Mitts earns service award

There was a "first" when Hereford High School held its awards ceremonies Thursday night.

The Beneficial Community Service Scholarship was presented to Stuart Mitts, marking the first time for a HHS senior to receive this honor. The $5,000 scholarship to any college is based solely on community service.

Stuart and his parents, Cal and Judy Mitts, had already been notified of the award and honored by Mrs. Rita Clements, wife of Gov. Bill Clements, at a reception May 4 in the capitol building in Austin.

Mitts is among 30 recipients selected from applications received throughout the state. The scholarships totaled $50,000 and were awarded as five 1-year scholarships of $5,000 each and 25 1-year awards of $1,000 each.

Mitts, an active member of the award-winning Key Club at HHS, has spent numerous hours serving through various organizations—some of which include the Key Club, Hereford Senior Citizens Association, Golden Plains Care Center, Hereford YMCA, Coffee Memorial Blood Center, Sunshine Acres, Hereford Satellite Center, First United Methodist Church, Hereford Outreach Office, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, and the American Red Cross.

Stuart found time to serve as a volunteer in these organizations while also earning letters in three sports—football, basketball and baseball. He recently received the Fighting Heart award at the All Sports Banquet, an honor based on giving the most of one's abilities.

Applications for the scholarships included documented evidence of volunteer community service and an essay describing the student's motivation. Representatives of Texas volunteer, charitable, educational, religious and civic groups reviewed and selected the statewide winners.

Initiated in 1986, Beneficial's scholarship program was recognized this year by the State of Texas and the Governor's Office of Community Leadership and Volunteer Services for its contributions to the young people of Texas.

Beneficial Texas Inc. is a subsidiary of Beneficial Corp., a diversified financial services holding company listed on the NYSE. Beneficial has more than 1,000 consumer credit offices in the world, including 41 in Texas.

Experts testify on drought at Amarillo hearing

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer

AMARILLO - Texas' drought-ravaged wheat crop will represent a $1 billion loss to the state's economy, an agricultural economist today told a congressional subcommittee hearing testimony about the need for federal drought assistance.

Texas Agricultural Extension Service economist Steve Amosson told members of the House subcommittee on wheat, soybeans and feed grains about the economic impact of a wheat crop loss of an estimated 94 million bushels.

He predicted that Texas' total production will be only 47.5 million bushels, the lowest production in 10 years and 47 percent less than the lowest production in a decade.

Based on gross wheat receipts, losses will be about $378 million.

"These loss figures represent just the tip of the iceberg with respect to the total economic impact on the Texas economy," Amosson said. "Less income means fewer purchases of agricultural inputs and durable goods, placing a greater strain on already troubled rural communities."

With those effects considered, losses could amount to more than $1 billion, he said.

Rep. Ron Marlenee, R-Montana, said he understood the economic loss caused by the drought and freeze-ravaged wheat crop.

"This crop probably cost more investment than any crop you've ever put in the ground," he said.

Other committee members, Reps. Dan Glickman, D-Kansas, and Bill Sarpalus, D-Amarillo, heard experts testify about the state's drought, freeze damage and pest infestation, which all combined to wipe out the wheat crop.

"It sounds like everything that could happen did happen," Glickman said.

Several crop experts predicted that actual harvest yields may be lower than predicted.

"The rains came too late and too little," said Jerry Harris of the U.S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service of recent rainfall. "We still have a large majority of the state that has extremely dry conditions and the conditions will only deteriorate as we go on."

The subcommittee is considering legislation that would extend last year's $3.9 billion drought relief program to this year. A similar hearing is scheduled for Saturday in Great Bend, Kan.

Agriculture experts say the 1989 drought could be more severe than that of 1988, during which Texas was not severely affected.

Wheat crops in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and other states also have been hurt by the drought.

Pantex officials look for Tritium exposure

AMARILLO (AP) - Radioactive tritium leaked during work on a warhead, exposing five Pantex employees to the gas and possibly boosting one worker's exposure above the company's goal for individuals, the U.S. Energy Department said.

Four workers received minimal exposure, but a urinalysis indicates one employee may have a total annual exposure to tritium exceeding 2 rems, DOE spokesman Tom Walton said Thursday.

The plant attempts to limit worker exposure to below 2 rems annually, Walton added. The federal government's standard for maximum exposure is 5 rems annually, but Walton said the unidentified worker's exposure is thought to be lower than that.

Exposure to about 75 rems induces radiation sickness, Walton said.

The Energy Department, which oversees Pantex's plant manager Mason & Hanger-Silas Mason Co. Inc., did not disclose the levels of exposure to the other four workers in the Wednesday incident.

The exposure occurred when the substance leaked from its container during work on a warhead, DOE officials said.

Tritium gas is one of two isotopes used in the fusion process that creates a thermonuclear explosion. It is produced at the DOE's Savannah River Plant in South Carolina and loaded into metal bottles for incorporation into warheads at Pantex.

Located about 18 miles northeast of Amarillo, the Pantex plant is the nation's final assembly point for nuclear warheads.

DOE Secretary James Watkins ordered a review to be conducted of air-contaminant monitoring and filtering and containment systems at Pantex to assure the safety of workers and the public, Walton said Wednesday.

The Albuquerque Operations Office, which oversees DOE activities at Pantex, is investigating.

Walton said another 35 to 40 workers who were in the vicinity of the leakage were tested, but no exposure was detected. And about 500 Pantex employees in the area were briefed on the incident and given the opportunity to take a urinalysis, Walton said. Test results will be forthcoming.

The worker who is believed to have inhaled the largest amount will be checked daily to monitor the tritium level and was instructed to drink fluids, which flushes tritium from the body, Walton said.

A typical measure of tritium at the Pantex plant boundaries normally fluctuates between 100 and 200 millirems during the year. A millirem is a thousandth of a rem, which is a measure of radioactive exposure.

The DOE estimated that the level at the plant boundaries may have increased by about 1 millirem, said Walton, who described that amount as minimal.

The compartment where the leakage occurred remains closed and will be reopened when the area is declared free of tritium, he said.

Areas next to that cell were shut down and checked. Some sections were reopened, but others will remain closed until inspections are complete.

All shifts were reporting to the plant for work, Walton said.

Bush promises 'instant' veto

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush promises to veto "faster than the eye can see" a raise in the minimum wage and Republican lawmakers are confident Bush will win his first domestic-policy clash with Capitol Hill's majority Democrats.

"There are enough votes in the Senate to support a presidential veto," Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said Wednesday before the Senate gave 63-37 approval to legislation increasing the minimum wage for the first time in eight years.

Dole's prediction was borne out by the fact that the final vote was four votes short of the margin that would be required to enact the bill over a Bush veto.

Democrats pushing the measure vowed nonetheless to press their case with the president and, while refusing in advance to concede defeat, said they would advance another bill if Bush's first veto is sustained.

"We want to make it very clear this fight is not going to go away and we are going to continue the battle until we get a fair and justified increase in the minimum wage," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said after the vote.

Moments later, Bush, who before the vote had said a veto was "going to be inevitable," made clear he meant it.

When the bill reaches the White House, Bush will veto it "instantly faster than the eye can see," presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

The president apparently won't get that chance until after Congress returns from a 10-day recess that begins Friday.

The Democratic leadership does not want to send the bill to the White House immediately, which would allow Bush to veto it while most members of Congress are away from Washington. The delay also will allow time for what the Democrats hope will emerge - widespread public opposition to Bush's position.

The showdown over the minimum wage has been looming since Congress convened in January and has taken on symbolic significance as the determinant in whether congressional Democrats or Bush will hold the upper hand in setting domestic policy.

Democrats have seemed as eager as Bush for the confrontation, but Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, insisted Wednesday that the minimum wage was the wrong issue for that fight.

"He really isn't standing up to Congress, he's standing on the necks and backs of the working poor of this country," Mitchell said. "The president has a perceived political need to look tough, to veto a bill. We hope the American people will persuade him this is not the issue."

House tentatively approves school bill

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas education commissioner says he fears a proposed school finance plan could encourage a state court to take such funding from state control.

The House on Thursday tentatively approved a $488 million funding plan by Rep. Jim Rudd, Appropriations Committee chairman, with an 81-64 vote. The two-year plan was amended to include a $114 monthly teacher pay raise.

In adding it to a school finance bill, the House rejected the equalization proposal of Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, head of the Public Education Committee. That proposal would have set out a plan for phasing in educational equity over the next six years.

"Adoption of a six-year plan would demonstrate that the state is committed to strengthening equity and would strengthen our position in the Edgewood case," said Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby, referring to a lawsuit filed against the state by poor school districts.

Anything short of a "long-term plan or commitment to education equity" could be viewed as lawmakers abdicating responsibility, he said.

"If that occurs, I do not believe the Texas Legislature will be at all pleased with the stringent guidelines which are likely to be laid down by the courts if we get an adverse reaction by the Texas Supreme Court," Kirby said.

Rudd, D-Brownfield, said his plan takes into account the need for equity.

"We're addressing equity in a very big way," he said, adding that the court will "do its duty, and we'll do ours."

In the suit, poor districts charged discrimination because they do not have the same ability to raise money to educate students as property-rich districts do. Public education is financed largely through state funds and local property taxes.

A state district judge found the school finance system unconstitutional, but the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin overturned that decision. The case is pending before the Supreme Court.

The bill, which requires another vote before being returned to the Senate for consideration of House amendments, would cost about $38 million more than approved by the House-Senate conference committee in the state 1990-91 budget. Rudd said adjustments are possible.

His proposal would raise the basic student allotment from $1,350 to $1,589.

The plan also would establish a system to guarantee districts $23 in state and local funds for every one cent of local tax effort. The maximum tax rate to get the guaranteed amount would be 36 cents per $100.

The bill by Ms. Glossbrenner would give more funding to the poorest districts than Rudd's measure, said Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, a Public Education Committee member.

Ms. Glossbrenner's bill was similar to a $500 million equalization plan approved by the Senate. Rudd said Ms. Glossbrenner's bill would require a "tremendous" tax increase next session.

"I believe we have not done what we should do for the children of this state and for the people of this state," Ms. Glossbrenner said after the vote.

Memorial for Crippled Children's Camp

Raymond White, right, a member of the board of the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, accepts from Hereford Lions Club President David Ruland a $1,000 memorial check from the family of J.O. Robinson. The check will be used to help the operations of the camp.

State leaders compromise on spending for '90-'91 year

AUSTIN (AP) - After three weeks of House-Senate budget meetings and several closed-door conferences, legislative leaders say a compromise on spending more than $46 billion for state government in 1990-91 has been reached.

Under the agreement, state workers and college faculty would get pay raises, Capitol restoration could begin and public schools would see the start of equalized funding between poor and rich school districts.

The two-year spending plan, tentatively approved Thursday by House and Senate budget negotiators, also includes funding for 11,000 new prison beds as well as new mental health facilities, to be paid for with $240 million in bonds.

The proposal follows projections of a $300 million to $600 million shortage to fund state agencies and programs, after which some lawmakers said an increased state cigarette tax would be needed.

But, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis said the shortfall was addressed through compromises in House and Senate spending proposals.

"We made some adjustments. They made some adjustments," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth. "In some cases, we came to the middle and said let's split the difference and go on to another issue."

The proposed budget represents about a 10 percent increase in current spending. The House approved a $46.9 billion budget for 1990-91 and the Senate, $46.75 billion.

Of general revenue funds from taxes and state fees, Capitol restoration would be funded at $100 million to $150 million. State employees would get a 5 percent pay raise at a cost of $475 million.

College faculty would get an 8 percent pay raise by 1991, costing $100 million, and equalization in state aid to public schools would be funded at $450 million.

"It's a marvelous budget," Hobby said. "We have a certifiable bill."

The state comptroller, who estimates state revenues available for the budget, must certify that spending equals income.

During the House-Senate budget committee meeting Thursday, Sen. Kent Caperton, chairman, said the budget is "tight, real tight," and warned members to "exert discipline" against entreaties to restore money to areas that were cut.

"I know they're going to come ... but if we get carried away, we're going to make the bill non-certifiable," he said.

Caperton said the projected shortage was overcome by lawmakers "tending toward the low side" when faced with a choice between House and Senate funding levels.

"I don't think anyone gets cheated," Caperton said. But he added, "I wish we had more for public education. I wish we had more for state employees."

Local Roundup Deputies investigate burglaries

Two burglaries were investigated by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office on Thursday.

A burglary of a habitation occurred sometime last night at a home south of town. Thieves apparently gained entry by breaking a window in the back door. Items taken in the break-in -- including a VCR, pistol, binoculars and a cassette player -- were valued at $860.

A barn east of town was apparently burglarized sometime in the past few days. Tools taken in that theft were valued at $425.

Arrests made by county officers included a man, 19, arrested on warrants from the Texas Department of Public Safety, and a woman, 42, arrested on a compulsory school attendance warrant.

Police investigate reports

A civil dispute reported at Blue Water Gardens Apartments led to the arrest of a 19-year-old male on traffic violations. A woman reported that she had been verbally abused by a man on a motorcycle. When officers located the man to discuss the report, he was arrested for no liability insurance and no motorcycle license.

Other arrests made over-night by the Hereford Police Department were: A 27-year-old male arrested for public intoxication; and a 23-year-old male arrested on county warrants for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Incidents investigated by city police were: Charges were filed against a juvenile male by a local discount store for the theft of a cassette tape; a man reported receiving harassing phone calls; an incident of reckless driving was reported in front of Northwest Elementary School; and two disputes involving juveniles were reported.

City police issued eight citations. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to a minor car fire at the intersection of Grand Ave. and Ave. H.

CELEBRATING FATHER'S DAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - William Jackson Smart, a widowed Civil War veteran who for 21 years was both mother and father to his six children, was the inspiration for Father's Day (June 18).

In 1909, Smart's daughter, Mrs. Sonora L. Dodd of Spokane, Wash., began a long crusade for a national observance of Father's Day, says Hallmark Cards. She acquired influential supporters such as William Jennings Bryan. But the many congressional resolutions supporting the day that were introduced in subsequent years were not successful.

Finally, in 1972, President Richard M. Nixon signed an official resolution proclaiming Father's Day as a national holiday. This year, Americans will mark the occasion by exchanging about 90 million Father's Day cards.

Rangers edge Twins n extra innings, 6-5

ARLINGTON (AP) - Pete Incaviglia was stuck in a 1-for-17 slump when he stepped to the plate in an all-too-familiar position against the Minnesota Twins.

Incaviglia had struck out in his previous two at-bats, but his fortunes changed against reliever German Gonzalez with two outs and the winning run on second base in the 11th inning of Thursday's game. He lined a single to left-center that scored Julio Franco and lifted the Texas Rangers over the Twins, 6-5.

Incaviglia's clutch hit off Gonzalez, 3-2, snapped the Rangers' four-game losing streak and made a winner of Rangers' bullpen ace Jeff Russell, 3-0.

"It was nice to hit one in a situation like that to win it," Incaviglia said. "It's been really frustrating."

"I've been hitting the ball hard, but at people. This time it found a hole. I need to get back on track because I'm a very important part of this team."

Franco singled with two outs in the 11th and stole second, beating catcher Tim Laudner's throw, to set the stage for Incaviglia's game-winner.

"I just tried to get in the catcher's way anyway I could," Incaviglia said. "Julio can steal a base in crucial situations. Then I just looked for a pitch I could drive."

Texas took a 5-4 lead in the eighth on Rafael Palmeiro's two-out single that scored pinch-runner Cecil Espy. Espy had moved from first to third on Scott Fletcher's groundout to shortstop.

But Gary Gaetti tied the game, 5-5, in the ninth with a leadoff homer to left.

"It was a classic example of how not to pitch to a good hitter," said Rangers starter Nolan Ryan. "I got behind, then left a pitch out over the plate. That's exactly what I didn't want to do."

Ryan permitted four earned runs, six hits, struck out 10 and walked three before exiting after nine innings. Ryan, the league leader with 73 strikeouts, had his 186th career game with 10 or more strikeouts.

The Rangers' Jeff Kunkel, with a pair of solo homers, had his first multiple-homer game in his major league career. Kunkel's blasts in the first and fourth were only the eighth and ninth of his big league career.

"I've hit balls farther and harder in the minors but they don't mean anything," Kunkel said.

The Twins took a 3-1 lead in the second, thanks to an unearned run that was set up by Palmeiro's throwing error. Al Newman reached second on the play and Dan Gladden followed with an RBI double just inside the left-field line.

The Rangers made two errors. "We made some mistakes and gave away some runs but the guys played with heart tonight," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said. "It's nice to get the win and break the ice."

Texas evened the score, 4-4, in the fourth on back-to-back solo homers by Jim Sundberg and Kunkel.

Minnesota starter Shane Rawley lasted only 3 2-3 innings, allowing four runs and nine hits before being relieved by Steve Shields. The Twins used five pitchers.

"We got some runs," Twins manager Tom Kelly said. "We managed to scrap out a few from their misplays and anytime you get runs off Nolan, you have to feel good about it."

"The bottom line, though, is that they won the ballgame."

A&M, UT gain wins in SWC tournament

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - Texas A&M and Texas took different routes to post first-round victories in the Southwest Conference baseball tournament.

In Thursday's first game, Texas used Arthur Butcher's ninth-inning grand slam to hold off Arkansas 8-3. Later, Texas A&M scored early and often in a 15-3 victory over Houston.

Top-ranked Texas A&M and 10th-ranked Texas play at 7 tonight in a winner's bracket game. Fourth-ranked Arkansas was to meet Houston at 1 p.m. today, with the loser ousted from the double-elimination tournament.

Texas, 46-15, was clinging to a 4-3 lead when Butcher unloaded off reliever Phil Stidham. It was the Longhorns' fourth home run of the afternoon; David Tollison, Clay King and Steve Bethea connected for solo home runs earlier.

"Yeah, we're just gonna sit back and go for the three-run dingers now," quipped Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson. "We have a lot of guys who can hit the long ball and we were just lucky enough to hit it just hard enough to get out of the ball park."

Texas ace Kirk Dressendorfer, 14-2, struggled to the victory. Dressendorfer scattered six hits and walked four, but was lifted in the eighth inning after throwing 109 pitches in the 93-degree heat.

"I knew it was going to be a tough day to go all the way," said Dressendorfer, who threw 109 pitches. "Coach had told me before the eighth inning that it would be my last."

Arkansas, 45-12, tied for the regular-season championship with Texas A&M. The Razorbacks pulled to 4-3 with two unearned runs in the bottom of the eighth, but the Longhorns got out of a bases-loaded, no-out situation.

The loss hurt the Razorbacks' chances of securing a No. 1 regional seed.

"I didn't think about the NCAA seeding during the game," said Arkansas coach Norm DeBrynn said. "I didn't think, 'Oh boy, if we can win it here, we'll get a top seed.'"

Motivation was no problem for Texas A&M, 53-5. Remembering how they had been tested during a regular-season series at Houston, the Aggies scored five runs in the second and led 11-2 after four innings.

"We put our game between the lines tonight," said catcher Eric Albright, who homered and drove in four runs. "They had proved they could play with us down in Houston so we had to go out and show them who was the boss."

Texas A&M won two of three regular-season meetings against Houston, 43-16.

A&M sent nine men to the plate in the five-run second and strung together six singles. Mike Easley, Kirk Thompson, Terry Taylor and Chuck Knoblauch had RBIs in the inning.

The Aggies chased Cougar starter Al Benevides, 7-2, with the second inning outburst.

Pat Sweet, 9-3, went the distance for the victory.

Walling pinches former Astro mates

HOUSTON (AP) - Just as he did for parts of 12 seasons with the Houston Astros, Denny Walling came off the bench to deliver the decisive hit.

Only Thursday night, his former team was the victim.

Walling, traded to St. Louis last year from Houston, singled home Willie McGee with the winning run in the 10th inning as the Cardinals broke a five-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over the Astros.

"I like the guys over there," Walling said of the Astros. "But I'm with St. Louis now. It doesn't matter what team I do it against."

Ken Dailey, 2-1, pitched the final two innings for the victory.

With one out in the 10th, McGee reached on an error by Houston second baseman Bill Doran.

Jose Oquendo's third hit of the game moved McGee to third and set up Walling, who was batting for Tony Pena.

The Astros were not surprised it was Walling who ended their five-game winning streak.

"Denny came off the bench and got a hit just like he has always done," said Doran.

Andersen knows Walling well enough to realize he had made a mistake with his pitching.

"I got the ball up to him, and that is something you don't want to do. I guided the ball instead of just letting go," he said.

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead off Houston starter Bob Knepper in the fourth. Tom Brunansky led off with a walk, moved to second on a groundout and scored on McGee's single to center. McGee, who advanced to second on the throw to the plate, scored when Oquendo singled to left.

The Astros rebounded with three runs in their half of the inning, driving St. Louis starter Don Heinkel from the game.

Heinkel had been recalled from Louisville earlier in the day to replace scheduled starter Ted Power, who was placed on the disabled list with a pulled rib cage muscle.

Kevin Bass followed singles by Glenn Davis and Terry Puhl with a run-scoring single that scored Davis. Ken Caminiti hit Houston's fourth consecutive single to score Puhl. Following a fielder's choice, Knepper executed a safety squeeze bunt to score Bass.

Pedro Guerrero's fifth-inning home run tied the game.

The game also featured the major-league debut of St. Louis reliever Matt Kinzer, who pitched 3 1-3 innings of scoreless relief. Kinzer was recalled Tuesday to replace Todd Worrell, who went on the disabled list.

"Just getting the first out gave me a lot of confidence," Kinzer said. "I wanted to make sure I had good control."

Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog was glad to see his team escape from Houston with at least one victory. The Cardinals had dropped three straight at home before losing the first two games in the Astrodome.

"We just haven't been scoring any runs. I didn't want to come out of here having lost six in a row," Herzog said.

Lucy Hasting, daughter of Raymond and Theresa Hasting of Hereford, displays the first-place trophy she won Saturday racing in the high school eliminations at Amarillo Dragway. Lucy, who was racing for only the second time, defeated high school drivers from all over the Panhandle to win the round. The Hereford High School senior is racing for TSTI in the competition. She plans to attend Amarillo College in the fall.

Girls sports camps slated for summer

The Hereford Independent School District Community Education Program will sponsor two Lady Whiteface Summer Sports Camps, according to Lady Whiteface volleyball coach Brenda Reeh.

The camps, which are for incoming fourth through ninth grade girls, will stress development of fundamental skills in volleyball and basketball, Reeh said. The basketball camp is slated for July 17 through 21 and the volleyball camp is scheduled for July 24 through 28, Reeh said. Instructors for the camps will be Hereford High School and Junior High coaches.

Cost for the camps is $30 for each. A $10 dollar deposit is required for each camp by June 9. Students needing financial assistance may apply for a scholarship through Reeh or HISD Superintendent Charles Greenawalt.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been on a liquid diet for the past four months. Recently, I stopped it because I have not had a menstrual period for over 10 months. I don't know if it is the diet or what. I've had pregnancy tests done and there is no possible way I am pregnant.

The diet really didn't help me any. It tasted good, but it deprived me of many types of foods. I needed to lose weight to join the army. I had to lose 25 pounds first. I did that, but now I have to have three periods to make sure I am all right. Do you think the diet could have stopped my period?

DEAR READER: It will require a medical examination to determine why you stopped having your periods, but it is quite true that an excess restriction of calories can cause hormone changes that result in not menstruating. The ovaries stop functioning normally, usually because of loss of brain hormones that stimulate normal cyclical hormone production.

Excessive weight loss for any reason can cause a woman to stop having normal menstrual cycles. That can occur from lots of exercise along with not enough calories to meet the body's needs under those circumstances.

I don't approve of liquid diets. They are an unhealthy way to lose weight, if they work at all, and studies show that 98 percent of people who lose weight with liquid diets regain the weight they lost — and often more — within five years after stopping the diet.

You need to understand the factors that control body weight, and there is much more to it than a diet. Read my book, "The Weighting Game: The Truth About Weight Control." You can order it from THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept B, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. The price is $11.95, plus $2 postage and handling.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a benign calcified tumor on the left side of my brain. The neurologist says I could have had this tumor for many years, possibly from birth. I'm 74 years old.

I had tests done because of my shaky fingers, mostly when using my two forefingers and thumb to hold a pencil or using a knife and fork. Handling a cup by the ear is about impossible. Otherwise I'm steady and don't shake when resting. Parkinson's disease has been ruled out. The doctor says there is no connection between the tumor and my shaky fingers.

Do you have any suggestions as to what causes this nuisance or how to cure it?

DEAR READER: You seem to be describing essential tremor. It is common, and while it occurs at an early age in some people, it is much more frequent in older people. The shaky fingers or hands may make it difficult to eat. There does seem to be an inherited characteristic.

Several different treatments have been recommended. The beta-blocker drugs such as Inderal have been used with some success in about 50 percent of cases. A small amount of alcohol helps some patients. That is why a glass of wine before dinner may make it easier to eat without spilling anything. But you don't want to develop an alcohol habit either.

More recently some doctors have used primidone, a medicine sometimes used to control seizures. It is usually given as a 50 mg dose at bedtime. If that doesn't control the tremor, the dose can be increased up to 250 mg. Your doctor may want to try it.

If the brain tumor is benign and hasn't bothered you for 74 years, why bother it?

DEAR DR. LAMB: Many of my family members have asthma, including my father, myself to some degree, my daughter to a major degree and my ex-husband has to a degree. Now one of my granddaughters has a pretty severe case. There are allergies involved in about every instance.

We have a physician in our family who is quite adamant that asthma is caused by a mother's influence on the child — lack of proper bonding, etc. From what I have read, asthma is a disease, just as diabetes is a disease, and while emotional upsets can bring on an attack, you have to have the disease first.

Since he is accusing two mothers of being poor mothers, it is quite devastating and guilt-producing. It's a terrible thing to deal with, especially when you already have to cope with the asthmatic child. I know that they are good moms.

This seems to be an old theory and I suspect many mothers are burdened with guilt because of it. I would sure appreciate it if you would comment on this.

DEAR READER: Asthma is NOT caused from psychological factors of any type. In a small number of asthmatics who already have the disease, stress or psychological factors may precipitate an acute attack. Tell those mothers to ignore the bad comments and consider the source.

Many cases of asthma are allergic responses. We even know the chemical steps that are triggered by the immune system. This form of asthma is the type most often seen in childhood and it may be associated with hives as well.

You may also have a non-allergic type of asthma which can be precipitated with a respiratory infection, pollution, exposure to cold or exercise. In about 80 percent of asthmatics there is a mixed type of asthma from both mechanisms.

I am sending you Special Report 40, Understanding Asthma, which you can share with the doctor in the family and those mothers. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/40, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The good news is that about half of children who have asthma no longer have asthma by the time they are adults. And only about 5 percent to 10 percent of asthmatic children continue to have severe asthma as adults.

Sales of frozen Belgian waffles totaled $240 million in 1987, according to Swanson's, which has expanded its Great Starts breakfast line to include Belgian waffles in two varieties. These products can be heated in the microwave in 2 minutes.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the woman whose husband drinks, hunts and goes fishing a lot. She enjoys going to the track and never loses more than $25. Everyone thinks she has a problem.

It is apparent, Annie old girl, that you don't know much about hobbies.

Let me tell you what it's like to put in 43 years with an avid hunting and fishing nut. He may call it a sport, but it costs big bucks. This is what he needs:

- In-state/out-of-state licenses
- Pickup truck
- Boats, motors, accessories, gas
- Rifles, scopes, shotguns and ammunition

 Rods, reels, lines and lures
 Special clothing, camping gear, tents, trailers or money for motels

And now the seasons when he just picks up and goes:

August-September: doves
 September-October: deer
 October-December: ducks, geese and quail

November: pheasant
 January-December: salmon, trout, steelhead, bass, perch and catfish.

We never had a vacation together doing what I wanted because there was "no time."

I might add, that if there had been time, there wouldn't have been any money. Every spare dime went for his hobbies. I could have gone around the world first class, 10 times, on what this man spent hunting and fishing. I hope you will find room for this letter, Ann. Every woman who has a husband who puts himself and his pleasure first will bless you.--No T-Bones in Northern California

DEAR NO T-BONES: Thanks for the testimony.

If there is a lesson to be learned from your letter it is this: Marriages work best when both parties share mutual interests. Playing together is the joyous part of any relationship. And it brings lovers closer together. Are you listening, students?
