By CHARLES C. HILL
Associated Press Writer
HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted murderer Charlie Brooks Jr., commending his soul to Allah and urging his girlfriend to "be strong," today became the first U.S. prisoner executed by lethal injection.

Seven minutes after the fatal dose of sodium Pentothal was administered at 12:09 a.m., the 40-year-old Brooks was pronounced dead. Brooks' lawyers tried repeatedly Monday to delay his execution for the 1976 murder of a Fort Worth used car salesman.

He was only the second prisoner to be executed while still pursuing appeals since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed reinstatement of the death penalty in 1974 after a seven-year hiatus. He was the sixth person to die since the reinstatement, and the first black Texas' last execution was in 1964.

Wearing gold pants and a brown shirt open down the front, Brooks was strapped to a medical cart with an intravenous needle in his right arm. The tubes snaked behind a curtain where an unseen prison employee was ready to start the flow of the drugs.

When asked if he had any last words, the Fort Worth man replied, "Yes, I do." Brooks, who converted to the Islamic faith while in prison, then prayed, "There is no god but Allah. Verily do we belong and verily unto him do we return."

Brooks was pride of family

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Charlie Brooks Jr. was a pampered, popular child, the pride of his family and the apple of his father's eye.

He was the youngest child of Fort Worth couple who showered him with bicycles, televisions, cameras and expensive clothes. And he was a schoolboy football player who married his high school sweetheart and fathered two sons and a daughter.

"With his educational level and personality he could be somewhere in a job making $80,000 a year instead of being incarcerated and ready to die," said Derek Brooks, the condemned prisoner's 21-year-old son.

Brooks, 40, was convicted in 1977 of being one of two men who tied up David Gregory in a Fort Worth motel room and then shot him in the head.

"He's just a face in the dark. He is the act of murder," Norma Morrison, the mother of the murder victim said Monday. "He executed my son. I want him to die."

Relatives say it was the sudden, unexpected death of his father that jolted Brooks off the middle-class track and sent him down a course of crime and drugs that left him behind bars for all but a few of his adult years.

"He was the youngest and we all spoiled him. We all babied him. I think some of this was caused by giving him too much," Mary DeWitt, a niece who grew up with Brooks, told the Dallas Times Herald.

"He was always petted. Everybody was always giving him everything," said his step-sister, Leola Brown.

Charlie Brooks Sr. earned a middle-class income at a meat-packing company. He had worked since he was 13 and wanted his son to have everything.

The elder Brooks died at age 53, and the death hit 13-year-old Charlie the hardest, his relatives said.

"Charlie just couldn't get ready for him being dead. He

Gasoline tax increase gets House approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nursed along by administration concessions, President Reagan's call for a nickel hike in the federal gasoline tax cleared the House early today and is moving toward expected approval by the full Senate.

In addition to raising the gasoline tax to 9 cents a gallon to finance $5.5 billion worth of highway, bridge and mass transit repairs, the measure would force the owners of bigger trucks to pay more highway user taxes in exchange for liberalized restrictions on truck sizes and weights.

The measure, which has become one of the primary items in this lame duck session of Congress, passed the House on a 262-143 vote after more than 10 hours of debate that stretched past midnight.

However, the critical vote was a 236-169 tally on which 140 Democrats joined with 96 Republicans in agreeing to the tax provisions of the measure and indicated that final passage was assured. Eighty-two Democrats and 87 Republicans voted against the tax provisions.

Supporters of the gas tax increase said it was needed to repair the nation's roads and provide jobs at the same time.

But Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said the measure "takes jobs away, no doubt about it. It drains $5.5 billion from the economy, which will not be spent on food, clothing or shelter."

On the controversial increased heavy use tax for trucks, Rep. William Frenzel, R-Minn., said he was "positively aghast" at an increase of over 800 percent for the largest trucks. A rig of 80,000 pounds would pay an annual heavy use tax of $2,000 under the proposal, compared with $240 currently, he said.

But Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said the package was balanced by benefits the truckers would receive. "In addition to the tax, they get wider trucks and bigger trucks," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the full Senate likely will consider the legislation Thursday. Passage also is expected in the Senate.

200 kidnapped in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Heavily armed leftist guerrillas kidnapped more than 200 men, women and children from a soccer match because they desperately need recruits for their decimated ranks, witnesses said.

Salvadoran authorities, the International Red Cross and military officers in nearby San Sebastian, where the guerrillas carried off the mass kidnapping Sunday, said they had no news of the captives. The government did not say how it planned to seek the prisoners' release.

Guerrillas waving automatic weapons surprised the soccer gathering, lined up the teams, spectators and candy vendors, and marched them off to a well fortified camp before authorities could be alerted, witnesses told reporters Monday. It was the guerrillas' first mass kidnapping in their 3-year-old war against the U.S.-backed rightist government.

Vote on MX approaches after intense lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House headed for a vote that may decide the fate of the MX missile today following a lobbying campaign that had Reagan administration officials and members of Congress shuttling between the Capitol and the White House.

Its target was an amendment that Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., planned to introduce late today that would delete $988 million for production of the first five missiles from a $231.6 billion defense spending bill.

Later, some 76 congressmen — Democrats as well as Republicans — went to the White House in three groups to be lobbied directly by President Reagan and Vice President George Bush.

Mindful of a near-defeat in the House Appropriations Committee last week and criticism of the nuclear weapon system as unneeded, unworkable and destabilizing to the U.S.-Soviet strategic balance, the administration unleashed an ambitious campaign to save the program.

"It's going to be a difficult vote for us to win," deputy presidential press secretary Larry Speakes said, but it wouldn't be for lack of trying. "We are optimistic; we're working hard on it," said James Baker III, the White House chief of staff.

Reagan also dispatched a letter to all House members that said the MX — which he has renamed "Peacekeeper" — would "restore the strategic balance," he says now favors the Soviets.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, national security adviser William P. Clark and chief arms-control negotiator Edward Rowley journeyed to Capitol Hill on Monday to ask House Republicans for support on the vote.

"Of equal importance," he wrote, "we must move forward with the MX to have any hope of achieving meaningful progress at the arms negotiations in Europe."

Similarly, Weinberger told reporters, "There is a strong administration drive to get it (the MX) through, not

Computer blamed for late monies

Concern over the late arrival of tax monies to the city coffer was aired Monday night at the commissioners meeting with Fred Fox, tax appraisal district manager, telling the leaders the delay was caused by computer problems and the end of the month falling on a weekend.

Fox said the tax office fell about four days behind due to the computer problems and that snag plus a later than usual mailing caused the city to be unpaid until up into November.

Man prepares year-long gift

A hard candy Christmas during a lean year can sometimes be the most memorable, with folks putting attention on the caring and loving aspects of the holiday.

Although not down and out, one man in Hereford is preparing a gift for a relative which could mean more than any store-bought present.

Taking 52 envelopes, he is dating them to be opened for each week of the year. Inside he is putting a special message of appreciation, some Bible verses, maybe an inspirational poem, perhaps a seasonal recipe.

The idea can go on to include "coupons" for special favors, such as redemption for a car wash, a day of housecleaning, an invitation to lunch, free babysitting, or any good deeds.

Siamese twins die in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Siamese twin girls born with a common heart both have died at Wilford Hall U.S. Air Force Medical Center, a spokesman announced today.

"The Siamese twin girls shared one heart which was incapable of sustaining life for the pair," said the spokesman at Lackland Air Force Base.

The twins were joined at the chest and abdomen when they were born last Wednesday at Barksdale Air Force Base near Bossier City, La.

A neonatal team from Wilford Hall flew to Louisiana and returned the twins to the intensive care unit.

The spokesman said that doctors had given the babies "very little chance of survival after running tests to determine if they could be separated."

One side of the heart was pumping blood to one baby and the other side to the other infant, he said.

"The tests showed that too many internal organs, including the circulatory system, were interrelated to allow successful surgical separation," one of the doctors said after the examination. "It is obviously impossible to separate the babies and there are too many defects in the heart to keep even one baby alive."

The Siamese twins' father, an active duty military man, accompanied the babies to San Antonio, but Air Force officials withheld the parents' identities, citing the Privacy Act.

Dallas businessman named deputy secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. Paul Thayer, board chairman of the LTV Corp. of Dallas, has been picked by President Reagan to be deputy secretary of defense.

Thayer, a defense industry executive, has questioned the administration's military spending, saying it should not be spared from budget cutting. LTV is a major aerospace firm and defense contractor.

As deputy secretary of defense, Thayer would be responsible for much of the day-to-day operation of the Pentagon and for helping to develop policy. He would oversee the Pentagon's $4 billion budget and 4 million personnel.

Thayer, 63, has been quoted recently as saying that military spending must be restrained to trim the federal deficit and help the nation recover from the recession.

Asked if Thayer's thinking was at odds with Reagan's proposals, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said, "He wouldn't be nominated if he didn't support the president's program."

Authorities arrest man in death of priest

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — Sonoran Judicial Police in Hermosillo, Son., Mexico have arrested a Nogales, Son., man in connection with the strangulation death of a Roman Catholic priest on this side of the border 2½ years ago, officials said.

Jose Ramon La Madrid, spokesman for the Sonoran Judicial Police in Hermosillo, said Monday that Fernando Maravilla Gutierrez, 34, alias "El Maravilla" was captured by state police in Nogales, Son., Saturday. La Madrid said Maravilla is being held in the death of the Rev. John Truman Chestnut, 76, whose beaten, bound and gagged body was found in his bedroom here on May 18, 1980.

Chestnut, described as a "quiet, gentle man, who liked to help people," retired from church and hospital work in the Dallas Roman Catholic Archdiocese in 1955 to move to Nogales. He worked part time as a chaplain at Sacred Heart Catholic Church here until he retired in 1975.

Manuel Treto, chief of Nogales, Ariz., police, said a complaint of first-degree murder was issued on Maravilla by the Santa Cruz County Attorney's Office. He also said he had never heard of Maravilla before Monday, however.

"If we do confirm that this person was involved with a person who used to visit the priest, it would be our first break in the past 2½ years," Treto said. "We're keeping our fingers crossed." La Madrid would not elaborate on what led to Maravilla's arrest, except to say that agents had spotted a radio stolen from Chestnut's home in his possession.

Who's afraid of the big bad bomb?

Today we are going to talk about two things which should and will be kept separate. The peaceful use of nuclear energy. And the other kind. The first first: A new book called "The War Against The Atom" by Samuel McCracken is going to help a lot of Americans set aside irrational fears. It reminds us that we are in much more danger from other kinds of accidents than from nuclear accidents. The worse possible meltdown would kill about 3,300 people immediately and about 45,000 over a period of time. But the much more likely collapse of a hydro-electric dam at the head of a heavily populated valley might kill five times that many! People living on the boundary of a nuclear power plant are protected by law from any radiums in excess of five millirems a year. We are exposed to that much radiation from watching TV — or a single cross-country airplane trip. Throttling nuclear power development is forcing Americans to burn more coal; the mining and moving and using of coal kills 50,000 Americans every year. The McCracken book includes a comprehensive bibliography of sources both for and against nuclear power. This should help voters, where the issue is yet to be voted, to decide "for." Now, what of the nuclear bomb as a weapon of war? Three hundred Roman Catholic Bishops, meeting in Washington, D.C., voted to condemn nuclear war as "immoral." And the United Methodist Council of Bishops has similarly denounced nuclear weapons as "immoral." I read both resolutions and respectfully respond with these questions: What's the difference? Why not a resolution condemning warfare of any kind? Are some anxious about nuclear war only because it might touch them? Is its morality or is it hypocrisy for us to accept traditional, conventional war to be inevitable yet run scared from the total kind.

I hear the argument that the perpetuation of civilization is paramount. But are we really thinking about that — when we old men willingly, generation after generation, draft young men to go away to die out of sight, out of earshot? Is that kind of war somehow more moral? Really, gentlemen? When wars become so hideous that nobody can survive one, is that not our best hope? Only then would the makers of war have to devise some more civilized means of resolving inter-nation differences.

Until then is it really "morality" which justifies us when we command our sons to go forth and die on the end of somebody's bloody bayonet — but for God's sake keep the war away from us!

Flood damage into millions

By The Associated Press — As flooding from rain-swollen rivers eases in parts of Arkansas, towns downstream are braced for their share of mud and water that officials say has cost hundreds of millions of dollars in property damage upstream. Sunshine on Monday helped efforts to clean up after tornadoes and storms that struck the state Thursday and Friday and the flooding that followed. The National Weather Service said no more rain was forecast for at least two days.

The state Office of Emergency Services had no new reports of deaths and injuries from the disastrous weather that is blamed for five deaths since Thursday. The Randolph County Sheriff Department, however, said Graddy Tedder, 70, whose mobile home at Ravenend Springs was swept away by rising water from James Creek on Friday, was missing.

Flooding on the Eleven Point River and James Creek forced about 12 families to flee their north Arkansas homes. Gov. Frank White toured storm-stricken areas by helicopter Monday and the OES said the governor's office has declared 37 of Arkansas' 75 counties disaster areas. Representatives of the Federal Emergency Management Agency were to arrive from Denton, Texas, today to assess damage in preparation for a federal disaster declaration.

White said the damage was devastating and worse than he had expected. The National Weather Service said Monday night that the White River was flooding from Newport south to Clarendon in northeast and east-central Arkansas and the Ouachita River was flooding from Arkadelphia southward to Camden in the southern part of the state.

"We can't overstate the seriousness of the situation," hydrologist Don Schwartz of the National Weather Service said. "This water doesn't evaporate, it just heads downstream."

Gary Talley, OES spokesman, said Monday night that 250 families were evacuated Monday from Newport, the Jackson County seat, population about 8,000.

Newport is about 70 miles northeast of Little Rock and just south of Jacksonville, where the Black River and White River meet. Jacksonville was evacuated Sunday and was still under water Monday. At a Newport shelter, White told people forced from their homes at Jacksonville that help was on the way. "We'll all just have to pull together," he said.

Talley said people were beginning to evacuate Clarendon, a town of 2,361 about 60 miles east of Little Rock. Water was seeping under a levee into the post office and courthouse. Clarendon is along U.S. Highway 79 in east-central Arkansas.

The White River was beginning to flood at Georgetown about 30 miles downstream from Newport. Arkansas Highway 36 was under water at Georgetown and closed to traffic except for tractors and trucks.

Brooks

Dr. Ralph Gray said, "I pronounce this man dead."

Brooks' former wife, Joyce, and his two sons, Adrian and Derek, were denied permission to witness the execution and waited angrily in the prison's foyer. Brooks was allowed to choose only three witnesses. He selected Miss Sapp and two Islamic chaplains.

Outside the prison, some university students from Sam Houston State University in Huntsville said they gathered to "cheer" for prison officials because, one of them said, "we feel it's right."

Death penalty opponents gathered in Huntsville, Dallas and outside the Capitol in Austin for silent vigils.

On Monday, Brooks ate a last meal of steak, french fries and peach cobbler. He met with Islamic minister Larry Amin Sharrieff and relatives while awaiting word on the Supreme Court's decision. "His life has been turned over to God," said Brooks' niece, Berrie Jean Mitchell. "He said he was very high spirited and he has very high hopes."

"He says he has found complete peace ... He feels if it goes through then he will be in paradise," Sharrieff said. The drug chosen by Texas to kill condemned criminals is sodium thiopental, better known as sodium Pentothal or truth serum. Two other chemicals also are used to assure death — Pavulon, a muscle relaxant, and potassium chloride.

Brooks was sentenced to die for the Dec. 14, 1976, murder of David Gregory, 26, who had gone with him on a test drive of a car from the Fort Worth used car lot where Gregory worked. Gregory, his hands and feet bound, was shot once in the head.

Another man, Woody Loudres, was convicted in a separate trial of murdering Gregory, but evidence did not indicate who pulled the trigger and neither defendant has revealed which it was.

Loudres' first conviction, for which he was sentenced to death, was reversed and he is serving a 40-year sentence after a plea-bargain. The reversal was on grounds similar to the appeal by Brooks that some potential jurors were improperly excluded because they expressed reservations about the death penalty. Jack Strickland, the former Tarrant County assistant district attorney who prosecuted Brooks, joined the requests for a stay of execution. He argued that the differing sentences for Brooks and Loudres were unfair since each was convicted on the same evidence of the same acts. Brooks' lawyers had asked the Supreme Court and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to stay the execution. The appeals court refused at midday to issue a stay and the nation's highest court refused later in the day.

The 5th Circuit, which was hearing Brooks case for the second time, said Brooks' claims have been presented in nine hearings and have been reviewed by 23 state and federal judges. The latest appeal covered no new ground, it said. Brooks' attorneys also had asked the Texas Board of Pardons and Parole to recommend that Clements stay the execution, but the board refused in a 2-1 vote Monday afternoon. The nine-member Texas was daddy's boy and now his daddy was dead," said Mrs. Brown.

"The death had a devastating effect on Charlie and he never recovered from it," she said. "Charlie was one of the most popular kids on the block, was very smart in school, and had regularly attended church and Sunday school. But after dad's death, he started changing and fell in with a very bad crowd that included Woody Loudres."

Loudres also was convicted of killing Gregory. He later won a new trial and then plea bargained for a 40-year prison term. Neither man has ever said who fired the shot that killed Gregory.

Brooks joined the Air Force during his senior year in high school and later was given an early discharge to return home and help his mother.

A year after his first child, Derek, was born, Brooks began running around with a rough crowd, said his ex-wife, Joyce. And for the first time in his life, Brooks found money was tight, she said.

He was convicted in 1968 of possessing a sawed-off shotgun and spent 18 months in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan.

Shortly after his release, he was convicted of theft and burglary in Tarrant County and sentenced to six years in prison. While he was in prison, his wife divorced him.

While on death row, Brooks has converted to Islam and said his faith prepared him to face death. "Islam teaches that nothing will happen to me unless it is the will of God," said Brooks. "I have been preparing myself since my acceptance of Islam."

unclear why the guerrillas targeted San Sebastian for the mass kidnap.

San Sebastian Mayor Jose Ramon Henriquez and other townspeople called it "a forced recruitment" and said they believed the guerrillas were trying to force about 140 youths in the group — including the two soccer teams — to join rebel ranks to compensate for recent heavy losses.

Some speculated they took the children and older women along as hostages to keep army troops from pursuing them.

In an intensive search and destroy operation in August, the army claimed it killed 300 guerrillas in the San Sebastian area. Radio Venceremos at the time claimed those killed were noncombatant "camp followers."

San Sebastian, a town of 4,000 people, is 30 miles east of San Salvador.

As residents told it, a large group of guerrillas attacked the local military garrison Sunday afternoon to divert attention and killed one soldier, while another 30 rebels hijacked a bus and drove to the city's soccer stadium shooting automatic weapons in the air.

The rebels interrupted the game, ordered everybody to line up — including the candy and cigarette vendors — and marched them off at gunpoint into the nearby San Pedro hills northeast of town where they have a well fortified

Swift earnings up 42 percent

CHICAGO — Swift Independent Corporation had fiscal 1982 earnings of $25,334,000, equal to $5.07 a share, a gain of 42 percent over pro forma results a year ago, it was reported today by John A. Copeland, president and chief executive officer.

Revenues for the year, ended Oct. 30, reached $2,493,808,000, up from pro forma revenues of $2,305,428,000 in fiscal 1981.

Year-earlier pro forma earnings were $17,800,000, equal to $3.56 a share. "Swift Independent had an extremely successful fiscal year and exceeded all its business objectives by a substantial margin," Copeland said.

"All of our businesses contributed to the fiscal 1982 earnings. Beef, the sales and distribution operations, and lamb paced the improved activity. Pork operations began the year strong, but were penalized in the last six months by poor hog supplies," he added.

Fourth quarter earnings were $6,159,000, equal to $1.23 a share and included a one-time charge of $1,154,000 or 23 cents a share, associated with a labor contract payment. In the prior year fourth quarter, Swift Independent earned $8,336,000, or $1.67 a share.

Revenues in the fourth quarter were $661,988,000, up from $620,118,000 a year ago. Copeland said all of Swift Independent's businesses were profitable in the final quarter of fiscal 1982, with the strongest performances shown in beef, sales operations, and lamb. He said reduced hog supplies continued to hold down pork earnings.

"It appears that the bottom of the hog cycle has been reached, and we anticipate improvement in supplies beginning in mid 1983," Copeland said.

He said recent interest rate declines and the advance in hog prices has returned profitability to hog producing, and these economic elements, coupled with low corn prices, should lead producers to rebuild breeding herds.

Copeland said Swift Independent was anticipating about a 2 percent industry wide gain in fed cattle slaughter in 1983. "Placement of cattle into feedlots has been heavy throughout the year, a development encouraged by stronger cattle prices and abundant supplies of moderately priced feed," he said.

Chicago-based Swift Independent Corporation owns Swift Independent Packing Company, a business spun off from Esmark, Inc., in April, 1981, and now the nation's second largest fresh meats operation.

Family keeps busy at holiday season

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor
The Christmas season is a busy time of year, but especially for those involved in retailing. This is the first holiday season for the local Winn's store and the first Christmas in Hereford for the store manager, Jack Hamilton, and his family. Jack and his wife, Michelle, and their 20-month-old son, Jack III, live at 219 Douglas.

They moved to Hereford in early May.

"Jack has been with Winn's since he was 15," says Michelle, "and this is the third store he has managed.

The others were in Wichita Falls and Burkburnett."

Michelle is a native of Ohio and her family moved to Texas in 1977. Jack is from Copperas Cove, near Killeen. His parents still live there and Michelle's parents live in Burkburnett, where the couple resided before moving to Hereford.

"I was a shipping clerk with PPG Glass Company for about a year - the company my dad works with, says Michelle. Then I worked for Jack at Winn's. That's how we met."

"We really like Hereford," she continues, "and we have very nice neighbors. For the size town it is, it has so much more to offer than other places we've lived. It really surprised me how much there is here."

Michelle is involved in the Christian Women's Fellowship at First Christian Church and is an assistant leader of a group of Cub Scouts, something she got involved in through the encouragement of a neighbor.

"By the time Jack gets old enough for Cub Scouts, he'll know all about it," laughs Michelle, "because he goes with me to all the meetings."

Michelle says that another activity which she thinks she would like to get involved in is Big Brothers-Big Sisters. "I imagine it would be a very rewarding experience," she comments.

Michelle's parents were in Hereford for Thanksgiving and she says that her grandparents are hoping to come down from Ohio after Christmas. She has seven brothers and sisters, all of whom still live up in that area, and one of her brothers plans to come to Texas for Christmas.

"Members of my family decided to make our Christmas presents this year instead of buying them," says Michelle. "It's opening me up to try new things and I'm really enjoying it."

"I went to a wood-burning demonstration at the store and am doing some things with that. I'm also learning how to crochet. I think it's neat to be able to make things yourself."

Michelle likes to decorate with wicker and baskets, saying that an older sister got her started with that.

She likes to bowl and swim, and says that Jack likes to golf, bowl, and play tennis. "He's a big sports fan," she smiles.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

This country is controlled by demographics. And the magic numbers are: 18 to 35.

No one under 18 or over 35 reads books or magazines. No one under 18 or over 35 watches television or buys the products that sponsor it.

You can't get hired for a job unless you're over 18 or under 35.

This groups is supposed to have the greatest number of athletes, the greatest number in the military and the largest number of desires.

Or so the advertisers would have you believe.

Let me tell you something they forgot about under 18 and over 35 - buying power.

If I were selling cosmetics in this country, I'd go for the one that needs it the most and can afford it: the over-35s. The women who take three days to get ready for bed and a year and a half to pull themselves together for their class reunion.

If I were selling sports cars, I'd go for the guy with the bald spot on his wallet going through his mid-life crisis. The guy with the high blood pressure and a low tolerance for boredom.

I saw a stunning elderly model with gray hair on "Good Morning, America" the other morning who was complaining that the only products she was hired to sell were laxatives, cures for arthritis, bran flakes and glue for false teeth. These seemed to be the only commodities the over-35s buy.

Seemingly, we never take showers, watch our weight, care about our breath, or go for the gusto.

I daresay the over-35s buy more products aimed at youth than any other group. Realistically, what have we got to lose?

As for the under '18s, they are the most powerful buying group in the world. Those who have been indulged by loving grandparents and childless aunts and uncles with checks and savings bonds (with no overhead to pay out) wield more influence over the over-35s than any other group around. Grow up. Who do you think pressures parents into buying all those video games and boxes of Purple Prickles?

The emphasis on 18-to-35 buying power has been overrated for a long time. If advertisers are going to research the buying habits of the 18-35s, they should look beyond who buys all the records, goes to the movies, and reaches out and touches someone.

They should ask, where do they get the money in the first place? The answer is they put the bite on the under-18s and over-35s.

4-H Firsthand

4-H gives youth freedom

BY BRAD MORRISON
Assistant County Extension Agent

Youth can take part in 4-H in many ways. In Texas, most youth in 4-H are in community 4-H clubs that meet in neighborhoods with local volunteer leaders. They study various projects and carry out group activities in community service.

Some youngsters are in special interest groups or project groups that study one special subject such as horsemanship, livestock, photography or leadership.

Many youth enroll in a 4-H club in a school, where they receive a monthly educational program and select a project for outside-of-school group or independent study. School curriculum enrichment programs on health, safety, careers, embryology and energy reach many children in public and private schools each year.

All this means that any interested youth between the ages of 9 and 19 can be a 4-H'er. He or she can choose how to participate based on individual interests and desires. 4-H allows members to be whatever they want to be in a way best suited to their individual needs and desires.

This year's 4-H theme, "Pathways to the Future," brings attention to the many things 4-H has to offer for today's youth and the many ways in which the 4-H program can help shape the future of each 4-H member.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Country Club directors host 'Black & White Ball'

It was a gala "Black and White Ball" when Hereford Country Club directors hosted members at the traditional Christmas party Saturday night.

More than 350 persons attended the event, which featured a buffet dinner and dancing to the music of two bands. Per the invitation request members were elegantly dressed in black and white.

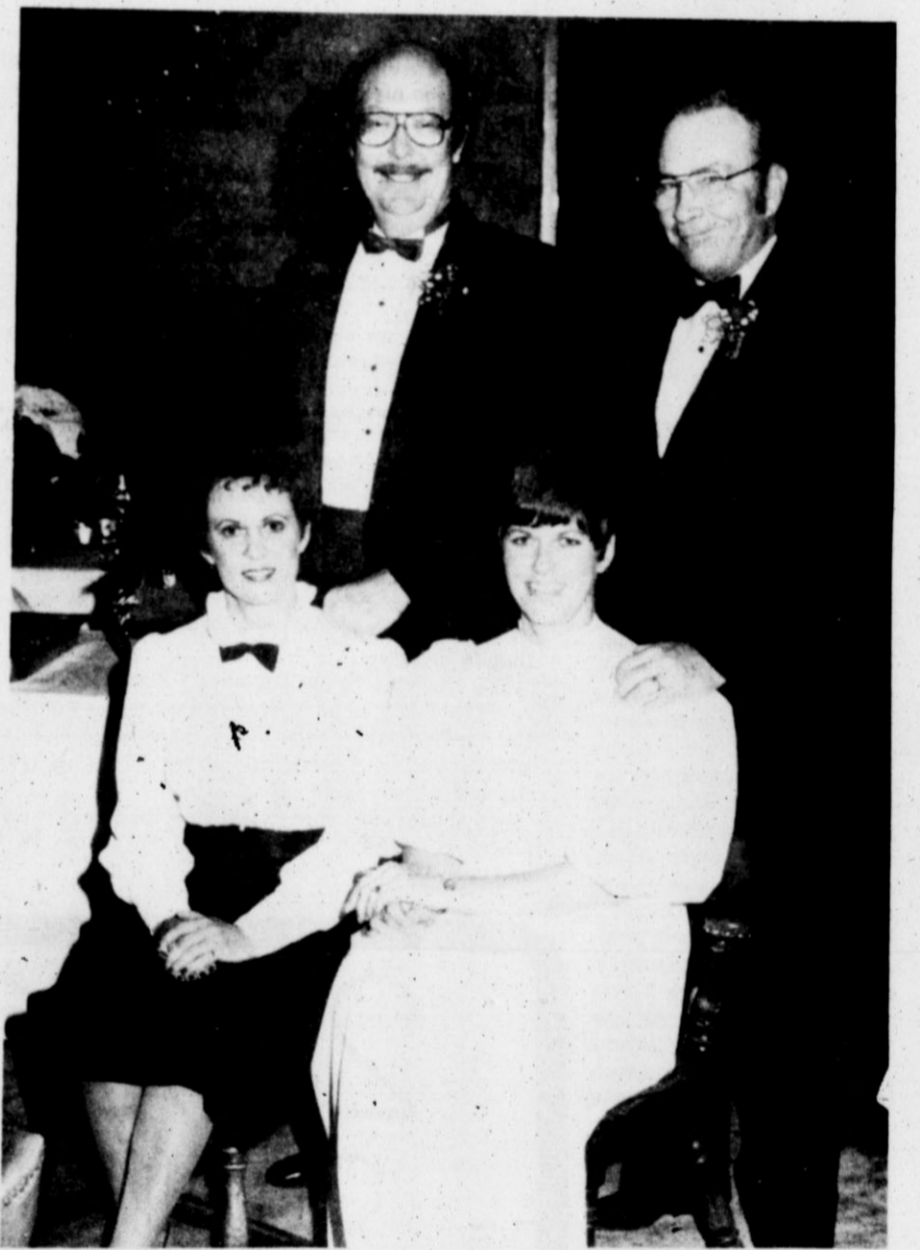

HCC managers Ouida and Kenneth Halbert and their staff arranged two big buffet tables with 4-foot lucite candle holders in the center of each, sparkling with votive cups and encircled by white poinsettias.

Individual tables had centerpieces of a black top hat, white gloves, and red silk roses which were made by directors' wives. These decorations matched the invitations sent out to the members.

Huge flocked Christmas trees were placed in both the front and back dining areas. Lighted greenery and red velvet bows carried out the Christmas theme throughout the club.

Two bands provided music for the big crowd. The Jay Perdue Combo from Amarillo played in one area, while the Betty Tolley Combo played in the other dancing area.

Steve Hodges is board president this year; David Zinser is vice president, and Rosie Griffin is secretary-treasurer. Directors not pictured on this page include Mr. and Mrs. J.C. McCracken and Mr. and Mrs. John Hays.

Ann Landers Company has not been sunk

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read your advice daily for over 20 years. I feel as if I know you personally. You have a kind heart and a good set of brains. Please let me share my problem — which is really a problem for all mankind.

I feel a deep sense of sadness about the overriding lack of compassion that is all around us. Indifference is the order of the day. Nobody wants to get involved. Murder in the name of religion is an everyday occurrence in all parts of the world. And then some nut in Chicago kills seven strangers by putting cyanide in Tylenol capsules and ruins a company's good name.

As a businesswoman I can tell you, aside from the tragic loss of life, it was a rotten blow to a fine organization. Can you imagine what it must mean to build a splendid business and have it wrecked overnight by some maniac?

This is an example of how the fortunes of all of us hang by a thread of luck. It is so unfair it makes me sick that some screwball should have that much power.

ject, Ann, and if possible, say something to make me feel better. — Dallas Reader Who Changed Papers For You

DEAR DALLAS: You will be delighted to know that Johnson and Johnson, the company that manufactures and markets Tylenol, has not been sunk by this terrible tragedy. Because they conducted themselves with sterling integrity, putting the welfare of the consumer first, they are coming back stronger than ever.

James E. Burke, chairman of Johnson and Johnson, has announced that the company will replace all Tylenol capsules without requiring customers to show proof of purchase. The recall and destruction of the Tylenol capsules along with the testing, cost the company $100 million, by the time you read this, Tylenol will be back on the shelves in a 3-way tamper-resistant capsule. The new package will be marked, "new safety sealed." A warning printed on the box says, "Do not use if safety seals are broken."

What happened to Johnson and Johnson could have happened to any pharmaceutical company, but the manner in which they handled this disaster was so first-rate, so utterly classy, there is no doubt that it has inspired that old customers to stay with them and encouraged new ones to climb aboard. Cheers to you, Mr. Burke. You have taken those lemons and turned them into lemonade!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the woman whose husband was getting the come-on from a brassy dame stank. It seems whenever they met socially, the shameless hussy would cuddle up to "George" and get awfully chummy.

You said it would be best to ignore the woman and not appear threatened. My experience proves you are wrong. The same thing happened to me. I decided I wasn't going to stand around and let some tramp wreck my marriage. When she leaned over the coffee table to straighten my husband's tie (he was seated on the sofa), I gave her a swift kick in the rear and she landed in the avocado dip. It was the last time that bimbo cooed up to my George. — Klara In Toledo

A way to wash wicker

DEAR POLLY — I have a large, expensive wicker rug that became damp and moldy while being stored in what I thought was a dry basement. Can you tell me now if there is a way I can clean it? I can't get another like it and want to put it on my wall. — KAREN

DEAR KAREN — Wicker can be washed in mild soapsuds and warm water. (Sponge gently, then sponge with clear water to rinse.) In fact, occasional washing helps keep the wicker from drying out and becoming brittle. If there are any stains that washing won't remove, try using a little rubbing alcohol on them, then wash as usual. After washing, be sure to allow the entire rug to dry thoroughly — outdoors on a breezy day is a good place for drying. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Some time ago, you asked for information about using glazed ceramic tile on counter tops. My husband works with tile and jotted down these notes. Properly installed tile is permanent and will not fade, burn or scratch. Using dark grout will prevent stains from showing, but new additives and sealers for grout have practically eliminated staining and make it easy to clean. Broken tiles are easily replaced without having to remove the entire counter top. I hope this information will be helpful. — JO ANN

DEAR POLLY — Now that "Ma Bell" is charging us for directory assistance, maybe this will be of interest to those who dislike looking up phone numbers. After I look up a number, I take a yellow marker (like students use to underline parts of books) and mark the name and number. In the Yellow Pages, I use a pink marker. The neatly highlighted name and number is easy to find the next time you need it. — BETTY

DEAR POLLY — For coupon collectors and refunders, here's a good idea when saving those sticky backed U.P.C.'s and labels. After it has been soaked and removed from the product, place the label on a piece of paper while it is still wet. It will stay stuck to the paper as it dries. If you have a number of them saved, they won't stick together this way. They're a lot easier to store and send off. — M.W.

DEAR POLLY — If the window shade rides up too high to reach it without getting up on a chair, just try using your kitchen tongs to reach it. — H.M.

DEAR POLLY — Here's a tip for bird owners. You know how wasteful caged birds can be. Whenever I clean my canary's cage (which is every other day), I put his old seed in a cup and save it for the wild birds. The small birds in my cold Michigan winters really enjoy it, especially the finches and sparrows. Since I hate to throw out what the canary doesn't eat, I'm helping the wild birds without cutting into my budget. — TRUDY

Doug Manning gives program

"Self-Worth" was the program topic Doug Manning presented when members of L'Allegria Study Club met recently in the home of Mary Kay McQuigg. Ella Marie Veigel served as co-hostess.

Manning stressed that in order to cope with inner problems, one must trace back into his or her early years or to the origin of the negative feeling. Only then can one understand oneself and why they react the way they do. He concluded by saying, "When you know yourself better, you will have a better self value."

A brief business meeting followed, at which time it was announced that the next meeting will be a Christmas luncheon and gift exchange.

Members present in addition to the hostesses were Kathy Allison, Carolyn

Tenth season starting for 'Nova' on PBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has come a long way on television since "Mr. Wizard" wowed us with his studio experiments. Tonight, "Nova" examines gray whales up close and intimately. Next Tuesday, the science program hitches a ride on the world's high-speed trains.

Compared to ABC's competition of "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," public television's "Nova" is a worthwhile alternative. But it doesn't get an unqualified recommendation — its programs this week and next are spotty.

Devoting a full hour to one subject seems too large an undertaking for "Nova," which has less money to spend than the networks do for hour-long documentaries.

Walter Cronkite's "Universe," a 30-minute program, did better, tackling several current science developments on each broadcast.

But CBS gave "Universe" only a summer showcase, so PBS deserves credit for bringing science to viewers year-round. This is the 10th season of "Nova," which has a funding commitment from Johnson & Johnson to continue the series next season.

One wonders why the gray whale — not the most interesting or photogenic whale — is the only star tonight.

The photograph of the gray whale in motion is disappointing, not the attractive spectacle offered on other animal programs. In fact, at times it's difficult to see which end of the whale is up.

In repose, however, the docile mammals allow humans to get close enough to touch. The animals have no instinctive fear of man. In Southern California, people pay $10 to spend three hours with the grays. You can even spend $1,000 for a long-term excursion to their homes.

"Nova" is more interesting next week when it returns to land and investigates the high-speed trains of Europe and Japan. But the show bogs down late in the broadcast with cocktail party hand-shaking, when businessmen in Japan and the United States consider deals to bring the supertrains here.

Since 1964, when the Japanese introduced its 130 mph Shinkansen, dubbed The Bullet, it has serviced 2 billion riders without accident or passenger injury. Tracks must be scrupulously maintained, and the program shows night workers enthusiastically scrubbing the equipment for the next day.

America's fastest train, The Metroliner between New York and Washington, averages 80 mph. A Metroliner official maintains that it could go 130 mph if it didn't share the rails with heavier and slower freight trains.

Although French trains hold the rail record of 236 mph, Japan and Germany are racing to build the first passenger service using magnetically levitated vehicles. These trains travel inches above the rails at speeds up to 500 mph.

Pre-trial hearing today

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — A state judge scheduled a pre-trial hearing today into cattle theft charges against lame duck state Rep. David London but said he might change his mind and delay the actual trial, which was to follow on the heels of the preliminary proceedings.

London, who lost a reelection bid in the May primary, is charged with stealing five head of cattle from a Willis Point rancher.

London contends he is innocent, that his sole involvement was to cash a check for two other men and that the charges are politically motivated.

District Judge Lanny Ramsey on Monday refused a request by London for a trial delay, but said he would consider the motion further today.

London announced last week that he was dismissing two attorneys and replacing them with state Rep. Clint Hackney, a Houston Democrat.

The Texas Legislature goes back into session Jan. 11. If the trial begins today, Ramsey would beat the deadline by five days.

Four Whitefaces are named on A-J South Plains team

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal announced its Class 5A All-South Plains football team Monday, and it included four members of the Hereford Whitefaces.

Those making the team, comprised of players from Districts 3 and 4 5A, included Herd center Tim Martin, running back Alfred Ball, wide receiver Brian Taylor and defensive back Charles McDowell.

Martin and Taylor were named to the Amarillo Globe-Sun Super Team, announced Sunday.

Plainview and Odessa Permian each placed six players on the 24-member team. Hereford was the only other team with more than one selection.

Player of the year honors went to Plainview linebacker Robert Bradic, while coach of the year laurels went to Monterey's James Odom.

Ironically, only one Lubbock player was named to the team — defensive lineman Howard Alford of Monterey.

Amarillo schools were represented by defensive lineman Jeff Jordan of the Sandies and linebacker Scott Brewer of Caprock.

Maybe it'll be Littlefield's year, after all.

The Wildcats, eliminated from the state playoffs the past two years in the quarterfinals, finally advanced beyond that by defeating Stamford, 25-14, last weekend.

Now, they'll take on McGregor Saturday at 7 p.m. in San Angelo in the Class 3A semifinals.

Last week's Harris Rating System poll hit only 60 percent on its quarterfinal guesses, and Littlefield was one of the teams which pulled off an upset.

The Wildcats were two-point underdogs to Stamford. The Harris poll guessed wrong on all four Class 5A games, and two each in classes 3A and 2A.

The poll was correct on all four games in classes 4A and 1A, though, giving it a 12-8 mark for the week.

Now, with only two weekends left in the season, six teams boast perfect records.

They include Converse Judson (14-0) in 5A; Fort Bend Willowridge (13-0) in 4A; McGregor (14-0) in 3A; East Bernard (13-0) in 2A and Union Hill (12-0) and Bremond (14-0) in 1A.

Probably the most surprising team still in the playoffs is Beaumont West Brook (9-4-1) in Class 5A.

West Brook is playing its first season. It is a combination of the old Beaumont Herbert and Forest Park campuses, and just opened this fall. And, ironically, it has been an underdog in each of its playoff games this season.

West Brook came into the playoffs with a 6-4 record. It advanced past bi-district with a 24-20 victory over Forest Brook (after being a 6-point underdog).

In the area playoffs, West Brook advanced following a 7-7 tie against Bayton Sterling (after being a 3-point underdog).

In the regionals, it was a 2-point underdog against Houston Memorial, but won, 28-22. Then, last week against Dickinson it was a 4½ point underdog against Dickinson, but won, 49-30.

McGregor, Littlefield's opponent this week, has lost only once the past two years — that to Crockett in last season's bi-district playoffs.

If point differences offer any indication to a team's strength, then Corsicana (in 4A) and Union Hill (in 1A) might be the teams to beat the rest of the way.

Corsicana has averaged beating its opponents by 37.3 points (it defeated Dallas Madison, 37-0; Carthage, 32-0 and McKinney, 49-6), while Union Hill has won its three playoff games by an average of 28.3 points.

In 5A, Hurst Bell has got by its first four opponents by an average, 17.2 points (despite being tied this past weekend.)

In 3A, Refugio has averaged beating its four playoff opponents by 24.2 points, while in 2A East Bernard has averaged winning four playoff games by an average of 16.7 points.

The narrowest winning margins belong to Dallas Carter (4.5 points) and Groveton (4 points) in 5A and 2A, respectively.

If SMU's last two bowl appearances are any indication, then the upcoming Cotton Bowl matchup against the University of Pittsburgh might be a great one.

The last two times the Ponies have gone bowling, they've been involved in a pair of one-point decisions.

On Dec. 31, 1968 SMU outlasted Oklahoma, 28-27, in a wild Bluebonnet Bowl affair, while on Dec. 19, 1980 the Mustangs were involved in one of the wildest bowl finishes ever, losing a 46-45 decision to BYU in the Holiday Bowl game at San Diego.

In that one, BYU quarterback Jim McMahon threw a 41-yard scoring strike to tight end Clay Brown on the final play of the game (between three SMU defenders in the end zone.)

SMU led that game, 38-19, going into the final period, by a 45-25 margin with four minutes left to play.

SMU is 2-4-1 in bowl games. The victories came in the 1949 Cotton Bowl (a 21-13 win over Oregon) and the 1968 Bluebonnet Bowl.

The last time the Mustangs made it to the Cotton Bowl, they were beaten by Georgia, 24-9, on Dec. 31, 1966.

Walker, Carter head AP All-America football selections

NEW YORK (AP) — Herschel Walker, Georgia's Heisman Trophy-winning tailback, and Anthony Carter, Michigan's game-breaking wide receiver, were named to The Associated Press All-America college football team today for the third year in a row.

Christmas Show — A Bagful of Comedy" (NBC-TV, 8-9 p.m., EST).

Two players moved up from the second team last year to the first team in 1982 — Southern Methodist running back Eric Dickerson and Southern California middle guard George Achica.

Four other players, including Nebraska center Dave Rimington, two-time winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman, made the elite All-America team for the second year in a row. The other repeaters are defensive end Billy Ray Smith of Arkansas and defensive backs Terry Kinard of Clemson and Mike Richardson of Arizona State.

Joining Walker and Dickerson in the backfield is Stanford quarterback John Elway. The rest of the offensive unit consists of tight end Gordon Hudson of Brigham Young, wide receiver Kenny Jackson of Penn State, tackles Bill Fralic of Pitt and Don Mosebar of Southern Cal, guards Steve Korte of Arkansas and Bruce Matthews of Southern Cal and placekicker Chuck Nelson of Washington.

Fralic, a 6-foot-5, 270-pounder, is the only sophomore on the All-America first team. Hoage, Hudson, Hunley, Jackson, Marshall and Walker are juniors.

SMU's Dickerson alternated at tailback for much of his career but still set a Southwest Conference career rushing mark of 4,450 yards, breaking Earl Campbell's record of 4,443.

Walker, a 6-1, 220-pounder, has rushed for 5,259 yards in three seasons and ranks third on the all-time NCAA rushing list. He needs 724 yards to pass Pitt's Tony Dorsett, the leader with 6,082 yards.

After a slow start, partially due to nagging ailments, Carter caught 28 passes this season for a whopping 628 yards and seven touchdowns. He is Michigan's all-time scoring leader and holds the NCAA record for highest average recorded per play for all-purpose yardage. He also holds the Big Ten record for career touchdown receptions.

Jets claw Lions, 28-13

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The high-flying New York Jets are looking forward to the National Football League playoffs while Detroit Coach Monte Clark looks for the team he knew before the player strike.

The Jets held Detroit to 274 total yards while Todd & Co. were rolling up 429.

ing. We can't catch balls and we can't cover.

The Jets, behind the deadly passing of Richard Todd to Wesley Walker, beat the Lions 28-13 Monday night. It was their fourth straight victory since an opening-day defeat to the Miami Dolphins.

The Jets led 21-3 at halftime, but the Lions came back with a 48-yard bomb from Gary Danielson to Mark Nichols in the third-quarter to pull to within 21-10. Detroit then had a chance to make a game of it when Todd fumbled after being sacked and the Lions Stan White fell on the ball at the Jets 1 yard line.

"We never had more walk-throughs over the goal line in short-yardage situations in our life. But, we fumble when we get in a game."

Todd, taking advantage of Detroit's attempt to cover Walker man-on-man with defensive back Wayne Smith, completed 23 of 32 passes for 384 yards.

Clark said, "I don't know how to start on a night like this, but the defensive secondary is not a bad place.

After spotting Detroit a 3-0 lead on a 31-yard first-period Eddie Murray field goal, the Jets took the lead for keeps at 12:51 of the opening quarter on a 1-yard run by Dwight Crutchfield that capped a 63-yard, seven-play drive.

Walker caught five for 164 yards and the fleet, shifty wide receiver turned three of them into touchdowns of 56, 41 and 19 yards — all against the hapless Smith.

Clark said, "I don't know how to start on a night like this, but the defensive secondary is not a bad place.

Todd and Walker teamed up for two TDs in the second quarter and the 19-yarder in the fourth.

"We were just trying to take advantage of what Detroit was giving us and that was the short pass," said Jets Coach Walt Michaels.

Herd sophs nip Canyon

BORGER — Mike Scott averaged just over 15 points a game to lead Hereford's sophomores to a third-place finish in the Borger Junior Varsity basketball tournament last weekend.

"In the win against Pampa, we were in front, 42-22, after three quarters, and had played 14 kids," Lantelme noted. "We hurt them with a press, and ran a variety of defenses at them."

After losing Borgers's JV in their first game of the tournament, the Herd sophs came back to bounce the Borger sophomores, 53-42, then captured the third-place trophy with a 50-35 win over Pampa's sophomores.

Monday, the sophomores improved their record to 3-2 by edging Canyon, 50-48, on the road. Earlier, Canyon had won by nine points.

Scott, who scored 11 points in the loss to Borger's JV, led the way with 20 against the Borger sophomore and tossed in 11 in the game against Pampa.

Allison tossed in 16 points and yanked down 20 rebounds to lead the way. Stephan added 11 points and pulled down seven caroms, while Bunch had 10 points and six rebounds.

"Borger has us outmanned pretty good in the first game of the tournament," coach Bobby Lantelme said.

"We led by nine points at halftime, and by 11 going into the final period," Lantelme noted.

"But, we came back and played pretty well in the other two games."

"But in the fourth period we were 0-of-6 from the free-throw line, and Canyon was able to get back in the game. They outscored us, 17-8, in the quarter, but we were able to hold on.

Red Sox trade Lansford to A's for Armas, Newman

HONOLULU (AP) — Owner Roy Eisenhardt said over the weekend that he intended to rebuild the Oakland A's.

He started the job Monday, but it was costly. Eisenhardt traded power hitting outfielder Tony Armas to the Boston Red Sox for third baseman Carney Lansford in a five player transaction.

The deal was the first at baseball's 81st annual winter meetings. Earlier, Bowie Kuhn made his valedictory as baseball commissioner by offering six commandments for the game's future success.

The rumors, as usual were rampant with free agents Steve Garvey, Floyd Bannister and Steve Kemp still playing pick-a-team.

The Oakland-Boston deal, the A's sent catcher-infielder Jeff Newman to the Sox, and received outfielder Garry Hancock and a player to be named later.

Bill Rigney, assistant to Eisenhardt, said, "we feel we've given up one of the premier outfielders in the league for one of the top four or five players in baseball."

"This is our first step in reviving the Oakland club." Boston manager Ralph Houk said some of the flies Armas hit in Oakland would be out of Fenway Park.

Lansford, 25, hit .301 last season, while Armas, 29, posted .233, but hit 28 home runs and batted in 89.

Kuhn, the lame duck commissioner, received a standing ovation after a speech preceding the annual minor league draft in which nine players were selected.

He cautioned the owners to protect the integrity of the game, maintain it as a family membership with a recommendation for approval.

The union's 1,500 members will vote Wednesday to either approve, reject or, abstain. Results of the vote could be announced as early as Wednesday evening, Garvey said.

The vote marked the first time player reps have mustered the two-thirds majority necessary to send the tentative agreement to the

of illegal drugs will be battled at all times and at all levels of the game."

"What data I have on 1982, is no more encouraging," said Kuhn who, in effect, was fired as commissioner Nov. 1 when he failed to win the necessary votes to have his contract renewed.

Agreement likely to be ratified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agreement that ended a 57-day strike by the National Football League Players Association is "likely to be ratified" Wednesday by the rank and file, according to union chief Ed Garvey.

Garvey predicted ratification after a 19-9 Monday vote by player representatives to recommend to the full membership approval the five-year, $1.6-billion agreement.

The vote marked the first time player reps have mustered the two-thirds majority necessary to send the tentative agreement to the membership with a recommendation for approval.

The union's 1,500 members will vote Wednesday to either approve, reject or, abstain. Results of the vote could be announced as early as Wednesday evening, Garvey said.

Commissioners study three proposals for social security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the president's commission on Social Security are discussing increases in payroll taxes, cuts in benefits and pushing back the retirement age one year as ways to solve the system's problems.

One of those options — or a combination of features from all three — could be adopted when the National Commission on Social Security Reform holds its last scheduled meeting Friday, despite previous hints that the group would not make firm proposals for change.

Panel members "are talking to each other hourly," said Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., on Monday. "I don't know that we're going to finish up Friday."

In addition to ideas put forward last month by Moynihan and the other congressional Democrats on the commission, two new plans were under discussion Monday for dealing with the shortage of $150 billion to $200 billion Social Security faces by the end of this decade.

Alexander B. Trowbridge, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and a commission member, said Monday night he was trying to build a consensus for a proposal that would include "rough equivalency" in reductions in benefits and increases in taxes.

Trowbridge outlined key features of his plan in an interview. They included delaying the cost-of-living increase due next year by at least three or perhaps six months, "speeding up and smoothing out" the tax increases now scheduled from 1985 through 1990 and extending mandatory coverage to federal government employees with less than five years service.

A particularly controversial feature of Trowbridge's plan would be to push back "normal" retirement age for Social Security benefits — to deal with the retirement of the "baby boom" generation in the next century — from its current 65 to 66 in the years ahead.

"We would have a lot of trouble going as far as age 68" as some have suggested, he said.

Trowbridge emphasized that neither President Reagan nor House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr. had agreed to any part of his plan. The panel must send its report to Reagan and Congress by Dec. 31.

White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III told a manufacturers association dinner hosted by Trowbridge on Monday that Reagan will not take any position on solutions to the Social Security problem until the commission makes its report.

"Any real solution is going to require bipartisan support, bipartisan effort," Baker said. "There is a lot of nervousness on both sides. There's particularly a lot of nervousness on the part of Republicans up on the Hill."

"Never cut what you can untie." Joseph Joubert

A battle over land in the Black Hills

YELLOW THUNDER CAMP, S.D. (AP) — Perspiration pouring down his naked body, Indian occupation leader Russell Means prayed softly in the holy sweat lodge. At Yellow Thunder Camp, he said, religion is a way of life.

Indians who have spent 20 months in this scenic Black Hills valley say their belief in the traditional Sioux religion is the reason for their occupation of land in the Black Hills

National Forest. They consider the Black Hills, which they call the Paha Sapa, a holy land.

Twelve miles away in Rapid City, a legal battle is now being waged in U.S. District Court to determine if the government can close the camp and evict its 35 residents. A countersuit by the Indians seeks permission to turn Yellow Thunder into a permanent, religion-based community.

The Sioux need a place to pray in the Black Hills because "This is our birth place, the graveyard of our ancestors and the center of the Universe," said Means, a 43-year-old American Indian Movement leader. He said the Lakota Sioux believe they emerged from the underground spirit world into the Black Hills millions of years ago.

"Grandfather. Great

Mystery, we beg you to stop the wasicu (Lakota for white man) from raping the sacred Mother Earth and raping her children," Means prayed, alternating between English and the Lakota Sioux language. "Give us strength to battle the wasicu."

Forty stones taken from an outside fire radiated intense heat in the sweat lodge, and Means splashed water on the stones every few minutes to fill the small round tent with steam that stung the naked flesh of its three occupants.

Some of Means' prayers were given in a rhythmic chant in the darkness of the tightly sealed sweat lodge, which stood opposite a circle of four buffalo skulls.

Means, who was raised as a Christian but became disillusioned with it in college, prayed in English for the future of the Indian people, for Yellow Thunder Camp and for whites and Indians to live together in peace and understanding.

Prayers were offered to "our Grandmother the Mother Earth," and to all living things, which Means called "all our relatives, the winged, the four-legged, our green relatives."

These prayers are said almost every day at Yellow Thunder, where the small population, living in tepees, fluctuates from week to week, said Means who took up the Lakota Sioux religion after joining AIM in 1969.

Means criticized recent court testimony by James Hanson, a white historian who said tourism promoters after World War I invented the story about the area's special meaning to the Indians.

Hanson testified Thursday in U.S. District Court that the Lakota Sioux migrated to the Black Hills about 1776, and the traditional Sioux religion never considered the Hills sacred.

Requirements eased for high-interest bank, savings account

WASHINGTON (AP) — American savers will soon have easier access to higher-interest accounts at banks and savings and loans — and they'll be able to write checks on one of the accounts.

The access approved Monday by federal financial regulators isn't totally free: Depositors will still have to come up with $2,500 and then keep the account at least that full.

But the actions by the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee should be a break for some depositors who are only moderately well off — as well as for the institutions, which will be able to use the accounts to lure money now in unregulated money market mutual funds.

Here are some of the details:

—The current minimum deposit on six-month "money market certificates" at banks, S&Ls and other institutions is $10,000. That will come down to $2,500.

—The minimum is now $7,500 for three-month certificates, and that will also come down.

That could be important for savers who have less than $7,500 to deposit. If those depositors want federally insured short-term accounts, they are now limited to passbooks or NOW accounts paying 5.25 percent or 5.5 percent. The current interest-rate ceiling for six-month certificates is 8.853 percent at S&Ls, 8.603 at commercial

Victim's friendliness led to his murder, mother feels

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — David Gregory "was just a down-home type of person," a devoted father who always was smiling, recalls a woman who worked at a Fort Worth used car lot with him.

"He was really outgoing," Kathy Miller said. "He used to bring his kids up here sometimes when he was off of work."

But if Gregory, 26, had been less friendly, he probably would not have been murdered on Dec. 14, 1976, says his mother, Norma Morrison of Dallas.

A man whom Gregory was giving a test drive kidnapped him and took him to a motel room where the man and an accomplice shot Gregory to death. They wanted to steal the car.

One of the two men convicted for the slaying, Charlie Brooks Jr., was scheduled to die before dawn today in the first Texas execution in more than 18 years.

The scheduled execution has brought a flood of memories and questions from Gregory's children, the man's widow said.

Shirley Gregory said David Jr. "remembers a lot about it. He asks us all the questions about exactly what happened. It is a little hard to try to explain."

The execution, she said, "probably would make me feel a little better."

When Brooks came to the car lot almost five years ago, on the guise of wanting to test drive the car, Gregory offered to go along because the salesman on duty was burdened with paper work, Gregory's mother says.

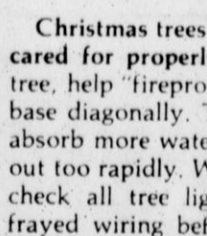

"(David) was preparing to go home. He already had the car door open. And the salesman was too busy so David said, 'Okay, I'll go.' David was like that.

Southwestern Public Service Company conserves fresh water by using reclaimed water. We buy sewage effluent (liquid sewage) from the cities of Amarillo and Lubbock, chemically treat the effluent, then use it as cooling water for our power plants. In partial exchange for this effluent, SPS also sells fresh water to the cities. Working together, SPS and the cities of Amarillo and Lubbock are making a difference in the availability and quality of one of our area's most precious resources—water.

J. R. Chafin, plant clerk, Jones Station, Lubbock.

Christmas trees can be a fire hazard if not cared for properly. Before setting up your tree, help "fireproof" it by cutting across the base diagonally. This will allow the tree to absorb more water and keep it from drying out too rapidly. When decorating your tree, check all tree lights for loose sockets or frayed wiring before placing them on the tree. And never use any lights that do not display the Underwriters' Laboratory seal. Caring for your Christmas tree properly can prevent a holiday tragedy.

The Averaged Billing Plan minimizes ups and downs in your electric bill. If you prefer to budget your bill each month, averaged billing may be for you. Using this plan, you pay a set amount each month, rather than the dollar amount of electricity actually used. This monthly rate is figured by averaging the dollar amount of your past 12 monthly bills. Contact one of our people at your local SPS office for more information about this free service.
