By MARTIN STEINBERG
Associated Press Writer

Ferocious Pacific storms that sent torrents of water through scores of communities, killing at least 17 people, eased today after nine days, and many of the 12,000 flood refugees began returning to homes choked with mud and sodden debris.

Reservoirs remained full, towns and farmland flooded, and hundreds of mudslides and avalanches — more than 400 in Colorado alone — blocked highways and rail lines, forcing indefinite suspension of most Amtrak passenger service in California.

Thousands of people remained without power and states of emergency were in effect in 12 counties in California, four in Nevada and four in Utah.

"This was supposed to be an area that didn't have a flood problem, so hardly anyone around here had flood insurance, including me," said Dan Thomas, who returned Wednesday to find Gilroy, Calif., neighborhood littered with soggy furniture and belongings of the 125 families who had to flee.

Two women trapped for four days between snowslides on an Idaho highway were found alive Wednesday night, wrapped in a blanket under 5 feet of snow.

Rain with snow in the higher elevations continued to fall early today over much of northern California and Nevada, and southern Oregon, Idaho, Utah and Colorado.

Since the first in a series of storms hit Feb. 11, 24.53 inches of rain has been measured in Kentfield, north of San Francisco. The snow depth on Mammoth Mountain in east-central California was 14½ feet today.

"According to our script, the worst looks like it's pretty much over,"

Bob Diaz of the weather service's Redwood City, Calif., bureau said Wednesday. Still, residents of mountainous northern California and parts of Idaho and Utah were warned to brace for flash floods.

In northwest Nevada, where barefoot prostitutes from the famed Mustang Ranch were among the 1,000 evacuees, the week of relentless rain turned to snow early today, easing the threat of additional flooding. Many state offices in Carson City were closed and 15 square blocks of the downtown were flooded. The surging Truckee River was blamed for rupturing a natural gas pipeline that knocked out service to more than 20,000 customers.

Floods had chased more than 11,000 northern Californians from their homes since the storms hit, said Dick Hunt of the state Office of (See STORM, Page 2)

'Whole town just drowned'

GUERNEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Cars and trucks bob like bathtub toys in the muddy Russian River and homes that stood 30 feet from the bank a week ago now dip awkwardly into the water.

Hundreds of acres of vineyards and orchards lie submerged in a lake that fills the surrounding farmland.

A week of relentless rain in this small town 70 miles north of San Francisco bloated the river to its highest level in 31 years here, forcing 1,500 residents from their homes.

"We used to live on Neeley Road," said 80-year-old Leonor Gray on Wednesday, smiling a little after a restless night in an overcrowded evacuation center. "Now we live on Neeley River."

Mrs. Gray was one of the refugees from the area airlifted by helicopters and taken to shelters. Their departures left their communities looking lifeless except for National Guardsmen, sheriffs' deputies, firefighters (See TOWN, Page 2)

County juvenile board to seek matching grant for facility

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board may be eligible for a grant of up to $30,000 from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for the renovation of the Fullwood Building to be used as a juvenile detention center.

"We are pretty sure we can come up with a matching grant of around $25,000 to $30,000 if we get the application in sometime in March," Austin Rose, chairman of the PRPC board, told the juvenile board. "It would help to get the money if the surrounding counties will be willing to use the facility," Rose added.

According to county Juvenile Probation Officer Colleen Duffy,

Oldham County has already said that they would be interested in using the Deaf Smith facility, and other counties stated that they also would consider the idea.

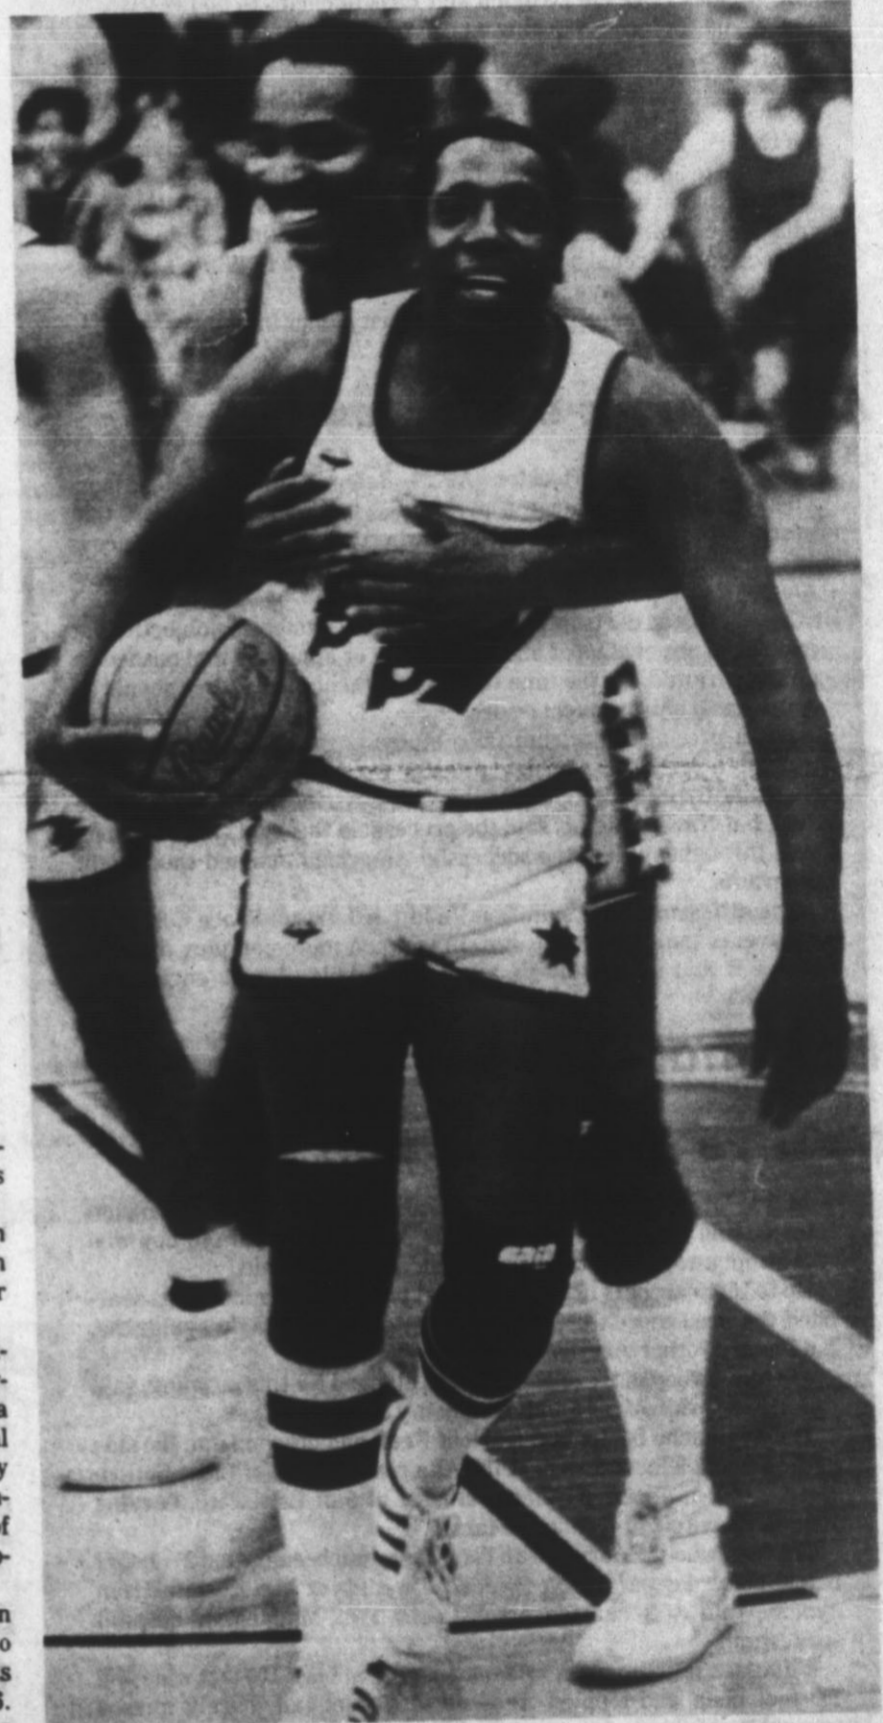

Juvenile Board chairman James Voyles stated that he would be happy to meet with representatives from the surrounding counties if the board felt it would help in getting a positive response from them. Board members approved the idea of having Voyles discuss the alternative with the other counties.

Duffy then told the board members that Keith Redeseal of the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission will be in Hereford on Wednesday, Feb. 26, to look at the Fullwood Building to determine what kind of renovations will be needed. The board agreed to meet on that day with Redeseal to walk through the building.

The board also heard reports from Duffy on the cases she has worked so far in the month of February. Duffy stated that she had worked 18 new referrals and supervised 36 court cases.

Lupe Chavez of the county sheriff's department juvenile division told the board that his office worked four juvenile felonies and four misdemeanors in February.

Anger building over election

WASHINGTON (AP) — With anger still building over the Philippine election, a plan to curb American aid to the government of President Ferdinand Marcos won key converts while the Reagan administration said it prized democracy more than two strategic U.S. military bases in that country.

"We have a big stake there," Secretary of State George P. Shultz told the Senate Budget Committee Wednesday, referring to Clark Air Base and Subic Bay in the Philippines, the largest American bases outside the United States.

But he added: "We have a stake in freedom. We have a stake in democracy. Let's put that first, over and above the bases."

The desire to punish Marcos quickly was reflected in the Senate's overwhelming approval Wednesday of a resolution declaring the presidential election results were "marked by such widespread fraud that they cannot be considered a fair reflection of the will of the people of the Philippines." The vote was 85-9.

The administration urged caution on a more substantive proposal to curb American aid, which amounts to $245 million for fiscal 1986. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger warned that cutting off military aid could play into the hands of communist insurgents.

At the same time, it was known that the White House hopes special envoy Philip C. Habib will find some way in which Marcos and his challenger, Corazon Aquino, can share power. Habib, who was sent to (See ANGER, Page 2)

Filipino journalist found shot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The slaying of an American-based Filipino journalist after he received a threatening note had the mark of a professional killer, says his publisher, whose newspaper opposed the Marcos government.

Oscar Salvatierra, 41, was killed by a gunman who entered his suburban Glendale home and shot him several times, just a day after he received in the mail a note threatening his life. The FBI is investigating the slaying.

Salvatierra was the Los Angeles bureau chief of the San Francisco-based Philippine News, a weekly that had frequently editorialized against the government of President Ferdinand Marcos.

The note he received, with words cut from publications and pasted on to paper, said, "Philippine News is a disgrace to the Filipino community in the U.S. Through your paper, your unwarranted accusations and lies you have attacked your own countrymen. You should be ashamed to call yourselves Filipinos. So for your crimes, you are sentenced to death by execution."

Stan Aragon, sales manager for the newspaper, also received a mailed threat on Tuesday. It read only: "You're next."

Prince Charles invited to cut Texas' gigantic cake

HOUSTON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles headed for Austin today to help celebrate Texas' Sesquicentennial bash after busy days of touring in the state's two largest cities — Dallas and Houston.

Prince Charles was asked to host a ceremony on the Capitol steps that included a 21-gun salute and a flyover by the Texas Air National Guard. Late this afternoon, the prince is to cut the world's largest birthday cake — 99,000 pounds and measuring 80 feet by 110 feet.

It took about 32 hours to bake the cake, with 26,000 three-pound layers and large enough to feed 300,000, and 24 hours to assemble it. Each slice was priced at $1.50, or $180 for a sheet, with proceeds earmarked for restoration of the Texas Capitol.

Duncan Hines, which is sponsoring the cake, provided 31,026 boxes of yellow cake mix. The concoction required 93,108 eggs, 10,346 cups of vegetable oil, 36,795 cups of water, and 30,000 pounds of icing.

The prince, traveling without Princess Diana and their two sons, on Wednesday toured the Shell Oil Co. refinery in Deer Park, the San Jacinto Monument and a retirement home in Highlands named after his favorite uncle, Lord Louis Mountbatten.

About 300 people, many with cameras and American and British flags, withstood record-breaking temperatures in the upper 80s for several hours, waiting for the prince to arrive at the Mountbatten House, about 30 miles east of Houston.

The prince visited for about 30 minutes with Hazel Reilly, an 82-year-old resident at the home.

"He was very nice. I think he was handsome," Mrs. Reilly said. "He was just a nice young man."

Mrs. Reilly, who forgot to ask for an autograph for her granddaughter, said she didn't buy a new dress for the occasion, but did get her hair done.

"This is the most exciting thing that's happened in a long time," she said.

Earlier Wednesday, Shell President John Bookout took the prince up an elevator to a 360-foot tower to get an overall view of the refinery and visited an automated control room (See PRINCE, Page 2)

New terrorist bill proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Reagan administration warning it still is considering military action against Libya, the Senate overwhelmingly passed a new law giving the United States the power to bring charges against terrorists who attack Americans anywhere in the world.

The 92-0 vote Wednesday makes it a crime for terrorists to hit Americans and "will enable us to deal effectively with this growing problem," said Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., the bill's chief sponsor.

The bill was sent to the House, where a similar measure is pending. The Reagan administration strongly supports the bill, Specter said.

"There's been a great deal of tough talk, but very little tough action," Specter told his colleagues. "This will enable the U.S. to act."

The bill expands on a 1984 law that made it a crime when Americans are involved in hijackings or are taken hostage.

For example, the new law makes it a crime for terrorists to murder Americans, an action not covered by the 2-year-old measure, Specter noted. The new bill also defines terrorism in a way that eliminates cases in which Americans are robbed or killed overseas in common crimes.

DPS investigating traffic fines

COTULLA, Texas (AP) — The Department of Public Safety said it is trying to determine what happened to fines paid in LaSalle County for about 1,500 traffic tickets.

DPS Trooper Rudy Rodriguez said he is attempting to trace revenues from the hundreds of tickets issued in an 18-month period from the middle of 1983 until the end of 1984, the Laredo News reported.

Subpoenas are being obtained for LaSalle County deposit slips during the period, Rodriguez said.

Several people provided proof of payment for the tickets but no records or payment receipts were recorded, LaSalle County Sheriff Darwin Avant said.

The tickets were filed in the court of former Justice of the Peace Pilar Martinez Jr., the News reported.

"I just forgot to record the money in the books," Martinez said. Martinez took over as justice of the peace in 1983 when Glen Matthews resigned before the completion of his term. Martinez made a bid for the post in the spring of 1984 but lost to current Justice of the Peace Juan Ortiz.

White should have cut own budget

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Kent Hance said Gov. Mark White should have prefaced his call for reduced state government spending by announcing cuts in his own office.

White asked all state agencies Tuesday to cut 13 percent from their spending in response to a projected $1.3 billion state budget shortfall.

"If he wants to have any feel on it, he should have come out and said, 'I today have cut so much and I ask agencies to do likewise,'" Hance said Wednesday during an East Texas campaign swing.

White seems to have less than a firm handle on state spending, Hance said in a speech to the Gregg County Women's Club.

"The governor, in the last budget, said it was a bare-bones budget, and there's no way we can find any more cuts. Now he's saying we are bound to be able to find another $1.3 billion," Hance said.

"My question is, was he right then, or is he right now? He was probably wrong both times," he told the luncheon meeting.

Hance said he could not predict "how much effect" White's call for spending cuts will have.

"White doesn't have much legal authority other than just asking," Hance said.

All opinions evaluated

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Before a space shuttle is launched, NASA goes through a pyramid-shaped decision process that starts with reviews on the bottom "where even the smallest voice is heard" and ends at the top among the space agency's top management.

In theory, the decision is made only after engineering objections at each level are evaluated and laid to rest, or approved and pushed on up the pyramid. By the time top management meets, they should be considering only relevant issues.

But a presidential commission studying the Challenger disaster suggested that the decision process was "flawed." Commission chairman William Rodgers declined to describe more precisely the flaw, but NASA officials said the process, in theory, is the same one used throughout all of the successful American manned spaceflight programs.

The difference now, said Don Puddy, a Johnson Space Center executive, is that the shuttle system is much more complex than any before it and no one knows all of the details of each engineering system.

Massive avalanche kills skier

ALTA, Utah (AP) — A massive avalanche sheared from a mountainside and crashed onto a ski slope, killing a 16-year-old boy who was swept away as his father watched, authorities said.

Up to 150 searchers using long metal probes and trained dogs searched the area more than four hours after Wednesday's avalanche, but found no other victims.

Another sweep of the slide area was planned for this morning, said Cpl. Lane Larkin of the Salt Lake County Sheriff's office.

The avalanche began at Sugarloaf Peak and crashed into the side of the Devil's Elbow ski run at the Alta resort on top of Little Cottonwood Canyon, about 30 miles southeast of Salt Lake City, burying Paul Moscovitch, of Wenham, Mass.

The boy, who was skiing with his father, had been buried 2½ hours before being dug out. He died Wednesday night at LDS Hospital from hypothermia and cardiac arrest, said Tim Madden, a hospital spokesman.

Witnesses said the slide, which measured at least 100 feet wide and 100 feet deep and toppled trees up to 40 feet tall, barely missed several other skiers.

Hero's welcome awaits Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, flying to Grenada for a hero's welcome, says the United States stands ready to help if the tiny Caribbean island, which U.S. troops invaded in 1983, is threatened with a violent uprising.

Administration officials said Reagan, who plans to lay a wreath at a monument to the 19 U.S. servicemen who died in the invasion, also would announce steps to strengthen his administration's 12-year plan to bolster sagging Caribbean economies.

The president discussed the U.S. commitment to Grenada in written responses to questions submitted by Caribbean journalists, which were released in question-and-answer form by the White House on the eve of Reagan's flight today to the island nation.

The president was asked, "Against the background of what the United States has invested in lives and money to restore democracy to the island, what will be the reaction of your administration to a violent uprising against the government of Grenada if there is clear evidence of foreign involvement in the uprising? If there is no clear indication of foreign involvement in the uprising?"

Iran claims Iraqi shot airliner

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency reported that Iraqi jets shot down an Iranian passenger plane today.

"Nothing is known about the fate of its passengers," said the news agency report, monitored in Nicosia.

The dispatch gave no other information, and there was no immediate comment from Iraq.

The two countries have been fighting a border war for 5½ years, and fighting intensified recently with an Iranian offensive that began Feb. 9.

Police tape woman's dying gasps

MIAMI (AP) — The terrified screams and dying gasps of a housewife who had dialed the 911 hotline for help were tape-recorded by police, who arrived at her home just moments too late, officials said.

"He (the intruder) was assaulting her. She was unable to speak. You could hear the woman choking and gasping for breath. Then there was silence," Miami police spokesman Reginald Roundtree said of Vaughn Mitchell Robinson's telephone call Wednesday morning to report a man breaking into her home.

"Then somebody, we think it was the killer, said something, then hung up the phone," Roundtree said.

The person said: "There's nothing wrong. I was just kidding."

But police officers, who raced to the home within four minutes after her 8:20 a.m. EST plea for help, found the woman dead on her living-room floor. She apparently had been strangled.

Nothing from the house apparently was stolen, and the intruder left behind his fingerprints, police said.

The woman's 911 call so alarmed police clerk Cynthia Carter that she bypassed normal office rules, running for a dispatcher to send an officer out before entering the call into her computer terminal.

An officer was rushing to the scene a full minute before the computer officially logged the call, records show.

Mrs. Robinson lived with her husband and two daughters, but she was home alone.

YMCA Fun Trip scheduled Friday

The YMCA has scheduled a "Fun Trip" for youth on Friday, leaving Hereford at 10 a.m.

The trip includes a visit to the Don Harrington Discovery Center for a laser show, and bowling, racquetball, swimming and other activities at the West Texas State University Activity Center.

Cost for the trip is $8 for YMCA members and $10 for non-members of the YMCA. Youth going on the trip are asked to be at the YMCA building at least 15 minutes before 10 a.m. Friday.

Youth are to bring their own lunches. The trip is expected to end at about 7 p.m.

Illiterate adults

Program developed to teach

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — For illiterate adults being taught to read by Dr. Maryjane Cable, "See Tip Run" could mean that Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill had changed his mind and is seeking re-election to the House of Representatives.

Shunning juvenile "This is a fish"-type material usually used to teach reading, Mrs. Cable reads with her students in the newspaper after each lesson.

In her new method being used at the Lufkin Adult Learning Center, student and teacher alternate pronouncing words printed in the paper.

Benevolence fund set

Within the past week Mrs. Watts has had two surgeries to remove a baseball sized tumor and part of her left lung.

Emergency Services. About 12,000 homes served by Pacific Gas & Electric were without power Wednesday, said company spokesman Ron Rutkowski.

In Guerneville, Calif., 70 miles north of San Francisco, the Russian River receded Wednesday to 43.5 feet from its record 49.5 feet the day before. Flooding forced the town's 1,500 residents from their homes.

"The whole town just drowned," National Guardsman Mark McLaughlin said. "You could see redwood decks and pieces of roofs floating down the river. The houses that were close to the banks, there's nothing left of them. There's nothing left for those people to go home to."

Mudslides blocking and damaging tracks forced an indefinite suspension of Amtrak passenger service throughout California, said John Jacobsen, an Amtrak spokesman in Washington. The only passenger service not affected are routes connecting Los Angeles with Chicago and New Orleans.

of 77,000 in the United States and Canada, said. "The preliminary report indicated that the man went through the window, that he shot Mr. Salvatierra in the head and then that he locked the door (to the bedroom)."

The locked door "was the mark of a professional killer," he said.

The FBI entered the investigation Wednesday and Fred Reagan, an FBI spokesman in Los Angeles, said agents would attempt to determine if the killing was a terrorist act.

In July 1985, the Los Angeles police bomb squad removed an unexploded grenade from Salvatierra's desk.

In Washington, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said he was told of the killing by Esclamado. He said he had asked for protection for other executives at the newspaper.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said in Washington that he thought there was "a very strong presumption here that the government of the Philippines was behind this assassination." But Larry Zabala, press attache to the Philippine consulate in Los Angeles said: "We are very distressed over this. We have known Mr. Salvatierra for a long while and had friendly relations with him in the past" despite his anti-Marcos position.

and other rescue crews slogging through the streets.

Some of her neighbors were ferried to safety in small boats. About 25 residents were plucked from the river by rescuers or dug out from mud and caved-in houses. Hundreds refused to leave, anxious to protect their homes or pets.

"The whole town just drowned," National Guardsman Mark McLaughlin said. "You could see redwood decks and pieces of roofs floating down the river. The houses that were close to the banks, there's nothing left of them. There's nothing left for those people to go home to."

The Russian River rose to a record 49.5 feet at its worst Tuesday, before receding Wednesday to 43.5 feet. But the rain kept coming, and the threat of more flooding remained.

At dusk Wednesday, the sun peeked through rain clouds and gave a silver sheen to the wet streets. In a dry spot in the midst of flooded farmland, a boy and his father, who had chosen to stay, shot a basketball at a hoop by their home.

"It was terrible," said Fran Collins, 66, who gathered with other evacuees at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Santa Rosa, about 20 miles to the southeast.

ANGER

Manila by President Reagan, has been silent about his talks there and is not expected to return home before the weekend.

But on Capitol Hill, momentum was building behind a proposal by Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., to put most aid funds into an escrow account until Marcos was replaced by another government.

The Marcos-controlled National Assembly declared Marcos the victor over Mrs. Aquino, although she also has declared victory.

Solarz, chairman of the House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs, said Wednesday he had reached "a kind of agreement in principle" with the chairmen of the House and Senate foreign affairs committees to place in escrow this year's unspent U.S. security assistance and $197.7 million requested for fiscal 1987.

Solarz said under the agreement with Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., and Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., the funds would be released with "the establishment of a legitimate government in the Philippines that has the confidence of the Filipino people."

the student reading those he has mastered with the instructor filling in as needed.

"That is what is totally unique as far as I know," Mrs. Cable said. "Most of the programs will train an adult to read only in the materials that are available at that center. But if you look around at what the readers are reading, they are reading newspapers, magazines, and books."

A 320-page guide, "The Reading Handbook," compiled by Mrs. Cable last year, contains 100 lessons that begin with simple words such as "I," "a," and "an" and progresses to difficult but practical vocabulary, according to Mrs. Cable, such as "socioeconomic," "polyunsaturated," "radioactivity," and "electroencephalograph."

"The words that I chose were words I felt like would be useful to know."

Mrs. Cable said there is yet another characteristic that distinguishes her technique from others.

"I teach the reading of a letter according to mouth position and sound production. It eliminates a lot of problems."

Take the word "sat," for example. Mrs. Cable begins by instructing the student to place his tongue behind his teeth and make a hissing noise by blowing air through them. Next, she describes how to make a throaty, short "a" sound and finishes by demonstrating a "t," produced by flipping the tongue off the palate behind the teeth.

"Now say it like a word," she prompts the student, and praises him if the word is correctly pronounced.

"All the way along the line the student is encouraged and complimented," Mrs. Cable said. "It is essential."

Bob Quillin, director of the center, called Mrs. Cable's work with his students a "godsend."

"I was jumping up and down on the telephone," he said about Mrs. Cable's offer to employ her method at the learning center, begun last December. "We are just getting started with it but this is going to make a significant impact on our being able to reach the people that need help so desperately."

Having had experience in teaching adult illiterates himself, Quillin said they are difficult to reach.

"Their self-image and their expectations are low," he said. Both he and Mrs. Cable agreed that their satisfaction comes when the student undergoes a personality change and begins to gain confidence in himself.

"It really is a kind of high, I guess you would say," Quillin said. "Most of the teachers are here for the feeling of seeing the students blossom."

Mrs. Cable said it took about a year to complete "The Reading Handbook," written after a study of adult illiteracy and available teaching materials revealed no "how-to" books were available to teach reading to this growing population.

"I kept thinking in the back of my mind that I wanted to write a book that would explain everything. I thought, 'Somebody ought to tell them how to figure out the perceived reading needs of an adult.'"

"It tells how to prepare yourself for teaching, how to locate the student, how to interview them, and address the student's needs," she said.

"Each person is going to be on their own reading level," she said. "Everybody has their own strengths and weaknesses and you have to break it down to what that particular person needs."

Mrs. Cable backs her method with years of research and reading instruction to elementary, junior and senior high school students as well as adults.

During a stint as a reading specialist at West Springfield High School in Fairfax, Va., in 1972, Mrs. Cable found, through tests administered by English teachers, that 625 of the school's 2,403 enrollment could be classified as functionally illiterate.

Taking them out of English classes required for graduation, she worked out an arrangement where the students could receive reading instruction and substitute it for the English requirement.

"By taking those students out of their classes, the teachers were able to teach English while I was working with the other kids on how to read sentences and paragraphs."

Mrs. Cable holds a doctorate in education from George Washington University and began teaching school in Lufkin at Melear Elementary in 1952. She has also taught in Fort Worth, and Indianapolis as well as Fairfax before she and her husband moved back to Lufkin last fall.

She said she is thinking about having "The Reading Handbook" published if it proves successful in actual use. "I don't want to publish it before I see some assurance that it is appropriate," she said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I ran across this piece recently. There was no sign of an author. It touched my heart. Will you print it, please?—S.H. IN INDIANA

DEAR S.H.: It touched mine, too. Thanks for sharing.

WET OATMEAL KISSES

The baby is teething. The children are fighting. Your husband just called and said, "Eat dinner without me."

One of these days you'll explode and shout to the kids, "Why don't you grow up and act your age?" And they will.

Or: "You guys get outside and find yourselves something to do. And don't slam the door!" And they don't.

You'll straighten their bedrooms all neat and tidy, toys displayed on the shelf, hangers in the closet, animals caged.

You'll yell, "Now I want it to stay this way!" And it will.

You will prepare a perfect dinner with a salad that hasn't had all the olives picked out and a cake with no finger traces in the icing and you'll say: "Now THIS is a meal for company." And you will eat it alone.

You'll yell, "I want complete privacy on the phone. No screaming. Do you hear me?" And no one will answer.

No more plastic tablecloths stained with spaghetti. No more dandelion bouquets. No more iron-on patches. No more wet, knotted shoelaces, muddy boots or rubber bands for ponytails.

Imagine. A lipstick with a point. No baby-sitter for New Year's Eve, washing clothes only once a week, no PTA meetings or silly school plays where your child is a tree. No car-pools, blaring stereos or forgotten lunch money.

No more Christmas presents made of library paste and toothpicks. No wet oatmeal kisses. No more tooth fairly. No more giggles in the dark, scraped knees to kiss or sticky fingers to clean. Only a voice asking: "Why don't you grow up?" And the silence echoes: "I did."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I am a kook, please tell me. I want to know if this person infringed on anyone's rights. The AP release reads as follows:

"HARRISBURG—A suburban man who scared some East Pennsboro Township residents by donning an ape suit and wolf's mask in a late-night prank has pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct.

"C.A.B., 24, of Enola, Pa., was fined $10 for the summary offense plus $50.17 in costs. According to police, Mr. B. put on the mask and costume and took a late-night stroll after reading a local newspaper account of strange noises in a wooded section of the township. His prank scared some residents into locking windows and taking up arms, police said. Afterward, the defendant claimed he meant no harm."

What do you say, Ann?—M.H., ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEAR M.H.: Some folks scare more easily than others, but "Mr. B." had read about some spooky things in the neighborhood. I suspect he was attempting to deliberately frighten people. Sounds to me as if he was guilty.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. ## Landscaping suggestions presented Hereford Garden Club members met recently in regular session in the home of Mrs. H.R. Cocanougher, 106 Oak, with Mrs. R.L. Eithridge serving as co-hostess.

Slides were shown of Texas birds and one entitled, "Landscaping in Texas." Several landscaping suggestions were given. Before one cuts down anything in a purchased old home, wait for the blooming season to pass then decide what to take out. Also, before planning a new yard, make a scale drawing in color then purchase plants.

Mrs. Jack Wilcox brought a spring floral arrangement depicting birds in flight.

Members present were Carmen Angel, and Mmes. Ben Children, O.G. Hill, Sr., John Jacobsen, Jr., Ray Johnson, Alfred Smith, Art Stoy and Wilcox.

POLLY'S POINTERS

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — A couple years ago, you printed the formula for a homemade plant food made with unflavored gelatine. Could you repeat that recipe? — JANET

DEAR JANET — This nitrogen-rich plant food is best for green, non-flowering plants. However, it will promote the growth of all your houseplants. For flowering plants, be sure you feed occasionally with a balanced plant food that contains phosphorus and potassium as well as nitrogen.

Mix one envelope (one-fourth ounce) unflavored gelatine with one cup hot water until the gelatine is dissolved. Slowly add three cups cold water, stirring constantly to thoroughly combine the solution. Use this mixture to water plants once a month. Discard any leftover gelatine solution. Mix only as much as you will use at one time.

Some readers had trouble with the gelatine solution hardening and clogging up the soil. This should not happen if the gelatine is thoroughly dissolved in the full quantity of water, but watch for signs such as beads of hardened gelatine in the soil.

If you think such a problem is beginning to occur, cut back on the gelatine treatments for a while, watering freely as usual with plain water or another water-soluble plant food.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Services have been held for Charles "Red" Ruffing, former New York Yankees pitcher, who won seven World Series games in the 1930s and 1940s.

Ruffing, 80, died Monday at Hillcrest Hospital in the suburb of Mayfield Heights. His career record was 273-225, including four consecutive 20 win seasons from 1936-1939. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1967.

TENNIS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Jose Luis Clerc, 27, announced his retirement from professional tennis, calling the international circuit "very egotistic."

Clerc, who won 25 international tournaments during a 10-year career that earned him more than $2

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mari Hulman George, vice president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, received a suspended one-year jail sentence after pleading guilty to public intoxication and resisting arrest.

The charges stemmed from a May 1985 incident at a northside wine bar in which Mrs. George, 51, the daughter of legendary track owner Tony Hulman, allegedly fought with police, kicking a reserve Marion County sheriff's deputy in the face and also kicking a city policewoman.

Gary Huff named Oilers' QB coach

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Gary Huff wanted a challenge, and now he's got one as quarterback coach of the Houston Oilers.

"To go coach a Joe Montana (San Francisco 49ers) wouldn't be a challenge, he's already established," Huff said Wednesday as he reported for duty with the rest of coach Jerry Glanville's assistants.

Huff will be responsible for helping quarterback Warren Moon become established among the top NFL quarterbacks.

But Huff doesn't think the job will be too tough.

"He's very far along," Huff said. "I think he's got unlimited potential. The athletic ability is there, it's just a matter of working out a few techniques."

Moon, starting his third season with the Oilers, has shown flashes of brilliance but has yet to develop the consistency needed to keep the Oiler offense moving.

Huff said Moon could need instruction in techniques and fundamentals.

"I didn't get coaching in fundamentals until my eighth year in the league," Huff said. "A lot of quarterbacks come out of college without the techniques."

Glanville, hired Jan. 20 to replace Hugh Campbell, introduced his staff Wednesday.

He said it would be a team effort. "If the offense doesn't work, you won't have the head coach say 'I don't know what happened,' you'll have nine coaches step forward," Glanville said.

Titles won't be a part of the Oiler coaching staff, Glanville said.

"We decided that we were either going to have some real fancy titles or we'd have none at all," Glanville said in introducing his staff. "I've even taken the 'head' off all my stationary. We're all just coaches here."

Glanville did give Dick Jamieson the title of offensive coordinator, but he said all offensive coaches would have input into formulating game plans.

"He's the guy that calls plays so well in the past so we gave him the title," Glanville said.

Jamieson will coach Oiler running backs and oversee the offense. Other offensive coaches are Milt Jackson, receivers and Bill Walsh, offensive line.

Tom Bettis, formerly defensive coordinator at St. Louis and Cleveland, will coach the Oiler secondary. Doug Shively is the defensive line coach and Floyd Reese will instruct the linebackers. Miller McCalmon is the special teams coach.

Jamieson and Huff, both former NFL quarterbacks, will come under close scrutiny in trying to bring consistency to the Oiler offense, which ranked 19th in team passing last season.

Moon was the 20th-rated quarterback and the Oilers have had four offensive coordinators in the past five years.

"It starts with the quarterback and the offensive line," Jamieson said. "We want to establish a running game, but with a quarterback like Warren Moon and receivers like Drew Hill, we'd be silly not to throw the ball."

The Oilers did not use the shotgun formation last season because Moon did not feel comfortable in the formation. Glanville wants it as a part of his 1986 offense.

"You do it by experiencing success," Huff said. "I think Warren will take to it when he sees the benefits of the shotgun."

FACTS AND FIGURES

Here are some numbers that will help you in the selection of alcoholic beverages in the future. Liquor and many wines are now sold only in liter bottles. It is the one part of the metric system that did catch on here. A liter contains 33.8 ounces. The big 1.75-liter bottle holds 59.2 ounces. A shot contains anywhere from 1.25 ounces to 1.75 ounces. As a result, from a liter bottle, one could expect to mix between 19 and 27 drinks. The 705-milliliter bottle will yield between 14 and 20 drinks and the 1.75 liter between 33 and 47. A 120-pound person should keep consumption under two drinks every two hours to be safe behind the wheel.

In 'Webster' spinoff

Mac Davis makes series effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor and country singer Mac Davis said he and his character in a proposed spinoff series from ABC's "Webster" are both going through a middle-age change.

"I think he's going through a little middle crisis, assessing his life and what he wants to do," said Davis, 44. "I'm going through a change but not a crisis. I know what I want to do. I want to cut down on my road work, but not abandon it. After 15 years of 250 days a year on the road I'd like to stay at home more. This series will be a great way to do it. It's nice to come home and know your dogs aren't going to bite you."

Davis stars in a special episode of "Webster" on Friday night. The program, if it gets picked up as a series, will be called "Almost Home." Norman Fell and Allyn Ann McLerie also star.

In the show he plays a country singer named Jake Turner. "He likes kids an awful lot," said Davis. "He spends an awful lot of time doing things with kids that I do when I'm around kids. He tickles them and makes them laugh. And he goes off and writes his music."

Turner decides to virtually abandon his career after performing a Christmas concert for a group of foster children. Fell plays his agent and Miss McLerie runs the foster home.

"He was a fraternity brother of Webster's father," Davis said. "He plays a benefit at this foster home run by his agent's sister. Having lost a child of my own, I (the character, Turner) get involved with these children."

In the meantime, while he waits out ABC's decision, Davis said he is "getting in as much golf as possible" and will complete his summer concert tour.

This is the second pilot for Davis. His first was a two-hour ABC movie called "The Brothers-in-Law."

"I hate to say it but I'm really glad it didn't go," he said. "I'd done feature films, but I had no idea how fast you work in television. You have no time for yourself. You work 15-hour days. They did a lot of second-unit work, car crashes, that I didn't even know about. They put all the crashes in and took out all the parts that would have made the series worth doing."

Theatrical films surprise

NEW YORK (AP) — Theatrical films, big box office on television before the advent of pay-cable and video cassettes, had a renaissance last week. But "The Wizard of Oz," the most successful long-running film on TV, didn't enjoy the revival as much.

"The Wizard of Oz," which has averaged a 26.4 rating since first embarking on TV's yellow brick road in 1956, had an 18.4 rating last Saturday — its worst network performance in 28 showings. Still, Judy Garland's movie classic achieved CBS' best Saturday night movie rating this season.

Saturday is the lowest-rated TV night of the week.

"We know Saturday night is a night when people view VCRs instead of watching network TV," said Mike Eisenberg, CBS' research director. "That tends to have a depressing effect, but we believed that 'The Wizard of Oz' is 'The Wizard of Oz,' and its magic would sustain its ratings level."

The only thing magical on television now is "The Cosby Show," which ranked first again.

More women starting their own businesses

By The Associated Press

Women who find no room at the top of corporate America are setting up their own ladders to the chief-executive suite by starting their own businesses, according to a financial consultant and author.

One-third of the some 1.5 million new corporations established in the United States last year were formed by women, says Jeannette Reddish Scollard, a former high-level corporate executive who now has her own consulting firm.

"The only way you can be president of a company is to start your own," advises Miss Scollard, author of "The Self-Employed Woman: How to Start Your Own Business and Take Control of Your Life," published by Simon and Schuster.

Many women decide to be entrepreneurs because they feel stymied in their career paths by corporate hierarchies not ready for women in the top jobs, says Miss Scollard. Others simply are not satisfied with a 9-to-5 office structure, which they find at odds with family responsibilities.

Miss Scollard is enthusiastic about the challenges and opportunities offered by self-employment.

"The experience of starting your own business can provide you with a professional high and some of the most gratifying moments of your life," she says.

But she cautions that the experience also means receiving no salary, no benefits, no office and no support system unless they are supplied by the person deciding to become an entrepreneur.

In advising women how to start their own business, Miss Scollard suggests they do something they really enjoy, explaining "the point of becoming an entrepreneur is to take complete charge of your life and have the freedom to do what you want."

Another suggestion is the setting of realistic goals. "If your expectations are too high," she says, "you are likely to become discouraged and frustrated."

Other guidelines to help minimize the risks include:

- Analyze the profit potential. ("You will not be able to raise money to start your business unless you convince others that the company will be profitable.")

- Overestimate start-up costs. ("Whatever your initial projections of start-up costs, expect them to be more.")

- Begin at home to minimize costs. ("A formal office for some businesses may be completely unnecessary.")

- Don't let the isolation get you down. ("Go to seminars and workshops in your field, and schedule breaks in your work.")

- Beware of partnerships. ("Having a partner to back you up and bounce ideas off sounds like a good idea, but most such relationships fail.")

AAUW welcomes representatives

The American Association of University Women met Monday at the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library. Co-hostesses were Doris Bryant and Beth Igal.

Gwen Kilmer and Kathy Hazelwood of the Amarillo Planned Parenthood gave the program. They reported that half of all teenage girls in the United States between the ages of 15-19 are sexually active and 1.3 million girls that age last year got pregnant. One out of four babies in Deaf Smith County were born to teenagers and this county leads the state in teenage pregnancies.

After the program, there was a short business meeting. The Texas American Association of University Women will meet April 18-20 at San Angelo. A nominating committee made up of Julia McNaney, Rosemary Shook and Jennie Terrell, will nominate the treasurer and program vice-president for 1986-1988.

The Texas Sesquicentennial will be the program for the meeting April 28.

Existing homes in the $50,000-$89,000 price range attract the most buyers. Younger married couples with a combined income of more than $35,000 a year do the most buying.

DR. GOTT Avoid drugs in early pregnancy

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — We are planning a long summer trip to Europe and I am trying to get pregnant now. Will the shots I will have to get hurt the baby if I am pregnant? How far in advance should I get them? I suffer from motion sickness. Is there something safe to take for that? What is being used for morning sickness now that Bendectin is no longer available? And how far into my pregnancy could I be and still be that far from home? I am 28 and have three children.

DEAR READER — The U.S. Public Health Service no longer requires vaccinations or immunizations for people traveling to Europe, so you don't have to worry about shots prior to your trip.

The remainder of your questions concern issues that are best left to discussion between you and your obstetrician. I strongly believe that pregnant women should not use any medicine for the first three months, unless the specific compound is approved by the obstetrician. I also believe that women should not smoke or drink during pregnancy. I may be overly cautious, but I am concerned about the effects of all medicine and drugs on fetal development.

If you are planning a trip during your pregnancy, schedule an in-depth meeting with your obstetrician to review the variety of issues — including activity, diet and treatments — that are germane to your particular pregnancy. I am sure your doctor would be happy to guide and advise you in these matters.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have just had my third toenail removed because of a fungus buildup. I'm also being treated again for a longstanding severe exterior or rectal irritation caused by a fungus. How can this be prevented from recurring? I'm 69.

DEAR READER — Fungus infection of the toenails is annoying, harmless and resistant to treatment. Fungus infections of the skin and anal area are troublesome, but can be treated with a wide range of compounds applied directly to the affected portion of the body. Your doctor will undoubtedly want to determine if you are prone to fungus infections for a particular reason, such as diabetes, chronic intestinal infection or the indiscriminate use of antibiotics.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My mother developed gout in her big toes. Since she is being treated for high blood pressure, her doctor prescribed a painkiller that only relieves some of the pain, but not the gout. She is on a low-fat, no-salt diet. Are there any foods she should specifically avoid?

DEAR READER — Certain medicines for high blood pressure, such as the thiazide diuretics, can trigger gout attacks in susceptible individuals. Her doctor may choose to change her medicine to a non-gout-producing variety. In addition, the physician may wish to treat her gout with allopurinol, a drug that controls gout in most individuals. Pain medicine may be useful for acute attacks, but in my opinion, more specific therapy is indicated.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

If you need only a few drops of lemon juice, prick one end with a fork and squeeze the desired amount. Return the lemon to refrigerator and it will be almost as good as new.

TAXES

TAXES noun a compulsory payment for the support of government.

Benjamin Franklin is credited with saying "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

While we all must pay some taxes, now there's a way to pay less. It's with an Individual Retirement Account. This allows you an opportunity to place $2,000 a year ($4,000 if both you and your spouse work, $2,250 if only one of a married couple works) into a special account that is free of federal income taxes. Even the interest you earn isn't taxable.

Don't pay more taxes than you need to pay. Come to the First National Bank of Hereford and open your I.R.A.

A tax and/or interest penalty may apply for early withdrawal of your I.R.A.

Carrie Skelton places first

Judging of essays for the 1985-86 American History Month Essay Contest was recently completed by members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR.

Winning in the eighth grade division from Hereford was Carrie Skelton, a student at Stanton Junior High School. She was among 169 students from Hereford, Dimmitt and Friona schools who entered the contest.

"A Prominent Signer of the Constitution James Madison" By Carrie Skelton

James Madison went to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia a week early to begin the organization of the Convention. A profound student of government, he was a graduate of Princeton University. He is known as the Father of the Constitution. He was the man who wrote the vivid notes of the Convention. He felt his notes, "would be an important record for future generations." Alexander Hamilton and James Madison encouraged the other members that the Convention needed representatives from each of the thirteen colonies. Madison was one who wrote the amendments to the Constitution. He also helped write the Bill of Rights.

James Madison was the most scholarly of all the presidents. Though he was very small and had a soft speaking voice, he had a real grasp of how the government should be.

He was born March 16, 1751 in Port Conway, Virginia. His parents were very rich. Their plantation was named Montpelier. As a child, Madison was sickly and frail. He had to study under a private tutor most of the time, but when he was able to go to school he attended Donald Robertson School in King and Queen County. At the age of 18, he entered the college of New Jersey (now Princeton University). He took an active interest in politics and was an early member of the American Whig Society. He completed the regular course at Princeton in two years, graduating in 1771.

His political career started in 1774, when he was elected to the Committee of Safety in Orange county. In 1786, he was a leader at the Annapolis Convention. He went straight to the Constitutional Convention. There he took part in writing the Randolph Plan. Though it is named for Governor Edmund Randolph, it mostly contained Madison's ideas. The Randolph Plan laid out the outline for the Constitution.

His next political accomplishment was when he defeated the Anti-federalists' backed candidate, James Monroe, for the Virginia seat in the United States House of Representatives in 1789.

In 1801, he was appointed Secretary of State by Thomas Jefferson, who was now a close friend. Jefferson was to be President for two terms.

In 1808, at the height of Madison's career, he was elected the fourth President of the United States at the age of 57. Madison was considered a very poor politician. From experience we know that to be a good president, the person had to be a good politician. During his first administration, Madison had the problem of France and Great Britain blocking American shipping lanes. After he signed a paper saying that if one nation gave in, America would cease trade with the other. Napoleon gave in, but Great Britain would not. President Madison recommended war with Great Britain. The representatives from the South and the West wanted the war. They were called the War Hawks. Most of the nation had already caught "war fever." The Representatives voted for the war. That started the War of 1812, which was the second war with Great Britain for America.

In 1812, he was re-elected. On August 24, 1814, the Capitol was burned by the British. James and Dolley Madison fled for their lives. In February, 1815, Great Britain and the United States signed the Treaty of Ghent. This did not solve the problems, it just stopped the war. In 1816, he was re-elected again. During his administration he received credit for the progress of American Industry and the growth of nationalism.

Madison retired to his plantation in 1817. After the death of Thomas Jefferson in 1826, Madison became the rector of the University of Virginia. He also served as a member of the Virginia Constitutional Convention of 1829.

In 1836, the "poor politician" died at his home in Montpelier. Although, even at the end of his life, Madison had few intimate friends, and had inspired little affection and no enthusiasm among the people at large, he was considered a "principle architect of the Constitution." With his logic for writing political documents, he was a favorite at the Constitutional Convention.

Jewish developer, Black Muslims run low income housing

BOSTON (AP) — Four months ago, Don Muhammad, a black Muslim minister, got a call from an official at City Hall. The question: would he consider going into business with a man — a Jewish man — who needed his help?

"I'm not concerned whether or not he's Jewish," Muhammad told the official. "Is he honest?"

The answer was yes, and soon afterward Muhammad and real estate developer Edwin D. Abrams formed an alliance to devise a plan for managing 220 units of low-income housing in Roxbury, a predominantly black neighborhood in Boston.

If the Muhammad-Abrams plan is approved by a Boston housing court judge, the men intend to buy, repair and renovate the apartments, clear the hallways of drug users and vandals, and eventually give tenants ownership of the apartments. The units are currently in receivership.

Both men and city officials believe the alliance will improve the relationship between blacks and Jews — a relationship wounded in 1984 when Louis Farrakhan, the fiery leader of the Nation of Islam, made comments considered to be anti-Semitic.

"I think these two men can be a good example for all of us," says Benjamin Thompson, the City Hall equal-rights adviser who brought Muhammad and Abrams together.

Muhammad and Abrams prefer to downplay the novelty of their joint enterprise and instead focus on what it will mean for about 800 poor Boston blacks — a decent, safe place to live and a sense of community pride.

"Just to set the record straight, there has not been long-standing animosity between Muslims and Jews," Muhammad Farrakhan says we need to get rid of the old black-Jewish relationship ... and replace it with one based on equity and mutual respect.

There is a desperate need for low-income housing in Boston, where the U.S. League of Savings Institutions has estimated that the average home costs $126,000 and subsidized apartments are in short supply.

Abrams said that 2,300 poor people — mainly women with children — recently applied for 28 units of subsidized housing offered by his company.

The financial backing for the proposed Muhammad-Abrams deal will come mostly from Abrams, who manages 1,300 subsidized apartments in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, while security on the property will be provided by the Nation of Islam.

"The tenants, many of them now live in fear. They are frightened of the vandalism and the drug users," said Abrams. "The elderly and the frail and the not-strong really spend a life I cannot imagine."

The Nation of Islam's involvement with the project could change that, says Muhammad. "The Nation of Islam has a long history of respect of all black people. Black people respect our property and what we stand for."

Profits from the arrangement will be divided equally, the partners say.

"Mr. Abrams is bringing something to the table and we are bringing something to the table," says Muhammad.

Moses returned from the mountain and called together the leaders of the people and told them what the Lord had said. They all responded in unison, "We will certainly do everything he asks of us." Moses reported the words of the people to the Lord. (Exodus 19:7-8)

AHA offers employee wellness program

AUSTIN -- Heart and blood vessel diseases took their toll on our state's workforce last year. Of the almost 52,000 Texans who died from cardiovascular diseases, nearly 11,000 were under age 65.

"Replacing that lost workforce is a major expense for Texas companies," according to William L. Winters, Jr., M.D., President of the American Heart Association in Texas. "It has been estimated that the average employee with high blood pressure costs a company between $270 and $460 a year in lost output. An employee who smokes costs the company from $624 to as much as $4,500 per year in lost productivity, absenteeism and insurance costs. Furthermore, a top executive's death from a heart attack can easily cost a company a half million dollars," said Winters.

The American Heart Association has developed a low-cost employee wellness program, called Heart at Work, to address these problems. It is designed to reduce health-associated costs through prevention of heart and blood vessel disease. Heart at Work provides employees with a program designed to bring lasting changes in health habits, and provides companies with a program for building a supportive culture or environment for their employees.

According to Dr. Winters, "Heart at Work offers a combination of materials and activities in the areas of high blood pressure control, nutrition, smoking and exercise." The program is based on the fact that each individual is responsible for his or her own health. The program modules encourage employee interest in disease prevention and demonstrate the positive aspects of a healthier life, leading to greater productivity.

Heart at Work can be implemented in even the smallest companies. The program is designed to offer health promotion over a long period of time. Exercise is treated as a component of the program, not a major activity. "Heart at Work can be tailored to employees' specific needs," said Winters. "The awareness portion may involve only distributing posters and literature. The next phase may offer guidelines on conducting an educational program. Each program guide assists companies in deciding exactly what level of activity will be appropriate for their employees," said Winters.

The High Blood Pressure module of Heart at Work encourages employees to have their blood pressure checked regularly, regardless of whether or not they are experiencing medical problems.

The Smoking Cessation module promotes the benefits of being a nonsmoker by providing reinforcement for quitting. It not only includes a self-help smoking cessation kit, but offers a plan for limiting the exposure of nonsmokers to the smoke of others.

In the Nutrition and Weight Control module, employees learn various ways to improve their nutrition including how to select nutritious foods when eating out or shopping for groceries. This program also suggests making nutritious foods available in vending machines and cafeterias.

One of the more popular aspects of Heart at Work is the Exercise module. There are many possibilities for team activities promoted by the company. Heart at Work provides guidelines for motivating and supporting employees in getting started and staying with a regular exercise routine.

Many companies currently using Heart at Work have experienced some side benefits from the program. It creates a sense of team spirit and camaraderie as a result of management and employees supporting one another in breaking bad habits and sustaining healthy new ones. And employees often have a new appreciation for a company that cares enough about their employees to give them a health promotion program that works.

"Heart at Work" is working in companies," according to Dr. Winters. "We expect to see a decline in health-related costs and absenteeism as a result."

For information on implementing the Heart at Work program in your company, contact the local office of the American Heart Association, listed in the White Pages of your telephone directory.
