Mayor's group recommends Aug. 13 vote

Task force endorses special ED sales tax

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

The People Promoting Progress task force Tuesday recommended to Mayor Bob Josserand that the Hereford City Commission call for an August election on the one-half cent sales tax for economic development.

The committee had been appointed by Mayor Josserand to study alternatives for helping fund economic development in the city. The report termed the tax "essential for Hereford to be competitive in business and industrial expansion."

State law outlines how such dedicated funds can be used by a local economic development corporation board. A half-percent tax would generate about $300,000 a year in Hereford.

Task force co-chairmen Jeff Carlile and Shirley Garrison presented the recommendation to the mayor, with 14 other task force members present at the Tuesday afternoon meeting. Josserand will take the proposal to the city commission at its regular meeting next Monday night.

Josserand expressed appreciation to the co-chairmen and the original ad hoc committee, as well as the enlarged task force. He called it a "community effort" with staff assistance provided by Mike Hatley, assistant city manager, and Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president.

responsibility of both the economic development corporation board and the elected city commission members."

With commission approval, the election would be set for Aug. 13, the earliest legal date to hold such an election. Josserand explained that on passage, the tax would go into effect in January, 1995, and the first funds would be available after the first quarter of 1995.

With approval of the half-cent sales tax, Josserand explained, the city would appoint a five-person economic development board to administer the program to seek new industry and help expand present businesses. The commission would have final say on any proposal.

"My intention is to appoint one person from the financial community, one from the ag sector, one from the business community, one from the Hispanic community, and one at-large position," stated Josserand.

While it's asking a lot for people to impose a tax on themselves, Josserand said "it's critical that people understand we need to be more aggressive in getting out of the economic doldrums. Without some funding in today's economic development game, we're not playing on a level field."

There are now 132 cities in Texas that have the special sales tax dedicated to economic development. The cities range in size from 250 population to 261,721.

Task force members signing the recommendation included Garrison, Carlile, John Sherrod, Tom Simons, Lewis McDaniel, Bill Lyles, Margie Daniels, Nancy Griego, Wayne Winget, Mauri Montgomery, Janie Alejandre, Michael Carr, Brenda Fuentes, Father Darryl Birkenfeld, and O.G. Nieman. Other committee members not present Tuesday are expected to add their names to the list.

School trustees debate TexPool as investment tool for district

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford school trustees will be asked next month if they want to authorize the district's participation in a state investment fund after a split panel hashed out the issue Tuesday night.

A discussion of district participation in TexPool was on the discussion agenda for Tuesday's regular meeting of the school board, meaning no final vote could be taken.

Instead, trustees came to a consensus to place the subject on the June meeting's action agenda for a possible decision.

Trustee Ron Weishaar presented TexPool. He said it is a division of the state treasury that takes municipal funds from throughout the state and combines to obtain "rates which are relatively competitive."

It is one of three legal places where a district can invest money, said Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt. The others are depositories that contract with the district every two years and through the Texas Association of School Board's Lone Star Investment program.

The district currently is in the first year of a two-year contract with First National Bank of Hereford to be the district's depository. There are no district funds invested in Lone Star at this time.

The notion of sending money to the state treasury to be invested did not sit well with Trustee Jim Marsh.

"You won't find a community thriving that doesn't have a good bank in it," Marsh said, adding that "the bank is the heart of the community" and needs the support of the district.

Currently, the HISD has $8 million on deposit with FNB.

However, said Norm Smith, controller of school finance, that money is not being kept in the community, because of federal regulations regarding the deposit of school funds.

Board president Steve Wright said when the district buys a certificate of deposit from the bank, the bank must purchase federal bonds to cover the cost of those deposits.

"I don't care what anyone says," Weishaar said, "these funds leave Hereford," even when they are deposited with a local bank.

Also, Smith said, when the district buys CDs, it is locked in at a particular interest rate for the term of the note, but there also is a penalty if the district has to cash in a CD ahead of time in case of emergency.

With TexPool, he said, a phone call to Austin will result in transfer of as much money as needed the next day.

Money can be deposited with TexPool for a few days or several years, he said.

But Marsh argued that he has talked with people in the community -- including individuals with Hereford State Bank, which has not bid for the depository contract in recent years -- who want the district's money to stay in banks here rather than go to TexPool.

"I think it's our duty or whatever ... to serve the community," he said.

Smith said he would not take all the district's money and put it in TexPool if trustees allow him that option.

Trustee Mike Veazey said all the district is looking for is competition in interest rates.

Trustee Randy Tooley echoed Marsh's concerns, saying it was not fair for the district to introduce TexPool in the middle of a contract with First National Bank, since that

Classes for 1994-95 year to get started on Aug. 22

Hereford school students will start class three days later than originally planned this fall after the HISD board of trustees changed the 1994-95 calendar.

Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt requested the change because four schools had asked him for waivers to have extra staff development on Aug. 17, 18 and 19, which would have been the first three days of school.

Originally, those were planned as half-day class days, with half-days of in-service.

However, Greenawalt said, approving waivers for the four schools would have caused problems, so the district decided to change those days to full-day in-service days, which will give the teachers 18 of the 20 hours of state-mandated in-service for the school year. As a result, classes will start for the year on Aug. 22, the next Monday.

Then, Greenawalt said, Feb. 19, 1995 will remain a half-day in-service day, giving the final hours required by the state.

March 10, 1995, would be an early-out day allowed by the state.

Those two days would be compensatory days for teachers who attended training at their own expense during the summer or at night, meaning they could take off with the students if they had the extra training. Otherwise they would be in-service days.

Finally, planned in-service days on May 12 and 26, 1995, would revert to full-day class days.

Trustees approved the requests on a unanimous vote.

Prison sentences set in District Court here

Prison sentences on revocation of probation have been assessed defendants in 22nd District Court.

During court sessions Thursday and Friday, Judge David Wesley Gulley also heard guilty pleas by Tomas Fraire Garcia, 37, was sentenced to concurrent four-year terms in Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division on his plea of guilty to felony driving while intoxicated and revocation of probation given on a previous felony DWI conviction. He also was ordered to pay fines totaling $2,000.

After pleading guilty to aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, Jesus Andrade, 27, was placed on deferred adjudication probation for seven years and fined $500.

A seven-year term in TDCJ-ID was assessed Paul Don Campbell, convicted earlier of theft over $750/under $20,000. He originally was sentenced to eight years probation. He will be required to pay a fine of $1,500.

Anthony John Mondragon, originally placed on 10 years' probation on conviction on a charge of burglary of a building, was ordered to serve eight years in TDCJ-ID, on revocation of probation. He also owes a $1,500 fine.

Judge Gulley ordered Kenneth Stacy, 31, to Deaf Smith County jail on revocation of probation. He originally was sentenced to nine years' probation and fined $1,000 for delivery of a controlled substance, methamphetamines. Sentence will be pronounced at a later date.

Jesus Jose Martinez, convicted of theft of livestock in a 222nd District Court jury trial on April 28, was sentenced formally. The jury assessed a nine-year probated sentence and set a fine of $2,000. Formal sentencing was delayed until a report from the corrections department was delivered to Judge Gulley.

Another defendant convicted by a jury, Joel Frausto, was ordered to jail after he failed to post bond of $100,000. He was convicted by a jury on March 30 of felony driving while intoxicated. Frausto chose to have punishment set by the court but did not meet requirements set by Judge Gulley prior to his appearance on May 26. Sentence will be pronounced at a later date.

Senior Scene correction

In the Senior Scene supplement in Sunday's Brand, a name was inadvertently omitted from the "Memorials" listing.

A memorial contribution in the name of Elroy Arho was made by L.W. Tooley, and it was not included on the list. The Brand apologizes for this omission.

New officers

The Hereford Police Department announces the addition of two new patrol personnel, who recently began field training here. Officer Carol Murray joins the department after completing a basic peace officers course at Odessa College, where she also attended police academy training. This is the first job for the former school teacher. Officer Robin Ruland joins the department from the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department. The two will undergo eight weeks of field training with another officer before being allowed to patrol alone.

bank bid on being depository for all district funds.

Greenawalt said the district should, in fairness to the banks that would bid on the depository contract next year, alert them ahead of time that TexPool would be an investment option of the district.

Trustees ultimately agreed informally to pursue the matter next month.

In other action:
-- Trustees agreed to participate in a program operated by West Texas A&M University that could provide student teachers to the district.
Greenawalt said the STEP program would allow the district to hire a teacher at 75 percent of starting teacher pay for one year.
A teacher here would mentor the student teacher and receive 20 percent of the first-year teacher's pay as a bonus for the extra time required in mentoring the student.
The final 5 percent of a first-year teacher's salary would be paid to WTAMU as administration expenses.
But, Greenawalt said, the district would be getting student teachers with one-year certification for a whole year rather than a semester at a time and would ultimately have better trained teachers graduating from college.
"It's a good program if you've got a shortage in a particular area," Greenawalt said, adding that WT currently has a math teacher student available for the program and HISD needs math teachers.
The student teachers would be screened by assistant superintendent Nena Veazey just like other teacher applicants and would be interviewed by principals.

The board voted unanimously to participate with the Amarillo and Canyon school districts in the STEP program.
-- Tooley was appointed the district's representative on the Deaf Smith County Tax Abatement Board, replacing former trustee Raymond Schlabs.
The district, city and county make up the board, which hears requests for tax abatements by businesses.
-- The board voted to approve two routine contracts with the Region XVI Education Services Center in Amarillo.
One contract costs the district nothing but allows participation in a purchasing cooperative, under which the ESC can buy large quantities of supplies for several districts at lower costs than the districts would spend.
The other contract is $8,400 for media services, which provides movies and other materials from the center's library.
-- On a 5-2 vote, trustees endorsed the "Compact for Safe Schools" that was presented by the Texas Education Agency and the State Board of Education.
The compact says that the district will take action on a number of fronts, including: removing students involved in violent acts from the regular school program; working with community agency to resolve issues affecting school and community safety; and providing alternative programs for students removed from regular programs.
Tooley and Trustee Raul Valdez disagreed with the district signing the compact, saying the HISD is already working in many of the areas covered by the document and there was not need for additional bureaucracy or state mandates in those areas.

History winners

Hereford Junior High School students, from left, Kris Friel, Clay Brown, Justin Landrum and Carey Lyles were guests at the HISD board meeting on Tuesday, where they presented their History Fair entries that received honors at local, regional and state meets. Friel's "The Dust Bowl Area Then and Now" won second locally, first at regional and a superior rating and certificate of achievement at state; Brown and Landrum did their project on "Route 66, Main Street of America - 1926-1985." They won second locally, first at regional, a plaque for best in region and a superior rating certificate at state. Lyles, the only seventh-grader in the group, did his project on the Oklahoma Land Race of 1889. He won first at local competition, second at regional and a certificate of achievement at state.

White House smarts from bad publicity, issues helicopter rule

By RON FOURNIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House is clamping down on its use of military helicopters after releasing details of 12 trips by Clinton administration officials aboard flashy "white top" aircraft usually reserved for the president.

Trying to douse bad publicity over perquisites and privileges, the White House issued new rules Tuesday that require all staff members, including senior officials, to get permission before hopping a military flight.

Last week a Maryland newspaper published a picture of three White House aides boarding a presidential helicopter at a golf course, toting their clubs and getting a smart salute from a Marine guard.

The man who ordered up the flight, White House administrator David Watkins, finally relented Tuesday and agreed to reimburse the government $13,129.66. "I'm not admitting I did anything wrong," said Watkins, who lost his job over the incident.

Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers on Tuesday also released the findings of an internal study of helicopter usage and declared, "There were no other instances of misuse."

Uninspired by these developments, Republican Rep. Roscoe Bartlett said releasing the report was not enough. He wants access to all military flight manifests used to conduct the study.

"The inconsistencies in the information released by the White House renders their efforts unreliable," said Bartlett, whose Maryland district contains the golf course Watkins visited.

The list released Tuesday details 12 trips in which Clinton's staff, administration officials and military personnel assigned to the White House used the same comfortable, green and white helicopters that President Clinton flies under the name Marine One.

The White House said 11 of the flights were work-related and proper, even though Clinton was not aboard. Traditionally, presidential aides have not used the "white tops" unless the president is aboard.

Most of the flights carried only military personnel. Three trips by administration officials were confidential military missions, including one carrying Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros and Alice Rivlin, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Three trips were taken by Watkins, a millionaire and longtime Clinton supporter from Arkansas:

-- On May 24, he and two other aides took a 55-mile trip to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., and on to Holly Hills Country Club near New Market, Md. Watkins said he was scouting the golf course in hopes of getting Clinton to Camp David more often. He said he flew, rather than drove, to time the route and allow pilots to survey the route -- both standard practices in arranging presidential visits.

-- On April 29, 1993, he flew to Camp David for "familiarization," the report said. Part of his duties was oversight of the retreat, and the trip came early in his tenure.

-- One Sept. 16, 1993, he and two military officials assigned to the White House flew to Quantico, Va., for classified training.

White House officials said they considered the 1993 trips work-related. Watkins said his trip last week, even with the round of golf, was just as much a part of his duties as the 1993 trips.

"There was no difference in my mind," he said in a telephone interview from his Washington home.

The new rules require people other than the president to clear trips through Chief of Staff Mack McLarty or his deputy, Phil Lader. McLarty and Lader must clear their trips through the White House counsel's office.

23 die on Texas highways on Memorial Day weekend

A deadly Memorial Day holiday has come to an end. Trooper Wayne Beighle, public information officer with the Department of Public Safety in Amarillo, said this holiday ended up being one of the safest in several years.

During the 78-hour period that made up the Memorial Day weekend, 23 people died in traffic accidents across Texas. Original estimates from DPS had been that as many as 35 people could die.

Beighle said that, even though officials are pleased that the number was below estimates, 23 lives lost is still too many. He added that many of those accidents could have been prevented.

A decrease in DWI activity, an increase in public awareness through media coverage and overall driver attitudes toward safety were given by Beighle as possible factors which influenced the final toll.

Excessive speed was involved in 10 of the crashes and seven involved intoxicated drivers. At least 12 of those killed were not restrained with safety belts.

Garden party is set for Circle of Friends

The Hereford Circle of Friends is planning a "garden party" from 6-8 p.m. Saturday, June 4, at the home of Ernest and Carmen Flood, four-and-one-third miles west of Hereford on FM 1058. Valet parking will be provided.

Submarine sandwiches, dips and chips, brownies and other cookies, tea, coffee and lemonade will be served in the garden area of the home. In case of rain, the party will be held at the Hereford Community Center.

Membership into the organization is $25 per couple or $15 per person. Anyone not receiving an invitation but wishing to attend this benefit may contact one of the party's hosts or hostesses.

Serving as this year's host couples are: Jeri and Frank Bezner, Carmen and Ernest Flood, Jan and Dale Furr, Pat and Don Graham, Kay and Elmo Hall, Wanda and Charles Hoover, Betty and Gary Kriegshauser, Glenda and J.L. Marcum, Claudia and Dr. Duffy McBrayer, Ann and Donald Meyer, Judy and Cal Mitts, Ruth and Carroll Newsom, Nance and Jim Perrin, Betty and Milton Rudder, Leona and Edward Schilling, Sue and Bob Sims, Mysydia and Craig Smith and Judy and Johnny Wall.

Pat Graham serves on the board of directors for the Circle of Friends Organization.

The main objective of the organization is to provide financial assistance to cancer patients and their families in times of crisis and to support education and research programs directed toward improving the patient's quality of life.

The Circle of Friends is a non-profit volunteer organization founded to support the philosophy and goals of the Harrington Cancer Center which was established and opened in 1981 because of the generous support of thousands of people throughout the High Plains area.

Cancer patients receiving treatment in the Harrington Cancer Center's service area are eligible for financial support. The Circle of Friends assists with services not covered by insurance or available through other agencies. Limited funds are available for out-of-pocket expenses such as travel, lodging, prescribed nutritional supplements and other special needs.

Information about financial support through the organization can be obtained by contacting the Harrington Cancer Center, Director of Supportive Care at 1-359-4673 or by calling 1-800-274-HOPE.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am getting married. The problem I'm writing about is my alcoholic father. Dad has been a big drinker all his life. My mother and sister (and all of the relatives) have had to put up with it. I live with my fiancé, so I don't see my folks very often, but we speak on the phone. Mom told me several months ago that Dad is getting progressively worse.

Last week, Mom invited my sister and her family and me and my fiancé over for dinner. Of course, Dad drank a lot as usual. While we were seated at the table, Dad suddenly became extremely pale and stopped eating, and the right side of his body started to shake. I jumped out of my chair, ready to dial 911. Mom said, "Don't be alarmed. He does this all the time." We were all upset. No one finished eating. We just left.

Ann, you know how stressful planning a wedding can be. We want everything to be perfect, and I'm sure it will be, except for my father. After that episode, I wrote my father a letter saying I did not want him at my wedding. I asked him to phone me. I never got the call. Maybe I'm being selfish, but I really don't want him there. My mother said I should invite him, and if he starts acting up, we can have someone take him home right away.

This is my dad, Ann, and I don't want it ruined. My future in-laws have never met my dad, and I'm dreading the prospect. Quite frankly, at the rate my father is going, he probably won't make it to my wedding. He will either be hospitalized or dead.

Please don't suggest Alcoholics Anonymous. We've tried to get him to go, but he refuses. I need your help—Nervous in Mass.

DEAR N.J.M.: Your father has a terrible illness. It is called alcoholism. Your lack of understanding (and compassion) is chilling.

You are not responsible for your father's illness or his behavior, but you ARE responsible for your own. He need not be asked to be in the wedding, but he certainly should be invited to attend. If he becomes raucous or ill, he can, as your mother said, be taken out immediately.

Arrange in advance for someone to be with your father at all times so you will have peace of mind.

I hope you take my advice. If you don't, I fear you will regret it to your dying day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I recently had our first child and decided to consult a psychic. During the reading, my husband was told that he has a secret brother, born outside his parents' marriage.

We were completely stunned by this. My mother-in-law was widowed at a young age. She swears she has no other children, and we believe her. However, my husband would like to find out if my late father-in-law did indeed have a "secret" child.

Would it be appropriate to question some of his former friends? Now that my husband is a father, he feels he must know the truth. I am extremely ambivalent. What's your opinion, Ann?—East Coast Wife

DEAR E.C.: WIFE: I think such a question would be an insult to your father-in-law's memory—especially since you have nothing to go on but the psychic's word.

If your husband is hell-bent on making inquiries, there is nothing you can do about it, but in my opinion, it would be pretty tacky.

NEW YORK (AP)—Conan O'Brien's answer to the year's most profound question? "I wear briefs over boxers," revealed O'Brien, the first guest on NBC Online, a new computer service for America Online subscribers.

Entertainment Weekly reported in its June 3 edition that O'Brien typed at top speed while he was in cyberspace, answering questions from 229 people.

"It's hard to believe that people want to know who my favorite Monkee was," O'Brien said. Asked about his boyish hair style, he wrote: "My hair is a high-density polymer developed by the good people at DuPont."

Benefit garage sale planned

The Problem Pregnancy Center will hold its summer garage sale from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. until noon Saturday in St. Anthony's School gym.

Donated items may be brought to the sale site any time Thursday or they can be picked up by calling 364-3433 or 364-6150.

Problem Pregnancy Center has been serving the Hereford community nine years, solely dependent on donations and volunteer support.

The main objective of the group is to foster respect for human life and to defend the right to life of all human beings, born and unborn, through educational and humanitarian means. Reducing the high teen pregnancy rate of this county is one goal of the center.

Yellow Pages a bright idea

The next time you reach for the Yellow Pages, you won't be alone. According to a recent survey, more than nine out of ten adult Americans refer to the Yellow Pages at least once a year.

Here are a few more of the findings of the National Yellow Pages Industry Usage Study:

-Awareness of the Yellow Pages is virtually universal: 98.7 percent of all adults indicate familiarity with the book.

-In a typical month, 78.2 percent of all adults refer to the Yellow Pages.

-In a typical week, 60.1 percent refer to them

-In a typical day, 19.8 percent of all adults refer to the Yellow Pages.

-Over 85 percent of the 20 billion references to the Yellow Pages every year results in either a purchase or the likelihood of one in the future.

-More people than ever are using Yellow Pages to get things fixed. Calls are up to Auto Repairs and Services, Boat Repair, Brake Shops, even Telephone Equipment Service and Repair.

-Also on the rise are calls for financial information, to Credit Unions and Tax Preparers.

-People are also seeking help from Computer Service and Repair and Computer Software and Service.

-In this age of cocooning and home offices, calls are increasingly going out to Garden Centers, Lighting Fixtures-Retail, Pest Control and Tile, Ceramic Contractors and Dealers.

-Other popular places to call, it appears, are those that meet entertainment needs, including Hotels, Health Clubs and Pizza parlors.

Rockets hold off Jazz, gain finals

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - After stunning the Utah Jazz with a 3-point shooting barrage, the Houston Rockets reached the NBA finals without their killer instinct.

Ahead by 24 points to start the fourth quarter, the Rockets allowed Utah to pull within eight points late in the game before rallying behind Hakeem Olajuwon for a 94-83 victory on Tuesday night.

"When it got down to eight I started having some flashbacks," Olajuwon said. "They were gambling by taking more 3-point shots and the calls were going against us. Everything was against us."

The Rockets closed out their Western Conference title series 4-1 over the Jazz but they got a chilling reminder of their ability to blow big leads. They led Phoenix by 20 points with 10 minutes to play in Game 2 of the semifinal series and lost 124-117 in overtime.

It could have happened again, but the Rockets stiffened in time.

"It got a little scary out there in the fourth quarter," said Vernon Maxwell, who bombed the Jazz with four first quarter 3-point goals, tying an NBA single game playoff record. "We had to pull it together. It reminded me of Phoenix."

Olajuwon scored 22 points, had 10 rebounds, seven blocked shots and six assists.

"We came out with a lot of intensity and a lot of confidence because we didn't want the series to go any longer," Olajuwon said. "I'm just happy and thank God to be in this position. This is an opportunity... a second chance for me. We know whoever we play won't be easy."

It was a team effort for the Rockets, who will meet the winner of the New York-Indianapolis series beginning June 8 in The Summit.

Robert Horry had his best game of the series, scoring 22 points. Maxwell, finished with 19 points. Otis Thorpe had 16 rebounds and 11 points.

"We've been through this because of that Phoenix game," guard Kenny Smith said. "I'm sorry we lost that game but I think it was a good experience. Tonight showed what makes us such a quality basketball team."

The Rockets had everything working in sprinting to a 53-35 halftime lead.

"Our team got off to a bad start but really they had a really good start," Hornacek said. "This is what you worry about with the Rockets. When they're hitting those 3-pointers, do you let Hakeem Olajuwon go crazy or go after the threes."

They kept up the pressure in the third quarter, leading 79-53 with 2:40 to go in the period. Then, Utah sprang to life with a 16-0 fourth quarter charge that proved a little too late.

Karl Malone scored 31 points to lead the Jazz and Jeff Hornacek added 21. They were the only scoring threats throughout most of the game until the fourth quarter. John Stockton finished with 13 points.

"Pride made us do it," Malone said. "That kept us going because everybody in the country was watching."

The Rockets are making their third appearance in the NBA finals. They lost to the Boston Celtics in 1981 and 1986.

The Knicks haven't won a championship since 1973. Until this season, the Pacers hadn't won a single playoff series since joining the league in the 1976 ABA-NBA merger.

The Jazz must wait another year. "They just came out and took us away from everything we wanted," Jazz coach Jerry Sloan said. "They came out hard and wanted to take the ball game away early. They just outplayed us."

California Cuties to play in Hereford

The California Cuties are coming to Hereford to play softball and put on a show.

The Cuties, a four-man softball team whose players dress as women to get laughs, will take on the Hereford Stars at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Kids Inc. Complex in Hereford. The exhibition will benefit the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The Cuties will face a team of local celebrities for a two-inning comedy show, then face a team of the best softball players Hereford has to offer in five innings of real softball. One of the local celebrities will be the recipient—or victim—of an exclusive California Cuties fashion makeover.

The leader and founder of the Cuties is Trino Palacios, known on the diamond as Madam Hilda. He/she entertains the crowd with a running commentary.

The leader on the field is Ron Rupp, also known as Fifi the Flirt. Fifi has hit more than 100 home runs in each of her nine years with the Cuties, but her main contribution to the team is pitching. Her 90 mile-per-hour fastball combined with a floating changeup allow for very few hits. What the opponents do hit is fielded by two other fielders: Leapin' Lena and Hedda Hooker.

The team of Hereford celebrities is scheduled to include Danny Haney, Charles Greenawalt, David Wagner, Chester Nolen, Dave Hopper, Jennifer Eggen, Tom Simons, Nancy Griego, Mike Carr, Carey Black, Bob Josseland and Captain Billy.

The real softball players are to include Mark Collier, Jackie Mercer, Larry Mendoza, Rodney McCracken, Rick McCracken, Mitch Reeve, Matt Collier, J.D. High, Brian Taylor, Ray Zuniga, Phillip Foster, Robert Cabalera, Armando Torres, James Hernandez and Clint Savoini.

Tickets, if bought in advance, are $4 for adults, $2 for children aged 6-14, and kids 5 and younger get in free. Admission at the gate is $5 for adults and $3 for children aged 6-14. Tickets are available at the Hereford YMCA or at the Chamber of Commerce.

Spurs fill top positions

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Two top jobs with the San Antonio Spurs have been filled with the selection of Jack Diller as team president and Gregg Popovich as vice president for basketball operations.

Spurs chairman Robert McDermott made the announcements Tuesday after three tumultuous weeks during which team owners debated the future direction of the NBA team.

Diller, 55, has been executive vice president for business operations with the New York Mets since last year. He is the former president of the Madison Square Garden Sports Group, which is responsible for the operations of the New York Knicks and New York Rangers. Diller succeeds Bob Coleman, who resigned May 12.

"It was the proverbial deal that I could not turn down," Diller said. "I was with the Mets at the right time and the only negative to this whole thing is that I won't be associated with the Mets when they become a strong organization once again. They're going to be very successful and I won't be a part of it."

Popovich, 45, has been assistant coach at Golden State the past two seasons and was assistant coach in San Antonio from 1988 to 1992 under Larry Brown and Bob Bass. As vice president for basketball operations, he will oversee player trades and other transactions.

Coaches hold golf scramble

Hereford coaches and teachers held an End of School golf scramble Tuesday at Pisman Municipal Golf Course. The foursome of Terry Russell, Joe Cabeznuela, Leota Kelo and Jason Calpepper won by shooting a 62.

The team of James Salinas, Stan Carter, Ron Young and Dorothy Szydlowski came in second with a 63.

Padres' 13-run inning starts rout of Pirates

By TOM WITHERS
Associated Press Writer

The No. 13 and the San Diego Padres seem to be linked this season. The Padres, who set a club record with 13 straight losses earlier this month, matched a club record by scoring 13 times in the second inning Tuesday night en route to a 15-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After two innings, the Pirates were probably hoping the umpires could enact a mercy rule like the one used in some recreational softball league blowouts.

"You almost feel guilty at 13-0," said San Diego's Tony Gwynn, who singled in his first at-bat but left the game after his second plate appearance.

"The next time up there, I don't think I was as aggressive as I'd like to be. When it happens, what are you going to do?"

Pittsburgh players were probably thinking the same thing while the first 11 Padres reached base.

"That's one of those innings where everyone just hit," said Phil Plantier, who went 3-for-4. "It's not something that happens a whole lot. You just kind of enjoy it when it happens and play it out."

The outburst enabled Andy Benes

(3-9) to break a personal four-game losing streak.

Benes, who had lost 17 of his previous 21 decisions, allowed four runs and six hits in 6 2-3 innings. He walked two and struck out 10, increasing his NL-leading total to 83.

Bip Roberts hit a three-run homer, Plantier added a three-run triple and Benes had a two-run double in the second.

The Padres have won eight of 10 since snapping their losing streak.

Elsewhere in the NL it was: San Francisco 6, Atlanta 3; Colorado 3, New York 2; Houston 5, Florida 3; Philadelphia 8, Chicago 7; Cincinnati 5, Montreal 4 in 13 innings and St. Louis 6, Los Angeles 0.

Giants 6, Braves 3

At San Francisco, Javier Lopez broke a ninth-inning tie with a leadoff homer, his 10th, off Dave Burba (0-4).

Matt Williams homered in the first inning.

Roberto Kelly hit a two-run home, his first since Atlanta acquired him from Cincinnati on Sunday for Deion Sanders.

Mark Wohlers (4-0) pitched 1 1-3 innings, and Greg McMichael got his 10th save.

Astros 5, Marlins 3

At Houston, Andujar Cedeno hit a two-run single to break an eighth-inning tie for the Astros.

In the eighth, Luis Gonzalez and Chris Donnels hit two-out singles, and pinch-hitter Kevin Bass walked. Cedeno followed with a single to left off Richie Lewis (1-3).

David Veres (2-2) pitched a perfect eighth for the win, and John Hudek worked the ninth for his sixth save.

Rockies 3, Mets 2

At New York, Greg Harris allowed five hits in eight innings to lead the Rockies.

Walt Weiss went 3-for-4 and drove in a run, and ex-Met Howard Johnson went 2-for-4 with an RBI for Colorado.

Harris (3-4) struck out three and allowed one walk before giving way to Bruce Ruffin, who got his fifth save.

Doug Linton (4-2) allowed six hits and three runs in five innings.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 0

At Los Angeles, Rick Sutcliffe pitched a solid 7 2-3 innings and Tom Pagnozzi and Bernard Gilkey hit two-run doubles for the Cardinals. Sutcliffe (2-1), gave up seven hits, walked four and didn't record a strikeout.

The Cardinals used a walk, a single by Mark Whiten, a throwing error by third baseman Tim Wallach and an RBI groundout by Sutcliffe to score twice in the second off Tom Candiotti (4-2).

Reds 5, Expos 4
At Cincinnati, Reggie Sanders led off the bottom of the 13th inning with his second homer to end a 4-hour, 29-minute game.

Sanders hit a belt-high fastball from Jeff Shaw (2-2) over the wall in center for his ninth homer.

Pete Schourek (3-0) pitched out of a scoring threat in the 12th and retired the side in order in the 13th.

Phillies 8, Cubs 7
At Chicago, Jim Eisenreich hit a two-out RBI single in the eighth as the Phillies snapped Chicago's seven-game winning streak at Wrigley Field.

Trailing 7-5 in the eighth, the Phillies rallied for three runs against Jose Bautista and Randy Myers (0-2).

Mariano Duncan hit a two-run double to tie it 7-7 before Eisenreich, 10-for-23 in his last seven games, singled to left.

Larry Andersen (1-1) picked up the win.

Boggs powers Yanks to win

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Singles, sure. But home runs? Wade Boggs showed more of his surprising power Tuesday night, homering and driving in two runs as the New York Yankees beat the Chicago White Sox 10-1.

Boggs, known for putting the ball in play, suddenly has popped a bunch of balls out of the park. He has six home runs this season - all of them since May 15 - and is batting .342.

"I don't care if it's juiced, you still have to hit it," Boggs said, trying to dispel the lively ball debate. "Just because it's juiced doesn't mean I can pop up to second base and have it go out of the ballpark."

Boggs hit only two home runs last season, his first year with the Yankees. He has 93 homers in a career that started with Boston in 1982.

Only once has Boggs reached double figures in home runs - he hit 24 in 1987, the last time there was so much speculation about lively balls.

Boggs hit a solo home run in the first inning off Alex Fernandez (5-6), and the host Yankees went on to end a two-game losing streak. New York, which has the best record in baseball, has not lost three in a row since the second week of the season.

"I think being able to get ahead quickly on Boggs' homer kind of put the shoe on the other foot," Yankees manager Buck Showalter said.

Luis Polonia had a two-run double in the second inning and the Yankees scored four times in the fourth, one on Boggs' single and two on Danny Tartabull's double.

Scott Kamieniecki (4-0) pitched seven innings, his only blemish a home run by Ron Karkovics in the seventh.

Rangers 7, Brewers 4

Oddibe McDowell hit a two-run single in the first inning and a sacrifice fly in the third, sending Texas over host Milwaukee.

Rusty Greer also had a two-run single in the first for the Rangers off Jaime Navarro (2-5). Dean Palmer had three hits and scored twice for Texas.

Roger Pavlik (1-2) won for the first time in four starts since coming off the disabled list.

Royals 9, Red Sox 7

Mike Macfarlane hit a grand slam and Brian McRae went 5-for-5 as Kansas City won at Fenway Park.

Macfarlane, who made a throwing error and was thrown out at the plate earlier, hit his third career slam in the fourth inning for a 5-2 lead.

Greg Gagne hit a two-run homer for the Royals off Joe Hesketh (3-3) and McRae added an RBI double.

Tom Gordon (5-3) was the winner.

Tigers 7, Orioles 6

Cecil Fielder, Kirk Gibson and

Junior Felix each homered during a five-run fifth inning as Detroit won at Camden Yards.

Leo Gomez, Harold Baines and Mark McLemore homered for Baltimore.

Mike Moore (5-4) got his 150th career win and Mike Henneman got his seventh save. Mike Oquist (1-1) lost in his first major league start.

Athletics 7, Blue Jays 2

Rickey Henderson and Troy Neel each homered and drove in three runs, leading Ron Darling and Oakland over Toronto.

Darling (4-6) gave up two hits in 7 1-3 innings and struck out eight. Dennis Eckersley got his fifth save as the A's beat the host Blue Jays for the fourth straight time.

Neel hit a two-run homer in the third, his eighth. Henderson hit a three-run homer in the eighth, his second.

Twins 6, Mariners 2

Scott Erickson, activated from the disabled list before the game, pitched six strong innings and Minnesota defeated Seattle.

Erickson (5-4), who had been out because of strained muscles in his side, gave up four hits and struck out seven. He is 4-0 at the Metrodome this season. Carl Willis got nine outs for his third save.

The Twins ended a 19-inning scoreless streak with four runs in the sixth. Shane Mack's RBI single off Dave Fleming (3-7) tied it at 1 and Kirby Puckett drew a bases-loaded walk from Bill Risley. In the seventh, Puckett hit a two-run single with the bases loaded against Jeff Nelson.

Canucks take Game 1 of Stanley Cup series

NEW YORK (AP) - The Vancouver Canucks are fast becoming the overtime kings of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

And Kirk McLean is the main reason why.

"The Rangers had some good opportunities but we had Kirk in net," Vancouver defenseman Dave Babych said after yet another great performance by McLean led the Canucks to a 3-2 overtime victory over New York in the opener of the Stanley Cup finals Tuesday night.

Sensational performances by McLean have become commonplace in this year's playoffs, as have Canucks victories in overtime. This triumph improved their record to 6-1 in such games.

"McLean is the reason why they're here to begin with," Rangers coach Mike Keenan said. "I watched the overtimes in the Calgary series. He has had the best series of a goaltender in the playoffs."

The Canucks didn't look like they were going to get out of the first round after losing three of the first four games to Calgary. But Vancouver won three straight in overtime, largely because of McLean's goaltending.

Tuesday night was no different, as he made 52 saves, the most in a finals game since 1971.

"I thought we played a great game, but McLean made great saves against us," said New York forward Stephane Matteau, who scored two overtime game-winners for the Rangers in the Eastern Conference final against the New Jersey Devils.

"We had a lot of chances to end the game in regulation and certainly a lot of chances in overtime," added Rangers center Mark Messier, "but McLean stood up to it."

"We expect that kind of goaltending at this time of year. No team gets this far without it."

Was McLean in a "zone," as they say? "Things have been bouncing right for the team and that comes from hard work. Things happen good on a personal note because of what the team is doing around you. We're a confident team right now."

And well they should be, especially when they take a team into overtime. The Canucks are just the third team in NHL history to win six games in OT during one postseason.

New satellite will help predict path of storms

By TRACY FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) - New equipment is expected to help forecasters better predict the paths of major storms during the Atlantic hurricane season that begins today.

A new satellite will be working by the season's end in November to provide a national weather picture every 15 minutes, twice as often as before. And more Doppler radar units have been erected on the ground to measure wind speed and thunderstorm activity.

But all this won't help emergency planners gauge what people are going to do, said Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center. Sheets said he worries about complacency among people living in coastal high-rises. Only 30 percent of those living on Florida barrier islands evacuated before Hurricane Andrew slammed into South Florida in 1992, he said.

"I don't think the people on the barrier islands really understand what would have happened if (Andrew) hit there," he said. "Instead of the loss of 15 lives in Dade County, there would have been loss of life in the hundreds, and that's what's going to happen if they don't get out."

Forecasters are excited about the new storm-watching satellite that will be used for the first time this season. During dangerous storms, forecasters will be able to activate the satellite to provide details every six minutes.

The new satellite is the first of five that will be strung around the globe over the next eight years.

"It'll take several years before they know exactly how much better things will get," Sheets said. "Intuitively, we believe it will improve our forecasting."

William Gray, a hurricane expert at Colorado State University, predicted a close to average season - 10 named storms, six of them hurricanes and two of those intense.

He predicts hurricane activity based on factors such as rainfall in Africa and the El Nino ocean-warming effect in the Pacific Ocean.

A hurricane has sustained winds of 74 mph or higher. Forecasters assign names to weather systems when they become tropical storms with wind speeds exceeding 38 mph.

Last season brought eight named storms and four hurricanes. Only one hurricane, Emily, struck the United States. It killed three people as it battered North Carolina's Outer Banks on Aug. 31.

Cigarette seizure

State Comptroller John Sharp and State Treasurer Martha Whitehead have announced the seizure of more than a ton of unstamped and unpermitted cigarettes, the largest tobacco tax crackdown in Texas history. The crackdown is the first major enforcement effort since the Treasury department in effect "hired" the Comptroller's office to conduct tobacco tax audits and enforcement functions, saving the state nearly $600,000 a year. Currently, the Comptroller's office uses eight people for that function, as opposed to 24 workers when the Treasury department worked on tobacco tax enforcement and audits. AT right is a van that was seized in Houston with more than $14,000 in untaxed tobacco products.

At any given time 9,000 Americans (more than half are children) are searching for a life saving bone marrow donor.

"Uncle Sam," a popular symbol for the United States, was created during the War of 1812. The term, it's believed, derived from the large initials "U.S." that Samuel Wilson, an Army meat inspector and provisioner, stamped on barrels of salted meat.

Upsets put no-names in French Open semifinals

By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) - Alberto Berasategui routed No. 5 seed Goran Ivanisevic and Magnus Larsson saved six match points while rallying from a two-set deficit as two unseeded players won French Open quarterfinals today.

Their match-up Friday will be the first semifinal here between non-seeds since 1973.

Larsson capitalized on a late-match collapse by 19-year-old Hendrik Dreckmann of Germany, who was on the brink of an upset. He unraveled after failing to convert six match points in the third set, enabling the Swede to win 3-6, 6-7 (1-7), 7-6 (7-3), 6-0, 6-1.

Berasategui, ranked 23rd, offset Ivanisevic's stronger serves with blistering ground strokes, but won mostly because of 69 unforced errors committed by the Croatian. The 20-year-old Spaniard needed just 1 hour, 36 minutes to win the match 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Berasategui and Larsson will play Friday in what will be the first Grand Slam semifinal for each. The winner will be the first non-seeded finalist here since Mikael Perfors in 1986 and will be an underdog against either defending champion Sergi Bruguera or Jim Courier, the 1991 and 1992 champion.

Larsson had never before rallied from a two-set deficit to win.

"I was lucky, very lucky," he said. "On the match points, I didn't think of winning the match, I just wanted to play my last points of the tournament well. I had nothing to lose."

Larsson, a 24-year-old Swede, turned pro in 1989 and has won four events, but only once before reached the quarterfinals of a Grand Slam - losing to Wally Masur in last year's U.S. Open.

During the first two sets, he appeared totally outmatched by Dreckmann, who displayed agility, a strong forehand and remarkable confidence.

Most impressive was the second-set tiebreaker, when the 19-year-old Dreckmann displayed an array of brilliant shots, ranging from a crisp cross-court pass to a remarkable retrieve of a drop shot. He seemed totally unfazed by his glaringly misplayed smash of a Larsson lob that enabled the Swede to break serve in the 10th game and set up the tiebreaker.

But in the ninth and 11th game of the third set, Larsson turned the match around by coming up with aces and other winning shots to save the series of match points. He won the tiebreaker easily, and Dreckmann offered little opposition in the last two sets.

The Swede ended with 19 aces to five for Dreckmann, who had 11 double-faults.

Dreckmann entered the tournament with 5-8 tour record this year and an 0-5 record on clay. He had played in only one previous Grand Slam - the Australian Open in January - and lost his first-round match in straight sets.

Here, he beat a low-ranked qualifier in the first round, upset 15th-seeded Carlos Costa of Spain in the second, overcame American veteran Richey Reneberg in the third, and crushed a lethargic Aaron Krickstein in the fourth.

Larsson, who arrived here with a 8-10 won-lost record this season, also had to face only one seed to advance through the upset-depleted lower half of the men's draw. He beat No. 9 Todd Martin in five sets in the third round.

While Larsson has a chance at further glory Friday, world No. 1 Pete Sampras must wait another year to resume his frustrating quest for a French Open title.

His four-set quarterfinal loss Tuesday to Courier dashed his dream of becoming the first man since Rod Laver in 1969 to win four Grand Slam titles in a row.

But Sampras, despite being a quarterfinal loser here three years in a row, is convinced he can someday add the French title to his Wimbledon, U.S. Open and Australian Open crowns.

"I have proven importantly to myself that I can win on clay and I can win here," he said. "Each year I am getting better, and I am just maybe one or two points away from coming through... I feel pretty good about my chances."

NBA has tried new tactics to stop violence in games

By RICHARD DEUTSCH
The Houston Post
HOUSTON - Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich can't explain the recent boom of violence in the NBA. Being a victim doesn't necessarily make you an expert.

Nevertheless, his opinion on the subject is frequently sought. Tomjanovich's entire career is often distilled to a single violent act that took place on a basketball court.

"I don't know if it's getting worse, but it's surprising because the league is doing all it can to curtail it," Tomjanovich said. "It makes you wonder what it's going to take."

Fines and suspensions are the league's answers. Tighter officiating is a direct order from the league office.

Neither action has worked. Two vicious brawls have broken out in 1994 playoff games.

How do you stop the fighting? Tomjanovich tried to do that in 1977, when Rockets teammate Kevin Kunnert got into a scuffle with the Los Angeles Lakers' Kermit Washington. A wild punch from Washington left Tomjanovich in intensive care for a week. He didn't play again until the following season.

Tomjanovich doesn't like to reflect on the incident. But it's hard to avoid in this age of taunts and fights.

"You can't explain it - there's a lot of emotion on both sides," Tomjanovich said. "It's like something that happened in your family. You don't need to tell the whole world how you feel."

Tomjanovich comes from a basketball era long gone, when opponents' sassy remarks were fought with a steal or converted jumper, not a blow to the nose.

This year, Miami forward Grant

Long put a choke-hold on Atlanta's Duane Ferrell after a hard foul during Game 2 of their first-round series. It led to a seven-minute brawl that peaked when Keith Askins and Doug Edwards exchanged blows.

Taunts led to the most vicious act to date this season. Tired of receiving JoJo English's verbal attacks, the Knicks' Derek Harper punched the young Bulls guard and threw him to the floor. NBA commissioner David Stern was just a few feet away when players from both sides rushed the pile.

The two brawls resulted in more than $200,000 in fines and seven suspensions. They were the first postseason suspensions since Robert Parish was suspended following a 1988 confrontation with Bill Laimbeer.

Vice President of NBA Operations Rod Thorn has developed a three-point strategy to stop the fighting:

- Stiffer penalties for people who leave the bench to join a fight. Suspending players for these actions.
- Calling more taunting technicals, because taunting sometimes leads to altercations.
- Calling the games more closely, including illegal screens and hand checks.

"We need to set the tempo from the start, not let it gravitate into the game."

The success of last season's new anti-flagrant foul rules gives Stern and Thorn reason for optimism.

There were no player suspensions for flagrant fouls this season. New York's Charles Oakley, guilty of 11 flagrant fouls in the 1992-93 season, committed only five in 1993-94. A punch was landed only three times last season, down from eight two seasons ago.

Overall, the NBA reported nine fights last season, compared to 12 in 1992-93.

"We do not have as many fights as we used to have," Thorn said. "The perception is that we have more. There is not as much fighting or flagrant fouls as in the past."

The taunting, however, continues to grow. Gary Payton and John Starks exemplify the brash new group of NBA stars who have made taunting a part of the game.

"The younger players have brought that playground mentality," former Rockets forward Robert Reid said. "We didn't used to go out there and taunt. When I came in, you didn't have time to taunt."

"You think with Moses Malone and Rudy Tomjanovich and Maurice Lucas, I could have gotten away with activity like a little kid? We had to be grown men like them."

Tomjanovich tries to instill this mentality in his players. With Houston about to start the NBA Finals, Tomjanovich can't afford to lose anyone to the suspensions. He warns them about the penalties, then prays they will take heed.

The message has been received. Rockets guard Vernon Maxwell is a trash-talking dynamo who knows where to draw the line. Despite his flamboyant court demeanor, Maxwell has never instigated an on-court fight.

"Suspensions won't make a difference (in stopping taunting)," Maxwell said. "It's the fines, because it would cost me too much. I can't afford to start a fight - unless someone punches me."

Such a scene is something Tomjanovich hopes he never has to witness. Living it was hard enough.

AD: Turnover rate in WTAMU's athletic department not unusual

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Ten head coaches at West Texas A&M have quit or been fired in the last three years, but athletic director Mike Chandler says the turnover rate isn't unusual.

"Our coaches are going to make less than coaches at other schools and even some high schools just because of the nature of Division II," Chandler said. "None of them have left for a worse job. It's not real abnormal or unusual."

Chandler was hired in 1991, when WT's athletic department faced a $2.2 million debt. That debt now is down to about $500,000, he said.

Retiring President Barry Thompson recently extended Chandler's contract through May 1997.

"I feel more positive about this program by far, than I ever have," Thompson said. "I think we're on the verge of being very competitive. I also am not so naive as to believe that will make anybody happy, but that goes with the territory."

Some boosters, however, say they're alarmed by what they see as a coaching carousel.

"I'm very concerned about it," said Canyon businessman Corky Dawson, quarterback of the school's 1962 Sun Bowl championship team. "I've had people from all over the Panhandle call me up and ask me what's going on over there, and I can't tell them anything because I don't know."

Since Chandler was hired, the head tennis coaching job has changed hands four times. Two head coaches have come and gone for both volleyball and men's basketball.

Football coach Ron Steele resigned in March, saying, "I wasn't happy there, so I decided to go do other things." And baseball coach Mike Marshall was fired last month.

"The pattern needs to change," Dawson said. "Coaches are brought in and funneled out, and it seems like they're leaving a lot of the time over petty things."

Several coaches left for jobs at bigger universities. Others cited decreased money available for scholarships and salaries.

Of the existing programs in place at the time Chandler arrived in 1991, only women's basketball has the same head coach.

TNRCC asks zinc cleanup study Electronic benefits transfer should be on line by 1999

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The U.S. Army is among eight parties potentially responsible for cleaning up mounds of metal-laden slag at the American Zinc site, according to a Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission report.

Each of the eight groups has used the 320-acre site near Dumas for various reasons. The parties will be asked to sign an order requiring a study to determine whether the site needs a cleanup that could cost more than $20 million, said Robert Moseley, a project engineer with TNRCC.

The commission has not done enough sampling to determine if the waste from former zinc smelting operations at the site is contaminating the nearby South Palo Duro Canyon Creek or is being emitted into the air, Moseley said.

If the federal Superfund program pays for the cleanup, the responsible parties can be charged up to three times the actual costs, Moseley said. "It's a little incentive for them to go ahead and do it," he said.

The parties have 30 days to respond. Several of the eight companies have changed hands, leaving a question of who is responsible.

"I guess we will have to get together and make a good-faith offer," said Clarence Getman of Dumas, owner of Volcanic Stone Co., which the report says operated at the site for about six months in 1975 and again for several months in 1990.

The site was used by the U.S. Army during World War II to house Italian prisoners of war.

The report was prepared by Dallas-based TechLaw Inc.

To the '94 graduate: advice on climbing the ladder of success

BY JAMES ROBERTS
Andrews County News

To the graduates of 1994: The flowery and hi-faluting words to the '94 graduates flowed like boiled okra over hot cornbread this past week.

Bask in the glory of high ideals, higher goals and even higher dreams because they're important to you and to friends and family.

But in a few days, following the euphoria of completing one 18-year step and starting another, listen to the words of an old scarred pro who can bring your feet back to solid earth.

First off, consider that you've had the longest childhood of any mammal on earth. You've been fed, nurtured, taught, shielded, sheltered and protected for 18 years. Only the human species cares for its young for a fourth of its lifetime.

Secondly, consider the fact that the community has invested approximately $87,000 in your education. Add in amortization of the physical school plant, and you can double that amount to $174,000. Kick in roughly $79,000 that you've cost your parents to date, and you're a walking, talking, spouting investment of a quarter of a million dollars.

With graduation, the weaning process begins and accept the fact that your standard of living will drop—immediately.

Accept the fact that you're going out into a world that is geared to the teeth to protect your self-esteem. A politically correct cadre of society engineers, in and out of government, are awaiting to convince you that no failure, no mis-step, no character flaw, no lack of effort, judgment, or common sense, can possibly be our fault.

The blame for all of your failures must be laid at the feet of someone else—parents, teachers, friends, co-workers, employers or society in general.

And you'll have lots of help, advice, and counsel in search for deep pockets to sue to recover monetary windfalls to ease the pain and suffering from our failures and the blows to your self-esteem.

Succumb to this politically correct theory that every slip on the ladder of success is not your fault—and the blame should be placed elsewhere—and you'll be a worthless investment to your family, yourself, and to the community.

You'll join those millions who clamor for government to guarantee that each rung on the ladder of success will be made easier, sure-fire and fail-proof to everyone—except those political and moral dinosaurs of the past—who offer an alternative.

You could choose to walk in the paths of your forebears. You'd be in a distinct minority but you'd have excellent company. You'd accept responsibility for your actions. Period.

If you fail, at school, at business, at the job, you admit it, learn from it, vow to do better, and try again, and again, and again.

Coping with failure builds character—an almost forgotten and ignored common noun nowadays.

And with character, you'll join an elite group that won two world wars, landed a man on the moon, saved the world from communism, and created the highest standard of living know to man.

It's a group that puts a priority and premium on faith, family, friends, and accepts and honors responsibility for its actions. It's a group that is on a first-name basis with words like honest, integrity, and loyalty.

It's a group that takes the constitution and bill of rights at its face value—that it's a code that does not guarantee happiness. It only guarantees the right to pursue happiness.

It's a minority group—but a group with the only chance to save the country. And it needs you, the '94 graduate.

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President Al Gore says millions of low-income Americans will receive their monthly benefits through electronic banking, taking the government out of the business of writing welfare checks and printing food stamps by 1999.

Gore wants to expand a system known as Electronic Benefits Transfer, or EBT, from a handful of local experiments into a national network. Using a single card, the system ultimately could deliver $111 billion a year in benefits ranging from welfare to Social Security and military pensions.

EBT already is being used statewide in Maryland and in several cities around the country to deliver welfare benefits and food stamps through automated teller machines and electronic retail terminals.

The primary users of the national EBT network would be food stamp recipients and Americans who receive other public benefits, but who do not have bank accounts and direct deposit.

Among the biggest losers: the check-cashing companies that charge stiff fees to cash welfare checks and the drug dealers who exchange drugs for food stamps.

Under the system food stamp recipients would use their card to pay for groceries at a supermarket checkout, just as many people now use credit and debit cards. Pensions and other benefits would be credited to the recipient, who could then withdraw the money from automated teller machines.

According to Gore, EBT reduces "waste, fraud and abuse," and cuts red tape, while saving an estimated $195 million a year when fully implemented.

The federal investment in designing and implementing nationwide EBT is estimated at $8 million from 1994 through 1997.

As a first step, the federal government is working with nine Southern states - Florida, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Missouri - to develop a federal-state prototype EBT system.

There is, however, a hang-up to nationwide EBT known as Regulation E.

Under current law, consumers whose ATM cards are lost or stolen can be reimbursed for all but the first $50 if they report the theft or loss within two days of discovering it.

The Federal Reserve Board of Governors voted in February to extend Regulation E to users of EBT, but ordered a three-year delay until the coverage takes effect. States fear the potential losses due to fraud may be a "show stopper" for expansion.

Gore's report says the federal government will work with states and the banking industry to limit exposure to fraudulent claims and distribute the liability among all who have a stake in EBT.

But Michelle Meier, counsel for government affairs at Consumers Union, criticized Gore's approach, saying it appears to be laying the groundwork for cutting the safety net out from under poor people.

Winners say jackpot won't change lives

AUSTIN (AP) - Rachel and Luke Morgan of Seymour, who have been married for 47 years, say they don't expect much to change after winning a $16.6 million Texas Lotto jackpot.

"We're just going to live moderately like we've always lived. Only we're going to live just a little better," Luke Morgan said Tuesday.

Mrs. Morgan agreed. "I don't want anything extravagant. Just something comfortable. I'm not going to be something I'm not because this is all I know how to be."

Mrs. Morgan, accompanied by her husband and several family members, picked up the first of 20 annual payments for winning Saturday's game. The checks are worth more than $830,000 each.

"I was watching the drawing on Channel 6 (KAUZ-TV in Wichita Falls), and at first I thought we had four numbers, then five numbers, and when I realized I had all six numbers, I just cried," Mrs. Morgan said.

Mrs. Morgan, 65, who recently had a tumor removed from her throat, said, "I thought the Lord's watching over us, and this is his way of helping us out. Now I can pay my hospital bill."

Luke said the couple will be able to afford more than that.

He says they are going to move out of their senior citizens housing and buy a house. Seymour is 50 miles southwest of Wichita Falls.

Luke bought five tickets at the K-C Oil Co. No. 3 in Seymour and gave them to his wife.

On one of the tickets, he used a combination of birthdays, special event dates and one random number to choose the winning numbers, which were 48, 8, 11, 13, 24 and 43.

"That was the best $5 I ever spent," he said.

The five most populated states in the U.S. are California, New York, Texas, Florida and Pennsylvania.

When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
