Installation of officers of the county Campfire organization will be held Monday, Feb. 29, in the Shirley school cafeteria, starting at 7:50 p. m.

First of a series of free classes on mosaics is set for Monday, Feb. 29, from 2 - 5 p. m. Another class will start at the same time Thursday, March 3, and a night class will be formed if there is sufficient demand.

CONSUMPTION OF BEET SUGAR is being pushed in Hereford as part of an effort to get more acreage and a sugar refinery located here. The top display was put up by a retail commercial user and the lower is in a grocery store, urging housewives to use beet sugar, which has just become available here.

'Operation 29' Slated Monday

An extra day in 1960 means an extra day of bargains, according to the merchants of Hereford.

"Operation 29" is the project for Monday, Feb. 29, that day that comes just once in each four years. Coming on the 29th will be special prices all over town.

Grocery stores, filling stations, variety stores, dress shops and many others are participating in the event. In most cases, shoppers will find prices end with 29 cents, such as a dress for $6.29, a quart of oil for your car priced at 29 cents, or a new car for $2929.29.

Co-chairmen of the merchants committee event are Pack Brogdon and Irving Alexander.

"We invite everyone to take advantage of 'Operation 29', when an extra day will mean extra values," Alexander said.

Brown Services Slated Monday

Funeral services for Ernest O. Brown, 81, who was found dead at about 1:30 p. m. Thursday outside his home off S. Main St., will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday.

Services will be held in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home in Hereford, with Dr. Howard Scott, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, officiating.

Burial will be in West Park Cemetery, under direction of Gilliland Funeral Home.

Cause of Brown's death was attributed to a "coronary infarction", based on an autopsy performed Friday in Amarillo. The autopsy was performed at Blackburn-Shaw Funeral Home in Amarillo at 11 a. m. Friday.

Grady Rogers of Hereford found Brown where he had fallen near a chicken pen, about 100 yards east of S. Main. It is believed that Brown had been dead two or three days.

Justice Of The Peace Berry Miles Saturday morning ruled that death was "due to natural causes."

The body was found near the south exterior side of the chicken shack, about 50 feet west of Brown's one - room home. He was last seen alive in Hereford Monday. It is believed.

Brown has lived in Deaf Smith County for about 58 years. The retired rancher was born Jan. 20, 1879, in Mercer, Mo. He moved to Hereford in 1941.

Survivors include five brothers and four sisters, including Mrs. T. A. Pauley of Woodstock, Kans., and Mrs. R. C. Combs of Gerber, Calif.

Proud And Independent

'Fatty' Brown Is Dead

By DAN MUDD BRAND STAFF REPORTER The obscure life of an unassuming old - timer of Deaf Smith County, a life which was sprinkled with 81 chapters of loneliness and occasional misery, came to an end this week.

"Fatty" Brown is dead. Few Hereford residents really knew the frail old man, whose presence in town was often regarded with only a passing glance or a quick "hello." They all knew of him, but they didn't know this strange man.

Many thought he was a miser who had accumulated a great deal of wealth, which was perhaps buried under the floor of his one - room house south of Hereford.

Others stereotyped him as an old man who just existed from month to month, collecting his old age pension checks and telling his few closest friends of the good old days when they'd lend an ear.

When they saw him walking to and from town, they often shook their head, wondering where, when or how he ever picked up his nickname, "Fatty." He was a tall, spare man, usually dressed in overalls.

Fatty's name wasn't in the paper much. He didn't do much to make news. He didn't bother anybody.

Back in 1957 and again in 1958, his name was in the paper. He had been victimized in armed robberies in his

Plan Special Activities In Public School Week

Special emphasis will be placed on educational systems this week when Hereford schools observe Public Schools Week.

Events of the week include a band concert and open house Tuesday night and a Teacher Appreciation Dinner Friday night at Hereford High.

During the period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools. The observance was started Saturday and will continue through Friday, as designated by Governor Price Daniel.

The concert, featuring Stanton Junior High band, Hereford High band and the Lamplighter stage band, will begin at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Prior to the concert, between the hours of 7 and 8 p. m., an open house will be held at the high school for the purpose of parent visitation and consultation with faculty members in home rooms.

An art exhibit will be on display in the foyer before the concert, sponsored by the high school art department.

The Teacher Appreciation Dinner will be held in the high school cafeteria Friday, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., to climax the special observance.

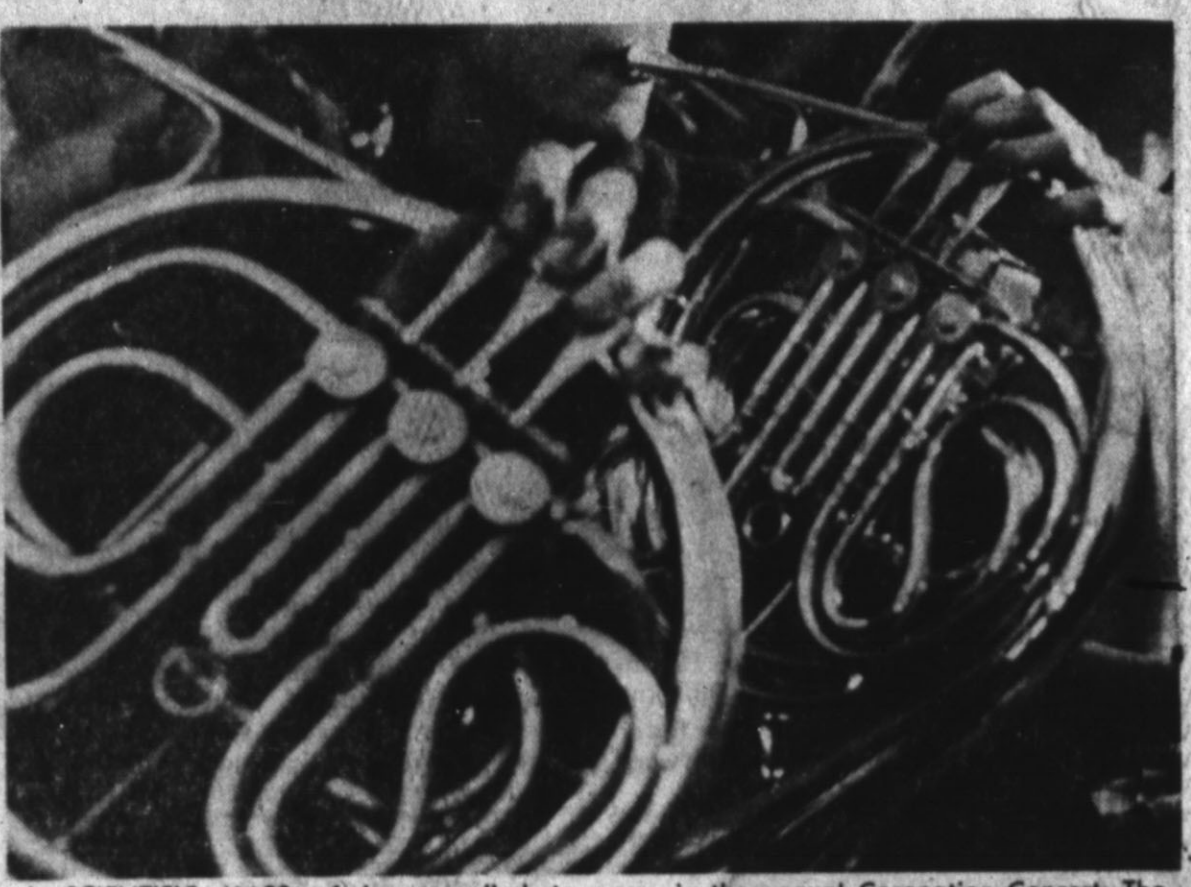

Entertainment for the evening will include "An Arctic Adventure", filmed in color by Cotton John Smith of Amarillo.

The principal of a basket dinner, and each family is asked to take enough food for themselves and a teacher and his or her family.

A meat dish, salad and dessert lunch is suggested. Drinks will be furnished by the Hereford High School Parent-Teachers Association, sponsors of the event.

A nursery will be provided by the Future Homemakers Association in the homemaking department of the high school.

Reservations should be made by calling or contacting Mrs. Troy Moore, EM4-0162, Mrs. D. C. McWhorter, EM4-0421, or Mrs. Ben Childers, EM4-1326. Publicity chairman Wade Thompson said that teachers in

Meeting Space Became Scarce Last Tuesday

For a town of its size, Hereford has an extraordinarily large number of meeting rooms and facilities. But Hereford is a busy town, full of events and activities.

Last Tuesday, Feb. 23, was nothing special in the way of meetings... but every single meeting room available to the public was filled.

The First National Bank Community Room, Hereford State Bank Friendship room, Pioneer Natural Gas Company's Flame Room - even the new Community Center - all were filled to capacity by busy Hereford groups.

The Community Center was occupied by the Farmers Union meeting, Beta Sigma Phi (and an extra room for baby-sitting), and two Boy Scout troops.

The Young Mothers Study Club members held their meeting in the Flame room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building.

Tuesday night Bridge Club met at the Hereford State Bank and Couple's Bridge club met in the Community Room of the First National Bank.

Sugar Refinery Possible Within 2 Years, Sears Says

We think a sugar refinery will be started here within the next two years, Henry Sears told a group of 37 merchants and businessmen Friday as he discussed the effort to get more sugar beet acreage.

The meeting was sponsored by the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Feeding School For Livestock Slated March 11

Plans were announced this week for the first in a series of livestock feeding schools. It will be held Friday, March 11 at 8 p. m. in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom.

Heading the discussion will be a Mr. Webster, head of the cattle department of Lincoln Packing Division of American Stores in Pueblo, Colo. His staff of cattle feeding experts and veterinarians also will be on hand to explain feeding of cattle and sheep.

Civic Center's Formal Opening Slated March 20

Formal opening of the newly-constructed Hereford Community Center will be held at 2:30 p. m. March 20, it was announced this week.

Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne said that all Hereford residents are invited to attend the opening, and that letters of invitation have been sent to city officials, Chamber of Commerce offices, newspapers and radio stations in the surrounding area.

The Center was open to youth recreation last week and the building has been used for meetings and other activities during the past month.

Due to unfavorable weather, formal opening was postponed until March 20 so that parking lot facilities would be ready for use.

Summerfield Farmer Builds Tractor Cab For Visibility

By H. A. TUCK BRAND NEWS EDITOR A Summerfield farmer who decided he might as well be comfortable in all weather on his tractor has built a stylish new cab that offers tremendous visibility.

Sam Smith, 47, who farms two miles north and one mile west of Summerfield, received so much comment on the cab that he is trying to interest a West Coast manufacturer er in building it. Nor is this Smith's first venture into "building a better mousetrap." In 1949 he designed and patented the first three-point hitch for a Case tractor.

His newest venture came after Smith looked over the available tractor cabs and decided they didn't fit his needs. A few hours of thought and he was ready to start on something better.

Steve, his 21 - year - old son, sketched out the design, which was smoothed out into a working pattern in about a week. The father and son team then went to work in their farm workshop, revising as they went.

Basically, the cab is built of plexiglass, held in place at the joints and corners with one - eighth by three - quarter inch DESIRE FOR SOMETHING BETTER led Summerfield farmer Sam Smith and his son Steve to design and build this tractor cab, which offers unlimited visibility. Custom-joined to match the tractor, the cab is built primarily of plexiglass. Smith is trying to get the cab into production through a West Coast firm.

Three bands, and about 150 musicians, will provide the annual Coronation Concert program in the Hereford High auditorium at 8 p. m. An art exhibit in the foyer will be opened at 7 p. m. Director George Hill will have the junior high, high school and stage bands all in action during the program. Coronation of the band king and queen will climax the program.

Hereford Young Farmers are scheduled to have their regular meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the high school vocational agriculture building.

Last call for Cornhuskers. The first reunion of former Nebraska residents starts Sunday, Feb. 28, with a covered dish meal in the First National Bank community room. Plates and dishes will be furnished, according to ramrod Grant Hanna.

If they ever hold a reunion of former Oklahomans here, it could be a mess. Either it would have to be held in the football stadium to accommodate all the reformed Okies... or in a telephone booth to take care of those who admit they are from Oklahoma.

This is the week particularly designated for parents and others to visit public schools in Texas. Hereford PTA groups, the teachers and administrators are all urging that you visit in at least one classroom during the week.

angle iron. The ceiling was fashioned from sheet iron, as was the dash cover and housing around the transmission.

"We used plexiglass because it can be sawed and drilled like wood and allows some bending," Smith commented. "It also should stand the strain and vibration of rough use."

Where it fits onto the tractor and around the door at the rear, rubber gasket material was used to cut down squeaks and provide a weather-tight unit.

Two eight-inch blowers built for combines, are mounted in the front part of the ceiling, with air intakes high above the normal dirt and exhaust flow. The blowers are connected to the electrical system of the tractor.

"We started to put in a heater through the blowers, but the unit is so tight we didn't really feel we needed it," Smith said.

The cab also could be easily equipped with an air conditioning system, which probably would be necessary in the summer, because of the large amount of plexiglass.

Although the Smiths mounted their cab on a Case 300 model, with paint to match the tractor, it could be adapted for any tractor make and model with little trouble.

Steve, who translated his dad's ideas into a working sketch, had a year of mechanical engineering at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Smith has lived in the southwest all his life, the past eight years in Deaf Smith County. Although he was slightly reluctant to quote prices, he estimated the custom cab would retail for about $400 if it is put into production.

"Steve and I just built this because we weren't satisfied with the other cabs... from the questions and comments we've gotten, a lot of folks feel the same way," Smith concluded.

Another old timer, who contributed to the development of this country, has died, Ben C. McCleary, 88, died last month at Atoka, Okla. Major Schroeter tells us, McCleary and his father, J. S., divided the 4228-acre Capitol Leagues in Deaf Smith, Farmer and Oldham counties into sections of 640 acres each. He also laid off the town of Friona and the now-vanished towns of Findlay and Kelso. He also laid out many of Hereford's subdivisions and ran the survey lines for Hereford's wooden sidewalks in 1907-08. He was part of the surveying crew that started at Escabada Camp in 1906, when the late C. R. Smith, ranch foreman, equipped them with horses, wagons, etc. The 1 1/2-inch iron pipes placed at each section corner were purchased at Garrison Hardware and the section, township and range numbers were chiseled onto the pipes by hand. Many of these pipes still are in place.

His name was in the paper again in 1959, when his small circle of friends built him a warmer and more comfortable home.

"He was sure an independent and proud old cuss," one of his acquaintances said this week after he heard of Brown's death. That practically sums up the old man's outward life. He was independent and proud.

He was so independent that he lost some of his toes a few years back when his feet sustained severe frostbite. That night, he had tried to sleep, doing his best to ignore the winter winds and snow seeping in through gaps in the walls of his shack.

Many helping hands were extended to him. But his pride and independence kept him from reaching for them.

"We had to beg and force him to finally accept a little help," said Jewell Smith, County Welfare administratrix. "We knew that he was not getting enough to eat and needed some medical treatment."

She went to Brown's house and told him who she represented. He replied, not sarcastically, but with meaning: "Mr. Brown can take care of Mr. Brown if you can take care of Mrs. Smith."

"It is not our policy to beg people to take help," Mrs. Smith said. "In fact, I had never heard of such a thing, of ever having to force a person to take something to which he is entitled."

As a last resort, she sought the help of Brown's friends, and they finally convinced him to fill out application at the State Welfare Office.

There is little information on which to base Earnest Brown's early life. It is known he came to this county from Mercer, Mo., when he was 21 years old. It is also thought that he was a bachelor all his life.

He has told some of his closest friends that he has farmed and ranched in the county and that he had some cattle when he owned land north of Hereford. He moved to Hereford in 1941.

His vague life did not go unnoticed by some of his friends who tried to "adopt" him as best they could — they included Grady Rogers and Ed and Otis Bulls.

Ed Bulls said Brown led an unusually simple life. That his entertainment consisted mostly of reading Western stories, reading and re-reading his newspaper and listening to his radio.

Brown's housekeeping was far from tidy. Stray cats and dogs he took in lay at his feet as he read or smoked an occasional cigar.

He had only basic furnishings in his house, which included a bachelor woodstove, a couple tables and a chair. He kept young chicks in a cardboard box in his house until they were old enough to go to the hen house.

Brown had a growth on his neck which required periodic treatment at the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

Except for one time, Brown paid for his bus trips to and from the Houston hospital from his meager savings. Welfare agencies should not be obligated for that, he contended.

When he walked to and from town on South Main Street, he refused to accept "a lift." He always stopped to visit the guys where Ed and Otis Bulls work.

"He loved to match coins for cokes," Ed Bulls said. "After he'd visited us a while and had picked up the Western magazines we saved for him, he would leave."

And when he left, Bulls pointed out, he'd say:

"I guess I'll see you tomorrow if the weather's nice."

That's what he said Monday, when he was last seen alive.

At present, blood samples have to be sent to an approved laboratory in either Amarillo or Abilene. "Many prospective buyers are unable to wait that long for possession or delivery and many sales are lost locally," Renfro said.

If the tests could be run in Hereford, results would be available in just a few hours and cattle could be shipped the same day they are purchased, Renfro pointed out.

great deal on transportation costs and would open up the area for extensive cattle feeding operations, through use of sugar beet pulp. And eventually, Sears said, this would lead to location of a packing plant in the area.

An enthusiastic discussion period followed the report. Most of it boiled down to a single question, "What can we do to help?"

Stars said the first thing was to write U. S. congressmen and ask their support of the Sugar Act amendments. Next was to create a larger demand for beet sugar, he concluded.

All phases of feeding and marketing operations will be explained as well as how to get maximum results from use of feed grains and sugar beet pulp.

This will be followed by a question-and-answer period. Webster is particularly anxious to talk with Deaf Smith County farmers and ranchers interested in feeding cattle.

During his stay in Hereford, Webster will be taken on a two-day tour of the area to see feed grain reserves, possible facilities and the potential of increasing cattle-feeding operations locally.

During the meeting, Webster plans to cover all phases, including feeding procedures, cattle finance and feed production. The school has been arranged by the livestock committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Dr. L. B. Barnett is chairman, with Jim Bob Allison, Al Smith, Oscar Easley and James A. McAndrews on the committee.

NEW YEARS ST. VALENTINE LENT WHY LENT?
MEMORIAL DAY JULY 4TH LABOR DAY TRAINING
For hundreds of years the Christian Church has set aside the six weeks before Easter and has designated them "the Lenten season."
The purpose of this special season is to give Christians an opportunity to recall the consequences of sin and the assurance of redemption. It provides Christian churches with an opportunity to tell the unchurched residents of their communities of the central fact of the Christian faith—the death of the Son of God to atone for the sins of the world.
The message of Lent is to Christianity what a spring is to a watch, what a motor is to a car. Take the message of Christ's life and death out of the Christian religion and you have only a worthless shell.
The message of Lent is still the message of Paul: "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures."
During these weeks thousands of churches throughout the nation are bringing this fundamental Bible fact into sharp focus. If you have not yet found forgiveness for your sins through faith in Christ, we extend a hearty invitation to you to attend our Lenten services.

Tall Girls Can Make Stock Soar, Says Star

By VIVIAN BROWN
THE DRAWBACK about being tall, says glamorous Rosalind Russell, might be that "you can't curl up on a man's lap." Otherwise you can be Queen of Hearts.
The vivacious movie queen has capitalized on her own willowy build, and would welcome three more inches, she's that happy to be tall.
"Why do girls reduce height?" she asks. "They even develop bad posture trying to take off inches, and just call attention to their discomfort."
Rosalind, who is 5 feet 7 and looks much taller, points out that low shoes are a dead giveaway if one is self-conscious about height. Stand up straight and lift your chest bones, if you'd adopt a graceful tall-girl stance, she says. Anyone who has seen Rosalind cavort in musical comedy on stage, screen or television knows that she doesn't try to conceal her height. She believes in emphasizing it.
"The sheath dress is much better for tall girls, not the bou-fant style, more suitable for smaller girls. The pencil silhouette can show the lovely line of the thigh, a tall girl's beauty line," she observes.

Rosalind likes long stoles, although she doesn't think tall girls should go out of their way for flamboyance — fluke hats, junk jewelry or too-high-style clothes.
"Costume jewelry is good if well chosen, but there is nothing to replace Grandma's old pin as an accessory," she explains. The earrings she was wearing at lunch were large water pearls, handsomely enclosed in gold mesh and small diamonds, her own design. "They have paid for themselves long ago," she says, "because I can wear them with everything."
Rosalind's Cardin suit was a lovely beige color with matching fabric hat in a mushroom shape. The color was just right for her creamy skin, warm brown eyes and dark hair.
"But you can wear the greatest costume in the world," says she, "and if your feet are not properly shod, you'll look horrible."
Rosalind likes sandals for evening wear — not lucite, nor little bow styles. She says:

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

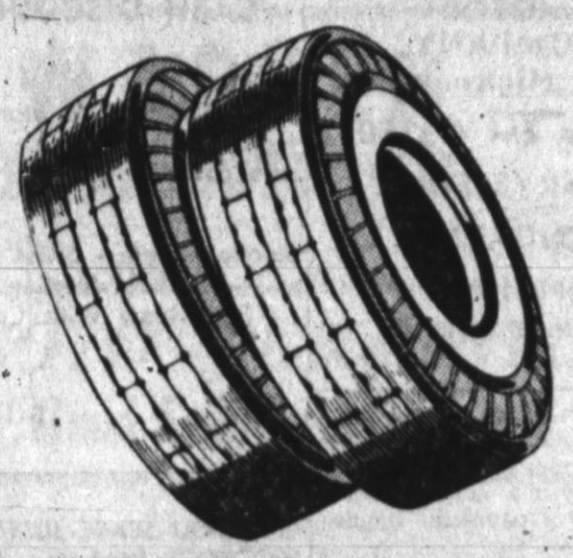

Q. What are some good color tips so far as fingernail polish is concerned?
A. Your polish should, of course, harmonize with your lipstick, as well as with your costume. The darker shades or extreme shades will call attention to your hands, so be sure that's what you want to do before you start to paint! Shades of red with a bit of blue in them make the hands look whiter. The rose shades or those with an orange cast are flattering to tanned hands.
Q. How can I "co-operate" in preserving the natural Auburn tint in my hair?
A. Try diluting a little salts of tartar in a pint of warm water and rubbing this well into the hair until a good lather is produced. Leave on for about a half-hour, then rinse out.
Q. Is there a hairstyle you can suggest for a girl with a low forehead?
A. Try a little trickery with bangs. Start them BACK of the hairline, keep them soft and just long enough to hide the browline.

ROSALIND RUSSELL
"I try to choose a light open sandal shoe that will keep my 7 ripe A from looking like gunboats."
Rosalind is happily married to producer Fred Brisson and has a 15-year-old son, Lance. She cautions tall girls married to short men not to make the difference in height obvious by trying to avoid standing next to their husbands.
"One of the happiest married couples I know," she points out, "is a girl who makes such a big fuss over her husband that few people ever notice the difference in their height."

Copper and Brass
Copper or brass can be cleaned with a paste made up of equal parts table salt and flour, and vinegar as the combining agent. Rub on the metal, let dry, then remove with hot soapy water. If the metal is in particularly bad shape, apply the paste more generously and allow to remain for several hours before removing it.
Longer Cooking
Veal requires longer cooking than beef, because it has less fat and more connective tissue. Additional seasonings, such as chopped celery, onions, and parsley, placed over the top while it is baking, improve the flavor greatly.
Paint Odor
You can do much about eliminating paint odor if you will add a teaspoonful of pure vanilla to each gallon of paint used.
Water - Color Paintings
One of the questions that drives art museum curators wild is the one about cleaning water colors — or what can be done to restore them after they have been washed with soap and water. You CANNOT clean them! Leave them alone.
Rice
An easy way to wash rice is to place it in a sieve and let the cold water continue to run through until it comes through clear and free from starch. Rice should always be washed before using.

 Since the day they started making things out of plastic, a substitute has been developed for just about everything - except customers. An old-fashioned, cash-on-the-barrelhead customer is still hard to beat, but they do become a bit independent at times, even around banks.

Little 3-year-old O. H. Seamands Jr., for instance, saved up a dollar's worth of pennies and made the mistake of letting his neighbor, Henry Sears, hear about the trove. Henry immediately convinced the youngster that he should open a savings account, basing his argument on the fact that your bra. Pour a little toilet water or cologne into the final rinse water when you're sudsing your undies. Makes them smell yummy. Smooth a little cologne on your body before stepping into the shower - its scent will cling pleasantly. When you shampoo your hair, spare a drop or two of perfume for the rinse water.

Q. How can I remove some very shallow scratches from a mirror?
 A. By rubbing the surface of the glass with a piece of hard felt that has been moistened in water and dipped into either red or black rouge.

Q. What can I do about persistently brittle fingernails?
 A. There are some special nail hardeners on the market which might help you. These are liquids in which you immerse your fingers for a few minutes a day. Buffing your nails daily is also excellent for stronger nails. This also gives them such his feet hurt when the takes them off. He can't figure out how he can get back to one pair of shoes, if and when the moisture stops coming.

Since work started on the wildcat oil well just across the line in Castro County, Mike Baird tells me that the price of land in the Jumbo area has really gone up. One man, asked about listing his farm, told the real estate agent:

"Look, Mister, I got an oil well on one side of my farm, and a liquor store on the other. My place just ain't for sale at any price."

What this country really needs is a committee, especially appointed to cut down on the number of committees. There were so many meetings last Tuesday night that every available spot was filled, including the new Community Center, and several meetings had to move into private homes. Any time two people get together, they form an organization and, when they get a third member, they appoint a committee. Is life the same all over the country, or is it just in Hereford?

Just because you are about to turn a page on the calendar, don't be fooled. Don't let your wife put your overcoat in mothballs, unless you want to spend a lot of time digging it out. Like I said earlier, we will have some more winter weather in March. I know it has been tough, but what about the folks who don't read the Bull Column - and had no warning? These are the ones who are really having it tough. Gaston Beer is probably the smartest one. He read my predictions in December, picked up the telephone and called for reservations in Palm Springs. Right now, that old boy is living it up. He picks dates off the trees and lolls all day in the sunshine.

At prevailing household salaries in Mexico, Italy and Japan, the few maids in America might well have a couple of maids of their own - and probably would, too. Over here, they become riveters, welders and taxi drivers, then buy electric dish washers.

My Star Street neighbors sure are persistent. The other night they came over and presented a petition about how I moved into the area under protest, hadn't planted a single shrub or a blade of grass, and was generally degrading the entire neighborhood. I guess they were serious, too, because they had form of sabotage - and I'm glad Gaston didn't think of it.

Meanwhile, a lot of people are anxiously awaiting the outcome of this Johnson-Smith case with more than passing interest. Even the TV westerns don't top it much, and it did break the monotony during the recent cold snap.

I notice where the Germans are sending us their new Amphicar in April. The vehicle is a convertible on land and a tail-finned motor boat afloat. It sells under $3,000, and could result in some fancy family rows when pop wants to go fishing.

George Heard says the thing that most puzzles foreigners about Americans is the fact that we have money to do so much travelling, but not maintain household help, especially maids. Many people in other countries have a couple of maids, a butler and a chauffeur - but cannot afford to travel like Americans. George and I figured the big difference was mostly the low salaries and availability of household help in foreign countries as compared with the U. S. A. The very fact that Americans have so few maids, butlers and the like is probably the best argument you could advance in proof that we do operate a democracy. It is a propaganda point which should be emphasized more through our state department.

A Teething Baby Needs To Chew

DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D. "BUT DOCTOR, he won't swallow, he just holds it in his mouth. Yesterday after Andy's nap I found an old water-logged prune skin in his mouth. It was hours since he had had lunch."

Andy was 2½. What he wanted in the way of food was completely smooth material he could swallow without any chewing at all. Food that couldn't go down while Andy either spit out or held in his mouth like the prune skin. Many a child runs into this problem. He just doesn't seem to know how to chew and swallow.

Like many other baby problems this is more easily avoided than cured.

To avoid chewing troubles we must go back a way and understand how this eating business develops.

Tiny babies suck — that's the only way they know to get food into their growling stomachs and they do all their eating with their mouths.

But as time passes a baby wants to help feed himself, he's growing up. He doesn't any longer want to lie back and suck what gets close enough to grab with his mouth. He wants to use those hands of his to get food to his mouth. You see him trying to hold his bottle, grabbing for the spoon — He is not very good at it yet, but he's trying.

First Tooth

Somewhere around six or seven months your baby will begin working on his teeth. His gums are a bit tender, he drools a lot. And always everything he can grab hold of goes to his mouth. He bites and chews on anything movable within reach. His hands are constantly in his mouth and he chews on them. Sometimes the edge of his crib or playpen is a favorite chewing block.

A teething baby chews on everything. At the age when your baby is teething he has also grown up enough so that he can use his hands quite well. The stage of waving them about aimlessly has passed. Your baby can deliberately pick up things now and get them more or less where he wants them to go.

At this stage your baby uses his hands to grab. He chews on whatever he puts into his mouth which is most everything — he chews like mad to help push his teeth through his gums.

Now is the time to let him know that food is to chew. It's amazing to see how this little creature chewing like mad is quite surprised when he discovers that something he has chewed tastes pretty good and seems to act like food.

It seems too simple and yet lots of mothers carefully keep chewing food away from a teething baby — lest he choke.

New Foods

It is during this teething period that a baby should be introduced to foods that need chewing. He is chewing anyway, so he will chew the food. It tastes good and he will swallow it.

This first food for chewing should go into the mouth by way of the baby's own fingers. If you try to put lumpy foods in with a spoon the baby is confused. Material from a spoon, to the baby's way of thinking at this stage, should be smooth. He knows how to manage, he'll push it back into his throat and swallow it. However, if the spoon fed food has a lump in it the baby doesn't know yet how to manage the lump and he is apt to spit it out. But if the first food to chew goes in by way of the fingers instead of a spoon the baby is not confused. Start with a bone from which most of the meat has been removed. The baby can hold tight to the bone and gnaw away at it. Tiny pieces come off in his mouth, he is already chewing, the pieces taste good, and soon the baby is swallowing them.

From bones your baby can graduate to pieces of dry toast or to one of the many teething biscuits now on the market. Before long he will be able to pick up small pieces between thumb and first finger. Dry cereal is excellent for this finger food.

Make sure that the food your baby gets into his mouth is either soft as it goes in, or that it softens quickly in saliva.

The baby who is started on foods to chew in the late part of the first year seldom has much in the way of chewing problems later.

Flemming: Man With Message

By G. K. HODENFIELD
 Newsfeatures Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — In an office next door to Arthur S. Flemming at the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, there are several dozen stacks of letter.

All the letters take sides, some violently, in the recent "L'affaire Cranberry." All will be answered, signed personally by Flemming. At last count the letters were running about 18 to one in support of Flemming's warning Nov. 9 that some cranberries had been sprayed with a weed killer known to induce thyroid cancer in rats.

Aides say Flemming expected to be criticized for his action, but felt the average American consumer would be in his corner.

The cranberry episode is only one of several issues on which Flemming has spoken out. For instance:

Although he is a loyal member of Eisenhower budget-balancing team, he has several times urged that teachers' salaries be doubled over the next five to seven years — something most educators say can't be done without federal aid. He denounced the loyalty oath which Congress tacked onto the student loan program of the National Defense Education Act. And he spoke out strongly against school closures in the South to avoid integration.

He attacked fraudulent weight reducers, which he said were fleecing overweight Americans of 100 million dollars a year. He denounced what he called false advertising of some dentrifices. He cracked down on the bootlegging of pep pills to long-haul truck drivers, and cited evidence that their use was causing accidents.

He issued a strong statement in favor of fluoridation of water to prevent tooth decay. He took a strong stand against air and water pollution, and backed his words with court action to clean up several rivers.

Shortly before Christmas, he warned that chickens fed stilbestrol, a female hormone, were unsafe because tests showed such use of the drug might cause cancer.

And he warned private insurance companies to "take care of the needs of the people or see the government move in."

Despite all the controversy he has caused since he took office in the summer of 1958, Flemming is perhaps best known in Washington as a man with a knack for soft-talking Congressional committees into giving him pretty much what he wants.

In a total of 19 years in Washington, Flemming has held 10 federal posts. He has made a lot of friends, influenced a lot of people, and learned to walk through the political jungle and bureaucratic swamp of the nation's capital without breaking stride.

Flemming leads a spartan life. Six days a week, when he is in town, he keeps office hours from 8:30 a. m. until 7 or 7:30 p. m., and a recent vacation was his first in more than a decade.

Sometimes, just to keep ahead of a mountain of detail, he'll get up before dawn and work at home for several hours before breakfast.

He neither smokes nor drinks (although he isn't stuffy about people who do) and avoids the Washington cocktail circuit.

Weather permitting, he tries to get in a 40-minute walk every morning.

This regime keeps the 6 foot 1 1/2 inch secretary at or near the 180-pound mark, and is probably the reason why he looks much younger than his 54 years.

Outside his official duties, much of Flemming's time is devoted to his work in the Methodist church. Aside from an occasional baseball game on Sunday afternoon, he has no hobbies.

Flemming never uses profanity and seldom raises his voice, though one newspaper reported that at the peak of the cranberry hassle he did explode with a lusty "dog gone."

Before entering government service he held various posts at American University in Washington, and for four years was on the editorial staff of U. S. Daily (now U. S. News and World Report).

From 1939 until 1948, during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, he was a member of the Civil Service Commission, and also served on other commissions and agencies.

In 1948 he was the first alumnus ever named president of Ohio Wesleyan, but three years later President Truman called him back to Washington as assistant to the director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, in charge of manpower.

In 1953 he was named director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, and as such participated in meetings of the National Security Council and President Eisenhower's cabinet.

He returned to Ohio Wesleyan in 1957, but resigned as president there the next year when he came to Washington to take his present post.

He is the only cabinet officer with a listed telephone number, and reporters feel free to call him at home any time it's necessary.

During the cranberry fuss he expected to get a lot of "crank" calls at home — but he didn't get one.

"Maybe the folks who would have called didn't know I spell my name with two m's," he said. "Or maybe they just thought I wouldn't talk to them anyway. But I would have."

Dr. John Whinnery ... speaks to Kiwanians

Dental Surgeon Gives Program

Dr. John Whinnery of Amarillo, an oral surgeon, presented the Hereford Kiwanis Club program in I. O. O. F. Hall Thursday noon.

Whinnery explained that the dentistry profession became organized in 1839, at which time it was divorced from medicine. The first dental law was passed in 1841, he said.

Most of the work of a dental surgeon, he pointed out, is the extraction of teeth. He also treats gum and tooth diseases with cooperation of other dental specialists.

Guest at the regular meeting of the club was Ken Waiser, president of Future Farmers of America in Hereford, which currently is observing National F. F. A. Week.

One-Act Play Is Given At Meet

Student members of Hereford Thespian Society presented a one-act play, "Mr. F", at the noon meeting of Hereford Lions Club Wednesday in the ballroom of Jim Hill Hotel.

During the meeting, Joe Hood of Lubbock, a Dale Carnegie Course representative, presented a $300 check to club president Labry Ballard to go toward the Lions' Foreign Exchange Student Fund. The check was presented on completion of enrollment of 44 students in the course here.

Cast of the play, introduced by Sharon Hill, included Judy Coffin, Dave Dzulik, Bobby Renfro and Joe Sherman.

Mrs. Ida Mae Vaughn Is Honored On 75th Birthday

"Seventy Five And Going On Seventy Six" occasioned a birthday party given Sunday afternoon honoring Mrs. Ida Mae Vaughn at the home of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Vaughn, 303 Ave. H. "Go On - Never Look Back" has been the subconscious theme of Mrs. Vaughn's life from the very beginning, and tells a story, almost 75 years long, of a pioneer teacher, housewife, church worker and good neighbor, who has not allowed the fallacy of old age to take hold of her.

She is still active in the Veteran's of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and the American Legion Auxiliary, the Rebekah Lodge and the West Hereford Home Demonstration work. She is a member of the First Christian Church and attends regularly. She is the mother of an even dozen children, eight of whom are still living. As a girl, she took care of all the babies in the neighborhood and served as second mother to her brothers and sisters. She wanted to be a nurse, and Dr. C. P. Estes, one of Hereford's first physicians, offered her work as an assistant in his office, but she was needed at home to help care for the little ones. She attended Panhandle Christian College here, taking a business course, but finally decided to teach school. Some of her first pupils attended the birthday party Sunday. Recalling how she met her husband, she related, "One day mother and I rode over to a neighbor's home to help with the sick. A strange young man came out to tie our horses for us and I fell for him hard. On the way to the house, I told mother, "That is the man I intend to marry". And she did. In 1907, Miss Ida Mae Kibbe was married to W. A. Vaughn in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kibbe. They spent their first year on the Kibbe ranch and continued with farming until his death in 1943. In January, 1943, they rented Miss Ara Lewis' farm and shared her house. In December of that year he was killed in a traffic accident. The following spring Miss Lewis and Mrs. Vaughn bought a quarter section of land and built a home. All winter long they talked about making a long trip, seeing the country and visiting relatives. Finally they bought a Dodge pickup, fitted it up so they could sleep in it and carried along a cooking unit and set out. First, they visited Texas points, then relatives in Georgia, St. Louis, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Salt Lake City, Utah, making it in to California to spend Christmas with Mrs. Vaughn's sons. During the early difficult years in Deaf Smith County she was ready to lend a helping hand to neighbors and friends, even strangers, and now if the days seem long she has many good memories to fill her thoughts. Her eight living children include Charles R. of Anthony, N. M.; James, William and John I. of San Bernardino, Calif.; Frank of Cambridge, Neb.; Lt. Col. Jasper Vaughn of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Carlos of Hereford and Mrs. John Anthony of Elida, N. M. She says, with some pride, that she has nine grandsons and nine granddaughters, two great grandsons and two great granddaughters. Approximately 100 old friends and new called between the party hours of 2 to 5 Sunday afternoon; some even came after church that evening, bringing many good wishes and gifts. The birthday table was laid with a lace cloth over pale pink linen and centered with a large arrangement of pink gladioli and white stock, sent by her son, John I. Vaughn of San Bernar-

Mrs. Gaston Is Meeting Speaker

Young Mothers Study Club met in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Tuesday evening. Mrs. H. W. Gaston, guest speaker, presented a program on comics, television and the movies. Mrs. Dale Young was hostess. It has been discovered that in some cases television and movies have contributed to juvenile delinquency it was pointed out. A growing child needs careful guidance in the selection of television programs and movies, and when allowed to watch too much violence may accept it as a way of life. Most parents would never allow evil doers to come into their homes, but television brings them there. "Good reading material should be provided at all times and parents should take time to read and enjoy it with their children as well as planned family good times," Mrs. Gaston said. Mrs. Dale Young was hostess, and others attending included Mesdames Labry Ballard, James Boyd, Bill Brady, Gid Brown, Wendell Burdine, James Headstream, Kenneth Malone, Gerald McCaskill, Jess Robinson and James Russell.

Clements was co-hostess. The program, dealing with music from "The Land of the Midnight Sun", had to do with Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland, which although politically independent, are closely united by ties of blood and customs. Mrs. Thompson told how the Scandinavian countries have many basic similarities in their art, dances and music. "The natural beauty of the land is a frequent undercurrent in their music," she said. "The spectacular beauty of mountains, the cold magic of the far north, the weird spell of the Midnight Sun, and the solid stretch of the evergreens - all are felt in the musical expression of the people, she said. The musical portion of the program was opened with a chorus singing, "In the Boat" (Grieg), and "Be Still My Soul" (Sibelius), with singers including Mesdames C. J. Mountz, T. W. Roberson, Paul Lyons, H.K. Fox, Steve Clements and Dale Young. Mrs. Howard Scott played "Sonata, Second Movement" (Grieg). Mrs. Ellis Coombes played "May Night" (Palmgren), and Mrs. J. C. McCracken concluded the program by playing "March Gorteseque" (Sinding), and "Aydil Op. 39 No. 7" (Mendell).

During the business session, plans were discussed for the Texas Day open program which will be held in the First Baptist Church on March 14. Mrs. Charlotte Word, guest artist,

Beauty At Home

By LYNN CARTER

Q. How can I cleanse my skin thoroughly without using soap and water?

A. Wet a piece of cotton in cold water, squeeze almost dry, moisten with a tonic of witch hazel diluted with a little toilet water, dip into cold cream, and apply this to the skin, with an upward and outward movement, of course.

Q. What is an easy way to clean knuckles that have dark lines in them?

A. Try using a combination of soapsuds and cornmeal as a cleansing agent. The gritty kernels will dig in and eradicate the elusive dirt. The starch in the meal also is healing, soothing, and bleaching.

Q. The skin on my face is usually flushed and florid, with visible veins around my nose and on my cheeks. What can I do about this?

A. Your very best procedure is a consultation with your doctor. You probably are in need of some dietary changes. Usually the condition you describe is due to enlarged capillaries near the skin's surface, caused by over-stimulation of foods, liquids, heat or cold.

 Q. How should a face that has been pitted by acne be made up?
 A. You can fill in the pits with a cream base that is lighter than skin-tone. The cream base can be pressed in and set by using a puff lightly dusted with talcum powder. For the makeup, use a liquid foundation cream of a skin-matching tone, smoothed on evenly and carefully so as not to disturb the first cream base. Then the rouge, and the powder.

Community Observes Public School Week

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS

J. B. Noland of Summerfield is the county chairman for Texas Public School Week Committee. He was accompanied by D. C. Martin, principal of Aikman School in Hereford, in a brief visit to Walcott School on Friday afternoon. They gave Thomas L.

Collins materials to be used for Texas Annual Public Schools Week, Feb. 28 through March 4. Parents are urged to visit the school. A "full house" attended Walcott's P-TO meeting on Friday night, Feb. 19 at 8 p. m. President, Mrs. Jack Weaver, presided during the business meeting. Secretary, Mrs. Floyd Brown, read the minutes, which were approved. Treasurer, Mrs. Bob Wyly, gave a financial report. She stated that popcorn would be sold at the close of the meeting. The program for the evening was then turned to Mrs. T. L. Collins and her third and fourth grade boys and girls. The welcome, "Why is it Leap Year?" was given by Kathy Monroe.

WORMS FROM LOGS

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Fishermen seeking worms have found a paradise in big cull peeler logs. Crewmen bring in the huge logs that have sound, well-seasoned wood in their interiors, but the exterior sections are full of fishing worms. Worms really begin to fly when the lathes start peeling off this worthless exterior to get down to the sound wood. The happy fishermen go home with a canful every night.

The songs, "Hi Ho, Cold Winter is Here," "February Days," and "Popcorn," were sung by the group with Mrs. G.W. Downing accompanying them at the piano.

A play, "Young Abe Lincoln," in five scenes, was also presented. Characters in the play were as follows: announcer, Maria Jack; Sally Lincoln, Kathy Monroe; Nancy Lincoln, Mary Ruth Weaver; Tom Lincoln, Kelly Tyler; Betsy, Sharon Tice; Dennis, Billy Bass; Sally, Linda Merrill; Dennis, Cody White; Little Sarah, Nancy Minks; John, David Buse; Matilda, Kay Kirby; Big Sarah, Maria Jack; Josiah Crawford, Clyde Wyly; Abe, grown up, John Perrin, sixth grader; Mrs. Hawkins, Alice Myers; William Berry, Sheldon White. A story, "Letter to Abraham Lincoln," read by Nancy Minks; "Groundhog," Mary Ruth Weaver.

"February Birthdays," "Washington and Lincoln," "Your Valentine" and "My Valentine," were presented as group singing. FLIGHT OF TYPEWRITER
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — If the typewriter could write of its own experiences, oh what a tale it could tell.

Pete Martello, who heads the state office repair service, says he has found beetles, earrings, peanuts, cheese tidbits, cake crumbs and scraps of salami inside typewriters.

The state police, Martello said, rarely drop anything into a typewriter. More often, they drop the typewriter.

Martello's favorite typewriter story concerns an electric typewriter. A man got his tie caught inside the typewriter. The tie was ripped from his body. So was his shirt. And after the battle was over the man found a parking ticket on his car.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

TITANIC SINKS! No one who read that screaming headline will ever forget the story of terror and panic... and courage... it told.

For this was the unsinkable ship, the queen of the seas, the finest that had ever been launched. She was on her maiden voyage out of New York. Aboard her for the occasion were hundreds of dignitaries, the rich and the famous of the world. Suddenly, without warning, tragedy struck off the coast of Newfoundland. A giant iceberg tore huge holes in the great ship's hull. Soon the ship was listing... and then slowly, she began to sink.

But not slowly enough. Of the more than 1500 people aboard, more than half were lost in one of this century's great sea tragedies.

Remember the year? Buying a car was a special event for any family then. There weren't so many "horseless carriages" on the road, so buying one was a big decision.

The year was 1912. Choosing a car, and a dealer, is an important decision today as well. Our reputation for reliable dealing is your guarantee of making the right decision when you see us about a new 1960 FORD. Stop in this week and check our deal! CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR CO., INC., 146 E. ## Public Education Is Big Factor In American Democracy And Freedoms

The United States of America boasts two accomplishments which no other nation can claim. One is its tremendously high standard of living, and the other is public education for the masses. These two accomplishments are so closely allied, in fact, that it is impossible to say which is the product of the other. The Founders of our nation and of our state incorporated the foundation for public education, then made provisions to help achieve the goal. Today, in 1960, most of us take education for granted. In addition to legislation, a reasonable amount of education is required in society, business, agriculture and industry, and in the walks of everyday existence in our state, community and nation. Education, the forerunner of an informed public, is likewise the backbone of successful operation in our democratic form of government.

Our system of education has its flaws which no thinking citizen will deny. When we stop to recall how many people could not read or write a mere 25 years ago, however, we are bound to agree that tremendous strides have been made toward the ultimate goal of universal education in America. Unquestionably, our system has been a practical and workable one.

Today, our school system is one of our few governmental divisions which is still maintained, directed and operated on the grassroots level. Our public education is handled by local school boards and, so far as we know, every boy and girl has an opportunity to take advantage of the facilities provided by their parents, friends and neighbors. No other country in the world can make such a boast.

To fully appreciate our public schools, one has only to cross the border into neighboring Mexico on the south and carefully observe what might well happen there with benefit of public education. Returning service men and occasional visitors from European and Asian nations have pretty much the same story to tell about nations in these parts of the world.

There are other contributing factors but, always, backward nations are found to be without any type of universal education. In turn, those nations with public education are invariably the most highly civilized and better developed; they are also the nations which approach nearest our own in the phase of freedom for individual citizenship.

Public schools were considered by our founding fathers as one of the most important phases of our democratic form of life. The more we observe and compare, the more we are inclined to agree that the founders were entirely correct.

Texas Shows Up 'In Red' Again

Mr. Average Citizen, who probably thinks his neighbor occasionally gets "overboard" on politics, might do well to take a closer look at things around Austin these days.

He will remember, no doubt, the extra sessions which finally added another $90 million to state tax income around a year ago. However, we doubt if he is aware that our state, so far, is another $80 million in the red — and will likely seek another $100 million this year in new money for the two-year budgetary period starting in 1961.

Compared with our national income and spending, the Texas "mess" is chicken feed. Its worst facet, in fact, rests on the situation that our state seems to be following the national pattern to which there appears no solution and no probability of a balanced budget.

The Brand is still of the opinion that we will have a Texas sales tax within a few years. If this tremendous revenue is properly channeled it could well solve our teacher problem and our school situation. If not, it will flow down the spending drain of other state agencies and, in a short time, Texas will be back "in the red" once again. New Mexico, less fortunate in the way of income, earmarked its sales tax for schools out of necessity, and with unusual success.

Texas, it seems to us, might well adopt the same pattern and, at the same time, relieve other agencies with portions of funds now used in school operations. Otherwise, we will be saddled with a sales tax—and once again be "in the red" when budgets are figured in 1963 and 1965.

Dealer's Choice

Movie stars often complain that they become "typed" for certain roles and find it difficult to escape the classification in which the public come to consider them. Sometimes, we wonder if geographical areas are not faced with the same problem.

Every Texan, for instance, is expected to look, act and feel the part of a millionaire "blowhard," and people from Maine are not supposed to speak more than a dozen words each week. The "South" is expected to follow certain political patterns, including a solid Democrat vote, and some people even believe that all juveniles are automatically delinquent.

Many of these people and groups follow stereotyped roles, partly because they are forced into the routine through public opinion. Even when they break away from the rut they frequently remain branded by a public which refuses to alter its thinking.

Meanwhile, people are still people. Most of us alter our thinking from time to time; all of us are subject to frailties and a few of us occasionally turn up with unexpected strong points and personalities. Human nature never has and never will be stereotyped and accurately predicted.

The life insurance companies, during the past 25 years, have literally sold millions of dollars in policies to people "who didn't believe in insurance," while other top-notch organizations have likewise penetrated the barrier with equally remarkable results.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

Faith is an event in the Winter Olympics. Bibles printed in 28 languages, representing the languages of those participating in the games, have been made available in the new Protestant United Church of Squaw Valley by the American Bible Society. There are hymn books printed in three languages. The Catholics have built a Queen of the Snows Church there. Priests and ministers are skiers, able to speak the skiers' jargon in various languages. They are on the slopes during all ski hours and, as unofficial chaplains, have access to the athletes' quarters. To signify that faith is part of the American way of life, the Protestants have brought an American Indian minister, Mitchell Whiterabbit, from Wisconsin, who conducts services. On opening day, St. Ullr, patron saint of skiers, was honored in a church ceremony, the "Blessing of the Skis," in which prayers were offered that the skis carry their users safely.

Television Not Needed In The Good Old Days

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL
There are many stories handed down from one generation to another in our country. However, since we have the radio to fill in the long hours of winter with music and other entertainment and since we now have television to entertain both day and night it would be logical to think that a lot of the old hunting stories, Indians, unusual stories and the ghost stories may pass on with the older generation.

The young people of today have no reason to depend on themselves or others of the family for games, jokes, charades, or when all this failed, to ask father to tell them stories of hunting panthers, "painters," as some of the old timers would say. Or some of the old superstitions that have frightened people, both white and colored, even though most of the stories, ended with someone learning the cause and effect of the strange happenings.

Boys loved to make small wooden windmills; a family with several boys would have a small wooden windmill on every post about the home. One family of ten boys had the ingenuity and the intestinal fortitude to work on, and complete, one which was large enough and with enough power on windy days to churn; not the spinning kind, but the old-fashioned wooden churn with a wooden paddle and one had to sit and chug it up and down until the butter was separated from the milk.

How wonderful was the flavor of the butter and buttermilk. They were very proud of that windmill, even if it did take away one of the most relaxing jobs their mother had in a large family.

Would the average teen age boy of today know what "tic-tac-ing" is or have any idea how to make one. This sport would not do for the cities, but the boys in the country had a wonderful time making them and then frightening new neighbors who moved into the community if they did not have boys in the family.

A tin can with a hole punched in the center of the bottom and an eight penny nail tied inside the pail on a long string, 50 yards or so, also was a project. The longer it was, the better, for one had to have a good running start when this apparatus worked. He'd hang the pail or can with a ball over a nail or limb near a house and pull the string taut. Sometimes rosin was used on the string to help make a more weird noise. You have never heard such a noise in your life. It would reverberate through the house with the moan of some huge animal in dire pain, and if you were in the least superstitious, one could imagine it coming from the

Public Schools Week Scheduled

For each of the past ten years, Public Schools Week in Texas has been set aside as a special time to place increased emphasis on our educational system.

During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged, through special programs, to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make Texas public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this our citizens are urged to take an active interest in the school systems and to cooperate with their school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish our leaders of tomorrow with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of February 27-March 4, 1960, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in Texas.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 5th day of Jan., 1960.

SAFECRACKERS TAKE $2,200 FROM VAULT

Safecrackers who apparently know their trade well blasted a vault door and floor safe at Whitharral Co-op Gin sometime Tuesday night and made off with $2,230.24 in cash. Gin manager J. W. Borders Jr., estimated that damages in the safe job would amount to about $1,000. Hockley County Sheriff Weir Clem and Texas Ranger Razz Renfro continued an investigation of the case Wednesday afternoon, but they had turned up no suspects and few clues. The burglary occurred sometime before or during the snowfall Tuesday night, because investigators found no tracks Wednesday morning. The intruders blasted open a vault door to get to a floor safe and the money. Borders said the money loss was covered by insurance. Investigators said the burglars gained entry through the south door of the gin office apparently without having to force their way in. One hole was drilled in the four by seven foot vault door, but the burglars apparently kicked a second lock into operation on this try. Three other holes were drilled in the door. A pry bar was used to open the outer shield of the vault door, so that explosives apparently nitro-glycerin, could be inserted. Once the vault door was blasted open, the burglars chipped away at asphalt tile and concrete, in which the floor safe was buried.

ROGERS BILL ASKS FOR PRIVATE INDUSTRY

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa Friday moved to sidetrack an administration-backed helium conservation bill which would lead to virtual confiscation of all natural gas. The Panhandle Democrat introduced legislation which would permit the government to proceed with a long-range conservation program — but making it easier for private industry to build the 12 helium-extraction plants asked by the government. At almost the same time, a House Interior subcommittee began consideration of the administration bills, which have been endorsed by the Interior Department (which now produces all helium) and the Defense Department. The first such private firm to indicate an interest in the field was Helix, a subsidiary of Northern Natural Gas Co. and Air Products Inc., which now holds an option on a plant site between Dumas and Sunray. The new firm earlier announced plans for a $13.5 million plant here, which would employ 50 to 75 persons when completed. Officials said increased automation would permit the plant to operate with a minimum number of employees.

VOTERS APPROVE BOND ISSUE

A $60,000 school bond issue held here Saturday passed by a margin of 36 votes. Voter of Tulia Independent School District cast 458 votes for the proposal and 422 against. The total number of votes cast was considered extremely large for a school bond election. The issue will be used for construction of classrooms to house the vocational agriculture department. The unit will be built north of the present high school study hall. If and when more classroom space is needed by the high school, the area between the agricultural unit and the study hall can be utilized by adding only two additional walls, roof and floor. Present agricultural facilities were built originally for grade school classroom space. These classrooms will be returned to the junior high which must have more classrooms before next term. Present agricultural facilities have been termed inadequate by the Texas Education Agency which holds the axe over the local system since it provides salaries for agricultural teachers.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm claims he has solved the problem of financing an adequate defense program. It's doubtful.

Dear editor:

"Where're we gonna get the money?" seems to be the main problem confronting the experts who contend the United States ought to spend more for defense.

Some of the top missile and space scientists have testified they could do a lot more and close the missile gap if they had more money to work with, but on the other hand expert economists have testified that balancing the budget is important to survival too, since there is such a thing as getting a nation too far in debt.

Since everybody is in favor of an adequate defense system, and everybody is in favor of a balanced budget, everybody in Washington seems stumped, they don't know where to turn to get more money for guided missiles, so I took off from work out here on my bindweed farm the past week and thought.

Now I have a solution to the problem. Don't know why nobody has thought of it before.

The way to finance the guided missile program is to do it on the installment plan.

Here's the situation: most Americans seem to be on the installment plan; two-thirds of the cars sold are sold that way, three-fourths of the refrigerators, nine-tenths of the television sets, etc. Nearly everybody has weekly and monthly installment payments to meet, and how they do it nobody knows.

But they do it. Take television. A few short years ago, before television came in, everybody was loaded to the gills with installment payments, yet here came television and everybody bought a television set. They just added it to the load and kept grinding.

So, all Washington has to do to finance the missile program is pass a law adding say five dollars a month to everybody's installment payments. I figure that'd bring in about four billion dollars extra a year, and everybody knows survival is worth five dollars a month.

If not, have them look at it this way: if Russia, figuring we're unprepared, sends over its batch of intercontinental ballistic missiles and blasts this country, some of them are bound to hit most of the electrical power plants, and did you ever stop to think what life would be like every night with the electricity off and no television?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

place of the dead.

One night, four or five boys hung the tie-tac on a split board on the back room of a farm house and got set for the fun. One thing they had forgotten — the lady of the house was not only alone, but she was unusually tall and smoked a corn-cob pipe. She picked up the shotgun and stepped out the door to see what all the noise was about.

The pipe was in her mouth and a double-barreled shotgun was in her hand. As she stepped out the door, the pipe caught on the string, flipping the hot ashes into her face, giving her quite a start, and off went the gun, both barrels. The shot sprinkled the bushes in which the boys had hidden.

"I was never so scared in my life: we did not know what happened; but we did not stop running until we were back home, and it was several weeks before we learned what happened," one of the boys said.

Another time they rigged one up with a hatpin. "We drove it into the doorfacing at the top, pulled the string very tight and then released it suddenly," the boy said. "This too would make a terrible noise. Again the man of the house was out, but was near enough on his way home to hear the noise and waylaid us as we ran along an alley. We did not go back to that part of the community with our jokes for a long time."

And always, there are the ghost stories. A family had moved to the Plains from the East. They had built a four-room house, papered it and lived there for a little more than a year when relatives became seriously ill and they closed up the house and moved back East for a few years. To children, an empty house is a challenge to imagine all sorts of things, and they heard queer noises in the house. They would go to the boarded windows and try to peer inside but could not see anything and there was a strange noise.

It always ended with that queer zzzzzzz. The parents paid little attention to their childish talk of the haunted house, but after a week or so decided to look into the matter. Accompanied by the children, the men went to the "haunted house," opened the door and a very poor old steer staggered out of the house. He had existed by tearing the wall paper off the wall with his tongue and eating it. All the paper was off the wall on each room as high as he had been able to reach with his tongue.

At another haunted house, it, too, had the windows boarded over and grown-ups as well as children would hear rattling chains each time the house was passed, especially at night.

Most every one would go a long way around it at night. One day a boy was hunting stray hogs and his father had told him to look under the old empty house. He was very sure to go in broad daylight. He, too, heard the chains hitting the floor in an even rhythm, and as he peeked through the boards on the window, he saw a racoon. It had been a pet and ran away with a chain attached to one foot. The chain had worn off until it was only a few links, but long enough to rattle and make people think of ghosts and rattling chains.

Many were the tales told in East Texas about the panthers and how they would lure the hunter with their hunting cry which sounded like the wail of a woman in distress. The hunters learned to look high for them (so the tales go) as they would be high in the pinetrees to enable them to jump from the tree on their prey by surprise.

The only running water in the creeks and the boys would carry water for their mothers until they were grown up enough to help Pa in the field, then the younger ones would take over.

Late one afternoon, about sundown, two little boys went to the creek for water to last through the night. As they neared the creek, they heard a low moan. Brambles grew in the trees near the spring and it was so near dark they could see a large black figure sitting in the spring, swaying and moaning.

Their little feet flew to the house and they told their father to get his gun as there was a big black bear in the spring. Wondering, the man got his gun and walked to the creek only to find one of his workhorses had fallen into the spring in such a way that it was impossible for him to get out. Catching his forelock, he held his head down low enough that he could scramble out. It was a long time before the two little boys heard the last of the "Big Bear" in the spring.

In the early days there were no hospitals, and very few nurses, and when someone was very ill, they were nursed by the family or the neighbors would come and sit through the long night.

A man became very ill with typhoid fever. After his illness had lasted a couple of weeks, someone noticed that each night, or rather early morning, there would appear in a room adjoining the sickroom a ghost kneeling in an attitude of supplication. One told another and soon the neighbors would not sit up alone because they were afraid of the ghost.

One courageous lady decided she was going to learn just what the ghost was. So she sat alone, and about two in the morning, as the moon rose, she saw what appeared to be a figure kneeling. She tiptoed slowly and noiselessly to get a better look. As soon as she drew near, she could see the shadow made by the moon through the window. While sitting near the bed, the shadow appeared to have a human shape, but when she moved nearer the shadow changed. She called members of the family to see the ghost and then showed them how the moon, when it rose and sent light rays through the window, made the shadow.

BEETLE LIFE RECORDED
CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Scientists at the Oregon Forest Lands Research Center eavesdropped on the Douglas fir bark beetle with microphones and discovered a story of beetle family life. At 9:10 p. m. the first day, papa arrived home and a rhythmic cricket-like chirping began, mixed with irregular, sharp, staccato noises. The scientists could not determine if it was a family fight because Mr. Beetle got home late or if it was the usual beetle welcome. At 9:38 all sound stopped. At 9:55 there was some occasional scratching, which researchers said could have been the female excavating or preparing dinner. At 10:19 vigorous chewing began, indicating the family had sat down to dinner. Next day sounds like lusty singing as the beetles cleaned house were heard by the scientists. The mike picked up the noise of sweeping and every now and then bark dust was pitched out of a hole in the log. The scientists said they knew the difference between male and female bark beetles because the one doing all the housework was always the female. As might be expected, the one making all the grumbling noises was invariably the male.

MANSION FOR MANKIND

MARLBORO, N. J. (AP) — A large mansion designed after George Washington's homestead in Mt. Vernon stands in rolling countryside here on a 345-acre estate.

Mrs. Sara S. Collier, widow of the late magazine publisher, decided to put its beauty and utility to good use in 1927 by giving the estate to the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, a Roman Catholic community of nuns.

Today emotionally disturbed girls, many from broken homes, are helped toward proper life adjustment in the big mansion, called Collier School of the Good Shepherd Convent.
