Immunity compromise wanted

sional committees investigating the Iran-Contra controversy, hoping to avoid a public clash with independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, are seeking a compromise on how swiftly to grant limited immunity to two former Reagan administration of-

We will do our utmost to avoid this conflict with the counsel, and

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congres- I'm sure we can," Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, the chairman of the Senate committee said Tuesday, a few hours after Walsh declared he would oppose any attempt to provide immunity for "at least 90 days."

The congressional committees and Walsh are investigating the secret sale of U.S. arms to Iran and the purported diversion of profits from those sales to the Contra rebels fighting the leftist Nicaraguan government.

Walsh, the government's prosecutor in the Iran-Contra affair, said that if congressional committees move before 90 days to grant limited immunity to former National Security Adviser John Poindexter and former National Security Counsel aide Lt. Col. Oliver North, 'we would ... have to do whatever we could to get ourselves as much time as possible to perfect our case." Walsh said "the danger is substantial" that granting immunity to either North or Poindexter ahead of his timetable would compromise his investigation, which is expected to result in criminal prosecutions.

But while a 90-day delay is longer than lawmakers are seeking, Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H. said it could be 60 days at the earliest before congressional investigators actually question the witnesses.

Under any scenario, Inouye said it could be the end of May or later before any principal players in the drama answers questions in a public

Walsh also is having trouble with Israel, which has refused to allow him to question Israeli agents involved in the Iran-Contra affair, the Los Angeles Times reported today. The Israeli position is creating obstacles to development of a criminal case, the newspaper said.

Israeli officials have acknowledged participation in arms sales to Iran but have denied any role in transferring profits from the deal to the Contras

An Israeli embassy spokesman, Yossi Gal, said Israel "will cooperate fully with all the investigative bodies on a governmentto-government basis." Congressional investigators have agreed to submit written questions to Israel. but such exchanges preclude the possibility of the direct questioning of individuals, the newspaper said. Meanwhile. House Republican Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., said Tuesday he had told President Reagan that the Iran-Contra controversy has reduced support in Congress for future assistance to the Contras.

"That hasn't helped us. I have to be realistic when I see votes slipping away," he said.

The latest ABC-Washington Post shows 52 percent of respondents don't approve of the way Reagan is handling his job, a further slippage since his March 4 speech, when there was a 48-48 split.

Honeymoon short for Gov. Clements

Instead of basking in good will, the state's only 20th-century Republican governor was snared in a college football scandal and forced to endorse a nearly $3 billion tax increase.

He was unable to persuade the Legislature to give him the added power he sought over state spending. and critics accused him of reneging on a campaign promise by releasing prison inmates early

He hasn't followed through on an oft-repeated campaign pledge to sell what he called the symbol of his Democratic predecessor's highflying, big-spending style: a $3.1 million Mitsubishi jet plane.

And the charges that marked his bitter race with former Democratic Gov. Mark White continue to make headlines

"It's unbelievable," said White, who ousted Clements in 1982 and then lost the rematch that cost them a combined $25 million

"If you go back into the campaign, one of the things he said early on was that he wasn't going to be out-lied. I think that's one promise he kept," said White, now a partner in a Houston law firm.

But Clements and his backers, who made credibility a key campaign issue last fall, insist things are all

"People who want to think ill of Bill Clements will. But when a legislator sits down in a room and hears Clements say 'I support this,' the guy can believe it. They didn't believe Mark White," said Karl Rove, the Austin political consultant Clements calls his "chief political

AUSTIN (AP) - For Gov. Bill The latest problem to beset University football fracas.

Last week, Clements touched off a wave of new investigations at SMU by saying he and some other school governors and administrators knew in 1984 or 1985 of booster payments to football players. He said they decided to continue some payments while trying to "phase out" that system.

Tuesday, Clements apologized for his role in the affair, saying, "To those rightfully upset and angry about the decision, I am truly sorry.'

While the SMU revelations have kept Clements on front pages across the state, even Democratic leaders in the Legislature call it a side issue that shouldn't affect his official

"I don't think it's had an influence. I really haven't picked up too many rumors or too much criticism on the House floor in relationship to it," said House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he felt "a lot of sympathy" for Clements and understood the decision to honor commitments to football players even if that violated NCAA rules.

But football hasn't been the only

Clements criticized White for signing a "temporary" increase in the state sales and motor fuel taxes last year to ease state government through a budget crisis brought on by the fall of oil prices.

Clements said then he would 'make sure those temporary taxes are, indeed, temporary." After taking office, Clements endorsed continuing the increases for two more

Bad news has eroded aid support

WASHINGTON (AP) - House GOP leaders, predicting eventual. victory in the year's first battle over U.S. aid to Nicaragua's Contra rebels, concede that a run of bad news has eroded support they need to sustain the insurgents. The House votes today on legislation to delay for six months the release of $40 million in military aid originally approved last year and to order the administration to account for all funds already sent to the Con-

The Senate is expected to vote next week on a resolution to cut off the money altogether

Republicans and Democrats alike say President Reagan likely will prevail in this first 1987 tug-of-war over Contra aid because there are not enough votes to override a certain Reagan veto. They say many lawmakers believe that blocking the $40 million aid installment would break the congressional commitment made last year.

The $40 million is "in the bank,"

said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan

But Democratic leaders say they have a far better chance of killing Contra aid for future years, a prediction that will be tested over the next several months in votes on the $105 million Reagan has requested for fiscal 1988.

Many Republicans reluctantly agree with that, saying their efforts to sustain the aid progam have been hurt by the turmoil of the Iran-Contra disclosures, the recent resignation of popular and moderate Contra leader Arturo Cruz and allegations of corruption within Contra ranks.

'That hasn't helped us," said House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., speaaking specifically of the Iran-Contra affair. "I have to be realistic when I see votes slipping

Airline automates ticket sales

DALLAS (AP) - Southwest Airlines has added a new twist to the traditional mode of travel arrangements by offering student standby tickets at cut-rate prices through automatic teller machines located at convenience stores.

For $15, passengers between the ages of 18 and 21 can fly between several major Texas by purchasing standby tickets in advance at their neighborhood 7-Elevens.

After the first week of operation, the Money Maker automatic tellers had dispensed 400 tickets in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Corpus Christi, Donald Valentine, vice president of marketing for Southwest, said Monday.

The figures indicate the fare is gaining attention on college campuses, he said.

"It ought to be," Valentine said. "We've got it down to the price of a burger and a movie."

Normally, it would cost a college student $68 to fly from Dallas Love Field to Houston Hobby Airport and back on the regional carrier. But under the new fare package offered through Southwest, Money Maker and 7-Eleven, the cost is $30.

Travelers must prove they are between 18 and 21 when checking in at the airport. No luggage may be checked but, as officials point out, how many young people need more than a carry-on bag for a weekend trip?

"Southwest was looking for a way to target the youth market," said airline spokeswoman Charlotte Goddard. "We thought youth was another untapped market."

House approves private prisons

AUSTIN (AP) - Despite objections from a lawmaker who said it brought to mind "horror stories" of years gone by, the House has backed a plan to let private companies build and run prisons.

The Senate-approved bill, with several minor House amendments, now returns to the Senate for review. The House voted 122-19 approval Tuesday Floor debate featured an unsuccessful attempt to give the governor final say in private-prison contracts, as well as complaints from Rep. Al Price about the concept.

Nobody should have the right to incarcerate anybody except the state," said Price, D-Beaumont.

"It has not been very long ago in our history when we had the involvement of private persons in the penal work of our state. In this state and indeed many other states across the South, we saw all kinds of abuses that have been more than adequately documented to give each one of us real serious problems with privatization of

"As a matter of fact, I find it reprehensible that anybody would do anything in terms of making money based on the misery of others," he told colleagues.

Price predicted private prisons would "make it possible to relive many of the horror stories that occurred in this state between 1865 and 1925."

IRS seeking info on SMU players

DALLAS (AP) - The Internal Revenue Service has asked for information on eight former Southern Methodist University football players implicated in the school's athletics scandal, a newspaper reported today.

The Dallas Morning News said SMU registrar John Hall confirmed Tuesday that the IRS has asked about the players. An IRS spokeswoman refused on Tuesday to confirm that an investigation of the eight was in process, the newspaper added.

The newspaper identified the eight "highly sought recruits who no longer play for the school" as Marquis Pleasant, Sean Stopperich, Rod Jones, Reggie Dupard, Ronald Morris, Terence Mann, Jerry Ball and Donald Allen.

Stopperich is the only one of the eight who has publicly acknowledged that he received money or other benefits for signing with the Mustangs. The seven other players have been identified in recent newspaper stories as athletes who received payments since August 1985, while SMU's football program was under probation. The discovery of the continued payments led the NCAA to ban SMU from playing football in 1987.

Anti-Tobacco bill gets cold shoulder

AUSTIN (AP) - An anti-smoking bill that would have allowed a father to be fined if he gave his 17-year-old son a cigarette got a cool reception from some Texas senators.

Sen. Cyndi Krier, R-San Antonio, offered the measure Tuesday, saying it would raise the permissible age for sale or delivery of tobacco products to a minor from 16 to 18 years.

The bill, however, fell four votes shy of the 25 needed to bring it up for debate. A second Ms. Krier bill to strengthen restrictions against smoking in elevators passed 29-1 and was sent to the House.

She said both bills were approved by the American Cancer Socie-

Ms. Krier said the main purpose of her attempt to raise the legal age for possession of tobacco products was to stop cigarette companies from giving free cigarettes to youngsters.

"We want to stop them giving away free cigarettes until the kids are actually addicted," she said. "Hopefully we can prevent another generation from starting smoking until they know more about the dangers of cancer."

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, said the measure apparently would have kept a mother from telling her son to go in the living room and get her a cigarette from his father.

Ms. Krier said she did not think enforcement would go that far, but technically the father would be guilty of delivery of a tobacco product to a child, punishable by a $10 to $100 fine.

DENTON, Texas (AP) - It's difficult to imagine that that buried beneath the North Texas prairie are the crumbling remains of giant ground sloths and monstrous ninefoot armadillos.

Officials say Texas bond rating warning to balance the books'

AUSTIN (AP) - The decision by Moody's Investor Service to lower its credit rating on Texas' general' obligation bonds is Wall Street's way of telling the state to balance the books, Texas officials say.

For the first time since 1962, Moody's on Tuesday lowered the bond rating from Aaa to Aa.

"The state's billion-dollar deficit and a tax system that is overly dependent on the oil and gas industry have made the folks at Moody's neryous, and that's why they've downgraded our bonds," said Comptroller Bob Bullock.

In announcing its decision, Moody's cited the state's troubled economy for its action.

"The strongest and singlemost factor is the economic shock that's happened to Texas over the last year .. and the magnitude of the financial problems," said Claire Cohen, an analyst with Moody's.

The oil-price drop since November 1985 has created state government budget deficits and sent the Texas jobless rate soaring. Ms. Cohen said Moody's believes the state is in for a long-range shakeup.

"The economy seems to us to be making a fundamental change in Texas and seems likely to have an effect for a long time," she said.

According to Bullock, a reduction in bond ratings can cause borrowing costs on newly issued debt to rise

Moody's said Texas has enjoyed a

Aaa bond rating since 1962. The Aa rating is the firm's second-highest category, and only 11 states currently have been assigned the Aaa rating, she said.

The Aaa rating is followed by Aa-1, Aa, A-1, A, Baa-1, Baa, Ba-1, Ba, B-1, B, Caa, Ca and C, the firm said.

Bullock spokesman Tony Profitt said the state's rating remains solid: "Aa is still high-quality bonds. There's no question about that." Bullock noted that Standard and Poor's lowered its bond rating for Texas a half-notch last year, "and suggested at the time that the state take steps to balance the books by the end of the 1987 fiscal year." The comptroller has projected that the state faces a $1 billion deficit in the current fiscal year and a $4.8 billion deficit over the 1988-89 fiscal Moody's action shows the need to concentrate on economic development, said Reggie Bashur, press secretary to Gov. Bill Clements. "This emphasizes the fact that the

No. 1 priority is the economy. We have to do all we can to create jobs and provide incentives to improve economic development and turn the state around," Bashur said.

"We know what we have to do and that means abandon the campaign Hobby said.

"The alternative is to dismantle vital services and face further downgrading of our credit rating."

State Treasurer Ann Richards said perception on Wall Street that the weak

Hart predicts three Demos by primary

DALLAS (AP) - By the time Texans vote a year from now in the Super Tuesday primary, there may be just three Democrats left as presidential contenders, former U.S. Sen. Gary Hart predicts.

Hart said he believes that he, the 'day. Rev. Jesse Jackson and possibly one other Democratic candidate will make it through the Iowa caucuses and New Hampshire primaries in CLEMENTS years at a cost of $2.9 billion.

The Republican criticized White for what he called "early release" of prisoners from the state's 26 prisons, which are under federal court limits on inmate population.

Since taking office, Clements twice has signed emergency declarations to speed up good-conduct time awarded inmates. Critics called it early release, but Clements said the inmates will be in halfway houses and actually remain under state supervision longer. During the campaign, Clements said he would quickly convince lawmakers to give him the power to shift funds from one agency to another to help in the budget crisis. The Senate defeated that plan easily. And Clements said he would sell the jet "as soon as my hand comes off the Bible." The craft remains in a state hangar. Asked if the SMU affair or other problems had compromised his credibility, Ciements replied, "I THE HEREFORD BRAND don't agree with that at all.'

"That's just my guess," said Hart, who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination in 1984. The former Colorado senator said the way delegate selection is stacked, it will take a strong showing in Iowa and New Hampshire to be able to continue drawing the campaign funds necessary to remain viable as a candidate.

He said Jackson can stay in the race regardless of how well he fares in New Hampshire because of the way his campaign is structured. But Hart said he had no idea who the third candidate might be Hart, in a speech to Southern

Local teenage girl masters general mechanical repair

By GAYE REILY Staff Writer

'I was a tomboy when I was a little girl-even if I had a dress on, I'd usually get caught climbing a tree and really get into trouble

Hereford resident Terry Poyner made the news recently-not for socially unacceptable behavior but by winning first place in the district general mechanic repair competition held in Amarillo.

The eldest daughter of Naney Mitchell and Johnny Poyner, this 15-year-old LaPlata Junior high mnth-grader became interested in basic mechanics two years ago when such a class was offered. "I thought it would be fun to get greasy and dirty without getting into trouble!" exclaimed the shy, soft-spoken young lady. "Also, I wanted to learn how to. repair a car engine in order to save money in the future," she added.

Out of approximately 30 students in Terry's general mechanic repair class, she is one of three girls taking the course. Yet, it wasn't always that way-at the beginning of the year, Terry was the only girl in the class. 'A few of the guy and lots of my friends freaked out when I first took the class, but I thought it was fun and didn't care what anyone thought!

she admitted. After this independent lass payed the way, two other girls joined the class the next semester.

Poyner's entry into the district contest was a Chevrolet head in which she did a valve job. Accompanying this engine part was a notebook containing a detailed description of her technique. In it, she explained how she re-machined the surfaces on the intake and exhaust valves and seats to factory specifications. She will take her work to state competition April 3-4 in Corpus Christi.

"It will be a huge state competistated Terry's general mechanical repair teacher, Monty Smith. "Yes, I expect a great effort out of Terry. Out of the seven LaPlata students entered in district competition, Terry was the only girl who entered and the only first-place winner. She is a good pupil with a healthy competitive attitude.

Sponsored by Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas, the state contest will be the final level of competition. Although eagerly anticipating the trip to Corpus Christi, Terry realizes that real life goes on and tries to apply her newfound mechanical knowledge to everyday problems. She has tinkered with small engines, and is currently engrowsed with attempting to get a lawnmower in working order. "I think it needs a new crankshaft. was her diagnosis of the problem.

When questioned about hobbies or extacurricular activities Terry, who has four younger sister, replied that her favorite activity is attending the local Church of the Nazraene. "I have a lot of fun going there and feel right at home." she stated.

Although Terry currently enjoys her mechanical work, she is not surewhether she will continue it in the future I just want to join the Air-Force and fly" she declared enthusiastically. When asked if she would consider working on an airplane engines Terry giggled at the prospect. "Maybe." she said, thoughtfully, "just maybe.

Nine out of ten experience some form of motion sickness

Whether your business or pleasure trip takes you to the halls of Montezuma or the shores of Tripoli. you could end up fighting motion sickness in the air, on land, or at sea.

Surveys have found that about nine of every 10 people have experienced this disorder. Experts agree that almost no one is immune to motion sickness and that given a strong enough stimulus, anyone with a normal sense of balance will succumb.

The Texas Medical Association notes that many people are affected only by certain types of motion. A person who feels no queasiness riding in an airplane or the back seat of a car may fall victim to seasickness because of the ship's

VIDEO SHOPPING ON A ROLL

DENVER (AP) - A dominant factor in cable television programming is the phenomenon of home television shopping services, according to Multichan-nel News.

The television industry journal reports that consumers are now able to purchase virtually the gamut of merchandise available in retail stores without leaving their homes.

All that is required is a home televi-sion set, a telephone and a credit card.

The publication estimates merchan-dise sales of $2.25 billion for 1986 and 1987, the first two full years of the service. It also says that in 1987 the average sale will increase to $45 from last year's $35, and by 1991 the figure is expected to increase to $85 combined motions of pitching from back to front and rolling from side to

The cause of motion sickness is not fully known but the problem centers in the inner ear, an organ not only of sound but of balance. A "mismatch" between the balance the ear feels through its semicircular canals and the balance that the eye sees, can cause the ear to send signals to a part of the brain known as the vomiting

The symptoms of motion sickness are well known. Early symptoms include pale skin color, yawning, restlessness, a cold sweat, a slightly upset stomach. These symptoms may progress rapidly in susceptible individuals to excessive salivation, nausea, and vomiting.

Preventing motion sickness is easier than treating it. Place vourself where there is the least motion. In a car, sit in the front seat and look ahead. In an airplane, sit over the wing. On a ship, remain on deck about midway

Keep your head as still as possible while looking ahead at the distant horizon. It may be better to close your eyes rather than focus on fastmoving scenery or waves.

For those travelers who cannot prevent motion sickness, medications and treatments are available. Non-prescription antihistamine treatments are most effective if taken 30 minutes to an hour before

Technical theatre aspects emphasized

Dance at Eastern New Mexico University is placing renewed emphasis on its technical program in an effort to complement the alreadyprominent performance aspect of the department.

Under the guidance of technical director Sonny Martin, the behindthe-scenes positions are garnering new respect and attention in the overall theatrical presentation. It is Martin's goal to eventually have as many students focusing their career objectives on the technical aspects of lighting, set design and construction, costuming and make-up design as are currently studying to become actors and actresses in the ENMU pro-

Special recognition to be given to Novak, Williams

Steve Novak and Roger C. Williams, both of Hereford, will be honored at the annual Founder's Day dinner of the West Texas State nity, April 4, in Canyon.

Novak will be recognized for 10 years of service and membership to the fraternity and Williams for 25 years, announced Mark Young, Alumni Association president.

The affair, commemorating the founding of the fraternity in 1865, will begin at 4:30 p.m. with a reception at the home of WTSU President, Dr. Ed

An open house will follow at the ATO Lodge east of Canyon at 5:30 p.m. with a dinner and awards cording to Chapter President Rhett Ragsdale.

Guest speaker will be Bill Kassul of Alpha Tau Omega National Head-Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega Frater- quarters. All area ATO undergraduates and alumni are invited to attend.

Alpha Tau Omega was founded in 1865 at Virginia Military Institute by three young Confederate veterans. They sought to ease the hatred of the Civil War through a brotherhood of college men.

Based in Champaign, Ill., the fraternity has 154 chapters at various colleges and universities as well as a number of alumni associations throughout the United States. Alpha Tau Omega was chartered at ceremony beginning at 6:30 p.m., ac- West Texas State in 1959.

Knitters, crocheters invited to statewide convention

AUSTIN - Knitters and crocheters throughout Texas are invited to take part in a statewide convention May 14-17 in Austin.

The Knitter's and Crocheter's Guild of Texas is staging the convention-the only such gathering slated for this year in Texas. The convention is geared toward people who knit and crochet as a hobby, according to Suzann Thompson, guild director.

The convention will feature a variety of workshops covering a range of knitting and crocheting on several levels. Specialized classes, taught by experts like Anne Macdonald, Arlene Mintzer and Vickie Smith, will also be offered. The classes range from argyling and fabric rug crochet to finishing techniques. The convention will take plce at the Holiday Inn North, 6911 N. IH-35, in Austin. Registration fee for the convention is $45, which includes all classes. Yarn stores from throughout Texas, as well as national varn and knitting accessory companies, will staff booths during the final day of the convention. Convention-goers will have the opportunity to purchase yarn and knitting accessories during this retail market.

The Knitter's and Crocheter's Guild of Texas is the largest such group in Texas. Founded in 1983, it is a tax-exempt, non-profit organization of knitters and crocheters.

Members of the Guild exhibit their work regularly throughout the state and the southwest. The Guild has regularly been invited to participate in events like the Texas Folklife Festival and the Arts and Crafts Festival at Winedale.

Further information about the convention is available by contacting Ms. Thompson, 512-441-8769.

Third straight victory

Herd whips Palo Duro, 11-1

A two-run homer by Rodney Mc- they scored on Herrera's double. Cracken and a two-run double by Keith Herrera were among the hits by the Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team in its 11-1 victory over Palo Duro Tuesday in Amarillo.

The victory gives the Whitefaces a 3-2 record going into the Dumas Tournament, which is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Hereford moved out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Herrera doubled. went to third base on a wild pitch. and Paul Maes walked.

Herrerra and Maes attempted a double steal and were successful. with Herrera scoring the first run of the game. Keith Anderson hit a double to bat in Maes

Anderson, after advancing to third base on an error by the Palo Duro centerfielder, scored the third run on a groundout by Bobby Medina.

Herrera hit his two-run double in the second inning when the Whitefaces increased their lead to 7-0. Todd Shire reached base on an error, Bill Ruckman walked, and

Son of Hereford couple named to new NSRA position

The son of a Hereford couple has been appointed as a special events director for the National Street Rod Association (NSRA)

Pat Newell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newell of Hereford, recently accepted the position, as announced in Street Scene magazine.

Newell, who lives in Cloudcraft, N.M., has been an NSRA official since 1977.

In his new position, he is the event director for the NSRA Great Southwest Street Rod Nationals, the NSRA Rocky Mountain Street Rod Nationals, the NSRA Northwest Street Rod Nationals, and the NSRA

Mid-America Street Rod Nationals Newell and his wife, Linda, have been active in street rodding for more than 20 years. He became the NSRA New Mexico state representative in 1977, and in 1980 accepted the position of South Central Division director

The bases were loaded when Maes reached base on an error and Robby Collier walked. Herrera scored on a fielder's choice when Kyle Streun hit wild pitch.

Shire doubled in the third inning and scored on an error by the Dons' shortstop to make the Herd's lead

McCracken belted his home run in the fourth inning after Derrell Page had singled. Michael Phibbs scored the last Hereford run. Phibbs doubled, went to third base on an error, Nazarehe (Andrews) and scored on a wild pitch.

James Hernandez pitched for the Whitefaces, allowing one earned run, in the fourth inning. He struck out six Palo Duro batters, walked three, and

Decision on using fertilizer should be based on soil test

COLLEGE STATION - Fertilizer use is oftn a victim during an economic crisis such sa the one farmers are currently facing.

"As farmers look at reducing production costs, they often consider reducing or eliminating fertilizer usage," says Dr. Willis Gass, a soil fertility specialist. "However, it is unwise to make such a major decision withoutthe benefit of a soil test."

If a soil test indicates that fertilizer is needed to attain a desired yield goal, its use is strongly recommended, says the Texas Agricultural Extension specialist. Not to fertilize may result in yield levels which will fectively reduce the per unit cost of not generate enough income to cover basic production costs. However, fertilizer at recommended rates will increase the probability of boosting yields enough to more than pay for the fertilizer and provide some margin of profit.

On the other hand, direct savings also can result when a soil test indicates that the soil contains adequate, or near adequate, levels of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium or other nutrients to attain a desired yield goal.

"Whichever the case, following soil test recommendations would efproducing a commodity and increase the chances of making a profit," Gass points out.

In most cases, nitrogen is the major nutrient limiting crop yields in Texas, notes the specialist. Therefore, to assess residual or carryover nitrogen levels in the soil, Extension Service Testing laboratories at College Station and Lubbock routinely analyze soils for nitrate nitrogen. This analysis determines the amount of available nitrogen in the soil and is subtracted from the amount of nitrogen required to reach a desired yield goal. This reduced nitrogen recommendation results in a direct savings to the producer without sacrificing yield.

Phosphorus is the second most commonly deficient nutrient in most Texas soils. Numerous result The 1987 Texas State Swine Short uniform size, kind, age and pregnan- demonstrations conducted in various demonstrate a consistent economic plied phosphorus when a soil test indicated the presence of moderate or higher leels of that nutrient.

"So, when limited dollars are allocated for fertilizer inputs, first priority should be given to nitrogen when fertilizing crops such as cotton, true when soil test phorphorus levels are moderate or above and demonstration results or personal experience give added support to this decision. Consider this alternative only when economic constraints are

'There is no substitute for knowing what a soil's nutrient status is as a farmer starts planning next year's cropping program," emphasizes Gass. "Soil testing can provide an economical means of determining fertilizer needs and can help producers make those major economic decisions with greater confidence."

This is especially eating insects that eat leaves, according to Wood magazine. Insects that lunch on leaves can reduce a tree's foliage by 10 percent, reducing timber production by 30 percent.

Soil fertility may be limiting factor on crops

For years agriculturalists have assumed that water is the principal limiting factor in crop production in the Texas High Plains. "I think what our studies may show is that soil fertility may really be the limiting factor in some cases, instead of water." says Dr. Charles Wendt, Professor of Soil Physics with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock

Wendt and Dr. Arthur Onken, Professor of Soil Chemistry with the Experiment Station, are conducting experiments using container-grown cotton to determine the role that nutrients play in plant production and plant water-use efficiency. "The results thus far indicate that there is an important relationship between soil fertility levels, the availability of water and the crop response," comments Wendt.

Using 385 buckets in which cotton was planted in soil that was deficient in nitrogen and phosphorus, Wendt and Onken have combined high and low water treatments with applications of nitrogen and phosphorus both alone and in combination.

Results of the experiments so far indicate that phosphorus is the most limiting nutrient and that additions of phosphorus alone will increase plant growth. On the other hand, the applications of nitrogen alone have

Olson Cattle Co. enrolls in program

Olson Cattle Co., of Hereford has recently been enrolled in the Angus Herd Improvement Records program of the American Angus Association.

Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) is a comprehensive withinherd evaluation program used by cattlemen to help them keep records of reproduction, and growth rate on individual animals. Each year hundreds of Angus breeders use AHIR records to produce more profitable, efficient Angus seedstock.

By weighing calves at 205 days of age and again at a year of age, breeders not only identify the cattle that grow the fastest and most efficiently, they also identify cows that regularly produce above average calves, and bulls that sire outstanresponse int he soils use din the experiments. Onken explains, "If you only add nitrogen to soils with a significant phosphorus deficiency. your chances of greatly increasing plant growth are very small.

Under high water treatments, the cotton plants showed a significant response to phosphorus added alone. but only limited response to the addition of nitrogen alone. The best response was obtained with the addition of nitrogen and phosphorus Onken notes that a phosphorus deficiency can delay plant maturation. "However, if you have sufficient amounts of phosphorus, adding more phosphorus will not affect maturity," he points out.

The scientists also have observed the effect of nutrients on plant wateruse efficiency. Early indications suggest tht the availability of nutrients affects the plant's ability to utilize water efficiently, and that a nitrogen-phosphorus deficiency can hamper the plant's water uptake.

The most efficient use of water occurred when phosphorus, alone or incombination with nitrogen, was applied. The least efficient use of water occurred when nitrogen alone wasapplied under both the high and low water treatments.

"If you have low levels of soil nutrients, you won't get efficient use of water," explains Onken. He emphasizes, "You can't substitute water for fertilizer, and you can't substitute fertilize for water. They, interact in how efficiently water is used and in the production you can expect.'

The experiments consist of two water treatments and four fertility treatments for a total of eight treatment combinations. For the high water treatment, the scientists replaced 100 percent of the evaporative demand as needed. The low water treatment-replaced 50 per-had little or no effect on crop cent of the evaporative demand. The fertility treatments consisted of a control to which nothing was added, a treatment of nitrogen at 160 pounds per acre, a tratment of phosphorus at 160 pounds per acre and a treatment of nitrogen and phosphorus at 160 pounds per acre each. It is normal research practice to use higher fertilizer rates in container studies than normally would be used in field production due to restricted soil volume Every two weeks, approximately 64 plants are harvested and tissue analyses made to determine nitrogen and phosphorus levels in the plants

The scientists are also conducting dry matter studies which will examine the relationship between the availability of nutrients and water and the plant's ability to take and utilize these compounds

The fertility experiments were conceived after analyses on soil samples collected by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 showed that soils in the area are often deficient in nitrogen and phosphorus. Also, Wendt observed that plants were not utilizing all the available water in soils that we low in fertility

The objective is to try to get some handle on a concept that will help us to determine what relationship exists between fertilizer and water use and water use as it relates to production," Onkens ays.

Conference set in Dimmitt Thursday

Producers who need information on how to improve their cotton yields should attend the Cotton Production and Soil Fertility Conference held in conjunction with the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. directors' election meeting, Thursday, March 12. The open conference will take place from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., with registration starting at 12:30 p.m., at the Castro County Exposition Building located at 403 S.E. Fourth Street in Dimmitt.

As the spring planting season approaches, the conference will highlight possible crop management concerns, especially with regard to seed quality and insect control. In addition, soil fertility and its relationship to crop yields will be discussed. Current research, soil tests and field observations suggest that low fertility levels, especially nitrogen and phoshorus, over much of the High Plains of Texas, may be responsible for the declining crop yields observed over the past several years. "Featured presentations of the conference will include: "Considerations for the 1987 Cotton Crop - Seed Quality," by Dr. James Supak, Area District No. 1.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN This past week without a doubt was the most gratifyingof our Senate career.

Returning to the Senate Chamber after missing the first seven weeks. of the session with a back injury filled us with emotions we can't begin to describe. The warm reception of our colleagues was particularly nice, but then, the senators themselves are a particularly special bunch of people

After all, here are 30 men and women who don't always see eyeto eye with us on the issues. We'll disagree with every one of them on an issue at least once this session. We'll even get into some heated

Yet when we were laid out by a truly devastating injury, they pulled together to help us represent District 31. They helped us passlegislation, and they kept us abreast of issues that were important to the district. Regardless of their own personal ideology, every senator gave a little of himself or herself to make sure our part of the state was represented properly.

Nothing we eyer can do or say will thank them enough.

The second best part of being back still hes ahead, and that, of course, is getting to work on the issues. We've still got the budget and taxes to deal with, more prison legislation, sunset bills and a variety of other exciting measures.

There was one last major bill, though, that passed the Senate before our return, and it's a bill we strongly support. We refer to Sen our state's teachers er testing, was a questionable idea from the start. It was included in the now famous (or infamous) House Bill 72 of 1984 because taxpayers were demanding more accountability for their education tax dollars. Poll after poll showed Texans would support a tax in crease to raise teacher pay if they could guarantee the money was going to well-qualified teachers

Scheduled for the near future was the second, subject-area test. The idea was that once a teacher's basic competency was tested, their know ledge of the subject area they teach should be measured.

Subject-area testing, as it turned out, was full of problems. For one thing, our budget crisis had left us without the funding necessary to develop a top-notch test. Also there were serious concerns as It whether the subject-area tests would reveal any more about teacher competency than the first test. All subject-area testing seem ed to be doing for sure was cause morale problems among teachers who viewed the proposed test as little more than a TECAT II

Senator Parker argued successfully that it would be best for all involved to forget about the subject-area tests and concentrate on our primary goal of making Texas' publi schools the best in the nation. The Senate agreed, passing his bill unanimously

Again, it is good to be back and working for you here. We stand ready, as always, to help however we can. Write us as the session progresses and let us know how you feel, about all the issues. Our address is P.O. Box 12068. Austin. Texas, TAZLL

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister is dying of AIDS. She is 30 years old, heterosexual and not a drug user. We have no idea how she got this dreaded disease and we don't care. What we do know is that she is doomed to die a horrible death and we are going to be forced to watch it happen day by day

In addition to the agony we will be living with, for god knows how long, there is the guilt we feel for judging her. (Why wasn't she more selective? How could she do this to us? How are we going to manage the financial responsibilities? That could wipe us out.)

Then there is the shame. Eventually the truth will be known and the stigma will be terrible. How long can we keep this a secret? So far only the immediate family is aware that she has AIDS. Our story is that she picked up a strange virus-like pneumonia and flu combined.

Yesterday at work, three people told me jokes about AIDS. I wanted to scream. Of course, they had no way of knowing that my one beautiful, fun-loving sister is a victim, but then who knows what is in

I am writing to ask you to tell your readers to stop telling AIDS jokes. It is the lowest form of humor. What's more, they could be talking to someone whose life has been changed by this god-awful sickness, like me.-Anywhere, U.S.A. DEAR ANYWHERE: Thank you for a letter I have been praying would come. For a long time I have been appalled by AIDS jokes. I find themd espicable and have always felt that people who tell such jokes are insensitive and vulgar.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have enjoyed your column for almost as many years as you have been writing it and I've learned a lot, too. Now is my chance to say "thank you" by sharing an experience that could save lives.

This evening my family was seated around the dinner table when suddenly we heard a thunderous crash in the upstairs bathroom. We rushed up and found that a 4-by-6-foot quarterinch bathroom mirror had fallen off the wall and literally exploded upon impact with the vanity.

I'LL KNOCK NEXT DOOR TO SEE IF QUIZ IS READY!

UNDERSTAND

Large pieces as well as needlesharp fragments of glass, covered the bathroom. If any member of the family had been in the room when that mirror crashed he or she would have been cut to pieces.

The mirror had been attached to the wall only with adhesive. A piece of glass that size and weight should have been secured to the wall with metal clips and fasteners. We checked the other mirrors in the house immediately after the accident and discovered that two other heavy mirrors were attached to the wall by adhesive only.

Please print this letter and ask all your readers to make a check on the mirrors in their homes. Even though they appear to be secure, if they are not held in place by fasteners, they could come crashing down without warning and the results could be disastrous.-Counting Our Blessings

LUCKY DEAR STRONGVILLE: I appreciate your letter. And now I hope all you folks check today, especially those who live in areas where there have been mild earthquakes. (Are you listening, California?)

Many U.S. soybeans traditioanlly move into the export market, and that market has been clouded by recent actions of European Economic Community, adds the economist.

Despite export problems and continuing large world supplies of soybeans, prices for soybean oil and meal could increase gradually in the next year from almost 'rock bottom' prices in 1986," says Feagan. Domestic use of both soybean oil and meal should incrase some in the coming months to reduce stocks, but the long-range market outlook is still Wyatt explains, "Under the rules and regulations of the High Plains Water District, the only way the status of a legal well site can be changed is if the well owner destroys the well or formally declares the well abandoned and files an abandoned well form with the District.

Thus, owners of wells that have been afforded protection under the permitting rules of the Water District will continue to be afforded that protection during the 10-year CRP contract period, adds Waytt.

If the well owner decides to pull the pump from the well during the contract period, he should see that the well borehole is properly capped to comply with the Water District's rules," cautions Wyatt. District rules require a covering capable of sustaining weight of not less than 400 hundred pounds, except when the well is in actual use by the owner or operator of the well.

Wyatt emphasizes, however, that the well must be a legal well site under Water District rules in order for the District to afford the site protection from encroachment. Any producer who is unawre of the status of his well site is encouraged to visit the county Water Distric office in his area or the Water District's Lubbook office at 2930 Avenue Q. 'Stretch, make-do' time for farmers

COLLEGE STATION - Because these are "stretch and make do" times for farmers and ranchers who lack the ready capital to invest in procedures take on added impor-

Since many farmers cannot afford new equipment, keeping their present machinery well-maintained is more important than ever as far as safe operation is concerned, points out Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural-Extension Service.

Maintenance and repairs mean continued productivity as well as a safe work environment, notes Nelson. The hidden cost of an accident or machine breakdown can far exceed the immediate medical and repair expenses. Lost work time can delay harvest, and lengthy hospitalizations and recuperation periods can take other family members and employees away from their work.

"Timing is important in avoiding costly production delays," says Nelson. "The best time to recondition machinery is before the season begins, not when you're ready to head for the field.

Machinery is not the only threat to the safety and health of those who work in agriculture. Nelson advises farm operators and employees to make safety checks of the house,
