Soviets deny any responsibility

By CLIFF HAAS Associated Press Writer

President Reagan and members of Congress have united in demands for a full accounting from the Soviet Union for the deaths of more than 260 people aboard a South Korean airliner that was reported shot from the skies near a remote Soviet island military installation.

The Soviet Union is steadfastly denying any responsibility for the fatal incident, but those denials are being rejected as totally inadequate by the United States and other nations which have erupted in a burst of global outrage.

President Reagan, who had planned to end a vacation at his Santa Barbara, Calif., ranch next Monday, was instead returning to Washington today for a round of White House meetings with his national security advisers and the bipartisan congressional leadership.

Congress is in the midst of a five-week recess due to end Sept. 12, but there are no indications the House and Senate will reconvene earlier.

U.S. officials said Thursday in detailed accounts that a heat-seeking missile fired by a Soviet SU-15 jet fighter destroyed the unarmed 747 passenger plane, killing all its occupants — including Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga., and about 30 other Americans.

The United States and South Korea demanded an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council, which was likely to be convened today.

"Words can scarcely express our revulsion at this horrifying act of violence," Reagan said, uniting with congressional leaders in strongly worded condemnations and calls for a full accounting.

from the Kremlin.

"The United States joins with other members of the international community in demanding a full explanation for this appalling and wanton misdeed," the president declared.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., called it "an unbelievably barbaric act," adding, "explanations and apologies will not suffice."

Members of Congress are calling for direct action against the Soviets, including calls for restrictions on trade, the cancellation of Soviet landing rights in the United States and the closing of the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

Reagan, while using strong rhetoric to denounce the incident, is taking a cautious stance on the issue of retaliation with aides emphasizing that the upcoming White House discussions will focus equal attention on the Mideast and Israel's plans to redeploy troops in Lebanon.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said that despite the attack he would go ahead with a previously scheduled meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko next week in Madrid at the conclusion of a European security meeting.

Nonetheless, the attack on the civilian airliner is a jolt to U.S.-Soviet relations at a time when they appeared on the upswing in the areas of arms control and trade.

"It is certain that the impact and the seriousness of this attack will be felt long after the half-masted flags of mourning have been raised," said Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich.

A Japanese Foreign Ministry official, who asked not to be quoted by name, said that if the Soviets do not supply an adequate explanation, a formal diplomatic protest "or something further" could be forthcoming.

State Department spokesman John Hughes said there were "30 plus" Americans on Korean Air Lines Flight 007, including McDonald, and there were no survivors.

The passenger plane was in Soviet airspace above Sakhalin, a mountainous island 20 miles from the Soviet Union's east coast and within 100 miles of Japan, U.S. officials said.

A missile, called an Anad, was fired from a 1960s-vintage Soviet interceptor which was one of eight fighters which tracked the airliner, according to Pentagon intelligence sources who asked that they not be identified. The sources said the Soviets have about 35 SU-15s and 30 MIG-23s based at Sakhalin.

Hughes said a message from Gromyko to the State Department claimed the plane was flying without lights and did not respond to signals of Soviet interceptors and their attempt to direct it to a landing site. The message did report that "signs of a possible crash have been found in the area of Moronen Island," near Sakhalin, and in the Sea of Japan inside Soviet territorial waters.

But it made no mention that the plane had been shot down, Hughes said. And the Soviet Embassy "has been informed that the U.S. government finds this reply totally inadequate."

The KAL jumbo jet was destroyed at 2:26 p.m. EDT Wednesday, U.S. officials said. The flight originated in New York, had refueled in Anchorage, Alaska, and was about 1,000 miles from its destination, Seoul.

Strain indicted on 17 counts

Robert Strain, of Hereford, was indicted on 17 counts of theft — one for over $10,000 — Thursday during a lengthy session of the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury.

Indicted with Strain on four of the 16 counts of theft over $200 and under $10,000 was Thomas Martinez of Lubbock. There is another person involved in one of those four counts, the Deaf Smith County District Attorney's office said, but his name is not being released since he has not yet been arrested.

On August 15, the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department broke up an apparent fencing operation for stolen goods. At least 22 burglaries were soon cleared by examining the $130,000-$150,000 worth of stolen goods discovered in a barn at the Strain farm located northeast of here.

Strain was arrested August 17 on two counts of theft over $200 and under $10,000. The 52-year-old farmer was set free on a $30,000 bond established by Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal.

Eight days later, Strain was charged for the same crime again, though this time in Lamb County for a theft in Littlefield. He was set free on another $30,000 bond.

Strain is a former county chairman of the Democratic Party. His wife, Sallie, is president of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Education.

According to Roland Saul, criminal district attorney, approximately $40,000 worth of the stolen items have been returned to their owners. The thefts considered Thursday by the grand jury took place between Oct. 19, 1981 and July 29 of this year.

Before it adjourned at 7 p.m., the grand jury also indicted A.A. Loftin Jr. and Linda Gale Loftin of three counts of theft over $200 and under $10,000. Ascencion G. Sanchez was indicted on one count of DWI — subsequent, as was Juan Vargas Martinez, also known as Juan E. Martinez.

Other indictments were Guillermo "Willie" Galvan and Martin Diaz for burglary of a habitation, Raul Munez for forgery and passing and Garland Shealor for injury to a child.

White to ask for fed aid

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White joins other governors from drought-stricken states today in Chicago in asking federal help to feed Texas livestock this winter.

White told a news conference Thursday he hoped Secretary of Agriculture John Block would act as quickly on drought relief as Washington did in helping Texas sufferers from Hurricane Alicia.

White also told the news (See AID, Page 2)

August market bills up one-third

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Supermarket bills increased about one-third of a percent last month, according to an Associated Press market-basket survey which shows higher prices for eggs and lower prices for some meats.

The rate of increase during August was slower than it was during July, and prices generally remain lower today than they were at the start of the year, thanks to price decreases early in 1983.

The good news may not last long, however. The summer heat already has cut chicken and egg production. And rising grain prices — resulting in part from heat damage to the corn crop — are expected to prompt livestock producers to sell off their animals rather than pay for expensive feed. That will mean a temporary increase in meat supplies this fall — and lower prices — but it will mean smaller supplies — and higher prices — next year.

The AP survey covers a randomly selected group of 14 food and non-food products which were priced at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and have been rechecked on or about the start of each month since then.

Among the findings of the latest survey:

—The marketbasket bill went up last month at the checklist store in seven cities and went down in six cities. The average increase was 2.7 percent; the average decrease was 2.5 percent. Overall, the marketbasket bills rose an average of three-tenths of 1 percent during August.

During July, the marketbasket bill went up at the checklist store in eight cities and down in five, for an overall average increase of six-tenths of 1 percent.

—Comparing today's prices with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the marketbasket bill had increased at the checklist store in six cities and decreased in seven. The average increase was 3.7 percent and the average decrease was 3.6 percent. When the increases and decreases were averaged, the AP found the marketbasket bill had dropped by an average of two-tenths of 1 percent in the first eight months of 1983.

During the same period of 1982, by contrast, the marketbasket bills rose an average of 4.1 percent.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

In Mississippi

Child murderer executed

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP) — Inhaling deeply as wisps of lethal gas curled from under his chair, Jimmy Lee Gray moaned 11 times and died today with a series of wrenching spasms in Mississippi's death chamber for the rape and murder of a 3-year-old neighbor girl.

"I think he's finally paid his debt," said Sheriff John Ledbetter of Pascagoula, who watched Gray die for the sex slaying of Deressa Jean Scales.

Gray's death shortly after midnight in the steamy silver gas chamber was Mississippi's first execution in 19 years and the eighth in the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court reaffirmed the death penalty in 1976.

Gray kidnapped the toddler from her Pascagoula apartment, then raped and sodomized her and finally suffocated her in a muddy ditch in 1976. The child's body was thrown from a bridge.

"He took the life of my daughter and therefore I did not think he should live," Richard Scales of Dallas, father of the slain child, said today.

After the state executioner,

T. Berry Bruce, dropped cyanide crystals into a solution under Gray's black steel chair to form the deadly gas, the 34-year-old former computer programmer inhaled deeply.

His head slumped forward and then pitched backward. Gray moaned 11 times before falling quiet.

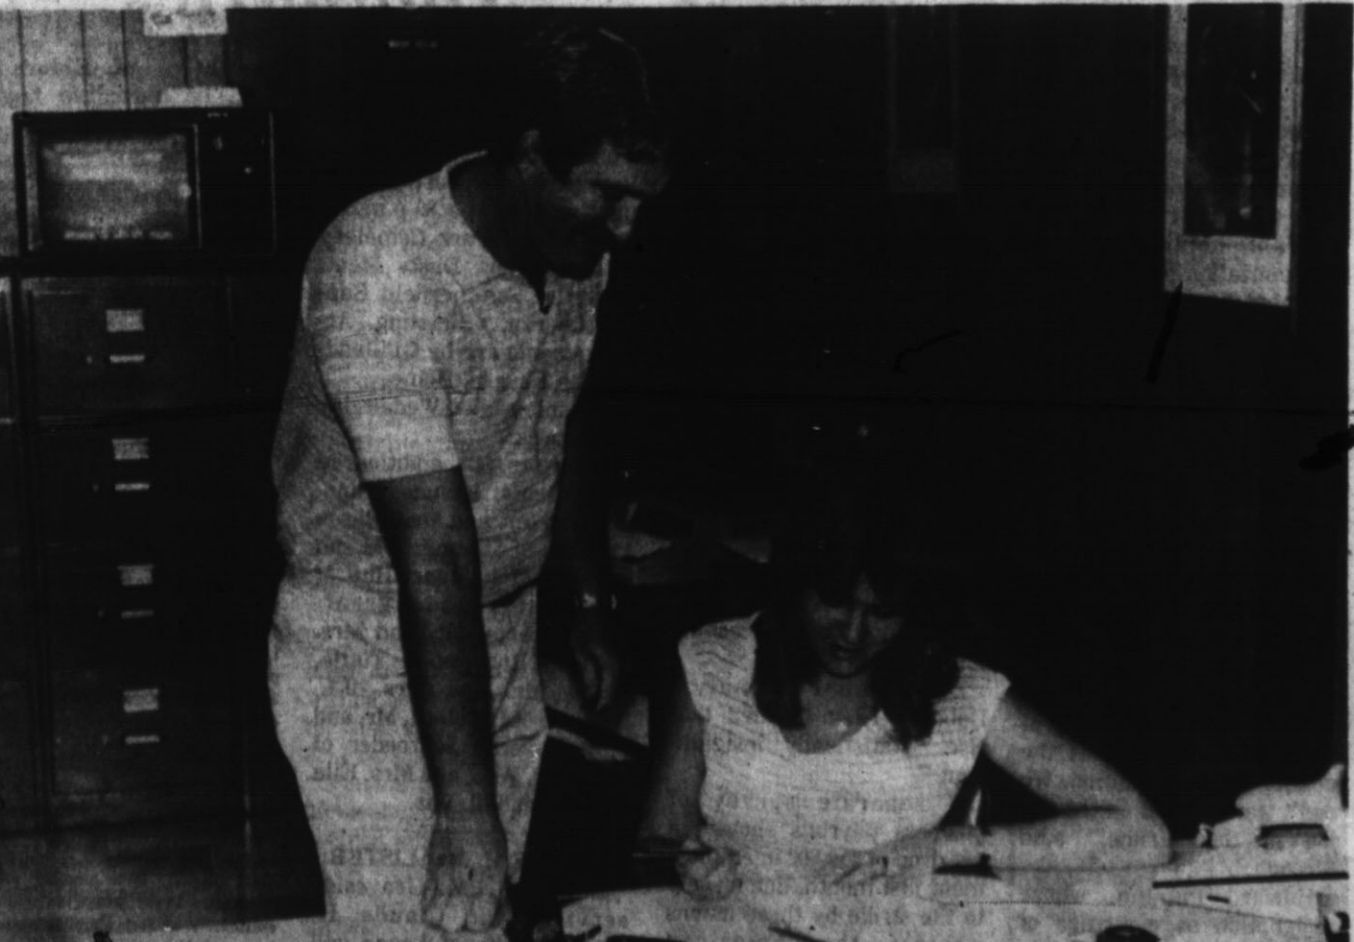

At one time, his head struck a metal pole behind the chair with such force that it shook the six-sided gas chamber.

Two doctors witnessing the execution in the maximum security section of the state penitentiary, monitoring his heart through a stethoscope attached to his chest, said Gray died two minutes after gas wafted through the chamber.

But Gray's attorney, Dennis Balske of Montgomery, Ala., claimed his client was still alive when Balske and 14 other witnesses were ushered from the execution room eight minutes after the gas first appeared.

"He was alive — he was breathing when they asked me to leave. There's no doubt about it," Balske asserted.

Ames On The Job

Lloyd Ames, manager of Hereford Cablevision, reports a decision on whether his cable television company can begin offering Public Broadcasting Station KTXT-Lubbock is probably at least four weeks away. The soonest KTXT could be on the local system, he said, would be 10 weeks. Above, Ames oversees the work of Hereford Cablevision office employee Janet Brewer.

Shuttle crew tests ozone

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts guided their ship 54 miles nearer to Earth today to test how samples of future space materials can stand up under constant bombardment by particles of atomic oxygen.

More than 300 different samples, from paints to telescope lens coatings, were being exposed to the eroding effects of the hurtling particles.

Commander Richard Truly and pilot Dan Brandenstein fired Challenger's maneuvering engines to drop the orbit from an altitude of 193 miles to 139 miles, steering the shuttle into the upper regions of Earth's ozone layer where there is a sea of atomic oxygen molecules.

Cable company facing another delay in getting PBS station

By REED PARSELL Staff Writer

Yet another delay has been encountered in Hereford Cablevision's attempts to place Public Broadcasting Station KTXT-Lubbock on its cable television system.

Lloyd Ames, general manager of Hereford Cablevision, Thursday said it will be at least 10 weeks before the PBS channel could be offered to local cable subscribers. Ames' company has been trying to obtain the KTXT signal for more than 18 months, as on April 15, 1982 it dropped KERA, the PBS channel in Dallas.

Hereford Cablevision is hoping to supply KTXT through Lee Microwave, which would also transmit the PBS channel to other Panhandle cable companies. Lee, however, cannot offer such a service until permission is received from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

West Texas Microwave (WTM), which supplied Hereford Cablevision and many other Texan cable companies with KERA, last April filed a protest claiming no other microwave firm should be allowed to offer a PBS channel in the Panhandle. That protest formed the primary roadblock which Lee has since been trying to clear.

Late in June, Lee and the concerned Panhandle cable companies filed a request with the FCC asking the federal agency to waive WTM's self-proclaimed monopoly. At the time, Ames said he felt a decision would be made within three or four weeks.

During July, Lee and the cable companies asked subscribers to write letters to the FCC supporting the waiver. According to Ames, more correspondence was sent by Hereford residents than by any other Panhandle city. The large local volume (170-200 letters), Ames admitted, was due mainly to an extensive promotional campaign by Hereford Cablevision.

were in to Howard Liberman, the Washington, D.C. lawyer representing Lee and the cable companies. Liberman was encouraged by the letters, Ames said, and predicted a decision would be made within three or four weeks.

However, when Liberman went to the FCC's offices this week to find out what the commission's decision would be, he was told the FCC staffers were waiting for more information on alternatives for the cable companies to obtain KTXT. This was said despite Liberman and Robert James, Hereford Cablevision's attorney, having previously assured the FCC that all alternatives had been looked into.

"Once Liberman found out," Ames said, "he immediately put on file to the FCC that they (he and James) had done all their homework when they given the letters to it four weeks earlier."

Ames remains hopeful, though, saying, "Now, Liberman does not see anything else which the (FCC) staff would throw up in front of him which would possibly delay the waiver being accepted or rejected." The lawyer now feels a decision will be made by the end of this month or early in October, according to Ames.

If the FCC should grant Lee approval to begin offering KTXT, it would be another six-to-eight weeks before Hereford Cablevision could put the PBS channel on its system, Ames said. The cost of obtaining KTXT through Lee would be $890 per month. Cost was the primary reason Hereford Cablevision and several other cable television firms discontinued receiving KERA and an independent Dallas channel.

At an August 1 Hereford City Commission meeting, Hereford Cablevision owner Clint Formby explained WTM had demanded from the local cable company a 631 increase in rates for the two

Illegals turn deaf ear to border busing

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Last week's announcement of a novel "repatriation" plan to send illegal aliens caught in the U.S. deep into Mexico on a free bus has fallen on deaf ears, immigration authorities say.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service plan to bus illegal aliens to four major Mexican cities, including the Pacific resort of Mazatlan, has not had enough response to charter a single bus, INS spokesman Mike Trominski said.

The 60-day experimental program, announced Aug. 24, "is not going ... it's my understanding that border-wide, there isn't much response," he said.

Added Alan Eliason, the Border Patrol's El Paso sector chief: "We had hoped there would be some takers." So far, there have been seven Mexicans who wanted to be sent home, he said.

Monday and Tuesday, the Border Patrol apprehended about 2,000 illegal aliens in the El Paso sector, and about 30 percent were from Mexico's interior, but none wanted to be bused home, immigration authorities said.

The plan would allow illegal aliens caught in Laredo to be given a ride to San Luis Potosi; those caught in El Centro, Calif., are offered rides to Mazatlan; those caught in the San Diego-Chula Vista area are offered rides to Los Mochis. Those captured in El Paso can get rides to Torreon.

New officers named at Diamond Shamrock

DALLAS (AP) — C.D. McDoulett Jr., corporate vice president of development for Diamond Shamrock before its merger this week with Natomas Co., Thursday was named chairman and chief executive officer of Natomas Co.

At the same time, D. L. Commons, former chairman and chief executive officer of Natomas, was named vice chairman of Diamond Shamrock.

Under the merger, which was approved Tuesday by shareholders and formally completed Wednesday, the San Francisco-based Natomas became a wholly-owned subsidiary of Diamond Shamrock.

J.L. Jackson, president and chief operating officer of Diamond Shamrock, said McDoulett would remain a vice president of Diamond Shamrock and report to Jackson.

Jackson said K.G. Reed, recently named president and chief operating officer of Natomas, would continue in that capacity and report to McDoulett.

McDoulett will direct the Ipdonesian exploration and production operations as well as geothermal activities of Natomas, Jackson said.

He joined Diamond Shamrock in 1979 when Falcon Seaboard and Diamond Shamrock Corp. merged. Until 1981, he was vice president of marketing and development for the coal unit and in 1981 he was appointed director of the development.

Autry execution date of Oct 5 set

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — An appeals court's refusal to stay the execution of a man convicted of killing a convenience store clerk in order to steal a six-pack of beer has led a state judge to set an Oct. 5 execution date.

James David Autry, 28, remained silent Thursday while state District Judge Leonard Giblin handed down the new date. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused Autry's request for a stay of execution last week.

Sale final on properties

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — American General Corp. has finalized the sale of Opryland properties, which include the Grand Ole Opry, two radio stations, a convention hotel and a theme park, to Gaylord Broadcasting Co.

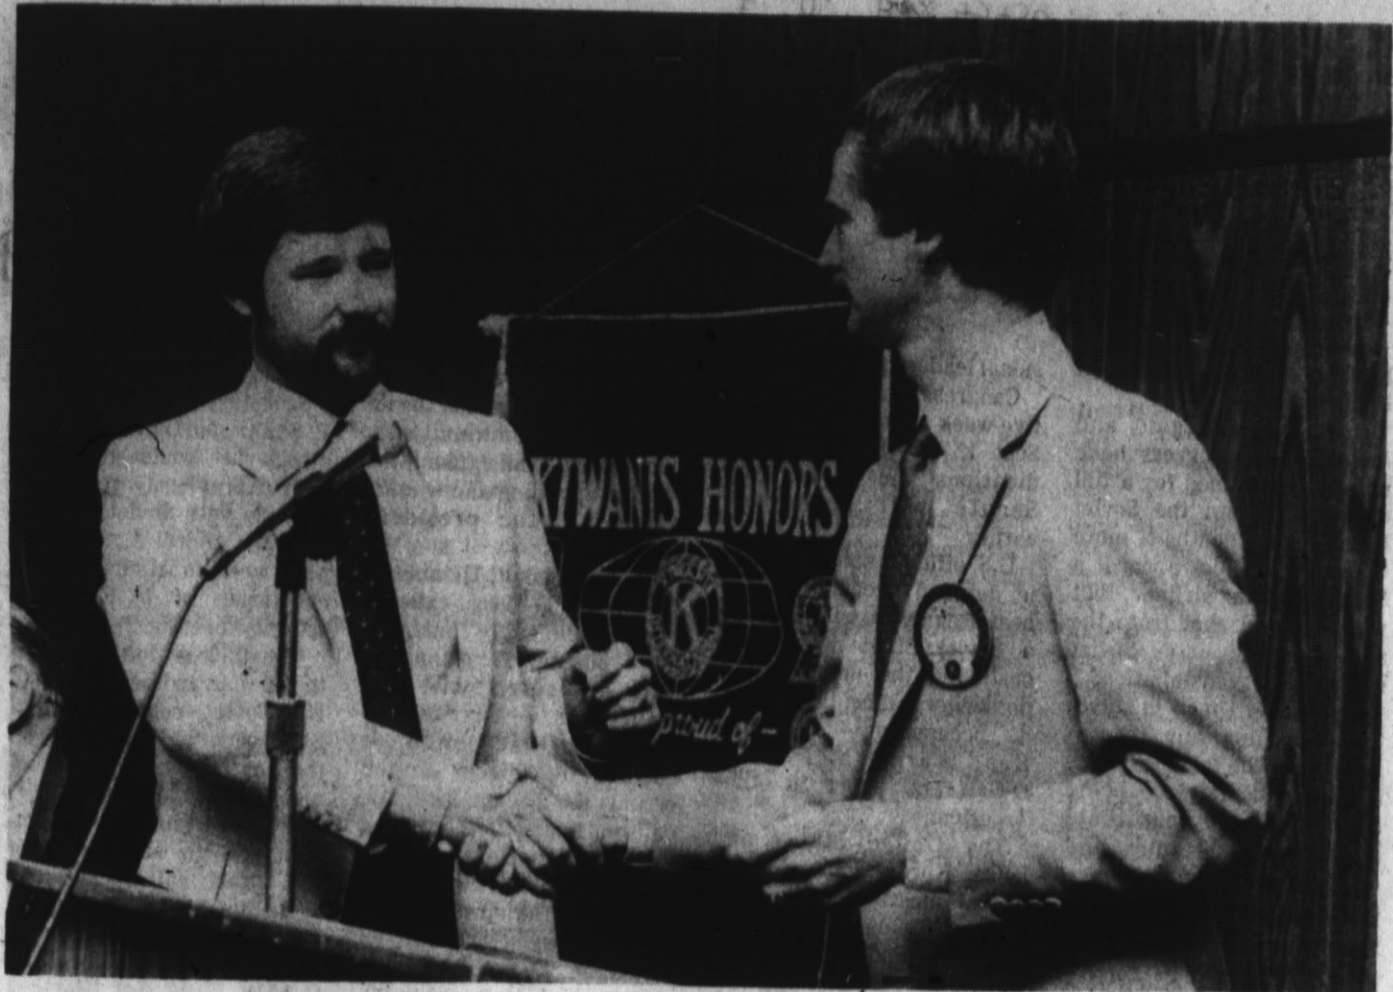

Officials of the Dallas-based Gaylord said today documents making the sale final have been signed. No purchase price was disclosed, although published reports say the properties sold from about $270 million.

Edward L. Gaylord, chairman and president of Gaylord, and Harold S. Hook, chairman and chief executive officer of the Houston-based American General, announced an agreement in principle for the sale on July 1.

"Ever since July 1, we have been looking forward to the day this sale would be consummated," Gaylord said. "The Gaylord family has grown with the addition of Opryland USA Inc., and we are excited about getting to know our new family members better than we already do."

Shamir chosen to succeed Begin, may have trouble forming government

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Yitzhak Shamir, a former underground fighter and Israel's hardline foreign minister, won his party's endorsement today to succeed Prime Minister Menachem Begin and now must start the difficult task of forming a new government.

But some coalition parties warned they had demands to be met before agreeing to renew the alliance that Begin forged six years ago.

Begin, who suddenly announced this week that he intended to step down, was expected to formally hand in his resignation to President Chaim Herzog today or early next week, bringing down the Cabinet and setting in motion the process of forming a new government.

Shamir won a solid victory of 436 votes to 302 for Deputy Prime Minister David Levy in voting by the central committee of the Herut Party, the movement formed by Begin in the 1940s which now dominates the governing Likud Bloc. Seven votes were invalidated.

Begin was "feeling a little weak and tired" and stayed at his Jerusalem home, said long-time friend Yaaqov Meridor, who awoke the leader at 1:40 a.m. with the election results before they were publicly announced.

Begin, who fashioned Herut out of his outlawed underground army that fought the British and the Arabs for independence, was a force at the meeting even in absentia.

"I see the task that was placed on me tonight as a temporary trust which I am willing to return at any time with a happy heart and full readiness to Prime Minister Menachem Begin," Shamir said with tears in his eyes.

Rhythmic chants of "Begin, Begin" thundered through the converted theater every time the retiring leader was mentioned.

"The time is short and the job is great," said Shamir, promising to start talks later today with the five right-wing and religious parties in the coalition. "We must rebuild this government and continue its actions."

Shamir spoke in general terms of his future policy, promising to continue spreading Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and building Israel's "deterrent strength so that no enemy will dare touch us."

The election of Shamir virtually quashed hopes of forming a broad coalition including Labor to grapple with escalating economic problems and to unify a nation divided over the protracted occupation of Lebanon.

"Shamir is more fanatic and more extreme than David Levy," said Mordechai Vershushky, of the centrist Shinui Party, who ruled out any chance of a partnership with Likud.

As foreign minister, Shamir generally won high marks for improving Israel's relations in Europe and the Third World. But he was criticized widely for taking a back seat in shaping Israel's Lebanon policy.

He has indicated he would keep the Foreign Ministry portfolio in the next government to avoid a scramble among his coalition partners.

Unemployment remains at 9.5 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's civilian jobless rate held steady at 9.5 percent last month, the government reported today, leaving nearly 10.7 million people out of work on the eve of the Labor Day weekend.

About 300,000 people found jobs in August. But the overall civilian unemployment rate remained unchanged because 100,000 other Americans resumed their search for work, but failed.

Nevertheless, the total number of people with jobs reached 101.6 million, an all-time high. Since last December, when joblessness hit a post-Depression peak of 10.8 percent and more than 12 million Americans were out of work, some 2.5 million have found jobs.

The jobless rate came as no shock to Reagan administration officials and private analysts, who said before today's Labor Department report that the dramatic 0.5 percentage point plunge in civilian joblessness from June to July was a one-time phenomenon.

Another unemployment rate, which includes more than 1.6 million armed services personnel stationed in the United States, rose minimally from 9.4 percent to 9.5 percent in August.

Department analyst Deborah Klein termed that rise "statistically insignificant."

A separate survey of business payrolls showed a net drop of 410,000 in employment last month, due largely to the strike by three unions against the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which idled more than 675,000 workers.

Altogether, total unemployment stood at 10,699,000, up from 10,590,000 in July. Unemployment among adult men, the traditional family bread-winners, remained at 8.8 percent in August. Among adult women, the rate rose slightly, from 7.9 percent to 8 percent.

Within the other categories, the rates were:

—Teen-agers, 23.0 percent, up from 22.8.

—Whites, 8.2 percent, unchanged.

—Blacks, 20.0 percent, up from 19.5.

—Hispanics, 12.9 percent, up from 12.3.

Braniff looks forward to flying again

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Braniff International officials say they hope to be in the air again as early as Nov. 15, now that a federal bankruptcy judge has approved a final reorganization plan.

Under the plan, the Hyatt Corp., a Chicago-based hotel chain, will invest $20 million in cash and $50 million in loan guarantees in exchange for 80 percent of the new airline's stock.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers approved the plan during a hearing Thursday, but opponents have 10 days to appeal the decision.

conference:

— He was appointing Austin attorney Jim Boyle as consumer advocate for the Public Utility Commission, a new job created by the last Legislature.

— He still has hopes of calling a special session this year to consider public education problems, highway financing and maybe job insurance for farm workers.

White said he, along with several other governors and congressmen from drought affected states, would hold an afternoon conference in Chicago.

"What we are going to be urging is to release some of the corn that is in storage right now in Texas and let that grain be used for feed for ranchers over the winter," White said.

"Even if it rained now, in many parts of West Texas too late in the season for them to make grass so they are going to have to have help over the winter."

White said Texas ranchers are "caught on the wrong side of the law of supply and demand. As the drought intensifies, it tends to put him out of the cattle business and force him to sell livestock which tends to lower the price. At the same time those trying to maintain their herds are forced to buy range cubes or other types of cattle feed and the price at this time is driven up because the drought cut down on production."

The governor said it might be "more effective if Secretary Block did not go to Chicago but come out here to Odessa and maybe look at Pecos and see exactly what is happening."

White said he has talked twice recently with H. Ross Perot, chairman of the Select Committee on Public Education, which is to make recommendations to the next session of the Legislature.

"There was no precise date for a session," White said, "but Mr. Perot is mindful with me to get it done this year ... before the end of the first of the year."

White said he is still trying to "marshal our resources and set the priorities" for a special session.

"No 1 is education and No. 2 has to be almost equally important, our transportation system."

Later he said he hoped the Joint Committee on Farmworkers Insurance would be able to make its recommendations in time "to get it on the agenda after we conclude our education business."

White said he was not endorsing any particular tax at the present time but he would be pleased to talk with members of the state highway commission who are recommending a gasoline tax increase.

"That one has certainly had strong support," he said.

Flowers' announcement capped a lengthy court battle that began on May 12, 1982, when Braniff, saddled with a $1 billion debt, halted operations.

Interim Braniff President Dale States said there was no word when hiring notices will go out to as many as 2,000 ex-Braniff employees, who will be hired by the new airline.

Sources said Hyatt is interested in running a first class airline, not a low-cost or low-budget line. However Braniff's reorganization plan says the airline may be required to offer fares in some markets lower than those offered by its rivals.

NASA engineers and scientists want to know which materials can best withstand this attack, and they have mounted rows and rows of samples in Challenger's cargo bay — as small discs and strips. They include films, paints, coatings, plastics, insulation, solar cells, quartz, sapphire, silver and materials being evaluated for possible use in the shuttle's thermal tiles.

The shuttle will remain at the lower altitude for the rest of the mission, and the materials will be analyzed after the astronauts return to Earth on Monday, landing at 12:40 a.m. Pacific time at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

The astronauts, working their usual night shift, were roused Thursday night for their fourth day in space with the Penn State University flight aeronautical engineering from Penn State in 1964. The school's teams are known as the Nitany Lions.

Those who boarded the flight in New York, according to the airline, numbered 238 adults, two unidentified infants, and a crew of 29. But a National Transportation Safety Board official, Jim Michelangelo, said four passengers got off in Anchorage, leaving 265 on the final leg to Seoul.

On the schedule today were five more hours of weightlifting tests with Challenger's mechanical arm, technological and scientific experiments and additional checks with an orbiting communications satellite vital to future space missions.

The 20-foot arm demonstrated Thursday that it can do the heavy lifting that will be needed in the future to release and retrieve massive satellites and to eventually construct stations in space.

With mission specialist Dale A. Gardner at the remote controls, the bionic device latched onto a 7,460-pound dumbbell and maneuvered it around the cargo bay in a series of precise maneuvers, some done with the ship's jets firing to test how both Challenger and arm reacted. Gardner reported both did well, with only slight motions noticeable.

The fifth astronaut, Dr. William Thornton, continued his medical research on space weightlessness with a series of tests on his crewmates.

"I really enjoyed the Nitany flight song," said mission specialist Guion Bluford, a Philadelphian who received his bachelor's degree in Dallas channels, raising the monthly fee to $4,338. Only one other Texas town — Albany — was given a larger rate hike. Amarillo was asked to dole out just 2 percent more, Formby said.

Ames claimed another reason the cable companies dropped WTM was because of poor and erratic service.

Another problem on which Hereford Cablevision is now working involves Cinemax, one of two movie channels on the local system. In hopes of eliminating audio interference from Deaf Smith County Sheriff Department radio messages, all cable connectors will be replaced with new ones, Ames said.

The process will take place from 8:30-10 a.m. and 3:30-5 p.m. weekdays starting Tuesday. Within another week or so, Ames said, connectors will also be replaced from 4-7 a.m. The manager wants the overhaul to be completed by October.

In addition to new connectors, three or four of the city's 70-75 miles of cable will be rebuilt, Ames said. Weather and age have caused serious deterioration, he explained.

Ann Landers Terms highly personal

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Sorry to differ with you, but the terms Grandma and Grandpa are highly personal, and while I never say anything when someone calls me Grandma, I feel like shouting, "I am NOT your grandmother."

When my granddaughter was small, she started to call me by my first name because her mother did. I told her I preferred to be called Grandma. (Her mother had requested that she be allowed to call me by my first name when she married my son. I said, "Of course, if you wish.")

I believe it is discourteous for people who are not related to speak in such an intimate manner. I wouldn't correct them for the world because it is not that big a deal, but I do want to strike a blow for all grandparents who don't appreciate being called Grandpa or Grandma by others.

Also, Aunt and Uncle are not terms to be bandied about by just anyone. I remember as a child my mother told me to call an elderly neighbor "Aunt Mary." The woman informed me most emphatically ly that she was not my aunt, and I was to call her "Mrs. Smith." I learned something that day.—A Fan In Wisconsin.

DEAR WIS.: Thanks for the comeuppance. More readers agreed with you than with me. "I learned something, too."

DEAR ANN: This poem was enclosed in a mass-mailed wedding invitation to at least 150 staff members in our department. The young woman who did the mailing started to work here a few months ago and has made very few friends. Here's a copy:

Though each won't have a brand new spouse,
Since we're not new at keeping house,
We've silver, linens, towels galore,
And thoughtful friends keep bring more.

So if a gift you'd like to send,
Please make it something we can spend!
Well, Ann, how is that for class?—Incredulous In Michigan

DEAR CRED: On a scale of 1 to 10, I'd give the moron a minus 1.

DEAR ANN: I agree something should be done about that husband who refuses to make a will. But as you said, the procrastinators are usually afraid if they write a will they will die the next day.

I suggest the wife ask her lawyer to draw up a will to show what would happen if her husband doesn't write one.

She should take it to him and say, "This is what is going to happen to your assets if you die tomorrow, dear, because you have not prepared a will. If this is the way you want it, OK, but if you want it another way the time to tell the lawyer is NOW."

Maybe when he sees how the law does it, he'll get off his (excuse the pun) dead end.—M.J. Up North

DEAR M.J.: Excellent idea. I recommend it.

Hand injuries should get attention

Hands are easy to take for granted, particularly when one has two that function normally. Injuries can change all that.

The Texas Medical Association says hand injuries account for a significant percentage of the disability in this country each year. Because the hand is highly complex, even seemingly minor injuries may cause significant problems and should receive attention.

TMA offers these suggestions for treating hand injuries:

—Cuts can cause serious bleeding, especially if a main artery in the wrist or fingers has been severed. The main concern is to stop the bleeding. Place a clean cloth or sterile gauze pad over the cut and apply firm, constant pressure for at least five minutes.

Bleeding from larger arteries may require continuous pressure until medical assistance is obtained. A tourniquet usually is not necessary and can cause further damage if not applied correctly. All deep cuts should receive medical attention to prevent permanent disability that could result from damaged tendons and nerves.

—Completely severed fingers or hands now can be reattached in many cases through microvascular surgery. The severed part should be sealed in a clean plastic bag and the bag placed in ice. (The ice must not directly touch the amputated part.) With proper care, severed fingers and hands have been repaired as long as 24 hours after the accident.

—Burns of the hand often are particularly disabling because of skin loss and the scars that may follow. The best initial treatment is to cool the wound. Burns to large areas of the hand should be immersed as soon as possible in cold tap water for 30 to 60 minutes. Smaller burns on the fingers or arms may be treated with ice packs.

Burns should never be covered initially with ointment, butter or petroleum jelly. Medical attention is needed for all but minor burns.

—Hand infections can spread rapidly and require treatment to prevent damage to delicate structures within the hand. Infections can result from even small cuts or punctures and from human bites. The last can be particularly serious.

Infections also can arise for no apparent reason in the fingertips and beneath the fingernails. Signs of infection include redness, swelling, throbbing pain and pain to the touch.

4 Hereford gridders on Buff team, John Josserand listed as starter

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
(CANYON, TX)—Four former Hereford Whitefaces are listed on the West Texas State University football roster for 1983, including John Josserand, a 6-4, 240-lb. junior, who is expected to start at left offensive tackle for the Buffs in their season opener against North Texas State University in Denton Saturday evening.

Other former Whitefaces on the WTSU roster include Josserand's younger brother Barry (6-0, 195), a sophomore, sophomore John Phibbs (5-9, 185) and red-shirt freshman Wayne High (6-1, 195).

Both Phibbs and High are former first team All-State selections for Hereford, having played on the state semifinalist squad which went 13-1 in 1981 before losing to eventual state champion Lake Highlands 10-7.

High may get the chance to see a lot of action early with Buff running backs Mike Klein and Mike Gist injured as the season opener looms. High is listed as the number two tailback on the Buff depth chart behind McKinney junior Marvin Williams.

High will also share kick return duties with three other Buffaloes this season.

The Buffaloes and Mean Green tee it up at 6 p.m. Saturday at NTSU's Fouts Field in Denton. A crowd of between 10,000-15,000 is expected to attend the game as WTSU coach Don Davis begins his second year at the Buff helm.

West Texas has four defensive and three offensive starters back this year. Canyon junior David Harbin (6-3, 200) is expected to be the team's number one quarterback, with backup from former Panhandle standout Tod Mayfield, a 6-1, 185-lb. sophomore.

The game Saturday will mark the initial broadcast of the new West Texas State University Football Network, which will feature the play-by-play efforts of Warren Hasse, the voice of the Buffs for many years. Color commentary will be provided by Mike Fox.

The game will be carried by KHBQ-FM in Canyon and nine other radio stations.

North Texas holds a 16-6 advantage over WTSU in the series between the two teams. The Mean Green had won the last six contests between the two teams until last year, when the Buffs scored a 24-22 victory in Canyon.

NTSU's Corky Nelson is also entering his second year as a head coach after posting a 2-9 mark last year. Davis' Buffs chalked up a 3-8 mark a year ago.

"While I'm not trying to put pressure on the players or coaches, I feel like we're going to have a good year," Davis said this week. "But, no matter how you look at it, we have a number of untested players at key positions. If they play as well as I think they will, we could be in for a successful year."

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
The Hereford Whitefaces and Pampa Harvesters meet in their respective season grid openers tonight, and the contest is one of the most important on each team's slate despite the fact that it is a non-district affair.

Establishing a winning attitude is important to both teams as new HHS head coach Jerry Taylor pointed out Thursday.

"This is a very, very important game for Hereford," Taylor said. "It won't mean the whole season is a disaster if we lose, but we need to win the early games to get ready for a tough district schedule later."

While Taylor is inheriting a team which has posted a 29-5 record over the past three years and went 8-2 a year ago, Pampa head coach John Kendall is looking to improve on a 1-7-2 Harvester mark a year ago, his first at the PHS helm.

"I really feel that since this is their coaching staff's second year that they're going to pull out all the stops in order to win this game," Taylor added.

Taylor expects the Harvesters to throw the ball "quite a bit" against the Herd in the game, which gets underway at 7:30 tonight in Pampa.

Their starting quarterback Robert Knight (Sr., 6-1, 174) probably throws the ball as good as anyone we've seen in this part of the country," Taylor said.

Jeff Steward, a 5-10, 170-lb. senior, will back Knight up at quarterback, and will start in the Harvester secondary at the free safety position.

Steward is also a good athlete, and can move the team well, too," Taylor added.

Other Harvesters to watch according to Taylor are receiver Ricky Smith (Sr., 5-6, 140) and transfer running back Anthony Scott, who moved to Pampa from Amarillo.

Scott isn't even listed among Harvester prospects in preseason releases, but Taylor feels that he will make a big difference for PHS this season.

"He didn't start in their scrimmage against Tascosa, but it wouldn't surprise me to see him play quite a bit against us," Taylor said of the Pampa senior. "He's a fine runner, and is going to be a good football player."

The Harvesters will run out of several offensive sets against the Herd, including the I, split-back, and veer. "They're best at running the power play off tackle, with the fullback leading the way and the tailback finding the hole," Taylor said.

Hereford, meanwhile, will operate the veer about 25 percent of the time, Taylor said, and use the pro set. Junior Mike Scott will get the nod at quarterback, with senior Jeff Streun his backup. Seniors Ronnie Terry and Charles White will start at running back for the Herd, with Robert Amar at wingback.

"We're going to run right at them, but will try to have a balanced offense between running and passing, too," Taylor said.

The coach said the Whitefaces have "worked diligently" this week on goal line play, an area which was a problem for the Herd in its scrimmage against Clovis last week.

"I think we've polished both our offense and defense a little this week," Taylor said. "We're going to try and analyze what their defense is doing, and take what they are giving us."

Streun, a returning regular at a safety spot, will join linebackers Alan Ritchie and Lee Brockman in anchoring the HHS defense.

A pep rally for the football team was planned for 2:25 this afternoon, just prior to the team's departure to Pampa.

"Again, this is an important game for us," Taylor said. "We play Monterey the fourth game of the season, so we're going to have to peak early and get ready."

The Whitefaces will be at home against Canyon next week, and open District 3-5A action in Lubbock against the Lubbock High Westerners on Sept. 16.

Following is a list of prospective starters for the Herd tonight:

DEFENSE — Ends, August Castillo, Jr., and Brian Lady,

Sr.; Tackles, Dennis Chandler, Jr.; and Ricky Treadway, Sr.; Nose Guard, David Parsons, Jr.; Linebackers, Alan Ritchie, Sr., and Lee Brockman, Jr.; Cornerbacks, Ronnie Collier, Sr., and Larry Jimenez, Sr., and Safeties, Jeff Streun, Sr., and Sammy Suarez, Jr.; Kickoffs, PATs and FG—Stengel. Punts—Scott.

Watchful Eye

New Hereford head coach Jerry Taylor will cast more than a few intent glances at the Whitefaces tonight in the team's season opener in Pampa. Taylor, who moved here from Stamford, feels that the game is very important for both teams, who need to establish momentum early in the season. (Brand Photo).

Rice drops 13th straight

Jordan leads Houston on romp

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston running back Donald Jordan saw his long touchdown runs against Rice Thursday night as his way of showing that he is ready to play a dominate role in the Cougar offense.

Houston quarterback Lionel Wilson saw them another way.

"Those are Cotton Bowl plays," said Wilson, after Jordan scored on runs of 47, 45 and 1 yard to help thrash the Owls. 45-14 in the Southwest Conference season opener for both teams.

The victory gave Houston the early lead in the SWC race and made Rice a loser for the 13th straight game, tying Kent State for the longest losing string in the nation.

Jordan, who missed spring practice because of knee surgery, didn't miss his chance against the Owls. Rice was reeling from his three touchdowns and Mike Clendenen's 22-yard field goal by the midway point of the second quarter.

"For three years, I've had great backs in front of me," said Jordan, a senior. "Tonight I got my chance. Our offensive line performed superbly. I had great blocks on the touchdown runs."

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said Jordan also helped his own cause.

"What helped was when Jordan ran over two or three people..." Yeoman said. "That's the difference between a long run and a 9-yard gain."

"Jordan is significantly stronger than a year ago," Yeoman said. "Donald claims his marriage got him going in the right direction. I don't care what it is, he's a talented kid."

Wilson, criticized for his turnovers last season, did not yield a fumble in the game although he tossed an interception to Donahue Walker, who returned it 65 yards for a touchdown.

"I feel comfortable with our backs," Wilson said. "We didn't fumble when I was in there. We've worked extra hard on that."

Rice Coach Ray Alborn said Owl defenders were in position to stop Jordan's runs but didn't get the job done.

"On his second touchdown run we put two guys right where they are supposed to be and they don't make the tackle," Alborn said. "I don't know what you're supposed to do. You've got to give Jordan credit for making a helluva a run. Two kids put their helmets on him just like they are supposed to."

Houston turned the game into the expected rout with three third-quarter scores on Dwayne Love's five-yard run, a 47-yard run by freshman Raymond Tate on his first college carry and Albert Pope's 32-yard interception return after Cougar tackle T.J. Turner chased Rice quarterback Doug Johnson into the Owl end zone.

Rice quarterback Phillip Money, intercepted twice in the game, tacked on the game's final score with a 20-yard pass to Tony Burnett with 4:14 left in the game.

Alborn was not pleased with his quarterback's performances.

"Our quarterbacks did some things that guys with experience shouldn't do," Alborn said. "I don't know what to attribute it to. We did some really stupid things and when you do that you're liable to get thrashed severely."

Texas A&M to boast 12th Man

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The legend of the Texas Aggies' 12th Man clashes with the now famous California-Berkeley kickoff return team Saturday in what could be one of the most intensely recorded kickoffs of the college football season.

A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill decided last spring to fill the Aggie kickoff coverage team with students instead of regular football players as a gimmick to create fan interest.

Now that his plan is about to be put to the test, Sherrill is hoping he made the right decision.

"To be honest, I have no idea what is going to happen," Sherrill said. "Hopefully, our kicker will put it in the end zone."

Increasing the tension on the kickoff is the fact that the 12th Man will be pitted against the Cal kickoff return team that recorded one of the most spectacular plays of the 1982 season.

Cal used a five-lateral kickoff return to beat Stanford 25-20 after time had expired and the Stanford band had swarmed onto the field.

Now the Bears must face another kind of challenge from the 12th Man, a tradition that started Jan. 2, 1922 when A&M Coach Dana X. Bible called a former player out of the stands and had him suit up during the game because so many players had been injured.

The player, E. King Gill, actually never got into the game but that didn't keep the tradition-steeped school from recognizing a legend.

Typical of the eager student 12th Men is Les Asel, a senior agricultural economics major from Houston, who has not played football since he was a schoolboy in 1979.

"I don't think people realize what they are getting into when they play us," Asel said.

Tom Bumgardner, a senior from Crosby is another 12th Man member but he was good enough to fit into the Aggie depth chart at cornerback.

"I'm sure we're just going to go wild," he said. "That first kickoff, there's going to be some people getting knocked down. Hopefully, it will be some of Cal's people."

Alan Smith will handle kickoff duties for the Aggies and could take all the excitement out of the showdown.

"I can do it if I have a good enough wind," Smith said.

The 12th Man threat has not escaped the California return team members, including special teams captain Richard Rodgers, who took part in Cal's now famous return to end last season.

Phils tied for first

Rookies shine for Wheez Kids

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

On a team known for its veterans, a pair of rookies teamed up to boost the Philadelphia Phillies into a share of first place in the National League East.

Al Sanchez, promoted from Triple-A just hours earlier, triggered a three-run fifth inning with a pinch-single to give Tony Ghefl, called up from Double-A the same day, the victory as the Philadelphia downed the San Francisco Giants 4-2 Thursday night.

"I didn't think about where we were in the race," said Ghefl after the Phillies drew even with Pittsburgh, which lost to Houston 3-0, atop the NL East. "I just concentrated on keeping us in the game."

"I wanted to give them five good innings," said the rookie right-hander, who had not pitched for Reading in two weeks.

With the Phillies trailing 2-1, Sanchez was sent up to pinch hit for Ghefl to start the bottom of the fifth.

Sanchez promptly singled, as did Juan Samuel. Gary Matthews then doubled into the left-field corner to drive in both runners and later scored on Tony Perez's sacrifice fly, making it 4-2.

"We're back where we want to be," said Phillies Manager Paul Owens. "Now we have to get ahead and stay there."

In other NL games, Montreal tripped Los Angeles 8-3, St. Louis bounced Atlanta 8-3 and Chicago beat Cincinnati 3-1.

Matthews' double accounted for his first game-winning RBI of the season. Last year, he was third in the NL with 17.

"I think you can attribute it to a slow start and then not playing regularly as I've been used to doing," Matthews said.

"I feel confident at the plate. If I had hit the same pitch earlier in the season, it would have been a pop or a ground ball."

Matthews has raised his average to .273 with 19 hits in his last 55 at-bats. And with other Phillies veterans having trouble this year, the big outfielder wants to make his presence felt during the stretch drive.

"I hope to pick up the slack this month," he said. "I think I'm seeing the ball well. The double didn't hook, just went straight down the line."

The Philadelphia rally pinned the loss on Atlee Hamaker, 10-8, who lost for the fourth straight time since coming off the disabled list. After the Phillies went ahead, Willie Hernandez pitched three scoreless innings and Al Holland pitched the ninth for his 17th save.

San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson was not in a talking mood after the game. He only said that his team failed to take advantage of its opportunities.

"We've done a lot of that this year," Robinson said.

Expos 3, Dodgers 3

Montreal jumped on Rick Honeycutt early and dealt the left-hander his first NL defeat.

Gary Carter's RBI single gave the Expos a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Montreal scored three more runs in the third.

Manny Trillo singled home one of the runs, Al Oliver doubled home another and Carter's groundout produced another.

Honeycutt had won his first two games for the Dodgers since being acquired from Texas Aug. 19.

Los Angeles pulled within 4-2 in the sixth against Charlie Lea, 13-8, before reliever Bob James pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam to preserve the lead.

Dusty Baker's 14th homer made it 4-3 in the top of the eighth, but the Expos scored four runs in the bottom of the inning, three of them Baker dropped Carter's two-out fly ball with the bases loaded for a two-base error.

Cardinals 8, Braves 3

Darrell Porter belted three doubles and one of them drove in a run during St. Louis' six-run fourth inning.

The visiting Cardinals jolted Pascual Perez, 13-6, and relievers Rick Camp and Pete Falcone for 14 hits as Atlanta lost for the fourth straight time.

Seven of those hits came during the big inning, which included David Green's two-run single, an RBI double by Dane Iorg and a run-scoring single by Willie McGee.

Doubles by Porter and pinch hitter Bill Lyons accounted for another run in the fifth.

Bob Forsch, 8-11, the third St. Louis pitcher, got the victory.

Astros 3, Pirates 0

Nolan Ryan went seven shutout innings, giving up three hits while striking out 10.

The game was still scoreless when Ryan, 13-6, left in the bottom of the seventh for pinch hitter Kevin Bass, who belted a bases-loaded triple with two outs off Kent Tekulve.

Houston had loaded the bases as reliever Cecilio Guante, 2-2, gave up a single to Jose Cruz and walked Ray Knight. Rod Scurry came on and walked Denny Walling. Tekulve got two forecourts at the plate before Bass' triple.

Frank DiPino pitched the final two innings for his 14th save.

Pittsburgh starter Lee Tunnel pitched six shutout innings, extending his string to 19.

Cubs 3, Reds 1
Rookie Carmelo Martinez, called up from the minors Aug. 22, hit his fourth home run in 28 major-league at-bats to help Chicago.

Martinez's homer came in the second inning and followed an RBI double by Bill Buckner, who was thrown at trying to stretch it into a triple.

Dick Ruthven, 11-10, allowed four hits in 7 1-3 innings. Lee Smith pitched hitless relief over the final 1 2-3 innings, striking out three, for his 23rd save.

Bruce Berenyi, 6-14, took the loss.

Tops in majors

Hoyt, Morris attain 18th wins

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

While teams are involved in their respective pennant races, Detroit's Jack Morris and Chicago's LaMarr Hoyt are staging a personal race of their own for most victories in the American League.

Thursday night, Morris got to the winner's circle just about one hour ahead of Hoyt.

Morris, the major leagues' hottest pitcher, won his 10th straight game and 18th of the year with a six-hit, 5-0 victory over the Texas Rangers. Shortly thereafter, Hoyt tied him for wins by pitching a four-hit, 12-0 beauty over the Kansas City Royals. Ironically, it was the first shutout for each this season.

"It's that time of year, I guess, where you have to reach down inside yourself and get the job done," said Morris, whose victory pulled the Tigers within three games of the AL East-leading Baltimore Orioles.

Meanwhile, Thursday night's victory was Hoyt's seventh straight and ninth in his last 10 starts.

"He looked like a Hall-of-Famer," Kansas City Manager Dick Howser said of Hoyt. "In fact, they all looked like Hall-of-Famers."

In other AL action, Toronto beat Baltimore 5-3, Minnesota routed Boston 11-0 in the opener of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 9-3 and Oakland stopped New York 2-0.

Morris, 18-8, struck out five to boost his league-leading total to 194. The 18 victories represent a career high for Morris, who twice has won 17.

Tom Brookens and Chet Lemon backed the Tiger right-hander with home runs.

"I've never had a guy pitch with this magnitude, never," Anderson said after Morris' sparkling performance in Detroit.

Morris feels there's pressure on him every time he takes the mound.

"We had to win tonight," Morris said. "We just had to win. It's been that way the last two times out for me. Even though Chet (Lemon) was the hero with that ninth-inning homer Sunday, I had to keep them in it."

In Chicago, Hoyt, 18-10, got batting support from Carlton Fisk and Tom Paciorek, each of whom hit home runs. The homer by Fisk, a solo shot in the first inning off Bud Black, 8-5, was his 22nd of the year and tied him with Sherm Lollar for the most homers in a season by a White Sox catcher.

A crowd of 30,852 witnessed the blowout. The total season attendance reached 1,671,149, the largest in Chicago White Sox history. The club is only 3,784 from the all-time Chicago attendance record set in 1969 by the National League Cubs.

In Toronto, Jesse Barfield smashed two home runs and Ernie Whitt and Willie Upshaw each hit one to back the six-hit pitching of Doyle Alexander, lead the Blue Jays over Baltimore and snap the Orioles' winning streak at eight.

Barfield, who has five homers in his last five games, has 19 for the season — 16 at Exhibition Stadium.

Alexander, 2-8, outpitched Jim Palmer, 3-4, for his second consecutive victory. The Toronto right-hander struck out six and walked two in hurling his third complete game of the season.

"In 1980 during winter ball I once hit eight home runs in eight games," Barfield said. "I've always been a streak hitter as far as home runs are concerned."

In Boston, Tom Brunansky drove in six runs with a pair of home runs and Al Williams pitched his first major league shutout with a five-hitter as Minnesota breezed over Boston in the first game of the doubleheader.

Backed by the slugging of Brunansky and Lenny Faedo, who contributed a three-run homer, Williams cruised to his 10th victory, a career high, against 12 losses.

Tony Armas drove in four runs and AL batting leader Wade Boggs knocked in two in powering the Red Sox over the Twins in the second game. Left-hander Bobby Ojeda, 7-7, blanked Minnesota on three singles through six innings, and allowed a run in the seventh before being lifted in the eighth for Mark Clear.

A's 2, Yankees 0

In Oakland, Chris Codiroli pitched a three-hitter, topping the four-hit performance of New York's Dave Righetti, to lead the A's over the Yankees.

Moves to third round

Connors advances in Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors led the seeded players' parade into the third round of the United States Open and continues to flourish at the National Tennis Center, a setting many players find nightmarish.

Planes from nearby LaGuardia Airport soar noisily overhead. The fans are boisterous, frequently ambivalent to the pleas for silence from the chair umpire. The wind is capricious.

But Connors ignored the distractions Thursday and dispatched Sweden's Thomas Hogstedt 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, advancing along with No. 6 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, No. 11 Gene Mayer and No. 14 Eliot Teltscher.

Vilas outlasted Tom Cain 6-7, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2. Mayer and Teltscher also survived five-set tests, Mayer defeating Cristo Steyn of South Africa 3-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 and Teltscher eliminating Sammy Giammalva 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2.

John Lloyd of Great Britain, husband of Chris Evert Lloyd, posted the tournament's biggest upset so far, stunning No. 10 Jose Higueras of Spain 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

Among the women, top-ranked Martina Navratilova started another quest for her first-ever Open crown with a 6-1, 6-0 destruction of Argentine Emilise Raponi Longo.

Third-seeded Andrea Jaeger downed Elise Burgin 6-2, 6-3; No. 6 Wendy Turnbull of Australia defeated Sharon Walsh 6-3, 6-3; No. 7 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany beat Peruvian Laura Arraya 6-1, 6-3; No. 9 Andrea Temesvari of Hungary downed Virginia Wade of Britain 6-2, 6-3; and No. 12 Kathy Rinaldi defeated Vickie Nelson 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Seeded women losers were No. 11 Barbara Potter, beaten by Lisa Bonder 7-5, 6-7, 7-6, and No. 13 Claudia Kohde of West Germany, who bowed to Bonnie Gadusek 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Connors, the defending champion, is seeking a fifth U.S. Open crown. No man in the last half century has won the title more frequently and the ones who did it before him had more serene surroundings in which to play.

"Here you must put up with the conditions," he said. "I just happen to love the atmosphere and I always have. Here you have the planes flying over and 20,000 people crowded in animalistic style," said Connors.

How does he view the competition this time?
"A lot of guys are playing good tennis," Connors noted.

Starr may be wary of player overconfidence

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite the heavy offensive artillery Green Bay will throw at Houston's unproven secondary in Sunday's National Football League opener, Packers Coach Bart Starr must be trying to avoid overconfidence in his players.

"I don't buy that stuff about their (defensive) weaknesses," Starr said. "In preseason games there are a lot of extenuating circumstances so we have a lot of respect for the Oiler defense."

The Oiler defense yielded an average of 362 yards per game in four exhibition losses and ranked last in the league during last season's 1-3 campaign.

"We see their enthusiasm, their alert play, the leadership," Starr said. "They may have some youth spotted in places but they've got talent."

Rookie Steve Brown of Oregon will start at cornerback and Willie Tullis will be starting his first season at the other corner. Carter Hartwig has inherited the strong safety job and Mike Reinfield returns at free safety.

Another rookie Jerome Foster, will open at defensive end.

Association president named to PUC post

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas consumers' new voice at the Public Utility Commission is an Austin lawyer who decided the $57,500-a-year job is better than taking a chance on getting elected to the state Senate.

Jim Boyle, appointed Thursday as the state's first public utility counsel by Gov. Mark White, had announced as a candidate for the Senate seat to be vacated by Lloyd Doggett of Austin.

To get Boyle to take the PUC job, White said he had to "persuade him he had to withdraw from the Senate race." Now instead of seeking a Senate seat, Boyle will face confirmation by the Senate.

His PUC term expires Feb. 1, 1985.

Also Thursday, White reappointed PUC Chairman Al Erwin, one of the three White appointees who took over the commission when the previous members quit this year under fire from White.

"My children took a vote last night, and we will be in Austin for the next six years," Erwin said in announcing his intention to serve the full term.

The counsel position was created this year by lawmakers, who were lobbied by Boyle in his post as legislative director for the Texas Consumer Association. In the early 1970s, Boyle helped start the Texas Coalition for Utility Regulation, a consumer group that pushed for the creation of a Texas PUC. The 1975 Legislature voted to set up the utility regulation agency.

After Thursday's announcement by White, Boyle said he wanted to order a "low-cal diet" for utility companies that are fat with profit.

Boyle's job is to watch out for consumers — residential and business — in Public Utility Commission rate cases.

"We are going to look at every utility rate increase that comes our way and try to give them a low-cal diet. We're going to try to take out every bit of fat that's in there," Boyle said.

Boyle's first major challenge will be the Southwestern Bell request for a $1.7 billion rate increase.

"My goal is going to be to see that all those Texans receiving an affordable basic telephone service now will continue to receive" that service, he said.

The Bell request would triple monthly residential bills for basic service.

White said Boyle would add "a balance to the finest PUC in the country." He said Boyle's background shows a "very pro-consumer" record.

White said he also had to consider the fact that Boyle's father-in-law, Ken Hinckley, is an executive with one of the state's largest utility companies — Houston Lighting and Power.

"I was terribly concerned about that. I was also concerned that his father-in-law is a Republican," White joked.

Hinckley is group vice president of external affairs, which includes lobbying, public affairs and customer relations.

"He's been on the other side for four years while I have been lobbying here at the Legislature," said Boyle. "We've never been on the same side of an issue, and I haven't been influenced by it."

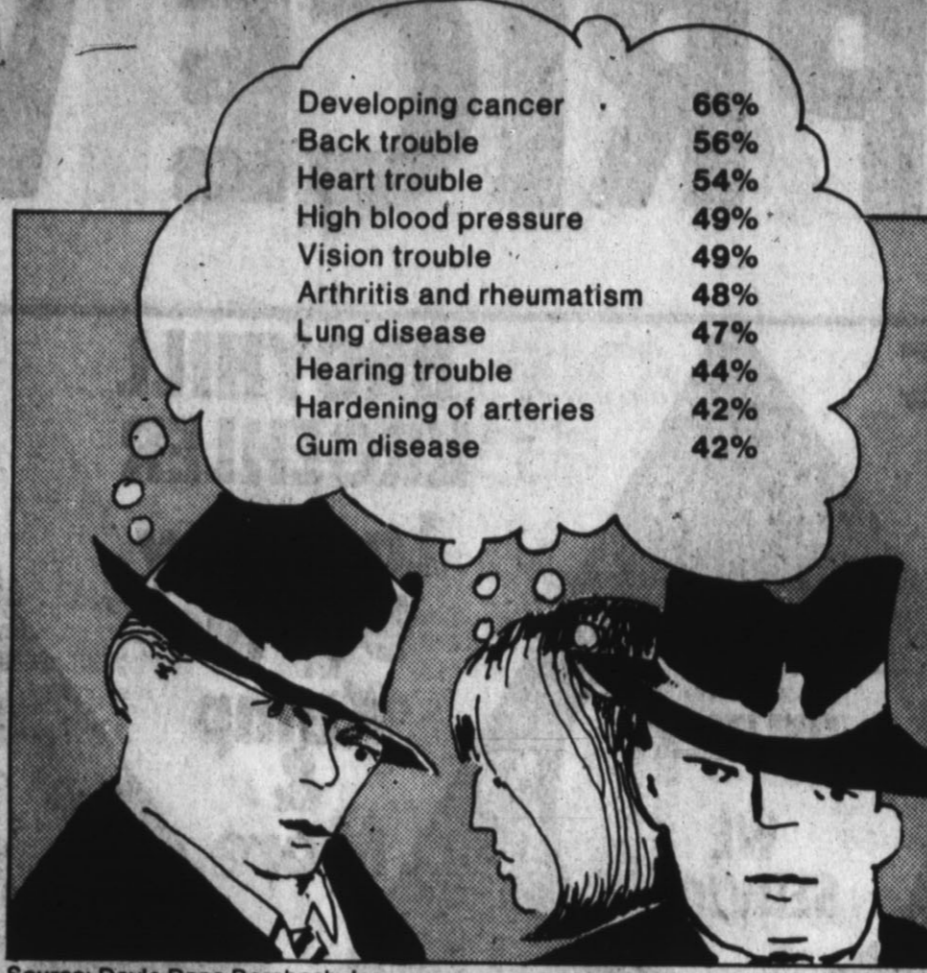

In a telephone interview from his Houston office, Hinckley said much the same thing.

"Philosophically, we're about 180 degrees apart," he said. "The only thing we have agreed on over the years is my daughter Carolyn."

"We kind of have an unwritten rule when we get together there are certain things we don't talk about," he added.

HL&P supported the creation of a public counsel at PUC.

WHAT CONCERNS US? Cancer tops list of Americans' health worries

Source: Doyle Dane Bernbach, Inc.
Fear of cancer tops the list of serious health concerns among Americans, according to a poll conducted by the Doyle Dane Bernbach ad agency. Life-threatening diseases dominate the list. But vision and hearing problems also were given high ratings — and back trouble is more of a concern than heart disease, the nation's No. 1 killer.

The Consumer Alert
by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Acquiring the services of a good insurance agent is the first step in understanding the business of life insurance. Choose your life insurance agent carefully. Look for a knowledgeable agent, one that has been in the business at least three years. Prepare a list of questions to clear up anything you may be unsure about. A few suggestions are:

—How would you keep my insurance program up to date?
—What life insurance companies do you represent?

A lot can be determined about the agent by the quality of companies he or she represents. While it's not necessary that the agent have a primary company, you should not select an agent on the basis of "exclusive representation." The agent who has a primary company should be willing to disclose its identity. The consumer should never deal with an agent who would offer you a rebate, or who would give you a rebate if you asked for one. The Texas Insurance Code prohibits agents from giving rebates. A rebate is any kind of inducement made by an insurance agent to encourage the consumer to sign a policy. The Code also prohibits consumers from receiving such rebates.

Finally, be wary if the agent has not successfully passed at least some of the 10 Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) examination. The CLU program is the most rigorous educational experience available to life insurance agents.

You should always try to gather as much information as possible about the agent with whom you plan to do business. Remember, the Attorney General's Office is available to help you with consumer fraud complaints and you should also contact the State Board of Insurance in Austin, Texas concerning insurance complaints. Call your Attorney General's Office in Austin, Dallas, Houston, El Paso, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio.

"Eureka," the state motto of California means "I have found it."

Country doctor, 74, banned from hospital

ALPINE, Texas (AP) - A feud is simmering in West Texas between an elderly country doctor who has been banned from the local hospital emergency room and the medical staff he claims has sensationalized his mistakes.

William Lockhart Jr., 74, had his emergency room privileges revoked by the Big Bend Memorial Hospital board in July because "the community looks to the hospital and medical board to protect them from questionable practice," hospital administrator Tom Santry said.

Among the allegations was that Lockhart, who helped found the only hospital in a Maryland-sized area of Texas scrubland, misdiagnosed at least seven cases, including one in which a woman was said to be suffering from Legionnaires' disease, Santry said.

The medical staff in this town of 7,000 checked with the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, which says about 100,000 cases of the deadly pneumonia-like disease are reported annually in the United States, "and this is not one of them," Santry said.

Lockhart also diagnosed an 81-year-old man as suffering from cerebral thrombosis, or a stroke. After consulting with another physician, that doctor determined the victim had a blood clot on the brain. The patient was rushed comatose to El Paso for treatment but survived, Lockhart said.

Lockhart, spry enough to brag that he could "whip anyone," said all doctors make mistakes, and that he shouldn't be singled out. "Yes, I misdiagnosed one case ... but all the cases got well."

Well is not good enough for hospital chief of staff Mark Pate, who confirmed that the Texas Board of Medical Examiners has been asked to look into Lockhart's practices.

John Sortore, spokesman for the state medical examiners' hearing division, said an inquiry is continuing. The Lockhart investigation could take months and "the end result might be nothing at all or might have consequences," Pate said.

Two hospital bylaws have been changed by the board that directly affect Lockhart, who has made house calls in this ranching town for 50 years.

One bylaw banned doctors 65 years and older - including Pate's father - from practicing in the emergency room unless a patient asks for that physician, and the second specifically requires Lockhart to treat trauma and critically ill victims only in the presence of another doctor.

The changes were in the "best interest of the hospital, general public and medical staff as a whole," Pate said.

Lockhart has charged that most of the 12-member staff acted maliciously to deny him emergency room access because the doctor - popular for treating patients at home but controversial for his political views - has more business than any of Alpine's nine younger physicians.

Santry said the board changes were enacted for the public's own welfare, with no bias and didn't represent a vendetta against Lockhart, who is the local housing board chairman and a self-described "liberal ... in a conservative community."

The charges, which Lockhart alleges were brewed up by Pate and former medical chief of staff Harold Miller, have backfired, Lockhart said. Miller has denied comment on the case.

There has been an "outpouring of affection and recognition by the people of this area that I didn't expect until after I died," Lockhart said.

For instance, Mrs. J.K. Miller, Mrs. J.C. Duncan, Jr., and Barbara Dirks, all of Fort Davis, wrote the Alpine Avalanche, saying, "When you take Dr. Lockhart out of the emergency room, who will there be to care?"

Lockhart said the changes in bylaws also robbed him of a source of income, because many times he is the only local doctor "not out on the golf course" and concerned enough to treat patients on off-hours and weekends.

Despite being banned from the emergency room, Lockhart said he treats up to 60 patients daily.

"I take care of the poor. My door of my practice is open to anyone, anytime, regardless of whether they have the money to pay."

Money is in the mind of some Alpine residents who are fed up with the doctors' feud, Avalanche publisher Bill Brooks said. He called the Lockhart case "a little battle between a bunch of rich egomaniacs."

Pate said the feud has split some in the community and turned "from a sardine into a case of Jaws."

That still may be true, Santry said, but Lockhart - who he said has had three heart bypass operations - should recognize the medical board has "taken steps to guarantee quality" in the hospital.

Lockhart also should recognize he's "not the same man (he) was 20 or 30 years ago," he added.

Public Utility Commission of Texas

Consumer Update

Some of the hottest weather we experience in Texas usually comes at the end of summer. We make much use of our air conditioners in August and September, and we see this reflected in our monthly utility bills.

What can you do to reduce those utility bills without sacrificing comfort and without making a sizable investment? The Public Utility Commission offers several no-cost suggestions for cutting cooling bills.

PUC Chairman Alan Erwin says, "Although no single action you take will make a noticeable dent in your utility bill, several small changes in your life-style can add up to big savings."

One of the most cost-effective actions you can take is to turn up your thermostat. For each degree that you move your thermostat up (using less cooling), it is estimated that you can save three percent on your cooling costs. Over an entire summer, this adds up.

You can set your thermostat to a higher temperature without feeling less comfortable if the air in the room is moving, you can feel as comfortable at 80 degrees as you feel in a 74-degree room where the air is still.

If your home is equipped with ceiling fans, use them in conjunction with your air conditioning. Otherwise, use portable oscillating fans (such as Texans were using before air conditioning became common). Remember, the fans use much less electricity than your air conditioning system uses.

Furthermore, if you plan to leave the house for longer than two hours, you can save even more by setting the thermostat higher than would be comfortable if you were home. An 86° home is a little warm to return to, but it will cool off quickly. There is no need to air condition an unoccupied house, and pets and plants will not suffer at a moderately higher than normal temperature.

Make sure that your air conditioning system is operating as efficiently as possible. Check the filter on the inside unit. During the cooling season this filter should be changed at least once a month.

Next, check the condenser coil on the unit outside the house to be sure that no debris is obstructing the passage of air. You can hose down the coil to remove any leaves or dirt or other debris that may have gathered there. Be sure to turn off your unit first.

Keeping your air conditioner properly maintained not only will make it perform more efficiently, it will make it last longer.

Remember also that you will not need to keep your house so cool if you dress appropriately. You will be more comfortable in short-sleeves, loose-fitting, unlined garments made of natural fibers such as cotton or linen.

It is a good idea to keep all of the curtains or shades tightly closed on the sunny side of the house. If you have a fireplace, make sure that you remembered to close the damper last spring. Also, check to see if the damper is tightly closed; if not cover or seal it to prevent cool air from leaking up your chimney.

Most of these suggestions are simply good common sense. But, as Chairman Erwin says, "Common sense is one of the best ways to keep your utility bills down and still be comfortable."

If you would like more detailed information on how to hold your utility bills down, it is available from: Public Utility Commission of Texas Energy Efficiency Division 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd. Austin, Texas 78757

What is emphysema?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing about the lung disease emphysema. Is it a form of tuberculosis in the final stages? Is the sputum from the patients contagious and is it a communicable disease that can spread throughout the family or community?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please tell us about herpes zoster? My husband has it on his left cheek. What causes it? How does a person get it and what is the best treatment for it? We get a lot of information from everyone who has never had it but has heard about it. Is it contagious?

DEAR READER — No, emphysema is not tuberculosis. It is not cancer and it is not contagious. It cannot be spread to others. People who have tuberculosis may also develop emphysema. And people who have emphysema can also develop cancer of the lungs. That is particularly true if the emphysema is the type associated with long-term use of tobacco. About 80 percent of lung cancers are in people who smoke cigarettes.

Emphysema does occur in people who do not smoke. That form may be an inherited predisposition to the disease. Basically emphysema refers to a loss of elasticity of the air sacs of your lungs. As a result they are floppy and don't spring back to their normal shape at the end of inspiration. It is analogous to an overstretched balloon that doesn't return to its original shape after you let the air escape.

Emphysema is often accompanied by chronic bronchitis which is narrowing of the air passageways and is also related to tobacco and other pollutants. There is no cure but a lot can be done to relieve the symptoms and prevent progression of the disease.

For more details read Chronic Bronchitis and Emphysema in The Health Letter 17-8, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — It is caused by the chicken pox virus and is also known as shingles. Your husband undoubtedly had chicken pox earlier in life. The virus has remained dormant in the sensory nerve fibers and is now active.

The outbreak of tiny blisters and rash is along the anatomical distribution of the sensory nerve involved. It can be on the chest, thigh or, as in your husband's case, the face.

There used to be some concern that a person could get shingles upon exposure to a person with chicken pox. That has been discredited and is believed to be a coincidence.

A susceptible person who has never had chicken pox can get it from a person with active shingles but this is far less likely than getting it from a person with chicken pox. If you have already had chicken pox there is no danger of your getting either it or shingles from contact with a person with shingles.

Treatment is difficult and opinions vary. In general, mild cases may be treated symptomatically. Some doctors believe in giving corticosteroids to avoid persistent pain after the initial attack is over. What we really need is an effective medicine to kill viruses and we are not quite there yet. Militias rival armies

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The militias that have brought Lebanon to the brink of a new civil war range from pightly armed irregulars to standing private armies with tanks and heavy artillery.

But in Beirut's embattled streets, as U.S. Marines learned in combat this week, small arms are usually the most useful.

None of the militias is as large or strong as the newly rebuilt Lebanese army, and they cannot withstand a full assault by the regulars. But the army is incapable of crushing them completely, or preventing most from simply hiding their guns and merging with the local population.

For the U.S. Marines and French, British and Italian soldiers in the multinational peacekeeping force, it is difficult even to tell the militiamen apart, and impossible both politically and militarily for the foreign peacekeepers to take any part in army actions against them.

The multinational force — 1,200 U.S. Marines, and 4,200 French, British and Italian troops — can only defend itself when directly attacked, and run patrols to establish "presence" and lend confidence to regular Lebanese soldiers.

The Marine unit is armed with a half-dozen tanks, armored personnel carriers, a battery of 155mm howitzers and rocket-equipped Cobra helicopter gunships. The six-ship navy squadron that supports the Marines has an additional 600 Marines aboard. And the U.S. aircraft carrier Eisenhower, with its massive airborne firepower, has moved in close to the Beirut coast.

But all the weaponry has proved of little use.

The artillery has fired once, and one Cobra fired one rocket. Only the Marines' rifles and machine guns have been used heavily in the past several days, as they came under fire from the ground and by artillery. The heavy

U.S. weapons here are designed for regular war, not to combat urban guerrillas.

In the four days of fighting with Shiite Moslem and leftist Druse militiamen in Beirut, the Lebanese army used its U.S.-supplied M-48 tanks, armored personnel carriers and mortars to push the militiamen back again and again, finally regaining control of the west side of the city.

But only 50 or 60 militiamen were captured in the battle, and fewer were killed, out of the hundreds who took part.

Beirut is divided into the mostly Christian east and mostly Moslem west. In the west, the 500,000-600,000 population is divided roughly between Sunni Moslems, essentially conservative, and Shiite Moslems, mostly religious fundamentalists who admire Iran's Islam-inspired revolution. West Beirut also has 20,000 Druses, members of a splinter Moslem sect who also populate nearby mountains.

East Beirut is dominated by an estimated 450,000 Maronite Christians, nearly all loyal to the right-wing Phalange Party and the Christian militia alliance it dominates, the "Lebanese Forces," which took little part in the fighting in the capital this week.

The Lebanese Forces are the nearest thing to a regular army among the irregular groups. Armed mostly by Israel, the estimated 2,500 hard-core rightists are armed with everything up to older U.S.-made Sherman tanks and old Soviet-made T-32s captured from the Palestine Liberation Organization by Israel.

The Phalange can arm several thousand more Christians in time of need, and even runs its own forced conscription program among Christian youths.

Its main opponent is the leftist Druse Progressive Socialist Party and its militia, also heavily armed with artillery and Grad and Katyusha rockets, supplied mostly by Syria.

The Druses are believed to have about 2,000 regular fighters, and claim they can field and arm 6,000 to 10,000.

Both the Christian rightists and Druse leftists have most of their fighters deployed in the Israeli-occupied Chouf and Aley mountain regions, near Beirut. The two factions have battled for control there for months. Many Lebanese fear that when Israel pulls its troops out, a move expected within days, the two militia forces will launch all-out war on each other.

The third major militia force around the capital is the Shiite "Amal" (Hope) led by Nabih Berri.

The Amal were allies of the PLO during last year's Israeli invasion, and were armed and equipped by the Palestinians. They lost almost all their heavier weapons after the PLO was pushed out of the south and Beirut, and retain mostly automatic rifles and rocket-propelled grenades.

The Amal have almost no standing force, but are able to quickly muster several thousand irregular fighters. Many are in the southern part of Lebanon. But many Shiite refugees fled to Beirut last year, undoubtedly bringing Amal guerrillas with them.

The government army has 32,000 soldiers and is undergoing an intensive program of training. About 20,000 are veterans, but they took almost no part in last year's war and for the eight years before that stayed mostly in their barracks, not strong or united enough to oppose the leftists and Palestinians who controlled west Beirut and the south.

Clearing and regaining control of West Beirut this week demonstrated that the army could operate well against lightly armed guerrillas, but few people suggest that its control is anything but tenuous.

FAITH SHOWS THE FALSE PREMISE OF THE "NEW MORALITY"

The so-called "new morality" we hear so much about these days is neither new nor moral, because its activities have been practiced and condemned since the dawn of history; and yet it appears to be gaining an increasing acceptance among the very people who would have been outraged at the idea only a few years ago. Nevertheless, under the guise of personal liberty these destructive habits bind us instead with the chains of a self-imposed slavery and demonstrate a total lack of respect for our minds and bodies by subjecting them to proven health hazards. It is not too late to learn that those rules of conduct set forth in the Bible were pretty good ones after all, and that those who follow them and go to Church regularly are always ahead in the long run.

"And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them."
—Ephesians 5:11

Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen to oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.
—Alexander Pope
