But, still blames U.S.

Moscow admits attack

MOSCOW (AP) — After balking for five days, the Soviet Union has acknowledged its warplanes attacked a South Korean jetliner, but it blames the United States for the loss of 269 lives.

The statement, claiming the Soviet pilots did not know the Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 was a civilian plane, was issued Tuesday shortly after tapes of their radio conversations about the aircraft were played at a United Nations Security Council meeting.

The Soviet statement, which repeated charges that the plane was on a U.S. spying mission, was carried by the Soviet news agency Tass and broadcast on the Moscow nightly television news.

The United States reacted sharply to the statement, saying the Soviet Union "continues to lie to the world" and demanded a full accounting of the tragedy.

The Soviet statement said the regularly scheduled KAL Flight 007 from New York to Seoul, South Korea, was "stopped" in compliance with Soviet law, but did not elaborate on the fate of the aircraft. It indicated the Soviet air force would act similarly in any future cases.

Justice Department approves 1981 state Senate redistricting plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A state Senate redistricting plan adopted nearly two years ago by a five-member board of Texas Democrats has been approved by the U.S. Justice Department.

The Legislative Redistricting Board adopted the plan in October 1981, after Republican Gov. Bill Clements vetoed one adopted by the Legislature in May.

The Justice Department filed a late objection to the plan, but the Dallas court left intact the redistricting board's districts for the 1982 elections.

The new plan creates two additional Senate districts with 60 percent or greater Hispanic population — in Harris County and a South Texas area including a portion of Bexar County, Mattox noted.

Dallas Republican Rep. Patricia Hill, whose law firm represented several Republicans and minorities in the redistricting case before she became a legislator, argued in June that the federal panel should re-examine the Senate plan because it was not approved by the state House of Representatives and signed by Gov. Mark White.

"It's an important achievement," Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said Tuesday.

The proposed plan, however, still faces scrutiny by three federal judges in Dallas.

A Dallas law firm that represented several Republicans and minorities in the redistricting case has asked the federal panel to reject the plan and to write its own version of 31 Senate districts.

Justice Department approval by William Bradford Reynolds, assistant attorney general for civil rights, was announced by department spokesman John Wilson on Tuesday without comment.

A state House redistricting plan was approved by the Justice Department about a month ago.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says if the do-it-yourself craze continues, it might even extend to thinking.

Adolescence is a period of rapid changes. Between the ages of 12 and 17, for example, a parent ages as much as 20 years.

Many Hereford residents got a chance to talk about something except the hot, dry weather Saturday morning in the local coffee shops. The main topic of conversation, for many, turned to the Hereford Whiteface football team.

The Herd was hit hard by graduation last May and many fans weren't too confident about the team's chances in the opening game at Pampa. But the opening 27-3 triumph posted by the Herd was a good omen for the new season under a new coach.

Many sports forecasters felt the Herd would be fortunate to win three games this season. A neutral observer could figure it that way on paper, but the games are decided on the gridiron. One game does not make a season and the Whitefaces still have nine tough games, but they sure kicked off the season on a bright note under new mentor Jerry Taylor!

Statistics never tell the whole story on any subject. A report that the poverty rate last reached 15 percent has caused great alarm in some quarters—especially the liberal do-gooders who want more of our tax money to go into government programs to end poverty.

The recession was one factor last year, with the unemployment rate (as determined by government bureaucrats) rising to 10.8 percent. The rate has now dropped, hopefully indicating that better times are on the way.

The way the government measures the poverty level has something to do with the number in that category, too. The measuring stick does not include non-cash benefits such as food stamps and Medicare. Another meaningful statistic shows that 45 percent of poverty families last year were headed by women. The so-called War on Poverty has apparently run off some men who decided the welfare system could provide better than they could.

Those who fall below the poverty level have increased every year since 1973. It now seems unlikely that the collective wisdom of Washington will determine why, despite years of spending half the federal budget on income transfers, the number of people on the poverty rolls has not been reduced. As long as we pay people to be poor, we will have no shortage of poor people.

Americans protest plane incident

Longshoremen refused to unload a heavily guarded Soviet freighter, states banned Soviet vodka sales, and 11-year-old Samantha Smith called the destruction of a Korean passenger jet "really horrible," as thousands mourned the flight's 269 victims.

The freighter, the target of threats since Korean Air Lines Flight 007 was gunned down over Sakhalin Island on Thursday, docked Tuesday at San Pedro, Calif.

"Local 13's position is that we will not work the Russian vessel at berth 178," said a dispatcher with the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union who declined to give her name.

About 250 protesters picketed as the freighter Novokuibyshevsk, anchored three miles offshore since Friday because of an anonymous telephone threats, entered Los Angeles Harbor with a Coast Guard escort.

In Dunellen, N.J., thousands attended a memorial service for Ray Petroski, a 36-year-old postal clerk who was one of 61 American citizens killed in the attack. Soviet officials admitted Tuesday destroying the plane, but said they thought it was a spy plane.

One mourner, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., urged that U.S. ports be closed to Soviet vessels and that other nations join in an embargo on Soviet landing rights until the Soviets apologize and pay reparations to the families of the victims.

"Let the Soviets keep their ballet dancers and cultural delegations," Rinaldo said.

U.S. may boost Lebanon forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says that not only does it intend to maintain the 1,200-man Marine force in Lebanon, but is prepared to send in reinforcements if U.S. troops continue to come under attack.

Reacting to the deaths of two more Marines on Tuesday, White House spokesman Larry Speakes warned that the "considerable firepower" of American forces poised offshore could be brought into play if necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Marines in Lebanon will "just try to improve their defensive positions, and, of course, they are firing back. They are firing back from their own positions and they are firing back from our offshore naval units."

However, a Navy official who declined to speak for attribution, said later that U.S. troops continue to come under attack.

He was referring to a heavily armed amphibious force carrying 2,000 additional U.S. Marines that was headed for the Lebanese coast.

On the importance of maintaining the U.S. role in trying to contain fighting among Lebanese factions, Speakes said, "Should this multinational force pull out, there's a distinct possibility of a reinstatement of full-scale war in Lebanon."

He said there are no immediate plans to send ashore the newly arriving contingent, which is armed with M-60 tanks, amphibious troop carriers, 105mm howitzers, 81mm mortars, various anti-tank missiles and 60mm machine guns.

But he added: "They are there to indicate that if there are difficulties involving our Marines that we do have considerable firepower offshore that would be able to step in."

Sante Fe will close offices

The Railroad Commission of Texas has granted Santa Fe Railway authority to close the agencies at Hereford, Kings Mill, Panhandle, Friona, Bovina, Etter, Stratford, Canadian, Dumas and Pampa and consolidate their functions at Amarillo. Implementation will commence Sept. 12.

Santa Fe has designated Amarillo a regional freight office (RFO), with jurisdiction over all operating and accounting functions for shippers in the affected area. Canadian, Pampa, Dumas and Hereford will remain open as regional yard offices and will continue to handle operating functions. C.D. (Charlie) Gardner has been named manager of the Amarillo RFO.

The Amarillo RFO will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Out-of-town customers will have access to customer service by calling a toll-free number, 1-800-692-1330, for assistance.

The change is designed to improve service to Santa Fe customers," D.P. Valentine, general manager Western Lines, Amarillo said. The implementation of a system-wide computer system has made the RFO concept feasible.

"Improvement in service will come through the combined use of computers and around the clock toll-free telephone service at the Amarillo office," Valentine explained. "The one-man agencies were open only eight hours a day, five days a week which often delayed shippers' access to freight information."

The Amarillo office will have direct access to Santa Fe's central computer at Topeka, Kans. "This will enable the customer service representative to respond quickly to our customers' questions about rail car supply and locations," Valentine explained.

The railroad is in the process of making the shift to regional offices systemwide.

While strong thunderstorms brought golf ball-size hail to the eastern section of the Panhandle, and Amarillo reported wind gusts of up to 46 mph, the city of Hereford got 2.3 of an inch of rain late Tuesday and during the early morning hours today.

Meanwhile, a flash flood watch was posted before dawn today for most of the upper coastal plains due to heavy storms in that area. Five inches of rain was dumped on Port Arthur Tuesday before heavy storms became more scattered during the night.

But, heavy showers redeveloped before dawn in that area over the adjacent waters from Fresport to Galveston to near Palacios. According to the KPAN radio station, there is a 20 percent chance of additional showers in the Hereford area through tonight.

Image of Virgin causes crowds

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Leonard Garcia says he's not a non-believer.

straight night yelled for the floodlights to be shut off.

"We just want some peace and quiet," he said Tuesday before turning on floodlights that made a purported image of the Virgin Mary disappear from an outside wall of a house where crowds had gathered for almost a week.

A half-dozen police were visible and others were standing by in case a disturbance resulted.

"What we fear the most is the aftermath," said Garcia, son of Angie Gutierrez, on whose house the image had appeared.

Mary Ibarra, the next-door neighbor whose son first saw the image last week, insisted Tuesday night that the Blessed Virgin would appear in some form despite the blaze of floodlights aimed on the wall.

Garcia's stepfather, Candelario Gutierrez, put up two floodlights donated by neighbors in hopes the disappearance of the image would have the same effect on crowds which have swarmed to the neighborhood for nearly a week.

Hundreds of people showed up again Tuesday to see the image, which was first reported last Wednesday. The image was created by a neighbor's porch light reflecting off the rear bumper of a 1975 Chevrolet.

After the floodlights went on and the image disappeared Tuesday night, groups broke into prayer and song, apparently trying to make the image reappear.

Two dead following tugboat fire

HOUSTON (AP) — Two people were killed today when fire broke out aboard a tugboat moored at a Houston Ship Channel dry dock, the Coast Guard said.

The tug, known as The Midnight Alaska, caught fire about 3 a.m., said Bryan Binney, Coast Guard duty officer. The blaze, which apparently originated in the galley, also damaged the boat's living area and pilot house, Binney said.

The victims' names were withheld pending notification of relatives. No other injuries were reported.

The fire was brought under control about 5:20 a.m. by Port of Houston firefighters and units from the Houston Fire Department, Binney said. No damage was reported to other vessels or dock facilities, according to the Coast Guard.

Coast Guard investigators planned to check out the cause of the fire, Binney said.

Soviet search boats doubled

WAKKANAI, Japan (AP) — The number of Soviet vessels operating where a South Korean airliner was shot down last week nearly doubled today, the Maritime Safety Agency said, raising speculation they may have found wreckage or bodies.

The deputy director of the agency office in Wakkanai, Hiroshi Kishima, said 13 Soviet boats — nearly two times the number seen in the area before today — were observed searching waters northeast of Moneron Island, west of Sakhalin Island. He said an Ilyushin reconnaissance plane also was observed.

"They may have found something, but we have no way of knowing," Kishima said. The Soviets have banned outsiders from searching the area.

The waters in the area are too deep for divers to operate, Kishima said, though the exact depth of the water is unknown because it is in Soviet territory. Other safety agency officials speculated the Soviets may be using nets or underwater vessels in their search for fragments of the plane.

With the Soviet Union and Western governments differing in their account of what happened before the plane went down, the airliner's "black box" flight recorder might provide a record of any communications from the KAL pilot.

Kishima said Japan's Foreign Ministry has received no report from the Soviets on any progress in their search and rescue operations.

Two injured in plane crash

PELL CITY, Ala. (AP) — A Texas pilot broke both ankles and suffered head injuries when his single-engine plane crashed during takeoff in gusty winds at the St. Clair County Airport.

A spokesman at University of Alabama Hospitals in Birmingham said the pilot, Carlin Johnston, 44, of Austin, Texas, was in fair condition Tuesday.

The plane's passenger, Judith Carpenter, 46, of Austin, was treated at St. Clair County Hospital for minor injuries from the crash Monday and was released, a hospital spokesman said.

St. Clair County Airport spokesman Chuck Lyner said Johnston had no problems landing the plane for refueling, but crashed on takeoff at 5:28 p.m. He said gusty winds apparently forced the plane to the ground at the end of the runway.

"He departed in windy conditions, and there was also some rain," Lyner said. "He just didn't make it."

A Pell City Fire Department spokesman said the plane was heavily damaged. Miss Carpenter was thrown from the plane, but Johnston was trapped inside, the spokesman said.

The two Texans were on their way to visit friends in North Carolina, the fire department spokesman said.

The Federal Aviation Administration will investigate the crash, Lyner said.

Results released on recent public opinion survey

State Rep. Bob Simpson has released the results of his recent public opinion survey concerning teachers' salaries, highway funding and taxes. The lawmaker noted that the results represent one of the largest returns he has ever received on a questionnaire. "This strong response indicates that these issues are of vital interest to the people of this area," Simpson said.

"Questionnaire results indicate that 55 percent of the people in District 86 favor some type of 'merit pay' program for teachers, while 37 percent are against such a plan and 8 percent are undecided," Simpson said. Other results reveal that 56 percent of the respondents are opposed to the Governor's 24 percent salary increase plan, while 39 percent favor the proposal.

The margin was very close on the issue of whether or not a beginning salary of $1111 per month for 10 months plus local supplements is adequate for a teacher with a bachelor's degree. 47 percent feel it is adequate, and 45 percent say it is not enough.

On the issue of highway funding, 43 percent of the respondents favor the Texas Good Roads Association's proposal to increase the state gasoline tax by 5 cents per gallon to provide additional funding for highways, potholes, and mass transportation. 49 percent do not favor raising the tax by 5 cents.

"The most overwhelming favorable response I received concerns increasing the luxury taxes on liquor, cigarettes and amusement machines. 71 percent favor increasing these taxes while only 14 percent are opposed," Simpson stated. In addition, a greater percentage favored a general sales tax increase than opposed it. 40 percent said they would support an increase in the sales tax while 36 percent would not and 24 percent expressed no opinion.

This questionnaire was sent by Simpson to seek the views of his constituents in advance of the special session Governor White has promised to call after the Select Committee on Public Education releases its report. This committee, chaired by H. Ross Perot, has been holding hearings throughout the State. At this time, meetings have been scheduled through the end of October, and the Committee is planning to issue a report by the end of the year.

Simpson said, "I believe that these results reflect a broad-based expression of the views of my constituents, and I am particularly pleased that so many people took the opportunity to let me know their views. These results will help me as I attempt to effectively represent the people in District 86."

Theory of mutual deterrence applies economically, too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The theory of mutual deterrence, usually applied in a military context, holds that each superpower forgoes attack because no matter what damage it could inflict, the other side could strike back.

In a different way, the same theory applies economically. And that is one reason for the measured, relatively mild sanctions President Reagan imposed against the Soviet Union for downing Korean Air Line Flight 007.

There wasn't much he could do in economic reprisal that would not have hurt the United States in the process of punishing the Soviet Union.

The dilemma is not a new one. But it is particularly difficult for a conservative president who has warned Moscow that aggression will bring a strong U.S. reaction.

Reagan called the jetliner attack an instance of Soviet aggression, but his reaction did not include the kind of economic sanctions that had been invoked in earlier crises.

He extended current U.S. restrictions on Soviet commercial aviation, and asked other nations to join in acting against Moscow on that front.

He suspended some diplomatic and transportation exchanges. And he urged Congress to toughen U.S. military deterrent strength.

But he did not block other avenues of trade or negotiation with Moscow, notably the new, five-year grain sales agreement. The deterrent to that is that cancellation of the $10 billion agreement probably would do more economic damage to the United States than to the Soviets.

Reagan made that argument himself as a candidate, opposing the partial grain embargo then-President Carter imposed in retaliation for the Soviet military move into Afghanistan.

The 15-month embargo, which extended into the Reagan presidency, affected about $2 billion worth of grain sales. Reagan said that put an unfair burden on American farmers, and did little harm to the Soviet Union since grain was for sale elsewhere. The embargo also cost the government money, to make up for farm losses under grain price support programs.

Reagan lifted the embargo on April 24, 1981, three months after he took office. In doing so, he said there was no weakening of U.S. determination to resist Soviet aggression.

"We will react strongly to acts of aggression wherever they take place," he said. "There will never be a weakening of this resolve."

Negotiations on new grain sales began as soon as the embargo was lifted. Reagan imposed another set of sanctions against Moscow on Dec. 29, 1981, because of the martial law crackdown in Poland. Chief among them was a ban on the sale of U.S. equipment for construction of a natural gas pipeline from Siberia to Western Europe. That drew protests from U.S. allies involved in the project, and the pipeline went ahead anyway.

The pipeline sanctions also produced political problems at home — in lost jobs because of lost business in a deepening recession.

The American firm hit hardest was Caterpillar Tractor Co., of Peoria, Ill., in the district of House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel, already wracked by severe unemployment. Michel barely won re-election in 1982 after a campaign in which the lost pipeline business was a major issue. Reagan lifted those sanctions Nov. 13, 1982, saying he did so because a new allied agreement on East-West trade would restrain commerce in items that would contribute to Soviet military or strategic interests.

Sanctions are supposed to be punishment that will change the behavior of the offender. Neither the grain embargo nor the pipeline sanctions achieved that goal, and both had adverse economic effects on the United States.

In the case of the downed airliner, the administration concluded that there were no sanctions available that would change Soviet ways.

Furthermore, there were no major economic sanctions available that wouldn't have cut both ways.

So, too, with the arms reduction negotiations — which the more conservative among Reagan supporters wanted suspended. The United States always has said such negotiations are in the national interest, and the Reagan administration is pursuing them on that basis.

In negotiation as in commerce, U.S. policy is not designed to bestow favors on adversaries or even allies.

In 1981, Trully and Engle flew the second orbital flight of the space shuttle Columbia, a five-day mission that was cut to two days when an electric power cell failed.

For shuttle flight eight, on Challenger, Trully helped to develop and test the techniques and lighting system that enabled him to land the spacecraft at night on a floodlit concrete runway at Edwards Air Force Base.

As the craft rolled to a stop in the early morning hours, Trully radioed to Mission Control, "That was fun. Let's do it again."

Announcement of Trully's new job came as a surprise, although the astronaut had hinted that he might seek a career outside NASA.

"I think there are other things in life that I could do and have fun at and succeed at," he said in a pre-mission interview. "Sooner or later I think I will not be able to fly again. I won't look at that with great remorse. I'll look back at it with a lot of fun for the times I had."

Trully is married to the former Colleen Hanner of Milledgeville, Ga. They have three children, all now grown.

South Korean consulate in Seattle, about 400 South Koreans bearing signs and flags raised clenched fists in anger against the Soviets and bowed their heads in prayer for those aboard the jet.

Members of the Korean Veterans Association then led about 50 people on a six-block march marked by shouts of "Murder Russia."

In Boston, 400 demonstrators rallied in front of historic Faneuil Hall to demand reparations for the victims. Some protesters carried large pictures of Soviet President Yuri Andropov, captioned "Wanted: For Murder of 269 Airline Passengers."

About 100 people in the group, which was sponsored by the Latvian Memorial Committee, wore black armbands and held lighted candles.

"The purpose is to come together and mourn the deceased and also perhaps provide an opportunity for all the families to get together and share their grief," said organizer Aristidis Lamberts. He said 11 of the flight's crew and passengers had ties to New England.

For young Samantha, the girl who toured the Soviet Union at Andropov's invitation after she wrote him a letter, the crisis brought back old fears of war.

She called the attack "a really horrible thing to do," and said that instead of fighting, "we should just be talking."

"If war starts, I would write again to Andropov because he promised me he would never start a war with our country," she said Tuesday from her home in Manchester, Maine.

Astronaut named head of command

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Richard H. Trully, a Navy captain whose first command was at the helm of space shuttle Challenger during a six-day mission that ended Monday, is leaving the astronaut corps to take charge of the newly-organized Naval Space Command.

In a joint announcement Tuesday, the Navy and NASA said Trully, a 45-year-old former test pilot who spent almost 18 years as an astronaut and made two space flights, will take over the Naval Space Command on Oct. 1 when the organization formally starts operations in Dahlgren, Va. He will become the first astronaut to return to naval service in the 25-year history of NASA.

Asked in a short telephone interview if it was hard to leave spaceflight, Trully said with feeling: "You bet it was."

Police report several thefts

Several items, including a saddle worth an estimated $500, were stolen last Wednesday night from the Bon Vita Company, 1200 New York, Hereford police reported this morning.

Among the other goods taken were some wrenches, two old lawnmowers and a car battery. The incident was originally reported as an open door, with the theft aspect apparently not known by police until Tuesday.

Meanwhile, $377 cash was stolen from the DeBruyn Produce Company, 135 New York, between 10:30 and 11 a.m. Friday. Police reported there is one suspect in the case.

Among the incidents police handled since Tuesday morning were one each of criminal mischief, minor theft and simple assault.

Tuesday's Brand inadvertently reported a major theft of, among several less valuable items, eight guns owned by Kenneth Helms of Hereford. The story said the crime occurred last week, though it actually happened earlier in the summer and had already been printed in the Brand.

The Naval Space Command organization was announced by Navy Secretary John Lehman on June 15 as a counterpart of the Air Force Space Command. The command will include the naval space surveillance system with headquarters at Dahlgren; the naval astronautics group at Point Mugu, Calif., and elements supporting the fleet satellite communications system.

Trully, born and raised in Fayette, Miss., earned a bachelor of aeronautical engineering degree at Georgia Institute of Technology and received a commission through the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps. He earned his Navy wings, served two tours as a carrier pilot and was appointed to the Air Force Research Pilot School at Edwards Air Force Base.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL WEBB

The sister and brother-in-law of local resident Ed Wilson Jr. were among eight people killed in a plane crash near Altus, Okla., Sunday afternoon.

A memorial service for five of the eight victims is scheduled at 3 p.m. Thursday at the First United Methodist Church of Bartlesville, Okla.

Paul U. Webb, 59, and his wife, Betty Lou Webb, 53, of Bartlesville and the other six victims were returning home to Bartlesville after attending the 75th anniversary celebration of the First United Methodist Church in Elmer, Okla. The twin-engine Cessna crashed shortly after taking off from the Altus Municipal Airport.

Another of the victims, 59-year-old Arlon Leroy Sadoris, was born in Amarillo and lived there the first eight or nine years of his life. Several of his cousins reside in the Amarillo area.

FORGETTING THE PAST
By Bob Wear

All of us probably have some difficulty with the past. There are probably some regrets; some wishing that some things could be re-done; and we may be trying to hold to some past accomplishments. It is a fact, however, that we can permit the past and the way we deal with it to be a very real handicap in the present. This is a mistake that we need not make.

If there are lessons to be learned from past mistakes or successes, we will want to learn them and remember them. If there is something we can do to correct something pertaining to the past, we will want to do this. Otherwise, we must forget the past. If we do not forget it, we may never be able to accomplish anything worthwhile in the present.

There may be some beautiful memories. Although these cannot suffice for the present, they can be permitted to become a source of strength and very good motivation for making the best of the present so there will be more happy memories. From this viewpoint, the present has its own opportunities and responsibilities and the good memories cannot be used to fill the present with successful accomplishment.

"No one should be dominated by his own past, but it is his privilege to build a better future upon such foundations as are available."—Manly Hall.

The kind of forgetting to which this writing is referring is a great blessing. We may even refer to it as "the art of forgetting," as we view it from the standpoint of its practical usefulness. In many recognizable instances, forgetting the past is the only way by which we can be effective in the present. "Life cannot go on without much forgetting."—Balzac.

When we have corrected our mistakes, those which can be corrected, accepted the reality of the others and learned our lessons; and taken encouragement and hope from our accomplishments; let us forget the past, make full use of the present and move on to the future. This is living.

Marine Corps League to form area detachment

The Armadillo Detachment of the Marine Corps League announces that Harold B. Knight, acting commandant, accompanied by members of the detachment, will conduct a meeting at the VFW Hall, Post 1475, 1401 West 8th in Amarillo at 8 p.m. on Friday.

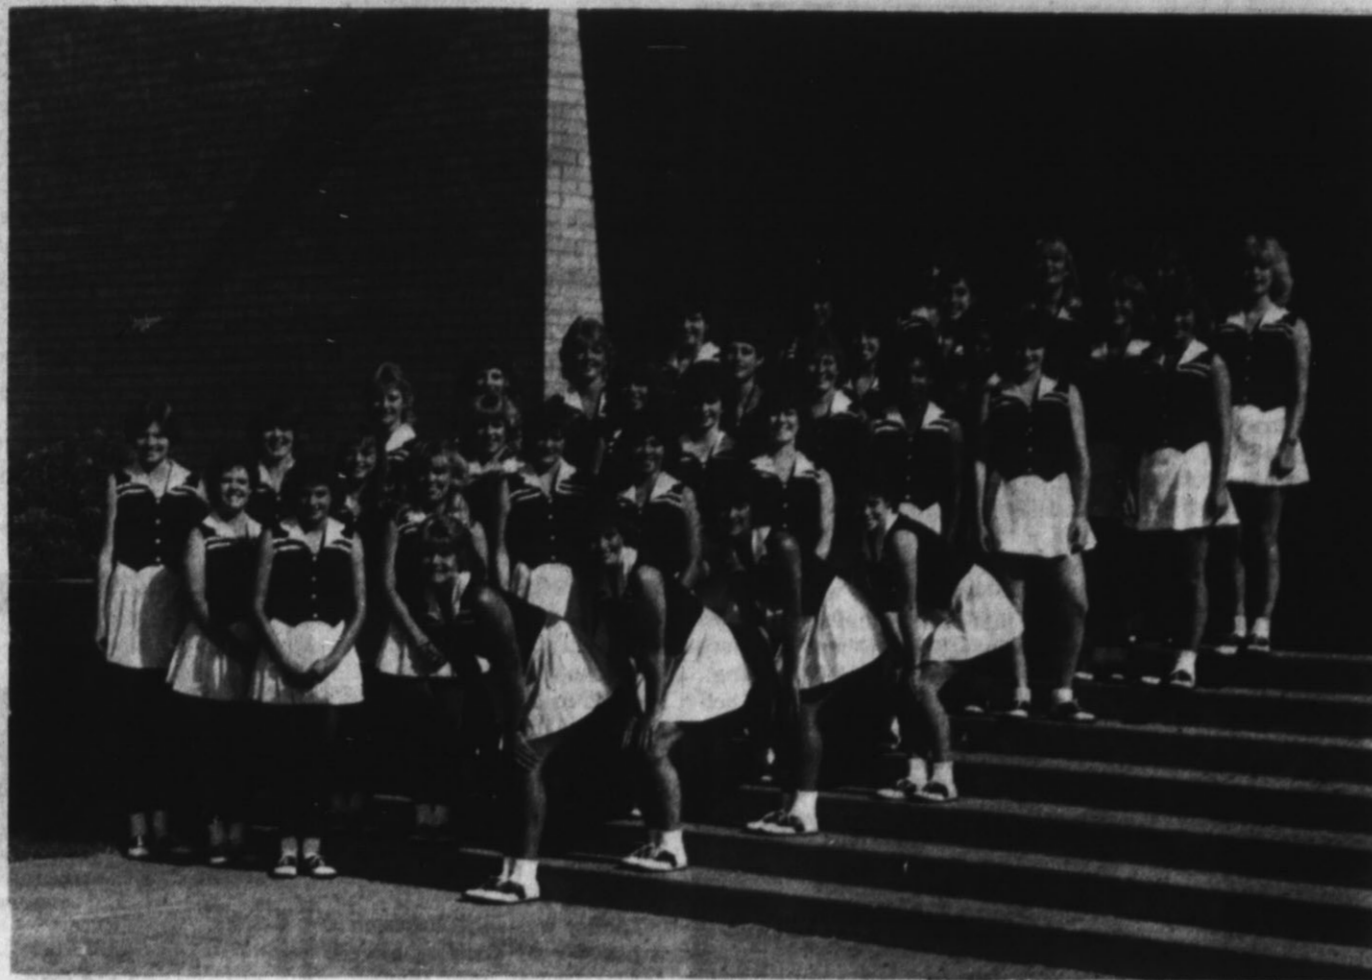

All marines and former marines are invited to attend. The Marine Corps League, one of the few veterans organizations chartered by an act of congress, was first organized in 1923. Lieutenant General John A. LeJeune, then commandant of the Marine Corps, was elected its first national commandant.

The league is comprised of marines who have honorably served or are now serving in the Marine Corps. It seeks to promote the ideals of American freedom and democracy, maintain true allegiance to American institutions and voluntarily render assistance to marines and their widows and orphans.

For more information, call (806)622-2114.

Shriver confronts Martina again

NEW YORK (AP) — They are best friends, doubles partners and two of the top players in women's tennis. It's just that Pam Shriver keeps getting in Martina Navratilova's way.

One year ago, when Navratilova was supposed to win the United States Open Tennis Championship, her pal Pam destroyed the dream in the quarter-finals.

Now Martina is supposed to win the Open again and she's advanced a step closer this time, reaching Friday's semifinal round.

And there, waiting for her again, is Shriver.

Navratilova continued her straight sets march through the tournament with a 6-0, 6-3 destruction of No. 7 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany

Tuesday. Meanwhile, Shriver, seeded fifth, upset No. 3 Andrea Jaeger 7-6, 6-3.

On the men's side of the draw, No. 2 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, No. 4 Yannick Noah of France, No. 5 Mats Wilander of Sweden and No. 9 Jimmy Arias completed the quarter-final lineup.

Lendl defeated No. 12 Johan Kriek 6-2, 6-4, 6-1; Noah eliminated 16-year-old Aaron Krickstein 6-3, 7-6, 6-3; Wilander finished Andres Gomez of Ecuador 6-2, 6-1, 6-2; and Arias won 12 straight games in the last two sets to down Joachim Nystrom of Sweden 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0, 6-0.

In the men's quarters, Arias plays Noah and Wilander meets Lendl.

Shriver and Navratilova are entered in the women's doubles tournament at the Open and reached the quarter-finals of that competition with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Carling Bassett of Canada and Ivanna Madruga-Osses of Argentina Tuesday night.

"You want to play well in doubles before you play her (in singles)," Shriver said. "Maybe she'll think you're playing great and be scared."

Navratilova, who has lost just two singles matches since Shriver beat her here last year, laughed at that. "You can't think that you better not give anything away in the doubles like 'God, I can't hit my forehand,'" she said.

All-Out Effort

Nancy Moreno, a junior at Hereford High School, leaps high to try and block a shot from an unidentified Dumas player. The visitors went on to down the Whitefaces 15-8, 15-3. HHS is slated to host Pampa Thursday, with the junior varsity contest to start at 6 p.m. in the school's gymnasium.

Volleyball club loses

Dumas erupted for 12 straight points Tuesday evening to finish off hosting Hereford High School 15-8, 15-3 in varsity volleyball action.

After dropping the first game, HHS tied the score at 3-3 before collapsing. The loss was the Whitefaces' fifth in as many outings.

In the preceding junior varsity match, Dumas High School prevailed by a 15-5, 15-1 count. The Hereford JV squad therefore dropped to 0-4 on the young season.

Regarding the varsity match, HHS head coach Sharma Smith said her squad was hurt by poor serving and serve returning.

"Our block coverage wasn't up to par," she continued. "I thought we dug pretty well. They (Dumas) had some wonderful hits.

"We hit pretty well, too. Our blocking was fair, but we've done better this year."

Ann Zevely, a senior, paced the Whitefaces in scoring with four points. Senior Shannon Evers had two while with one apiece were junior Cindy Pruitt and seniors Rosemary Castillo and Shonda White.

Hereford's two volleyball teams will next play Thursday, when Pampa comes to the HHS gymnasium. The junior varsity contest is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

'Any team can win at any time'

Landry thinks NFC East open

DALLAS (AP) — Monday night's wild shootout with the Washington Redskins gave Dallas Coach Tom Landry cause to reflect on a NFC East race that he says "looks like a wide open battle."

The Cowboys came from 20 points down to defeat the Super Bowl Champion Redskins 31-30 in the National Football League opener for both teams.

"I don't think anybody in the East will be a doormat this year," he said. "Any team can win at anytime. The records in the East may not be as good this year."

Landry said, "It's almost too early to say who will dominate the east but if you don't streak (win a number of games in a row) you won't win the division."

Landry was suffering from a heavy cold Tuesday after one of Dallas' most stirring comebacks.

"I'm not in good shape," Landry admitted.

But helping Landry's spirits was the pride his team displayed after trailing 23-3 at halftime.

"I was surprised we won because we had so far to come," said Landry.

"It's one of the great things in football or sport when you achieve something that looks impossible. What we accomplished took a lot of pride.

"When you are getting kicked around, you've got to show some character."

Landry said the victory ranked at the top of Cowboy comebacks.

"This is the most points I've seen us overcome (in a half) and come back to win," Landry said.

The Cowboys were so disgusted at halftime that quarterback Danny White slammed his helmet down on the floor.

"I didn't want to say anything so I just threw my helmet," White said.

Running back Tony Dorsett said Landry appealed to the team's pride.

lockerroom (at halftime) for the field he (Landry) told us: 'This is going to show what you are all made of,'" Dorsett said.

The Cowboys must travel to St. Louis for another road game Sunday and Landry said it wasn't fair.

"The NFL should avoid that (road games) after you play on Monday night," Landry said. "We're just fortunate in that we don't have to travel too far."

Landry said of St. Louis: "The Cardinals are a hustling team. I've always had respect for them. They are after you all the time."

Landry is concerned because the Cowboys lost last year after a Monday night game when they traveled.

A Great Idea!

Padres trim Dodger's lead

Rookies, reserves keep Pirates near top of NL East

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

When it gets to pennant race time, the Pittsburgh Pirates usually rely on their veterans.

For now, though, rookies and reserves continue to keep the Pirates near the top of the National League East.

Rookie Lee Tunnell threw a three-hitter, extending his string of shutout innings to 28, and reserve Jim Morrison homered as Pittsburgh beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0 Tuesday night.

The Pirates are one percentage point behind first-place Montreal in the jumbled division scramble. Philadelphia is in third, one-half game behind, and the fourth-place Cardinals are just 1½ games back.

"We needed a good ballgame," said Tunnell, whose team had lost three in a row, including a doubleheader sweep by the Cardinals the previous night. "I'm just happy I did what I was supposed to do."

Ken Oberkfell was the only

St. Louis batter who figured out Tunnell, 8-5. Oberkfell singled three times for the only hits off the right-hander.

"It was too much Tunnell and not enough Obies, right?" commented Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog.

In other NL games, Montreal bounced Chicago 8-2, Philadelphia beat New York 2-0, San Diego downed Los Angeles 8-3, Cincinnati routed San Francisco 11-1 and Houston at Atlanta was rained out.

Tunnell's 110-pitch effort resulted in his second shutout of the season. It was his third complete game.

The 22-year-old pitcher, who pitched seven shutout innings in his last start, admitted that his concentration occasionally drifted from the mound and the St. Louis batters.

"I was just thinking that if I weren't here I'd be making $1,200 a month teaching school," said Tunnell, who was a secondary education major at Baylor University.

"I'm just grateful for the chance to play."

Morrison got a rare start in place of Pittsburgh's regular third baseman, Bill Madlock, who suffered a torn tendon in his left calf Monday night. Morrison responded with his fifth home run in the fourth inning off John Stuper, 9-10, and an RBI groundout in the sixth.

Expos 8, Cubs 2

Manny Trillo went 4-for-4, including a home run and two doubles, and drove in four runs to pace host Montreal.

Trillo's RBI double triggered a three-run first inning. He drilled his second homer of the season in the second inning, and Andre Dawson followed with his 29th home run.

Dawson's blast, off Dick Ruthven, 11-11, gave him 100 runs batted in this season.

Charlie Lea, 14-8, won his seventh straight game, tying a team record for consecutive victories by a starter set by David Palmer. Lea allowed four hits in six innings. Scott Sanderson finished up for his first save, which was the second of his career.

Chicago's Leon Durham tore ligaments in his thumb trying to field Trillo's double in the first inning and is expected to be out of action for three weeks.

Phillies 2, Mets 0

The game in New York featured a matchup of rookie pitchers — Tony Ghefl of Philadelphia, making the second start of his career, and Ron Darling of New York, making his major-league debut.

Ghefl gave up five hits in 4 1-3 innings and did not get a decision. Reliever Tug McGraw went 2 2-3 innings to get the win and Al Holland got his 18th save as the three Philadelphia pitchers combined on a seven-hitter.

Darling struck out five of the first seven batters he faced, and went 6 1-3 innings in taking the loss. He gave up just one run — a bizarre one — and five hits before leaving with a pulled left hamstring.

The Phillies scored in the fourth when Joe Morgan walked, took second on a groundout and came home as Darling balked twice while Mike Schmidt was batting.

Two errors by third baseman Hubie Brooks in the eighth inning led to Philadelphia's other run.

Padres 8, Dodgers 3

San Diego won for the seventh straight time in Los Angeles, trimming the Dodgers' lead in the NL West to one game over Atlanta.

Terry Kennedy drove in four runs with a home run and two singles and Luis Salazar also homered to lead San Diego. Tony Gwynn of the Padres singled to extend his hitting streak to 16 games.

Winner Ed Whitson, 4-7, gave up seven hits in pitching his second complete game of the season. He yielded only two hits in the first five innings.

R.J. Reynolds' first major-league hit, a three-run homer in the sixth, accounted for the Dodger runs.

Rick Honeycutt, 2-2, took the loss, the third consecutive defeat for Los Angeles.

Reds 11, Giants 1

A crowd of 3,562 at Candlestick Park saw San Francisco shortstop Darrell Evans make two errors that led to six unearned runs.

Dann Bilardello and Paul Householder each drove in three runs, pinning the loss on Atlee Hammaker, 10-9. Bilardello belted a solo homer, his sixth, while Householder had a three-run double.

Evans' first error led the way to four unearned runs in the second inning. His second miscue came during a three-run seventh.

The Reds scored their 11 runs on just eight hits.

Bruce Berenyi, 7-14, pitched 5 1-3 scoreless innings before Rich Gale finished up for his first save.

Kittle's homer keeps Chicago going; Twins top Texas in 10

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Comiskey Park in Chicago is not necessarily known as a home run paradise. It just seems that way when Greg Luzinski and Ron Kittle bat.

Luzinski has already hit three roof-top jobs in left field at Comiskey this season. And Tuesday night, Kittle hit the roof to help the American League West leaders beat the Oakland A's 7-6.

"It was only a matter of time," said Luzinski of Kittle's spectacular shot. "He hit the facing up there earlier this year. With his power and stroke, if he gets a pitch in the right spot, he can hit it a long way."

Kittle homered in his fifth successive game. The blast was the 32nd of the year for the White Sox rookie and he became only the 20th player in the 73-year history of Comiskey to hit a ball on or over the roof. Only Luzinski, Ted Williams and Jimmy Foxx have done it more than once.

"I knew it was out the moment I hit it, it was only a question of whether it would stay fair or not," said Kittle. "I've been feeling comfortable at the plate, I've regained my confidence and I made it count."

In other AL action, it was Baltimore 8, Boston 1; Milwaukee 6, New York 3; Toronto 6, California 4; Minnesota 5, Texas 3 in 10 innings and Seattle 3, Kansas City 1. Rain washed out the Detroit-Cleveland game.

Kittle's homer, his sixth in the last seven games, came in a two-run third off loser Chris Codiroli, 12-10.

In Arlington, Darrell Brown delivered a run-scoring single in the 10th inning to lead Minnesota over Texas and snap a five-game losing streak.

Reliever Ron Davis earned his fourth victory against seven losses while Ranger starter Frank Tanana took his seventh loss against as many victories.

Tim Teufel led off the 10th with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and came home with the game-winner on Brown's single. John Castino followed with a single off Ranger reliever Victor Cruz and Gary Ward brought Brown home with a sacrifice fly.

Ann Landers Rape or seduction?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read a column of yours that took the weight of the world off my shoulders. All these years I have been carrying around guilt—needlessly. And then you wrote, "Yes, it is possible for a female to rape a male."

When I was 16 my 21-year-old cousin came to live with us. She couldn't get along with her mother and my parents offered her housing for her last year in college. The first night we were home alone she came into my bedroom with hardly anything on and offered to show me some "wrestling holds." Before I knew it my clothes were off and you can guess the rest.

I have felt rotten about that incident ever since, but your statement convinced me I was raped. Thank you and God bless—No Signature, Just Grateful

DEAR G.: It sounds as if you were seduced, not raped, but regardless of the language, your cousin did indeed take advantage of you. I'm glad you feel better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Another insulting gift from my sister-in-law arrived today for our son's 10th birthday. It was an outfit she had received for her own son's birthday. He is three years older so, of course, it didn't fit.

"Lottie" is notoriously cheap. I am getting sick of receiving secondhand, rewrapped, worn, tarnished, faded and stale gifts from this woman. She is not hard up. There is no reason she can't send something decent.

My husband says, "It's the thought that counts. Thank God we don't NEED anything." I say there is very little sentiment attached to a gift that was intended for someone else. I would like to send back this last "donation" and tell her exactly how I feel. What do you say, Ann?—Rather Having Nothing

DEAR RATHER: If you want to have a miserable relationship with Lottie from here on in, go ahead and return the "donation." If I were you, I'd give all her gifts to Goodwill or the Salvation Army. Consider "Gloria Greatheart" the family joke and laugh it off.

The next letter may be of interest to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday our oldest child celebrated her ninth birthday. Her grandmother sent a clock radio, a camera, a set of sheets and pillow cases, a bathing suit, shorts and a jersey, two books and $10 in cash.

This sort of thing happens every year. Christmas is worse. I have repeatedly asked my mother-in-law not to spoil our children this way—explaining it is not healthy for them to be bombarded with luxuries. She pays no attention.

Another problem that has resulted from her wild generosity: I can't think of anything to buy the girls because I know whatever I select will look like nothing compared to Grandma's gifts.

Can you come up with a solution that would be far to all?—Embattled In Barrington

DEAR EM: It should be obvious by now that you are not going to curb your mother-in-law's compulsive gift-giving. Tell the children they may select the gift they like best and the remaining gifts are going to the children's ward in a hospital.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The Chamber Singers will begin regular rehearsals at 8 p.m. Sunday.

For more information about auditions, contact Bill Devers, director, at 364-4053.

Show us someone who can laugh at his troubles and we'll lay odds the woe is on the order of how to find a brief case large enough to hold his money.

By the time you get it all down on paper, they'll have switched-over to computer storage of information.

Auditions set Sunday

Auditions for Hereford Chamber Singers will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Hereford High School choir room. Anyone interested in becoming a part of the community choir is welcome to audition. No prepared pieces

New Arrivals

The Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Parsley announce the arrival of their son, Jared Kyle, born Aug. 18. He weighed 9 pounds, 7 ounces.

The White House, with grounds covering 18 acres, is part of the National Park System.

ENSIGN AND MRS. STEVE BARRATT
...nee Karen Sue Sharp

Granddaughter of local residents is married

Ensign and Mrs. Steve Barratt are at home in Misawa, Japan, after an Aug. 13 wedding in Tobin Park United Methodist Church, El Paso. Mrs. Barratt is the former Karen Sue Sharp.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip D. Sharp of El Paso and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. James W. Barratt of Fallon, Nev. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sharp and Mrs. Verna Sowell of Hereford.

The maid of honor was the bride's twin sister, Sharon Sharp of Lubbock. Louis King of El Paso served as best man.

Other attendants were Kathy Sobities of Abilene, Cheryl Sharp, sister-in-law of the bride from Kansas City, Mo., Suzy Cleve of El Paso, and groomsmen, Abejoe Peralta, Bill Sallee and David Randolph of El Paso, Gregg Sharp, brother of the bride from Kansas City, Mo., Bill Thomas of Dallas and Danny Sobities of Abilene.

The groom works for Naval-Aviation and is an ensign in the U.S. Navy.

Guests are welcomed to dance

Guests from Clovis, N.M., were welcomed by members of the Good Timers Square Dance Club at their regular Friday night dance in the Hereford Community Center. The group danced to caller Scott Turner.

The trouble with TV anchors is that so many of them have loose chains.

The length of the fish increases by geometric proportion to the number of times the telling of its taking is told.

The Good Timers will begin square dance lessons at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 12, with a pie supper. The lessons will be held in the Community Center and Turner will be the instructor.

Everyone interested in learning to square dance is welcome. For further information, contact Forrest McDowell at 578-4390.

TV star to appear in Country Squire Comedy

Tom Hallick

Tom Hallick, dynamic personality from the television series, "The Young and the Restless," will be in Amarillo beginning Tuesday, Sept. 13, to appear onstage at Country Squire Dinner Theatre in the comedy, "Send me no Flowers."

Hallick's audience appeal and magnetism have made him into one of television's most popular stars. For five years he starred as Brad Elliot in the CBS daytime series, "The Young and the Restless," and he has received Best Actor awards from two television magazines for his daytime TV roles.

The handsome actor has guest starred in many major television shows, including "The Love Boat," "Hart to Hart," "The Greatest American Hero," and "Simon and Simon." He also starred in Irwin Allen's "The Time Travelers" and in the mini-series, "The Return of Captain Nemo."

Last season on TV he hosted "Entertainment Tonight," and has just finished 80 one-half hour segments of "Loving Friends and Perfect Couples," which can be seen Tuesday and Thursday nights at 11 p.m. on "On TV." He stars in a soon-to-be released motion picture with George Kennedy entitled "The Rare Breed."

Formby honored by governing boards

Marshall Formby, member of the Hale County Hospital Authority Board of Directors, was named recipient of the 1983 Founder's Award of the Texas Association of Hospital Governing Boards (TAHGB) at its Regional Trustee Seminar Aug. 27 in San Antonio.

The Founder's Award, established in 1977, is presented annually in appreciation to TAHGB founders who have consistently demonstrated leadership and distinguished contributions to health care in Texas.

Formby was appointed to the Hale County Hospital Authority Board of Directors in 1971, and has served continuously since that time, including a two-year period as chairman of the board. During his tenure on the board, he has served as a member of numerous board committees.

He received a bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University in 1932, and a master's in journalism from the University of Texas. After attending Baylor Law School, Formby was elected county judge of Dickens, Texas, and served in that capacity for three years. He was elected state senator for the then-District 30 (Lubbock area) from 1939 until 1945 when he resigned from the Senate to join the Army and serve in World War II.

Formby was appointed to the Texas Highway Commission, and served four years as a member and two years as chairman of the commission. He now serves on the Coordinating Board of the Texas Colleges and Universities System and is an associate member of the Texas Tech Medical School Foundation.

The TAHGB is a statewide organization allied with the Texas Hospital Association. Its members represent and voluntarily serve hospital governing boards throughout Texas and are active in various types of businesses and professions. THA is the Austin-based trade association for hospitals in Texas with over 800 institutional and 4,500 personal members.

Raiders turn town into 'war zone'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marijuana-hunting lawmen have turned a tiny mountain town into a "war zone" where mothers looking for their children are stopped at gunpoint by suspicious officers, say residents complaining about the agents' tactics.

But state and federal agents trying to halt northern California's multi-billion dollar pot trade say their methods are both legal and professional. They say marijuana growers are using sophisticated defenses, sometimes booby-trapping their plantations with grenades, bear traps, dynamite and laser alarms.

"We are going to win and they are going to stop growing it," said Bill Ruzzamenti, a chief planner for Operation CAMP — Campaign Against Marijuana Planting — which authorities say will be carried on in other states if it succeeds in California.

U.S. District Judge Robert Aguilar, in San Francisco, was expected to rule today on a request for a preliminary injunction against the operation by the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws, which works to legalize marijuana.

The group sued the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, the U.S. Defense and Justice departments and the state attorney general Friday — contending the agents have violated constitutional protections against illegal search and seizure.

Since the campaign began two weeks ago, the strike force has staged 122 raids in 14 northern California counties, destroying 15,000 marijuana plants with an estimated street value of $100 million, agents said.

In Denny, a community of 150 along the New River in Trinity County, 230 miles north of here, the strike force swept through in two days, chopping tons of marijuana and hauling it off in helicopters and dump trucks. Agents said the haul consisted of 1,900 plants, mostly on public land, with an estimated value of $5.8 million.

"It felt like being in the middle of a war zone," Rebecca Sue Massett, 31, said in a declaration supporting NORML's case.

The longest vehicular tunnel in the United States is the Eisenhower Memorial Tunnel, 8,941 feet, on Route 70 in Colorado.

HOSPITALIZATION: THE LEADING CAUSES

(Source: National Center for Health Statistics)

Heart disease and malignant neoplasms (cancerous growths) are the leading reasons for hospitalization in the United States — and require the most days of hospital care. In addition, they rate No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, as causes of death.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The hubbub stirred by a grand jury's investigation of Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox's campaign finance practices has died down while the probe continues behind closed doors.

Mattox, himself, voluntarily appeared before the grand jury last week clutching an armload of documents he says will convince jurors he correctly reported some questionable campaign loans.

The effect of Mattox's testimony on jurors will remain unknown until the jury decides whether to indict him.

Following his courtroom appearance, Mattox put the final touches on a controversial state-Exxon oil lease settlement.

Mattox said South Texas multimillionaire Clinton Manges' firm should get $1.3 million of a $4 million settlement that Exxon will pay the state. The dispute involves South Texas acreage where the state has contended Exxon has operated for over 50 years without a valid lease.

Exxon had fought Manges, who owns the land, in the case. Ironically, the grand jury is probing whether some of Mattox's loans were arranged by Manges, who also contributed several thousand dollars to Mattox. The question is not whether the loans were illegal, but whether Mattox reported them correctly.

New State Laws

Meanwhile, more than 800 new state laws went into effect last week as passed by the Legislature last spring. Among them are a $200 fine for cussing in class and a $1,000 fine and year in jail for knowingly passing venereal disease.

Eliminated is the traditional blood test for newlyweds, which the law's advocates say was ineffective in tracing the disease.

The Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission now has regulatory powers over all Texas counties. Until now, over 70 counties had veto power over commission regulations.

The Railroad Commission can now impose fines of up to $10,000 a day for oil and gas drilling violations and pollutions. The Commission now also charges a special $100 fee for drilling permits which goes into a special fund to plug the many abandoned wells in Texas.

Lemon Law

Texas new "lemon law" is in effect and allows the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission to order car manufacturers to pay the consumer for a "lemon" car or replace it.

The former 18 percent minimum and 24 percent maximum interest rate on bank credit card purchases was lowered to 14 percent and 22 percent in July.

The transportation of several agricultural commodities is deregulated. Products being transported from farms and ranches to the point of first manufacture are exempt from Railroad Commission regulations.

Direct Grain Sales

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower suggested last week that Texas farmers and the Mexican government would both benefit from direct grain sales between one another.

Texas farmers could sidestep the major international grain traders who have a monopoly on the business and make more money selling the grain themselves directly to Mexico. Mexico could benefit from cheaper grain prices.

Returning from a visit to Mexico last week, Hightower said officials there are interested.

New MAD Chair

The battle was serious enough to cause some members to speculate if the rift could ever heal, but last week Texas Mexican-American Democrats elected a former farmworker as new chairman.

Juan Maldonado, now a Rio Grande Valley school counselor, survived a credentials committee battle to topple long-time activist Richard Moys of Austin, a county commissioner.

The group is now intent on healing inner wounds which might hamper the political muscle it has acquired.

About man-beast confrontations

Yellowstone officials concerned

By ROBERT C. UNRUH
Associated Press Writer
YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Its geysers, mountains, rivers and thousands of wild animals attract 2.5 million tourists annually. But the rules for Yellowstone National Park say look from a distance, and never, ever touch the animals that populate the park.

More and more tourists aren't following the rules, and confrontations between man and beast are a growing worry for Yellowstone officials.

In July, a French tourist was gored by a bison bull when he tried to have his picture taken with the shaggy creature. Alain Jean-Jacques Dumont suffered a ruptured stomach, damaged spleen and colon and four broken ribs. He died Sept. 2 in a Salt Lake City hospital.

It was the first fatality at the park involving a bison in 11 years and only the second since the park opened in 1872, authorities at Yellowstone said.

"It is a matter of some concern that park visitors are simply not sufficiently aware that wild animals are ... not the docile little creatures depicted in cartoons, television shows and movies," said Duncan Morrow, a park service official.

The most frequent cause of death in the nation's 334-unit national park system which attracts 245 million people annually is automobile accidents, followed by drownings and falls. But anytime humans and animals come in close proximity, there can be problems.

"If Uncle Fred and Aunt Martha were to put their grandson up on a cow on somebody's farm, they run the risk of injury," said Mike Baugher, a public information officer for the National Park Service's Denver office.

Of the three bison incidents in Yellowstone this year, the first involved a German tourist who got too close and was knocked down. Two days later the same animal gored a visitor from Colorado.

"There is a great tendency of people not to realize that it is the human who is the visitor in the animal's natural habitat, rather than the reverse," Morrow said.

A change in policy in the late 1960s that closed dumps in Yellowstone cut the number of incidents involving bears and humans by 90 percent.

For years before that bears caused injuries and some fatalities in national parks, especially in Yellowstone where they begged at car windows and scavenged campgrounds for morsels. From the 1930s, four or five dozen incidents were reported each year, according to the Park Service.

But in the 1970s as the bears moved into more remote areas, tourists' attentions turned toward buffalo, elk and moose, all of which are "wild, unpredictable and potentially dangerous," according to a special brochure given to passengers in each entering vehicle.

Joan Anzeimo, a Yellowstone spokeswoman, said statistics for bear incidents over the last five years have remained virtually static at the park — at one to two minor injuries per year. Although statistics are not kept for everything, she said other types of incidents have followed the same pattern.

But she did predict more problems in the future, as more and more visitors crowd into wilderness areas made smaller and smaller by encroachment of neighboring developments.

"As visitation increases and as it becomes rarer and rarer for people to see animals in a wild situation, the greater the potential," she said.

Still, there are bear incidents. On June 25, 23-year-old William May of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., was camping in the Gallatin National Forest, just outside of Yellowstone, when a bear dragged him from his sleeping bag and mauled him to death. The bear was trapped and destroyed.

A female grizzly bear, caught rummaging through garbage outside the Yellowstone Park limits this summer, was captured for research and will be put to death because there is nothing else to do with her, Montana wildlife Director James Flynn said last month.

Officials said the bear had no history of violent behavior but authorities worry that as a mother with two cubs, the bear could eventually attack an unwary tourist. And park officials say the animal was teaching its cubs to forage in dumps. Morrow said that most injuries still caused by people who do not give the wild animals a wide enough berth.

"My car weighs less than a fair number of the larger wild animals that are present in big Western parks," he said. "The average visitor has no doubt he will not stand (in the way) of a car. They don't understand these larger animals ... can do a great deal of damage."

Lifestyles now factor in death

HOUSTON (AP) — Although infectious diseases used to be a major cause of death in the United States, the current leading causes of death are a result of our lifestyles, authorities say.

"Most health problems now are what people do to themselves," said Harrold Patterson, an official of the Bureau of State Health Planning and Resource Development.

Patterson was in charge of a statewide study of Texans' living habits, called the Texas Behavioral Risk Factor Survey — part of a 24-state study compiled by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Texans exercise more and drink less alcohol than most of their counterparts in some other states, the study concludes.

Nearly six of 10 Texans participate in physical exercise at least weekly. About 17 percent said they never participate in at least light physical activity such as dancing, golfing or gardening.

Texas men are heavier than the average American but think they are thinner. Texas women are slimmer but think they're fatter, the study shows.

"What happened is a lot of women feel they are overweight and they aren't according to charts. It's just the opposite with men," Patterson said.

Of the states where similar surveys have been conducted, California is the "slimmest" state.

Cosell apologizes for calling receiver 'monkey'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sportscaster Howard Cosell, acknowledging that he referred on the air to Washington Redskins wide receiver Alvin Garrett as "that little monkey," has apologized for it and says the remark was "not remotely connected to racism."

show, "a little monkey" is what he calls his own grandson.

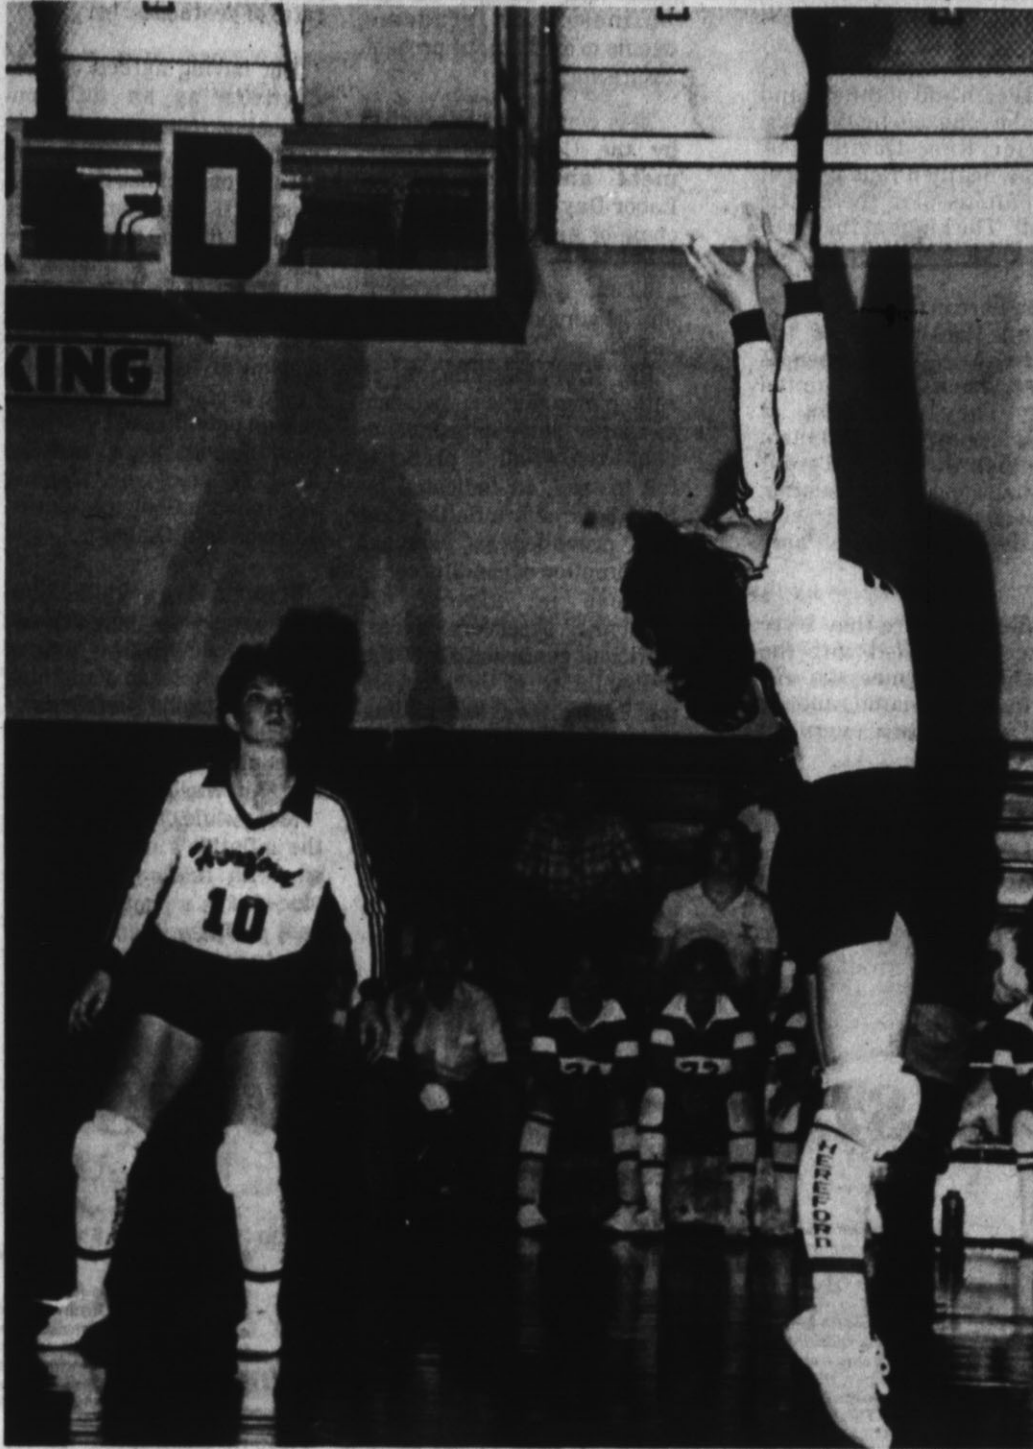

The Rev. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Tuesday night that Cosell had called him to apologize for using the term during ABC's telecast Monday night of the game between the Redskins and the Dallas Cowboys.

reflected a thought" and said Cosell "ought to be man enough to big enough to say 'I said it and I'm sorry.'" He was also critical of the "absence of blacks" on TV crews.

said to the public," said Lowery, who said Cosell promised to send him a tape of the radio program. "If he said what he said to me, I'm satisfied."

about me in the broadcast last night. Matter of fact, I am pleased that he singled me out for such favorable attention."

"Jack Roosevelt Robinson was the greatest influence of my life," he said. "We worked together in the black ghettos of New York."

Zevely Sets

With senior Shonda White watching, Ann Zevely attempts a set Tuesday evening for Hereford High School's varsity volleyball squad. The senior's effort did not prevent the Whitefaces from losing to visiting Dumas 15-8, 15-3.

During a replay of a Garrett pass reception in the second quarter, he said Washington Coach Joe "Gibbs wanted to get this kid and that little monkey gets loose, doesn't he?"

Lowery, who said at a Tuesday news conference Cosell's comment "was a slip that

Tuesday night, Lowery said Cosell had called him and "told me over the phone that he regretted using the word and assured me and millions of people that he did not use the word in a derogatory fashion."

Cosell was supported both by Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke said the team's management was "flabbergasted at the furor raised" over the comment and Garrett. The receiver said in a statement issued by the Redskins:

Cosell said in his broadcast: "I respect and admire Alvin Garrett. I was bragging on him with affection and I used a word I use when playing with my own grandson."

He also noted that he had spoken out for black managers, coaches and front office personnel in football and basketball and against holding boxing cards in South Africa because of the country's apartheid policies.

Lowery said he received several calls Monday night from blacks who were upset by the remark. ABC affiliates around the country also said they received some calls from viewers complaining about the comment.

"There was not exactly a public outcry," said sportscaster John Buren of WSB-TV, the ABC affiliate in Atlanta.

"Amazingly enough, I think it slipped right by most people," Buren said. "Either that or they didn't take offense. You know what he was trying to say, he just said the wrong thing."

Bizarre play highlights college openers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Was it a touchdown or wasn't it? Only the officials knew for sure.

The college football season has just begun and it promises to be another wacky one if the Arizona-Oregon State game is any indication.

Early in the game, Oregon State's Charles Stempeck dropped back to punt but dropped the snap. When he picked it up and tried to kick the ball, several Arizona players were on top of him and blocked the punt at the OSU 17-yard line.

Arizona's Byron Evans grabbed the ball at the 7, headed for the corner of the end zone and was knocked out of bounds at the flag.

For some reason, which no one noticed in the confusion, the ball was spotted at the 3. Arizona's Neon Edwards was stopped just short of the goal line on a dive and the Wildcats prepared for their second-down play.

Whoa! Referee Larry Thompson came over and asked Arizona Coach Larry Smith, "Did you mean to go for two points?"

"Huh?" was Smith's reaction. "I never saw a signal that we scored."

"You mean you don't know you scored a touchdown on the blocked punt?" Thompson asked. "That was your conversion try."

with three field goals and five PATs.

It wasn't the best of nights for Oregon State, which was penalized three times for having too many defensive players on the field — 12 once, 13 another time and 15 the other.

Arizona's Tom Tunncliffe even completed an 11-yard pass against the Beavers' 15-man defense, which press box wags referred to as a 5-5-5 alignment. Just your basic nickel defense.

Registrations underway

Registration for two YMCA fall sports programs, coed volleyball and flag football, are underway.

Those kids interested in playing football have until Friday to register and may obtain forms from any of the Hereford elementary schools or from the YMCA office in the Sugarland Mall. YMCA members will be charged $8 while non-members will owe $14.

YMCA Church Coed Volleyball League play is slated to start the week of Sept. 19, with the registration deadline set Sept. 14. Any church interested in participating is encouraged to contact the YMCA office (364-6990).

The league will feature two divisions, with the "A" competition to be held Mondays and Tuesdays while "B" teams are supposed to square off on Thursday evenings. All matches are to be contested in Shirley Elementary School's gymnasium.

"We looked at the films," Smith said the next day, "and we couldn't find any official who signaled a touchdown."

The officials ruled that Edwards' run had to stand as a 2-point conversion attempt. The failure made little difference — Arizona romped 50-6 — except to placekicker Max Zendejas, who later tied the school record for most points in a game by kicking

The Newspaper BIBLE

A PRAYER THAT RATTLED THE RAFTERS!

As soon as they were freed, Peter and John found the other disciples and told them what the Council had said.

Then all the believers united in this prayer: "O Lord, Creator of heaven and earth and of the sea and everything in them—You spoke long ago by the Holy Spirit through our ancestor King David, your servant, saying, 'Why do the heathen rage against the Lord, and the foolish nations plan their little plots against Almighty God? The kings of the earth unite to fight against Him, against the anointed Son of God!'"

That is what is happening here in this city today! For Herod the king, and Pontius Pilate the governor, and all the Romans—as well as the people of Israel—are united against Jesus, Your anointed Son, Your holy servant. They won't stop at anything that You in Your wise power will let them do. And now, O Lord, hear their threats, and grant to Your servants great boldness in their preaching, and send Your healing power, and may miracles and wonders be done by the name of Your holy servant Jesus."

And the apostles preached powerful sermons about the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and there was warm fellowship among all the believers, and no poverty—for all who owned land or houses sold them and brought the money to the apostles to give to others in need.

Acts 4:23-35

Reasons for inflation still confuses some

NEW YORK (AP) — Beware inflation. That warning, issued day after day in myriad ways by those ubiquitous "economic observers" in government, business and academe, seems to apply to the present, future and past.

This conclusion is reached by the Commerce Department announcement on Labor Day that per capita income of Americans last year rose 5 percent to $11,107 from $10,582, an improvement almost anyone can figure to be $525.

But the calculation is rather meaningless, because in reality per capita income didn't rise at all. It probably fell instead, as indicated by the 5.8 percent inflation rate that prevailed in personal consumption expenditures.

There is, almost all economic observers agree, sufficient confusion about the probabilities of inflation in the future, without adding that of the past.

But one indicator, the rate of productivity, is generally viewed as a fairly solid barometer of things to come. If production efficiency falls, inflation ensues. If it rises, it appears to put a cap on inflation.

If that is so, there is really some good news about inflation, because second-quarter productivity rose at the relatively strong rate of 4.1 percent, double the rate of the first quarter, and the zero rates of years gone by.

But having agreed on productivity as an inflation-indicator, confusion sets in again. What makes for increases or declines in productivity? If you name fewer than a dozen reasons you haven't named a quarter of them.

Lower wage settlements and lower taxes usually improve productivity. But what role do patent laws play? And Civil Service laws, and the level of employee training and government regulation and worker attitudes?

It would take a White House conference on productivity just to clear the air—and, of course, help learn something about controlling inflation—and just such a conference is scheduled for September 22 and 23 in Washington.

Meanwhile, the search for the inflation's meaning goes on, with many people convinced it is a punishment for past profligacy, and that the way to control it is to restrain the economy.

USDA report assists American exporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — When U.S. farm exports are down, the Agriculture Department welcomes inquiries from prospective foreign buyers for just about anything — from dried eggs to pig feed.

The latest list of "export briefs" issued by USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service also shows that a buyer in Spain is interested in importing "unspecified amounts of bourbon whiskey, salad dressings and sauces."

In Thailand, a firm is interested in getting feed supplements for swine and poultry, while a prospective buyer in Sweden wants plywood.

The weekly list, issued Tuesday, also shows import interest in England for red delicious and mackintosh apples, while a buyer in the Netherlands wants honeydew melons.

Those are just some of the items that the agency's weekly report passes on to U.S. companies and individuals who might be interested in filling the orders. In this week's report, there are other bits of information intended to help American suppliers.

For example, anyone doing business in Ireland might find it useful to learn that "the government of Ireland has banned the use of many common units of measure" as it continues to adopt the metric system — the International System of Units.

Beginning on Nov. 1, the report said, a number of units of measure will no longer be permitted for labels on domestic and imported goods.

In a category of "imperial units" — many of which are terms familiar to Americans — the no-no list includes: hand, chain, furlong, nautical mile, square inch, square foot, cubic yard, bushel, hundredweight, ton, knot and horsepower.

There are other units that will be banned, too, including some that are not exactly household words in the United States, such as: kilopond, torr, stib and angstrom.

The report also included an item about an "investment mission" that will be going to Turkey on Oct. 2-13 in an effort to increase U.S. private investment in that country.

"While the mission focuses on four industry segments, the agribusiness sector is the largest segment," the report said.

The Agriculture Department also offers a service to help U.S. exporters publicize their goods in foreign markets. It is a trade letter called CONTACTS published each month and transmitted to Foreign Agricultural Service offices overseas.

The trade letter allows a U.S. supplier to advertise a product or service free of charge in a 100-words-or-less announcement. The letter is distributed by agency agricultural officers to agricultural importers in foreign countries. In addition, the monthly letter is translated into Japanese, Spanish, French, Italian and Greek.

Companies or individuals wishing to participate should contact state departments of agriculture or call 202 447-7103 for further information.

FARM NEWS

TDA cancels listing of suspect chemical

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Agriculture intends to cancel the registration of a herbicide suspected of causing the death of a farmworker near Bryan, Texas. The herbicide, known as Dinitro-3, and other similar herbicides are suspected of causing a number of serious illnesses in several states, including California, Michigan and Wisconsin as well as Texas.

TDA began investigating Dinitro-3 after Sacarais Ruiz died August 5 in a Bryan hospital after applying the herbicide to a cotton field earlier in the day. An autopsy determined that Ruiz died from acute poisoning, and the Texas Tech laboratory in San Benito is performing further tests to learn whether Dinitro-3 did in fact cause the death.

"Our investigation has revealed that deficient labeling renders this product very dangerous to human beings, especially to farmers and other agricultural workers who use it," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner

Jim Hightower. "We're taking immediate action because this stuff is dangerous. The label is not clear about the serious results of failing to wear protective clothing, nor is it clear about medical treatment for those who have come into contact with the chemical. We need to do something before anyone else is hurt or killed."

Hightower said the action on Dinitro-3 is part of a general review of pesticide and herbicide label adequacy. The Texas Department of Agriculture is also preparing a series of educational programs on chemical safety.

Adding to the concern about the herbicide is the speed of its effects. Ruiz died only five hours after reporting the first symptoms of illness, according to the TDA investigation.

Because the herbicide apparently very lethal, the TDA may begin administrative proceedings to alter the registration of the chemical from general use to limited or restricted use.

"A general-use registration does not convey to the user just how dangerous Dinitro-3 apparently is. The users need to know that this product is dangerous and must be used with great care," Hightower said.

Turkeys near mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey producers are turning out a near-record 168.7 million birds in 1983, up 3 percent from last year, says the Agriculture Department.

The preliminary estimate falls short of the record of 170.8 million turkeys raised in 1981, according to USDA statisticians.

Heavy breed turkeys were estimated at about 163 million birds, a 4 percent increase from the 1982 crop of 156 million, while light breeds were indicated at about 5.91 million birds, down 28 percent from 8.17 million last year.

North Carolina is expected to lead the nation again with an estimated 28.7 million turkeys, followed by Minnesota with 26.6 million, and California with 20.1 million. The three states produce about 45 percent of the nation's turkeys.

The department's Economic Research Service estimates that actual production of slaughtered and dressed turkeys this year may be about 2.6 billion pounds, up from 2.46 billion in 1982.

Also, the agency forecasts, the wholesale price of dressed turkey hens may average 57 to 60 cents per pound this year, compared to 60.8 cents in 1982.

Low harvest hikes prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The reduced harvest prospects because of government acreage curbs and this summer's drought have helped boost grain prices significantly, says the Agriculture Department.

It's a mixed bag of sweet and sour apples, frankly.

For a corn farmer with bins full of grain from previous crops and who is signed up in the payment-in-kind program, the price increase is good news. Or maybe the farm was in that lucky place that got a couple of inches of rain just at the right time in July and again in August.

But if his bins are empty and fields are blistered by heat — and the farmer failed to sign up in PIK for free surplus grain for reducing 1983 plantings — things might be a bit grim.

Livestock producers, particularly those who turn out grain-fed cattle and hogs, also are caught in a bind.

"Because of the smaller crops, livestock producers will be faced with higher feeding costs," says the department's Economic

Fuel costs edge up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers pay for fuel delivered in bulk to their farms are edging up again, according to the latest survey by the Agriculture Department.

In August, the average price of leaded regular gasoline at the farm was $1.23 per gallon, up a penny from July. But that was still less than the average of $1.26 per gallon in August 1982.

Diesel fuel, at an average of 99.5 cents per gallon, was up from 98.9 cents in July but still below the $1.10 reported for August of last year.

LP gas delivered to the farm was 77.3 cents, up a tenth of cent from July — but nearly 10 cents more than the average of 67.4 cents paid a year earlier, the report said.

Research Service in its latest outlook summary.

"Therefore, as cattle and hog producers adjust by reducing herds, red meat supplies will increase this fall and winter. The higher costs will affect broiler production the least."

According to USDA's price report issued last week, the national hog-corn ratio dropped to 13.6 last month from 13.9 in July. A year ago, the report said, the ratio was 26.6.

The ratio numbers express the number of bushels of corn that are equal in value to 100 pounds of live hog sold by farmers. In other words, a hog sold in August brought only enough to pay for about half the corn that it was worth a year ago.

As of mid-August, the report said hogs sold by farmers averaged $47 per 100 pounds. That was up from $43.40 in July. A year earlier, however, the all-hog price nationally averaged $61.20 per 100 pounds.

Corn, meanwhile, was $3.45 per bushel in August, matching the record set in Oct. 1974. That was up from $3.13 in July and $2.30 per bushel a year ago, the report said.

Looking at the cattle market, the average August price of all cattle sold as beef was $53.80 per 100 pounds, down from $54.80 in July and $58.10 a year ago.

That means 100 pounds of beef on the hoof sold for enough to buy 15.6 bushels of corn last month, compared to 17.5 bushels in July and 25.3 bushels a year earlier.

Of course, there are many other factors that go into the livestock business and decision-making besides the price of corn. But feed costs are important. That is why many producers of fed cattle and hogs will be easing back on their operations, at least until the profit outlook improves.
