Texas Demos defect; tax bill still passes

Here's lookin' at you Grad!

Hereford High School graduating senior Connie Jackson adjusts her mortarboard in anticipation of tonight's commencement exercises. The 12 years of work by the Graduating Class of 1993 will officially come to a close when graduation begins at 7 p.m. The seniors will walk across the stage at Whiteface Stadium to receive their diplomas. In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be moved across the street to the Junior High gymnasium.

Cowgirl Hall of Fame sets Rhinestone Roundup fest

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center has announced its annual Rhinestone Roundup Weekend and honoree inductions.

Two women will be inducted as Cowgirl Honorees. They are Dorothy Tomlinson Satterfield of Tucson, Ariz., and Janet "Jan" Alley Youren of Garden Valley, Idaho.

Satterfield performed in rodeo as a trick rider, barrel racer and in the quadrille in the early days of the Girls Rodeo Association.

Today she is active breeding, raising and showing champion Quarter Horses, qualifying for world champion competitions.

Youren is a world champion rough stock competitor in rodeo, riding bareback broncs and bulls and competing in a discontinued event in women's rodeo, steer undecorating.

Her community involvements include being a coordinator for Garden Valley's centennial in 1990 and putting on a historical pageant featuring the settling of Garden Valley.

Being inducted as a Western Heritage Honoree is Gertrude Maxwell of Elk City, Idaho.

Maxwell has given herself to cattle raising, farming, teaching, training dogs and serving as a school principal.

She has written her autobiography titled "My Yesterdays in Elk City."

Induction will take place at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 19, at the Hereford Senior Center, 426 Ranger, beginning with a breakfast and including introductions of past honorees.

Reservations for the event may be made by contacting the Hall at 364-5252. Tickets are $15 per person.

Entertainment for the induction will be provided in part by "Ride Into History," an historical re-enactment company. The performance will represent a proper lady of the pioneering West. An additional performance will take place Saturday evening at the B Bar S Arena with a portrayal of the infamous Calamity Jane.

Also at the B Bar S Arena, guests will enjoy a ranch supper, silent auction and an upbeat concert by the all-girl country group Dixie Chicks, followed by Western dancing to Texas Country.

The evening activities will be held from 6:30 p.m. until 1 a.m. Reservations may be made for $35 per person. Special tables for groups of 10 with preferred seating and additional benefits may be had for varying rates.

Also highlighting the weekend is the museum's open house, set for 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on June 18 and 19. On hand will be exhibiting artists Keith Avery, a Western artist featured frequently on the cover of publications including Western Horseman magazine, and Virginia Carlson, cover artist for the Hall of Fame's 1993 issue of Sidesaddle magazine, which will be presented with the unveiling of Carlson's art at the induction ceremony.

The open house will also feature Navajo weaver Trish Dee, a 1994 Cowgirl Calendar created by Random House in collaboration with the Hall of Fame, and an autograph session with Gail Gilchrist who will present her new book, The Cowgirl Companion, for which research was done in part at the Hall of Fame.

On exhibit will be displays representing the three new honorees.

Everyone is welcome to visit the Hall and enjoy refreshments while viewing the museum's displays.

Special giveaways will take place during the weekend. All Saturday evening ticket holders will be included in an American Airlines grand prize drawing.

The trail comes within several miles of Sargent's 14,000-acre park just north of Quitaque.

Many of the 150,000 annual visitors to the park have told Sargent they'd like more trails through the rugged terrain, he said.

"When people think of Texas, this is what they want to see: the John Wayne movie," Sargent said. "They're not disappointed."

Support from neighboring communities and the state parks department helped launch what has become Texas' longest rail-to-trails project, said Julie Winterich, research coordinator for the Rails-to-Trails Conservancy in Washington, D.C.

Jim Sabourin, spokesman for Burlington Northern in Fort Worth, said railroads commonly shed their small, unprofitable lines.

"Oftentimes a rails-to-trails group comes in, which is always fantastic to see," Sabourin said.

The Texas parks department so far has spent about $30,000 making the 12-foot-wide trail safe for adventurers, Sargent said. Crews built handrails on some bridges and started battling the encroaching Johnson grass, he said.

Still, Sargent expects some injuries among those who stray from the path to climb cliffs or canyons.

Adan Tijerina was arrested on Feb. 8 and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

In addition to the sentence of eight years deferred adjudication probation, Tijerina was fined $1,500.

Another defendant in court Thursday, Guadalupe Jasso, 40, was sentenced by Judge David Wesley Gulley to five years' probation on his plea of guilty to felony driving while intoxicated. A $1,000 fine also was levied by the court.

'Untouched' part of Texas exists along abandoned railroad line

QUITAUQUE, Texas (AP) - Trains that once smoked through the Panhandle badlands left a deep-mashed path of chipped volcanic rock.

Here, along the 64-mile rail line Burlington Northern abandoned last year, mesquite grows thick and lizards grow bold.

The trail snakes from peanut farms near the community of South Plains, across creek beds and canyons, to Estelline.

Tiny daisies dot the sandstone cliffs. Cattle peer from behind barbed wires almost hidden by last year's brittle sunflower stalks.

The caprock shimmers blue-green in the distance.

"If you want to see a part of Texas that's untouched, this is about as close as you'll get," said Rusty Sargent, superintendent of Caprock Canyons State Park, which inherited the trail after salvage workers stripped up Burlington Northern's track.

Sargent and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are transforming the former rail line into a path for hikers, cyclists and equestrians. Its west segments - about 22 of the 64 miles - open June 5.

The trail comes within several miles of Sargent's 14,000-acre park just north of Quitaque.

Many of the 150,000 annual visitors to the park have told Sargent they'd like more trails through the rugged terrain, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The proposed energy tax that's a key component of President Clinton's deficit-reduction package was too much for some Texans to bear.

Seven Texas Democrats broke ranks with their party late Thursday and rejected the massive tax package, which would raise $250 billion over five years. The state's 14 other Democrats - many of them swallowing hard - sided with the White House in the toughest test to date of the fledgling administration. All nine Texas Republicans voted against the measure, which passed 219-213.

"The economy in my district was and is still largely based on energy," said Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs. "I will not support a bill which unfairly in my judgment penalizes my district and my state."

The Democrats who opposed the president's package didn't do so lightly. "It is a difficult vote," said Chapman, who was one of many lawmakers Clinton telephoned in the days leading up to the vote. "There is a lot of good in this bill."

For some, their opposition went far beyond the much-reviled energy tax.

"I think that passing this is not only bad for the economy, but bad for the Democratic Party and bad for the president," said Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth. "We would all be better off if we started over and put something together that's much more balanced."

Geren said the package, once envisioned to have $2 of spending cuts for every $1 in taxes but now closer to one-on-one, was "out of kilter."

Some lawmakers who approved the measure did so only with the promise that the energy tax would be modified in the Senate, where oil-state lawmakers hold greater sway.

"I did so as a means of moving the deficit-reduction process forward," said Rep. Solomon Ortiz, D-Corpus Christi, who wavered until the vote. "I note my strongest objection to the energy tax provisions ... as well as the defense cuts."

Even as the House prepared to vote on the tax package, the administration was signaling its willingness to tinker with the plan when it reaches the Senate.

Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen assured oil-state lawmakers Thursday that the administration will exempt energy-intensive exports and will remove supplemental taxes on residual fuels.

For many conservative Democrats - though not most in Texas - the corner was turned when the Democratic leadership yielded to demands to impose restraints on mandatory spending programs that consume half the budget.

Rep. Charles Stenholm, a leader of the so-called "boll weevil" Democrats, forged a compromise that would impose spending targets for Medicare, Social Security and similar entitlements. If the targets are exceeded, the president and Congress have to raise taxes or cut spending to compensate.

"For the first time ever, Congress is taking entitlement spending off of auto-pilot and both Congress and the president will be held accountable for spending which fails to meet their deficit reduction promises," said Stenholm, D-Stamford.

Although he voted for the tax package, Stenholm cautioned that his future support hinges on whether the energy tax is altered to his satisfaction in the Senate.

While the vote wasn't easy for anyone, Rep. John Bryant chalked it up to the demands of the job.

"We're sent here to govern and if you don't want to govern, if you can't vote on budget cuts and tax increases in times when they are necessary, then what good is it to be here?" the Dallas Democrat asked. "I don't see how we can continue with these deficits."

Dameron Park swimming pool set to open Saturday

School's out, school's out, teacher's let the students out ... can the opening of the swimming pool be far behind?

Barring any unforeseen circumstances, the Hereford city pool in Dameron Park will be ready for action Saturday.

Although the pool almost was closed up forever, city commissioners decided to squeeze another season out of the deteriorating facility, putting into effect some measures to comply with Americans with Disabilities legislation.

Then, as maintenance work began to open the pool, city employees discovered the heater would not function. Cost of repairs was estimated at $4,500 to $5,000, said Chester Nolen, city manager.

A "solar heater" was installed, using some ingenious rigging.

"We put about a hundred feet of two-inch black PVC pipe on top of the building and circulate the water from the pool through it with a pump," explained Nolen. Tests of the system indicate the water temperature is a little cooler, about 71 degrees, than with the heater which gave a 78-degree reading.

When summer temperatures hit their stride, though, Nolen expects the water temperature to heat up, too.

A black plastic cover may be placed over the pool at night so early morning heat may be captured in the water, Nolen said.

Debate centers on if bill can keep state out of court

AUSTIN (AP) - Backers of a school finance reform plan that has won Senate approval say it should pass muster with the Texas Supreme Court. But opponents don't think it will end a long-running court battle on the issue.

"I absolutely believe that this comes as close as humanly possible to meeting the (court) test," said Senate Education Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, of the plan worked out by House-Senate negotiators.

However, some Republican senators criticized the funding plan and predicted Thursday it won't solve the court fight over the school funding system.

"The children of Texas are going to be dumbed down," said Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas. Sen. Jane Nelson, R-Flower Mound, added, "I personally believe that this will not put an end to this battle."

The measure passed the Senate 25-6 Thursday. The House may vote Saturday, lawmakers said.

Lawmakers must pass a plan by Tuesday to even out funding available to school districts of differing property wealth - or face a court-ordered cutoff of state education aid. School districts rely on state funds and local property tax money.

The plan envisions about $1 billion in additional state public education spending over the next two years, compared with the 1992-93 budget period. Another $100 million would be put in if certified as available by the comptroller.

Leaders have warned that amount won't cover expected enrollment increases at the present spending level per student. A fiscal estimate said a "substantial majority" of school districts would have to raise taxes in the coming school year to maintain current per-pupil expenditures under the plan.

House Public Education Committee Chairwoman Libby Lineberger, D-Manhaca, said she would like to see more public education funding.

However, she said, "We're come a long way from the piddling amount we had in there to begin with ($317 million)," and passage of the funding system will allow schools to stay open.

The bill is meant to ensure that none of Texas' 1,048 school districts has more than $280,000 in property wealth per student. The 109 that exceed that level could choose among several options for giving away some wealth, including:

- Merging tax bases with one or more poorer districts;
- Sending money to the state;
- Contracting to educate students in other districts;
- Consolidating voluntarily with one or more districts.

Custody of Deaf Smith Baby Jane, the infant found in an incinerator on March 18, was continued Thursday with the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services.

Judge David Wesley Gulley heard testimony in 22nd District Court that the baby is progressing satisfactorily, now weighing 9 1/2 pounds.

Oney Avalos, TDP&RS specialist, testified that the baby is in foster care in another county.

"There are no problems with the child or foster parents," he said.

A court ruling on custody of the infant may not be made until legal efforts to locate parents are exhausted.

Publication of citations on the unknown father and mother must be completed and a specified period elapse before the custody is addressed by the court.

Until that time, hearings are being held at two-week intervals to maintain temporary conservatorship in the state agency.

Earliest a ruling may be entered is June 28, said Lola Faye Veazey, Deaf Smith County district clerk who is responsible for issuing the citations.

Judge Gulley in the Thursday hearing continued the case until June 9, leaving custody in TDP&RS.

Deaf Smith Baby Jane was found by two workers at a veterinary clinic, just outside the Hereford city limits, on March 18.

Believed to be only a few hours old, she was examined and treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital, then transferred to the neonatal unit of Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

After about 10 days' treatment, the TDP&RS placed her in a foster home, outside Deaf Smith County.

Coming in Sunday's Brand

What began as an attempt to improve the way alternative education is presented in Hereford took off last fall as SOAR (Step Out and Reach) High. Now that their first year has ended, administrators and teachers are examining their efforts to reclaim troubled lives and improve some students' chances of graduating. On Sunday, read a year in review with those who made SOAR soar.

House boosts Clinton with bill okay

Up hill battle expected in conservative Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats gave President Clinton a badly needed triumph when they muscled his massive deficit-reduction tax increase through the House. But the measure faces a much sterner test in the more conservative Senate.

"Tonight, the House said no to gridlock, no to the status quo and no to the special interests," Clinton said Thursday night, shortly after the House approved the $340 billion mix of tax increases and spending cuts on a 219-213 vote.

"Tomorrow, we go on to the Senate and we go back to the country," he said.

The bill represents the very backbone of Clinton's economic program: tax boosts on the wealthy, energy users and others, and spending cuts for Medicare, veterans and other benefit programs.

The tax increases would exempt most low-income people, cost middle-income families up to about $400 a year and fall heavily on the well-to-do. It also includes an energy tax the White House said may be subject to compromise in the Senate.

Even though the bill didn't attract a single Republican vote, its passage was a crucial victory for Clinton, who has been dogged of late by a series of embarrassing revelations about his Hollywood haircut and his clumsy efforts to fire the White House travel staff.

"A loss would have been very damaging, and a victory is clearly a great plus," said House Budget Committee Chairman Martin Sabo, D-Minn. "And it focuses attention back on substance."

But it's going to take more to push the measure through the Senate than appeals for public support such as Clinton made before the House vote.

Awaiting the bill were several conservative senators - chiefly Sen. David Boren, D-Okla. - who would like to change or kill Clinton's proposed energy tax, and bolster the legislation with additional spending cuts.

"Democrats are going to be wise enough to see that if we don't want to slip back to the mode of being a tax-and-spend party, that we'll help reshape this package," Boren said on CNN just minutes after the House vote.

Even Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, has conceded that changes are likely in the energy tax and that extra spending cuts may be added.

Senate committees were expected to finish writing their own version of the bill by mid-June. Democratic leaders would like the full Senate to approve it before July 4.

Democrats cheered and whacked each other on the back when the House approved the measure, which is designed to pare $340 billion off budget deficits over the next five years. Republicans cheered as well, as if to reaffirm their solid opposition to Clinton's tax increases.

All 175 Republicans and 38 Democrats opposed the bill, but furious lobbying by Clinton and party leaders got the votes of 218 Democrats and the chamber's lone independent.

The vote even drew a curious George Stephanopoulos to the Capitol. The former aide to House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., who has evolved into Clinton's chief spokesman and a cover-boy celebrity, watched quietly from just off the House chamber until he was surrounded by reporters.

"This sends a strong signal to the Senate that the American people are ready to end gridlock and bring the deficit down," Stephanopoulos said.

But conservative Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn., said the narrow vote could do just the opposite - especially because some House Democrats supported the bill assuming the Senate would change it.

"In some ways, this emboldens moderate-conservatives in the Senate," Penny said. "The close House vote reflects a desire to see the plan modified."

Handgun bill sponsor wants vote by people

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate sponsor of a bill that would allow Texans to carry handguns says he will push for a referendum allowing voters to voice their opinion.

Sen. Jerry Patterson, R-Pasadena, said he hoped a conference committee of House and Senate members would reduce a handgun bill that has taken several forms during the legislative session into a ballot issue for the voters.

Gov. Ann Richards has repeatedly said she will veto the bill no matter what its form.

Richards, an avid hunter, says the bill is an invitation for needless violence and injury.

"I don't think the voters want to vote on that," said Richards' press secretary Bill Cryer. "They believe like most law enforcement we have talked to, like most ministers we have talked to and most medical trauma staff we have talked to that concealed guns are a bad deal."

"Is she that arrogant that she doesn't even want us to vote on expressing our opinion?" Patterson said. "This is an opinion bill, it will have no effect in law. Is she that scared of the voters of Texas that she doesn't even want them to express their opinion?"

Under his proposal, voters would be asked to give the Texas Department of Public Safety the authority to issue licenses for handguns.

The Senate announced its conference committee members on the bill Thursday.

The House sponsors of the bill, Reps. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, and Bill Carter, R-Fort Worth, said they are also trying to avoid a showdown with the governor by allowing voters to speak up.

"We are trying to fashion a document that will withstand gubernatorial muster," Wilson said.

"We hope that the more she hears about the issue and its support, the less likely she will be to veto it," Carter said.

Texas law doesn't allow citizens to be licensed to carry concealed handguns. It restricts Texans to keeping handguns at home, carrying them from a purchase, taking them on a hunting or fishing trip, or if they are traveling, said Ron Dusek of the state attorney general's office.

Trooper reminds motorists of holiday driving dangers

As Memorial Day approaches, many motorists are planning their first long weekend at the lakes.

Once again, motorists will face the hazard of traffic deaths and injuries on our state's highways.

Trooper Wayne Beighle, Safety Education Coordinator with the Department of Public Safety, said summer time will mean an increase in the volume of traffic on streets and highways.

With more travelers sharing the road, the potential for traffic accidents also increases.

Drivers hold the key to their own safety.

Ensuring that vehicles are in good working order, pre-planning vacations to allow plenty of time to arrive at destinations and concentrating on the driving task at hand all give drivers the extra edge that may be needed to avoid a collision.

Drivers should be extremely cautious in and around recreational areas. During this season, traffic is heavier and roads leading in and out are often congested. The roads are narrow and often have curves and no shoulders.

The use of alcohol and other drugs increase with the higher volume of traffic, so drivers are urged to be alert for other drivers' mistakes and wear safety belts.

Also, drivers are reminded not to drink and drive.

Company will offer grants

A nationwide competition has been begun by Edward D. Jones and Co. to support downtown revitalization, Hereford representative Ike Stevens Jr. has announced.

Thirty communities will be selected to receive matching grants for memberships in the National Main Street Network, a clearinghouse for revitalization programs in historic downtown and neighborhood commercial areas.

From those 30 communities, five will receive additional matching grants for revitalization assessments from the National Main Street Center, which helps communities stimulate development within the context of historic preservation.

"Main street revitalization projects can return the lifeblood to downtown areas and I would strongly encourage Hereford to enter the competition," Stevens said. "This is our way of giving something back to the communities that have made Edward D. Jones and Co.'s success possible."

Application are available at Stevens' office, 508 S. 25 Mile Avenue.

They must be submitted by June 25.

Cavalryman talks

Gordon Whipple, a member of the Fourth Cavalry Regiment of Canyon, stands in full Civil War regalia while talking to a group of SOAR Junior High students recently. Whipple, along with cavalry members Cpl. Jimmy Northcutt -- a county native and Hereford High School graduate -- visited the students to show and tell about life during the 19th Century.

Church News

CHRIST'S CHURCH FELLOWSHIP

Christ's Church Fellowship is a new and fast-growing worldwide fellowship of churches which teaches that all the gifts operating in the first century church are available to believers today.

Church school begins each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. with worship services following at 10:45 a.m. The worship services include praise and worship, the Lord's Supper and the teaching of the word.

Dr. Alton Tomlin, pastor, will be returning from Russia this week and will be ministering this Sunday morning. He was instrumental in getting food shipments tied up in governmental regulations released to the Russian people. He has been in Russia working with the Christian Broadcasting Network and Rick Ives, CCF missionary to Russia, to provide follow-up care to over four million families who have requested further Christian literature.

This Sunday from 2-4 p.m., CCF will host a "pounding" for graduating high school seniors. Baskets will be filled with items needed for college dorm life.

At 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 2, Roba Mieso from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, will be the special guest for a mid-week praise and worship service. A time of fellowship will follow the service and each family is asked to bring a finger food. The community is invited to attend.

Roba is the founder and president of Vision of Hope, an outreach ministry to the people of Ethiopia. In some areas, accepting Jesus results in severe persecution. Vision of Hope recently took in 24 orphaned children who had been severely beaten and provided them with food, shelter, clothing and health care. These Ethiopian children can be helped for as little as $30 a month.

Vision of Hope has also sponsored a safe drinking water project in Dalocha introduced bio-intensive farming methods and trained men and women in production of high quality bamboo furniture. These are only a few of the projects presently being undertaken by this ministry. Vision of Hope began by addressing basic community needs since open evangelism was not possible at first, but the projects have opened great opportunities to share the gospel on a one-to-one basis.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Make plans now for the many events coming this summer.

A garage sale to benefit San Pablo United Methodist Church will be held from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, May 29. Articles for the sale are still being accepted and are greatly appreciated. A taco supper is planned Friday, June 4. The menu will consist of tacos, rice and beans with carry-outs available. The price is $4 for adults and $1.50 for children. Both events will be held at San Pablo Church to raise money for the children's and youth summer camps.

On June 11, the senior high youth choir, "Spirit Wind", which includes 10 young people from Hereford, will be performing at 7 p.m. in the church sanctuary. The choir has grown from 20 youth to over 130 who are participating this year. A variety of music will be presented including favorite hymns, French, German and English carols, spirituals and other selections from classic and modern composers. The public is invited to attend.

Vacation Bible School will be held June 14-18. The focus will be on Peter, "The Rock." Even though he was an ordinary man, he was called to be a disciple of Jesus. The children will enjoy stories about Peter and will learn the importance of their names. Preregistration will continue in Ward Parlor immediately following morning worship on May 30 and June 6. You may also call the church office.

Rev. Joe Wood will speak on "Come Holy Spirit, Come" in observance of Pentecost Sunday using Luke 24:45 as the scripture lesson.

An annual conference will be held May 31-June 3 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Abilene.

The Fun Craft Bunch will meet at 7:30 p.m. June 1; Crafty Ladies, 1:30 p.m. June 4; and the Study Group, June 1. All groups will meet at the church.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. James W. Cory's sermon for Pentecost Sunday is titled "Where's the Spirit?" The scripture lesson is Acts 2:1-21. The worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. The new elders and deacons will be ordained and installed during this service.

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m. During June and July, there will be three classes. Helen Rose will be leading the adult class in their study of "Our Ministry: Mission/The Christian Life." The pre-schoolers will be learning about "God's Stewards" from Beth Gear. The third class, "Religious Games Mania", will include Bible bingo, Bible charades, the game of Bible Truths and other Bible games.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for the church's prayer chain is asked to contact Idie Gear at 364-2471 or the church office, 364-2471. The prayer chain will remain active during the summer months.

Greg Coplen will be presented in a senior piano recital by his instructor, Evelyn Hacker, Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

The church office will be closed for Memorial Day.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

All the way to Florida

The Herd, an AAU basketball team for youth age 11 and under, has earned the right to compete in the nation AAU tournament in Cocoa, Fla., July 31-Aug. 7. The Hereford players, winners of their Cuby Kitchens tournament division, placed second in the AAU regionals in Amarillo last weekend to qualify for the Florida tourney. Team members and coaches are, back row, from left, Coach Steve Hodges, Kurtis Flood, Cody Hodges, Slade Hodges, Coach Burl Miller; front, from left, Craig Campbell, Roy McCracken, James Miller and Eric McNutt. The Herd finished the season with a record of 24 wins and four losses.

NBA names All-Star team

NEW YORK (AP) - Making the 1993 NBA All-Star team was no new experience for Charles Barkley, Michael Jordan, Hakeem Olajuwon and Karl Malone. It was the first time, however, for Mark Price, and he was delighted to be in such elite company. "I wouldn't even have to shoot the ball playing with those guys," Price said Thursday, after becoming the first Cleveland player ever selected to the first team.

Barkley, Phoenix's powerful forward and the league's most valuable player, and Jordan, Chicago's premier guard and the league scoring champion for a record-tying seventh time, were unanimous selections to the team.

Each was named on all 98 first-team ballots by a nationwide panel of NBA writers and sports broadcasters - three from each league city and 17 representing the national media. Each received the maximum 490 points, with points awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for first-, second- or third-team nominations.

Price got the fewest first-team votes (44) and the fewest points (344) of any player on the team.

Olajuwon, Houston's 7-foot center and the NBA's Defensive Player of the Year, was third in the voting with 83 first-team votes and 455 points, while Malone, Utah's high-scoring forward, got 45 first-team votes and 377 points.

Barkley, acquired from the Philadelphia 76ers during an offseason trade, did exactly what the Suns wanted him to - lead them to the Pacific Division title and the NBA's best record (62-20). He topped Phoenix in scoring with a 25.6 average, in rebounding with a 12.2 average and in total assists with 385, a 5.2 average. This was the fifth time he was chosen to the All-NBA team.

Jordan's first team selection was his seventh. He topped the league in scoring with a 32.6 average, joining Wilt Chamberlain as the only players to lead the NBA in scoring seven consecutive seasons. He was No. 1 in steals with a 2.83 average as the two-time defending NBA champion Bulls won the Central Division championship with a 57-25 record.

winning the Midwest Division with a 55-25 record, is making his first appearance on the All-NBA team since 1989. For Malone, it was his fifth straight selection to the team.

Named to the second team were forwards Dominique Wilkins of Atlanta and Larry Johnson of Charlotte, center Patrick Ewing of

New York, and guards John Stockton of Utah and Joe Dumars of Detroit.

Chosen to the third team were forwards Scottie Pippen of Chicago and Derrick Coleman of New Jersey, center David Robinson of San Antonio, and guards Tim Hardaway of Golden State and Drazen Petrovic of New Jersey.

5 top Open seeds erased

PARIS (AP) - Top-seeded Steffi Graf, yet to lose a set this week, became the first player to reach the fourth round of the French Open.

Graf, the favorite in the absence of defending champion Monica Seles, needed only 55 minutes today to beat Laura Gildemeister of Peru 6-2, 6-2.

The men's No. 1 seed, Pete Sampras, followed her on Court One to complete his suspended second-round match with Marcos Ondruska of South Africa. Sampras won the first set 7-5 on Thursday.

Five seeded players lost Thursday, including two highly ranked men upset by young Germans. Even though Germany's top player, Boris Becker, was ousted, five of his compatriots were safely into the men's third round, the second biggest national contingent after the United States.

Perhaps the most promising are Marc Goellner and Bernd Karbacher. Goellner, 22, ousted No. 6 Petr Korda, last year's runner-up, 6-3, 7-6 (7-4), 7-6 (10-8). Karbacher, 25, calmly dispatched former champion and No. 8 seed Michael Chang 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 in the completion of a suspended match.

The other Germans still in the field are ninth-seeded Michael Stich, Patrick Kuhnen and Carl-Uwe Steeb.

The Americans have clinched at least six berths in the 32-player third round, seven if Sampras wins his suspended match.

LSU, Baylor win in tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - LSU, the top seed, remained in the winners' bracket going into today's second round of the NCAA South Regional tournament, thanks to two costly errors by Western Carolina first baseman Mike Hilton.

Hilton bobbled a routine out on Harry Berrios' first-inning popup Thursday night, allowing two LSU runs to score. Then in the seventh, Hilton was unable to catch another high popup in front of home plate, allowing two more runs to score in a 7-2 LSU victory.

The errors distracted from superb pitching performances by LSU's Mike Siroka (9-5) and Western Carolina's Phillip Grundy (4-7).

"It was definitely a pitchers' duel," said Berrios. "We were fortunate with the two popups."

Home runs and gritty pitching performances were the story of Thursday's first two games, as well. Baylor stopped Kent, 4-1, in the opener and South Alabama beat Miami, Fla., 7-3, in Game 2.

Miami (36-21) plays Western Carolina (33-27) in an elimination game today. Baylor (41-17) plays South Alabama (35-19-1) and Kent (39-14) meets LSU (46-15-1).

Baylor got to Kent for nine hits, including two home runs in the fifth inning. Kent entered the game leading the nation with a 1.93 earned run average.

Baylor pitcher Joe Whaton (10-3) also gave up nine hits, but only one run and he struck out 10.

Drabek hurls shutout; Astros blank Rockies

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
Most games, the Colorado Rockies' best hope for beating anybody is to outscore them. Doug Drabek made sure that did not happen Thursday night.

Drabek stopped Colorado on seven hits and pitched the Houston Astros to an 8-0 victory, preventing the Rockies from completing their first series sweep.

"After losing two in a row to the Rockies, I asked Doug to pitch a shutout and he did," Houston's Jeff Bagwell said.

The other expansion team, the Florida Marlins, lost to Pittsburgh 13-8. It was the highest-scoring game against the Marlins; the Rockies, meanwhile, have allowed 13 or more runs in seven games.

In other games, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 5-4 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 5-4.

Drabek (5-5) struck out three and walked one in his second shutout of the season. He has pitched four complete games, only one fewer than the entire Astros staff had last year.

David Nied (3-7), meanwhile, lost his sixth straight decision. Luis Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the fourth and Jeff Bagwell had a two-run double in the fifth. Bagwell has a 14-game hitting streak, longest for an Astros batter since Bill Doran's 14-game string in 1987.

Before the game, Dale Murphy announced his retirement. Murphy, 37, was batting .143 as a backup outfielder for the Rockies. The two-time NL MVP has 398 career home runs.

Pirates 13, Marlins 8

Florida right fielder Junior Felix misplayed three balls into six runs helping Pittsburgh win at Three Rivers Stadium.

Tom Prince wound up with the Pirates' second inside-the-park homer in three days when his drive skipped past Felix for three runs. Felix later made a two-base error on Jeff King's fly, allowing two runs to score, and let a drive by Al Martin go over his head for an RBI double.

Bob Walk (6-3) has more victories at this point in May than he's ever had in his 14-year career. Ryan Bowen (3-5) was charged with four earned runs in three innings.

Jeff Conine hit a three-run homer for the Marlins and Chuck Carr had four hits.

Reds 5, Braves 4

Jacob Brumfield marked his 28th birthday by singling off the left-field wall with two outs and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth, lifting Cincinnati over Atlanta.

The Braves made it 4-4 in the top of the ninth on Mark Lemke's RBI double with two outs against Jeff Reardon. The Reds bounced back, loading the bases after two outs against Greg McMichael (1-3), and winning on Brumfield's second hit in six at-bats since being promoted from the minors.

Ron Gant hit a pair of solo home runs for the Braves. Randy Milligan connected for Cincinnati.

Greg Cadaret (1-0) wound up the winning pitcher after Braves relief ace Mike Stanton blew his first save chance in 18 opportunities.

Terry Pendleton, who walked off the field in Wednesday's game when he became angry that teammate Marvin Freeman did not throw at Reds pitcher Tim Belcher after Deion Sanders had been hit, was back in the starting lineup. He was fined by Braves management.

Reds manager Davey Johnson, who got a note from Marge Schott in midgame a day earlier, got no more messages from the suspended owner. The NL warned Schott against such conduct.

Cubs 5, Giants 4

Rey Sanchez singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning, and Chicago beat San Francisco at Wrigley Field.

Steve Buechele hit a two-run homer in the sixth, giving the Cubs a tie at 4. In the seventh, pinch hitter Eric Yelding singled with one out off Bryan Hickerson (0-1), stole second and scored on a two-out single by Sanchez.

Greg Hibbard (5-3) won for the fourth time in five starts. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for his 15th save in 16 chances.

AMY NORTHCUTT

Local girl is race winner

Amy Northcutt, 7, daughter of Jake and Cathy Northcutt of Hereford recently was awarded a belt buckle at the Panhandle Barrel Racing Association's awards banquet.

Amy was honored as All Around Champion, and for being High Point in Barrels and Poles for ages 6 and under.

The award was presented at Rolling Hills in Amarillo.

Charest gets hole-in-one

Mel Charest of Hereford became the 29th golfer to record a hole-in-one on the par 3, 130-yard number three hole at Pitman Municipal Golf Course Thursday.

Witnessing the ace by Charest were Shorty Roark, Don Aycock and Bill Action. Official hole-in-one records were not kept at the course until 1969.

Dave Kaesheimer, golf pro, reported another highlight at the course Thursday. Don T. Martin, retired school principal, shot a 76 on his 79th birthday here Thursday. Martin is a former city champion.

Four vie for lead in AL West as Angels win, White Sox beaten

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

It's getting awfully crowded atop the AL West.

The logjam has two teams tied for first, another just a half-game back and a fourth only one game out.

The California Angels moved into a tie with Chicago for first place by beating Seattle 5-0 Thursday night. It ended a 20-day period in which the Angels stayed in second place, although never more than 2 1/2 games back.

The White Sox could have retained their one-game lead, but they lost 6-4 to Kansas City. Chicago dropped all three games of the home series against the Royals, the first time it has been swept by Kansas City since August 1991.

The Royals are in fourth place, a half-game behind the Texas Rangers and a full game behind the White Sox and Angels. Just three games back in fifth place are the Mariners.

In the AL East, the Detroit Tigers are four games ahead of the Toronto Blue Jays, who lost 9-3 to the Milwaukee Brewers. In Thursday's only other game, Baltimore beat New York 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Minnesota at Oakland game was rained out.

California gained a share of first place behind Scott Sanderson's five-hit shutout. It was the 150th shutout of the 36-year-old's major league career, and gave Sanderson (7-2) a tie with Chicago's Jack McDowell for the most victories in the AL.

Sanderson struck out five and didn't walk a batter in his first shutout of the season, and no Seattle runner advanced past second base.

"He pitched a masterpiece tonight," California manager Buck Rodgers said. "He pitched a gem."

The Angels sent 10 men to the plate in the second inning and took a 4-0 lead against rookie Jim Converse (0-2). Rene Gonzales had a two-run single, Gary DiSarcina had an RBI double and Tim Salmon walked with the bases loaded.

Royals 6, White Sox 4

The Royals, who lost nine of their first 11 games, have come back to win 21 of their last 33.

Kansas City got the job done again Thursday behind Mike Macfarlane's three-run homer and six strong innings from Chris Haney (2-0). Wally Joyner also homered for the Royals.

Jason Bere (0-1), called up Tuesday from Nashville, allowed five hits and five runs in six innings, walking four and striking out four.

Brewers 9, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, the Brewers won their second straight to finish a seven-game road trip 4-3.

Robin Yount homered, had three singles and scored three runs, and Ricky Bones (2-2) allowed only five hits over seven innings. Toronto starter Al Leiter (1-4) lasted just four innings, giving up six runs on seven hits.

Orioles 4, Yankees 3

At New York, Mike Devereaux singled home the winning run in the 10th inning just hours after he was activated off the disabled list.

Brady Anderson opened the 10th with an infield single and moved to second on Mark McLemore's sacrifice. Devereaux delivered the key hit despite breaking his bat on the swing.

Brad Pennington (1-1), the fifth Orioles pitcher, was the winner. Steve Farr (1-2), who came on to start the 10th, took the loss. Baltimore relief ace Gregg Olson blew a save by allowing a game-tying RBI single to Wade Boggs with one out in the ninth.

Sir Thomas More went on trial in England in 1535. He was charged with treason for refusing the Oath of Supremacy.

STEPHANIE WALLS

TRACIE GILBERT

Piano recital Saturday

Tracie Gilbert and Stephanie Walls, piano students of Susan Shaw, will be presented in a senior piano recital at 7 p.m. Saturday at Christ's Church Fellowship. The public is invited to attend.

Tracie, who is the daughter of Steven and Connie Gilbert, has been active in the Drill Team, Keyettes, National Honor Society and the Hereford Community Concert Association Concerts.

Stephanie is the daughter of Jerry and Becky Walls. She has been actively involved in the National Honor Society and was a member of the girls golf team which placed third in state this year.

The young women have participated in the Annual Junior Music Festival and Guild where they played solos, hymns and duets.

Local students honored

Two Hereford students have been named to the honor list at Amarillo College for the spring 1993 semester.

The students are Sonya Cash, radiography, and Michelle Carlson, pre-nursing.

Honorees must earn a 3.4 grade point average or above and be full-time students earning a minimum of 12 hours.

On July 1, 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his "Rough Riders" carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is in response to "Faithful Reader," who is searching for "Vivian," a woman in his past. He was never able to forget her, although he had been happily married for 20 years.

Tell him to WAKE UP, Ann. I've been exactly where he is now, and the result of my search for a lost love was disastrous.

In 1970, my high school sweetheart was sent to Vietnam. I loved "Ed" with all my heart and promised to wait for him. Well, I didn't wait. Within a year, I ran off and married a guy who attracted me sexually. He turned out to be a nasty creep, and after two years, we got divorced. I knew I had made a huge mistake, and I was sure Ed hated me for what I had done to him.

The years went by, but I couldn't shake Ed's ghost. Finding him because an obsession, so I hired a detective. He located Ed within 48 hours.

When I phoned him, he almost died of shock. He said that, yes, he would love to see me again. So I went to the city where he lived (not far from me) and was thrilled when he said he still loved me and wanted to pick up where we left off. One problem--he had a wife and daughter.

I dumped an 11-year relationship, absolutely certain that Ed would leave his wife and make a new life with me. But it didn't happen that way. Within months of our reunion, Ed's company transferred him to another state. So here I sit.

I'm not sorry I ended the other relationship (it was terrible), but the emotional roller coaster I put myself through was devastating. Incidentally, I haven't heard a word from Ed since he moved.

Tell that reader to leave "Vivian" where she belongs--in the past. I wish I had sense enough to do just that.--Wiser Now in Michigan

DEAR MICHIGAN: What a story! It should be of some comfort to know that your letter is sure to make an impact on others who may be toying with the idea of looking for a lost love. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The Women in Military Service Memorial will honor the 1.8 million women who have served our nation and those who follow in their footsteps.

This memorial will be located at the entrance to Arlington National Cemetery. It will be the only national memorial built to recognize the sacrifice and dedication of America's servicewomen.

Over 70,000 servicewomen have been located and registered in the memorial's computer data base at this time. We need help finding more of these courageous women. With the support and cooperation of the media and the public, we can make this project successful. Will you join me, Ann, in getting the word out?

If your readers want further information, they can call Women in Military Service for America at 1-800-4-SALUTE or write: WIMSA, Dept. 560, Washington, D.C. 20042-0560. Beth A. Brazil, former U.S. Army Sergeant

DEAR BETH: Glad to pass the word, and what excellent timing! Tomorrow is Memorial Day. Thank you for giving me the privilege.

DEAR READERS: Robert Richards of Palos Verdes Estates in California is the author of "An Old Man's Prayer," which ran previously in my column as "Time To Go." It's a pleasure to give him well-deserved credit for that moving piece.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today, while I was rearranging my bookshelf, this column fell out of a book. I don't know exactly when or why I clipped this column of yours, but there must have been a good reason.

This writer could very well have been me. I could have been a better daughter to my mom, and now it is too late, and I'm so sorry. I pray that my own children will never feel the way I'm feeling today.

Maybe if you reprint this column it will make others aware of how much their mother means to them and how important it is to let her know. Could you?--M.H., Hickory Flat, Miss.

DEAR M.H.: I'm please to reprint the column you asked for. Thanks for asking.

The Time Is Now
If you're ever going to love me,
Love me now, while I can know
The sweet and tender feelings
Which from true affections flow.
Love me now while I am living.
Do not wait until I'm gone
And then have it chiseled in marble,
Sweet words on ice-cold stone.
If you have tender thoughts of me,
Please tell me now.
If you wait until I am sleeping,
Never to awaken,
There will be death between us.
And I won't hear you then.
So if you love me, even a little bit,
Let me know it while I am living
So I can know and treasure it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know how important family is, and I don't want to come between my husband and his relatives, but I don't know how to handle their frequent and lengthy intrusions. The situation was bad enough when we were first married, but now I have a 4-month-old baby as well as a full-time job.

"Burt" sees nothing wrong with relatives phoning to say, "We'll be arriving on such-and-such a day and staying for a week or 10 days." I've told him his family is welcome as long as they follow some ground rules. First, they can't come whenever they feel like it, and second, they can stay no more than three days.

We are now on the fifth day of another relative's so-called "limited" visit. I'm exhausted, and Burt and I are fighting like cats and dogs. I've cried, yelled and pleaded with him to understand, but nothing gets through. I'm afraid these freeloaders will destroy our marriage. Can you help?--No Hyatt in Va.

DEAR NO HYATT: Again--for the umpteenth time: Burt needs to hear it from someone other than you.

Garden area site of recent luncheon

The picturesque garden area of the Carmen Flood home was the setting recently for L'Allegria Study Club's annual installation ceremony and spring luncheon.

Sixteen members toured the plantings and enjoyed a meal prepared by hostesses: Ella Marie Veigel, Kitty Gault, Mary Kay McQuigg, Carmen Flood and Suzanne Smith. Other members attending were Kay Lynn Caviness, Priscilla Ham, Poppy Head, Diane Hoelscher, Joyce Lomas, Shelly Moss, Karen Payne, Hilda Perales, Dee Anne Trotter and Jan Weishaar.

Outgoing President Judy Wall installed the new officers using the theme "We-Can-Fix-It" (the ultimate construction team). She emphasized the importance of each officer's duties for attaining a quality job plan for the coming year. The club must begin with a solid foundation for unity and maintain quality using a sturdy structure from an organized plan. New officers received "hard hats" to begin their work on the new job site.

Serving as president will be Jan Weishaar; vice president, Dee Anne Trotter; recording secretary, Joyce Lomas; corresponding secretary, Suzanne Smith; treasurer, Micah Noland; assistant treasurer, Shelly Moss; historian, Ella Marie Veigel; and parliamentarian, Judy Wall.

Judy Wall was presented a gift of appreciation from the club for serving as the past year's president.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing--county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

THE CAVE OF ADULLAM---DAVID'S HIDEAWAY IN THE WILDERNESS!... THE TOWN OF ADULLAM, IN THE TERRITORY OF JUDAH, WAS IN EXISTENCE A LONG TIME. IT WAS INHABITED BY CANAANITES AS EARLY AS THE TIME OF JACOB (GEN. 38:1-2). A PETTY KING RULED AT THE TIME OF JOSHUA'S CONQUEST. IT WAS ALSO FORTIFIED BY KING REHOBOAM (I CHRON. 11:7) AND CONTINUED TO FLOURISH IN THE TIME OF MICAH THE PROPHET. ITS CLAIM TO FAME WAS ITS SECLUDED HIDEOUT FOR DAVID WHEN HE NEEDED A HEADQUARTERS THAT WOULD BE SAFE FROM KING SAUL. IN FACT, IT WAS HERE THAT DAVID WAS JOINED BY MOST OF HIS FOLLOWERS, INCLUDING HIS FATHER AND HIS BROTHERS.
