House argues school bill

AUSTIN (AP) - The House took up a $450 million school finance reform bill Thursday. Its leaders predicted whatever bill is passed will end up in a conference committee to resolve differences with a $1.2 billion Senate measure.

LI. Gov. Bill Hobby said he hopes a conference committee on the issue will work this weekend, the last before the 30-day special session expires at midnight next Wednesday.

Even $450 million is a higher cost for next school year than deemed acceptable by Clements. He has vowed to veto any new state taxes to pay for school finance reform, which was ordered by the Texas Supreme Court.

The court ruled last year that the school finance system is unconstitutional because of disparities between property-rich and -poor school districts. The $13.5 billion-a-year public school system relies on a combination of state aid, local property taxes and federal funds.

Clements has said he would allow increased public education funding only at a no-new-taxes level, which he has estimated at $200 million to $300 million for 1990-91.

The governor has promised to keep lawmakers in special session until they send him the bill he wants, despite a May 1 deadline set by the court for change. Clements can call an unlimited number of consecutive special sessions.

But Education Commissioner William Kirby said an education showdown is coming, because he and Comptroller Bob Bullock will not send state money to schools after May 1 if a new finance system has not been devised.

"The pressure now builds on the Legislature to find something acceptable to the courts by May 1," Kirby told Texas PTA members meeting in Austin. "Every day that passes, it gets more and more difficult to do that."

Sen. Carl Parker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee and a sponsor of that chamber's reform bill, said the $1.2 billion price tag is not as high as "the fiscal impact of ignorance."

Trying to finance education reform solely by looking for fat to cut in the state budget is like "rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic," added Parker, D-Port Arthur. He said the state tax system should be overhauled.

Somewhere back there is a store

Machines have dug a huge hole in what was the parking lot and gasoline pump island at the Pak-A-Sak convenience store at Park and U.S. Highway 385 in Hereford. A Lubbock firm has dug a huge hole to dig out soil to test for possible gasoline leaks. The hole is currently 20 feet deep, and the company plans to dig down another 20 feet, creating huge mountains of dirt in the store's parking lot.

Trumpets of spring

Wednesday's 83-degree high temperature really brought out the buds and blossoms on the first full day of spring. The blossoms are from trees in the 700 block of Miles. Everything is blooming just in time for a blast of Arctic air this weekend.

Cooper explains waste plan

Leslie Cooper, State Board of Health representative from Canyon, was guest speaker for the Hereford Board of Realtors luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hereford Country Club.

Cooper explained the new rules on septic tanks and small water systems and sewage treatment. A list of approved septic tank installations, at the time of the rules change, has been distributed to counties, and lenders in financial institutions.

A state law effective Sept. 1, 1989, requires all new septic tank installations to have a permit. And, any property that includes a septic tank and is sold will require an inspection.

Deaf Smith County does not have an inspector at present, but Cooper said the county hopes to have one to attend a training course in May. Any inspections before then can be arranged by calling Cooper.

Any new system will require a permit and likely will need to be constructed by a certified installer, said Cooper. Although a homeowner can install the system, the new rules make it very difficult, she said.

Cooper said a certified installer has inspected 17 septic tank installations and only found 3 that would pass inspection.

4 file for city council

Emory Brownlow and Ron Weishaar have filed as at-large candidates for Hereford City Commission and will be challenging incumbents Paul Hamilton and Terry Langehennig in the May 5 city elections.

Incumbents Irene Cantu, Place 2, and R.W.(Bud) Eades, Place 4, are unopposed for reelection to those seats.

Deadline for filing was Wednesday in the city and school board elections. The school offices were closed Wednesday for spring break and, as far as could be determined, only the three incumbents have filed. They are John Fuston, Dennis Newton and Sylvia Flores.

Brownlow is a building contractor and former commissioner, and Weishaar is owner of All Star Sports Center. In the at-large races for Places 5 and 6, the top two vote getters will be elected from the field of four candidates.

Deadline for filing in the hospital district election for four directors is April 4. The terms of Frank Zinser, Margie Ford and Craig Smith expire this year.

Letter seminar Monday

A Business Letter Seminar will be held at Hereford Community Center Monday, and registration is open to all interested persons.

The seminar, sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday. Call or go by the chamber office to register for the seminar.

The seminar deals with everyday problems in writing letters that increase profits and build goodwill.

The seminar will be conducted by W.H. Butterfield, a leading authority on letter writing. Butterfield has written 16 well-known books and more than 150 magazine articles on the subject. He has conducted the business letter seminar in more than 400 cities in the U.S. and Canada.

The $50 registration fee includes Butterfield's manual, Guides to Better Business Letters, which shows how to avoid common correspondence faults and make letters concise, clear, and friendly.

Bush 'delighted' broccoli being donated; Poles say no to offer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush says he still won't eat his broccoli and not even his "totalitarian" wife can make him.

Bush expressed delight Wednesday that California growers were shipping 10 tons of the green vegetable to feed the hungry in the nation's capital.

"I am not going to rethink my position," a puckish president insisted on his way home from the Oval Office.

Barbara Bush has publicly bemoaned the difficulty of getting her husband to eat his vegetables, but Bush said later he didn't really ban broccoli from the presidential plane.

At a state dinner for Polish Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki, he told reporters, "I have not ordered it off Air Force One. I have just said, 'Don't you dare bring me another sprig of that vegetable.'"

The president's taste runs more to pork rinds, taco salads and almost anything smothered in hot pepper sauce.

Bush gave his Polish guest a quick fill-in on the broccoli brouhaha.

"The broccoli growers of America are up in arms against me. Would you be interested in having the (10 tons) in Poland?" he asked. Mazowiecki evinced no interest in the deal.

"Just as Poland is rebelling against totalitarianism, I am rebelling. I refuse to give ground," said Bush, warming to the subject. "But the broccoli growers and my wife will win."

Asked if he really viewed his wife of 45 years as a totalitarian, he replied, "She is a total totalitarian - on broccoli only."

Mrs. Bush said, "You're darn right I am" a broccoli totalitarian. "I love broccoli."

She said she was prepared to serve a meal with broccoli soup and salad, broccoli with the main course and "then finish it with a little broccoli ice cream."

Earlier, Bush assured reporters he had already learned the news about the 10 tons of the vegetable rolling toward Washington.

"I was delighted," he said, pulling out of his pocket a news report about the Southern California growers who packed a truck with 20,000 pounds of broccoli on Tuesday and dispatched it toward the Potomac.

Asked if there was anything else he doesn't like, Bush laughed and replied, "Yeah, but I don't want to get 10 tons of it!"

The White House is considering holding a welcoming ceremony for the broccoli when it arrives Monday en route to the Capital Area Community Food Bank, which will forward the vegetables to soup kitchens, shelters and other groups feeding the hungry.

Two cartons of broccoli reportedly are earmarked for the White House kitchens, along with recipes offering appetizing ways to serve it.

Peter Lassen, food solicitor for the food bank, said he was contacted by the California growers Monday after a news magazine reported that broccoli was verboten on Air Force One.

"I got a call asking if we'd accept a shipment of broccoli as a good-natured protest to the president. I said sure," he said.

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration is moving swiftly to appeal a judge's order that threatens a costly delay in the president's savings and loan bailout.

WASHINGTON - Senate Democrats are outlining a new $2 billion aid package for Eastern Europe - far more than President Bush wants to spend and several times what Democrats themselves proposed just two months ago.

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. - Mikhail S. Gorbachev steps up his war of nerves with Lithuania by demanding citizens surrender all their firearms, but the breakaway republic's leaders say they are not intimidated and will not bend.

NEW ORLEANS - Experts are still unsure whether oatmeal will make you live longer, but a new study suggests that to do much good, you'll have to eat an awful lot of it.

WASHINGTON - The Senate is approaching a showdown over whether to give aid to coal miners who lose their jobs because of new pollution controls - and the outcome could determine whether clean air legislation passes this year.

WASHINGTON - Households across the nation will receive census forms in the mail starting Friday, as the head count shifts its focus from the homeless to the rest of the U.S. population.

DETROIT, Mich. - There was no romantic light, no soft focus, to the Census Bureau's attempt to count the homeless. Census takers were thrown into a world as brutal as the drifts of broken wine bottles banked against lamp posts in abandoned Detroit. They entered reluctantly and in some cases, not at all.

NEW YORK - As many as 680 endangered turtles have washed ashore choking, comatose or dead on the Pacific coast of Colombia, mystifying biologists and raising fears that more deaths will follow.

MARIETTA, Ga. - When Charles Stuart's claim that a black man killed his wife and wounded him as they sat in their car in Boston turned out to be an apparent hoax, it sounded familiar in the Atlanta suburb of Marietta. Police here, too, were in the midst of a case of murder sloughed off on a convenient, black and non-existent scapegoat.

ARLINGTON - The shooting death of an auto theft suspect by a detective has prompted a police internal affairs investigation today, officers say.

ORANGE - Several recordings by rap artists and one by the hard rock group Guns 'N Roses were removed from a record store's shelves after police said one recording violated the state's obscenity laws, the owner says.

EL PASO - El Paso is relying more on the Rio Grande for water, but the city could face some shortages next year because of this winter's light snowfall in New Mexico and Colorado, where the river begins.

AUSTIN - The House was scheduled to take up a $450 million school finance reform bill Thursday. Its leaders predicted whatever bill is passed will end up in a conference committee to resolve differences with a $1.2 billion Senate measure.

AUSTIN - Texas Democrats will be united by November even if peace doesn't break out between their feuding gubernatorial candidates before next month's runoff, party Chairman Bob Slagle says.

AUSTIN - The first step taken by the Texas Department of Human Services to offset its projected two-year $850 million budget deficit has drawn the ire of state officials and health care providers.

Court proceedings may be opened to TV and radio

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposal that could bring television cameras into the courtroom is being considered by the Texas Supreme Court, which is expected to vote on the proposal this spring.

The proposal would allow trial courts to permit televising or broadcasting of courtroom proceedings in accord with guidelines developed by the Supreme Court or Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Televising or broadcasting proceedings also could be allowed if it does not "unduly distract participants or impair the dignity of the proceedings, and the parties have consented."

Consent, in this case, would have to be obtained from each witness whose testimony will be televised or broadcast.

Supreme Court Justice Nathan Hecht said Wednesday canons of judicial conduct now allow televising or broadcasting courtroom proceedings under very limited circumstances. The proposal would remove the restrictions from the canons and make more "liberal" TV in the courtroom, he said.

The Supreme Court also is considering a rules change that would prohibit the sealing of court records unless a judge concludes a "compelling need" exists for keeping them secret.

Complaints have been made that some judges have abused the practice of sealing records, and state Attorney General Jim Mattox said this practice is occurring in "alarming numbers."

"Compelling need" is defined in the proposal as a "specific interest which, in the administration of justice, is substantial enough to clearly override the presumption that all court records are open to the general public."

To show compelling need, the person or entity seeking to be protected

$7.5 billion cap on supercollider proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Super collider supporters say they'll back legislation that would cap spending on the particle accelerator at $7.5 billion, even though the Energy Department estimates the price will be closer to $8 billion.

Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., chairman of the House Science, Space and Technology Committee, is planning to introduce legislation that would limit federal spending on the project to $5 billion and overall spending at $7.5 billion. The bill could be introduced by week's end, an aide said.

The Energy Department initially estimated the cost of building what would be the world's largest scientific instrument at $4.4 billion, then raised the price tag to $5.9 billion last year. DOE now says it will know in July or August what the actual price will be.

Roe's limit of $5 billion on federal spending is $1 billion less than what the Bush administration believes is necessary. The DOE is also counting on $1 billion from Texas and another $1 billion from foreign contributors.

Obituaries

PATRICIA LOUISE GONZALES March 20, 1990

Patricia Louise Gonzales, six-month-old infant daughter of Max and Tracy Gonzales of Lubbock, died Tuesday, March 20, 1990, in Lubbock.

Graveside services will be at 5:30 p.m. Saturday in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery with the Rev. Joe Bixenman, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, officiating.

The infant was born Sept. 18, 1990, in Lubbock.

Survivors, other than her parents, include three brothers, Christopher Gonzales, Nicholas Gonzales, and Jeremy Gonzales, all of the home.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, said the cap could help win support in Congress for the SSC by assuring members that cost overruns would not be allowed.

The climate in Congress, Bryant said, is "extremely skeptical of every spending project and those for which a fixed price cannot be ascertained are going to be scrutinized much more closely."

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, who with Bryant and several other SSC supporters attended a closed-door Capitol briefing Wednesday with Deputy Energy Secretary W. Henson Moore, said he would support Roe's proposal.

"My view is that you don't get into an argument with a guy that's trying to help you," Gramm said.

But Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, said passing a bill when "we know we're going to poke through that cap somewhere down the road, that's a bit of a problem. But if that's what it takes to get a congressional authorization, I'll certainly not oppose it."

Congress generally approves legislation authorizing a project before it agrees to an appropriation. But last year, Congress agreed to spend $225 million on the super collider, including money for initial construction, without an authorization bill.

Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, whose district includes the SSC site, said he also would support Roe's plan.

"The congressionally approved authorization for this project is zero. I'll take five billion over zero any day," Barton said.

Barton, however, criticized the Energy Department for continuing to keep its foreign participation plan under wraps and said a congressional hearing should be held to assess DOE's efforts to recruit foreign contributions.

"I don't think there's any reason to be mysterious about the foreign participation plan," Barton said. "It doesn't have any national security implications that I'm aware of. The kind of things we're going to be negotiating are plain vanilla, conventional items."

Moore said following the meeting that the DOE would "never be able to make public" its targets for foreign participation. The Dallas Morning News reported today that DOE wants Japan to contribute magnets that are the collider's most important component.

Moore is scheduled to begin traveling in June to begin formal negotiations with several foreign nations on cost-sharing arrangements, but he would not disclose his destinations.

Runoff primary to be a 'positive campaign'

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Democrats will be united by November even if peace doesn't break out between their feuding gubernatorial candidates before next month's runoff, party Chairman Bob Slagle says.

But Slagle, who has been meeting with officials of the Ann Richards and Jim Mattox campaigns, said he expects the mudslinging that marked their primary to be over as they campaign for the April 10 runoff.

"I really think that the runoff primary is going to be a positive campaign. We will have a little different tone," Slagle predicted.

During the primary, Ms. Richards accused Mattox of profiteering in public office while Mattox challenged Ms. Richards to say she's never used illegal drugs.

In a pep talk to the State Democratic Executive Committee on Wednesday, Slagle said party unity is crucial against Williams, whom he called "Blatant Millions" in referring to the oilman's record $8 million-plus GOP primary spending.

With the 1991 Legislature handling reapportionment for itself and Texas' expected 30 congressional seats, Slagle called this year's gubernatorial election the springboard into 21st Century politics.

"This election is so critical to us that we cannot afford for people to have their noses out of joint," Slagle said. "We are indeed a family and we're going to move forward together and be successful together. It's tough. We're tough. Tough people win."

The party executive committee certified the results of the March 13 primary Wednesday. Ms. Richards got 580,587 votes and Mattox 546,758. Former Gov. Mark White ran a distant third, with 287,328.

Texas Republicans, meanwhile, certified Williams as their nominee after he received 520,014 votes, a landslide 61 percent of the primary total.

The party's executive committee also reported that state Sen. Buster Brown of Lake Jackson won the GOP nomination for attorney general outright, receiving 636 more votes than the 50 percent required to avoid a runoff. Brown finished with 359,721 to 200,255 for state Rep. Patricia Hill of Dallas.

"This victory demonstrates that the people of Texas want new leadership in the attorney general's office," said Brown, who faces Democratic state Rep. Dan Morales of San Antonio in November. Morales told Democratic officials he believes the party has "put together a much, much stronger ticket, top to bottom" than the Republicans.

In an interview, Slagle said he has met with Richards and Mattox campaign managers three or four times, calling them "very pleasant" sessions.

"I think the Democrats will be very pleased with the campaigns both of our candidates run in the runoff," he said.

But he refused to call such a truce mandatory for eventual Democratic victory.

Appellate plan gains ground

AUSTIN (AP) - State officials say a consensus is forming on dividing the Texas Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals into single member districts.

But lawmakers Wednesday remained far apart on how to change the state district court system.

Both judicial levels are under federal court challenges from minorities who say the current at-large voting system prevents candidates supported by Hispanics and blacks from winning judicial elections.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton of Midland has ordered that state district judges in nine urban counties be elected from sub districts.

In Brownsville, U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela ordered that judges elected in the 20-county 13th Court of Appeals in Corpus Christi be elected from single-member districts. Both orders have been stayed by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said there hasn't been much progress on changing the state district court election system, but added, "I see some sort of consensus coming together around single-member districts for appellate courts - courts of appeal, Supreme Court, Court of Criminal Appeals."

Texas Supreme Court and Criminal Appeals Court members are elected statewide, while candidates for the state's 14 appellate courts run district-wide.

In the House Judicial Affairs Committee, efforts to change the state district court system were running aground, but Chairman Pat Hill said a bill may be produced to divide the Supreme Court and Criminal Appeals Court into single-member districts.

"We're going to try to talk and reach a resolution. I would suspect that whatever we decide would affect the appellate courts at this point," Ms. Hill, R-Dallas, said.

The special session called on judicial and education reforms must end by midnight March 28.

Supreme Court Justice Oscar Mauzy testified before the Judicial Affairs panel in support of a bill by Rep. Larry Evans, D-Houston, that would provide an interim single-member district plan for state district judges.

"This is an idea whose time has come," Mauzy said.

But several committee members said they didn't want to draw an interim plan because it may have to be changed once the lawsuit is appealed.

"I'm afraid we're putting a new paint job on the right fender when the rear end is falling out," said Rep. Jim Parker, D-Comanche.

This week is National Ag Week and Kyla McDowell, a member of the Hereford CattleWomen's Association, says members are going all out to learn more about beef. "Beef is good for you and we need to educate the public on all the nutritious values in beef," she said.

Texas CattleWomen Association will be observing National Ag Week with a beef casserole sale Saturday, March 24, at Furr's Supermarket and Moore's Jack and Jill from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Booths will be set up and all members will be making two beef casserole dishes for the sale.

The casserole sale is the main fundraiser for the Hereford CattleWomen and proceeds will be used to send a representative to the Texas Beef Cook-Off and the Texas CattleWomen Association Convention. This year Lori Hall and Karen Keeling will be representing the local association at the convention.

Hereford CattleWomen member, Pam Wagner, assisted in the 1990 Texas Beef Cook-Off in Houston.

McDowell is also actively involved with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, Touqour Amis Study Club, Camp Fire, and is a counselor at First United Methodist Church.

She was born and raised in Hereford and is married to James McDowell. She stays busy as a mother to their two children, Tallec and Toree, and also works part time at Lone Star Agency. She is taking part time classes on communication at West Texas State University.

A family project that she and her husband have recently taken on is remodeling the house. They hope to finish the project by the end of summer.

She is looking forward to campaigning as county treasurer and feels it will be an exciting task. She also enjoys going to antiques stores and flea markets (bumming as she calls it) looking for buys on antiques.

Because of her association with Hereford CattleWomen, she has learned how important beef can be in maintaining a nutritious diet for her family. Some of the beef recipes that she prepares for her family are as follows:

Round Steak

- 3 1/2 pounds round steak
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. red pepper
- 6 slices of bacon
- 1/3 cup butter
- 1 1/2 tsp. brown sugar
- 3 cups of tomatoes (cooked)
- 1 1/4 cup water

Cut small pockets lengthwise in steak. Fill with bacon. Rub steak with seasoning. Heat butter in skillet and brown meat on both sides. Add brown sugar, tomatoes and water. Cover and simmer for 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Serves 5-7.

Beef K-Bobs

- 3-4 lbs. beef cubed
- 2 large cans of chunked pineapple
- 3 large onions cut into chunks
- 4-5 large tomatoes chunked
- 4-5 green peppers chunked
- 2 lbs. of fresh mushrooms (washed)
- K-Bob skewers

Arrange on skewer and put into shallow baking dish. Salt, pepper, and sprinkle with terryaki sauce, cover thoroughly, cover and refrigerate overnight. Place on hot grill and cook to desired doneness.

Beef Stroganoff Crepes

- 3 beaten eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 T. cooking oil
- 1 cup all purpose flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- *Beef filling
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/4 cup soft butter
- *Beef filling:
- 2 lbs. very lean hamburger meat cooked with 1/2 cup chopped onion drained

Add:
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
6 oz. pkg. cream cheese
1/2 t. dried marjoram

Combine eggs, milk and oil, then add flour and salt. Beat until smooth. (Use blender and let set in refrigerator for 30 minutes). Pour 2 T. batter into greased 6-inch skillet, tilting skillet so batter will cover the bottom. Cook over medium heat until the top side loses its gloss and appears to be dry. Remove crepe to paper towel. Repeat to make 16-18 crepes. Place 2 T. beef filling down center of each crepe. Roll up. Place in large oblong baking dish. Cover and chill. Bake covered 325 degrees for 20-30 minutes. Mix sour cream and butter. Spoon over crepes. Return to oven and bake covered for another 10 minutes.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A University of Texas library is getting some "wild and crazy" new assets: comedian-actor Steve Martin, who writes much of his material, is donating original scripts.

The first batch of Martin scripts arrived at the Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center early this month, including drafts, revisions and final shooting scripts for the screenplays "Roxanne" and "Three Amigos."

More Martin scripts are expected, said Ray Daum, public affairs officer and curator of the Gloria Swanson archives at the Ransom center. He said he pursued the material for two years from Martin, who's a Waco native.

American diets not ideal

A survey indicates Americans are not eating enough foods considered beneficial in preventing cancer, and a Texas A&M nutritionist says it's an indication people aren't following basic nutrition guidelines.

"Despite the abundance of nutrition information available," said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, "the study by the National Cancer Institute shows that people are not eating enough fruits and vegetables and whole-grain cereals."

The survey showed that on a given day 40 percent of adults did not eat a fruit and 20 percent did not eat a vegetable. Eighty percent of those surveyed did not eat any high-fiber cereals or whole-grain breads.

"You need four or more servings from the fruit and vegetable group each day," Dr. Sweeten said. She also recommends at least four servings from the bread and cereal group.

Researchers looked at 24-hour dietary recall data collected between 1976 and 1980 during the second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics. The survey covered data from 11,685 people.

Blossom Patterson, lead investigator of the study, said that the data should still largely reflect current eating patterns, particularly fruits and vegetables, based on U.S. Department of Agricultural Continuing Survey data that showed minimal changes in the consumption of these foods between 1977 and 1986.

Women followed what's considered a better cancer prevention diet than men, and people over 55 had better diets than younger adults, Sweeten said. But all the groups needed much improvement in consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

Eating more of these foods would increase the fiber in American diets and reduce the amount of fat, she said.

"Fruits and vegetables thought to be of special importance to cancer risk reduction are those rich in vitamins A and C," Patterson explained in a survey report. "But about three-quarters of the study population failed to include a vitamin A- or vitamin C-rich fruit or vegetable in the day's diet."

Sweeten said good sources of vitamins A and C are dark green leafy vegetables, citrus fruits, and deep yellow-orange fruits and vegetables.

On the day of the survey, less than 20 percent of the population ate a vegetable from the cruciferous family such as cabbage, greens, broccoli, cauliflower, turnips and brussels sprouts, Sweeten said. These vegetables are high in nutrients, low in calories, and are believed to reduce cancer risk.

There are miniature kangaroos that are no bigger than rabbits.

Suggs gives program on Texas birds

The La Alflatus Estudio Study Club met recently with Emily Suggs presenting a program on "Birds of Texas."

She noted that Texas has more bird species than any other state or province in North America. The American Bird Association states that 579 species are found in Texas. She mentioned the whooping crane and noted that at one time there were only 15 cranes. In 1989, the count was 130. Some of the birds that can be found in Texas are the mockingbird, cardinal, morning dove, scissor-tailed, fly catcher, purple martin, meadow lark, and many others. A refuge for another type of crane is near Muleshoe. The swallows are coming back to an area a few hundred miles southeast of Justiceburg.

The starling, not a very popular bird, was introduced to U.S. from England March 6, 1890. Fifty birds were released on this date and 40 the year after. The reason for more birds in this area is because of the size of Texas, but the climate and other natural areas assist the birds in choosing a home.

Suggs also gave a report and pictures of a Caribbean cruise taken in January.

The club will meet April 13 with Lydia Hopson and Etoile Manning presenting the program.

Members present were Virginia Beasley, Della Stagner, Aileen Montgomery, Opal Elliston, Alberta Higgins, Lola Jewell, Hopson, Bea Hutson, Louise Kinsey, Pet Ott, Mary Williamson, Suggs and Manning.

Apples, grapes, cranberries, plums and cherries should be stored in the refrigerator immediately after purchase and are best eaten within a week.

Sandoval tabbed for summer hoop team

Kara Sandoval of Hereford has been selected to play on the West Texas Flyers AAU/USA girls 13 and under basketball team for 1990.

Sandoval, a 13-year-old eighth grader at Hereford Junior High, will be joined on the 13-member squad by players from Amarillo, Borger, Nazareth, Tulia and Panhandle. The team will play in tournaments throughout the southwest, with appearances in Amarillo, Lubbock and Shreveport, La. already scheduled.

In accordance with University Interscholastic League rules, players on the team must provide their own uniforms (about $70 for the season) and pay for transportation to the tournaments.

Jim Sandoval, Kara's father, said the team will be holding a variety of fundraisers to defray expenses.

"This is a great honor for her," he said. "We're all very proud of her. She'll get to play against some of the best girls in her age group in the country."

Hereford High School girls' basketball coach Dickie Faught said the opportunity will only help Sandoval's career.

"The level of competition she'll be facing will be so much better than what we get to play that she can't help but get better," Faught said. "She'll be in a position where she'll be playing basketball six to eight hours a day in those tournaments."

"I just think it's great that she and others in our athletic program have the opportunity to play on these summer teams," Faught added. "That shows the quality of the kids we have and indicates the job our coaches are doing with them."

Ryan, Hough impressive in Rangers' first workout

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — As if things weren't confusing enough during this spring training camp, things got really wacky when Nolan Ryan began tossing around a football on his first day back.

But when he got around to throwing baseballs, the 43-year-old Ryan looked surprisingly strong on Wednesday. He threw batting practice for 25 minutes, an unusually long time for a pitcher who just arrived in training camp.

"Everything was in the strike zone," said outfielder Pete Incaviglia, who batted against Ryan. "He wasn't even huffing and puffing. Typical Nolan. He's in better shape than most 19-year-olds."

The Rangers' second-oldest pitcher - 42-year-old Charlie Hough - also took a long turn on the batting practice pitcher's mound.

The two veterans' stamina was encouraging to Rangers pitching coach Tom House.

"I got my wish," House said. "Those two guys haven't been around so long because they're stupid or lazy. They know how to prepare. They work smart, and they work hard. They knew they didn't have the luxury of a full camp."

Ryan's contract allows him to report late to camp anyway - even without lockout situations. He routinely reports on March 1 and is ready for the season opener because of his strenuous off-season workouts.

"If I'm not ready in three weeks, I'm going to be surprised," said Ryan, who is baseball's all-time strikeout leader. "Where I am right now, I feel in three weeks I should be ready, unless I have some kind of setback."

Hough showed no signs of shoulder miseries that limited him to 182 innings last season, when he won only 10 games, his lowest victory total since 1981.

"There's work to be done, and he got it done," Manager Bobby Valentine said. "To me, Charlie has to prove he's healthy. If Charlie's healthy, he's a pretty good pitcher. He's worked hard, so he must be healthy."

Ryan will throw batting practice again on Friday, then will pitch three innings Sunday against Edison Community College.

Still going

Hough is scheduled to throw batting practice again on Thursday, with a game appearance Saturday against Edison.

The Texas Rangers have canceled two Oklahoma City exhibition games against the Cleveland Indians and the Toronto Blue Jays, officials said.

The Rangers were scheduled to play Cleveland March 31 at All Sports

Stadium and take on Toronto the following day, Oklahoma City 89er spokesman Dick Pryor said Tuesday.

Ticket holders have the option to either turn in their tickets for refunds or exchange them for tickets to future 89er games, Pryor said.

Although not yet officially set by the American League, the Rangers' home opener probably will be April 17 against Milwaukee, said Arlington Stadium director Jay Miller.

Baseball back to normal

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

While baseball and CBS are still working on a 162-game schedule, the Oakland Athletics are working on winning another World Series.

Baseball would like to extend the season by three days and reschedule two games during the year, officials at CBS, the commissioner's office and the players association said Wednesday.

But so far, they haven't been able to completely solve the problems caused by the 32-day lockout. As it stands now, each team is set for just 158 games.

Some early games already have been rescheduled by taking advantage of open dates.

The New York Yankees' home opener, which was to have been April 3 against Cleveland, was changed to April 12 against the Indians. Los Angeles, which had its season-opening, seven-game homestand wiped out, will play its home opener April 9 against San Diego.

Boston rescheduled a missed game at Detroit for April 12, meaning the Red Sox will play three straight at home, fly to Detroit the next day, and then return home for three more.

The trouble, though, comes at the end of season.

CBS begins its $1.06 billion, four-year contract with baseball this season. The network expected the playoffs to start on Tuesday, Oct. 1, and the World Series on Saturday, Oct. 13.

"It's very difficult to move around a week of prime-time programming," CBS Sports spokeswoman Susan Kerr said. "I know the people here are working at it."

Under the plan being discussed, American League teams would make up their scheduled opening series during the season and play what had been their first scheduled weekend series on Oct. 1-3.

AL teams only make two trips to each city per season, while National League teams make three trips to each team in their division. The NL schedule being discussed would make up the weekend games during the season and reschedule the missed opening series from Oct. 1-3. The playoffs would begin Friday, Oct. 5.

The Athletics intend to be playing in the postseason. So for Oakland's first full workout at Phoenix on Wednesday, Carney Lansford passed out T-shirts. The message on the front: "Contentment stinks. Stay Focused." Lansford said he got the idea while watching the San Francisco 49ers repeat as Super Bowl champions.

"I kept hearing it over and over from the 49ers, that they were going to stay in focus," he said. "We have to have a good frame of mind and not be content with last year. We got our ring, and now we have to remember the big thing about contentment is that it stinks."

Oakland swept the World Series from San Francisco, a year after it lost in five games to Los Angeles. The last team to win consecutive World Series was the New York Yankees in 1977-78.

Athletics general manager Sandy

Alderson liked the tone Lansford set. "Real nice," he said. "I think little things like that and the fact that all our guys are in here early speaks to their professionalism. Of course you also have to demonstrate that over 162 games. Rally caps don't do it."

Not everything was so upbeat at spring training camps. Elsewhere:

- Toronto's Tony Fernandez griped over Manager Cito Gaston's plan to bat him leadoff. "When I was healthy, I liked it, but I don't enjoy it anymore," he said. "I can't do the things I used to do."

- San Diego's Tony Gwynn and Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla aren't happy with their contracts. Gwynn signed an extension in 1988 that will pay him just $1 million this season, making him the seventh highest-paid player on the Padres. The National League batting champion will get a total of $4 million in the next two years.

"When you do a good job, I guess I thought I would be treated a little differently," Gwynn said. "But I guess business is business. When you can get a better deal somewhere else, you go somewhere else."

Mr. Farmer, If you're not using N-FIX on your crop acreage you're losing money.

N-FIX™ is a nutrient supplement which facilitates a stronger, healthier soil which in turn produces plants with improved root structure, more resistance to disease, insect and environmental stress.

N-FIX substantially reduces the amount of chemicals needed.

Tests prove that N-FIX increases nutrient uptake to the plants from 25 to 82%.

Tests prove that N-FIX increases the nutritional and protein value as well as the TDN of grains and hay.

N-FIX reduces irrigation and energy costs due to the soils' improved tillage and increased ability to retain moisture.

N-FIX has been known to increase crop yield anywhere from 10 to 20% in normal conditions.

N-FIX is 100 percent environmentally safe and is proven effective.

N-FIX is guaranteed.

Folks who believe in the magic of Mother Nature... also believe in the magic of N-FIX.

Performance proven since 1979

NCAA 'Sweet 16'

ACC, three other leagues dominate Sweet 16 field

By The Associated Press

While lineup changes helped sixth-ranked Syracuse survive the first two rounds of the NCAA tournament, Coach Jim Boheim isn't sure he has the right combination to match up against Minnesota.

Syracuse (26-6) meets No. 20 Minnesota (22-8) Friday night at New Orleans in the first Southeast Regional semifinal. Michigan State (28-5) and Georgia Tech (26-6) play in the other game.

"In the Virginia game, there were guys we could leave alone, we could help, we could adjust our defense in some areas. We can't do that against Minnesota," said Boheim, whose team is in the round of 16 for the third time in four years.

To shore up Syracuse's own weaknesses as much as to exploit the opposition's shortcomings, Boheim has adjusted his lineup game to game in recent weeks, using different starters and situational substitutions.

Sophomore David Johnson, a one-time starter now used as a reserve, gave Syracuse 20 productive minutes against Coppin State, while sophomore forward Tony Scott scored 15 points in his first two collegiate starts in place of junior LeRon Ellis.

Elsewhere Friday, it will be No. 21 Loyola Marymount (25-5) against No. 23 Alabama (26-8) and No. 2 UNLV (31-5) against Ball State (26-6) in the West Regional at Oakland, Calif. The winners meet in the regional finals on Sunday.

Tonight, No. 7 Arkansas (28-4) plays North Carolina (21-12) and No. 25 Xavier (28-4) takes on Texas (23-8) in the Midwest Regional at Dallas. In the East Regional at East Rutherford, N.J., No. 3 Connecticut (30-5) meets No. 17 Clemson (26-8), and No. 15 Duke (26-8) plays UCLA (22-10). The winners play Saturday night.

"We've had to adjust our lineup more than I would like at this time of year," said Boheim, who had to insert freshman Michael Edwards at point guard 15 games into the season.

Despite his dislike for shifting players in and out of the starting rotation, Boheim said it is likely to continue.

Against teams like Coppin State and Virginia, neither with a potent inside threat and who favor playing zone defenses, it's more likely the 6-foot-7 Scott will see considerably playing time because of his accurate outside shooting.

Ellis, a 6-10 standout defensive player who started 28 games, will be in the lineup more against teams possessing a strong inside game with more than one big man.

Johnson is a strong defender who has slumped offensively but who showed against Coppin State that he can wreak havoc in a zone defense with his slashing drives.

Syracuse also frequently uses 6-10 Richard Manning, a good outside shooter.

Minnesota presents different problems. The sixth-seeded Gophers are a group of interchangeable leapers from 6-4 to 6-7 who play a well-balanced game.

Of particular concern to Boheim - much like it's been to other opposing coaches - is the Minnesota backcourt of 6-4 senior Melvin Newbern and 6-6 junior Kevin Lynch. The tandem combines for 28 points and 8.2 assists per game.

Edwards, who at 5-10 is considered a weak defender, will have to cover one of Minnesota's guards.

Then there is 6-7 forward Willie Burton, who scored a career-high 36 points in the Gophers' second-round victory over Northern Iowa.

"They're solid. They can come at you so many different ways," said senior Stephen Thompson, Syracuse's stopper on defense.

In the other Southeast game, Dennis Scott and freshman Kenny Anderson lead Georgia Tech. The 6-8 Scott averages 27.6 points and hit 121 3-pointers during the regular season. He scored 36 points in Tech's 99-83 victory over East Tennessee in the first round and 30 in the 94-91 victory over LSU.

Michigan State forward Ken Redfield will guard Scott.

Unranked Ball State should be America's favorite underdog in the final 16. But Loyola Marymount has assumed that role in the wake of Hank Gathers' death and a tournament-record 149 points from their "emotional hurricane" last Sunday.

That's fine with Ball State coach Dick Hunsaker, who says the Cardinals are on their own crusade against UNLV in the West Regional.

"We carry the banner for the mid-to low-level guys in Division I," Hunsaker said.

Loyola, which averaged an NCAA-record 124.5 points in the regular season, has pushed the pace to an average 130 points in tournament victories over New Mexico State and Michigan. Bo Kimble, the nation's leading scorer, is averaging 41 in the tournament, Jeff Fryer 32.5, and the Lions have knocked down 47 percent of their 3-point shots (32-for-68).

Bird hits stride as NBA races enter stretch run

By The Associated Press
 Surprise! It's crunch time in the NBA and Larry Bird is carrying the Boston Celtics.

Bird, enjoying his best stretch since missing most of last season because of surgery on both heels, had 25 points, 16 assists and 10 rebounds Wednesday night as the Celtics beat Cleveland 123-114.

"Larry initiates 85 to 90 percent of our offense. He opens up everything," Kevin McHale said of his teammate.

With a month left in the regular season, Boston tied New York for second place in the Atlantic Division, 1 1/2 games behind Philadelphia.

In other games, Philadelphia beat Miami 118-97, Chicago defeated Atlanta 99-89, Washington downed New Jersey 136-106, Indiana stopped Milwaukee 112-96, Utah beat the Los Angeles Clippers 118-102, Charlotte edged Phoenix 115-114 in overtime and Sacramento defeated Minnesota 90-84. Minnesota and New Jersey each have lost 21 straight road games.

In Sunday's victory over New Jersey, Bird had 29 points, 18 rebounds and 11 assists. In Boston's last six games, five of them victories, Bird has averaged 30.7 points, 11.2 rebounds and 9.3 assists.

"We feel we are starting something," said Reggie Lewis, who led Boston with 26 points. "We're moving the ball much better on offense and everybody is concentrating on defense."

The Celtics never trailed in beating Cleveland. Craig Ehlo led the Cavaliers with 27 points and Mark Price had 24.

76ers 118, Heat 97

Hersey Hawkins scored 25 points and led a third-quarter surge.

Charles Barkley scored 11 of his 19 points in the first quarter as Philadelphia took an 11-point lead. The 76ers were ahead 59-51 in the third period when Hawkins scored 12 points, and Philadelphia's lead was at least 11 the rest of the way.

Bulls 99, Hawks 89

Michael Jordan scored 27 points and Chicago broke away from an 85-85 tie in the final five minutes.

The Bulls rallied from a 78-73 deficit in the fourth quarter. Jordan's two foul shots made it 89-87 with 2:31 left.

Dominique Wilkins led the host Hawks with 36 points.

Kings 90, Timberwolves 84

Rodney McCray hit all eight of his shots and scored 19 points.

Rookie Pervis Ellison scored a season-high 18 points and Wayman Tisdale had 17 for Sacramento.

Tyrone Corbin, Tod Murphy and Tony Campbell each scored 20 points as Minnesota lost its fourth consecutive game.

Bullets 136, Nets 106

Ledell Eckles scored a career-high 40 points.

Eckles again filled in for Jeff Malone, the Bullets' leading scorer, who has a bruised thigh.

New Jersey's Chris Morris was suspended for two games by Coach Bill Fitch. Morris unleashed a verbal tirade at the team and organization when he was taken out shortly before halftime.

Hornets 115, Suns 114

Dell Curry got five of his 28 points in overtime.

Armon Gilliam scored 22 points and Muggsy Bogues had 17 points and 17 assists for the Hornets. Tom Chambers scored 36 points for Phoenix and Kevin Johnson had 26 points and a season-high 20 assists.

Pacers 112, Bucks 96

Indiana made its first 13 shots from the field.

The Pacers did not miss until Vern Fleming's layup rolled off the rim with 3:07 left in the first quarter. But Fleming got his own rebound and scored.

Indiana hit 17 of 21 shots in the first period and finished with 48 in 82 attempts, 59 percent.

Chuck Person scored 27 points for Indiana. Alvin Robertson scored 31 for Milwaukee.

Jazz 118, Clippers 102

John Stockton scored 23 points and led a fourth-quarter run as Utah beat the visiting Clippers and clinched a playoff spot. The Jazz, leading the Midwest Division with a 48-19 record, joined the Los Angeles Lakers and Portland as Western Conference teams assured of being in the playoffs.

Utah led 87-86 with 7:55 left when Stockton's 3-point shot started an 18-4 run.

Karl Malone, second in NBA scoring with a 31-point average, was held to four points in the first quarter, but finished with 28 for Utah. Charles Smith scored 20 for Los Angeles.

CattleWomen luncheon held at Caison House

Hereford CattleWomen met recently for a luncheon at the Caison House. The business meeting was called to order by President Lori Hall and invocation was given by Linda Sue Gilbert.

Cathy Bunch introduced the program given by Diane Witherspoon from Amera Natural Nail Care Products.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Judy Barrett and Karen Keeling reported on beef education. "Around the World with Beef" will be held in an undecided elementary school May 7-11. Vicki Wilson reported on Ag Week activities. Advertisements will be in The Hereford Brand and on the a.m. talk show on KPAN. The annual casserole sale will be held at Moore's and Furr's Supermarkets on Saturday, March 24, from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Members were reminded to make a beef casserole, freeze and package it with attached recipe and heating instructions and take it to their designated grocery store on Saturday.

Peaches Reinauer reported on scholarships. Hall read a letter received from last year's recipient, Jill Johnson who is attending Texas A&M. Marty McElhane reported on legislation and encouraged all members to call the Charles Stenholm office of the Dairy Board and state an opposition for whole-herd buy-out and a paid diversion plan.

Plans for the Fajita Cook-Off were briefly discussed. Hall and Karen Keeling will be attending the Texas CattleWomen Spring Convention in Fort Worth.

Hall introduced guests, Nancy Josseland's granddaughter, Dana and Jo Dee Black.

Members in attendance were Marty McElhane, Zula Arney, Mildred Garrison, Deborah Foxhoven, Wilson, Jackie Murphy, Eleanor Gibson, Roberta Caviness, Joan Coupe, Beverly Davis, Rachel Hunter, Beverley Lambert, Camille Beville, McDowell, Freda Cordray, Loraine Anthony, Gilbert, Brenda Johnson, Linda Fitzgerald, Reinauer, Josseland, Sue Sims, Leisa Lewis, Connie McGill, Keeling, Hall, Bunch and Barrett.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held March 11 in the home of Shirley Wilson for Heidi Howell of San Angelo. The honoree and Ronnie Killough plan to wed May 26 in San Angelo. Pictured with the bride-elect are, from left, Lucille Killough of Lubbock, the prospective groom's grandmother; Lydia Howell of San Angelo, the honoree's mother; Carolyn Jones, his mother; and Gardeen Sell of Littlefield, his grandmother.

The world's largest lake is the Caspian Sea with an area of 143,244 square miles.

Howell feted with shower

Heidi Howell of San Angelo, May 26 bride-elect of Ronnie Killough, was honored at a bridal shower March 11 in the home of Shirley Wilson.

The honoree greeted guests along with her mother, Lydia Howell of San Angelo; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Carolyn Jones of Hereford; and his grandmothers, Lucille Killough of Lubbock and Gardeen Sell of Littlefield.

The refreshment table was centered with an all-silk floral arrangement in the honoree's chosen colors of mauve and blue. The flowers were placed in a goose planter which was later presented to the honoree from the hostesses.

Cookies, sandwiches and fruit were served during the shower.

Serving as hostesses were Shirley Wilson, Sheri Kerr, JoAnn Burfield, Margaret Ann Durham, Linda Daniel, Joyce Duggan, Ronda Banner, Janice Carr, Carolyn Fry, Delores Foster and Jan Dudley.

District officer installed

Installed as District Deputy President of District #5 was Susie Cutsinger of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228, who also chaired the analysis distribution committee.

The Lodge #228 was represented at the 96th annual session of Rebekah assembly of Texas in Odessa recently with Ursalee Jacobsen, Jo Irlbeck and Cutsinger attending.

E.E. Bishop, representative of Hereford I.O.O.F. Lodge was installed as District Deputy Grand Master of District #3 at the 150th session of Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. of Texas.

Green Thumb Tips

PEONIES:

Peony lactiflora hybrids (Chinese, or herbaceous peonies) are the most popular peonies and are available in single, double, and intermitten forms. Colors include white, cream to nearly yellow, pink, salmon pink, and red.

Peonies grow 18" to 30" tall and prefer full sun and well-drained soil. When planting, barely cover the "eyes" on the peony tuber with soil so that the tuber will be sure to "freeze" during the winter. If planted too deep, the peony will come up in the spring, make beautiful foliage, but never bloom. Some gardeners go to the trouble of piling ice and snow on top of their peonies in the winter to make sure their peony tubers get cold enough.

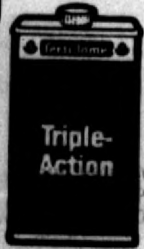

Peonies are very dependent on a good steady source of phosphorus. It is recommended that you feed your peonies in November, in February, and right after they bloom with organic BONE MEAL, a high source of phosphorus.

Watch out for THRIIP that sometimes invade the buds causing the blooms to never open in the spring. Botrytis, a fungus disease, also needs to be avoided as it can attack the buds causing them to rot when conditions are right.

You can control both problems by spraying your peonies with ferti-lome TRIPLE ACTION as a precautionary measure in the spring. TRIPLE ACTION contains 3 sprays in ONE...a miticide, a fungicide, and an insecticide.

Peonies resent being disturbed and seldom require separating so dig and divide when necessary and only in early autumn leaving 3 to 5 eyes per tuber.

Gorbachev steps up war on nerves

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) - Lithuania's prime minister said today that Mikhail S. Gorbachev has no right to order her people to surrender their firearms, and she demanded to know how many extra Soviet troops have been sent to Lithuania.

The prime minister, Kazimiera Prunskiene, called Gorbachev's decree "an expression of mistrust in the whole population" of the Baltic state, which insists it will not be intimidated into backing down from secession.

President Vytautas Landsbergis of Lithuania, which declared itself independent on March 11, said in a statement that the Soviet leader's order Wednesday showed "the ghost of Stalinism is walking in the Kremlin."

Landsbergis said the Baltic republic would remain "serene and united" despite the decree, which he said "could be enforced only by brutal military force."

Gorbachev has called Lithuania's declaration of independence illegal but has also said he would not use force to keep it from seceding. Soviet troops have over the past week stepped up maneuvers in Lithuanian territory.

On Wednesday night, Mrs. Prunskiene sent a telegram to Gorbachev demanding to know the number of Soviet troops and amount of military equipment sent to Lithuania over the past few days.

The telegram said the number of soldiers, especially paratroopers, appeared to be on the rise although the massive number of military flights to Lithuania over the weekend had been halted.

Mrs. Prunskiene said today during a meeting of Lithuania's Parliament that it is up to the people if they want to keep arms. "It is up to each individual because sports guns are private property."

She said the Soviet Union had no right to tell Lithuanians what to do. "Nor does it have an excuse for the suspicion that these weapons will be used for any kind of bad event," she said.

However, the Soviet general who commands Lithuania's volunteer civil defense agency said he has partially complied with orders to turn over to the Soviet military the weapons and 16,000 vehicles under his command.

Gen. Ginutis Taurinskas told the Lithuanian Parliament he was ordered "to give all small caliber weapons to military units so there won't be any eventual theft of arms for inappropriate use."

He said firearms remained scattered among 500 to 600 units of volunteers who carry out air raid drills and train young people for military service. He gave no figures.

Gorbachev, using the powers he gained when the Congress of People's Deputies elected him the Soviet Union's first executive president last week, said Lithuanians had a week to turn in their firearms.

If they fail to do so, he said the Soviet Interior Ministry should be prepared to confiscate them.

Gorbachev also told KGB border troops to tighten their watch over the republic and told officials to reduce the number of visas issued to foreigners seeking to visit the republic.

His decree was the latest in a series of increasingly tough moves taken by Moscow in an attempt to discourage secession by the republic of 3.8 million people.

It came less than 24 hours after a strong protest from Lithuania's government over stepped up maneuvers by the Soviet military in the state.

Lithuania's was independent from 1918 until 1940, when it was forcibly annexed along with Latvia and Estonia. So far, no foreign country has officially recognized Lithuania as independent.

Lithuania had rushed to declare its independence before Gorbachev could gain broad powers that include authority to impose direct presidential rule on areas of the Soviet Union.

Asked late Wednesday whether Gorbachev was conducting psychological warfare on the small republic, Lithuanian legislator Algimontas Cekuolis said, "Yes, this is a war of nerves, but we are not nervous. We have the motivation, we have our country, and we know where we are going."

Most firearms are tightly controlled in the Soviet Union, so Gorbachev's directive primarily touched hunting weapons. Relatively few people own firearms, and they must be registered with authorities.

Cekuolis predicted that Lithuanians would not rush to turn in their guns. "There has not been one case of aggression, so why confiscate shotguns?" he said.

INS apprehensions are way up

WASHINGTON (AP) - The flow of illegal immigration across the Southwest border appears to be increasing dramatically, reversing a three-year downturn that began when the federal government made it unlawful to hire undocumented workers.

Verne Jervis, a spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said a surge in apprehensions of illegal aliens - considered to be the best available indicator of illegal immigration - began in May 1989 and has continued steadily.

According to the INS, apprehensions of illegal aliens were up 29.9 percent over the past 10 months, compared with the same period a year ago. Apprehensions totaled 801,937 between May 1989 and February 1990 compared with 617,317 between May 1988 and February 1989.

Some months recorded surges of nearly 60 percent, while in other months the increases dropped below 20 percent. But the past three months have been among the highest, with apprehensions rising 57.3 percent between February 1989 and February 1990, by 39.6 percent between January 1989 and January 1990, and by 58.3 percent between December 1988 and December 1989.

Apprehensions began dropping sharply in fiscal 1987, the year after Congress passed the Immigration Control and Reform Act of 1986, which made employers subject to civil and criminal sanctions for hiring undocumented workers.

Although the trend in apprehensions continued downward through the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 30, the first six months of this fiscal year have seen an increase in apprehensions of 37 percent over the same period a year ago.

Jervis said the rise in illegal immigration may be due to the availability of fraudulent documents that undocumented workers use to obtain work or simply the "desperation" of some in Mexico to seek work here.

Rep. Lamar Smith of San Antonio, the ranking Republican on the House Judiciary subcommittee on immigration, blamed inadequate enforcement of employer sanctions for contributing to the increase.

"The combination of sanctions not being enforced for lack of personnel and financial resources, in conjunction with an abundance of fraudulent documents, means there's not as much of a disincentive for illegal aliens to come to the United States as there should be," Smith said.

Smith said he is surprised by a lack of vigorous lobbying for additional funds by the Justice Department and the INS.

Dan Stein, executive director of the Federation for American Immigration Reform (FAIR), also blamed a lack of enforcement of employer sanctions, and the Bush administration's failure to bolster law enforcement along the border.

"The increased apprehensions highlight the urgent need for a strong signal from the administration that they are committed to stepped-up border security," Stein said.

Jervis, however, said the Bush administration's budget for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 seeks an increase in funding for the Border Patrol to $289.2 million from the current $262.6 million.

The administration is also seeking 90 new Border Patrol agents, bringing the total 4,942 next fiscal year.

Stein said despite the request for increased Border Patrol spending the Bush administration has failed to lobby Congress hard to allocate the money.

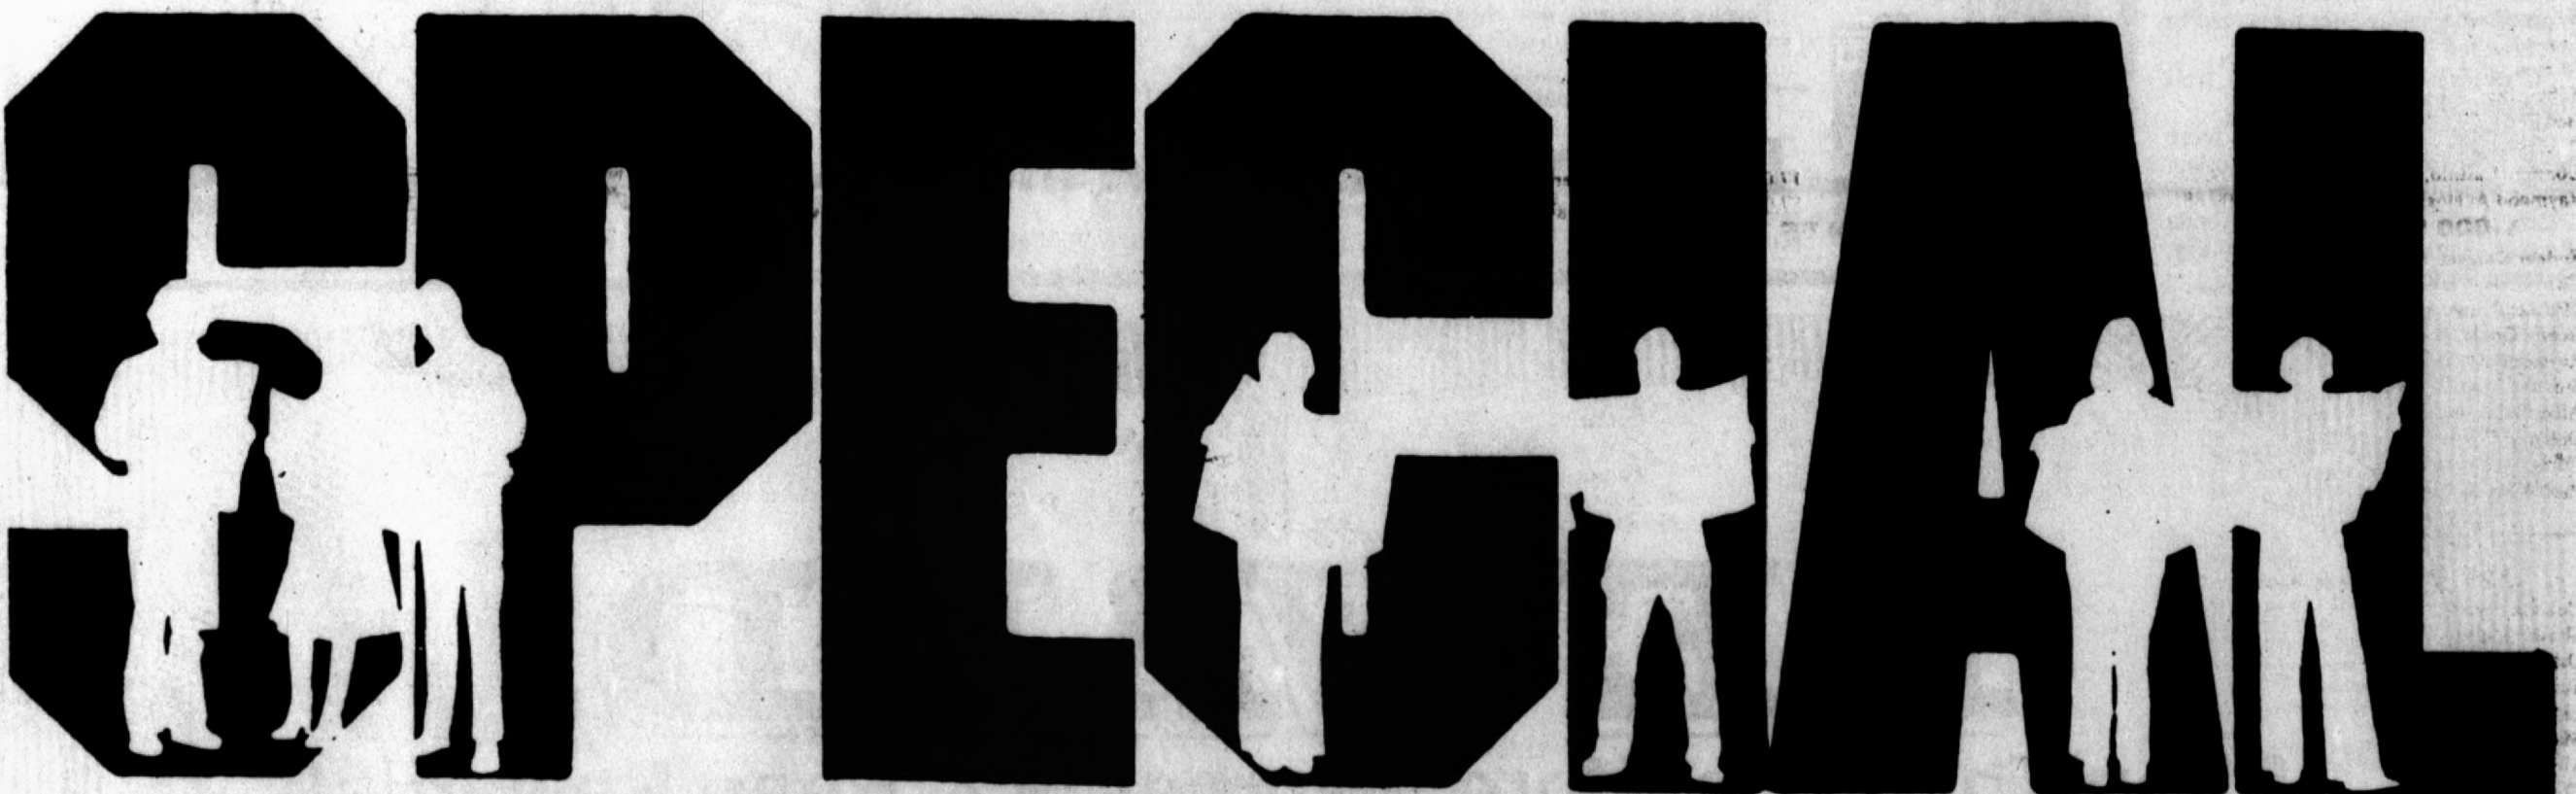

"There is asking and then there is asking," Stein said. "Submitting a line item in a budget without a public relations hoopla has all the impact of a snowflake in July."

Stein said economic pressures in Mexico, where half the population is under 16, and the rest of Latin America will continue to feed the illegal immigration trend unless Washington takes stronger action.

Kite ready for Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Tom Kite says he lost his fear of the long Bay Hill course when he realized it didn't necessarily favor players who are long off the tee.

In fact, Kite says he may have the advantage over a long course such as the 7,100-yard Bay Hill layout in this week's Nestle Invitational. He should know. He's the only two-time winner of this stop on the PGA Tour.

The key, Kite says, is to hit the ball straight and wait for the heavy hitters to get into the trouble that lurks just off the fairways of the Arnold Palmer-designed course.

"I once thought the longer courses were unfavorable to my chances," Kite said. "But I've discovered I have the best chance to win on long courses that penalize errant drives.

"Where I have an advantage is on courses like Bay Hill, where the big boys feel they have to hit their drivers but are penalized when they miss the fairway.

"They hit the rough at Bay Hill, and most of the time they'll be too far away to hit the green from out of the junk."

Palmer, principal owner of Bay Hill, made some changes last summer on the course sometimes called "Bay Long."

Most of the golfers in this week's $900,000 event were not looking forward to seeing the alterations, and most came expecting the worst.

Kite, 1989 tournament runner-up Davis Love III, Andy Bean and others said they were pleasantly surprised by the changes, which included much work on the oft-criticized greens.

The first hole was shortened from a par-5 to a tougher par-4. But the par-4 18th, considered the hardest hole on the Tour last year, retained all of its teeth.

Mark Calcavecchia, the leading money winner who will skip the Nestle, said he will "watch the boys hit it in the water on 18 at Bay Hill. That's a nightmare of a hole."

Bean liked the improvements. "With all the changes Arnold made, I can't believe it turned out this well," he said.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I gave the enclosed letter to my wife on our 32nd anniversary, but we never had a chance to discuss it. She died from a heart attack two days later.

When I was going through her things, I found the letter in her bathrobe pocket. Please print it, if you think it might help some of your readers. Here it is:

In my opinion, we have a problem with our marriage. I think we should talk about it before it splits us completely.

Four years ago, when you turned 50, you decided that you no longer needed sex. You came to this conclusion on your own. I don't think I am being unfair when I say you should have given me a chance to express my feelings on the matter.

To all outward appearances, we still have a perfect marriage, but when we get upstairs to the bedroom, everything changes. You become a stranger. If I so much as put my arm around you in bed, I can expect an elbow or a knee shoving me away.

At 57, I realize that sex is not the most important thing in the world, but it's still a very enjoyable and meaningful part of marriage. Now that the kids are gone, these should be the best years of our lives, but they are far from it.

Compare our marriage to your famous chocolate cake. If you don't put the frosting on, it is still chocolate cake, but it isn't as good as it could be. This is the way I feel about our marriage without sex. It is good, but something very special is missing.

Please think about this, and let's discuss it. Love...

Ann, I feel guilty about having written this letter. If you think I should have counseling, I will get it. -No Name or City, Please

DEAR FRIEND: Your letter was a good one, and you should have no qualms about having written it. The issue you raised was valid. You were neither unreasonable nor demanding. There was not a trace of anger or meanness in your words. You have nothing to feel guilty about.

If you are still depressed when this letter appears in the paper, do get counseling. Meanwhile, please know that you have performed a valuable service. What appears in today's column is sure to spark some meaningful dialogue among many couples. I'm glad you wrote.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My right hand is in a cast. When I went to get a prescription for pain, the pharmacist put the pills in a bottle with a childproof cap. I didn't realize it until I tried to open it at 11 p.m.

After struggling with the cap for an hour, I phoned the pharmacist at home. He came out and opened the bottle.

My mother is 85. She has a heart ailment for which her doctor prescribed medication. The pills were delivered by the pharmacy at 8:30 p.m. They were in a bottle with one of those miserable caps. After fiddling with it for two hours, she became so exasperated, her heart began to act up. Finally she called 911. A fireman came out to her house and removed the cap.

I don't expect brilliance from druggists, but a little common sense would be nice. -- Still Angry in Ohio

DEAR ANGRY: I'm sure those miserable caps have saved some lives, but they can be a terrible nuisance. The pharmacists should ask customers whether or not they want a childproof cover. Thanks for making the point.

Do you have a question about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-Ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

NEW YORK (AP) - Anthony Quinn says he's never been scared of dying, not even by heart bypass surgery. But he admitted making out a will before he underwent surgery last month.

Quinn called the operation "a breeze" in an interview taped Wednesday for "The Joan Rivers Show."

"It's complicated for the doctor, but for you it's very simple," the 75-year-old actor said.

Although he made out the will before going under the knife, he said the thought of dying doesn't worry him.

"I've never been afraid of death," he said. "I don't think it exists. ... I think it's just a change that you go through."

"There's a light at the other end of a tunnel that is just another life and I think it's a better life than this one, without all the wars and all the hunger and all the nonsense that's going on now."

The interview will be broadcast Friday.

Krazy Maze returns with guest star

Chubby Checker and his band kick-off the second appearance of the Krazy Maze from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. March 30 at Amarillo's Westgate Mall.

This year, the mall, in cooperation with Harrington Cancer Center, has provided indoor space for the human-size maze.

To start the April Fool's week-end festivities, the mall and the Cancer Center are hosting a giant party March 30 complete with entertainment by Chubby Checker and the Wildcats.

Amarillo's own 50s group, The Sharks, will provide a pre-show entertainment and the Krazy Party will feature free snacks, soft drinks, a classic car show, frizze modeling by Westgate Mall's STAR Board, a silent auction, a twist contest with KPUR and unlimited trips through the Krazy Maze all for only $15. Nabisco's Twistin' Oreos will be a party and at the mall throughout the weekend. Party goers will have the opportunity to win a trip to either Disneyland or Disney World courtesy of American Airlines.

Before the party, corporate teams will have relay races through the maze. Jennifer Thomas, vice president of First National Bank of Amarillo and a member of Harrington Cancer Center's Development Council, is rounding up teams for the races.

A $75 entry fee gets a four-member team T-shirt and tickets to the Krazy Party plus the chance to compete for trophies.

Thomas feels, "The corporate team races are an excellent opportunity for a business to make an affordable contribution to the Cancer Center. For only $75, a business can be a recognized donor and allow four of its employees to enjoy the whole evening of entertainment. We have been so pleased about the business sector's support of the Cancer Center."

The maze stays open to the public until the mall closes Sunday, April 1. A trip through the maze is $1. The maze configuration changes several times a day, so each trip could be a new adventure.

Proceeds of the weekend-long event will be used to benefit patient care at Harrington Cancer Center. Chuck Nestor of Canyon says, "Here in our own area we have a fine facility deserving our support."

His sentiments are echoed by financial consultant Frank Saucier, chairman of Harrington's Development Council when Saucier says, "Harrington has a nationally recognized division of supportive care which offers cancer patients and their families non-medical support services. These services are generally free, but we need community support to make them possible."

Dumas' Helen Beauchamp and her family are major supporters of Harrington Cancer Center. She feels the importance of community support for Harrington can't be stated often enough. "Because Harrington is here in this region," she says, "people don't have to travel across the state for the same quality treatment."

Bethel Robinson of Panhandle and Nancy McIntyre of Spearman serve on Harrington Cancer Center's Development Council. Both say that the Cancer Center lives up to its stated mission to excel in patient care, education and research for the people of the High Plains region.

Westgate Mall merchants and others have provided items for a silent auction which will go on until the close of the Chubby Checker show. Sandy Heymann, marketing manager of Westgate Mall applauds the cooperative effort of Harrington Cancer Center and Westgate Mall to offer area citizens the chance to have fun and benefit patient care at the Cancer Center.

Party tickets are available at Harrington Cancer Center, 1500 Wallace Blvd., 806-359-4673 or at the information booth at Westgate Mall. During the weekend, tickets for the Krazy Maze are available at the maze located in the former United Jewelers and Distributors building in the mall.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Nearly 100 police officers were needed to control thousands of rowdy fans who blocked traffic and spilled into a major boulevard to see the British band Depeche Mode.

About 3,000 fans and autograph seekers gathered outside the Wherehouse record store late Tuesday, said police Sgt. Emilio Perez, and "several of the people started throwing rocks and bottles."

Lisa Perez, a receptionist at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center emergency room, said five youths were treated for minor injuries and were released.

"People were getting stepped on and one girl fainted," said Art Cortez, 16, who was in the crowd. "It was like a riot."

Almost 100 officers in riot gear were eventually needed to calm the crowd, which had been expected to be about 400, police said. Police cordoned off the area for about two hours and made no arrests, said Capt. Keith Bushy.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Singer Tony Orlando set his star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame on the 30th anniversary of the promotion sponsored by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

Orlando's star, No. 1,909, was set Wednesday between Mel Blanc and Gail Davis along the 6300 block of Hollywood Boulevard.

Among those attending were Dick Clark, Jerry Lewis and Telma Hopkins. Johnny Grant, chairman of the Walk of Fame Committee, served as master of ceremonies.
