Canadian nurses move here

Dr. Howard Haysom, third from left, visits with three nurses from Canada who have joined the professional nursing staff at Hereford Regional Medical Center. Pictured, left to right, are David Tate, Gwen Keeping, Dr. Haysom, and Rhoda Alambra. Dr. Haysom spent a portion of his early years in Canada and received his Doctor of Medicine degree from Dalhousie University Medical School of Nova Scotia, Canada.

New nurses give Canadian flavor to Hereford hospital

Three new residents of Hereford are doing as much to strengthen ties between the U.S. and Canada as the NAFTA agreement.

The three, all registered nurses from Canada, began work at Hereford Regional Medical Center recently to help solve the continuing nursing shortage in the United States.

"We are delighted to have these high quality nursing professionals choose Hereford for their new home," said Mike Maloy, interim administrator at HRMC.

The three nurses—David Tate, Rhoda Alambra and Gwen Keeping, share more in common than their Canadian citizenship; each became disillusioned with the Canadian health care system because of job cutbacks and waste.

"The nursing jobs are very limited in Canada and the hours are not good," Tate explained. "The government is cutting back on registered nurses and replacing them with nurse aides," Alambra commented.

All three nurses are impressed with the friendliness of the people of the area, and cite that as a primary reason for choosing this part of the U.S. Tate's grandfather was from Marble Falls, TX.

"I guess my roots are really in this area," he said. Tate says Hereford is similar to his home in Medicine Hat, Alberta, with the agriculture-based economy, but he noted the high intensity of feedlots is different here. He said his home town got its unusual name from a legend that an Indian medicine man lost his hat in a local river. Tate graduated in June, 1993, and is one of only three classmates out of 32 who was working in Canada. "I chose Hereford because I like the small-town environment. I also plan to pursue a BS degree in nursing at West Texas A&M University."

Alambra, 24, who is originally from Winnipeg, Manitoba, works in the intensive care unit at HRMC. She likes to travel and to read. She worked in Pampa for a year after she first graduated from nursing school, then went back to Canada for a few months.

"There's quite a bit of difference in the health care systems in Canada and the U.S.," she said. "A lot of waste occurs in the system in Canada because people don't pay for health care so they do more tests than we do here."

Keeping, 32, is from Newfoundland. She graduated from General Hospital School of Nursing at St. John's Newfoundland in 1993. She has two children—Michelle, 11, and Lindsay, 8. Keeping works for Deaf Smith Home Care Services, a division of HRMC.

"I miss the ocean, but I'll get used to that part of it," says Keeping. She said her trip to the U.S. was her first time on an airplane. "I wanted to see something different. There are no jobs in Newfoundland, and I felt good about this opportunity in Hereford from the beginning."

Keeping learned about the job from the American Hospital Association. She has friends in Hale Center and that helped her make a decision. She plans to go to school to complete her BS degree in nursing. "Home health is what I do. I'm pleased to get this opportunity, and I have no intention of going back to Newfoundland."

City looking at concept of planning parks in cooperation with neighbors

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

City residents would be recruited to help with planning park improvements in their neighborhood in a program City Commissioners decided Tuesday they will explore in more detail in another meeting.

During the work session Tuesday, commissioners heard a recommendation from City Manager Chester Nolen that park development be coordinated between the city and residents in the neighborhoods.

Only exceptions will be Dameron and Veterans Parks and the 14th and H Park, Nolen suggested.

Mayor Bob Josseland called the concept a method to "develop community pride." He said he believes a new approach would be worthwhile.

Nolen reported that a federally-funded program which might have assisting with park planning will not be available because of a lack of money.

He also noted that he contacted the Texas Tech University parks and recreation department for assistance, with no positive results. The neighborhood planning concept would begin with a series of workshops with the the commission and residents, he said.

"It will mean quite a bit of time for the commission," he continued, adding that commissioners would be called on to identify persons interested in serving on the neighborhood committees. Volunteers also would be enlisted in the project.

Hereford Beautification Alliance has offered to "adopt" Dameron Park, he said.

Josseland suggested that an agenda item for a regular meeting of the commission would be needed to approve the plan.

Commissioners agreed and Commissioner Carey Black remarked, "Let's do it... the sooner the better."

Discussion of park development at the workshop was in conjunction with a report from the parks superintendent, Johnny Carr. The commission also heard from the wastewater plant superintendent, Tom Blasingame, and visited the construcsituation," said Maloy.

Trustee Scott Turner agreed. "For the immediate future, I think we just need to take care of what has to be done and show the public we're making a turnaround before talking about a bond issue."

Wurts, a former hospital administrator with many credentials in the health care field, reported on the operations audit he and associates had made. He pointed out that it was a "preliminary and broad report," comparing some findings with other hospitals of similar size.

He started by listing many positives noted in the report. These included: quality patient care; a good professional image; a good staff that reflects professionalism and caring; "one of the best housekeeping staffs I've seen;" a good quality assurance program; an excellent medical staff that includes two surgeons, youth represented on the staff and physicians "in the pipeline;" a surgery department that is "more viable and vibrant than other hospitals this size; good hospital paper work in manuals and bylaws; and good medical equipment, comparatively speaking."

Listed as "opportunities" by Wurts were: building improvements, which also related to other items listed such as plant operating equipment, renovation of nurses' station, need for new CT scanner and moving it from trailer, and the dietary department. Wurts said it was too difficult to keep the kitchen clean because of physical facilities. Maloy agreed with the latter statement, saying that "the ladies are doing a great job under the conditions."

Wurts also saw a concern about organizational structure: "It seems to be set up like a small-size version (See HOSPITAL, Page 2)

Crimestoppers to pay for tips on trash dumpers

Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers Inc., in cooperation with the Deaf Smith County Commission and Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department, will begin offering rewards for information on illegal trash dumping in the county.

Crimestoppers will offer a $50 reward for information regarding people who illegally dump large quantities of trash on county roads. Charges must be filed against the person or an arrest made before a reward is paid.

People having information on anyone illegally dumping large quantities of trash on county roads should call the Crimestoppers, 364-CLUE (364-2583).

Callers do not need to give their names and may remain anonymous.

McCown blocks tax breaks by schools

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - A state judge is blocking a school district on the Texas coast from giving a property tax break to a private company until he can consider how such agreements should work under the new education finance law.

Judge F. Scott McCown of Austin issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday against the Calhoun County school district in response to cries by poor districts calling the proposed tax break a "sham" to skirt the new education funding law.

McCown also scheduled a Monday hearing regarding the handling of tax abatements under the new law, which requires school districts with the most property to share their tax revenues with poorer districts.

Poor school districts argue that such tax breaks can't be used to reduce a wealthy school district's property values, thus reducing the amount it must share under the funding law. McCown gave some indication he agrees.

"It's a sham to get around Senate Bill 7 (the education law)," said Rick Gray, a lawyer representing more than 100 poor school districts who want McCown to rule against the abatement proposal.

"I'm outraged somebody would go to this extreme to try to circumvent... the law," Gray said.

Under the Calhoun County proposal, a tax abatement that's currently granted to Formosa Plastics Corp. would be extended by the school district to cover a major expansion of the company's Point Comfort plant.

The tax break would mean as much as $54 million in taxes wouldn't be collected from the company between 1997 and 2000. In return, Formosa would donate possibly tens of millions of dollars to the school district.

A lawyer for the Calhoun County school district did not attend Tuesday's proceedings, which weren't set until Monday.

School Superintendent Mike Moehler said negotiations still are under way and referred questions to lawyer Tom Garner. Garner did not immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press.

City Commission at work

Local Roundup

Mercury to hit 90s again

Hereford recorded a high temperature of 92 degrees on Tuesday, according to KPAN Radio, with an overnight low Wednesday of 64 degrees. For tonight and Thursday, expect more of the same. The National Weather Service is predicting a low in the mid-60s under clear skies. South winds will be 10-20 mph and gusty. For Thursday, look for sunny skies and a high in the mid-90s with southwest winds at 10-20 mph and gusty.

Y fundraiser under way

Volunteers for the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA have begun work on their annual Sustaining Contribution Campaign, which supplements the cost of youth programs and scholarships provided by the YMCA throughout the year. The goal for this year's campaign is $30,000. Campaign chairmen are: Major Gifts, Dave Hopper and Mark Collier; General Teams, Nancy Griego. Dennis Printz is 1994 YMCA Board President. The YMCA reaches many people each year through programs, leagues and classes. Daily use of the facility ranges from 70 to 300 people per day. In 1994 there will be more than 1,500 registered participants in YMCA youth programs.

Office to close early

The Deaf Smith County Tax Assessor-Collector's office will close early two days next week while employees attend the Tax Assessor Collector's Conference in Amarillo. The office will close at noon on Monday, June 20, and Tuesday, June 21, so workers may gain additional training to better serve the public. The office will be open both mornings and will resume regular hours on Wednesday, June 22.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Just a little note to express my thoughts about a letter to the editor by Ms. Ruland published Sunday by The Hereford Brand.

After reading the letter, I would like to take this opportunity to explain why landlords in this town require payment of rent and a security/cleanup deposit in advance.

1. After asking a tenant to vacate for non-payment of rent, I found that the tenant had kept a cat in the attic where it was fed and allowed to relieve itself.

Result: Vac the attic; disinfect; repair ceiling damages in the home caused by liquid wastes at a cost in excess of $1,000.

2. A drain under the kitchen sink became plugged from grease. Although tenant was instructed to call for repairs or call a plumber at my expense, the drain was opened up and a bucket placed under the sink and allowed to run over, spilling into the kitchen floor.

Result: Vinyl flooring came loose from sub/floor.

3. Tenant allowed children to play aerobic games on a water bed that was not protected by security sack.

Result: Water from bed drained into the floor and ruined three rooms of carpet and padding. Tenant then allowed furnace to run while windows and doors were open in attempt to dry out, causing the heat chamber to split open from excess heat.

Results: Repairs cost in excess of $1,000 and tenant wanted deposit refunded, claiming worn out carpet and rusty furnace at fault.

4. Tenant left town and turned heat off in house, resulting in water bed freezing and leaking, with water penetrating carpet, pad, oak flooring and causing mildewing of walls around bed.

Results: Replaced oak flooring, pad and carpet.

I cannot understand why some people expect a landlord to provide a clean environment for a tenant on the credit basis. Some rental units in this town do need some repairs and mine would look the same way if I did not clean up after the so-called "clean" tenants who promise to take care of house and keep it clean.

If some folks have lived here a long time and are still paying rent, why not buy one of mine and then they can rent from themselves without a deposit and blame themselves if it is necessary to pay the rent up front.

Simpson said top suspect in deaths

Investigators may be closing in on former football star

By JENNIFER BOWLES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Investigators are said to be closing in on O.J. Simpson in the slaying of his former wife and another man, discovering bloodstains in the football legend's driveway and car and a bloody glove in his mansion.

Simpson could be arrested within days if the blood matches that of the victims, unidentified police sources said in today's Los Angeles Times.

The 46-year-old Simpson has denied any involvement in the slayings, and his lawyer, Howard Weitzman, said, "I haven't been told that he's being looked at as a suspect." Weitzman referred questions about bloodstains to police.

Meanwhile, a therapist who met twice with Nicole Brown Simpson during her 1992 divorce from Simpson, said that the former athlete had beaten and stalked his wife, warning, "If I can't have you, I'm going to kill you."

Nicole Simpson, 35, lived in a

Brentwood condominium two miles from her former husband's mansion. Her body and that of 25-year-old Ronald Lyle Goldman, a waiter at a restaurant nearby, were found outside her condo about 12:10 a.m. Monday.

Nicole Simpson's throat was slashed, and Goldman's wounds indicate he put up a fierce struggle before he died, investigators said. Simpson had scratches on his body when police questioned him Monday, the Times reported.

Authorities withheld other details, including an estimated time of death, but Weitzman said police believe the killings occurred about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Simpson left Los Angeles Sunday on an 11:45 p.m. flight to Chicago, where he had a business meeting, Weitzman said. The airport is about a 20-minute drive from Simpson's home.

Weitzman said the only scratches he knew of on Simpson's body were on his hand. Simpson slammed his hand down on a broken glass when he learned of his ex-wife's death, the lawyer said.

Police found a trail of small reddish-brown stains leading up Simpson's driveway. The Times said the drops had been determined to be blood.

Investigators also removed bloodstained patches of carpet from Simpson's Ford Bronco, KCAL-TV reported.

A bloody glove found inside Simpson's house matched a glove found at the scene of the crime, the Times and the Daily News reported. Weitzman said police denied finding the glove.

Friends said Simpson and his former wife had been considering a reconciliation, but the Times quoted an unidentified source as saying Nicole Simpson told him several weeks ago that they could never get back together.

Police had been called to her townhouse several times in recent months to deal with disputes between the two, the source said.

Therapist Susan Forward said in an interview that Simpson beat his wife during their seven-year marriage - punching, kicking and severely bruising her - and stalked her after the divorce.

"He said, 'If you ever try to leave me, I'll kill you.' He would follow her to restaurants and bars and make scenes and threaten to kill her," said Forward, author of "Men Who Hate Women and the Women Who Love Them."

Simpson was placed on two years' probation after pleading no contest to wife beating in 1989. He allegedly screamed, "I'll kill you!"

Police said Nicole Simpson and Goldman were not linked romantically, and their relationship did not appear to be at the heart of the slayings, the Times said. Friends said Goldman was in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Nicole Simpson had left her glasses at the restaurant after dining there Sunday night, and Goldman volunteered to return them.

DPS trooper offers suggestions for safe driving, vacationing during summertime

It's vacation time and time to start thinking about summer travel plans.

Said Trooper Wayne Beigle of the Texas Department of Public Safety, "With a little bit of forethought, our summer travels can be made easier and a lot safer."

Basic planning includes a vehicle safety check of belts, hoses, fluid levels, lighting, tread wear and air pressure of tires, cooling and ventilation system and safety belts. Drivers should be rested and free of alcohol and strong medications. They should be familiar with highway numbers and speed zones where they will be traveling.

When traveling, be sure to use your safety belts and be alert for dangerous drivers and road conditions.

Beigle encouraged motorists to use headlights day and night to see and be seen.

Frequent breaks are also recommended to relieve stress.

Motorists entering large cities should plan their trips to avoid rush hour traffic and watch for farm implements and other slow-moving machinery in rural areas.

Beigle reminded Texas motorists that many people lose their lives within 25 of departure and/or destination, due in large part to excessive speeds and not wearing safety belts.

Remember to buckle up, be alert and have a great vacation this summer.

of a big hospital; it has gotten a little bloated." He said staffing levels were a little high on employees per patient, and perhaps the utilization of employees should be evaluated.

Wurts was also concerned about accounts receivable and payables, saying the board should review accounts payable and write-offs. He praised financial officer Paul Fowler for making progress in this area, and for keeping the business office going while being forced to implement other new programs.

The concerns also included the WorkSmart program (it should be evaluated as to cost justification); expense controls—evaluate contracts, too much reliance on consultants, and perhaps too much spent on legal, professional and architectural fees in the past.

He is survived by his wife.

Composer is victim of cancer

By JEFF MEYER
Associated Press Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - From "Moon River" to the "Pink Panther" theme, from horror films to television miniseries, Henry Mancini's music formed the soundtrack of a generation.

The composer died at home Tuesday of liver and pancreatic cancer. He was 70.

Mancini's musical training ranged from his father's flute lessons to New York's prestigious Juilliard School of Music. He worked for big bands and scored horror films and Abbott and Costello comedies along the way to earning 14 Academy Award nominations and four Oscars.

His compositions could be lush, crisp, taut or jazzy.

"Henry Mancini was clearly the pioneer in utilizing the different elements of American music when creating film scores," composer Quincy Jones said.

"In 1965, when I first came to Hollywood, Hank was pivotal in my being able to break the racial barrier that existed, where film scoring was concerned," added Jones, who is black. "I've lost a very, very close brother and mentor."

"Just a brilliant musician and composer who helped so many young musicians," said composer Burt Bacharach. "If there was anyone nicer than this man, I don't know who that would be."

Andy Williams, a close friend who made "Moon River" his signature song, said few composers had Mancini's way with a melody.

"I've probably sang 'Moon River' more than anyone else in the world and I never get tired of it. It's always fresh," Williams said.

At his death, Mancini was working on a score for a Broadway version of "Victor-Victoria." He and lyricist Leslie Bricusse won the Oscar for their score for the 1983 Blake Edwards movie starring Julie Andrews and Robert Preston.

Mancini composed for all Edwards' movies, including the "Pink Panther" series.

"The world has lost a huge talent. We've lost a very dear friend," Edwards and his wife, Miss Andrews, said in a statement.

Bride-elect is honored

Tonya Jeanne Deckard, July 2 bride-elect of Ramon Bubba Long, was feted with a bridal shower Saturday morning, June 11, in the home of Carolyn Fry. Welcoming guests were, from left, Amy Long, the prospective bridegroom's sister; Kaye Long, his mother; Tonya Deckard, the honoree; and Betty Deckard, her mother.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are retired and living on his pension. We spend summers in a little cabin in the north and winters in Florida.

We usually sleep late, but I was awakened this morning at 6:00 when I heard our house guests rattling dishes in the kitchen. My husband murmured, "Everyone else is on vacation, and you work your butt off." I grabbed some paper and a pencil. My husband turned over and asked, "What are you doing?" I replied, "Writing to Ann Landers." Here's my problem:

I am tired of running a free bed and breakfast. I'm sick of washing sheets, buying groceries and cooking. I want to tell my friends, "If you fly in, don't call us and give us your flight number. Rent a car and take your luggage straight to a motel, and then stop by for a visit. On your way over, pick up a six-pack and a coffee cake."

Our door is always open to our children and their families. It seems the ones we love don't visit enough. Could it be they don't want to impose? So listen up. If you are not invited, don't plan on sleeping over. At this point, I would resent waiting on the Clintons or even you, Ann.—Prudenville, Mich.

DEAR MICH: I doubt that the Clintons will be dropping in on you anytime soon, and for sure, I won't. Instead of lashing out at uninvited guests, why don't you put the blame where it belongs? Nobody can impose on you unless you let them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to ask you for one of the most important contributions you could CLEVELAND (AP) - Somebody finally pulled the plug on radio bigmouth Howard Stern.

Police arrested an employee of a rival station Friday after Stern's broadcast was briefly interrupted by a cut cable.

Stern's New York City-based show is syndicated to stations in several other cities, including WNCX-FM in Cleveland. He came here to promote his recent ratings victory over morning programs on WMJI-FM and WMMS-FM.

About 5,000 rowdy fans stood outside a nightclub featuring female strippers for a glimpse of Stern.

Police arrested a WMMS employee who allegedly cut a main cable used to broadcast the live show, said Detective Denise Reeves. The suspect's name was withheld because he wasn't immediately charged.

provide for thousands of sufferers of Paget's disease of bone.

I have had Paget's disease for many years. Although it is the second most prevalent bone disease after osteoporosis, many people have never heard of it and do not know that it is treatable. Paget's is a chronic disorder that results in enlarged and deformed bones. Symptoms can include bone pain, headaches, hearing loss, bowed limbs, curvature of the spine and an enlarged skull.

Although Paget's usually shows up in men and women over 40, it can occur earlier. Recent studies have suggested that it may be caused by a virus that is present for many years before symptoms appear. In addition, there is almost certainly a hereditary component since the disease may appear in more than one member of a family.

If someone suspects that he or she may have Paget's disease, an alkaline phosphatase blood test should be taken, followed by X-rays or bone scans when indicated. Though there is no cure for Paget's disease, medical treatment can control the condition and alleviate the symptoms and pain.

Thousands of Paget's victims may be unaware that there is an organization that can help them. Please tell them to send $2 (for mailing costs) to: The Paget Foundation, Dept A, 200 Varick St., Suite 1004, New York, N.Y. 10014-4810.

DEAR FRIEND IN HOUSTON: I appreciate the opportunity to alert my readers to the fact that there is help for those who suffer from this rather mysterious disease. The Paget Foundation should prepare for a big response.

Recipe soothes the soul

There's a good reason why this lemon-lime ice cream won a top prize in our barbecue recipe contest: Every refreshing spoonful soothes both the body and the soul. Buy fresh lemons and limes when prices are low, then freeze the juice in ice-cube trays until you have a hankering for homemade ice cream.

Lemon-Lime Ice Cream

8 cups whole milk
3 cups sugar
2 cups whipping cream
2/3 cup lemon juice
1/3 cup lime juice
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
Lemon slices (optional)
Lime slices (optional)

In a very large mixing bowl combine milk, sugar, whipping cream, lemon juice, lime juice and lemon extract; stir to dissolve sugar. (The mixture may appear slightly curdled.)

Freeze in a 5-quart ice-cream freezer and ripen ice cream according to the manufacturer's directions. If desired, garnish with lemon and lime slices. Makes 4 quarts (24 servings).

Tonya Deckard feted with bridal shower

A bridal shower was held for Tonya Jeanne Deckard, July 2 bride-elect of Ramon Bubba Long, in the home of Carolyn Fry, 227 Ranger, Saturday morning, June 11.

Guests were greeted by the honoree; her mother, Betty Deckard; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Kaye Long; and his sister, Amy Long.

The hostesses served refreshments consisted of fresh fruit plates, fruit breads, pecan tassies, sausage balls and miniature quiche and fruit punch.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and enhanced by rose colored napkins and crystal appointments. It was centered by a pink and rose silk floral arrangement placed in a basket.

The honoree was presented with a gas grill by the hostesses: Josi Fogo, Sharon Crawford, Jayne Euler, Pam Fogo, Delores Foster, Carolyn Fry, Joan bookout, Carolyn Hiltbrunner, Billee Landrum, Mary Robinson, Maureen Self, Terri Souter and Connie Urbanczyk.

Ways to manage your home

It's hard to believe, but in our overly busy world, the old throwaway mindset is finally on its way out—while efforts to "reduce, reuse and recycle" are taking its place.

According to home economists, using a trash compactor as a recycling partner, can reduce the buildup of glass, metal and plastics from 80 percent to 40 percent. They offer these helpful suggestions for effective use of trash compactors with household wastes:

-Use the compactor to collect and compact non-recyclable trash daily, reducing its volume to one-fourth its original size;

-Set aside space to separate recyclables into reusable bins or color-coded disposable bags designed for compactor use;

-Remove the compactor bag filled with non-recyclable trash at week's end. Before replacing the bag, use the compactor compact each bin or bag of separated recyclable material to reduce volume and make room to add more.

A trash compactor can be compatible and efficient recycling partner.

West wins first-round match in Amarillo golf tournament

Hereford's Tiffi West won a first round match in the first flight of the 60th Women's West Texas Golf Association Tournament, being held this week in Amarillo.

West defeated Edwanna Fikes of Olney, as West was leading by seven holes with six to play. Linda Stevens of Hereford, also playing in the first flight, lost to Ann Steward of Amarillo, 3 and 2. The first round panned the flight down to eight golfers.

Several Hereford golfers are competing in the tournament, though none are in the championship flight.

Rhea Scott, playing in the fifth flight, was the only other Hereford golfer to win in the first round. She beat Kris Lasley of Amarillo 1-up.

Hereford's Mary Shelton and Helen McWhorter both lost by one hole in the second flight: Shelton to Jean Hassell of Childress and McWhorter to Barbara Hardin of Lubbock.

In the third flight, Renna O'Hair of Amarillo needed overtime--20 holes--to beat Hereford's Pat Goforth.

Norene Skerratt of Amarillo defeated Theresa Albracht 1-up in the fifth flight, and in the eighth flight, LaDonna Wanoreck of San Angelo beat Brenda Elliot of Hereford 6 and 5.

Rangers forget 54 years with Stanley Cup victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Hockey Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - The "curse" is over.

In 60 minutes Tuesday night, the New York Rangers ended 53 years of frustration with an emotional 3-2 victory over the Vancouver Canucks in the decisive seventh game of the Stanley Cup finals.

"We're going to celebrate this like we've never celebrated anything in our lives," captain Mark Messier said after the Rangers won their first Cup since 1940. "Once you get a taste of the Cup, you never want to lose it."

Kevin Lowe, a teammate of Messier's on five Stanley Cup teams in Edmonton and now one in New York, thought it was just the start of many more for the Rangers.

But for the moment, one is more than enough.

With their Madison Square Garden victory, the Rangers ended the sorriest streak in NHL history. So much had been made of the yearly failures that the Rangers were said to be cursed and became fodder for jokes.

No more.

"Now the Rangers organization has a Stanley Cup," Lowe said. "Now Brian Leetch has a Stanley Cup, now he's experienced. Now Mike Richter is experienced. Now Alex (Kovalev) is experienced."

"Now these guys can carry the torch. These guys can get the machine going and hopefully turn out more."

This was all supposed to happen for the Cup-starved Ranger fans in Game 5 in New York when they came to the Garden, only to have the Canucks rain on their planned parade. With a 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series, the Rangers were only one game away from the Cup.

But the Canucks, who only had the 14th-best record among playoff teams compared to New York's top mark, had different plans.

They sent the series back to Vancouver for a Game 6, which they also won to set the stage for Tuesday night's deciding game.

In keeping with the Rangers' close calls in this year's playoffs, it was still in doubt until the final buzzer. In previous games, the Rangers had lost three leads in the last minute - two to the New Jersey Devils in the Eastern Conference finals and one to the Canucks in the opener of the championship round.

"I tried to be pretty relaxed up to that point," Rangers coach Mike Keenan said, "but when the guys jumped on the ice when they called icing with 1.6 seconds left, I nearly snapped."

"I thought they might call a penalty (for too many men). We just had too many close calls - teams scoring against us in the last minute - so I felt a little bit antsy and then relieved when it was finally over."

Canucks general manager-coach Pat Quinn felt something else.

"Having a series like this, it tears your guts out to lose," he said. "Naturally, the Rangers didn't make things easy on themselves. They twice had two-goal leads - 2-0 in the first period and 3-1 in the second - and left things in doubt right to the very end."

"It was definitely a big bonus to get the first goal," Rangers defenseman Jay Wells said of Leetch's score from the left circle at 11:02.

It was even bigger when Adam Graves scored from the slot at 14:45 to give the Rangers a 2-0 lead after the first period, the first time they had led by as many as two goals after the first 20 minutes in the finals.

When Trevor Linden scored a breakaway shorthanded goal for the Canucks at 5:21 of the second period, the Rangers didn't lose their composure, as they had in earlier games against Vancouver.

This time, Messier made it 3-1 Rangers with a power-play goal at 13:29 during a scramble in front of the net.

It was far from over, though. Linden scored at 4:50 of the third period to make it 3-2 and the Canucks stormed the net in the final six minutes to make things interesting. On one sequence, Nathan Lafayette hit the post.

"We were within a goal of tying it," Linden said. "I felt absolutely confident we could win."

But not the way Ranger goaltender Mike Richter was playing. He made some great stops at the end to shut the door on the upstart Canucks.

"At that point, the team had played well in front of me," said Richter, who made 28 saves to outduel Vancouver goalie Kirk McLean. "I felt stronger as the game progressed."

In two starts since then he has finished eighth and fourth and has (See U.S.OPEN, Page 6)

Knicks desperate to win at home

By BILL BARNARD

AP Basketball Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Knicks and Houston Rockets each have an agenda of what they must accomplish if they are to get the victory they both covet in Game 4 of the NBA Finals.

Even with a 2-1 lead going into tonight, the Rockets still feel the pressure to win because the next two games are at Madison Square Garden. Two losses there, where the Knicks are 9-2 in the playoffs even after losing Sunday, and Houston takes a 3-2 deficit back home to Texas.

"We still feel like our backs are against the wall because we're going to be in their gym," forward Robert Horry said. "Maybe that's the way to keep the momentum going and we can win the next two games. We can't let them win two on their court and go up 3-2."

New York's situation is more desperate than worrying about consecutive losses. A defeat tonight would mean a 3-1 deficit, which has never been overcome in Finals history.

Knicks coach Pat Riley's goal is Horry's fear.

"We've got two more games at home, and right now our objective is to get to the point where we would play for the title on Sunday (in Game 6)," Riley said. "We want to go back there with a lead."

To do that, the Knicks say they have several ways to improve their chances.

"Every game is a must-win for us from here on in," Knicks forward Charles Smith said. "As a team, we've got to play together, work the ball around, work with each other through the course of the game."

Lucas has four core players to help rebuild Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Talking about his new team, the Philadelphia 76ers, and the core of players he had to build on, John Lucas mentioned only four names - and he got one of them wrong.

Introduced Tuesday as the Sixers' new coach, general manager and director of basketball operations, Lucas talked about Shawn Bradley, Johnny Dawkins, Jeff Malone and Clarence Weatherspoon. But every time he mentioned Weatherspoon, it came out Witherspoon - as in Tim Witherspoon, journeyman boxer.

After Lucas said it at least three times, a 76ers official corrected him. "Did I say that?" he asked.

Lucas, 40, who resigned as coach of the San Antonio Spurs after a falling out with management, replaced Fred Carter at Philadelphia.

Even though it finished 25-57, Lucas said he didn't think the 76ers needed a drastic overhaul.

"There are little things that need to change, not a lot of major changes," said Lucas, who signed a four-year deal for an undisclosed amount.

The Sixers "won't win the NBA championship next year, but we hope to be a better team," he said.

Carter, a longtime 76er assistant, was 32-76 in 1 1/2 seasons as head coach. Lucas said he would talk to Carter about remaining with the team in another capacity.

In his first NBA coaching job, Lucas took over a Spurs team that was 9-11. It immediately won 24 of the next 27 and finished 49-33. This year, the Spurs were 55-27, but were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs by the Utah Jazz.

Lucas said he took the 76ers job because he wanted the chance to make all the decisions.

That's our main 'must.' Do those things and we'll win."

Patrick Ewing, who has missed 32 of 48 shots in the last two games, has his own "must" in the remaining games.

"I have to go hit my shots, stop hesitating too much," Ewing said. "I'm not going to hesitate. I hesitated on a lot of the shots I missed, whereas I didn't hesitate on the shots I hit at the end of the game. That's what I have to do. If I have my shot, just take it."

As a team, Ewing said, "We have to come out with a lot of force, a lot of energy and get the job done. That's it."

Anthony Mason, who has done an outstanding job guarding the taller Hakeem Olajuwon in the last two games, also has a personal game plan for the Rockets in Game 4.

"Everybody we play against, we try to wear them down until the fourth quarter," Mason said. "We feel we are the best-conditioned team in the league. We have to wear them down because they are very quick and very active and we don't need them to be 100 percent active in the fourth quarter."

Mason said it's not just Olajuwon that the Knicks try to wear down.

"Everybody puts so much emphasis on Olajuwon, but when he gets double-teamed, he passes to the open man and they drain shots. So we have to slow down the whole Rockets team. We can't just worry about one man."

Horry said Houston's agenda counters Mason's plans.

"The other four guys out there with Olajuwon need to take the pressure off him," Horry said.

"Somebody has to be aggressive, somebody has to take some of the scoring load off his shoulders so he can relax and have a better ballgame."

Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich and guards Vernon Maxwell and Mario Elie have their own ideas of what the Rockets need to do.

"We've got to execute well and shoot the ball well," Tomjanovich said. "Their defense will stay tough, or get even tougher, but if we move the ball, we can beat a rotating defense."

"The Knicks will play like it's their last game of the season," Maxwell said. "We have to match that intensity, that fire."

"If we continue to keep them off the boards, limit Ewing's shot attempts and keep a hand up on John Starks and Derek Harper, then I think we'll be OK," Elie said.

With the seventh game of the Stanley Cup hockey series occupying Madison Square Garden Tuesday, the Rockets moved to the Downtown Athletic Club for practice. The team met the media in air-conditioned comfort in the room where Heisman Trophy winners are announced.

It was a relaxing setting for Tomjanovich to talk about relaxing too much.

"To be a champion, you have to overcome human nature," Tomjanovich said. "Human nature says that when something happens good, you tend to relax."

"As coach, I have to say the obvious things to avoid complacency. I tell them to stay relaxed and focused when we're ahead. But saying the obvious thing hasn't worked, not for us or the Knicks. That's what I mean when I say you have to overcome human nature to be a champion."

Relaxing when they are ahead also has been a problem for New York in the playoffs. The Knicks played their best games after falling behind Indiana 3-2 in the Eastern Conference finals.

"Momentum can backfire on a team in this situation because you get full of yourself," Riley said. "You get proud of what you've done."

Harper, who had his best game of the playoffs in Sunday's loss with 21 points, seven assists and four steals, said that happened to the Knicks after they won at Houston in Game 2.

"We've had our ups and downs, like any basketball team," Harper said. "The hardest thing is to find some consistency. It's difficult to stay on an even keel."

Couples returns for Open; Mickelson could challenge

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) - Fred Couples leads the list of golf's walking wounded who are returning to Oakmont for the 94th U.S. Open.

He and Rocco Mediate, however, look for little more than respectable performances in the American national championship that begins Thursday.

Phil Mickelson, on the other hand, has some legitimate reasons to aim for a loftier goal.

"Most Open courses, you have the rough and the narrow fairways," Couples said. "But here, Oakmont begins when you get to the greens."

And it is there, on the firm, extremely fast, undulating greens that Mickelson's smooth, enviable putting stroke excels.

"Phil could have a real good tournament. He could play as good as anybody here," Couples said Tuesday after playing a practice round with the 24-year-old left-hander.

Mickelson, who won the first tournament of the year, returned to action three weeks ago after spending three months on the injured list after suffering a broken leg in a skiing accident.

Griffey's 13th inning shot downs Rangers

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Ken Griffey Jr. hushed up his hecklers in a hurry.

Griffey heard plenty from the Texas fans when he was in the on-deck circle in the 13th inning with the score tied Tuesday night.

"One guy was on me about how much money I made. I told him if he had a problem with money, he should get a better job," he said. "Another guy had started harrasing me in center field and moved all the way to behind the dugout by that time."

Griffey silenced his critics with his second home run of the game, a 429-foot shot into the upper deck in right field with two outs in the 13th that gave the Seattle Mariners a 7-6 win over the Rangers.

Griffey leads the majors with 28 home runs. He went 4-for-7 a day after he hit a grand slam and drove in a career-high six runs at Texas. At his current pace, Griffey would connect for 73 home runs.

"I've got to hit 30, then 40, then 50 before I start thinking about beating any records," he said. "It'll be a long season for me to get from here to there."

Griffey led off the seventh inning with a 404-foot drive to right for a 6-4 lead. Texas tied it with two runs in the ninth, but Griffey put the Mariners ahead with his homer in the 13th off Dan Smith (1-2).

Goose Gosage (2-0) pitched two innings. He finished the game by getting Junior Ortiz on a grounder with the bases loaded.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3
Lee Smith blew a save chance for only the third time in 27 opportunities when New York rallied for two runs in the ninth inning at Camden Yards.

Smith relieved with a 3-2 lead, but pinch-hitter Daryl Boston led off with a single and Pat Kelly sacrificed. Luis Polonia chopped a single off the plate that Smith threw wildly for an error, enabling Boston to score. Wade

Boggs followed with a go-ahead single.

Sterling Hitchcock (1-1) was the winner and Steve Howe got two outs, stranding runners at first and third, for his fifth save. Mike Devereaux homered and drove in two runs for Baltimore.

Indians 7, Blue Jays 5
Cleveland won its 13th straight game at Jacobs Field when Albert Belle and Eddie Murray homered on consecutive pitches to start the eighth inning.

Belle and Murray each drove in three runs against Juan Guzman (6-6). Devon White homered and drove in three runs for Toronto. Jose Mesa (6-3) was the winner and Paul Shuey got his fourth save.

Twins 5, Red Sox 4
Minnesota took advantage of three errors.

An error by first baseman Mo Vaughn set a sacrifice fly by Dave Winfield that put the Twins ahead 5-4. The Red Sox lost their eighth consecutive game at Fenway Park.

Dave Stevens (2-1) pitched 3 2-3 scoreless innings and Rick Aguilera worked the ninth for his 14th save. Gar Finnvid (0-4) remained winless in the majors.

throwing error and came home with two outs on shortstop Greg Gagne's error.

Athletics 5, White Sox 2
Steve Ontiveros shut out Chicago on one hit for seven innings and Dennis Eckersley escaped a late jam as Oakland won on the road.

Ontiveros (2-2) gave up a leadoff single in the second inning, then retired the next 18 hitters.

The White Sox trailed 5-1 going into the ninth. Warren Newson hit a home run and Chicago went on to load the bases with two outs before Dennis Eckersley retired pinch-hitter Frank Thomas on a fly ball for his seventh save.

Rickey Henderson had three hits, scored two runs and drove in one for the Athletics. Scott Sanderson (4-2) lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

46-year-old Hough shuts out Cards

By The Associated Press

The oldest player in the major leagues was the biggest star on a night when several National League pitchers had great nights.

Kent Mercker was practically unhittable, Pedro Astacio pitched another complete game and Dwight Gooden struck out 10 Tuesday.

Not bad for a bunch of kids.

But Charlie Hough looked better than all of them despite pitching in sauna-like conditions at St. Louis.

The 46-year-old knuckleballer threw 126 pitches in 93-degree heat and oppressive humidity and walked away with a five-hitter and a season-high nine strikeouts in the Florida Marlins' 7-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was his first complete game in 64 career starts in the National League.

"I think they should give him a five-year contract extension," Cardinals manager Joe Torre said. "The way he pitched, you didn't know how old he was tonight."

"It's something else, 126 pitches in this type of humidity," Marlins manager Rene Lachemann said. "He's two years younger than I am and I had a tough time sitting on the bench, let alone going out there and pitching."

Hough (5-4) struck out the side in the first inning, struck out two more in the fifth and didn't allow a runner past second base.

"The heat doesn't bother me," he said. "The heat is fine. The only thing that bothers me is my legs getting sore, but I wasn't tired at all."

Kurt Abbott hit a grand slam for the Marlins, who broke open the game with a five-run seventh. Vicente Palacios (1-4) took the loss.

Padres 7, Cubs 6, 11 innings
At San Diego, Tuffy Rhodes hit a two-run double in the 11th as Chicago, after blowing a five-run lead, beat San Diego.

Rey Sanchez, who replaced Ryne Sandberg at second base, went 4-for-5. Randy Myers (1-3) blew a save opportunity by allowing the tying run in the ninth but still picked up the win for the Cubs.

Astros 7, Giants 4
At San Francisco, Jeff Bagwell drove in three runs with two doubles and a homer, increasing his league-leading RBI total to 62.

Brian Williams (4-2) went 5 2-3 innings for his fourth consecutive victory. Salomon Torres (2-5) took the loss.

Braves 3, Rockies 1
At Atlanta, Mercker (5-1) struck out nine and allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Ryan Klesko hit a solo homer and Bill Pecota, a late addition to the starting lineup, drove in another run in the sixth with an RBI single against Kevin Ritz (1-3).

Dodgers 5, Reds 2
At Los Angeles, Astacio scattered nine hits in his third complete game of the season and rookie Gary Ingram homered and had two RBIs.

Astacio (4-5) allowed fewer than three earned runs for the seventh time in eight outings. Jose Rijo (5-4) allowed 10 hits over six innings.

Phillies 3, Mets 2
At New York, John Kruk broke up Gooden's shutout bid with a solo homer in the seventh, and Doug Jones pitched out of a bases-loaded, one-out situation in the eighth for his NL-leading 17th save.

Bobby Munoz (2-2) got the victory, allowing four hits in six innings, and Gooden (2-3) took the loss despite striking out 10 for the first time in two seasons.

Expos 12, Pirates 7
At Montreal, Pedro Martinez (6-3) pitched five solid innings and Larry Walker hit a two-run triple before both were ejected during a fifth-inning brawl.

Marquis Grissom was 3-for-3 with two walks and four runs and Sean Berry had three RBIs as the Expos scored a season-high 12 runs. Zane Smith (6-6) was the losing pitcher.

Tigers 10, Brewers 8, 13 innings
Travis Fryman hit a three-run double in the 13th inning that sent Detroit over host Milwaukee.

The Tigers loaded the bases off Graeme Lloyd (1-3), Fryman doubled off Doug Henry and Junior Felix hit an RBI single.

Felix homered in the first inning. Greg Gohr (1-0) was the winner. Brian Harper had four hits for the Brewers, including a home run.

Angels 1, Royals 0
Chuck Finley pitched his 10th career shutout.

Finley (5-5) gave up seven hits, struck out eight and walked one. His second shutout of the season made him 5-2 lifetime in Kansas City.

Mark Gubicza (4-6) struck out a season-high eight and allowed eight hits in 7 2-3 innings. The Angels scored in the sixth when Spike Owen walked, stole second, continued to third on catcher Mike Macfarlane's

Young soccer star may start for US

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) - It looks like the kid is going to start the World Cup opener for the United States.

Claudio Reyna, the youngest player on the U.S. World Cup team, appears likely to start Saturday in the Americans' tournament opener against Switzerland.

The 20-year-old midfielder, called the future of U.S. soccer by some, finds himself thrust into the present just five months after his international debut.

"Just because I'm younger, people might think there's more pressure," he said Tuesday. "But I'm not expected to carry the team like other players are expected to do."

Reyna, the college player of the year in 1992 and 1993, hasn't participated in workouts since last Wednesday night, when he pulled his right hamstring. But he said Tuesday he was 85-90 percent and will be ready by the weekend.

"It's no problem," he said. "Mentally, I'm not even thinking about whether I'm ready or not."

U.S. coach Bora Milutinovic wouldn't say whether Reyna will start. But Milutinovic, who almost never discusses players by name with reporters, took the rare step Tuesday of talking about Reyna and other team officials said they believed Reyna would be in the lineup.

"Age is not so important," Milutinovic said. "It is important to believe yourself ready to play. ... Many other players like to be player like Reyna. Don't forget, he has many games with the Olympic team, which isn't this level but (is) a high level. ... But I don't tell you he is going to play."

Reyna, the youngest member of the 1992 U.S. Olympic team, was a part of the Virginia teams that won the NCAA title in 1991, 1992 and 1993. He scored 21 goals in three seasons.

Reyna gets a day off today when the U.S. team travels from El Toro, Calif., to Pontiac, Mich. The Americans will work out Thursday and Friday before playing the Swiss in the Pontiac Silverdome. Reyna said he intends to resume workouts Thursday.

While he said he doesn't feel pressure, Reyna said there is nervous excitement to his first World Cup. That's a change from NCAA title games and the Olympics.

"It's totally different," he said. "It's the biggest tournament in the world for anyone to play in. Everybody's going to feel a little pressure - the excitement of being in it, everyone watching around the world."

It appears Reyna will be starting on the left side of a midfield that will also include John Harkes, Thomas Dooley in the center and Tab Ramos on the right. The defense looks like it will have Paul Caligiuri at left back, Marcelo Balboa and Alexi Lalas at central defender and Cle Kooiman at back. Ernie Stewart and Eric Wynalda apparently will be up front. Tony Meola, the team captain, will be in goal.

Cowboys may wear new uniform

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Owner Jerry Jones is seeking permission from the NFL to unveil a spiffy, new "special occasion" uniform for the Dallas Cowboys next fall.

Jones met last week in New York with National Football League officials and is continuing to seek approval for a uniform the Cowboys would wear on special occasions. The Dallas Morning News reported in today's editions.

One plan calls for the Cowboys to wear the uniforms on Thanksgiving Day, not coincidentally at the start of the Christmas shopping season. Another possibility is that the uniforms would be unveiled in the playoffs if the team qualifies.

"There is a rule in the NFL that says to make a uniform change, you have to give a year's notice. The Cowboys felt we had given notice last fall. The NFL did not feel we had given proper notice," Jones said.

"The next issue is: Is there a policy that would allow us to do it at some point later in the season as we go into the playoffs or something like that? We may consider that, whether to introduce this third combination uniform late in the year."

The new white jersey would feature angled stars on the shoulders with points sticking down into the front and back of the jersey.

Numbers would be on the sleeves instead of the shoulders. Instead of the current royal blue, the numbers, stars and trim would be navy blue. It's possible the pants also would feature stars on each thigh.

The Cowboys owner said he does not wish to provide an advance look at the jersey without knowing if the league will give its approval.

Jones actually wanted to showcase the uniforms in last season's Super Bowl and had them flown to Atlanta, but then-head coach Jimmy Johnson talked him out of it, the newspaper said.

Johnson said he met with Jones in the owner's hotel suite on the Tuesday or Wednesday before the Super Bowl. Johnson said he spoke to him about the upside (selling lots of jerseys) and the downside (losing to Buffalo because players, particularly linemen, were uncomfortable with the fit of their jerseys).

"I told him if I was 100 percent sure we were going to win, I didn't care if he put us in chartreuse jerseys," Johnson said. "But I wasn't that sure."

These uniforms would be different from the 1960 "throwback" jerseys the team will wear Sept. 19 as part of the league's 75th anniversary celebration.

Unveiling them on Thanksgiving actually would be in keeping with a recent Cowboys' tradition. Each of the last two holiday games, Johnson modeled new Apex jackets that proved extremely popular with Christmas shoppers.

T-L League player always finds place to play

By R. COCHRAN-ESCAMILLA
Corpus Christi Caller-Times
ROBSTOWN, Texas - When the professional draft passed Eric Gonzalez by in 1993, the hurt sent him into hiding for three days. The story of his baseball career seemed to be playing out one last time: no one wants a 5-foot-4 baseman.

No one until the Corpus Christi Barracudas of the untried Texas-Louisiana League, a Dallas-based independent minor league. The former Robstown High School standout was among the first players the Barracudas signed.

Gonzalez wasn't always so popular, though.

Coming out of Robstown in 1988, Gonzalez had trouble finding a college team that would take him. Despite the Cotton Pickers' two straight trips to the state tournament, the school hadn't yet established the statewide reputation it enjoys now.

No one was willing to look at a tiny infielder, even if he could switch hit with formidable power.

"I always had hopes of going to the Southwest Conference," Gonzalez said.

"At the time, Robstown wasn't really that well known for baseball and not too many players went on to college. I was probably one of the first to go to Coach (Steve Castro) and say, 'I want to play college ball.' There were players ahead of me good enough to go but they didn't."

Gonzalez, the sixth of eight children, also was the first in his family to attend college. Without a role model or an example from older Robstown players, Gonzalez had to make his own way. He persisted at the urging of his brother, May.

"I had an older brother who really pushed us to go to college," Gonzalez said. "He really cared. He threw the first pitch to me when I was 6 years old. He'd throw ground balls until 8 o'clock - the neighbors would hear him yelling at me. He's thrown batting practice to me every summer and every weekend - to me and my younger brothers."

"I owe my life to him. He was the one who stayed behind me."

Texas Southmost College in Brownsville signed him out of Robstown, and Gonzalez's performance there over two seasons caught the eye of Texas A&M coach Mark Johnson. Finally, Gonzalez was headed to Division I.

"We were aware of Eric in high school - Coach Castro runs an outstanding program there - but we didn't have a need for a second baseman then," Johnson said. "We kept an eye on him (at Southmost) and we tried to make our move - and the rest is history."

Gonzalez started two years for the Aggies, earning all-Southwest Conference honors in 1992 and 1993. As a junior he hit .287, and in '93 that jumped to .313 with eight home runs and 49 runs batted in.

Not bad for a little guy, but no surprise to Johnson.

"Size is part of the game of baseball, but that isn't the only thing," he said. "It's easier to project (the probable performance) on a big strong guy, but when you start trying to project heart, you can't."

Professionals haven't learned that talent either. Several major league teams were interested in Gonzalez after he finished his college career, but none drafted him.

"All the scouts told me I could play," Gonzalez said. "I think when it comes right down to it, the big guys up there (in the front office) see my size on paper and that turns some people off. That's the only number they see."

Following that draft, the heart that allows Gonzalez to play like a 6-footer was all but broken.

"I do everything for May and my dad," Gonzalez said. "When I didn't get drafted, I felt bad, but I felt bad for them. I felt like I let them down. I couldn't face them for three days."

It was Gonzalez's family that urged him not to give up his dream of a professional career. So, he spent the last nine months continuing work toward a degree in sports management, working out and hustling up tryouts with scouts.

He heard about a new venture, the Texas-Louisiana League, and asked Johnson for help. Johnson, in turn, called Jack Lazorko, a former player of his at Mississippi State and the league's director of baseball operations.

After Johnson also spoke with Barracudas manager Mark Wasinger, Gonzalez was all but on his way home to live his dream and play professional baseball.

"It wasn't me," Johnson points out. "Eric put up the good numbers. His numbers made it happen."

Wasinger said he initially was interested in Gonzalez because he was from Robstown. Johnson had said Gonzalez was capable and Wasinger went on that recommendation.

Now, Wasinger believes he has a starter.

"He knows how to play the game,"

Wasinger said. "He's been impressive on the basepaths. He swings the bat well on both sides, and he makes all the plays defensively. You can't ask for more."

Castro, Gonzalez's former high school coach knows that. He believes this opportunity is long overdue.

"Everybody is excited about it," Castro said. "We were kind of sad there for a while when he didn't get drafted. It's been uphill for Eric."

"He just wanted a chance. That's all he was asking for. He's been given the opportunity and now it's up to him."

Gonzalez is ready.

U.S. OPEN

given every indication he's at or near peak form.

"He's playing well and you know how he puts," Couples said. "He's got that good touch around the greens, and that's going to be awful important this week."

Couples and Mediate each returned to competition last week after back ailments kept them on the sidelines for almost four months.

Mediate, still in pain, was unsure how long he would be able to compete.

Couples, a former Masters champion and Player of the Year, said he had no pain but just laughed when asked about his realistic expectations.

"It's the U.S. Open and you want to play your best," he said. "But I haven't played much, or practiced much, in a long time."

"And that's my problem. I can play without any trouble. But going out and hitting balls for two hours, that's not the thing I ought to do."

But that's what he needs to do, Couples said.

"I hit the ball tee to green pretty good" in his first comeback start last week, he said. "I chipped and putted OK sometimes, not OK sometimes," he said.

"That's what I need to do, go chip and putt. But bending over is not a good thing right now."

"I can play without trouble," he said. "But game-wise, I need a lot of work. I've got a long way to go. I could get by with a few bad shots last week - but you're not going to be able to do that at Oakmont."

How you can sunbathe sensibly

It is always important to remember sun safety.

When you're outdoors this summer—be it at the pool, beach or playing tennis—experts advise to follow these guidelines for a healthy summer:

For most people with light skin, first exposure to the sun early in the season should not exceed 15 or 20 minutes. You can increase exposure time by about one-third each day.

It's important to avoid prolonged sun exposure between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. when the sun's burning rays are most intense. If you are outdoors during these hours, take extra precaution.

Always apply sunscreen one-half hour before you plan to go out in the sun.

Today, sunscreens allow you to relax and enjoy the sun.

COMMERCE, Calif. (AP) - The $190 canteen, the $90 toaster and the $440 cosmetics case were anything but castoffs to Barbra Streisand's followers.

"There were things that were affordable for the average fan," Howard Zellman, a spokesman for A.N. Abell Auction Co., said after Sunday's auction of the singer's trinkets. "We had a very excited fan who purchased a waffle iron for $35 dollars."

Other items snapped up included a 17-foot floral sectional sofa, which sold for $1,100, a green-dyed mink vest, which went for $495, and a hot fudge maker that brought in $99.

Streisand put the items up for auction after clearing them out of the houses she donated to the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy earlier this year.

Zellman said he did not know where the proceeds from the auction will go.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - Seems like summertime with the cruising easy for George and Barbara Bush.

The former first couple arrived in Greece on Sunday for a cruise through the Aegean Sea with billionaire John Latsis.

The Bushes and their entourage of about 40 people arrived in Athens aboard Latsis' private jet, then headed off to his yacht, the Alexandros.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would appreciate whatever information you could give me on lymphoma. I am aware it's a low-grade cancer, but I have never been able to find anything about what causes it, and very little on symptoms. The rest is all too technical. — Mrs. E.T.

ANSWER: Lymphoma is cancer of lymph nodes, those aggregations of infection-fighting cells.

Some people call lymph nodes "glands." Please don't. They're not glands. They are nodes.

They are anti-infection outposts throughout the body. Thus, a transient throat infection would cause soreness and enlargement of lymph nodes there.

It's hard to generalize about lymph-node cancers. They differ in type and treatment as well as outlook. Much depends on their location and how many nodes are involved.

You can describe some lymphomas as low-grade cancer, the kind that may run a slow course and be well-controlled for long periods, and even cured.

The common sign of lymphoma is a painless, persistent node enlargement. Again, the number of nodes involved and their location dictate symptoms. For example, lymphoma in the chest might cause persistent coughing.

We are not sure about lymphoma cause. Some researchers have implicated viruses, but we know little more, really, about lymphoma causes than we do about most other kinds of cancer. Experts continue to look for answers.

I'd need more information in order to comment on your specific lymphoma.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Regarding R.T.'s letter about her genital pain and the supposed herpes diagnosis, I hope she takes your advice to check that diagnosis. I developed the same symptoms. I knew it could not be herpes because I had been married to the same faithful man for many years. I was told it was "maybe herpes" and I cried buckets for months. I moved to a new city and saw a new doctor. He knew instantly what was wrong — an inflamed and plugged Bartholin's gland. I hope R.T. finds out the same truth I did. — E.D.

ANSWER: Thanks.

Bartholin's glands are vaginal structures that serve lubricatory functions. They can become infected and cause local discomfort. When that happens, they can be treated.

I too hope R.T. follows up. Her letter did not describe a herpes infection.

For the herpes story, see my booklet on the subject. It is available by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 17, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: About six years ago, during a visit to North Africa, I got hepatitis A from the water supply. Am I now a carrier of the disease? Am I able to infect someone else now? — R.L.M.

ANSWER: People do not become carriers of hepatitis A. Once it's over, it's over for good.

You cannot infect anyone with it now. You might at first, when the body is shedding the viruses. Now, you can put the whole episode out of your mind.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Mrs. M.T.'s recent letter described me. She said she had just left a hospital and had a bad headache. I said, "That's me." Her pain was so great she couldn't move. I said, "That's me." She said she started to vomit. I said, "That's me." She said that while in the hospital, she had scans and spinal taps. I said, "That's me." She said she eventually recovered, but is still shaken by the event, I said, "My God, that's me." I was in the hospital for a myelogram and got bacterial meningitis from the needle, but my symptoms were exactly the same, down to the stiff neck and fever. — Mrs. M.T.

ANSWER: Any severe headache with high fever and stiff neck calls for professional attention. Those are signs of meningitis, and you don't have to be stuck with a needle to get that.

Glad you recovered so nicely.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: How can you really tell if a teen-ager today is overweight or not? Are the old height-weight tables sufficient? We are having a controversy. What are the present food-group requirements? I have two boys. My husband says they should not eat so much starches, such as noodles, potatoes and bread. I tell him there are new guidelines out now, and less protein is advised. — Mrs. J.S.

ANSWER: Your husband reflects old thinking that pictured starches as inherently evil and the cause of obesity. Not so. Starches are healthful foods. They are better known as complex carbohydrates, which today's nutritionists favor.

Proteins in moderation are fine too. Fats and sweets are the real villains.

For specifics, review the new version of the old food pyramid model of ideal nutrition:

• The base consists of breads, cereals, pasta and grains such as rice. You want to consume six to 11 servings of those daily.

• The next pyramid level is vegetables and fruits. You want about four servings of veggies and three of fruit.

• Next come the meat and dairy-product groups. You want two or three servings from the meat group, including poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts. And you want two or three servings of dairy products, which include milk, yogurt and cheese.

• Topping off the pyramid are fats, oils and sweets, all of which you should use only sparingly, for cooking, flavor enhancers or dessert.

That diet would keep anyone, young or old, within safe weight-for-height ranges. For a 15-year-old boy, that can range between 100 pounds for a 5-foot-11 boy to 176 pounds for a 6-foot boy.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 30-year-old son has a depressing problem. What are the reasons one might see bright red blood upon bowel movements? My son's doctor says it's probably hemorrhoids, the kind he cannot see. My son feels insecure with this diagnosis. So what else could it be? — S.H.

ANSWER: Indeed, hemorrhoids can cause bright red rectal blood. And yes, there are internal hemorrhoids that you can't see.

Other causes of rectal bleeding that pop into mind are small rectal lining tears and fistulas, small tunnels in tissue. Ulcerative colitis causes rectal blood, and diverticulosis pockets can also.

So can cancer! You son's doctor should be able to satisfy himself as to the source of such a dramatic sign. If a simple observation fails, then he should turn to various scope views or X-rays of the rectum, colon and upward.

Your story unnerves me. I suspect a lot is being lost in the three-way translation — between your son, you and me.

Alzheimer's caregivers offered help in seminar

Families and individuals who are caregivers to persons suffering from Alzheimer's disease, or related disorders, will have an opportunity to improve their understanding and skills in dealing with such patients at a seminar Saturday.

Conducting the seminar at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center will be a Hereford physician, Dr. Howard Haysom, and Linda San Miguel, a consultant.

The seminar will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 11:30 a.m. Advance registration is not required. Sponsors will offer care for patients while their caregivers attend the seminar.

Among topics to be discussed are communicating with the Alzheimer patient, behavior management, treatments now in use and newest medications.

Alzheimer's disease is a progressive degenerative disease that attacks the brain and results in impaired memory, thinking and behavior.

The Alzheimer's and Related Diseases Association estimated four million American adults are victims.

Alzheimer's is recognized as the most common cause of dementia, which is described as a group of symptoms that characterize certain diseases and conditions.

There are no specific tests, or diagnosis, for Alzheimer's disease. Only microscopic examinations of the brain reveal the characteristics for the disease.

Sponsors of the seminar Saturday encourage all interested persons, as well as those who are experiencing the disease in their families, to attend the program.

Cooperating in the seminar are Dr. Haysom, Hereford Senior Citizens Association, Hereford Care Center, Crown of Texas Hospice and Parke Davis Pharmaceuticals.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chelsea Clinton smiled nonstop as she played the prophet Samuel in a dramatization of a Bible story.

Dressed in shorts, T-shirt and a headdress, Chelsea pretended to pour oil on a fellow junior high school student as they enacted the Old Testament ceremony in which Samuel anointed David king of Israel.

The president and Mrs. Clinton attended the service Sunday at Foundry United Methodist Church.

The audience applauded, laughing occasionally at the actors' modern language.

- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

What they're saying about "The Roads of Texas"

"When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS... you'll wonder how you ever travelled the state without it!"
Texas Highways Magazine
October, 1988

"For details of Texas terrain, oil company maps and the State's Official Highway Map can't match THE ROADS OF TEXAS."

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($8.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	15	3/10
2 days per word	28	6/10
3 days per word	37	7/10
4 days per word	46	8/10
5 days per word	55	11/10

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word form with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are 4.95 per column inch; 3.05 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS
 Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

 ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one insertion correction. In case of errors by the publishers an additional insertion will be published.

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1993. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2636, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) - Jerry Lewis, the Nutty Professor of the movies, played a variety of roles during his visit to address graduating seniors at South Central Technical College.

In an afternoon appearance before commencement ceremonies Friday night, Lewis got laughs by sticking a glass all the way into his mouth, playfully hiding behind a giant flower arrangement and, by request, letting loose with his trademark screech "Hey LAYYY-dee!"

"My problem has always been, who do I present? The father, the clown, the artist?" Lewis said. "I never know what's going to happen until I get to the podium. I'm guided by an instinct."

Lewis was invited to speak, receive an honorary degree and present the college's first Jerry Lewis Humanitarian Awards to faculty by South Central president Ken Mills, a longtime friend.

The 68-year-old Lewis recently finished a new movie "Funny Bones" and plans in February to start shooting a sequel to "The Nutty Professor," the 1963 comedy classic that Lewis calls his favorite role.

Disclosures show income, travels

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Like many of his Senate colleagues, Texas Republican Phil Gramm has reduced the number of trips he has taken on special interests' and other sponsors' tab.

Financial disclosure records made public Tuesday show that Gramm was reimbursed for five trips or hotel stays during 1993 - down from 27 a year earlier. Unlike 1992 when he journeyed to Israel, Gramm remained stateside last year.

Two trips were on behalf of GOP organizations in Pennsylvania and Louisiana. The other destinations were Houston and a two-day trip to Los Angeles, where his wife Wendy joined him.

Press secretary Larry Neal attributed the decline in reimbursable trips to the fact that 1993 wasn't an election year. In 1992, 18 of Gramm's 27 trips were paid for by Texas Republican candidates or party organizations.

"It will be up at a much higher level this year, an election year, as he travels on behalf of Republican candidates," Neal said.

The financial disclosure forms, which all senators must complete annually, only disclose travel paid by lobbyists and other interested parties, not by campaign organizations.

As chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, which raises and funnels money to GOP candidates, Gramm frequently crisscrosses the country at committee expense.

The individual campaign committees of the possible 1996 presidential candidate also pick up the cost of the frequent trips he makes around the nation and his travels back to Texas.

The disclosure forms offer only a limited glance at a lawmaker's finances, because assets are listed in broad ranges rather than specific dollar amounts.

The largest holdings held by Gramm and his wife are seven rental properties in College Station, five of which they own with a College Station couple. The Gramms' stake in the seven properties is valued at up to $450,000. Gramm also has annuities valued at up to $200,000 and other holdings.

Lawmakers aren't required to detail the value of the homes they live in, their automobiles, furniture, art, spouse's salary, Social Security or federal pension benefits.

Sketchy as they may be, the forms nonetheless offer interesting facts about Congress' 535 members.

Gramm's form, for example, shows that the senator is a good marksman. Last year, he received an $850 Sphinx 380 pistol for placing second in the Charlton Heston Celebrity Shoot. A year before that, Gramm won a $1,000 Ruger shotgun participating in the well-known conservative actor's annual event.

Texas' other senator, Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, released her financial disclosure form and 1992 and 1993 federal income tax returns last month. Her 1993 return showed she and her husband, Dallas bond attorney Ray Hutchison, paid $211,942 in taxes on almost $644,000 in income last year. Her husband reported $454,997 in wages from his law firm, Hutchison, Boyle & Brooks.

After Mrs. Hutchison made her records public, Republicans called on her Democratic opponent, Dallas financier Richard Fisher, to do the same. After initially refusing, Fisher made public his 1992 and 1993 tax returns last week. They show that he and his wife made $3 million over the past two years and paid $1 million in taxes.

Michigan authorities seek plane crash site

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A Michigan State Police official says that if the bodies of two prominent Lubbock men are still aboard an airplane that is believed to be at the bottom of Lake Michigan after 28 years, they will be brought to the surface.

"We'll bring them up and make sure they are who people say they are," state police Sgt. Gary Shaffer told the Lubbock Avalanche Journal Tuesday.

Michigan law requires bodies of drowning victims to be recovered, he said.

But police must first find the plane. The owners of a salvage firm are refusing to reveal the craft's coordinates until they're paid for the information.

Officials say it is believed that the bodies of businessmen Jack L. Goodman and Custer C. Corbell still may be aboard a twin-engine Piper Aztec found three weeks ago in 210 feet of water about 25 miles off the Michigan shore.

The National Transportation Safety Board used a registration number to trace the plane to one that disappeared Aug. 27, 1966, after leaving Lubbock bound for Detroit. The plane was owned and piloted by Goodman.

The body of a third passenger, former Lubbock Police Chief Harold F. McInroe, washed ashore about a week after the plane was reported missing, fueling speculation that the craft went down over Lake Michigan. Goodman and Corbell were presumed dead, although their bodies never were found.

"We'd like to avoid it (having the bodies brought up), but the way the Michigan law is, we don't have a lot of alternatives on that situation," said Corbell's son, Larry.

Members of the victim's families have said they see no reason to disturb the aircraft from its resting place.

But Shaffer said divers will be sent to the crash site within three weeks.

Legal action probably will be taken against A&T Salvage Co. to force the company to supply police with the coordinates of the downed plane, he said. Shaffer declined to reveal what action is being considered.

Davidian jury forewoman tells judge sentences are too harsh

AUSTIN (AP) - The jury forewoman in the murder conspiracy case against 11 Branch Davidians has told the federal judge who will sentence the defendants that the punishment prosecutors are seeking is too harsh.

The Associated Press learned Tuesday of a letter written to U.S. District Judge Walter Smith Jr. from Sara Vain, who headed jury deliberations in the San Antonio trial of David Koresh's followers earlier this year.

Smith will be sentencing eight of the Branch Davidians in San Antonio Thursday and Friday. Three defendants were acquitted of all charges.

Ms. Vain said in the letter she was astonished that seven of the defendants are facing 30 years in prison for conviction on a weapons charge that initially was thrown out by Smith.

Defendant Ruth Riddle would have been acquitted of all charges and freed if Smith hadn't reinstated convictions against the seven for carrying a firearm during the commission of a crime. Ms. Riddle now faces 30 years in prison.

"It's unfathomable that she (Ms. Riddle) is facing five years, much less 30 years in prison," Ms. Vain wrote. "If we had interpreted the word 'carrying' literally, she would be totally free since there was no proof beyond reasonable doubt that she even walked to the window of her room while in possession of a firearm."

Ms. Vain said the defendants should be given light sentences or be acquitted of the weapons charge altogether because the jury reached a conviction by mistake.

"You have got prosecutors who know it was a mistake and are now trying to enforce the verdict and multiply the punishment to 30 years," Ms. Riddle's attorney, Joe Turner said Tuesday. "That's not their job. Their job is to see that justice is done, and this is just vindictiveness."

Prosecutor John Phinizy said it's not the jury's job to be concerned with sentencing.

"The punishment is of no concern to the jury," Phinizy said. "Punishment is to be considered solely by the court, and the jury is not to consider it in any way. I haven't seen the letter. She (Ms. Vain) is entitled to her opinion. We have to rely on their verdict. We can't rely on what they say months after the fact."

Smith said originally that he would throw out the convictions of Renos Avraam, Brad Branch, Jaime Castillo, Livingston Fagan, Kevin Whitecliff, Graeme Craddock and Ms. Riddle for carrying a firearm during the commission of a crime.

The judge said the convictions were invalid because the jury had acquitted the Davidians of the murder conspiracy charge.

But Smith reversed himself after prosecutors provided case law showing that inconsistent verdicts are legally valid.

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
