Deaf Smith County seeks impact considerations

WDIC testifies at Senate hearing

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Deaf Smith County's Waste Deposit Impact Committee presented testimony before a Senate committee this morning on socio-economic impacts which might be caused by the site characterization study for a nuclear waste repository.

Troy Don Moore, chairman of the WDIC, was to present the testimony at a hearing of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee. Accompanying him to Washington, D.C., were WDIC members Tom LeGate, Frank Zinser, Dennis Brown and executive director Phil Niedzielski-Eichner. County Judge Tom Simons and farmer-seedman Wayne Richardson also made the trip.

Hereford's Drug Awareness Week, May 3-9, is drawing community-wide support and interest. Highlight of the week for adults will be an evening with Father Dan Egan, the famed "junkie priest", and Lonise Bias, mother of the late Len Bias, Maryland basketball star. That event is scheduled in La Plata Gym on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Sessions will also be held for 5th through 12th-grade students at school. Contributions to help defray expenses are welcomed. Sponsors include the school, local law agencies, the Chemical People, Ministerial Alliance, and civic clubs.

At a Cowgirl Hall of Fame benefit event last year, we purchased KPAN Radio for a day. We finally caught Clint Formby in town long enough to set a date of May 18 to provide the radio station with some quality management. Remember the date—we'll have some good music—for a change, some interesting interviews, a few fun contests, and the Hereford Bull will replace the Day-by-Day Philosopher!

I'd like to express my thanks and appreciation to Dr. Jim Herberston, the nurses and other hospital employees, Dr. Ron Cook and many other friends for their deeds and support during the illness and hospitalization of my dad, A.D. He'd like to add his thanks to the First National Bank for the copy of The Hereford Brand it provides patients each day.

We don't know where the following story originated, but we thought our readers would get a chuckle of it: The pastor visited a class of boys one Sunday morning to find out what they were learning during Bible study. "Who broke down the walls of Jericho?" he asked the class.

"Not me, sir," the boys replied. "Is this typical of this class?" the pastor asked the teacher.

"These are honest boys and I believe them," the teacher replied. "I don't believe they would do a thing like that."

Frustrated and discouraged, the pastor told the Sunday School director about this visit to the class and

The Hereford delegation will also be making a number of contacts and visits with various Congressmen while in the nation's capital. Representatives of the other two repository sites—Nevada and Washington—were also scheduled to testify at the Senate hearing.

The Associated Press reported this morning that a panel of senators heard testimony Tuesday that the radioactive wastes are safe and that the program is well run by the administration.

"I don't know how we've gotten this voodoo-like fear of nuclear wastes in this country," said Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., chairman of the Senate committee. Johnston is the author of legislation to pay $100 million a year to a state willing to take the waste voluntarily.

He hopes some state can be coaxed into welcoming the repository, as opposed to the current situation where the three candidate states are suing to stop DOE's search for the best site. Johnston said Tuesday's hearing "is about reducing fear."

Alvin Weinberg, nuclear physicist, led off the testimony by saying, "I applaud attempts to educate the public as to the insignificance of radiation exposure at the level estimated to come from a repository." He applauded the compensation plan because "the issue is one of public perception."

Johnston's plan is to intensively study only one site, with the resulting savings being used to fund the incentive program. Officials from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission did not embrace the plan, suggesting it might not lead to an adequate repository.

Hugh Thompson, director of NRC's office of nuclear material safety, said "selection of only one site for detailed characterization runs the risk of resulting in a site that may be unlicensable." He added that if the one site was found unsuitable, "there could be considerable delay while characterization is completed elsewhere."

Despite widespread criticism of DOE's operation of the disposal program, Thompson said, "the department's work so far has been adequate and sufficient."

The Big Splash

Traffic on Main Street splashed through a big puddle yesterday afternoon as city water department employees flushed dirt out of the system by opening a fire hydrant. A broken main in the alley of Main Street resulted in interrupted service for some business and in debris in the line. Service was reconnected at the completion of repairs.

Lions to meet here Friday for district convention

Lions Club of District 21-1, which includes most of the Panhandle, will convene in Hereford Friday and Saturday for the annual district convention. Business sessions and elections, an awards dinner, a queen's contest and the governor's ball are highlights of the meeting.

John D. Buffington, Lions International director from Charleston, W.V., will be the principal speaker for the Saturday night governor's banquet. Jimmy Ross of Quitaque is the 1986-87 district governor for 21-1. The convention gets underway with registration at 10 a.m. Friday, and a business session and necrology service set for the afternoon. The awards dinner is scheduled from 6 to 7:30 p.m., and the district Queen's Contest starts at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Thirty clubs will send candidates for the queen's contest. Lori Johnson of Childress is the reigning queen.

The Hi-Plains Eye Bank will sponsor a breakfast Saturday, and golf and tennis tournaments start at 9 a.m. Programs on the "war on drugs" and the merger of Girlstown, U.S.A. with Boys Ranch are on the agenda Saturday, as well as an orientation for new officers, and the annual election of district officers.

A reception for the international director is scheduled for 6 p.m. Saturday, followed by the governor's banquet and ball. Business sessions and banquets will be held in the Hereford Community Center, and the governor's ball at Hereford Country Club. Ladies' activities Friday afternoon include a tour of Deaf Smith County Museum and a discount shopping spree.

Sid Shaw, a past president of the Hereford Club, is convention chairman. Pat Dist. Gov. Rocky Lee is chairman of the Queen's Contest.

Moore's testimony:

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a complete transcript of the testimony which Troy Don Moore presented this morning before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee in Washington, D.C.)

Chairman Johnston and Distinguished Senators:

Good morning. Thank you for the opportunity to address the committee on matters of the utmost significance to Deaf Smith County and its neighbors in the Texas Panhandle.

My brief remarks will describe the Waste Deposit Impact Committee; introduce you to the Deaf Smith County I represent—one of the most productive agricultural communities in the world; convey our position on S. 839 and direct your attention to the needs of the situs and affected local governments in and around Deaf Smith County relative to any future implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act.

My name is Troy Don Moore. I am chairman of the Waste Deposit Impact Committee in Deaf Smith County. We are a formally established board, through use of an interlocal agreement allowed for by Texas Statute. The committee consists of two "units of general local government"—the County and the City of Hereford—and three special districts—The Hereford and Walcott Independent School Districts and the general hospital district. We expect to add the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District as a member in the near future. All members are governmental bodies established under state law, with boards and commissions elected by popular vote of the general public.

The WDIC was created by the various governmental entities to coordinate the study of the potential impacts of the repository program on the community—public health and safety, environmental, social, fiscal, economic and otherwise—and identify appropriate impact mitigations—where any can be defined. In addition, we have the respon-

New gym bid accepted, band boosters give check

Construction for the new gym at the La Plata campus and for classroom additions there will cost the Hereford School District $1,512,998.

High Plains Building Company of Amarillo was the lowest of nine bidders for the project, and was approved unanimously as contractor during a board meeting Tuesday night. Architect Tom Mills said the contract has a $25,000 contingency for any alterations desired, too.

"We hit the market just right," Mills told the board. "It couldn't have been better." He referred to the $6 million plans the Amarillo district has to expand and said that in a few months, the bids could be up to 20 percent higher.

Mills assured the board that some of the sub-contractors would be local. The district received $10,000 Tuesday from the Band Boosters to show support for the purchase of band uniforms last fall. Board members told Sherri Kerr, booster president, that since uniforms were paid for the band department could probably use the money otherwise. That will be considered at a later board meeting.

Band Boosting

Hereford School Board president John Fuston accepts a $10,000 check in behalf of the district from Sherri Kerr, president of the Band Boosters. The money was raised to show booster support for the purchase of new band uniforms last fall. The board plans to put the money in a booster reserve fund to be used for miscellaneous band needs as the director sees fit.

The rule on shorts was amended to allow—only for the rest of this semester—jams and walking shorts to classes with decency upon discretion of campus principals. The 5-2 vote had Shirley Wilson and Dennis Newton opposing the change. Wilson said that district policy said "no shorts" and it should remain so until changed through policy amendment.

Concerns from a student who was sent home were discussed earlier this month at a board meeting. The three secondary school principals said they could work with the new order.

Newton and Steve Coneway voted in opposition to allowing the High Plains Underground Water District to join the Waste Deposit Impact Committee. Coneway said the district had no monetary value to be impacted by site characterization for a repository and Newton said the headquarters were in Lubbock, so it wasn't entirely a Deaf Smith County taxing entity.

Kathy Moore moved to accept the water district after explaining that she hoped it didn't want on WDIC because it thought the WDIC wasn't doing a good job.

FNB Names New President

Don R. Graham, 52, executive vice president of Texas American Bank of Amarillo, has been named the new president of First National Bank of Hereford, it was announced today by James Witherspoon, chairman of the FNB board.

Graham will assume the president's post here June 15. He has been with the Amarillo bank for 34 years and will retire from that position next month. He and his wife, Patricia, will be moving to Hereford in June. They have two married children. Graham replaces James H. Sears, who served as president of the bank from 1970 to March of 1987.

Dogs keeping police busy

Four reports filed by Hereford police on Tuesday concerned complaints about dogs.

In the 100 block of Texas, a man reported that several dogs in that neighborhood bark constantly. In the 300 block of Avenue E a complainant said two men kicked his dog, but the men said the dog was chasing them. In the 400 block of Long, a call came at 2:17 a.m. that a dog was barking, but police did not locate the animal. A woman who heard dogs barking became afraid and asked police to check the area of the 200 block of Avenue K.

Thefts reported to police were of two bikes from the 100 block of Avenue K, a radar detector from a vehicle in the 800 block of N. Main, and checks and business papers taken from a residence in the 900 block of Miles.

Other reports filed were of harassment, a loud party, a man trying to wave down traffic, a commercial vehicle parked in a residential area, and firecrackers in town.

One accident with no injuries was investigated.

Drink tax remitted

Deaf Smith County and the City of Hereford will each receive $2,518.07 as remittance from the mixed drink tax collected in the first quarter of 1987.

Revenue totaled $20,144.56 for the two entities. The return is for 12 percent of that collected by the state comptroller's office.

Penney plans move to Dallas

NEW YORK (AP) — Efforts by city officials to keep the headquarters of the J.C. Penney Co. in New York have failed and the company will relocate to Dallas, city officials said.

The company would not comment on the reported move and telephone calls Tuesday and early today to the home and office of a Penney spokesman, Harvey McCormick, were not returned.

About 4,000 people working at Penney's 45-story midtown tower would be affected.

The move had been rumored for two years. City officials who negotiated with Penney for several months in an effort to keep the headquarters in New York said the loss of so many jobs would cost the city millions in income tax revenues but would not lead to a contraction of the local economy which has been expanding.

"Even with these moves, we have experienced substantial job growth this year," the deputy mayor for finance and economic development, Alair A. Townsend, said. "And that comes on top of the increase in jobs we had last year, about 64,000."

A Penney announcement could come only days after a similar announcement by the Mobil Oil Corp., which said Friday it was shifting its headquarters to Virginia over the next three years. The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. had started, but then suspended, a move of most of its headquarters staff to New Jersey last month.

The latest exodus of major corporations differs from the wave of relocations that shook the city in the 1960s and early '70s as they come at a time of economic growth and declining local and state taxes.

Water, toilets ordered for workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's growers are being given a month to provide nearby drinking water and three months to set up field toilets and wash basins for nearly half a million farm workers.

The government, in ordering the facilities, said they will reduce infectious parasitic diseases among farm laborers by more than two-thirds. The improvements also will reduce heatstroke and other heat-related illnesses and deaths in agriculture by 90 percent, officials say.

The regulations, issued Tuesday by Labor Secretary William E. Brock, end a 15-year struggle by migrant labor and Hispanic groups to force growers to provide sanitation facilities that the government has required of other employers for decades.

"Basic human decency demands that suitable drinking water, toilets and handwashing facilities — fundamental needs taken for granted at other American work sites — be provided these workers," Brock said.

April snow shocks New England

BOSTON (AP) — An April shower that shocked New England by turning to snow piled it at least 15 inches high today, and plows and sanders set out ahead of morning rush-hour motorists who already had removed their snow tires.

"We had our summer over the weekend," state Trooper Todd Bell joked Tuesday in the central Massachusetts town of Cheshire. "We're looking forward to winter now."

Snow fell today over much of central New England, but much of it was expected to begin melting later today, with temperatures in the 50s and a 30 percent chance of showers forecast in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Reagan says teach morals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says instruction in schools about AIDS and sex education should not be separated from teaching what is right and wrong.

The president, who is scheduled to attend a fund-raiser for the fight against the deadly disease on May 31, said Tuesday that he was "shocked" condoms had been given out during a church service in an effort to publicize their use in combatting AIDS.

In an interview with six newspaper reporters, Reagan also complained that sex education dwells on the physical, rather than the moral, implications.

Noting that the subject of AIDS was bound to come up in school sex education programs, Reagan said, "I have been very disturbed that under this same theory of no values being taught ... how do you start talking about sex to children ... without the moral side of that question being brought up? Just treat it like a physical thing such as eating a ham sandwich?"

Reagan then said he believed that "too much of this is going on."

WDIC created to protect community sibility of local oversight and monitoring of the technical work performed within the county should site characterization and repository development proceed.

The committee's operating budget is financed by the nuclear waste fund through a grant contract with the State of Texas with whom we have a very solid working relationship. We recently contracted with an executive director who carries out the committee's policy direction.

The committee has taken a position of active neutrality regarding site characterization for pragmatic reasons—if it proceeds, we intend to influence the project direction in the county and secure the needed protections and mitigations for the citizenry. This position should not be misinterpreted as opened armed acceptance. The potential for becoming the location of a permanent repository for the nation's nuclear waste is an uninvited and undesirable burden that starkly contrasts with the agricultural economy and the rural, agrarian nature of the community.

I would like to highlight this point if I may. The image conjured up in the minds of many in the country when discussing the Texas Panhandle is one of open, wind swept, flat prairie land, with a few wooden windmills on the horizon and tumbleweeds rolling across the open road. Where land features prohibit cultivation this image may be appropriate. But I suspect that few in the country would know the Panhandle as one of the most productive agricultural economies in the world. In 1985, Texas was the second most producive state in the country when measured by cash receipts from crops and livestock. Of the $9.3 billion generated by the state, $2.7 billion came from the High Plains region of the Panhandle. Deaf Smith County was the number one producer for the state. Deaf Smith County is not the barren wasteland of the early cowboy movies, but a premier example of the best of agriculture today—the finest technology being used on farms, measured in square miles instead of acres, that are still predominantly family owned and operated.

The success of these family operations is fundamentally tied to the subsurface wealth of fresh water for irrigation from the Ogallala and Santa Rosa Aquifers. Characterization of this site will require the construction of two (2) twelve foot shafts through the only sources of water for irrigation and domestic use in a county of low rainfall. Many, therefore, perceive the consequences of error during characterization or repository operation a significant risk to their way of life and livelihood.

The citizenry is also concerned about damage to intangibles—those things that you and I might normally only reference during our campaigns—but are real, very real to the residents of this area: commitment to family, community spirit, protection of the environment, affinity to the soil and water. These intangibles are now being threatened by the potential of a repository being thrust on the community; aided and abetted by fear of the unknown, limited and ever changing information on expected socio-economic impacts and a visceral felt uncertainty of DOE's ability to do the work right, safely and with concern for the land, water and the community.

Senate Bill 839 is a major step forward, in that senators Johnston and McClure have recognized the tremendous burden placed on the state and local governments by the repository program and are suggesting substantial sums of money to compensate for the beneficial service the site would provide the rest of us to remain very skeptical. In the absence of accountability for their actions, community welfare and environmental protection appear vulnerable to becoming subordinate to program priorities. The local governments, in particular, must have the ability to exercise oversight in a fashion unlikely to have been experienced by the department in the past. If such oversight is called for by a technology-oriented and DOE-knowledgeable community like Oak Ridge/Roane County, Tennessee;

then we in Texas must take particular note and require the same capability.

As the Senators are likely aware, the provisions of the act that were intended to address negative impacts of the repository program on local communities are being narrowly interpreted by the Department. The law limits payments equal to taxes to "unit of general local government," excluding such special districts as schools and hospitals. It limits impact mitigation assistance to the repository development and does not include site characterization, a major undertaking in and of itself.

Deaf Smith County and its various taxing jurisdictions are being immediately confronted with the potential for impacts to our service

Donation to School

Dub Boyd, left, accepts $720 donated by the Golden K Kiwanis, and presented by president Art Stoy, for use on revamping the swimming pool area and purchasing therapy equipment and wheel chairs for the Lubbock State School. Boyd is a past president of the school's parents association and is working throughout Kiwanis Div. 33 to raise $425,000 for the projects. Tuesday's donation came from the Golden K garage sale held recently.

Nieman announces student scholarship

Two Hereford High School seniors have an opportunity to win a $500 college scholarship, it was announced this week by Speedy Nieman, publisher of the Hereford Brand.

The Brand is a member of the West Texas Press Association, the world's largest regional press group, and that organization is seeking out two future community journalists to receive stipends of $500 each.

Through the "Bog Craig Memorial Scholarship" program, named in honor of long-time Hamlin Herald publisher Bog Craig who died in 1981, the West Texas Press Association is sponsoring an essay contest based on the theme "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism." High school seniors interested in pursuing a career in community journalism may submit their essays to WTPA Scholarship Committee, Stephen Henry, Chairman, Drawer H, Levelland, Texas 79336.

The essays must be postmarked no later than May 10, 1987.

The essay is limited to a maximum of 400 words and no letters of reference will be accepted for consideration in the contest.

In addition to being a senior in high school, they must maintain a "B" average or better and plan to continue studies at a school of journalism. Once the winners are selected they must be enrolled in at least three hours of journalism each semester he or she receives assistance.

The scholarships will be divided into payments of $250 per semester for two semesters for two students.

The essays will be judged by the Texas Press Association.

Bishops appeal for integrity

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — About 100 bishops representing four Methodist denominations have appealed to American people and their leaders to reclaim firm standards of integrity.

"No society can endure when basic codes of morality are violated," the bishops representing more than 14 million Methodists said in a "statement to the churches and the nation."

Urging people to "reclaim the simple and ordinary principles of right living" and asking government leaders to fulfill their responsibilities "with the integrity of the public trust," the bishops cited signs of moral decline.

Falwell says board needed to 'clean'

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — PTL's board moved to put "a new face" on the ministry by cutting off payments to the Rev. Jim Bakker, his wife, and the woman whose tryst with him led to the scandal the Rev. Jerry Falwell says has shattered faith in all evangelists.

The board also decided Tuesday that Bakker would not be allowed to return as the ministry's head, agreed to investigate allegations of homosexuality and wife-swapping at PTL, and accepted the resignation of the Rev. Richard Dortch, his successor as president and host of the "PTL Club" TV show, Falwell said.

"I was conscious that if PTL is to make it, (it's) got to have a new face, new direction, new administration, everything new," Falwell, the board's chairman, said Tuesday night on ABC News' "Nightline."

Falwell, the founder of Moral Majority and a TV evangelist, was to be host of today's "PTL Club" show.

In its five-hour meeting at PTL's Heritage USA complex, the board decided that Bakker and his wife, Tammy, would no longer receive salaries or bonuses, Falwell told a news conference. The Bakkers reportedly were paid $1.6 million in salary and bonuses last year.

The 500,000-member PTL, which stands for People That Love or Praise The Lord, is at least $50 million in debt, Falwell said. Attorneys will help settle royalties the Bakkers earn from sales of records and other items.

The board's executive committee will investigate allegations by the Rev. John Ankerberg, a TV evangelist, that Bakker was involved with prostitutes and homosexuals, Falwell said. He said Bakker, who has denied the charges, will be allowed to "face his accusers" when the panel interviews them.

Falwell, appearing Tuesday night on "The Larry King Show" on Cable News Network, said the board heard tapes from people who made the allegations to Ankerberg, and called the tapes "convincing."

"These people are credible people," Falwell said, adding that he needs to hear Bakker's response before forming a final opinion.

The board also named Harry Hargrave, a Dallas investment consultant, as chief operations officer. His job will include sorting through the ministry's financial problems.

Bakker relinquished control of his ministry and the Heritage USA retreat here to the new board on March 19 after admitting a tryst with Jessica Hahn.

Some $265,000 in PTL money had been set aside for Miss Hahn to ensure her silence about the tryst. A total of $150,000 was placed in a trust fund. Miss Hahn received a small amount of the remaining $115,000, with the rest going for legal fees. The payment was arranged by Dortch.

The sex-and-money scandal now threatens all TV and radio ministries, and has hurt all Christian churches in America, Falwell said. "There's a general distrust out there we must heal. I don't ever remember a time when people were having such a heyday ridiculing all that is Christian."

"A lot of faith has been shattered."

Following Falwell's news conference, Mrs. Bakker stepped outside her Palm Springs, Calif., mansion, and said she and her husband will miss the people at the Christian retreat they founded.

"We're very sad right now," she said, her voice breaking. "Jim will be back soon and he's going to give everyone a statement. He'll explain our side of what happened. ... I just want to thank everyone for being patient with us."

Mrs. Bakker would not say where her husband was, but said the statement could come this week.

Hahn says she held to contract

WEST BABYLON, N.Y. (AP) — Jessica Hahn says she's angry at people who have accused her of leaking the story of her sexual tryst with ousted PTL leader Jim Bakker, thus violating her $265,000 agreement to keep quiet.

"The one that's being hurt is me and I'm tired of it," she said Tuesday. "Why on God's earth would I want that story in the paper?"

At a news conference in front of her Long Island apartment, Miss Hahn said she has "done everything I've been asked to do."

"I've kept quiet. I have not been hostile to Jim Bakker or the (PTL) ministry. I have not even commented about Jim Bakker."

Miss Hahn has become a focus of the sex scandal involving Bakker and his PTL ministries following revelations that she had sex with him at a Florida motel seven years ago.

"I'm tired of people being ruined by this thing," she said. "There's no reason for this thing to go on week after week. I'm tired of it," Miss Hahn said, her voice shaky and her eyes teary.

Since the scandal erupted a month ago, Miss Hahn has limited her public comments to her thoughts about religion and the effect the scandal could have on churchgoers.

Bakker turned his ministry, which stands for People That Love or Praise The Lord, over to the Rev. Jerry Falwell on March 19.

On Tuesday, the PTL board banished Bakker and his top deputies from the ministry and cut off payments to Miss Hahn, a former church secretary.

the response of the boys and their teacher.

"Pastor, I have known the teacher and those boys for a long time," the director replied. "If they said they didn't do it, that's good enough for me."

Next, the minister brought the matter before the official board of the church. They discussed it for two hours, then reported:

"Pastor, we see no need to get upset about a little thing like this. Let's just pay for any damages involved and charge it to general church maintenance."

propriately addresses compensation; however, state or local authority should not be diminished.

As a final point, I would like to emphasize that of all the affected interests and parties, none will be as directly impacted as the local governments and citizens of the candidate host sites. Assistance to the community is needed immediately and the situs governments need an equal place at the table along with the state in negotiations and interactions over site characterization and repository development.

I am honored to have had the opportunity to address this distinguished committee. I wish you success in your deliberation.

Ann Landers

Entrance test was tough

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is from the Prairie Rambler published in Claremont, Calif. What follows is a copy of a test used in Indiana in 1911. You had to pass this test before being allowed to get into high school. I was fascinated by this challenge and am sure your readers will be, too. Please print it.—Ida in Indianapolis dog would adjust to the new baby was not your best.

Dogs have a definite place in the pecking order. If the baby is there first, the dog will accept it. But if the dog is there first it will resent the baby and treat him like an intruder.

A few days before you column appeared a TV news reporter told about a dog who was the pet of all the children and seemed to get along OK with the new baby. But one day, when the woman turned her back, the dog jumped into the crib and began to rip the baby's face.

The bloody baby was rushed to the hospital, stitched up and is going to be all right. The dog was put to sleep.

Our daughter and her husband had two toy poodles, both 8 years old when their daughter was born. These dogs were pampered and terribly spoiled. They never got a chance to attach the baby but they snarled at her as long as they lived.

In my opinion, parents should get a new dog after the child is born. They can then be sure that the dog will be lovable and protective, rather than a killer.—G.G. from Montana

DEAR G.G.: My consultants tell me that dogs vary in temperament and personality, just as humans do. Some dogs are jealous of the new baby, but after a while when they see that they are not being displaced, they become friendly.

As you pointed out, it's wise to observe the dog's behavior; if it continues to be hostile to the new baby, the dog should be removed.

DR. GOTT Yeast infection and immunity

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Four months ago I was told that I have candidiasis. Since then, I've been unable to find any doctors who are able to treat me for this condition. Can you tell me about the current treatment for this?

DEAR READER: Candidiasis, the presence of a yeast infection, is a common consequence of antibiotic therapy because the drugs kill bacteria that ordinarily inhibit the growth of yeasts. Also, candida infection can be a real problem in diabetics and in people whose immune mechanisms are suppressed—for example, in cancer patients who have received chemotherapy. In these instances, doctors usually have to control the basic disease (or stop the antibiotic) before the yeast infection will clear up completely.

Candidiasis is readily treatable by the use of prescription, anti-yeast drugs, like nystatin. The medicine is available in most pharmacies and can be prescribed by any licensed physician.

Please remember that candidiasis is the newest fad ailment. Although there is the "real" candida disease, there is a phony variety that has been touted by many nonscientific authors. Most experts do not believe that candida causes the horrendous array of symptoms (from digestive trouble and headache to allergic reactions, tiredness and mood disorders) that have been popularized by certain unscrupulous promoters.

Herd clinches tie for District 1-4A title

The Hereford Whitefaces clinched a tie for the District 1-4A baseball championship Tuesday when they defeated Levelland 12-6, coupled with Canyon losing to Dumas 5-1.

The district championship is the first in 22 years for Hereford High School.

"The kids are pretty excited about it. We're looking forward to the playoffs," said HHS Coach T.R. Sartor.

Hereford is now 11-0 in the district with three games remaining. Canyon is 8-3 and Dumas is 7-4. The Whitefaces, 18-3 overall and ranked third in the state, play at home Saturday at 1 p.m. against Pampa.

The bi-district playoff game will be played during the week of May 11-16. No team in District 2-4A has clinched a playoff spot. Andrews has one loss in district play, Pecos and Big Spring each have two losses, and Snyder has three losses.

Hereford moved out to a 5-0 lead in the top of the first inning, only to see Levelland close the gap to 5-3 in the bottom of the first.

Bobby Medina and Rodney McCracken both doubled in the first inning, and Keith Anderson singled.

Levelland had a two-run double and an RBI groundout in the bottom of the first. The Lobos scored one run with a double and RBI groundout in the second inning.

Keith Herrera increased the HHS lead to 6-4 in the third inning with an RBI single. Ross Torres, who had singled, scored the run.

The Whitefaces turned inning ending double plays in the third and fourth innings. Rightfielder Michael Phibbs made a catch against the fence for the first out of the third inning.

Hereford capitalized on two errors for four runs in the sixth inning. Herrera began the inning with a walk, and Bobby Medina doubled. Levelland intentionally walked Kyle Streun, loading the bases.

Keith Anderson hit a fly ball into left field. The Lobo outfielder dropped the ball for an error, and two runs scored. Moments later, a throwing error resulted in two more unearned runs being scored by the Herd.

Hereford added two runs in the top of the seventh. Levelland scored one run in the sixth and one run in the seventh.

Medina, who had three hits in the game, pitched a complete game in recording his ninth victory against no defeats. He had four strikeouts and walked two Lobo batters.

Flying And Almost Tackling

defensive tackle made by a Hereford Coaches team member. The coach who tackled Lupe Pena of the Long Rangers was David Ashby, not Danny Haney. The Brand regrets the error, not giving Mr. Ashby the credit for his tackle, which resulted in an offensive foul called against Pena. The game raised about $2,000 for the Casey Smith Memorial Scholarship Fund. (Brand photos by Gary Christensen)

Annette, Frankie back again

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — The surf's up. Annette and Frankie are back on the beach and all's well with the world.

Some things never change, and some people, too. Even though they both have grown children, Annette Funicello and Frankie Avalon aren't much different from the years when he pursued her in "Beach Blanket Bingo." "How to Stuff a Wild Bikini" and other mindless teen-age movies of the mid-1960s.

Paramount Pictures is sponsoring a reunion of the pair in "Back to the Beach," in which they play onetime beach lovers who move to Ohio. He is a successful car dealer who wins a trip to Hawaii. On the way the couple stops in California to visit their college-age daughter.

The movie was recently filming on Malibu Pier under the direction of Lyndall Hobbs, a newcomer from Australia. The scene had Avalon and Miss Funicello storming up to the apartment over the bait shop. They suspect — horrors — that their daughter is shackled up with a surfer. Could that ever have happened in one of their movies of yore? "Never," Miss Funicello said. "Frankie was always trying to get me, but my line was 'Not without a ring.'"

"Maybe we'd have a little kissing in the back seat of the car," Avalon said. "That was it."

Miss Funicello, 43, and Avalon, 47, are pop icons from a more innocent age. Their beach movies followed their immense popularity in other fields. They also made two films involving auto racing.

She was the San Fernando Valley girl who became the most popular member of Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Club (1955-1959). She moved into features with "The Shaggy Dog" and "Babes in Toyland," and recorded the hit singles, "Tall Paul" and "How Will I Know My Love?" He was the South Philadelphia boy who organized his own band at 14, was discovered and made million sellers with "Venus" and "Swingin' on a Rainbow." He starred with Alan Ladd in "Guns of Timberland" and John Wayne in "The Alamo."

The independent American International Pictures united the young stars in 1963 with "Beach Party" and the pairing continued until "Fireball 500" in 1965.

"We made those picture in three weeks — 15 working days — but we got a lot into them," Miss Funicello recalled.

Revival at Dawn Baptist Church

"Caring Love" will be the theme of a series of revival meetings which will begin Thursday night at the Dawn Baptist Church. Dr. Jim Braswell, pastor of the Eastridge Baptist Church in Amarillo, will be preaching during each service.

Music for the revival will be led by Larry Capranica, associate pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church in Amarillo. Capranica, a native of Peoria, Ill., was a professional musician before entering the ministry and will play special arrangements of favorite hymns on his trumpet. On Friday night he will tell the story of his deliverance from an addiction to drugs, a story which he describes as "an example of the power of God's grace."

Jim Braswell was born in Hobbs, N.M. and raised in the Permian Basin area. As pastor of the Eastridge Baptist Church he has spearheaded that church's ministry to the large Laotian community in that part of Amarillo. He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and has received the Doctor of Ministry degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. Braswell has served as the pastor of churches in Ovalo and Nevada, Texas. All of his messages will aim at "spiritual renewal through transforming love." Services will begin each evening at 7:30 and on Sunday morning at 11: the concluding service of the revival will be at 2 p.m. Sunday. Further information about the revival may be obtained by calling the church office at 258-7330.

Residential Drive Planned

Volunteers with the American Cancer Society will be visiting Hereford homes Sunday afternoon during the residential education drive. This year the goal of the local ACS board is to collect $5,500 which will be used to support programs in this county for prevention, early detection and treatments of cancer and to provide assistance to cancer patients. Planning the walk are (from left) Nikki Walser, Elouise McDougal, Norma Coffey, Kee Ruland and Debbie Holmes.

Senior Citizens

The lunch menu at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center for Thursday and Friday is as follows:

THURSDAY — Enchiladas, pinto beans, Spanish rice, tossed salad, tostados, sliced peaches.

FRIDAY — Catfish fillets, potatoes, beets, golden salad, chocolate meringue pie.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — I've lost your recipe for making whipped cream that does not collapse within a few hours. Could you repeat it? — SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA — With holiday time approaching, many folks may find this method of stabilizing whipped cream useful when preparing fancy desserts ahead of time.

Soften one teaspoon unflavored gelatin in one tablespoon cold water for five minutes, then heat the mixture until the gelatin is completely melted. Whisk in one cup heavy cream until well combined. Chill cream and gelatin one hour. Remove cream mixture from refrigerator and add powdered sugar and vanilla extract (or any desired flavoring) to taste. Whip with an electric mixer until the cream is very thick and holds its shape. The cream will firm up even more after chilling. Store the cream or cream-filled or frosted desserts in the refrigerator. This cream will hold up well for at least 24 hours.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Holiday Cakes and Breads," which has this whipped cream recipe as part of a delicious Chocolate Mint Cake. The newsletter also features other holiday goodies including Christmas Stollen, Cranberry Bread and a fruitcake made with dried, rather than candied, fruit. Others who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

The Newspaper BIBLE

"SHE ISN'T DEAD: SHE'S ONLY ASLEEP"
A man named Jairus, a leader of a Jewish synagogue, came and fell down at Jesus' feet and begged Him to come home with him, for his only child was dying, a little girl twelve years old. Jesus went with him, pushing through the crowds. As they went a woman who wanted to be healed came up behind and touched Him, for she had been slowly bleeding for twelve years, and could find no cure (though she had spent everything she had on doctors). But the instant she touched the edge of His robe, the bleeding stopped.
"Who touched Me?" Jesus asked. Everyone denied it, and Peter said, "Master, so many are crowding against You." But Jesus told him, "No, it was someone who deliberately touched Me, for I felt healing power go out from Me."
When the woman realized that Jesus knew, she began to tremble and fell to her knees before Him and told why she had touched Him and that now she was well. "Daughter," He said to her, "your faith has healed you. Go in peace."
While He was still speaking to her, a messenger arrived from the Jarius's home with the news that the little girl was dead. "She's gone," he told her father, "there's no use troubling the Teacher now." But when Jesus heard what had happened, He said to the father, "Don't be afraid! Just trust Me, and she'll be all right."
When they arrived at the house Jesus wouldn't let anyone into the room except Peter, James, John and the little girl's father and mother. The home was filled with mourning people, but He said, "Stop the weeping! She isn't dead; she is only asleep!" This brought scoffing and laughter, for they all knew she was dead.
Then He took her by the hand and called, "Get up, little girl!" And at that moment her life returned and she jumped up! "Give her something to eat!" He said.
Her parents were overcome with happiness, but Jesus insisted that they not tell anyone the details of what had happened.

The Newspaper BIBLE

"SHE ISN'T DEAD; SHE'S ONLY ASLEEP!"

A man named Jairus, a leader of a Jewish synagogue, came and fell down at Jesus' feet and begged Him to come home with him, for his only child was dying, a little girl twelve years old. Jesus went with him, pushing through the crowds. As they went a woman who wanted to be healed came up behind and touched Him, for she had been slowly bleeding for twelve years, and could find no cure (though she had spent everything she had on doctors). But the instant she touched the edge of His robe, the bleeding stopped. "Who touched Me?" Jesus asked. Everyone denied it, and Peter said, "Master, so many are crowding against You..." But Jesus told him, "No, it was someone who deliberately touched Me, for I felt healing power go out from Me." When the woman realized that Jesus knew, she began to tremble and fell to her knees before Him and told why she had touched Him and that now she was well. "Daughter," He said to her, "your faith has healed you. Go in peace." While He was still speaking to her, a messenger arrived from the Jairus' home with the news that the little girl was dead. "She's gone," he told her father, "there's no use troubling the Teacher now." But when Jesus heard what had happened, He said to the father, "Don't be afraid! Just trust Me, and she'll be all right." When they arrived at the house Jesus wouldn't let anyone into the room except Peter, James, John and the little girl's father and mother. The home was filled with mourning people, but He said, "Stop the weeping! She isn't dead; she is only asleep!" This brought scoffing and laughter, for they all knew she was dead. Then He took her by the hand and called, "Get up, little girl!" And at that moment her life returned and she pumped up! "Give her something to eat!" He said. Her parents were over come with happiness, but Jesus insisted that they not tell anyone the details of what had happened. Luke 8:41-56

Reagan blamed for ag commodities slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of U.S. farm commodities continue to slump partly because President Reagan has not shown the innovative leadership to get them humming again, a former secretary of agriculture says.

"If the president got in this and wanted to do something about this, why he could make it happen," Orville L. Freeman said Monday.

Freeman said he is "very impressed" by some of Reagan's people, including U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter, and thinks Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng has a "professional" attitude regarding agricultural trade.

"But what we're doing now is planning for a little piece of the (world) market and, fundamentally, letting a big market go begging," Freeman told the Newspaper Farm Editors of America.

Freeman, who is president of the privately supported Agriculture Council of America, was secretary of agriculture for eight years in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations of the 1960s.

Poor countries need help to develop their own purchasing power, thereby raising living standards and creating demand for imported food, he said.

The United States needs to "set our priorities right" and use various means, including surplus commodities, to speed up economic development in Third World countries, Freeman said.

that the State Department has had its foreign aid budget cut by the White House and has sought the support of U.S. agricultural interests to restore funds.

But Freeman said the agricultural community hasn't leaped to the State Department's assistance "simply because there hasn't been any good interest evidenced in agricultural exports by the State Department — they'd rather make love (with other countries) than sell."

Asked if it may be too late for the Reagan administration to regain the initiative on farm exports, Freeman said he has talked it over with Yeutter and Lyng.

"I think there is ... the beginning of a real focus," Freeman said. "I haven't seen any evidence of it at the White House, but I've seen evidence of it in these two (Yeutter and Lyng)."

He added: "But this ought to be front-and-center as part of our foreign economic policy."

Freeman discounted budget problems as reasons for holding back on expansion of aid programs and the use of U.S. grain surpluses to help Third World development, calling it "an accounting problem" and not a question of deficit spending.

"We could move this stuff at less cost than we can sit on it" as surpluses in storage, he said.

Another problem is a current tendency to talk about "surplus, surplus, surplus, glut, glut, glut" and ignore the growing demand for food in the world, Freeman said.

"Mark my word, we're going to be back in shortages again, quicker than you think," he said, adding that it takes just one year of bad weather to make a huge dent in world supplies. And the global population is growing by 90 million people a year, all developing what Freeman described as an insatiable desire for better diets.

"I don't think the PRC (People's Republic of China) can ever feed their people," Freeman said. "I don't think Mexico can ever feed her people."

By 1992, he predicted, U.S. farm exports will climb to $52 billion a year, double their current level and much higher than the old record of $43.8 billion in 1980-81.

Land Bank offers long-term loans

AUSTIN — The Federal Land Bank of Texas will offer long-term loans to purchase rural real estate beginning May 1. These loans will feature a 10-year fixed rate.

Donald R. Rogge, president of the bank, which is the state's largest agricultural lender, said the interest rates on these loans will be 8% percent for farm loans and 9% for farm related business loans and rural home loans.

Rogge said the program, the first of its kind offered by the bank, should encourage new purchases of agricultural real estate, thereby helping to strengthen declining land values in Texas.

The bank official also announced a reduction in the bank's variable interest rates for existing borrowers. The new rates, to take effect June 1, 1987, will be 10.25 percent interest on farm and ranch loans and 10.50 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans.

The new program will fix the rates for 10 years and be matched by a 10-year security purchased by the bank at the time the loan is made. The rate will convert to the bank's variable rate at the end of the 10 years.

Farmers must qualify under the Land Bank's usual credit standards and use the money for new land purchases only.

Rogge said he hopes other lenders would follow the Land Bank's lead and develop programs of their own to provide credit at reasonable rates and terms for the purchase of Texas rural land.

The Federal Land Bank and 44 Federal Land Bank Associations located throughout Texas have $2.38 billion in loans outstanding on 37,000 loans to approximately 100,000 Texas farmers and ranchers.

Those interested in more information should contact their local Federal Land Bank Association, the bank president said.

Soviet Union buys additional 15.8 million bushels of corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union has bought an additional 400,000 metric tons of U.S. corn — about 15.8 million bushels — for delivery through Sept. 30.

Officials said the sales were reported to USDA by private exporters as required by law. No prices or other details were disclosed.

The department says the latest estimated price of corn is about $1.54 per bushel at the farm. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Thus, the latest sales, announced Monday, would have an estimated farm value of about $24 million.

Under a five-year agreement, which began its fourth year last Oct. 1, the Soviet Union is committed to buy at least 9 million tons of wheat and corn annually. At least 4 million tons of that must be wheat and 4 million tons corn. Up to 1 million tons of the grain can be substituted by soybeans, with each bushel of beans counting as two bushels of wheat or corn.

So far the Soviets have bought 3.35 million tons of corn and no wheat for delivery in 1986-87. Sales in 1985-86 were more than 6.96 million tons, including 6.8 million tons of corn and 152,600 tons of wheat. Sales also included more than 1.5 million tons of soybeans.
