Cherry Tiefel, Dickie Aven Win Bike Decoration Honors

Flags, crepe paper, animals and flowers were among the many items used by more than 60 children who entered the Optimist Club's bicycle decoration contest and parade in Hereford Saturday morning.

Cherry Tiefel and Dickie Aven won first place in the senior and junior divisions.

The 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tiefel, 124 Avenue J, Cherry had her bike decorated with real flowers, including lilacs and orchids. Penny Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, won second in the senior division, and Bill Coffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coffin Jr., placed third in the senior judging.

Dickie Aven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilrey Aven, 135 Avenue J, completed the sweep for Avenue J with his win in the junior division. Oren Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Davis, won second in the juniors and Raymond Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fletcher, won third.

Prizes were cash awards of $5, $3 and $2 for each division. Following the 8 a. m. judging session at the Community Center, a police escort led the contestants on a brief, colorful parade down Main Street. This was followed by free shows for children at the Star Theatre Saturday morning.

The decoration contest and parade climaxed a Bicycle Safety Week, sponsored by the Hereford Optimist Club. Monday through Thursday, the club conducted safety inspections at all Hereford schools, making minor adjustments, conducting safe-riding tests and awarding Scotch-lite safety emblems on bikes.

Optimists distributed more than 2,500 tickets for Saturday's free movies.

Around Town

City officials would like to get something straight in regard to their "get-tough" policy on dogs. They emphasize that all dogs running loose will be picked up, not just those without tags. City police handled about 50 dogs last week. As outlined in the city ordinance, the primary purpose of impounding dogs is to rid streets and neighborhoods of the strays. Required vaccination is to protect the public from a possible outbreak of rabies.

We looked up briefly and saw a most colorful sight as the Optimist Club's bike parade went whizzing by Saturday morning. Those youngsters had really worked on their decorations and looked extra nice for the occasion.

Hereford Art Guild will meet Monday, April 25, at 7:30 p. m. in the Community Center clubroom. Mrs. Clifton Corley will have charge of the program, which will be on the subject of "Translucent Techniques in Shadows, Water and Sky." Roll call will be answered by "Our Idea of Present Fashions."

About 175 persons attended the first teacher appreciation dinner at Aikman Elementary school Thursday night. Special guests were the school's teachers and staff. Dr. H. A. Cavness, master of ceremonies, pointed out that Aikman teachers had a total of more than 160 years teaching experience in the Hereford school system and more than

Bond Set For Theft Suspect

Bond for James Allen Short, 18, of Hereford, was set at $500 Saturday morning after he was charged with theft over $5 by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department. A male youngster, 16 years old, of Hereford also is in custody of county authorities in connection with the case.

The two youths were arrested by the Sheriff's Department, with cooperation of Hereford Police, Friday in connection with a series of gasoline thefts from farm tanks in this area during the past week, Sheriff Charles Skelton said.

Skelton said officers would probably make additional arrests as they continue investigation of reported thefts.

Thespians, Mixed Choir To Present 'Brigadoon'

Welcome Service For Newcomers Plan Changed

The "Newcomers Welcome Service" will resume in Hereford this week after a re-appraisal of the program by its sponsors.

Designed to give a warm welcome to new residents of the Hereford area, the program is being resumed under a temporary plan which excludes the gift certificates which had been given since the program started more than a year ago.

Only nine persons, past and present sponsors, showed up for a special meeting in the Jim Hill Hotel Thursday morning. After lengthy debate, they decided to continue the service on a temporary basis and attempt to work out a satisfactory permanent plan. (Continued on page 2)

Farmers Market Hit For $666 In Burglary

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department Saturday continued investigation of a burglary which was discovered Friday morning at Farmer's Market, west of Hereford on Highway 60.

Merchandise valued at $666.25 was taken from the market sometime between 9 p. m. Thursday at 7 a. m. Friday, according to investigating Deputy Sheriff Bill McCarver of Hereford.

Entry was gained through a screen which was cut open, McCarver said. The screen surrounds the market.

Items taken included $290 in cigarettes and cigars, several 50-pound sacks of flour, cases of soft drinks, coffee, clothing and various other articles and groceries. Groceries were scattered on the floor of the business, and there was some vandalism damage, McCarver said. McCarver investigated at 7:40 a. m. Friday, shortly after the market was opened for the day.

than 100 paintings from classes of children, adults and golden agers.

A meeting to work out details for a proposed corporation cattle feed lot will be held in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas on Tuesday, April 26, at 8 p. m. Palmer Norton and R. G. Peeler, who have been working on the plan, say they have about enough members signed up to go ahead with site location and building plans.

A number of local residents recently have received some letters from an autocratic bureaucrat answering their requests for additional sugar beet acreage for Texas. In fact, only the salutation is typed. The rest of the letter is mimeographed, which indicates that too many letters are being received to make individual answers. The letter says that increased allocations for Texas are most unlikely at this time. A copy of the rather dictatorial letter is in the Brand office, for those who are interested in reading it. The letter came from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Lawrence Myers.

Wednesday is going to be a busy day around the Chamber of Commerce office. At 7 a. m., the Harvest Festival committee will have a breakfast session. At noon, Hereford will host the state meeting of the U. S. Highway 60 Association, with a caravan forming to attend the national U. S. 60 meeting in Springerville, Arizona. And the Clean-Up committee will meet in the Chamber offices at 3 p. m.

At Springerville, Bill Thompson and Guy Lawrence will make major reports or talks as secretary and president, respectively, of the Texas Highway 60 group.

There will be a Boy Scout Roundtable meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the high school agriculture building.

Mt. Sinai Baptist Church will present a wedding, style show and spiritual singing on Friday, April 29, at 8:30 p. m. at the Parkview Elementary School. The public is invited to attend the program, which is being sponsored by the Baptist Training Union.

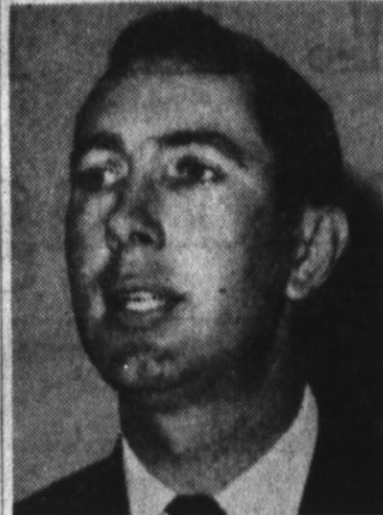

Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet Friday, April 29, at 3 p. m. in the First Baptist Church basement. Burney McClurkin, high school speech instructor, will direct the program from the high school speech and music department. Installation of officers will be held during the tea. Hostess clubs include: Summerfield Study Club, Farm and Ranch Club, Garden Beautiful Club and the West Hereford Home Demonstration Club.

We feel there will be a lot of interest when the County Commissioner meet Monday at 10 a. m. for a regular session. First item of business is expected to be the appointment of a County Clerk, who will serve until next January. The office will be filled at the November general election. There are a number of applicants for the post.

Hereford baseballers will play their second conference game Tuesday at Levelland. Game time is 4 p. m. Levelland was host to Dumas this week end in the Lobos' first conference contest while Hereford was idle.

"Brigadoon" starts a three-night run Thursday in the high school auditorium. Speech department and music department are combining their efforts for the annual spring production of a Broadway musical.

Howard Richey

Cancer Research Program Is Given

"Cancer: A Research Story" was title of a 30-minute color film shown at the noon meeting of Hereford Kiwanis Club Thursday in I. O. O. F. Hall.

The program was presented by Howard Richey, education director of the Deaf Smith County Cancer Society unit. The film, Cancer Society, and the speaker was introduced by Kiwanian Sam Morgan.

"Through research, one out of three persons afflicted with cancer can be saved today," Richey said. "That ratio could be one out of two through education."

Richey pointed out that cancer attacks more men than women — about a 56-44 ratio. He said no crusade is being carried on in the county this year, but that all efforts are being directed toward a county-wide educational program for residents. Guests at the meeting were Kiwanian J. L. Martin of the San Jacinto Club in Amarillo, Frank Schroeter and Lester Roberts of Lubbock and John Patton of Hereford.

He introduced Woodard Martin, sales department, and Ken Rainwater, advertising and public relations, of the Shamrock Corporation.

The film followed stages of producing oil at an unexplored site. One out of eight wells drilled, Wilmeth said, are "producers."

Program chairman was Dr. R. R. Willis, a Hereford Lion member.

AMMO-PHOS FERTILIZERS

ARE HIGHLY WATER SOLUBLE

Experiments prove that crops take up more phosphate from water soluble AMMO-PHOS fertilizers than from ordinary mixed fertilizers.

Let Us Demonstrate This Easy Test.

AMMO-PHOS fertilizers are highly water soluble and we can prove it by simply placing a small amount of AMMO-PHOS in water and placing the same amount of an ordinary fertilizer in another equal amount of water. You'll be able to see how water soluble AMMO-PHOS GOES INTO SOLUTION while the ordinary fertilizer collects at the bottom of the glass. You'll know then why AMMO-PHOS fertilizers give the quickest response to crops.

THREE-DAY MEETING

Visiting Rebekahs Feted During Convention Here

A large delegation of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are in Hereford for the three-day Panhandle Association Convention which began Friday. Registration began Friday afternoon for the 57th annual joint session with a banquet, followed by a dance featured as entertainment for both groups Friday night. Approximately 175 ladies were registered.

Home Appliances Subject Of Meet

Mrs. Joel Hodges gave members of La Plata Study Club a quick view of new developments and of things to come as they affect the home of the club's regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Frank Prowell Tuesday evening. Mrs. Clint Formby, president, conducted a brief business meeting.

In an imaginary letter to one of her former homemaking pupils, Mrs. Hodges told of changes in household appliances, food and clothing which would have been almost unbelievable little more than a generation ago. Still in the process of being perfected is electronic cooking at 'fantastic' speeds, dishwashers with their own cycles for washing items from the finest china to the grekiest pans, a combination refrigerator-oven, which at a set time would eject food from the refrigerator into the oven and from the oven to a storage compartment, where it would await serving time. (Continued on Page 2)

The welcoming committee was made of Mesdames A. N. Hopson, Ben Conklin and Nathan Hopson. Those in charge of registration were Mesdames James Vines, Henry Aycock, Jim Loving and Aubrey Rogers.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Patriarch Militants were in charge of the breakfast given for the ladies Saturday morning. White cloths laid the tables and the L.A.P.M. colors of purple and gold were emphasized in flower decorations. Mesdames Ben Conklin, Jim Loving, A. N. Hopson and A. R. Rogers served on the arrangement committee.

Members of the L.A.P.M. wore white uniforms and purple aprons bearing the L.A.P.M. emblem. A tea honoring the visiting ladies is scheduled for this afternoon. A white lace cloth over pink will cover the refreshment table, with yellow and gold spring flowers forming the centerpiece. Committee arranging the tea included Mesdames Henry Aycock, Ben Conklin, C. E. Altman, Addie Stallings, Kathleen Paul and Pauline Lovan.

Other committees included:

entertainment — Mrs. C. D. Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Elmer Combs, dance and program; publicity — Mesdames A. N. Hopson and James Vines; program — Mesdames Jim Loving, Ben Conklin and A. N. Hopson.

The degree work Saturday night highlighted activities for the three-day session. Teams from seven lodges competed for the coveted cup. Each team was allotted one hour to put on the complete initiation ceremony, striving for a perfect score of 1000.

Hereford's team was directed by Mrs. Jim Loving, team captain. Six judges were picked from the lodges not sending teams to take part in the degree work. (Continued on page 2)

Mrs. Greeson spoke on "Poetry in Music", saying, in part, "Music is the organization of sound into beauty, and each worthwhile piece of music must contain rhythm, melody, harmony, tone color and form. All these run in patterns and may be followed by the simple process of listening."

She analyzed "Trees", by Joyce Kilmer, and "Swanee River", by Stephen Foster.

Mrs. Hickman presented a program on "Sculpture", tracing its development through the ages — beginning with Egyptian art over 5,000 years ago. For illustration, she showed pictures of famous artists and some sculptured works.

Actually, in the testing stage are disposable paper garments for factory and other workers; which garments have been treated to withstand tearing and moisture.

One author envisioned the time when there would be no more dry - cleaners; a person would simply walk through a room, and his clothes would be cleaned electronically.

Mrs. Louis Woodford recalled a similar program she presented some 20 years ago, when her prediction that hose someday would be made from coal tar and air seemed fantastic, as did the prospect that freezing of foods would replace the then popular canning process.

Barbara Jacobs modeled a suit of taffeta and lace she had made in her Homemaking III class under Mrs. Prowell's direction. Mrs. Woodford concluded the program with the reading of "A Woman Gives Thanks", by Grace Noll Crowell. Members attending were Mesdames Leroy Aven, N. D. Bartlett Jr., Jack Brown, C.L. Chisholm, Clint Formby, Joel Hodges, Ansel McDowell, Elmer Patterson, Frank Prowell, A. J. Schroeter, Urlin Streu, Raymond White, Louis Woodford, J. M. Madison and Lloyd McGee.

By JIMMIE GILLENTE
Summer is definitely on the way. Already, the kids are talking about "when school is out", and a few early vacationers are beginning to trickle in for visits. Motels, food places and service station operators along Highway 60 say that they can begin to notice the difference.

It has been like Old Home Week around The Brand office. Gilbert Carlyle, former sports writer, is here to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lem Carlyle, and other relatives; Gilbert is now in the public relations department of Southwestern Life at Dallas. Harold and Mrs. Close spent several days in Hereford this week, and seemed to thoroughly enjoy renewing old acquaintances and talking over earlier experiences. Charley Hardwick, former Star Theatre manager, dropped in Thursday while attempting to locate his brother, Francis. Everyone, of course, is surprised at how much Hereford has grown, and how things have changed - even in the past six months.

Frank Ford was telling Lyle Blanton the other day what fine neighbors he (Frank) has, but admits they are sometimes a bit hard to keep up with. A week or so back, Frank dropped in to visit with Dan Guseman, only to discover that Dan was away from home at the time. Frank did the next best thing, leaving a note for Dan to get in touch with him. Several days passed, and no word from Guseman. Finally, Frank ran into Dan in town and immediately jumped him out for ignoring the message.

"Well, it looks like one of us needs to go back to school," replied Dan. "Either you need to learn how to write better, or I need to learn how to read better. I found that danged note all right, but I couldn't figure out a word of what it said."

And senool reminds me of a fine, wonderful lady who is to be honored Friday, May 6, in our neighboring community of Muleshoe. Her name is Effie Childress, and she plans to retire after 50 years of active teaching in Texas Public Schools. "Miss Effie" was my teacher in the second grade in Wellington. I thought she was the prettiest, smartest, finest lady in the world - and I still think I was about right. Miss Childress is the kind of teacher they write books about; she is a paragon in the profession, and I honestly believe has contributed more to preservation of our democracy, the expansion of knowledge, and to the welfare of mankind than any other person I have ever been privileged to know. Former students from all over the nation will gather in Muleshoe May 6 to pay tribute to Miss Effie, and I am sure there will be many from here, including Argen Draper, Home Demonstration Agent.

Organization isn't everything, but a little bit will sometimes do a world of good. Take Lowell Sharp, president, and Charley Scheetz, secretary, who met Tuesday morning for breakfast and a session with members of the Athletic Committee. Both arrived at 7 a. m. on the dot, but decided not to order until some of the other boys showed up. After waiting some 15 minutes, Lowell remarked:

"Those guys are always late, but not usually this bad"; then, as an afterthought, added, "You did call them, didn't you?"
"Me call them?" yelled Charley. "I though you called them!"
Whereupon our two heroes ordered ham and eggs and proceeded to make the best of a oaa situation.

If it seemed quiet around town Friday and Saturday, don't be alarmed. The situation was probably due to the fact that Lions Club members were attending the district convention in Borger, where Don Zimmerman closed out his year of service as district governor. The job included personally visiting of clubs officially, and Don made several of them more than once to help observe special occasions. Cee Menarg served as district secretary during the term, but says he didn't have so much traveling - thank goodness!

A lot of people back east still figure that folks out in these parts are strictly like the movies and TV Westerns, especially when it comes to things like piuming, art, music and coin collecting. A combination factory man and numismaust showed up in Umbarger last week with the idea that he would pick up a lot of rare coins during his vacation. Cecil Black told the visitor about the Hereford Coin Club, Ed Skypala and some of the other boys, along with the information that Amarillo has several exclusive coin dealers. The old boy gave it a whirl though, and finally headed back for New York definitely under the impression that pickings in this area were pretty slim on rare coins.

And just to prove that Texans also get off the beam once in a blue moon, Leo and Mrs. Forrest were once driving back from a telephone convention in Georgia and stopped in a Mississippi college town one morning for coffee. The only place they found open was the "College Cafe", which they presumed was probably the best, anyway. A fat Negro mammy fixed some instant coffee and they were doing fine except, several times, Negroes would come to the door, spot Mr. and Mrs. Forrest, mumble a bit and leave. The Forrests finished their coffee leisurely, got into their car and started off through the school campus, where they spot-

Great Musicians' Children Is Topic

Dawn Musettes met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Carl Wimberley, with Mrs. J.B. Caraway serving as assistant hostess.
"Children of Great Musicians" was discussed by Ann Gentry and Robert Galley. Among those discussed were Efreim Zimbalist Jr., star on television "Sunset Strip", who came from a famous musical family, and Walter Slezak, whose rather was a famous opera singer.

Jon David Miller told of the Vienna Boys Choir, which was begun 500 years ago and has performed all over the world.
Musical selections included "The Alamo" (Fox), sung by Robert Galley; "The Rainbow" (Mendelssohn), sung by Janice Galley; "Deep River", piano, played by Ann Gentry; and a song, "Home on the Range", sung by Robert Caraway. Group singing of Texas songs completed the program.

During the business session, reports from the Texas Music Club Convention held recently in Lubbock, were heard and officers elected for the coming year were Darotha Stewart, president; Ann Gentry, vice - president; Jon David Miller, secretary; and Robert Caraway, treasurer.

Others attending were Beverly Betzer, Alice Ann Caraway, Dion Miller, Glenn Polar, Pryris Richardson, Budlie and Douglas May.
The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Newsom May 5.

HAPPY AS IS HOLLYWOOD — Charles Brackett is a movie writer and producer who likes peanut butter soup.

He also likes working for the major film studios and can't see the merits of joining smaller, independent organizations now popular in movie town.

The recipes for both soup and Hollywood appear successful. Friends rave about the unlikely sounding broth Brackett brews, and five Oscars attest to his motion picture abilities.

Brackett considers "Sunset Boulevard" his best effort, although there have been other outstanding ones such as "The Lost Weekend," and "Ninotchka."

THE TOY TRAIN SPECIAL

PORTLAND, Maine — Robert G. Basbas, manager of a radio service laboratory, was faced with the costly problem of improving his firm's office efficiency. He found an inexpensive solution in his son's toy box.

Basbas considered pneumatic tubes or a cable system too expensive for conveying shipping orders, bills and other inter-office papers between departments.

So he installed a model electric train that runs from the back shop to the front office through stock rooms and the ladies room, hauling the business of the day.

Gap Between Broadway, Concert Music Too Wide, Allers Argues

KNOW BOTH SIDES: Franz Allers, shown here working in his studio, says there's too great a gap between the music of Broadway and the concert stage.

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK — "The gap between the music of the Broadway theater and the long-hair concert hall," said Franz Allers, "is much bigger than it should be."

It's a subject close to Allers' heart, and who could be better informed? He has worked both sides of the fence. For "My Fair Lady's" full four years he has been conductor of that fantastically successful musical, and yet his entire background is long hair.

Czech-born Allers may be, as he says "a happy guy," and indeed he acts it when he talks, but he is also a dedicated one. And he worries about several gaps, not only between popular and classical but also, for instance, between the entire contemporary audience and contemporary music all across the board.

He attended a New York City Ballet performance recently, and recalled what fresh new music was played for those dancers and that audience, and how naturally it was accepted.

"Maybe the ballet audience is a younger one," he conceded, "he used to conduct Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. "And that younger audience is ready to be entertained artistically rather than just entertained, period."

"Every now and then you realize there is a receptive modern audience out there somewhere. Consider Aaron Copland, Arthur Honegger and Virgil Thomson, among other contemporaries, who have written for the movies. The movies were successes, and not in spite of the modern compositions, either."

"And it isn't only the Broadway audience that does not get contemporary music. Our representative operatic stage, the Metropolitan, is just as far behind. Alban Berg's 'Wozzeck' was more than a quarter century old before Met audiences heard it. Stravinsky's 'Rake's Progress' didn't sell after two or three performances. You can't blame management for this. The distance between what eight times a week regularly. I do TV and opera, and symphony; I have had three conducting tours in Germany in the last four years. I get away here to other assignments with American orchestras. Thus I make myself useful, which is what I really want."

Is it trying to conduct the same thing so much so long? "There is no hackneyed piece of music," he replied. "There is only a hackneyed performance. Consider a cellist; with his small repertoire he must have played any one of several pieces more times than I've conducted this musical. Does he sound tired? Neither does the 'Fair Lady' company."

I agreed — the choruses were lively, the orchestra alert, and everybody on his toes.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of my gang," said Allers. "Some of the first chairs are occupied by men from leading symphony orchestras. We rehearse every week. We experiment with new effects, but carefully, for the danger is that we become mannered. We are busy fitting a new man, Michael Allinson, into the role of Henry Higgins, the male lead, and fitting the company to him."

"Of course, there is one problem that a conductor doesn't have on a concert platform. Here my 30 musicians are strung out in a thin line all across the front of the theater. The men over on the right would like to hear what the men over on the left are playing, but they can't. So I have to give them a very clear beat. They respond, too. They play against each other, with the same in-the public was brought up on and what the modernist composers want to give it this minute is too great.

"It's the same in modern art. Modernism is not questioned at all in functional design, but put on an exhibition of modern art and the audience is only a small fraction of the countless people who never recoil from the same design principles applied to a vacuum cleaner or a stove.

"It's a matter of money. The main, primary gap is due to the economics of the theater, to the incredibly rising costs. All entertainment is geared to the long run, to the big audience."

Allers paused suddenly — was he being too controversial, he wondered in alarm. At least it wouldn't be controversial, he said, to report how much he enjoyed conducting "My Fair Lady" and in general the other works of the team of Alap Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe: "The Day Before Spring," "Brigadoon" and "Paint Your Wagon." He may be going to Russia with the present company's tour. He anticipates with the greatest pleasure conducting the new Lerner-Loewe musical in the works, from T. H. White's "The Once and Future King." "Yes, I would like to have my own symphony," he acknowledged. "But I can live happily with my life as it is. I conduct

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

Many things happened that year. Roosevelt was inaugurated for the first time, and in his Inauguration Day address he told a nation gripped by depression that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself!"

Prohibition ended that same year, and the day of the speakeasy was over. The N. R. A. was born, but the headlines continued to grow.

Over in Europe a man named Hitler was in the news, leaping to greater prominence in Germany. And from that same land came a stream of refugees, crossing the ocean to the land of freedom. One of those refugees was a mild, middle-aged man with a striking spray of white hair. He settled in New Jersey, at Princeton.

He was a man destined to change the destiny of the world. From his theories, a dozen years later, came the atomic bomb. His name was Albert Einstein.

Remember the year? In those days it didn't take a mathematical genius to figure out that a car was an important investment, and legitimate savings in a better deal were worth taking advantage of.

The year was 1933. Today, as then, smart car shoppers are looking for savings. You'll be surprised at how much you can save on a brand new 1960 FORD. We're in business to stay, and we're not trying to make a fortune on each car. So we can give you a better deal at CHARLIE SEEDS' MOTOR CO., INC., 146 E. Second, Phone EM4-2727.

pneumonia is cheap

Not too long ago, pneumonia meant a sure trip to the hospital and about a 50/50 chance of survival. The lucky ones spent costly weeks recuperating.

Today, thanks to new and potent drugs, pneumonia can be knocked out in a few days for only a few dollars.

Gunman's Widow Says Westerns Overdo The Shoot-'em-up Scenes

By BOB BARNES
HOLLYWOOD — There's much gunplay in television westerns, says Mrs. Bill Tilghman, 80, whose husband was among the greatest peace officers of the frontier.

As a gunman Tilghman ranked with such men as Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp, his colleagues in early law enforcement days at Dodge City. In a long, distinguished career as a lawman during a rugged era, Tilghman often lived by his gun.

And it was by the gun that he died at the age of 72 — shot by a man he was trying to arrest. Even so, says his wife of 21 years, TV's westerns over-emphasize the shoot-'em-up business.

It lacks a long way of being history," she says, but concedes there's "a certain amount of accuracy in setting" portrayed. Tilghman, his wife recalls, was genuinely tough when necessary, but was a far cry from some of the lawmen on film.

Adept with either hand, he packed just one sixshooter — two were too heavy. "Bill was a high class detective, using methods like those of the FBI nowadays," Mrs. Tilghman says. "None of the others was."

He's given much of the credit for breaking up outlaw gangs that overran Oklahoma in the 1890s. Singlehanded he took in Bill Doolin, a gangleader who swore he wouldn't be taken alive — by beating Doolin to the draw. Tilghman was alone, too, when he captured Doolin's lieutenant, Little Bill Raider. He outshot Raider with a double-barreled shotgun.

He didn't rest with being a peace officer. He served in the Oklahoma senate, was active in the statehood movement and Democratic politics, helped organize the first state fair and was an aide to many governors. His thoroughbred mares included the 1894 Kentucky Derby winner, Chant.

"He was a Christian gentleman," his widow says, "quiet, kindly, greatly respected and loved. He was especially fond of children."

Mrs. Tilghman may see some of her ideas on western lawmen applied to TV. She helped dramatize and narrate an incident about her husband for "Death Valley Days."

SPIDER STUDY
ITHACA, N. Y. — Spiders hear with their legs, Cornell University researcher Charles Walcott reports.

While studying the effects of drugs on spiders' reactions, Walcott discovered that the number of nerve impulses in a spider's leg increased when Cornell's chimes rang. The end of a spider's leg acts as an eardrum, Walcott determined. Each leg has about 10 small slits tuned to different sound frequencies.

This little farmer will inherit 49 empty tummies!

Grandpa fed 10 people. Dad produces for 25. But our skyrocketing population will force baby Bill to provide 53,655 meals yearly for 49 people. And he'll do it with the help of modern science, farmer know-how, and push-button electrical power.

Today, nearly 1,000 non-profit Rural Electric Systems—owned and operated by local people and financed by REA loans—are bringing better health and a touch of city living to people in rural areas. These same Rural Electric Systems are building lines to help Bill and other future farmers feed 175 million more people by 1995. And they have plans to install bigger transformers, and string heavier lines to fill future rural power needs which are now doubling every five to seven years.

Rural electrification is food insurance for all. Its cost, however, is borne by the people who use it. Already Rural Electric Systems have paid more than $1 billion in principal and interest on their $3½ billion REA loans... added proof these locally-owned systems are one of the best investments our Nation ever made.

Either We Control Tail Water -- Or State Will

Public announcement was made this week that the High Plains Underground Water Conservation will rigidly enforce rules to prevent waste through irrigation run off water. The result, although it may bring some expense and trouble to a few irrigation farmers, appears to be well worth any reasonable effort.

"Some people are stupid," remarked Tex. "We got a new employee at our place and the old boy is working up a storm. He gets to work early, it usually the last one to leave -- and misses half of the coffee breaks."

Worst still, many down-state officials and leaders are pointing to our waste water as the "No. 1 Crime of the Plains," and holding it forth as a plausible excuse to place control of our irrigation water in the hands of a central state group, possibly similar to New Mexico. Continued violations, no doubt, would lead to written permission from Austin before a well could be turned off or on.

Exchange Student Speaker At Meet

Mari Niinisto, Hereford exchange student from Finland, was guest speaker at the noon meeting of Hereford Optimist Club Tuesday in I. O. O. F. Hall.

Miss Niinisto, a senior at Hereford High, said Finland was located in northern Europe, near Sweden, and is about the size of Alaska. Industries include farming and lumbering.

She said farms in that country are small, averaging about 20 acres each, and very diversified. Manufacturing, she said, is rapidly growing in importance.

The standard of living in America is higher than in Finland, she explained.

Miss Niinisto said there are 1,500 foreign students in American high schools this year, and that American Field Service hopes to have 5,000 in schools here in the near future.

Guests at the meeting were Dallas Phillips and Al Alfred.

OFF THE Shelf

By H. A. TUCK

For one of the most exciting evenings ever, we heartily recommend a short little novel by Jack Finney, called Assault On A Queen.

We received this book on a loan from a friend, who praised it almost endlessly. Now we can see why. It has probably the most unusual and intriguing plot since Five Against The House.

A carefully - recruited group of six persons gathers on Fire Island for a most unusual mission: to raise a submarine from the ocean.

Heading the group is the middle - aged "brains" who had served on the German U-19 in World War I when it was scuttled just off the U. S. coast.

He is joined by a handpicked crew, chosen for knowledge of submarines and a thirst for high adventure, with perhaps a little larceny thrown in for good measure.

One of the six is a pretty young widow (no, she's not an old submariner) who furnishes the large covered dock for repairing the rusty, primitive 'unterseeboot'.

Despite a lack of time, equipment and money, the U-19 is made operative again after more than 40 years. But this group is not working on a submarine just to startle the yachting set.

They have conceived a daring plan to rob the Queen Mary and the submarine plays the key role. And the plan is just fantastic enough to work, as the crew gambles against the Captain of the huge floating hotel on reactions.

And it does work, as a boarding party carries off a successful robbery of the purser's office and the first class passengers.

The climax is none the less exciting.
