POTATO CHIPS THAT PLEASE DEPEND ON TEMPERATURE

To the consumer, potato chips are merely another form of that. To the consumer, potato chips makes them there is often the problem of obtaining potatoes that will make the light-colored, crisp and tasty morsel that the public demands.

Scientists of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, have come to the assistance of restaurant men and manufacturers of potato chips who have encountered some unsuitable potatoes for chips, the French fries and baking. After several months of research they have traced the trouble down to one trouble—storage.

In searching for the most desirable potatoes for these uses, the Bureau scientists stored potatoes under temperatures ranging from 32 degrees to 70 degrees F. From these investigations it was found that potatoes to be used in making good chips should be stored at temperatures ranging from 60 to 70 degrees.

Potatoes stored at 50 degrees were made into chips desirable in every way with the exception of color or appearance. Chips made from potatoes at temperatures of 40 degrees and lower were reaching the Daniel community, where it was estimated at about an inch. But until Monday night the extreme northern portion of the county had failed to receive more than light showers. As the rains moved northward, however, that section was covered with a half inch Monday night.

Half Inch at Wildorado.

Commissioner Dick Allred said he received a half inch at his home three miles south and one west of Wildorado. The town itself received an equal amount, but toward Vega he estimated the fall to be lighter. It grew heavier, however, as it came farther south into Deaf Smith county. He said that Daniel apparently had equalized precipitation of the night before.

Statistics compiled for O. T. Williams, Soil Conservation manager, from the Government gauges on the conservation project west of Hereford, show that rainfall of the project varied from .44 inches to more than an inch and a half. The reading on eight of the known as Fairview and Ford boxes, which were contested in the counter action of Attorneys Bill Russell and John Coffee, representing contestee. The committee was 100 per cent in its decision.

After the two boxes were thrown out, opposing attorneys allowed all of the 40 ballots contested by Allred to be counted as illegal in order to discard the necessity of trying each case separately. Fairview went 31 to 0 in favor of Allred, and Ford favored him 29 to 15, causing the committee to discard 60 of Allred's votes and 55 of Newell's. Contestee attorneys also dropped 29 individual ballot contests they had filed in reply to the original contest.

The hearing opened Thursday morning in the district court room, with a small group of spectators looking on. Mr. Russell suggested that the committee investigate the two boxes in order that a quick decision might be reached. This was opposed, and attorneys went into conference in an attempt to reach an agreement on a number of the individual ballots contested. The committee returned Thursday afternoon and made its investigation of the two boxes, and in the words of Chairman Ireland, "There was no other course open to us in rendering our decision."

PEANUT DECLARED MEMBER OF BEAN FAMILY; NOT NUT

The peanut is not really a nut. It is a vegetable belonging to the bean family. In the South it goes under the lowly name of goober or pindar, states a writer in the Detroit Free Press.

The peanut has an interesting personality. It is often called the burrowing bean, because after the flower fades the plant stems bend over from a height of about 18 inches, and, like an ostrich hiding its head, bury the pods in the ground to mature. In the late summer and autumn the nuts are thrown out of the ground with a digger, and then dried in piles or stacks for four to six weeks.

The peanut plant originally came from Brazil, was carried to Africa during our colonial times, and thence arrived in the United States on slave ships. Before the Civil War the peanut was little known outside of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee; but when the Union troops went back to their homes they took along with them a liking for peanuts.

United States production is still less than one-tenth of world production, some 70 per cent of which comes from Asia and about 20 per cent from Africa. The peanut is essentially a tropical plant, and grows only in our southern and southwestern states. About half the domestic production comes from the three states of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. The other half, almost, comes from South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

EROSION CONTROL BRINGS CALL FOR NATIVE GRASSES

Approximately 1,250,000 pounds of native grass seed, not commercially available, will be collected this year by the Soil Conservation Service for use in erosion control work on its demonstration areas. Men in charge already have requested more than one million pounds of this seed for 1937 spring planting.

Whether the Service can collect the estimated $250,000 pounds of seed will depend on crop conditions. Seed requests vary from region to region. In Eastern Texas, for example, the demand is for little bluestem, wild rye, blue grama, buffalo and switch grass. North and South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming particularly want Western wheatgrass. In the wind erosion areas of Northwestern Texas, Western Oklahoma, Eastern New Mexico, Southeastern Colorado, and Southwestern Kansas, agronomists specify blue grama, side-oat grama, buffalo and western wheatgrass. From Nebraska, Kansas and Eastern Oklahoma come orders for little bluestem, big bluestem and blue grama grasses. The preferred seed in Arizona, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico are western wheat, blue grama, Galleta and alkali dropseed grass. Blue bunch wheatgrass and blue bunch rescue are the grasses needed most in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

The seed will be collected by the Service nurseries at San Antonio, Texas; Pullman, Wash.; Tucson, Ariz.; Stillwater, Okla.; Manhattan, Kansas; Mandan, N. Dakota; Santa Paula, Calif.; and Lincoln, Nebraska.

"Native grasses are considered superior to foreign grasses in the control of erosion," says H. H. Bennett, chief of the Service. "In fact, the growing and harvesting of native grass seed may become an important part of the cropping plans and work on some farms."

FUNDS ALLOCATED TO DEVELOP HEALTH UNITS

One of the outstanding benefits of the allocation of Social Security funds to the State Department of Health, as pointed out recently by Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, is the possibility of broadening the program of County Health Units. Although there had previously been established and maintained only seven county health units within the state, the results of their work have proved the value of organizations and disclosed the need for health units in other Texas counties.

The first county health unit in the nation was established in 1911 in Yakima county, Washington, following an epidemic of typhoid fever that attracted the attention of the United States Public Health Service. Recommendations were made for the establishment of a health organization with a full time physician in charge, and with a public health nurse, and a sanitary inspector. The Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, in its campaign for hookworm control at the same time, became interested and found that permanent county organizations were needed to carry on the work. The commission made temporary grants to certain counties for development of county health units, and later the Public Health Service received appropriations for extending the benefits of this plan of service to counties.

Under the plan of the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation funds were allotted to Texas in 1917, combined with state funds, and a program administered through the State Department of Health. Five field units were formed at that time and they have done excellent work in promoting community health, Dr. Brown said.

Under the provisions of the Social Security Act it is possible to form new health units in Texas through the State Department of Health with counties furnishing a portion of funds necessary, and State and Federal governments completing the sum.

STRIP CROPS ON CONTOUR ELIMINATE "POINT" ROWS

Contour farming is a fine way to reduce run-off and erosion on sloping fields, but strip cropping is even better, according to reports to the Soil Conservation Service.

Strip crops on the contour not only retard run-off, but in most fields the close-planted crops take up the short "point" rows that result from variations in the contour. Very few fields have the same angles of contour from one side to the other.

An experiment in the South showed that land planted on the contour to cotton alone lost 10 times as much soil as a similar field strip cropped with cotton and oats.

Land in cotton alone with rows up and down hill lost soil at the rate of 17 tons an acre and more than half its rainfall. The strip cropped land averaged only half a ton per acre soil loss and lost only a little of its rainfall.

Strip cropping in alternating strips of close-growing, many-rooted crops—such as grasses legumes, or small grains—with rows of clean-tilled crops like cotton and corn. Strip crops spread out and soak up the water that runs off the row crops and act as barriers to any small gullies that may form in the freshly tilled soil.

Tests of a Good House.

Minimum standards recommended for rural homes now require:

1. An abundant supply of running water.
2. An adequate lighting system and sunlight.
3. An efficient means of heating.
4. Beauty in the architecture and surroundings that will give inspiration and enjoyment to the occupants.

Careful and thorough planning is essential if the maximum satisfaction is to be secured for the money expended in home construction. This is especially true in regard to small rural homes. The principles of architecture that should govern planning and construction of small homes are:

1. That the home be planned in accordance with the use it is to serve.
2. That construction be sound.
3. That it have good appearance.—Progressive Farmer.

CHECK "BLIND SPOTS" ON NATIONAL FORESTS

The national forests are having their "eyes" examined. In many of them, the United States Forest Service is checking visibility from fire lookout stations, the "eyes of the forest."

Once forest fires start, the principal objective is to keep them from spreading. Quick spotting of fires is a primary duty of national forest guardians. It is desirable to check and recheck to improve lookout locations or find places where new ones are needed.

Locating lookouts to obtain maximum coverage always has been difficult, because it is impossible to tell from the ground what may be seen from a hundred feet in the air. To determine just what a lookout can see and where other lookout points should be located, the country is mapped from each existing lookout tower. All areas are classified as visible or invisible, a painstaking job requiring intimate knowledge of the surrounding country. A trained engineer and mapper does the work, usually accompanied by the lookout men.

On the resulting map, the areas visible from at least one lookout are shown in solid colors. Invisible areas or "blind spots," left blank, show that relocation or additional lookouts are needed. To be classed as visible, the land must lie so that smoke can be seen immediately it emerges above the tree tops.

Visibility maps—one for each area covered by a tower—are drawn to the same scale, and then superimposed on a large map. Then the map makers begin the difficult work of locating "blind spots" and prominent hills or rises that give coverage. This is done only by hard field travel.

SWIMMING HAZARDS SHOULD BE HEEDED

In Texas during 1935 there were 371 deaths from accidental drowning, according to records in the State Bureau of Vital Statistics. This is an increase of 54 over the number reported for the year 1934, and an increase of 85 over the number reported for 1933.

"While water sports are the greatest of all sports during the summer, they represent certain hazards which should be heeded," said Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. "Accidental drowning would not occur if each individual respected the fact that water is not man's natural element, and governed his activities in the water by standards of safety."

"Certain precautions should be taken by all swimmers:

1. Never swim alone—especially in deserted places where no rescue is available in case of an emergency.
2. Do not let young children go out in deep water even if they know how to swim, unless some older person proficient in life saving is with them.
3. Do not go in bathing directly after eating. Wait two hours before taking the plunge.
4. Do not dive in unfamiliar places until you are sure of the depth of the water and the absence of rocks.
5. Do not overtax your strength—work up gradually to a long swim by strengthening the muscles first.
6. Do not swim when fatigued.
7. Do not create a hazard for other swimmers by childish pranks and smart tricks.
8. "Accidental drownings, with few exceptions, occur through lack of proper safeguards or in places without adequate supervision. Take your swim in one of the approved sanitary swimming pools now available in most communities, and help reduce the deaths in Texas from drowning."

FLOODED RIVER TAKES SOIL OUT TO SEA AT DIZZY RATE

At flood heights last spring the Potomac River carried silt out to sea at the rate of 2,000 cubic feet a second, or 7,200,000 cubic feet an hour. A sample of water from the river above Washington, D. C., at that time contained a little more than .05 per cent suspended matter, much of it valuable soil from farms in the valleys of the Potomac and its tributaries.

At the time the water sample was taken from the river it was flowing at the rate of about 25 miles an hour and moving an estimated 390,000 to 400,000 cubic feet of water a second.

"Soil losses in the valley of the Potomac are but a fraction of those the country over," says H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service. "The yearly loss in soil in pounds or cubic feet is too great to be comprehended. But it can be reduced by proper cultural and cropping practices."

Tell the Bees.

In savage countries and in many country districts of England and the world over, the bees are held to be members of the household. A death in the family must always be "told to the Bees,"—otherwise they will be offended and desert their hives, taking away with them the luck of the house. When a wedding occurs the bees expect their hives to be decorated with white ribbon or rosettes. When treated with this consideration, the bees are supposed never to sting members of the household. Other superstitions about bees are that one should never shout at them, but tell them important quarrel near a hive lest the bees fight, too, and destroy one another.

news in whispers; one should not other. Nor will bees sting half-wits, even when disturbed.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

The lovely back yard flower garden furnished ideal surroundings for entertainment. Fall flowers were in full bloom in a profusion of Autumn's gay colors against an evergreen background.

Games were enjoyed in the house after the picnic supper.

RESISTANT PLANTS BEST FOR CONTROL OF DISEASE

Disease has always ravaged the plants upon which man depends for food and fabric. Research has developed remedies or controls for many of these crop maladies—such as Bordeaux mixture for downy mildew of grapes or a lime-sulphur spray for apple scab. But the ultimate method of plant disease control is the breeding of plants resistant to disease, say scientists in the United States Department of Agriculture. Controlling crop diseases with resistant plants dates back to about 1900, when the control of fusarium wilt was undertaken by breeding wilt-resistant strains of cotton, cowpeas and melons. Since then disease-resistant wheat, oats, corn, potatoes, tomatoes, pears, strawberries and other field, garden and orchard plants have been developed.

Plant breeders must work for more than simple resistance to disease. A wheat, for example, which is resistant to rust, may not have desirable milling and baking qualities. A sweet corn resistant to Stewart's disease may not yield a palatable ear. A cotton resistant to wilt might be low in yield or inferior in quality. Often resistant hybrids are sterile.

Agronomists and pathologists working together have progressed rapidly in recent years. Among their accomplishments are wheat such as Thatcher, highly resistant to stem rust and yielding a grain of excellent quality; hybrid oats all but immune from smuts and rusts, and flax selections that resist rust and wilt and at the same time yield abundant seed and oil or that produce high quality fiber, and are resistant to smutting.

People Warned Against Schemes

Branding several attempts to raise funds for the Democratic national campaign as "unauthorized efforts to raise funds," Roy Miller, director of organization and finance, Democratic national campaign committee for Texas issued the following statement: "I wish to say for the information of all interested that the Democratic national campaign committee for Texas is the only organization officially authorized to solicit and accept contributions for the national campaign in Texas. The Young Democratic-Club of Texas in pursuance of a national plan approved by the Democratic national committee, is engaged in the sale of lucky coins at 50 cents each, and this has the full approval of the Democratic national committee and this organization.

"Democrats who desire to be of service to the party are urged to make their contributions to their local or county committee or to the executive committee for the congressional district in which they reside, or to the Democratic National campaign committee with headquarters at Austin. All contributions in whatever amount or wherever made will be credited to the quota of the county in which the contributor resides.

"Aside from the sale of the lucky coins, no selling scheme or device of any kind represented to raise funds for the Democratic national campaign has the approval of the Democratic national campaign committee for Texas, which is the party's official agency within the state."

Milk, Casein, Cheese.

Milk consists of about 90 per cent water, the remainder being made up of from 1 to 8 per cent casein, sugar and some mineral elements. The casein itself is an albumin, in the same class with the white of an egg, which can be extracted in the form of a tasteless, odorless white powder composed of carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, sulphur and phosphorus. In addition it contains about 15 per cent of the essential amino acids, the forms to which proteins are reduced by the digestive processes in order to be absorbed as food. Largely because of this casein is about equivalent to lean meat in food value. It supplies the infant with the necessary proteins for nutrition. Cheese is a modified form of casein. When treated with formaldehyde, casein is converted to a hard, non-flammable material which has considerable use in industry.

EXTINCT DODO WAS ABOUT SIZE OF WELL KNOWN SWAN

Most famous of extinct birds was the dodo. Its chief characteristics seem to have been the extreme clumsiness and a touching confidence in the kindness of man and its fellow creatures. European settlers and the animals they imported had exterminated it in Mauritius by 1681. The dodo was about the size of a swan, and Portuguese sailors spoke of Marurtius as the Island of Swans.

At one time this bird had made its home in South Africa, and the carcass of the rare bird is exhibited at the Natural History Museum, says the New York Times. Anything less swamlike, however, it would be difficult to imagine; its Latin name "Diodus ineptus," is appropriate, for it seems to have been singularly inept.

Its huge bill ended in a large horny hook. Its plumage was multicolored, and its short legs were quite out of proportion to its enormous, clumsy body. The curly tuft at the end of its stumpy tail lent the final touch to its absurd appearance. With its usual optimism, it laid one large egg in a heap of grass.

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

A look at the constable's pistol showed it to be fully loaded. He took off the belt and buckled it on again up under the loose fullness of his parka. Holstered between the caribou skin and his rabbit-fur undersuit, the oil in the pistol mechanism would become warm. Cold oil is apt to jam a gun. After making sure of the pistol, he had nothing to do except give his face an occasional rub to prevent frostbite. He sat restfully relaxed, as patient as an Eskimo hunter beside a seal hole. Very slowly the gray dawn brightened. It at last began to mellow into gold.

From across the lake came the crack of rifles—three shots in quick succession. Garth told himself that Huxby or his men were hunting moose. He surmised why. The engineer planned to cover the shattered ends of the three-seater plane's floats with rawhide.

The sun glared over the jagged barrier mountains into the frost-gripped valley. Quite a while later Garth saw one of his four enemies come out of the trees near the lake shore, on the far side of the frozen glacier stream. The man carried a big folded hide on his left shoulder. He held his rifle ready for a quick shot, and as he advanced, he peered around at the brush and trees.

A shout turned the man's steps up towards the ford. Other shouts came from the slope above. Garth smiled. It was as he had foreseen. In coming to repair the floats of the three-seater plane, Huxby and his men had formed a line from the lake shore to timberline and searched the spruce woods.

But the hunters had found no trace of their quarry all the way to the bank of the frozen glacier stream. There, however, the snowshoe tracks coming down from the tundra made plain sign even for cheechacos. Huxby came running along the trail, followed by the man with the moosehide.

Near the plane the engineer stopped for the miner to overtake him. They approached the stranded aircraft warily, with rifles raised, ready to shoot. When nothing happened, Huxby signaled for his companion to drop the hide and climb aboard. As the man obeyed, another of the miners came running down the trail.

Huxby was looking at the tracks that led on along the lake shore. The man on the plane peered into the three cockpits. Huxby sighted the cabin plane across the corner of the lake. He shouted and pointed to it, but waited for the second miner to come up before starting on along the trail. The fourth man of the party appeared up the stream bank.

Garth slipped back behind thick cover and swung into a fast pace. He struck the stream bank above the ford. Trees cut off all view of the four trackers. Garth crossed the ice in the open stream bed and found cover again on the west bank. But instead of heading up the gulch, he kept straight on, parallel with the lake shore. He held to a fast pace. There was a chance that the trailers might lose time in trying to get aboard the cabin plane. But Hux-

Whitefaces Are Defeated By Panhandle, 31-0

INEXPERIENCED ELEVEN OVERRUN IN OPENING CLASH OF SEASON

Last Friday night, September 18, the Hereford Whitefaces were defeated by the Panhandle Panthers by the one-sided score of 31 to 0.

The Herd was outclassed from the beginning because they were going up against a more experienced team and a team that has had more practice than the Whitefaces.

The team had good form and team work, but are just a little slow and inexperienced.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION TO SELECT PRESIDENT

The Athletic Association is one of the fastest moving organizations in school. It meets every Monday morning.

The most important business of the association now is the election of president. The Athletic Association will select two candidates, one a Junior and one a Senior, then the student body will vote for the president; the person receiving the most votes will be president. May the best man win.

by was no fool. He would know that the plane would be easy to reach after the sludge had frozen. In all probability, he would at once flounder on along the snowshoe trail with all his men.

The thought of Lillian amused him. She had been seen only by the miner who had fired down from timberline. At the distance she must have been mistaken for a man. Only a degenerate criminal would knowingly shoot at a woman. But her short snowshoe trail following his own and Dillon's must have shown the trailers that the third member of his party was as helpless as the dead or wounded constable.

They would be perplexed to guess what had become of his two companions. No man could make off with two persons on his back. Even if Huxby had guessed the truth that Dillon was dead, and his body aboard the cabin plane, he would be mystified by the puzzle of the third person who, with the snowshoe-runner, had been kept from boarding the plane.

Still smiling, Garth came to the placer camp. The big fire under the gravel-thawing kettles had died down to a bed of coals. The forelegs and hindquarters of the newly killed moose lay in the snow beside the brush leanto. On the floor mat of spruce sprays, along with the bedding, was a pile of food—bacon, flour, dried fruit, tea. Back of the food were tight-lidded cans filled with dynamite, coils of fuse, and caps.

Garth jerked up the blankets. Under one set lay the strong canvas bag for which he was looking. He had hoped to find the constable's rifle. But one of the miners must have come up to the valley without a gun. The carbine had not been left in camp. (Continued next week)

Artis Russell of Los Angeles is visiting his parents, Judge and Mrs. W. H. Russell. He arrived last week and will be here for three weeks.

"HI, RED" MAY BE USED IN GREETING ANY GRID PLAYER

"Hi, Red," or similar expressions have been ringing in the ears of many high school students lately. When one hears this expression he can undoubtedly assure himself that someone is talking to one of the football boys. At the beginning of the season all members of the football squad had their hair dyed red. Probably some wish to have their hair its natural color, but others do not because of the interest it creates. All students have had plenty of fun about it.

Student Council Members Named

INSTALLATION CEREMONIES HELD AT ASSEMBLY TUESDAY MORNING

The Student Council had a regular meeting Monday morning, September 14, in the Physics laboratory. The meeting consisted of not only last year's council, but the newly-elected council. The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the new members with the functions of the council, to set a date for the installation of new members and the election of a president for the council.

Newly-elected members of the Student Council include: Senior representative, Virginia Lee Hussey, Bill Stanford; Junior, Genece Stanifer, Karl Wilson Shirley; Sophomore, Jeane Williams, John Willett; Freshman, Norma Jean Foster, Billy Miller; Seventh grade, Doris Elaine Dillehay, Raylan Evans. Assembly period of Tuesday, September 22, was set as the date for installation of new members. This was quite a decisive date as this determined the beginning of another year of school government of the Student-Faculty Association. The Junior and Senior class representatives were asked to announce this in their class meetings, Wednesday, September 16, to elect or announce a candidate for the presidency of the S. F. A. This election usually holds the interest of the entire school. It is conducted in the same manner as a public election is held. A date is designated for this;

Football Queen To Be Elected September 24

TO BE NAMED BY BALLOT FROM CANDIDATES OF HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES

Football Queen! She will be elected Thursday, September 24, from candidates of the senior, Junior, sophomore and freshmen classes. On Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock a large box-supper will be held at the high school to celebrate her election. The football queen represents Hereford High School in an important football game, during which she will be crowned. Virginia Carlyle represents the seniors; Nora Jean Russell representing the Juniors; Helen Ruth Barber was nominated by the Sophomores; the freshmen elected Orvella Hill as their candidate. With these people representing the classes, this promises to be an outstanding event, and it would be worth one's time to follow it. The public is invited to the box-supper, and everyone is urged to come because it will help each class in making their candidate the football queen for 1937.

Girls Organize New Glee Club

The Glee Club is on the air again! The Glee Club met on September 18, 1936, at four o'clock in their regular meeting place, in the music room of Hereford High School, to elect new officers and to arrange the singers in their proper places. The Glee Club meets each Tuesday and Thursday at four o'clock.

Mary Tiefert was elected president; Mary Ann Baird, vice-president; secretary and treasurer, Gertrude Wilson; reporter, Nora Jean Russell; business manager, Helen Danforth, and Miss Thelma McMinn, sponsor.

In the girls' quartet are Virginia Earl Reed, Dorothy Thompson, Mary Tiefert, Elisabeth Rice. In the girls' sextet are Mary Ann Baird, Nancy Millard, Irene Knorr, Viola Phillips, Barbara Brotherton, Helen Frances Stree. There will be a girls' trio, but Miss Thelma McMinn has not decided of whom it will consist.

At the first meeting there were approximately fifty present, so one can see the club will be a flourishing one this year.

SCHOOL EXPECTS TO HAVE GOOD DEBATERS

The English classes of Hereford High School have had argumentative talks in class. The class voted upon the best ones and they are privileged to debate. Of course any others who are interested may be at the meeting, Tuesday, September 22, for organizing.

The club is made up of both boys and girls' teams. The teams debate with other schools here, and our teams will go to the other schools. Excellent teams are expected this year.

Welcome To New Students

To the new students who are entering Hereford High School this year, we offer a hearty welcome, and hope that you will enjoy your work here with us. We want you to feel at home here.

There are quite a number of new students this year. There are thirty-four new people from various places. The Freshman class leads in having the largest number of new students enrolled. They are: Monica Albright from St. Anthony's school; Oscar Billings, Lubbock; Frank Bezer, Amherst; Ida and Mary Brock, Robertson, Texas; Inavey Burdine, Shamrock; Eleanor Decker, Summerfield; Jap Dickerson, of Wyche; Birdie Lee Jones, Summerfield; Helen Oglesby, Summerfield; Myron Morgan, Bovina; Raymond Paetzold, Wyche; Shirley Thomas, Summerfield; Lester Wagner, St. Anthony's; Jack and Marguerite Weaver, Westway; Frances Yelag, Summerfield.

New members of the Junior class are: Goldman Brashear, Amherst; Eldene Brunson, Ford; E. J. Cook, Westway; Jim Fullwood, Tucuman; Howard Gore, Westway; Wayne Little, Westway; John Hardy Wood, Jumbo.

We hope that all you new students will learn to love our school as we do and be willing to work for it.

DO YOUR BEST

School is getting under way and almost everyone has made resolutions to study hard and make better grades than he did before. Almost all of the students have intentions to carry out these resolutions and all of them should.

Every student should try to see how much he can do his previous records and to see how high a grade he can make. There is some in high school that is so physically disabled that he cannot study or do his required work. Each student should also spend some time in some outside activity, such as sport or a club.

If there is a student in HHS that does not have a strong enough mind to learn, then we are all that way. A person does not have to be a mental genius to make good grades or to take a leading part in other activities.

Girls Postpone Basketball Play

As an ordinary rule, the girls begin practicing their chief sport, basketball, the first week of school. However, the beginning day for practice has been postponed for a month or six weeks. Naturally, several of the girls are long-faced, but they will get over this when practice really begins.

Only three of the regular 1935-36 lineup was lost by graduation. They were Phylene Arthur, Genevieve Orr, and Gaytha Wilson. Vidabel Orr, a second squad member of last year, is unable to report because of a difficulty in her schedule. At present only about fifteen girls have been signed for basketball. Two of these, Annie Jo Owen and Wanda Jean Reed, are new this year. The other girls welcome them into their midst with enthusiasm. All you basketball minded girls taking five subjects and have not yet decided to take basketball, study hard and make a good average so that will not keep you from being able to play. Here's hoping for more girls and much luck during the season of 1936-37.

F. F. A. Booth At Tri-State Fair

Plans for the FFA booth in Amarillo have been completed and all material gathered to be assembled Monday. This booth deals with the foremost problem of the farmer of the Middle West today, and promises to be one of the biggest and best Hereford contributions. Beside the booth, Mr. Rimmon has planned to send a dairy judging team and poultry team on Monday also. Just who will make the trip has not been decided as yet.

The boys have not had time for a meeting this year so the officers of last year are carrying on and doing a fine job of it. They expect to get their projects under way in a week or two. Whether these projects will be larger and more interesting than those of last year will soon be seen. What they want to do most this year is make themselves and their accomplishments known to everyone, because they do have a really worthwhile club.

Those students who have a strong enough character to do their best to make a high scholastic record and to be of great help in other activities are the ones that will dominate in life.

A strong character, a winning personality and the ability to get things done are the main things to make a young man or woman ready to face the world.

Rev. Thorns In Assembly Talk

"If you do not master life, life will master you," said the Reverend Thorns in his address to the students of Hereford High School Tuesday, September 15.

Continuing, he discussed other quotations. Socrates said, "To know thyself is an important thing." One should know his ambitions and live up to them. And one should try to correct his weaknesses.

Marcus Aurelius said, "Control thyself." Temper is one cause of many of the sorrows, misunderstandings and misdeeds of the world. The desire to drink was also pointed out as a cause for the loss of friends, homes and often lives.

Jesus said, "Deny thyself." This is extremely important in mastering life and not many realize it. Selfishness is the cause of many of the ills of the world.

The students are always glad to have Reverend Thorns speak to us and hope he will return soon.

School Band Is Under Way

The Hereford High School Band is under way again. This year the band is an affiliated subject, open to all students not taking more than four other subjects. Only two and no more credits are given for band work. Director Smith says the band needs more reed instruments, base horns, and alto horns, and encourages students who plan to take band to choose one of these instruments.

The band consists of forty-two members this year, and members of the band welcome the following new members: Wanda Jean Reed, Lois Ann Cockrell, Troy Womble, Orvella Hill, Wanda Jean France, Hilton Higgins, Donald Conklin, Glenn Smith, F. L. Lucas, Carl Williams, O. G. Hill, Morris Easley. These new members will make the band a success this year.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS SHOWING ENTHUSIASM

The members of the Public Speaking class of 1936 show great enthusiasm in speech, especially learning to pantomime. When roars of laughter are heard in room 23 students will know that someone is trying to pantomime.

As the frequent visitors know, this class is full of spontaneity, and ready to do things. In fact, it has already started. Assembly programs are being planned for the third Thursday of each month and from time to time other things of interest to the student body will be planned.

Orchestra Votes Better Music

The Hereford High School orchestra meets in the auditorium on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays during the sixth period. This new schedule of having practice during the school hours instead of after school, was planned so that more of the band members could join the orchestra.

Mr. Smith thinks that the orchestra will be as good as ever or perhaps even better, because all the sections are fairly strong.

The orchestra members voted unanimously for a higher grade of music at practice Wednesday, third grade music has been used in the past and is still being used until the new music arrives. Mr. Smith thinks that the use of this higher grade, which will be harder to play will also help to improve ability of the players.

Mothers Guests Of Pep Club

At the first meeting of the Pep Club of 1936-37, which was held in the Study Hall of the High School at 4 o'clock, the girls had their mothers as guests. The girls with their mothers' approval decided on very nifty suits for the coming season. The girls will prove this when they wear their suits for the first time. The club members wish to welcome all its new members and to invite other girls that wish to be in the Pep Club to join as soon as possible. Every Wednesday morning at 7:45 the Pep Club will meet and hold drill practice with the High School Band.

New Football Uniforms.

The nation is interested in football now, and Hereford is interested in the new team and the new suits that the team will wear. The suits are maroon with white stripes on the pants and white numerals on the sweaters.

New Janitor Named.

We, the students of HHS, wish to show our appreciation of our new janitor, Mr. Bailey. Since the beginning of this term he has shown wonderful improvement in his work here, and the students of this school are going to help him in every way possible. It was with the deepest regret that everyone saw Mr. Kucker leave. He had the reputation of being very competent in his work and was liked by both the student body and the faculty. All trust that he will be happy and successful in his new location. Mr. Bailey will receive our heartiest cooperation. We welcome Mr. Bailey.

A factory owner said it was because of this new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight. There was a school principal in the group and he said it was because train travel is so much cheaper for passengers. One man, a farmer, said he liked something he could depend on, that's why he was traveling by train. Mrs. Artis Daniel reported the looting of her henhouse and the stealing of about a dozen eggs. She intimated that the thief is likely to run into serious trouble the next time the henhouse is entered. As Mrs. Daniel said, the stealing of eggs in itself is not such a serious offense, but it leads to more major crimes, and therefore something should be done to stop it.

Transvaal's Wild Life.

An outstanding sanctuary for wild life lies in the northeastern portion of the Transvaal bordering on Portuguese East Africa, between the Crocodile River and the Pretoria-Lourenco Marques railway on the south, and the Limpopo river and Rhodesia on the north. It has a length of some 220 miles and an average width of about 40 miles, rather larger in area than Wales. It presents a vast variety of scenery, from the wild gorges where the great rivers thread their way through the hills, to the open, palm-dotted flats of the Shingweddi, and the dense thorn bush country of the Sabi river. Away to the west, visible from all portions of the park, tower the giant Drakensberg peaks from whose summits the low veiled appears like a huge billiard table although on closer acquaintance it is found to be anything but flat and monotonous.

Football Game

It was around the ends they went for their long runs and destructive gains. The wingmen showed especial weakness in turning these plays in to the line backers. They either sucked into the play to allow the toters to go around them or they drifted back to wait for the play and were smacked down by the interference. They couldn't figure it out, but Coach McCollum did, and work was started on the difficulty Monday.

The Herd was no more effective offensively than defensively. They picked up only three first downs; one on a 15-yard pass, while the Panthers plunged to 14. Parhamle reeled off 332 yards from scrimmage to Hereford's 95. Another bright spot in the tilt was the kicking of Clyde Posey. Aided by Loerwald, who did part of the punting in the last quarter, the Herd booted 12 times, averaging 32 yards.

Sultana Explosion.

At 1 a. m. on April 27, 1863, at a point on the Mississippi River about eight miles above Memphis, Tennessee, the north bound Sultana began to rock violently. She was top-heavy with her load of 2,142 Union soldiers returning from Confederate captivity, for her hold was empty. The rocking motion agitated the water in the boilers, already enduring pressure far beyond their stated strength. In mid-stream the strained metal gave way with a roar heard for miles, and the United States had the biggest ship disaster in its history. The loss of life—1,739—was greater than in the sinking of the Titanic or Lusitania.

Mrs. Bill Smith, who has been ill for the past 10 days, is reported recovered.

SAMUEL MEREDITH, FIRST U. S. TREASURER, WREATH

Samuel Meredith was the first treasurer of the United States. Here is what a biographical encyclopedia says about him:

"Samuel Meredith was among the first to espouse the cause of the Revolution, in which he served and suffered and acquitted himself with credit at the battles of Trenton and Princeton, and was one of those who enjoyed the confidence of Washington.

"He served for a time in the Legislature of Pennsylvania, was a delegate from that state to the Continental Congress in 1787-88, and on the organization of the federal government he was appointed by President Washington treasurer of the United States, continuing in that office until 1801, when he resigned.

"He owned a large estate in Wayne county, and died at Belmont, his seat, in 1817. He and his brother-in-law, General Clymer, gave 10,000 pounds in silver to carry on the war. On being appointed treasurer of the United States he loaned the government $25,000. His father also loaned large sums to the government to carry on the war.

"A statue of Samuel Meredith by F. Barnicoat stands at Pleasant Mount, Pennsylvania."

COACH MEAGHER TELLS HOW TO PLAY FOOTBALL

Football fans and boys who want to become stars will be interested in the following rules given by Coach Jack Meagher of Alabama Polytechnic Institute in the Progressive Farmers:

Rule No. 1 is sleep. The growing boy and the football player should have at least eight hours of sleep. It is possibly the most important rule. The body requires this rest and the proper amount of sleep makes for a clear, alert and keen mentality.

Rule No. 2 is proper food. The normal, well balanced meal prepared by the skillful hands of mothers on the farm is just right. Any boy who has ambitions as an athlete will abstain from alcohol and tobacco.

"The average lad living on a farm has a great amount of hard work to do; this makes the muscles of his body hard and well developed, but he should supplement this by spending 10 or 15 minutes a day going through a series of callisthenic exercises to give the various muscles of his body flexibility and resiliency. In addition to this, games such as handball, baseball, basketball, boxing and sparring, tennis or any other fast game that requires agility, will help to develop nice coordination and flexibility of body and quicken the reflexes. A boy could get much out of providing himself with an old football and spending some time kicking, passing and receiving passes; or have it around where he can pick it up in his hand, grip it and feel it up."
