

City breaks one-month-old water usage record

Exceptionally High

Connie Urbanczyk, left, and Ted Coleman check out Hereford's Southwestern water well this morning, discovering the level to be 29 feet. The two Hereford Water Department employees explained levels normally read higher in the morning than later during the day, when water leaves the storage faster than the well pumps can generate. Coleman said the reading for this particular pump has been as low as five feet this summer.

Hereford's one-month-old, all-time record for water use was shattered during the period from July 18 to August 17, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne.
More than 233.5 million gallons were used by local residents for the recent 31-day period. That represents a 13 percent increase of the 206.8 million gallons consumed from June 18 to July 17. Last summer, Bayne said, the average monthly water use was around 120-125 million gallons.
"Normally we hit our peak in the last week of July," Bayne said. This summer's peak day for water use was Thursday, August 4, he claimed, when more than 8.6 million gallons of water were used by area residents.

Despite the consecutive records, Bayne does not anticipate a need for water rationing this year. "We're just holding on," he said, "though we still encourage people not to waste water."
Following the June-July record revelation, Bayne said some rationing might have to occur "unless we get some relief pretty soon."
Good fortune rather than plentiful precipitation seems to be pulling Hereford through its water situation. The total amount of local rainfall during July and August, according to meteorological reports from KPAN, was just 1.29 inches. The average amount for those months is a combined 4.66 inches.

During a year, Hereford usually receives 12.35 inches of snow and rain during the first eight months. Through August of 1983, 11.08 inches have fallen on the town, KPAN's Chip Formby said.
"We had a really wet winter and spring," Bayne said the latter part of July. "People's flowers and yards got a good, wet start." The sudden dryness, however, in effect had the city going directly from winter to summer, he explained.
At that time, three city pumps were down for repairs. Earlier this week, Bayne said of the pump situation, "We're still getting by. We've got one well we're not using for the rest of the summer." Many of the other wells, he claimed, are being pumped infrequently since they are dry or have rapidly diminishing water levels.

Though a few customers had water bills exceeding $100 from the July reading, Bayne said, the most recent billing's highest charges have been between $60 and $80.
Water rates were raised this summer for the first time in more than 15 years, as on June 20 Hereford City Commissioners raised the minimum rate from $3 to $5.
The surcharge per thousand gallons used over 2,000 was lifted from 60 to 80 cents.

Soviet fighter shoots down Korean jetliner

By The Associated Press

A Soviet jet fighter shot down a South Korean jumbo jet carrying 269 people after tracking it for more than 2½ hours when it strayed over the Soviet island of Sakhalin, Secretary of State George P. Shultz said today.
Among those aboard was a U.S. congressman and a search was under way for any survivors in the frigid waters off Sakhalin. Japanese and South Korean officials also believed the plane was shot down in the area.
Shultz told a Washington news conference the unarmed civilian plane was downed with a missile, that "there was no excuse whatsoever for this appalling act," and that the U.S. government reacted "with revulsion."

He said there was no evidence the Soviets had warned the plane, although he said the Soviet pilot was "close enough for a visual inspection." He said as many as eight Soviet jets were involved.
Shultz said the U.S. government called in the Soviet charge d'affaires in Washington and expressed "grave concern" and demanded an explanation.
There was no immediate reaction from the Soviet Union, which earlier denied an erroneous Korean Air Lines announcement that the plane had landed on Sakhalin. KAL did not say why it made such an announcement, but informed sources in Seoul said apparently it was based on premature information that proved false and a desire to comfort relatives gathered at the Seoul airport.

Japan said today that it appeared "likely" the Soviets downed the airliner.
"If this (attack) is true, it should be regarded as very regrettable indeed," Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe told a Tokyo news conference. Japanese radar indicated the Korean Air Lines jumbo was pursued and shot down at an altitude of about six miles by three MiG-23s about 3:30 a.m. — 2:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday — and plummeted into the Japan Sea.

The seas in the area were reported calm, but the temperature was about 50 degrees. According to survival manuals, a person can last in such waters for about 50 minutes. Up to 3½ hours there is a 50-50 chance of survival, and after 3½ hours death is 99 percent certain.
South Korean officials said U.S. and Japanese search planes were scouting the area, and Japanese defense radar indicated a large number of Soviet aircraft appeared to be flying over the zone, possibly searching for survivors. Among the passengers was Rep. Lawrence P. McDonald, D-Ga.

Lawrence's aide, Tommy Toles, told reporters by telephone from Rome, Ga., that South Korean intelligence officers also said three Soviet fighters took part in the attack.
The Japanese newspaper Sankei Shimbun said Japan's Defense Agency picked up air-to-ground communication from Soviet planes over Sakhalin saying "open fire" and "shot down." South Korean newspapers said it was believed the Soviet MiGs downed the jumbo with air-to-air missiles.

Solidarity union supporters observe anniversary

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Thousands of Solidarity supporters clashed with police in three Polish cities on the third anniversary of the outlawed labor union. It was first widespread protest since martial law was lifted last month.
Several people were reported injured in the street battles Wednesday in Gdansk, Nowa Huta and Wroclaw, but there were no firm figures. Less violent demonstrations were reported in Warsaw, Czestochowa, Lublin, Poznan, Krakow, Lesnica and Olstyn.

Solidarity chief Lech Walesa laid a red and white bouquet at a workers' monument outside the Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk where Solidarity was founded on Aug. 31, 1980. Martial law authorities outlawed the union on Oct. 8, 1982.
A police cordon stopped about 2,000 supporters from escorting Walesa to the monument.
Riot police charged about 6,000 Solidarity supporters marching through the Baltic port after Mass at the Church of St. Brysida, beating some of them and firing tear gas.
A number of marchers were arrested and several people were hurt, a police official said.

The most intense violence erupted in the southern industrial city of Nowa Huta where riot police blocked a march by about 10,000 steel workers by firing tear gas and spraying them with water cannon.

The demonstrators retaliated with stones, and police charged them with rubber batons in a street fight lasting more than two hours.

Western witnesses said at least 20 people were injured and many arrested, but official figures were not available.
In the southwestern city of Wroclaw, police turned back a crowd of 5,000 Solidarity backers trying to march to a union plaque at the main streetcar depot.
The demonstrators then tried to gather at the grave of a worker killed during a protest a year ago.
More than 1,000 steel and automobile factory workers marched without hassles from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in Warsaw, but later police forced a crowd of 5,000 marching toward the Old Town into side streets; arrested several

Congress, Reagan spar over role in Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far, the Reagan administration and Congress are only shadow-boxing over the Marines' role in Lebanon.
The death of two Marines has triggered questions about the legality of their presence under the War Powers Act of 1973, but neither Congress nor the president is looking for a messy confrontation.
Enacted while American public opinion was turning against the Vietnam War, the resolution limits the power of the president to send American troops into combat without congressional approval.
If troops are in a war zone they must be withdrawn within 60 to 90 days unless Congress enacts special legislation permitting them to remain.
Two prominent Democratic members of Congress — Sen. John Glenn of Ohio and Rep. Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin — have urged President Reagan to set the stage for a vote on the Marines' presence in Lebanon.
Glenn, a presidential aspirant, and Zablocki, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, want Reagan to invoke the 1973 resolution. That would mean notifying Congress that the Marines had been introduced into "hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by the circumstances."

That would start the clock running. Without congressional approval, they would have to be withdrawn in 60 days. The president would have an additional 30 days to keep them in Lebanon if he certifies the troops are needed to ensure a safe withdrawal.

But Glenn and Zablocki are not pushing hard yet, and Congress has not been swept with the kind of fervor that marked the final years of the Vietnam War.
Seizing the initiative from the White House would carry a heavy responsibility. Congress could be saddled with the dilemma of risking public displeasure over exposing the Marines to risks or causing a pullout that could lead to heavier fighting in Lebanon or even the downfall of the central government there.

Fake designer bags confiscated

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Acting on a seizure order signed by a federal judge, U.S. marshals raided four businesses and a residence and confiscated about 200 handbags illegally boasting the Gucci designer logo.
The raids were called "extraordinary" by U.S. District Judge Fred Shannon, who signed the seizure order Wednesday at the request of attorneys representing the Italian-based Gucci company in a trademark infringement suit.

"I think we accomplished what we set out to do," said Paul E. Krieger, a Houston lawyer representing Gucci. "Our main goal is not to hurt anyone, but to get the counterfeit Guccis off the street. This is the first wave. Others can be warned."
Although the bags taken from one store were of high quality, fake Guccis from two other stores, a flea market and a northeast San Antonio residence were vastly inferior to the real items, said Paula Scott, a buyer for Frost Bros., an exclusive Texas outlet for many Gucci products.
Ms. Scott speculated the high-quality counterfeits might have been imported from Italy and may have been made from stolen Gucci fabric.

Suspect reportedly lived at feedyard

Flavio Joe Baca, 30, who Tuesday was arrested in connection with a murder of a Canyon man outside an Amarillo bar, reportedly had been living in a local feedlot.
According to the Amarillo Globe-News, the Las Vegas, Nev., native had been living in the Deaf Smith County Feedlot since July. The suspect claimed that residence before being charged with murder and placed in Potter County Jail. Judge George Dowlen of the 181st District Court ruled Baca be held in lieu of bail of $30,000.

Baca is suspected to have killed Kenneth Twane Friemel, 23, early Tuesday morning outside the Rodeo Club, 2700 S. Georgia. Friemel, who was completing a summer job as bouncer at the bar, was reportedly escorting Baca out of the club for a second time when the murder occurred.
Friemel died of a stab wound in the heart. A scuffle may have preceded the stabbing, as the Globe-News said law enforcement officers reported injuries to the left side of Baca's head and face.

Marshall Day, former Brand editor and now publisher of The Seminole Sentinel, tells the story about a priest who was walking along a residential street with fine homes. It was a bitter cold day, the sky overcast, and the wide lawns were covered with snow.

Suddenly, the priest spotted a small boy on the front porch of one of the homes. The doorbell was one of those old-fashioned manual types set high on the door.
The boy was too short to ring it, but was trying to reach it with jumps that were ineffective. Every now and then he would stop and warm his hands by breathing on them.
"The poor little fellow," thought the priest and, altering his direction, walked to the porch. He patted the boy protectively on the shoulder while ringing the bell vigorously with his other hand.
"And now what, my little man?" he said as he smiled down at the lad.
"Now," said the boy breathlessly, "we run like H-I-I!"

Eight elderly persons killed in cottage fire

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — A fire gutted a cottage-style dormitory at a home for mentally retarded adults early today, killing eight people, authorities said.
"It's probably the worst fire since I've been with the department," said Tom Griffin, assistant fire chief of Gwinnett County.
The fire broke out about 1:30 a.m. at Allandale Village near Suwanee, about 35 miles northeast of Atlanta. Authorities said there were 16 residents and two staff members in the dormitory, and 10 managed to escape.
Authorities said the dead were four men and four women, but their identities were not released immediately. None of the survivors appeared to be injured.
"We have had eight confirmed deaths," said Laura Lee Maxwell, dispatcher with the Gwinnett County Fire Department. "As far as we know, there are no other victims."

ing.
"It had cedar siding, and that doesn't take long to burn," Griffin said.
Jean Carnright, secretary to the director at the home, said the fire began about 1:30 a.m. "We assume it (the cause) was the wiring but it is being investigated," she said. "It's just awful. I just can't talk about it."

Ms. Carnright said no other buildings were damaged and many other residents were not aware of the fire until they awoke.
"A lot of them slept right through it. Thank goodness," she said. "We're trying to get things under control. We don't want them to panic."

Tornado strikes an East Texas town

JASPER, Texas (AP) — A tornado struck this East Texas town early this morning, knocking out power to many residents and leaving behind debris that closed several streets, authorities said. No injuries were reported.

Trees knocked down power lines around the city said Larry Todd, spokesman for the Department of Public Safety. The twister struck about 3:30 a.m., Todd said.

A Jasper radio reporter, Art Lay, said the tornado also removed the roof of a concession stand at the high school football stadium. A tree fell through a house and another fell on an automobile, he said.

The twister cut a swath from southwest to northwest across the city, said Johnnie Huckels, dispatcher for the Jasper County sheriff's office.

Houses in the Shady Acres development one-quarter mile west of Jasper on U.S. Highway 190 were damaged, she said. The tornado then struck Jasper elementary and middle schools.

But Ms. Huckels said the worst damage was on the city's fashionable west side, where large trees were uprooted and tossed onto cars and homes. Large sections of the area remained without power because of downed lines, she said.

Sheriff Aubrey Cole said the presence of large trees in the area heightened the damage.

All city schools were cancelled today, said Ms. Huckels.

"The twister uprooted trees and twisted them up," said Ms. Huckels. "That is mainly what they are working on, getting the tree limbs out and the power restored."

"One lady said that she thought maybe hail was hitting the top of her house, but it was limbs and trees falling. The only good thing about it was that her house smelled like pine."

Ms. Huckels said that the twister made a "thunderous noise" when it roared through the city.

Governor names judges, district attorney

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has appointed Alonzo Rodriguez of Sinton and Elma Salinas of Laredo as judges of new state district courts.

Rodriguez, 52, was named judge of the 343rd Judicial District, which includes Aransas, Bee, Live Oak McMullen and San Patricio counties.

Ms. Salinas, 30, was appointed judge of the 341st Judicial District, Webb County.

Both courts were created by the 1983 Legislature.

The governor also named Clarence Moore Jr., a 29-year-old Beeville lawyer, to the new job of district attorney of the 156th Judicial District, which includes Bee, Live Oak and McMullen counties.

Safety council says toll could reach 550

CHICAGO (AP) — Increased traffic accompanying the Labor Day weekend could result in as many as 550 deaths nationwide, according to projections by the National Safety Council.

During a similar, non-holiday period this time of the year, about 370 traffic fatalities could be expected, the council said Wednesday. But as millions of visitors and vacationers take to the road to enjoy the last big holiday of summer, between 450 and 550 motorists may be killed, the council said.

For counting purposes, the weekend begins at 6 p.m. local time Friday and runs through midnight Monday.

A year ago, 483 people died during the three-day observance. The highest toll for a similar Labor Day period was 638 fatalities in 1971. In a four-day observance in 1967, 732 traffic deaths were recorded.

Toulouse-Lautrec lithograph stolen

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Toulouse-Lautrec lithograph valued at about $25,000 has been stolen from the McNay Art Museum by thieves who replaced it with a note reading, "Temporarily removed from exhibit," authorities said.

The print by the French artist, entitled "Marcelle Lender, En Buste," probably was stolen late Tuesday afternoon, police said. The theft was not discovered until Wednesday.

The 9-inch-by-12-inch lithograph was on indefinite loan from anonymous lenders and was insured, according to museum curator Norris Ferguson.

"(The owners) are not real happy about it," he said, "but they understand that museums are vulnerable to theft."

Police believe the thief carried in a hammer, pliers and a screwdriver to remove the lithograph from its plexiglass frame.

The museum's guest list, which all visitors must sign, also was stolen, probably to protect the thief's identity, Ferguson said.

The theft was discovered only after the museum's registrar noticed the note in the lithograph's frame appeared to have been composed on a typewriter different from the museum's, he said.

The thief will encounter difficulty trying to sell the lithograph, which Henri Toulouse-Lautrec did in 1896, because it is so well-known, Ferguson said.

The stolen print marks the McNay's fourth theft in 29 years and the museum plans to tighten its security, the curator said.

"Anybody carrying anything beyond the size of a small purse will be searched when they leave," he said. "I think we've finally realized that San Antonio no longer is the size of a small town."

The Jerry Lawson Print Gallery, in which the lithograph was exhibited, has been indefinitely closed to the public.

Nurse seeks new court-appointed attorney

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A nurse charged with injecting seven children with a paralyzing drug says she will ask for a new court-appointed attorney to represent her.

Genevieve Jones said Wednesday that one of her two attorneys, Joe Grady Tack, has expressed a desire to be removed from the case.

State District Judge Murray Jordan probably will rule on Ms. Jones' request at a Sept. 15 pre-trial hearing here, where he also will consider a motion to have Ms. Jones' indigency status reconsidered.

Kerr County Attorney Ritt Jones filed the motion after the nurse posted $225,000 bond.

Ms. Jones is charged in Kerr County with murdering 15-month-old Chelsea Ann McClellan with injections of a powerful muscle relaxant, and causing serious seizures in six other children.

Her trial on the murder charge has been set for Oct. 17 in Georgetown, about 100 miles away.

Ms. Jones worked at Medical Center during the period being investigated, but has denied any wrongdoing.

Names are worth more than money

A dollar bill with George Washington's picture and reproduced signature on it is worth only a dollar. Indeed, the value of that dollar has been shrinking every year.

If you have a letter with George Washington's signature on it it is worth $950 and that value increases every year.

Of all collectibles, none has been a more consistent money-maker than "autographs."

Americans who have collected autographs of athletes, movie stars and other celebrities are now buying and selling and trading in an expanding hobby market.

One group of collectors aggressively pursues autographs of United States presidents.

Prices and demand are increasing so rapidly that the hobby has become an investment science.

The value of most presidential autographs has doubled—even quadrupled—in five years. Few investments can match that!

Lee Simonson is an autograph authority, a dealer out of Lewiston, New York.

He announces a new record price paid for a presidential autograph. A handwritten letter written and signed by William Henry Harrison during his 30 day term in office was auctioned in New York for $120,000 — purchased for the Malcolm Forbes collection.

What's a man like Forbes doing in this "hobby?"

One West Coast buyer who asks that his name not be used (mostly because he fears robbery) is investing millions in buying thousands of presidential autographs.

The handwritten Truman letter in which he threatened to kick a music critic in the groin auctioned for $50,000.

Handwritten letters from other modern presidents are increasingly dear.

A handwritten letter from President Reagan defending his friendship with Frank Sinatra sold for $12,500.

A handwritten letter from Jimmy Carter is worth upwards of $2,500.

One Nixon letter auctioned for $6,200.

Most presidential autographs, when not part of a handwritten letter, will sell on the open market for under $500. So the collector can start small.

And because the total number of presidential signatures is limited to less than 2.3 million pieces, their value to collectors cannot go anywhere but up.

Face it, there are just so many Washington and Lincoln's to go around.

Interesting, no handwritten letter signed by Dwight Eisenhower while he was President has ever appeared on the market. If you can find one you're instant-rich!

US encouraged by Lebanese

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is encouraged by the Lebanese army's apparent success in routing Moslem leftists from west Beirut and is voicing confidence that President Amin Gemayel can rapidly extend the army's control to nearby mountain areas.

State Department officials said Wednesday the next big test will be in the Chouf mountains. The Israelis have said they will withdraw their forces no later than Sept. 7, regardless of whether the Lebanese army is ready to move in.

While one official said he thinks the army can take control, he cautioned that "it is one thing to fight in the streets of Beirut, but it's a different matter in the mountains where the (opposing) forces are dug in with heavy weapons."

Gemayel is trying to forge an agreement between Moslem and Christian elements for safe passage into the mountains by the Lebanese army when the Israelis leave. He needs the approval of the Druse and its leader, Walid Jubbait. The Druse is a Moslem sect whose militia controls much of the area and is suspicious of the Christian-dominated Lebanese army.

The State Department official, who insisted on anonymity, said Gemayel is seeking a "national reconciliation" that could involve a redistribution of power-sharing in the Lebanese government in order to get the support of Moslem groups.

"It is a question of how much Gemayel will have to give to get them all to sit down," he said. For the time being, an agreement could emerge that will set rules for the army's behavior and movements in the Chouf, with a promise for follow-up meetings on power-sharing.

Secretary of State George

Shultz told a news conference Wednesday that the United States "firmly supports" Gemayel's latest efforts.

"We intend to help President Gemayel in his new initiative in every way possible, through our own efforts and through cooperation with our partners in the multinational force — France, Italy and Great Britain," he said.

The secretary said there are no plans to increase the size or peacekeeping role of the 1,200-member Marine contingent in Beirut, but that there might be an expanded role as part of a general withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon.

Shultz also said Wednesday he doesn't believe U.S. Marines have been singled out as targets in Lebanon, although messages have been intercepted saying, "shoot at the Marines."

The Reagan administration has refused to declare a hostile situation in the Lebanese capital under the War Powers Act of 1973. Such a declaration would require President Reagan to withdraw the Marines within 60 to 90 days unless Congress authorizes them to remain in Beirut or declares war.

Shultz said Congress has been kept informed on a periodic basis about the role of the Marines, and that consultations will continue. "The War Powers Act is being complied with," he said.

Judge prepares decision about Braniff

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge prepared his decision today on a Chicago-based hotel chain's reorganization plan to get Braniff International back into the air again.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers tentatively approved the plan Tuesday after Braniff lawyers said creditors would go along with the reorganization plan.

The Hyatt Corp. has agreed to put up $70 million in cash and loan guarantees in exchange for 80 percent of the new airline's stock.

Flower's stamp of approval was needed to put 2,000 employees and 30 planes back to work this winter, ending a lengthy court battle that began when Braniff halted operations in May 1982 under a $1 billion debt.

The airline had about 9,000 employees and 60 jets when it sought protection from its creditors under bankruptcy laws.

Interested parties would have 10 days to appeal Flower's decision. An earlier Braniff reorganization attempt, calling for Braniff to lease planes to Pacific Southwest Airlines, was scrapped by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The grounded airline overcame two barriers on Wednesday.

Flowers gave his okay to the overwhelming positive vote that Braniff International creditors gave on Tuesday to plans by Hyatt to get Braniff flying again.

Earlier Wednesday, the Hyatt plan won the approval of the federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp.

"The major stumbling block has now been removed," Braniff board member and former chairman Howard Putnam said Wednesday.

The PBGC guarantees a certain level of pension benefits for the various Braniff employees — Teamsters, machinists and management personnel. The agency had objected to the Hyatt plan, saying it was not receiving enough money to fulfill its obligations toward Braniff employees.

Christian villagers "butchered"

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The rightist-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio today charged that leftist Druse militiamen "butchered" 40 Christian villagers in retaliation to a Lebanese army sweep of Moslem Shiite and Druse militia strongholds in west Beirut.

The allegation came as the Lebanese army mopped up scattered pockets of militia resistance in west Beirut after the sweep, which the government viewed as a crucial test of its strength.

The Voice of Lebanon, operated by the Christian Phalange Party, said the "horrible massacre" took place in the village of Bmariam, in the Syrian-controlled Upper Metn mountains 19 miles east of Beirut.

The broadcast said the Druse militiamen stormed the homes of the village's few remaining Christians and "butchered about 40 elderly persons and children with knives, including the town's priest, Gergis El-Rai." It said only one resident survived.

In the capital, sporadic rifle shots echoed in the streets as the U.S.-trained army troops flushed out a few remaining, rebellious militiamen from hideouts in residential neighborhoods.

However, the city was generally quiet just a day after 10,000 troops with tank and artillery support moved through Druse and Shiite strongholds in house-to-house fighting.

Residents were outdoors after a 24-hour curfew, taking stock of the destruction caused by four days of fighting and heavy bombardment that left at least 94 dead, including two U.S. Marines on Monday, five French soldiers, and 42 Lebanese troops. At least 413 people were injured.

Marines and civilians at the U.S. Embassy overlooking the Mediterranean Sea said they had no trouble during the night, and all was reported peaceful at Beirut's closed international airport, the base of the U.S. Marine contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force.

"It's great, quiet. Had a night sleep and washed for the first time in three days," said Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan, 45, of Shenandoah, Ga.

The state radio repeatedly said the sweep was a crucial test of whether President Amin Gemayel's government was "to be or not to be."

Senior Lebanese officials, pleased by the performance of the army in west Beirut, said they now felt the force could move into Lebanon's contested central mountains and establish order when Israeli troops pull back.

The Consumer Alert

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—If you are one of the 12.5 million Americans over the age of 65 who owns a house, chances are that it is your largest asset. After putting time and money into a house over the years, you could be in a financial situation where it would be helpful to get some of that investment back.

There are financing methods currently available that allow older homeowners to unlock the value, or "equity," in their homes without having to move or repay loans right away.

One method of financing allows you to sell your house but still stay in it. It is an arrangement called sale/leaseback. With this plan you sell your house and receive a lump sum payment or a monthly income. The important point is that as part of the contract, you are allowed to live in the house for the rest of your life by paying a monthly rent. The only difference is that now you have the extra cash to improve your standard of living or to pay for fixtures, such as ramps or handrails, that you may need to remain self-sufficient. And, after your death, the property is taken over by the owner.

If you don't want to sell because you want to keep your house in the family, sale/leaseback arrangements make it possible for a family member to be the buyer. That way, you are taken care of financially and your house is secure for your dependents.

One advantage of a sale/leaseback is that all the terms and agreements are specified in the beginning. You are able to plan your future with more certainty by budgeting for major expenses and saving for those unexpected ones.

There are two types of loans for older homeowners who want to cash in on the equity of their home and still retain property ownership. One, called the deferred payment loan, allows the borrower to receive a lump sum of money, but to hold off on repayment of all interest and principal until a specified future date or until the house is sold.

The second type of loan is called a reverse annuity mortgage. It is like a conventional mortgage loan but in reverse. Homeowners receive monthly payments based on the value of the house. At a specified future date, the loan must be repaid. Usually the homeowners plan to repay reverse annuity mortgages when they sell their home. The loans can be used in any way. For example, they can convert extra space into a rental room. Or, the added income can also be used to supplement monthly living expenses.

There are a variety of methods available to older homeowners for turning home equity into cash. These are not for everyone. There are both risks and costs involved. Before deciding to participate in any of these plans, it is important to seek legal and financial advice. The Attorney General's office is here to answer your questions. Houston, Dallas firms negotiating merger

DALLAS (AP) — A merger being negotiated between a major downtown law firm here and Fulbright & Jaworski in Houston would create the nation's second largest law firm, officials said Tuesday.

Lawyers said that the Houston firm's proposed merger with Hughes & Hill of Dallas would establish a 40-lawyer firm that would be influential in Texas politics, business and legal affairs.

The Dallas firm is headed by former state Attorney General John Hill, and tax specialist Vester Hughes. Hill said he plans to run for chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court next year.

The Houston firm, which was headed by Leon Jaworski until his death last December, has recently battled state Attorney General Jim Mattox in a billion-dollar lawsuit over oilfield royalties.

The National Law Journal in New York said the firm, with 325 lawyers, is the nation's 11th largest.

Representatives of both firms Tuesday confirmed they have discussed a possible merger, but declined to give details.

"It's at a very preliminary stage," said Thomas W. Luce III, general partner of Hughes & Hill. He said negotiations may last "another month or two."

The firm, which has 79 lawyers, ranks 246th in size nationally, and eighth in Dallas.

Hundreds of riot police were concentrated in downtown Warsaw throughout the evening, keeping 200 to 300 Solidarity supporters in the Church of St. Ann for several hours.

Several thousand people milled around the normally empty streets until late evening, but there were no new demonstrations.

In Poznan, central Poland, riot police turned away several hundred people chanting Solidarity slogans trying to march from a church to a union monument, official sources said.

Several hundred people marched briefly in Krakow, the administrative center near Nowa Huta, and dispersed peacefully, officials said.

Polish sources reported similar short and peaceful demonstrations in Legnica, near Wroclaw, and in Olsztyn, in northeastern Poland.

Witnesses tell of water torture

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston man testifying in a federal civil rights case against a former Texas sheriff and three of his deputies says he was forced to endure three water torture treatments during which he falsely confessed to burglaries.

Two other men, including a former deputy, said they witnessed those or similar incidents.

The disclosures came Wednesday in the first day of testimony in the trial of former San Jacinto County Sheriff James C. "Humpty" Parker. Parker, along with John Glover, Carl Lee and Floyd Baker, are accused of violating jail inmates' civil rights and with depriving people of liberty without due process of law.

Vernell Harkless, a bulldozer operator in Houston, demonstrated to the jury of seven men and six women in U.S. District Judge James DeAnda's court how he was handcuffed to a chair, had a towel tied around his head and then had water poured into the towel so he couldn't breathe.

"When you're going to tell the truth — kick," Harkless said he was told. "I was frightened the whole time. I struggled. I kicked for them. "I talked and signed something. I thought I was going to be strangled to death."

Harkless, the first of several torture victims the government says it will present, said authorities accused him of being the leader of a burglary ring. He subsequently served two years in the San Jacinto County jail where he said he "got along with them well after that."

Harkless had great difficulty under cross examination recalling names and dates. But he insisted Parker was present at two of the torture sessions and Glover participated in all three.

Bertrand Moser, Glover's attorney, noted that Harkless denied during sentencing in 1976 that he had been coerced or threatened into pleading guilty on the burglary charges.

Vernon Perry, who acknowledged Wednesday he was guilty of burglary and is on 10 years' probation for the conviction, said he watched as Harkless and another man, Robert Jackson, underwent the torture "three or four times."

"He was gasping for air," Perry said. "He couldn't breathe. I was scared. I thought I'd be next." Parker, he said, was giving the orders. Glover poured the water and eventually hit Harkless with a blackjack, Perry said.

Perry said that at his sentencing, it didn't occur to him to tell the judge what happened to Jackson and Harkless.

Former deputy Gregory Magee, the prosecution's first witness, said he saw water torture applied to at least three prisoners as authorities tried to elicit confessions.

"It was shocking," Magee said. "It scared me. I really don't have any words to describe it."

Magee, who left the department about a year ago, said he told no other law enforcement agency of the incidents although he did discuss them with Glover.

"He said it wasn't necessarily the right thing but at the time we just had to go along," Magee said.

The government says as many as 15 people may have undergone the water treatments from 1976 to 1982.

Parker resigned his post and pleaded guilty to similar charges in March. But the plea was withdrawn after a federal judge ruled a plea bargaining agreement resulted in too lenient a sentence.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Scott Woodward, in his opening statement Wednesday, told the jury the government would prove its "rather simple case" with "convincing clarity."

Roy Beene, Lee's attorney, described the victims as "burglars trying to get out of the penitentiary."

The civil rights violation carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Each of the other five counts, all alleging deprivation of liberty without due process of law, carry maximum penalties of a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Parker's withdrawn guilty plea — which would have sent him to a minimum security prison for three years, placed him on five years' probation and fined him $15,000 — cannot be used against him in court, Woodward said.

Report says consumer advocate top choice for PUC appointment

AUSTIN (AP) — Consumer advocate Jim Boyle, who lobbied hard in the early 1970s for creation of the Public Utility Commission, appears to be Gov. Mark White's choice to represent consumers before the PUC, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

Texas House and Senate sources said they had been informed that Boyle, legislative director of the Texas Consumer Association, would get the job as public counsel, which was created this year by the Legislature, the newspaper reported.

White was expected to announce his choice at a news conference today.

Boyle confirmed that White had interviewed him for the $57,500-a-year post Monday, but declined to say whether he expected to be appointed, the Star-Telegram reported.

"I am not going to know anything until the governor calls me," Boyle said Wednesday.

"Our conversation was very general, but certainly the governor is very concerned that rates be kept as low as possible and any fat remaining in utility rate increases be removed," Boyle said.

Boyle said he had informed White that his father-in-law, Ken Hincley, is an executive with Houston Lighting & Power.

"He works in management. But I don't know what his functions are," Boyle said.

New Laws Take Effect

AUSTIN — A large number of bills passed during the recent legislative session became law on September 1. New State laws usually become effective 90 days after the end of the legislative session.

Many of these new laws are of particular benefit to the residents of the Texas Panhandle. The following is a summary of a few of these bills that are of local significance to our District. We were pleased to sponsor passage of new laws authorizing the creation of the Palo Duro and Buffalo Lake Water Districts. Another bill creating the Wheeler County Water Supply District took effect earlier this summer.

Also taking effect are the several bills we sponsored that authorize the creation of juvenile boards in Sherman, Hartley, Lamb, Bailey, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Dallam, and Hansford Counties.

On the statewide level, our new work release program has also become law. This program, which was modeled after one in use in Potter County, will help ease the problems of prison overcrowding by allowing non-violent offenders to participate in restitution centers. The statewide program will allow these offenders to pay for their part-time incarceration and also allow them to repay the victims of their crimes.

A bill creating a voluntary adoption registry has also taken effect. This new law establishes a centralized network where consenting adoptees older than 21 and consenting birth parents could seek assistance in locating one another.

Dogfighting, which has become a big business in Texas, will now be classified as a more serious offense. Under the new law, anyone convicted of staging a dogfight for financial benefit will be guilty of a third degree felony. Spectators of this illegal activity would be subject to arrest and fine under a class C misdemeanor charge. Of course, this is just a sampling of some of the more important bills that became law on September 1. Many others, including our new DWI law, will not take effect until January 1. We will devote a column to these important bills at the proper time.

As we look back at the accomplishments of the last regular session, and look toward the next, we realize how important the help all of you gave us has been. But we still need to hear from you to plan an effective legislative program for the future benefit of the Panhandle. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Second-to-last catching stint for Bench fruitful

By The Associated Press

For the next-to-last time, Johnny Bench was where people have come to expect him to be — crouching behind home plate at Riverfront Stadium. And for the umpteenth time, Bench did what was expected of him — he delivered.

Bench was catching his first home game since April 29, 1981, in preparation for Sept. 17, when the Reds will honor him for his outstanding 17-year career in which he caught 1,741 games, the fourth highest total in major league history.

That the Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 6-4 Wednesday night hardly seemed to matter. For one night, the clock had been turned back to the Reds' glory days of the 1970s.

In other NL games, St. Louis beat Atlanta 6-3, Montreal edged San Francisco 4-3, Philadelphia nipped San Diego 4-3, New York battered Los Angeles 7-1 and Houston defeated Pittsburgh 4-1.

Bench caught one game in 1982 and one other this season. The area must have seemed strange to him, but he handled it well.

In the first inning, Ryne Sandberg tried to steal second. Bench, as he had done so many times before, gunned down the runner. The crowd erupted and gave him a standing ovation.

"Sure I was pumped up," said Bench. "I didn't want to look bad back there."

In the seventh, it didn't matter what position Bench was playing. His bat was needed as the game was tied 4-4 and there was a runner at second with two outs.

Paul Householder started the rally with a one-out double off Rich Bordi, 0-2. Warren Brusstar replaced Bordi and one out later, Bench singled to center for the go-ahead run.

Kelly Paris ran for Bench, who received another standing ovation from the crowd of 17,474.

Cincinnati Manager Russ Nixon compared the night to a Hollywood movie.

"It was almost as though Johnny wrote the script," he said.

Cardinals 6, Braves 3

The NL debut of Len Barker was less than successful as Ken Oberkfell and Dane Iorg led a 14-hit St. Louis assault. Oberkfell had four hits and three RBI and Iorg had three hits as the Braves lost their third straight at home and the sixth of seven.

Barker, who was obtained Sunday from Cleveland, left in the fifth inning after allowing 10 hits and three runs. Joaquin Andujar, 6-13, was the winner and Bruce Sutter picked up his 18th save.

Expos 4, Giants 3

Bill Gullickson won his career-high 13th, as the Expos scored the winning run on a throwing error by Giants' second baseman Joel Youngblood as he tried to complete a double play in bottom of the fourth inning.

Gullickson allowed six hits in 8 1-3 innings and struck out five. Jeff Reardon got his 19th save.

Trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the fourth, the Expos loaded the bases on a single by Al Oliver, a double by Tim Wallach and an intentional walk to Warren Cromartie. Doug Flynn hit a grounder to shortstop Darrell Evans, who flipped to Youngblood for the force at second. Youngblood threw into the Expos' dugout, allowing the winning run to score.

Phillies 4, Padres 3

Pete Rose snapped an 0-for-20 slump with a single over a drawn-in outfield in the bottom of the ninth to lift the Phillies over the Padres. With one out, Ivan DeJesus singled and Joe Lefebvre doubled. Rose was sent up to hit for Al Holland, 8-2. San Diego Manager Dick Williams decided to go against the percentages and allowed left-hander Gary Lucas to face the switch-hitting Rose instead of walking him and pitching to left-handed Joe Morgan. Rose lined a 1-0 pitch into center for the victory that moved Philadelphia to within one game of division-leading Pittsburgh.

Mets 7, Dodgers 1

Mookie Wilson hit a three-run homer and Mark Bradley an inside-the-parker in the fourth to lead the Mets over the Dodgers and Fernando Valenzuela. Mike Torrez, 9-14, went the distance for the Mets, allowing eight hits, striking out six and walking two. The Dodgers had taken a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on an RBI-grounder by Dusty Baker.

Astros 4, Pirates 1

Joe Niekro tossed a five-hitter and Dickie Thon picked up his league-leading 17th Game-Winning RBI as the Astros beat the visiting Pirates. With two out and the score tied 1-1 in the eighth, Bill Doran singled and moved to third on a single by Terry Puhl. Kent Tekulve replaced Rod Scurry, 4-6, and Thon bounced a slow-roller down the third base line to break the deadlock. Phil Garner followed with a double. The Pirates' lone run came in the eighth when Dale Berra reached on an infield single, moved to second on a pinch-single by Lee Mazzilli and scored on two passed balls by John Mizerock.

Vuckovich returns from rotator cuff injury, downed by Seattle

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

To the Seattle Mariners and to his Milwaukee teammates, Pete Vuckovich looked like the same pitcher who won the 1982 American League Cy Young Award.

Vuckovich, sidelined the entire year with rotator cuff problems, made his first appearance of the season Wednesday and went five fairly strong innings.

Yet he got saddled with the loss as Milwaukee fell 4-1, raising the question of whether Vuckovich's return will be too little and too late for the Brewers.

"He threw as hard as he ever did," said catcher Ted Simmons. "He was really pumped. He was definitely ready to pitch."

The right-hander threw four scoreless innings before Pat Putnam doubled home two runs in the fifth.

Overall, Vuckovich allowed four hits, struck out four, walked two and hit a batter in throwing 85 pitches.

Milwaukee's loss, however, dropped the Brewers 3½ games behind Baltimore — who clobbered Toronto 10-2 — in the American League East.

Vuckovich, for his part, remained in the showers after the game and did not talk to reporters.

His manager, Harvey Kuenn, said "he looked like himself except for not being able to go the distance."

"From what I can tell, he threw the same as he did the last time we saw him," Putnam said. "He hasn't lost anything."

Putnam said he hit "a fastball away, the exact same pitch he'd gotten me out on my last time up" for the decisive double off the center field wall.

The blow came after Spike Owen singled and stole second before Ron Roenicke was hit by a pitch.

White Sox 7, Royals 3

Rookie Ron Kittle blasted a three-run homer, his 27th of the season, as Chicago extended its lead in the AL West to 10½ games over visiting Kansas City.

The White Sox margin is the largest they've ever had since the team began keeping daily records in 1948.

Chicago won for the fifth straight time while Kansas City lost its fourth in a row.

Kittle's seventh-inning blast snapped a 2-2 tie and came off Dan Quisenberry, who came into the game a lot earlier than usual.

Quisenberry replaced Larry Gura, 10-16, after a walk and a single in the seventh. Floyd Bannister, 13-10, won his 10th game in 11 starts since the All-Star break.

Orioles 10, Blue Jays 2

Todd Cruz hammered a three-run homer to cap a seven-run first inning as visiting Baltimore won its eighth straight game.

The Orioles victimized Jim Gott, 7-12, and reliever Mike Morgan in their uprising. Gott pitched to six batters, retired none of them, and left with the bases loaded and down 3-0 after RBI singles by Eddie Murray, John Lowenstein and Ken Singleton.

Morgan gave up Rich Dauer's run-scoring grounder before Cruz blasted his 10th home run of the season.

Rangers 5, Tigers 1

Dave Hostetler belted a solo homer, his 10th, and added a run-scoring double to pace visiting Texas.

George Wright also hit a solo homer, his 15th, for the Rangers.

The home runs gave Texas an early lead and Mickey Rivers made it 3-0 in the fifth when he scored from second on Buddy Bell's infield single.

John Butcher, 5-5, gave up six hits and one run in 5 2-3 innings for the victory.

Glenn Abbott, 5-4, making his second start since being acquired from Seattle, took the loss.

Yankees 6, A's 4

Don Baylor and Rick Cerone each drove in two runs and Shane Rawley won his fourth consecutive game.

Rawley, 14-10, was given a 6-1 lead after 2½ innings as the Yankees scored four times in the third inning.

Cerone, Baylor, Don Mattingly and Omar Moreno singled home those third-inning runs in Oakland.

Indians 7, Angels 5

George Vukovich, who entered the game in the eighth-inning for defensive purposes, singled home two runs with two outs in the 10th inning in California.

The Angels had tied it in the ninth on doubles by Daryl Scottiers and Rob Wilfong off reliever Rick Sutcliffe.

Q: How is a no-load test performed on a starter, and what does it indicate?
A: The test is a bench test. It can't be performed while the starter is mounted in the car. The no-load test requires an ammeter. The maximum amperage with the starter running should be approximately 80. A higher reading may indicate faults such as shorted windings, a bent armature shaft, tight bushings or a rubbing armature. If the starter doesn't run, and the ammeter registers zero, the trouble is probably open windings or worn bushings. The test without an ammeter can be performed by connecting a positive jumper cable to the starter terminal and the negative cable to the starter frame. This will not give you all the information an ammeter will, but will indicate if the starter runs at all or, if slowly, that you may have a bent shaft, tight bushings or rubbing armature.

Four teams start today

With the Town & Country Jubilee having come and gone can football season be far behind? Certainly not, and four local teams begin their seasons this afternoon and tonight.

Hereford's two junior varsity squads are at home, while both the Stanton and La Plata freshmen are on the road in Plainview. The HHS White JV will host Amarillo High in a 4 p.m. contest at the La Plata field, while the Herd Maroon JV will host the Pampa JV in a 7 p.m. battle at Whiteface Stadium.

T.R. Sartor is the head coach of the White JV team, which includes 32 players. Members of the team include David Ankney, Tommy Gallagher, James Barella, Phillip Webster, Israel Galan, Trent Layman, Nick Fuentes, Tracy Casarez, Chad Kreighsauer, Pat Rodriguez, Darron Jones, and Angel Salinas.

Also, Alonzo Martinez, Juan Cardova, Freddie Gamboa, Mark Taylor, Juna Tijerina, Frank Villegas, John Sinnacher, Ruben Garcia, Ruben Guerrero, Tom Green, and Mark Scott.

And, Ricky Wosten, Heriberto Villalovas, Danny Mankins, Kenneth Sanders, Joe Zuniga, Larry Backus, Fermin Salinas, John Ford, and Andy Moreno.

Coach Eddie Richardson will direct the Maroon JV team, which includes 28 players. They are Stefan Hacker, Javier Frausto, Glen Backus, Doug Owens, Andy McCathern, Freddie Savage, Bobby Martinez, Danny Castillo, Rodney Torres, Patrick Pibbs, Chris Rowton, Mike Kellum, and Brett Clements.

Also, Daniel Del Toro, Doug Evans, George Bermudez, Brian Edwards, Curtis Cotten, Vince Medrano, Rooney Turribiates, Glen Madsen, Adam Olivarez, Bruce Walterscheid, Casey Smith, Benny Ramirez, Brad Sanders, Kurt Simon, and Doug Watts.

Rice coach hopes barbs spark Owls

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn has been collecting the barbs and, feeding them to his team.

"Some guy called the other day and said we were pretty good for a flag football team," said Alborn, whose Owls open the season against crsstown rival Houston tonight with a 12-game losing streak, second longest in the nation. "I don't need that garbage."

Alborn records all the slights directed toward his team, however, and makes certain they hear all of them.

"Somebody on a radio talk show said the (Houston) Oiler defense couldn't stop Rice and the show host said 'don't put them that low,'" Alborn said, his usual good cheer wearing thin. "I hope the players hear all of it and get their bellies full of it."

Rice's 12-game string, which started in the final game of the 1981 season with a loss to the Cougars, is second only to the 13-game streak set by Kent State.

Houston finished with a disappointing 5-5-1 record last year, and will also be trying to erase some bad memories from the 1982 season.

The Cougars defeated the Owls 28-21 to close out last season but they were beaten by Texas, Southern Methodist and Arkansas, the top three teams in the SWC, by a combined score of 108-17 that included a 50-0 shutout by the Longhorns.

The two teams agreed to play on Thursday to allow Houston to face SMU Nov. 26 in the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo.

"It sounded like a good idea at the time but the closer to game time the worse it sounds," Alborn said. "We've both got some question marks but we should have some answers by about 11 o'clock Thursday night."

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said the early start was good and bad.

"The good part is it gets the kids very serious early," Houston Coach Bill Yeoman said. "But the bad part is that you want to get off to a good start in the season and it's too serious too early."

Lionel Wilson will start at quarterback for the Cougars and a talented group of receivers could mean trouble for Rice's secondary.

Wilson threw 13 interceptions last season, a statistic Yeoman says must improve this season.

Plain talk desired from TV broadcasters

Hunting News

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission decided Wednesday on a three-segment split duck season for central and eastern portions of the state for the 1983-84 hunting season.

Parks and Wildlife staff members told the commission that the three-segment split will give hunters opportunity to hunt early arriving ducks such as pintails and also will extend to take advantage of late arriving mallards.

The duck season dates are: Nov. 5-11, Nov. 19-27 and Dec. 10-Jan. 22.

As in the past, shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset with bag limits governed by the 100-point system unchanged from last year.

In the High Plains Mallard Management Unit of West Texas, the duck season will be Nov. 1 through Jan. 22.

This year's goose seasons are basically the same as previous years.

West of U.S. 81 the season will be Nov. 1 through Jan. 22.

Bag limit is five geese, not to include more than two Canada geese, black brant or white-fronted geese in the aggregate.

East of U.S. 81, the season is Nov. 5-11 and Nov. 19-Jan. 22.

Amidst the jargon and other chatter that will emanate from the television sets this season, it's nice to know that there are people in the box who speak English. Like, listen to John Madden on a certain NFL aggregation, which shall go nameless to protect the guilty.

"I've never seen a team where so many receivers get hit in the helmet by passes."

There was only one forus remark, made in the privacy of a CBS conference room. But Madden would say the same thing to millions over the air — he has certainly made remarks like it on any number of telecasts over the past few years.

Get a bunch of old football players and coaches in a room and you hear all kinds of opinions on players and teams. Put them in a television booth and you get lines like: "He's some kind of player," or "Wow! What a hit!"

The best — Madden on CBS and Merlin Olsen on NBC — impart information vic.kiewers can instantly identify. Like passes clanking off helmets.

"Sometimes I say things before I even know that they're out," Olsen says. "That's a little frightening sometimes because there are some things you don't want to go on the air."

But Madden and Olsen do one other thing their counterparts often eschew — homework. They talk to coaches and players — even sports writers — before the game and they read everything they can find about the teams they will cover. Madden, who dislikes flying, has plenty of time between cities riding the train.

That's particularly important when an analyst changes conferences — a CBS man doing an American Conference team; an NBC man doing a National Conference team. If they don't? Well, here was NBC's John Brodie one Sunday last year, speculating about the capabilities of Scott Brunner of the Giants, an NFC quarterback he clearly hadn't studied.

"I don't know why the Giants aren't throwing long," he said. "Unless Brunner can't throw long."

Madden has the advantage of having coached in the AFC. But there's more to it than that.

"I follow the draft very closely," he says. "I look at a lot of film and I get to know the players. By the time they get into the league, I have a pretty good idea what they can do."

Lee team wins event

The weekly Open Golf Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course ended its summer run yesterday with a team captained by Rocky Lee scoring a 28 and taking the final tourney prizes.

The winning team included Lee, Truman Hazelrigg, Kavella Skypala, Nolan Grady and Duane Albracht.

The nine-hole scramble had been played all summer and was open to all players who signed up in time to be placed on a team. Players were assigned to teams by handicaps, with Pro Mike Horton attempting to have an A, B, C, and D player on each team.

Horton plans to conduct the tourney again next year.

Benirschke nears mark, sees more soccer-type kickers in football

SAN DIEGO (AP) — They arrived in the 1960s as foreign oddities in the United States' No. 1 macho sport, Jan Stenerud was a Norwegian skier, Garo Yepremian was a Greek tie-maker, and Horst Muhlmann was a former soccer star in Germany.

All were among the tiny vanguard that dared to invade the National Football League.

Today, the four most accurate kickers in the NFL, based on career percentages, are soccer-style kickers — and the trend should continue to grow, says American-born Rolf Benirschke.

With two field goals Sunday against the New York Jets in the NFL opener, the San Diego Chargers' kicking specialist will become the most accurate kicker in league history.

In six NFL seasons, Benirschke has been successful on 98 of 133 attempts for a lifetime percentage of 73.7. He would surpass leader Toni Fritsch, 67.9; Efron Herrera, 67.8; and John Smith, 65.6.

Because of the growth of soccer in the U.S., NFL teams "no longer find it necessary to go abroad to find a good soccer-style kicker," said Benirschke, who played football and soccer at the same time during his college career at the University of California-Davis.

The introduction of soccer-style kickers in the 1960s accelerated specialization at the position, says Benirschke.

"They found the soccer-style kickers could kick the ball farther and do it more accurately. They found an added bonus: that soccer-style kickers can adjust better to a bad snap or a bad hold and still be successful. That's because in soccer you become used to having to react to a moving ball. Plus you hit the ball with more surface area on the bigger part of your foot."

Gone are the days when kickers were also "offensive linemen, defensive backs or somebody who held another position," said Benirschke, the next-to-last player selected in the 1977 NFL draft.

"The big knock on soccer-style kickers in the early days

Mavericks official to stay home

DALLAS (AP) — Rick Sund, director of player personnel for the Dallas Mavericks of the National Basketball Association, says he has turned down an offer to become general manager of the Indiana Pacers.

Sund informed Mavericks' officials of his decision Wednesday.

"The bottom line is that I pursued the Dallas job four years ago," Sund said. "I just feel like I have unfinished business there. I was flattered that they (Indiana) pursued me but right now the timing isn't right for Rick Sund."

The Pacers were said to be offering Sund a contract calling for $105,000 his first year — more than double his current $50,000 salary.

Other candidates mentioned for the Pacers' job are Philadelphia general manager Pat Williams, New Jersey assistant coach John Killilea and Phoenix assistant coach Al Bianchi.

was that they couldn't get the ball up as well. I've never had that problem. And if you look around the league, all the good ones get good rise on the ball," he said.

The son of a German-born zoologist, Benirschke survived a life-threatening intestinal illness four years ago that was finally cured through surgery in early 1982.

At the low point, he lost 50 pounds, down to 123, and he was not expected to live. "I don't think I would be as mentally tough had it not been for the illness. It's helped me in many ways."

During the time he was struggling with the disease, he set a club record by kicking 16 consecutive field goals — the third longest mark in NFL history.

Now a healthy 184 pounds, and stronger than at anytime in his career, Benirschke believes his prime years are ahead of him.

"Playing on a high-scoring team like this, in a fair-weather city, are pluses. I definitely feel stronger and my range has increased."

Quarry begins comeback trail

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Jerry Quarry's return to the ring lasted only a few seconds, but it was long enough to convince the 38-year-old former heavyweight contender he will finally win a world title.

"I'm going to get it," Quarry said of the cruiserweight crown that has lured him out of retirement. "I will make history and it starts here tonight."

Quarry, who had fought only once in the past eight years, launched his comeback bid with a first round TKO Wednesday night of unheralded Lupe Guerra of Omaha, Neb.

The bout lasted only 32 seconds and Quarry only threw four punches.

But it was the first blow he delivered that really decided the outcome and sparked Quarry's title talk.

Quarry roared out of his corner at the opening bell and the first punch he threw was a booming left hook that slammed Guerra to the canvas.

"I hit him right on the button," Quarry said. "Was that a left hook? I was amazed that he got up."

Guerra did climb back to his feet. But the damage was done. Quarry swarmed all over him. He threw three more punches. The last was another strong left hook that sent Guerra sprawling on the canvas again with his corner throwing in the towel.

Quarry, who fought the likes of Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier but never won the heavyweight title, said the first left hook convinced him he made the right decision to return to the ring.

"People have been making so much of my age," he said. "They said my punch was gone."

Now You're Cookin'

By SANDY PANKEY
Staff Writer

For five days a week, she's a mother to approximately 80 children. She gives 100 percent of herself to 'her' children and they in return give her an abundance of love.

Georgie Pinkerton, Hereford Day Care Center director at 215 Norton, takes care of the disciplinary problems but does it with genuine love and affection.

"I enjoy my work and get a great deal of satisfaction from being around the children," Georgie explains. "It gets hectic at times but it is also a lot of fun and there is never a dull moment."

But like anything else, along with the pleasure there is ample work involved. Georgie describes herself as a 'Jack-of-all-trades' person. Her duties consist of maintaining some of the books, picking up after-schoolers, filling in as a cook or teacher when needed and scheduling special events.

She assists in obtaining speakers for the center as well as various demonstrations. She, along with her staff, also plan field trips. The children have toured feed lots, the Hereford Brand, the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum, Cowgirl Hall of Fame and other local businesses. They have also been involved in various money making projects such as collecting cans and papers to sell.

Recently the group of after-schoolers ventured to the grocery store where they purchased items needed to make homemade ice cream. They then scheduled an ice cream social with their mothers invited as special guests.

Georgie also assists in scheduling film hours, story hours at Deaf Smith County Library, water playdays, special dress up days and show and tell hours.

As director of the center, she is qualified in all areas of her position. Prior to her employment at the Center in January of 1978, she was working as a cook for three years at a rest home in Artesia, N.M.

"I love being around the residents at the home," she states. "Many times I would go back to the home and visit or help out when I would get off of work. They, like children, need to be cared for on a personal basis."

Georgie also taught retarded children for a couple of years in Portales, N.M. "That was another job that gave me a great deal of satisfaction and also gave me firsthand knowledge in actually instructing children."

Her business skills were acquired at an early age when she worked her way through boarding school as a cook. "I spent my high school and college years at Southwestern Junior College in Keene, Texas. I lived at the school and paid for my education by helping out as a cook."

Beginning her work day at 7:45 a.m. and not arriving home until well after 6 p.m. five days a week, Georgie has limited free time. "One of my favorite hobbies is making all kinds of craft articles and giving them to family and friends as gifts," she explains.

Georgie and her husband, Bill, who reside at 407 E. Fourth St., look forward to family get togethers with their four children and seven grandchildren.

"About once a month, we all gather at our house and I prepare a big meal, Georgie states.

Several recipes Georgie submits are family favorites. They include Easter Eggs, Special K Loaf and Pudding Cake.

Ann Landers

Killed by drunk driver

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Take a short walk in my shoes. It is Saturday night. Twenty minutes ago a man in a pick-up truck hit a lad on a motorcycle. You step off the curb and walk between the flares toward the flashing colored lights. You hear the broken glass crunching beneath your feet. As you get closer, you hear a young girl sobbing. She is sitting on the curb with her head in her hands. Standing nearby is a man cursing as he slams his fist into his hand. He was the driver of the truck. A policeman helps him into the back seat of a patrol car. The man turns to look at the paramedics working over the broken, bloody body of a young boy. He breaks into tears.

Just then a young fellow screams, "He was my best friend. Oh, God, what will I say to his parents?"

It is very quiet now. One of the paramedics says something I can't make out as they load the limp form into the ambulance. The ambulance drives away slowly. What he said was, "There is no hurry."

Maybe someone who reads this will remember it is not smart to drive when you drink. Lord, I hope so.—I Saw It In San Jose

DEAR WITNESS: Thank you for making millions of others see it, too. The message you have imparted cannot be repeated too often. Drunk drivers who kill are murderers. The law should treat them as such.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a person with a demanding profession. After work, if I am not too exhausted, I steal a few hours to paint. Although it started out as a hobby, several friends have offered to buy my paintings, and I have sold several.

The problem is that I have given some paintings to friends who have admired them. The following things have happened: (1) I learned later that they tried to sell my gift; (2) they really didn't care for the painting and never hung it; (3) they gave it away.

Would it be appropriate to approach these people and perhaps get some of my paintings back? Please give me your thoughts.—Too Generous In O'Miss

DEAR T.G.: Once you have given a gift you relinquish all claim to it. It would be tacky to ask for it back.

I suggest you don't take too seriously the praise from your friends. From now on, when someone becomes ecstatic about a painting, wait for an offer.

DEAR ANN: I phone a friend who is out and ask if I might leave my number. The voice on the other end says, "Wait a minute, this pen doesn't work." Or, "There is no pencil here. I'll go get one." Or, "I have to find something to write on." These scavenger hunts usually take five minutes. Why can't every homemaker keep a usable pencil and a note pad by every phone in the house and save a lot of aggravation?—Mitzie In Middletown

DEAR MID: Most homemakers do, but some knucklehead invariably walks away with them. The only guarantee is an hourly check.

"ALL ISRAEL WILL BE SAVED"

But you must be careful not to brag about being put in to replace the branches that were broken off. Remember that you are important only because you are now a part of God's tree; you are just a branch, not a root.

"Well," you may be saying, "those branches were broken off to make room for me so I must be pretty good." Watch out! Remember those branches, the Jews, were broken off because they didn't believe God, and you are there only because you do. Do not be proud; be humble and grateful—and careful. For if God did not spare the branches He put there in the first place, He won't spare you either.

Notice how God is both so kind and so severe: He is very hard on those who disobey, but very good to you if you continue to love and trust Him. But if you don't, you too will be cut off.

On the other hand, if the Jews leave their unbelief behind them and come back to God, God will graft them back into the tree again. He has the power to do it. For if God was willing to take you who were so far away from Him—being part of a wild olive tree—and graft you into His own tree—a very unusual thing to do—don't you see that He will be far more ready to put the Jews back again, who were there in the first place?

I want you to know about this truth from God, dear brothers, so that you will not feel proud and start bragging. Yes, it is true that some of the Jews have set themselves against the Gospel now, but this will last only until all of you Gentiles have come to Christ—those of you who will. And then all Israel will be saved. Do you remember what the prophets said about this? "There shall come out of Zion a Deliverer, and He shall turn the Jews from all ungodliness. At that time I will take away their sins, just as I promised." Romans 11:26-27

Gasoline tank explodes at refinery

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — A gasoline tank burned out of control today, threatening propane and butane stocks at a sprawling refinery and forcing thousands of people to evacuate, after an explosion that injured two people, authorities said.

Firefighters were trying to drain the blazing tank at the Tenneco Oil refinery, which officials estimate contained about 3.78 million gallons of fuel.

Beside the two workers who suffered undisclosed injuries in the blast, six firefighters were treated for smoke inhalation.

The explosion Wednesday night occurred in a tank yard next to the refinery. Firefighters feared nearby tanks filled with propane and butane might also explode, Sheriff Ralph J. McDougall said.

The cause of the explosion, which happened about 9:35 p.m., was not immediately known.

The explosion sent 120-foot flames into the sky and could be felt up to a mile away.

A fireboat on the Mississippi River was pumping water into Tenneco's water system because electricity was lost at the refinery to run its pumps channeling water from the river, McDougall said.

Concern that the tank's walls might collapse as lowered the level of gasoline in the burning tank prompted the evacuation, McDougall said.

A deputy said there were fears that if the walls should collapse, it would send a surge of burning gasoline flowing over the area.

McDougall estimated several thousand people had been evacuated.

Big yellow school buses were brought in late Wednesday and stationed at every intersection along St. Bernard Highway. They began picking up residents after McDougall gave the order to evacuate early today.

The Tenneco complex, a sprawling refinery with tall smoke stacks and metal tubing about 10 miles east of New Orleans, was the scene of an explosion six years ago that killed eight workers.

Abalone steak, the popular seafood dish found along the Pacific Coast and in Japan, comes from the muscular foot of the snail.

Senior citizens employment program receives new grant

Farmers Union Green Thumb, an employment program for low-income senior citizens in Texas and 44 other states, has received a new grant of $88,500,918 from the U.S. Dept. of Labor.

The grant is effective from July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984. It provides $4,113,951 for Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb, which has 952 of the 17,317 part-time job slots allocated to Green Thumb nationwide.

TFU Green Thumb currently operates in 108 counties, mostly in north, central, and west Texas. The program's workers must be at least 55 years of age and meet income guidelines. They are placed with public and private non-profit organizations such as schools, senior centers, libraries, and museums, and furnish services that would not otherwise be available.

The sponsoring organizations are responsible for day to day supervision of the workers, and TFU Green Thumb administers wages and fringe benefits.

"We are delighted that the Dept. of Labor has signed the new grant agreement," said Mike Moeller, president of Texas Farmers Union. "The grant money means that 500 rural agencies now benefitting from the services of Green Thumb workers can continue to do so for at least another year."

Green Thumb state director Diane Parrish of Waco said that even though the grant is based on 952 employment slots for Texas, the program is currently able to employ 1,047 older persons because of reductions in overhead on both the state and national levels.

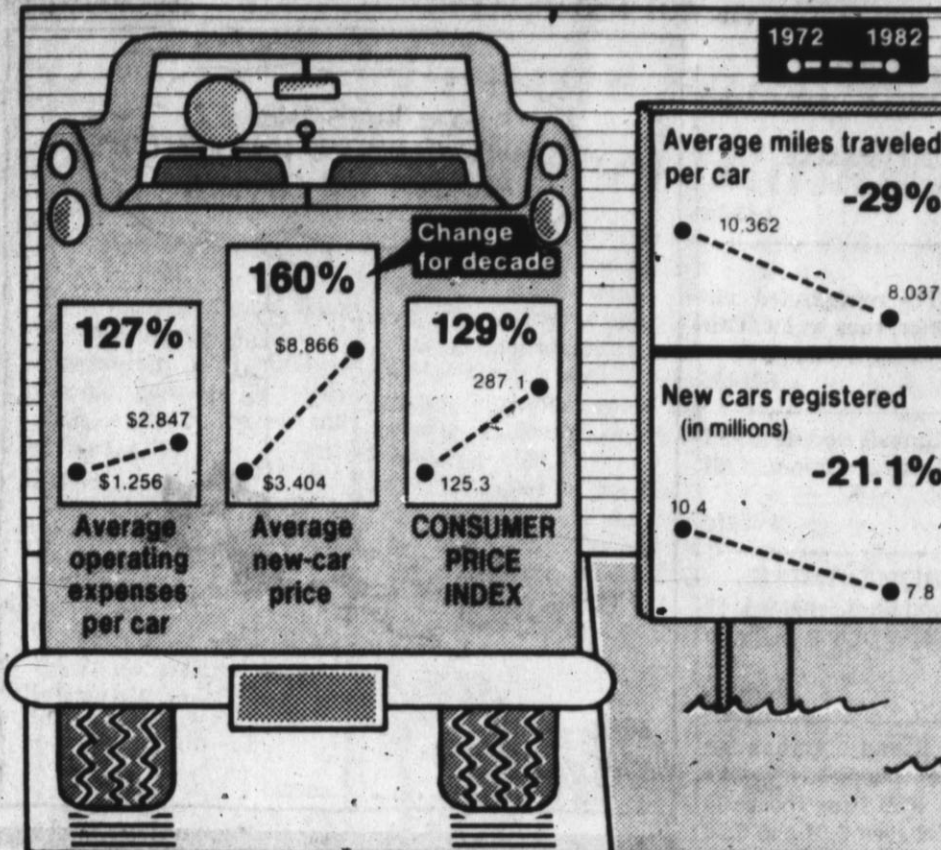

"Our overriding goal is to put as many older Texans to work as possible," Parrish said. "They need the work for themselves, and their communities need the dedication and conscientiousness that older workers bring to their jobs."

Green Thumb began as a pilot program in Minnesota, Oregon, Arkansas, and New Jersey in 1965. The program expanded to Texas in 1970, and has been in continuous operation in the state since then.

Original projects focused on park and highway beautification, and that is why the name "Green Thumb" was given to the program. It is now the oldest and largest employment program for senior citizens in the nation.

THE COST OF U.S. CAR OWNERSHIP

Prices and Expenses Rise — But We're Driving and Buying Less

(Source: The Hertz Corporation)

Americans are keeping their cars longer and using them less in an attempt to save money. Figures show that passenger car prices and operating costs rose markedly between 1972 and 1982. Yet miles driven per year and annual new-car registrations declined.

Witnesses say vouchers offered

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Campaign workers for Duval County Judge Gilberto Uresti and County Commissioner Fidencio Saenz offered welfare vouchers in exchange for votes during a hotly contested primary, government witnesses have testified.

Seven Duval County residents, including Saenz and Uresti's wife, Olga, are on trial in federal court on charges of conspiring to buy votes in the May 1, 1982 Democratic primary.

The other defendants are Domitilla Garza, a Benavides school board member; Rebecca Garcia, wife of Duval County Clerk Oscar Garcia; Genoveva Garcia, an employee of Duval County Welfare Department; Elvira Garza, a Uresti campaign worker; Norma Solis, also a Uresti supporter.

Uresti has not been indicted in connection with the investigation.

Manuel Arrendondo, an unemployed roughneck from Realitos, testified Wednesday that Saenz visited his home in April and offered him and his wife a welfare voucher in exchange for their vote.

Diana Leal of San Diego testified that Genoveva Garcia and Amelia Garcia, the director of the Duval County Welfare Dept., visited with her on April 15, 1982 and offered her a welfare voucher if she would support Uresti and Saenz.

Bertha Yarberry of San Diego testified that she received a welfare voucher and a six pack of beer in exchange for her vote.

Mrs. Yarberry testified that after Norma Solis left a sample ballot on her front door, Domitilla Garza told her over the telephone that if she "voted right" she would receive welfare assistance.

Mrs. Yarberry said that after riding with Mrs. Solis and Domitilla Garza to the courthouse to vote, she asked if they were going to buy her dinner for her vote.

Messy shower ceiling

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — My problem is a shower ceiling that keeps getting moldy. The only way to clean it is to use a ladder, climb to the top and scrub the ceiling with cleansing powder. Even so, it is impossible to get it completely clean. We paint this ceiling about once a year. The walls of the shower are tile, but the ceiling is painted plaster. Do you or your readers know of any way I can get and keep this ceiling clean? — JEANETTE

DEAR JEANETTE — The cleaner of choice for mildew and mildew stains is chlorine bleach. When you do clean this ceiling, try using a solution of half bleach and half water. It may do a better and easier job of removing the mildew and cleaning the stains. When you repaint (and make sure the ceiling is absolutely clean and dry before painting), be sure you're using a mildew-resistant paint. You may also want to install an exhaust fan in the bathroom, or better yet, a small dehumidifier, to remove the moisture from the shower more quickly. This will leave the ceiling drier and less likely to mildew. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If someone sets a glass on one of your solid wood tables and it leaves a water ring, don't despair. If it's a simple ring and the wood has not blistered or buckled, try covering the spot with petroleum jelly and let it sit for several hours. Then wipe off. If the stain remains, add a little more jelly each day, rubbing it in and wiping off the excess. The stain will become less noticeable and should gradually disappear.

Keep baby from slipping through your soapy hands in the bath so easily. Purchase some standard bathtub appliques and apply a few to the bottom of the baby's tub. Since baby won't slide in the tub, it will be much easier to keep her head above water.

Cut off the top part of a cotton sock and pull it over your bottle of cooking oil. The sock will absorb any drips of oil and keep your shelves oil free. It's easily washed when soiled, or it can just be replaced with another odd sock. — OLGA

Inmate said judge probably would set another Halloween execution date

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Death row inmate Ronald Clark O'Bryan, convicted of killing his young son with cyanide-spiked trick-or-treat candy, says a state judge probably would set another Halloween execution date if he could.

"From what he has said, I don't believe there would be any doubt that if he had his way, he would set another Halloween execution date," O'Bryan said of State District Judge Michael McSpadden of Houston.

O'Bryan, a 38-year-old former optician from Deer Park, was sentenced to death in the 1974 death of his 8-year-old son, Timothy. Prosecutors claimed O'Bryan wanted to collect on a $30,000 life insurance policy.

McSpadden had ordered O'Bryan to die by injection on Halloween last year. The judge said he picked the date especially for O'Bryan.

Nine months after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals stayed the execution, a three-judge panel last week upheld the conviction. But the dissenting judge, U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer of Dallas, said Tuesday that more hearings should be held.

O'Bryan said Wednesday he wanted a new trial to prove his innocence.

"I contend what I have said all long — I had absolutely nothing to do with my son's death," he said. "The case was 100 percent circumstantial. I would only ask that the state of Texas prove it with facts."

O'Bryan said he thought the date and McSpadden's lecture were in "very bad taste."

"I couldn't care less about his thoughts and his political rhetoric. His job was to sentence me, not lecture me," O'Bryan said.

"He may think I'm the worst devil in the world. That's his personal opinion and that should have no bearing on what goes on in the courtroom," he said.

O'Bryan said a Halloween execution date only adds to his family's pain.

"It was my son that was killed, not a total stranger. It involves my family and setting an execution on Halloween only makes a day that's already painful doubly hard," he said.

Milk substitutes

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the person who had a spastic colon that was caused by drinking milk. I too had gas, cramps, sometimes milk diarrhea, but most of all those terrible pains from bloating. After reading about her problem I decided that perhaps my spastic colon was really milk intolerance so I quit all milk and stopped eating anything made with milk.

In a week's time I was a different person. No more pain, distention and feeling uncomfortable just to bend over. It is wonderful. It annoys me that I suffered all those years when the solution was so simple.

Now the problem is how I can get my calcium. I suppose I could take pills but I would like to have some milk. I have heard that people who cannot tolerate cow's milk can use goat's milk. Will that be all right? How about dried milk powder?

DEAR READER — I wish the solution were that easy. Milk is produced by lactation and contains a sugar called lactose. You won't be able to get any milk that doesn't contain lactose unless it has been treated. In other words, goat's milk and dried milk powder do contain lactose and will cause your old symptoms again.

You may be able to use a reasonable amount of milk by using LactAid. It is an enzyme that you can add to the milk and it will split the lactose double sugar before you drink the milk. That makes up for your own digestive system not providing the enzyme to do the same job. You can get it from SugarLo Co., P.O. Box 1100, Pleasantville, NJ 08232.

I have discussed the lactose problem in more detail in The Health Letter 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

And you may be able to use one of the soybean milk substitutes usually provided for infants. Look on the label, though, and be sure that lactose or milk powder is not included in the ingredients.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you will be able to advise me about my nightly leg cramps. The pain may occur within two hours after I am in bed but it is sure to occur by 4 a.m. The cramps are in the leg muscles and go down into the feet. I have to get up and walk to relax the muscles. I have taken many different medicines including quinine, which was the best. But it increased the ringing in my head.

I am 82 and this has been going on for 10 years now.

DEAR READER — Try something simple first. Learn to sleep in such a way that your toes don't drop down. When your toes are turned down it contracts your calf muscles and this is conducive to leg muscle cramps. Lie on your side or put a board on edge at the bottom of your bed to hold the covers off your feet. You can put your feet against the board to hold your toes up.

Also stretch your calf muscles each night before going to bed. Lean forward against the wall until you feel the pull on your Achilles' tendon and hold it for 30 seconds, repeat several times. Good stretching exercises before going to bed often help.

Then wear warm socks up to the knees to keep your legs warm.

If all this fails, you might try vitamin E.

Outflank sticky dough

DEAR READERS — Our Pointer roundup includes Pointers for bread bakers and cake makers and help for people with all sorts of problems. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Rub a little flour on the waxed paper or plastic wrap used to cover loaves of bread dough while rising. The paper won't stick to the dough as it rises, so you won't spoil the surface of the loaves when you pull the paper off. — JENNY

DEAR POLLY — To decorate a cake without adding a lot of gooey calorie-laden frosting, I lay a paper doily on the top and sift a little powdered sugar over the doily top. When I carefully lift off the doily, I'm left with a beautiful design. The small amount of powdered sugar provides far fewer calories than ordinary butter cream frostings. — LINDA

DEAR POLLY — Water spots on washable fabrics can be removed with vinegar and baking soda. Mix the two together into a thick paste, then spread on the spots. After the paste has dried, put the fabric into the wash as usual. When the paste washes away, the spots will, too. — TERRY

DEAR POLLY — Moth flakes sprinkled all over a carpet usually get rid of flea infestation. — MRS. M.

DEAR POLLY — I use my swivel-bladed vegetable peeler to make thin, curling slices of carrot, turnip or beet as garnishes on salads and relish platters. The peeler is also perfect for making very thin slices of cheese — just right to top off an hors d'oeuvres cracker or to melt onto a tortilla chip for a quick nacho. — MRS. L.K.

DEAR POLLY — Wine stains on your favorite tablecloth? Soak the cloth in buttermilk before putting it into the laundry — bleaches stains right out! — GAIL

DEAR POLLY — Looking for a way to preserve your child's precious chalk or pencil drawing? Spray it with hair spray! A light coat of hair spray will keep the colors fresh and the paper clean. Fragile mediums like chalk or pencil won't smudge or rub off. — H.D.W.

Prison inmates fight disasters in California

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — When entertainer Barbra Streisand's exclusive Malibu Colony home was ravaged by storms last month, prison inmates quickly surrounded it.

They weren't looting the place, just piling sandbags to protect it and other nearby celebrity-owned structures from further damage.

"The inmates weren't allowed inside," said Capt. Clifford Dysart of the Los Angeles County Fire Department. "They were outside sandbagging the houses."

And this summer, when fires burned thousands of acres throughout Southern California, inmates helped cut the fire lines.

About 2,500 of the state's 37,000 prisoners serve as emergency crews in disasters. And while other states use prisoners for community projects, California has the most extensive program using inmates to fight calamities, said Hardy Rauch of the American Correctional Association.

The work is tough and can be risky.

"It is the most difficult part of firefighting," said Howard O'Brien, the California Department of Forestry's coordinator of the conservation camp program, referring to cutting fire lines. "It's usually the steepest terrain that bulldozers can't navigate."

The state has 32 camps, 29 in rural areas separate from prison institutions, and 60 women inmates were included in the program this summer, said Phil Guthrie of the California Department of Corrections. Rainbow Camp in San Diego County, currently used for men, will be occupied by women in October, he said.

During the day, the inmates are assigned to the California Department of Forestry or the Los Angeles County Fire Department. At night, the CDC resumes responsibility.

"The only inmates we don't take are arsonists, naturally, and sex offenders," said Lt. Bill Dieball, who heads the Prado Conservation Camp located next to the California Institution for Men at Chino. The sex offenders ban "basically has to do with the community and the fact that they work essentially without supervision."

Billy Fonville, 37, of Bakersfield, was convicted of first-degree murder when he was 24. He spent time in San Quentin, Soledad and Folsom prisons before moving to Francisquito Conservation Camp near Saugus and then Prado, where he is awaiting parole in September.

"You really can't compare (camps to prisons)," said Fonville.

"There's a lot of violence inside the institutions," he said. "Everybody gets along (at Prado) exceptionally well. Soledad has a lot of riots. Here, there are none."

The camp's best feature is "just being able to walk outside, to walk around the grounds," Fonville said. "To me it's kind of an orientation to the streets. You can go to an officer here. Here you're treated like a human being. Inside, you're not."

The public also benefits, state officials say.

While inmates live in a dorm instead of a small cell, the public has emergency crews on call 24 hours a day. They clean parks and clear fire breaks when there are no emergencies.

Dick Friend, a Los Angeles County Fire Department spokesman, said it would cost the county $16 million to duplicate the services provided by CDC prisoners in the county's four conservation camps, $15.8 million more than the county now pays. Camp inmates receive $1.35 to $3.75 a day, depending on their jobs, plus 75 cents an hour for emergency fire and flood work, officials said.

There has been some apprehension about the program, especially after a Chino Hills couple and two children were killed in June. Kevin Cooper, an escaped inmate from the California Institute for Men, not Prado Camp, has been charged in the murders.

"To ease the feeling in the community ... we didn't work anybody in the Chino Valley for awhile," Dieball said. "We're now requiring that we have more supervision as well."

Some camp inmates do escape. In 1982, there were 71 escapes statewide and "virtually all were recaptured," Guthrie said. The all-time high was in 1972, when 179 escaped, and the low was 1975, when 40 escaped, he said.

"The trick in this is to pick people who would do no harm if they do get out," Guthrie said.

Both behavior and ability are scrutinized.

"Everybody goes first to the Sierra Conservation Center in Jamestown (Calif.)," Dieball said. "That's where they go through training for about five weeks. They've already been reviewed by three or four levels before they get there."

"They all have to be able to work 12 hours fighting fires," said Capt. Don Kanallakan, superintendent of the Los Angeles County camp near Malibu. "We're getting the cream of the crop. They'll fight fires for eight hours and come back here and lift weights."

Tiny town nothing like its he-man name

TARZAN, Texas (AP) — The name conjures up images of exciting drama, and the postmistress of this tiny West Texas community is almost apologetic in answering that no, Tarzan has no roaring lions or charging elephants.

In fact, postmistress Doris McMorries says, "Don't drive down (Texas Highway) 176 too fast, or you'll miss it."

However, that doesn't mean there's nothing in Tarzan, she insists.

"There's more than it looks like," Mrs. McMorries said. Besides its post office, the small town 50 miles northeast of Odessa boasts a convenience store, a cafe, a cotton gin, two churches, two beauty shops, a crop-spraying service, part of a cattle farm, a few houses and a few trees.

Mrs. McMorries said she does not know how many people live in Tarzan, but she said her post office "serves about 500 customers in the western half of Martin County."

Every school year, she receives two to three requests a week for information on how the unincorporated town got its name, she added.

One of her favorite letters was from a boy in Stockton, Calif., who wrote:

"Tarzan went to Texas and the people tried to drown him but it didn't work. They believed he was a god and named the town Tarzan, Texas."

The second-grader from Stockton, Calif., knew his one-paragraph essay, "How Tarzan, Texas, Got Its Name," was wrong.

"Did my story come close to what really happened?" the pupil, Mike Gray, asked in a letter addressed to the director of the "Chamber of Commerce" in Tarzan.

The letter, written three years ago, included a copy of the essay with a tree etched at the bottom.

"Please write to me and explain the real reason for your town's name," Gray asked.

The youngster got a response, but he was lucky his letter found its way through the jungles of the U.S. mail — Tarzan has no chamber of commerce.

The town was named, Mrs. McMorries said, by "the old fellow that lived here when the town was first established" — Tant Lindsay.

Lindsay, the first postmaster and storekeeper in Tarzan, gave the town its name "because he enjoyed all the Tarzan books," McMorries said.

Lindsay's 77-year-old widow, Viola, said last week

she had a part in naming the town, which originally was called South Plains when it was settled in the mid-1920s.

The Lindsays first came to Tarzan in 1926, she said, and opened a general store when the town still was known as South Plains. The store no longer stands.

Mrs. Lindsay said when her husband decided in 1927 to add a post office to his store, the U.S. Postal Service said the town's name would have to be changed from South Plains. She said the post office pointed out that there already was a town near Lubbock by the same name that had a post office.

Perhaps a touch of egotism overcame Lindsay when he learned he had to change the name. Mrs. Lindsay said he first wanted to rename the town "Tant" after himself.

However, she said, postal officials rejected the idea out of concern that a Tant, Texas, would be confused with Taft, Texas, which already had a post office.

After the rejection, Mrs. Lindsay said she and her husband looked around their store one night searching for ideas for a new name.

On a shelf in the store sat a stack of Tarzan comic books her husband had collected. Lindsay said her husband sold the books long before they had any value.

"I was the one who told him, 'Put down Tarzan,'" Mrs. Lindsay said.

She told her husband that he should add Tarzan to the list of suggested names he was sending to postal authorities. The list also contained Mrs. Lindsay's first name.

Two weeks later, Lindsay received approval to call the town Tarzan — a name that 56 years later still attracts the attention of postmark collectors and students from across the Northern Hemisphere. Lindsay died in 1972 in Stanton, where the couple moved to in 1943.

Mrs. McMorries, who has worked at the post office since 1956, said she has received requests for postmarks from as far away as Greenland.

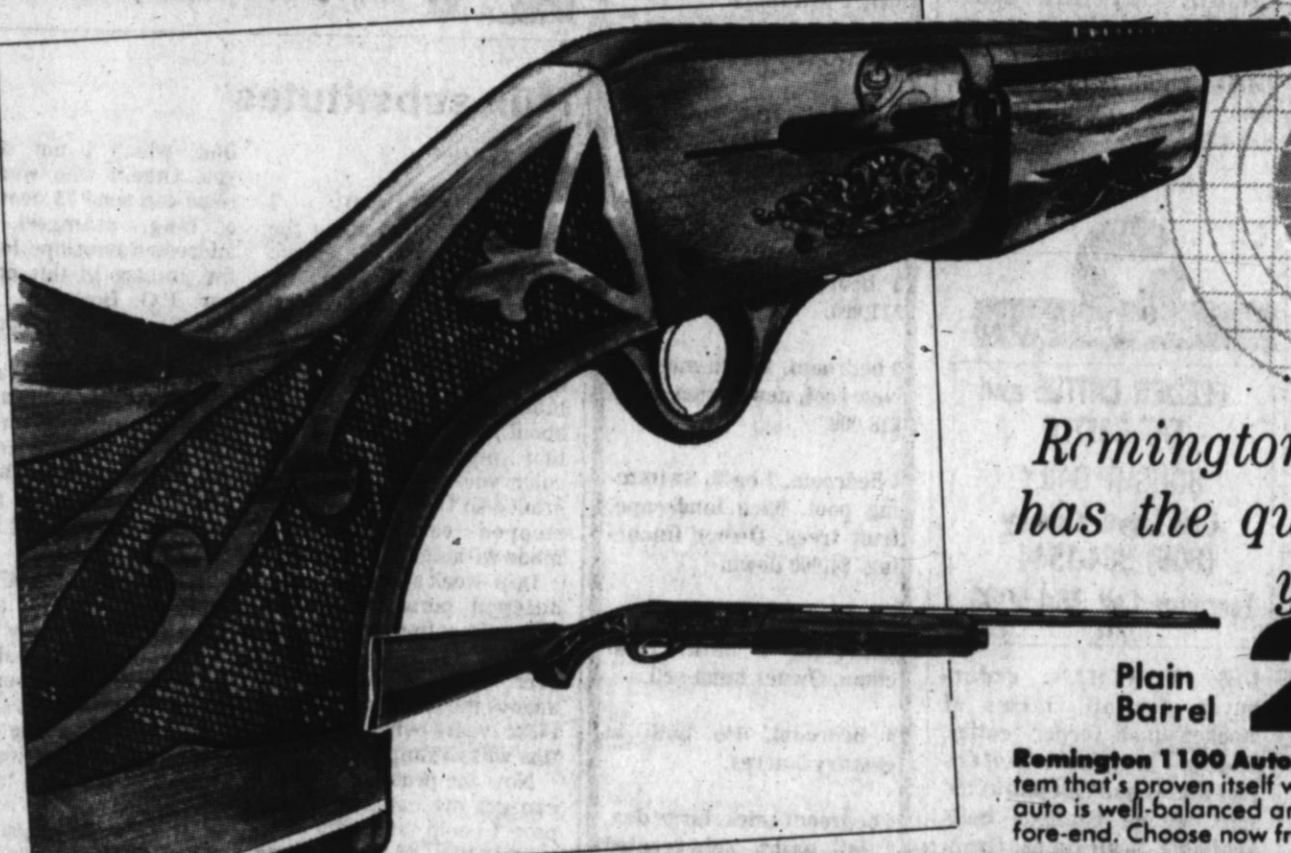

Most of the requests, she said, come from elementary school students.

The postmistress sometimes wishes she wouldn't be inundated with requests for information about the town's name, but added, "I don't mind getting them from kids."
