Debris Clean-Up Begins Saturday

More than two inches of driving, copious rain hit in Deaf Smith County and the surrounding area at about 10 p.m. Friday, putting many power facilities and telephones temporarily out of commission in and around Hereford. Hereford School Trustees Approve $960,347 Budget

A $960,347 school budget for 1959-60—more than a half million dollars less than last year's record of $1,553,327—was adopted by unanimous vote of the Hereford Rural High School District Board Thursday night during a called meeting in the office of the Hereford school superintendent.

Operational expense for this year totalled $800,735 after amendments were made by the trustees. The approved budget was to have been presented in a public hearing in the superintendent's office Friday at 8 p.m. but no interested residents were present.

The trustees omitted hiring of a high school secondary counselor, an elementary school teacher and a secondary school teacher to cut $11,350 from the budget before approving the proposed amount.

School district taxes, assessed at the rate of $1.76 per $100 of property valuation, will bring in about $490,000 of the total required for the public schools in Hereford and Dawn this year. Revenue from state sources is $490,728.

School Board's Meeting Changed

Next regular meeting of Hereford Rural High School District Board has been changed from Aug. 11 to Aug. 18, when bids will be opened for supplying milk, bread and gasoline for school use during the coming nine-month term.

The board at that time will accept bids for milk in half-pint units, to be delivered daily to the respective cafeterias in the school system. Bids will be for milk delivery in glass bottles and disposable cartons, and the successful bidder will furnish milk-cooling boxes for distribution.

The tornado siren at Union and Ave. E sounded, according to City Manager Dudley Boyne, but was not triggered by city employees. He said rain or lightning must have caused a short in the siren's mechanism and caused it to sound. He added that city offices were called by alarmed residents in that vicinity.

Wind velocity was marked by split trees and a fallen willow tree south of Hereford. Most power and telephone lines were back in operation by noon Saturday.

Around Town

Hereford schools have undergone numerous troubles during recent years but, currently, the last crisis appears in the form of a community housing shortage. School officials report that many teachers are packed and ready to move to Hereford now—or as soon as they can locate adequate housing. Others have scoured the town during the past two weeks, and still have not been able to locate homes. The shortage, according to reports from Superintendent Fred Cunningham's office, (Continued on Page 2)

(Continued from page 1) Charge of negligent homicide, second degree, was filed on Cecil Canipe, 50, Oklahoma City truck driver, Wednesday, and Canipe was freed from Randall County Jail the following day after making $1,500 bond. He was arraigned before Justice of The Peace Bill Wilson after charge was filed by Texas Highway Patrolman Gilbert Ray of Canyon, investigating officer.

Canipe was released from Neblett Hospital in Canyon following treatment after the accident.

The station wagon in which the two Hereford men, both painters, were riding was headed east toward Canyon when the accident occurred.

Ray said the truck, travelling west on the highway, veered to the left into the path of Beauchamp's eastbound car. He said Beauchamp apparently turned to the left of the highway to avoid the accident when the truck returned to the right side and hit the Beauchamp vehicle.

Beauchamp and Vaughn were headed for Amarillo Air Force Base, where they were doing contract painting with the Sooner Paint Company of Oklahoma.

Beauchamp was born July 3, 1912, in Wise County. He moved to Hereford in 1946 from Fort Worth. He married Miss Jewell Payne on Feb. 15, 1945, at Daltart.

(Continued from page 1) Frank Farmer at Southwestern Bell Telephone said about 250 phones were put out of commission, and that employees worked throughout Friday night and Saturday morning getting them back in operation.

Three crews of cable servicemen from Amarillo were called Friday night to help repair telephone service. Damage was attributed to wet cables by Farmer.

Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative manager Leo Forrest said most REA service damage was temporary and caused by lightning striking insulators. Three lines were broken and one pole was uprooted by wind, but were repaired during the night.

Forrest said there was minor trouble with two cables Saturday morning, and that most service failure was south of the city.

Virgil Walker, who lives six miles south of Hereford, reported heavy damage to his maize and cotton. Amount of damage was not determined, but he said stalks were twisted, broken off or matted so as it was nearly impossible to walk through the field.

Hereford's official rain gauge at City Hall recorded 2.25 inches; however, up to six inches were reported on some resident-owned gauges in sections of Hereford.

Dimmitt reportedly received only .60 inches and no damage. The northwest portion of the county reportedly received a half inch.

Luther Lesly, who lives 10 miles north of Hereford, reported 1.4 inches and no wind damage. Clarence Morrison, six miles west, gauged 1 1/2 inches a no damage.

Monk Johnson of Hereford said he gathered about six large boxes of dead birds in the area around his home.

Mrs. Ruth Wilson, who lives on James St. south of Hereford, said heavy winds uprooted a seven-year-old heavy weeping willow tree from her back yard and fell over a fence.

With her various fields of teaching, Miss Rigler did not limit her activities only to teaching. For 13 years she has sponsored Tri-Hi-Y, a high school girls' organization, and has been active in all other school activities.

One of her former pupils, now a student at Texas Tech in Lubbock, remarked of Miss Rigler, "I think her absence will be a great loss to Hereford High School, not only for her teaching ability but also for her general influence in other respects of high school activities."

Born in Robinson, Tex., the youngest of 13 children, Miss Rigler moved with her family to Plainview when she was in the sixth grade. She graduated from high school at Plainview and entered West Texas State College.

From the beginning of her teaching career, she has been known for her strict discipline, which occasionally incurred the wrath of her students. But in spite of their resentment, those students are forced to concede a grudging respect for her principles and method of teaching.

Having achieved a reputation for strictness in her classes and in her grading, former pupils are inclined to comment, "She was hard on us, but when she was through with us, we really knew our subject. She made us learn."

Many children of former students have also studied with Miss Rigler. Marlin Gilliland and his daughter, Marlene, are one example of the two generations of Miss Rigler's students.

Gilliland, who holds a high regard for the impeccably neat teacher, said, "What impressed me most about Miss Rigler was her obvious genteel understanding."

Marlene has this to say of Miss Rigler, "I never had her for any classes, but she was the sponsor for Tri-Hi-Y when I was a member, and what I liked most about her was the way she never played any favorites."

During the years of her career, Miss Rigler has taught approximately 3,960 pupils, many of whom still live in Hereford.

Former students who have attended college have said that the subjects which she taught in high school made further study on those subjects a great deal less difficult.

For the past 12 years Miss Rigler has been living at 107 Ave. B with her cousin, Mrs. Bonnie Kelly. The pair will leave about Sept. 1 for Waco, where they will make their home with Mrs. Neale Prude at her country home, Prudecliff, located on Lake Waco.

Be on the lookout — our own county sheriff, Charles Skelton, has become a writer, and an article of his, "Pistols For Plainclothesmen", will appear in "Guns" when the edition hits the newsstands the middle of this month. The modest lawman writes under the name of "Allan" Skelton. He's very photogenic too — as you'll see when you get a copy. Incidentally, we hear rumors that another article written by the gun-collector will appear in a magazine sometime next month. Available for lectures, Charles?

With the moving of thousands of books at the library for courthouse renovation being planned this week, head librarian Mrs. J. J. Boydston has

In her clipped, precise manner of speaking, Miss Rigler says, "I'm just going to sit for a while and rock and stare at the scenery. Later on, I hope to do some substitute teaching."

She enjoys traveling, working in her home and yard, and playing with her two Siamese cats, Jo San and Tiny Bit.

In speaking of leaving Hereford, Miss Rigler has this to say: "Since I have lived in Hereford more than half my life, I leave it with many regrets and many happy memories."

And when Miss Rigler leaves, Hereford High School will have lost a valuable tradition, but the essence and effect of her years of influence will remain behind.

Very few pupils who have been associated with Miss Sadye Rigler will not remember with a smile the oft-repeated phrase, "At this particular moment..."

lost most of her usually-calm manner. She has decided that moving that many books will be quite a problem — and that's why some professional "library movers" are located in larger cities.

The Youth Club of St. Anthony's will sponsor a pancake supper from 5:30 to 8 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 9, according to announcements. The supper will be held in the parochial school and open to the public. Proceeds will be used for charitable causes sponsored by the club.

Hereford Optimist Club will hold a light bulb sale in Hereford Thursday and Friday nights, from 7:30 p.m. on. The door-to-door campaign will be held throughout the city. Take heed, bulb-snatchers.

Wayne Lawrence, one of the coaches of Hereford's junior swimming team, says that more swimmers from ages 14 through 16 can be used in the coming Lubbock aquatic meet scheduled soon. Those interested should contact one of the team's coaches for try-outs.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

More Difficult Work Before Year Is Out

By VERN SANFORD
AUSTIN — With the bottleneck broken on a tax bill for regular spending, legislators began to look down the road.

Rep. Murray Watson of Maricopa proposed a resolution that pointed up the lawmakers' uneasiness about having more rough decisions before the year is out.

Watson's resolution called on Gov. Price Daniel to say immediately whether he would call another special session to raise money for the Hale-Aikin school improvement program.

Hale-Aikin proposals, which include an $800 a year salary boost for teachers, would cost an estimated $120,000,000 a year. There have been repeated rumors that the governor will recall the Legislature next fall to enact Hale-Aikin. Also floating around is the rumor that a one cent per gallon hike in the gasoline tax is being "saved" for that purpose.

Watson charged, "I think there's been a definite deal made with the Texas State Teachers Association. Somebody else should know what's going on here instead of just the governor and the teachers' lobby."

Governor Daniel's supporters called this unfair. They declared that the governor, like everyone else, couldn't tell how it would be until after the dust settled from the fracas over raising money for the basic budget.

When the Legislature finally voted out the new $185,000,000 tax bill, it voted it out in a big way. Tally was 29-2 in the Senate and 118-10-24 in the House.

This is well over the required two-thirds to make the bill effective immediately on the governor's signing.

Hopes, which had been hanging for seven months on the tax issue, came unstirring so suddenly it surprised the bill's advocates. Voting ended, good naturedly with "yes" votes recanted in the atmosphere of an old-fashioned revival meeting.

Most talked-about feature of the new bill is a severance beneficiary tax of 1.5 per cent on natural gas. It was the first time the Senate had approved this tax. Many House members had said they would not vote for any bill that didn't include it. It will bring in an estimated $15 to $18,000,000 over two years if not ruled unconstitutional.

Three-fourths or more of the bill's revenue will come from selective sales taxes. Newcomers are a 3 per cent tax on jewelry and furs, a 3 per cent tax on hotel and motel room rentals, 3 per cent on boats, motors, cameras, air conditioners, 25 per cent on tobacco products other than cigarettes.

Then the lawmakers settled down to work again.

A total of 46 new patrolmen now are manning Texas highways. These trainees have lost for this year, is that of exempting city bus systems from the state gasoline tax. Rural area senators, led by Sen. Wardlaw Lane of Center, voted it down.

City spokesmen say the buses, needed by low-income people, can't stay in the black unless they get tax relief. San Antonio's transit system went to the wall, was taken over by the city.

Senator Lane made a scathing attack on "taking care of Highland Park" (a swank Dallas suburb) when the state is having a hard time finding money "to pay the old age pensioners."

Governor Daniel asked the National Governors Conference to join him in opposing an increase in the federal tax on gasoline.

Congress is considering President Eisenhower's recommended 1.5 cent per gallon increase to pump new life into the federal highway building program.

Governor Daniel charged the federal government would have plenty of money for the highway program if it would quit using gasoline tax money for other purposes. He said further gasoline taxing should be left to the states, which need the money worse.

Earlier this year the governor mentioned the gasoline tax as a possible source of additional future revenue. State gasoline tax is presently 5 cents a gallon; federal tax, three cents a gallon.

Taxes on cigarettes will go up 3 cents a pack; liquor and wine, 20 per cent; motor vehicles sales, from 1.1 to 1.5 per cent.

Utility gross receipts will go up 20 per cent, and the corporation franchise tax will go up by 75 cents per $1,000 capital for one year, 50 cents per $1,000 thereafter.

Senate debate on the tax bill was enlivened by the arrival of a "women's march on the Capitol."

Gallery was filled with flowery hats and excited chatter as some 40 to 100 women (estimates varied widely) swept in "to show those lobbyists what's what."

Leaders were Mrs. Jud Collier of Mumford and Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of New Waverly, both workers in the militantly liberal Democrats of Texas Clubs.

They were, according to Mrs. Collier, "infuriated by the scandalous lobby which has blocked action on the tax bill." Specifically, they favored a bill heavy on gas taxes and light on selective sales taxes.

Tax bills have had a lot of attention during the current special session of the Texas Legislature. But there were more eyes on charming Miss Carol Ralph when she stopped in for a capitol building visit than ever looked at a tax bill.

This fetching miss from Farson, Utah, whose theme song is "Remember the A-La-Mode," is America's Miss Dairy Princess. She was accompanied by Mrs. Anne Reeve, whose husband Lew is publisher of the Occola (Wis.) Sun. Mrs. Reeve is the chaperone for Carol's journeys about the country.

Miss Dairy Princess was introduced in the House, addressed the Senate, and was the recipient of complimentary resolutions from both branches of the legislature.

Wives Ask: To Work Or Not To Work

By VIVIAN BROWN
One question asked frequently by young moderns is whether a girl should continue to work after marriage. It is a puzzle for many girls who feel that it is one way to help out with family finances until the husband becomes established, but parents of newlyweds often are opposed to the plan though young people see nothing wrong in it. I asked 10 married working girls how they felt about this question. Nine of these girls between 23 and 37 felt if they had it to do over again they would not work. The 10th girl has worked only two years, and feels that she will give up her job any time now, when her husband gets a promotion. (The nine girls interviewed all said they had the same idea the first five years they worked.)

A girl who has been working seven years had this to say: "When my husband and I were wed, he was a law student going to night school and had a good job during the day. We decided that I would continue working until he was graduated so that he could start his practice of law without any fears. He did. It has been a long climb, but meanwhile we maintained a good standard of living because of my job. There is no prospect of my quitting right now because we could not maintain our standard of living. I feel we should have starved if necessary, rather than try to have all the right things from the beginning. We cannot turn back the clock and now we are forced to maintain our good position in the community. I am sorry that I did not take my mother's advice."

A woman working 10 years passes on this advice: "I always wanted a large family, but we have been so busy trying to impress my husband's business associates with the right table appointments, we never got around to having children. There has always been something big to work for — a new car, the mortgage on our big house, vacation trips. We have been so busy worrying about money that we didn't have time to stop and think about the important things. Nothing would be more important to me now than having a child in the home, and I hope it isn't too late."

A woman working 15 years passes on this comment: "I have three children, even though I have worked all these years. I do manage to get home from school, so they have not been neglected. The wrong thing about my working has been that it kept my husband from advancing until recently. He was a bank teller and complacent because he did not feel the bite of expenses as the years went on with the extra salary in the family. I became restless, however, and began complaining about being away from the children. He became determined to get ahead, and rose to credit manager, and to vice president. I am leaving my job at the start of summer vacation, but I can't help but think how wrong it was to dampen his incentive unwittingly, and to deprive myself of happy times with my children."

There are many women who

Wear Discusses Delinquency At Lions Meeting

Bob Wear, minister of the Central Church of Christ in Canyon discussed delinquency at the regular weekly meeting of the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday.

Wear asserted that delinquency was a problem that reached all the parts of the American culture like a cancer.

Delinquency, Wear declared should not be associated with the word juvenile as a hyphenated word because the problem of delinquency was more an adult problem.

He pointed out that most of the devices of delinquency, such as phonographic material and bad movies were not the creation of juveniles, but of adults. The general behavior patterns of culture are also set by adults, he continued.

Delinquency is generally a result of social rejection in the opinion of Wear. Young people have the right to and the need of a warm happy climate to grow up in. The only hope for an answer for the problem is for juveniles not to have more critics, but better models.

Slices of cooked pork sausage links are good to add to a pizza topping.

Old Jack Says 'Thanks..Folks'

For the past 35 years, we have been serving you in the feed business. This included the big depression, more droughts than we like to remember . . . and a lot of good years in between. Needless to say, we have enjoyed every minute of it, despite occasional trials and tribulations . . . and most of all, we treasure the friends and friendships made during the long period.

Now the time has come to say "Goodbye"—and it is a pretty rough job. However, we've got a lot of aches and pains which never used to bother us, and the doctor said we'd better slow down for awhile. So, we leased our building to the County for the next 12 months . . . and we plan to take things easy. Maybe we won't like it. Maybe, by the time we stay around the house a few months, we'll start something else.

One thing you can figure for sure, though, we'll still be around this neck of the woods. We will always be glad to see you—and we sure do appreciate your patronage, your loyalty and your consideration down through the years.

Mr. & Mrs. Jack Wright

F. H. Oberthier Celebrated Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lawrence of Tyler have been visiting her father, F. H. Oberthier, and other relatives the past week. They were here to help celebrate Mr. Oberthier's birthday on Tuesday.

At noon Tuesday a stag dinner was given at the Oberthier home with long-time friends attending. They included V. O. Hennen, Dewey Lawrence of Tyler, both sons-in-law, Elliott Brooks, Harry Seed, C. D. Hardisty and J. L. Park. That evening a family dinner commemorated the event.

The Lawrences' plan to vacation in New Mexico before returning to their home.

By JIMMIE GILLENLINE
Fads usually run in cycles, and of the latest — though by no means new — is that of tossing beer cans on the streets and highways. The courthouse, along with business firms, Main Street and alleys, seem to provide the best targets around here.

It was interesting to note, therefore, in the Perryton paper, where the Highway Patrol attached onto three beer can throwers, hauled them into court exacted fines — and sent the youngsters out to pick up the cans as part of the sentence. The fine, in case you are interested, reads "$100 to $200" for each offense. However, this is the first time I ever heard of the law being enforced.

I hear that Virgil Dodson snapped something like 700 color picture slides on his recent jaunt to Alaska. This is a tremendous lot of pictures. I'll bet he has plenty of trouble cutting the number down to 50, which is about what it takes to fill 30 minutes, with comments at the average club meeting.

A new twist to the "man bites dog" story occurred a few days ago while Veterinarian Jack Gilliland was vaccinating a dog. The dog bit Jack — and the upshot was that Jack also had to take rabies shots himself. The way I hear it, Jack was already "mad" about the whole thing before he ever took the shots. Anyway, latest reports have it that both Jack and the dog are coming along fine.

Grady Rogers is just back from Nevada, where he has been checking on irrigation wells and public lands. Grady says the flow in some places is phenomenal. We did some adding and subtracting and estimated that it costs around $50 an acre to level, develop and put a well on the land. Filing costs are fairly small. Grady says more and more interest is centering on the area. Mrs. Rogers, who listened to the conversation, didn't seem near as excited as did Grady, however.

People on the local level are beginning to worry seriously about the ever-increasing amount of merchandise from Japan, Italy, Germany and Sweden. Four different merchants during the past week have mentioned this situation to me. Mostly, the items include hand tools, toys, fishing rods, pottery, china, small electric motors and the like. The average item runs from 25% to 40% less, retail price, and naturally sells circles around the parallel American made product. The reason, most of them figure, is due to high labor costs in the U. S., along with extremely high corporation and income tax schedules.

Start looking at some of the things you buy from day to day, and you will see what they are talking about. Trouble is, they say it is becoming worse instead of better — and they are beginning to wonder what will ultimately happen to the economy and living standards of this country.

Courthouse employees have a lot of work in store, when they move contents of the present building to the former Jack Wright feed store location, just south of the city hall. I sure don't envy Mrs. Cecil Lady and Mrs. Vance Crume in the clerk's office. The folks in the tax collector's office also have their work cut out. Fact is, I guess they all face quite a chore. Wonder which section they will put back in the old hatchery department? Seems to me the birth records might be most appropriate.

There sure is a rash of queen contests all over the Panhandle, but no one seems interested in kings. You do have to admit that the Panhandles produces its share of outstanding beauties.

Carl Perrin, who lives away out yonder northwest, said the other day that he has sometimes thought about moving to town. If he does, however, he figures he will have to drive back out to the farm even more often than he now comes to town. All in all, Carl figures it is a pretty good problem.

The Hereford breeders of Hereford are beginning to get some results on their promotional campaign. This week "The Stockman Record," a Denver publication, carried a front page article regarding the five new signs which breeders have erected in this area. The signs, incidentally, are unusually attractive and well planned. Bill Dameron tells me that the group also expects to publish a folder concerning cattle in the area, probably this fall.

Different people view Krushchev's visit here in different terms. The stock market dropped sharply in view of a possible lapse in the cold war. However, with Krushchev openly telling Nixon that he expects Russia to have control of the U. S. within a few years, some people figure that he may just be taking a survey of his anticipated holdings. To say the least, it would be foolish to drop our present defense program. The "big stick" policy seems to be about the only way anyone can get along with the Communists. A continued strong defense seems the best possible way to put off or avert another war.

J. T. Carroll has one of those new-fangled swimming pools, half above ground and half below. It is made out of redwood and plywood with plastic pool insert to hold the water. The only concrete in the pool is that part used to anchor the diving board. He started it as a do-it-yourself project, but admits that he found out pretty soon that he needed help. However, it really is a neat deal, complete with water circulator, heater and all. J. T. says they recommend letting it freeze during winter months.

"You just pitch in a log to take care of expansion," he said, "and let nature take its course."

Potatoes were selling at $1.75 a bag this week which, for some reason, reminded me of that song Eddie Cantor used to sing about: "Potatoes are cheaper, tomatoes are cheaper. . . It's a good time to get married."

ribbon accenting the empire style. Her corsage was yellow and gold rainbow-tint carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore beige silk organza over taffeta styled with full skirt with matching accessories. Her corsage was identical to that worn by the bride's mother.

The reception, immediately following the ceremony, was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was done in white. The white net cloth was skirted with a floor length ruffle dotted with tiny yellow satin bows. A white colonial wrought iron globe-candelabra with yellow and white gladioli and shasta daisies at the base, formed the centerpiece. The three tiered columned cake was ornamented with tiny yellow sugarpun rosebuds and topped with a miniature bridal couple standing within a decorated archway.

Mrs. R. L. Curry of Clovis, N. M., aunt of the bride, Mrs. Jim McDowell of Weatherford, Okla., and Mrs. Ray Godwin of Amarillo, presided, and Mrs. John Hays of Clovis, N. M., secured names for the bride's book. Miss Zell Crump provided background music for the reception.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, the bride wore a black linen suit with dotted silk blouse with black velvet accessories. Her orchid corsage was detached from the wedding bouquet.

Drying Sweaters
The most efficient method of drying a sweater after washing it is to make a hammock of a piece of mosquito netting or other thin material; hang this hammock out in the sun and lay the sweater on it. Be sure that the hammock is drawn out flat so the sweater is not doubled up.

If a sweater is treated in this way, it will not get out of shape.
Easter Threading
A needle can be threaded more easily by pushing it through a sheet of white paper, about one-eighth inch from the edge, until just the eye of the needle is visible.
Panama Hats
To clean a Panama hat add enough cleaning fluid to a teacup of flour to make a paste. Rub it on with a brush and let dry; then brush off with a stiff brush.
Weeds in the Walk

If you have a brick walk and would like to prevent grass and weeds from growing between the bricks, pour crank case oil over the weeds two or three times a season. The oil will soon evaporate and with it the weeds and grass.
Better Gravy
Use the water in which vegetables have been cooked, for the gravy, rather than fresh water. A finer flavor will be the result, and it is also economy, as the water contains valuable minerals.
Prevents Streaking

Streaking of clothes, when using bluing in hard water, can be prevented by first putting a cup of sweet, unskimmed milk into the tub of rinsing water.
The Pudding
Butter the top of the pudding dish for about an inch around the edge and add a small piece of butter to the pudding itself, and you will not be troubled with having your pudding boil over in the oven.
Bacon Appetizer
To make a good appetizer spread some cheese mixed with salad dressing on small crackers; top this with bacon squares, and bake or broil until the bacon is crisp and the crackers a nice brown. Serve hot.
Varnish on Fabrics
To remove varnish from fabrics, saturate with turpentine, rub the fabric between the hands, and sponge with alcohol or chloroform.
Some cooks like to add chili sauce or catchup to mayonnaise to serve with seafood.

SOMETHING TO BRAG ABOUT CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago is ceding to New York the honor of having the world's fattest telephone directory. The new Chicago directory has 1,779 pages, compared with 1,836 pages in New York's Manhattan directory. The old Chicago directory had 2,133 pages, but the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. cut the size by using five columns of listings per page instead of four. Chicago still claims the most listings, about one million in its directory compared with 776,000 in the Manhattan book.

Police said robbers broke a window and attempted unsuccessfully to burn and batter a safe open. They left their tools behind. After police investigated this incident a door was broken open and a quantity of equipment and merchandise was taken.

Victor put the gator in a water-filled hole, but when he went to feed the animal he was bitten twice on his hand. Antitetanus shots followed, and Victor's attitude changed. Unless an alligator-lover shows up, the pet will be given to the Animal Protective Society.

Beauty At Home

Q. Do you really recommend that a girl remove the hair from her legs?

A. If she wants to keep her glamour intact, yes! Nothing can ruin the appearance of sheer-stockinged legs — or of bare legs for that matter — more than hairy legs. You get rid of that leg hair — with a depilatory, razor, or wax. It's well worth the trouble.

Q. What kinds of fabrics do large or stout women look best in?

A. Large women look well in dull-surfaced materials (not satin, for instance, because it makes them look bigger by reflecting light) and soft fabrics. Stiff woollens, felts, and taffetas make people look larger. Also, dark colors and small prints are more flattering to stout women than bright colors or large, splashy prints.

Q. What is a good rule to follow in the selection of one's correct shade of mascara?

A. A good many of the beauties I know wear their mascara a shade darker than the color of their hair. This might work out for you.

Q. How can I exercise — not too strenuously — to help take fat off my abdomen?

A. Lie on floor on back with legs straight and arms resting on floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to the abdomen and grasp the knees with the hands. Stretch out, returning arms and legs to floor at same time. Stretch out against floor, making yourself as long as possible before repeating the exercise.

Q. Please suggest something to help remove warts from the hands.

A. You can try washing the hands well in a solution of washing soda and water. Allow to dry without wiping. Castor oil, rubbed on the warts, is effective sometimes, too.

Q. Is there an after-shampoo rinse that will help to keep blonde hair light looking?

A. One such treatment consists of the well-beaten yolk of a fresh egg added to a cup of cool water. After rinsing the hair of all shampoo, pour this mixture over it, rubbing well into the scalp and on the hair. Then rinse off.

Q. I've noticed signs of crepiness in the skin of my neck. What can I do about this?

A. You can give this skin lots of massage with oil or rich-cream anointments. It is also beneficial to give this area treatments with a complexion brush coated with soapsuds, which will stimulate the bloodstream and add some life and health to the skin.

Q. What makeup technique will have the effect of making over-prominent eyes?

A. Your eyes will seem to recede if you use brown or gray eyeshadow over the entire lid, beginning with a thin line near the lashes and spreading up.

Q. Please mention some special points a girl should observe in her makeup routine.

A. Ask yourself these questions: Is my hair clean, carefully combed? Are my eyebrows shaped (never thinned to a ridiculous line) correctly, and have I added just the right amount of accent color to my brows, lashes, lids? Is my face clean, with a smooth over-all foundation and dusting of powder, in natural tints that match my skin? Are my lips rouged carefully, with clean corners, and edges, and are they blotted to avoid that gooey look? Did I remember my under-chin, my neck, my throat? Do I always cream them as carefully as my face, carry the makeup down to the shoulder line?

Q. How can I remove some egg stains from one of my unwashable dresses?

A. After the stain has dried, scrape off as much of it as possible with a dull knife, then work on the remains with some cleaning fluid.

To the pan gravy of braised veal chops add cream (sweet or sour) and diced cucumbers; spoon over chops.

Too Many Unions Aim To Benefit Leaders, Rather Than Members

The Ohio River separates many towns and communities along its route but, right now, an interesting story is unfolding along itself on the banks of the Ohio, where it separates the towns of Weirton and Steubenville, W. Va. That story is one with which every American, large or small, should become well acquainted.

In Weirton, Donald Anderson, a 31-year-old steel mill crane operator works each day in a strip steel shop and earns $125 a week. Across the river, another steel man, Clarence Wallace, age 40, draws $125 a week when he is working in Steubenville but at the moment he is ungainfully employed on a picket line in the big USW strike.

The difference, in our opinion, rests upon the fact that Mr. Anderson belongs to a local union, maintained and operated for the workers, by the workers. Mr. Wallace belongs to USW, which is controlled on national levels by high-powered union leaders. The Independent Steel Worker's Union at Weirton, for one thing, requires a majority vote before a strike can be called—but they have never seen the necessity for even calling for such a vote. Grievances occur, of course, but they are handled through representatives of the local union who meet and talk things over with management. The independent union also reports 90% more voting turnout for elections.

An open hearth worker at Weirton pretty well summed up the situation this week when, smoke rolling from the stacks of the Weirton mill behind him, said:

"My brother works at Steubenville and belongs to the Steelworkers. He's been on strike six times since the end of the war, and every time he is out he winds up coming around to borrow money so his kids can eat. My home is paid for now while he's still renting. I guess that shows the difference between our independent union and his union."

We might go a step further and add that it shows the difference between unions operated by the workers, for the workers, and those which are operated by national leaders who, it often seems, do not always have—the welfare of their members at heart. We are not familiar with the USW leaders, but so long as James Hoffa and people of his stripe dictate to the Teamsters, it seems to us that the union worker is bound to find himself continually on the short end of any bargain.

The American way of life certainly has a place for and needs unions. Without them, things would be sad indeed. The time has come, however, when the American people are getting "fed up" with union gangsters, terrorists and racketeers. It has been said before, but never at a more opportune time, our unions must clean house if they expect to continue to exist and flourish.

Printing News Is Our Obligation

During the past few days, The Brand has been criticized from several sources for printing crime news. And, let us point out, most of this criticism stems from persons not personally involved, or included in the charges, which is the phase of the situation that causes us most concern.

Frankly, the printing of this type news is one of the more unpleasant tasks involved in the newspaper business—and we wish that none of these occasions would ever occur. On the other hand, we feel that the sole excuse for existence of a newspaper is that of printing the news, and we are old fashioned enough to believe that we have this obligation to our readers, who buy our newspaper on faith that we will print the news.

In keeping with this policy, we have twice carried stories about members of our own organization. First, several years ago when some of our printers were arrested on counterfeiting charges, and last year when one of our photographers was charged with photographing a minor in questionable poses.

Having been on both sides of the fence, we realize full implication of the results. This includes DWI charges, which cause most of our headaches, as well as the more spectacular events. In addition, we have several times carried news items about erring policemen, including one officer who stole from the city parking meters. To us, the only practical solution rests in printing the news, regardless of who is involved—and we have pursued this policy to the best of our ability.

It is not our object to be sensational or dramatic and, last of all, would we ever select some individual and "pick" on him or her. Such action would probably be worse than not printing the news at all.

However, we still feel that a newspaper which prints only part of the news is a poor excuse to bear the name. It has also taken its first step toward a government-controlled and dominated press, similar to that found in many parts of the world today.

We wish that none of these occasions would ever again occur, but we know from experience that they will happen—and that some of our friends will suffer. Meanwhile, to us, there seems to be only one course open. That course is to continue to print the news, as it happens, as accurately and thoroughly as our ability will permit.

Do Adults Create All Delinquency?

The term, "Delinquency," got a thorough going over Wednesday, when Bob Wear, former Hereford minister, now of Canyon, spoke before the Hereford Lions Club.

"The word, 'Juvenile,' should never be connected with delinquency," declared the minister, "because it is the adults—not the juveniles—who create the situation."

In this regard, Wear pointed out that obscene literature, pictures, TV programs, alcoholic beverages and other contributing factors to delinquency are the products of adults, and never the product of juveniles. He also struck hard against the "dual-standard" of most adults, who generally feel that children should do as they are told and not as the adults do.

Cures for the situation, he said, are to be found in the form of understanding parents in homes where our boys and girls will find love and guidance; schools where the teachers will have and find time to help all students, and not the few with higher intelligence quotas; churches and communities which, likewise, will follow through in helping instill principles taught in the home and school.

Mr. Wear certainly presents a side which many of us ignore. The one flaw, perhaps, rests in the fact that we parents of 1959 might pass our shortcomings (by the same argument) back to our own parents—or lay them at the door of the "Roaring Twenties" in which many of today's parents learned lawlessness during the prohibition era.

All of us know of cases where wholesome homes and substantial parents find themselves unable to control their children, regardless of how much time is spent with them. Generally speaking, however, his argument produces one of those "shoes which will fit many people" and, without question, we agree with his overall thought that people who criticize our juveniles would get much further by setting these same boys and girls an example through leading a law-abiding, Christian life themselves.

Census Figures Due For 1960

Annexation of another area in the West-haven Addition by the city this week brings up the old question, "How big is Hereford?"

Fortunately, the answer is one which will be revealed in 1960, when the census bureau will tabulate and release population figures.

Current estimates on Hereford population now vary from 7,000 to 15,000 with

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Bradie

Max Conrad made headlines recently when at the age of 56 he broke records by flying a light plane non-stop from Casablanca to Los Angeles. There was considerable stir about his remarkable feat but few knew of the greater obstacle Conrad had surmounted, through determination and faith.

I visited this grandfather, an old time stunt flier and the father of ten children, in his San Francisco home. His soft blue eyes and warm smile gave no indication that 30 years ago he lost his speech and memory as the result of a head injury.

That did not stop him. A gifted athlete, he drove himself to recovery with such firmness of purpose that he became an American entry in the 1932 Olympics high jumps. Conrad was a barnstormer who engaged in many spectacular flights and who has ferried planes across the Atlantic scores of times. Yet he did not recover completely until recent years from his injury.

In the lonely flights at night, over a period of two years, he composed the words and music for The Flyer's Rosary. It goes like this—

By night on swift enchanted wings I fly,
Bright stars above become my Rosary;
Each star a lonely prayer which bids me try
To live in Faith and Hope and Charity.

Cattle Often Used To Put Out Grass Fires

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

It Passed Acid Test; Festival Was Success

What did you like most about the Harvest Festival? Would you like to see it repeated next year? What changes do you think should be made?

MRS. EUGENE NAUGLE—I thought the Harvest Festival was very good for the first time. I especially liked the exhibits in the Bull Barn and the parade. I expect the festival to be even better next year.

RICHARD PARKER—The rodeo was the only thing I saw in the Harvest Festival and I liked it very well.

BARBARA WILLIS—I thought the carnival was a lot of fun. I enjoyed it more than anything else. I'd like to see the festival repeated next year just like it was this year.

MRS. L. A. WALL—I didn't see all the Harvest Festival, but what I saw of it was very nice. I know that the Rotary and Kiwanians worked very hard on the barbecue because I heard them talking about it. I know the man personally who was in charge of the barbecue and he does a good job. All the reports I have heard about the festival say that it was excellent and I think that I would like to see it repeated next year just like it was this year.

MRS. FRANCIS HARDWICK—I liked the parade best of all in the Harvest Festival. I thought it was unusual, because Hereford has not had a parade in some time. On the whole, I thought it was very nice.

J. R. DANIEL—I didn't get to see much besides the business displays, which I liked fine.

MRS. A. H. DAVIS—I thought the parade and the pioneer meeting were both very good. I think for the most part the festival can be repeated as it is, but I would like to see the pioneer meeting earlier.

an average of something like 8,500, which is still quite an increase over the 5,207 recorded in the 1950 head count.

Of greater importance than the population of Hereford, however, will be that of Deaf Smith County, which in 1950 was recorded at 9,111. While most rural areas and agricultural counties have shown population declines during the past 10 years, it is possible that Deaf Smith County population—only 3,904 when you subtract the Hereford count—may have increased due to irrigation development in the area.

The fifth largest county in Texas, Deaf Smith is one of the sparsest in population, especially when you consider advantages afforded the residents. To say the least, the county population is not expected to decrease, chiefly because this area, never had the population to lose.

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

Seventy-two years—whew! That is a long time, almost a century, and it is two more years than the Lord gave man to live. But it was 72 years ago, Aug. 31, 1887, that Mrs. Minnie Walker came to the Staked Plains to live and for 61 of those years lived in or near Hereford.

She now lives in Las Vegas, N. M., but Hereford is still home to her. There were no Indians or Buffalo; they had been hunted down to a very small number indeed. The Indians had been sent to reservations. Hereford had not been heard of, no railroads, schools, just a vast plain covered with waving grasses and a horizon so distant that it defied the human eye to look further.

Its vastness awed you and the wide-open spaces were before you in such a way that one could hardly believe what one could see. It was a veritable paradise for the cattleman, with its lakes and succulent grasses.

"Amarillo why it was just a flat place on the prairie," said Mrs. Walker. "Yes there were coyotes and many lobo wolves to prey on the cattle. The coyotes were dirty, sneaky animals, but the lobos were bold and fearless and did not fear attacking cows, even though they had a healthy respect for their horns."

"Coyotes would not attack a grown animal, but if they could lure a calf away from its mother (Continued on page 6)

REVISED FREIGHT SERVICE OFFERED

The Santa Fe Trail Transportation Company, effective Wednesday, revised its freight schedules to provide overnight service from Dallas and Fort Worth to Levelland, Littlefield, Muleshoe and Morton. This expedited service replaces second morning service previously in effect. It is brought about by revision of schedules to provide for a morning departure out of Lubbock, making connection with the freight schedules arriving from Dallas and Fort Worth. One schedule operates from Lubbock to Muleshoe via Littlefield and another schedule operates from Lubbock to Levelland to provide overnight service from Dallas and Fort Worth into Morton. The Santa Fe trucking operation will continue overnight service to these points from Amarillo and Lubbock as it has in the past. Also, second day arrival moving via Santa Fe Trails all the way from Houston has been in effect in the past. —LAMB COUNTY LEADER (Littlefield)

COUNTY DRAWS NEW OIL TEST

It was announced here Wednesday that Bailey Co. will get another wildcat well in the south central part of the county, to test the San Andres formation. The Big Spring Exploration, Inc., staked a 4,900-foot San Andres wildcat No. 1 G. P. Howell's 1200-ft east offset to the same operator's No. 1 and Mrs. G. P. Howell's current active wildcat which is clearing location. The new location is 2.5 miles southeast of a 5,016-foot failure, the only nearby dry hole, and about nine miles north of San Andres production. —MULESHOE JOURNAL

OLTON BATTLES MOSQUITO PLAGUE

City Health Officer B. J. Souders and Water and Sanitation Superintendent Forrest Davis this week joined in a plea for people to eradicate mosquito breeding places. Dr. Souders said that stagnant water where air conditioner hoses have been allowed to drain without frequent moving is one of the worst offenders. He also pointed to weeds, tin cans and other such refuse as favorite mosquito haunts. Dr. Souders said Lockney has had several cases of encephalitis, and closer to home, Hart has had one case. He said mosquitoes are known carriers of this dread disease, sometimes known as sleeping sickness. Mr. Davis called on Olton folks not to waste water. He said the city now is using about 1,200,000 gallons a day. He said the city is making every effort to bring mosquitos under control. He said the town is being fogged with mosquito spray three times a week. He advised Olton folks to cut the weeds on their property. "The city is trying to cut all the weeds possible," he stated. Davis said the mosquito fogger is running through alleys. An attachment is being added to the spraying machine for the purpose of disinfecting garbage cans. "This will cut down on the flies," Davis declared. The city took over garbage collection chores this week. Garbage formerly had been collected here by Guy Ashley. Davis said garbage collection should get on a regular schedule in the near future. —OLTON ENTERPRISE

DAM DEVELOPMENT STUDIED

Early construction of a smaller reservoir on the Canadian River is now under study by directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. At a meeting in Plainville this week, the water authority's attorney, Bryce Hugenin of Dallas, suggested that the dam at Sanford be partially constructed "soon" instead of waiting until the tangled affairs of the larger structure can be straightened out. The interim measure would produce a dam large enough to impound a sizeable lake, but not as large as ultimately proposed. This would give the authority a chance to see just how much recreational value would be included in the long-proposed project, plus a number of additional benefits, Hugenin said. —MOORE COUNTY NEWS (Dumas)

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm seems to be defending himself this week, which is a pretty good sized job.

Dear editor: A man stopped by my place out here yesterday, said he was in a big hurry, had to get back to work, but took long enough to say he didn't approve of my letter to you last week, said I was defending laziness.

"Trouble with the world now is it's got too many lazy people in it," he said, and hurried off to work.

Well, it may be that the trouble with the world today is it's got too many lazy people in it, but this is the first time I knew the hydrogen bomb was built by lazy people. Or guided missiles. Or bacteriological warfare.

Now I'm not saying everybody ought to be lazy, every time I turn on an electric light bulb I'm thankful. Thomas Edison wasn't lazy, although it'd suit me if the light company was a little lazier about reading the meter, but on the other hand some of the world's greatest mischief has been caused by busy people. How much further along would the world be today if Hitler had been a lazy man?

It all depends on what a man's busy at. I guess one of the busiest men I've ever read about was that burglar they arrested in California the other day who averaged breaking into a home six nights a week for two years in twenty states.

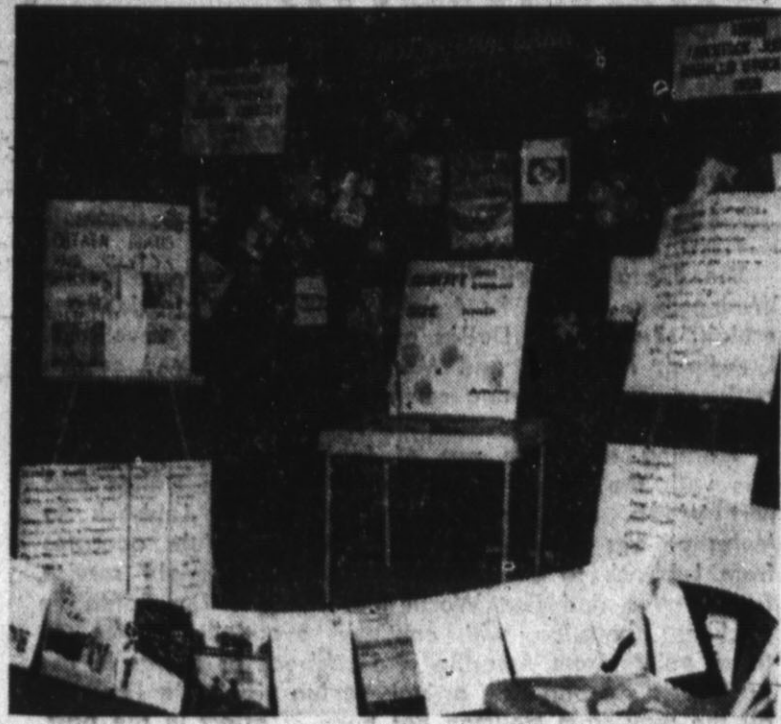

My position is, and understand I'm not defending it, is that if a man feels like keeping busy, he ought to, and if he feels like loafing, he ought to, if he can get by with it.

When Edison perfected the light bulb, I don't figure he objected to a man's switching it on and opening up a newspaper and sitting back and enjoying himself under it. You're not going to catch me getting so busy I don't have time to enjoy the results of some other man's work. It wouldn't be fair to him.

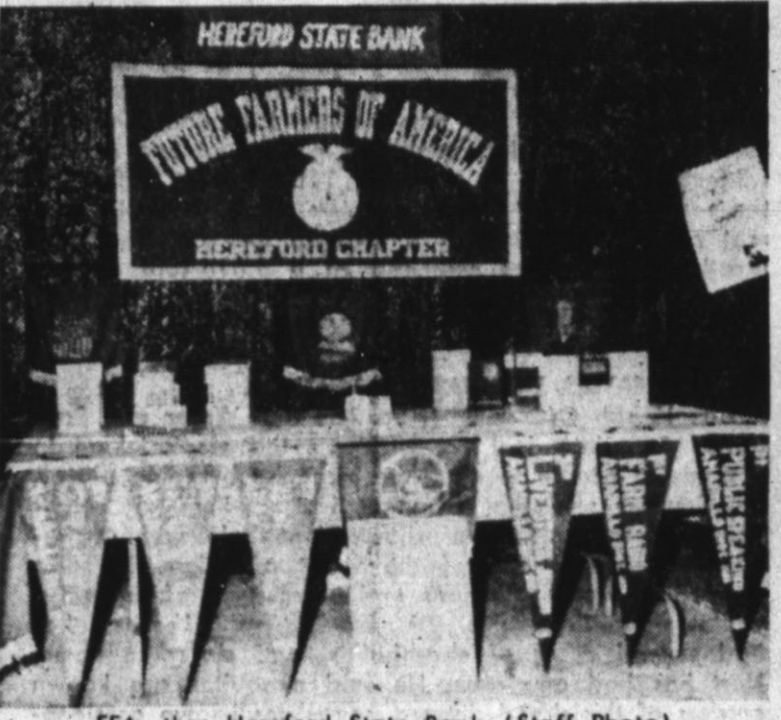

I guess I could find out the news of this part of the country by getting out and digging it up, but it's a whole lot better to sit back and let you and The Brand dig it up for me. And I have a notion you prefer it this way, too.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By Charlie Seeds
He was a man of peace. A skinny little man, with thin legs that stuck out below his white robe, he had almost the look of a comic figure. But he was one of the world's great leaders. More than any other man, he was responsible for bringing political freedom to 400,000,000 people. This was India's Mohandas Gandhi.

He was a man who had devoted his life to the principle of non-violence. And then, when at last the free India of which he had dreamed was a reality, he was suddenly struck down by an assassin's bullet, as he was strolling through a garden en route to the place where he conducted a daily prayer meeting.

The entire world was shocked by the news of Mahatma Gandhi's murder. For this strange man of peace had radiated a spiritual force which was felt throughout the world by men of all races and all creeds. Remember when the assassin's bullet struck down this man of peace?

Remember the year? America was in a post-war boom that year. Cars were once more rolling off the assembly line in large numbers... but it was still hard to get delivery, and you didn't have much chance of picking your favorite model. The year was 1948.

Cronin Receives Research Post

J. T. Cronin Jr. has been extended a research assistantship at Texas A&M College. He will be an assistant to Dr. Frederick H. Kasten, assistant professor of zoology at A&M College, whose research has been supported by the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Cancer Institute.

Dr. Kasten has discovered new methods of staining a certain chemical found within the nucleus of a body cell without staining the rest of the cell which may bring about the earlier detection of cancer, and much of Cronin's work will be done in cancer research.

Cronin who is the son of Mrs. Hazel Bruner, is a graduate of Hereford High School and of Hardin-Simmons University. He attended Lincoln Laboratories of Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston and studied to compile and write programs for electronic computers. His present plans also include making use of a new IBM computer at A&M to analyze data connected with cancer research.

For the past several months he has served as an assistant instructor in biology while doing work on a master's degree at Texas Technological College.

He was married to Miss Marlene Allred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Allred, in 1957 and the couple now have a two weeks old son, J. T. Cronin III, whom they call Tommy.

They plan to remain in Hereford until the latter part of August when they will move to Bryan where he will bring his work in research, and his studies as a graduate student at Texas A&M College.

CAMPUS RELIGION
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two University of Michigan religious leaders have concluded that the widely heralded religious revival has not touched college campuses much, if at all.

The Rev. J. Edgar Edwards, a campus minister, and C. Grey Austin, the university's assistant coordinator of religious affairs, said student church attendance has gone up slightly, but religion still is not a major integral factor of campus life at most universities.

COLLEGE MINISTERS
MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — Campus chaplains and pastors are no longer just "playmates to the teen-agers," but must maintain the "confidence of faculty and administration as well as students" and make sense to the academic world, says the Rev. D. M. Brown, a Disciples of Christ minister at Western Illinois University here.

The HEREFORD MEDICAL & SURGICAL CLINIC

Wishes to announce a new policy on telephone calls to doctors.

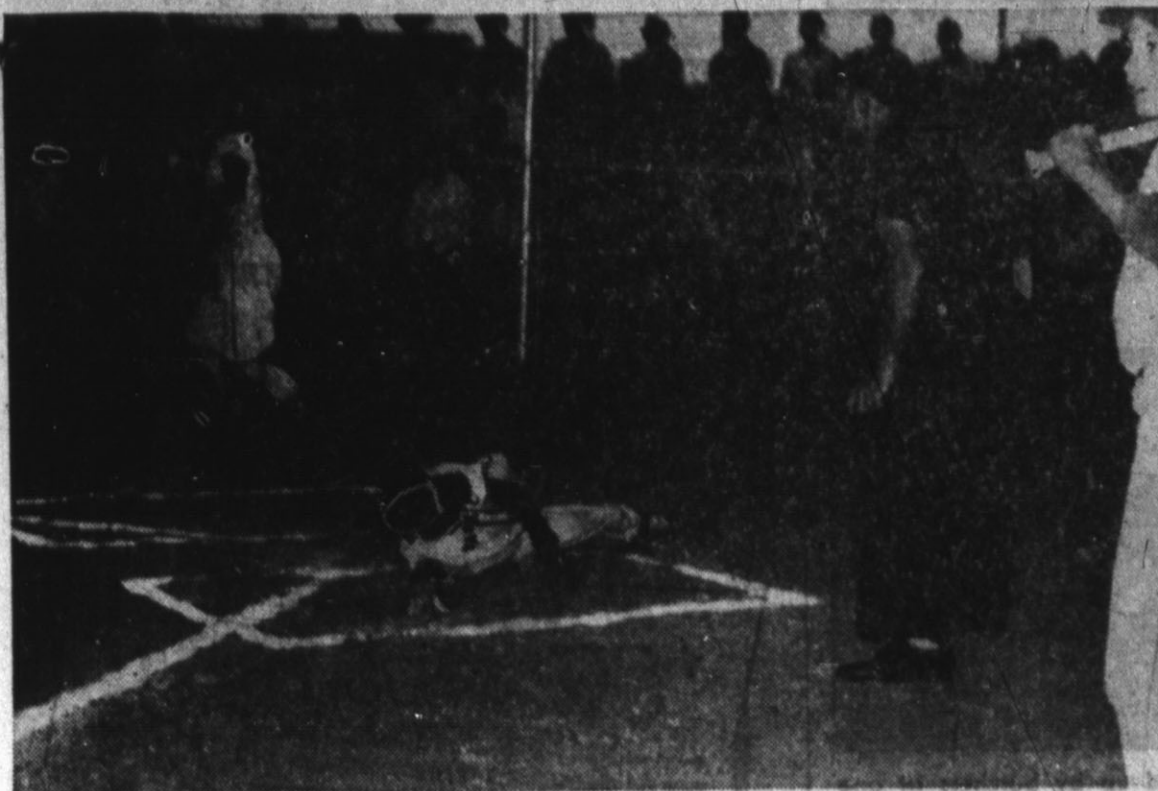

Emergency or urgent calls to the doctors will be placed through IMMEDIATELY.

Callers with routine questions or non-urgent business will be asked to leave their numbers for the doctor to return their calls.

The purpose of this plan is to prevent as much as possible your visit to your doctor being interrupted by non-urgent telephone conversations. Your health needs can be served better if your doctor can devote as much as possible of your visit-time to you.

If it is necessary to speak to your doctor immediately, just tell the receptionist the call is URGENT, and you will be connected to your doctor without delay and without further question. If the nature of your business doesn't require immediate attention, then just ask that you be placed on the call-list, which your doctor will clear at regularly-scheduled hours.

Your cooperation with this plan will help provide better medical care for all our patients, by reducing time-consuming interruptions to the doctor-patient visit.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clarify and remove sediment from the fat derived from gravy?

A. Let the fat cool, then pour it into a container of hot water and place it in the refrigerator. When the fat which collects on top of the water gets hard, break a hole through it and pour out the water. The sediment will come with it.

Q. How can I keep a throw rug from slipping?

A. Try cutting a piece of oil-cloth to the exact size of your rug and placing this under the rug with the glazed side down.

Q. How can I loosen a bandage that has stuck to a wound?

A. By moistening it with peroxide of hydrogen.

Q. How can I renovate sugar that has hardened in a can or sugar sack?

A. Place the sugar in a covered container with either a piece of moist bread or a piece of fresh apple, and let it stand for several days. This will work for either brown or white sugar.

Q. How can I make a nicotine solution to destroy plant lice?

A. One-half pound of tobacco is steeped in boiling water and then diluted to 7½ gallons. This solution is used by spraying for the control of plant lice.

Q. How can I avoid any danger of sour odors in vacuum bottles?

A. By filling them with cold water, and adding one-half teaspoonful of baking soda.

Q. What is a good sunburn preventive?

A. Vinegar mixed with water, and applied to the face, neck, and arms before going out to your garden or to the playground will usually baffle old man sun.

Q. How can I improvise some sour cream when I don't have any on hand for a particular recipe?

A. You can make a good imitation sour cream by beating a tablespoonful of vinegar with a cup of evaporated milk.

Q. How can I sharpen the sewing machine needle?

A. Stitch for several inches through a piece of fine sandpaper.

Q. What is a good mosquito-repellent for outdoor campers?

A. Creosote is one of the best for keeping mosquitoes away from the quarters of your summer camp. If you are sleeping outdoors, smear one side of pieces of paper with the creosote, tack them to the legs of the cots, and place a piece near your head. A few pieces of the paper hung about the inside of your tent or cottage will also help.

... dishwashing done in half the time - ELECTRICALLY!

Yes, it has been proven - by tests at Ohio State University - that an electric dishwasher does the job in half the time. And they didn't just do the dishes once - but for 30 days.

That's just one reason electric dishwashing makes sense. Some others are the fact that the dishes are out of sight - in the dishwasher - between loads - your hands stay lovelier - and so do your dishes - and the kids want to help with the dishes because the dishwasher makes it all so easy.

So, don't be a dishwasher - buy one.

ATTENTION, HUSBANDS

Your wife will spend less time in the kitchen and be twice as happy with you for just 1 1/2¢ a day. That's Reddy's daily wage for electric dishwashing.

er or cow standing guard, they would circle it and then dart in for the kill or chase it and chew off its tail before the mother cow heard its frantic bellowing and came to its rescue.

"One of the T-Anchor men found a brown spotted cow with father's brand upon it. He drove it over and penned it for us. For awhile at least we had a quart of milk a day and a little butter.

"Cowboys hated milk cows and would not milk, but they loved butter as much as anyone. I had to milk the cow and one morning the calf was missing and I was sent to find it. It took awhile, but I found it about half a mile from home, or what was left of it. The coyotes had chased it in a circle making a path that was plain for anyone to read. How I hated coyotes after that experience.

"Once when father and my brother went to Colorado City for supplies mother prepared our noon meal and told us that was all the food we had in the house. I told her I would ride to a line camp on the T-Anchor and get food, but before we set down our meal a cowboy rode in and shared it with us.

"When learned that we were without food, the T-Anchor sent us a quarter of beef and the LX chuck wagon camped near us and they sent us a quarter of beef also. We were happy as kings.

"Once in a while a skunk would deal us a lot of misery and most old timers can tell you a skunk tale or two.

"My mother kept a small brass lamp on a chair near her bed for light in an emergency. One night she called me and said she heard a skunk scratching around. It went into the dugout and we chased it out, but the odor kept us awake most of the night. If we had left it alone, it probably would have gone away without any trouble, then it might have gotten on the bed with the smaller children and bitten one of them.

"It is an old saying that all skunks have rabies. At any rate we were more afraid of his bite than of his scent, revolting as it was.

"Prairie fires were greatly feared and the Plains were criss-crossed with fire guards. These were plowed along fence lines where there were fences. The cowboys would soak an old rope in kerosene, light one end, mount their horses and run down the open furrow to light the grass to burn the guard or to set a back fire.

"One year a fire burned in from New Mexico. All the men were out fighting fire with wet brooms and wet towels. I suppose the wind changed as one came in from the Palo Duro Canyon. The ranchers were losing the fight and resorted to the old trick of killing a two or three-year-old steer or a grown cow, splitting it and tying a rope on two legs. Two men on horses, one on either side of the blaze, would drag it along as fast as the horses could run. This helped, but of course if the wind was high the fire could easily outrun a horse and in this way thousands of acres of grass were destroyed. All cattlemen hated fires and drouths as each seemed to bring on the other.

"Some of our neighbors were the Carters on Frio Draw, the Thorpes from Canyon, the Deans from Palo Duro and the Harlans from Plainview. Later they went to California.

"All of these families were large and we would go to dances at the old T-Anchor headquarters. We also had picnics at Big Springs, some ten miles east of Hereford. I do not know if these springs are still running or not. The old T-Anchor headquarters house is preserved west of Canyon.

"There were plenty of rattlesnakes and we would see them often, but a lot of the time we had nothing to kill them with and would let them go their way.

"The cowboys would kill them with a doubled rope. People often ask if I have ever seen men kill each other. The answer is no; cowboys did not carry pistols, or rifles either. They were all good natured, peaceable citizens.

"When the courthouse in Amarillo was completed, they gave a big ball. Cal Walker (my future husband) asked me if I would like to go to the ball, and of course I was all excited about it. He said he would rent a hack and would take my sister and I. This was sometime before the grand night.

"Days passed and I did not hear from him. Then Louis Bradley and Emmet Powers came by and wanted to know if we wanted to go. It did not take us long to decide to go with them as we surely did not want to miss it. We went to the T-Anchor headquarters for dinner and then went on into Amarillo.

"We arrived in Amarillo around five o'clock and could hardly wait for the dance to begin as the band was from Trinidad, Colo., and we had heard what wonderful music they made. We marched at first, but later waltzed, stottched and square danced. We danced almost all night and left for the hotel to catch a few winks of sleep before beginning the long ride home.

"The hotel was full. They made us a bed in the hotel parlor with a heavy curtain between the parlor and the saloon. While we were preparing for bed, two men fell against the curtain and on to the bed where we were to sleep.

"We repacked our things and started for home. We were young and did not mind at all as we had had a wonderful time. Oh yes! A few days later I had a card from Cal saying they could not go. Then we were very glad we had gone on as it was something to remember.

"We got our mail at old Tascosa, but we never went for it as we knew the cowboys would pass it along until eventually it would reach us. I did not see Tascosa for many years, but I did ride through there many years later.

"At one time I lived just across the street from Mrs. Beach. This was during my children's school days and I often did Red Cross work during World War I with Mrs. Galley.

"I had always ridden horseback and was never afraid of horses. One day I planned to ride to Mrs. Galley's to do Red Cross work. I mounted the horse and he tried to buck, but I held his head so high he could not. Finally I reined him into the plowed ground and was getting him under control when my son came up. He had seen the horse trying to buck and knew he would run away with me and had hurried to help me. I never rode that horse again as my husband said he was not safe.

"Hereford still seems home to me and I have enjoyed the Pioneer Day so much and visiting with my friends. My family said I was too frail, but I was determined that I would make it one more time.

"I was looking forward to seeing my old friends, but found so few of them left it has been sad.

"That, I suppose, is one of the penalties of old age. You have outlived all your friends and most of your family, and it makes it very lonely," she concluded, "very lonely indeed."
