audience that retirement June 1 is just like getting out of school for the summer except retirement will last longer.

Milt Kowalewski presented a speech on "What Do You Do as a Quality Engineer?" Kowalewski has received his CTM (Competent Toast Master) certificate, indicating a successful completion of 10 carefully prepared speeches lasting five to seven minutes each.

Scheduled for the April 7 meeting are Rock Lee, Larry Leon, and Larry Breazeale, time permitting.

Black conducts tour Tuesday for Toujours Amis members

Toujours Amis Study club met Tuesday evening at H&R Manufacturing for an informative tour of the plant. Carey Black conducted the tour of his family owned business and Sherry Shuder gave an embroidery demonstration.

During the business session, it was reported that a donation of blood prssure cuffs had been made to Deaf Smith General Hospital and the Mother's Day Dinner was planned May 3 at the Barnhouse. It was also announced that the club's scholarship for $300 is available to any Hereford High School senior and will be presented May 17.

Other projects were discussed, correspondence read, thank yous extended, and 1988-89 officers were elected. Serving as president will be Shannon Hagar; vice president, Elaine McNutt; secretary-Cindy Black; treasurer, Kim Bigham; reporter, Marsha Winget; and historian, Diana Gerk.

Dessert was served by hostesses, Cindy Black, Nanette Ashby and Patti Brown to Bigham, Kathy Carthel. Gerk, Hagar, Brenda Koenig, Marylin Leasure, Leisa Lewis, McNutt, Becky Reinart, Donna Tidmore, Camille Williamson, and Winget.

The next meeting is scheduled April 10 at the E.B. Black House.

writing in the hope that my letter will alert people who insist on using air transportation to fly their pets to various destinations.

Several months ago, two unrelated cats escaped while in the care of a well-known airline. One of the cats was in a carrier, but somehow the door came unlatched. The fate of that cat is unknown, but I don't hold much hope for a declawed cat in an airport. The second cat, miraculously, was rescued and returned to its owners after a three-week search.

The most recent occurrence at the same airport involved a small dog that escaped when its carrier broke open as the animal was being loaded onto the plane. A snowstorm was in progress and the temperature was and have little choice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am below zero. The little dog was found frozen to death a few days later.

Unfortunately, these are not isolated incidents. Lost and injured animals are a fact of life at many air-If you can get someone to look after your pet while you are gone. please consider this option. There are many enterprising young people who would be willing to look in on your cat or walk your dog Seek them out .- No Name, No City

DEAR N.N.N.C.: Your letter is sure to save the lives of many pets On behalf of their owners, I thank you for writing. In all fairness. however, many people who ship their pets by air are moving to other cities

Financial aid available to Amarillo College students received approximately $2,500,000 in financial aid assistance in 1986-87, according to AC assistant director of financial aid Robert Haines. He noted that the college will have awarded just under $3,000,000 in assistance at the close of New financial aid applications are now available for the 1988-89 AC school year beginning with September 1988 enrollment time period. Students will need a copy of their parents' tax return for 1987 when completing applications.

Federal government edicts have proposed that the amount of financial aid delivered to students in the 1988-89 year be increased slightly from last year's funding level, said Haines.

Questions regarding financial aid at Amarillo College, in the form of scholarships, loans, grants, or the AC Work-Study Program, can be answered by contacting Haines at
