Reese: Conservatives Wanted

The race for the 19th Congressional seat came to Hereford like a West Texas wind Thursday as Jim Reese, Republican challenger for Democrat George Mahon's post, spoke before the Noon Kiwanis Club luncheon. Reese, who won an uncontested nomination from the Republican party in the May 1 primary elections, said, "If I were Mahon, I would sue (Texas Monthly) for that article." He made the direct statement in answer to a question concerning Texas Monthly's article rating Mahon as Texas' top congressman.

"I DON'T THINK I would like to be identified with the company (ranked) at the top," he explained referring to the top 10 congressional officials including such staunch liberals as Barbara Jordan of Houston.

He noted that Mahon is identified with the present congress and its record, which Reese claimed was too liberal and not what the people want. "The people are ready for a conservative congress...and that won't be decided until congressional elections for years from now."

"The people feel in a mood for change and are tired of the size of federal government that is always interfering with their lives," he said. "There is pressure to bring government back to the people."

Reese, mayor of Odessa from 1968-1974, characterized himself as that conservative voice of the people. He said no matter who was elected president, and congress and president of different philosophies could not cohesively work together. The present congress is liberal and will continue to be even after the November presidential elections, which Reese felt would be a continued obstacle to a conservative president.

Although he did not voice exact support of any presidential candidate, he hinted that Ronald Reagan was his choice. He completely ruled out the Democrats as correct choices for the voters.

DURING A NONCOMMITTAL speech before the Kiwanians, the 46-year-old candidate said that people have five basic

A business meeting will be held at 10:30, followed by a covered dish luncheon. Membership dues are $1.50. A crowd of approximately 300 is expected to attend the meeting.

Rites Held Saturday For County Pioneer

Funeral services for Ezra H. Norton, 88, a pioneer Deaf Smith citizen, were held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the First Christian Church with Dr. John Bridwell, pastor of First Christian Church of Amarillo, officiating.

Burial was in West Park Cemetery under the direction of Smith & Co. Funeral Home. A resident of the county since 1898, Mr. Norton died at his home, 443 McKinley, Thursday morning after a lengthy illness.

Norton was a member of a prominent ranching and stockman family here and had operated Norton Motor Co. from 1925 to 1941. He was active in numerous civic projects, including the local cemetery association, and had served as president of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Association.

He had been honored as "Pioneer of the Year" in 1967.

Mr. Norton was active in ranching and cattle raising and the Norton herds were prominent in the development of the cattle industry in this area. He retired from active business in 1973.

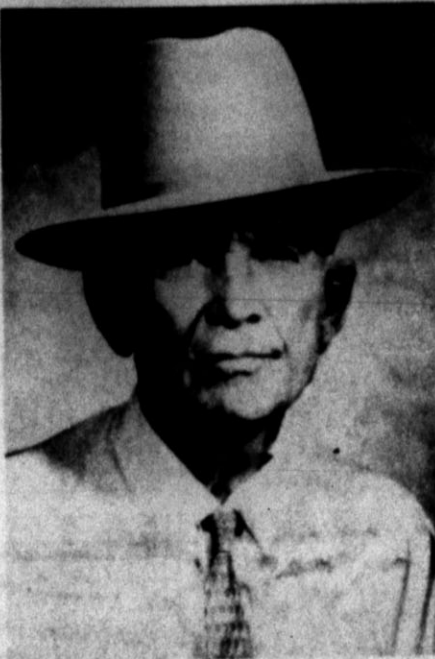

Son of the late R.H. Nortons from Stephens County, Ezra and his family moved to Deaf Smith County when he was 10 years old. The Nortons moved from Amarillo to a little adobe house near the site of what is now the Holly Sugar plant. Several years ago, Norton recalled that it took five days to drive their cattle herd from Amarillo to here.

The Norton Ranch here was started with four sections and at one time included eight sections owned and leased. Ezra and two brothers, Claude and Dick, grew up here working as ranch hands and stock farmers on the Norton spread. The boys and three sisters, Ruby, Una and Alma, attended Hereford schools.

Ezra was the only one of the Norton family to make Hereford his life-long home. He married Avis Palmer, also a member of a pioneer Hereford family, here on Oct. 28, 1908. She died Dec. 30, 1959. Their son, Palmer, a prominent business and civic leader, had been active in management of the ranch and had extensive farming and business interests until his death in February 1974.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Una Hutcheon of Amarillo; one brother, H.D. Norton of Monette, Mo.; one granddaughter, Mrs. Nelda Hendon of Bryan; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Opal Norton of Hereford; and several nieces and nephews.

Palbearers were S.L. Harman Jr., Wayne Phillips, Jim Sears, W.O. Cocanougher, Harry McCauley, Gene King, Fred Boren and Howard Baskin.

CB'ers Concerned Over Obscenities, Discourtesies

BY BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

The pioneers of the Citizens Band (CB) field are finding it hard to breathe on their airways, which they feel need a good ventilation due to the growing popularity of the little communicators.

With an estimated 500,000 persons a month filing applications with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for CB licenses, the 23 existing channels allotted to CB users are fast becoming inaccessible to the persons who really need to use them. The airways are becoming cluttered with useless chatter, improper use of procedures for signing on and off, and insulting obscenities.

These are the concerns of Ray Sanders and Leo Neill and other members of the 60-member Channel Breakers Club of Hereford. It was organized about 10 months ago when CB's were reaching the height of popularity.

THE CHANNEL BREAKERS meet at 7:30 p.m. on the last Thursday of each month in the Hereford Community Center.

"There's no courtesy from one CBER to another," Sanders, Channel Breakers president, said. "People use them too much as a toy and have no respect for the correct CB procedures."

CB radios, which came into existence around 1956, have been sold in volume numbers lately due primarily for use as entertainment on the road and as warning devices for Smokey Bears (state policemen), County Mounties (county sheriff's deputies) and Local Yokels (city policemen). Truckers, of course, first derived this use when the 55-mile per hour speed limit forced them to slow down and therefore lose valuable traveling time and money.

Anyone traveling the highways can see most vehicles passing them, especially truckers, who have been told to "Drop the hammer" (accelerate) since they have been told by another CBER that the coast is clear ahead. This obvious abuse of the speed limit bothers the Channel Breakers since any misuse of the radio is considered illegal and unprofessional.

Sanders said that at least 1,000 persons have CB's in Hereford based on conservative estimates. "The more people on the air makes it that much more necessary for proper observance of the FCC established rules," he added.

THE PRIME MISUSE is that people don't get licenses from the FCC. Secondly, persons cut into ongoing CB conversations without regard for those already talking.

Since the FCC is so flooded with applications, the cost of licenses has been recently reduced to $4 a piece.

In CB language, a person cutting in on someone else's conversation is known as a breaker. It is short for "pardon me boy, I want to speak to someone else."

Those talking have the priority and the breaker must first say "breaker, breaker," and then one of those already will include the new caller in on the conversation. If one of the conversationalists want to include the new caller, then one of them will answer. Otherwise, it's tough.

Neill said that some people cut in and start chattering, causing the existing talkers to lose each other. "Sometimes, five or six callers may come in right behind and by then the original caller is long gone."

Sanders explained that a lot of teenagers with CB's want to know about a friend's trip or try to make dates even over the air. Usually, they never use the 10-code or correct procedures.

Suggestions for the CBER from the May issue of CB Magazine, one of the leaders in the field, goes as follows: "Use the 10-code as much as possible, then get off the air. Make it short and sweet. No unnecessary shop talk, no long-winded yakking to the neighbor about household chores. Respect the other CBERs using the channel and by all means give an emergency full priority when it occurs. Then clam up and just sandbag."

Neill said he recently heard "dirty name calling" on the air. "Remember that my children or yours might be listening in."

STRONG ENFORCEMENT by the FCC has begun on use of designated call letters as opposed to use of "handles" (code name of CBER such as Patches for Sanders or See-You-for Neill). Recently, an FCC man has been in this area tracking down violators and reading them their responsibilities. Fines as high as $10,000 may be imposed.

CB's are presently a real dilemma for law enforcement officers since they like citizens to help them in tracking down

Weather Group Receives Permit

Better Weather Inc. a weather modification organization headquartered in Littlefield has been granted a permit to operate a weather modification program in portions of Castro, Lamb, Bailey and Farmer counties.

THE PERMIT ALSO authorizes flights over portions of Deaf Smith County, although the county is not included in the target area of the cloud seeding operation.

The permit was issued following hearings in Austin, Lubbock, Littlefield and Plainview.

Although the organization had applied for a four year permit, the Water Development Board issued a permit for Baccalaureate services for the 1976 graduating class at Hereford High School will be held May 23 at 8 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

In the event of inclement weather, the permit is in effect until May 7, 1977.

Dryland farmers were vocal in their opposition to the weather modification program, believing that cloud seeding leads to a reduction in natural rainfall. Spokesmen for the weather modification firm indicated that opposition from the dryland farmers probably prompted the Water Board to issue a permit for only one year.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY commissioners approved a resolution earlier this year opposing weather modification activities in the county, based primarily upon objections to such activities by dryland farmers.

services will be moved to La Plata Gym.

The combined HHS concert and symphonic bands will provide music and the HHS mixed choir will also perform.

Royston Lanning, general counsel for the Texas Water Development Board, conducted hearings in Lubbock on the weather modification matter.

Lanning's basic findings were: "The proposed operations will not dissipate clouds, and probably cannot dissipate them by silver iodide seeding."

"The operation will not prevent the natural course of developing rain from the clouds in the areas where the operations are to be conducted, but may change the form of precipitation from hail to rain, and will probably increase rainfall."

"There will be no material detriment to persons or property in the area of the proposed operations from diminished rainfall, but there may be benefits from the elimination of hail."

The weather group will use three planes to modify clouds within the target area by means of application of silver iodide nuclei near cloud base by means of cloud seeding with flares and liquid silver iodide generators.

'Big Mac' Coming to Hereford

Hereford is included in plans for a major expansion by McDonald's Restaurant, and the facility planned here will be the first in the nation to feature the newest McDonald's designs, it was announced Saturday.

Ron McVean, owner of the McDonald's franchise for the tri-state area, announced the plans for new restaurants in Hereford and Amarillo. The McDonald's for Hereford will be erected on US-60, just west of the intersection with US-385. The Amarillo facility will be at I-40 and Ross.

McVean said the total investment by his local company and the national McDonald's corporation for the two restaurants will amount to about $1 million.

Each restaurant will have seating for 128 persons, parking accommodations for 80 vehicles, and drive-up windows. About 50 persons will be employed at each facility, McVean estimated. He said construction will begin in Amarillo about May 24 and in Hereford about two weeks later. Each project will be completed approximately 120 days, he added.

The two facilities will give the world its first glimpse of a new look being introduced under the Golden Arches. The Amarillo restaurant will be McDonald's new "Country French" design. The exterior will be brick and stucco, with exposed wooden beams. The design includes box windows with leaded glass panels. Exterior colors will be blue and yellow.

The interior highlight will be a gazebo in the main dining room, to be used for such attractions as musical performances and fashion shows, McVean said.

The design for Hereford is "Cambridge", a combination of light red brick and exposed beams with box windows of leaded glass. The gazebo arrangement will also be featured in the interior at Hereford.

"This expansion reflects the remarkable growth that McDonald's has experienced in the tri-state area," McVean said. "We began with one location in 1969 and will have grown to seven before the end of the year." There are currently three restaurants in Amarillo and one each in Canyon and Clovis, N.M.

McVean said other area cities are also being considered for future expansion. "We're a locally owned and operated business that has thrived because of the support this area has given us," McVean stated. "These two new locations express our faith in the continuing prosperity of the tri-state region."

Worldwide, there are about 3,500 McDonald's restaurants, with combined sales of more than $2.5 billion annually. McDonald's has become the largest single user of beef in the world. The restaurants serve only American grown beef.

County Party Conventions Select State Delegates

The Deaf Smith County Republican and Democratic delegates to the state party conventions were elected and resolutions on abortion, pornography and Equal Rights Amendments were considered during county conventions last weekend.

The delegates to the Democratic convention scheduled for June 18 and 19 in Houston are Schalan Atkinson, Andy Shuval, Mary Parker, and Raymond Higgenbotham. Alternates are Pauline Bullard, Tony Hoffman, James Gentry and Nedra Higgenbotham.

Resolutions approved authorized the local delegation to support Governor Dolph Briscoe as the chairman of the state delegation to the National Convention and oppose the any display or sale of pornographic magazines, books or other printed matter within the county. Also, the showing of any movies depicting nudity or sexual activity were opposed and the resolution called for a local election on a referendum on pornography.

The Democrats rejected on a 21-14 vote a resolution opposing abortion except to prevent the death of a mother. It is known as the "Pro-Life resolution."

Elected as Republican delegates to the party's state convention on June 19 in Ft. Worth are Wes Fisher, Frank Barrett and Bob Josseland. Each of their wives elected alternate delegates to the convention.

The Pro-Life resolution considered by the Republicans was approved. It differed from the Democratic one in that abortion was supported in cases of proven rape.

Also approved were resolutions supporting the United States sovereignty over the Panama Canal and calling for the repeal of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Presiding over the county conventions were Republican county chairman Wes Fisher and Democratic county chairman Robert Strain.

Car Strikes Child Friday

A Hereford youngster was injured here Friday night when she ran into the street and was struck by a car.

Sally Moreno, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guadalupe Moreno of 123 Ave. H, was treated for a broken collar bone at Deaf Smith General Hospital and later released.

According to a police spokesman, the child apparently chased a ball into the street near her home and was struck by an oncoming vehicle.

The child was struck by the right front fender of the car, which was operated by a juvenile girl.

The police spokesman indicated that no citations were filed in connection with the incident.

Radios

runaway criminals or reporting emergencies such as vehicle accidents, loose animals or threatening weather.

Recently, policemen in Muleshoe were helped by CBers in apprehending a suspect no less than eight miles from where a crime was committed according to Neill.

Concerning the 10-code, Sanders cautioned that 10-33 should most definitely be used in signaling an emergency so that it will be given priority by all radio operators. Other code listing are carried on this page.

WHEN BREAKING or calling on a CB, an operator is supposed to use channel 13 since it is designated as the local one. If it is busy, then the caller should signal to his counterpart to break to another channel that is not occupied.

Above all, channels 9 (for emergency use only) and 19 (for road and trucker's use) should be avoided.

CBers are encouraged not to talk skip, which is using atmospheric conditions to carry a conversation far beyond the legal limit. CB's are required to carry on conversations no further than 150 miles and with normal power, no further than 10 or 15 miles.

Some persons even boost their power above a normal five watts to purposefully extend their range. It's illegal and subject to a fine.

With the rapid rise in the number of CB radios, it has been suggested that car manufacturers may be required to include them in their vehicles. Only time will tell whether this will come about.

In the meantime, Sanders said, "With as many eyes and ears as Hereford has, it could be great (to have numerous CBers) if it is all properly channeled."

Gross Retail Sales Increase

AUSTIN—Comptroller Bob Bullock said that an analysis of Texas' 24 metropolitan areas shows that gross retail sales increased an average 20 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1975 over the previous quarter.

"Gross sales in Houston jumped up 30 per cent, in Dallas-Fort Worth 20 per cent, and Sherman-Denison led the state with a whopping 124 per cent increase," Bullock said.

The Comptroller said the analysis reflects the upswing in the state economy that took place late in 1975.

The surge in consumer spending, he noted, was one of the primary reasons the Comptroller's Office has been able to forecast a large cash surplus when the books are closed on the current two-year state budget.

Bullock released the sales tax analysis along with his monthly statement showing the state's financial condition through March.

"This office processed $482.9 million in revenues during March, while state expenditures during the month totaled $558.6 million," he said.

The Comptroller said that since state fiscal 1976 began on September 1, 1975, the state has collected $3.5 billion and spent $3.9 billion—still leaving a cash balance at the end of March of $903.4 million.

duties to provide for a better society and a decent place to leave future generations. These were a duty to "yourself, your family, community, country, and God."

He claimed that the West Texas and Panhandle areas of Texas contained the strongest family ties, which provide the strongest basis of responsibilities.

"Of course, God is our first priority," he said.

Referring to big government, Reese, said that a strong conservative force in congress was needed to dismantle the large bureaucracy that has been perpetuated by agencies such as HEW, OSHA and FEA. Specifically, he pointed out that the Federal Energy Administration was not needed and that is contained a useless staff of several hundred just to promote it through public relations and press releases.

He favors a "Sunset Clause," which would apply self destruct limitation on the life of federal agencies. "This would also apply to existing agencies."

In line with this, the congressional hopeful likes the idea already promoted to limit terms of public office holders. As an example, he said representatives might be limited to about three, four-year terms (between eight and 12 years of service), senators to two, six-year terms, and presidents to one, six-year term. This would prevent incumbents from taking action while in office for future political gains.

"I think the responsibility of welfare programs would be turned over to the state and local entities," he said. "Taxes could be cut if this was done."

He said the federal government has gone overboard on such programs as food stamps because actions are politically motivated. Several instances of abuse of food stamps were described to support how ineffective the programs are.

ECONOMICALLY SPEAKING, Reese favors zero-based budgeting for federal agencies. "The agencies spend all the money they have been appropriated so they can claim a need for more. They should all be required to justify a need for funds."

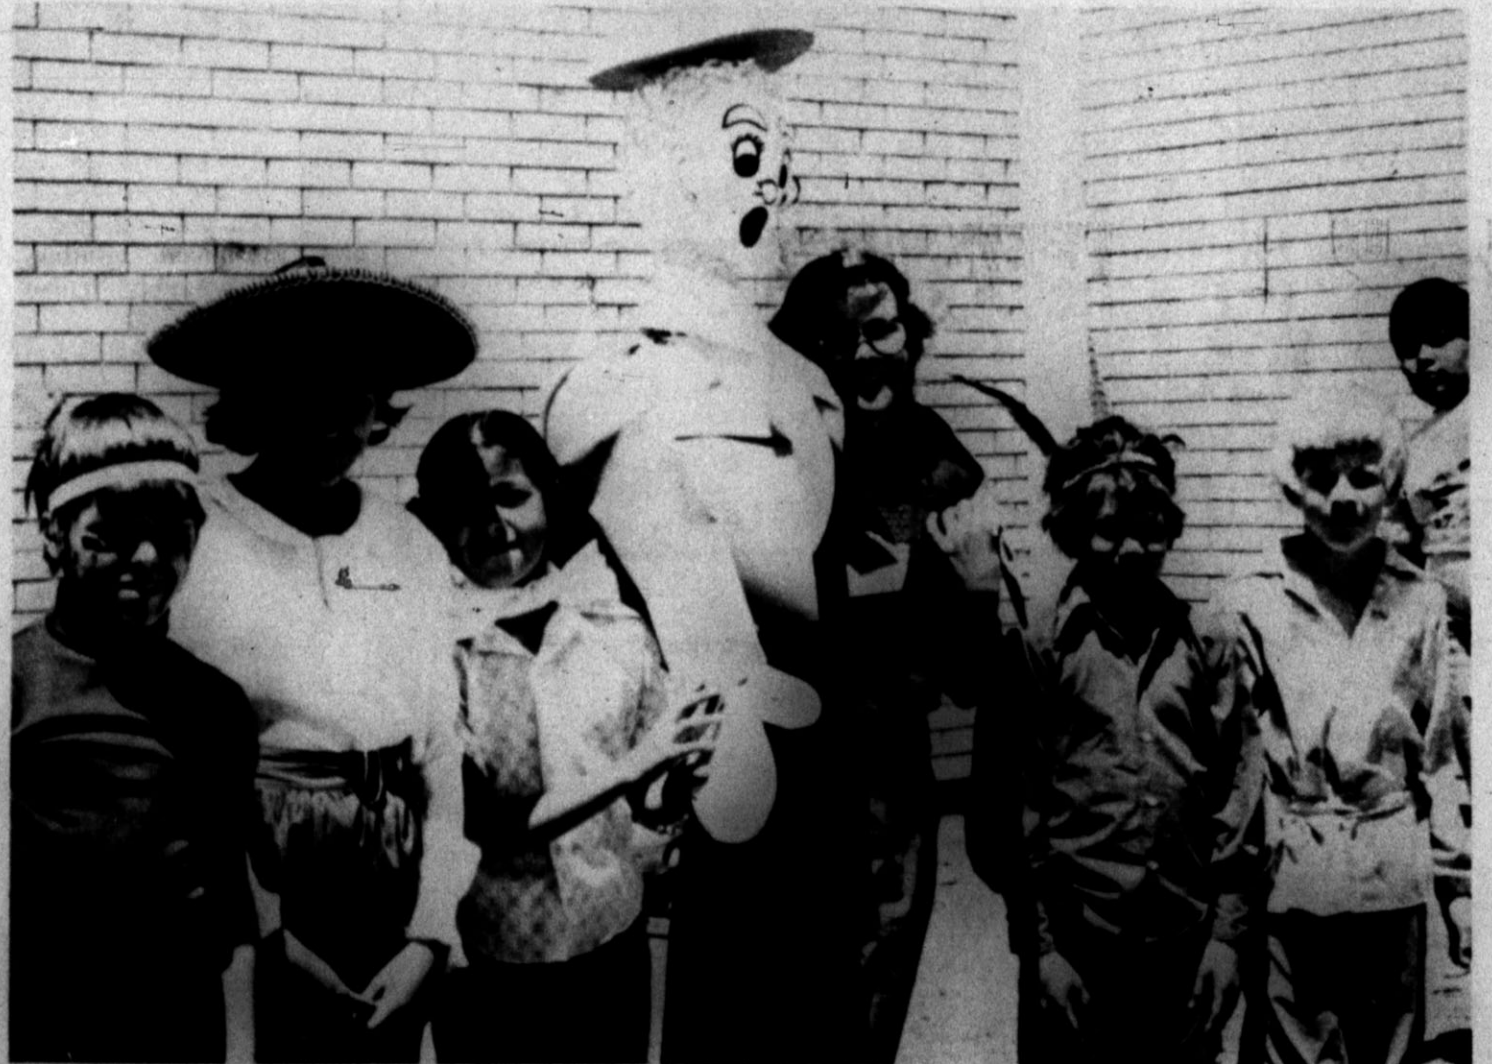

He feels congress has overreacted to disclosures of CIA and FBI secret information during the hearing investigating abuses of the agency powers. "I think it is a disservice to make the public the information since it weakens the country."

Congressional oversight of the agencies is needed as a solution, he said. But this takes time and could not be implemented overnight since congress established the agencies in the first place.

During the Kiwanis meeting, three Kiwanians of the month were named. They are as follows: Marvin Swanson, February; Earl Yocum, March, and R.C. Hoelscher, April.

UNDERSTANDING DRUG ABUSE

a health column from the

Hereford Family

Services Center

Sedatives are drugs which may reduce anxiety and excitement. Taken in small doses, they can temporarily ease tension and induce sleep. Sedatives also are used to treat such medical problems as high blood pressure and peptic ulcers. Barbiturates make up the largest group of sedatives.

Although their medical use has long been established, there is much concern today about the overuse or abuse of these drugs.

People who have difficulty dealing with anxiety or who have trouble sleeping may become dependent upon sedatives and, in time, use them to excess. These drugs, formerly abused mainly by adults, are now also being used by teenagers and pre-teenagers.

Sedatives are sometimes taken by heroin users either to supplement the heroin or, if heroin is not available, to substitute for it. Persons who take stimulants sometimes use sedatives to offset the jittery feelings produced.

Emergency Employment Funds Allocated

Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery Jr. has allocated $240 million—the 20 percent balance of the $1.2 billion in emergency public service employment funds—to state, city, and county governments.

The Secretary had allocated $960 million of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Title II appropriation on April 16, the day after President Ford signed the emergency bill to forestall layoffs of federally subsidized public service employees.

The shares distributed are discretionary funds that delayed for two weeks until the question was answered as to whether the funds could be used in areas covered by Title VI (but not eligible under Title II); that is, areas with less than 6.5 percent unemployment.

Usery said the department has reviewed the legal aspects of the appropriation and has found it is legally proper to distribute these funds to non-Title II areas to avoid imminent layoffs and provide a gradual phase out of jobs in those areas. He noted that of the $240 million being allocated, only approximately $20 million would be distributed to non-Title II areas.

All of the $1.2 billion will continue approximately 260,000 public service jobs through January 31, 1977.

The $240 million is being distributed in a manner which would:

1. Ensure that each prime sponsor can sustain its FY '76 annualized public service employment program level for a seven-month period.
2. If their enrollment levels had increased above that level, provide the prime sponsor with some additional funds to phase down the excess levels to the annualized fiscal year 1976 level.
3. Provide enough funds to those prime sponsors which in whole or in part are ineligible for Title II, to phase out their program between July and January.

Dear Sir:

We would like to offer our opinion that the students composing the instrumental groups of Hereford High School, their directors, and the chaperone group who accompanied the group to Corpus Christi were as fine a representation as your school and community could wish for.

The organization by the chaperone group was remarkably well-planned and executed. The young people did not seem to be under tight restriction in any way, and yet they clearly knew what was expected of them in living and working together in such a large group; and they responded beautifully with little urging or direction that was apparent to an outsider.

We are just trying to say we were delighted to have your young people and would welcome representatives of Hereford High School at any time.

Sincerely,

George T. Gilluly

Lions Aid Senior Citizens, Opportunity Plan

Hereford Lions Club had a busy luncheon meeting Wednesday at Civic Club Center, presenting contributions of $1,500 to the Opportunity Plan, Inc. and $600 to the Senior Citizens Club, recognizing "students of the six weeks" from La Plata Junior High, and hearing a two-part program.

The programs included demonstrations by 4-H members and musical entertainment by two youth choirs sponsored by First United Methodist Church.

Lion president Weldon Dickson presented a $1,500 check for the Opportunity Plan to board member John Aikin. Lion directors approved the contribution after OPI announced plans for a $10,000 campaign fund in order to receive a like amount from the Jim Hill Estate.

Mrs. J.T. Guinn, president of the Senior Citizens Club, accepted the $600 check from the Lions. The money will be used to purchase chairs and tables for an activity center in the old Central Elementary building.

Lester Rape, program chairman for the month, introduced extension agent Joyce Shipp for the first portion of the program. She and assistant agent Garland Steward introduced junior and senior 4-H demonstration teams for programs concerning natural resources.

Junior 4-H'ers Kelly Scoggins and Felicia Rowland presented a program on solar energy, while senior members Terry Barrier and Kevin Douglas had a demonstration program on irrigation water conservation.

Bob McFarland directed the two choirs being sponsored by the Methodist Church. The first group, the Sunshine Choir, was composed of children in grades 1 through 3. The Carol Choir was composed of older students, a group which recently won high acclaim at a music festival in Oklahoma City.

Recognized as students of the six weeks and presented with pens were La Plata students Barbara Jacks and Ricky Moore.

Jerry Heller was introduced as a new member of the Lions Club, and a number of guests and visiting Lions were also recognized at the weekly meeting. David Rudder gave the weekly report from the high school Leo Club, and new officers were introduced. They include: Greg Padgett, president; Tommy Weaver, vice president; Kyla Potet, secretary; and Sabra Hacker, treasurer.

Students Of The Six Weeks

Barbara Jacks and Ricky Moore were honored as "students of the six weeks" from La Plata Junior High when they were guests of the Hereford Lions Clubs Wednesday at Civic Club Center. President Weldon Dickson presented the two students with pens as mementos of the occasion.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor

We have learned that my sister's story in the May issue of The Frontier Times has been re-printed in The Brand.

It is very nice that you have shown this courtesy and in behalf of the Connell family, I would like to offer my thanks.

Even though it has been many years since we have lived in Hereford, there are friends there that we still remember and think of. I worked at the newspaper as a Printer's Devil and later as a printer on many different times.

My younger sister, who is in a nursing home in Austin, will probably want a copy of the paper with the story in it, so will you please send her one.

Sincerely,
Ira A. Connell

Labor Camp Standards Proposal Withdrawn

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has withdrawn its proposal to modify the agency's existing standard for temporary labor camps and substituted a new schedule for development of a final health standard by April 1977.

"A thorough review of the testimony and exhibits submitted at the public hearings conducted since the standard was proposed on Sept. 23, 1974, has led us to conclude we just do not have an adequate basis for a final standard," Dr. Morton Corn, assistant secretary of labor for OSHA, said. "Despite this withdrawal," Dr. Corn added "development of a modified standard will be a priority agency task."

Consequently, OSHA will conduct pre-proposal fact-finding hearings and on-site visits to labor camps starting in June 1976; publish a new proposed department-wide standard on or about Dec. 1, 1976; and promulgate a final standard on or about April 1977.

The proposed standard was intended to establish a new safety and health regulation which could be enforced as a single standard by all interested agencies of the Labor Department—OSHA; the Employment and Training Administration; and the Employment Standards Administration.

Until a new standard is proposed and approved, OSHA will continue to enforce its existing standard in accordance with the agency's policy as published in the Federal Register Jan. 19, 1972.

Youth Can Get Employment Aid

Youth between the ages of 14 and 21 who meet the Manpower guidelines will have an opportunity to obtain summer employment when the Texas Panhandle Community Action Agency launches its Summer Youth Employment Program during the first week of June.

The program will involve about 60 local youths in jobs which range from custodian aide to child care aide.

Other jobs in which local youth have been employed include clerical and library work, library aide, cafeteria aide and teachers aide.

Youth may be allowed to participate in work as it relates to profit-oriented businesses this year.

Those interested may contact Linda Roberson at 364-5632 or come by the old Central School at 4th and Ross in order to make necessary applications.

Eligible applicants will be screened and placed in various work stations throughout the community.

Funds are limited to county allocations, and interested persons should make application as soon as possible.

Hustle
H₃ Hustle
Hustle

By Bill Albright, Executive VP
Chamber of Commerce

I can't think of a better example of a community working together, through the volunteer process to achieve common purposes or goals, than the Hall of Fame Rodeo.

How many thousands of man-hours were expended, how many individual tasks and specific functions were performed, how many actual cash dollars were spent - No one will ever be able to determine. But the end result - the satisfaction of feeling that you were a part of a gigantic effort - that you had a "piece of the action" regardless of the size of the contribution - that's the real measure of success of such a venture.

It would be presumptuous of me to think that I could reflect, even momentarily, on each segment of this intricate operation and it would be disastrous to even begin to list the folks who put this thing together.

But it needs to be recognized that this volunteer spirit - this willingness to do a little extra - this pride in a collective effort - is truly typical of the "American Way". It is especially appropriate at this anniversary of the 200th birthday of our great country.

While volunteers and committees have always received their share of good natured ribbing - volunteers and committees are really what got this country started in '76. And from my experience in Hereford and Deaf Smith County, volunteers and committees are still keeping things going.

So, thanks to everyone - we can chalk up another victory for our Hustlin' community.

I've got a favorite sign that tells the story completely. It says "We can do anything if we don't care who gets the credit." That's what it takes - a positive attitude and lots of HUSTLE, HUSTLE, HUSTLE.

Almost five million Vietnam-era veterans have trained under the current GI Bill.

The War Between the States isn't over. In fact, it's heating up. The weapons are money and labor. The stakes are huge. To the victor goes job, capital and people. To the defeated goes economic stagnation, loss of industry and jobs, a shrinking tax base and crowded welfare rolls.

Students of history will remember that what is happening in the U.S. today is what precipitated the 17th Century Wars between Holland and England. Holland was in an economic decline and England was a growing world power. Three centuries later, Germany was the belligerent economic power, forcing England and France to defend themselves in a struggle which flared into the World War I.

This country is composed of 50 states, politically bound to a common cause. But, economically, it is as different as night from day. There are massive population moves underway. The South and Southwest have grown six times as fast as the North-Central U.S. and ten times as fast as the Northeast. Areas of different rates of economic growth have different attitudes toward national problems. The seeds of the Civil War were sown in economic turmoil, not whether man should be free or slave.

For many years this economic shift in industry and population was moderate, from the rich and prosperous Northeast to the underdeveloped South and Southwest. As long as the shift was gradual, the effect was beneficial to the country. But now the winds of economic change are bitter cold.

A survey by the Commerce Department several years ago estimated populations, personal incomes, and unemployed for each of the states, projecting the figures to 1980 and 1990. Nine states reached their 1980 figures last year.

New Mexico has already shot ahead of the 1990 projected figures. The effect on the stagnate states was even worse. New York was projected to grow by over 1 million people from 1970 to 1980. It has lost more than 100,000. Pennsylvania was supposed to gain 800,000 new residents in the 1970's. Instead, it has grown by only 30,000. Illinois was expected to show a population jump to 900,000 during the 1970's. It has grown by less than 50,000.

The second war between the states will be political and economic. It will also be bitter and destructive.

State Receives Northern Pike

Texas received two million northern pike fry in early April as part of a trade for channel catfish with South Dakota and Nebraska.

The two northern states received some 40,000 plus four- to five-inch channel cats last fall, and recently the two million pike fry were flown to Texas from the Gavins Point Federal Hatchery in Yankton,

S.D., and Nebraska's North Platte Hatchery. Each hatchery provided one million fry.

One million of the fish were stocked at Amistad Reservoir. Additionally, three ponds in Del Rio leased by the P&WD received some 200,000 fry. They will be reared to fingerling size and then released in Amistad.

P&WD's recently acquired federal hatchery at Fort Worth received some 250,000 fry; the San Angelo and Dundee Fish Hatcheries each received 200,000 fry.

Also, the Jasper Fish Hatchery in Jasper County received 120,000 fry, while Pinkson Reservoir in Shelby County was stocked with 30,000 pike fry.

Inland fisheries personnel plan additional northern pike stockings for this spring. Eight Texas lakes, including Amistad, tentatively are scheduled to receive pike fry.

In some waters, like Lake Greenbelt in the Panhandle, pike have proved useful in controlling rough fish populations and providing trophy-sized catches for anglers. Greenbelt currently holds the Texas State Fish Record for northern pike.

Methodist Choirs

Bob McFarland, minister of music at the First United Methodist Church, directs two of his children's choirs during a Lions Club luncheon

Wednesday at the Civic Club Center. The choirs will perform in a Spring Choir Festival at 7 tonight at the church.

'75 Mohair Production Up

AUSTIN -- Mohair production increased in Texas in 1975 but wool production declined, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Mohair clips reached 8,600,000 pounds, a two percent increase. This was the first year-to-year increase since 1965, White noted.

"Wool sheared in Texas totaled 23.6 million pounds, a one percent decline, reflecting the decreased number of sheep and lambs," White explained.

Total value of mohair was $15,900,000, up 38 percent from 1974, while the value of wool was $14,868,000, down from $15,535,000 in 1974.

Pricing for mohair in 1975 averaged $1.85 per pound.

Several special sports achievements awards will be presented to Hereford High School athletes when the Sports Committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce meets Friday at noon in the Caison Steak House.

The end-of-the-year certificates of merit will go to athletes in several sports for their outstanding contributions to their teams and school.

Speedy Nieman, chairman of the sports committee, urged all committee members to attend the dutch treat luncheon meeting.

Sack Race

At this point in the mixed sack race in Friday's Intramural Track Meet, the three front running teams, Debbie Albright-Mike Oglesby on the left, Sara Ricketts-Lance Martin in the center and Lori Taylor-Harvey Torres on the right each still appear to have a chance although Taylor-Torres are beginning to fall behind, however the 4th team whom the Brand wasn't able to get an identification on is really having problems and is long out of the race. Ricketts-Martin took the event.

THE HIGH PLAINS and its corn production is drawing more and more attention from farm publications as the full impact of the area's corn production becomes apparent.

Some magazines have even gone so far as to label corn the "Cinderella crop" of the High Plains.

But these publications also point out a fact that most High Plains farmers are already very well aware of, and that is that corn requires more water if you are shooting for lofty yields. Corn will be big business on the High Plains only so long as there is enough water to produce it, and only so long as farmers can afford to pump all of that water a thirsty corn crop drinks up in a growing season.

With the high production costs now inherent to farming, agriculturalists are even beginning to discover that it might be wiser to settle for a little less in the way of yields in order to cut expenses. In other words, there might be more profit in 160 bushel corn than in 200 bushel corn, when all the costs of producing that extra 40 bushels are taken into consideration.

CORN REQUIRES a lot of extra fertilizer when you begin shooting for those 200 bushel yields, in addition to more water.

Then, there are the problems with insect control. Last year was a pretty lucky one for corn producers all over the High Plains. After two years of problems, farmers were getting ready for a real struggle with the Southwestern corn borer. Although populations of the pest did build up, most growers enjoyed remarkable success with their control programs, and in most areas, damage was kept to a minimum.

If the borer is like most crop pests, however, it's only a matter of time until resistance to chemicals presently being used builds up, or new pests surface. When those corn stalks start toppling due to borer damage, it's hard for a combine to pick them up, and there goes the profitability of corn production. —Of course, with the way the corn market looks these days, farmers have to wonder about the profitability of their undertaking in the first place.

WE ARE GLAD to see magazines finally recognizing the High Plains as the important agricultural area that it is, and we hope they will continue to paint a realistic picture about the problems faced in the production of this yellow grain.

It's good to read a success story, especially when it's about your own area, but it's also good to see writers warning that big-scale corn production is not to be entered into without a substantial amount of financial backing and more than a little understanding of what you're taking on.

FB Spokesman Offers Solution To Gas Problem

AUSTIN—A Texas Farm Bureau spokesman told a legislative hearing Tuesday that irrigation farmers face a major and immediate problem with the supply and price of natural gas to fuel their irrigation pumps.

TFB State Affairs Director Pat Smith testified before a joint hearing of subcommittees of the Ways and Means and State Affairs committees of the Texas House. The May 11-13 hearing received testimony from a number of groups on energy resources.

The Texas Farm Bureau offered recommendations for both short-range and long-range solutions to the natural gas situation.

"The long-range solution for adequate supplies of energy at fair and reasonable prices is immediate return to the market system with a minimum of government intervention," Smith said.

"Many of our energy problems are a direct result of impractical, inefficient interference by government regulations, particularly the federal regulations," the Farm Bureau spokesman said. "These interventions have created shortages, unfair and unequal prices, and must be dismantled."

The TFB legislative representative said that agriculture has major short-range problems that require immediate solution.

"The plight of the irrigation farmer is most severe and immediate," he said. "More than three-fourths of all irrigation pumps in Texas are powered by natural gas.

Change to other fuels such as diesel and electricity is impractical because of cost of conversion and shortages of these sources of power," he said.

Smith said that Texas users of natural gas for irrigation are paying a much higher price for gas at the well-head than out-of-state users. He said prices have increased in many instances from 300 to 500 percent in one year.

Other long-range solutions, Smith said, include research programs, relief from unrealistic environmental standards, and preservation of natural gas supplies for making fertilizer.

One short-range solution, he said, would be state legislation "to correct inequities" of taxes between intra-state and inter-state gas.

"We believe natural gas should be taxed at the well-head on a unit basis rather than a dollar basis," he said.

Other short-range recommendations included possibility of relief through courts of inequities between Texas prices and inter-state prices, and maintenance of agriculture priorities in any allocation programs.

Smith said the increased prices for natural gas are particularly bad for agriculture because farmers cannot pass along the higher costs to consumers.

"Unless some solutions are found, there will be a large number of irrigation farmers that will discontinue or significantly alter their operations," he said.

While the number of Texas farms and ranches is expected to decline by 2,000, a loss of one percent, in 1976, the average size is expected to increase to 692 acres. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Smith Named As Research Director

Dr. William H. Smith, professor of animal nutrition at Purdue University for the past eight years, will join the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station staff as resident director of research at the Experiment Station at Overton, effective July 1.

In making the announcement, Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, said Smith will fill the vacancy created recently when Dr. Bill Ott transferred to Lubbock as resident director of Experiment Station research.

Smith will be headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Overton, and will supervise research programs which serve the entire East Texas area. He will work closely with agribusiness and producer groups in establishing research priorities and projects.

"Smith will bring a depth and diversity of experience as he assumes the resident director position at the Overton Center," said Miller.

Serving as acting director of the Experiment Station at Overton until Smith joins the staff is Dr. F.M. Rouquette, associate professor in forage physiology at the TAMU Center.

Smith is currently coordinating and providing leadership in the beef-forage research area, and is responsible for research conducted at the Purdue main campus, as well as that conducted at the Feldun-Purdue Agricultural Center at Bedford, Indiana, and the Southern Indiana-Purdue Agricultural Research Center at Dubois.

The research Smith is coordinating includes studies on the value of fescue as a pasture for beef cows and calves; bulls vs. steers in the feedlot; feasibility of cornstalks in the diet of beef cattle; big packaged hay; hay quality; post-weaning studies; hay preservatives; soil fertility; grass tetany; liquid supplements for beef cows, and other related projects.

Smith's research activities also include presentation of research papers at a number of national scientific and professional meetings, such as the American Society of Animal Science; serving as a guest lecturer at many conferences and seminars; counseling with graduate students working to obtain a Master of Science or a Ph.D. degree, and assisting them in the completion of theses and dissertations; and serving as an author or co-author of many scientific publications in the animal nutrition field.

Before assuming his present responsibilities at Purdue, Smith was associate professor of animal nutrition at that university for five years. He was a visiting professor at the University of California at Davis in 1966, while on sabbatical leave from Purdue.

Smith also served with the Air Force from 1948 until 1952.

He has a B.S. degree in animal husbandry from Oklahoma State University, and the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue in animal nutrition.

Smith is a member of the American Society of Animal Science, the Indiana Forage Council, and Sigma Xi.

The 1975 Texas wheat crop reached a record 131.1 million bushels, valued at $432.6 million, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

About the only time you expect to see a Zimmatic broken down is when it leaves one of Lindsay's plants. Once assembled in your field, it seldom causes a problem. Those big, sure-footed towers power their way around the field, carrying water to crops.

Hour after hour, day after day. Until you decide to shut down. That kind of performance doesn't just happen. It's the result of constant testing — both in the plant and in the field. Lindsay puts these rigs through the most punishing conditions — loads on more stress in a week, usually, than they're likely to see in a lifetime of normal use.

But we know that no system is 100% perfect all the time. That's why we're ready to help with an extensive parts inventory and factory trained servicemen if you ever have a problem. Before you buy any center pivot irrigation system, be sure to let us tell you about all the advantages of owning a Lindsay Zimmatic.

Final Payment on Tennis Courts Made

Final payment on the new tennis courts at Hereford High School was approved by the school board this week. The project, constructed by Vibra-Whirl & Co., cost $39,239.12.

The courts were not constructed in the time allotted by the contract, and trustees compromised on a 15-day penalty—deducting $900 from the final payment. The City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County participated in payment of the project.

The contract provided for construction of a four-court battery of courts with curb, asphalt surface, fence, and Plexiglas finish. Improvements of four existing courts were also on the contract. Extras approved above the base bid were a new fence on the west side of the new courts, repairs on the existing fence on the old courts, and windscreens installed along the entire west side of both new and old courts.

Did you know that there are no freshmen in women's athletics at the University of Texas. A girl athlete in her first year at UT is a "freshperson", ...well sure....

My vote for the most interesting quote I have read lately is from Minnesota quarterback, Fran Tarkenton. "Things are easier when you are in your 30s than when you are in your 20s." To somebody 18, Mr. Tarkenton's observation won't mean a thing of course but the more seasoned members of our city might be able to express an opinion one way or another regarding his comment. As for me, it hit me right between the eyes because I crossed that 30 mark a few months back and its kind of a strange time in a person's life. You look around and you know that you're not really old, there are lots of people who have been around longer. It's just that you are not as young as you used to be, either, and you realize it for the 1st time.

You hear of kids going to college who are supposed to still be in elementary school and you wonder how they could possibly have had time to grow up. Like I said before, it's a strange time. If you're asking yourself what this has to do with sports, nothing probably except that I figured if Sir Francis can comment on the mysteries of life then I can, anyway I hope he's right. I really do.

Our future with Gifford-Hill's 360 has made history.

Farmers tend to be pretty tough customers. They want to get everything they can out of every nickel they spend. And that's good.

Because the tougher they get the more likely they are to use Gifford-Hill's 360.

This is no ordinary sprinkler system. We can say with a great deal of confidence that you can't match it.

Everything about it was designed to increase profitability. It's engineered for minimum maintenance. The water pattern can be customized to your particular needs and it cost less to operate than conventional water drive systems.

We even designed the size of the water drop so it gets way down where it does the most good.

And the people who installed it will be the same people who service it. Whether you need a pivotal system, an underground PVC system, or an aluminum surface system, you just can't outdo us.

All you have to do is take a look at our past. That should give you a very good idea about what to expect in the future.

Brush Spraying Outlook Improves With Rainfall

Soaking rains in the past few weeks have substantially improved the outlook for effective brush control spraying on Texas ranges this spring, Texas A&M range scientists believe.

The rains should be adequate in most areas to stimulate normal leaf development on mesquite brush and trigger physiological activity within the plant, both of which are needed to translocate chemical sprays to the root system.

"What looked like a poor year for brush spraying has suddenly turned into a promising one in most areas outside South Texas where the rains may have come too late for mesquite," said Garlyn O. Hoffman, extension range and brush control specialist.

"Conditions are the best we've seen in a long while in the Rolling Plains and Edwards Plateau," added C.E. Fisher, Lubbock, A&M professor in charge of brush control research. However, he said moisture and the condition of brush is somewhat more spotty in the Trans-Pecos area of far West Texas as well as the northwestern Panhandle Plains and Canadian Breaks country.

Fisher said Texas A&M research dating back to 1949 consistently has shown a direct correlation between good moisture and good brush control, regardless of kind of herbicide used to spray brush. Best chemical brush control is achieved when good spring rains follow fall or winter rains that have left good deep moisture in the soil and absence of either can reduce brush kill.

"Whether a rancher uses 2, 4, 5-T, our oldest brush control herbicide, or Tordon 225—the most effective we have found—he can expect poor results if he sprays brush that is not in good foliage and generally in healthy condition," Hoffman added.

Normally, the A&M specialists said, they recommend that ranchers begin spray programs 45 days after "bud break"—the time when brush first begins to put out green leaves in the spring.

With the recent rains which both improve the chance for better brush control and boost ranchers' confidence because they bring on good grass crops, Hoffman expects acreage treated this spring to equal or exceed the average of about a million acres sprayed in recent years.

Concern about rangeland weeds—particularly broomweed—may also lead to expanded spray programs if recent rains germinate seed left in the soils by last year's bumper weed crop, Hoffman added.

Research and commercial experience alike have shown that a rancher who sprays brush with Tordon 225 or Banvel 2 Plus 2 herbicides can also expect excellent weed control in the year he sprays, a dividend he does not get with 2,4,5-T, Hoffman said.

Tordon 225 also provides profitable control of other species that are more resistant 2,4,5-T, including prickly pear, tasajilla, huisache, grack jeno, blackbrush and catclaw.

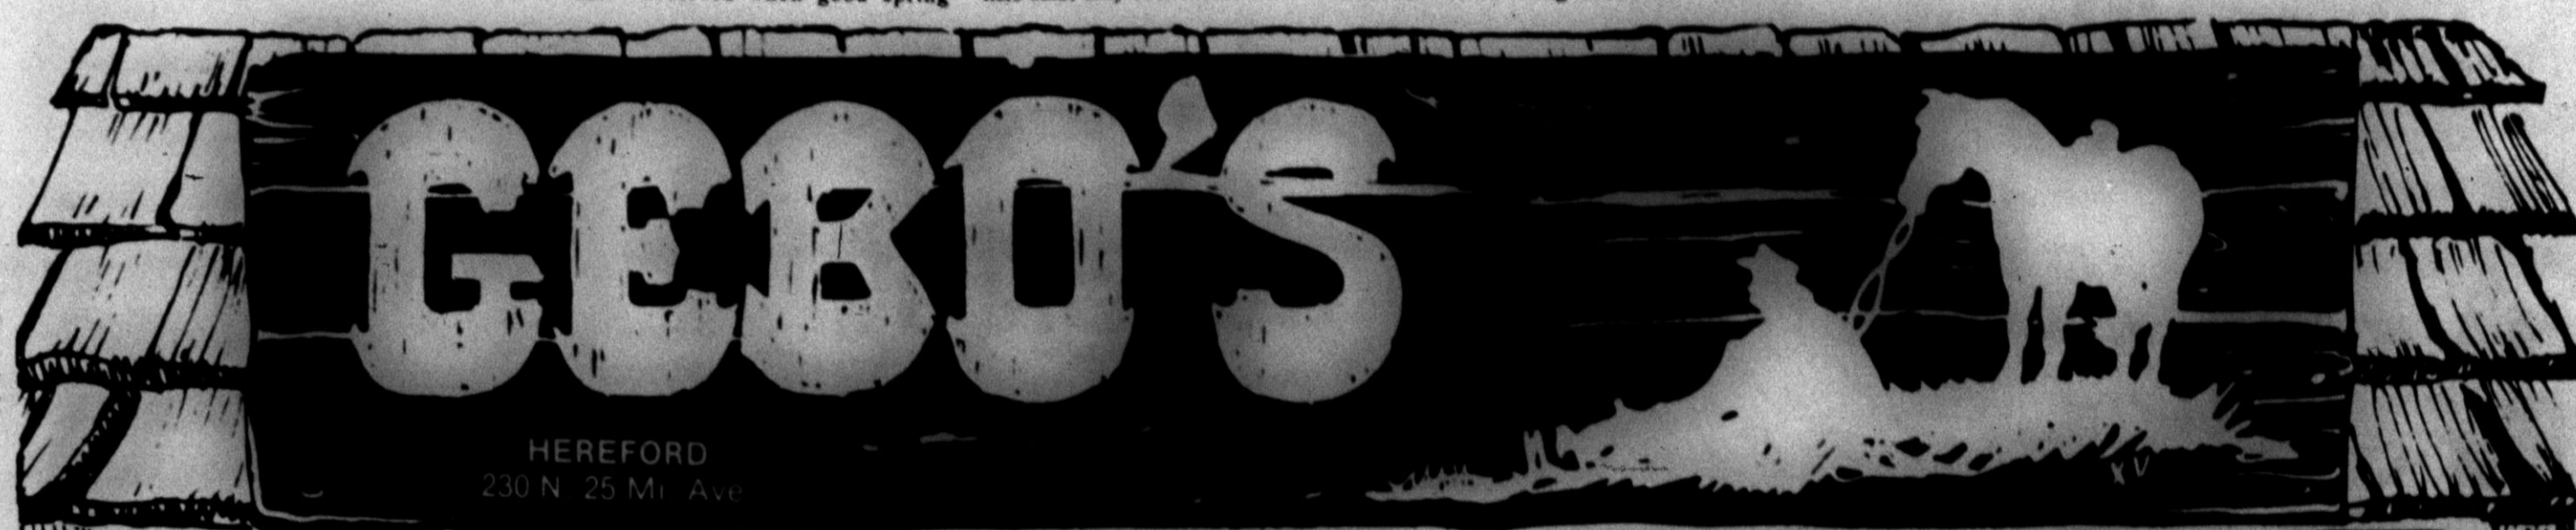

Even in South Texas, Hoffman said, ranchers more concerned with these brush species than mesquite may yet be able to go after those species as well as maccartney rose which he said is in excellent shape for spraying and can be controlled with Tordon 225 sprayed in the fall and winter as well as the spring.

Though encouraged by the recent rains, both Hoffman and Fisher cautioned ranchers to carefully examine their own brush and consult with county agents, Soil Conservation Service specialists, extension range specialists or qualified chemical applicators before spraying specific acreages.

"Even though the rains appeared general in many areas," Hoffman explained, "there may not have been sufficient earlier moisture to produce the kind of growth we need for effective control and this makes it impossible to issue a general recommendation to spray this year."

Interest rate hike predicted.

Consumers buying a new house—or a used house—may be eligible for a homeowner warranty.

Structural aspects of the dwelling can be covered by the Homeowner's Warranty, a nationally insured program established in 1974. This is a voluntary program under which builders may give their customers a 10-year warranty on the new house.

And if the house is sold within the first ten years, the remainder of the coverage passes to the new owner.

A local warranty council adopts standards for workmanship and materials, based on those established by the National Association of Home Builders.

In shopping for a new house, ask if the building offers the Homeowner's Warranty, then compare warranties among different developers or check with the local home builders association.

During the first year, the builder must make good on any failures to meet construction standards such as faulty insulation, improper construction and plumbing and electrical defects. There is no cost to the homeowner for this.

After the second year, a national insurance plan directly insures the consumer against major structural defects for the next eight years. Should the builder fail in his obligation during the first two years, the contract will be honored by the company that underwrites the HOW program.

If you decide to purchase a HOW-insured house, take a 'walk-through' the house with the builder and list anything you want fixed. Although this is standard procedure when any new home is purchased, it is also a HOW requirement.

Be sure to get a copy of the warranty agreement, a consumer information booklet and your 'certificate of participation' in the master insurance policy that underwrites the warranty. You should also return any manufacturer's warranty cards on furnace, air conditioner, and major appliances.

EAT NUTRITIONALLY WHEN TRAVELING

Stay "on the go" throughout vacation traveling by being sure to eat nutritionally balanced meals and snacks.

This gives the family the zest and vitality necessary to have a good time—whether vacationing in the city, on the lake or at a camping site.

Just a little care and thought in selecting a variety of foods from each of the Four Food Groups—whether in a restaurant or camping—makes good nutrition easy.

Noting specific recommendations, you should eat four or more servings from the fruit and vegetable group daily, including at least one serving of citrus fruit or juice or tomato. Have one serving of dark green or deep yellow vegetables and two or more servings of other vegetables or fruits, including potatoes.

Select two or more servings per day of meat, fish, poultry, or meat alternate—peanut butter, dried peas or beans. One serving is two to three ounces of lean cooked meat. One half a serving of meat alternate would include one half cup cooked dry beans or peas and two tablespoons of peanut butter. Serve a main source of protein with a meat alternate each day.

Milk group foods are needed in different amounts by different family members. Adults require two or more cups; children, three or more cups; teenagers, four or more cups; pregnant women, three or more cups. Milk group foods such as ice cream and cheese may be substituted for milk.

Four or more servings per day of whole grain or enriched breads and cereals are required daily. A serving would include one slice of bread, three-fourths to one cup of ready-to-eat cereal, one-half to three-fourths cup cooked macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

Remember to check all Four Food Groups to be sure the family eats nutritionally on the vacation.

NEW TYPE OF CALORIE COUNTER-FOOD LABELS

Dieters may find the new food package labels a good source of information for calorie counts.

Many food labels have nutrition information to the right of the front panel. This information is required on foods making a nutritional claim or those to which nutrients have been added.

But now many manufacturers are using nutrition information on all labels. And the label contains information on several vitamins and minerals, as well as protein, carbohydrates, fat and calories.

To use the calorie information, look for the serving size indicated. Be sure to compare equivalent serving sizes of each type of food. Then compare calories of a plain vegetable versus one packaged in a cream sauce.

But remember that if margarine is added at home to the plain vegetable, this will add calories not listed on the label.

By reading nutrition labels, carrots are shown to have fewer calories and more nutrients than green peas or beans.

Prominent Western Artists End Display Today

Seven women prominent in the western art field join Pamela Harr of Clarkston, Washington in displaying their works at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame during the final day of an art show being held in conjunction with the GRA rodeo today (Sunday) from 1-5 p.m.

Mrs. Harr is a graduate of Oregon State University and her interest in art has grown in the field of sculpture. Life on a cattle ranch near Enterprise, Oregon and Hells Canyon inspired her to depict many of the scenes she has witnessed in bronze. (For additional information on Mrs. Harr, see related story in this issue of The Brand.)

Other artists who will display their works today include Sabra Humphrey of Silver City, N.M., Gloria Billota of Norco, Calif., Grace Knox of Carlsbad, N.M., Penny Onstott of Los Angeles, Calif., Mollie Graham of Landers, Calif., and Janene Utter of Bonners Ferry, Idaho.

Sabra Humphrey was born and raised in southwestern New Mexico, growing up as the daughter of a cattleman and developing affection for horses, cattle, and the old West.

Her main interest is in recreating "the West that was" and in portraying actual western historical events.

Marriage Planned

Plans are being made for an August wedding of Anna Treadwell and Jerry W. Kendrick. The bride-elect is the daughter of retired General and Mrs. Lewis L. Treadwell.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Cummins of Hereford.

Miss Treadwell attended schools in Europe and the University of Washington. Kendrick is an honors graduate of Hereford High School, The University of Texas, the Police Academy at Arlington, and the U.S. Army CID School at Ft. Gordon, Georgia.

The couple will make their home in a Arlington where Kendrick is currently employed by the Arlington Police Department.

Food Fun Program Planned This Summer

A food fun program for junior girls, sponsored by Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, will be held this summer.

The one-week class is presented to offer junior girls basic instruction in food preparation, table setting and table etiquette.

Each girl will learn such things as basic cooking terms, safety in the kitchen, how to plan a party, secrets of cake baking, importance of well balanced meals and being a good hostess as well as some other pleasant surprises.

Janice Wood, Summer Home Services Advisor for Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, is the instructor for the food fun program.

Miss Wood is an outstanding graduate of Adrian High School and is presently a senior student at Texas Tech University majoring in home economics education.

She is a member of the American Home Economics Association and the Vocational Homemaking Teachers Association of Texas.

This program will be held sometime this summer in the local homemaking department. Any parents interested in enrolling their daughter should contact the homemaking department or David Pruitt at DSEC for information and application forms.

Gloria Billota specializes in horse portraits and her experiences in training and showing horses and teaching horsemanship have made her well qualified to portray authentic ranch scenes and landscapes.

Grace Knox was born to a Colorado ranching family and reared in the legendary big-sky country. Enchanted by the picturesque history and lore of the West, she portrays this way of life in a contemporary manner, capturing the life and times of today's Indian and cowboy at work, rest and play.

Penny Onstott was raised in Oregon's hill country. She painted and sketched the western scene of her generation for 20 years but did not pursue art as a serious career until after her marriage in 1964. She worked with her husband on ranches throughout the west and at a cattle and sheep station in west Australia, where she developed background for her work. She has won numerous awards for her paintings, watercolors and pen and ink sketches.

Mollie Graham began depicting Indian life in paintings just over five years ago, and uses the American Indian as her primary subject matter. She utilizes a variety of mediums including oils, pastels and charcoal and her most popular works are portraits painted in acrylic on weathered wood found in the desert that is her home.

Janene Utter was selling works professionally at the age of 15 after beginning painting at the age of nine.

She depicts western scenes in the lives of cowboys and cowgirls in addition to wildlife art. She has also assisted in sculpting a series in bronze on pioneering women.

Most of the women showing art here are members of the Women Artists of the American West, and all of them have works which are national award winners.

Their works will be available for purchase during the final day of the first national art showing at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame today.

Therapist Puts Experience To Use In Art

By KELLY WAGNER
Brand Staff Writer

From a physical therapist, working daily with handicapped children, to one of the nation's top women artists—amazing, isn't it?

Pamela Harr, of Clarkston, Wash., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Trotter, this weekend. Mrs. Harr is in town for a special art show and sale being held in conjunction with the GRA Rodeo going on here. Mrs. Pam Trotter of Hereford has been showing and selling her work for more than two years, in the area and across the several states. She has won several highly acclaimed awards for the bronze characters depicting various western themes. Pam is a member of the Women Artists of the American West and the Texas Fine Arts Association.

sale is being held at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, located in the basement of Deaf Smith County Library.

Mrs. Harr is one of a number women being featured at the show from all over the nation.

Pamela Harr became interested in sculpture while working for more than three years in schools in Oregon with handicapped children. "It was more like play, than work, and sometimes I felt a little guilty," she stated. They did all of their sculptures in clay and wax at the schools, and it wasn't until several years later that she began casting her work into bronze.

In 1971, her husband was killed in Vietnam, and Pam decided to move to the Wallowa Valley near Enterprise, Ore. It was there that she really became interested in Western art and history. Her art began to depict the things she saw and experienced on the 6,800 acre cattle ranch. In 1973 she learned bronze casting from a famous Western sculptor, Ernie Cavinness.

Today, Mrs. Harr lives in Clarkston, Wash., where she continues to express herself through her work with various western characters. Although she doesn't have all of the equipment for the actual casting of some of the larger sculptures she does cast some of the smaller ones. She hopes to have equipment to do all her own casting sometime soon, as she desires to portray each character from start to finish.

There are many involved steps in making and casting the bronze statues. It takes approximately three weeks to design and sculpt an original character in wax and about four weeks at a "foundry" where the actual casting is done. All of the work is done in solid bronze.

Often, after the bronze sculpture is complete, parts must be soldered together and a mild acid, or patina, is applied to acquire the desired color of the work. A coat of wax is then applied to seal and add the finished look to the statue. The completed character is mounted on an oak base, and is ready for sale.

Pam is a member of the Women Artists of the American West and has toured the country exhibiting and selling her work.

She recently won a bronze medal in the museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles, Calif. and has also captured numerous other awards.

It is interesting to note that the artists keeps a "proof" for herself and then the molds of the various works are destroyed. Mrs. Harr makes up to 36 of each character and keeps number 12, 24, or 36. Collectors of the art works often want a certain number, such as the first or the last in a series. Therefore a limited number are cast and completed before the mold is destroyed. Each bronze is thus a "limited edition". Currently, Miss Harr is working on a series of eight pioneer women. "As an artist, I want to give some of the (great) pioneering women their rightful place in history with the men they stood behind," she stated.

Three of these pioneer women works are complete, and may be viewed or bought at the show.

"The Price" depicts Narcissa Whitman, pictured after the loss of her only child. She was the first white woman to cross the Rockies.

"Sacajawea" was a 16 year old Indian girl who acted as guide for the Lewis and Clark Expedition in the early 1800's.

"The Captive" portrays

Abigail Gardner Sharp, who was captured at the age of 14 by the Sioux Indians in 1857.

Pam is yet undecided about the other women to be portrayed through the sculptures but would like to include a woman of the rodeo. She is excited to be in Hereford and to be able to see the Hall of Fame in order to gather ideas about the various women connected with the rodeo circuit in this country.

Currently Mrs. Trotter is working with Bob Hunnicut of Channing on a bronze to be donated to the Hall of Fame, depicting the seven events of the Girl's Rodeo, plus the Rodeo Queen. They will donate one each year for four years until the series is complete, totaling eight scale characters.

PLANT, PLANT, PLANT, and think carefully on your selections. What is best for you, your household, and property?

How does a gardener select the plants which satisfy his special likes? How to choose among annuals, perennials, cacti, yellow roses and so on? I suggest you think about sense gratification. Each sense of our five senses, can aid in directing choices—sight hearing, touch, smell, and taste—offers its own pleasure. The good gardener can provide gratification for each, by plantings in the gardens.

Sight: Order and color combine in a garden—for beauty and visual satisfaction—basic design, distant vistas, color, texture and form. There is so much beauty in the right combinations of color. Use the warm colors (red, yellow, and orange) for advancing color harmonies. Violet, blue and green for the quiet places, where one can meditate. Also, combinations of these colors, can carry out designs which will add that certain something, one wishes to create.

Hearing: Not too often thought about in garden planning, yet how enjoyable sound can be: The soft rustle of wind through trees, the musical tinkle of falling water, in a fountain; birds chattering at their feeders. Laughter of children, and the voices of loved ones visiting and planning for the tomorrow.

Touch: Many of us derive a basic pleasure potting plants and handling soil. In addition, the touch of plant foliage, distinctive for every plant (Have you ever felt the texture of the plant commonly called rabbit ears?) At the plant sale Saturday I was waiting on a teenage girl. She questioned me as to the name etc. of the plants. I told her the name, and asked her to touch and feel the texture of the leaves. She did, and looked up at me and said, "it really feels like the soft part of the rabbits ear."

Smell: This sense is really used in gardening and no one can deny the overwhelming pleasure of flowers like the Jasmine, the Gardenia...or the fragrant roses. Pleasures are developed for us in a multitude of perfumes with all their seductive scents. In the moonlight, stroll through the garden and note the fragrance of the flowers, it is extra special! To close ones eyes and pause a bit and enjoy the deep, sweet fragrance, is heart warming and delightful.

Taste: Who can deny the sense of smell? Taste can be an end product of your garden, and in these days of soaring food costs, probably will become more so. Home-grown herbs and vegetables are extra-tasty, and can provide us with one of gardening's keenest enjoyments.

Yes, gardening can go far beyond spading, raking, watering and planting. These are all of the utmost importance, and when all is thought through, the gardener realizes, that it really "makes good sense, and helps to stretch the cents."

Roses: The roses are starting to bloom. The first ones I have had to flower are Valentine variety. They are a lovely red color, and texture is delightful. The Valentine is a floribunda, and one of the best I have ever grown.

My friend Vera Deason says, if one wants more bloom, this can be realized during the summer months. Rosarians have come up with this idea, from experience. When roses set their first buds pinch out one-third of the terminal buds, including buds on the laterals, allowing the other two-thirds of the buds on each plant to bloom.

This pinching out, forces the plant to immediately begin to renew itself and that section receiving the first pinching will set buds and bloom out of sequence all season, thus providing desirable bloom throughout the season.

If you want to try this method, and are a bit cautious, try the pinching of buds on a small part of the bush, and see how it works out. I would be delighted to have blooms all season without having the time following the first full flowering, and the rest which follows. The suggestion sounds workable, I plan to try it, on the Valentine.

To have larger blooms and better developed ones on the Hybrid Teas, pinch out buds where they are crowded, thus giving room for full development to the bud left. You will be delighted at the quality as well as size of the developed full blossom.

GARDEN ENEMIES. With gardening, as with other things we have enemies, which we should fight to control.

A common enemy of gardening is weeds. Sometimes it seems like a thankless (or losing) chore to try to keep down weeds. The following are statistics to prove, that indeed weeds harm plants.

Tests have been made to show the effect of weed competition on cultivated plants. Dr. A.T. Fretz of Ohio

La Madre Mia Officers

Steve Hodges, historian; Mrs. Wayne Lady, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Charles Watson, reporter. Seated are Mrs. Jimmy Anderson, president, and Mrs. Dickie Gerles, vice-president.

State University's Department of Horticulture made some tests, and definitely proved that plants who have weed competition are losers.

He placed uniformly rooted cuttings of Convex leaf Japanese Holly (Ilex crenata 'Convexa') in one and two gallon containers along with a carefully-measured growth medium. The pots were also planted with weeds—from one to 32 in the same pot—one set with redwood pine plants (Arm aranthus retroflexus) and the other with large crabgrass (Digitaria sanguinalis). Control containers planted with holly plant were weed free.

After one hundred days of growth, the containers were compared. The results were startling.

One pigweed was enough to reduce Holly growth by 47.4 percent. As weed densities got higher the holly size dropped. When competing with 32 weeds the poor holly was held back 59.8 per cent in size.

In two-gallon containers, growth reduction in the holly ranged from 31.7 percent with one weed to 38.1 percent in containers with 32 weeds.

Large crabgrass was even more awesome in inhibiting holly growth. One competing weed cut down holly growth by 59.1 percent.

Definitely weeds and foreign grasses are enemies to our plants. Dr. A.T. Fretz of Ohio article on weeds and how they damage, and the cost they add to the farmers, and gardeners, it was proven, cost is very high. One authority stated that to grow one weed would cost approximately 25 dollars, and if left to maturity it would add much more. As they develop, strength is taken from the garden plant, and seed are allowed to ripen which would reseed another, while if controlled, this can be a decit instead of a charge.

Iris Show: The North Plains Iris Society, are having their annual show, Sunday 15th, at The Amarillo Garden Center, (in the Medical Center). Hours of the show are 1:30 to 5 o'clock p.m. Various types, and a rainbow of colors will be shown. There is no admission charge. It will be a beautiful showing of iris, and time will be well spent.

Old Fashioned Tip: Epsom salts, which is really magnesium sulfate, has many uses in the garden as well as the household.

Applied at the rate of about two ounces per rose bush (sprinkle around the roots perimeter and water thoroughly) it will promote basal breaks in roses and encourage production of green healthy leaves. It's most effective when an alkaline condition of green healthy leaves. It's most effective when an alkaline condition exists in the soil, but it does no harm even when an acid condition prevails.

Beauty Spot: Be sure and see the beautiful Snowball, which is now in full bloom at the Zearl Cansler home on North Texas street.

The peonies are beginning to flower, and there are some lovely varieties in full bloom. Colors, sizes, and plant foliage are creating beauty spots in many of the gardens.

The Red Barberries, are lovely. The radiant color is indeed beautiful, at the home of Mrs. O.G. Hill Sr. The Elsie Posen rose is blooming.

Club Conducts Installation

During an evening meeting at the Cason Steak House Thursday officers were installed for the La Madre Mia Study Club.

Tables were decorated in red, white and blue, commemorating the nation's bicentennial.

President, Mrs. Dean Herring, gave the address to the officers on qualities of First Ladies during the installation.

Incoming officers for the coming club year will be Mrs. Jimmy Anderson, president; Mrs. Dickie Gerles, vice-president; Mrs. Butch White, secretary; Mrs. Don Lane, treasurer; Mrs. Steve Hodges, historian; Mrs. Wayne Lady, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Charles Watson, reporter.

The new president th announced her committees. Members present include: Mmes. Herschel Black, Cra Smith, Don Taylor, Bobby Owen, C.D. Adams, Lynton Allred, Charles Frye, G.C. Films Scheduled At DSC Library

In observance of National Mental Health month, the Hereford Family Services Center will be presenting a film Monday at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at Deaf Smith County Library.

The film, entitled "Who Cares About Jamie?", demonstrates the importance of preventing mental and emotional illness before they occur. It also provides a warning about the rising rate of mental illness.

A special hour film will be presented at 4 p.m. for children of all ages. The film concerns a small Navajo Indian boy who finds a prize race horse which has escaped into the Arizona desert.

How he hides the horse, evades the efforts of the owner to find this wonderful horse, until he is persuaded to return him, makes for an exciting, humorous, sensitive story everyone will enjoy.

Mrs. Dale Furr will review the book "Miracle at Philadelphia" by Catharine Drinker Bowen at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the library.

This book tells the story of the stormy, brilliant session of 1787 in Philadelphia which saw the birth of the Constitution of the United States.

It is also a story of the men who attended this session, their lives, their ideas and feelings and their intense concern for what was being done in Philadelphia.

This will be the last book review at the library until this fall.

Cabinet Donated To DSG Hospital

In observance of National Hospital week, a cabinet was donated to Deaf Smith General Hospital Thursday morning. It was built by Cecil Lady to hold various items for the patients' needs such as toothpaste, shaving cream, thank-you notes, and gifts.

The Hospital Auxiliary was organized three years ago to aid hospital personnel in giving extra personal service to all the patients.

At the present time there are 40 women volunteering for the service. Some of the duties include making coffee for both waiting rooms, delivering mail to patients, keeping nurses' stations stocked at all times, and visiting patients throughout the day to aid in making their stay in the hospital more pleasant.

Gift For Hospital Auxiliary

Hospital Auxiliary members Mrs. Audine Dettmann, left, and Mrs. Karl Mannschreck pose with Cecil Lady and the cabinet he built for the volunteer organization. The cabinet will be used for items which patients or visitors may want to buy at the hospital. The auxiliary aids hospital personnel in giving extra personal service to patients.

Report Defines Bilingual Ed. Here As 'Exemplary Project'

An evaluation report on the Bilingual Education Program in the Hereford School System has been sent to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), it was reported to the school board this week by Mal Manchee, director of federal programs.

Manchee explained to trustees that HEW regulations stipulate that applications for assistance to continue a program will be evaluated on the basis of the progress of the program in meeting its objectives. He said a proposal has been submitted, asking for basically the same program here.

Included in the application was the evaluation of an independent audit team composed of West Texas State University and Panhandle Education Services Organization (PESO) representatives. Copies of the independent audit were presented to board members.

The audit stated that Hereford's Bilingual Program "is indeed an exemplary demonstration project." Team members of the audit added that "this was evidenced in the team teaching that is going on between bilingual teachers and monolingual teachers; teachers and para-professionals; and in some cases, teachers and resource teachers."

Other comments of the audit: "All bilingual materials were being used most effectively in small group instruction and in some cases, individualized instruction. Learning centers were also being effectively utilized. It could be clearly seen that teachers were trying to meet the individual needs of their children.

"Another outstanding aspect of the program was the principal's sense of pride in the successes of their bilingual programs. Each principal communicated a sense of pride in their school and in their bilingual teachers and their fine work in the program. The Mexican-American culture was represented along with our own American culture brought out in the Bicentennial theme.

"There was an effective distribution of student-aided teacher for instruction; there was an exceptional use of teacher-aides in the instructional component; there was a good use of visuals in the classroom; there was ease of transfer from one language to another by both students and teachers; the children were attaining basic concepts in their dominant language.

"And it was gratifying to hear first and second-grade students reading and writing in the two languages—the proof of a truly successful bilingual program," the report concluded.

Wholesale prices stability wobbles.

The only scanning radio capable of receiving over 6,000 police, fire, or other public service broadcasts without crystals. The Bearcat 101 is synthesized.

Hear your police and firemen in action!

Bearcat 111 scans up to eight fixed frequencies in any one or two FM public safety/business bands...locks on and listens to an active channel...then continues the search.

There are now four Emergency and Public Safety bands you can monitor. Select the police, firemen, weather, mobile phone or hundreds of other channels to monitor or in your car!

A total of six crystals can be installed in the BEARCAT 6. The receiver will scan these frequencies, lock on and then resume scanning, looking for more action.

Members of W-K-I-T-A sixth grade Adventure Group passed their fire makers desire rank when they went on a camping trip last weekend at Veterans Park.

They also had a ceremonial to celebrate their years of achievement. This concluded this year's activities by the group.

During the ceremonial, Shonda Wright, president, awarded Young Homemakers of Texas's president, Mrs. Larry Alley, with a plaque. The organization has served as the group's sponsor this year.

Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Mike Solomon and children, Annette Gooch and Sammie Mazurek.

Conferences Join for Annual Session

In an unprecedented move the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Annual Conferences of the United Methodist Church will meet in joint session, May 25-28, at the Gloria Baptist Conference Center in New Mexico.

Bishop Alsie H. Carleton, the bishop of both annual conferences, will preside over the four-day session which will carry a bicentennial emphasis on America and United Methodism.

United Methodists from more than 355 churches of both conferences will gather for the opening session Tuesday (May 25) at 9:00 a.m. in the Main Auditorium. "This is a natural time for a joint session of the two conferences," said Dr. Darris Egger, a member of the Northwest Texas Conference staff in Lubbock.

The giving and receiving of pastoral appointments is scheduled for Tuesday evening, immediately following a special historical presentation on the Northwest Texas Annual Conference by Dr. Robert Monk, professor of religion at McMurry College (Abilene, Tex.).

Retiring ministers will be honored during Tuesday afternoon's business session. Ordination services for deacons and elders will be held Wednesday evening, following the worship service which will feature the "History of New Mexico Conference."

The joint session will be climaxed by a special pageant entitled "A New Kind of Freedom" directed by Dr. Blackburn and Miss Donna Dorsett, also from McMurry. It will consist of music and drama groups from McMurry College. The pageant is slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Main Auditorium.

An informal history of the Texas Panhandle, Between Sun and Sod, has been published by the Texas A&M University Press.

The 200-page book ($12.50) by Willie Newbury Lewis is a revised and expanded version of a volume first published in a small edition in 1938 and unavailable for many years.

Included in the book are reproductions of H.D. Bugbee's original pen-and-ink illustrations.

Mrs. Lewis explains in the preface the book began as a desire to preserve for her children a permanent record of their father's early life on the Panhandle Plains.

As my interest and understanding of the subject increased, I came to realize that the story of my husband and the story of the region were closely related, and that, for the sake of coherence, his story should be preceded by the story of the land that produced him," she noted.

Mrs. Lewis, who was reared in Dallas, went to the High Plains with her rancher-husband as a bride in 1912.

The frontier had passed by then, but she knew many of the oldtimers and observed firsthand what remained of an earlier way of life. Her account of the civilizing of the region is based largely on personal interviews and correspondence with some 50 of the men and women who made it happen.

Introduction is by Dr. Fred Rathjen, professor of history at West Texas State University.

Getting along amicably in life is largely a problem of getting along with people just about as good as you are.

Business Letter Clinic Is Slated

How to make business letters clear, concise, convincing, and courteous - how to give them the human touch - how to emphasize the reader's interests - these are a few of the points to be covered by W.H. Butterfield during the Business Letter Clinic set for Hereford on Friday, May 21.

Scheduled to run from 1:30 to 5 p.m., the clinic will be conducted in the Medallion Room of the Deaf Smith County Electric Coop. It is being sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. The $25.00 registration fee includes a set of fifteen letter-improvement charts that cover the fundamentals of good business correspondence.

A widely-known authority on letter writing, Butterfield has written sixteen books and some 200 magazine articles on this subject. He is also author of the section on "Letter Writing" in World Book Encyclopedia, and formerly edited the Better Letters Service of the International Consumer Credit Association. His letter writing programs have been conducted for business and professional groups in almost 400 cities. In reviewing one of his books, Printers' Ink magazine called him "the most expert of the authorities."

The Business Letter Clinic shows how to make even routine letters build good will, how to avoid trite phrases, how to write clearly and concisely, and how to use effective selling psychology by mail. Actual letters are analyzed to show why some

"click" and others fail. Registration for the Business Letter Clinic can be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 364-3333. The program is open to all who are interested in improving their letters.

TSTI Plans Rodeo

The 6th Annual TSTI Rodeo and Barbecue will be staged May 21 by the TSTI Rodeo Club at Texas State Technical Institute in Amarillo.

Tickets are on sale now, $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for children for the barbecue and $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children for the rodeo. The barbecue and rodeo will be held at the TSTI Rodeo Arena on the Mid-Continent Campus in Amarillo.

Some 50 contestants are expected to participate in nine events: bull riding, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, team roping, barrel race, pole bending, rescue race, scoop race, and chute dogging.

All State Tech students and their spouse, Ex-Students and their spouse and TSTI employees and their spouse are eligible to enter the contests. Winners will receive trophy buckles. Stock is being furnished by Dale Smith, Amarillo. The meat is cut for the meal by the students in Meat Processing and Marketing at State Tech. The meal is then prepared and served by the LRP club members. The barbecue will be from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The rodeo will begin at 7:30 p.m.

There will be a Western Dance following the rodeo and the tickets are $1.00 per person and everyone is invited. Eddie Collie and the West Texas Cow Punchers will be the band. The dance will be held in the Campus Activity Center.

On Saturday May 22 the day following the rodeo a TEAM ROPING will be held at the arena starting at 2 p.m. Cost is $28 for three head.

Realtors Asked to Support Federal Housing Subsidy

Realtors were urged recently by an official of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to support and promote a housing subsidy program.

Lawrence Beckerman, HUD information specialist, told realtors it could help in homes for lower income families. Beckerman referred to Section 8 of the 1974 Housing and Redevelopment Act as "not a solution to all of our housing problems, but perhaps a solution to one of the major ones."

The Section 8 program provides government subsidies of rents for low-income families. The subsidy is based on the renter's ability to pay. Families with incomes of less than 80 per cent of the median income for the area pay 25 per cent of their income, and the federal government pays the balance of the "fair market rent." Those who earn less than 50 per cent of the median pay 15 per cent of their incomes.

Why should Realtors be interested in the program?

Simply because there is money to be made, Beckerman said.

"Where there is a substantial vacancy rate, Section 8 housing is very attractive," he told the Realtors. "It provides a steady cash flow, virtually 100 per cent occupancy and thus income for maintenance to avoid code violations. It offers a reasonable return on investment and in a long-range sense contributes to the stability of the neighborhood."

The landlord is not obligated to accept any and all applicants, Beckerman said. He can ask for references from previously occupied buildings and reject applicants whose past experience indicates rent delinquencies or other problems. For those applicants he accepts, he has guaranteed subsidy money coming in for up to 20 years.

While the program includes both new and existing housing, Beckerman said that HUD primarily is interested in existing apartment projects in order to exhaust the current unoccupied existing housing inventory.

"If Section 8 doesn't work," he warned, "Congress may decide to go back to the conventional public housing concept. We know that doesn't work."

The spring meetings are held annually in Chicago so that some 2,500 members of the association's 35 standing committees can contribute updated input to their committees' deliberations.
