Priscilla Mendoza, 17, wrings water out of her T-shirt after ending her shift on the dunking booth at Sunday's Junefest Jamaica in Dameron Park. Miss Mendoza may have been one of the coolest people at the park, as temperatures on Sunday soared to 106 degrees.

Texans sweating through record high temperatures

By EDUARDO MONTES
Associated Press Writer
EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Texas braced for another round of record-breaking temperatures today as a heat wave kept its grip on the state.

The National Weather Service said temperatures at or above the century mark could be expected around the state for several days. No precipitation was in the forecast.

A heat advisory is in effect through Wednesday for the portion of North Texas west of a line from Bonham to Fairfield and includes the cities of Stephenville, Waco, Sherman, Denton and the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The heat index, a measure of how hot it feels when the effects of relative humidity are combined with the temperature, is expected to range from 105 to 115 degrees in the area covered by the heat advisory.

A heat index value of 105 degrees is considered to be the level at which the body begins to succumb to the effects of excessive heat.

A few isolated thunderstorms are possible in north and northeastern sections of North Texas tonight and Wednesday. But forecasters don't expect the isolated storms to produce significant rainfall or provide significant relief from the heat.

Childress had a high Monday of 117, only three degrees off the highest temperature ever recorded in the state - 120 degrees in Seymour on Aug. 12, 1936, weather officials said.

All-time record temperatures were set Monday in several other West (See TEXANS, Page 10)

Hereford residents feeling heat as well

Hereford residents have raced for cover the past several days, as temperatures have soared to 100 degrees and beyond every day since Friday.

The city recorded a 100 degree high Friday, 104 on Saturday and Monday and a smoking 106 on Sunday.

Fire Marshal Jay Spain -- just moments before racing to extinguish a grass fire in South Hereford -- cautioned residents to be extremely cautious about fire. "Fire hazard is extreme," he said, "very extreme. This grass, it just takes a spark to set it off."

The National Weather Service attributes the high temperatures to a high pressure dome hovering over the area.

The heat will continue on Wednesday, as forecasters are calling for clear skies and a high around 100 degrees once again.

The heat has caused problems for Southwestern Public Service Co., as electrical equipment has struggled to keep up with demands.

Max Borden of the Hereford office said there have been several transformers around town where they have overloaded, causes a fuse to blow.

"We've had quite a few throughout the company," he said, adding that they are "weather-related overloads."

Similar problems also are occurring with large power transformers.

As a result, Borden said, SPS is on standby, ready to effect repairs where needed and to reroute power to reduce overloads.

"If anyone experiences any problems," he said, they are urged to call SPS at 364-3121.

Jury deliberating fate of murder suspect Gudgell

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A jury of five men and seven women Tuesday was given the task of deciding whether a 48-year-old farmwife is guilty of murder in the death of her husband.

The 22nd District Court trial of Donna Gudgell, charged in the death last September of her husband, Bill Gudgell, began winding down Tuesday morning with the charge by District Judge David Wesley Gulley and closing statements by attorneys.

If convicted of murder, the defendant may be sentenced to a prison term of five years to 99 years, or life. If the jury reaches a verdict of guilty, testimony will be presented in the punishment phase and the jury will deliberate punishment.

Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul completed his summation at noon. Defense Attorney Selden Hale spent 30 minutes in his closing statement.

During the first 15 minutes of Saul's allotted time, he reviewed the witnesses who testified to events.

Hale then spoke for 30 minutes, detailing instances when Chris Don Barron, 24, also charged in the murder, "lied in this courtroom."

Hale reminded the jury that the defendant could not be convicted on the testimony of only Barron. He noted that other evidence must corroborate the testimony.

"The biggest problem is the sex angle -- the idea of an older woman and younger man offends people."

He described Barron, who has accepted a plea bargain for 35 years in prison for his part in the death, as a "manipulator." He called him "sick and pathetic."

Hale discounted Barron's testimony and told the jury that "in the final analysis, it's what the jury believes about Donna and Chris."

Closing out the summation period, Saul listed "things Donna Gudgell said that are big lies."

Testimony she gave saying she didn't know Chris Barron shot Gudgell is "totally incredible," said Saul.

Another lie, he said is that she didn't want to be free of Bill Gudgell. And, she lied, he continued, when she said she didn't tell everything because she wanted to keep the affair with Barron from coming out.

Saul claimed that she did not call 911 emergency immediately after she found her husband, but gave Barron time to leave for Adrian after the shooting.

The prosecutor said the defendant also lied when she said she thought a gunshot was her husband shooting a coyote and that Barron left the home before Bill Gudgell was shot.

A discrepancy in times became a focal point Monday, the last day of testimony.

During her testimony in her own defense, Gudgell claimed that she called 911 within seconds after her husband, Bill Gudgell, was shot on Sept. 11. She said immediately after Chris Don Barron left the house, she picked up the phone to call the emergency number.

The time the call was received was recorded as 11:14 p.m. on the emergency tape.

But, the former husband of Gudgell's daughter, Gwenna, testified that Barron, also charged with murder, arrived at his home in Adrian about 11 p.m. on the night of the shooting. Troy Rodgers judged the time by the starting time of a program on television, he said.

During testimony by Donna Gudgell Monday, she said the drive from her home to Adrian, "as fast as you can go, by the shortest route," takes "about 15 minutes."

Another witness Tuesday, 16-year-old Wilbur Garrison of Adrian, said he and friends were visiting outside his home the night of Sept. 11, when he observed a white pickup enter Adrian and turn at a corner near his home.

Garrison reported the time was 11:15 p.m., according to a clock he glanced at.

In Donna Gudgell's testimony, she reviewed her life with her dead husband, noting under questioning that he treated her "like one of the kids" and never gave her presents on special occasions, such as birthdays and Christmas.

"He thought if I wanted a gift, I could buy it myself," Donna Gudgell testified.

Asked by her attorney, Selden Hale, "How did you feel?" "Sometimes it hurt," answered the witness.

White House shuffle puts Panetta, McLarty, Gergen in new positions

By JILL LAWRENCE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The daunting demands on President Clinton's new chief of staff range from smoothing out ragged White House operations to advancing administration priorities such as health care and welfare reform.

Budget Director Leon Panetta says he'll be settling into a job he calls the toughest in town by mid-July. At the same time current chief of staff Mack McLarty, among the last of the Arkansas Clinton brought to his inner circle, will take on his new role as counselor to his boyhood friend.

"What's happening is, we're now looking at a very large legislative agenda," Panetta, a former California congressman, said Monday night on CNN's "Larry King Live." "I have that kind of experience. I know the players. I know the arena."

With McLarty sitting beside him, he added: "The feeling was, this is the best time that Mack become what he really is, which is a close adviser of the president."

The shifts are part of the biggest personnel shakeup of Clinton's presidency. David Gergen, brought in as counselor last year to aid a White House reeling from image problems, will become a special adviser at the State Department, which is having similar problems. Panetta's like-minded deputy at the Office of Management and Budget, Alice Rivlin, moves up to become the agency's first female director.

McLarty had long been criticized in some quarters as a weak link in the White House operation - a poor administrator who was nice to a fault, resulting in undisciplined troops and mixed messages to Congress.

Clinton said Monday that his childhood friend had "run an open White House, treating others and their ideas with unfailing courtesy..." He praised McLarty's "decency, integrity and good will."

But his description of Panetta made clear what Clinton is after. He said his budget director had been "a pillar of strength" and a skillful manager of his 500 OMB employees in the past 18 months.

Panetta was chairman of the House Budget Committee before joining the administration. He is described as warm and funny, the kind of person who is always either making a joke or laughing at one.

But his resolute side was on display last year during the long, intense battle to shape Clinton's economic plan. A committed deficit-cutter, he eventually prevailed over political advisers who urged Clinton to invest in education and other areas rather than worry about deficit reduction.

One of the losers in that fight, consultant Paul Begala, said Monday that he could personally attest to Panetta's tenacity. "Ask anyone who has ever disagreed with him about deficit reduction if Leon is tough," Begala said. "He is tougher than day-old rigatoni."

Republicans said the switches don't address the policy problems of the Clinton presidency. And a Bush administration veteran with a unique chief-of-staff history called McLarty a sacrificial lamb.

Sam Skinner was brought in as the soothing successor to the abrasive John Sununu. But he was soon ousted to make room for the savvy James Baker.

"When things aren't going well at the White House, the chief of staff ends up taking the bullet for the president," said Skinner. "It has nothing to do with reality, usually. I doubt very much that Mack McLarty is the problem."

Heat wave to continue

Hereford recorded its fourth consecutive day of 100-plus temperatures on Monday, with the mercury topping out at 104 degrees. The overnight low Tuesday was 69 degrees. For tonight, look for clear skies and a low in the upper 60s with southeast winds at 5-15 mph. For Wednesday, look for the heat to continue, with forecasters calling for mostly sunny skies and a high around 100 degrees with south winds at 10-20 mph.

her husband was shot, saying Barron arrived at the home about 2 p.m. for lunch and began drinking beer.

"He ate his hamburgers, then went to his room and began watching movies and drinking beer," she said.

Gudgell said she asked him several times if he planned to go back to work at the Koetting farm.

During the afternoon, she continued, she and Barron "got to talking about her husband."

Later, Barron went outside to target-shoot, firing at a can.

About 8 p.m., Gudgell said she went out to "do chores" but Barron didn't accompany her. She said she tended to the cows, chickens and rabbits, then went back to the house about 8:30 p.m.

The defendant said she went to Barron's room and sat down on the bed, adding, "He started kissing me and we made love."

She admitted from the witness stand that she "lied, tried to hide" the affair that began in 1987 with Barron.

"I knew it was wrong," she declared. During conversations between her and Barron, she said, "Chris had said he was going to shoot Bill."

"I knew he was drinking, that it was stupid." Hale asked if she had "any idea he would do it."

"It wasn't reality... I knew he couldn't do it." Even after she found her husband slumped at the kitchen table, bleeding from a head wound, Donna Gudgell said she couldn't believe it.

"I walked into the hall and saw Chris standing there holding his gun," she testified. "I heard what I thought was water running."

Gudgell said she then realized that what she heard was blood dripping to the floor from her husband's head wound.

During cross examination by Roland Saul, Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney, the defendant's statement to an investigator, Gene Geringer, was the basis for questioning.

She claimed that "Geringer led me into a lot of what I said" in the statement.

"I did not want Chris to shoot Bill but I didn't stop him," she testified.

Gudgell repeatedly told the jury that she never took seriously the threats Barron made toward her husband.

House to begin hearings on Whitewater next month

By LARRY MARGASAK, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - House hearings on the Whitewater affair are scheduled to start July 26, focusing initially on the removal of files from a White House lawyer's office soon after his death.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, chairman of the House Banking Committee, announced Monday that special counsel Robert B. Fiske Jr., top aides to President Clinton and federal banking regulators were invited to testify.

After the opening hearing on removal of files from the office of Vincent Foster, the inquiry will shift to contacts between administration officials and federal banking regulators.

White House counsel Lloyd N. Cutler quickly pledged administration cooperation, saying in a statement: "As the president has previously announced, the White House will cooperate fully with the responsible congressional committees."

The Senate will begin similar hearings no later than July 29. Senate Republicans have tried to broaden the subject matter, to include aspects of Clinton's former investment in the Whitewater land development in Arkansas.

But Democrats have insisted on a narrow focus - Foster's death, the handling of his documents and the administration-regulator contracts - to avoid interfering with Fiske's criminal probe.

Gonzalez, D-Texas, said he invited Fiske to the initial hearing to report on the "Washington phase" of his investigation.

This phase has covered the propriety of the White House-regulator contacts; circumstances of the death of Foster, the deputy White House counsel who handled some Whitewater matters for the president; and removal of Whitewater papers from Foster's office by White House officials.

Gonzalez said previously that he does not want to focus on the circumstances of Foster's death, which authorities ruled a suicide by gunshot. While there have been questions about whether Foster took his own life, Gonzalez has discouraged hearings on that subject to avoid tormenting Foster's family any further. However, Fiske can report on his examination of the suicide ruling.

The White House officials invited to testify on the Foster documents include Cutler; Mack McLarty, who became counselor to the president on Monday after serving as Clinton's chief of staff; and Margaret Ann Williams, chief staff to Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Also invited to testify was Bernard W. Nussbaum, the former White House counsel who removed the Whitewater files from Foster's office and gave some to the president's private attorney.

The regulators from the Treasury Department and Resolution Trust Corp. - the savings and loan cleanup agency - were investigating the failed Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan, which was owned by James McDougal, the Whitewater business partner of President and Mrs. Clinton.

The regulators were investigating, in part, whether depositors' federally insured money in the Arkansas S&L was lost through investments in the Whitewater Development Corp. - the Clinton-McDougal real estate venture.

Woman killed in train crash near Clovis

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) - A car plowed into the middle of a freight train early today at a Curry County rail crossing, killing a woman and causing the derailment of 29 rail cars, state police said.

The name of the woman, who was in the car, was being withheld until her relatives could be notified.

The accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. on Curry County Road E off U.S. 60-84 and near a truck stop just east of Clovis, said state police officer Kenny Terry.

Santa Fe Railway crews were repairing rails torn up by the derailment and were cleaning some powdered pesticide that spilled from bags in one of the freight cars, Terry said.

The eastbound train, traveling at 62 mph, was about halfway through the crossing when a northbound car crashed through a warning arm and hit the train, he said.

The train, which had 75 to 80 cars, continued about three-quarters of a mile down the track before the cars derailed, Terry said.

11-digit dialing to start in 806 area in January

Long distance telephone users can begin practicing 11-digit dialing on July 3 even though the system does not become mandatory until next January.

Beginning Jan. 3, 1995, telephone customers must dial 1-806 to call within the 806 area. Previously, the area code was not required.

Officials at West Texas Rural Telephone said the permissive 11-digit dialing beginning in July will allow customers to become accustomed to the procedure.

Long distance dialing into other area codes will remain the same.

Calls made between exchanges in the WTRT system will require use of the area code, said Keith Hacker, central office foreman. However, calls from Hereford to WTRT local exchanges will not be affected.

New area codes will become effective in some parts of Texas and the U.S. next January as part of changes being made in telecommunications.

Telephone officials suggest that businesses check with their long distance provider to be certain systems are compatible with the new dialing format.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am an 85-year-old woman and have been having chills all over my body, the kind my mother used to describe as "a rabbit passing over your grave." I get icy cold hands also. I am taking Aldactazide, but my druggist doesn't see that as a problem. He tells me to get a good jacket. Thanks. Why these chills? — Mrs. T.O.

ANSWER: A woman your age first needs to look to some non-rabbit causes of such symptoms, such as anemia or thyroid gland deficiency, either of which can produce uncomfortable chills in a warm environment.

Your medicine has several uses, among them treatment for congestive heart failure and poor circulation. That adds two more possibilities to the checklist of possible causes.

Another reason older people get chilled easily has to do with diminished muscle mass. We all lose some muscle with age, and muscles are little heat-generating machines. A shiver is a classic example of muscle-generated body heat, part of the metabolic activity that keeps us warm. As muscle mass shrinks there is less of this heat source.

If you have not been checked over recently, it is time to have that done. Besides considering your druggist's jacket suggestion, you might also consider re-stoking your muscle furnace with some regular exercise, even at 85. A fresh look at your diet is also in order.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What could cause one to have blood present in the semen? — W.B.

ANSWER: Blood in the semen, while disconcerting, rarely spells big trouble. Most often, it means only that a few small fragile surface vessels in the seminal vesicle have burst. The seminal vesicle is the sperm storage tank.

In a few instances, the blood can reflect prostate gland infection, urinary tract trauma or a bleeding disorder. So there is certainly a range of possibilities to keep your doctor busy. Don't delay a checkup, especially if the bleeding increases.

The prostate pamphlet I'm sending you contains further information. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 26, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You recently stated that there was virtually no risk of AIDS in lesbian activity. It made me wonder about female-to-male transmission, since vaginal fluid exchange is involved. I have not seen any clear answers to this question. What about female-to-male transmission? Are there documented cases? — T.P.

ANSWER: Yes, there are documented cases of the AIDS virus having been passed from an infected woman to an uninfected man. But the virus passes more easily in the other direction.

The largely one-way transmission route can be explained in part by the fact that infected semen stays in contact with the woman's tissues longer and more extensively than her infected fluid stays in contact with the male partner.

Female-to-male transmission is more commonplace in Africa.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please explain pseudolymphoma. — G.C.

ANSWER: Pseudolymphoma is lymph node enlargement. It looks very much like cancer of the nodes — lymphoma — but in fact is not.

Pseudolymphoma is sometimes seen with Sjögren's syndrome, the autoimmune illness in which eye and mouth tissue dries up. Use of certain medicines, such as phenytoin, prompts pseudolymphoma in some patients. And it is sometimes seen in the stomach when there is an ulcer there.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers presented a skit and informative demonstration entitled "Who's Watching for the Children?" at the State 4-H Roundup held recently in College Station. The team placed seventh out of 24 teams from throughout the state. The youth will be available to present the skit to clubs or civic groups throughout the summer. Participants in the skit include (front row, from left) Amanda Sims, Erin Auckerman, Jami Parker, (back row, from left) Georgia Auckerman (coach) and Cindy Harder. Not pictured is Shelia Teel.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to respond to the woman who was angry with her husband's nurse when she refused to give him more pain medication.

I worked as a nurse for 47 years and did everything I could to relieve my patients' pain. Unfortunately, most family members are not aware of the circumstances under which nurses work. The doctor might come by for a minute, smile and reassure the patient and then may or may not remember to write down an order for medication. If the doctor DOES prescribe pain medication, the frequency is specified, such as "every three or four hours."

Heaven help the nurse who doesn't follow those orders. Calling the doctor is not always possible. Do you think doctors sit by the phone waiting for these calls?

Enlightened doctors who are practicing state-of-the-art medicine order pain medication by a system that allows the patient to control how much he gets. Meanwhile, the doctors write the orders, and the nurses take the blame.—One Who Has Seen It All in Temple, Texas

DEAR TEMPLE: The patient-controlled pain medication you refer to is a button that releases morphine or other medication intravenously. It would be wonderful if all terminally ill patients had access to this type of pain relief, but unfortunately, they don't.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Bobcat Goldthwait, the comic who poured lighter fluid on a chair and then torched it on the "Tonight" show, pleaded innocent to a charge of illegally setting a fire.

Goldthwait entered the plea Thursday through his lawyer on charges of unlawfully causing a fire and possession of a flammable substance or device with intent to burn property.

Each count carries a maximum $1,000 fine and six months in jail.

Goldthwait ignited the chair during a May 6 appearance on "The Tonight Show With Jay Leno" at NBC. Leno and guest Lauren Hutton doused the fire with cups of water.

Several angry readers wrote to say it is the nurse's duty to locate the doctor and obtain permission to increase the dosage of painkiller. Others said the family member who witnesses intense suffering should not depend on the nurse but should call the doctor personally. I'm with the last group. Too many people are afraid to speak up to health professionals. I urge you to make yourselves heard, folks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our youngest son, recently divorced, has found a lovely woman to date. They seem to get along beautifully. The problem is her 16-year-old daughter, "Sheila."

This girl refuses to attend any family get-togethers at our home, even though we always invite her and have given her gifts for special occasions. If we are at their home, she barely acknowledges us. This makes us uncomfortable, and we also think it is quite rude.

Sheila's parents have been divorced for two years. She knows it was for the best because her father was no good. She appears to like our son and frequently asks him for help with her homework, so I assume she has no animosity toward him.

Shouldn't Sheila's mother demand that she at least be polite? Any advice you can offer would be helpful.—Baffled

DEAR BAFFLED: Please leave Sheila's mother out of it, or you may alienate her for all time and your son as well.

Make no future efforts to bring this young girl into the fold. I suspect you may have been trying too hard already, which is hat has made her ill at ease. Be cordial but not obsequious. And no more gifts, please. In time, if you give her plenty of space, she may come around.

Gem of the Day: Popularity is a form of success that is seldom worth the things you have to do to obtain it.

Is that Ann Landers column you clipped years ago yellow with age? For a copy of her most frequently requested oems and essays, send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Frazier, Cramer tie for best speaker

Esther Frazier and Sharon Cramer tied for best speaker honors when members of the Hereford Toastmasters Club met Thursday morning at the Ranch House.

Navratilova, McNeil make semifinals at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Martina Navratilova, pursuing a 10th title in her 22nd and final Wimbledon appearance, stormed back after losing the first set today to beat Jana Novotna and reach the semifinals.

Unseeded Lori McNeil reached the Wimbledon semifinals for the first time by beating Larisa Neiland 6-3, 6-4.

The fourth-seeded Navratilova ran off nine straight games after the first set en route to a 5-7, 6-0, 6-1 victory over No. 5 Novotna, the woman who beat her in straight sets in the semifinals last year.

Novotna seemed in command after she saved a set point in the ninth game of the first set with an ace, broke Navratilova for a 6-5 lead and then served out the set in the next game.

But the 37-year-old Navratilova dominated completely the rest of the way, serving and volleying with authority and keeping the charging Novotna at bay with passing shots. She was up 3-0 in the final set before Novotna finally held serve.

On match point, Navratilova won in typical fashion - following her serve to net, punching a forehand volley, then ending the contest with a backhand volley into the corner.

It's the 16th time in her career that Navratilova has reached the Wimbledon semifinals. After her victory, British bookmakers installed her as the 10-11 favorite for the title.

In the semifinals, Navratilova will face the winner of the match between Zina Garrison Jackson and Gigi Fernandez.

McNeil, playing a classic serve-and-volley game, took command in the first set by breaking Neiland in the fourth game with a forehand volley. Serving for the set at 5-3, McNeil saved three break points before ending it with another forehand volley into the open court.

McNeil got the decisive edge in the second set when she broke in the third game. Neiland - who served 11 double faults - saved one match point on her own serve in the eighth game, but McNeil then served out the contest.

The 30-year-old Houston native, who upset top seeded Steffi Graf in the first round, reached the semifinals of a Grand Slam tournament for only the second time in her career. She got to the semis at the U.S. Open in 1987.

McNeil will next play the winner of the match between third-seeded Conchita Martinez of Spain and American Lindsay Davenport, the No. 9 seed.

After beating Helena Sukova 6-1, 6-2 in the quarterfinals Monday, Navratilova said she had managed to control her emotions about playing at Wimbledon for the last time.

"I have stopped thinking this is my last Wimbledon," she said. "I am absolutely in the 'now,' playing Wimbledon, period. I don't care if I have 10 more to go. I want this one. I want the next match. That's all I'm thinking about."

Garrison Jackson, runner-up at Wimbledon in 1990, pulled off Monday's major upset by beating second-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. She said she was inspired by the success of fellow Houston native McNeil, who ousted top-seeded Steffi Graf in the first round last week and beat Florencia Labat in two tiebreakers Monday.

It's the first time in Wimbledon history that the top two women's seeds failed to reach the quarters. The 1981 U.S. Open was the last Grand Slam tournament where neither the No. 1 or No. 2 seed played in the final.

NBA players challenge draft

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) - Just two days before this year's NBA draft, the Players Association is seeking to end it for good.

On Monday, the NBA Players Association filed suit in U.S. District Court against the league and its 27 teams, contending that the draft, the salary cap, and the right of first refusal are illegal under antitrust laws.

Union executive director Charles Grantham said that both veteran players and some eligible for Wednesday's draft in Indianapolis have challenged the collective bargaining agreement, which expired

Thursday. They ask that they not be restricted in moving throughout the league and kept from earning their true worth.

Several big-name players - including Dominique Wilkins of the Los Angeles Clippers, Danny Manning of the Atlanta Hawks, Horace Grant of the Chicago Bulls and Donyell Marshall of the University of Connecticut - are representing the NBA players in seeking to immediately bar all NBA teams from signing players until the case is decided in an expedited trial before the start of next season.

Wilkins, Manning and Grant, unrestricted free agents as of July 1, 1994, submitted papers to the court explaining how the salary cap would severely restrict their opportunities to play for the team of their choice and prevent them from earning their true market value.

"Only the players are deprived of such basic freedoms as the ability to choose your employer or negotiate for your true market value," Grantham said. "It is our intention in this lawsuit to end this injustice before another NBA game is played."

The NBA contends that it is currently negotiating toward a new agreement, and that this suit is in response to the one filed by the league last week seeking to extend the terms and conditions of the previous agreement.

"This is no surprise," NBA deputy commissioner Russ Granik said. "Basically, this is a counterclaim to our suit. As we said last week, litigation unfortunately is part of bargaining in sports. The Players Association has been threatening this for months."

The league is hoping a judge will rule as in 1987, when it was found that the terms of the previous agreement are effective as long as there is a reasonable belief negotiations will continue.

Grantham noted things have changed since 1983, when the current salary cap and revenue-sharing system began.

"The commissioner (David Stern) admits that the salary cap is an effort to fix labor costs," Grantham said. "Not only is this practice long since found illegal, but it is completely contrary to the unique nature of the skills sold in this entertainment industry. We feel extremely confident that the court will find the league's restraint to be illegal."

Several college players, including expected top pick Glenn Robinson of Purdue, had threatened to boycott the draft to protest its legality and a possible rookie salary cap.

Robinson's agent, Charles Tucker, said the draft was illegal because the agreement had expired, but withdrew his client's protest after speaking with all parties concerned.

"I wanted the players to be aware of these matters, I wanted to let the NBA know there was these concerns," Tucker said.

The players have asked the court to rule immediately on the request for a temporary restraining order and set the matter down for a hearing on the preliminary injunction request within the next 20 days.

Burkhalter wins junior tourney

Scott Burkhalter of Hereford won the 16-18 age group at a North Texas Junior PGA golf tournament held Monday in Hereford.

Burkhalter shot a 76 to beat out Tom Munoz, also of Hereford, who shot a 77.

Two other Hereford golfers took third in their age groups: Daniel Edwards in the 12-13 boys' group shot a 92, and Jennifer Phipps in 12-14 girls shot 141.

Softball tourney set for July 8-10

The Hereford Thunder Classic, a Class D softball tournament sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene, will be held July 8-10.

The tournament will be limited to the first 14 teams to register. The fee is $100 and the deadline is July 6.

A home-run hitting contest will be held in conjunction with the tournament. For $5, the hitter gets 12 pitches and 10 swings.

Expos' Hill bests Braves in NL East showdown

By The Associated Press
Olympic Stadium was nearly full, the Expos had their best pitcher on the mound and Montreal was ready to begin its challenge for first place in the NL East.

The Expos and their 45,291 fans - the largest crowd since Opening Day - didn't go home disappointed.

Ken Hill outpitched Greg Maddux and became the National League's first 11-game winner in a 7-2 victory Monday night that pulled the Expos within 1 1/2 games of Atlanta. It's the closest Montreal has been to first place since May 29.

"The kids were prepared for battle," said manager Felipe Alou of his team. "What we showed tonight was nothing new. This team just doesn't get the credit it deserves."

But they did get a chance to end the three-game series in first place for the first time all season. To do so, they'll need victories today against Tom Seaver and Wednesday against John Smoltz.

Hill (11-3) worked 7 1-3 innings and allowed four hits and six walks while striking out three. Maddux (10-4), loser of his last two starts and winless in three, gave up five runs on nine hits in 6 2-3 innings.

"I feel I can pitch with anybody, and I showed it tonight," said Hill. "Maddux is a great pitcher and he kept his team in there. But so did I."

Montreal broke the game open in the seventh on Wil Cordero's bases-loaded sacrifice fly and Cliff Floyd's three-run homer. The Expos added two runs in the eighth on Tim Spehr's RBI double and Wil Cordero's bases-loaded walk.

Giants 3, Dodgers 2
In their first game at Dodger Stadium since a 12-1 defeat on the final day of the 1993 season eliminated them from the division race, the Giants moved within 5 1/2 games of first-place Los Angeles.

Injury-plagued Bud Black (1-0), making his second start since last August, pitched seven scoreless innings and allowed just three hits.

The Giants got their runs on Royce Clayton's bases-loaded, two-run single in the first inning and Dave Martinez's run-scoring groundout in the third.

Tom Candiotti (5-3) took the loss, allowing six hits and five walks in seven innings.

Astros 7, Reds 6 (11)
At the Astrodome, Craig Biggio lined an RBI single to the wall in the 11th inning.

Todd Jones (2-2) pitched two hitless innings for the victory. Jeff Brantley (5-4) took the loss.

Cardinals 9, Mets 8
At Shea Stadium, Gregg Jefferies

tied the game with a ninth-inning double and an error by shortstop Jose Vizcaino allowed the winning run to score.

St. Louis' rally ruined a great comeback by New York, which scored seven runs - five unearned - with two out in the seventh to take an 8-7 lead. John Franco (1-4) blew his fifth save opportunity of the season. Rich Rodriguez (2-2) pitched 1 1-3 innings for the win.

Phillies 5, Marlins 1
At Veterans Stadium, Shawn Boskie scattered six hits in his first complete game in four years and Jim Eisenreich hit a two-run triple.

Boskie (4-4) struck out four and allowed only one runner past first base for his second career complete game. The Phillies jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first and knocked out Kurt Miller (1-3) an inning later.

Bichette tied a club record with five RBIs, and Vinny Castilla and Eric Young also homered for Colorado.

David Nied (7-4) got the win. Andy Ashby (3-6) had his three-game winning streak snapped.

Cubs 2, Pirates 1
At Wrigley Field, Sammy Sosa's shallow sacrifice fly in the eighth inning ended Pittsburgh's six-game winning streak.

Sosa's pop fly was caught in short center by second baseman Carlos Garcia, whose momentum carried him further into the outfield. Kevin Roberson barely beat the throw home.

Cubs starter Willie Banks (8-6) retired 20 consecutive hitters at one point and got the victory. Jeff Ballard (1-1) took the loss.

Yanks' Key gets 12th win vs. Red Sox

By The Associated Press
Maybe Jimmy Key didn't have a career year last season after all. Maybe he was just warming up for this season.

The American League's best pitcher won his 11th straight decision and became baseball's first 12-game winner Monday night, stopping Boston on six hits over eight innings as New York beat the Red Sox 5-1.

"I've never had a streak like this where everything falls for me," said Key (12-1), whose only loss came April 9 in his second start. "Whether I pitch good or bad, I find a way to win and the team finds a way to win for me."

The Yankees improved to 13-4 in Key's starts and he lowered his ERA to a tidy 3.01. In 1 1/2 seasons with the Yankees, Key is 30-7 with a 3.00 ERA.

His 11-game winning streak is the longest in a single season by a Yankees pitcher since Ron Guidry won 12 straight in 1985. Bob Wickman, who pitched a perfect ninth, won 11 straight games spanning the 1992 and 1993 seasons.

Among Key's admirers Monday night was Aaron Sele, one of the brightest young pitchers in the league and Key's opponent on the mound.

"Key makes the hitter hit his pitch, and a young guy like me learns a lot watching him," said Sele (6-4), who has lost twice to Key this season.

Mike Gallego drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single, Luis Polonia had a run-scoring bunt and Wade Boggs doubled home a run for New York, which won its sixth straight.

Scott Cooper hit his 13th homer in the seventh for Boston's only run.

Tigers 11, Mariners 1
At Seattle, Mickey Tettleton hit a grand slam and drove in five runs and Tim Belcher stymied Seattle on two hits for eight innings.

Tettleton's fifth career slam, his 14th homer, came during a seven-run fourth. Tony Phillips hit his 10th homer in the first for Detroit.

Belcher (6-8) who took a perfect game into the sixth, gave up just one unearned run. Dave Fleming (5-10) allowed eight runs in 3 1-3 innings.

Royals 2, Twins 1
At Minneapolis, Tom Gordon and three relievers made two unearned runs stand up as Kansas City bested

Kevin Tapani and Minnesota.

Gordon (8-4) allowed five hits, including Scott Lewis' 10th homer, in 7 1-3 innings and struck out eight.

Jeff Montgomery got his 12th save.

Tapani (8-5) allowed five hits and fanned eight, but a three-base miscue by center fielder Alex Cole and Tapani's own two-base throwing error set up both runs in the sixth. Vince Coleman drove in the winner with his ninth triple.

Athletics 10, Angels 2
At Oakland, Rickey Henderson had three hits, including a homer, and reached base in all five plate appearances.

Henderson, Stan Javier, Ruben Sierra and Geronimo Berroa drove in two runs apiece.

Henderson broke a 2-for-15 slump with a single leading off the first and scored the A's first run; hit an RBI double in a four-run second; and hit his fourth home run, a solo shot, in the third.

Todd Van Poppel (4-6) allowed two runs in seven innings, while Angels starter Brian Anderson (5-3) gave up five runs on eight hits in 1 2-3 innings.

Orioles 7, Indians 6
At Cleveland, Jeff Tackett led off the eighth inning with his first home run in two years.

Tackett, a career .215 hitter, hit Charles Nagy's first pitch for his first homer since June 30, 1992. Harold Baines also homered, his 12th, for Baltimore.

Tom Bolton (1-1) pitched 2 2-3 innings in relief of Ben McDonald, who blew a 6-1 lead, and Lee Smith fanned three for his major league-leading 26th save.

Nagy (6-4) allowed seven runs and 11 hits in eight innings.

Brewers 5, Blue Jays 1
At Milwaukee, Toronto was no match for Cal Eldred, who sent the Blue Jays to their ninth consecutive loss.

Eldred (9-7) allowed six hits.

Al Leiter (3-5) gave up three runs on seven hits and walked four in four innings in his first start since coming off the 15-day disabled list.

Milwaukee stranded 14 runners, but Jody Reed had a two-run single. B.J. Surhoff had a sacrifice fly and RBI single and Dave Nilsson had an RBI single.

Germany holds off Korea in World Cup

By The Associated Press
They hobbled off the field, looking like losers. They spent forever in the showers, then went for massages. They didn't feel much like talking.

These were the world champion Germans, who had just squeezed into the second round of the World Cup?

It was. It might have seemed more like torture than triumph, but the Germans survived the searing heat in Dallas and the second-half charge of the South Koreans to win 3-2. That victory gave them first place in Group C.

It also gave them relief, lots of relief.

"I don't foresee any problems," said Juergen Klinsmann, whose two goals helped Germany to a 3-0 lead in the first 37 minutes. "The only problems we've had were the last 30 minutes against Spain and the last 30 minutes against Korea."

"Even though the team is older, we've got more experience. Now that we go into the knockout system, I don't foresee any problems. Now we feel it's high time to play."

The 100-plus temperatures were too high for the Germans and seemed to suit the Koreans, who dominated the second half. Klinsmann sought an explanation of just why the champions were forced to play all three first-rounders in the middle of the day.

"I have one question to ask: Why is it that we have to play at 3 p.m.?" he said. Then he answered his own question. "In the afternoon heat for European TV."

They wilted in that heat and had to rely on goalie Bodo Illgner to make three sparkling saves in the final minutes.

In the other game Monday, Spain sent Bolivia home with a 3-1 decision, giving the Spanish second place in the group.

The United States moved closer to advancing when Germany eliminated South Korea and Spain took out Bolivia. The German win meant if the Americans get into the second round - they could find out today - it will be against either Brazil or Sweden at Stanford on July 4.

The U.S. players were upset that the U.S. Soccer Federation misinterpreted the rules concerning yellow cards in the first round. The USSF failed to tell players that two yellow cards in separate first-round games would result in a one-game suspension. John Harkes would miss the second round because of that rule.

"It's embarrassing, actually, to tell you the truth," defender Alexi Lalas said. "It's the rules of the game. It doesn't matter what your experience is or how many World Cups you played in, at the very least you should know the rules of the tournament you're in, and we didn't."

Today, Ireland, Norway, Italy and Mexico settled the "Group of Death." All were tied with three points in Group E, the toughest of the first round. Ireland played Norway at East Rutherford, N.J., and Italy took on Mexico at Washington.

Later in the afternoon, Group B concluded with Brazil against Sweden at Pontiac, Mich., and Russia vs. Cameroon at Stanford, Calif. Brazil already has secured a spot in the second round.

At Chicago on Monday, Bolivia got its first World Cup goal, by Erwin Sanchez. It wasn't nearly enough as Jose Luis Caminero connected twice and Spain also got a goal on a penalty kick by Josep Guardiola.

Caminero will be suspended for the second-round game against Switzerland at Washington after getting his second yellow card of the opening round.

Magazine tabs 'Horns as SWC favorites

By The Associated Press
With Texas A&M ineligible for the 1994 Southwest Conference championship, the Texas Longhorns were the overwhelming choice to win the title in the 31st annual writers' poll conducted by Dave Campbell's Texas Football magazine.

Thirty-three of 34 Texas participants in the annual poll, published in editions that go on sale this week, picked the Longhorns as the SWC favorite.

UT received 102 points from the writers, followed by Baylor with the remaining first-place vote and 63 points.

Texas Tech was third with 23 points, Texas Christian fourth with 12, Rice fifth with eight and Southern Methodist sixth with a single point. Houston did not receive a vote to finish among the top three.

Writers were not allowed to vote for two-time league champion Texas A&M, which is on NCAA probation and ineligible for the SWC title in 1994.

In the high school ranks, Aldine

MacArthur leads the Class 5A poll as it returns all-state quarterback Odell James to a team that lost to Lewisville in the Division II title game last December. Lewisville is third.

The other top-ranked schools are Sulphur Springs in Class 4A, Cuero in 3A, Schulenburg in 2A, Thorndale in Class A and two-time defending state champion Panther Creek in six-man.

The Aggies dominated the individual awards in SWC voting.

Leeland McElroy, A&M's record-setting freshman last year, was honored twice by Texas Football writers.

He received 20 votes as Offensive Player of the Year, beating teammate Rodney Thomas with seven votes and Texas' Shea Morenz with six. Morenz is featured on the magazine cover this year.

McElroy also got 25 votes as Sophomore of the Year. Tony Brackens of Texas was second in that category with four.

Brackens also came up second-best in the race for Defensive Player of the Year, finishing with 11.5 votes to 12 for Antonio Armstrong, the former Antonio Shorter, of Texas A&M.

Byron Hanspard, Texas Tech's blue-chip running back from DeSoto, received 15 votes for Newcomer of the Year, beating Baylor running back Jerod Douglas of Converse Judson with seven.

As for the high school Super Team, Deer Park and Dallas Carter each placed two players on the all-class all-star team.

Deer Park had kicker Shonz LaFranz and offensive lineman Kieth Frierson. Carter was represented by defensive backs Calvin Goldsmith and Damien Hill.

The safety of hamburger meat has been making the headlines recently. More than 400 persons in the Northwest became ill after eating undercooked hamburgers containing E. coli O157:H7, a rare strain of bacteria which is particularly dangerous to the very old.

"A number of Hotline callers recently have been asking about the safety of cooking hamburgers at home," says Susan Conley of USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline. "Raw hamburger must be handled properly because of the potential of contamination by harmful bacteria. Adequate cooking kills bacteria."

Here are some hamburger safety tips from the home economists at the Meat and Poultry Hotline:

*At the store, be sure to choose a package that's not torn and that feels cold. If possible, enclose it in a plastic bag so juices won't drip on other foods. Make ground beef and other perishables your final purchase of the trip.

*After leaving the store, get perishables home quickly and refrigerate or freeze them immediately. If the trip home is more than an hour, pack them in an ice chest.

*When handling raw ground beef, don't let its juices contaminate foods that won't be cooked. Wash your hands with soap and hot tap water before and after handling ground beef to make sure you don't spread bacteria from raw meats to other foods.

*Don't reuse any packaging materials. Use soap and hot water to wash utensils and surfaces which have come into contact with the raw meat. When taking hamburgers off the grill, don't put the cooked hamburgers on the same platter which held the raw patties.

*Avoid the "danger zone." Bacteria multiply rapidly in the "danger zone" between 40 and 140 degrees and use or freeze it within two days. Ground beef kept frozen at 0 degrees will maintain its quality up to four months.

*Keeping meat cold while it is defrosting is essential to prevent the growth of bacteria. Never leave ground beef or any perishable food, out on the counter for more than two hours. Thaw it in the refrigerator.

*To be sure bacteria are destroyed, cook hamburgers to 160 degrees F. or until the center is no longer pink and the juices are clear.

*When cooking out, do not partially grill extra hamburgers to use later. Once you begin cooking hamburgers by any method, cook them until completely done to assure that bacteria are destroyed.

*Refrigerate hamburgers promptly after cooking. Any left out at room temperature for more than two hours should be discarded. After cooking, ground beef can be stored in the refrigerator for three to four days or frozen up to three months.

*When reheating fully cooked patties, be sure their internal temperature reaches 165 degrees F. or they are hot and steaming.

*At restaurants, order your hamburger cooked to "medium" or "well done" and check for doneness when it is served.

For further information about handling and cooking hamburgers safely, call USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-800-535-4555 weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eastern time.

Low-fat diets can taste really good

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Gradually lower the amount of fat in your diet, and eventually regular-fat foods will taste like mouthfuls of grease.

"One of the most important things to remember is that your taste perception will change as you continue decreasing the fat," says Kan Stanfill, adjunct assistant professor of nutritional sciences at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center. "It can take anywhere from six to eight weeks for an individual to become accustomed to a low-fat diet and to find it as fully satisfying, from a taste standpoint, as a higher-fat diet."

Then, she says, many people who have become used to lower-fat fare find high-fat foods greasy and objectionable.

The payoff, of course, is avoiding obesity and high cholesterol, and reducing risk of heart disease and breast, colon, rectal and prostate cancers. Stanfill, a registered dietitian, suggests ways to cut fat:

- Choose leaner meats and trim away all visible fat before cooking. Lean cuts are labeled "loin" (tenderloin, top sirloin, sirloin tips) and "round" (round roast, eye of round, top round). Three ounces of any of these cuts have fewer than 10 grams of fat.

- Remove the skin of poultry before cooking. That's where most of the bird's fat is.

- Avoid breaded meats. They've usually been fried and are high in fat.

- Choose low-fat dairy products, including the new lower-fat cheeses. Part-skim mozzarella, for example, has fewer than five grams of fat in an ounce. Skim milk, 1-percent milk, non-fat or low-fat yogurt are good choices. Stanfill notes that many new decreased-fat dairy products coming into the marketplace have improved in flavor and quality over older versions.

- Use less butter, margarine and oil. Instead, use more herbs and spices to flavor meats and vegetables. Look for low-fat condiments and sauces, and use regular mustard, which is fat free, instead of mayonnaise, which has five grams of fat per teaspoon.

- Cook by steaming, microwaving, broiling, poaching, or stir-frying. Use vegetable cooking sprays instead of frying with oil. Use a rack when broiling or baking meat so juices and fat will drain off; skim the fat from the meat juice before using it to make gravies, sauces and stews.

Fat should account for about 30 percent of daily calories, Stanfill points out. On a 2,000-calorie daily menu, it would take about 200 fat calories, or 22 grams, to bring a 40-percent level down to 30 percent. "That may sound like a lot, but in reality it is approximately the amount of fat in only two tablespoons of mayonnaise or butter."

NEW YORK (AP) - John Lennon taunted Paul McCartney in an early 1970s letter, accusing him of overstating the Beatles' influence.

"Do you really think most of today's art came about because of the Beatles? I don't believe you're that insane," he wrote. "Didn't we always say we were of the movement - not all of it?"

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: With a new school year starting soon, I would like to introduce you to the "Helping Your Child" series of booklets offered by The Consumer Information Center.

Over the next couple of months, I will be offering one of the series every Tuesday in the column.

Each of these booklets is full of great information and activities to do with your child to help prepare for different stages such as starting school, as well as help in teaching responsible behavior, health and fitness and how to succeed in school.

The first booklet to be offered is "Helping Your Child Get Ready for School." This timely booklet is filled with activities for children from birth through 5 years of age. It gives information on:

- how to encourage enthusiasm toward school/kindergarten so the child will adjust easier
- what to expect developmentally from your child each year from birth to age 5
- some easy activities to help your child grow and develop
- the qualities and skills that youngsters need to get a good start.

To order, send your request along with 50 cents and your name and address to: Consumer Information Center, Dept. H-372A, Pueblo CO 81009. Please allow three to five weeks for delivery. — Heloise

TOY BOX
Dear Heloise: As a grandmother of two 19-month-olds (not twins), I find myself with small toys everywhere.

Recently my refrigerator stopped working and I had to use an ice chest. Sure enough, the ice chest was no good. I was about to throw this piece of junk away when up popped an idea.

I now have a great toy chest that I can leave on the patio so the toys don't get wet when it rains. The ice chest makes a great toy chest; we just removed the latch. We don't want any mishaps.

Hope this idea saves a few parents and grandparents some money — another recycling use. — Ann Tortomase, River Ridge, La.

OLD PHOTOS
Dear Heloise: Old family pictures are priceless to most families, but it was a headache to gather ours together after our parents died. We made copies so each person could have one of each.

My advice to older people is to not wait for the pictures to be disposed of. Close family members as well as other relatives will appreciate receiving them now, not after you have died.

Several of our relatives were so pleased at receiving pictures taken of them and their loved ones that they bought albums or put them up on walls — not to mention the reminiscing they did. — Mrs. Curbo, Medina, Texas

SOUND OFF
Dear Heloise: My Sound Off phone-answering services that don't announce they are a service in the beginning of a phone call.

I am tired of going through the litany of my problem or symptoms only to be told at the end of my story, "The doctor is not in. We're only the service." — Joan Amberg, Westfield, N.J.

Many times I ask "Is this the service?" just to avoid the hassle you are talking about. — Heloise

Budget stretching ideas

If you're one of the 40 million Americans who will be relocating this year, getting and understanding an estimate from your mover will help you get you off to a good start. Here are some tips from the American Movers Conference (AMC) that will help:

"Understanding the estimating process will help consumers obtain the services they desire at a fair price," says Joe Harrison, president of the American Movers Conference, the moving industry's largest trade association.

You should obtain two or three written estimates from moving companies on the services they provide and the cost of your move. Interstate moves are priced according to weight of the household goods and distance moved. These estimates can be either binding (the moving company guarantees the price prior to the move) or non-binding (the mover estimates the price and provides final charges after the shipment is weighted).

Binding estimates are based on the items to be moved and services that are listed on the estimate sheet. It is crucial that you make sure the binding estimate contains all of the items to be moved and any additional services you request because anything that is added later will increase the cost and may delay the move while the costs are being re-figured.

Non-binding estimates are approximations based on a survey of the household goods to be moved. The actual total cost is based on the weight of the household goods and the distance they are moved, plus other services, such as packing.

The advantage of the binding estimate is that you know the final cost before the move. The advantage of the non-binding estimate is that the final price may be lower than a binding estimate, but the disadvantage is that you don't know the final price until your goods are loaded and weighed.

Local moves are usually based on hourly charges.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) - Mike Ditka is resting comfortably at a hospital after suffering chest pains, but doctors don't know when he'll be released.

The former Chicago Bears coach was upgraded Thursday from fair to good condition at Lake Forest Hospital. The pain hit when he was exercising at home Tuesday.

Ditka, 54, suffered a mild heart attack in the middle of the 1988 season but recovered in 11 days to take the Bears to a 12-4 league-best record and the NFC title game. Ditka led the Bears to their first and only Super Bowl victory in 1986. He was fired as Bears coach in January 1993.

Be sure your infant is getting enough iron in her diet during that crucial first year.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - Over-the-hill husbands and wives, take heart: a survey says women and men think their own mates are just as sexy as Elizabeth Taylor and Paul Newman.

Newman, 69, and Taylor, 62, were voted sexiest stars over 50 by the 3,000 readers who responded to questionnaires in Mature Outlook magazine. Sean Connery, 63, and Sophia Loren, 59, narrowly came in second.

The stars each got about 10 percent of the votes in the unscientific survey.

Grand jury testimony released; governor's speech draws fire

AUSTIN — Secret grand jury testimony from a 1993 investigation into U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison's term as state treasurer has been published in the weekly Dallas Observer, and the newspaper attributed the disclosure to Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle.

The article in the Observer, written by Miriam Rozen, said that "... Earle granted (her) unfettered access to the Hutchison files" and that an office clerk helped her make photocopies of the secret transcripts.

Earle denied that, saying, "I have not released any grand jury information to any of the major newspapers, and I certainly would not do so to the Dallas Observer."

The report recounted allegations that as treasurer, Hutchison used state employees and office equipment for non-official purposes, and included testimony that former Hutchison aide David Criss asked for $250,000 in exchange for his silence.

State District Judge David Perkins of Austin told the Houston Post he was not sure what he was going to do about the disclosure.

A Tarrant County grand jury in February found Hutchison not guilty of ethics violations brought by the Travis County grand jury.

Governor's Speech Draws Fire

Gov. Ann Richards' speech on self-reliance to a group of high school girls drew criticism from Republicans who accused her of bashing males.

Speaking to the Girls State conference in Austin, Richards encouraged attendees to seek their purpose in life independently rather than surrender life choices to a "Prince Charming" who might be a toad in disguise, or, in her words, an overweight beer guzzler with a wandering eye.

George W. Bush, Republican nominee for governor, said, "... Our leaders should be building up the family, not tearing it down."

In response to Bush, Richards said, "The interesting thing is

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

that I have been making virtually the same speeches for more than three years. No one seemed to object until there was some politics involved."

Penna Dexter of Plano, a spokeswoman for Concerned Women for America, also said Richards' comments were "negative with regard to families."

But Kristy Grayson, 17, of San Angelo, told the Dallas Morning News that she did not hear anything Richards said that was offensive to men or women.

"She specifically told us that she had the most admiration for any woman who tries to have a career and still raise a family," Grayson said.

Richards Proposes Curfew

The governor also proposed a statewide evening curfew for young people, similar to those already in place at Austin, Dallas and Houston.

Speaking last week to a group of at-risk students at an Austin high school, Richards said, "I'll do anything I can to encourage local communities to implement curfews and, if I have to, I'll support legislation to do that."

Richards said that according to a report by the Austin police, juvenile arrests for violent crime have dropped 19 percent since the city's curfew went into effect.

Bush said he is against a statewide curfew, saying "local control is essential."

Ballpark Financing Hit

Meanwhile, the governor took a swipe at Bush over the way his baseball team's new ballpark was financed.

Chuck McDonald, a spokesman for Richards' re-election campaign, said that $141 million of the Texas Ranger's Ballpark at Arlington came from a sales tax increase and city bond guarantees. McDonald pointed out that the GOP platform opposes public money to fund private enterprise projects.

Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur said Richards' campaign was engaging in "a political shell game." He said the governor signed legislation needed to move the project forward.

Bush is managing partner of the Rangers.

Greytok Seeks Clinton Records

Marta Greytok, GOP candidate for land commissioner, said she has filed a lawsuit against President Clinton, seeking documents about Clinton's ties to Democratic Land Commissioner Garry Mauro. Mauro ran Clinton's Texas campaign in 1992.

Greytok said White House officials hadn't responded to her request for the records under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

Mauro's campaign manager, Andres Gonzalez, said, "This is a feeble stunt by our opponent to generate publicity for herself and to jump-start a campaign that has never gotten off the ground."

Decision: Race Not a Factor

An Austin jury has said race was not a factor in a 1992 decision by the Texas Department of Public Safety to deny an officer's promotion to the Texas Rangers.

Michael Dexter Scott, a sergeant investigator in the DPS criminal intelligence division in Houston, contended that he was denied promotion to the Texas Rangers because he was black.

In its June 21 proceedings, the jury also found that the DPS method of interviewing did not hold back promotions from minorities.

Texas cities - 116 at Midland, 114 at Lubbock and 113 at El Paso - breaking marks that had been set or equalled only Sunday.

The previous records were 112 at Midland, 111 at Lubbock, and 112 at El Paso, all set just 24 hours earlier.

Also Monday, Abilene (109), San Angelo (109) and Amarillo (106) all notched highest-ever readings for June 27. Abilene's reading was its highest in more than 50 years, since a high of 111 on Aug. 3, 1943.

A portion of Interstate 20 in Palfur County buckled late Monday afternoon, an apparent result of the plus-100 degree weather, officials said.

A westbound section of the highway near the Trinity Meadows Race track was closed for about three hours while repair crews worked to ease the pressure on the roadway, a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety in Mineral Wells said last night.

The highway was reopened after the work was completed. Highway officials could not be reached to describe how the damage was repaired.

First reports of the problem came in about 6:15 p.m. from drivers calling the DPS on their cellular phones, the spokesman said.

A large dome of high pressure remains anchored over the entire southwestern United States, warming and drying the atmosphere and effectively capping any rain activity.

Surface high pressure in the Gulf of Mexico is keeping winds southerly over the region trapping low-level moisture which, in turn, kept humidity levels high.

Temperatures dropped after sundown Monday, but skies remained clear. Most cities had readings in the 80s and 90s after dark, but at 10 p.m., temperatures remained at 100 or higher in at least five Texas cities, led by 103 at Wink, where it felt like 104 because of humidity.

Other 10 p.m. readings at or above the century mark were 102 at Midland, 101 at Del Rio and 100 at El Paso and Wichita Falls. The heat index at Wichita Falls at 10 p.m. was 113.

There wasn't much relief from the heat during the night as early morning temperatures remain: in the 70s and 80s. The only readings in the 60s were at Marfa in the Davis Mountains where the mercury dipped to 64 before sunrise and at Dalhart where it was 65 at 6 a.m.

Other 6 a.m. readings around the state included 90 at El Paso, 81 at Dallas, 80 at Brownsville and Houston, 76 at Wichita Falls.

When Less Is More
 Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
