Clinton told reporters he and the pope made "some progress" on finding common ground. But a Vatican official said that differences could only be narrowed if Clinton how to reach "responsible population moves closer to the pope's firm opposition to abortion.

On the first leg of a trip celebrating the 50th anniversary of D-Day, Clinton began his day jogging through the streets of Rome and planned his first meeting with Italy's new prime minister, Silvio Berlusconi.

Berlusconi is a controversial figure because the coalition that brought him to power includes a party with neo-fascist roots.

Clinton and his wife Hillary Rodham Clinton also toured the Sistine chapel. Gazing up at the newly restored frescoes, Clinton said: "It's unbelievable."

> Speaking with reporters, the president said that despite their differences on abortion, he agreed with the pontiff that abortion should not be viewed "as a means of birth control.

He said he and the pope discussed growth and still reaffirm our common commitment to the family.'

Clinton suggested that differences between himself and the pope on the availability of contraception might be unbridgeable.

'But I think it important that the whole thrust of the Cairo conference be in the context of supporting sustainable development and strong families," he said.

Clinton said he thought they had made "some progress" on finding common ground. But Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro later said: "If he says there was a narrowing of differences, it's clear it can be only in one sense," that the Clinton said he and the pope United States would come closer to Clinton praised the "constancy and commitment" of the Roman Catholic church. "The Catholic church has brought together faith and action, word and deed," he said. Clinton also said he thanked the pope for the Vatican's move earlier this year establishing diplomatic ties with Israel.

Aides said today's talks also touched on Russia, Korea, nuclear nonproliferation and the role of Islamic states in the world.

Vatican officials indicated beforehand that the pontiff wanted to bring up his concern about the U.S. president's efforts to expand abortion rights, particularly administration efforts to liberalize abortion language in a U.N. plan aimed at slowing global population growth.

Clinton viewed the meeting as "awe inspiring," White House Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers reported. White House senior adviser David

Gergen cited "areas of disagreement as well as areas of agreement" between the pope and the president. After his meeting with the pope, Clinton met with U.S. seminarians (See CLINTON, Page 2)

The planning committee putting the annual celebration together -- Wes Klett, Diane Beavers and Janie Nino -- are seeking financial donations to help offset expenses of the celebration and are arranging entertainment for the event.

"The whole goal is to try to bring the community out of their back yards into a community environment," Klett said.

Residents are invited to the park any time during the day of July 4. People are encouraged to bring picnic lunches, baseballs, footballs, Frisbees, volleyball sets and other games to play on the grounds.

It is illegal to possess or consume alcoholic beverages at the park and it is against city ordinance to possess fireworks at the park.

Local non-profit organizations will set up around the park about 4 p.m. to sell a variety of food items or offer games to raise money for their activities.

Any non-profit group interested in having a booth at the park may call Mrs. Nino at 364-0231 to reserve a spot

The 30-minute fireworks display will begin around 10 p.m.

Klett said this year's show will be done by Western Pyrotechnics again.

The length of the show depends on the number of technicians working, and Klett said the company will train one or two local people to assist with setting off the fireworks.

A new feature of this year's show will be a flaming American flag to serve as the finale for the fireworks.

Criminal mischief annual problem for Hereford police

By GARRY WESNER

Managing Editor It may only take a rock, a BB gun, a stick or bat -- or even a car or pair of hands -- to commit, but the end result is that police are investigating yet another instance of criminal mischief in Hereford.

With warm weather here and young people on the loose for the summer, the number of criminal mischief cases in Hereford is on the rise once again.

According to department statistics. there were 60 reported cases of eight from the 52 reports filed in May 1993. In April, there were 41 such reports, up from 30 a year ago; in March, 31 cases in both 1994 and 1993 were reported.

For the year to date, 221 cases had been reported through May, up from 193 last year.

"I encourage people to report it even if they have the attitude 'It's been done and the police can't do anything'," said Chief David Wagner. Arrests for criminal mischief are being made continually and "hopefully restitution can be made," he said. Suspects are identified by witnesses to the crime, anonymous tips to Crimestoppers and other sources

According to Texas law, criminal mischief can be anything from a Class C misdemeanor all the way up to a second-degree felony, depending on the amount of damage done.

The offense is described as someone who "intentionally or knowingly damages or destroys the tangible property of the owner," or who "tampers with the tangible Dream" KTB convention, set for July property of the owner and causes pecuniary loss or substantial inconvenience to the owner or a third out, they tear up any and everything," party" or who "makes markings, including inscriptions, slogans, drawings, or paintings, on the tangible property of the owner." Wagner said criminal mischief is a crime that cuts across Hereford in all areas -- it affects every ethnic group, socioeconomic class, neighborhood and religion. "A lot of times we'll have a spree,"

Wagner said, where young people go out and do something to several homes or businesses.

"Once they get going on a night he said. That, Wagner continued, is another reason home and business owners should report all cases of criminal mischief, because it helps police identify possible patterns of the crime.

Those patterns then aid police in enforcement.

And, with a police report on file, he said, there is the possibility that a person convicted of damaging property can be ordered to make restitution.

Insurance industry assailed for discriminatory practices

AUSTIN (AP) - Portions of the insurance industry are illegally discriminating in the sale of auto insurance policies, state consumer officials say.

An analysis of underwriting guidelines used by insurance companies shows that many companies price auto coverage based on factors other than driving record, the Office of Public Insurance Counsel said Wednesday.

"In too many cases, these guidelines create barriers to affordable insurance for whole groups of people for reasons that have nothing to do with their ability to drive," said Amy Johnson, who is leaving the counsel's post.

"These guidelines have the effect of excluding people for the best coverage just because they don't fit the ideal profile, whether or not they have a good driving record," she said.

Jerry Johns, an insurance industry spokesman, denied the allegation.

"Current law in Texas adequately protects the public from the repugnant, illegal and reprehensible practice of unfair discrimination," he said.

The report on auto underwriting guidelines is the first of its kind since the Legislature gave OPIC access to the information.

The report showed that 58 percent of the market considers the nationality of an applicant.

"Canadians are generally exempted from scrutiny, but foreign nationals from Mexico may be denied coverage in the standard market because many underwriting guidelines specifically instruct an agent not to offer this coverage to Mexican nationals," Ms. Johnson said.

"This kind of blatant discrimination is illegal, but it's right there in the underwriting guidelines of 58 percent of the Texas auto insurance market," she said.

Increase in jail beds not halfway complete as deadline passes

AUSTIN (AP) - When state leaders announced a $25 million emergency construction schedule for county jails, they said the temporary facilities would relieve overcrowded lockups by June 1.

But the deadline has arrived and less than half the facilities are built.

Still, officials said Wednesday the construction schedule is going smoothly, and most of the facilities should be completed in the next few weeks.

"The program is a success," said Jack Crump, executive director of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

"We are slowly but surely bringing all the beds on line," Crump said. "Even emergencies take a while."

Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney announced March 31 an emergency plan to build temporary structures in 60 days to take as many as 7,500 felons out of county jails by June 1.

Leaders said the temporary jails would take the pressure of overcrowded county jails during the summer months.

Of those 7,500 beds, 6,300 were to built by counties with $25 million in state funds, and the remaining 1,200 were to be put together by the state prison system.

Crump said about 2,300 county jail beds are complete, and that most of the others will be ready for use within one week to 10 days.

Glen Castleberry, press secretary to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, said 825 of the 1,200 beds state prison beds are finished Castleberry said the county jail facilities are taking longer because many of the 26 counties using state money decided to build more permanent lockups.

"A bunch of these counties wanted to construct more permanent facilities rather than temporary. The state was generally willing to accommodate local preferences even if it took longer," he said. He said that by the end of the week, 3,868 of the emergency county jail beds will be in use.

There are about 30,000 state inmates in county jails awaiting transfer to state prison.

The sheriff contended his Fifth Amendment rights were violated because he could face legal action under the "ambiguous" law requiring the background searches. Prado said Koog didn't have standing to make that claim because the Brady Act does not target local law officers for prosecution.

As for Koog's claim that the law violates the 10th Amendment, Prado noted "the Brady Act confers great discretion on each chief law enforcement officer to determine what is a reasonable background search under the circumstances.

In some situations, the judge said, no background search may be necessary. Prado also wrote that the Brady Act only requires local law officers to make the checks until a federal system for making the searches is phased in within five

April Economic Indicators show no change from March reports

By JAMES H. RUBIN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - In another sign of a cooling economy, the government's chief forecasting gauge of future economic activity was unchanged in April after posting a healthy gain the previous month.

The Commerce Department said today the Index of Leading Economic Indicators remained at 101.2, matching March's record high since the government began keeping the index in 1948.

The flat report was anticipated by analysts, who said most evidence points to an economy expanding at a slower rate that likely will weaken even further in the second half of the year.

In another economic report today, the Labor Department said the number of first-time unemployment claims declined by 4,000 last week, the third consecutive weekly drop. The report said a seasonally adjusted 362,000 people filed first-time claims in the week ended May 28, down from 366,000 the previous week.

Before today's report, the index had risen in seven out of the last eight months, remaining unchanged in February. The March advance of 0.7 percent marked a rebound from the winter doldrums.

The economy is in the process of slowing," said economist Sung Won Sohn of Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis in advance of today's report. "But the major impact of accounts for two-thirds of the rising interest rates will come later. It is a cumulative effect that is building right now."

The financial markets have been relatively stable this week as reports suggesting slower growth have been announced.

Five of the 11 components of the index advanced, led by slower business delivery times that usually are a sign of increasing orders. Other advances were a growing inventory of durable goods, more building permits, higher raw material prices and a larger money supply.

On the negative side were lower stock prices, more weekly initial claims for unemployment insurance, fewer business orders for plant and equipment, a lower index of consumer expectations and fewer orders for consumer goods.

The length of the average work week was unchanged.

Despite the index rating for April, most economists expect the economy to grow at a healthy pace this spring in the 4 percent range - as activity increases after the unusually severe winter.

The gross domestic product, which measures the nation's economic growth, expanded at a moderate 3 percent annual rate in the first three months of this year, held in check by the bitter weather and the California earthquake after booming in the last quarter of 1993.

Consumer spending, which nation's economic activity, is slowing from the pace that fueled the growth surge at the end of last year - a 7 percent leap at an annual rate for the final three months of 1993.

Some of the slack caused by leveling consumer demand, particularly for cars and new homes, will be taken up by increased spending by businesses for factories and equipment, economists predict.

The government's index of 11 forward-looking statistics is designed to predict economic activity six to nine months down the road. Three straight moves by the index in the same direction are considered a good gauge of where the economy is headed.

The Federal Reserve raised short-term interest rates four times from early February to mid-May, with the full impact of the higher rates not likely to be felt for several months.

Analysts also are awaiting unemployment figures for May, which are to be announced by the Labor Department on Friday.

Members of the graduating class and their friends attended the pancake supper at the Senior Citizens Center on Friday evening. For some of the class members this is the first reunion they have attended and for several it was the first time in Hereford since the 25th reunion.

The classmates met at the Bull Barn Saturday morning for the Mid-Plains Pioneer Day Association meeting and the noon meal. Arline Millard Williams gave the response to the welcome extended by Mayor Bob Josserand. Later during the award ceremonies of the program, Bob and Nita Jennings were presented with the award for the longest distance traveled. An afternoon visiting session was eld in the banquet room of the V.F.W. Hall.

The banquet was held Saturday 1999 and everyone anticipates another evening at the V.F.W. Hall. Large gold colored "50s" covered with gold sparkles hung from the rafters. Each table held two hurricane lamps with maroon votive candles and silk ivy twined around the white base of the lamps. The round table with its white eyelet cloth held the champagne fountain. White lattice work screens behind the table were decorated with maroon ribbons and silk ivy. The toast to the class of 1944 was given by Fern Pittman Minter.

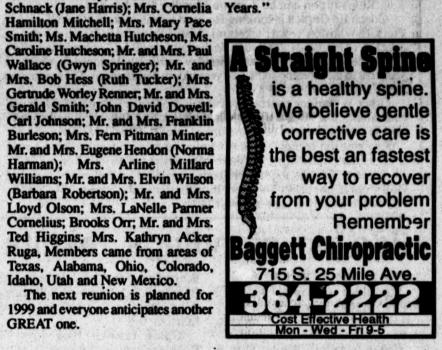

After the invocation given by Nolan Grady, the meal was served. Following the meal, a short program was presented by Mrs. Fern Pittman Minter. A brief business meeting was held.

Graduates who worked on the reunion were: Ted Higgins, arrangements for meeting areas; decorations were supervised by Norma Harman Hendon and Barbara Roberson Wilson, assisted by Ted Higgins, Nolan Grady, and Mrs. Kathryn Acker Ruga; Mrs. Fern Pittman Minter was the program chairman, assisted by Mrs. LaNelle Parmer Cornelius; correspondence secretary and compilation of a camps start Monday

The first of several Whiteface sports camps start Monday, with a three-day baseball camp and the first of two tennis camps.

There are two tennis camps: one June 6-10 and one June 13-17. Kids can go to either or both, at a cost of $25 for each week. Advanced players will attend from 9 a.m.-noon, while beginning players attend from 1-4 p.m. Registration can be done on Monday at either 9 or 1.

Coach Ed Coplen is looking for used tennis rackets to be donated so that kids who don't own rackets might still able to play. If you can donate a racket, or for more information on the camps, call Ed Coplen at 364-6969.

The baseball camp will start Monday and finish Wednesday, with 9-11 ear-olds in the morning and 12-14 year-olds in the afternoon. The registration fee is $20.

Other Whiteface sports camps include: football, June 15-17; boys' basketball, June 20-24; girls' basketball, June 27-July 1; volleyball, July 11-15; and two weeks of golf camps, July 11-15 and 18-22.

Herd baseball, tennis Miller finds zone, torches Knicks started with the Pacers trailing by 12 Western Conference title by beating

By RICK WARNER

AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Reggie Miller was in the Twilight Zone. He was unconscious. He was Jordan-like. All those terms were used to describe Miller's phenomenal fourth-quarter shooting display against the New York Knicks in Game 5 of the Eastern Conference finals Wednesday night.

Miller scored 25 of his 39 points in the final period, including a playoff-record five 3-pointers, as the Indiana Pacers rallied to beat the Knicks 93-86 and move within one victory of the NBA Finals.

"He was in the Twilight Zone," said Derek Harper, one of several New York guards victimized by Miller. "When a guy gets hot like that, it's hard to stop him. ... He carried the team on his back and his teammates fed off of his heroics."

Miller made eight of 10 shots from the field and was 4-for-4 from the from a finals matchup against the Rik Smits, Indiana's starting foul line in the fourth quarter, which Houston Rockets, who won the center, was held to six points and two points and ended with them holding the Utah Jazz in five games. a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series.

"He was unconscious," said Knicks coach Pat Riley. "He had a Michael Jordan-type game, a Michael Jordan-type quarter. He was hitting everything he threw up there." The skinny 6-foot-7 guard personally outscored the Knicks 25-16 in the last quarter and fell only four points shy of Sleepy Floyd's playoff mark for most points in a period - set by the Golden State guard against the Lakers in 1987. "It was a special performance and we needed that," said Pacers coach Larry Brown, who ranked Miller's masterpiece with David Thompson's 73-point game for the Brown-coached Denver Nuggets in 1978. "It took a spectacular performance from Reggie to put us in this position. That position is one win away

After New York built a 14-point lead late in the third period, Indiana went on a 23-6 run to take a 75-72 lead on Miller's 3-pointer with 7:40 remaining in the game. The Knicks closed to 81-79 on two free throws by Patrick Ewing with 4:11 left, but the Pacers then went on a 6-0 run and New York never got closer than six after that.

The Knicks didn't hit a field goal in the first seven minutes of the fourth quarter, and made only three of 12 shots in the period while committing nine turnovers.

Ewing scored 29 points but grabbed only two rebounds for New York, which was beaten on the boards 40-30. Charles Smith and John Starks each had 16 points for the Knicks, who lost their first home game in the playoffs after eight victories.

rebounds before fouling out in the fourth quarter. But backups Antonio Davis and LaSalle Thompson made key contributions. Davis had 12 points and 10 rebounds, while Thompson had three steals in the fourth quarter.

"Rik was in foul trouble and I knew that I was going to have to play," said Thompson, who played only seven minutes in the first four ames of the series. "I was like the Boy Scouts - I was prepared."

So was Miller, a notorious trashtalker who gave movie director and noted Knicks fan Spike Lee a mouthful as he watched from his courtside seat in the fourth quarter. As Miller shot down the Knicks, he stared at Lee, yelled at him and, at one point, put his hands to his throat in a choke sign.

"Me and Spike have been friends for five or six years," Miller said. "It was just friendly chit-chat. ... He's the Knicks' biggest fan but sometimes he gets me going."

Rockets forward Robert Horry had a choice: shoot the ball or be traded. He decided to shoot.

"I was caring too much about what people were saying," Horry said. "I decided if they wanted me to shoot, I'd shoot whether I missed or not. They'd already traded me once so what could they do, trade me again?"

That seems like light years away," Horry said. "I don't even like being on a last-place team." Horry quickly overcame the disappointment of being traded and has been showing the Rockets that they almost made a serious mistake. Horry's most recent exploits came

Tuesday night when he scored 22 points and put on a thrilling show in the final minutes of a 94-83 victory over Utah that gave the Rockets the Western Conference title 4-1 and a third appearance in the NBA Finals. He blocked a shot with 1:54 to play and followed with a driving dunk with 1:38 to go that gave the Rockets an 87-77 lead and effectively derailed

Utah's comeback hopes. "Easy baskets, that's what you're looking for at that time of game when the other team is coming back like that," Horry said. "You need a big basket. You need a big rebound but concentrate on the easy baskets." The Rockets were glad Horry was there to make it look easy. Had Elliott been healthy, Horry and Bullard would have been playoff spectators.

"Horry stepped up," Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "It was him that put down that monster dunk at the end to put it away."

Horry was the Rockets' first-round pick in the 1992 draft, the 11th player chosen overall. He showed great skills but was reluctant to take the open shot, preferring to dish off to another player.

Finally, the Rockets decided to go another way, seeing a chance to improve with Elliott.

When the deal fell through, Horry got the message that more offense was needed.

"It took me awhile to adjust to Horry came alive after aborted trade what happened," Horry said. "Frankly, I stopped giving a damn and started playing. They wanted me to shoot the ball. I was afraid of what they would say if I shot and missed."

After the distraction of the near trade, Horry decided he had nothing to lose.

"He's added some things to that team that makes them more difficult to play against," Jazz coach Jerry Sloan said.

Horry hit 8-of-13 shots, including 3-of-5 3-pointers, Tuesday night. Now he wants to be a spectator briefly and watch the New York-Indiana series which will decide Houston's opponent in the finals.

"I just want each team to beat themselves up," Horry said. "I want for that series to go seven games and whoever it is that we play to be tired when we get them."

White Sox save Alvarez' streak

By BEN WALKER

AP Baseball Writer With the way the Chicago White Sox hit, it's a wonder that Wilson Alvarez ever thinks he will lose.

Alvarez thought his 15-game winning streak was over Wednesday night when the White Sox went into the ninth inning trailing by two runs at Yankee Stadium.

But after Frank Thomas, Julio Franco and Robin Ventura were done, Chicago had rallied for a 5-4 win over New York that left Alvarez's string intact.

"I'm not going to give up with this team anymore," Alvarez said after winding up with a no-decision.

Alvarez's record remained at 8-0. and he stayed tied with LaMarr Hoyt for the longest regular-season winning streak in team history. His next start likely will be at home against Toronto.

Alvarez pitched six innings and gave up three runs. He walked seven and allowed five hits.

Dennis Cook (3-0) was the winner and Roberto Hernandez struck out the side in the ninth for his fifth save.

Danny Tartabull homered and drove in three runs, giving Jimmy six innings. Bob Wickman (2-1) relieved and stopped the White Sox until the ninth. But pinch-hitter Joey Cora drew a leadoff walk, Tim Raines singled with one out and pinch-hitter Warren Newson walked, loading the bases. Thomas, the AL player of the month for May, hit a sacrifice fly to the wall in right field, making it 4-3. Franco singled home the tying run and, after Steve Howe relieved, Ventura hit an RBI single.

Indians 3, Angels 2

Rene Gonzales drew a ases-loaded walk from Mike Butcher with one out in the 10th inning, giving Cleveland its 11th straight win at Jacobs Field.

Gonzalez walked on five pitches after Eddie Murray was intentionally walked. Bob Patterson (1-2) began the 10th for California.

Red Sox 4, Royals 2 Scott Cooper singled home the go-ahead run in the eighth inning as Boston beat Kansas City at Fenway Park.

Key and the Yankees a 3-2 lead after between Roger Clemens and David Cone, although neither got a decision. Each allowed two runs in seven innings, with Clemens giving up four hits and Cone five.

> An error by second baseman Jose Lind led to Cooper's single off Mike Magnante (1-2). Tony Fossas (2-0) won a day after being recalled from the minors and Jeff Russell got his 12th save.

Tigers 11, Orioles 3 Travis Fryman went 5-for-5 and Detroit won a season-high fourth in Danny Bautista had three hits, including a home run, for the Tigers. Tim Hulett homered for host Baltimore.

Tim Belcher (3-8) gave up four hits in eight innings. Mike Mussina (7-3) was tagged for Kevin Tapani (6-2) won his fifth straight decision. He gave up six hits and Rick Aguilera pitched the ninth for his 11th save.

Chris Bosio (2-7) pitched a complete game for Seattle, allowing nine hits.

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

For at least one night, baseball's most lively action was in the dugout, not on the diamond.

Bobby Bonilla and Ryan Thomp-son of the New York Mets nearly came to blows Wednesday when their argument boiled over on the bench during a 4-3 loss to the Colorado Rockies at Shea Stadium.

"It was like brothers arguing. No big deal. I was shown up and that's why I got mad," Thompson said.

At Dodger Stadium, shortstop Jose Offerman threw a tantrum after being asked to sacrifice, and manager Tom Lasorda went after him with some sharp words during a 7-0 win over St. Louis.

"Why don't you talk to (Raul) Mondesi and the other guys who did something? I have nothing to say," Offerman said.

Offerman seemed miffed after being asked to bunt, and took his time getting to first base after sacrificing fourth inning. When I returned to the dugout, he pounded his bat, slammed his helmet and threw his batting gloves. Lasorda scurried after Offerman, and they went out of sight up the runway tunnel. Moments later, Lasorda returned to his seat and Offerman came back, consoled by coach Manny Mota.

doors stays there," Lasorda snapped. "You want to talk about the game? Talk about the game Ramon (Martinez) pitched."

The problem between Bonilla and Thompson followed a play in the sixth inning that set up the Rockies' go-ahead run.

Dante Bichette led off with a single and Charlie Hayes followed with a single to center field. Bichette stopped around second base, trying to get Thompson to throw, and then continued easily to third when Thompson held the ball.

That prompted Bonilla, the third baseman, to twice point his glove at Thompson. Later, Mike Kingery hit a go-ahead sacrifice fly.

When the inning ended, Bonilla and Thompson exchanged words and pitcher Mauro Gozzo stepped between them in the dugout. Thompson made two tries to reach Bonilla, but Gozzo blocked him. Thompson, who had homered earlier, led off the bottom of the sixth Expos 10, Reds 9 ing out. He then left the dugout, but later emerged peacefully with Bonilla. Bonilla went for a two-hour session of batting practice after the game without commenting. "If more players worked on each other when a mistake was made it would make my job a lot easier. I have no problem with it," Mets manager Dallas Green said. Houston. Kent Bottenfield (3-0) was the winner and Bruce Ruffin struck out innings.

Jeff Kent with the bases loaded to end the game. Pete Smith (3-6) was the loser.

Dodgers 7, Cardinals 0

Ramon Martinez pitched his 14th shutout in 155 career starts, and Tim Wallach and Eric Karros homered for Los Angeles.

Martinez (4-2) scattered eight hits, struck out four and walked three. Bob Tewksbury (8-3) lost.

Braves 1, Giants 0

Greg Maddux became the first nine-game winner in the majors and Atlanta completed a three-game sweep at Candlestick Park.

Maddux (9-2) overcame six walks and six hits and escaped a pair of bases-loaded jams in eight innings.

The Braves scored off Salomon Torres (2-3) in the fourth inning on a leadoff walk to Roberto Kelly and a sacrifice fly by Tony Tarasco.

Jerry Browne hit an RBI single and Conine hit his go-ahead double off Shane Reynolds (3-2).

Phillies 4, Cubs 2

Shawn Boskie pitched two-hit ball for seven innings against his former team at Wrigley Field. Boskie (2-2) struck out five and walked two.

Pete Incaviglia singled during a three-run first inning against Mike Morgan (0-7) and hit his 10th homer in the seventh off Jose Bautista.

Sanchez Vicario earns berth in French finals

By DAVID CRARY Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) - Arantxa Sanchez Vicario earned a chance at a second French Open title today, capitalizing on Conchita Martinez's errors to win the first Grand Slam semifinal between two Spanish women.

The tone of the one-sided match was established in the opening game, when the third-seeded Martinez sprayed three forehands out to lose her serve. She lost the next game with four more unforced errors, and Sanchez Vicario, the No. 2 seed, cruised to a 6-3, 6-1 victory in 72 minutes.

Sanchez Vicario, who won her only Grand Slam title here as a 17-year-old in 1989, will play in Saturday's final against the winner of the second semifinal between top-seeded Steffi Graf and No. 12 Mary Pierce, who has set a tourna-ment record by losing only six games in her first five matches.

Sanchez Vicario and Martinez have much in common - both are 22-year-olds from Barcelona and they frequently played doubles together. But Martinez showed why she now trails 1-5 in head-to-head play - she made 48 unforced errors to 23 for Sanchez Vicario and was usually the first to lose patience in a long rally.

Since winning here in 1989, Sanchez Vicario has lost in three other Grand Slam finals, once here, once at the U.S. Open and in January at the Australian Open.

This was Martinez's best showing in the French Open - she had lost five straight years in the quarterfinals. Only once before has she reached a Grand Slam semifinal, surprising those who considered her weak on grass but getting that far at Wimbledon last year before losing to Graf.

Spain could have up to three of the four finalists here this year.

Spain's Alberto Berasategui routed Goran Ivanisevic on Wednesday to join countryman, practice-partner and defending champion Sergi Bruguera in the men's semifinals.

If Bruguera beats Jim Courier and Berasategui beats Magnus Larsson on Friday, they would meet in the first all-Spanish final in tournament history. Remarkably, neither has lost a set so far in five matches.

Berasategui, 20, started 1993 ranked 115th but has rocketed to 23rd with his strong clay-court game. He beat Courier to win a title at Nice in April.

In three previous Grand Slam events, Berasategui didn't survive the second round. Now he is a slight favorite over Larsson in a match that would put him into a final.

"Two or three weeks ago I lost to him in Hamburg, but I guess now I am more confident," Berasategui said. "I am going to go out there and try to run as fast as I can. If he wants to beat me, he is going to have to run also."

Ivanisevic, who committed 69 unforced errors in a 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 loss on Wednesday, had little praise for Berasategui.

"It was a disgusting game. I never played like that in my life," Ivanisevic said. "I gave him a nice present - 'Say, here, you are a nice guy, go to the semifinals.""

Larsson, speaking before Ivanisevic's defeat, had expressed a slight preference for playing Berasategui, who he has beaten twice, rather than the Croatian, who he'd never beaten.

"When I get this far, it doesn't matter who is on the other side of the net," Larsson said. "You just have to go out there and play your game. It's going to be hard to have the same luck as today."

Larsson's luck consisted of a spectacular collapse by 19-year-old Hendrik Dreekmann of Germany, who blew six match points in the third set after taking the first two sets from the Swede.

Drabek pitching up to expectations this season

By JIM MOLONY The Houston Post

HOUSTON - A trio of Astros -Chris Donnels, Craig Biggio and Jeff Bagwell - couldn't resist the opportunity.

There was Doug Drabek, modestly deferring the credit to his teammates last weekend following his second shutout in four starts and a game where he drove in two runs with three hits. His teammates decided it was time to speak on behalf of the right-hander.

"Doug, you didn't even need us out there," cracked Biggio. "You did it all by yourself."

"We were just in the way, right Doug?" said Donnels, laughing. The hottest pitcher in baseball reddened slightly. "Very funny guys," Drabek said, then turning to the media: "They can't stand it when you ignore them." The wisecracks by Drabek's teammates weren't far off the mark. The right-hander has been virtually a one-man team this season, especially this month.

He was 7-1 overall and 5-0 in May. He is among the National League leaders in nine of 10 pitching categories. Opponents' batting average against Drabek for May was .201.

Yet it probably is easier to get a base hit off Doug Drabek than it is to get The Woodlands resident to talk about himself or about this season's remarkable turnaround.

"I'm pretty much the same pitcher. The only difference is I'm not overthrowing as much as I did last year," Drabek said.

Last year. The year of the headlines, the contract, the dashed expectations. After signing a four-year, $19.5 million contract with the Astros in November 1992 Drabek suffered through a 9-18 season.

Characteristically, Drabek never pouted or groused about his situation, which was hindered by an offense that scored a total of 30 runs in his 18 losses, including three shutouts and six one-run games. Drabek took the Pittsburgh. "He was falling behind blame for his year, evidence too much. It seemed like he was 2-0 notwithstanding. Yet this year, to hear him tell it, his teammates the perfect pitch on everybody." deserve the credit, for their defense and run support.

Catcher Scott Servais knows better.

"He knows how to get hitters out, and he's been in a zone lately," Servais said. "He's just a master at the peak of his game."

Although there were some who wondered whether the 31-year-old former Cy Young Award winner's best days weren't behind him after last season, Astros manager Terry Collins and pitching coach Mel Stottlemyre weren't in that group.

The two pulled Drabek aside during the spring and had a talk with him.

"I looked at a lot of film of him, and I saw that his stuff hadn't changed. What he was doing with it did," said Collins, who, as Pirates bullpen coach, was with Drabek at Someone with the character of Drabek also understood the expectations that come with a big contract. The former University of Houston pitcher and Victoria native wanted to deliver and when he didn't he began to press.

"He had the big contract and it (the poor season) got to him a little bit, and he started trying to do it all himself," Collins said.

In the spring meeting, Stottlemyre and Collins told Drabek to quit worrying about everything. Just pitch and let your talent take over. They wanted the old, aggressive Drabek, the one who spots his curve around the plate and dares the hitters to hit

"I think the biggest thing we got across to him was that it was a new year and what happened last year was over," Stottlemyre said.

"The only thing that's different is maybe he's more aggressive and not afraid to throw strikes, and he has gotten ahead more in the counts."

The results have been outstanding. Drabek is on a Cy Young Award pace. He has two shutouts, three complete games and a 2.29 earned run average with 60 strikeouts in 74 23 innings.

He has become the ace of the staff the Astros had hoped he would be when owner Drayton McLane Jr. shelled out the big money to sign him.

"Neither Terry or I had any doubts about him. Of course, Terry was more familiar with him than I was, but we both knew it was just a matter of him getting himself in a good groove and that's where he's at right now," Stottlemyre said. "I never had any doubts about him at all being able to do this."

Neither did his teammates. Just don't ask him to talk about it.

Pokes want Bates to take pay cut IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas because of the league's new $34.6 could be in a dilemma next year."

Cowboys have told veteran Bill Bates million salary cap, pay cuts would be they want him to play for the NFL necessary for role players if the team minimum salary of $162,000, an is to retain Pro Bowl players such as almost 60 percent reduction from the center Mark Stepnoski. $400,000 he made last season.

to deep snapper Dale Hellestrae and several other free agents who were not provided qualifying offers by Wednesday's deadline, agent Steve Endicott, who represents both Bates and Hellestrae, said Wednesday.

Bates, who plays on special teams and third-down defenses, was told that much of the contract would be paid in advance, indicating they are confident that he would make the be free next year," said Harper, who got about half of his money up front

Club officials have said that for tax purposes. "The Cowboys

Team vice president Stephen Jones The Cowboys made similar offers said the Cowboys made contract offers Wednesday of $710,000 to Stepnoski and $165,000 to tight end Scott Galbraith to retain exclusive negotiating rights after July 15.

Wide receiver Alvin Harper signed a one-year contract worth $866,000 with the Dallas Cowboys on Wednesday and will become an unrestricted free agent next year.

"Me and Michael Irvin will both

Since Bates, Hellestrae and four other free agents - Frank Cornish, Tommie Agee, Matt Vanderbeek and Elvis Patterson - were not provided qualifying offers, they can negotiate with other teams past the NFL's deadline.

Jones said the Cowboys also plan to approach wide receivers Jimmy Smith and Tyrone Williams about taking pay cuts.

"We've talked to all our players and have outlined financial parameters," Jones said.

Endicott didn't indicate whether Bates or Hellestrae would accept the lower contracts offered them.

Record of service extends for World War II veterans

By RITA BEAMISH Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the heat of World War II, a dashing bomber pilot, an Army intelligence officer and a young Navy ensign joined the fight that engulfed the world.

A half-century later, they still serve - as America's secretary of the Treasury, White House counsel and secretary of state. They work for the first president born after the war, Bill Clinton.

As Clinton goes to Europe to begin the 50th anniversary celebration of the allied D-Day landing on France's Normandy coast, he can solicit firsthand recollections from Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen, White House counsel Lloyd Cutler and Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Clinton's new U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, retired Adm. William Crowe, joins the entourage. He studied at the Naval Academy during the war, fully expecting to ship out.

Bentsen was a B-24 pilot with three dozen bombing missions over Europe. Cutler initially was a civilian Lend Lease officer supplying French and allied troops in North Africa, and later served in Army intelligence analyzing German and Japanese coded messages.

Christopher was a Navy ensign with active duty aboard a fuel tanker in the Pacific.

Those were days when young men were eager to enlist. The war, in Bentsen's words, "engendered a deep patriotism and feeling about the country and its values.

"The main thing people should remember ... is what a magnificent and immense effort the war was. All Americans were involved," said Crowe. "It gives you some idea what the country really can achieve if it has one mind."

Cutler's remembrances of D-Day are partly through the eyes of the out of southern Italy.

German command, because he had access to their messages that were intercepted by allied code breakers. A military intelligence officer at the Pentagon, Cutler helped analyze German reactions before and after D-Day.

"We actually knew how they were reacting to where they thought the invasion would be and when it would occur," he said. Hitler was convinced the invasion would be further north, at Calais, instead of the Normandy beaches.

Cutler was lucky to survive the war. The Army initially ordered him to London to work on civil supply for the D-Day invasion. At the last minute, the Pentagon pulled him back for the intelligence job. The man who took his D-Day job ran over a land mine in a jeep.

At the time of the invasion of France, Bentsen had his hands full as commander of a B-24 squadron flying

"I was an uninvited guest over much of western Europe," said the former senator, who ended up a major with a Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Once, coming back from a mission, he had engine failure crossing the Adriatic and was forced to land on an island off Yugoslavia. "We just barely got through the Alps and I was losing altitude. It's enough to get your pulse rate up," he recalled.

Despite such scares, he said, "We were all totally convinced we were going to win and that you were going to see the freeing of Europe."

Christopher was a student at the University of Southern California when he joined the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps. A magna cum laude graduate of 1945, he was called friend, John Ferraro, an all-American of government. football tackle who today is a Los Angeles City Council member. Ferraro recalled that while he wanted to return to USC and play football, Christopher had plans for law school. In the meantime they were training to take part in the invasion of Japan, before President, Truman decided to use the atomic bomb.

Before shipping off as an ensign on the USS Tomahawk, a tanker supplying U.S. warships in the Pacific, Christopher visited Stanford University to look into law school. After the war he enrolled, graduating in 1949.

The war altered the career paths of both Bentsen and Cutler. Bentsen said he would have become a businessman, but his experiences in the war encouraged him to go into public life in Texas, first as a county judge and later as a member of Congress.

Cutler would have continued his budding career as a Wall Street lawyer "and I'd be richer, too," he said. But after the war he joined New York friends to open a practice in Washington to active duty along with his college and launch a long career in and out for a Navy career. For Bentsen, the D-Day trip "brings back many, many memories - friends you had, friends you lost. You grow up in a hurry." Bentsen owed his dangerous pilot assignment indirectly to the woman he would ultimately marry. After only six dates with Beryl Ann Longino, Bentsen was sent to Brazil as an Army intelligence officer - a "safe and sound" assignment. But learning that her former boyfriend was heading home to the states, Bentsen told a superior that he, too, had to go home for an "emergency" - he was positive the other fellow would marry his girl.

The only way home was to sign up for flight school, which Bentsen did. He married "B.A." shortly thereafter. He received a photo of his firstborn son while abroad, but the boy was nearly 2 by the time Bentsen got home from the war to meet him.

Paratroopers to re-enact 1944 jump into Normandy

By LAURA TOLLEY

Associated Press Writer HOUSTON (AP) - As a young World War II paratrooper, Richard Falvey stood at the edge of an open airplane door, anxiously waiting to jump into the darkness behind enemy lines

Falvey, the second man out the door, watched as two other planes packed with paratroopers exploded just before he jumped. "And all I could think of was, 'Let me out of this airplane and give me a fighting chance," he recalled.

Falvey was one of thousands who parachuted into Normandy on D-Day to help the invading allied ground forces.

He now is among a group of 38 former paratroopers returning to France to mark the 50th anniversary of D-Day by re-enacting their jumps. A 39th veteran is going with them but decided not to make the jump.

Some of the paratroopers jumped on D-Day, while some jumped in other World War II battles. The veterans, ranging in age from 68 to 83, all had to renew their skills by making at least three practice jumps before they could participate in Sunday's event.

ST. JUDE

Novena May The Sacred Heart of Jesus be Adored, Glorified, Loved and Preserved throughout the world, Now and Forever, Sacred Heart of Jesus Pray for us. St. Jude worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude Help the Hopeless, Pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day your prayer will be answered. Say it for 9 days. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised.

Now many of the Jews are enemies of the Gospel. They hate it. But this has been a benefit to you, for it has resulted in God's giving His gifts to you Gentiles. Yet the Jews are still beloved of God because of His promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. For God's gifts and His call can never be withdrawn; He will never go back on His promises.

Once you were rebels against God, but when the Jews refused His gifts God was merciful to you instead. And now the Jews are the rebels, but some day they, too, will share in God's mercy upon you. For God has given them all up

ARE YOU USING YOUR GOD-GIVEN GIFT?

And so, dear brothers, I plead with you to give your bodies to God. Let them be a living sacrifice, holy--the kind He can accept. When you think of what He has done for you, is this too much to ask?

Don't copy the behavior and customs of this world, but be a new a different person with a fresh newness in all you do and think. Then you will learn from your own experience how His ways will really satisfy you.

As God's messenger I give each of you God's warning: be honest in your estimate of yourselves, measuring your value by how much faith God has given you.

Just as there are many parts to our bodies, so it is with Christ's body. We are all parts of it, and it takes every one of us to make it complete, for we each have different work to to sin so that He could have mercy upon all alike.

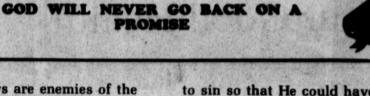

Oh, what a wonderful God we have! How great are His wisdom and knowledge and riches! How impossible it is for us to understand His decisions and His methods! For who among us can know the mind of the Lord? Who knows enough to be His counselor and guide?

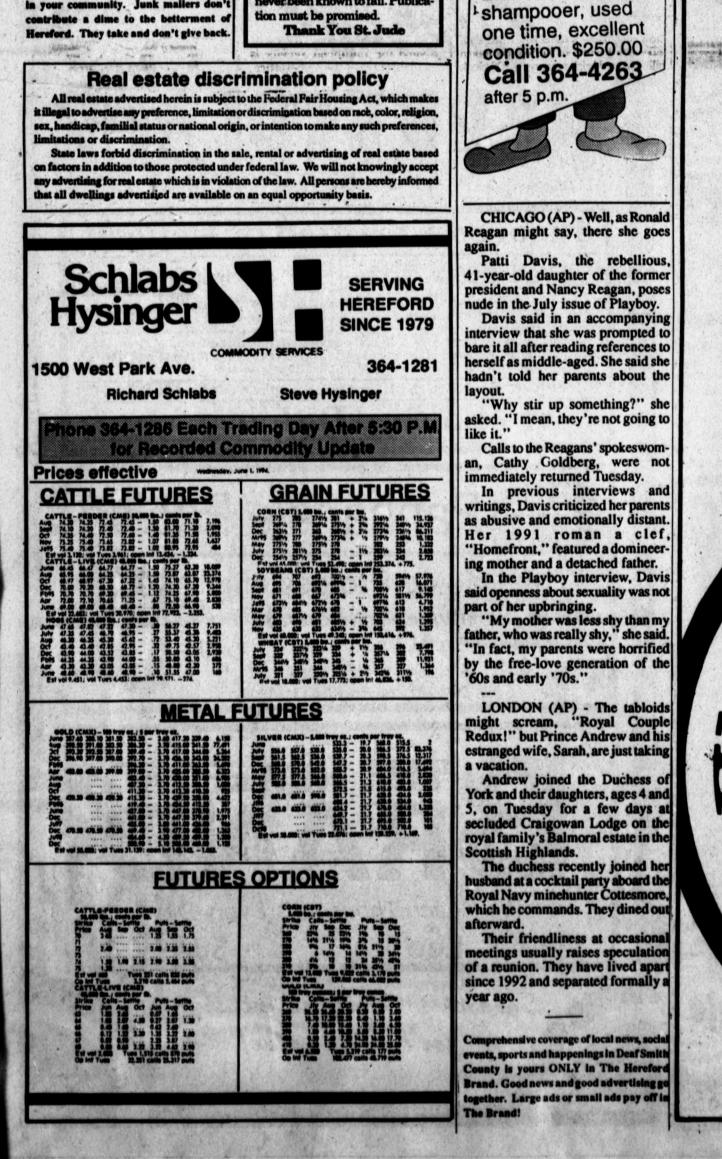

And who could ever offer to the Lord enough to induce Him to act? For everything comes from God alone. Everything lives by His power, and everything is for His glory. To Him be glory evermore. Romans 11:28-36

do. So we belong to each other, and each needs all the others.

God has given each of us the ability to do certain things well. So if God has given you the ability of prophecy, then prophesy whenever you can--as often as your faith is strong enough to receive a message from God. If your gift is that of serving others, serve them well. If you are a teacher, do a good job of teaching. If you are a preacher, see to it that your sermons are strong and helpful. If God has given you money, be generous in helping others with it. If God has given you administrative ability and put you in charge of the work of others, take the responsibility seriously. Those who offer comfort to the sorrowing should do so with Christian cheer. Romans 12:1-8 written you a couple of times about IgA deficiency, which I have. I wear a medical bracelet referring to potential blood-transfusion problems. In the event of an emergency, an accident or such, where I needed blood, would they be able to give me blood treated in some way? - C.L.

ANSWER: "IgA" stands for "immunoglobulin A," one of the classes of antibodies we make against the wide array of potentially damaging organisms all of us face daily. Occasionally, one or another of the antibodies may be lacking, each deficiency once in a while producing its corresponding symptoms

IgA deficiency is one of the more common examples, occurring in about one in every 600 people of European ancestry, less frequently in others. However, few of those people have problems associated with the deficiency.

Possible problems from IgA deficiency include repeat episodes of upper-respiratory infection or severe lung infection. But the most serious consequence is mentioned on your medical bracelet, which warns against transfusion with blood containing IgA.

It may seem strange, but a few IgA-deficient people actually develop the antibody that may cause a severe reaction if their blood is exposed to blood with IgA.

Were you to need blood, the bracelet would assure you that no IgA blood would be used. You would get blood from a similarly IgA-deficient

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 71 and have suffered with an ulcer for years. Otherwise, I'm in good health. I use daily antacids, which help. I have not consulted an intestinal specialist. Can you tell me the effectiveness of the use of antibiotics? Also, which antibiotics are used against ulcers? - M.K.

ANSWER: The germ associated with peptic ulcer is the helicobacter bacteria. It erodes the stomach's natural mucus protection, allowing stomach acid to penetrate the lining

Not every such ulcer warrants an-tibiotic treatment. Standard antacid therapy suffices for most.

For patients who do need antibiotics, two kinds are used together metronidazole and amoxicillin — along with bismuth subsalicylate never seen a reference to Bowen's disease in your column, and I do read it daily. Is Bowen's disease contagious or cancerous? Can you get rid of it? - C.C.

ANSWER: Bowen's disease intraepidermal squamous cell carcinoma — is not contagious. It is a patch of skin that is scaly, crusted and red. Removal ends the cancer threat.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a xanthelasma on my right eyelid. My doctor doesn't recommend having it removed. Cosmetically, it doesn't look too nice, but there is no pain. I would appreciate whatever you have to say on the subject. - B.

ANSWER: Xanthelasmas (ZANthel-AZ-mas) are yellowish plaques on the eyelids, usually of the upper lid and usually on the side toward the nose.

They are deposits of fatty material. They may signal a high blood cholesterol level, but they also occur when cholesterol levels are fine.

They are painless, and if your cholesterol is OK, you have no need for concern beyond the cosmetic. If you wish, your xanthelasma can be safely removed, although xanthelasmas do have a habit of recurring. If you look closely, you can probably see these tiny growths on many friends' eyelids.

DEAR DOCTOR: Is there a test that can be taken to determine ovarian cancer? What actually is the CA-125 blood test? - A.R.

ANSWER: The sad truth of the matter is that we have no reliable degree test for early detection of ovarian cancer, which is No. 4 on the list of cancers in women: About 13,000 vomen die of it in the United States degrees in nursing during commence-ment ceremonies May 21 at the Texas each year.

The CA-125 test has been done for ovarian cancer, but is far from being a definitive diagnostic tool for it. CA-125 is a substance made by ovarian cancer cells The test is less than ideal because the substance is elevated in only about six of 10 women who have early ovarian cancer. Not only that, but the substance can read erroneously high, thus subjecting many women to needless and Rachel Reyes, a junior at Hereford High School has joined the U.S. Army Reserve.

Sergeant First Class Dwight Howe of the Army's Recruiting Station at 200 Westgate Parkway, Suite G-4, Amarillo, Texas, who recruited Ms. Reyes, says she has been assigned to the 400tth USA Hospital in Lubbock, Texas, where she will serve six years in the Active Reserve. Ms. reyes is scheduled to report June 2, 1994 to begin basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri during the summer between her junior and senior year of high school. After graduation, Ms. Reyes will report for advanced individual training at Fort Sam Houston, Texas as a Medical Specialist. After successfully completing both the basic training and the advanced individual training, Ms. Reyes will receive a bonus of $1,500.

Reyes is the daughter of Antonia Garcia of Hereford, Texas.

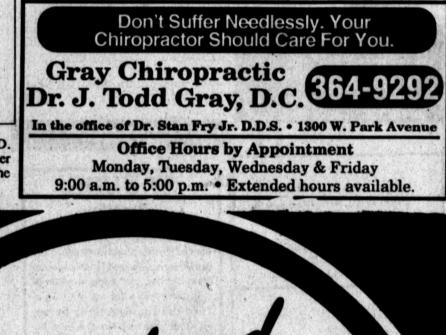

Marine Pvt. Steven T. Blea a 1993 graduate of Hereford High School, recently completed recruit training. During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

I'm confused. Have you been told you have an ulcer? It's most unusual for an ulcer to persist undiagnosed for years on end, as you indicate. Almost all heal in a month or so, and many come around with antacids judiciously taken. Your stomach pains might have nothing whatever to do with the old ulcer.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Oliver Stone has dropped plans for a movie about former Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega, saying its estimated $40 million cost was too much to gamble on an uncertain story line.

"Certain films shouldn't cost as much as they do," Stone said. "It's too risky."

Stone had scouted Central American filming locations and interviewed Noriega in his Miami prison cell. Noriega, ousted from power in the 1989 U.S. invasion of Panama, is appealing a 40-year sentence for drug trafficking.

Stone said he became frustrated by "lack of conclusions" about Noriega, who had strong connections in Washington, D.C., and Cuba and "who is not easily understood." Add the cost of shooting in far-flung locations like Panama, Cuba and Washington and it became clear the project was too risky, Stone said.
