

Quints Arrive For Parley With Parents

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP)—Three of the Dionne quintuplets arrived home today to talk things over with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, who this week publicly accused the surviving quintuplets of drifting away from the family, were not at the door to meet them.

A source close to the family said the parents were awake, however, and added: "Mrs. Dionne was very upset during the night."

In the car were the quintuplets, Yvonne, Cecile and Annette; their brother, Oliva Jr., a 19-year-old airman; and two unidentified youths.

Purpose of the trip home from Montreal was to patch up family differences which in three days stirred up almost as many headlines as the near-miracle of the quintuplets' birth 21 years ago.

Later, the quintuplets' father met reporters and said he hasn't had an opportunity to talk things over with them.

"The girls are very tired and they need some sleep," he said. "They traveled all night and the driving was miserable."

He said he did not know how long the girls would be home.

"I did have a little talk with Annette and we straightened out a few personal matters," he said. "We only talked about a couple of little things that only concerned Annette and me."

"We will probably have a long talk about things later in the day."

L. M. Edwards, trust company executive who advises the 21-year-old girls in handling the $800,000 fortune built up during their minority, said Marie, the fourth surviving quintuplet, remained in Montreal because she is convalescing from a recent illness. The fifth sister, Emilie, died in August 1954.

"The girls are going to see their parents to prove that there is no question of them drifting away from their family," Edwards said.

The girls' father said Tuesday that for the first time in their lives they had failed to spend Christmas at home. He added they had not even telephoned. He charged the girls were "drifting away from their family" and blamed "outsiders" he would not identify for the alleged rift.

Edwards said the girls were concerned over their father's statement and "that's why they are going to see them." He scoffed at reports that romances may have had a part in the misunderstanding, saying that none of the four sisters has any serious romantic interest.

PARIS (AP)—A government admission that a gendarme shot down a rebel suspect in Algeria to make a picture for a photographer made strife in the North Africa territory the undisputed top issue today in the French election campaign.

Ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France's chief organ, the newspaper L'Express, first made the story charge. Premier Edgar Faure's at first denied it, but an Interior Ministry statement finally said a representative of the American newsreel firm Fox Movietone bribed the gendarme to shoot the suspected rebel in front of his camera.

Faure accused L'Express of acting "for electoral ends" and of "losing sight of the elementary sense of national interest."

Fox Movietone's Paris office issued a statement protesting the bribery charge. It said, "Our representatives receive orders for scrupulous and impartial information only. We have no knowledge of their ever having failed in this duty."

The photographer was not identified but he was understood to be French.

The government admission further inflamed the bitter political rivalry between Faure and Mendes-France, chief political rivals in the Jan. 2 elections of a new National Assembly.

The government accused L'Express of damaging army morale. L'Express had reprinted five pictures of the shooting from the newsreel film which first appeared last summer.

The Interior Ministry said the photographer had been charged with corrupting a civil servant and that the gendarme would be tried by a military court.

County Orders Vote On Tax Reallocation

Reallocation of county tax revenues, if approved by voters Jan. 21, will add an estimated $65,000 annually to the county general fund.

Commissioners decided Thursday to propose the reallocation of a total of 15 cents per $100 of valuation to the general fund. This would include eight cents now going to the jury fund, four cents presently designated to the road and bridge fund, and three cents now assigned to the permanent improvements fund.

Voters will be asked to decide on the proposal in the special election Jan. 21. No tax increase is at stake, merely the change in the amounts of the present tax levy among the various "constitutional" funds.

The reallocation would increase the general fund levy from 25 to 40 cents per $100 of taxable values. The levy for the jury fund would be reduced from 15 to seven cents, for the road and bridge from 15 to 11 cents, and for the permanent improvements fund from 25 to 22 cents per $100 valuation.

The increase in general fund revenues would boost that fund's resources from an estimated $105,000 to approximately $170,000 per year.

Commissioners decided early in December to call the reallocation election when it became apparent the general fund would run out of money before the end of the year. At the same time, substantial surpluses were apparent in the jury, road and bridge and permanent improvements funds.

Property taxpayers will vote on the proposed change. The 1954 poll tax receipts and exemption certificates will be honored by election officials.

FRAGMENTS OF HISTORY

Last Records Of Yalta Parley Released By U.S. Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late Secretary of State Cordell Hull once angrily told fellow members of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Cabinet his former No. 1 aide Sumner Welles seemed to be operating a second State Department" without interference from Roosevelt.

The late Joseph Stalin plainly told Roosevelt soon after the 1945 Yalta conference that he intended to have in Poland a government which would establish "friendly relations" with the Soviet Union.

Moscow advised the United States in advance of Yalta that it wanted to break up Germany into smaller nations, "demilitarize German industry," and collect reparations in machinery over a 10-year period.

These and other fragments of history—some of them shedding added light on the origins of the cold war—are disclosed in the publication of more than 40 previously secret documents bearing on the Yalta conference.

The State Department printed the documents together with a vast accumulation of other papers in a 1,032-page volume put on sale by the Government Printing office late yesterday.

Only these 40 or so items are new, and most of them deal with minor developments of the 1944-45 period. The great bulk of the Yalta papers were made public last March. Now the whole collection has become available in book form at $3.50 a copy.

Joseph Reap, State Department press officer, said the new papers came from "scrapping the barrel" in the Roosevelt Library in Hyde Park, N.Y., and from various government sources.

The new additions provided some interesting footnotes to the history of that period near the end of World War II, and included a humorous touch.

The late Harry L. Hopkins, special presidential assistant, wrote Roosevelt from London in January 1945, shortly before the Yalta conference, that he had talked with Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Hopkins continued:

"He says that if we had spent 10 years in research, we could not have found a worse place in the world than Magneto (code name for Yalta) but that he feels that he can survive it by bringing an adequate supply of whisky. He claims it is good for typhus and deadly on lice which thrive in those parts."

A paper which would have created a sensation at the time was written by Harry Dexter White, then an assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. on the meeting in the office of Secretary Hull in September 1944.

White later was accused of being a Communist who had engaged in espionage—charges which he denied under oath a few days before his death in 1948. More recently he was called a Russian spy.

But in 1944 White was trusted with many inner government secrets and sat in on the meeting along with Morgenthau, Hull, the late Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and other officials. Morgenthau had requested the session to report on a Roosevelt-Churchill meeting at Quebec, which he attended.

His appearance and Hull's absence at Quebec gave rise to reports of a Cabinet split over German postwar policy.

At the outset of the meeting, Hull told of having intercepted a letter from a South American diplomat to his government describing a meeting of Latin-American officials at Welles' home.

"Hull appeared to be quite angry at the fact that Welles seemed to be operating a second State Department" unofficially and that he

Judge Orders Cafe Open To Negroes

Federal Ruling Is Debated In Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—The operator of the new Harris County courthouse cafeteria was ordered by a federal judge yesterday to serve both Negroes and whites but how the order will be carried out was debated today.

The county attorney said he presumed the ruling meant separate dining rooms. An attorney for the Negroes said the "separate but equal doctrine" would not be acceptable.

The county judge said the cafeteria might be closed.

Federal Judge Ben Connolly gave the cafeteria operator 30 days to arrange facilities to serve Negroes.

The ruling came in a two-year-old suit brought by A. W. Plummer and three Houston Negroes against the Harris County Commissioners Court and W. F. Derrington, who operates the cafeteria.

Both sides disagreed on the interpretation of the ruling which said:

"Having undertaken to furnish eating facilities for its citizens, the county, so far as it is able, must afford comparable and substantially equal treatment to all without regard to color."

"I presume his order would allow Derrington set off a room to serve Negroes since he says nothing against segregation in the ruling," County Atty. Burke Holman said.

Henry Doyle, Plummer's attorney, disagreed.

"Separate but equal facilities wouldn't be acceptable. We are of the opinion that the 'separate but equal doctrine' went out of the window some time ago."

The ruling restrained the county from renewing or extending the present lease or executing any new lease "without specific assurances that facilities would be available to Negroes."

"The operation of the cafeteria is too close in origin to the functions of county government to allow a concessionaire to refuse service without good cause," the judge asserted.

Doyle said the ruling will have "more sweeping effects than people realize."

"This is the first time where the lease situation in public buildings has been put to test in the South," he said. "By implication, the decision will affect the cafeterias at the airport, the police station, city hall and in other public-subsidized eating places."

The airport cafe, under terms of a federal grant, is supposed to serve both Negroes and whites. Other city restaurants have been operated on a segregated basis.

County Judge Bob Casey said the Commissioners Court would meet Friday.

"We will have to take into consideration three factors—whether we can operate the cafeteria so it is acceptable to the public, to the law, and to someone who is willing to operate it," he said. "If we can't solve these problems, we may have to close it."

TO NEW YORK Extradition Okayed For Dr. Sainburg

Gov. Allan Shivers today granted the extradition of Dr. Frank Sainburg of Big Spring to New York on kidnapping, assault and burglary charges.

George Thomas, Big Spring attorney for the VA Hospital surgeon, said Sainburg will continue to fight the extradition. Next step in the case will be for the governor to send the extradition warrant to Big Spring or Longview, where Sainburg is under bonds on "fugitive complaints."

The doctor then will go before a judge and request an opportunity to present his case against extradition.

Sainburg is accused of kidnapping his son, Phillip II, from his former wife, Miss Doris Blanchard of Ithaca. The assault and burglary charges were filed in connection with the alleged kidnapping. The child is 4.

A hearing was held before Secretary of State Tom Reavley about two weeks ago. New York's efforts to extradite him met opposition then from attorneys for the physician.

The attorneys claimed in the hearing that charges against Sainburg in New York were the result of "personal animosity" toward the member of the Big Spring Veterans Hospital staff.

Sainburg's attorney also told Reavley the doctor is "not fugitive from justice in Texas" and therefore is not subject to extradition.

Reavley made his recommendation to Shivers before the Christmas holiday.

Shivers said "the guilt or innocence of Dr. Sainburg was not at issue in this case. In extradition cases, the questions raised are the sufficiency of the requisitioning papers and the identity of the accused. Gov. Harriman of New York certified the papers as being authentic."

Shivers added:

"In recognition of the principle of comity between the states and in compliance with the provisions of the Uniform Criminal Extradition Act, this office follows the policy of surrendering to other state fugitives against whom a substantial criminal charge is pending in such state upon receipt of properly authenticated papers."

"It is in pursuit of this policy and in accordance with Secretary of State Reavley's recommendation that I have granted extradition in this case."

During the hearing before Reavley, Mrs. Connie Sainburg, 23, Sainburg's present wife, testified her father, Neal Smith of Longview, had sought to break up her marriage. She said her father was trying to promote Sainburg's extradition to remove him from Texas.

New York attorneys denied that animosity of Sainburg's former wife or his present father-in-law prompted the extraditions attempt.

Conviction of kidnapping in New York carries a punishment of 10 to 15 years imprisonment.

sharply reflected in documents bearing on Poland.

On March 6, 1945, in meetings following up the Yalta agreement of the Big Three to create an independent government in Poland, Ambassador Averell Harriman—now governor of New York—reported he had held "three more unproductive hours" of discussion on the issue. Harriman said every argument he and the British representative made "was brushed aside."

On April 7, 1945, Stalin sent Roosevelt a "secret and personal" message in which he said in part:

"The Soviet government proceeds from the fact that in accordance with the meaning of the decisions of the Crimea conference such Polish leaders should be invited for consultations who are really striving to establish friendly relations between Poland and the Soviet Union."

Morgenthau gave Stimson and Hull a copy of a memorandum on Germany which had been initiated by Churchill and Roosevelt. Though White does not describe it, the document is known to have provided for the imposition of a tough peace, including the elimination of much German industry and stressing agricultural production.

White wrote also that Hull objected to Roosevelt's making certain lend-lease commitments to Britain without consulting the State Department.

At one point Morgenthau asked how Hull would like to go about negotiating on a French lend-lease problem. White described Hull's reaction this way:

"Secretary Hull responded rather bitterly, that he was rapidly losing interest in the whole matter; that if he was to be kept out of the discussions and the decisions on matters of such an important character that he was losing interest in the whole business."

U.S. Traffic Toll Still Climbing

CHICAGO (AP)—Delayed reports and subsequent deaths from injuries suffered in Christmas holiday weekend traffic have pushed the toll of fatalities well above the record 609 counted Tuesday.

The delayed reports raised to 629 the number of highway deaths which occurred during the actual holiday period.

Of the thousands who were hurt in crashes on streets and highways between 6 p.m. local time Friday, Dec. 23, and midnight Monday, Dec. 26, at least 34 had died up to noon yesterday.

These, plus the 629 during the heavy travel hours, brought the toll to 663. And in the days and weeks to come it probably will continue to grow.

The 609 count taken at the close of the weekend broke the old Christmas holiday record by 43 deaths. In 1952 there were 536 fatalities during the corresponding period.

The following list shows the number of deaths each state counted as of midnight Monday; the revised number of deaths during the actual holiday period including delayed reports and corrections; the number of subsequent deaths up to noon yesterday from injuries received in holiday traffic; and the new aggregate state total:

Crowd Decries Beauty Contest

NICE, France (AP)—The crowd howled "No" when the judges tapped Miss Maryse Fabre, pretty 18-year-old blonde secretary, to be "Miss France, 1956."

"Gangsterism, swindle," the objectors shouted.

Guy Rinaudo, president of the Miss France Committee, acted fast. He annulled the whole proceeding and announced the 21 contestants would strut their stuff again Saturday night.

The spectators were disgruntled because they couldn't get a good look at the girls in the small movie house, and felt audience applause hadn't been taken into consideration by the judges. There always are more disappointed supporters than pleased ones at these beauty contests, anyway.

Just Like The Old Year, Puzzle Prize Fades Out

Just as an old year fades away—that Cashword Puzzle money fades away, too. At least for one more week.

Yes, no winners again. Although nearly 12,000 entries came pouring in, none hit that magic combination that matches the puzzle maker's definition. His idea of the key words appears with the puzzle solution on Page 4, Section II, of today's Herald.

All this simply means that another $25 goes into the jackpot. And it is possible, with merchants' bonuses offered, for a winner to pick up more than one thousand bucks next week. Wha, a way to start the new year! This money is still available—until somebody DOES win.

Small Businesses Granted U.S. Loans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The small business administration announced today a liberalized lending program for "very small businesses"—such as retail shops, restaurants, repair shops and dry cleaners.

Administrator Wendell Barnes said SBA will lend up to $15,000 provided the bank borrowers will put up at least one fourth of the total loan. Interest will be not more than 6 per cent.

The SBA, Barnes said, will accept the bank's decision whether the small businessman has adequate collateral—which, in this program, need not consist of more than mortgage or real estate or personal property, a personal endorsement, an assignment of accounts receivable, or a pledge of warehouse receipts.

Barnes said corporations formed by groups of "small publishers" have been made eligible for SBA pool loans for building or expanding newspaper producing facilities.

Barnes admitted he did not know whether the newspaper program was "practicable or not." An economic newspaper mill would cost about 26 million dollars and SBA's legally-fixed maximum loan would be $250,000.

He said SBA is "willing to explore the subject with any group of publishers which is interested," to see whether sufficient funds for a pool could be raised by combining the SBA loan with their own capital, bank borrowings, and possibly the proceeds of a stock issue.

He said he has received four or five inquiries from publishers as to whether SBA's authority to make 10-year pool loans to groups of small business concerns would be available to newspaper and magazine publishing companies.

The SBA is barred by law from making regular business loans to newspapers and radios. Barnes said SBA's loan policy board made up of himself, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Commerce Weeks—has

Most Vaccine Sent To States Is Still Unused

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Public Health Service report indicated today that more than half the Salk polio vaccine shipped to private physicians and health departments remains unused.

Surgeon General Leonard Scheele commented, however, that both to prepare for mass inoculation programs and to provide a reserve for second shots, and added: "The distribution and use of the vaccine appears to be proceeding in a reasonably satisfactory manner."

At the same time, he asked that parents, private physicians and health officers in those areas where vaccine is available cooperate in using supplies as rapidly as possible.

The health service report was based on estimates from 36 states and territorial health officers.

It said that about 45 per cent of the vaccine shipped to their areas under the voluntary control program prior to Nov. 30 had been used by that date.

The preliminary estimates indicated that about 3,200 cubic centimeters—or doses—were given 2,200,000 children and expectant mothers in the 36 areas from July 31 through Nov. 30.

Use of the vaccine under the voluntary control program, which became effective July 31, is in addition to that under the free program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The service said more than 13½ million c.c.'s had been used by the NFIP to vaccinate about seven million children.

Almost a fourth of the unused vaccine reported is held by New York and California. Both states, the health service said, are getting ready for mass programs.

Embezzlement May Total Million Dollars

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A businesswoman well known for her contributions to church and charity faced a $100,000 grand larceny charge today in an embezzlement case that eventually may total one million dollars.

The charge was placed against Miss Minnie G. Mangum, 52, a $9,500-a-year official of the Commonwealth Building and Loan Assn. She was accused of embezzling the $100,000 from her employer over a period of a year.

Commonwealth's Atty. Linwood Tabb Jr. said he had been advised there were additional irregularities that would swell the total to at least $800,000 over five years.

A spokesman said the company has recovered assets valued at $200,000 from Miss Mangum, including eight houses worth $50,000. One was the modest bungalow where she lived with her sister in nearby Portsmouth.

Miss Mangum faced a preliminary police court hearing today after being released last night on $25,000 bond. She refused to talk with reporters.

She joined the firm 28 years ago and worked her way up to assistant secretary-treasurer. It may have been a quarrel with an employe that led to her troubles with the law, Mrs. Esther M. Cannon, who had banking and bookkeeping knowledge, was hired last fall after coming to Norfolk with her sailor husband from Waukegan, Ill.

The argument was over the filing of an account card and it took place on a day when auditors were checking the books, Mrs. Cannon was fired Nov. 6 by Miss Mangum, who called her a "troublemaker."

Someone tipped federal authorities and 24 federal bank auditors moved into Commonwealth Dec. 15.

Their investigation disclosed a fund shortage, Roy Phillips, president of the firm, announced Miss Mangum had signed a statement admitting embezzlement.

Phillips said Mrs. Cannon has been rehired. Neither would say what part she may have played in exposing the thefts.

Veteran Carries Benefit Fight To Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—James Kutcher, a legless veteran accused of disloyal activities, carried to Washington today his fight to save his $329-a-month federal war injury compensation.

A hearing before the Veterans Administration Central Committee on Waivers and Forfeitures was called to determine whether he should be stripped of his veterans benefits.

Kutcher, who lost both legs under mortar fire in World War II, was fired in 1948 from his job as a file clerk in the VA's Newark, N.J., office. He was charged with membership in the Socialist Workers party, listed by the attorney general as a subversive organization. He is still fighting that case in court.

Then the VA announced Dec. 23 that a regional office had suspended Kutcher's $329 payments Nov. 30, but that the payments were being restored pending an investigation.

Kutcher's attorneys, Joseph L. Rauh Jr. and John Sillard, demanded that today's hearing be open to the public and that he be allowed to confront his accusers.

VA officials indicated the proceedings would be open but that, as usual in federal loyalty-security cases, the unnamed accusers would not appear to testify.

Kutcher has denied making what he called "wild statements" against the government, but says he favors a peaceful approach to socialism.

Ike To Mix Rest, Work On State Of Union Message

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—President Eisenhower mixes work on his State of the Union message today with additional general relaxation recommended by his physicians.

Kevin McCann, the President's chief message writer, arranged to fly down from Washington with the most recent draft of the document due to go to Congress Thursday. It will outline the administration's 1956 legislative program.

The message will be read in Congress by Senate and House clerks. The President plans to stay here until about Jan. 8.

Still recuperating from his Sept. 24 heart attack, Eisenhower yesterday put a big smile on the face of the White House doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder. The smile flashed after Eisenhower had practiced golf shots, started two oil paintings and completed a 55-minute, two-mile walk around the Key West naval base — the Chief Executive's vacation headquarters.

Looking approvingly at Eisenhower, Snyder told newsmen: "If I can get this guy healthy, that's all I want."

His walk took him partly along Truman Beach, named for his predecessor, once a frequent visitor here.

Eisenhower had some fun with his naval aide, Cmdr. Edward L. Beach, when the officer suggested a short cut at one point during the stroll.

"Don't get me shot," Eisenhower said. "It says 'No passage'."

The passage runs alongside quarters which, Beach noted, are occupied by Rear Adm. H. H. Henderson, the base commandant.

"If he shoots you, he's got to answer to me," Beach told the President with a grin.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND Status Of Royalty Needs 'Rethinking'

LONDON (AP)—Reviewing the romance of Princess Margaret and Peter Townsend, the Church of England Newspaper said today the "status and obligations of members of the royal family need careful rethinking." It did not specify what lines it believed the rethinking should take.

Princess Margaret announced Oct. 31 that she had decided not to marry the divorced Royal Air Force hero because she was "mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble and conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth."

The newspaper, which is a lay journal but often reflects views held in top levels of the established Anglican Church, said: "The possibility of Princess

Margaret's marriage with a divorced man, so widely canvassed, has been a point at which the most popular attention has been focused on the church.

"An appearance of temporizing in this case would have done it immense harm, but the incident raised many issues of importance besides that of the church's attitude to remarriage."

The church was criticized widely after Margaret made her decision known. The Archbishop of Canterbury, ranking prelate of the church subsequently denied in a television broadcast that he had brought pressure on her to give Townsend up.

Child's Fumbling With Phone Brings Help To His Mother

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Charles Finkenstadt, 2½, doesn't know how to dial a telephone.

But he worked with the instrument long enough to get firemen to revive his mother Mrs. Virginia Finkenstadt after she collapsed yesterday.

Charles fumbled desperately until an operator noticed the erratic signal. She rang the fire station. The youngster was unable to tell his name or his address.

"Where's your mother?" asked a fireman. "She's on the floor," Charles replied.

Firemen extended the conversation to have the call traced. Then they raced to the home and found Mrs. Finkenstadt unconscious on the floor.

Johnson May Tell His Senate Plans

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas may say Monday whether he will continue as majority leader of the Senate.

Johnson is here at the Mayo Clinic for a checkup on his progress since his July 2 heart attack. He indicated he would make no decision before reaching his office in Washington.

Johnson's wife accompanied him here. She said the senator plans to compare the results of the Mayo examination with one received recently in Atlanta. She said he plans to "mull it over for a while" before deciding.

Whether he will resume his majority leader duties will be determined by the checkup here. He leaves Saturday morning.

Conscientious Thug Gives Back Money

CHICAGO (AP)—A holdup man robbed Anthony A. Gorman, a cleaning shop owner, of $15 but returned it when he heard children's voices in an apartment at the rear of the establishment.

"Take it back," Gorman said the robber told him. "You have kids and need it."

Then, police reported, the gunman proceeded to collect a total of $203 from four other shops in the neighborhood.

A Bible Thought For Today

For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us. (Romans 8:18)

Editorial

Two Decisions Of Great Import

Twenty-four hours after President Eisenhower took off for a vacation at Key West another prominent Texan, Lyndon B. Johnson, flew to Rochester, Minn., for a medical check-up.

At Rochester Senator Johnson will learn whether in the opinion of his doctors he will be able to continue as leader of the Democratic majority in the Senate. For all the public knows the prognosis is good. Since his heart attack last July Senator Johnson has taken good care of himself. To the close friends who know what a ball of fire he is in action, the senator's ability to follow a strict regimen in pursuit of recovery was an agreeable surprise. His highly efficient staff has relieved him of much of the routine chores that fall to a senator, and since Congress has not been in session in many weeks the pressing duties of Senate leader have eased considerably.

To say that the Democratic hosts hope he will get the go-ahead from his doctors is putting it mildly. For the rugged

Texas is a key figure not only in Congress, but in the affairs of his party. His wise leadership has done much to ease the pains, if not to heal the wounds, of the great schism of 1952. That leadership could very well find him bearing the party's battle standard in 1956.

At Key West the other Texan may very well resolve the great question whether he will seek re-election. Like Lyndon Johnson he suffered a severe heart attack, and as much as the onerous weight of the presidency would let him, he has taken good care of himself; but the senator has twenty years of advantage in age, and this could be decisive in the amount of energy each could expend with impunity.

To an unusual extent both these Texans have the respect and admiration of multitudes on both sides of the political fence, and it goes without saying that whatever the decision is in each case they will have the sympathy and best wishes of all Americans.

Some Suggestions - Not Resolutions

Ninety-nine New Year resolutions out of a hundred are worthless, however well-intentioned they may be. If all the solemn pledges regarding personal conduct ever made by mankind and duly carried out were piled on top of each other, they would leave a big hole in the ground. For there is something perverse in human nature that causes a pledge to become a constant challenge to personal liberty, and few of us can rest until we have broken it.

However, there are some ideals, not pledges or resolutions, most of us can aspire to from day to day, with a view to bettering our performance as participants in human society.

We can hope to count ten before flying off the handle, for in this case we can actually measure the results instantly. Try it sometime. You'll be surprised at the number of times the mere counting of ten will avert a blow-up.

The same rule applies to getting off a wisecrack at someone else's expense. People with a reputation for saying outing things to or about other people make few friends, and rarely keep any of them for long. Friends are wonderful things to have and to keep.

Withholding judgment of another's supposed transgression until you've had time to investigate the facts yourself is a virtue worth cultivating. Quite often the facts get twisted.

If you speak to an old acquaintance and get no response, consider: he may be worried about his income tax, or some other personal problem. A good nine-tenths of the slights and animosities we encounter turn out to be imaginary.

If you can't speak well of an acquaintance, don't say anything. There are plenty of others to speak the ill.

A soft word turneth away wrath. Readiness to confess a fault or accept the blame is the true mark of a gentle person, man or woman.

Conserve energy by smiling. A frown is much harder to execute from an energy standpoint.

Frail Sex Grows Stronger

NEW YORK (AP) — The frail sex grows steadily stronger—industrially and financially—thanks to electronics and statistics.

With more women working all the time, and at jobs once considered only man's work, making more money and living longer to spend it, business increasingly tilts its products and processes their way.

And the more pushbuttons the better, as the banks have found in their quest for a stable labor force.

In the products field, power steering made its first great appeal to the woman driver. Men liked it but wouldn't admit they weren't strong enough to park a car easily.

Electric typewriters ease the daily toll of the tired stenographer. Prepared and prepackaged foods make homework easier for feminine breadwinners returning from the office or factory.

New automation may see to it that the female with pushbuttons at her fingertips is the equal of the male in industry.

And the women will tell you it's high time too. Around one third of the 54 million of age are reported working now. Their total number is one-third higher than before World War II.

Some 18 million women at work are under 65 and about half million others are past that age. In the younger group the greatest percentage are in clerical or sales jobs. In the older group nearly half are doing professional, technical or industrial work.

Banks, for instance, now employ more women than men. And in some sections of the land there are more women bank vault custodians than men, and more women branch bank managers.

Hollywood Review

Ernie And His Sixteen Tons

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Ernie Ford had been born a few miles distant, the nation's No. 1 record might have been "Sixteen Tons" by Virginia Ernie.

That's the thought for today.

As a matter of fact, Ernie's hometown is on the Tennessee side of the border city of Bristol. It's a good thing, too. He probably never would have gotten very far as Virginia Ernie.

But as Tennessee Ernie Ford, his career is booming. It looks as though his "Sixteen Tons" is going to be the biggest seller in recent history.

"I'm amazed by it all," said the modest singer over breakfast.

"Nothing like this ever happened to me."

I guess nothing like it ever happened to anyone.

The astounding sales: over two million records in eight weeks, and the amount is still climbing.

No wonder Ernie is amazed—he has been a performer for six years. He came to California in 1946, landing in San Bernardino as a radio announcer. He moved on to Pasadena and that's where he adopted country music.

In 1949, hillbilly emcee Cliffie Stone enlisted Tennessee Ernie on his Hometime Jubilee TV show. That's when Ernie's career started taking off. He rumbled around in the TV and record world, then came to national attention as Lucille Ball's country cousin on I Love Lucy.

For the past year he has been doing 19 shows a week, five on NBC-TV in the morning and five on CBS radio at night. He has been called a bacchic Arthur Godfrey, since he has much the same kind of voice and delivery.

How did he find "Sixteen Tons?"

He explained that he was able to do a variety of songs on his TV and radio shows because he needed so many to fill the time. He remembered some folk tunes that Merle Travis, a guitar player and singer, had recorded. He picked "Sixteen Tons" out from the sheet music.

"I did it three times on the show," Ernie recalled. "The mail response was terrific. Then I sang the song at the Indiana State Fair last summer. There were 38,000 people in a big hall and you could have heard a pin drop. That's when I decided I'd better record it."

Climate Of The Times Is Cold

WASHINGTON (AP)—The little guy among the little guys going home this New Year's Eve, has to button up his coat against the cold. It's not just the weather which chills him. It's the climate of the times.

It was only 10 years ago, with the war just over, that he set out like a ship on an untried sea, a world suddenly at peace, wondering what the oncoming tide of years had in store for him. He hoped it would be good.

And in a way it was very good. He got married, had children, furnished a home, found at last a job he liked and wanted to stick with, and made more money than he had thought he would. So did people around him.

But it was not enough. It was not the whole thing. He was uneasy. Not in a big way. Not in a deep way. But troubled. He had an uneasy misgiving about the future, about the world and everyone, including him.

If he had to put it in words, he'd say: "I keep asking myself, I mean every once in a while, what is everything heading and will a family like mine go on to old age or just go up in dust and smoke?"

He and others like him had come out of the blood and death of World War II like people stumbling out of a fire, wanting nothing so much as peace and quiet for a long, long time. But it didn't turn out like that.

The war was hardly over before the world twisted around in a new convulsion like a dragon that had swallowed its own fire. The old enemies had become the new allies and the old allies had become the new enemies.

The funny thing about it, he thought, was that nations are made up of people who act through the heads of their governments and people get mad at one another's governments but don't seem to be mad at one another.

It was an old story, he knew. People always got mad at governments and went to war against governments and killed one another in the war without ever really being mad at one another personally.

What could be more confusing, he thought, than what happened this week when Nikita Khrushchev, head of the Russian Communist party, attacked the American government for wishing the satellite peoples well?

Khrushchev particularly picked on President Eisenhower, the head of the American government, but in the same breath said he hated to sound mean about Eisenhower because he liked the President so much personally.

Yet, in the meantime, without people hating one another individually, people through their governments were manufacturing bombs which made former bombs look like cap pistols so they could kill one another more effectively.

All the little guy wanted was to keep on living with some assurance that he would be able to do just that till he died of old age. But he knew there was no one on the face of the earth who could tell him that for sure.

Without thinking about it he pulled his collar tighter.

How To Tame Wild Parties

NEW YORK (AP)—What kind of a time will you have on New Year's Eve?

The Fourth of July gets safer and safer every year. As the result of mass protests by wives and other moralists, the once-unruly office Christmas party has become as tame as a kindergarten cookie klatch.

But the problem of how to stay alive on New Year's Eve becomes more pressing with each passing season. The parties get wilder and wilder. Joy reigns unconfined and unreined.

Too many people, worn out with Christmas good will, take the brakes off their mind—and forget to put their foot on the brake of their motor car. The streets are less safe than a battlefield.

If you go to a night club (cover charge up to $30, bubbly water extra), it is as if you were playing a role in a mob scene in "Ben Hur." If you go to a home party, it is like being caught in a gladiator contest in the Roman Coliseum.

Instead of bringing along a bottle you'd do better to fetch a book on first aid.

As a result of the widespread mayhem committed in this atmosphere of false cheer, every hospital becomes a casualty station. New Year's Day itself could more aptly be called "National Hangover Day."

All this slaughter and self-punishment is really as unseemly as it is unnecessary. After all, just because the old year is dying, does a fellow have to try to kill himself?

New Year's Eve marks the eternal passing of 1955, and is really a kind of wake. Unrestrained levity is, therefore, a bit inappropriate. Why not be the first in your crowd to throw a really sensible New Year's Eve party?

Here's how to do it. First of all, invite only people who can get to your home without driving a car or crossing a street.

You then follow this schedule:

9 p.m.—The guests arrive, and each one is searched for bottles as he enters the door. Any bottles you find are emptied down the sink.

9:30—The first drink—fruit punch—is served.

10:00—Each guest is allowed to rise and tell the funniest thing that happened to him during the year. If any guest laughs immoderately, his breath will be promptly smelled and he will be handed his hat and coat.

10:30—The second drink—steaming bouillon—is served. If anyone asks for a second cup, give it to him. He may have sneaked a drink of something else before he came to your party.

11:00—Each guest will be allowed to rise and tell the saddest thing that happened to him during the year. This will have everybody weeping, so be sure to have plenty of crying towels handy.

11:30—The last drink—hot coffee or tea, plus leftover fruit cake—is served.

Midnight—A small silver bell will be passed from guest to guest. Each will be permitted to ring it as loudly and merrily as he chooses for a full half minute.

12:15—The guests are handed small cards on which is printed: "Fire has just broken out in our rear bedroom. Please say nothing—just leave as quietly and quickly as you can." As each guest goes out the door you hand him a WCTU prohibition tract.

By 12:30 all your guests will be safely home, and your year and family will be sound asleep.

A party of this kind may lack a certain hilarity, but you can be sure of one thing. Anybody who came to it will remember and talk about it for a long, long time.

Mr. Breger

Test Case

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—One of his prisoners, serving a term for drunkenness, came to jailer Pete Murphy and demanded a lie detector test. He explained he'd been drinking too much for 25 years and "I think I want to stop. My idea is to take the test to see if I'm lying to myself."

No Favor

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—"We were friends; we did each other favors," a defendant told the Newport News Municipal Court.

This didn't seem to Judge Ben Jacobs to jibe with the complaint of a woman plaintiff who said she was socked in the jaw. The fine was $28.75 with 60 days in jail.

Off The Records

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An ex-GI wrote to the Veterans' Administration office here requesting a "photogenic" copy of his armed services record. VA officials figured out he meant "photostatic." But they were really puzzled when another veteran wrote: "My VA number is (Oh, Oh, misplaced it)."

Around The Rim

Really, It's Not Complex

We have just been reading some rather heavy literature. All about fourth dimensions and inside-out doughnuts. It's one of the many books written by one of our leading scientists, George Gamow, in attempts to explain science to the layman.

(We once courted a girl till 3 in the morning explaining Einstein's theory of relativity, so you're wondering why Friday's Rim column so often is concerned with science subjects, you now have the answer.)

Actually, such heavy stuff isn't too hard to understand, provided you're of at least average intelligence and education. Gamow explains the fourth dimension, logically enough, by starting with zero. The zero dimension, he says, is a point in space; it has neither height, breadth or depth. The first dimension then, is length, represented by a straight line. The second dimension is a plane, such as the surface of a sheet of paper. And we live in a world of three dimensions. The fourth dimension is time. It's not hard to visualize a three-dimensional world such as ours moving through time. What stumps most of us (and also stumps some of the experts) is the mathematics of space-time.

And now for the inside-out doughnuts. If you take an inflated rubber ball, punch a hole in it and stretch the ball outward far enough, you eventually can stretch it flat onto a board, provided it doesn't tear in two. Now try it with an inner tube. You'll find, after much puffing and sweating, that it can't be done. But suppose you were able to step into the fourth dimension with the inner tube. You'd find it perfectly possible to stretch the inner tube into a flat shape. Or, just to be different, you could change a right-handed glove into a left-handed glove. (And did you know there are right- and left-handed atoms?)

It is impossible to turn a doughnut (or an inner tube) inside-out in our three-dimensional world. But given another dimension, it can be done. Only trouble is, you'd then have the entire universe inside the doughnut, which probably would be just as well, anyway.

Here's a provocative thought: People are shaped like doughnuts, if you allow for slight distortions (a three-dimensional object with a hole through the middle). If you turned a man inside-out he'd literally have the whole universe in the palm of his hand, although his hand would then be on the inside with the rest of us. Gamow illustrated this thesis with a drawing that would make Salvadoré Dalí's hair stand on end.

But don't be frightened away from all this heavy stuff. We recall from our junior high school days, reading passages from our older brother's English literature textbook ("A Tale of Two Cities," it was) and thinking: "Gosh, but this is hard! I'll never pass English literature!" But when we got to that bridge we crossed it with a grade of B plus. Science can be fascinating if you don't insist on skimming through it like you would a fast-moving novel.

The South's Position On Candidates

WASHINGTON — There are certain "facts of life" in American politics which blind partisans sometimes try to wish out of existence, but those same facts nevertheless persist.

Thus, when there began to be mention of Chief Justice Warren as a possible presidential nominee as the news of Ike's illness first began to be discussed in terms of the 1956 election, most veterans in American politics immediately dismissed the idea on two counts. First, they regarded as absolute the unequivocal statement by Mr. Warren in April 1955 that he would not be a candidate "under any circumstances or conditions." Second, they realized he couldn't carry any of the South, and perhaps none of the "border" states either, because of his personal influence in the making of the Supreme Court decision on segregation.

To the first point, the naive answer was made by the "left wing" groups promoting the candidacy of Warren that, of course, if President Eisenhower asked him to run, it would relieve the Chief Justice of any embarrassment about going back on his word — as if a pledge to keep the court out of politics can be broken so readily. On the second point there was a noticeable silence.

Now at last some of the same supporters who have been booming Warren right along are conceding it would be very bad if the Supreme Court were dragged into politics — particularly bad since the Chief Justice was the prime mover in the decision against segregation. For this issue would naturally then become prominent in the campaign, which, it is now said, would be most unfortunate.

But the same truth — the danger of putting the Supreme Court into politics — was well known the moment the name of Warren was mentioned in the first instance. As an emotional issue, few things compare in intensity with the segregation question in the South. It has its repercussions in certain sections of the North and especially in the border states like Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Missouri and Tennessee.

Indeed, it is questionable whether, because of his weakness in the South, Adlai Stevenson, if nominated, can be elected. Stevenson stands in the South as the symbol of the Truman attitude on "civil rights." It was the Stevenson group which antagonized Southern leaders by making, the fight on the so-called "loyalty test" in the Democratic National Convention of 1952.

It is often argued — rather superficially, to be sure — that it was mainly the "popularity" of Eisenhower which enabled him to win the South. It wasn't Ike's "popularity," however, which caused Senator Byrd of Virginia to decline in 1952 to announce what candidate he would support or at the same time to say flatly he wouldn't support the party nominee, Adlai Stevenson.

It wasn't Ike's "popularity" which caused Governor Shivers of Texas to bolt Stevenson in 1952. Even today Shivers is against Stevenson at a time when it is not known whether Ike will run on the Republican ticket.

Nor has Ike's "popularity" anything to do with the anti-Stevenson sentiment which has given birth to a boom for Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas — who, like Ike, has a heart ailment. It is generally regarded as a device to hold together the South's delegations behind a man who thinks as the South does on most questions.

It will be recalled that on the issue of the tidelands oil, the Democrats in the North, led by Stevenson, refused to recognize the position taken by the Democratic leaders in Texas and Louisiana. It will be recalled also that candidate Eisenhower gave a better answer from the Texas viewpoint that did Stevenson on the question of protecting states' rights on the problem of tidelands oil. Actually, on becoming President, Mr. Eisenhower signed a bill safeguarding the tidelands oil rights of the Southern states while leading Democrats in the North continued to cry "give-away."

Although segregation is a live issue in the South and, like many another emotional question, will not soon subside politically, the South is much more anti-radical today on questions of taxation and economic issues generally than it has ever been. It will vote as many northern Republicans do on these questions. It will not vote solidly Democratic next time, because many voters will not want to vote against a party under which "prosperity" has flourished.

What the Republican party hasn't taken to heart as yet is that an organizing job has to be done in the South and that the folks who "liked Ike" worked with an enthusiasm which, underneath the surface, was based on a determination to repudiate "Trumanism" in every form. Stevenson and "Trumanism" still mean the same thing in the South.

A Lot Of Us Won't See Dawn Of New Year

Well Sir, there were times when it seemed we'd never make it. But if we can just hang on another 24 hours, keep out of draughts and off the highways, we ought to be able to touch first base in 1956.

Again, there have been times in 1955 when it might have been best if we had all stood in bed, preferably with the covers over our heads, and, with only another 24 hours to go, that still might be the guarantee that we will get through 1955 alive and kicking.

During the three-day Christmas holiday, we Americans managed to slaughter more than 600 of ourselves and each other. This, in the true American spirit of constantly bigger and better records, set an all-time holiday high in road mayhem.

But it is confidently expected that we shall better this record on the upcoming three-day New Year's holiday, when both highways and drivers are expected to be considerably more loaded than at Christmas. During the next three days, we shall be killing ourselves and each other at such an unprecedented clip that some of us will never see the dawn of the new year.

If I sound a little casual and callous about the forthcoming mass murder on the highways, it is because I so obviously reflect the casual and callous attitude of us Americans and of the nation in relation to the death toll on the roads every time we celebrate such a holiday as Christmas or New Year's, Memorial Day or Labor Day.

If we, as individuals, were not callous and casual about such slaughter and if we did not reflect the national feeling, then surely as individuals or as a nation we would do something drastic to put an end to this maniacal destruction of human life.

Before every big holiday weekend, safety councils across the nation predict such-and-such a number of highway deaths, and, almost invariably, American motorists make hash of themselves and the figures, proving — among other things — what pikers these safety councils really are.

The National Safety Council predicted that 580 motorists would die in highway accidents over the Christmas holidays. But I guess we Americans showed that chintzy outfit! We managed, without half trying, to slaughter more than 600 of ourselves! And at Christmas, people aren't even trying. But you take New Year's, with all that grog aboard —

The lemmings do it one way, we Americans another. But a lot of both of us wind up dead whether we go for water, as the former, or for cars, as the latter.

These are the days when I think more admiringly than ever of the Scandinavian countries, where a driver with more than the alcoholic content of one highball in his system is jailed for from three weeks to six months if he is so much as puts the car key in the ignition. It may be dull, but better dull than dead.

You may complain that my creed is no cheerful little carol. But I didn't intend that it should be. I hope that it may scare even one motorist into saving the life that is his own. But I doubt it. But for those of us who do manage to survive into 1956, Happy New Year and throttle down.

Two Lamesa Churches Are Scenes Of Weddings During Christmas Week

LAMESA — In a candlelight ceremony read in the First Methodist Church, Doni Louise Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Richardson, 312 North Avenue, F., exchanged wedding vows with Ben Jones Woodson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craig Woodson of Brownwood, Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was read before an altar of woodwardia palm and frosted holly flanked by candelabra holding white cathedral tapers banked with baskets of white stock. Officiating was the Rev. Walter Horn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Kay Wiggins and E. J. Burkhead were vocalists. They were accompanied by Mrs. Matt McCall as they sang "Through The Years," "My Wonderful One," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original model of white imported lace over ivory satin designed with a portrait neckline framed by scalloped lace. The long lace sleeves came to points over the hands and the fitted bodice terminated at the center front in a deep point.

The satin skirt was joined at the waistline by a lace hipline peplum that extended into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion net was caught to a round scalloped crown of sequins and seed pearls and she carried white shredded carnations centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Lynn Ranson of Corpus Christi was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Nancy Stuart, Shirley Kee, Mary Anderson of San Angelo and Mrs. Billy Jack. They wore identical dresses of turquoise velvet and nylon tulle over taffeta.

The fitted bodices styled on princess lines were fashioned with portrait necklines. The full floor length skirts were worn over stiffened taffeta and crinoline. They wore turquoise bandeaux accented with rhinestones and carried single American Beauty roses with ornamented stems.

Flower girl was Frances Meyers of Snyder, niece of the bride. Richard May was ring bearer and Henry May, of Hing River, N. C., both nephews of the bride, and Robert Meyer of Snyder, also a nephew, were candlelighters.

LAMESA—First Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Carolyn Faye McMullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McMullen, to Robert Travis Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Weaver, Brownfield Road, Monday evening.

The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of the church, read the double ring service before an arch of greenery and white candles flanked by arrangements of white chrysanthemums.

Suzan Logan, organist, presented traditional wedding music and accompanied Kay Wiggins who sang "Through The Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white embroidered tulle over satin designed with a sheer yoke featuring a peter pan collar sprinkled with seed pearls. The fitted bodice held a full floor length skirt embroidered with sprays of seed pearls with a wide ruffle at the hemline. She wore a finger tip veil of silk illusion caught to a seed pearl tiara and carried an arm bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Norman Dudley was the honoree for a bridal shower Thursday afternoon given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, when members of the "B" Club entertained.

The bride is the former Ginger Hatch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hatch, 808 Edwards. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dudley, 1705 Donley. They were married in Carlsbad, N. M., Dec. 23.

Hostesses for the occasion included Frances Reagan, Marlene Mann, Tommie Joe Williamson, Mary Sue Hale, Bettie Anderson, Margaret Fryar, China Carroll, Margaret McGibbon and Suzanne Reynolds of Stanton. Sally Cowper, another member of the club, is honoring Mrs. Dudley this afternoon with a tea in the Cowper home.

About 60 guests called during the tea hours. Serving was done from a table centered with an arrangement in a low brass bowl, flanked with candles and greenery.

For the party, Mrs. Dudley wore a frock of separates—a straight gabardine skirt of blue and a figured blouse. Her accessories were black.

Shipyard's Lab Strong On Glamour

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Woman's place, says the builder of Uncle Sam's atomic submarines, is in a shipyard laboratory.

The Electric Boat Co. Division of General Dynamics Corp. is proud, on two counts, of the four women scientists on its payroll.

Not only do they handle their exacting tasks efficiently, but they also could easily hold their own in a beauty contest with the company's array of pretty typists and stenographers.

This is how they earn their daily bread and contribute to the success of the Nautilus, the Sea Wolf and other yet-to-be built ships in the atomic submarine fleet.

Mrs. Agnes Summers, with a bachelor's degree from Western College for Women and an M. S. in physics from the University of Connecticut, is an expert in sound and vibration reduction who works at cutting down the noises emitted by submarines. Mrs. Summers has an outside job, too. She does consulting engineering for her husband Frank, a building contractor.

Miss Mary McDonald, with a master's degree from Hunter College where she used to teach, does stress calculation operations on piping systems, determining what forces and stresses will have to be handled by systems carrying hot, radioactive fluids.

Easy Living In 1955 Was Keynote Of Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
Nineteen fifty-five was the year when home became a personal affair. Junior had his Davy Crockett room of favorite sports decor. Little League baseball rugs went to the floor. The den returned, and ottomans and lounging chairs were best sellers.

King-size parakeet cages gave evidence of the great fancy for the bird and some homemakers had their homes decorated in parakeet colors or in harmonizing hues. The parakeet's tribe increased.

Furniture was built not only for comfort but also for convenience. Fold-up dinette tables and easily cleaned, removable upholstery were two more items to make life easier for the housekeeper. Frank Lloyd Wright produced his long awaited furniture designs with that theme in mind, too — no hardware appeared on any of his furniture pieces. They were space savers, too.

Kitchen appliances continued to break the banal because 'who could resist them? The all-in-one washing and drying machine grew popular and colored appliances gave a new lift to the life of the weary chef. Small appliances such as broiling units made cooking a joy for many housewives. A new electronic range guaranteed that plates of food could be heated without the plate becoming hot. It would cook bacon in three minutes, roasts in ten. The electric pressure cooker simplified cooking ever so much more with its automatic shut-offs.

Day beds that looked like sofas in French Provincial or 18th century design were introduced. Some sofas looked like day beds.

The bathroom took on new interest with wash basins set in Directoire and other decorative cabinets. New bathrooms had definite lady appeal, too, with built-in vanity tables the order of the day.

WASHINGTON — In a new folder just issued by the Air Transport Association of America, "So You're Flying," there are helpful suggestions on all phases of a journey by air, from how to make your reservation to what sort of wardrobe and cosmetics travel best.

The leaflet reminds the prospective air traveler that her "starting-point" airline will make reservations on other lines if it is to be a long journey where several different airlines will be used. It also points out that wives may now travel for half fare with their husbands three days a week on the Family Plan.

A good motto with regard to luggage, says the leaflet, is "Take care of the ounces and the pounds will take care of themselves." Weight-saving materials that wash and dry fast and pack well are advised for the wardrobe and the leaflet puts a special blessing on wool and silk knits.

With regard to cosmetics, it suggests that as many of these as possible be in fold-up metal tubes, which are lightweight, easy to handle, pack in small spaces and provide insurance against spills.

Be informal and friendly with your seat mate — that's another piece of advice to be found in the leaflet.

There are also suggestions for traveling with small fry. It is pointed out that with the aid of the hostess there will be no difficulty in feeding young babies, as she will be happy to heat the bottle or baby food at feeding time.

BRAZIL NUT NESSLERODES
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts, divided
1/2 cup finely cut candied fruit
Combine sugar, corn syrup, water and salt in a saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking until stirring until syrup, when dropped in cold water, forms a hard ball, or until candy thermometer reaches 265 degrees F. Just before sugar reaches 265 degrees F., beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Remove syrup and gradually pour the syrup in a very fine stream over egg white, beating constantly while pouring. Continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Stir in vanilla, 1/2 cup of the Brazil nuts and fruit. With lightly buttered hands, form into 1/2-inch balls; roll in remaining 1/2 cup Brazil nuts. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

Closed Attitude Of Some U.S. Agencies Due Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee probing governmental information policies announced today plans for further hearings on a reported attitude in some agencies that the public "has little or no right to know" what is going on.

closed at the same time that four agencies have been asked to explain why they use the term "confidential" to restrict circulation of nondefense information. An executive order of Dec. 15, 1953, limited use of the "confidential" classification generally to defense material.

Tax Evasion Charges Filed

AUSTIN (AP)—Charges of evading more than $70,000 in income taxes for 1949 were filed on three Galveston men, Frank Maceo, Vic Maceo and Sam Serio here yesterday.

Despite the order, Moss said, the Interior Department, the Federal Reserve Board, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "misuse" the term or variations of it to keep wraps on nondefense information.

Moss' group, a subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee, conducted hearings last fall. Moss said information gathered by his committee indicates "many federal agencies have little interest in opening up the avenues of access to public information."

Insurance Depositors Ask Full Investigation

FORT WORTH (AP)—Depositors in the defunct U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. met last night and asked Gov. Shivers to conduct a full investigation.

Some 140 depositors in the combined bank and insurance company talked about recovering their losses and named a committee to represent them with similar groups in the state.

Air Force Increases Enlistment Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force today increased voluntary enlistment quotas in January from 10,000 to 14,000 to make up for lower enlistments in December. The Air Force said it has been operating on a monthly quota of about 10,000. The quota for December was reduced to 6,000, a spokesman said.

Sea Rescue

An H-19 helicopter of the 38th Air Rescue Squadron, Misawa Air Base, Japan, hoists a Japanese seaman (arrow) from the floundering cargo vessel, Tonda Maru, just north of Hachinohe Harbor, Japan. The vessel was driven aground by pounding seas and high winds and was breaking up about 150 yards offshore. The H-19, piloted by Lt. Herbert G. Gates, of Kansas City, rescued 14 of the 34-man crew. Seven crewmen swam to shore and 13 are missing.

THIRD-CLASS MAIL

Hundreds Of Yule Cards Face Fire

By DON HENRY
If Santa sent Christmas cards this year with two-cent stamps on them and if he didn't know the exact addresses, more than likely these cards are boxed up in a post office somewhere ready for the discard heap.

In fact, he—or somebody—sent a big boxful to Big Spring friends through the holiday season and because of inadequate addressing on the person had moved, the letters couldn't be forwarded or returned to the sender.

Under postal regulations, two-cent stamped cards are listed as third-class mail. And third-class mail cannot be forwarded or returned.

Thus, every year, in post offices across the nation, hundreds of such cards are destroyed. The reason: the wrong address, or an incomplete address allows the card or the party has moved.

And since they cannot be forwarded, or they cannot be returned, there is only one place they can go—the dead-letter pigeonhole.

Here that dead letter slot is a huge cardboard box, approximately 15 by 30 by 12 inches in size. And here the two-cent stamped cards will rest until sometime near the middle of January when they will be destroyed.

Before they are discarded, though, a group of the older mail carriers will go through the collection in the hopes they might recognize a party younger carriers did not know. Where these will come—if there are any—will be from cards addressed to just an individual in care of "Big Spring," with no street number.

But the remainder of the cards will be destroyed. Previously, regulations had required the post office to tear the cards in two prior to being discarded, but the ruling is not in effect now.

Although the box of unclaimed letters would appear huge to a person unaccustomed to the annual discard collection, Postmaster E. C. Boatler commented Thursday that this year's accumulation was smaller than for previous Christmas seasons. Boatler said this could be partially attributed to the people sending more cards by first-class mail—using three-cent stamps on the letters.

In addition to the smaller collection of third-class mail this year undelivered, Boatler said he was proud of the record this year of not receiving a package the post office could not deliver.

At least three or four packages usually arrive each Christmas with the address rubbed off or the tag missing.

Black-Eyed Peas Come Into Own

By TIM PARKER
TAYLOR, Tex.—Elmore R. Torn, exponent of black-eyed peas as insurance for good luck if eaten on New Year's Day, wearily but happily opened another letter.

From M. Sgt. Fred D. Thomas of Isle of Palms, S.C., it read in part: "You've hit it right and I agree with your association: 'To bring the glories, taste and zest 'Of peas before the nation. 'Tis true the taste of black-eyed peas

"With hog jowl on the side, 'Makes 'rebel, 'Yankee, 'Westerner' too. 'Take to the dish with pride.' Not all of them rhyme like that but Sgt. Thomas' letter was otherwise typical of more than 750 letters and postcards Torn has received in recent weeks.

The flood came after Torn opened membership rolls of the National Black-Eyed Pea Assn. to the public. He asked only that applicants pledge themselves to eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day, "generally extoll their goodness as an adequate subject for frequent conversation," and send their pledge along to P.O. Box 311, Taylor.

Torn is a respected agricultural economist who promotes black-eyed peas as a hobby.

Few Southerners would endanger their luck by failing to eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day. What surprised Torn was the response from Yankeeland. He's heard from but 10 states.

Mrs. Inez G. Hughes of Sisseton, S.D., said, "I'm doing my bit to promote them everywhere I go, but all I find is beans, beans, beans—pintos, navy beans, lima beans, kidney beans, red beans, white beans—but NO black-eyed peas!"

Perry R. Baker, a former Texan now living in Corcoran, Calif., said black-eyed peas were "a life saver during the depression." "One could eat them raw for breakfast, drink water for dinner and swell up for supper," he explained.

Texas Holiday Violence Takes Total Of 136

By The Associated Press
Texas, which leads the nation in highway deaths over the Christmas weekend, saw its Christmas-New Year toll climb to 136 Friday.
In the first week of the 11-day period which ends at midnight Jan. 2, some 77 persons have been killed in highway crashes and 59 in other forms of violence.
The Department of Public Safety, which ordered patrolmen to crack down on traffic violators, estimated 204 persons will meet violent deaths in Texas during the 11-day period.
In a nation-wide tabulation of Christmas violent deaths from Friday evening through Monday, a final checkup Thursday showed that Texas had 53 highway fatalities, California was second with 47 and Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan each had 40.
The latest deaths included:
Mrs. Pearl Thrower, 56, was killed when struck by a car in Waco.
Maxwell Jolly, 60, of Marlon, Ohio, was killed by a car near Rosenberg.
Jerry Behrens, 13, of Beeville, died when a car struck his bicycle.
Crute Adair, 48, of Dallas, was found dead at his home. Suicide was ruled.

The city's three big night clubs, the Chateau Madrid, the Copacabana and the Latin Quarter, are sold out. Requests for reservations at $25 a head ran ahead of last year's when prices were the same. The Versailles, a theater-type supper club on East 50th Street, sold out in midweek at a top of $25 a person, a $2.50 boost over 1954.
A spokesman there said the 3 a.m. closing won't affect the big boys, since the reservations cushion any minor drop in bar business as the result of the early closing.
The Stork Club on East 52nd Street is booked solid with no increase in its regular price scale. It expects to equal or top last year's take.
Most of the top-priced places offer for the price of admission a floor show or entertainers, plus dinner, dancing and souvenirs. Drinks come extra.
Most of the larger ones—are holding open house. That means no reservations required, and no increase in regular prices.

New Yorkers Will Live It Up Well On New Year's Eve

NEW YORK (AP)—New Yorkers by the millions are going to live it up at an accelerated pace on tomorrow's bottled New Year's Eve.
Most of the big clubs in town are sold out or will be before the first glass is raised Saturday evening. Prices are about the same as last year with a top of $30 per person at the Embassy Club and the Knight Box, both in the Ambassador Hotel on Park Avenue. Reservations generally are running ahead of last year.
Some of the little fellows may be hurt, however. State law sets a 3 a.m. closing time on Sunday morning, regardless of whether or not it's New Year's. Last year, spots could stay open around the clock, if they obtained a special all-night license. No such privilege is available this year.

AF Aid Society Thanks Godfrey

NEW YORK (AP)—The Air Force Aid Society has warmly thanked television's Arthur Godfrey for his $100,000 contribution.

Godfrey donated the money paid him for his series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post.
The society aids Air Force members and their families who are in need.

Reserve Pilot Dies At Controls

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Capt. Jay Warren, 34, of Corpus Christi collapsed and died at the controls of a C46 Wednesday night. Warren, of the Air Force Reserve, was co-pilot of the plane on flight here from Brooks AFB at San Antonio. Maj. James Baxter landed the plane unaided.

1955 National Traffic Death Toll Estimated At 38,500

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council today estimated the 1955 traffic death toll at 38,500—the highest in 14 years.
The estimate came as much of the nation took emergency action to hold down the frightening toll over the next three days. Safety officials fear another record will be set.
The council based its estimate on a projection of reports of 34,690 Americans killed in traffic in the first 11 months of the year.
A later survey, taken yesterday by The Associated Press from incomplete state police records, showed at least 35,783 traffic deaths.
The Safety Council figures that delayed reports, deaths through New Year's Eve and deaths later from injuries suffered late this year will bring the over-all total for the year to 38,500.
This would top last year's Safety Council figure of 36,000. It's 5,000 more than the 33,417 U. S. soldiers, sailors, Marines and airmen killed in the 37 months of the Korean War.

Traffic deaths totaled 3,680 in November—10 per cent more than the same month in 1954.
Last weekend—termed "Black Christmas" by safety experts—emphasized the mounting highway tolls and caused many states to order stringent enforcement efforts for the New Year weekend. A new record for any holiday in history, 629 Americans died outright in Christmas accidents. AP bureaus across the country reported today that 34 others died in the following 2½ days of injuries suffered over Christmas.
The Safety Council predicts 420 will die in the three-day New Year weekend. The greatest previous toll was 407 over the four-day 1952-53 holiday.
Arizona, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin have ordered out the National Guard to help cope with the New Year's threat.

Railroad Signals Save Man's Life

DONCASTER, England (AP)—Jack Lane owes his life to a bag of railroad detonator signals.
Lane, a 64-year-old railway guard, was walking along a spur line when a switch engine hit him from behind.
The engineer was unaware of the accident, but the detonators Lane carried flew under the wheels and exploded.
The engineer got out to investigate and found Lane lying unconscious, with one arm nearly severed. Lane is expected to recover.
Except for the detonators, a railway official said, Lane probably would have bled to death unnoticed.

British Plug Defense Leak

RIPON, England (AP)—The British army took firm action today to plug a leak in the defense budget known as "Mrs. Burrell's awning."

The solution was quite simple—on and after New Year's Day, no British army truck will be driven on the same side of the street as Mrs. Burrell's candy shop.

Over a period of time the army should save enough money to buy, say, an army truck.

The trouble all began rather casually one day in 1946. An army truck tooling down Coltsgate Hill swerved over the curb and ripped the awning off Mrs. Eva Burrell's store.

It was peaceful among the jaw-breakers, peppermint sticks and chocolate bars for quite a spell after that. But inevitably there came the day when—yep, And the army paid for the third time.

By now, Mrs. Burrell was in a state of combat fatigue. Whenever she felt the rumble of a heavy truck she would grip the edge of the candy counter, set her teeth and silently pray.

In order not to tempt fate, she didn't even let down her third new awning—just kept it rolled up all the time.

Well, it got mighty hot one day last August. The candy in the window was melting right down into syrup.

Mrs. Burrell took a deep breath and grimly unrolled her awning. Crash!

The cost of living has been going up lately. The fourth new awning—the army got around to paying for it just before Christmas—cost 36 pounds ($100.80). That did it.

From New Year's Day, British army trucks will travel Coltsgate Hill on the up direction only.

Ever hopeful, Mrs. Burrell has ordered a new awning.

Overcast Day Greets Texas

A cloudy, overcast day greeted Texans Friday in the wake of a new norther that threatened the north half of the state with freezing rain.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 26 degrees at Amarillo to 68 at Brownsville. Only a few points in the northern and western tiers of Texas has a freeze.

The norther already had swept out into the Gulf.

Scattered points in the south reported light rain: Del Rio .08 of an inch, Houston .02, San Antonio .09, Alpine .04 and Cotulla .11.

The state still suffered from the prolonged fall and winter drought. The forecast calls for a warm-up Saturday.

The Weather Bureau said freezing drizzles or light snow could be expected Friday in the Panhandle and South Plains with drizzles elsewhere over the state.

Family Fuss 'Good Thing'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Want to be happier and more successful? Then argue more, advises a leading educator.

"Family arguments are a good thing," said Dr. Leonard Riggelman, president of Morris Harvey College, Charleston, W. Va. "They can bring a family closer over a period of time."

Riggelman told a speech and theater conference: "Although arguments may tend to divide a family immediately, all members of the family will come to better understandings over a period of time and each member will have matured to better advantage for having argued his own point of view."

Arguing also makes a person more successful in business, he said, because men's minds develop best through intellectual combat.

He said it's good to argue even if you don't know what you're talking about, because: "The lack of information or facts is no deterrent to a good argument."

Radioactivity Puts Earth In Convulsions

By RENNIE TAYLOR AP Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Is radioactivity causing slow convulsions in the rock formations underlying the oceans? A scientist who specializes in studying the seas believes this may be so.

Two clues picked up by researchers in the last five years point in this direction. Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, told the American Physical Society.

Individual samples of rock from under land areas contain more "hot" or radioactive atoms than rocks from beneath the oceans, Dr. Revelle reported, but, astonishingly, the average amount of all radiations from undersea rocks is a little greater than the average for those from beneath the continents.

This was indicated, the scientist said, by two dozen measurements of heat flow made by Scripps researchers at widely separated points under the Pacific, and dozen similar measurements by British investigators under the Atlantic.

A plausible explanation, he said, may be that the rocks under the waters, even though they contain fewer hot atoms per cubic yard,

Two clues picked up by researchers in the last five years point in this direction. Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, told the American Physical Society.

Individual samples of rock from under land areas contain more "hot" or radioactive atoms than rocks from beneath the oceans, Dr. Revelle reported, but, astonishingly, the average amount of all radiations from undersea rocks is a little greater than the average for those from beneath the continents.

This was indicated, the scientist said, by two dozen measurements of heat flow made by Scripps researchers at widely separated points under the Pacific, and dozen similar measurements by British investigators under the Atlantic.

A plausible explanation, he said, may be that the rocks under the waters, even though they contain fewer hot atoms per cubic yard,

Cold, Dry Day U. S. Outlook

By The Associated Press

Another cold and fairly dry day was the outlook today for broad areas from the plains to New England.

Arctic air centered in northern Midwest areas and sent temperatures to 15 degrees below zero in northern Wisconsin this morning.

The icy air moderated as it moved southeastward into the Southern Plains and Ohio Valley, where temperatures were around freezing. The cold air spread into the eastern Great Lakes region, the Appalachians and southward into central Texas during the night.

Mild air from the Gulf of Mexico continued entrenched through most of the South. Because of the high humidity there was considerable fog in the region.

Haymes Accused Of Pulling Rita Hayworth From Movie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Did the bartering of crooner Dick Haymes from the first rehearsal of a Rita Hayworth movie touch off the actress' current courtroom hassle with Columbia Studios?

Lawyers for the studio today wind up their side of the case with testimony already indicating that Haymes pulled his then wife off a four-million-dollar production after the producer asked him to leave the rehearsal.

Jerry Wald, executive producer at the studio, told U.S. Judge Ben Harrison yesterday that Haymes showed up with his wife for a rehearsal in Wald's office for the movie "Joseph and His Brethren."

"I called him out of the rehearsal room," Wald testified, "because I didn't want to cause a scene inside."

Wald said there was another rehearsal session called for later the same night but that Rita didn't show.

"Haymes called me up to say Rita wouldn't be there," Wald said, adding: "I told him that I was sorry if anything I had said to him that afternoon caused the decision, Haymes replied: 'No, that has nothing to do with it.'"

Rita never showed after that April 5, 1955, rehearsal and later filed a $150,000 breach of contract suit against the studio. The studio countered with one of its own. Miss Hayworth divorced Haymes last month.

A Great New Adventure Story In The Herald Comics

"LANCE"

Starting Sunday, Jan. 1, and appearing every Sunday in the Colored Comic Pages.

A thrilling story of action - drama - romance - conflict!

This is land which must be policed by a tiny group of men calling themselves the U.S. First Dragoons. They explore, escort, investigate, arbitrate and fight. Their task is physically impossible.

"LANCE" is the story of man's unbridled passion for possession. Of land, of furs, of wealth, of women and home. This is so with the Indian but it is much more so with the white man, who is more savage and barbaric in his greed, more skillful in his ways and more abundant in number.

Lance battles a fur trapper in a savage life and death struggle.

You'll Want To Follow The Adventures Of LANCE Every Sunday In The Herald

Both engagements will be played in the High School Gymnasium, as will the third place contest and the championship finals Saturday night.

BY BALLINGER

Steers Defeated In Meet, 52-45

In championship round games today and tonight, Port Arthur faces Snyder, Lipan opposes Longview, Burkett tangles with Ballinger and Brooksmith tries Brownwood.

The final engagement of the night, Odessa advanced at the expense of San Angelo, 66-61, after trailing at half time.

Nine players got into the scoring act as the Hawks bounced Schreiner into the consolation round bracket.

HC CAPTURES 5 MORE REBOUNDS IN GAME

Tournament briefs: HCJC captured only five more rebounds than did Schreiner in their first round game in the Howard College Basketball Tournament Thursday night.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Pepper Martin says he's going to sit out the 1956 baseball season. Pepper was saying the same thing six weeks ago but there were those who didn't take him at his word.

Many a local baseball fan has approached this writer in recent weeks, and all have asked about the same question. Boiled down, it amounts to this: "Why can't we have professional baseball here in 1956?"

Perhaps the new Southwestern League is too rich for our blood. I don't know. Some of the operatives are already acting as if they're trying to spend every other club into oblivion.

There was a time when Martin was ready to give it another whirl here if a corporation could have been formed. He would have been pleased to run it for other citizens and accept a salary like any working stiff.

FAVORED TEAMS IN TITLE TEST

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Southwest Conference Basketball Tournament went down the line to meet predictions and it will be Rice vs. Southern Methodist tonight for the championship.

Undeclared Rice will be favored to win it when the two teams clash at 9:30 p.m. but, like most all the games played in the tournament to date, it probably won't be easy for the victor.

The North Will Address Club

A former Mounty, soldier-of-fortune, adventurer, philosopher and one of the most popular men on the American platform is Syd Montague; and he'll be the speaker at the next meeting her of the Knife and Fork Club.

The club's dinner session is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 4, at the Settles Hotel, beginning at 7:30. Members are instructed to have reservations with the club secretary by noon Tuesday.

Montague spoke before the K-F group here some seasons ago, and was warmly received. He returns and a new type presentation.

A true man of the North, "Syd," as he is generally known, is an informal and friendly sort of fellow and comes by his flair for adventure honestly. One of his ancestors was the Montague who was first among those half-explorer, half-pirate-buccaneer enthusiasts who sailed the Spanish Main and made land falls in the West Indies. Fort Montague, in the Bahamas, carries the family name until this day.

His address is more than a tale of adventure for he believes there is a limitless future, a better living and longer, happier life in the Arctic for those who are bold enough to go after it. What he has to say will give pause to those who are conscious of today's stress and strain and who believe the days of opportunity and adventure have passed.

Fourth Installment Of Tax Due Jan. 16

Taxpayers making quarterly installments on individual estimated income tax reports should mark Jan. 16 down on their date books. This date, according to Ben Hawkins of the local Internal Revenue office is the deadline for paying the final installment on 1955 estimated tax.

Jan. 16 is also the last day to amend a prior declaration of approximate tax returns, Hawkins added.

Workers Plug
Gap In Levee
In Flooded Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Work crews, operating around the clock, passed the halfway mark today as they filled in a levee gap that accounted for 19 deaths at Yuba City during the California floods.

Already the rebuilt levee was holding back Feather River waters from the stricken city, where 289 homes were destroyed and 1,200 others had major structural damage.

The stage death toll reached 47, a jump of 12 since Wednesday morning when water receded enough that rescue workers were able to start hunting victims.

In addition to the 19 Yuba City victims, there were 8 in the Eureka area, 8 at Santa Cruz, 3 near Colfax, 2 in Tulare County and 1 each at Susanville, Santa Rosa, Sacramento, Colusa, Hamilton Air Force Base, Stockton and Siskiyou County.

Northern California damage estimates rose to 150 million dollars. Cleaning out the mud remained an individual job, but governmental and private agencies began providing large-scale aid.

The Red Cross said 4,600 persons still were being cared for at 44 emergency shelters. At one time the homeless were estimated at 50,000.

Holidays Quiet But Not Exactly Routine

By The Associated Press
Texas cities say the holidays generally have been quiet but not exactly normal and routine. For instance:

In Kingsville thieves crawled through an ice chute into the Southern Texas Ice Co. and took an 8-point buck deer. Nothing else was bothered.

San Antonio has a shortage of troubadors and mariachis—those colorful musicians garbed in broad-brimmed hats and Mexican regalia. Too many civil service job offers and the charro outfits are too expensive, says Joe Morante, president of the Troubadors Assn. and nobody wants a troubador not in uniform.

Two boys in Corpus Christi got a surprise when they tossed a lighted firecracker in a passing car. The driver of the attacked vehicle was patrolman Barney Blount on his way home from work. In Big Spring police offered a free "taxi" service to motorists who felt they had taken too many drinks to drive home. There were no takers.

Houston taxi companies plan to use the same idea New Year's. Just call CA-2-9351 and police headquarters will radio the cab nearest the pickled party goer. The ride home is free and a second cab employe will drive the celebrant's auto home without cost, the Houston Taxicab Assn. said.

Rain or shine, warm or cold the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce plans its second annual New Year's swim in the Gulf Monday at 2 p.m. The public has been invited to join the splashing. Chamber Manager Dan Chamberlin said his force can either say "We told you so" about Corpus Christi weather or call hesitant spectators sissies for not jumping in.

FHA Emergency Loan Program Gets Extension

The Farmers Home Administration emergency loan program has been extended for the 1956 crop year, according to Fred Ross, in charge of the local FHA office. Ross said the extension came in the form of an announcement from Walter T. McKay, the agency's state director.

Loans may be made in all counties except the 57 West Texas counties designated on Sept. 15, for the Great Plains Special Credit Program. The extension will not apply to Howard and Martin counties but will be effective in Glasscock County.

To be eligible for an emergency loan, a farmer or rancher must be unable to obtain credit from any other source. He must be engaged primarily in farming, have suitable farming experience and reasonable chances for success in carrying out the plans for which the loan is obtained. Loans can be made for the purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, farm and home supplies and for the replacement of machinery and livestock. Ordinarily, loans secured by liens on chattel property are scheduled for repayment within five years. Those for crop production are due when the crop is harvested.

Application for emergency loans may be made at the county offices of any Farmers Home Administration. A local committee passes upon the eligibility of the applicant for these emergency loans.

Bible Group
Repeats Claim
On Ancient Book

WASHINGTON (AP)—An organization raising funds for the purchase of an ancient Bible text, known as the Yonan Codex, says questioning of the 1 1/2-million-dollar price tag put on the manuscript comes from "disgruntled persons."

The organization, the Aramaic Bible Foundation, said this yesterday in commenting on a resolution of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis that questioned the age and importance of the New Testament manuscript.

Experts of the biblical literature society—composed of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish scholars—had said at the group's annual meeting in New York that a "fair estimate of the value of a manuscript like the Yonan Codex is about $5,000."

The manuscript is now being exhibited around the nation as part of the Bible foundation's drive to raise funds for its purchase from a private owner. The foundation said the codex is owned by Norman M. Yonan, whose family brought it to this country from Assyria.

In a statement, the foundation said of the biblical literature society's action:

"The resolution purporting to come from 1,200-odd members is obviously the work of a limited number of disgruntled persons undertaking to thwart the work of the Aramaic Bible Foundation.

"Their true interest is not in that of the public as claimed but in the possible threat to their theological hierarchy which is bottomed on Greek and not Aramaic."

Youth Fatally
Stabbed By Glass

CHICAGO (AP)—A 15-year-old boy was fatally stabbed last night by a flying splinter of thick glass after he accidentally dropped a bowling ball through a glass showcase.

Police said a piece of glass about 3/4 by 2 inches flew into William McGowan's chest after the accident in the Humboldt Park Bowling Center.

McGowan and a group of boys went to the cashier to pay for a game they had rolled.

Police said Sigmund Hertel, the cashier, told them after he heard a crash, turned and saw the youth staggering, his chest spouting blood. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Dog Falls In Well,
Two Are Rescued

ST. NICHOLAS AT WADE, England (AP)—A mongrel named Bella fell into a hole 40 feet deep yesterday.

That was a lucky thing for a thoroughbred boxer named Woo Woo, who had been sitting at the bottom for four days hoping somebody would turn up.

Bella's master Ross Baldock descended the abandoned sewer shaft with a rope ladder and was astonished to find not only Bella but Woo Woo as well. He rescued both dogs unharmed.

Woo Woo was restored to his mistress, Miss Triston Jones. She said he vanished Christmas Day.

Anyone Want To Buy An Elephant?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Anybody want to buy an elephant? The John Wanamaker department store here has one on sale for $4,995.

"It's a bargain," the salesman said. "Hannibal originally cost $7,800 but we reduced the price in line with the store's two-day Christmas season sale."

At this point, Hannibal, whose 14 months and 550 pounds make her just a tot among pachyderms, lifted her trunk and trumpeted.

As the roar cascaded through the pet shop, a hush fell among the other animals and visiting children. But the salesman smiled confidently.

"Just think of who you could be if Hannibal was yours," he said. "You would be the only private owner of an elephant in the United States."

"I bet you would be surprised at all the things you can do with an elephant. Suppose your garden hose breaks. All you have to do is set out a dozen pails of water.

Then call on Hannibal to spray your flowers.

"As for moving furniture or a snowbound car, just have Hannibal put her stout head against anything heavy and she will push it wherever you want it."

"Of course," the salesman admitted, "Hannibal does have a few personal habits that you have to cater to."

One of her habits turned out to be a hearty breakfast and dinner with the day's feeding consisting of one bushel of kale, one bushel of carrots, 10 to 12 quarts of oats and a bale of hay which she alternately uses as a bed and an in-between snack. At present grocery rates this would add up to $42 a week.

Hannibal also is concerned about her complexion and there is nothing she likes more than a nice oily skin. The other day it took four men two hours to give her a beauty treatment using two pounds of pure lanolin.

Borrowing, Lending

It is virtually impossible to have a school full of people without the problem of borrowing rearing its ugly head.

"If a person is a real friend, he ought to be willing to lend to you occasionally. What's a friend for if not to help you when you need it?" This is a popular viewpoint, and in theory it sounds fine.

The trouble arises over the fact that those who borrow frequently do not prove themselves to be real friends, for they either become nuisances borrowing too often, or else they neglect to return or repay what has been loaned to them.

Borrowing, you might say, is the acid test for friendship. It is easy to like a person and believe him a true blue friend until he makes off with a favorite book or record which somehow never finds its way back home.

If your friend needs a sheet of paper, a pencil, or an eraser, make him a present of it with no strings attached and your friendship will remain intact.

If the item is too big or important to give, like a bicycle, record player, or party dress, it is better not to lend it. What may wear the cloak of a kind deed, may in fact, strangle your friendship.

If you are a betting person and willing to wager on the loyalty of your friend, stamp everything stampable with something catchy like: "I'm homesick for your name and address."

When an item is overdue, mention casually some topic that is roughly related to the borrowed object. When even asking bluntly for an article's return, your last resort brings no response, you have no recourse except to consider it a gift and try to replace it.

U.S. Official Doubts Private School Plan Segregation Answer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high Justice Department official says he doubts a state could sidestep the Supreme Court's school desegregation decree merely by changing the designation of its schools from "public" to "private."

The official said yesterday he believes a court test would upset any such plans if public funds were used to support the "private" schools.

He made this comment when asked about a proposal by Virginia's Commission on Public Education to permit state subsidy, through tuition payments, of private schools.

The official said racial integration is proceeding satisfactorily in the schools and added that, while this situation continues, he doubted the government would initiate any cases aimed at speeding the process.

Any cases originating in the next several months, he said, likely would come from parents who felt their child had been deprived of its civil rights. He said such a case probably would have to go back to the Supreme Court for a ruling on what constitutes a reasonable time within which to achieve integration.

Farm, Ranch Operators Get Tax Extension

Farmers and ranchers have been given a partial "breather" on their internal revenue tax reports — they have an extra 15 days to submit the report, the Internal Revenue Office has announced.

Prior to 1954, farm and ranch operators had been required to file their reports by Jan. 31, but now they have until Feb. 15. Actually the belated deadline was in effect last year, but the ruling was not announced in time to affect any taxpayers.

Of course, there is an exception to the ruling. Any farm employer who owes the two per cent employer tax and two per cent employee tax must file a return (on form 943) and pay the taxes before Feb. 1.

Another change in the farmers' tax procedure this year is the ruling that self-employed farmers who net $400 or gross $800 or more annually are subject to reporting for social security benefits. The ruling was changed last year and applies to 1955 income.

Information on various phases of farm tax reporting may be obtained from the Internal Revenue office in the Petroleum building or from the county agent's office in the court house. James Taylor, county agent, said today they had received a small number of booklets, "Farmers' Tax Guide for 1955," and farmers desiring the booklet, can pick them up at his office.

Uncle Roy: Shakespeare Leads English Quotations

By RAMON COFFMAN

In a standard book of quotations, the words of more than 2,200 writers are quoted. One the average each writer has a bit less than half a page in the volume.

Seven pages of quotations are given from the works of Longfellow, and eight pages from Tennyson. Ralph Waldo Emerson has eight and a half pages, and Plutarch has 10.

Most quoted of all the authors are Alexander Pope with 14 pages, John Milton with 15 pages, and William Shakespeare with 76 pages!

Q. Is it true that Shakespeare helped to form our modern English?

A. Yes, it is true, indeed. Several authors of the Elizabethan period played parts in producing modern English, but Shakespeare stood foremost among them.

Q. Did Shakespeare give new phrases to the English language?

A. Yes, quite a number of them. He seems to have been first, for example, to speak about "the king's English" and "catching a cold."

Q. Did Shakespeare "invent" any new words?

A. Yes, many present-day words appeared for the first time on record in books of his plays. Examples of these are: Hurry, lonely, fretful, countless and gloomy.

Q. How many plays did Shakespeare write?

A. Most scholars consider that he was the author of 38 plays. In several cases he had the help of works which had been written before his time. The poet Fletcher is known to have helped him write at least one of his early plays.

Shakespeare's plays may be put in three main classes — comedies, tragedies and history, or chronicle, plays.

Examples of the comedies are "The Taming of the Shrew," "All's Well That Ends Well" and "As You Like It."

The tragedies include "Hamlet," "King Lear" and "Macbeth." Among his history plays are "Henry IV," "Edward IV" and "Richard II."

Rebels Urge More Algerian Terror

ALGIERS (AP)—Nationalist rebels called today for a sharp rise in terrorist activity on France's parliamentary election day Jan. 2.

Clashes between guerrillas and French forces left another five dead in the bloody North African territory. Rebels kidnaped four persons and the French captured 25 Algerians.

The underground Algerian Communist newspaper Liberté issued an appeal to make the election day a "great national day of union and patriotic action... to bring closer the day of national liberation."

Similar appeals for a stepup in terrorism over Christmas failed. Election of Algeria's 20 members of the French National Assembly has been postponed indefinitely because of the continuing violence.

Guided Missile Defense Project Progress Noted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's Nike guided missile anti-aircraft program has been stepped up to the point where new batteries are going in operation around American cities and military installations at the rate of several a month.

Without disclosing actual figures, Army spokesmen said today that the deployment of the super-sonic missile batteries is "going along well and we are meeting requirements in training programs" for crews.

Up to now, about 17 cities have Nike protection, ranging from Norfolk, Va., northward along the Atlantic Coast, across the northern border area toward Seattle and down to Los Angeles.

The Army is preparing to send some Nike batteries to danger points outside United States. It announced recently that batteries are to be installed in Alaska, and in Okinawa.

When defense needs for these are filled, the Army will begin to provide Nike defenses in the European area.

Nike weapons have been undergoing arctic tests for at least two seasons at Ft. Churchill, Canada, where Canadian and American crews have been firing them. A spokesman said there are no present plans for delivering Nike missiles to Canada.

Jap Celebrations Get Early Start

TOKYO (AP)—Tokio Okada, 26, Japan Broadcasting System reporter, popped into the virus and blood plasma section of the Welfare Ministry yesterday and found a sake party in progress.

Welfare official Tetsuhisa Abe, 29, soaked Okada on the jaw and stuck him upstairs to the press room.

Okada's pals manhandled Abe and turned him over to police.

Japan Broadcasting called Abe's action "unprovoked." Welfare officials were unavailable for comment today. They were enjoying a "year-end-forgetting" holiday.

Lucky Accident

TOKYO (AP)—A speeding taxicab somersaulted twice today on a downtown street and landed on its side on the sidewalk without injuring driver, passenger or pedestrians.

Great wind-up to a great year—

Buick Builds 800,000

Highest peak of all time points to Buick as the buy of the year!

LATEST BULLETIN: Buick's total new car production for the United States and Canada in 1955 is crowding 800,000 at the time this goes to press.

Every time you traveled America's roads and streets and highways this year, you saw Buick history being made.

You saw more new Buicks than ever before — because more new Buicks were bought and registered in 1955 than in any previous year since car-building began.

You saw big, beautiful new Buicks in ever-increasing numbers because this year Buick outsold, by far, every other car in the land except the two most well-known smaller cars.

And if you had taken a look behind the scenes, you would have witnessed new Buicks being built at the rate of over three cars per minute to meet the public demand.

As Buick dealers, we recognized this mounting demand from the first — and nurtured it to the fullest benefit of the buying public.

For, with our growing volume, we were able to offer bigger trade-in allowances—and we did. So more and more people, attracted to the great new Buicks, found it easier and easier to buy them.

Today, the demand continues upward. With the much-wanted 1956 Buick — introduced last month, and now in full production — this calendar year closes with Buick building toward an all-time high of 800,000 Buicks. The New Year looks like a million.

So maybe you ought to look into Buick for 1956.

Maybe you ought to look into that stunning new sweep-ahead styling that's winning such raves. Maybe you ought to try the wholly new sweetness of Buick's superb ride — and the precise sureness of handling that goes with it.

Maybe you ought to sample the lofty new horsepower that come from Buick's big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engines — and the brilliant new response of an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow* that brings you double-action take-off and a big boost in gas mileage.

Above all, maybe you ought to come in and see for yourself the bedrock value packed into every new Buick — and how much more sheer automobile your money buys here than the same money buys elsewhere.

Drop in first chance you get. We'll show you what solid worth Buick builds into cars to win such soaring success — and how favorable a trade-in allowance we can offer you with such tremendous volume to back us up.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

And now comes the '56 —

Best Buick yet

Buick builds cars in every price range, including the very lowest. And typical of Buick value in every price class is this buy:

The 1956 Buick Special 2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan, Model 48, illustrated delivers locally for less than some models of the well-known smaller cars. Come in and check!

Hope Dims For Missing Crane

AUSTWELL, Tex. (U)—Refuge Director Julian Howard said yesterday the missing adult whooping crane was considered lost for good.

The 20 adults and 8 young whoopers have arrived at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge for the winter.

The colony numbered only 21 last winter.

Howard said the 20 adult birds who returned this year all mated. He said the missing whooper could be living in some isolated spot, but that it was unlikely.

Jesus Rebukes Insincerity

CHRIST STERNLY DENOUNCES HYPOCRISY

Scripture—Luke 11:14-15:3

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. THE WORDS of Christ which are assigned to today's lesson were uttered less than four months before His death and resurrection. His disciples seem not to have recognized the fact that even after all the miracles He had performed, and His preaching about repentance and the necessity of men to be born again and live righteous lives, many were still opposed to Him and would eventually bring about His death.

Jesus Himself knew it and was prepared to suffer His sacrificial death and to rise again to prove that He is the Saviour of mankind and those that believe on Him shall live everlastingly.

There were some men and women living in Palestine in Jesus' time who were possessed by evil spirits. These devils were subject to Jesus and feared His power. Now we read that some evil-minded persons accused Christ of being under the influence of Beelzebub, prince of devils.

What a monstrous thing to say! What can wicked minds suggest to those who possess them? Jesus answered immediately, that "every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against itself falleth."

We can readily see how true that is in our own day. In a home that is divided against itself, divorce almost surely follows and the home is broken up. The same is true about countries in many of which there are many different parties struggling for control, fighting each other and bringing destruction upon their country.

"And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges."

There were men called exorcists who claimed to cast out demons and the Jews boasted about them.

Other persons asked Jesus for a sign from heaven, and He rebuked them by saying: "This is an evil generation; they seek a sign; and there shall no sign be given it, but the sign of Jonah." Jonah, we know, was delivered from "the great fish," and was then considered a man of God.

Then Jesus spoke of the southern queen appearing no time or expense to visit Solomon and listen to his wisdom, "and behold, a greater than Solomon is here."

"The men of Nineveh shall stand up in judgment with this generation and shall condemn it, for they repented at the preaching of Jonah."

"The light of the body is the eye; therefore when thine eye is based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate other undone." He commented that the Pharisees loved the best seats in the synagogues and the respectful greetings of folk in the markets, and called them hypocrites, like graves that were not marked so that men walked over them unaware.

A lawyer said: "Master, thus saying, Thou reproachest us also," and Christ answered: "Woe unto you also, ye lawyers! for ye load men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers."

"Ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them," and He referred to Zacharias who was slain in the temple. God, He said, would send prophets and apostles, "and some of them they shall slay and persecute."

There are many fine points to emphasize to the children in the words of Christ in this lesson. Teach them to be sincere with their playmates and all others; not to be all smiles to their faces and say hateful things about them behind their backs. The teacher will find many more examples of hypocrisy in their own experiences to impress on the youngsters.

And, concerning the Pharisees, they were infuriated and planned more diligently to kill Him.

Cashword Puzzle No. 47

Explanation of More Difficult Clues

- CLUES ACROSS:
6. To be grammatical Day fits the wording of the clue. You spend time (Day) doing something. You spend money (Pay) on something.
 12. The clue says "learn". This points to None as more apt. He would find that the man had Gone—not learn that he had Gone. However, he would learn that he had None. Furthermore, None is the more likely word as the man may be in a store, in which case he would hardly be Gone.
 20. Ode is best. Note the clue reads "to Christmas" not "about" or "on" Christmas. This points to Ode for Odes are usually described as written to a person or thing. If the answer were One the clue would read "on Christmas" or "about Christmas."
 29. Litter is best. Is there any reason why a particular Letter should be overlooked and why is it "quite likely"? But in all the excitement and disorder even the most meticulous housewife will likely be willing to overlook the Litter of Christmas wrappings, etc.
 31. Swat is more apt. The clue refers to crowd sitting up and cheering which points to a grandstand and therefore a baseball or football game. It is in baseball that a "long one" is always desirable. Shot, as in shooting or in golf, is therefore out. Swat, as commonly referred to in baseball, fits the clue perfectly.
 32. Set is best. A Net actually keeps it in place but a Set, or having it Set, helps to keep it in place.

- CLUES DOWN:
8. Date is best. It is the superstitious person who will blame misfortune on the Date but it by no means indicates that you are superstitious if you blame a thing on Fate.
 11. Truck is best since good work is needed. In the case of Trunk we do not know if the Trunk is full or empty and an empty one might be quite easy to move around.
 15. Pun is best. A pointless Pen is More than "somewhat annoying". It is completely useless. Pin might be acceptable except that you would hardly refer to it as "the Pin". The Pun without a point can be somewhat annoying.
 17. It's nice to see some little girl's Dolly on the tree. You would hardly put Molly on the green Christmas tree as it would look out of place.
 18. Heat is best. Since he collapsed at the tape we know that the Feet was too much for him. There was no "may have been" about it. But it May have been the Heat, or other reasons, for the Feet being too much for him.
 19. Joy is the more direct answer for it is not the Toy that causes the little boy's face to beam but actually the Joy of getting the Toy.
 22. Cares is the best answer because it is the more comprehensive. It includes Cards and anything else which may be weighing on his mind.
 23. Sent fits best the clue which says "may have to be". Anything Lent implies that it must be returned, not "may have" to be. Rent or Bent are more restricted in their use than Sent.
 27. Ease is best. Little Ease would mean little Ease anyway! Ease is more apt because this includes Ease—movies, trips, visiting, or any other spare time pursuit.

Opponents Of Natural Gas Measure Reported Growing

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today Senate opponents of the Natural Gas Bill are picking up strength and the final outcome may be decided by two or three votes.

Humphrey will fight the measure lifting federal regulation from independent gas producers.

The House earlier this year passed the bill 209-203 and sent it to the Senate. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson lists the measure as one of those he will press for passage in 1956.

"It will be a close fight in the Senate," Humphrey said. "At this stage, I would say that it was still somewhat favorable to those seeking passage of the gas bill. But I believe there will be some shifts towards our side when the issue comes up in the Senate for a vote."

"I feel that the producers are doing very well economically and that such operations are essentially public utilities. I believe they need to be publicly regulated." Part of the strategy of the op-

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (U)—Detective C. W. Tackett said a woman phoned and wanted her baby located. Asked the boy's age, she said:

"He was 2 1/2 years old when I last saw him—in 1917."

Seems the 73-year-old mother had heard her son recently had married somewhere in New Mexico. Tackett promised to write New Mexico authorities.

Drastic Road Action Urged

CHICAGO (U)—The nation's governors have been urged to take drastic, emergency measures to cut the traffic toll over the new year's weekend.

The action was asked yesterday by the National Safety Council in view of the record 609 traffic deaths over the Christmas weekend.

The governors were asked to "use every resource at your command to step up traffic enforcement in your state over the holiday."

The council predicted 420 persons will be killed in traffic mishaps Friday night, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. That would be a record toll for a New Year holiday period.

THE SANDS OF TIME

Remember that old song which says, "the sands of time are sinking fast"? Whether we like the idea or not, it is most certainly true, and there is nothing we can do about it.

Nothing? That depends on what we mean. Assuredly we can do nothing to stop the sands of time from running through the hour glass of life, but we can do much to make those hours worthwhile, and the Church stands ever ready to help us.

The Church is made up of people like us, working together to spread the message of the gospel. The Church brings comfort to those who sorrow, gives strength to those who are weak. The Church needs us to help carry on its work. When we are busy in the Church helping others, we do not worry over the ceaseless flow of the sands of time.

Are you doing your part in the Church? Do you need its help? Its doors are open, its welcome unchanging. "The sands of time are sinking fast"—how are you spending the days and hours?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Take Car To Jones And Jones As 'New Leaf' For New Year

Christmas is gone and the next holiday is New Year's Day. The main point about Jan. 1 is the old problem of "turning over a new leaf" and making New Year's resolutions.

And one of the best resolutions a person can make it to take better care of his automobile than he did last year. This brings Jones and Jones Service Station into your plans.

Of course, you kept the car filled with gas and checked the oil, water, and battery occasionally. And put air in the tires when they went flat.

But the thing to do is not to let the car go until something needs to be done. To keep everything in tip-top shape, have the troubles removed before they happen.

Every time removing car worries comes into mind, Jones and Jones should come to mind too. For they, located at 1800 Gregg, know what to do to keep any car in good shape.

Make your first resolution read, "Take the car to Jones and Jones once per week for a wash and lubrication job; have them change the oil every month, and insert a new oil filter cartridge every two months."

Then make the number 2 resolution mention going to Jones and Jones for gas and also when tire trouble comes up.

S. M. Smith Converts Vehicles To Burn Butane

The way to start the New Year right would be to have that pickup truck or farm implement converted to the use of butane gas.

The place to have it done is the S. M. Smith Butane Company located at 1900 Lamesa Highway in Big Spring.

Farm vehicles which have butane carburetion systems will not only have A-1 service but prove safer, more durable and more economical as well.

Pickup trucks and farm implements can be converted at the S.M. Smith concern speedily and expertly. Customers have several types of systems from which to choose and all have proved popular in West Texas.

S. M. Smith, owner and manager of the concern bearing his name, is a man boasting long experience in butane and propane work. His concern is equipped to offer butane heating systems for both Big Spring and rural homes.

Smith's concern also employs servicing crews which keep those systems in workable order.

Such home appliances as kitchen ranges and front room heaters are also stocked by the local establishment. All, of course, are especially adaptable for butane use.

Harvey Wooten Can Handle Any Moving Project

Are you planning to move to a new home at the first of the year? Then you will want to talk with Harvey Wooten, owner and operator of the Harvey Wooten Transfer and Storage Company.

Wooten is set up to handle any moving problem you may have, regardless of how big or small, near or far. Wooten is located at 505 E. 2nd and the phone number is 4-7741. Before you decide on a moving job, get a free estimate from Wooten.

Wooten has three trucks of his own for local moves and he is affiliated with the Rocky Ford Van Lines for longer distances. If you are planning to move next door, across the street, or across town, call on Wooten. He and his men will be out in a jiffy to carefully pack and crate your furnishings for the move.

Or, if you are going across country, Wooten will get the job done correctly for you. His men will pack or crate the items and turn them over to the Rocky Ford people. Their reputation for careful and safe moves is enviable.

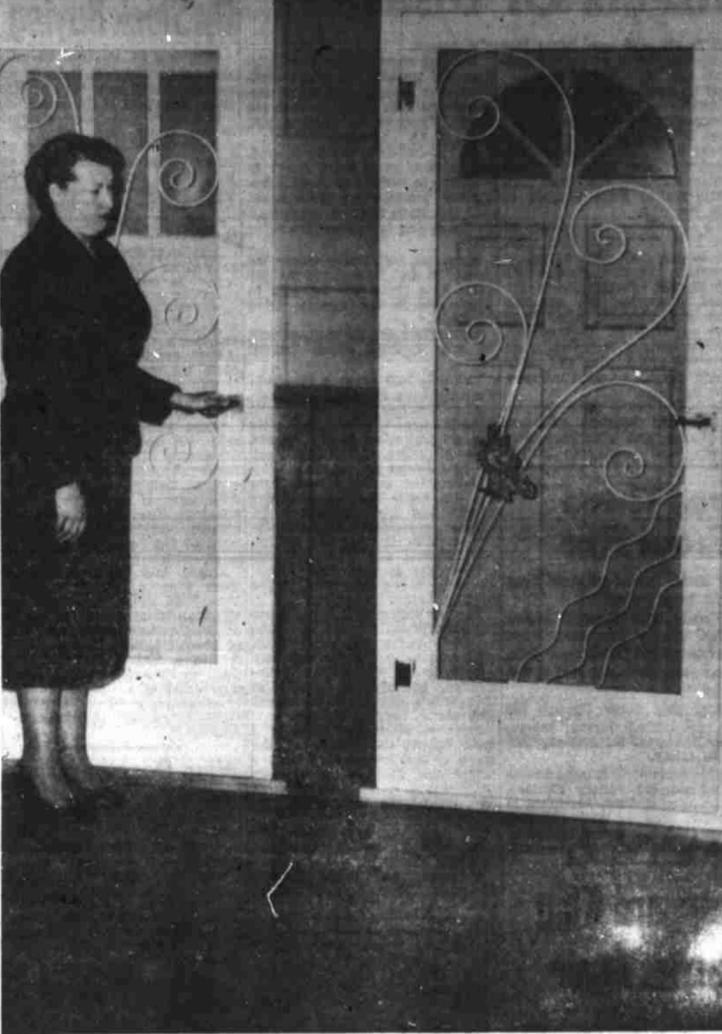

Thus no matter what the distance, Wooten is prepared to help you. Size is no hindrance to Wooten either.

His three trucks will handle just about all the average home will hold. And the Rocky Ford company is also well equipped with vehicles. If your move is a large or small one, Wooten can handle it just as safely and efficiently.

In all moves, your valuables are securely packed and crated to make sure that they arrive at their destination in the same condition as when you last saw them. Many years of experience make Wooten fully capable of handling your furnishings. And he is the logical choice.

Wooten can handle your storage problems too. He has a large warehouse at 505 E. 2nd which is state bonded. If you have a few items you would like to store until summer or any length of time, call on Wooten. He will pick the items up, pack them carefully, and store them away until you call for them.

Wooten also sells fresh eggs and poultry. If you are planning to prepare a turkey dinner for New Year's Day, then get Wooten's prices. He has a side selection and sells them economically.

Ornamental Screen Grille

One of the many products available at Western Glass and Mirror Company, 909 Johnson, is the screen grille, shown above by Ruby Wortham. The concern also stocks wood screen doors, as well as metal doors and metal door frames.

Polishshampoo Available At Several Big Spring Stores

Polishshampoo is available in Big Spring at Red & White, Piggly Wiggly, J. O. Newsom, J. E. Green, Hull & Phillips and Douglas Food stores. It also is sold at Jack's and Toby's drive-in groceries.

Here's the way the Gaston Johnston Corporation recommends its new product:

"Whether yours is one of the beautiful new models with which the roads are crowded, or an old one with which you are 'making do' until you can turn it in for something more up-to-date, not a polish shows both a lack of pride and no business sense — on your part, and the part of the whole family.

"What does 'the whole family' have to do with it? Washing the car, polishing the body, the chrome and the glass, used to be a man's job — a major performance.

"Today, with Johnston's Polishshampoo, a woman or a teen-age child can do the job quickly, and with no effort.

"Now let us tell you just what it does, and how to use it.

"Polishshampoo polishes as it cleans. It not only removes every last particle of grit and grime, dust and dirt, but it actually removes the gleam of the original car polish.

"It is a scientific formula made only for car washing. After using it, you should find the surface of the car and its glass and chrome spick and span."

Feed Store Has Mixing Service

For improved livestock and poultry rations, the John Davis Feed Store in Big Spring is offering an expanded "Check-R-Mix" service to stockmen and poultry raisers.

"Check-R-Mix" is the name given to the operation of mixing Purina food concentrates with regular milo or other feed. The concentrates are available for cattle, swine and chickens.

The Davis feed store has the mixing equipment, the concentrates and the formulas for feed mixtures for any purpose. Customers are invited to bring their "raw feed" to the store at Second and Benton for mixing with the concentrates.

The Check-R-Mix service is based on scientifically-developed feeding plans with the Purina concentrates containing the proper amounts of concentrated supplements, which include antibiotics, vitamins and stibestrol.

Formulas for mixing the concentrates with feed were worked out at the Purina Research Farm, and all provide carefully balanced rations for the most efficient and profitable feeding of livestock and poultry. Research has shown that addition of the concentrates has actually cut down on feeding costs through increased meat and egg production.

The John Davis Feed Store is exclusive dealer in this section of West Texas for all the famous Purina Checkerboard livestock and poultry feeds.

The store also maintains a huge stock of livestock and poultry sanitation supplies, insecticides and numerous other products used around the farm or ranch.

Colonel's Calm Averts Panic

ROME (U) — A U. S. Army colonel's calm assurance to 41 fellow passengers that they had nothing to fear was credited today with averting panic aboard a disabled airliner.

Capt. Allen D. Reedy, a native of Tacoma, Wash., captain of the four-engine Pan American World Airways DC7, turned back to Rome and landed successfully after one engine caught fire over Italy and dropped off last night.

Aboard the plane were 42 passengers and a crew of 6.

Airline officials said today that Col. A. D. Chaffin Jr., a passenger, "did a great job in keeping everyone calm. Then after the landing he persuaded his fellow passengers there was nothing to worry about and they should continue their flight to Brussels and New York.

The plane had taken off from Rome and was near Ravenna, in northern Italy, when a right wing engine caught fire. It broke off and landed harmlessly on a beach.

Reedy turned the plane back while the crew and Col. Chaffin calmed passengers. Rome's Ciampino Airport turned out crash trucks and ambulances. But Reedy brought the plane down on three engines without mishap.

Six Arms Too Many

KOICHI, Japan (U) — Toshio Yokota, 30, a vagrant, today confessed that he stole two arms from the 1,145-year-old wooden statue in an Osaka temple. He said he thought the statue's six arms were too many even for Buddha.

Burning Of Lawns Not Good; May Bring Insects Or Disaster

By DON HENRY

City officials frown on it, firemen frown on it, and the next-door neighbor—if she happens to have clean clothes on the line—surely frowns on it. In fact, just about every person except the grass grower himself frowns on it.

"It" refers to burning lawns in winter.

Every winter a great number of home owners burn their lawns—and for what reason agriculture and conservation person do not know.

The only reason anyone can give for doing this is "that guy down the street burned his last winter and it came out good."

True, soil experts admit, "that guy's" grass might have come out "good" and the grass will come up earlier in the spring than usual. Also it will be greener when it first starts growing. But except for these two "early bird" reasons, there are none.

All in all, soil men agree that the disadvantages greatly outweigh the advantages.

And so do the city officials and firemen.

Destruction of organic matter in the soil is one of the primary reasons that soil conservationists do not sanction grass burnings. Burning will pull out what little organic matter there happens to be in the dirt.

And as little organic matter as there is in the soil in this area, it is indeed bad, they agree.

Secondly, burning removes most of the covering above the ground, destroying the ground's winter coat. The sun, when there is no covering on the ground, dries out the soil faster and thus makes the soil harder and more difficult to soak up what moisture might fall later.

The black sooty color remaining after the burning operation also attracts and holds heat from the sun, thus helping to harden the ground.

Burning necessitates more moisture for growth and more fertilizer. The process also brings termites and ants. Termites seek the lower fringes of the moist topsoil, thriving on vegetation.

As burning dries out the ground, the termites must come closer to the surface seeking food. This frequently becomes the grass roots. And this leads to more grass seed in the spring to replace the eaten roots.

Ants, too, will thrive where the ground is dry. So burning the dry grass is a signal for the ants to congregate in the freshly dried bermuda.

Housewives and firemen, as well as soil experts, dread burned lawns.

Not only will grass smoke ruin the neighbor's fresh laundry hanging on the line, but mother will have the urge to burn father after the children play in the burned grass all afternoon and then track the soot across the carpet.

During the winter season burning can cause hazards for home owners and also headaches for firemen, especially in this already-dry climate. And for this reason, city officials and firemen urge citizens not to burn their lawns.

There is no city ordinance against burning lawns, however.

The possibility of a fire spreading to adjacent yards and houses is great during this dry season, also, frequently a grass fire may appear to be completely extinguished, but after a period of time winds can fan the flames and cause them to spread.

Firemen admit that burning a lawn lessens the chance of a house of that lot catching from a neighboring fire. But if that is their reason, a fire lane of three feet around the house would do as well.

The neighbors may burn their lawn too and have early grass the following spring.

But also, they might have a big house bonfire or yard full of ants.

Oil Union Slaps Texas Co. Stand On Stock Buying

DENVER (U) — The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union is protesting what it calls "the anti-free enterprise stand of the Texas Co."

The union said today members at the firm's Port Arthur, Tex., refinery have declared they will strike if the company fires any worker for ignoring a company order for them to divest themselves of oil company investments "in conflict with the interest of the Texas Co."

A union statement said the company order applied "most particularly" to owning an interest of stock "in a small, local oil company. The union claimed the order does not apply—according to the company's rule—"if the company is large enough that such ownership could not reasonably be expected to influence an employee to act in conflict with the interest of the Texas Co."

Union President O. A. Knight said he had written to Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the Senate Anti-Monopoly subcommittee. Knight said he wanted O'Mahoney to determine if "this infamous directive also applies to officers, directors and management of the Texas Co. or only to wage earners."

Knight said he also wrote to Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, and Winthrop Smith, managing partner of the investment brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane. Knight said he asked them as financial leaders to seek a reversal of a "heedless policy of discouragement of provident, thrifty investment in the future of America."

"To get it over with," Mrs. Watts said.

White Youth Saves Three Negro Children From Fire

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U) — An 18-year-old white youth twice darted into a flaming house yesterday to save three Negro children from almost certain death.

"I could hear someone crying inside," Johnny Roe said. "One man tried to get in the front door, but he came back and said it was too hot."

Young Roe raced through the door and carried Garvin Sanders, 5, and his 1-year-old brother, Gerald, to safety.

On his second trip into the flames he brought out Jimmy Sanders, 3, who was huddled, terrified, in a closet. Seconds later the roof of the suburban house collapsed. None of the children was hurt.

Sheppard King Marries Again

TANGIER (U) — The American consulate said today that Sheppard King III, former husband of Egyptian belly dancer Samia Gamal, had married Mona Johnson, 33.

The consulate said that King, 30, scion of a wealthy Houston family, and Miss Johnson were married yesterday.

King married Miss Gamal, his second wife, in Cairo in 1951 after a headline romance. He was granted a divorce two years later after a series of well reported spats and reconciliations on both sides of the Atlantic.
