Around Town

As usual, we had some interesting visits with the International Parks Highway Association delegates. We swapped shop talk with Pete Wenger from Weyburn, Saskatchewan, Canada. Pete is correspondent there for the daily paper in Regina and brought his wife and one of his two sons to the convention. Despite the rather light attendance, it was an excellent meeting.

There will be a special meeting of Hereford business and professional people at 10 a. m. Thursday, May 26, in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom. How the Hereford Migrant Ministry's new center will benefit the community will be the topic. Mrs. Lee Benefield and Ellen Carter will explain the project. Paul Harvey, chairman of the trade promotion committee, says he will personally serve coffee and doughnuts to all who attend.

The Hereford Art Guild will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. A. L. Man-122 Ave. E.

Thursday night there will be a banquet for Hereford's league No. 2 women bowlers. The meal will be in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom at 7:30 p. m.

Although we were disappointed with the results of Friday's baseball game, we were also very, very proud of our high school players. Ector of Odessa has a fine, well-balanced club and has the depth to move into the state finals again this year. Coaches Doc Smith and Cuby Kitchens did an excellent job with the (Continued on page 2)

B&PW Starts Decoration Plan For Merchants

Members of Hereford Business and Professional Women's Club plan to start contacting Hereford merchants this week to take orders for store front decorations in this year's Harvest Festival.

The B&PW Friday accepted a request made by the Merchants Committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce that the club take charge of decorating fronts of stores for this year's events.

The group will meet at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the First National Bank Community Room to discuss further plans. The three-day Harvest Festival starts July 28.

"Cost of decorating will be based on what merchants order when club women call on them," said Madlyne Faught, a member of the committee. "We hope to collect advance payment after we take the order for decor." (Continued on page 2)

Make Assignments For Pony League

Rosters for the four 1960 Pony League teams were announced this week by president Glen Nelson after player action.

Nelson announced that boys still make application to play in the summer baseball program. Deadline for making application will be June 1. Boys who sign up on or before that time will be placed in a pool as stand-by players, subject to draft by any of the league teams.

First game of the season is slated for 8 p. m. Thursday, June 2.

Player assignments include:
Tigers, coached by Don McNeese: Richard Albracht, Ray Berend, Lynn Brisendine, Johnny Brownlow, Frank Cain, Charles Callaway, Dorman Dugan, Mike Ferguson, Jimmie Gutierrez, Dale Hershey, Kyle Kendall, Anthony Don Mays, Mike Ranspot, Bob Reinauer, Wallace Shelton Jr., and Arvell Williams.
White Sox, coached by J. C.

LEAPFROG with spikes characterized this bit of action from Friday's bi-district baseball game at Whiteface Field. Hereford shortstop Greg Combs made a diving grab of a hot grounder, scooped to second and tagged the base in time to force Mike Kropp, who was on his way from first. Ector of Odessa rode to its second straight victory on booming bats and air-tight defenses to move into regional diamond competition. (Staff Photo)

Ector Eagles Win Bi-District Title

Ector of Odessa took a giant step toward another state play-off berth Friday by downing Hereford for the second straight time to win the bi-district crown.

Three home runs spelled disaster for the Whitefaces before a home crowd as the Eagles used a potent hitting attack to win 8-2. In the first game, played Wednesday in Odessa, the Eagles won a 10-1 decision.

State runners-up in 1959, the Eagles will meet the Snyder Bulldogs to determine the regional winner, which will advance into the four-team state finals. Snyder downed Mineral Wells in two straight. With just two errors in two contests, the Eagles were a solid defensive club, with more than adequate pitching and a devastating attack at the plate.

For a time Friday it looked like Hereford might be able to pull out a win and force the third game Saturday. But that was a pipe dream as the Eagles got seven of their runs on home runs.

After tying the score 1-1 in the second inning, Hereford was never able to threaten seriously.

Ector opened it up with one run in the first. Larry Weaver singled and went to second on a wild pitch. With two outs, Stan Petrey doubled to push in Weaver.

Ronnie Botkin tied it up for Hereford in the second stanza with a circuit drive over the left field fence.

In the third inning, Ector scored two more as Don Bell doubled and Mike Kropp homered to drive in two runs.

Both teams were scoreless in the fourth and fifth innings.

In the sixth Charlie Thompson singled and Ernie Davis homered to gain a little breathing room for the Eagles.

Hereford started a rally in the sixth, but saw it snuffed out rather quickly. Botkin singled and was forced at second as John Buck was safe on a fielder's choice. Buck came to third as Donnie Marcontell was safe on an error. A single by Charlie Thomas scored Buck.

Ector assured itself of the bi-district title in the seventh with three more runs. Doc Rowell singled and Charlie Thompson walked before Don Moore, last man in the batting order, clouted one over the fence.

Charlie Thompson was the winning pitcher while Jim Collier took the loss for Hereford. Both pitchers worked the entire game. Thompson scattered eight hits, while striking out seven and walking three.

Collier gave up ten hits, walked four and struck out one. He also was charged with two wild pitches.

Hereford left ten on base, while Ector stranded eight.

First game of the series was played Wednesday after the Tuesday contest in Odessa was rained out with Hereford leading 3-0 in the top of the fourth. (Continued on page 2)

During Three-Day Meet Here

Warn Delegates Signs, Paving Just A Start

A stern challenge to provide more than pavement and highway signs was issued to delegates of the International Parks Highway Association convention in Hereford Friday.

A talk by Jack Lacy, executive vice president of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, about programs of work for highway groups was one of the major highlights of the three-day meeting, which ended Saturday afternoon.

About 70 official delegates attended the meeting, some from as far away as Canada to the north and the Big Bend region to the south.

"Tourist business is worth more than $30 billions per year in the United States," Lacy said Friday morning. He then proceeded to tell them how the tourist dollars are spent and what can be done to attract it to any locale.

Five factors which have made tourism such a vast business include higher incomes, more paid vacations, better automobiles, better highways and better tourist facilities.

"In Texas, our Highway Department has figured that each person traveling will spend a total of $7.71 per day while he is in the state," Lacy pointed out.

Of each dollar spent by a tourist, Lacy said it was broken down into the following expenditures: 28 per cent for food, 22 per cent for lodging, 70 per cent for retail purchases, 19 per cent for oil and gas, 4 per cent for recreation and entertainment, and 3 per cent for repairs.

Lacy said one of the most deplorable facts is that retail establishments, for the most part, refused to recognize how they participated in tourist expenditures and would not take part in highway promotion.

What impresses tourists and encourages them to travel on certain highways? Lacy threw out this question and then proceeded to answer it with the other highway group.

About 40 per cent said they wanted good highways. About 17 per cent said it was the hospitality they were accorded, 7 per cent roadside parks, scenery and accommodations were rated at 6 per cent each, cities along the road 5 per cent and climate induced 4 per cent to prefer one route over another.

"Your job in promoting travel on U. S. 385 must continue," Lacy warned. "It isn't enough to say that you have an all-weather road from Canada Mexico. You've got to keep working to make it better-known, to make it four lanes."

"You need a colorful brochure, showing some of the points of interest along the road, more publicity, more advertising."

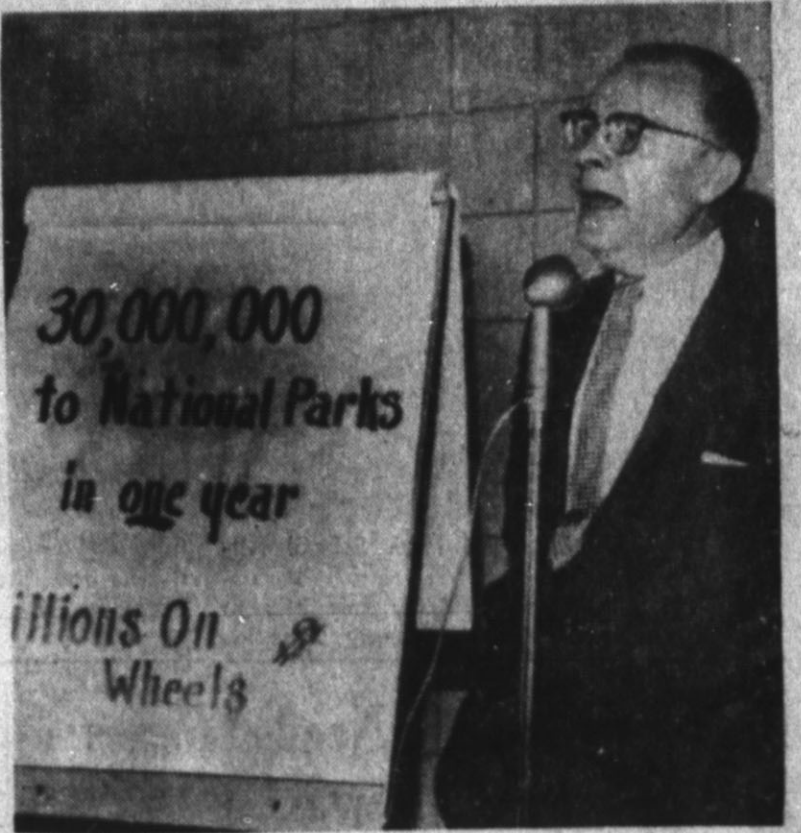

One of the most important points is the friendliness and hospitality accorded the traveler, Lacy said. "Get that driver out of his car . . . that's when he spends that extra quarter. Tell him about your town, get him to visit your business district, encourage him to spend the night."

Other activities included a buffet Thursday evening. Burney McClurkin of Hereford presented a humorous monologue for the group as entertainment.

A pre-lunch feature of Friday's session included a talk on the history of the Texas Rangers, by Capt. Raymond Waters of Lubbock. This was followed by an indoor shooting exhibition by another Ranger.

Friday luncheon speaker was Fred W. Phelps, of the New Mexico department of development.

Allred Heads Texas US 385 Association

Jimmie Allred of Hereford was elected president of Texas Division, International Parks Highway Association, at a breakfast meeting held in the Chamber Of Commerce conference room Saturday morning.

Other officers elected were: Bill Thompson of Hereford, secretary; Joe Albright of Andrews, first vice president; and Carroll Davidson of Odessa, second vice president.

The new officers were elected to one-year terms by all Texas delegates attending the three-day Association convention held in Hereford Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It was announced that the next Texas Division meeting would be held in Odessa sometime in October.

Shirley School Vandalism Light

Hereford police Thursday morning investigated light vandalism damage in a burglary at Shirley School, which occurred sometime between 6:30 p. m. Wednesday and 7:30 a. m. the following day.

After gaining entrance to the school through a trap door in the boiler room, the prowlers forced entry to the cafeteria supply room and broke a jar of pickle relish and four water glasses. They also tore a dispenser from the wall of a rest room.

Damage was estimated at $15.90 by investigating Hereford patrolmen Walter Briles and Bobby Roberts. The boiler room and cafeteria are located on the west side of the building.

The burglary was reported to police at 7:30 a. m. Thursday by L. B. Russell, school principal.

MORE FUNDS for the Hereford Area Foundation's work to get a home for the aged located here came this week from the Hereford Business and Professional Women's Club, which was instrumental in organizing the group. Eunice Petersen, left, and Nadine Wade gave a check for $725 to Dyalitha Benson, manager of the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, where the special account is located. (Staff Photo)

Jury Commission Meets Monday

A five-member 69th District Jury Commission is scheduled to convene at 10 a. m. Monday to select 240 petit jurors and a Grand Jury panel for the August term.

The Jury Commission, which will convene in District Court, will select four 60-member jury panels to serve for six months, beginning in August. Twelve Grand Jurors will be selected during the session to serve for the same six-month period.

Earlier announcements indicated that jury trials in criminal cases would be heard Monday, but District Judge Harry Schultz of Dalhart said the Jury Commission would meet instead.

Elliott Knows He Needs Horses And Patience As New KC Pilot

By FRANK ECK

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Bob Elliott is stepping in where others fear to tread, at least on a one-season basis. With a group of athletes often referred to as Yankee juniors, Elliott is putting his neck out as manager of the Kansas City Athletics.

Kansas City, with General Manager Parke Carroll leading the offense, hoped to get Tony Cuccinello, third base coach of the Chicago White Sox; first base Ralph Houk of the Yankees or Manager Gene Mauch of Minneapolis, not necessarily in that order. Each refused a one-year contract. KC just hasn't reached the point where it can offer a two-year deal to a manager.

Each probably realized the A's have been a second division outfit ever since 1955 when Arnold Johnson bought the Philadelphia A's and moved them out to Missouri.

BOB ELLIOTT "Wanted This Chance"

"I really wanted this chance to manage in the majors. A one-year contract doesn't bother me. I figure I can always go back to the Pacific Coast League."

Elliott, 43 and a San Francisco native, first managed at San Diego in 1955, was fired in 1957, stayed out of baseball the next year but bounced back in 1959 with a fourth place Sacramento team which had a Milwaukee working agreement.

"I've played for some fine managers," Elliott mused. "There was Pie Traynor and Frankie Frisch in Pittsburgh, Billy Southworth in Boston, Leo Durocher in New York and Paul Richards in Chicago. I found out long ago a manager must have the horses. No two players are alike, and a man running a ball team needs patience."

"I'll never forget the first day I reported to Pittsburgh. It was in the fall of 1939 after hitting a ton for Toronto. I got into Pittsburgh at night and didn't know a soul. I was a scared kid, not yet 23, but Pie Traynor and his wife Eva took me out to dinner. I'll never forget it. He made me feel at home."

Elliott played with Pittsburgh the next seven years or until Pirate owner, Frank McKinney, decided on Billy Herman as manager. Herman was playing for Boston in 1946. When Herman reported to Pittsburgh and learned that Elliott had been traded to Boston in the Herman deal, Billy said,

"Why you've traded my best ball player!"

That was the way Southworth felt about Elliott. He called Bob "Mr. Team." He had his best year in the majors in 1947, hitting .317 and was named the National League's most valuable player. Elliott hit .333 in the World Series that fall but the Braves were no match for Cleveland.

During his 15 years as a player, Elliott compiled a .280 batting average and played in five All-Star games.

There has been nothing wrong with Lou Boudreau or Harry Craft, previous Kansas City managers. They were solid baseball men but their horses were east-offs, mostly from the Yankees. The team has been sadly lacking for a solid pitching staff.

Maybe their luck will turn under Elliott, whose first crack out of the box back in 1955 had San Diego finish only three games behind pennant winning Seattle.

There was a fair-sized delegation in Odessa last Tuesday, and again Wednesday, for the first play-off game. PORTABLE LANDING PAD - MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Ordinary rooftops, sheltered bays or rivers, and even swamps could become landing areas for helicopters or other vertical-landing aircraft through use of his portable landing pad, a Mansfield inventor claims. Fred E. Lingfelter came up with the idea several years ago, applied for a patent in 1955 and now has the idea ready for presentation. The pad is inflated with air, helium or some similar gas and the idea is to distribute the aircraft's weight uniformly over the area.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN - OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - A job applicant at a laundry left before he learned whether he got the job. Police said the man, who was in a room alone with an unlocked safe, disappeared and so did $888.97 in cash. He also took along his application.

AT LIONS CLUB MEET

Wes Izzard Gives Views On Summit

Speaking to Hereford Lions Club Wednesday noon, Wes Izzard, editor - publisher of Amarillo Daily News, pointed out that Nikita Khrushchev may have been "on probation" when he stunned the Big Four Summit Conference with his verbal attacks on President Eisenhower.

Emphasizing on a Wednesday morning newscast by NBC commentator Morgan Beatty, Izzard said Khrushchev's "barroom tactics" may really be the work of a "mystery man" in the Kremlin. He suggested that Khrushchev may only be a front man.

Izzard described the mystery man as being Mikhail A. Suslov, once Joseph Stalin's private secretary. Suslov, he said, is 58 years old and was at one time first deputy premier of Russia. He was known as a man close to Stalin, he said, quoting a biographical sketch dispatched to newspapers in the United States. "Suslov," he explained, "does not seem to want to be in the Red limelight. He prefers to work behind the scenes in the Kremlin."

He suggested that Khrushchev was under fire for his soft atti-titude toward the West in a recent shakeup in the Kremlin. Under direction of Suslov, Khrushchev may have been warned to get tough or lose his position, Izzard said.

"His action at the summit conference in Paris may have put him in the Kremlin's good graces again. Possibly, he was just protecting his job in making the outbursts at the meeting," Izzard commented.

Suslov, the new key man in the Kremlin, was named chief of the Communist party's propaganda in 1947, and later was editor of Pravda, organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

He was sent into Hungary by the Communists to head the reign of terror during the uprising there, Izzard said.

Suslov, he speculated, may be top man of the Soviet Union before long. "Watch for his name," he said. "You may hear more of it in future years."

Izzard said that in spite of K's ranting performance, not once did he make a warlike threat which could be seized diplomatically. "I don't think the Soviet Union wants war," the publisher explained. "We are not going to have a war now, not deliberately anyway. If we have a war, it will be accidental. We can look forward to a cold war for an unforeseeable number of years, I believe."

He described the U2 aircraft which reportedly penetrated into Soviet Union territory. The craft has photographic equipment which can "shoot" a golf course for about two miles up and show a golf ball on a green, he pointed out, referring to a recent article in a magazine publication.

He said he felt the United States' manned bomber force is far superior to that of Russia's force. In event of war, he said he felt manned bombers

Seek Farmers To Cultivate New Hybrid Grain Sorghum

Deaf Smith County farmers are being asked to plant 7,000 acres of a new hybrid grain sorghum, Texioca - 54, by the Corn Products Co., of Corpus Christi, contractors and processors of the sorghum.

Local acreage is being contracted for by Continental Grain Co. Dennis J. Wositzky, manager, said between 1,000 and 1,500 acres had been contracted for through Friday. The Corpus Christi company had originally asked for 3,000 acres, but upped the acreage to 7,000 in order to supply their needs.

At present 20 per cent of the grain sorghum planted is of hybrid seed, the remaining 80 per cent being the open pollinated type seed. Paymaster Farms this year is planting enough improved hybrid seed that the yield will plant 25,000 acres next year with an expected yield increase.

Dr. N. W. Kramer, agronomist in charge of sorghum investigations at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock said the Texioca - 54 is approaching the yield potential of other seed.

Farmers interested in planting this seed should contact the local grain company. Wositzky pointed out that by planting Texioca - 54 the farmer will establish a selling market for grain now at $1.63 per cwt., 15 cents higher than the established county loan rate. Those who plant the seed this year will also have priority in the planting another year, he said.

Texioca - 54 is an early - maturing white seeded variety of grain sorghum with good adaptation to combine harvesting. It differs from all other commercial varieties and hybrids in one respect, it produces a special type of starch called "waxy" starch which is especially suited for certain industrial and food uses, he said.

Because of the special type starch in the variety, Texioca - 54 is grown only under contract so that the purchaser can be assured of getting his special type of grain and so that he can be assured a minimum contamination, Kramer said.

The new variety was developed in the sorghum breeding program of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock. The parents of Texioca - 54 were both experimental strains, one a red - the other a combine waxy kaffir. It has been grown on a limited field scale for nearly ten years, most of the production in the Coastal Bend of Texas but some acreage has been planted in the Plainview area and in Western Kansas, according to Kramer.

A. If you will rub an ice cube over the tongue just before taking the medicine, it will lessen considerably the bitter taste.
 Q. What can I do, when restringing beads, if the holes in the beads are too small for a needle to pass through?
 A. Discard the needle and rub a little glue on the end of the thread. When this is dry (which takes only a few minutes), it will be hard and stiff, and you can then proceed with your stringing.
 Q. How can I keep weeds and grass from growing up between the bricks of a brick walk?
 A. By pouring crankcase oil into the cracks two or three times a season. The oil soon evaporates, and with it the weeds and grass.
 Q. Please suggest a good, efficient way to clean crystal glassware.

A. One of the best ways is to use newspaper. (Another good reason why you can't do without The Hereford Brand.) The inside of the glass should be damp. Crush the paper inside, and rub it around briskly.
 Q. What can I do about a tailpipe on my car which scrapes every time I enter or leave a steep driveway?
 A. You can cut this tailpipe without shortening it. Hacksaw a piece from the bottom of the pipe on the bias, or at a long angle. In this way, you will gain road clearance, yet the overhang will keep your bumper free of exhaust stains.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

In the early weeks of that memorable year, the man was a bum, cadging a living from day to day in Switzerland, hanging around the bars and plotting with friends. In his brain was the seed of a monstrous plan of revolution.

His name was Vladimir Ilich Lenin. In April of that same year he left Switzerland and arrived in Petrograd, then the capital of Russia. The wheels were set in motion to bring his scheme to reality. The rumblings of revolt began. Soon they grew louder, and open rebellion broke out.

On November 7th of that year, the revolution which Lenin had fathered toppled and the Bolshevik revolutionaries became the new rulers of Russia. Thus began a movement which was to change the entire history of the world. This was the end of the Czarist rule in Russia... and the beginning of global Communism.

Remember the year? Times have changed everywhere since that year. In those days advertising was pretty conservative... and a man buying a car wasn't fooled by "giveaway" price claims or confusing figures. The year was 1917.

We don't promise to give our cars away... and we couldn't stay in business if we didn't make a modest profit. But we can promise to meet or beat any legitimate deal on a new 1960 FORD. Come in and let us prove it!

Pumps
 If pumps keep slipping from the heel, try using a half-inch wide elastic about six inches long, and fasten the middle of the strip on the inside of the heel of the pump. Stretch the ends slightly, then fasten them to the sides of the shoe. Place them where they will be concealed from sight.

Spot Remover
 To remove fingernail polish or airplane glue from material, apply nail-polish remover on the opposite side of the material. The polish or glue can then be peeled off.

Tighter Fasteners
 A nail dipped into colorless fingernail polish before it is driven will "stay put" longer. And screws that work loose can be replaced permanently if the polish is brushed into the hole before resetting the screw.

Garbage Cans
 Periodic washing and drying will prolong the life of a galvanized steel garbage can. Rust can be prevented by painting the inside of the metal can with zinc chromate when it is new. The base of the container may be given additional protection by priming and painting it.

Book Care
 Many libraries preserve the hard covers of books with shellac. You can do the same to some of your books by spraying the shellac on with the ready-to-use spray cans now in the market.

Easy Cleaning
 Steel and aluminum pans can be made stain-free very easily if you'll just boil some water and a piece of aluminum foil in them.

Clean Gloves
 You can "dry-clean" gloves at home by making a mix of fuller's earth and powdered alum. Lay the gloves on a table and apply the powder to both sides with a brush, then wipe off. Cover the gloves with a dry cereal, such as oatmeal, and brush off.

Mrs. Norman Minks, Mr. Thomas L. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Tyler were drivers of the cars and sponsors of the group.

Walcott has been unwilling host to swarms of 'Millers' recently. The eaves of the school house on the north and east sides are black with the pesky bugs and there have been many in the homes of the community.

Donald Tice won the place of valedictorian, and Sylvia Ivie is salutatorian of the 1960 eighth grade graduating class of Walcott School. Both will speak at their graduation exercises to be held on Wednesday, May 25, at 8 p. m. at Walcott School. The Rev. H. V. Fields of the Grace Gospel Church in Hereford will speak to the graduating class.

The eighth grade and principal Thomas L. Collins, invites the public to be present for this important event in their lives. Members of the class, other than the valedictorian and salutatorian are Carl Myers, Rayford Wilkerson, Davie Sorrells and George Steward.

The following are among Hereford High School's graduating class this year, who have previously graduated from Walcott School's eight grade: Janell Weaver, Royce Lee Pruitt, Mary Dufur, Gary Guseman and Bobby Sessums. Graduation exercises for Hereford High School will be Friday, May 27, at 8 p. m.

The ladies of the Farm and Ranch Club entertained their families with a picnic at the 'saprook breaks', near the New Mexico line, on Sunday, May 15. Following the noon meal, sides were chosen from all ages present for a matched baseball game. This proved to be real 'family fun' for the following: Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Burrus, Cecelia, James, Mary Alice and Frances Irene; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Burrus, Kathryn and Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bass and Charles; Marsh Pittman from Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weaver, Janell, Mary Ruth, Charlene and Joe Don; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rudd; Mr. and Mrs. Kenne'h Rudd and children of Westway.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Melton, Adair and Denise drove to Lubbock on Friday afternoon to visit friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hook, Machell, Eric and Brad. On Saturday the group enjoyed a picnic at McKenzie State Park in Lubbock and on Sunday they all visited the Texas Tech museum. The Meltons came home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Wylie, Clyde, Wileta and Paul were hosts at a weiner roast in their back yard on Monday night, May 16. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carthel, Danny, Donny and Davie of near Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirby, Kay, Diane and Larry who brought home made ice cream for the group.

Walcott boys and girls 4-H Clubs met in their last regular meeting of the year at the school house on Tuesday afternoon, May 17. Miss Loreta Fowler, assistant home demonstration agent and leader, Mrs. Glenn Burrus met with the girls. Keith Henderson, reporter for the boys 4-H Club gave this report of their meeting. Present were most of the members, Mr. Lefty Thomas, county agent, Mrs. J. V. Perrin and Mrs. Norman Minks, leaders. Mrs. Harold Bass visited and served refreshments of punch and cookies. Mr. Thomas gave a talk on insects and also showed a film on insects. Donald Tice played a guitar for the group at the close of the meeting.

Thrift Is Rule With Oil-Rich League Head

DALLAS (AP) — Many men have bought yachts just to get into baseball or football but Lamar Hunt had to organize a whole league to get into the game he loves.

What sort of man is this young oil millionaire who failed to buy into the long established National Football League and formed the American Football League instead?

The 37-year-old Hunt, whose worth is estimated at 50 million dollars with yearly income of four million dollars, claims to be about as eccentric as a new automobile. He sees nothing strange in buying a football club and borrowing a dime for a soft drink—both in the same morning.

Hunt, youngest son of one of the world's richest men — H. L. Hunt — is as unpretentious a fellow as you might expect to meet. You wouldn't think his job paid more than $100 a week.

He drives a battered automobile and mows his own lawn. His wife complains that her washing machine is old and her dishwasher is broken. She does her own housework and is an excellent cook.

Hunt sees nothing unusual in his comparatively frugal existence.

His wife, Rose Mary, 24, who has known Lamar since she was a schoolgirl, says:

"It would look ridiculous for us to live any differently. None of our friends do. What would we do with a big house or a yacht or three cars? Who would take care of them?"

"I can't even take care of my own car," chimes in Hunt. "But it's old and I can tear it up with a clear conscience."

He borrowed the automobile of the general manager of the Dallas Texans, Ron Rossi, so he could impress a prospective player.

The Hunts avoid the social whirl as much as possible and limit their cultural life to frequent movies and record albums.

"I have never been to one of those debutante things," says Hunt. "I don't dance well and neither of us smokes or drinks."

"I've seen one ballet, I think and one or two operas. That's one or two too many. And I'm ashamed to say I don't read much."

Hunt's mind is a catalogue of sports. He pulls names out of the past with the dedication and uncanny accuracy of a coin collector.

Actually, Hunt is a frustrated athlete. He played football at Southern Methodist University when they got down to the reserves.

"I don't think that frustration was the compelling reason I finally got into professional football. I just wanted Dallas to have a professional team," Hunt explains.

Hunt's only participating sport is golf. He shoots in the mid-90s. He also coaches a kids' football team and plays catch with the youngsters on the block.

LAMAR HUNT
Frugal Millionaire

"Sometimes when we're talking over a big decision, Lamar will pick up a football and toss it to me, says Rossi. "Then we'll play catch while he works out the answer."

"He's really a remarkable person. He could have been a brilliant coach with his analytical mind and knowledge of football technique."

"He's completely sincere and unpretentious. Half the time he doesn't have a dime in his pocket. It's a regular office joke how he borrows money for soft drinks or candy."

Hunt loves sweets and around the office he's called "King of the Yum Yums."

Hunt will operate his Dallas Texans — he's also president of the AFL — in competition with the Dallas Rangers, the local club in the National Football League.

Hunt admits he's a little bitter about the NFL, which he has accused of trying to sabotage his league, but says he's more determined than ever to put over the AFL despite the competition.

"I know it's very important that I succeed," he adds.

HELP, SOMEBODY

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Maria Navarrete Cordova was interested in knowing when the city of Tucson was founded.

She said research work produced these results:

Webster's Dictionary lists the date as 1687. The book "Arizona" sets the date at 1690 in one chapter and 1694 in another chapter. The third biennial report of the Arizona state engineer listed 1698 and a plaque on a Tucson monument says 1796.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Tucson man built a cabin in the mountains and planned a big house warming.

Three days later he called it off. A skunk had moved into the house and nothing would dislodge the unwelcome visitor.

A week later the skunk still had the house and the man had moved his bed into the front yard.

YOUNG MODERNS

Don't Frown On Early Marriage

By VIVIAN BROWN

IF YOU THINK you can be happily married, don't hesitate because of your age, says 18-year-old model Joyce Slattery. "A girl who is mature, in love with a man who is mature, shouldn't postpone marriage because she feels she is too young, if her parents can be persuaded that the marriage is a good idea. Some girls are not mature until their late 20s. Others mature earlier," says the vivacious model.

Joyce attributes the success of her own marriage to three things: 1. She and her husband had worked and had a sense of responsibility before marriage. 2. They knew each other four years, were engaged for one. 3. They loved the families of each other.

"Bob is a plumber, goes to school evenings studying drafting, building codes and other aspects of the plumbing industry, all of which will boost his income, so we are getting along fine without my salary. He doesn't really want me to work, but there is not enough to keep me busy right now fulltime at home."

Brown-haired, blue-eyed Joyce, Mrs. Lentz in private life, is a popular model of the young set, earning $35 to $40 an hour. She works about 10 hours a week during a good period and occasionally works a full week. She is one of Marge McDermott's top teen-age models.

"Sometimes I get home late at night," Joyce explains, "and then Bob is kind enough to get the dinner ready. He does some good broiler cooking, and is very considerate."

Joan does the cooking usually. She also does the washing in a machine in the basement of the two family house in which they live in Rego Park, on Long Island. She does the ironing on days off. "It's an adorable three room apartment," she says, "and we have it fixed up very cozy. When children come along we'll move out further on Long Island. I won't work. It takes Bob about 15 minutes to get to work from here. I spend a half hour on the train when I go into New York for a job."

"Six-foot Bob is 'quiet, very mature, not loud and boisterous,' she says. He and Joyce met at a parish house dance when he had a small band. They began dating, and although Joyce dated other boys, she soon showed her preference for

They say crime doesn't pay, but it is going to be hard to convince some of the courthouse officials and employees. The contractor reports that the new Deaf Smith jail will be completed around June 1, and he estimates that the remainder of the courthouse should be finished in another 30 days. This means that Judge Homer Henslee will remain in his temporary quarters and sweat, while his prisoners enjoy the new jail building.

Which reminds me, I called Otto Massee's prediction that the courthouse would be finished June 1 - and contend that he owes me a cup of coffee. He will probably wiggle out somehow, but it should be interesting.

The 1960 school term will wind up Friday, and I have talked with numerous small fry who seem quite happy, needless to say. Baseball seems to be the current rage. Glen Nelson was by to turn in the Pony League roster, and the Little League teams are already battling away. All in all, it looks like a big summer.

J. B. Elliston turned out for the International Parks Highway meeting this week, and I heard several of the old timers visiting with him about 1927, when one of the first meetings was held at Littlefield. Back in those days it was Highway 51 and the bridge across the Canadian River was the big hurdle.

C-C Manager Bill Thompson says he read the little squib about the 1960 highway maps, and that he has several of them in the office. Instead of writing to Austin, he suggests you get them at his office as long as the supply lasts. They really are nice maps.

The weather indicates that outdoor cooking is just around the corner. Joe Smith was going to compile a Western type outdoor recipe book, but I don't think he ever got around to it. I still say this barbecue business is another feminine wile to get away from household chores. Instead of all the conveniences, the man of the house is pushed out in the back yard, deprived of such modern conveniences as screen doors, and he must substitute primitive charcoal for gas or electricity. The only thing in his favor is time. He usually takes so long and people get so hungry that the grub tastes good, whether it is or not.

Besides, it's pretty hard to ruin a chunk of good beef - even for the average husband. His ravished guests gobble it down, burned edges and all, brag on him a little bit, and he is hooked. This outdoor cooking business reminds me of an old saying, "A little flattery now and then makes husbands out of single men."

Earnest Langley is fast becoming a super master of ceremonies. He introduced Wes Izzard at the Lions Club meeting Wednesday as follows: "We have a famous speaker today. He is known all over the Panhandle, as the father of Bob Izzard!" This pleased Wes very much, and got a good laugh from the crowd. Mr. Izzard also reaffirmed the fact that he is probably one of the best-informed and best read men in the country, when he answered questions from the audience on various subjects - and went into minute detail.

To my knowledge, Wes Izzard has never appeared on TV, even when they gave the history of KGNC. I asked him about it, and he said that he was leaving TV for the next generation. He still pinch hits on radio, but primarily devotes his time to the morning paper, The Amarillo News.

Like most good reporters, Mr. Izzard evaded all offers of being escorted around town by scores of people. Instead, he made a personal tour of our city before he showed up at the meeting. "I have been in Hereford many times since I came to Amarillo in 1924," he said, "but I have never seen the town looking so clean and attractive. It has a spic and span appearance you find in very few communities, especially in this part of the Panhandle."

The compliment was unsolicited and quite sincere. In fact, Mr. Izzard mentioned it two or three times. He was impressed also with the neat lawns, flowers and tree plantings. This is a phase of community progress many of us at home have overlooked. Sometimes, it takes an outsider to make us appreciate the things we have - and Wes Izzard was no little impressed with the overall appearance of our community.

Red Schneider got me carried the other day and gave me a lecture on the need for a frozen foods plant in Hereford. Red says we have to order frozen carrots from White Plains, frozen potatoes from Idaho and frozen meats from distant points - and he figures we are overlooking a wonderful industry. This is all true, of course, but a frozen food plant must operate 12 months out of the year and, right now, we would be lost when the vegetable season ends. However, if our feeding project develops - and it looks good - a frozen foods industry will be practical. We can process home fed beef and pork, fill in with vegetables, and expect a profitable operation.

In addition to scores of jobs, it would also open up new vegetable crops all the way from okra right on up the line. These feed lot experiments are probably the most important development seen in the community during the past 50 years. They could lead to the industrial growth folks have been talking about all this time.

Mrs. Claude McGowan, who has been closely connected with summer carnos, plans to drop the activity this summer for the first time in 18 consecutive years. During this long period she has "kept an eye on" many youngsters in this area. It will be sort of a postman's holiday, though, because she fears that she cannot stand the heat - and plans to spend a month or two with her sister in Utah.

Right now Mrs. McGowan is busy with her horned toad farm. Ray and Ron Streu, sons of the Oliver Streus, she says are the champion horned toad catchers in all of Hereford. Mrs. McGowan was telling the youngsters that horned toads eat insects and red ants, and that they are nice to have around the place.

"You want some more?" chorused Ray and Ron. Mrs. McGowan allowed as how that would be nice, and since that time she has been in the business. After the critters got fairly thick in her own yard, she started planting them with neighbors and on vacant lots. As of now, she figures that her horned toad network is so thorough as to compete with the national radar system and the dew line.

"Any red ant hat penetrates all those horned frogs will be a whizzer," avows Mrs. McGowan, "and I'll put Ray and Ron up against all comers in their age bracket when it comes to catching horned toads."

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple Saturday Afternoon

Miss Margaret Ann Meiwes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Meiwes, 103 Sunset Drive, and Marcel Fischbacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fischbacher of Umbarger, were married at 4 p. m. Saturday, May 14, in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Father Aloysius Craven read the double ring ceremony. White gladioli and blue-tinted daisies were used in church decorations and Mrs. Darrell HERSHEY provided appropriate music for the occasion.

Miss Cecilia Reheman and Miss Anita Fischbacher were bridesmaids. Jerry Bromman carried the rings and Mary Bernsten served as flower girl.

The attendants wore powder blue organza dresses fashioned with fitted waists and full street length skirts. They wore blue net picture hats and carried a single blue tinted rose.

Steve Meiwes, brother of the bride, was best man, Bob Skarke of Umbarger served as groomsmen and ushers were Pete Fischbacher and Joe Bernsten of Canyon.

The bride wore a white Chantilly lace and net dress fashioned over bridal satin. The fitted waist featured a low round scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves and the full skirt fell to floor length. Her lace-edged veil of silk illusion was attached to a regal crown of seed pearls and she wore a matching pearl necklace. The bridal bouquet was a colonial arrangement of blue rosebuds.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece beige dress with pale blue accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a beige eyelet dress. Both wore white rose corsages.

Following the wedding a reception and dinner were held in St. Anthony's School Hall followed by a dance in the evening.

When the couple left on a short trip the bride was wearing a brown and white print dress and a corsage of white and blue carnations.

The couple will make their home at Moriarty, N. M., where he is engaged in farming.

The bride is a member of this year's graduation class of Hereford High School.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reheman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Sigle and family of Kingfisher, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meiwes and family of Piedmont, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. William Schulte of El Reno, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. John L. Walterscheid

Senior Honored At Coke Party

A coke party given by Mrs. Don Steele Saturday morning honored Dorris Willoughby, high school senior, who will receive her diploma here May 27.

An informal table was laid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of wine and white iris. Miniature diplomas and tassels for the cap and gown ensemble added to the end-of-school theme.

Other seniors sharing in the courtesy were: Margaret Boomer, Twyla Springer, Sheila Williams, Ann McCarver, Jeanette Rayburn, Jonna Lee Blocker, Sandra Roberson, Lois Christman, Jane Pool and Azalee Phillips. The girls autographed their leather-bound personal invitations and pointed out highlights in the Hereford High School annual.

Hold Courtesy Dinner Thursday

As a courtesy to fellow officers of Kappa Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Mrs. Charles Bell, outgoing president, entertained at a dinner given in her home Thursday evening. The buffet table was laid with a blue linen cloth and held a center basket arrangement of pink cut flowers. Quartet tables were laid in white linen and centered with a fresh vegetable salad plate. Place cards were in white and gold with yellow rose design, and three miniature rosebuds were placed at each plate.

Following the dinner, a general discussion of the coming year's activities provided diversion.

Those attending were Mesdames Bess Moore, sponsor, Larry Summers, Bob Brotherton, Hicks Roberson, Harold Miller, Frank Barrett and Bill Kendall.

FORMULA FOR A LONG LIFE
NEW YORK (AP) — Julian S. Myrick, who in 62 years in the life insurance business has seen man's life expectancy rise from 47 to 60 years, has his own formula for longevity.

Says the 80-year-old Myrick, who is still active as an insurance salesman:

"I try to get eight hours sleep every night. Rise at 7 a.m. Do one-half to three-quarters of an hour exercise, stretching and working out with the two-pound dumbbells. Stopped smoking in 1924. No drinks before noon, and very seldom after dinner; maximum, four or five martinis, but not always that.

Rarely eat between meals. Watch what I eat, and to keep down weight, reduce the intake. Play tennis for an hour three or four times a week."

A total of 830,000 people perished in an earthquake in China in 1556, the largest death toll on record.

Roses require more than normal moisture. Overhead sprinkling in the morning hours is most satisfactory.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. What can I do when I get too much salt in my soup or gravy?

A. Counteract it by adding a teaspoonful of sugar and a teaspoonful of vinegar, and then cooking it a little longer. Or, drop in a whole peeled raw potato and let it cook awhile, then remove the potato before serving. In the case of thick soup or gravy, grate in the raw potato and let it stay. In fact, grated potato may be used to thicken a soup when necessary.

Q. How can I improvise a substitute hot water bottle?

A. Pour salt into a skillet and heat it in the oven until it's almost at the smoking point. Then pour the salt into a bag, and you'll find it will serve as well as a rubber hot water bottle.

Q. What can I do about the points of my elbows, which always seem to have a dingy and unclean appearance?

A. You can bleach these areas by making a practice of rubbing them with the rind of a lemon.

Q. How can I give my hair a good dry shampoo?

A. Beat the whites of two eggs as stiff as possible, then take this a handful at a time and rub it into the scalp with a light circular movement of the fingers. Dry in the sun for at least 20 minutes, then brush with a clean brush for several minutes. This will leave

The Wyche Home Demonstration Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Ira Ott. Mrs. Charles Packard introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. V. Pickens, who presented the program on cooking potatoes. Mrs. Pickens pointed out that potatoes were first found in Peru. She said in part, "Potatoes are not fattening — it's what is put on them." She demonstrated cooking of parsleyed potatoes and baked potatoes. These were later sampled by the group. Mrs. Pickens also stated that one may save minerals and vitamins by baking them with the jackets on. Potatoes rank high in protein, minerals and vitamins. They also provide bulk in diet. She concluded that potatoes should be served at least once a day. Mrs. Ott, president, conducted the business meeting. Those present were Mesdames Charles Packard, E. C. Hewitt Jr., C. R. Dameron, C. F. Newsom, J. V. Pickens, the hostess Mrs. Ott, and a guest, Mrs. Ross White.

Today's Girls Outshine Pioneers At Own Game

By DOROTHY ROE

America's pioneer women, who crossed the plains in covered wagons, fired a mean bow and arrow and cooked buffalo steaks over campfires, had nothing on today's courageous young wives, says Mildred Knopf, author, wife, mother and world traveler.

Modern girls may not have to fight Indians, but they have just as tough a battle with the high cost of living, raising families and often helping young husbands get a start in business, in the opinion of Mrs. Knopf. In addition, most of them are better cooks and housekeepers than were their grandmothers.

It is to this new generation of wives in general and her daughter, Wendy, in particular, that Mrs. Knopf has dedicated her latest cookbook, "Cook, My Darling Daughter." Her previous book, "The Perfect Hostess Cookbook," was published 10 years ago. Says she:

"My daughter, Wendy, was married at 19, and seemed to acquire all the traditional talents of homemaker with no effort. She does all her own work, in a big old Spanish home in California, overlooking the sea. She has three daughters, all named after British queens: Catherine, Elizabeth and Victoria.

"People kept asking me when I was going to write another book, and I really didn't intend to do one. But then I kept meeting my daughter's friends, and they were all so interested in the unusual recipes that she prepares that I decided here was a worth-while project—a cookbook for the new generation of homemakers, who must be skilled hostesses, gourmet cooks, mothers, housekeepers and wives, all with no help. I dedicated it to Wendy, not because she needs it, but as a sort of salutation. And in it there may be some ideas she can use, culled from the annals of the family."

Mrs. Knopf's elder son, Christopher, also has three children—two boys and a girl—Kevin, Bryan and Susan. Her younger son, Jonathan, is a drama student in New York.

"Many of the recipes in the new cookbook are from the files of my mother's German cook, Marie," says Mrs. Knopf. "Mother got her off the boat, and she stayed 27 years. During which time she left the house only twice—once for a wedding and once for a funeral. "During my days at home I knew nothing about cooking—I only enjoyed eating it. My most ambitious attempt was fudge in a chafing dish. But after marriage there was a time, during the depression, when I had to learn to cook, since we couldn't afford to hire someone else to do it.

"We rented a farm in Maine for the summer, and I tried my hand. I didn't even know enough to prick the top of a pie. But a neighbor woman kindly helped me out, and by the time the summer was over I was a fairly competent cook.

"We had a big garden, wild berries, fresh milk and all kinds of wonderful seafood. With such bounty, who could fail to enjoy cooking? Once started, I've never stopped.

"Now I see the younger generation of women turning out masterpieces of food with the greatest of ease, and I'm proud to be the mother of one of them. Proud to be able to contribute something, perhaps, in a book of recipes for them to use."

Homes Should Not Look Like Department Stores

By VIVIAN BROWN

The most ridiculous thing a woman can do is buy a chair just because it happens to be on sale, says Zelina Brunshwig, artist, interior designer, fabric coordinator. But that is the way many people shop.

"Every room must be planned before you make a single purchase. It is vital to know how to coordinate furnishings," she explains. "You don't put a half-dozen different colors and fixtures in your wardrobe. You should know what you can wear and how to coordinate your clothes with good accessories, if you are well dressed. The same should be true of your home."

Mrs. Brunshwig, with her designer niece, Murray Bartlett, plans and coordinates fabrics. When a sample from their workrooms is sent to decorating establishments, it is accompanied by a complete color plan. She says:

"Women should be educated to avoid using too many fabric textures in the same room. The room will have no repose if too many colors are used. It will look more like a department store display."

A room must be tied together to produce a pleasing effect on the eyes. Mrs. Brunshwig explains:

"A good general rule is to slipcover your sofa and the two large upholstery chairs in the same fabric, otherwise you divide up the room. Many people break up this seating unit with different fabrics. The same feeling of unity should exist between the living and dining room are one unit. Curtains should be the same and dining room chair seats could be the same color or compatible with other colors, so they can be used in the living room in case of necessity—for extra guests or card playing. A room will seem larger if not too many fabrics are used."

Young home makers must be aware of this modern age, Murray reminds us. The mother of a 5-year-old, she says

"The new contemporary homes are stark, need big injections of personality to offset their type of architecture. Then, too, children must be considered when you select furnishings."

Murray did her own New York apartment in washable natural linen, covering "everything" with it, she says. She adds colored accessories in season—dining room seat covers, cushions, table cloths.

"It gives you a whole new look even though can maintain your basic neutral plan."

Room coordination is not new to Mrs. Brunshwig or to Murray who started playing with her aunt's fabric swatches at age two, went on to study in Paris and joined her aunt in the New York fabric house. Mrs. Brunshwig explains: "I was an interior designer when I took over the management and styling of our firm when my husband, Col. Brunshwig, joined General De Gaulle in London early in World War II. It didn't take too long to become fascinated with the fabrics."

Although the Brunshwigs began designing their own fabrics when it seemed impossible during the war to get French fabrics, they still comb France for every exclusive damask, velvet, urocaee, ne cream of French imports and documentaries.

Formally known as the San Diego & Arizona Eastern-Tijuana & Tecate, it's the road which skeptics said could never be built.

It took 12 years of hard, dangerous labor, but 41 years later the SDAE-T&T is still flourishing on a tortuous route between California and Mexico. (It never did get as far as the "Arizona Eastern" planned in its original name.)

A gold spike was pounded into place by builder John D. Spreckles on Dec. 1, 1919, making completion of the road's 147 miles of desert and canyon country track.

The railway starts at San Diego, Calif., runs south to Tijuana, Mexico, swings east to Tecate and re-enters the United States through a tunnel at Lindero.

Twin diesels pull the train along the breathtaking 2,350-foot deep Carriso Gorge, an 11-mile stretch where track clings 1,000 feet above the rocky floor.

Cars thunder along one tremendous wooden trestle that rises 200 feet above its lowest foundation. The train leaves its apparent course in mid-air to plunge through 17 tunnels, two of them a half mile long.

The road's eastern terminus is at El Centro, site of one of the line's typical stations of yesterday, manned by a telegrapher who still uses Morse Code.

A freight road in California known as the SDAE, the line adds passengers on its route south of the border and becomes the T&T. They ride the caboose, sitting around a potbelly stove enroute.

All through the Mexican portion of its run, children chase and shout after the train as it rumbles through villages while men and women pause to wave at the engineer.

The railroad, part of the parent Southern Pacific system, operates two trains a day, carrying a hodgepodge of freight—pipe for Houston, olive barrels to Tijuana, canned goods for El Paso, barley for the Tecate brewery.

In 1958 the railroad grossed three million dollars.

Yankees Devour Cardinals, 20 - 2

Steve Hodges used his pitching arm and booming bat to lead the major Yankees in a 20-2 rout of the Cardinals Thursday night on a windswept diamond. It was the fourth straight win for the Yanks without a defeat this season.

Scattering three hits and allowing no runs in five innings, Hodges also hit six times in as many trips to the plate. He got a home run, two doubles and three singles to fatten his batting average.

Hodges' circuit blast came in the fourth with the sacks full, while teammate Danny Baize powered one over the fence in the fifth with one on base.

Ed Mims kept the Yankees in check until the fourth inning. He allowed five scattered hits and just one run in the first three frames.

Leading 1-0, the Yanks cut loose in the fourth for six runs on six hits.

Jim Allison singled, Robby Lemon walked and Gene Duvall singled to load the bases ahead of Hodges' four-bagger. Terry Hill and Danny Lester singled before the second out. Then Wynn Buck and Allison was safe on an error to wind up the scoring splurge.

They added two more runs in the fifth as Hodges doubled and Danny Baize hit for the circuit.

In the sixth, the Yankees put in three substitutes. But they made 11 runs. With one out Felix Albiar walked, Duvall was safe on a fielder's choice and Hodges singled. With two out, Hill got a single, Lester a double, Bill Jack Gilliland a single and Randy Baize a single. Albiar walked before Duvall, Hodges and Danny Baize singled in turn. Hodges scored on an error.

In a last-ditch effort with two out and the Cards got two runs. Jerry Fowikes doubled and Larry Brown walked and Mark Manning singled them in.

Cattle Feeding Opens New Profits For Area

Keeping up with the Joneses isn't always a good idea. Sometimes you wake up and realize the Joneses have been keeping up with you.

Right now, Hereford is about to find itself in a position of trying to keep up with its neighbors, who have acted more vigorously and gotten more done. In this case, it is a commercial cattle feeding program, which is a natural for Hereford and Deaf Smith County. But while such projects are still trying to get off the ground here, they are established facts in some of our nearby counties.

Already there are large feeding projects in operation at Muleshoe, Clovis, and Pampa. Others are near reality at Dumas and Olan. Dumas, for instance, is planning to build a lot with 10,000-head capacity. This is twice as large as anything even planned here.

Hereford has been talking seriously for the past few months about feeding our own cattle, but nothing has developed. There was a similar situation here many years ago, when a large underground water reservoir was tapped. But it took some outsiders with foresight to come here and take advantage of the abundant water supply.

True, cattle feeding isn't something that everyone should try. Most folks don't have the time or the inclination to work on such a venture.

But our farmers should thoroughly examine the merits of a local cattle feeding industry. They have been hurt by acreage restrictions on wheat and cotton, kicked in the stomach by lower milo prices. There is a limit on the vegetable market.

What is left? We have cattle, the best that money can buy. They are sold to feeders in Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado and California.

These same buyers come to the Panhandle and buy our milo, then truck it hundreds or thousands of miles. They carry away tons of cottonseed meal and cottonseed hulls from the South Plains.

Milo and cottonseed products make our cattle fat . . . in another state.

These feeders in Colorado and California aren't buying from this area because they want to be nice to us. They are buying because we have the raw ingredients they need. We also have the cattle they fatten and sell.

They aren't putting out good money for our cattle and feed just because they want to spend deflated dollars. They are investing to make a profit.

Why can't the same operation work here, where folks are knee-deep in everything necessary: feed, cattle and cottonseed products?

A dynamic young man with vision, the president of American Stores, Inc., visited Hereford early this month. His comments were an echo of statements made by other visitors. "This Panhandle area has the potential to become the largest cattle feeding center in the United States within the next ten years."

In the cold light of economy, Hereford has an immediate advantage in not having to pay transportation costs to get cattle, or milo, or cottonseed hulls.

Another factor, ignored by many, is the favorable climate for feeding cattle every month. It doesn't get too hot and it does not get too cold.

An attempt to get a number of people in that cattle feeding business in a small way has fallen by the wayside. But some other pioneering spirits have picked it up and are working hard to make it successful.

Cattle feeding is an addition to our agricultural economy that must come. Whether we set the pace or let our neighbors do it and simply follow their lead is up to our farmers.

No question about it, we're going to have to keep up with the Joneses, if we don't take the initiative and leave it up to the Joneses to keep up with us.

Decide Now To 'Sink Or Swim'

Any resident of this community who cannot swim, and swim well, has only himself to blame. His only excuses are indifference, laziness or possibly some physical handicap, thanks to the Red Cross summer instruction classes which have been and will be conducted in this area.

Last year a total of 811 persons enrolled in the classes and approximately 500 of these persons received certificates of efficiency in their particular groups. The students included people from all walks of life, ranging in age from four years on past 60 years. Both men and women were to be found in beginners groups and right on through classes for instructions.

Swimming, in addition to providing excellent exercise, is frequently a means of survival, or the helping of another human being to survive. We have never seen anyone who regretted having learned to swim.

Thanks to the generosity of those who have learned swimming and qualified themselves under the Red Cross program, most of us can now learn under conditions where cost is no problem. Many people who had no pool facilities during their youth are taking advantage of the program along with youngsters who are going into swimming pools for the first time. Adequate provisions have been made for both of these groups, as well as several other classes. Because classes begin at 6 a.m. and continue into the evening, time is no longer a factor.

Registration for the 1960 water safety program begins June 13 and continues through June 18 for the first session, while a second session is planned to begin July 9. Total cost is $2.25 per session for pool use.

The person who cannot swim needs only two things: ambition and a bathing suit. More than 500 people learned to swim, or improved their swimming proficiency in 1959. You, too, can achieve the same status in 1960 — and, better yet, you will meet a lot of nice people, get some wonderful exercise, and have a lot of fun.

Our Thanks To Mr. Khrushchev

Unwillingly, it seems to us that Russia's Mr. Khrushchev has done the American people a tremendous favor. He has achieved greater unity for our country than at any time since Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Khrushchev's tantrums, insults, and tirades have caused most of us to pause and take inventory of ourselves and our country. We discovered that we have the best way of life known to mankind since the world began. We also find that we have perhaps been a bit selfish, that we have expected too much from our government, and that we have given too little in return. We also realize that this way of life, with its cherished freedoms, is being threatened.

All of a sudden farm allotments, integration and sugar beet refineries have become secondary. We realize that we must nominate the two men who can best combat the menace of people such as Mr. Khrushchev, and countries such as Russia—and that we must elect from the two nominees the man who can best meet the crisis. We realize that we need another George Washington or Abraham Lincoln.

Therefore, we say with all sincerity: "Thank you, Mr. Khrushchev; you have accomplished something that otherwise would have taken months or years. You have possibly even saved our country and our way of life."

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

Midshipman David Glasgow Farragut was a youngster of questionable habits. "No boy ever trod the quarterdeck with such principles," his father told him. "You will have to change the whole course of your life if you ever become a man."

"Shortly after," recalled Farragut, "I became a Christian, and that act settled my temporal, as it settled my moral, destiny."

Farragut, who became the U. S. Navy's first admiral and a hero of the Civil War, was a man of prayer who often preached to his men on the Sabbath.

After a victory he ordered his crew to "return thanks to Almighty God for His great goodness and mercy for permitting us to pass through the events . . . with so little loss of life and blood."

Truly, faith contributed to the greatness of David Farragut.

Housing For Elderly Is Major State Problem

45 YEARS AGO

Delegation Looks Over Irrigation Well, Crops

The Editor of the Brand in company with Mr. A. C. Elliott and two visiting gentlemen made a trip out last Saturday to see some of the irrigation wells in operation. The only one running at the time was that of Mr. D. P. Vaughn, north of town. The party made an investigation of the well, growing crops and the fine herd of hogs.

All were of the opinion that parties in other states could not be censured for not believing the real truth about the wells, as it is hard to realize that a stream of water so clear that you involuntarily look for mountain trout, can be pulled out of the depths of these level plains with a pump.

The stream, after it left the well, seemed about two feet wide and a foot deep and so clear that if it were ten feet deep one could see the bottom as clearly as at a foot. That this can be repeated on every quarter-section and go on night and day without any apparent diminution of the supply is difficult to believe unless one sees it.

Mr. Vaughn has about 25 acres of alfalfa that he is just starting to cut. He will cut it five times and expects a ton or more at each cutting. He water each cutting twice at a cost of fifty cents each irrigation. Mr. Vaughn's farm is an example of what every quarter section in the shallow water belt should be and will be when people really know and believe in the possibilities of this irrigation. Such men as Mr. Vaughn who are demonstrating the possibilities of soil and water are real benefactors. If you see it in the Brand it's true.

25 YEARS AGO

The emergency erosion grants of 10 cents per acre for listing to prevent blowing of soil ended in the county Monday when the final allotment of funds was exhausted. From the opening of the program until the close, sufficient dimes to treat 430,000 acres, were distributed to farmers of Deaf Smith County.

This money, $43,000 was distributed to 854 different farmers. Disbursement orders with which to buy fuel or feed were given farmers. They were to list blowing lands either solid or in alternate rows.

County agent Dewey Reed is still pushing the survey of the erosion situation in Deaf Smith with a view to obtaining a permanent program here. He urged farmers to fill out the questionnaires sent out some weeks ago and return them at his office at once.

Reports have been obtained on some 360,000 acres, but more are wanted. "The more nearly complete our report is, the better our chances of getting a real project here," he said.

Dr. H. H. Fennell, head of the project at Dalhart, will have charge of the Panhandle's entire work in the permanent program. He asked that this county make the survey, intimating that he would look upon the application with favor.

(Editor's Note: The following is fifth of a series of six articles on programs of the senior citizens of Texas, which recently appeared in the Houston Post. As members of the Hereford Area Foundation are currently attempting to locate a Methodist Church home for the aged in Hereford, the series is carried in The Sunday Brand as a public service.)

Last year the Legislative Committee on Aging recommended that a State fund be created to furnish financial assistance to counties for building community housing projects for the aged, to include medical care.

Whether this is feasible or not, it is apparent that one of the major needs of the aged people of Texas is satisfactory housing.

It is deplorable but true that in many instances their families are eager to shift the responsibility of their housing and care to the State. A sad characteristic of modern society is that all too often families regard the care of their aged members as a burdensome duty to be shirked whenever possible.

The population of Texas is now 70 per cent urban and 30 per cent rural. The farm home and environment were generally able to provide living accommodations for parents, grandparents and other elders, but smaller city homes and apartments are not so adaptable to three-generation family life.

One partial answer to the housing problem is the nursing, convalescent and custodial care homes, which have been under State regulation in Texas since 1957.

These homes are of two general types — those providing nursing care for ill or infirm patients and those providing custodial and attendant care only for persons who are old, but not chronically ill or bedridden.

As of February 1, 1960, there were 601 licensed nursing and custodial homes in Texas having a capacity of 14,859 beds. They were 80 per cent full, which means that approximately 11,887 elderly men and women were in residence.

TRUSTEES DIFFER ON SOLUTION

Levelland school board members, confronted with threat of a rift over either split sessions or construction of temporary buildings to house students next year, began to look Thursday night for other solutions to a student population increase which is expected to overflow existing school facilities next fall. Trustees, who also studied a proposed budget which will be discussed with oil industry tax men next Thursday night, debated in friendly but firm terms on the school housing crisis. Superintendent O. W. Marcom in the second straight meeting in which the problem has been considered, presented a new plan for split sessions for South Elementary School, changing school district boundaries to boost the total enrollment at the school to 734 students and upping the number of teachers there to 28. But firm pronouncement on the part of at least three board members indicated the board will probably split on the split session issue if it is ever voted on. One trustee said that unless he is shown something which he has not been shown up to this time, that he would refuse to vote for a split session. Another made an equally firm pronouncement on building of temporary buildings and drew vocal backing from at least two other board members. This indicated that votes either for a split session or temporary buildings might have enough opposition to force a tie-breaking vote by Board President George Price. In the meantime, indications were that trustees would probably begin plans for a third bond issue—which would allow voters to ballot on each structure as a separate issue.

DOGIE DAYS PLANS RUSHED

Dogie Days General Chairman Hugh Lyle promised "work-a-plenty" for members of the Dumas Lions Club Thursday as committee assignments for the big 1960 summer celebration were announced. Lyle, also president elect of the 125-member civic club, reminded his working groups that the fun-packed event would unfold here on June 9, 10 and 11—less than four weeks away. Ticket sales for the big June 9 noon barbecue have already started, under direction of Everett Jones, who expects one of the largest crowds in history. Next pre-Dogie Days event on the agenda is a booster trip throughout the Panhandle region of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma on June 7. Though the day-to-day celebration calendar will be basically the same as a year ago, Lyle has promised that improvements in operation of the rodeo and expansion of the giant Lions Club midway on the courthouse square would prove more popular with everyone concerned. Rodeo performances, in the streamlined arena at Little League Park, are slated each night of the celebration, and Lyle reminded any interested civic, service or church organizations to contact him immediately for space in the growing midway.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has heard about the spy trouble, but it's hard to see where he sheds any light on it.

Dear editor:

I have been thinking long and hard over the big spy question and so far I haven't come to any valuable conclusions, other than it might be better to spy with an atomic-powered submarine instead of an airplane, the kind of sub that just spent three months under water without coming up traveling around the earth. You may not see as much as you do from an airplane, but it's a whole lot safer.

On the other hand, the problem of who owns the sky has been engaging my thoughts, and while it's a hard problem, it's not as hard as farming.

You take my farm out here. My deed says I own the land and everything under it, and my neighbors own everything under theirs, but if you stop and think, you know that the deeper in the ground you go, the less you own, if the world is really round. The nearer you approach the center of the earth, the narrower your wedge of earth becomes, until finally, when everybody's property line reaches the center, everybody is squabbling over a pinpoint piece of ground. Wonder what Mr. Khrushchev has to say about this?

Now you take the sky above my farm, I don't know exactly where the sky begins, but I know I must own some space above the ground, at least I don't believe the law would allow somebody to build a shed over my land, even if I did have room enough to drive a tractor under without hitting my head. But after you get up a few thousand feet, I don't know. I do know though that I'd have a hard time proving an airplane flying a mile high over my farm was trespassing, although if there was any way I could charge for it, I would.

And as for space fourteen miles above, I can see how no country wants another country's airplane flying around up there photographing whatever it can find, but how about 200 miles up? 500? With a photographing satellite? You can see if every country owns all the sky above it, upward forever, and the earth is spinning through space, somebody is going to have a hard time marking his exact amount of sky and keeping track of it. It's pretty complicated.

I sometimes get the idea that the universe is just too big for man to handle.

It's all a problem I will leave to Washington. Just looking at the shape of my bindweed farm, I figure it's more than I can handle.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Hereford Is Ideal For Area Meetings

Though Hereford cannot be classed as a convention town, we can point with pride to the IOOF meeting, the VFW District 13 Encampment and International Parks Highway Association convention in recent weeks.

Hereford seems ideally adapted for smaller area or district sessions of this sort and, invariably, the visitors leave the community with nothing but praise for interest and hospitality on part of the general public. This, of course, is the chief reason we are happy to welcome visitors from various organizations.

Most of the credit, however, goes to the local organizations themselves. Leaders and workers do their best to serve outstanding meals, to make the visitors feel welcome, and to provide adequate entertainment. Such was the case with the Rotary meeting here in 1959, with the Lions gathering in January this year and, already mentioned, with the IOOF convention in April.

There can be no better public relations than these small conventions have established for the community. In addition to public acceptance, they have full cooperation and support from the Chamber of Commerce, and from local merchants. If you belong to such an organization, why not make a bid for the district convention? It means considerable hard work, for sure, but it likewise means that you will have a better club, a good community and some interested, sincere members.

Adrian Wheat Growers Observe Open House

By MRS. R. L. PINNELL

Open house was held Saturday in the newly - completed office and feed and seed warehouse of the Adrian Wheat Growers Association. The masonry building consists of a private office for manager Bob Caldwell, one for the bookkeeper, rest rooms, lobby space and a full basement which houses the central heating and air - conditioning units.

The Adrian Wheat Growers, organized in 1934, began with one 25,000 bushel elevator. Today the growers own elevators with a capacity of 815,000 bushels, a 2,000 - bushel grain dryer, three company residences and the new office building and warehouse.

The new structure cost an estimated $29,000 and stands in the same location as the old office. The office adds 16,000 feet of space and the warehouse adds 12,000 feet.

Bob Caldwell became associated with the cooperative in 1938 shortly after he was discharged from the service. The cooperative has paid back to its patrons and stockholders cash dividends amounting to $351,305.61 and has effected savings of $178,109.82.

Statehouse Focuses On New Legislature

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN. — With the main state elections over, statehouse interest now focuses on next January when a new legislature will meet.

Lawmakers will have to hack their way through the same old jungle of state money problems that faced them in '59. Again the goal will be to find enough tax revenue to pay off the state's debts and provide government services for another two years. Blazing of some possible paths is already under way. Gov. Price Daniel's 30-member State Finance Advisory Commission begins this week assembling data on the state's future financial needs and how they can be met.

Governor Daniel has said he will propose five different tax plans for Commission study. Any one of the plans, said the governor, would wipe out the deficit in the state's general revenue fund and provide for expected future needs without a state income tax or general sales tax.

Secretary of State Zollie Steakley is chairman of the Finance Commission.

Out-of-state visitors will get the red carpet treatment when they stop for gasoline if Governor Daniel's advice is headed.

Speaking to the Texas Association of Service Stations, the governor urged the station operators to sell Texas as well as gasoline to the tourists. Everyone will benefit from tourists and longer visits, he said.

Last year 9,600,000 tourists came to Texas and spent $431,000,000. Of this, $77,000,000 went for gasoline, with $10,000,000 in taxes going to the state.

That's a lot of tourists, but not so many as the state could and should have, says the governor.

He urged the station operators to be salesmen for their communities and areas and encourage travelers to do more sightseeing.

Early studies of Texas' 1960 census figures indicate that while Texas cities are getting bigger, the wide open spaces are getting less and less cluttered with people.

Much of the explosive growth of cities apparently has been at the expense of surrounding rural areas, either by annexation or by the moving of country dwellers to the nearby city.

Fast-growing Abilene is an example. Abilene population has grown by 96 per cent since 1950, from 45,570 to 89,248. Taylor County, in which Abilene is located, gained from 63,370 to 100,216. Net result: Taylor County's non-Abilene population dropped from 17,800 to 10,788.

A similar situation exists in the Panhandle where Amarillo's 84 per cent increase outstripped that of Potter County.

Texarkana moved up in population, but the counties in which it is located (in Texas and Arkansas) lost ground.

Despite the usual conversation punctuated with "now that the drought's over," reports show much of Texas short on rainfall this year.

State Board of Water Engineers reports that water in Texas reservoirs dropped from 9,622,250 acre feet in March to 9,481,265 acre feet in April. This is about a 1.5 per cent decrease.

Rainfall for the first four months of the year has been below normal for Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, Laredo, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Port Arthur, Beaumont, San Angelo, San Antonio, Victoria, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Above average rainfall was recorded by Amarillo, Abilene, Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

State Supreme Court has held that a fleet of semi-trailer trucks operated in Texas must register in Texas even though they are already registered in Mississippi.

Suit was brought by the State High Department against a motor freight company in El Paso.

Supreme Court upheld lower court rulings that the company must buy Texas license plates for 95 of its trucks.

Supreme Court has set a hearing for June 8 on whether unemployment compensation payments must be made to employes on unpaid vacations. In the case in point, the company gives a one-week vacation with pay to employes of five years or more. During the summer the plant was closed for two weeks. Some employes received one week's pay, some none, depending on their seniority.

Texas Employment Commission ruled that the employes were not due unemployment payments for the period they were without pay. A Dallas district court upheld TEC, but the Court of Civil Appeals reversed this decision. TEC is appealing to the Supreme Court.

In a sharply-contested hearing before the Railroad Commission, Texas truckers are asking to be allowed to charge higher rates for shipments within the borders of Texas.

Desired increase would be approximately 7.66 per cent higher than present rates.

Firms that do a great deal of shipping and several local chambers of commerce are opposing the request. They contend that rates within Texas are higher than interstate rates now.

Truckers say they must have the increase because increased costs of operation are causing them to have substantial losses.

Attorney General Will Wilson has ruled that credit unions are subject to the same prohibition as banks against setting up branch offices or receiving deposits anywhere except in their main offices. Ruling was asked for by the State Banking Commission.

In another ruling, based on a question from the Texas Annual Health Commission, the attorney general held that the Commission is not compelled to begin brucellosis control work in an area "until such time as it is economically sound and scientifically feasible."

Soil Stewardship Week Announced

The National Association of Soil Conservation Districts has proclaimed the week of May 22-29 as Soil Stewardship Week. In order to bring the purpose of the Association before the public the Board of Supervisors of the local Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District has ordered material from the National Association for ministers of churches in the district. The material has been placed in the hands of a number of ministers who plan to use Soil Stewardship as their sermon topic on either May 22 or 29.

In addition to material furnished ministers, a color-film is available from Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District. The title of the film is "The Earth Is The Lord's." Those interested in showing the film should contact Luther Lesley, chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

Two thousand church bulletins were also ordered and will be used on one of the Sunday's mentioned.

The trading floor of the New York Stock Exchange is one of the city's most popular spectator attractions. The convention bureau estimates 450,000 persons will visit the exchange this year.
